CAMPAIGN COSTS VARY, CANDIDATES DISCLOSE

WILLIE CLUBS FILE ELECTION COST STATEMENT.

There is a wide spread in the cost of political campaigns, sworn statements in the office of County Clerk C. Ross Hillman reveal. Some candidates spend big sums and get elected while others spend big sums and are defeated. However, there are candidates who spend nothing. Some of them get nothing while others get elected.

Although the state law provides that all candidates file sworn statements of their election expenses, many of the candidates overlook or disregard the law. Punitive measures are seldom taken against candidates who do not file expense statements.

Candidates for state and district office must file statements in their home counties. Officers of political clubs must file expense statements with the clerks of counties in which the principal club officers reside.

Ingham was headquarters for Michigan Willie for President clubs and so the expense statement had to be filed with the Ingham clerk. The statement showed receipts of $12,739.51 and disbursements of $10,378.52 throughout the state, leaving a deficit of $2,360.99.

The Ingham County Republican committee filed a statement showing receipts of $5,715.00 and disbursements of $5,218.62, leaving a balance of $497.07 for the 1941 spring campaign.

No statement by the Democratic County committee or the Ingham Jefferson club has yet been filed in Mason.

State Elections Costly
V. J. Brown of Mason was the only state candidate to file in Ingham county. His statement showed expenses of $2,784.57 with contributions of $2,600.00 acknowledged.

Judge John McClellan, re-elected to the probate court bench, spent $300.39; all his own money. His opponent, Joe C. Foster, has not yet filed a statement.

LaVerne J. Hendryx, successful candidate for county surveyor, spent not a cent on his campaign. Neither did Lal A. Wirick, unsuccessful candidate for county coroner.

Harry E. Lendley spent $56.00 to be re-elected coroner on the Republican ticket. W. Ray Gorsline, also elected coroner on the Republican ticket, spent $108.30.

Leon E. Webb, unsuccessful candidate for drain commissioner on the Democratic ticket, spent $5.00.

Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, Republican winner for second district representative, spent $110.04 in her campaign. Her Democratic opponent, Ashmon H. Catlin, reported expenditures of $163.04.

Harry F. Hittle, state senator from the 14th district, spent $227.11. Republican opponent, J. C. Bowers reported expenditures of $63.38. Frank O'Connor, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for sheriff, disclosed that he spent $5.00 on his campaign.

Thomas T. Eren, elected mayor of Lansing, filed a report showing costs of $736.03. Jack D. Hervey, elected a Lansing constable, paid out $171.10 on his campaign.

The Republican State Central committee filed its report in Ingham county. It showed collections and donations of $69,029.20 by disbursements of $60,358.70, leaving something for the next campaign. Mrs. Anna Dodge Dillman was the most generous contributor. She donated $4,000.00.

Ingham county's Rushton for Attorney General committee, of which Walter F. Reddy was treasurer, filed a report showing collections of $1,516.50 and disbursements of $1,282.85.

The Democratic State Central committee filed its report in Wayne county. The report showed disbursements of $11,149.00 by the committee with $26,143.00 donated by the successful campaign of Murray D. Van Wagoner for governor. The Van Wagoner-for-governor committee reported disbursements of $13,246.00. The report was filed in Wayne county.

Onondaga Man Passes, Neighbor Finds Body
HAD LIVED ALONE FOR SEVERAL YEARS.

James H. Shaw, 76, was found dead in his home near Kennebecville in Onondaga township last Saturday morning by Clarence Trefry, a neighbor. Deputy Sheriff Frank Cook and Justice William S. Seelye of Mason, who acted as coroner, investigated and found that no inquest was necessary. Dr. William E. Kraft of Leslie was also summoned. He said Shaw's death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage and that the man had been dead about three hours when the body was discovered at 8:30.

Trefry went to the Shaw house to see about the fire when he noticed that no smoke was coming from the Shaw chimney. Shaw had lived alone for several years.

TO MAKE GARMENTS
Mrs. J. G. Rakowsky of East Lansing was present at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Tuesday night to discuss Red Cross work. Plans were made for a meeting of anyone interested in Red Cross work to be held at the Legion Memorial building Tuesday night at 7:30 for organization of a Red Cross unit in Mason. Boys' hose, boys' pants, dresses, convalescent gowns, and sweaters are among the garments to be made by the group. Arrangements are being made for materials, patterns and yarn, which will be furnished.

LEARNING TO BE PILOT

CHAN H. ROBINSON

Another Mason youth is now in uniform. Chan H. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eber J. Robinson of Mason, left Monday for Fort Custer from where he was sent to the air corps school at Jackson, Mississippi, for pilot training. Robinson is enrolled as a cadet. He passed the physical tests September 3. He will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the reserves at the end of nine months of training if he passes all the flying tests.

The young cadet is a graduate of Holt high school with the class of 1936. He was a stellar football player at Holt. Now in his senior year at Michigan State college, he has had two years of training with the R. O. T. C. Last summer he took a special advanced course at Fort Sheridan, At Fort Sheridan he was in an anti-aircraft regiment. After service with the anti-aircraft troops Robinson decided to try the other end of the service—aviation. He has had three years in chemical engineering at Michigan State where he has paid his own way by working.

SNOW REMOVAL BLOCKED BY PARKING IN STREET

MAYOR ASKS COOPERATION OF CAR OWNERS.

Mason's snow removal equipment, purchased recently, is not doing the work expected of it because of the careless automobile parking done by city residents. Work of removing the snow Tuesday night was handicapped because on most of the residential streets cars were left parked in the streets. On East Oak and Elm Bowers reported, 22 cars were parked alongside the curbs and some of them perilously close to the center of the street.

Mayor Arthur W. Jewett said, "The council bought the new truck and snow plow so that Mason streets could be kept open for traffic. However, many Mason residents persist in parking their cars directly in front of their houses. On Tuesday night when almost everyone was asleep the driver of the snow plow came along and had to dodge to the center of the street to miss the parked cars. One trip down a street is all that can be made. The city has a number of streets to open and only one plow with which to do it."

"Ice forms around parked cars. The city truck and plow are often damaged when the plow strikes the ice. Whether ice forms or not, the plow throws up a windrow of snow around the parked car. In the morning the householder often telephones the mayor or an alderman to demand that the equipment be sent back to plow back the snow around the car."

"The city council is trying to perform a service for the public. To do it, the council must have the cooperation of every car owner in the residential as well as the business section. Cars should be parked in back yards, vacant lots or even front yards. They must not be parked in the streets during the winter. A city ordinance prohibits all-night curb parking in the business section and the council asks that the same rules be followed by those who live in residential areas."

Comedy Is Selected As Senior Production

ANNUAL PLAY TO BE PRESENTED DECEMBER 6 AND 7.

"Dollars to Doughnuts," a farce comedy in three acts, has been chosen by the Mason high school senior class as the vehicle to star-dance for senior Theatians. Douglas Watson of the school faculty is directing the rehearsals. The play will be presented two nights, Friday and Saturday, December 6 and 7, in the school auditorium. Tickets are now on sale.

Gypsy Tribe Invades Ingham County Jail

Eleven gypsies, six men, three women and two children, are temporary guests of Ingham county. The gypsy tribe, all members of one family, was taken off a Detroit-Lansing bus by state police Thursday morning and brought to the jail at Mason to be held for investigation. The two children were taken to the juvenile detention home. Fingerprints of the men and women were sent to Washington to be compared with FBI records.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

POLITICAL BOSSES ACCUSED OF GRAFTING.

The McKay-McKeehan-Barnard political machine which was shattered at the Republican convention last fall was hailed to the jury on Wednesday when indictments were returned. Frank D. McKay, member of the National Republican committee and for 15 years the czar of politics in West Michigan, and William H. McKeehan, former Flint mayor and long affiliated with the McKay forces at state Republican conventions, were among those indicted on graft charges.

