STATE ROAD EXECUTIVE OUTLINES 1936 PROGRAM

TO COMPLETE US 27 PAVING NORTH TO STRAITS.

Ingham Highway System Praised By State Official, Lands Highwayers Against Record Snow.

Michigan's 1936 highway program was outlined by G. D. Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department, Monday night in an address delivered before the Mason Kiwanis club. He stated that major objectives of the program are the paving of US 27, the backbone of the state's highway system, from the southern boundary to the Straits, the widening of US 16 to form a three-lane highway from Detroit to Grand Rapids, the construction of pavement on the Detroit, Clark and Frankfort diagonal route and the building of a super-highway from the southeast corner of the state, near Toledo, to Grand Rapids.

Other objectives sought during 1936, Mr. Kennedy stated, include the construction of farm to market roads, shore-line highways and roads opening up tourist and resort possibilities and the construction of oil-gate roads in northern counties to serve tourists.

Vast Highway System

Mr. Kennedy was introduced by V. J. Brown who stated that the state highway department under Murray D. VanWagoner and his staff of executive assistants has been working with the legislature to secure the necessary financial resources for the highway program.

In opening his address Mr. Kennedy said, "The state highway department is closely associated with Michigan's two major industries, automobile building and the tourist trade. Both industries are largely dependent upon an improved highway system. The highway department is charged with the construction and maintenance of 8800 miles of main trunk line highways. It is also responsible for the administration of funds and policies affecting the entire state, county and township highway system of more than 85,000 miles. Another responsibility is providing employment to men on relief rolls."

"The increase in highway facilities and the increased traffic over the 10-year period from 1925 to 1935 is best shown," Mr. Kennedy said, "by the three-fold increase in gasoline tax revenues over the period."

Changed Financial Structure

The change in the financial structure as it affects highways was explained by the executive. Automobile weight and gasoline taxes furnish the revenues for the state highway department, Mr. Kennedy pointed out. He said that although the weight tax was reduced by $5,000,000 by the 1933 legislature, that the gasoline tax receipts made the total weight and gas tax revenues in 1935 the greatest on record.

"This money is not all used by the state highway department," Mr. Kennedy said. "The weight tax is returned in its entirety to the 83 counties with $2,500,000 of gasoline tax revenues. Another $4,000,000 in gasoline taxes is used for the taking over and maintaining the township road systems by the counties. In 1935 a total of $21,000,000 was returned to local units by the state highway department. That amounted to three-fifths of the state highway department's total revenue of $63,000,000. A portion of the county funds were in turn paid out to cities and villages for street maintenance and improvement."

Mr. Kennedy explained that the state uses about $5,000,000 a year for the maintenance of trunk line highways. The first was at $3,000,000 in used each year, that $3,500,000 is budgeted each year to pay for the widening of Woodward, Grand River, Grand and VanDyke arteries in Detroit, that the state must pay in excess charges of $320,000 a year under the contract for the removal of the Grand Trunk line on Woodward avenue in Detroit, and must bear the cost of engineering and the making of plans on federal highway construction.

Conservation Leaders Endorse Reforestation

Directors of the Ingham County Conservation League held an executive meeting at the Tavern Wednesday night. The conservationists adopted a program of woodlot planting and intend to work with Smith-Hughes department of high schools to have tree-planting as an approved project work. It was pointed out that Smith-Hughes pupils by planting fence rows and woodlot slashings can aid conservation of game and add to the value and beauty of Ingham farms. The directors also agreed to ask the co-operation of the county road commission in halting the slashing of roadside trees and shrubs.

Reports of the successful operation of bird-feeding stations maintained during the winter were discussed by the directors.

Aged Danville Man Welcomes New Tooth

Myron Corwin, 76, of Danville, is ready to start life all over again. He has begun to cut his wisdom teeth.

"That's the way to cut teeth," said Mr. Corwin. "Have them cut along when they are most needed. Back when I was young I had plenty of teeth and never missed the absent wisdom teeth. Now when my grinders are becoming worn I am being fixed up with a new set. I can also use the wisdom which the new teeth are supposed to carry with them."

BEE-KEEPERS COMPLAIN AGAINST REGISTRATION

INSIST CANNOT TELL HOW MANY BEES STILL LIVE.

Likely Prosecutor Will Await Spring Before Clamping Down On Non-Registrants, Fees Due Last July.

Farmers who have made a sideline of bee-keeping are up in arms against the state department of agriculture in its recent demand upon the Ingham county prosecutor for arrest of about 140 residents who have failed to register under the apiculture license act of 1935. Farmers insist that last year they heard nothing concerning the act although it became effective April 19, 1935. They further point out that demand registration at this particular season while bees are still snowed under is to demand that the bee-keeper list something he has no way of knowing that he possesses.

On the other hand department officials insist the law has been in effect since last April and that the license fee now demanded has been in arrears since last June.

Disagree Over Disease

A great deal of discussion is being had concerning the new law. For many years the question of foul brood and other diseases has been a source of violent disagreement. Commercial apiarists claim they have been made the victims of disease carried to their hives from small isolated parties of a few hives kept by farmers who pay little attention to keeping them free of disease. Orchardists have found that bees must be employed to aid in the keeping of bees is a business in itself which the average orchardist does not understand and does not desire to engage in, orchards have been served by bee owners who transport their hives to the orchards during the blossoming period on a rental basis.

Inspection has cleaned up the apiaries refuse to take their hives into infected territories. It was the combination of the organized orchardists and the commercial apiarists who forced through the compulsory registration and licensing law to secure funds to provide complete inspection for the entire state. Never has the legislature appropriated sufficient funds to do a good inspection job, bee-keepers complained to pay the tax in order to protect themselves against the free-lance who keeps a few bees for fun and what little honey his bees may make.

Council Votes Payment To Relief Commission

CITY PAYS PART OF DEBT INCURRED FOR RELIEF.

Payment of $351.88, one-third the unpaid charges made by the Ingham County Emergency Relief Commission against the city of Mason for the period between May 1 and December 31, 1935, was authorized by the council Monday night. Several weeks ago the council was visited by members of the county relief commission and settlement of the bill was demanded. At the council session Monday night it was decided that one-third the past due sum is all that can be paid at present. City members agreed that the city will be unable to care for its relief load under the present system where 10 per cent of the cost is charged to the relief commission so costly and that within a few months the city will be without funds to meet its share of the cost under the present system. Aldermen declared that administrative costs of the relief commission are exorbitant.

