OBITUARY

Lawrence Hobert McCreery

was born in the township of Jersey, Steuben Co., New York, April 1, 1832, and died his home in Bunker Hill, Aug. 10, 1913, aged 81 years, 4 mo. and 10 days.
When 4 years of age he came to Michigan with his parents. After about a year they moved to Canada, where they resided two years, then returned to Michigan which since that time has been his home. Nov. 12, 1854, he was united in marriage to Annice Ann Aldrich. Five children were born to this union, Fred, residing at the old home; Mrs. G. E.
Wainwright of Jackson; Mrs. D. E.
Smith and Mrs. W. W. Ford of Henrietta, and Arthur of Rives township, all of whom, with the widow and grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. P. A. Dunn of Ann Arbor, and a host of friends and relatives remain to mourn their loss. When a young man he served some time on the canal and great lakes. In October, 1863 he enlisted in Company H,
First Michigan Engineers and Mechanics, serving until the close of the war, and was honorably discharged, having the rank of first duty sargent. He has been a christian since early manhood, and belonged to the First U. B.
Church of Bunker Hill for many years. He died in the triumph of a living faith, surrounded by his wife and children. The funeral services were held from the First U. B. church, August 12, conducted by Rev. C. W. Gurrier assisted by Rev. McConnell of Leslie, and remains were placed in the Fitchburg cemetery.

Card of Thanks.

We wish in this way to thank the many friends for words of kindness and sympathy and their assistance during the sickness and burial of our husband, father and grandfather.
Mrs. L. H. McCreery, children and grandchildren.

Spent Day At Parsonage

A very enjoyable event occurred last Wednesday when an auto party of 28 people of Stockbridge went to spend the day with their former pastor and family, Rev. and Mrs. Johnson at Clinton.
They arrived about 9:00 laden with baskets filled with good things for a picnic dinner. After an hour or two spent in pleasant intercourse tables were spread on the lawn and all sat down to a rich repast.

During the afternoon the party visited the Woolen Mill, and were most courteously conducted through the establishment.

After seeing other features of the town, return was made to the parsonage where ice-cream and cake were served. Group pictures were then taken and about half past four the party started on their homeward journey.

Horse Department

By N. P. HULL,
Vice President of the Michigan State Fair and Superintendent of the Horse Department.

N. P. HULL.

ESTIMATES place the value of Michigan's farm horses alone at $80,000,000. In this the horses in the cities are not taken into consideration. Then they say that the death-knell of the horse was sounded with the coming of the steel steeds, the autos. What the State Fair is endeavoring to do is to encourage the breeding of those types which give the greatest service on the farm. We are making every effort to secure the most attractive exhibit of heavy horses the Fair has ever known this year.

There has been a steady increase in this class the last ten years, and there is every indication that the 1913 roster will show a healthy growth over any previous year.

There will be unusual features in this year's horse department to attract the attention of western breeders. Liberal prizes under distinct classifications are offered for some of the following well known and approved types: Percheron, Clydesdale, Shire, Belgian, French and German coach.

Special prizes are also offered for stallions, "bred, owned, in service and registered in Michigan." In addition to the many handsome awards presented to successful competitors by the Fair, there will be several valuable medals and cups given by the horse breeding associations.

America should be proud of its superior bred horses, and nowhere in these United States are there better grade animals than in Michigan. The recent sweeping victory of the American polo team was due more to the superior mounts possessed by the Yankees than to their superiority of play.
The English came here supposedly with the mounts valued at $100,000, and yet the American ponies were far tougher and more agile and intelligent than the animals from over the seas. This is but one instance where American bred horses have proved their right to be classed as the best in the world.

BIG AWARDS FOR POTATOES.

State Fair Alters Conditions on "Spuds"—More Liberal.

A change in the manner of awarding premiums for superior potatoes will be instituted at the Michigan State Fair this year.

In the past there has been no end of annoyance occasioned by "pothunting" exhibitors. It is not the intention of the Fair to encourage any such practice.

This year the real growers have got together and expressed a desire for reform in the matter of awarding prizes, and the Fair officials have responded to their appeals. If the present method of judging and awarding prizes works out all right this fall greater reforms will be inaugurated next year and seasons to come.

T. F. Marston of the Michigan State Fair board of superintendents had this to say in regard to the new order of things: "The method of awarding $20, $15, $10 and three prizes of $5 each for superior products in early and late potatoes may not seem like such a sweeping reform to some, but as a matter of fact it is a big step in the right direction.

"If the winner of a State Fair prize happens to reside in northeastern Michigan he will be entitled to an additional award of $20 from the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau.
In every case the products will be judged with regard to their cooking and eating excellence as well as appearance.

"The increasing of the rewards for perfected products in this and other lines will act as an incentive for Michigan growers to produce the best foodstuffs. Any institution which elevates the standard of food products is deserving of the support and encouragement of right thinking citizens of the state."

What the Fair Is.

agricultural and industrial interests.

ful farmers and a primary summer school for the boys and girls.

the Wolverine State.

A Reminder.

new giant roller coaster at the Michigan State Fair Sept. 15-20. It is absolutely safe. Let the children have the

The Matin of Paris, France, having cabled President Huerta that some anxiety had been caused by dispatches received there concerning the relations between the United States and Mexico, has received the following message from Mexico City: "Anxiety over the relations of Mexico with the United States is without foundation.—V. ## TO PROSECUTE DEPUTY SHERIFFS

KILLING OF STRIKERS IN THE COPPER COUNTRY WILL BE PROBED.

RESTRAINING ORDER ASKED BY UNION.

Prosecuting Attorney Asks for Arrest of Six Deputies and Will Appeal to Governor if Warrants Are Not Served By Sheriff.

The copper miners of Michigan, have turned the tables on officialdom and instituted prosecution against deputy sheriffs and detectives as responsible for the worst outburst of the strike region.

They have secured the assistance of Prosecuting Attorney Lucas in the prosecution of six deputies for killing strikers while attempting arrests and asked Judge Patrick H. O'Brien for an injunction against the use of foreign detectives as deputies.

Angus Kerr, chief counsel in the copper country for the Western Federation of Miners, has filed with County Clerk Kaiser of Houghton county a bill for an injunction, asking Judge O'Brien of the Houghton county circuit court to issue a restraining order against Sheriff Cruse and the Waddell-Mahon corporation. The order asked is to prevent the sheriff's employing the Waddell-Mahon detectives.

Coroner Charles R. Little, as the only official in the county empowered to serve papers on the sheriff, received the affidavits from the county clerk and served copies on the sheriff and on J. W. Waddell, president of the Waddell-Mahon corporation, who is in personal charge of the imported deputies.