McKay is accused of conspiring with 11 others to profit at the state's expense. He is charged with shuffling down Edsel Ford to pay fictitious Republican deficit and pocketing the money himself. McKay is also charged with reaping a handsome profit off state liquor purchases throughout the administration of Frank D. Fitzgerald and Frank Murphy.

Others who will be tried in federal court on graft charges include Fred C. Sherman, secretary of the state liquor control commission; John H. Marolf, Upper Peninsula Democratic politician; Fisher L. Layton, former Flint official; James A. Trimble, Flint business man; Don E. Flory, Hudson; Charles H. Williams, of Windsor; Isidore Schwartz, reputed to have been a bodyguard for a former state official; Charles Lester, Detroit; Louis H. Luckoff, vice president of Bass-Luckoff, Inc., a Detroit advertising agency; and a hundred Republican campaign advertising and part of the Michigan state fair account; Wellington E. Niles, buyer in the purchasing division of the state administrative board; Charles T. Tombley, Bay City clothing broker; and Henry Galster, wealthy Petoskey business man.

The federal charges are based on the use of the mails to defraud. Indictments made no mention of the Blue Water bridge deal by which McKay profited.

Arraignment of the accused in federal court was scheduled for Thursday.

Isiah Leabov, Clare oil magnate who was recently murdered, was also mentioned in the grand jury action. He was an important advisor in the Comstock Democratic administration.

SERIOUS HURT RESULTS FROM UNUSUAL MISHAP

MAN WALKING BEHIND TEAM CRUSHED BY CAR.

Eugene Hadwin, young Vevay farmer, was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon when he was struck and carried into a ditch by a car driven by Alvin Lathrop of Belaire. When the car struck the ditch it overturned and pinned Hadwin beneath it. The young man, a Mason high school student until two years ago, was taken to the Coraush hospital in Mason with a brain concussion, a possible fractured skull and a bruised chest. On Thursday morning his condition was reported as considerably improved.

Hadwin had been working in a field at Sam McMann farm on the Howell road. Early in the afternoon he unhitched his team, drove them to the road and down the highway. The driver of the car was on his way from the home of friends at Williamston to call on Mason relatives. He was driving his car at a speed of not more than 25 miles an hour, officers were told.

Mr. Lathrop said, "The road was slippery and the snow was falling fast. I was about 50 feet behind another car and did not think it wise to try to pass it. As I came over a hill I saw a car ahead pass the team. The horse reared and swung around in the road, with the driver in the center of the highway. In trying to swing to the left around the man my car skidded against a guard rail post and then I lost control. The car picked up the man in the road and the next I knew I was climbing out of the car which was upside down in a ditch."

"I saw the body and legs of the teamer sticking out beneath the car. His head was beneath the running board. I picked up the broken section of guard rail post and with the help of another man we pried the car up and dragged the man out. I thought he was dead."

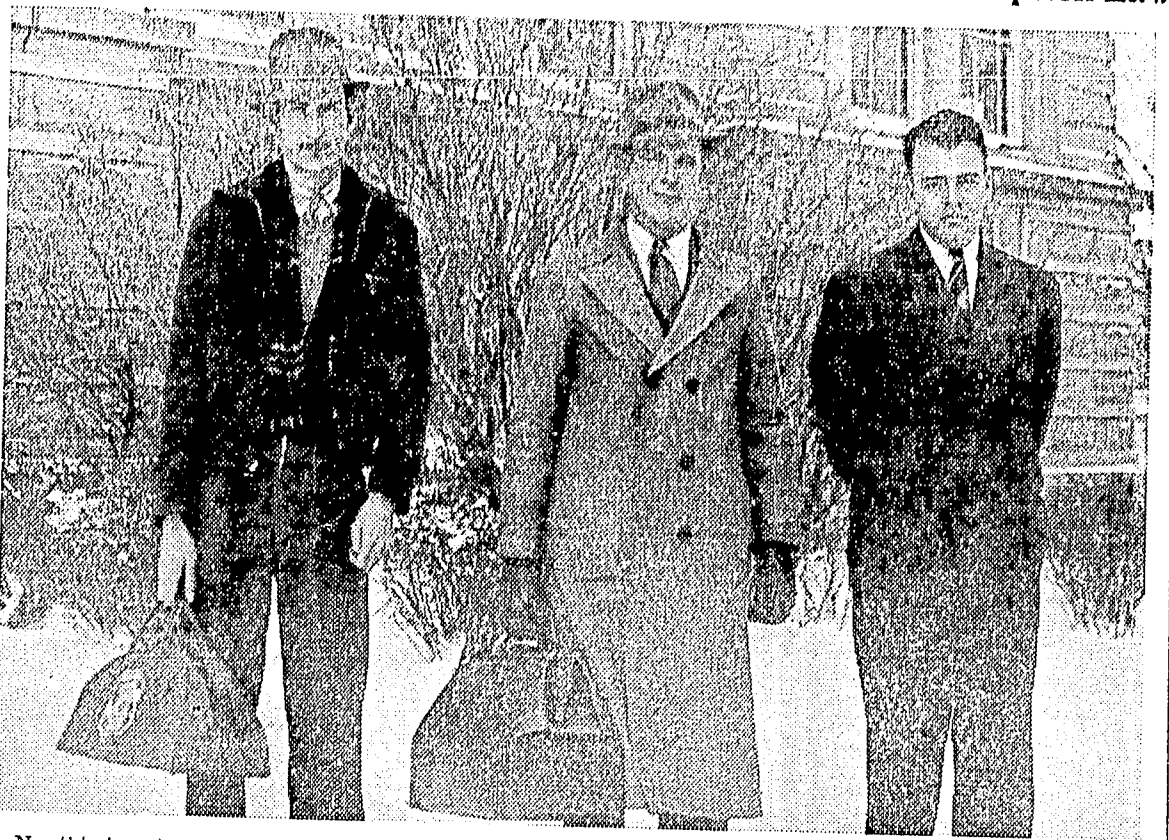

Tuesday's accident was the first accident Mr. Lathrop has had in 30 years of driving. He has driven ever since 1910 and for five years operated trucks.

Cars Collide
William W. Hazelton of Aurelius and Harry W. Seeger of Lansing received facial injuries when their cars collided three miles west of Mason on the Columbia road at the height of the storm Tuesday afternoon. Hazelton was driving his car west. Seeger was driving a panel delivery east. The cars collided head-on, damaging both vehicles considerably. Hazelton received deep cuts about his face and Seeger was cut above his left eye. Neither car was being driven more than 25 miles per hour, officers were told.

Cars driven by H. E. Hartwell of Williamston and Leo E. Glynn of Mason collided on the Howell road, three miles east of Mason, Tuesday afternoon. Vision was obscured by the snow and the highway was slippery. Neither car was seriously damaged and neither man was hurt. Two men were unhurt in Mason Wednesday night when their cars collided. Richard E. Scott, Lansing, was driving east on East Ash street, near the county park. A short distance behind was a car driven by Frost Updyke of Stockbridge. Scott turned to the left to drive to a gas station and the driver of the other car was unable to get it under control. It rammed Scott's car in the side. Both cars were considerably damaged.

First Three Men To Leave Ingham For Training Under Conscription Law

No, this is not a modern version of Valley Forge. It is a picture taken Wednesday morning, at the south entrance to the court house, of the three Ingham men from Draft District No. 1 who volunteered their services under the draft law. They were off for the year of service. Two of them hoped for assignments to mechanized units while the third prefers a medical corps post. From left to right the three Ingham musketeers are Hubert Guy Jerue, Lansing RFD; Harold M. Schertzing, Stockbridge; and Bernard Clare Holmes, Mason.