TWO ALARMS ANSWERED

After many weeks without being summoned by a fire, the Mason fire department answered two calls Wednesday evening. The first was at 6:30 when a car driven by Robert Cady broke into flames at the corner of Jefferson and Maple. But H. H. Osmun, who was on duty, was not at the scene. He telephoned the firemen out of their pleasure. Mr. Osmun is agent for a fire extinguisher company. His car was parked nearby, so he grabbed an extinguisher used as a demonstrator and put out the fire before the fire truck arrived. The second fire was three hours later at the home of Dell Dorman. Sparks from the chimney had lodged between studding and had set fire to the roof. The blaze was extinguished with small loss. A third alarm was turned in Thursday afternoon when tar in a kettle became overheated at the rear of the Root building.

MASON MILK PRODUCERS GIVEN MARKET OUTLOOK

ANNUAL MEETING OF MASON PRODUCERS HELD.

Report of Milk Marketing Conditions Given Members, Directors of Local Re-elected.

Constant efforts to improve marketing conditions, more carefully selected herds, better feeding methods, and more extensive use of butter, cheese and other dairy products were seen as the hope of the future for the dairyman selling his milk in the market when members of the Mason milk producers association met for their annual meeting here Tuesday. From figures presented by Clarence Bolander, public relations official of the parent association, it is evident that no considerable or immediate increase in the price paid the producer can be anticipated.

One prominent dairyman said following the meeting: "It is evident that $3.00 milk so much talked about is not in sight. We are lucky in Ingham to be within the Detroit area where at least a portion of our milk is sold in bottles for daily consumption."

Under the high interest rate

The school district will have paid for its school twice when the last bond has been retired in 1942. The interest payments will almost equal the construction cost of the school.

Expect Lower Rate

An interest rate below three per cent is expected on the refunding issue. The receipts from the sale of the refunding bonds will be used to retire outstanding bonds now bearing six per cent. Chicago bankers hold the present issue.

Two-thirds of the milk produced in the United States is sold through channels outside the co-operative associations. It was stated, the average for the whole country during the year being $1.18 per hundredweight, less than half of the base price for fluid milk sold here. The association in Michigan alone handles more than $17,000,000 of milk and milk products, the largest co-operative marketing organization by far in Michigan.

March 23, 1865, he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Crapo of Ballston Spa, New York, immediately establishing a home on a farm near Clinton, Michigan, where they resided for five years. Deciding to take up other vocations, Mr. VanOstrand left the farm, later entering the business of buying and shipping farm produce to Mason in the fall of 1870 and some time thereafter entered into partnership with J. K. Elmer. For many years this firm dealt extensively in farm produce, fruits and dressed pork. During the years when lumbering was the principal industry of northern Michigan this firm shipped vast quantities of dressed meats to the lumber camps of that region. An extensive retail coal business was also carried on by the firm.

TENANT MAY GET FARM UNDER TERMS OF WILL

FINDING OF WILL MAY HALT COURT APPEAL.

Will Purported To Be That Of Arthur Van Horn Bears Out.

Clarence H. Kilburn, for 15 years a tenant on the May farm of 80 acres owned by the late Arthur W. Van Horn of Leslie, will become the owner of the farm if the Van Horn will discovered Tuesday is admitted to probate. The finding of the will containing a clause giving the farm to Mr. Kilburn bears out the contention of the tenant that he was to have had the farm under an agreement with Mr. VanHorn who died July 8, 1935.

O. J. Hood, Mason attorney, had a signed copy of the will in his office. The will was executed May 8, 1930, and witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Hood and Dean Taylor. At the time of executing the will Mr. Van Horn was given a copy but upon his death the maker's copy was not found. Usually the maker of a will has it filed with the judge of probate for safekeeping but Mr. Van Horn did not avail himself of that service.

Because no will was found the estate of Mr. Van Horn, appraised at about $22,000, was admitted to probate for division among heirs in the established line of descent. Mr. Van Horn was a widower without children and so his sister, Mrs. Inez Marshall, would have inherited the estate, and Mr. Kilburn, who had no relation to Mr. Van Horn, would have received nothing.

Injunction Served

The estate was being probated when Mr. Kilburn asked for and was granted an injunction against the administrators, Inez M. Marshall and Louis Paul Marshall, to hold up the administration until the suit of Mr. Kilburn for specific performance of an agreement was heard Monday and continued Tuesday. Mr. Kilburn contended that under an agreement with Mr. Van Horn that he was to have the farm on the owner's death. Twelve witnesses who testified that Mr. Van Horn had told them of the agreement with Mr. Kilburn were called to the stand by Hubbard, Rathbun, Pauline Coe and Kilburn's attorneys.

Through one of the Mason witnesses in the circuit court case Mr. Hood learned of the suit arising from the probating of the Van Horn estate. He did not know until Tuesday, Mr. Hood said, that Mr. Van Horn had died. When informed of the case he recalled that he had drawn up a will for Mr. Van Horn. He could not find a copy of the will in his safe and at once delivered it to the probate court. Mr. Kilburn's attorneys were informed of the discovery of the will and asked for adjournment of the circuit court case which was granted. Adjudgment was made until Friday.

Heirs Named In Will

Mr. Van Horn in his will named Mrs. Marshall and her two sons, Paul and Don, and other nieces and nephews and Mr. Kilburn, the tenant, as heirs. The first clause provided for perpetual care of a lot in the Leslie cemetery. The second clause stated that Mrs. Emma Perry of Bowling Green, Florida, Mrs. Pauline Coe of Pontiac and Mrs. Grace Young of Rives, nieces of the late Mrs. Van Horn, should be paid $300 each from the estate and that Mrs. May Markham of Cadillac, Paul Marshall and Don Marshall, niece and nephews of Mr. Van Horn, should be paid like sums.

The third clause set forth that Clarence H. Kilburn was to have the east half of the southeast quarter of section six, Leslie township, 80 acres known as the May farm, and that the balance of the estate should be given to his sister, Mrs. Inez Marshall, who was named executrix. The Van Horn holding included 160 acres in the 80 acres occupied by Mr. Kilburn.

Witnesses testified in the circuit court case for specific performance that Mr. Van Horn had told them he had promised Mr. Kilburn that he would be willed the land if he remained as tenant until the death of the owner. Several witnesses stated that Mr. Van Horn had told them a signed copy of the will in his safe and at once delivered it to the probate court. Mr. Kilburn's attorneys were informed of the discovery of the will and asked for adjournment of the circuit court case which was granted. Adjudgment was made until Friday.

COMSTOCK WALKS

It is not the purpose of the NEWS to discuss at length the life and career of William A. Comstock, long a democrat and for two years governor of this state. Mr. Comstock publicly announced last week that he is through with the present administration, that he will have no part nor parcel with the next campaign and that he is sick and tired of the type of party leadership exemplified at Washington and recognized in Michigan. The former governor struck out viciously at the "Hogskis and the Piggys" who he charges "in their mad scramble for jobs have upset the trough."