Prosecuting Attorney Lucas has ordered Sheriff Cruse to arrest six deputies who took part in the fight with miners at Palmsdale that resulted in the death of two strikers.

Prosecutor Lucas says if the sheriff doesn't act, he'll ask Gov. Ferris to order the arrests. Two of the six, Polkinghorne and James, are on Cruse's staff regularly; the other four are Waddell men. Polkinghorne is said to have done most of the firing during the fight growing out of the attempt to arrest a miner for alleged intimidation of a deputy guarding E shaft of Champion mine. The shooting occurred after a party of miners fled inside a boarding house (No. 7) at Seeberville settlement.

Reunions of the various regiments will be held at 2 o'clock p. m., September 3, and the campfire of all the regiments will be held that evening. Tuesday night the veterans, with their wives and families, will be given a reception by the citizens of Ann Arbor. On Thursday morning the business meeting will be held.

Workmen Sues Pere Marquette.

Thomas Kearney, of Reed City, has instituted suit in the circuit court at Grand Rapids against the Pere Marquette railroad, asking $30,000 damages for injuries received while an employee of the company. He alleges great injury to his sight and attributes the cause to defective tools with which he said he was working when the accident occurred in March, 1912. He seeks action against the railroad and not through the body of receivers, as he suffered his injuries before the receivership was ordered.

May Shut Out Interurban.

The board of public works, of Saginaw, will rescind its action allowing the traction company to lay turnout curves whereby the new Bay City interurban obtains entrance to the city, say board members. The board believed the company had a franchise when this privilege was granted, it is said. All agree the company has no right to bring the interurban line into the city without a franchise. They say they were "hoodwinked."

MEXICAN OUTLOOK MORE HOPEFUL

JOHN LIND DISPLAYS GREAT
SKILL IN CARRYING OUT
WILSON'S PLANS.

IT IS BELIEVED THAT HUERTA
MAY BE ELIMINATED.

Presidential Election will Probably Be Called for October 26 and It Is Hoped That Huerta Will Not Be a Candidate.

Optimism over the outlook for the consummation of the president's plans for bringing peace to Mexico are becoming stronger.

The official dispatches from Mexico City gave the president and Secretary Bryan further ground for hoping for the success of John Lind's mission.

The president's views, which Mexico City announces were communicated to Foreign Minister Gamba at a conference with Special Representative John Lind, has as a basis the elimination of General Huerta from the provisional presidency and the holding of a constitutional election either at the regular date, October 26, or earlier.

The unofficial intimations from the south that Huerta was considering resigning the provisional presidency almost immediately so as to comply with the constitutional requirement for participation in the election for the president, were regarded here as of great significance. It was interpreted in some quarters as indicating that the president's plan does not only include a suggestion that Huerta eliminate himself completely from the situation by resigning now, but by consenting not to become a candidate at the regular election.

It is the opinion in Washington that John Lind has done skillful work in presenting the president's plan to the Huerta government. Mr. Lind is believed to have given a convincing description of the selfishness of the United States and of her friendly attitude toward the southern republic and to have removed from the mind of Huerta's advisers the lurking suspicion that the Washington administration had allowed itself to be prejudiced in favor of any faction or individual in Mexican politics.

Two names have been mentioned as the men in whose favor Huerta might resign the provisional presidency pending the elections. They are Foreign Minister Gamba and former Ambassador to the United States Calero.

Harry Thaw Escapes Asylum.

Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, escaped from the Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan.

A dart for liberty through an open gate, a dash into the open door of a powerful automobile that stood quivering outside, and a flight like a rocket for the Connecticut state line, 30 miles away, accomplished his escape.

Once beyond the boundaries of the state, Thaw was free. Only months, perhaps years, of litigation can bring him back to Matteawan and then only in one event—that he be adjudged insane in the state to which he had fled.

Five confederates manned the car in which Thaw escaped, and a big black limousine which trailed it past the asylum gate. The police have their descriptions and the names which they registered at a local hotel, and are seeking them.

The doctor made up a prescription which was sent by wireless to the Wimmera.

SYNOPSIS.

Cowboys of the Flying Heart ranch are heartbroken over the loss of their much-prized photograph by the defeat of their champion in a foot-race with the cook of the Centipede ranch. A house party is on at the Flying Heart. J. Wallingford Speed, cheer leader at Yale, and Culver Covington, inter-collegiate champion at Fresno, who has posed to her as an athlete, to race against the Centipede man. The cowboys join in the appeal to Willie, and fearing that Helen will find him out, he consents. He insists, however, that she shall be entered as an unknown, figuring that Covington will arrive in time to take his place. Fresno, who club singer from Stanford university and in love with Helen, tries to discredit Speed with the ladies and the cowboys.

CHAPTER VIII.

LAWRENCE GLASS was beginning to like New Mexico. Not only did it afford a tinge of romance, discernable in the deep, haunting eyes of Marielotta, the maid, but it offered an opportunity for financial advancement—as, for instance, the purchase of Willie's watch. This timepiece cost the trainer twenty-one dollars, and he sold it to Speed for double the amount, believing in the luck of even numbers. Nor did young Speed allow his trainer's efforts to cease here, for in every portable timepiece on the ranch he recognized a menace, and not until Lawrence had cornered the market and the whole collection was safely locked in his trunk did he breathe easily. This required two days, during which the young people at the ranch enjoyed themselves thoroughly. They were halcyon days for the Yale man, for Fresno was universally agreeable, and seemed resigned to the fact that Helen should prefer his rival's company to his own.

As for Glass, he recounted tales of Marielotta's capitulation to his employer, and wheezed merrily over the discomfiture of the Mexican girl's former admirers.

"She's a swell little dame," he confided to Speed one afternoon, as they lounged luxuriously in the shade at their customary resting place. "Yes, and I'm aced with her, too." They had set out for their daily run, and were now contesting for the seven-up supremacy of the Catskill mountains. Already Glass had been declared the undisputed champion of the Atlantic coast, while Speed on the day previous had wrested from him the championship of the Mississippi valley.

"But Marielotta is dark!" said the college man, as he cut the cards. "She is almost a mulatto."

"Now! She's no dingie. She's an Aztec, an' them Aztecs is swell people. Say, she can play a guitar like a barber!"

"Miss Blake told me she was in love with Carara."

Glass granted contemptuously. "I've got it on that insurrector four ways. Why, I'm learning to talk Spanish myself. If he gets lousy, I'll cross one over his bow." The trainer made a vicious jab at an imaginary Mexican. "He ain't got a good wallop in him."

