COUNTY VOTE CANVASS DISCLOSES NO UPSETS

FEW ERRORS FOUND IN UNOFFICIAL TABULATION.

Margin Of Sheriff-elect Allan A. Mac-Donald Reduced To 696 By Statement Of Canvass.

No great changes from the unofficial newspaper tabulation of votes cast November 6 were disclosed by the official canvass completed by the Ingham board of canvassers this week. The returns from the 63 Ingham precincts were checked by Judge Louis B. McArthur, County Treasurer Clarence W. Lock and County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard. The three officials constitute the board of county canvassers.

All of the errors in the newspaper tabulation were found to make little difference in the results. Errors in one precinct were offset by errors in another. In the unofficial returns published in the Ingham County News last week sheriff-elect Allan A. Mac-Donald was given a majority of 720 to 696. The canvass lowered the margin to 696, a loss of 24.

Most of the republican majorities were increased when the votes were canvassed. The Ingham majority of Frank Fitzgerald, republican winner for governor, was 5126 instead of 4997 as reported last week. Senator Vandenberg's Ingham margin was increased to 4590 from 4425 in the unofficial count.

The official canvass showed Charles F. Haight of Lansing winner over Mrs. Elizabeth Belen for a seat in the state legislature by a margin of 3357 votes. Mr. Haight received 12,028 votes to 8675 for Mrs. Belen. In the second district V. J. Brown's majority was decreased nine votes, from 2387 to 2378. The winner received 7225 votes to 4847 cast for Earl E. Young of East Lansing.

With the exception of sheriff the republican county candidates added to their majorities by the canvass. The

CADY GIVEN SUPPORT

Rep. Claude Cady was given home support in his race for congress. Where Arthur J. Lacy, democratic candidate for governor, received 14,325 Ingham county votes, Congressman Cady left Ingham with 15,356, an advantage of more than 1000. Frank A. Picard, democratic candidate for United States senator, received 14,228 Ingham votes. Thomas H. Hanna, democratic candidate for sheriff, led the field with 16,228. Livingston county's republican majority turned the tide against the congressman.

Majority of Dan D. McCullough, prosecuting attorney, was 6162. The majority of Mrs. Ethel L. Phillips, register of deeds, was 5784, an increase from the 5719 reported last week. In the newspaper tabulation last week an error crept into Mrs. Phillips' majority. In the first 200 papers from the presses of the Ingham County News her majority was reported as 3719. The error was then discovered and correction made in the balance of the edition.

The statement of the canvassers showed an increased majority for C. Ross Hilliard, county clerk. His official lead over John B. Fay was 4811 instead of 4799 as shown in the unofficial tabulation. County Treasurer Lock had the biggest lead of the republicans. His official majority was 6361 over Robert B. Southworth.

Minor Parties Ignored

Minor parties were ignored in the election of November 6. The socialist candidate for governor received but 299 votes while in 1932 the socialists polled 963 votes. Two years ago 1131 votes were cast by minor parties while this year but 307 votes were lost to the major parties.

According to the canvass of votes Ingham county has 34 Communists, 32 followers of the dry Commonwealth party, 28 Socialist-Labor voters, eight Farmer-Laborers, four members of the National party and but one member each of the People's Progressive and American parties. Because of the entry of the People's Progressive and the National party the voting machines used in Lansing had to be rebuilt. The American and People's Progressive were combined on one party row. Just two votes were cast. The estimated cost of changing the machines to care for the two votes probably makes those two votes the most expensive ever cast in the county.

The complete statement of the board of canvassers appears on page 10.

Garbage Again Cause Of Cholera Outbreak

STATE INSPECTOR FINDS CHOLERA ON THIRD FARM

Another herd of hogs is infected with cholera due to the feeding of Mason garbage. Following the killing of 29 hogs on the Mrs. Floyd Chatterton farm in Alaledon and the death of 12 hogs on the Floyd Taylor farm adjoining, Orville Haines of Alaledon contracted with Dell Dorman of Mason for garbage. Mr. Haines did not inoculate his hogs against cholera. Last week an inspector of the state department of agriculture visited the Haines farm to enforce inoculation. He inspected the herd and found one sow sick. He diagnosed the case as acute cholera and the animal was destroyed. The inspector established a quarantine. He reports two other hogs in the same herd as being infected.

According to Dr. L. A. Willede, county veterinarian, hog cholera is spread when pork scraps thrown into the garbage are eaten by hogs not inoculated against cholera. He points out that the state law provides for mandatory inoculation if garbage originating from any source other than the premises is fed to hogs.

ANOTHER PENSION AWARD
Mrs. Hattie Bennett, 83, of Leslie, has been granted an old age pension of $10 per month, according to information received Thursday morning from the office of Claude Post, county welfare agent.

Hunter Gets Skunks Abandoned By Judge

Judge William S. Seelye abandoned his pets when he changed his residence from West Ash street to West Maple street. Beneath his Ash street barn he left a colony of skunks. While the Seelye family resided in the Ash street home the skunks were contented and did not air their troubles. But after the judge left the atmosphere became a bit thick.

Last Saturday the neighbors decided to engage Martin Hawkins to probe the skunk situation. The intrepid hunter and trapper began to dig immediately. He finally bagged seven skunks. The neighborhood was slightly odoriferous. Just as Mr. Hawkins was stuffing skunk No. 7 into a bag Judge Seelye, attending a Farmers club meeting at the next-door residence of O. J. Hood, appeared and demanded a share of the receipts. He was tendered a skunk pelt but refused to accept it.

WELFARE COMMISSION BEGINS PRUNING TASK

SHORTEST IN RELIEF FUNDS DEMANDING ECONOMY.

Retail Merchants Promise To Stop Substitution Of Food On Welfare Requirements.

Faced with a shortage of relief funds and an increase in the numbers of those on relief rolls, the Ingham county emergency relief commission has adopted new policies. Miss Ruth Bowen, administrator, has notified all dependents of the commission that beginning November 12 the amounts of grocery orders are being reduced. However, she stated, no hardship will result as additional stores of federal foods are to be issued to make up for the shrinkage in the amounts of the orders.

Issuance of clothing, except where necessary to keep children in school, is to be halted. The purchase of bedding and mattresses has also been ordered stopped by the commission unless there is sickness in the family. A maximum of one ton of fuel per month per family is another feature of the economy plan.

Approximately 100 men were removed from work relief rolls Monday. Those remaining on work relief will be allotted shorter work weeks.

According to Miss Bowen there were 6500 families on county relief rolls November 12 with between 50 and 90 new applications being received daily.

Reform Agreement

More than 350 Ingham merchants have signed an agreement with the commission pledging themselves to discontinue padding and trading relief orders. According to relief officials the practice of substituting fancy groceries for staples and substituting high-priced cuts of meat for cheap cuts on relief requisitions has become widespread in the county. All substitutions are prohibited under the agreement and the merchants have declared they will report all violations of the rule by other dealers.

The practice of substituting on relief orders became prevalent when some merchants sought to entice welfare trade away from competitors by allowing customers to order anything desired rather than accept the selection allowed on the official commission order.

Extravagant expenditures occasioned by substitution allowed by merchants, Miss Bowen declares, "means in many cases that the family in question will not have sufficient wholesome food to last them from order to order."

Local Option Battle Planned For Ingham

PLANS BEING MADE TO DECIDE ISSUE IN SPRING.

Local option will be an issue in Ingham county next spring if the ministers meeting in the Women's club house in Lansing Friday night so decide. It is reported that at the meeting Friday blank petitions will be distributed for the signatures of church flocks. If 6588 signatures of qualified electors are obtained the local option issue will be decided at the coming April election.

Local option lost by a narrow margin in Barry county at the November 6 election. Before the state prohibition amendment in 1916 local option was a warm issue in Ingham county. On three occasions local option was adopted and on one occasion the county jumped back into the wet ranks.

Auxiliary Sponsoring Red Cross Roll Call

CITY TO BE CANVASSED THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY.

Mason residents will be given the opportunity to join the Red Cross Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The annual Red Cross roll call this year is being handled by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Browne-Cavender post of the American Legion. Members of the organization will canvass the city. The Auxiliary is sponsoring the drive as a community project and receives no remuneration for its service.