MEETING NEXT TUESDAY ON STREET DECORATION

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET TO DISCUSS ISSUE.

Mason business men are to meet at the council chamber at eight o'clock Tuesday night in an attempt to work out a holiday decoration program for the business section. In recent years the Mason Kiwanis club has been the sponsor of a program of street decoration, with the business men contributing to the decorating fund. The Consumers Power company has also been a contributor in that energy to light the street Christmas trees and the labor of wiring the trees have been provided free of charge by the utility company.

Order from Consumers Power company headquarters this year is that the local managers stop furnishing power without charge. Glen Conn, local manager of the Consumers, said that executives explained, "We have no right to provide Mason with free electricity while Cadillac and Kalamazoo pay for their own. We have helped Mason out for several years. It isn't fair to other cities and towns. If the Consumers furnish free power for Mason the company should furnish free power for every city and town it serves in the state. Such a program is manifestly impossible and we must abandon it. We are sorry to disappoint Mason business men, but they should consider themselves with the reflection that they have had free power and free labor in past years."

Contributions from business men in past years have been used to purchase special power lines and sockets for wiring the trees. Funds have also been raised to buy trees and streamers.

A. B. Ball has been named to preside at the meeting Tuesday. At the Kiwanis club meeting this week he said, "I am not entirely satisfied with the action of the club last week in abandoning the street decorating program. I believe the majority of the business men favor a group project and are willing to pay for it. In the past we have been able and willing to pay for trees and decorations and there is a probability that business men are also willing to pay for electrical current. In fact, there is no valid reason why the current should not be paid for by the operators."

Dial System Planned In Leslie Territory

MICHIGAN BELL TO BUILD NEW OFFICE.

Leslie will have a new Michigan Bell Telephone office building and a dial system, if plans now under consideration by the company are carried out. The company has secured permission of the village council to erect an office building at the corner of Armstrong and Butler streets, on property purchased 10 years ago from M. P. Compton. Work on the foundation has already been started. It is expected that dial service will be available by the middle of 1941.

Exhibition Is Staged By Mason Physician

There was considerable action in front of the Coraush hospital Monday afternoon when Dr. Jay C. Coraush and a visiting insurance salesman tore up the turf. Those who witnessed the affair and heard the argument which preceded it declared that the salesman asked for what he got. The doctor invaded the doctor's office and made a series of insulting remarks. When he was asked to leave he insisted that the doctor was afraid to accompany the unwanted guest outside. The doctor wasn't afraid, although he said he disliked making a spectacle of himself. On the outside the two men went round and round for several minutes then the skill of the physician and the righteousness of his cause triumphed and the salesman departed to visit another doctor's office. Dr. Coraush dressed his own wounds.

Leaves Teaching Post For Hawaiian Position

FORMER WEBBERVILLE COACH ENTERS INDUSTRY.

Harry B. Smith, coach and science teacher at Northville, has resigned his teaching position for a job in Hawaii. Before going to Northville Smith was coach at Webberville, where he had unusual success. He is a graduate of Michigan State college with the class of 1932. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will sail from Los Angeles late in December for their new home at Lahaina, Island of Maui, where Smith will be connected with the Baldwin Packers Pineapple company. Mrs. Smith has visited in Hawaii.

At Northville Coach Smith has been successful in developing football, basketball and baseball teams.

MAKING INVESTIGATION

Police Chief Ralph S. Hall and sheriff's officers are investigating the breaking of street lights, and windows in the Consumers Power substation and the abandoned Second Ward school. Youths, several of whom were captured in a light-breaking expedition in East Lansing last week, were being questioned by the Mason officers Thursday.

LESLIE MEN ENLIST

Richard Stuart, 24, clerk in the Leslie A. & P. store, and Rex Huts, 23, employed in a Leslie dry cleaning plant, have enlisted in the air corps of the regular army. They will leave Monday and expect to be sent to Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, for assignment.

FIRST CONTINGENT OFF FOR YEAR OF TRAINING

THREE VOLUNTEERS MAKE UP DISTRICT QUOTA.

Hubert G. Jerue, 25, Lansing R. F. D.; Bernard C. Holmes, 21, Mason; and Harold M. Schertzing, 21, Stockbridge, left Mason on the 12:20 Michigan Central train, Wednesday afternoon for Detroit where they will be assigned to training units of the army. They are the first Ingham men to be trained under the one-year clause of the defense measure. None of the three would likely have been called under the draft at this time. All three volunteered.

The three Ingham volunteers are all men. Schertzing and Holmes lack only a couple of inches of being six feet and are as husky as running guards. Jerue exceeds six feet in height but doesn't carry much weight. Schertzing is a farmer and is a handy man with trucks and tractors. He hopes to be assigned to a mechanized unit of the army. Jerue is a truck driver by occupation and in the army he wants to drive a truck or tank, or at least ride in one. He said that he wants to be assigned to the mechanized cavalry, where he won't have to walk and won't have to take care of a horse.

Holmes is a grocer's clerk by occupation. He is interested in medicine and pharmaceuticals and hopes to be assigned to a medical detachment.

Instructions Given
Drafted men are asked to observe the following instructions relative to articles which are prohibited, and those which military authorities desire them to take when they report to induction stations and reception centers:

Baggage—Only minimum hand baggage should be taken. There is no provision for transporting or storage of trunks. Barracks bags will be issued at reception centers.

Shoes—One pair of comfortable and serviceable shoes in good state of repair is essential.

Automobiles—Private automobiles are prohibited.

Athletic Equipment—Men called to service are asked to take with them any athletic equipment they may have.

Musical Instruments—Army officers also request that men take guitars, banjos and other small musical instruments with them.

Pictures—Small photographs are permitted but there will be no place for large pictures in barracks or tents.

Firearms—Firearms and weapons of any kind are not permitted and the owner will have to send them back from camp at his own expense.

Liquor—Liquor in any form is not permitted. If it is taken to induction stations or reception centers it will be confiscated. It is expected that those men selected for service will arrive at induction stations clean and sober, prepared to take physical examinations.

Visitors—Facilities for housing and entertaining visitors in the vicinity of reception centers will be very limited. Money and valuables—Safekeeping of money and valuables will be the responsibility of the owner.

Books and Periodicals—There will be well stocked libraries and reading rooms available at reception centers and posts. It is suggested that periodicals received by mail be not forwarded until the selectee is sent from the reception center and arrives at his organization.

Post Cards—These will be furnished each selectee at the reception center for the purpose of notifying relatives and friends of their arrival at reception center. Similar cards will be furnished when the selectee is transferred to his final station in order that his permanent address will be known.

Toilet Articles and Wearing Apparel—Toilet articles, towels, and a limited amount of clothing in addition to that worn, such as shirts, underwear, socks and handkerchiefs, are desirable. Uniforms and clothing will be issued to selectees within 24 hours after arriving at reception center.

Congressman Makes Appointments Known

MASON YOUTH WINS ALTERNATE APPOINTMENT.

On Monday Representative William W. Blackney of the sixth congressional district, who announced the results of the competitive examinations taken last fall for appointments to West Point and Annapolis academies, Dickson W. Alderton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Alderton of East Lansing, was named principal to Annapolis. James K. Lawrence of Flint is first alternate, Edward O. Skidmore of Lansing is second alternate, and Albert Christensen of Howell is third alternate for the Annapolis appointment.

Clayton C. Fenton of Fowlerville is the principal for the West Point appointment. Richard W. Brown of Mason is first alternate, and Robert C. Hixon of Lansing is second alternate. Principals and alternates take qualifying mental examinations next March and must also take rigid physical examinations. Should the principals fail in the qualifying mental and physical examinations the alternates are next in line for the appointments.

Brown is enrolled at Michigan State college. He was graduated from Mason high school in June. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Brown.