"I thought cowboys was tough guys," continued Glass, "but it's a mistake. That little Willie, for instance, is a lamb. He packs that Mauser for protection. He's afraid some farmer will walk up and poke his eye out with a corn-cob. One copper with a night-stick could stampee the whole outfit. But they're all right, at that," he acknowledged, magnanimously.

"They're a nice bunch of fellers when you know how to take 'em."

"The flies are awful today," Speed complained. "They bite my legs."

"I'll bring out a bath robe tomorrow, and we'll hide it in the bushes. I wish there was some place to keep this beer cool." Glass shifted some bottles to a point where the sunlight did not strike them.

"I'm getting tired of training, Larry," acknowledged the young man, with a yawn. "It takes so much time."

Glass shook his head in sympathy. "Seems like we'd ought to hear from Covington," said he.

"He's on his way, no doubt. Isn't it time to go back to the ranch?"

Glass consulted his watch. "No, we ain't done but three miles. Here goes for the rubber."

It was Berkeley Fresno who retreated cautiously from the shelter of a thicket a hundred yards up the arroyo and started briskly homeward, congratulating himself upon the impulse that had decided him to follow the training partners upon their daily routine. He made directly for the corral.

"Which I don't consider there's no consideration comin' to him whatever," said Willie that evening. "He ain't acted on the level."

"Now, see here," objected Stover. "He may be just what he claims he is."

Simply because he don't go skally-hootin' around in the hot sun ain't no sign he can't run."

"What about them empty beer bottles?" demanded Willie. "No fellow can train on that stuff. I went out there myself and seen 'em. There was a dozen."

"Mebbe Glass drank it. What I claim is this: We ain't got no proof. Fresno is stuck on Miss Blake, and he's a knocker."

"Then let's git some proof, and dam' quick."

"Si, Senores," agreed Carara, who had been an interested listener.

"I agree with you, but we got to be careful—"

Willie grunted with disgust. "—we can't go at it like we was killin' snakes. Mr. Speed is a guest here."

Again the little gun man expressed his opinion, this time in violet-tinted profanity, and the other cowboys joined in.

"All the same he is a guest, and no rough work goes. I'm in charge while Mr. Chapin is away, and I'm responsible."

"Senor Bill," Carara ventured, "the fat vaquero, he is no guest. He is one of us."

"That's right," seconded Willie. "He's told us all along that Mr. Speed was a Mercy-footed wonder, and if the young feller can't run he had ought to have told us."

Mr. Cloudy showed his understanding of the discussion by nodding silently.

"We'll put it up to him in the morning," said Stover.

"If Mr. Speed cannot r-run, w'at you do, eh?" questioned the Mexican.

Nobody answered. Still Bill seemed at a loss for words, Mr. Cloudy stared gloomily into space, and Willie ground his teeth.

On the following morning Speed sought a secluded nook with Helen, but no sooner had he launched himself fairly upon the subject uppermost in his mind than he was disturbed by a delegation of cowboys, consisting of the original four who had waited upon him that first morning after his arrival. They came forward with grave and serious mien, requesting a moment's interview. It was plain there was something of more than ordinary importance upon their minds from the manner in which Stover spoke, but when Helen quickly volunteered to withdraw, Speed checked her.

"Stay where you are; I have no secrets from you," said he. Then nothing the troubled face of the foreman, quoted impatiently:

"You may fire when ready, Gridley."

Still Bill shifted the lump in his cheek, and cleared his throat before beginning formally.

"Mr. Speed, while we honor you a heap for your accomplishments, and while we believe in you as a man and a champion, we kind of feel that it might make you stretch your legs some if you knew just exactly what Retreated Cautiously From the Shelter of a Thicket.

this foot-race means to the Flying Heart outfit."

"I assured you that the Centipede cook would be beaten," said the college man, stiffly.

"Isn't Mr. Speed's word sufficient?" inquired the girl.

Stover bowed. "It had sure ought to be, and we thank you for their new assurances. You see, our spiritual on-reat is due to the fact that Humpy Joe's get-away left us broke, and we banked on you to pull us even. That first experience strained our credulity to the bustin' point, and—well, in words of one syllable, we come from Joplin."

"Missouri," said Willie.

"My dear sirs, I can't prove that you are going to win your wagers until the day of the race. However, if you are broke to start with, I don't see how you can expect to lose a great deal."

"You ain't got the right angle on the affair," Stover explained. "Outside of the unbearable contumely of losin' twice to this Centipede outfit, which would be bad enough, we have drawn a month's wages in advance, and we have put it up. Moreover, I have bet my watch, which was presented to me by the officials of the Santa Fe for killin' a pair of road-agents when I was deputy sheriff."

Miss Blake uttered a little scream, and Speed regarded the lanky speaker with new interest.

"It's a Waltham movement, solid gold case, eighteen jewels, and engraved with my name."

"No wonder you prize it," said Wally.

"I bet my saddle," informed Carara, in his slow, soft dialect. "Stamp leather wit' silver flagree. It is more dear to me than—well—I love it ver' much, senor!"

"Seems like Willie has made the extreme sacrifice," Stover followed up. "While all our boys has gone the limit, Willie has topped 'em all; he's bet his gun."

"Indeed! Is it a good weapon?"

"It's been good to me," said the little man, dryly. "I took it off the quivering remains of a sheriff in Dodge City, up to that time the best hip shot in Kansas."

Speed felt a cold chill steal up 'his spine, while Miss Blake went pale and laid a trembling hand upon his arm.

"You see it ain't intrinsic value so much as association and sentiment that leads to this interview," Stover continued. "It ain't no joke—we don't joke with the Centipede—and we've relied on you. The Mex here would do murder for that saddle." Carara nodded, and breathed something in his own tongue. "I have parted with my honor, and Willie is gamblin' just as high."

"But I notice Mr.—Willie still has his revolver."

"Sure I got it!" Willie laughed, abruptly. "And I don't give it up till we lose, neither. That's the understandin'." His voice was surprisingly harsh for one so high-pitched. He looked more like a professor than ever.

"Willie has reasons for his caution which we respect," explained the spokesman.

J. Wallingford Speed, face to face with these serious-minded gentlemen, began to reflect that this foot-race was not a thing to be taken too lightly.

"I can't understand," he declared, with a touch of irritation, "why you should risk such priceless things up on a friendly encounter."

"Friendly!" cried Willie and Stover in a tone that made their listeners gasp. "The Centipede and the Flying Heart is just as friendly as a pair of wild boars."

"You set, it's a good thing we wised you up," added the latter.