Funds secured through the drive go to carry on the work of disaster relief throughout the United States. The American Red Cross also aids in serving former soldiers and sailors in presenting compensation claims.

WINS GOLD MEDAL

Lorene Eleanor Asetine, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Asetine, won honorable mention in the Sears national baby contest at the Chicago fair. There were more than 100,000 babies entered. A gold medal was awarded the local entrant.

REPORT EVEN DIVISION IN STATE LEGISLATURE

LOWER HOUSE STANDS 50-50 BETWEEN PARTIES.

One Republican Seriously Ill, One Democrat Seated In Danger By State Constitution.

Reports from Lansing show an even division between republicans and democrats in the lower house. The house has 100 members. There are 50 republicans and 50 democrats. A deadlock may result on election of a speaker January 1 unless sickness, court action or recounts occur. The republican legislator from Grand Traverse county is in a hospital in a grave condition. If he is absent January 1 the democrats, if they have 50 members present, will have power to organize the house.

A democrat from Ontonagon county was barred by the constitution from having his votes counted. He is a county treasurer and a constitutional provision in effect since 1850 declares no person holding any office under the United States or this state, or any county office, except notaries public, officers of the militia and officers elected by townships, shall be eligible to or have a seat in either house of the legislature; and all votes given for any such person shall be void.

Despite the clearness of the constitutional provision there are other circumstances which may enable the law to be circumvented. Legal authorities point out that a legislature possesses the power to decide its own membership. A member holding a contested seat also has the right to a vote on whether or not he shall be seated. If all 100 members are present when the issue is decided there are liable to be 50 votes each way.

Patronage at Stake

Unless a compromise can be effected the party gaining control of the house will name the clerk and all house employees and the chairman will appoint all committees. Myles Gray, former register of deeds in Ingham county, is now clerk of the house. He was retained two years ago because of his experience. If the democrats get control this year there is doubt that Mr. Gray will be able to keep his position.

Fred I. Chase, former deputy secretary of the senate when the democrats gained control two years ago. He was succeeded by Don Canfield. It is reported that Chase stands a good chance of returning to the secretary's desk and that Secretary Canfield will be out. Reports are also current that Mr. Canfield may replace Mr. Gray if the democrats can gain control of the house.

The Republicans Are Through

James A. Farley, partisan spokesman for the Roosevelt administration is quoted in newspapers of last week as saying that the "republican party is through."

Upon what basis can such a statement be seriously made? Must a party win elections to preserve the principles for which it stands? Must its candidates hold public offices in order to maintain a party organization? Are parties mere instruments upon which ambitious office seekers ride to power and created only for that purpose alone?

And why should Mr. Farley reach such a conclusion if this may be said to be in any sense a conclusion?

Just 10 years ago the democratic party presented a ticket which was plainly constructed to win national favor. Davis, representing big interests of the east, was teamed with Bryan, brother to the commoner, in a plain attempt to win the middle west. Coolidge and Dawes won every state in the nation except the solid south and Oklahoma and Wisconsin, the last mentioned going to LaFollette, a favorite son. Democracy lost again in a sweeping victory for the republicans in 1928, even some of the southern states deserting the party ramparts that year.

Did democracy die? It did not. Parties do not die in defeat. They wane and rot under victory.

If the principles of the republican party are right principles then the mere fact that congressmen are elected by the opposite party and governors and presidents when presidents are running mean nothing. "Truth crushed to earth will rise again". Principles of government and policies of administration need not victory at the polls to live. If these principles and policies are sound and party leaders are honest and unselfish in their support then no defeat nor series of defeats for their candidates will serve to crush the party.

Certainly one need not point out this fact to the democrats for after nearly 75 years of repeated defeats, with only short intermissions of authority and responsibility, democracy lived and when the republican party, saturated with victory and glutted with spoils, failed in its trust to the nation, democracy rose to smite its long successful rival.

The democratic party stands in greater danger of disintegration today than it has in the past. Under the leadership of such as James A. Farley with his Tammanyizing policies, democracy already shows signs of the very intolerance which led to the defeat of the republicans. It may even be said that in Michigan the greatest factor which led to republican victory this year was the democratic victory of two years ago. Michigan's democracy forgot its commission. Instead of serving the people it sought by every means to make the people serve it. An intelligent and long suffering electorate smote those who were guilty and at the same time rewarded those who had placed public service above party fealty.

Mr. Farley has a perverted sense of public service. His party under his leadership will not exist for long. Arrogance and selfish greed cannot endure under American ideals.

No the republicans are not through—unless they too are so selfish in their political outlook that they exist merely for self and power. If that is true then some other party label will be applied to the sincere, honest men and women who heretofore have allied themselves under the republican banner.

School Aid

The incoming administration has one problem on its hands which overshadows in importance all others. That question is the support of the public school, and by support of the school is meant an adequate support sufficient for essential needs of the school, with property tax at a level not only below the constitutional limits but also within the ability of the people of the respective districts to pay.

From what has appeared in various newspapers of the state there is a growing disposition in some cities to view the entire school problem as one which the state must assume. Several cities have adopted the fifteen mill limit of taxation, evidently with no thought of reducing the local tax for purposes other than the schools. In other words there appears a tendency in certain places to limit the taxing powers without reducing the expense of local government. Plainly it is being assumed that the schools will be supported from some other source to be tapped by the state at large.

The school authorities are somewhat responsible for this. They have argued that economies by the state, new taxes on intangibles, and other new taxes can easily be provided. The proposed tax on intangibles is a catch phrase because it is intangible in itself. It looks like a tax for someone else to pay and that is always popular. In truth a tax on intangibles is unlikely until the uniform rate clause of the state constitution is removed.

Many schools in Michigan will face a hard winter. School authorities believed their situation critical last year. It is doubtful if in many cases they will escape even in 1935.

With both parties having promised to modify the sales tax, and both parties pledged to the old age pension without the head tax, with the demand for state welfare and unemployment aid in no sense reduced, with the certainty that certain increased facilities must be provided at some of the state institutions, and with the certainty that rising prices of food commodities must be reflected in increased state institution budget items—with all these certainties in plain view and a demand for less taxes so dominant, the task of providing adequate and dependable aid for the public school becomes difficult indeed.

Some of these cities which have adopted the fifteen mill limit in the fond hope that the state will provide for their needs may awake to the fact that both schools and city government will suffer greatly.

Make it Complete

Senator Borah's demand for a complete investigation into the abuses which have followed the various efforts of the federal government to relieve the distress of unemployment appears about to be met. It is hoped that the investigation will take on a broad application and that it reaches out, not entirely in search of individuals

What Other Editors Have to Say

Wormwood and Gall
Scarth Inglis, editor of the Galesburg Argus and also a democratic appointee of Dr. Paul Voecker, state superintendent of public instruction, tasted wormwood and gall on the morning following election. Mr. Inglis shudders over the election results. He is all for having President Roosevelt kick Michigan out of the union. Of course, by this time Mr. Inglis has probably gained control of himself and may be just a bit ashamed of the rush of words and phrases he printed last week. The following paragraphs were written by Mr. Inglis, editor and educator:

What an ungrateful people we are. If our own little selfish purpose is not served we band together to defeat the one working for the good of all. Yes! the election hurts me most that people can be so ungrateful for the blessings of the past two years. Every newspaper, bank, merchant are in business today because of Federal funds circulating in Michigan and Galesburg—CWA, roads, school funds; yet who shows appreciation of this help that has been given by their vote?

As our president says many are coming out of hiding in their storm cellar retreating to admit that there has been a storm. Politically speaking we are a smug, selfish ungrateful lot.

If the depression played politics with federal money and rolled it reminds me of the story of the women who complained to the Civil War president that "Grant used liquor" to which exageration the immortal Lincoln retorted that he should send the same brand to his other generals.

One interesting fact about the election in Michigan: it was Old Deal against New Deal. Not clear cut because political tradition was with Old Deal. Also our junior senator was elected and straddled. All his other old school friends that came out on a clear-cut honest platform—even in Pennsylvania—went down to defeat.

Still the New Deal was an issue.

Roosevelt should say to Michigan—

Try Your Old Deal—try in your own fat.

