SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By REV. DR. LINSOTT, for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club (Copyright 1908, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

March 28th, 1909. Temperance Lesson. Proverbs xxiii:29-35. Golden Text.—At last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder. Proverbs xxiii:32. Verses 29-30.—Is strong drink as a beverage in so called moderation, good for any body?

Do all who drink habitually receive injury as a result? Should alcohol be used in any form as a medicine? Is it safe or prudent for people in good health to take intoxicating drink as a beverage? What classes in the community are suffering from the drinking habit, directly and indirectly?

Why do athletes always abstain from drinking when they are in training for a contest? What are the signs by which you can nearly always tell a drinking man? Verses 31-32.—What evil is likely to result, if any, when a good man who does not drink stands at the bar and "looks on, while his companions are drinking?"

What can you say of a man who will not drink himself, but treats others? How would you characterize a temperance man who votes for a man or party pledged to support the liquor traffic? How many evils can you trace to strong drink?

Think of all the popular habits that tend to evil, and compare them with the evils of the drink habit, and say which habit is the greater curse to the nation? What is the fascination which draws so many thousands of victims to the drink habit? If the country towns and cities were over run with "serpents" and "adders," which were biting and causing the death of thousands, what steps would likely be taken to eradicate the plague?

Seeing that all practically admit that the evils of the liquor traffic, are more virulent than "serpents and adders" could be, how do you explain the apathy of the nation in getting rid of this monster evil? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.) Verse 33.—Does licentiousness and impurity of thought generally accompany the appetite of strong drink, as this verse seems to suggest?

Verses 34-35.—Does drinking always produce moral, as well as physical anaesthesia, deadening the soul to the foulest crimes? Men under the influence of alcohol are often grievously hurt, sometimes almost frozen to death, and are unconscious of the hurt at the time, and when they get better keep on drinking. How do you account for it? Lesson for Sunday, April 4, 1909. Peter and Cornelius. Acts x:1-8. Easy to Mix This. What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

William C. Brown.

The funeral services of Wm. C. Brown, who died March 17, were held at the home, corner D and Oak streets, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. H. Simmons. The Masonic service was used at the house, interment being in Maple Grove cemetery.
The following relatives from away were present at the funeral: Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Brown, a son, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Benedict, a sister of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Brown of Memphis and Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Brown of Armada, brother; Mrs. C. S. Farrar, a sister-in-law, of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bortle and Arthur Brown of Lansing.
William C. Brown was born in Wayne county, N. Y., July 21, 1832. He was the eldest of four children and was the first to go. He came to Michigan with his parents when two years of age and settled in Macomb county, where he lived until he became a young man. At Memphis in June, 1856, he was united in marriage to Harriet G. Gilbert. Three children were born to this union, Mrs. H. L. Brown of this city, Dr. Clayton G. Brown of Detroit and Mrs. Bradford Dean of Dyer, Nev.
Mr. Brown united with the Congregational church in the township of Lenox, Macomb county, 50 years ago. In 1895 he was ordained an elder in the Westminster Presbyterian church at North Port Huron. When he came to Mason he brought a letter to the Presbyterian church here.
Mr. Brown joined the Masonic order at Memphis in 1862 and was a member of Fort Gratiot lodge No. 374 of North Port Huron. For four years he was deputy postmaster at Fort Gratiot.
Mr. Brown served three years in the Rebellion as a member of Co. L, Eighth Michigan Cavalry. He came to Mason in October, 1898, and this place has since been his home. He is survived by a widow and the three children above mentioned.

Mrs. S. B. Anway.