No governor has been so crucified by a mad horde of job-hunters as was Comstock. Literally he has forced to hide in the woods while he prepared his message and tax plan for the 1933 legislature. Once inaugurated he was forced to skulk out the back way to avoid the mobs who crashed the gates of the executive offices. In sheer desperation some bad appointments were made. He is still being criticized for not listening to the advice of party leaders back in 1933. Governor Comstock was so hounded that he scarcely trusted any, preferring to err on his own rather than yielding to some faction or bloc.

There is one feature of the case against Mr. Comstock that the NEWS would like to discuss. It is one raised by the governor himself in his open letter to Michigan democrats last week. It is the matter of recount of votes for certain state officers.

It will be remembered that nothing could have been done unless and until a special session of the legislature was called. Only the governor could call such a session. Those who followed the development of the situation back in November, 1934, were satisfied that Governor Comstock was not going to yield to the demands of the "Hogskis and the O'Piggys" for a special session. Then out of a clear sky came the call. Not too much is known of the secret sessions held in Detroit but it is known that finally the governor yielded and called the legislature in special session "in joint convention", an unheard-of proceeding and one not believed within the constitutional prerogatives of a Michigan governor.

Whatever the ballot markers working down in Wayne did after the "joint convention" failed is quite beside the question. No one will attempt to excuse public officials who undertake by such foul means to thwart and abort an election and the expressed will of the people. To mutilate and change the markings on ballots taken from ballot boxes and thus to steal an election is had enough but in the opinion of the NEWS this is not so bad as setting up an illegal session of legislature through which it was planned to jam cut and dried resolutions setting aside the regular election and declaring certain defeated candidates as elected.

Using blue pencils to steal an election is crude. It was done only after the more clever and the safer method had failed. In principle it is not so bad, for those involved are merely the tools of an organization which failed in its more adroit and polished attempt at election theft.

The question then rests upon Mr. Comstock's part in this scheme of ruthless politicians. Did he really believe in 1934 that election officials in Wayne county had thrown an election? Was he convinced then that 15,000 to 25,000 votes had been stolen from democratic candidates and handed to their republican opponents? Was there evidence of a giant conspiracy among the members of the Detroit election commission to steal an election? Did he fall a victim to false testimony and call the special session in good faith? If so, then indeed does he have cause to berate the "Hogskis and the O'Piggys". On the other hand, the governor was then governor. He had at hand every facility to learn the truth. He has feeble excuse if he took the word of that band of political buccanniers of whom he now complains.

HERO WORSHIP

Until the suspicions are cleared away, that act of calling a special session, not for the purpose of investigating election frauds but for the purpose of arbitrarily declaring certain candidates elected in the face of official returns to the contrary, must remain a stain and a blot against a man who outside of that retains the confidence of a great mass of voters.

Mistakes can be pardoned. Errors in judgment are common to all. To use the authority of high office to overthrow an election and to ravage the ballots of honest voters is quite another matter. We believe the governor some day will disclose to the public the real reason why he has walked out on the democratic organization of Michigan. Certainly it is not patronage alone nor his desire to name appointees to petty jobs. As it stands now, not only is the good name of the governor involved but also that of scores of able colleagues in the senate and the house and in other positions of trust.

"If the Dopester" is warning Detroit sports writers and Tiger fans against building up a background of super-man for Al Simmons. The dopester points out that if these writers persist and baseball fans once get the idea this new Tiger recruit is infallible, then the first day he does not put five hits in the bag these same fans will want to mob him.

This is also a reminder of our treatment of public officials. Americans are hero worshippers. We build up our favorites and stand them up on pedestals. Woodrow Wilson was played up as a superman but left office with a sadly disarranged halo. Some business disturbances had appeared on the horizon before the campaign of 1928 which led to the building up a super-personage for Herbert Hoover. "Elect Hoover," the republicans cried, "and we are saved." He swept the nation with one of the greatest popular votes ever polled but six months after his inauguration he began to slip in popular favor. Why? Merely because he was unable to perform miracles. The depression continued on while gullible folks were sustained with that old hoax of prosperity being just around the corner. If there are mistakes which led to the general depression, there were none more damaging than that gag about prosperity and the corner. Had the American public been forced to face the facts in 1929 as they ultimately faced them in 1933, it is quite likely much of our devastation and our present burden of public debt might have been avoided.

President Roosevelt has played the role of hero rather better than most. His life and his smile and soft radio voice all lend themselves to the role he has assumed. He has kept his audience amused and constantly has shifted scenes to keep them from ennui. Comparatively few cab-ages have been heaved to the stage until within recent months. Nevertheless, it is predicted, those who remain until the final curtain will witness no great demand for encores. Already there is a murmur running through the crowds, some of the supporting cast have already left the show and suspicion is rampant that the stage hands have used about all the possible light changes and all the drops.

Americans in recent years have mixed hero worship with politics to a marked degree. They evidently have voted for magicians rather than for statesmen. When these magicians have once used their bag of tricks the act begins to pall and the gallery gods begin their cat-calls. Then the show is about over.

If, the Dopester, is correct. He should write another warning to the electorate and the political writers. Our public affairs ought to have as much consideration as the baseball diamond—perhaps a little more.

MICHIGAN LOSES JOHNSON

Frank R. Johnson was a victim of the hectic days preceding 1930. As head of a sales organization promoting a widely marketed food product, Mr. Johnson literally burned himself out. He was told he had little time left in which to live and that only if he quit business entirely. Obeying the warnings of his medical advisers he came to north Michigan, seeking a quiet spot and refuge from the maddening pace he had been following. The woods and the streams and the peaceful lakes did the trick and Frank Johnson gradually gained strength and approached a return to health.

This man had lived too long amid the struggles of business to long continue in strict retirement. He began to dream of some business he could follow and still enjoy the outdoors and the recreative atmosphere of the northland. He found a favored spot on the shores of Houghton Lake. There on a slight rise of ground, facing a crescent beach of clean white sand, back of him whispering pines and cedars, he envisioned a great summer playground where men and women like himself might come and rebuild tired bodies and restore ragged nerve cells and find peace and content as he had found it. Quietly he went about buying some land, 1500 acres of it. Then he began to build the playground of his dreams—a great lodge of rough-hewn logs with open fires and inviting nooks; rows of modest cottages where families might spend a day or a week or a month in fishing or hiking or golfing or along bridle paths, living plainly without ostentation but in complete enjoyment and relaxation. He brought into his dream the experiences of a busy and successful business life and to the surrounding territory the inspiration of his genius. He made of Johnson's Tavern and resort, a nationally known institution.

To close associates Mr. Johnson sometimes told of his fight back to health, of his dream to make his resort of equal value to others suffering as he had suffered, of his hopes for the future—hopes of his own future and his own for the region he had chosen for his comeback. Few men enjoyed greater satisfaction in their success than Frank Johnson and by success is not meant the money profits which came from the business because those profits were not great but rather that success which marks any venturesome enterprise which finally proves its own merit. Mr. Johnson had plenty of means. He did not have to operate a resort hotel. He did it because he enjoyed seeing men and women lose themselves and their physical and mental troubles amid the surroundings his own genius had provided.