We will call off all Federal relief, all help to banks, all aid to industry, all road subsidies. The Michigan Press has objected to the help of the poor and unemployed. To be fair

the Federal government will help no group. As Will Rogers says—Be as Rugged as you can—just downright downright rugged.

Let Michigan be the experiment to show that she can prosper greater under the Old Deal than the rest of the Union can under the New Deal. An experiment worth watching—a good laboratory test.

Maybe the partisan Michigan Press which voted against him in 1932—if somebody might some day pay tax —because the government fed the poor—instead of only giving subsidies to business and banks as in the past—would have something to roar about.

To think that Michigan is the only state which betrayed Roosevelt and the New Deal. Even Pennsylvania which voted against him in 1932—yesterday gave him a vote of confidence by defeating Reed for senator, as did

Ohio with Fess; Indiana with Robinson, Michigan was for The Square

Deal. Michigan has always supported liberal policies. The vote being close the glory—if such—must go to the 99 and 100 per cent Partisan Press.

There are too many democrats who love the Joy of Power; there are an equal number of republicans who lust for power. Leaving these parasites, barnacles, blood suckers out of consideration, also all personalities, the national election of Michigan seems to be a mandate of the people to return to old masters—to put the Old Deal for the New Deal—to return to the philosophy of exploitation of labor,

return of child labor,

robbing the investor,

an eye for an eye,

let the buyer beware,

honor to the millionaire,

success measured only by wealth,

possibly also by creature comforts,

the right of the few to be rich at the expense of the many.

benefits of government for the few,

government returned to Special Interests.

O. K. Rich Quick Schemes

include Mr. Insul and his ilk ruthless plunder of the populace, private exploitation of public resources.

financial statements that conceal rather than reveal.

Just what else has the Old Rugged

Individualism—the Old Deal—stood for! And yet for this the majority of Michigan voted!

But let us hope it was tradition for which a people voted rather than issues. Will God pity a people traditionally bound?

The Fellow Who Hates Work

It is difficult to decide whether to hate the fellow who hates work.

Some people are born that way.

Most of us are somewhat lazy.

But most of us have a semblance of pride which keeps us busy. We hate work, but we hate privation worse.

We hate work but we fear the scorn of our neighbors more. There are a few who work hard because they like it—they actually love their jobs. Then, too, there are others who get the habit of work and can't break it—even when they get to an age when they should and can afford it. The most pitiful or despicable, person is the one who is proud but is lazier than he is proud.

He struts about from one loafing place to another, trying to make big talk, and hoping always for some windfall that will make him secure for life. He thinks that positions of responsibility are soft snaps but has never merited

a chance to find out he is wrong.

There are times when all of us tire of our work. We quit it temporarily only to find that in work we find our greatest happiness.—Clinton County Re-

THIS BANK IS OPERATED TO SERVE THIS COMMUNITY

A bank has but one reason for existence and that is the service it renders a community. The officers and employees of this bank believe in upbuilding this community, in providing farmers and business men with capital in offering depositors a safe place for their funds and in furnishing the channels through which business may flow without interruption.

Through good times and bad this banking institution has been firmly established in this community. Its officers and directors have had the best interests of the community uppermost in their minds since the day, years ago, when the bank was first opened.

Church Notes

"God is Good to the Earth" is to be the sermon subject at the morning services for worship at the Aurelius Center, Onondaga Community and Leslie Baptist churches on the coming Sunday. The minister, Edward J. Cross, will speak. The Scriptural basis for the sermon will be Psalm 65. The service at Aurelius is at 9:30; that at Onondaga at 10:30, and at Leslie at 11:30. The church schools at Aurelius and Onondaga follow the services for worship while that at Leslie precedes it by one hour.

The Aurelius-Eden young people will meet at Eden at eight o'clock with George Green as the leader. The Leslie young folk will have their meeting at five-thirty.

The Old Meetin' House Quartet of radio station WIBM, Jackson, will make their third annual appearance at the Leslie church at 7:30 with a full program of old time hymns and gospel songs. Jimmy will be with them.

Eldoris Byrum Dead

Funeral services for Eldoris Byrum, 79, who died at his home four and one-half miles northwest of the village Sunday morning following an illness of two weeks, will be held Tuesday at one o'clock from the residence with J. E. Stillman in charge. The services will be performed by the Rev. Edward J. Cross. Burial will be in the Lane cemetery in Onondaga township. Mr. Byrum was the son of George and Emma Byrum and was born and spent his entire life on the farm on which he died. His nearest surviving relative is a brother, Floyd, a resident of Onondaga township.

Orchestra Organized

Under the direction of William Mitchell, the following orchestra of the Congregational church has been organized and will make its first public appearance Thursday on a program at the annual Congregational church fair Thursday evening in the G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Florence Jewell will be pianist, and the director, Mr. Mitchell, Miss Betty Lou Black and Marvin Edwards, cornetists. Mrs. Blanche Ingalls will play the saxophone, the Misses Alice German and Ethel May Vince, violins, and Lester Phillips and Harold Schenck, clarinets.

Radio Quartet to Sing

The Old Meetin' House Quartet, of radio station WIBM, Jackson, will appear at the Leslie Baptist church Sunday evening at seven-thirty. They will give a program of old hymns and gospel songs.

Morning worship and Junior Church will be held next Sunday at 10:30. The choir will furnish special music, the pastor will tell a story to the Juniors, and preach a sermon on the subject, "Jesus Satisfies." The Sunday school will meet at 11:45 with special music by the orchestra. Sunday evening at 7:45, Tull's drama, "The Forgotten Man," will be presented by the young players club of the Mason Presbyterian church. This play was so well received in Mason that the club was asked to repeat it. The Pioneer Christian Endeavor society will meet as usual at six o'clock. The Senior Christian Endeavor group is sponsoring the play and will conduct a worship service in connection with it.

A goodly number of men and boys attended the father and son banquet in Holt Presbyterian church last Friday evening. They were greatly pleased with the address on "An Oriental Father and His Son," given by Rev. John Adams of Mason Presbyterian church.

Rufus Richardson left by bus for Tampa, Florida, on Thursday. He expects to spend the winter with a nephew.

Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Wells, who were recently married, and left Wednesday, October 31, for El Paso, Texas, sent cards from a point in Arkansas, saying they had traveled 1050 miles up to November 8. They were living in their new house trailer.

Jack Chamberlain and Floyd Chamberlain left on Wednesday morning for a few days hunting in the north.

The Past Noble Grand club and all Past Noble Grands in Ingham County are invited to attend a get-together dinner and meeting with the Past Noble Grand club at Mason Lodge No. 324, on Friday, November 16. Seven state assembly officers are expected. Bohemian luncheons will be served at 12:30 and each one is asked to bring a table service.

Harry and Elton Barnard, who are attending college at Mt. Pleasant, spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Barnard.

Dave Barnard, with the help of Mrs. Barnard, entertained at an oyster supper on Monday evening to pay an election bet. Three tables were served followed by "500" and euchre.

The regular morning worship service at the First M. E. church will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday, November 19, with sermon by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Runkel, followed by Sunday school at 11:10 with Arthur Womble, the Supt. Epworth League is at 7 p. m. and the topic is "What Shall We Do on Sunday?" Miss Garnet Soncville assisted by a group of young people will conduct the service at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday is the regular mid-week prayer service and Thursday at 7:45 p. m. is the school rehearsal at the home of Mrs. Leon Clyde. Friday evening the Go-Workers class will spend a devotional and social time together.

Mrs. Mac Clever attended the funeral of Mrs. Elta Blair in Charlotte on Monday. Mrs. Blair was the aunt of the late Ernest Clever.

Miss Irene Smith, a teacher in Holt schools, spent the week end at her home in Elmira, and Miss Elizabeth Chandler another teacher spent the week end in Detroit.

The Woman's club held a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hugh Wallace, North Cedar Street. The subject of the day was the Indian with Mrs. Mac Clever, leader, who asked for discussion on each paper. Besides the three papers by Mrs. James Jennings, Mrs. Bruce Spencer and Mrs. Leigh Roth, Miss Katherine Hubbard sang accompanied by Mrs. Leigh Roth, who also gave a piano solo. Mrs. C. E. GRAND LEDGE DEFEATS MASON IN GRID TILT

MAROONS LOSE AFTER LEADING AT HALF.