Carara muttered fiercely: "Senor, I worka five year for that saddle. I am a good gambler, si, si! but I keel somebody biffore I lose it to the Centipede."

"And is that Echo phonograph worth all this?" inquired Helen.

"We won that phonograph at risk of life and limb," said Willie, doggedly, "from the Centipede—"

"—and twenty other outfits, senor."

"It's a trophy," declared the foreman, "and so long as it ain't where it belongs, the Flying Heart is in disgrace."

"Even the Leven X treats us scornful!" cried the smallest of the trio angrily. "We're a joke to the whole state."

"I know just how these gentlemen must feel," declared Miss Blake, tactfully, at which Stover bowed with grateful awkwardness.

"And it's really a wonderful instrument," said he. "I don't reckon there's another one like it in the world, leastways in these parts. You'd ought to hear it—clear as a bell—"

"And sweet," said Willie. "God! It's sure sweet!"

"I begin to feel your loss," said Speed gravely. "Gentlemen, I can only assure you I shall do my best."

"Then you won't take no chances?" inquired Willie, mildly.

"You may rely upon me to take care of myself."

"Thank you!" The delegation moved away.

"What d'you think of him?" inquired Stover of the little man in glasses, when they were out of hearing.

"I think he's all right," Willie hesitated, "only kind of crazy, like all eastern boys. It don't seem credible that no sane man would dare to bluff after what we've said. He'd be flyin' in the face of Providence."

Got in a Quiet Knock.

When Joaquin Miller, the Poet of the Sierras, edited the Eugene Register, he ran a joke column that is still remembered among Eugene veterans.

"Miller," said an aged Eugenist, "used to like to roast the coal man. Thus, I remember how, in a description of a wedding, he once wrote:

"The presents offered the bride were unusually sumptuous and abundant. Consistent among them was a ton of coal. This won general admiration and approval by reason of its quaint, old-fashioned massiveness, it being much heavier than the tons of coal of the present day."

Overworked.

Mrs. Knagg—If we women had the time to read the papers as you men have we'd know just as much about politics and other things as you.

Mr. Knagg—But, my dear, you have just as much time as I.

Mrs. Knagg—Nonsense! I never have time enough even to get through with the household department, the women's page, the beauty expert, the fashion notes, the marriages, the divorce news and the society column and often have to skip the death records and the bargain advertisements.

A Dream of the Centuries

DE LESSEPS PALACE

Colon, C. Z.—"The engineer's dream of the centuries has been realized." Everyone who writes of the Panama canal feels bound to use that phrase, and though it is trite, it is no less true.

Possibly when Balboa first stood on the "Peak of Darien" and gazed entranced at the waters of what he called the Southern sea the thought of cutting through the isthmus came to him. Certainly, within three years after his great discovery or in 1516, he had transported two ships, in pieces, across from the Atlantic to the Pacific and there put them together.

It could not have been very much later that the idea of an isthmian canal was born, for during the reign of Philip II. of Spain (1556-1598) the Inquisition declared that any such project to alter the face of the earth was impious, and the Spanish ruler forbade its further discussion. The ban of the church was effective for some time, but in 1699 a Scotchman of the name of Patterson revived the scheme, established a colony on the shores of the isthmus and even made a crude survey of the proposed route. Calcutt, a son of the proposed route, alone preserves the memory of that attempt. French scientists in 1735 advocated a Nicaragua canal, fifty years later the Spanish government ordered a survey of the Darien route, and early in the nineteenth century von Humboldt declared a canal was practicable. In 1825, immediately after Latin America had freed itself from Spain, the Central American and United States Atlantic and Pacific Canal company was organized, and one of the directors of the concern with the high-sounding name was DeWitt Clinton. Various schemes were started and fell through, and in 1835 the United States senate voted for the building of a Nicaragua canal. An expedition was sent to that country and reported that the canal could be constructed at a cost of $25,000,000.

After the Civil war there was much negotiating by our government for a canal concession, but when the Nicaragua route seemed to be the favorite the Bogota government became impatient and gave the concession for a Panama canal to Lucien Napoleon Bonaparte Wyse, a French lieutenant. He made some maps and organized a company which sold out to the financiers with whom Ferdinand de Lesseps had associated himself.

Albert Edwards in his admirable book on Panama thus describes the beginning of the tragedy of de Lesseps and his company:

"The digging of the Suez canal was the accomplishment of his life. All his vigor and energy had gone into it. He came back to Paris literally carried on the shoulders of his nation. The government made him a 'comte' and the people called him 'le grand Français.' But he fell among thieves. The old man tumbled blindly into the trap of speculators, who foresaw a rich harvest in the drawing together of his great name and the shady concession of Lieutenant Wyse. They set the stage by summoning the scientists of the world to a great congress to discuss an Atlantic-Pacific canal. Although it was called a 'scientific' congress, most of its 136 members were speculators and politicians. Only forty-two were engineers or geographers. They elected Count de Lesseps, railroaded through a resolution that the Panama route was the only practicable one, and formed the Universal Inter-oceanic Canal company by buying the Wyse concession for 10,000,000 francs, before the bona fide members of the congress knew what had happened and in the face of much protest. There can be little doubt that the congress was packed like a ward caucus, but there is no evidence that de Lesseps realized that it was."

"The company was launched with many banquets, florid speeches by le grand Français, and champagne without end. And all the time those who were on the inside were playing the market from both ends, sending the stocks tumbling down the steps of the bourse on a manufactured report that the United States was again warring the Monroe Doctrine, shooting them up again with a misquotation from the president's message to the effect that we were enthusiastic in favor of the French enterprise. A sortier exhibition of conscienceless finance has seldom been seen."

Old de Lesseps, however, was in earnest. He sent over engineers who discovered that Wyse's maps were inaccurate and that yellow fever was deadly. Then in December, 1873, the count himself, with his wife and three children, arrived from France. After receptions and speech-making in Colon he crossed to Panama, and there, on January 1, 1880, the formal opening of the canal was performed with elaborate ceremony. Mlle. Ferdinando de Lesseps struck the first blow of a pickaxe at the point where the canal was to enter the Pacific, each of the party followed with a blow, and there was a vast quantity of applause and champagne.