GIVES REPORT OF TRIP

Robert Kilburn, Mason high school junior, appeared before the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night to give a report of his recent trip to the Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City. He represented the Mason chapter of FFA, and the Kiwanis club contributed toward his expenses. Kilburn's account of the trip was interesting. He traveled with 150 Michigan delegates and for 75 per cent of them it was their first rail trip.

One result of the Michigan election is that none of the minor parties received one per cent of the vote and therefore will not have a place at the next election unless enough petitions are filed to give them a place.

The Socialist candidate for president received only 7200 out of almost two million. Only 2763 votes were cast for the Communist candidate; that's about two-thirds of a vote to a precinct. The Prohibitionists cast only 1720 votes for their presidential candidate and the Socialist Labor candidate for president received only 735 votes.

There is little sense in cluttering up the ballots with parties which have no chance for success. Their inclusion on the ballot adds to election costs and often serves to confuse the voters.

THE TOWER OF BABEL

Youths in this day and age are to be pitied—not because of lack of opportunity, because there is probably greater opportunity for youth today than ever before. Youths are to be pitied because they are continually being worked on and worked over by a group of people who can work at little else. Youth as a species is continually held under microscopes, fluoroscopes and atom-smashers while the self-labeled youth experts do their probing and prying—and orating on their expertise.

A fair example is the Conference on Youth Problems staged by 43 so-called youth-serving organizations in Detroit Tuesday. Here is the menu: Talks by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of the department of public instruction; Howard Bell, staff member of the American Youth Commission of the American Council of Education; Clark Tibbitts, director of Institute for Human Adjustment, University of Michigan; George H. Fern, director of state board of control for vocational education; Orin W. Kaye, state NYA administrator; Edward L. Cushman, chief of occupational adjustment services, Michigan State Employment Service; Dr. Howard Y. McCuskey, associate director of American Youth Commission; Dr. John J. Lee, general advisor, college of education, Wayne University; Miss Pauline Redmond, Division of Negro Affairs, NYA; Dr. W. McKinley Robinson, Western State Teachers college; and Wilber M. Brucker, Michigan defense administrator.

What the advisors know about youth problems as related to employment is only by hearsay for few of them have had a day in private employment in 20 years. The experts know exactly what is wrong because they have neither youth nor private jobs, and therefore are uninhibited; and look, most of them have degrees, and few employers have degrees, do they?

Talk, talk, talk—the youths who wait until the self-styled experts complete their probing and come up with the answers will have long whiskers. It's a poor expert who can't dig up a new youth problem every day. We think it a fine thing that such a learned group as that which met in Detroit Tuesday can meet on occasion. They are on the public payroll and they might just as well be around a banquet table in Detroit discussing youth problems as to be at their desks. Yet we do pity the youths under the microscope. We pity them because they may become confused in the Tower of Babel, they may become so confused that their youth is lost before their job is found.

ANTLERLESS DEER

When thinking of the red-blooded sportsmen, at least the red-jacketed sportsmen, who pose as arbiters on everything pertaining to conservation and destruction of game one naturally thinks of men unafraid to speak right out in meeting, men who call a spade a spade, and all that. Yet the so-called sportsmen are now talking about opening the season on does—oh, mercy, no—antlerless deer. The sportsmen haven't the courage to call does by the right name—they want to talk about antlerless deer. That takes in fawns, too.

So far this season more than 600 dead does have been found in the woods by conservation officers. The does, or antlerless deer, were shot by hunters who fired first and looked afterwards. What sport!

Some hunters are prone to think that a conservation program means only more game to be killed. They forget that all of Michigan pays for conservation, that there are thousands of people who prefer seeing their deer alive instead of seeing a carcass roped to a running board. All too often the conservation department forgets that anyone except those who buy hunting licenses have anything at stake in conservation.

Let's all of us stop this talk about antlerless deer and call things by their right names—antlerless deer are does and fawn.

CONDITIONS CHANGE

A few short months ago a committee was handpicked to "investigate" Harry Bridges, the West Coast labor leader. The handpicked committee did what it was supposed to do; it exonerated Bridges of the charge of being an alien and a Communist. Thus ended several years of monkey-business with Bridges. Madame Perkins and the New Deal saved Bridges from deportation to his native Australia.

Now comes the Vultee strike. Wyndham Mortimer, one of the strike leaders, is also accused of being sympathetic to the Communist party. Some claim he is a member. Others say he is just a fellow-traveler.

There should be a house-cleaning in industry and in government of all those with Communist sympathies. Those who are all for Germany, all for Italy and all for England should be tossed out and replaced with men who are all for the United States of America.

The United States of America should command the loyalties of every citizen.

I-Q TESTS

During the past 10 years there has been much discussion about I-Q tests. Pupils in the grades, high schools and colleges have had their intellectual abilities catalogued and all too often the labeling has become more or less public. Boys and girls with average or below average I-Q ratings have been downhearted, at least temporarily, when they have learned their ratings. Many of them have probably looked with awe on boys and girls given high ratings.

Now comes Professor Lewis M. Terman who has made a study of 1300 specially gifted children, boys and girls who have the highest I-Q ratings in the nation. The professor's findings bring hope to those of us who are more or less average. Professor Terman said, "Not more than 40 of these 1300 children will attain national reputations and not more than 12 will become really eminent. There are many other factors associated with eminence and success besides the ability to acquire knowledge or superior intellectual ability."

It develops that it isn't so much the quickness with which a boy or girl learns, but what he or she does with the learning, and how ambitiously the skill is applied.

Eighty-nine Ingham county students are enrolled at the University of Michigan.

Thanksgiving is over for most folks, yet it's surprising the number of families who are still unconvinced that the day is over. The traditional Thanksgiving feast today, the traditional Thanksgiving day, Americans have enough to be thankful for so that two Thanksgivings days can well be used. * * * If David Lawrence has his way the calendar will be all changed around next year; changed in the name of hemispheric defense. Perhaps Lawrence believes changing the calendar around will confuse the dictators.

The Readers Digest this month has a story about the revival of square dancing. It is called a phenomenon which is sweeping the country, Mason is in the forefront. Two short years ago the caller at the Cornucopia dances (every Wednesday night in Mason) had to beg a few old-timers to get in the game and fill up the three or four sets. Last Wednesday night Bert almost had to beg dancers to stay out because there was hardly room enough for the 30 sets, and the great majority of the dancers were youngsters.

Bob Ingham is an enthusiastic square dancer. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brown and their daughter, Helen, came up from Detroit last Wednesday night to have a whirl. Helen claims that even Dynamic Detroiters are now swinging 'em on the corner. * * * I took Jim along last Wednesday night. There was such a crowd that I cautioned him about getting in a circle two-step. "If you are going to get in this dance," I said, "I advise you to grab onto a heavy-weight; otherwise you are liable to get stepped on out there with all those people." Jim asked, "Will I be safe enough dancing with Mother?"

Just about every lawyer in Eaton and Barry counties is a candidate at the state bar exam. The office of circuit judge, the Honorable Judge McPeck, has said he will not be a candidate. * * * My personal nomination, and I don't know more than four lawyers in the two counties, is G. E. McArthur, the Eaton Rapids lawyer, and I think he is one of the few attorneys not yet in the race. I like acid-tongued men like McArthur. They are good for the body politic; they sort of whip up the circulation.

We are riding the range again down on the Sycamore. My boy Jim and I have entered the chicken business. Eggs are to be sold on the cost-plus basis. Our ranch stock was purchased from Doc Langham. He guaranteed the pullets to be all ready to lay. Jim and I are all ready to have them start laying, too, so we just can't understand why the pullets are holding back.