Fumbles Pave Way for Mason Touchdown And One Grand Ledge Touchdown.

Grand Ledge high school's football team made it unanimous Monday by trouncing the Mason high school Maroons 14 to 7 in an Armistice Day tilt at Athletic field. The Maroons had a lead of 7 to 0 at the half and preferred an armistice the second half. But Grand Ledge refused to sign and tied the Maroons in the third quarter and shot ahead in the fourth.

Had it not been for a referee who was too quick on the whistle the game might have resulted in a tie. With 30 seconds remaining in the game Paul Youngs, Mason end, camped out, Opdyke hauled a pass to the Mason end and the fleet flanker snared the ball and went 40 yards down the sideline and across the goal. But the referee blew his whistle when Youngs

VISITOR IS HURT

Tony Scottie, Grand Ledge tackle, was seriously injured in the second period of the annual football game Monday. Scottie attempted to tackle Fuller. His head came in contact with Fuller's right knee and the Grand Ledge youth suffered a broken bone in his face. He was taken to the Mason hospital where Dr. Joseph C. Ponton performed an operation to restore the cartilage to its original position. On Tuesday morning Coach Dawson of the Maroons visited the lad. He was still in pain but was able to leave the hospital for his home later in the day.

Hastings—Barry county swung back into the republican column. One democrat who was without opposition was elected and another office is still in doubt.

Bangor—Van Buren county went straight republican.

Howell—Every republican on the county ticket was elected by sizeable majorities.

Fremont—Newaygo county swung back to republican ranks and the democrats lost the office of county clerk. Theodore I. Fry, democratic winner for state treasurer, was given a majority of 260 by his home county.

Lapeer—Every republican on the ticket was elected in Lapeer county. Louis C. Crampton, former congressman, was elected circuit judge two to one. The judicial district is made up of Lapeer and Tuscola counties. He defeated John Loughman, appointed a year ago by Gov. Comstock to fill a vacancy caused by death.

West Branch—Democrats elected a halfback on the 10-yard stripe. Fuller crashed the line three times before the goal was crossed. King booted the extra point. The second quarter saw neither team close to their adversary's goal.

Grand Ledge came onto the field after the half with a new lease on life. The opening kickoff was returned to the Mason 48. Johnson lugged a pass to the Mason 22-yard stripe. Shoemaker found a hole for 10 yards. Kingsley and Shoemaker made a first down on the Mason two-foot line in three attempts and then Kingsley crashed over for a touchdown. A pass yielded the extra point to tie the score.

Mason threatened twice in the balance of the period. Fuller and Opdyke both broke loose for runs of 15 yards and Opdyke snared a Grand Ledge pass on the 45-yard line as the quarter ended. Mason worked the ball to the Grand Ledge 28-yard line at the opening of the final period and then with two yards to go attempted a pass. The pass was incomplete and the ball went over. Grand Ledge punted short. On the next play Opdyke fumbled and Grand Ledge recovered. Kingsley caught a pass good for 20 yards. At that point Mason held for down and the ball went over on the Mason 25-yard stripe. On the first play Opdyke missed a wide pass and Grand Ledge recovered in pay dirt. On the first play Kingsley cracked the line to jaunt to the five-yard marker. Then on two crashes he crossed the line. A line plunge added another point.

Only two minutes were left of the final quarter but Mason went down fighting. After the kickoff and an exchange of punts Mason had the ball at mid-field. Younger came out close to the south sideline. Opdyke loosed a pass. Youngs made the catch and started places. He crashed through four tacklers and at the 10-yard stripe whirled and side-stepped to evade two more. The referee, chose that moment to blow his whistle despite the fact that Young, to all appearances, was not halted. He continued on across the goal but the ball was called back. The game ended with Mason on the 10-yard line.

This ended a season of disappointment. Mason won from Lansing Eastern reserves and tied Central reserves. All conference games ended in defeat. Grand Ledge and Mason were fighting to get out of last place. Previous to the Mason encounter Grand Ledge had no victories. Her triumph Monday left Mason in undisputed possession of the cellar.

Coach Dawson of the Maroons visions a better season next year. He started with a green team and was forced to build a new offense. Fuller, Snow, Grinn, Yerks, Sibsy, Opdyke, Haskell and Slusher are among the lads who have come to the front this year.

Fuller, Haskell and Slusher played good games in the backfield Monday. Slusher did some neat blocking. Fuller was good for gains every time he was handed the ball. Kingsley and Shoemaker were the ground gainers for Grand Ledge. The game was played in the teeth of a bitter gale which partly excused the fumbling.

The starting line-ups of the two teams is given below:

Mason	Grand Ledge
Medoff	LE. Baird
C. Bulen	LT. Taylor
King	LG. Stevens
Snow	C. Brigham
Sibsy	RG. Johnson
Yerks	FB. Scottie
Opdyke	RE. Frederick
L. Bulen	LI. Gates
Fuller	RB. Barnes
	Shoemaker

Mason substitutions: Grinn for C. Bulen, Smith for Snow, Haskell for L. Bulen.

FILM NEWS
MASON THEATRE

With all its color, action, blare and bزاony the circus is coming to town Friday and Saturday when Joe E. Brown comes to the Mason Theatre in "The Circus Clown." The screen's leading comedian has really lived the life he depicts in this drama, for Joe was a circus acrobat when he was a mere boy. The story gives full sway to all his varied talents as impersonator, acrobat and comedian, for besides being a screamingly funny comedy, replete with romance, laughs and action, at times the fun is tinged with pathos. Patricia Ellis is the girl on the flying trapeze who finally wins Joe's heart, after a number of tangled, funny, and dramatic episodes. A big cast is in support, including the entire Al G. Barnes circus. The program includes a comedy and serial.

"Dames," Warner Bros' latest mammoth musical comedy romance, with spectacular ensembles by Busby Berkeley, and an all star cast headed by Joan Blondell, Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler, is coming Sunday and Monday. The story is a hilarious comedy tinged with glamorous romance, and nobody could ask for better than that. Hugh Herbert, Guy Kibbee, Zasu Pitts and other popular players have prominent roles. Catchy music and lyrics top off one of the season's finest entertainment offerings. The Universal News and a cartoon comedy are also on the bill.

First of the two feature offerings for next Tuesday and Wednesday is "Sing and Like It," a pleasing light comedy featuring Zasu Pitts, supported by Bert Kelton, Ned Sparks, Nat Pendleton, Edward Everett Horton, and other popular comedy players. It starts off at a snappy pace, and the action and excitement get faster and funnier as it progresses to the climax of hysterics.

Also on the mid week bill is "The Black Cat," with Karloff and Bela Lugosi supplying weird, shivery mystery, Davis Manners and Jacqueline Wells in romantic roles, and Guy Kibbee and Henry Armetta for comedy relief. The story was suggested by Pool's comic tale of the same name, but bears little resemblance of horror tales. However it's a well made picture, and if you like to shudder—you'll be more than satisfied!

AROUND THE STATE

CRYSTAL FALLS — What started out as a year of promise closed in disappointment when the 1934 ore season came to an end last week. The 1934 shipments were nearly as low as the all-time low of 1933. In addition, there is enough ore on the docks awaiting 1935 shipment so that unless a spurt develops there will be little mining next year.

IONIA — The Ionia Free Fair yielded a profit of about $8,000 this year. The net profit was the second largest in the history of the fair.

CHARLOTTE — The contract for the construction of a sewage disposal plant was let to a Grand Rapids firm at $23,555. The city will install its own equipment. The total cost of the plant and equipment will be about $45,000 of which the federal government under PWA will contribute $12,000.

LAWTON — George Moody, democratic leader, is under arrest charged with fraudulently interfering with the casting of absent voters' ballots. In Moody's ward 98 absent voters' ballots were cast while the other ward only two absent voters' ballots were received.

CASSOPOLIS — Charles Magee was shot and killed by Ralph Hood as a result of a card game argument. Magee was playing poker with three other men in a friend's home.

INDIANS TAKE WAPATH
TO UPSET LEAGUE DOPEBARTOW SCAMPERS FOR TOUCH-DOWN IN FIRST PERIOD.