From the very first the French company was beset with troubles. As the canal was not a government undertaking the work had to be let out to contractors, and many of these proved to be dishonest. They would take out the soft dirt, collect the stipulated price per cubic yard, and then go into bankruptcy. At Bogota the politicians not only exacted the usual blackmail, but annoyed the company with all manner of litigation, the native courts invariably ruling against the French. Worst of all, perhaps, were the yellow fever and malaria, which killed off the engineers and laborers by the thousand. In the last three months of 1884 the death rate per thousand was nearly 100, and in September, 1885, it reached 176.97. Sanitary science had not yet learned how to cope with these diseases, and there is every reason to believe that their ravages alone would have been enough to insure the failure of de Lesseps' enterprise, without the gross extravagance and the dishonesty that characterized the work.

"The crash came in 1888," says Mr. Edwards. "After eight years of as brave a fight as man had ever made against nature, the bubble burst. It is estimated that stock had been issued to the value of two hundred and fifty million dollars. It is doubtful if half this sum ever got near enough to Panama to be expended on actual work. Most of this paper was held by French peasants and people of moderate means. They had been led into it by the great name of de Lesseps. You may be sure that none of the original promoters were caught with stock on their hands when the final break came. The scandal was immense. Many government officials were involved. The shame of it drove the old man—le Grand Français—insane. He died a few years later in an asylum."

The company went into the hands of a receiver who organized the New French Canal company, and this concern sold all its rights and property to the United States in 1902. Many of its buildings, ranging in size from de Lesseps' palace in Cristobal to houses for laborers, were found worth preserving and have been used by the Americans. The hospital buildings at Ancon and Colon were nearly all erected by the French.

When Uncle Sam took hold of the canal work, the jungle all along the route across the isthmus was found full of expensive machinery abandoned to the ravages of rust and decay. Much of this was recovered and used in the earlier years of the American regime, and even now French dredges and locomotives may be seen at work there. Nearly all the old French equipment, however, has been sold to a Chicago wrecking concern which has been piling it up in orderly heaps and disposing of it as scrap.

Two parts of the actual work done on the canal by the French have proved of great help to the Americans. These were the dredging at the Atlantic entrance and the dry excavation in the Culebra cut.

Impossible. Started he looked about him. "My legs are comfortable," he muttered. "My knees aren't cramped. I can get the kinks out of my calves and even lean back a little. My line of sight is unobstructed. Why, not only can I see everything, I can also hear everything! I can retire to the foyer without disturbing 15 people, or even one, but—I'm so comfortable sitting here that I'd rather stay just where I am. These lights—the music—the scenery—all look real, yes, they strongly suggest reality—but it's impossible. Whoever heard of a comfortable theater? I must be dreaming."

And doggone it, that's just what he was doing.—Masses.

ECZEMA SPREAD OVER BODY

Roxbury, Ohio.—"When my little boy was two weeks old he began breaking out on his cheeks. The eczema began just with pimples and they seemed to itch so badly he would scratch his face and cause a matter to run. Wherever that matter would touch it would cause another pimple until it spread all over his body. It caused disfigurement while it lasted. He had fifteen places on one arm and his head had several. The deepest places on his cheeks were as large as a silver dollar on each side. He was so restless at night we had to put mittens on him to keep him from scratching them with his finger nails. If he got a little too warm at night it seemed to hurt badly."

"We tried a treatment and he didn't get any better. He had the eczema about three weeks when we began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed him at night with the Cuticura Soap and spread the Cuticura Ointment on and the eczema left." (Signed) Mrs. John White, Mar. 19, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Plea for More Hygienic Gravy. "Stray Shots," the weekly paper issued by the inmates of the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, offers this mild suggestion to the cook: "If the gentleman entrusted with the task of making brown gravy to accompany the T-bone steaks served at this great culinary center, will take the trouble to read a few lines in any old cook book he will discover that it is impossible to use hot water and produce lumpless gravy. If he has any spark of sympathy in his soul he will realize that uncooked flour is the bosom friend of indigestion. A little regard for the great regiment that feasts here should furnish comfort in the consciousness of duty well performed."

Breakin' the Ice. "Now, Miss Imogene," argues the young man who has been receiving the frigid stares and the monosyllabic replies of the fair young thing who chose to become offended at him at the dinner and continued to accumulate indignation at the opera, "It's perfectly useless for you to attempt to act like an iceberg. Science tells us that only one-eighth of an iceberg is visible, and you—"

Considering the fact that she was wearing an evening gown, he really might have exercised a bit more tact.—Judge.

Many a fellow lays his heart at the feet of a girl who deliberately kicks a goal with it.

Poor Excuse. "Why did you drop off the water wagon?"

"It was so crowded I couldn't get a seat," explained the other man, lamely.

AN OLD NURSE Persuaded Doctor to Drink Postum.

An old faithful nurse and an experienced doctor, are a pretty strong combination in favor of Postum, instead of tea and coffee.

The doctor said: "I began to drink Postum five years ago on the advice of an old nurse."

"During an unusually busy winter, between coffee, tea and overwork, I became a victim of insomnia. In a month after beginning Postum, in place of tea and coffee, I could eat anything and sleep as soundly as a baby."

"In three months I had gained twenty pounds in weight. I now use Postum altogether instead of tea and coffee; even at bedtime with a soda cracker or some other tasty biscuit."

"Having a little tendency to Diabetes, I used a small quantity of saccharine instead of sugar, to sweeten with. I may add that today tea or coffee are never present in our house and very many patients, on my advice, have adopted Postum as their regular beverage."

"In conclusion I can assure anyone that, as a refreshing, nourishing and nerve-strengthening beverage, there is nothing equal to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms. Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

There isn't any question that building yourself a house is a dollar-and-cents proposition. It takes money, and to build it means to spend money you have saved or to save money you would otherwise spend. It is pretty certain to prove a good investment.
It will save you rent and uncertainty. It is likely to increase in value as the town grows and earn more in increment than the money would at interest. The building will depreciate with time. But the lot should grow in value if this town does as well as the country at large which is nearly doubling its land values every decade.

A Nervous Woman Finds Relief After Many Years

Women who suffer from extreme nervousness, often endure much suffering before finding any relief.
Mrs. Daniel Kintner, of Defiance, O., had such an experience, regarding which she says:

"I had stomach trouble when I was eighteen years old that broke down my health, and for years I suffered with nervousness, headache, indigestion and nervous spasms. The spasms got so bad
I would have them
three or four times a week. After trying nearly every remedy recommended, I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I must say it helped me wonderfully. I have had no severe nervousness for several years."

MRS. DAN KINTNER,
1002 Pleasant St., Defiance, O.

Many remedies are recommended for diseases of the nervous system that fail to produce results because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. Dr. Miles' Nervine has proven its value in such cases so many times that it is unnecessary to make claims for it. You can prove its merits for yourself by getting a bottle of your druggist, who will return the price if you receive no benefit.