Would that every Michigan vacation resort might be presided over by men like Frank Johnson. Then indeed would this state become a real playground and a real center of recreation.

Conservationist, promoter, hotel greeter, sportsman, good citizen—in whatever field he found himself his leadership was instantly recognized and his advice sought.

Frank Johnson died last week aboard ship on a cruise to South America. In his passing Michigan loses a great leader in the development of its outdoor resources.

NO REVOLUTION IN SIGHT

If there is one type of public statement more despicable than another it is the oft heard statement that, had it not been for the orgy of spending opened up in 1933, the people of this nation would have armed themselves for revolution. Such statements are distasteful outrages on the American public.

Because Coxy led an army to Washington back in the nineties; because some soldiers of the late war, inflamed and aroused by flannel-mouthed politicians, marched on Washington during the Hoover administration; because here and there at some state capital a few hundred aroused farmers or miners or some other group marched on their state capitol is no sign that the American public was about to rise up as the French of old did to slaughter and to pilfer and to destroy. Americans never have done so. There is not the slightest indication they were about to do so or possibly would have done so.

There are many important social and economic questions which must be faced squarely and settled according to equity and justice. Not one of these can be settled satisfactorily if fear of revolution is to guide the discussions. Intelligent and honest editors and public speakers should be ashamed to inject the theory of fear of revolution when such problems are presented.

BUREAUCRACY

One day last week it was the privilege of this writer to listen to a distinguished jurist discuss the growth of bureaucracy in government from a constitutional viewpoint. The dangers of the system to our personal liberties were pointed out.

There is another side to the question.

Three years ago a temporary economy wave hit Washington. A hard hearted congress decreed that government employees must get along on 15 days vacation, plus Sundays and holidays plus 30 days sick leave. Now congress is righting that wrong, granting 26 days vacation, plus Sundays and holidays, plus up to 120 days of sick leave.

Who pays for this?

A $1200 stenographer in private employment donates one day's work each week to carry the burden of government. A farmer who is lucky if he gets a half day off for the county fair, contributes $15.50 out of every $50 he accumulates. Others donate accordingly to a system which not only threatens our liberties but also bids fair to drain our pocket books.

What Other Editors Have to Say

It Is No Crime To Be An American!

Tremendous pressure is being exerted in this country today to silence the voice of Americanism.

To speak out in defense of the American system, to oppose undermining of the supreme court or the constitution, even to become critical of half-brained legislative fantasies is to be labeled "a Tory." Or a part of those "forces of privilege and greed."

Perhaps you can remember when it was a high crime to attack the foundations of America. But:

Today radicalism goes unchallenged. It is only those who speak against radicalism who are denounced. Who face inquisition and prying into their private affairs.

Who inquires officially what the United Mine Workers of America does with its $2,500,000 "war chest," which the New York Times says it possesses? Who knows, or inquires what amounts are being spent by the Communist party in this country or similar radical organizations?

The business men of America want re-employment and recovery above all else. With it they want the maintenance of the liberties of every citizen—rich and poor.

Americans today confront their severest challenge to speak forth boldly. Not to be intimidated by those who make it popular to sneer at progress through democracy, compared with reactionary centralized government.—Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

No Parallel

There is no parallel between the dismissal of Major-General Haggood and disciplinary action taken in recent years against General Smedley Butler and General William Mitchell.

The outspoken Butler made certain charges, unsolicited, before members of a private club which caused somewhat of a strain between Italy and the United States. General Mitchell went over the heads of his superior officers in matters pertaining to aviation. In neither instance was an opinion solicited, in neither instance were the statements made before a congressional committee on inquiry. General Mitchell adopted such a chip-on-the-shoulder attitude that his dismissal was necessary for the sake of discipline. Butler's error was one of poor taste and lack of judgment. His excuse was that he thought his remarks were being made in strict privacy; that he expected his words to go no further than the walls of the room in which he spoke.

General Haggood, on the other hand, was asked certain questions, gave his replies before a congressional committee of inquiry before which even the highest of officials are supposed to speak with perfect freedom—and was dismissed for telling the truth.—The Hastings Banner.

"Painless" Taxes Really Hurt

By RAYMOND PILCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

During recent months American has heard a growing volume of protest against the so-called "painless taxes." That is the term used by politicians to describe those taxes which are not levied directly; but are hidden, instead, in the cost of food, shelter and other necessities. The theory is that what the average citizen doesn't know about the costs of government won't hurt him—and that it won't hurt the officials who fix those costs, either.

But unfortunately for the theory, such taxes are beginning to attain a high degree of visibility. For a while they were discernible only in the rising cost of living. Now they have come more clearly into the light. A recently published analysis of Federal income source tells the story much as follows:

In 1923, direct taxes on income, corporations, etc., produced 53 1/2 per cent of our Federal revenue, while indirect taxes (baked into your bread and woven into your clothes) produced 41 1/2 per cent—approximately $782,900,000.

In 1933, direct taxes produced only 42 per cent of our revenue, while indirect taxes climbed to 58 per cent—approximately $1,091,000,000.

In 1934, direct taxes produced 34 per cent of our Federal income, while indirect taxes soared to 66 per cent—approximately $1,974,100,000.

In 1935, the proportion of hidden taxes dropped a bit. Direct taxes produced 38 1/2 per cent, while indirect taxes accounted for 61 1/2 per cent. But the total of invisible taxes continued to soar. It rose to approximately $2,234,800,000.

Who paid those taxes hidden in the cost of living? The rich? To a minor degree. But the overwhelming share was paid by that huge majority of average citizens who labor to buy food and clothes and shelter for themselves and their families. And the larger the family, the higher the bill.

To whom, then, are hidden taxes "painless"? To no one, it would seem. And certainly not to the great body of American workers and earners who continue to pay them in the form of rising prices for almost everything they buy.

New - - - and Finer!

THE imposing new funeral car we have just purchased through A. G. Spenny & Sons is the product of the Henney Motor Company, an organization famous for finer mortuary equipment.

Our new funeral car is beautiful, but it is exceedingly practical, as well. It is so designed that the casket may be inserted from either side, or from the end. This provision makes it easy to quickly and conveniently relieve the pallbearers of their duties under any circumstances.

This new and finer funeral car is being placed in service immediately. Ball service continues to advance, while Ball prices remain, as always, within the reach of everyone.

If all the freight cars on U. S. Class 1 railroads were loaded simultaneously they would make up a train carrying a 93 billion-ton cargo.

Contrary to belief, U. S. Class 1 railroads have steadily reduced fares until today they average lower than in 1921.