Dansville Attack Ends In Grief As Alert Okemos Team Recovers
Five Fumbles.

Dansville supporters saw the championship aspirations of an excellent football team go glimmering Friday when an invading band of Okemos Indians upset the dope and walked off with a 6 to 0 victory. Okemos pulled a David and Goliath trick. The Indians were rated as the inferior team. They had had trouble winning from teams that had easily succumbed to Dansville and the Okemos escutcheon had even been marked with a 6 to 6 with Williamson. The Dansville Aggies, previous to the game with Okemos, boasted an uncrossed goal line. In that game the goal line was crossed but once and it proved the margin of victory.

Bartow ran 70 yards for the Okemos touchdown toward the end of the first quarter. He was on the Okemos 30-yard line and found a hole opened on the left side of the Aggie line. Bartow stepped through the gap, veered to his right and raced down the west sideline to outdistance the Aggie secondary. He made the goal line just a step in front of two Dansville defenders. The attempt kick for the extra point failed.

Alert Indian Defense

The Indians had fought on a goal-line march of Dansville just previous to Bartow's run. The balance of the afternoon was spent in the same manner except for a short period at the end of the second period when a long pass nearly gave Okemos another touchdown. Best was halted on the Aggie five-yard line as the whistle sounded ending the half. He had side-stepped one man the ball would have gone over.

Hogie's punting pulled Okemos out of several holes but the only reason for the Aggie collapse was faulty handling of the ball. Time and again the Aggies marched down the field to pay territory. Five times Dansville backs fumbled with a touchdown in sight. Five times an alert Okemos player recovered the ball and Hogie kicked out of danger.

Dansville gained about 10 yards to every yard gained by Okemos. The Aggie passing attack was superb between the 20-yard lines but came to grief against Okemos goal line stands. Diehl caught passes from Vogt, the Aggie hurler, which were good for 15 to 25 yards on numerous occasions but the Indian defense remained between the receiver and the goal and the Aggies were kept at bay.

The Indians were outweighed but were not outflown. The Indian line gave ground in the center of the field but with their backs to the wall stiffened to hold the hard-driving Aggie backs. An alert, hard-tackling Okemos secondary did yeoman work in backing up the line.

Nine times out of 10 in contests between the same teams which played Friday an unprejudiced observer would pick the Aggies to win but last Friday Dansville couldn't win. Whether it was overconfidence or too much pressure after the Okemos score is still a matter of debate in Dansville.

Vogt, Hayhoe, Diehl and Moran were outstanding on the Aggie team. Dussia, Cline, Hogie, Best, Bartow and Patterson were Okemos luminaries although every man on the Okemos team played heads-up football.

The starting line-ups for the crucial tilt was as follows:

Dansville	Okemos
Diehl	LE
Hogie	LT
Scripter	LG
Crates	C
Woods	RG
Bergert	RT
Kelly	RE
Moran	QB
Smalley	LH
Vogt	RH
Hayhoe	FB
	Patterson

Band Begins Rehearsals

The school band will begin regular band rehearsals next week. Heretofore the work has been with individual classes according to the instrument.

Mr. Perne, the director, is bringing out band music this week for the first time and next week will be the first rehearsal for the entire group.

Promises look good for a school band which can appear in public before many months.

Football Defeat

Dansville's leadership in the league received a sad blow last Friday at the hands of the Okemos Indians, who beat the Aggies 6 to 0. Although the Aggies had more first downs than Okemos, they were unable to score. The defense slacked up enough to allow an Okemos man to score in the first period. David Diehl, Phillip Moran, Alfred Hayhoe, Norman Smalley, Max Ellwanger and Norman Sommers were playing their last football game for the Aggies. Dansville had a record of 222 points to 0 in the previous games. Although they scored more points than any other term in the league, Okemos has undoubtedly won the championship.

here. All those interested can meet at the school the Tuesday evening before Thanksgiving to organize the league. If enough show interest at this time the league will be immediately organized and if not, it will be impossible to do so.

Baptist Supper And Fair

The annual chicken pie supper and fair sponsored by the Baptist Ladies Aid society will be held at the town hall next Wednesday evening, November 21. Supper will be served at five-thirty and continue until all are fed. There will be a fancy work booth consisting of aprons, plain and fancy, and other novelties, reasonably priced. Another attractive feature will be the fish pond which will be under the supervision of Mrs. Eva Young. The supper is nominally priced, it is said, and everyone is cordially invited.

School Fair

The school fair will be held next week Thursday and Friday, November 22 and 23. The program for Thursday evening will consist of a play by the beginners, songs by the second and third grade pupils, a one-act play by the Future Farmer boys, songs by the sixth grade, a one-act play by the Future Homemakers girls and singing by the high school chorus. There will also be a series of demonstrations in different rooms after the program, on rope splicing, soil testing, and a milk demonstration. These will be put on by different groups of boys and run on simultaneously, people attending any one they desire.

Norman Smalley will have charge of the program. All exhibits should be at the school Wednesday evening before 10:30 and it is hoped that everyone in the community will feel it is their fair and show their active interest in it by exhibiting. Judging will take place Thursday morning. Friday evening two basketball games will be played between the alumni and the high school, both boys and girls.

4-H Club Banquet

Mr. Allen and 12 boys of the 4-H club attended the 4-H club banquet at Mason Saturday evening. Certificates of achievement were presented by Mr. Barnum county agent, to the following boys: Douglas Evans, Dorn Diehl, Charles Greenham, Junior Vogt, Carlton Anway, Raymond Warden, Roylyn Miller, Martin Pollock, Gurdon Frost, Marshall Pollock, Russell Hayhoe, Richard Hayhoe, Wayne Dalton and Kiehl Evans. Junior Vogt was chosen as delegate to attend the state college club week and Wayne Dalton an alternate. There were only 12 boys appointed from the county.

School Enrollment

According to Supt. Allen the enrollment in the school is steadily increasing, there being now 9 more pupils than there are seats in the assembly room. The total enrollment to date is 338, the largest in the history of the school.

MEXICAN EXPERIENCES RELATED BY TEACHER

REV. WALTMAN TELLS OF EVILS OF LIQUOR REPEAL.

George Graham Endorsed By Farmers Club As Candidate For Commissioner Of Agriculture.

The Ingham County Farmers club met with Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Hood Saturday, November 10, for a regular meeting. President H. R. Bullen called the club to order and as it was Woman's Day he turned the duties of presiding over to the vice president, Mrs. Alfred Allen.

Rev. John Adams sang two solos and William Fountain entertained with two humorous readings.

Miss Bernice Dondineau, critic teacher in the county normal, gave an interesting talk on her trip to Mexico in 1933. She said Mexico is most interesting to visit but hard to describe. She went there to attend the University of Mexico which is the oldest on the American continent and which was founded by a Spaniard. She lived in a Mexican home built by President Diaz which looked like a fortress and was protected by locked gates. Five-sixths of the population of Mexico are Indians, Mrs. Dondineau said. The natives live in one room regardless of the size of the family, she said. "The markets contain everything imaginable to sell, chickens, vegetables, blankets placed side by side with many other things. Begging is a regular system and there are many kinds of ways in which it is carried on. Many children are crippled by cutting off hands and arms to create sympathy," Mrs. Dondineau said. "The Mexicans are very artistic even in their fifth. This gift is born with them with them," the teacher concluded.

Rev. M. W. Waltman of Mason, gave a talk on the new temperance program. He said, "As citizens of Michigan we are all in the liquor business. I am not proud of it. When we repealed the 18th amendment people said it was to save the youth of our land but it has not done so. According to facts drunkenness and accidents have increased and the liquor traffic is worse than before. The radio is educating our young people to drink by their advertising. On federal authority, more illegal liquor is being sold than legal."

"Conditions are appalling in our beer gardens. The superintendent of police in Wyandotte said the old saloon was a Sunday school compared to our taverns and beer gardens. What shall we do? We will have to educate the people and get the truth to them by facts and figures to convince them of the terrible results of alcohol."

He gave the experiments of a noted doctor in Berne, Switzerland, of 20 families, 10 where there was drinking by the father and 10 where there was none. The results showed that alcohol will never give a baby a chance to grow into a normal, healthy child, he said. Mr. Waltman said we take better care of our animals when we quarantine for disease and do not quarantine our beer gardens for our children. Local option will come later and we must keep pecking away on the liquor traffic and we will win, Mr. Waltman said. A discussion followed the address.