Doc has quite a ranch with a wide variety of fowls. He has ducks, geese, bantam chickens, game chickens, and several breeds of regular chickens besides some fancy crosses. * * * Art Hoffman, formerly of Mason, now of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, has monkeys and guinea pigs as well as rats in his biological laboratory. The Hoffmans like Chagrin Falls and the biological laboratory of American Home Products. The K. A. Zimmermans visited the Hoffmans recently and inspected the laboratory.

Scientists are doing wonderful things these days. One of them told me the other day that within another few years there will be no bald men. The scientist claims that a vitamin is now being isolated which in half the cases is able to restore hair. He also believes that, by dosage of vitamins, kinks may be taken out of or put into hair. The vitamin is not ready for market yet and will not be placed in the hands of the general public until the percentage of baldness cures goes far above the present 50 per cent. One of the present drawbacks is that the vitamin produces a luscious hirsute growth on the chest, arms, legs and jowls as well as the scalp.

I can't seem to find the answer as to why so many boys who have played high school sports for three and four years and have been sold on clean living begin to suck cigarettes as soon as they graduate. Perhaps the ex-athletes don't think they are considered great, big men unless they are smoking? * * * An eminent M. D., to whom I paid plenty for the advice, told me that smoking on an empty stomach and dosing with aspirin are two of the most common causes of stomach ulcer.

He killed the noble Mudjokivis With the skin he made him mittens, Made them with the fur side inside, Made them with the skin side outside.

He to get the warm side inside Put the inside skin side outside; He to get the cold side outside, Put the warm side fur side inside; That's why he put the fur side inside, Why he put the skin side outside, Why he turned them inside outside.

Bob Curry is reluctantly giving up on coverage of Ingham County League sports. He has done a great job despite the obstacles placed in his path by a lot of the schools. Bob is a perfectionist. He said, "I can't get all the league writeups in to me then I don't care about handling any of them. Last year I haven't had that kind. Then, too, the Ingham County News has been the only paper willing to pay a little something for my efforts." * * * That's the situation to date and if the member schools want publicity about the coming basketball campaign they had better begin to sweeten Bob or to make some arrangements for sending their dope direct to the Ingham County News.

Society notes: Miss Elaine Ingersoll and Miss Betty Moore, Lansing dancing teachers who have Mason classes, had their pictures in the Detroit Free Press Monday morning. Both misses are photogenic. * * * Jack Eames is considering raising a mustache. He declares that he can raise one in two weeks. * * * Kay and Mildred Felton come by their smooth dancing naturally. Their mother, Mrs. Ralph Noble, is accomplished in the kerpachorean art. * * * Leroy Lee intends to do his own driving hereafter, girls. * * * Dave Sweeten's dance band shows its wares on Friday night at the Legion Memorial. Good Luck, Dave. * * * We would have had an old-fashioned white Thanksgiving had not the date been changed.

Relief Costs Too High

The first annual report of Thomas Toy, county welfare director, as released in the Ingham County News a few weeks ago, stated that during the first 10 months of "home rule" in welfare administration, a total of $457,460.00 was spent on direct relief, and administrative costs were $78,200.77 additional. The administrative cost therefore in relation to the total spent is just a shade under 15 per cent. That is entirely too high and does not bear out the claim made when the welfare act was considered and passed by the legislature that "home rule" would greatly reduce the cost of administration and at the same time provide better relief.

The records of the former Emergency Relief Administration show that during the last 10 months of its operation the percentage of administration was just a shade under 10 per cent. During those months the average case load for the month was 2460, whereas Mr. Toy reports that the monthly average during his 10 months was 1020. The former case load figure also included nearly 200 Federal Aid cases which are no longer handled by the county welfare unit. Furthermore, steadily improving business conditions have marked the past 15-month period.

Even more significant is the fact that the county welfare director requested from the county board of supervisors for the next fiscal year a total of $93,000 for administrative costs alone. Yet in 1937, during a 12-month period when administrative cost was paid by the state, when presumably we did not have "home rule" in welfare administration, the total administrative cost was $60,843.30, and in that year also the cost of administration was only 10 per cent.

Viewed from the standpoint of the increase in the county tax rate, it is plain that an alarming situation is developing. In 1936 the tax rate for county purposes was 2.0 mills. Today it is 5.5 mills and a number of supervisors have said that to cover the requests made to the board, six mills should have been allocated. May we look forward to at least a 6-mill rate next year? If so, it means that within a five-year period the county tax rate will have doubled.

Now it is one thing to point out these facts but another matter to do something about it. Certainly something can be done about the welfare situation. Administrative costs of 15 per cent are entirely too high and without justification. On top of that, with decidedly improved business conditions and a falling case load the request of Mr. Toy for $93,000 to spend on administration this next year is preposterous. There is a vast substantial difference between the $93,000 spent for 1937 for administration when we had no "home rule" and the $93,000 requested for 1941 under "home rule." Just whose political machine is to be oiled by such increases?

Let it be stated again, that when the present welfare act was passed the promise was made that a decided decrease in the cost of administering relief could be shown. In Ingham county not only has this promise not been kept, but an amazing trend in the very opposite direction is noted.

There is at least a partial solution to this increasing cost. There is no question in the mind of anyone who knows anything about the manner of handling county welfare problems that an integrated county welfare unit would substantially reduce costs and could save the county probably $1,000 per month. It would bring together under one roof and one administration all forms of general relief and all federal social security cases including old age assistance and aid to dependent children.

At the present time there is considerable overlapping in personnel and function, matters about which the general public has not been informed. All of the facts regarding the items entering into the cost of administering relief were brought out into the open, a demand for a unified county welfare set-up would result.

Mason School Notes

By Robert Hadwin
Classes were resumed Monday morning following Thanksgiving vacation.

Basketball practices are well under way. The first game is scheduled with East Lansing on December 13. The boys' "M" club has ordered maroon and blue pencils with the basketball schedule imprinted. They will be on sale soon.

The school cafeteria will begin operating next Monday noon. Mrs. Pearl Hardenburg will be back this year to do the cooking, with the assistance of the home economics department and other volunteers.

The girls in the second year home economics class are redecorating the lunchroom. The color scheme is white trimmed in red and is making the room more light and cheerful.

Dave Swearingen's dance orchestra is making its first public appearance, outside of school, at the Legion building Friday night, November 29. Its membership now includes David, playing trumpet and saxophone; Kendall Merleau, saxophone; Charles Henderson, trombone; Bob Reese and Bruce Greve, trumpets; Paul Hurry, drums; and Herbert Fox, piano. These boys have been practicing diligently and have become accomplished musicians.

Reports on current events were given by Bob Reese and Arthur Geisenhaver in civics class Tuesday.

The ninth grade home economics students are planning to visit the Kellogg factory in Battle Creek on Saturday, November 30. They have invited the members of the Home Economics club as their guests. Miss Griesse and Miss Handlin, instructors, will accompany them.

A group of students from Charlotte high school will give a program for the Mason student body on Thursday at 12:45, in exchange for the one given for them a few weeks ago. These exchange programs proved successful last year and are being continued. Lenore Smith is in charge of arranging them.

Chapel will be held Monday at 8:45, led by Rev. L. E. Oldt. The student teachers will give a program observing courtesy week on Monday at 12:45.