It becomes our sad lot to mourn the death of our beloved sister, Clara Josephine Anway, which occurred Thursday, March 18, 1909, at the age of 61 years, 11 months and 18 days.
Clara Josephine Vanderhoof was born in Phelps, Ontario county, N. Y., March 27, 1847. Her mother having died when she was born, she was left in the care of an older sister, Mrs. Amanda Snook, of Saranac, who still survives her.
She came to Odessa, Michigan, in the spring of 1867, and was married to Samuel Benson Anway Oct. 18th of the same year. They resided in Odessa until March 27th, 1895, when they moved to their present home in the township of Ingham, where they have since lived, with the exception of one year's residence in Mason. To this union ten children were born, two having died in infancy.
She leaves to mourn their loss, besides the husband, one sister, Mrs. Amanda Snook, of Saranac, six sons, Charles and Roy of Los Angeles, Cal.; Edwin, of New Mexico; Leonard, of Lake Odessa, and Clarence and Adelbert of Ingham, and two daughters, Miss Elia and Mrs. Ioma Hullberger of Ingham, besides a host of friends and neighbors.

She was a member of Dansville Rebekah Lodge No. 350, being initiated into that order June 28, 1901.
She was a loving wife and mother, a kind and sympathizing friend and neighbor, and to know her was to love her.

Mason Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.
After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Mason given below you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:
Harrison O. Call, Supt. of cemetery, "Main Road, Mason, Mich., says: "I suffered greatly for over two years with kidney trouble. The pains across my back and kidneys were so severe that it was almost impossible for me to stoop or lift. If I caught cold it settled in my kidneys, causing additional suffering. The secretions from the kidneys were irregular in passage and caused me much annoyance. I finally heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Longyear Bros. drug store. I received relief at once from their use and in a short time my old trouble had disappeared. I have used this remedy once or twice since and the results have always been satisfactory. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers."

ANTI-CONVICT LABOR MEASURE

House Committee Gives Bill Full Approval.

VIEW OF GOVERNOR WARNER.

Sent Message to the Legislature Advocating the Complete Abolition of All Contract Labor in the Prisons of the State and Substituting Therefor the Manufacture of Commodities to Be Sold by the State—Railway Legislation Acted Upon.

Lansing, Mich., March 23.—The Clarken anti-convict labor bill has the unanimous approval of the house committee to which it is referred and will go before the house with the recommendation of the members of that committee to give it impetus.

During the week Governor Warner sent to the legislature a vigorous message in which he discussed this subject and advocated the complete abolition of all contract labor in the prisons of the state and the substitution therefore the manufacture of commodities to be sold by the state. The governor does not favor the plan of working the convicts on state account, believing that they would under this system compete to a very large extent with free labor. He would have the prisoners employed in the manufacture of articles now controlled by trusts, care being taken to select such industries as will cause the least competition with free labor. A further objection to the state account system made by the governor is that, at best, it would give employment to only a limited portion of the prison population, which now aggregates about 1,200.

Binder Twine Plant.
Citing the fact that during the first season of its operation the Jackson prison binder twine plant earned the state a net profit of $12,000 in addition to crediting the convicts employed in this industry with 10 per cent of the earnings as required by law, the governor advocated the material enlargement of that plant, expressing the belief that no trouble will be experienced in disposing of the output. He further suggested the manufacture of grain bags and rope as commodities which can be manufactured at a profit and for which there is a constantly increasing demand.

Attention was directed to the fact that for labor of convicts under contract to private parties the state receives an average of only 50 cents per day per capita for ten hours' labor, and that even at this low wage the state, as a rule, furnishes buildings and heat and, in some instances, power. The splendid financial returns received by the city of Detroit from the Detroit house of correction, which is operated on the plan advocated in the message, was dwelt upon, emphasis being placed on the fact that the net receipts of the city from this source during the past fifteen years having averaged $33,000 per year.

Money Paid to Prisoners.
In addition to this all repairs and improvements have been paid out of the earnings of the prison, and during the past eight years a total of $48,000 has been paid to prisoners as a reward for good behavior and faithful service. The state should be able to do better than this for the reason that the convicts in its prison are for the most part long time men, whereas as far the greater number of those in the Detroit house of correction are sentenced for terms of less than one year. In view of the fact that the existing contracts have several years to run, it is realized that the new plan suggested cannot be inaugurated at once, it being necessary to permit these contracts to run to expiration.