W. R. Carver presented the name of George Graham as a candidate for the office of commissioner of agriculture for Michigan. The club voted to endorse Mr. Graham for the position.

KIWANIS ELECTION

Members of the Mason Kiwanis club will choose officers for the coming year at the meeting Monday. Dr. D. R. Lethbridge and Cecil H. Hall have been nominated for president. A vice president and three directors will also be elected.

Mrs. Dora Stockman of East Lansing led the convention in singing the W. C. T. U. benediction

Tests For Early Bright's Disease

When the secretions from an organ can be obtained, such as that from the kidney, a great deal can be learned about the function of the organ, and about one detection of early disease. In 1832, Richard Bright, a British physician, published a series of case histories in which the kidney was grossly inflamed and its function largely destroyed. Since that time chronic kidney disease has been designated by the name of Bright. The commonest and most easily understood causes of Bright's disease are, first, acute tonsillitis, which causes an acute form of kidney inflammation, and, secondly, a slowly appearing form of kidney trouble which is secondary to high blood pressure. The latter usually is caused by over-eating and the emotional stresses of life. Kidney inflammation following an acute upper respiratory infection sometimes subsides entirely, but in certain cases it slowly progresses until albumin and casts are constantly found in the urine and the kidney function decreases correspondingly as the years go by.

To determine the presence of impairment of the kidney, the physician first makes chemical and microscopic tests on the urine. If abnormalities are present, including blood cells, casts and albumin, further tests usually are necessary to determine the extent of the damage and the methods which will be necessary to manage the disease so as to put less strain upon the kidney and thus prolong life. Essentially the function of the kidney is to excrete waste products from the blood as fast as they are formed. These solids are the nitrogenous products which come from the wear and tear of the body, and are excreted in a solution of water. The chief kidney function test, then, is one designed to determine how efficiently the kidney can excrete solids and water. The original test for this purpose was designed by the German physician, Volhard in 1890. He placed his patients on a 24 hour schedule during which time they ate normal meals but drank no water. The amount of solids excreted in the urine during that period told him how effectively the kidneys were functioning. In determining the amount of water excreted, Volhard gave his patients a quart and a half of water or weak tea, and measured the excretion of this fluid over a period of four hours. The excretion of three-quarters of the amount taken was considered a normal finding. These two tests may be carried out in a doctor's office, and are extremely simple, but they are necessary to determine the functioning of kidneys suspected of being diseased.

In the management of Bright's disease occurring particularly in middle-aged people, it is of considerable value to discover the disease in its early stages, so that corrective measures may be applied. Areas of local infection in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses and prostate should be removed, the patient's weight brought to normal, if over-weight, and the daily activities limited, if necessary. In many instances, a better regulation of the daily habits, the avoidance of fatigue, of colds, of over-eating, of constipation, will spare the kidney unusual strain.

Question and Answer

Mrs. R. W.—Is it a serious condition when the joints of the knees squeak upon ascending stairs or bending? Would a certain diet cause this?

Ans.—This is a form of arthritis occurring in the knees of middle-aged people, especially those who are over-weight. It is due to mild continuous trauma of the cartilages of the joints. This form of arthritis is extremely common in middle-aged people and sometimes is quite painful. The application of heat to the joints daily and reduction of weight to normal are helpful.

SLAT'S DIARY
By ROSS FARQUHAR

Friday—Ant Emmy had a bad attack of Billyus trouble today and this evening pa called up the Dr. on the telephone and had him come up to the house but when he got here and they told Ant Emmy who it was she sent word down stairs to tell him to come tomorrow because he was to sick to see emmy buddy.

Saturday—well I guess I am absent minded. Ma went away to see her sick sister Iva and won't be home till Tuesday nite & I went a head and took a bath this after noon and I really believe I cud of got by with out taking a bath today. Can be help now.

Sunday—Pa spent a miserable day today becuz me missus is at home. He all ways enjoys his Sundays when he and her can set a round and fuss and today he found 3 buttons of his shirt and he just had to keep quiet so as not to wake Ant Emmy up, which is getting better now.

Monday—Pa printed a penne in the nose paper about Old Mrs. Brett celebrating her 60st wedding anniversary and he was a telling about her dress and spoke of her looking like a pitcher of Lavender and old Lillian.

Tuesday—well we are home today and started in a Jiving me becuz I didn't do any thing she wanted done and she said she had been trying to learn me to take care of things and nothing I did was right, well I guess she is a offile failure as a mother.

Wednesday—Ever since Blister went to see the Circus and all the Animals he has trying his best to squirt water through his nose like a Elephant.

Thursday—Ma was saying when she cum home Tuesday the train was so crowded she had to set with Mrs. Trelle and they are not on speaking terms for the last 2 yrs. so all in all it was a very restful Jerney for both of them.

Beet Meetings Start
When Contracts Come

TERMS TO BE EXPLAINED BEFORE SIGNATURES ARE TAKEN.

Meetings in Michigan to explain the exact provisions of the contracts to be offered to sugar beet growers by the A. A. A. have been delayed because the actual contracts have not been received from Washington, according to R. J. Baldwin, director of extension work in Michigan.

The latest word from Washington is that the contracts will be sent Monday, November 12, and preparations have been made here to start the series of meetings immediately. The contracts will bring a total of $1,600,000 in benefit payments to this state if all growers sign contracts.

No acreage reduction is contemplated as the total production of the crop is controlled by the allotment of acreage given factories in Michigan. There are provisions for controlling the employment of child labor in the beet fields, however. Receipts should be secured for all moneys paid for labor on the 1934 crop as they will furnish evidence of the fulfillment of obligations to employees.

County agricultural agents and specialists from Michigan State college will help explain the features of the contracts at local meetings before farmers are asked to sign. Local control committees of farmers will not be chosen on a county basis as with

Older Seed Stocks
May Germinate Well

SEED TESTER IS ONLY CERTAIN INSURANCE.

Scarcity of quality seeds of several common farm crops have led to a great deal of discussion about the advisability of using seed stocks more than a year old, and people who have this old seed are advised by the U. S. department of agriculture that storage for a few years does not ruin most seeds.

The original quality of the seed has more influence upon its ability to germinate at the end of three or four years than the period of time which has elapsed since the seed ripened. The percentage of germination of any seed can be safely determined only by one method, actual testing.

Seeds which have been stored where the atmosphere is hot and moist are less apt to retain germinating power than if they are kept in cool, dry storage. Seeds placed in storage while containing excess moisture are apt to deteriorate badly. All seeds should be thoroughly dried before storing.

Tests made in Ohio showed that only 62 per cent of five-year-old alike clover seed germinated while alike seed which had been kept 10 years gave a 90 per cent germination. Nine-year-old alike in the same tests, only sprouted 13 per cent of the seeds. These trials prove that the age of the seed is not the determining factor in seed viability.

In Colorado, where storage conditions are favored by a cool dry climate, wheat lost only 7 per cent in germinating powers in 10 years of storage. Barley lost 14 per cent in its sprouting ability in Colorado, and oats decreased only 13 per cent in the 10-year period.

Corn appears to lose value as seed more rapidly during the elapse of long storage periods than other grains and seeds. Four-year old corn gave good germination percentages, in the tests, when the corn was well matured and dry when stored; but the seed decreased rapidly in value after the fourth year.

Seed testers should become an important part of farm equipment this year. Test the seed early to find if it will grow, so a better supply can be procured if the tested stock is low in vitality. Make sure the tested seed which proves to be good is then kept under favorable conditions of storage.

Farmers Can Avoid Tax Leved By Fire

SHOULD PROVIDE MEANS TO EXTINGUISH SMALL BLAZES.

One tax which Michigan farmers can reduce to suit their own ideas is the toll taken by farm fires, which cause a great indirect loss from insurance rates adjusted to the high hazard in rural districts.

Fires this year will have an added seriousness if they destroy feed stocks which can not be replaced. Most farmers are careful about factors which might set fires but are careless in preventing fires from starting. If the feed is started or to extinguish small blazes before they get out of control.