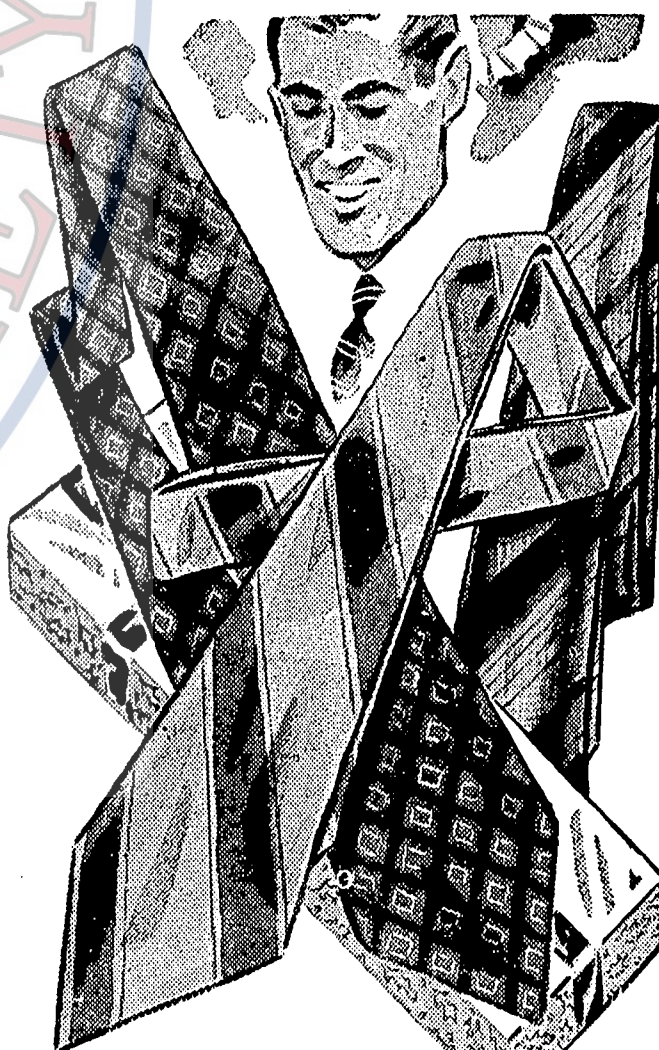

The senior play is progressing rapidly. This year's cast is talented and the production promises to be an outstanding one.

The second year typists are working on radio scripts, which have been obtained from Washington, D. C., by Mr. Kaminski. They are typing copies to be used by the English students.

TO DEFEND NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

Among the nation's best Milking Shorthorn cattle that will be battling for top honors at the National Milking Shorthorn Show and Sale, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Illinois, December 3, will be Pride of Kingsdale, grand champion of the 1939 International Live Stock Exposition.

Bred and owned by Kingsdale Farm, Victoria, Illinois, this famous white bull is the nation's reigning All-American aged bull and was also selected as the grand champion at the last National Dairy Show, held at the Golden Gate Exposition, San Francisco.

Competing with this All-American will be the best Milking Shorthorns ever gathered in one showing, says W. J. Hardy, editor of the Milking Shorthorn Journal and in charge of the show. Entries have been made from Rhode Island to Montana.

The show is being held near the grounds and at the time of the Chicago International so that visitors can take in both events conveniently.

Guests At Aurelius Hostel Show Six-Fold Increase In One Season

BUSY SEASON AT AURELIUS HOSTEL NEAR MASON.

Perhaps partly because of the war in Europe and the necessity of traveling at home, yet due in large part to the increased interest in the hostel movement, registrations at the Aurelius Hostel, managed by Mrs. Minnie P. Hemans of Aurelius, have increased six-fold this year. During the 1939 season there were 24 guests registered at the hostel. This season there were 148 registrations. However, Mrs. Hemans explained, not all the registrations this season were overnight.

Stopping at the Aurelius hostel this year were teachers, stenographers, clerics, foremen, housewives, nurses, librarians, college and high school students, social settlement workers, printers, X-ray technicians, an industrial designer, bookkeepers, machinists, dramatists, a writer, an accountant, an upholsterer, several salesmen and Girl Scout leaders. Guests came from 12 states New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Oklahoma, Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan. There were 97 girls and 51 boys. The girls averaged between 16 and 18 years of age while the boys averaged between 22 and 25.

Mrs. Hemans stated that all the 148 guests at the Aurelius hostel registered an American, although ancestry included Jews, Poles, Greeks, Spaniards, Hungarians and Italians. Two groups of Girl Scouts, one from Detroit and one from East Lansing, were at the hostel long. A party of eight from New Hampshire and New York were enroute to Chicago and then were to head for the Yellowstone and on into Oregon, Washington and California. They prepared their own meals and carried heavy sleeping bags for use in case of emergency. They were to be gone nine weeks on the trip. Five 16-year-old boys were in the party, which was sponsored by a teacher assigned by national headquarters. The teacher was a young woman teacher at the hostel school in New Hampshire. The school prepares leaders for hiking, horseback riding, golfing, fencing and other outdoor activities.

Mrs. Hemans said that four boys and two girls from Cleveland chaperoned by a teacher, were visiting all the hostels in Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois. Sometimes the hostellers seem to gang up on the hostess, Mrs. Hemans said, explaining that on two occasions she had 15 guests for dinners and overnights. One group of 10, a group of 15 Detroit Girl Scouts and the other was made up of members of the physical education class of Michigan State college, led by their instructor, Miss Thelma Bishop, and the Lansing Girl Scout leader, Miss Gertrude Hall.

Equipment needed under the hostel plan has been under the hand of Mrs. Hemans. Mrs. Hemans operates the hostel at a financial loss, when her time is considered. Under the hostel plan, bedding is to be provided by the community. Plans of Mrs. Hemans for equipment from Mason residents did not bear fruit this season. She said, "I have lacked blankets, coats, pillows and chairs but Aurelius people have willingly help out. I wish to publicly thank Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. George Green and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smiley for the loan of bedding and chairs. I also wish to thank Mrs. Clara Gaster for her assistance in serving dinners."

This year has been a banner one for the hostel movement throughout the United States with Michigan showing a phenomenal increase. Mrs. Hemans said. She explained that two-thirds of the registrations at the Aurelius hostel this year have been new hostellers, with 50 per cent of them from the Detroit area.

Mrs. Hemans said, "Michigan is waking up to the educational benefits to be derived from the hostel movement. Next year, I am sure, there will be an increase over 1940. However, I don't know how I can care any more guests next year. I have had all I could do and on several occasions the sleeping accommodations have been all but exhausted. I have enjoyed helping these young people and have felt fully repaid by their thoughtful expressions of thanks."

Northwest Leslie Mrs. Gladys Darrow

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Darrow spent Thursday and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. George Pilmore and Susan Jo of Durand.

Miss Gertrude Adams is visiting relatives in California. Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hazelton, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Darrow and Clare Darrow are deer hunting near Lewiston. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Darrow visited Mr. George Faught, who is seriously ill in a Jackson hospital, Sunday. Harold, Clare, Dan and Edward Darrow attended a party at the home of Mrs. Roland White in Eaton Rapids Friday night.

CAPACITY OF BOX CARS The average capacity of all box cars in use on the railroads of the United States was 88,400 pounds, as of January 1, 1939. Cars being installed at the present time have a capacity of 100,000 pounds.

American tourists last year spent a billion and a quarter dollars for equipment, gifts, and souvenirs.

a letter, written in 1642 by a Spanish navigator, Blas de Garay, and now a prized possession of the University of Michigan Transportation Library. Written in a form of Spanish so old that it could be translated into English only by first translating it into modern Spanish, the letter in a request from de Garay for funds from King Charles V of Spain and for a ship of 300 tons in which to install a steam engine which de Garay had developed.

The discovery of this letter in 1920 by Prof. John S. Worley, professor of transportation engineering at the university and founder and curator of the Transportation Library, established as fact this invention of the steamboat, which in the past had been treated by transportation historians as a myth.

The only investigation of de Garay's invention was by a Spaniard, Thomas Gonzalez, in 1825, the results of his study being published in a Spanish magazine in 1848. In this magazine, Gonzalez reports that from documents and original archives at Simancas and Calatonia, he obtained Charles V for a boat in which to try his steam engine. The trial was made, according to Gonzalez, and representation of the King testified that the new steam boat would travel one league (about three and one-half miles) per hour, and that it handled and tacked with unusual ease.