The pay envelopes of all Class 1 railroad employes last year contained $1,519,351,725, an increase of $116,000,000 over the preceding year.

Increased efficiency in the use of fuel is estimated to have saved U. S. Class 1 railroads 478 million dollars since 1922.

McCormick-Deering

HERE we are with the New McCormick-Deering Farmall 20 Tractor. This model has practically the same physical dimensions as the regular Farmall—but it has a good 10 per cent more power, 4 forward speeds, enclosed steering gears, and enclosed steering brakes.

The advantages of the additional power and extra speeds which make the Farmall 20 more flexible are appreciated when it comes to pulling 2 plow bottoms and the heavier tillage tools in tough going, operating 4-row cultivators, 2-row Farmall corn pickers, 2-row potato diggers, and all drawbar, belt, and power take-off jobs. Farmall 20 speeds are 2 1/2, 3 1/2, and 3 3/4 miles per hour.

You will admire the Farmall 20 when you see it at work. It has all the features that have made the regular Farmall famous. Ask us about it now.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TESTING ASSOCIATION PLANNED.
Tuesday evening, March 10, at the Okemos school is the time and place selected by officers of the Lansing-Ingham Dairy Herd Improvement association for their annual business meeting and reorganization. Birkholz of Lansing is president of the Lansing-Ingham group. For the past two years Wallace Bedell of near Grand Ledge, has been the tester.

A System That Seldom Fails

The housewife with a well stocked cupboard teaches an excellent lesson in saving. In case of unexpected company; in case of blocked roads that prevent grocery delivery; or in case of no income she is assured, at least, against going without food for a short time.
She places a surplus in her cupboard today, that she may be ready for an emergency tomorrow.
A dollar that you have in your pocket is easy to spend and sometimes foolishly. A dollar used to start a savings account at this bank is the start of a fund that may be built up to meet an emergency or to be used when there is not a regular income.

Chiropactic Principles Stressed
Mason, March 5.—The following article is copied from the November issue of "Science Sideights" and is under the above heading:
"Recognition of Chiropactic principles is clearly demonstrated in an article by Janet Lane, well known supervisor of posture at Bellevue hospital Medical School, which appeared in the magazine section of the New York Herald Tribune, June 16. Stressing the important relation of body mechanics to health, the article states:
"Your body is designed like any other machine, with your bones forming the strong supporting framework and your muscles acting as the belts and pulleys. Naturally, then, they must all lie in accurate adjustment if the juice or current—your blood and nerve energy—are to flow through and keep everything running smoothly."

Lansing Judge Brings Father & Son Message

COMMUNITY BANQUET HELD AT METHODIST CHURCH.

"Human selfishness is the greatest obstacle to our happiness and progress and must be overcome in the life of the individual," was the theme of the address given by Judge Sam Street Hughes at the community father and son banquet held at the Methodist church Friday night. The speaker interested his hearers as he drew home his points by apt illustrations. The common trait of selfishness he termed as "the old hog instinct" and insisted that it be overcome by wholesome surroundings in home and community, and by constant effort at character building. Louis Woodard spoke for the sons and said that inasmuch as man do not commonly express affection one for another it may be more difficult for a son to show the feeling he has for his father than that which he has for his mother. Yet he assured the fathers of the high esteem that every son holds for his dad. Owing to the illness of Floyd Taylor, Rev. James Bowler spoke in behalf of the men. He pointed out that the fathers of no generation ever reach their ideals, but each one has a deep faith that his son may come nearer the ideal than he has, and the son is most gratifying to his father when he plays the game of life better than his dad. This is the method of progress, he said.

Miss Bertha Hays pleased the audience by a reading entitled "My Dad", which she wrote for the occasion. The music on the program was supplied by a quartet consisting of Messrs. Bailey, Ellis, Bowler and Carns, conched by Mrs. Clarence Haugh and accompanied by Miss Hattie Lucas, and a baritone solo sung by Brewster Ellis. The program was handled by Bruce Ball as toastmaster.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Disseminated through The Ingham County News by the State Joint Committee on Public Health Education, comprising the Michigan State Medical Society, the University of Michigan, Michigan Department of Health, Wayne University College of Medicine, Michigan State Dental Society, Michigan Tuberculosis Association, Michigan State Nurses Association, Michigan State Conference of Social Work, Wayne County Medical Society Committee on Education, State Department of Public Instruction, the Michigan Division of the American Red Cross, Michigan State College, and the Michigan State Hospital Association.

The tuberculosis health code is an outstanding contribution of the educational campaign against tuberculosis in the state, according to the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

This code was sponsored by the Michigan Department of Health and the association working together. Such a law is a basic necessity toward carrying out a state program for the further reduction in the death rate from this dread disease.

By provision of the law, tuberculosis now is declared definitely to be a communicable disease dangerous to the public health. Every practicing physician is required to notify in writing the health officer of the district in which the case occurs of every case of tuberculosis which comes under the professional observation.

Furthermore, it is the duty of the health officer to provide for the care, treatment and hospitalization of any is unable financially to provide for himself. Once illness is proved, other considerations are secondary.

This provision marks a distinct advance. Under the old law, the chief emphasis was placed on the indignity of the patient. Before any relief measures whatsoever were forthcoming the patient had to go to a poor commissioner (1) as to his legal residence, (2) as to his indigency, (3) as to his illness. The poor commissioner was concerned with the person's illness only after his residence and indigency were determined.

Under the present code, the person's illness is primary inasmuch as tuberculosis is a communicable disease dangerous to the public health.

The present law further provides that the health officer shall present to the board of supervisors of the county

OBITUARY

Mrs. Louisa Thornburn

Louisa M. Lott was born in Batavia, New York, May 12, 1855. At the age of three months she came with her parents to Michigan and located in Holt. After her marriage to James B. Thornburn in 1874, she lived on the Thornburn homestead, one mile south of Holt. Late in November, 1920, she and Mr. Thornburn with their daughter Rose, moved to their new home in Holt, where she and the daughter have lived ever since. Mr. Thornburn having passed away in 1921. She was a faithful and loyal member of the Presbyterian church of Holt, and a highly respected citizen. Her life was a life of service and kindness to others. On August 15, 1935, she suffered a stroke from which she never recovered, and from that time she has been confined to her bed. Since she had two more strokes, a short time ago, she has been unable to get up and has quietly and peacefully passed away on the morning of Washington's birthday, February 22, 1936, being in her 81st year. She bore her misfortune with great patience and courage, meeting those whom she was able to see with a cheerful smile and a handshake, always showing greater interest in others than in herself. She was the mother of three children, one son and two daughters, Royal E. Thornburn, who was taken away in 1912, and Miss Rose B. Thornburn, of Holt, and Mrs. Nettie M. Pollock of Potosky. She is also survived by three grandchildren, John T. Pollock of Detroit, James Russell Pollock of New Haven, Connecticut, and Mrs. Cecile Louise Hoffman of Lansing, and two great grandchildren, Linda Pollock and David Hoffman. There are also two brothers, Prof. H. C. Lott of Ypsilanti, and F. C. Lott of Holt, and one sister, Miss Emma Lott of Lansing.