Spontaneous combustion is one cause of fires which a great many people believe is a myth. Anyone who doubts that fires can start without the help of an open flame can convince himself by piling up rags or papers soaked in paint, turpentine, or oil. Oily rags are often thrown down where they have been used.

Hay placed in the mow or stack when it is too wet will generate enough heat to burst into flame. A stack of chopped, green alfalfa stacked on the Michigan State college farm as an experiment this year became very hot and ignited during the summer.

Pails or barrels of water kept filled in farm buildings often will provide means to extinguish small fires before they become dangerous. The minutes needed to find a pail and fill it with water at the well may cause the total loss of all farm buildings. Fire extinguishers also may save the farm buildings.

wheat and corn-hog contracts but will be selected on a factory-district plan.

LATE RAINS RESULTED IN INCREASED YIELDS

MICHIGAN POTATOES FOR 1934 A RECORD CROP.

Fall Rain Also Made Beans And Sugar Beets Better Crops Than In Average Years.

The outstanding feature of the November 1 report of the Michigan cooperative crop reporting service is the marked improvement in yields of late-season crops. Favorable growing conditions during September and the first part of October aided the late crops, especially beans and potatoes, and gave the fall-sown grains good growth.

Present indications point to a record yield per acre of potatoes in Michigan this year with an estimated total production of 34,560,000 bushels, which is 13,890,000 bushels above the crop of 1933, and 13,049,000 bushels more than the 5-year average, 1927-31.

Warm days early in October following the rains in September caused a rapid growth in potatoes which has resulted in some hollow-hearts and over-size stock. As a result many fields graded out heavily. The potato production for the United States as a whole is estimated at $83,105,000 bushels compared with $32,553,000 bushels harvested in 1933 and 365,556,000 bushels the average production for the 5 years preceding 1932.

Michigan field beans are also benefited greatly by the favorable weather during September and October, with a total production of 2,894,000 bags. A good many fields will pick heavily as a result of uneven ripening this season. The state's 1933 bean crop amounted to 3,519,000 bags and the 5-year average, 1927-31, production was 2,803,000 bags. The United States total production of beans is estimated at 9,549,000 bags which compares with 12,280,000 bags harvested in 1933.

The corn crop suffered severely from the summer drought and from hail and wind storms in some of the principal producing areas, with the result that the estimated yield per acre is 25 bushels as compared with 31 bushels per acre in 1933 and the 10-year average, 1923-32, of 29.6 bushels. The estimated production of corn for all purposes is now placed at 34,125,000 bushels which is 10 per cent less than the 1933 crop but practically the same as the 5-year average crop, 1927-31.

Apples, especially late varieties, made substantial gains over earlier expectations, and the present preliminary estimates place the total production for Michigan at 6,464,000 bushels. Commercial production represents about 65 per cent of the crop or 4,224,000 bushels. There was some hail and other damage to this fruit, but in general the 1934 crop is of good quality.

The United States commercial apple crop is reported at 72,017,000 bushels as against 74,722,000 bushels harvested in 1933 and 96,445,000 bushels the 5-year average production.

November 1 reports revealed no change during October in the Michigan grape estimate, with an indicated production for 1934 of 61,145 tons, approximately 7 per cent above the average crop of recent years.

AN AFFAIR OF HONOR

By THAYER WALDO
© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service

WITH Margaret on his arm, Ward strode proudly into the Purple Inn. It was thickly peopled, for he had purposefully chosen the busiest luncheon hour.

Half the men in Hollywood had been trying for a date with the little aristocrat from Kentucky ever since her arrival, and his success was worth a flourish.

Ward paused just inside, ostensibly seeking a table.

The golden-haired beauty beside him clung close with gratifying familiarity. Suddenly he saw a man emerge from a nearby booth and come toward them. It was Al Alberts of the scenario staff at Zenith.

Ward started a cordial greeting but checked it at sight of the other's unsmiling face.

Alberts confronted him and said evenly:

"See here, Ward; you're trespassing. Miss Blair promised me a luncheon appointment today."

Ward laughed shortly.

"Don't be absurd, old fellow," he rejoined; "you're just trying to attract attention."

"No; I'm entirely serious. I must ask you to withdraw."

From the corner of his eye Ward could see number of persons watching interestingly. Among them he recognized the film editor of a leading afternoon paper. A wild impulse was born. He glanced swiftly at the girl; her cheeks were coloring and a haughty little scowl crinkled her forehead.

That decided him.

Snatching a napkin from the nearest table, he wheeled and slapped it smartly across the Alberts.

"Take that, you insolent whelp!" he shouted with unnecessary volume.

"This affront to mademoiselle can only be treated as an affront to her."

Eyes blazing, the scenarist cried:

"Very well, sir; I am at your service."

Silently Ward applauded the speech, it fit the scene he had attempted to create with nicely. He made a brief stiff bow and said:

"Excellent. I invite you to come with me at once and make the arrangements. This must be kept private to avoid interference."

"Good; I accept."

Ward faced Margaret Blair.

She was large-eyed now, and he thought he could detect exalted approval in her expression.

"Will you," he asked, "have the goodness to forgive me if I leave you with a friend here and go? My hot blood can't tolerate such insulting conduct."

The countenance it showed had undergone a gaudy transformation. Splotches of mercurochrome were spaced by court plaster patches; the effect was something between a major surgical and a severe case of scurvy fever.

"Thanks; practically perfect, seems to me," he told the other at last, putting the glass down. "And you—well, that mug's enough to strike awe in the hearts of strong men, if I do say it myself."

Alberts chuckled, stood up, and clicked his heels together.

"Honored opponent," he said, bending forward at the waist; "may I tender my respects at the close of this epic struggle which has ended in a draw? Let us hope our sons copy our virtues bold."

"Seconded. What this world needs is more virility and less shoddy humbug. . . . Say, what about the swords? think they ought to be unwrapped and done up in different paper?"

Alberts gestured carelessly. "No; that guy'll never notice details. Come on—let's have dinner sent up. I'm starved and we don't dare go out. But tomorrow we'll reap the rewards of valor. And remember—it's to be fair competition for Margaret Blair, and may the best lar win!"

". . . . and so, after ten minutes of terrific fighting with no advantages on either side, I finally began to force him back step by step." Ward paused; through the knot of auditors clustered about he glimpsed, across the lot, a similar group surrounding Alberts.

"I only hope," he stated stiffly, "that that gentleman over there is rendering me my just due, as I am to him. . . . Let's see; where was I?"

The spectators were drawing back to make way for some one.

In an instant the eagerly concerned face of Margaret Blair appeared.

"Oh, my dear! she cried at sight of Ward. "You so heroic lookin'! What happened?"

He smiled upon her with expansive delight.

HOMER WILBUR, Prop.

C. L. BICKERT, Clerk

Dear Nephew:

ALL THE laws in the world won't prevent a person from spending his money foolishly who won't use ordinary horse sense to protect himself. What I mean is, this Federal Securities Act of 1933, which is supposed to keep the clippers away from us poor lambs, can sometimes have just the opposite effect, due to our own shortcomings.

The set-up for protecting us is there, all right, but it can't take the place of a little savvy and a lot of nosing around on our own part. The law demands that all securities sold in more than one state must be registered with the Government, and specifies just how much and what kind of information shall be printed in the prospectus. If the facts are not all there, or if some of them are wrong and the purchaser thereby suffers a loss, the officers and directors are liable.

It would seem that with all those requirements any registered security ought to be safe, but the law can't force you and me to read the prospectus or to exercise our own gray matter when we do. A slick promoter can tell us right in his prospectus that his proposition hasn't anything back of it more solid than a bunch of expectations, and be within the law, and if we don't read the prospectus, it's a case of Oh, I'm sorry!

Everything that glitters isn't U. S. Government bonds, but the way to know what is in the can is to read the label,—and then get busy with the can opener!

Affectionately,

Your Dutch Uncle.

Yourtown.

"Well, I was just explaining. We had a titanic battle, but at last I made one lightning lunge and—"

Again slight commotion as another newcomer shoved through the press from behind and tapped Ward's shoulder.

He turned sharply, frowning, and recognized the fellow from the costumers.

"Those swords," the fellow said; "where are they? I gotta have 'em right away."