It also appeared from Gonzalez's report that de Garay had been given further assistance from King Charles but that an expedition then being carried on by the king prevented anything further being done on the steamboat.

Scientists had regarded Gonzalez's work as more patriotic than accurate, and refused to credit the Spaniard with the discovery until Professor Worley uncovered the letter, definitely establishing de Garay's claim to be the first to build a successful steamboat.

Cagers Open Season

Practically every day with plenty of footwork is rapidly rounding into shape a group of 47 boys in the local gym. The largest turn out in the history of the school has forced Coach Smith to divide his group into three parts, so anytime between 3:30 and 8 p. m. a group can be found working hard in the gym. The local boys meet Dausville on December 6 at Dausville and the following week will entertain the state champs on the home floor for the first home game of the year. The complete schedule for the season follows: December 6, Dausville (there); December 13, Williamston (there); January 10, Webberville (there); January 14, Leslie (there); January 17, Haslett (there); January 24, Stockbridge (there); January 28, Everett (there); January 31, Dausville (there); February 7, Dimondale (there); February 11, Pottersville (there); February 21, Okemos (there); February 25, Williamston (there); February 28, Leslie (there).

Thomas-Purkey

Miss May Purkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Purkey of Aurelius road, Holt, and Victor J. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Thomas of Lansing, were united in marriage Thursday morning, November 21, at the Holt Methodist parsonage by the Rev. S. W. Large. The bride was attended by Miss Doris Black of Lansing and Miss Patricia Black of Lansing. The groom was attended by Donald Ready of Dimondale. The parents of both young people witnessed the ceremony. The young couple plan to make their home in Lansing, where Mr. Thomas is employed.

Holt Senior Play

"Aunt Tillie Goes To Town" the Holt senior play to be presented November 29 in the Holt high gym, at 8 o'clock is well under way. Aunt Tillie Trask, Guinevere Reed, Lucinda Mavis Sano; Lizzie Parsons, Norma Premore; Mervin Tucker, Jim Cook; Ronald Howland, Russ Holt; Pamela Marsh, Dolores Menchies; Luther Lorimer, Keith DeLashmuth; Ellen Nelland, Pauline Thorburn; Charlie One-Lung, Dick Pratt; Mrs. Tillie Tucker, Vivian Parker; Dr. Hattie Bing, Kay ones. The senior play has some of the most humorous scenes ever to be written into a farce comedy. Who is the Chinaman who is looking for Mervin? What kind of a doctor is Hattie Bing? What are curious, be sure to find out the answers to these questions when you come to the play November 29.

Mrs. Jack Gardner of Maple Point, who has been in a Mason hospital for several weeks, following a motor accident, was brought to her home here Sunday. Her niece, Leora Wieland, of Toledo, Ohio, is here caring for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCoo, west of Holt, left Wednesday for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Fred Laslosky in Arizona. They plan to spend some time in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Struckman, now residing near the Grace Church on Eaton Rapids road, have bought a lot on Maple street and plan to build a home there yet this year. Mr. Struckman is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Herbert Gunn.

Holt Sportsmen's club held their November meeting and election of officers at the home of Bud Ellis. The following officers were elected: President, Cliff Crisler; secretary, Harry Ammon; treasurer, Bud Ellis.

The William McArthur's are moving their household goods this week to Midland where Mrs. McArthur and Jimmie will join Mr. McArthur who is employed at the Dow Chemical plant there.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chappel, Miss Gerry Chappel, of Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chappel and son, Stuart, of Lansing and Lloyd Bench of Jackson were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Richardson in Springport.

A group of 16 near neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gunn thoroughly surprised their hosts when they walked in on them Wednesday night, to enjoy a visit and refreshments from well packed baskets. After a pleasant evening the newly married couple were presented with a gift and the best wishes of their unexpected guests. Saturday evening another group of friends staved another surprise on the Gunn's, when about 20 arrived with well stocked baskets to spend the evening. A gift of a coffee table was left to remind Mr. and Mrs. Gunn of the well wishes of their Holt friends.

Aliens Must Register By December 26, 1940

Alien registration will end on December 26 and all non-citizens who have not yet registered are warned that severe penalties will follow failure to comply with this federal law.

All aliens, 14 years of age and older, must register in person and be fingerprinted.

Alien children, under 14, must be registered by their parents or guardians.

Registration takes place at the post offices.

There is no charge of any kind connected with alien registration.

The department of justice warns aliens to beware of racketeers.

The post office department and the department of justice will willingly assist the alien in every possible way.

Earl G. Harrison, director of alien registration of the department, suggests that those aliens who have not yet registered do so as soon as possible and avoid the Christmas rush at the postoffices.

All aliens are also warned that, having registered, they are required to report any change in their permanent residence address within five days to the immigration and naturalization service of the department of justice in Washington. Forms for this purpose are obtainable at all post offices.

No alien need be unprepared for the questions he will be asked. Sample registration forms which show him exactly what information he will need at registration are available in all post offices.

Lamb Show Planned At St. Johns Stockyards

COLLEGE COOPERATING IN SHOW AND SALE.

On December 9 and 10 the Wolverine Stockyards company working cooperatively with the animal husbandry department of Michigan State college is sponsoring a fat lamb show and sale at the St. Johns Stockyards.

Any farmer having 10 or more late lambs or fed lambs which will be ready for market on or around the show dates is urged to enter them. Ninety premiums ranging from $4.50 to $72.00 are to be awarded and any lambs passed for competition will be prize-winners and are almost certain to sell for premium prices at the sale following the show, it is said.

Best Apples In State At Annual Exposition

APPLE SHOW IN GRAND RAPIDS NEXT WEEK.

Best specimens of Michigan's 1940 six-million-bushel crop of apples will be in competition in Grand Rapids, December 3 to 5, during the annual apple show and annual meeting of the Michigan State Horticultural society.

Thousands will view the show, including many of the society's 1,500 members. The association represents the state's 12-million-dollar annual fruit industry and as an organization dates back to 1870.