It is suggested in the message and provided in the Clarken bill that a commission be appointed to investigate the entire question and report to the next legislature its conclusions as to the proper industries to adopt for the employment of convicts.

Railway Legislation.
Considerable proposed legislation affecting railroad companies was acted upon and considered last week. The senate, after considerable discussion, passed the Anhut bill which provides that after Jan. 1, 1910, all freight cabooses must be equipped with rear platforms. Another bill passed by this body prohibits the transportation on passenger trains of kerosene, benzine, gasoline or naphtha, save in quantities sufficient to supply the needs of such trains. The house devoted considerable time to the consideration of a bill permitting the charging of 10 cents extra fare in all cases where passengers pay their fare on trains instead of purchasing tickets at stations.

The conductors favor this proposed law, which is designed to discourage passengers from paying fare on trains and thereby consume the time of conductors, which should be devoted, in the interest of the traveling public, to the running of their trains. On the other hand it is urged that such a law would increase the revenues of the companies and penalize passengers who were late in arriving at stations.

Crampton Bill Discussed.
At a conference participated in by members of the house railroad committee, the members of the state railroad commission and legal representatives of railway companies, the Crampton bill, which generally revises the law arresting the state railway commission was discussed. The legislators made considerable objection to that provision of the bill which requires railroad companies to transport members of the commission and their inspectors when traveling on the business of the commission.

The companies were willing to furnish free transportation for these persons, but the legislators thought such a plan would be a bad precedent to establish, feeling that it might lead to abuses. Furthermore, they argued that the companies paid the state all taxes demanded and the state should be willing to pay the fare of its representatives.

Object to Increased Salaries.
Members of the committee and other legislators also objected to the proposition to increase the salaries of the members of the commission from $3,000 to $5,000, the limit fixed being $3,500. There is a demand on the part of the legislators that companies be required to publish time tables in daily and weekly newspapers. The companies do not object to this, but the newspapers have manifested opposition to legislative action fixing the compensation they shall receive for their space.

Companies concerned in that provision of the bill which gives the commission supervision over telegraph and telephone companies and empowers them to fix rates to be charged by such companies have asked for a hearing on this subject. Speaking of rates reminds me that Attorney General Bird has advised Chairman Crampton of the committee that where a rate is fixed by statute the railroad commission has no jurisdiction over the matter in the absence of discrimination between shippers.

Van Raalte Bill Killed.
Notwithstanding the fact that the proprietors of the larger private banks in the state were in favor of its passage, the smaller operators in this line succeeded in inducing the house in committee of the whole to kill the Van Raalte bill prohibiting the use of a corporate or artificial name by this class of institution. It is possible, but hardly probable, that the bill may be revived and another attempt made to pass it. The bill generally revising the banking law along lines suggested by the State Bankers' association will be considered this week.

The Stevenson bill for the suppression of clairvoyants, etc., which experienced such smooth sailing in the house, went on the senate rocks with a rush, and its seams were opened so wide that there is no hope of patching them up. The Michigan State Spiritualists' association took the lead in opposing the measure, and a majority of the senate were of the opinion that the bill trenches too closely upon some religious beliefs to become a law. The senators had considerable sport with the bill and then killed it by a decisive vote.

Dickinson Primary Bill.
Just what will be the fate of the Dickinson primary election bill in the house is a problem. As passed by the senate the bill provided that, so far as the state ticket is concerned, only candidates for governor and lieutenant governor shall be nominated by primary vote, leaving the balance of the state ticket to be nominated in convention.

The members of the house elections committee, which now has the bill in charge, do not favor this proposition and have decided to amend the bill so as to provide for a state wide primary to include all nominations from governor to coroner. They argue that if it is a good thing to nominate candidates for governor and lieutenant governor by primary vote, it is equally as beneficial to have all candidates so nominated.