The following beautiful tribute to an idealized statement of the expenses incurred in the care of the tuberculosis patient together with his approval of the reasonableness of the charges. It is up to the board of supervisors to pass upon the reasonableness of the charges and, if concurring, the county meets the expense.

The effect of this law should be far-reaching. It is just the thing needed to enable the forces fighting tuberculosis to get a toe-hold on the enemy—that will enable health departments to ferret out those things in the social order that retard the lowering of the death rate.

his sister was presented by her brother, Prof. H. C. Lott, of Ypsilanti: "You are dead—life has but set you free. Your years of life were like a lovely song. The last sweet poignant notes of which hold long. Passed into silence while we listened, we who loved you, listened still expectantly! And we about you, whom you moved among. Would feel that grief for you were surely wrong.— You have but passed beyond where we can see. To us who knew you, dread of age is past! You took life, (I hope), to the very last. It never lost for you its lovely lullaby. You kept your interest in its thrilling book! To you, death came, no conqueror, in the end.— You merely smiled to greet another friend."

FILM NEWS

MASON THEATRE

Shirley Temple comes to the Mason Theatre Friday and Saturday in "Curly Top," acclaimed by critics and public alike as just about the most pleasing and entertaining picture this charming and lovely little child star has ever made. The story shows Shirley and Rochelle Hudson as sisters in an orphan asylum, from whose rigid and repressing atmosphere they are rescued to live in the luxury of a refined home. John Boles is the wealthy and kindly young lawyer who has adopted them, but he tells them that their benefactor is a mysterious "Hiram Jones." When a promising romance between Boles and the older sister is threatened by a misunderstanding, little Shirley straightens out the tangle and brings the affair to a happy termination. A very good supporting cast is given in the picture, and Shirley is really the whole show, singing, dancing, acting with effortless artistry, dignity and character, and breathing life and gaiety into every scene of hers in this very pleasing story. Beside the usual evening performances a Saturday matinee is announced at 2 p. m. Two comedies complete this program.

Zasu Pitts in her funniest picture is promised for Sunday and Monday, when "She Gets Her Man" comes as the feature attraction. Imagine Zasu as an accidental heroine who unwittingly falls a bank robbery, and is promptly acclaimed by the press as "the bravest woman in America!" Under the direction of an enthusiastic press agent she starts on a lecture tour, arousing the women of the country in a campaign against crime. But it is when she meets the entire gangster organization of a great city that the fun becomes riotous, and the climax of the story is as startling as it is funny. Hugh O'Connell, Helen Twelvetrees, Lucien Littlefield, Warren Hymer and many other popular players also contribute largely toward making this picture one of the big laughing successes of the season. Other attractions on this program include an Oswald cartoon and the Universal News.

Combining the qualities of political drama and mystery melodrama, "The Glass Key" in which George Raft comes to the Mason screen next Tuesday and Wednesday, is unusually strong and vital entertainment. Raft returns to the he-man type in which he first won prominence, this time in the role of a big city politician. His attempt to close the crooked gambling houses of the city brings him into conflict with a powerful underworld element, also with the yellow newspapers of the city, who try to hang a murder charge on his lieutenant, Edward Arnold. Melodrama, tense and gripping, marks every scene from this point to the startling climax of the tale. Claire Dodd, Guinn Williams, Robert Gleckler, Tammany Young and a big Paramount cast of principals, a color cartoon, "Dancing On The Moon," and Tom Mix in "The Miracle Rider" are also on the mid-week bill.

DEFEAT CLOSES SEASON FOR MASON CAGE TEAM

MAROONS ARE DEFEATED BY ST. MARYS TEAM.

Grand Lodge Beaten By Mason Friday Night, Maroons Now Pointing For District Tournament.

Both victory and defeat were tasted by the Mason high school basketball team to close the regular season Monday night. Last Friday Mason met the Grand Lodge team 21 to 14 but on Monday night fell victim to the sparkling St. Marys team of Lansing by the count of 34 to 19. However, the defeat was not unexpected as the Lansing parochial team has had a great year, defeating a number of Class B teams. In fact, the score of the St. Marys-Mason game was closer than the majority of games played by the Lansing team this year.

With the regular schedule out of the way the Maroons are pointing themselves for the district tournament to be played in Lansing this week. Mason has entered Class B this year in order to play with natural rivals. Eaton Rapids and Charlotte clash in the opening game of the district tournament Thursday night on the Vocational field house floor. East Lansing will take on the winner Friday night. On that night, also Mason and St. Johns clash. The Mason-St. Johns tilt is scheduled for nine o'clock. The championship is to be decided Saturday night when either Mason or St. Johns will play the winner of the upper bracket.

St. Johns is the only team entered in Class B in the Lansing tournament which is not a member of the Little Six. Coach Dean of St. Johns had his team on the sidelines at the St. Marys game Monday night to have a look at the Maroons. However, the St. Johns lads did not learn much as the St. Marys gym is a piano box affair while the tournament is to be played on the expansive Vocational floor. The Maroons used a zone defense against the parochials and will be forced into a man-to-man style in the tournament.

Grand Lodge Easy

The Grand Lodge team did not offer very strenuous opposition for the Maroons. Coach Gordon Dawson made frequent substitutions to give all his charges a chance. Mason had a lead of 9 to 4 at the quarter, 15 to 7 at the half, 25 to 11 at the three-quarter mark and ended out in front 31 to 14. Saelens had a good night with four baskets to lead the Maroon attack. Dietrick and Youngs were next with three baskets each. Haase and Parker also contributed to the scoring column. Wiseman and VanDriessen made most of the visitors' points. Both teams were inactionary from the foul stripe, the Maroons sinking only three out of nine tosses while Grand Lodge counted only 4 out of 14 chances.

The Mason reserves beat the Grand Lodge reserves 20 to 15. DeRose led the Mason attack with four baskets. Petty, Dietrick and Fancher also made floor shots for Mason. Barker of Grand Lodge kept his team in the running with three nice shots the first half.

St. Marys Too Good

Brogan, the St. Marys star, lived up to his reputation. Although he was somewhat cramped by the Maroon defense, still he sank six baskets for 12 of his team's points. However, the 34 to 19 score in view of scores run up by St. Marys against other teams, was no disgrace for Mason. Until the last quarter Mason was in the running. St. Marys was ahead only 6 to 4 in a tight first quarter. At the half the lead had been increased to 10 to 4. The third period ended 18 to 12 in favor of St. Marys but in the last quarter Mason wilted and St. Marys shot far out in front.