Good Reason for His Enthusiasm

When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other form of bowel complaint and is then cured sound and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is but natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially in the case of a severe attack when his life is threatened. I used them for some time and am now all right." For Sale by Lantis & Brownell A. W. Brown & Co.

Cruel Form of Punishment.

A species of punishment, reminiscent of barbarism, was meted out a few days ago to a seven-year-old boy of Kiyosu, Japan, by the child's father. The little lad committed some trivial act of disobedience, and the father punished him by burying him for forty-eight hours in a hole in the ground, leaving only his head above the surface.

BIG PARTY FOR LITTLE MISS ASTOR

Just before leaving London for America recently Mrs. John Astor gave a party for her daughter, Alice Muriel, to celebrate the girl's birthday, at No. 18 Grosvenor square. The big drawing room was "done" entirely with white flowers—lilies and roses. Alice, who is well grown for her age, wore a beautiful silk muslin frock, rather long. It was frilled with very old lace and with a lace fichu. She wore a string of pearls given by her mother and a locket with her father's picture in it, with her initial in pearls and one large diamond on other side.

Many children came to the party, including Lady Ancaster's two and Mrs. Rupert Beckett's four, all dressed alike in sky blue silk with pink rose wreaths. One of the late Mrs. Gervase Beckett's girls accompanied her cousins in a white muslin frock and black sash.

The duchess of Marlborough, who is making her country home here headquarters now, came with Lord Ivor Churchill. Square dances, which were the feature of the party, were perfectly carried out by the children. Lord Ivor had the young hostess as a partner in country jigs.

Mrs. Astor wore a gown of rose silk, with roses at her waist, and during the early afternoon a large black hat, which she discarded after tea.

REV. C. S. DAVIDSON RENOUNCES CHURCH

The Rev. Charles Steele Davidson, who had trouble in 1900 with his vestry in the Church of the Holy Apostles, Greenwood avenue and Windsor terrace, Flatbush, N. Y., where he was known as "the little minister," and whose pastoral activities elsewhere won him repute for doing things out of the ordinary, has taken spectacular leave of the Episcopal ministry by burning his vestments and prayer book at the gate of Monticello, the home of Jefferson.

Mr. Davidson wrote out a statement for the newspapers, which he passed around, renouncing the church as the "haven of aristocracy" and proclaiming himself a preacher hereafter "for all the people." The statement contains charges against two Episcopal bishops in Virginia, and then proceeds with reasons for the burnt offering, which was made, apparently without witnesses.

Mr. Davidson made no pilgrimage for this mission, as he has lived in the vicinity of Monticello since last October, when he became assistant to the Rev. Dr. Harry B. Lee, rector of Christ church at Charlottesville, Va.

SENATOR SHERMAN A BUSY MAN

If Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, the junior member from Illinois, is not as busy as a bride on her wedding morn he is grieved. He has been in public life ever since 1896, with the exception of about two years, and he became known as such an indefatigable worker that the voters and public officials with appointive jobs on their hands just kept handing him something new all the time.

In 1896 he entered the lower house of the Illinois legislature. From 1900 until 1904 he was speaker of that body. Then he was elected lieutenant governor and presided over the upper house until 1908.

Scarcely had he reached home and begun practicing law when Governor Deneen appointed him president of the board of administration. All he had to do was direct the work of eighteen state institutions which had just been consolidated. Sometimes he would not work more than sixteen hours a day. That was not hard on the senator, who started as a farm hand. Among the institutions under the board's control were the State Hospital for the Insane at Kankakee and the Deaf and Dumb School at Jacksonville. One day an inmate of the hospital called Sherman aside and unfolded a great scheme to aid him.

"I would suggest," the patient said, "that you teach the barber trade to one of the mutes in the Jacksonville school and put him in charge of the hospital shop. A silent barber would rest the male inmates' minds greatly."

"Sir," Sherman responded, "you aren't crazy!"

And a month later the patient was discharged as sane.

BIG PRESENT IN BRIDAL BOUQUET

Miss Esther Stewart of Aurora, Ill., heiress of millions, with a check for $100,000 hidden among the roses of her bridal bouquet, the other day became the wife of Archibald Richards, and her friends and relatives were almost as greatly delighted as she appeared to be.

It was only two years ago that Miss Stewart suffered agonies of publicity when she broke her engagement to Robert E. Davis of Boston, a youth who had become conspicuous as "the boy broker," and who is now serving a prison term for swindling.

All the world appeared to trust the "boy broker," just as Miss Stewart did, until his exposure, trial and sentence. And since then Miss Stewart, who returned at that time from her college work at Wellesley, has been living quietly, away from the limelight.

Miss Stewart is a granddaughter of John Stewart, the multimillionaire lumber magnate of Aurora, and it was he who gave her as a wedding present the $100,000 check that was planned among the roses last night. Her father is T. B. Stewart, state senator and president of the First National Bank of Aurora.

The bridegroom, Archibald Richards, was distinguished as an athlete at college, becoming intercollegiate champion sprinter and captain of the track team of the University of Wisconsin.

When Johnny Goes to Grandpa's

"Look out!" the startled old hen cries, "Johnny's here!"

"Johnny's here!"

Keep in the tall grass, mind your eyes, Johnny's here!

Beware of stones shot out of slings, so ready with your legs and wings, look out for clubs and clods and things so very sure the const is clear before you venture to appear—Johnny's here!"

The cat gasps as she hides away: "Johnny's here!"

Come, kittens, crawl in while you may, Johnny's here!"

The dog creeps 'neath the wooded floor, His tail curls downward that he were in such a lofty style before:

The peacock, allied with sudden fear, Shrieks out: "It's time to disappear—Johnny's here!"

Inexplicable.

"He is generally known as a hard-headed business man, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"There's something I wish you would explain, if you can. What is it that causes a hard-headed business man to pay money to a woman whose nails need manicuring—a woman whose general appearance is slovenly and who evidently finds it difficult to make ends meet—why, I say, should a hard-headed business man go to such a woman for the purpose of getting her to tell his fortune—to give him pointers concerning the management of his affairs—to tell him when to buy and when to sell?"

"Oh, thunder, you might as well ask me to tell you why a woman who knows perfectly well that you are lying when you tell her she is beautiful keeps tempting you to repeat it and finally gets to hating your wife."

Climbing and Falling.

We prate and we preach of the glory of climbing and climbing, for aye, And we point to the horror of falling—Heaven's up, hell's the other way.

But in spite of the glory of climbing, Who if he could choose would be less Inclined to fall into a fortune Than climb up the way to success?

Last Resort.