The house committee endorses the United States senator provision of the bill as it came from the senate. This requires the secretary of state to certify to the legislature the primary candidate of each party who receives the highest number of votes as the party candidate. It is understood that the house committee will also change the phraseology of the bill in some particulars, and rearrange the sections so as to make them more orderly. In this task they will solicit the aid of Senator Dickinson. It will doubtless be some days before the bill is reported out.

Indicates Economy.
The Snell bill designed to insure the sale of purer ice cream than the citizens of Michigan have been wont to get outside of in the past has passed the senate. The bill prohibits the sale of ice cream containing less than 12 per cent butter fat and also that each package containing ice cream must show the amount of gelatine or vegetable gums used for coloring, and this coloring matter must not exceed one-half of 1 per cent. All manufacturers of ice cream in cities having a population in excess of 3,000 must take out an annual license, the fee for such license to be $5. The bill was introduced at the instance of the Michigan Dairyman's association.

The action of the house railroad committee in taking a stand against a larger salary than $3,500 for members of the railway commission is in line with the action of the house in refusing to increase the salaries of the circuit judges of the state more than $1,100 per annum, making the new salary $7,500. All of this indicates that appropriation bills generally will be cut to the quick this year. This far the finance committees have not reported out any appropriation bills. They plan to wait until all are in hand and considered and then make a deep cut which will very materially reduce the aggregate appropriations to be recommended from the aggregate asked for.

CANADIAN TIMBER LANDS.

By Will Livingston Comfort.

Before turning to Vancouver and the Canadian Northwest finally, it may be well to review the substance of the first article in a paragraph or two. Primarily it should be the business of every citizen who has the fortune and future of his country at heart, to battle with all his force and acumen against the complete deforestation of the United States, the bare and ugly shashings of Michigan are viewed now, and the thought is considered that the other wooded states are sharing the same fate; that three times as much timber is being cut now as in 1880 when Michigan was green and fragrant with the fairest pine ever growing—the time is fully ripe for action.

Following is a conservative estimate of the length of time that it will be required to strip the States of all accessible timber at the present rate of consumption: The present forest areas approximate 600 million acres. Considering all drains, the annual consumption of wood-stuffs is three times the growth. Assuming that the present stand of timber at a maximum figure is 2000 billion board feet; also assuming that the annual growth is 40 billion board feet—the present stand of timber in the United States will be exhausted in 33 years.

The colossal havoc that would arise from the complete deforestation of this country is being impressed mightily now upon the people through the daily and periodical press; but from an investor's point of view, there is the added dominant commercial fact that the remaining high-grade timber properties in the United States are held at a price practically unobtainable today.

Thus ethically and commercially the virgin forests of Vancouver and the Canadian Northwest are among the first and most vital needs of our civilization.

The grandest stand of timber in the North American continent today is in the lower half of the Island of Vancouver. Even temperature and excessive moisture is the cause of these perfect forests of fir, cedar and spruce. The southern portion of the island averages a width of fifty miles, with salt water on either side. The climate is protected from extremes of heat by the sea winds, and from extremes of cold by the tempering Japan current which brings a season of mists and rains instead of a stiff northern winter and keeps the land moist and richly productive in summer through a heavy fall of dews.

The splendor of these Vancouver forests can only be suggested. The occasional moss-bearded monarch, fifteen feet or more through at the butt, straining upward 200 feet or more, approximately the height of the Ford building in Detroit, ancient and of monster girth when Columbus was imploring for ships in the court of Spain—these prodigious columns of wood with their Corinthian capitals of green and graceful boughs, furnish the miracles for the tourist's eye, but a rather gritty proposition for the logger.

Stomach Distresses.
Every family here ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night. This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangle after supper tonight. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery is at your pharmacist, waiting for you. These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of dyspepsia or indigestion.

KING OF DIAMONDS HAS LICENSE TAKEN AWAY.
Alleged Bogus Gem Man Halted at Newspapers.