Corr, St. Marys substitute forward, gave the Lansing team the edge in the last half when he sank four baskets. Mason was again weak on penalty shots, missing six out of 15. Haase made only three out of eight. Dietrick made two out of three while Saelens, Youngs, Huntington and Parker made their single shots without fail. Haase is usually accurate but his shots failed to stay down Monday night. The game

Howell Boots Chance For Conference Title

HIGHLANDERS FORCED INTO THE WITH EAST LANSING.

Howell and East Lansing share the 1935-36 basketball throne of the Little Six conference. The Highlanders had their golden opportunity Friday night when East Lansing knocked off a fighting Eaton Rapids team 16 to 14. Howell was at the neighboring city of Charlotte and had already taken the opposition once. But the Highlanders bogged down and suffered a 27 to 17 defeat. The moral championship goes to Howell, however, for the Highlanders humbled East Lansing twice during the season.

Mason is largely responsible for causing Howell's downfall. Two weeks ago the Howell lads came to Mason all primed for an easy victory. But the tables were turned and the visitors were stunned by an unexpected defeat. East Lansing's victory over Eaton Rapids tumbled the Cardinals into a tie for third and fourth place. Until three weeks ago the Eaton Rapids outfit seemed headed for the front rank.

Eaton Rapids and Charlotte played to a tie score to interfere with the determining of averages. If the game is considered as a game played and won because neither team lost then Howell, East Lansing, Charlotte and Eaton Rapids are all tied for first place. If the game is considered lost because neither team won then the two Eaton county teams are tied for third and fourth places. If the game is considered as not having been played, then on season's averages the two teams have played one less game and so are out of first place.

Howell lost games to Eaton Rapids, Charlotte and Mason. East Lansing lost a pair of games to Howell and one to Eaton Rapids. Charlotte dropped

Mason Girls Hit Pace To Win Pair Of Games

VAST IMPROVEMENT SHOWN BY FEMININE MAROONS.

Mason high school's girls' basketball team has thrown off wraps this week and has stepped out at a fast clip to win a pair of games. Beaten handsily in earlier games by Dansville and Fowlerville, the Mason girls turned the tables this week. On Monday afternoon the Mason team eked out a 23 to 21 victory over Dansville and on Wednesday afternoon took Fowlerville 17 to 15. In an earlier game Fowlerville trimmed Mason 27 to 11 and Dansville came out ahead 27 to 10.

Poor shooting and lack of team play handicapped the Mason team until the past week but early lessons have been learned and the Maroons put on good exhibitions in both games this week. The forwards, Helen Eggers, Myla Baldwin and Doris Michitsch, Ercella Thompson, the center, and Ruth Peck, Ruth Wigman, Lois Heinzelman and Ellen Field, the guards, have developed a winning stride.

Mason came from behind to beat both teams. In the Dansville game Dansville had a lead of 5 to 4 at the quarter and 16 to 8 at the half. The Maroons, however, opened a drive in the third quarter which quickly closed the gap. With the count knotted at 21 to 21 with 15 seconds to play, Myla Baldwin found the hoop with a neat shot to give Mason a victory. Helen Eggers accounted for 13 Mason points on six goals and a free toss. Myla Baldwin counted three times for six points and Ercella Thompson added four points on a pair of baskets.

Miss Berger with four field goals and three penalty shots led Dansville with 11 points. Miss Hayhoe and Miss Hayes each contributed five points.

Fowlerville led Mason 9 to 5 at the half and appeared to be headed toward an easy victory until Mason took the floor in the third quarter. In less than a minute the score was tied by a pair of nice shots by Miss Thompson and Miss Baldwin. The two teams raced neck and neck the rest of the game with Mason playing excellent basketball, the guards handling the ball well. Leading by one point, Doris Michitsch downed a shot to give Mason the game although Fowlerville counted from the penalty stripe a second before the game ended.

Helen Eggers, in the game for only a few minutes, picked up a point at forward. Myla Baldwin and Doris Michitsch made three baskets each for six points and Ercella Thompson connected twice from the floor for four points.

County League Teams Play At Williamston

SIX TEAMS TO PLAY IN DISTRICT TOURNAMENT.

Six Class C basketball teams from high schools in the Ingham County Interscholastic League will contest in a district tournament in Williamston this week end. On Thursday night Stockbridge will clash with Okemos and Leslie will meet Williamston. On Friday night Fowlerville and Dansville will enter the fray, each team taking on the winners of the first night's games. The district championship game will be played Saturday night.

Fowlerville appears to have the edge in the pre-tourney dope. The Livingston county lads have been piling up some big scores in the last few weeks and look like the class of the county district tourney has been noted for its upsets in recent years and wise ones are looking for a dark horse to carry off the honors. Last week Fowlerville rang up its fourteenth victory in a row and that record ought to be good enough to overcome the tradition of a tournament upset.

Davis Clothing Team Defeats Howell Five

DANSVILLE WINS FROM FOWLERVILLE TEAM.

In the Two County league last week, Davis Clothing defeated Howell at Mason Thursday 50 to 32. Williamston won the battle at Stockbridge 27 to 11 and Dansville defeated Fowlerville at Dansville on Saturday night.

This leaves the league still tied for first place. Davis Clothing and Dansville each having won 10 games and lost 2. Both teams have two games yet to play on the schedule and a game apiece to make up against Howell.

This week's games are Mason at Williamston, Fowlerville at Howell and Stockbridge at Dansville.

With Dawson, Long and Kinnison hitting the bucket from all angles to make 36 of Mason's 50 points, Howell did not have a very strong chance against the Clothiers'.

Howell looked like a winning team in the first quarter and were ahead of the local team 7 to 6. The Davis Clothiers took a spurt in the second quarter to score 19 points to 7 by the visitors. Howell came back strong in the third quarter to hold the score for that session even, but the Clothiers forged ahead again in the last quarter.

Dawson of Mason was the high point man of the evening with 17 tallies to his credit. Randall Lang of the locals and Brigham of Howell each connected with the basket from the floor five times, to score 10 points.

WEATHER OBSERVATIONS

March came in like a lamb and, according to mythology, is likely to go out like a lion. March 1 was a little bit of all right and there are few who regret taking February from the calendar. It was the coldest February on record. The daily average of the temperature during February was 10.3 degrees below normal. January 22 to February 20 was the coldest 30-day period on record for the East Lansing weather bureau. The daily mean temperature was 7.8 degrees. From January 16 to February 22 inclusive, also established a new record of 38 days of continuous sub-normal temperatures resulting in a deficiency of 530 degrees. The previous record was in December of 1917 and January of 1918 when there were 31 days of continuous sub-normal temperatures. February's snowfall amounted to 16.9 inches to exceed the normal of 9.6 inches. There were 16 days during the past month when the mercury dipped below zero at the Mason disposal plant. The deepest dive was on March 21 when minus 22 was recorded. Sixteen below was reached February 2 and February 15.