"Well," said the literary gentleman, "you have published a book of poems, you have written a novel, you have put out a collection of essays, you have tried your hand at humorous sketches, you have added a book of travels to your list, and you have attempted a story of adventure, but nothing has come of any of your efforts. What are you going to do next?"

"I think," he replied, scratching his head reflectively, "that I will have to give the public my version of the Rubaiyat."

Willing to Accommodate Her.

"I want to ask you something, Gracie," said the beautiful heiress. "What is it, duckie?" the duke inquired.

"Would you object if I should request the minister to omit the word 'obey' from the service when we are married?"

"Certainly not. He can just make it 'love, honor and supply.'"

Worst That Could Happen.

"Don't worry, dear," said the magazine editor's wife. "It's too bad that you were burned out just a week before the time for going to press, but perhaps you can get other stories and poems to take the place of the ones that were lost."

"It isn't that," he groaned. "I can get plenty of stories and poems, but the copy for our soap ads has all gone up in smoke."

The Distribution.

For every man a woman is born, There's a laugh for every sigh; For every finger there's a thorn; There's a truth for every lie.

But the trouble is that many a thorn May bring one soul dismay, And many a woman sits forlorn While others turn men away.

What He Got.

"Did your uncle leave you anything in his will?"

"Yes. A lawsuit."

NOT HARD TO MAKE A GUESS

Asylum Superintendent Does Not Reveal Name of Last Relative to Visit Lunatic, but We Know It.

The lunatics tore up and down the white beach; they howled and leaped in the blue sea, quite like sane people.

"They enjoy the summer outing at our shore branch," the superintendent said. "It does 'em good, poor dubs!"

"It's a funny thing about a lunatic's relatives. There are reliable statistics about the way a lunatic's relatives stand by him."

"The relative who stands by a lunatic least, who stops visiting him in the asylum first of all, is a brother. The next relative to drop off is a wife. That sounds hard, but it's true. Don't count on your wife if you are going to become a lunatic. Next, husbands drop off. A little truer than wives husbands are, but only a little. Next fathers abandon the lunatic. Next sisters."

"One relative never abandons him till she dies, or he dies, she comes regularly on visiting day, bringing underwear and ties, cakes and tobacco—provided, of course, that the lunatic's a male. If it's a female this relative is equally faithful. And even though, as sometimes happens, the poor, mad creature hates her, curses her, tries to strike her when she visits him, she still remains faithful. When her visits cease they cease for only one reason—death."

"Nor do I need to tell you which relative this one is."

Why Western Bishop Was Convinced of the Ancient Lineage of His Eastern Entertainers.

A western bishop once attended a general convention in the east and was entertained by a New England family of long and honorable, if not lovable, lineage. They made no secret of a time-won superiority over any one from the new and crude west, and cited their Pilgrim ancestors constantly. The bishop was minded to bear this in Christian humility and forbearance, and did. But on his return home, he recounted his experiences to the wife; and she, good soul, spoke her mind as it is the privilege of her kind to do, even where mere man must be silent.

"I don't believe that their family is such an old one," she remarked. "Are you sure that their ancestors were Pilgrims?"

"I am certain, my dear," answered the bishop. "This may seem to be exaggeration, but at times you could positively detect the fragrance of the Mayflower."—New York Evening Post.

State Legislatures in 1913 Made Generous Appropriations to Check the Spread of Tuberculosis.

Out of 41 state legislatures in session during the season of 1913, laws dealing with tuberculosis were enacted in 30 states, while in 34 states consideration was given to bills dealing with the prevention of this disease. This is a summary of the legislative campaign for 1913, issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today.

Appropriations to the amount of over $5,000,000 have been set aside for the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis by the various state legislatures in session this year. Most of this money is for the maintenance of state sanatoria. There are at the present time 39 such institutions in 31 different states, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, each having more than one sanatorium. Delaware is the only state which has made provision for a state sanatorium for tuberculous negroes. In addition to the amounts appropriated by the various state governments, congress will be obliged to set aside nearly $1,000,000 for the maintenance of the United States public health, the army and the navy sanatoria, and the tuberculosis hospital of the District of Columbia.

Not for Long.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN

Jackson.—Brick bats, clubs and stones filled the air when firemen of the Commonwealth Power company and striking firemen clashed in two short battles here. The police were called out twice within 15 minutes, but no arrests were made, the men fleeing upon the approach of the officers. The first trouble occurred shortly before five o'clock, when the employees of the company were returning to headquarters after work. They were standing near the Mechanic street crossing of the Michigan Central, when, it is asserted, 15 or 20 of the discharged firemen attacked them. Brick bats and stones played an important part in the melee. The two factions split upon the arrival of the police patrol.

Ionia.—Ionia county farmers are not losing sight of the proposed co-operative elevator industry in spite of publication in Detroit some time ago of stories tending to discredit the scheme. Portland farmers last week voted to push the co-operative elevator there and have raised $1,000 of the $3,000 needed to build the plant. The full amount will be raised this week and then definite plans will be outlined.

Ionia.—The widow of the late Bingley R. Fales is planning to leave America soon for Switzerland, where she will take her children for a two-year course in the Geneva schools. Pontiac.—What formerly was part of the Flanders works here and was known as the Vulcan Gear works, will make parts for the Studebaker corporation, was the announcement of the general manager, Clarence H. Booth, Wednesday. The plant will hereafter be known as No. 15.

Ann Arbor.—Franklin, three-year-old son of Prof. and F. J. Mellenkamp, had a narrow escape from death when he became fastened in a wire cable which was being wound on a spool by telephone linemen. The child was carried around the big spool several times before his brother could attract the attention of the workmen who released him. His head was bumped on the ground several times and severely bruised and cut.

Sebewaing.—During a trap-shooting contest at a farmers' picnic at Unionville Wednesday, Victor Spring, fourteen years old, was shot in the back when a shotgun in the hands of one of the contestants was accidentally discharged. Two shots passed through a crack in the blind and entered the body of the boy, who was trapping. He was taken to a doctor's office and the shot removed. He is out of danger. He is a son of Herman Spring, druggist of Unionville.

Monroe.—Ellwood Knox, twenty-one years old, a negro of Frenchtown, was married to Louise Edger, nineteen years old, an Indian, of Dundee township, both of Monroe county. Knox is a farm worker and Miss Edger was born in Alaska, but was brought to the United States in her childhood and has been a domestic on a farm from the time she was able to work. She at one time lived at Ypsilanti.