BURLINGTON, IA., Nov. 14.—For some time past newspapers in Iowa cities have been reporting the operations of a man whom they called "The King of Diamonds." It appears that there was nothing criminal in his operations, which consisted in selling "phony" diamonds. His mode of procedure was not exactly according to the rules. He usually drops into a jobbing house and tells of meeting such and such a representative of the house on the road and selling him a diamond, to be delivered at the store. He explains that the fellow turned up a interest and usually succeeds in selling some of his glassware. Mr. Jack of Diamonds dropped into City Auditor Norton's office one morning and secured a fifty-minute hearing of him. Calling in the peddler, he relieved him of his license and gave him back the money he had paid for it. As the man had committed no crime he was released. He was bitter against the newspapers for injuring his business.

If you want to wear a simulation diamond, to the ordinary observer almost like into a gem of the purest ray serene, a fitting substitute for the genuine; or if you want to make money, don't wait—ACT TODAY, as this advertisement may not appear, nor this unusual and extraordinary opportunity occur again. A Gentleman From Mississippi

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THOMAS A. WISE

This conversation with Randolph Langdon as Haines and Cullen saw them pass through the hotel lobby...

"Oh, it is, is it?" irritably replied Randolph, who as the "young man" had been accustomed to considerable deference on the plantation...

Langdon was helpless over his (Haines) shoulder as though to throw the young attacker with the wrestler's "lying mare."

"You can't make it until spring," urged Norton. "The money's got to lie in the bank all winter..."

CHAPTER IV. "JUST THE MAN WE NEED." AS Bud Haines returned from young Langdon's room, where he had left the latter in bed, towel filled with cracked ice...

"You've always treated me right, Charlie; you've been for me, I know. But suppose the government doesn't select Altacoola. Gulf City's in the running."

"I wonder if we're not all here on the same errand," suggested the newspaper man. Senator Peabody appeared to be all candor.

pose you had better talk to Langdon about it." The reporter smiled. "That's just what I came for, senator, but I have to go up to the war department now."

"Clever boy," said Stevens as the newspaper man departed. The boss of the senate agreed.

"I have always found Stevens," he said, "that a little attention like this to a new man is never wasted, and I make it a rule not to overlook opportunities."

"I think you'll like Langdon," Stevens remarked after a pause, "and you'll find him easy to deal with. Just put up any measure for the benefit of the south and Langdon will go to the limit on it."

"You can swing him," asked Peabody sharply. Stevens drew closer to Peabody.

"I elected him, and he knows it," he chuckled. The boss nodded.

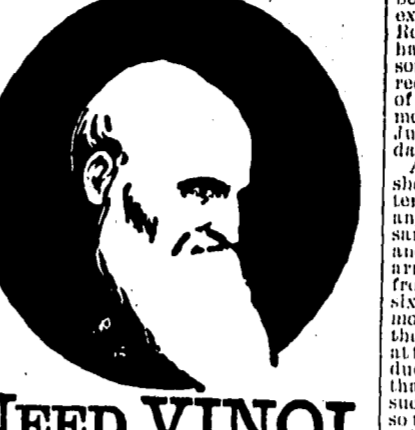

"And it's likely that a man like Langdon, new to politics—a simple gentleman of the old school, as you describe him—might have considerable influence on opinion throughout the country."

"Then you guarantee him?" snapped Peabody. "Unreservedly, senator. 'He goes on the naval committee. That ought to be enough honor for a man who a year ago was growing cotton on an old plantation miles away from civilization."

"We have control now of all the land about Altacoola that can be used," said Stevens. "I have had Norton, the congressman from Langdon's district, working on it. There isn't a foot of land there which we do not now control under options, and," he added, with a chuckle, "the options were dirt cheap."

Peabody granted approvingly. "There won't be any New York fortune in it, but it ought to be a pretty tidy bit," he said. "Now, if we could only get Langdon interested, directly or indirectly, in a financial way, that would clinch everything."