"Winters, they aren't what they used to be," the old-timers' familiar remark, has been badly upset by present weather records. If it is snowed all the old-timers refers to recent winters have been all they used to be or more. These are the facts, according to H. Merrill Wills, meteorologist of the U. S. weather bureau and director of the Michigan State weather service. During the past 48 years the average Michigan snowfall has been 56 inches. Seven times it has reached 70 inches or more in 1893, 1901, 1909, 1923, 1924, 1926 and 1929. Only three such falls came in the first 35 years of this period, with four in the last 13 years. Incidentally, the north coast of Marquette county has an average fall of 100 inches, exceeded nowhere in the nation except in mountain regions.

Present prospect point to the likelihood of another 70 inch record for Michigan this winter, Wills said. Complaints from highway authorities that the snow this year has been very difficult to move, were explained by Wills, who showed that the repeated, wind packed snowfalls, without warm periods, have resulted in a high density type of snow. Seventeen inches of snow tested at Lansing showed a water density of 3.7 inches, more than double that of normal light, moist snow. The snow in the region of Mackinaw City is the equivalent of 9 inches of water and a sudden thaw will mean serious floods in many places.

L. McIntyre of Vevay, is conducting an experiment. One day this week he scooped snow off a sandy hillside and put it in a pot with a few potatoes. He looks for an early spring and has hopes of new potatoes shortly after Easter.

Although no robins have been reported in Mason and the snow drifts on the north side of buildings and fences are still thick, spring is on the way. In fact, there have been several samples the past week. Last Friday the snow continued to melt although along toward night another light fall came. Saturday was fair and warm until night when the wind shifted to the north and a frigid breeze set in. Sunday was bright although a trifle chilly. More snow came during the night. Monday wasn't much of a day. The sky was overcast with threats of snow and rain. The snow didn't amount to much. Wednesday was a perfect day and the local snow began to melt to break up. More snow came Thursday.

VAST IMPROVEMENT SHOWN BY FEMININE MAROONS.

Mason high school's girls' basketball team has thrown off wraps this week and has stepped out at a fast clip to win a pair of games. Beaten handsily in earlier games by Dansville and Fowlerville, the Mason girls turned the tables this week. On Monday afternoon the Mason team eked out a 23 to 21 victory over Dansville and on Wednesday afternoon took Fowlerville 17 to 15. In an earlier game Fowlerville trimmed Mason 27 to 11 and Dansville came out ahead 27 to 10.

County League Teams Play At Williamston

SIX TEAMS TO PLAY IN DISTRICT TOURNAMENT.

Six Class C basketball teams from high schools in the Ingham County Interscholastic League will contest in a district tournament in Williamston this week end. On Thursday night Stockbridge will clash with Okemos and Leslie will meet Williamston. On Friday night Fowlerville and Dansville will enter the fray, each team taking on the winners of the first night's games. The district championship game will be played Saturday night.

Fowlerville appears to have the edge in the pre-tourney dope. The Livingston county lads have been piling up some big scores in the last few weeks and look like the class of the county district tourney has been noted for its upsets in recent years and wise ones are looking for a dark horse to carry off the honors. Last week Fowlerville rang up its fourteenth victory in a row and that record ought to be good enough to overcome the tradition of a tournament upset.

DANSVILLE WINS FROM FOWLERVILLE TEAM.

In the Two County league last week, Davis Clothing defeated Howell at Mason Thursday 50 to 32. Williamston won the battle at Stockbridge 27 to 11 and Dansville defeated Fowlerville at Dansville on Saturday night.

This leaves the league still tied for first place. Davis Clothing and Dansville each having won 10 games and lost 2. Both teams have two games yet to play on the schedule and a game apiece to make up against Howell.

This week's games are Mason at Williamston, Fowlerville at Howell and Stockbridge at Dansville.

With Dawson, Long and Kinnison hitting the bucket from all angles to make 36 of Mason's 50 points, Howell did not have a very strong chance against the Clothiers'.

Howell looked like a winning team in the first quarter and were ahead of the local team 7 to 6. The Davis Clothiers took a spurt in the second quarter to score 19 points to 7 by the visitors. Howell came back strong in the third quarter to hold the score for that session even, but the Clothiers forged ahead again in the last quarter.

Dawson of Mason was the high point man of the evening with 17 tallies to his credit. Randall Lang of the locals and Brigham of Howell each connected with the basket from the floor five times, to score 10 points.

WEATHER OBSERVATIONS

March came in like a lamb and, according to mythology, is likely to go out like a lion. March 1 was a little bit of all right and there are few who regret taking February from the calendar. It was the coldest February on record. The daily average of the temperature during February was 10.3 degrees below normal. January 22 to February 20 was the coldest 30-day period on record for the East Lansing weather bureau. The daily mean temperature was 7.8 degrees. From January 16 to February 22 inclusive, also established a new record of 38 days of continuous sub-normal temperatures resulting in a deficiency of 530 degrees. The previous record was in December of 1917 and January of 1918 when there were 31 days of continuous sub-normal temperatures. February's snowfall amounted to 16.9 inches to exceed the normal of 9.6 inches. There were 16 days during the past month when the mercury dipped below zero at the Mason disposal plant. The deepest dive was on March 21 when minus 22 was recorded. Sixteen below was reached February 2 and February 15.

"Winters, they aren't what they used to be," the old-timers' familiar remark, has been badly upset by present weather records. If it is snowed all the old-timers refers to recent winters have been all they used to be or more. These are the facts, according to H. Merrill Wills, meteorologist of the U. S. weather bureau and director of the Michigan State weather service. During the past 48 years the average Michigan snowfall has been 56 inches. Seven times it has reached 70 inches or more in 1893, 1901, 1909, 1923, 1924, 1926 and 1929. Only three such falls came in the first 35 years of this period, with four in the last 13 years. Incidentally, the north coast of Marquette county has an average fall of 100 inches, exceeded nowhere in the nation except in mountain regions.

Present prospect point to the likelihood of another 70 inch record for Michigan this winter, Wills said. Complaints from highway authorities that the snow this year has been very difficult to move, were explained by Wills, who showed that the repeated, wind packed snowfalls, without warm periods, have resulted in a high density type of snow. Seventeen inches of snow tested at Lansing showed a water density of 3.7 inches, more than double that of normal light, moist snow. The snow in the region of Mackinaw City is the equivalent of 9 inches of water and a sudden thaw will mean serious floods in many places.

L. McIntyre of Vevay, is conducting an experiment. One day this week he scooped snow off a sandy hillside and put it in a pot with a few potatoes. He looks for an early spring and has hopes of new potatoes shortly after Easter.