Ludington.—The result of the analysis of the contents of the stomach of Fred Fortier, who died July 23 under what his sons deemed mysterious circumstances, was returned to Coroner Huston. No trace of poison was found in the stomach. The coroner's jury reassembled and assigned acute gastritis as the cause of death.

Pontiac.—Pontiac bank deposits in July show an increase of $250,000 over July last year.

Cadillac.—Sheriff Chamberlain of Westford county found Bessie Clark Weaver in Jenison, Ottawa county, only to learn it is not she, but Sarah Belle Miller, who is heiress to an estate of $300,000 in New York. Bessie Clark Weaver was adopted in 1893 by Mr. and Mrs. Weaver of Manton. Sarah Belle Miller was taken from a New York orphan's home by the same family ten years earlier. Sheriff Chamberlain was placed on the wrong track by residents of Manton, who insisted that Bessie Clark Weaver was the only child Frank Weaver had adopted.

The Tender Skin of Children
Is very sensitive to heat. Use Tyree's Antiseptic Powder for all summer skin affections. It quickly affords the little sufferer relief. 25c. at druggists or sample sent free by J. S. Tyree, Chemist, Washington, D. C.—Adv.

Want Changeable Dresses!
At the recent International Congress of Applied Chemistry in London one of the most celebrated lecturers, Giacomo Ciamician, predicted that women of the future will not be contented with a dress which remains constantly of one color, but will demand colors that change in harmony with their surroundings.

Thus the color of the apparel may be changed without changing the dress. Passing from darkness to light the color would brighten, thus conforming automatically to the environment—the last word in fashion for the future.

This prediction will come true as soon as chemists learn to understand better what are called "phototropic colors," or colors that change with the intensity of the light upon them. In men's wear this might mean that the light-colored suit of the bright summer day would be transformed into a dark suit at night.

No thoughtful person uses liquid blue. It's a pinch of blue in a large bottle of water. Ask for Red Cross Ball Blue, the blue that's all blue. Adv.

Queer Struggle.
"There is one extremely odd thing which happens often in summer."
"What is it?"
"That there should be such a hot time over the price of ice."

Up Against It.
"That woodpecker may be persistent, but I think he's beaten this time."
"What's he trying to do?"
"Drill a hole into an iron trolley pole."

Practical Virtues.
"How did that ne'er-do-well manage to live?"
"In hope that if he inspired enough faith he might live on charity."

Strange to Say.
"Here is a unique novel by a British author."
"What makes it unique?"
"An American girl is introduced in the story and she speaks very fair English."

Getting Close to Nature.
"This is an interesting moving picture of frog culture."
"Yes, and if it were a talking moving picture, we might even hear the frog's croak."

Not Disorderly.
"So you have been to the art exhibit?"
"Yes, and I found several Whistlers there."
"You don't say! Why don't a guard put them out?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Friendly Tip.
Ragman—Any old bottles today, mum?
Woman—No; but you might try Mr. Soakem's, next door; his wife's coming back from the seashore tomorrow.

More than 30,000 school children in Los Angeles are studying gardening.

First American Cigar Factory.
The first American cigar factory was established in Connecticut in 1810. By 1825 there were numerous small cigar factories in Connecticut, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Maryland and Virginia. The first tax levied on domestic cigars and other tobacco products was laid under the internal revenue law of 1862, which was a war revenue measure.

Directs Expenditures.
"Who's that impressive-looking woman over yonder?"

"That's Mrs. Packum. She's a remarkably strong-minded woman, and they do say that she commands a very large salary."

"How does she earn it?"
"She doesn't earn it. Her husband earns it, and she commands it."

Mosquitoes seem to be troubled with chronic insomnia.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 80 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeiters and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines. It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeiters, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Young Man Took Warning.
"Charles," said a sharp voiced woman to her husband in a railway car, "do you know that you and I once had a romance in a railway car?"
"Never heard of it," replied Charles, in a subdued tone.

"I thought you hadn't, but don't you remember it was that pair of slippers I presented to you the Christmas before we were married that led to our union? You remember how nicely they fitted, don't you? Well, Charles, one day when we were going to a picnic you had your feet up on a seat, and when you weren't looking I took your measure. But for that pair of slippers I don't believe we'd ever been married."

A young unmarried man, sitting by, immediately took down his feet from a seat.

Small Souls.
Upton Sinclair was talking about certain millionaire malefactors whose crimes always went unpunished.
"It's hard to understand," said Mr. Sinclair, "how these men escape retribution unless it be, indeed, that they're too small for the meshes of the net."

How He Would Have Them.
How will you have your eggs cooked?" asked the waiter.
"Make any difference in the cost of 'em?" inquired the cautious customer with the brimless hat and the ragged beard.
"No."
"Then cook them on the top of a slice of ham," said the customer, greatly relieved.

Hadn't His Advantage.
A trio of professional story-tellers were in a cozy corner of the club, spinning yarns. Brown had just told a most unbelievable story, and the other two glanced at each other questioningly. "Well, I assure you, gentlemen," said Brown, "if I hadn't seen it myself I shouldn't have believed it." "Ha—h—m—well," said one of the two doubtful ones, "you must remember old man, that we didn't see it."

Important Measures Made Law.
Among the notable advances in the legislative enactments of this year, are the tuberculosis registration law of Colorado; laws providing for subsidies to local hospitals in Minnesota and Wisconsin, an act providing for the establishment of county hospitals in Indiana, and the establishment of state bureaus for the prevention of tuberculosis in Ohio and California.

Handsome Is as Handsome Does.
Sanford—So you don't believe in judging a man by his clothes?
Crabshaw—No, indeed! That's the way we judge a woman, and look how we get fooled!—Judge.

Availability in Prospect.
"I fear I am not worthy of you."
"Never mind about that. Between mother and myself I imagine we can effect the necessary improvements."—Chicago News.

They Probably Will.
"Women's skirts are to be tighter than ever the coming season."
"I don't care, let 'em rip."

Post Toasties

Are mighty handy to have in the house as well as mighty good to eat direct from the package with cream.

Besides being the most delicious ready cooked cereal food made of corn these crisp, crinkly flakes serve many another useful purpose in home cooking.

Rolled into crumbs and used as an outer dressing for breaded veal, lamb, chicken, pork or ham; they give a zest to the 'fry' that makes the home folks ask for more.

Softened with milk and used with usual spicing and fixing as an inside dressing for baked fish or fowl they impart a delicate flavor to the finished dish, reminding of the chestnut fillings that cast a halo around the days of old-time cooking.

Post Toasties are sold by Grocers everywhere—and everywhere folks who relish good things to eat, appreciate the delicate Indian Corn flavor that makes