Ward waved him impatiently aside. "Yes, yes; not just now. Can't you see I'm busy? . . . Well, he tried to parry the thrust, but—"

"Hey, I tell you I can't wait. It's important!"

Drawing himself up, Ward swung full upon the man with a ferocious glower.

"I said later! Certainly you don't need them badly enough to warrant—"

"Yeh—do, though." The property man's tone was doggedly persistent. "I just got a call from Paramount for two rubber swords, and those are the only ones we have."

Religious Liberty in Old Maryland Colony

It is not surprising that the colonists who founded Maryland sought religious liberty for themselves, but it was a novel proceeding that, in an age when Christendom was torn by fraternal strife because of differences in creed, they should promise to give the same privilege of freedom of conscience to all others that came to live with them.

While as yet there was no spot in Europe or America where men's religious convictions were too sacred to be invaded by tests of state or assailed by the forces of bigotry, Lord Baltimore's first order to his colonists was that there should be no difference on account of religion.

The records show that at first both Catholics and Protestant sects used a community church; that a proclamation was issued in 1638 for the suppression of "disputes tending to the opening of a faction in religion." And an act of the assembly declared that "no person professing to believe in Jesus Christ shall be troubled, molested, or disconcerned, for, or in respect of, his or her religion."

Thus Protestant and Catholic dwelt together in harmony, neither attempting to interfere with the rights of worship of the other, and "religious liberty obtained a home, its only home to the wide world, at the humble village which bore the name of St. Mary's."

RELIGIOUS EDUCATORS TO MEET HERE MONDAY

OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED BY COUNTY COUNCIL

Rev. E. W. Halpenny Of Lansing To
Conduct Conference, Rev. Glenn
Fry To Speak.

Ministers of Ingham county churches, superintendents of church schools and others interested in religious work are to meet in the Stockbridge public school on Monday nights over a period of five weeks.

On Tuesday night a district meeting was held in Leslie to plan for a training school there. A training school has also been proposed for Mason.

Rev. E. W. Halpenny Of Lansing To
Conduct Conference, Rev. Glenn
Fry To Speak.

Ministers of Ingham county churches, superintendents of church schools and others interested in religious work are to meet in the Stockbridge public school on Monday nights over a period of five weeks.

Maynard J. Moynahan, Lansing automobile salesman, is a man who urges people to buy Christmas seals.

Seven years ago, Moynahan was flat on his back in the Ingham county tuberculosis sanatorium fighting desperately to overcome tuberculosis, after late discovery of the disease had made treatment difficult. Resorting to tuberculosis surgery, specialists saved him by taking out 11 ribs sections to completely collapse one lung.

"Even such a short time as seven years ago, tuberculosis was a much more terrifying and disastrous thing than it is now," he declares. "But early discovery, through the use of tuberculin tests and x-rays made possible by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals, is changing that viewpoint every day."

Moynahan at present is devoting quite a bit of time to making talks in the interests of the seal sale before luncheon clubs and other groups. Last week, he spoke before the Genesee County Ministers association at Flint and on the 26th he will go before the Grand Rapids Kiwanis club. The sale of seals opens officially on Thanksgiving Day.

Devoting time to continue fighting tuberculosis doesn't keep Moynahan from his work. For the past two years, he has led all the sales of cars made by his agency.

"STANDARD" Plumbing Fixtures

Cost No More Than Others

Today, you can buy genuine "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures at prices no higher than others. Adjustments and reductions in prices have been made without lowering our high standard of quality, material or workmanship. "Standard" quality remains the same—nothing has been lowered but the price.

These new low prices extend the fullest measure of cooperation to the Federal Housing Administration in its campaign to encourage remodeling and new construction. Now, more than ever before, "Standard" quality is within the reach of every home owner.

To assure the purchaser the full value and service from "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures, they are sold through Master Plumbers. This is a protection to the buyer because even the best plumbing fixtures cannot function properly unless they are installed skillfully in accordance with the laws and regulations set up for the safeguard of public health.

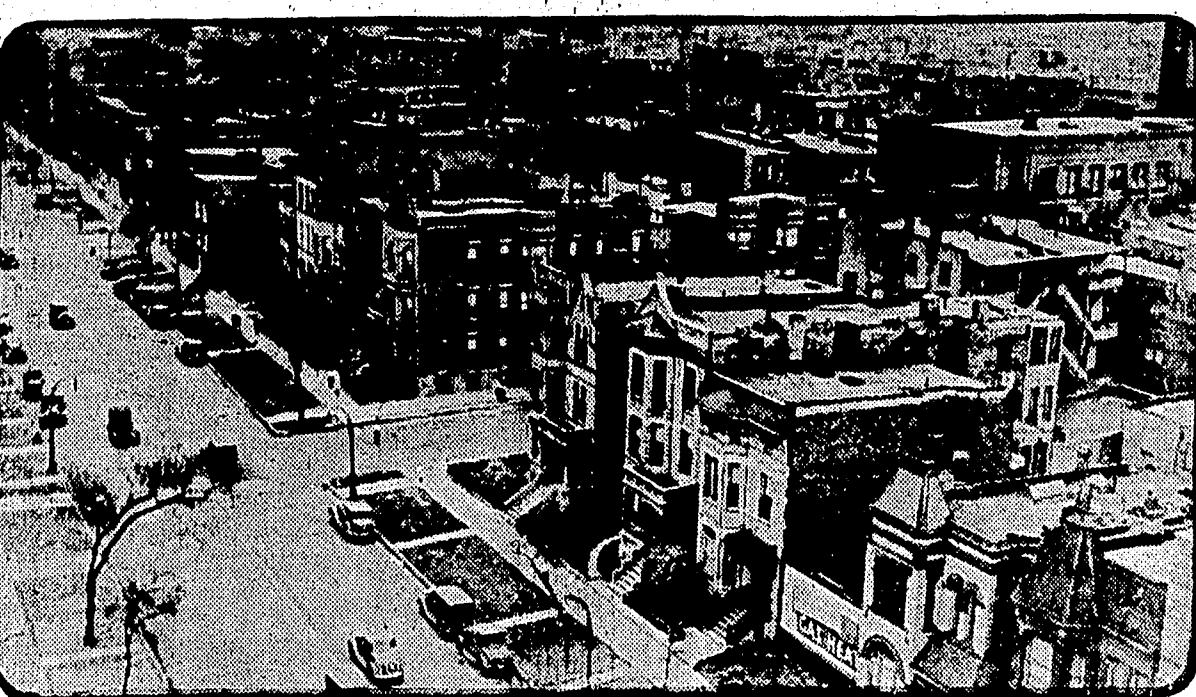

Through study, training and practical experience, Master Plumbers are the only ones qualified to install or supervise the proper installation of Plumbing Fixtures. It has been truly said, "The Plumber Protects the Health of the Nation."

Today—your Master Plumber is ready and prepared to serve you. He is familiar with the provisions of the National Housing Act. He can advise you about the steps in getting a loan for modernization or new construction. He can help you select the proper Plumbing Fixtures. Guide you in choosing colors that harmonize—designs that match. Consult him first on your plumbing problems.

Site for Great Chicago Housing Project

This is a view of the region in Chicago, 37 blocks in extent, that has been selected by the federal government for an immense housing project. The buildings will all be razed and modern houses and apartment buildings will be constructed to house about 15,000 persons. Most of the present residents are Italians.

Parkhurst's

Just as you are thinking of "What will we have for Thanksgiving?"—Here we are rushing you into Christmas.

It is hard work to keep from it because we have so many beautiful things that have just arrived and every day something more comes. And every day someone says "Oh, won't that make someone happy on Christmas day?"

The first of the week we received another shipment of those lovely silk blouses, including gay bright patterns and a few white satins. Also a shipment of wool skirts in blacks, browns and football colors.

Balbriggan night gowns and pajamas are just the thing to keep you warm these cold nights. We have pajamas in one and two-piece styles with long or short sleeves. The gowns come with long or short sleeves, too.

Another shipment of pocketbooks came a few days ago. Colors are blacks and browns with zipper fastenings or the envelope style.

New assortments are arriving—don't miss the Remarkable Values, also, in all kinds of Smart Apparel for Holiday Wear.