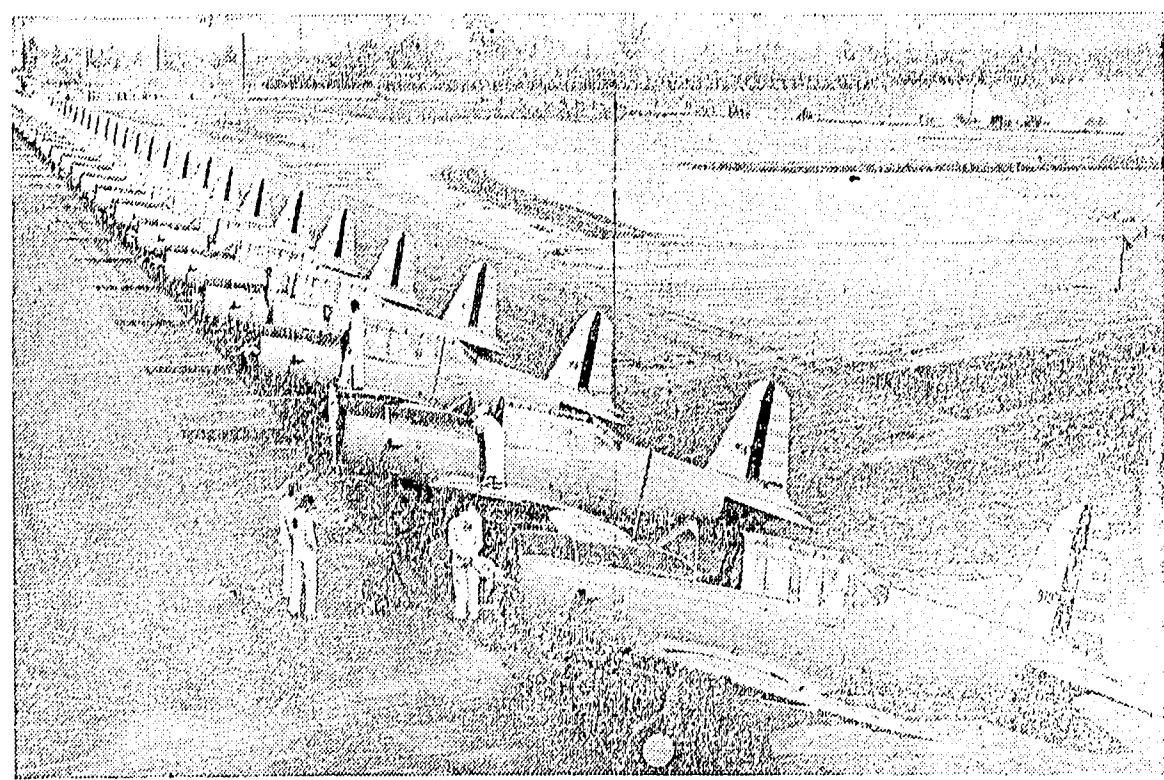

Outstanding speakers are scheduled, it is announced by H. D. Hootman, secretary of the society and extension horticulturist on the Michigan State college staff. Spray treatments are to be described by Dr. Paul J. Chapman, chief in research at the experiment station at Geneva, N. Y. Eliminating harvest bruises is to be outlined by C. W. Ellenwood of the Ohio experiment station at Wooster.

Members of the college staff on the program include John A. Hannah, secretary of the state board of agriculture; Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department; Franklin Sherman, E. J. Rasmussen, H. A. Cardinell, Donald Cation and Dr. R. E. Marshall.

C. V. Ballard, state county agricultural agent, is serving as toastmaster in the annual banquet Wednesday evening. Hootman is leading a "Let's Have It Off Our Chests" discussion of current fruit problems.

One of the highlights will be the apple auction Thursday afternoon. Last year the sweepstakes bushel brought $108. Election of officers will be part of the annual business meeting Wednesday forenoon. Present leaders include Arnold Schaefer, president; Sparta; J. J. Hill, vice-president; Montrose; J. A. Richards, treasurer; Eau Claire; and Hootman, secretary, East Lansing.

New Wings for the U. S. Army

This line of 33 new basic training planes is shown on the Vultee Aircraft field at Downey, Calif., just before they were delivered to the United States army air corps. Thirty-three veteran air instructors flew the planes to the army's new air center at Moffett field, Moffett, Calif.

From Fishbowl to Army Camp

A construction race rivaling those of World War days will end December 1 when the vast Fort Dix, N. J., training camp is completed. Draftees whose numbers were drawn from the fish bowl (inset) will find Fort Dix ready for them after that date. The camp will have facilities for 25,000 officers and men. Many were trained at this site during the World war.

BOOK SHELF Ingham County Library

Hours open to the public at Hall Memorial Library, Mason: Every day except Sundays and holidays, 2 to 5 P. M.; Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, 7 to 9 P. M.

"Men's thoughts are much according to their inclination, their discourse and speech according to their learning and infused opinions."

—Francis Bacon.

A glance along the shelves:

"In Yankee Windjammers," by Charles Nordhoff, is an authentic record of a boy's life at sea a hundred years ago, in a man-of-war and a whaler. The story, first written in three crowded books, is here condensed by the author's grandson of the same name and co-author of "Mutiny on the Bounty".

"Idle Money, Idle Men," by Stuart Chase. The author bases his deductions on the assumption that America has passed the frontier stage of development and is approaching maturity, with a comparatively static population and little expansion in business. He explains the economic situation of today in simple terms, and suggests a different economic plan.

"Polish Profile," by Virgilia Sapieha. An American writer tells of her marriage to a Polish count, and of her initiation into the conservative, aristocratic life of a remote Polish estate. These experiences ended with the entry of the German army.

In its second month "The Yearling," by Margaret Rawlings, took top place among October's Reprint Best Sellers. It has the lead with the next four titles bunched closely: "Flowering of New England," by Van Wyck Brooks; "Mein Kampf," by Adolf Hitler; "All This and Heaven Too," by Rachel Field, and "Escape," by Ethel Vance.

Word that Gertrude Stein is safe in unoccupied France has called up another piece of Steiniana. She once got into a very bitter argument with J. Mortimer Adler, of "How to Read a Book" fame. As Miss Stein's words came faster and faster her eloquence appeared to be racing itself. Alice B. Toklas was terrified. "Good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Gertrude is saying things tonight that she herself won't understand for six months."

The Lincoln Library of the late Valentine Bjorkman of Newark, comprising more than 1,000 volumes, has been acquired by Uppala College, East Orange, N. J., and its president says: "This is the most valuable collection to be added to our library in all its history." In addition to biographical works relating to Lincoln, Civil War history, books that Lincoln read, other features include autograph letters signed by Lincoln, campaign posters and other material of the presidential campaign of 1860, an original copy of the play bill of the "Our American Cousin" performance at Ford's Theatre, Washington, on the night that Lincoln was shot, and a collection of over 100 portraits and states, including etchings and engravings signed by the artists.

Lansing Symphony To Play Second Concert

THREE MASON PLAYERS IN LANSING ORCHESTRA.

The playing of the second concert of the current season by the Lansing Symphony Orchestra, Pedro Paz, conducting, is scheduled for Tuesday, December 3, at 8:15 p. m. in the Eastern high school auditorium. All of the 83 players are from Lansing, East Lansing, and the surrounding communities. Mrs. Russell R. Robinson and Mrs. LaVange Wyman of Mason are violinists and Derwood Carn plays the drums.

Edward Simons, concert master, is the soloist. He will play the Concerto in E Minor (for violin and orchestra) by Mendelssohn. The orchestra will play the Overture to "Hansel and Gretel," by Humperdinck, and Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D Minor.

Following the program, a reception will be held in the school parlors, honoring Simons and Dr. Paz.

Electron Microscope Big Aid To Science

PURCHASED WITH FUNDS FROM HORACE RACKHAM.

Scientists at the University of Michigan will soon be able to magnify small objects to 30,000 times their natural size, through the use of an electron microscope recently purchased with funds granted by the Horace H. and Mary A. Rackham foundation.

The microscope, which will be delivered sometime in February, will be used by several departments of the University for the study of previously sub-microscopic materials.

The hygienic laboratories of the University contemplate using the new microscope in the study of bacteria. The department of chemical engineering will use it for an examination of the structure of fibers, plastics and fine colloidal particles. The physics department, in which the apparatus will be housed, will use it to study the structure of organic materials, particularly the structure of large molecules.

The new microscope is six and one-half feet high, and is built into a pillar-like unit containing its own power supply. Although operated essentially on the same principle as the ordinary microscope, the new device utilizes beams of electrons, small particles of matter, instead of light, and magnetic lenses instead of glass lenses.

WPA Court League Will Again Organize

MASON MAY HAVE TEAM IN TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE.

Initial steps in organizing the Tri-County Basketball League for the 1940-41 season will be taken at a meeting of team managers Wednesday, December 4, at Lansing city hall, according to announcement made by Lee Morrow, area supervisor for WPA recreation department. The session is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the recreation offices, city hall basement.

Game and eligibility rules will be discussed and tentative schedules planned, with season play set to open December 16.

Contracts are in the mails to managers of prospective entries in Williamston, Perry, Stockbridge, Howell, Dausville, Leslie, Grand Ledge, Owosso, Holt, Mason, Pottersville, Dimondale, Webberville, Everett school and Pottersville. Teams not contacted and interested in entering the league are invited to send a representative to the organization meeting.

Managers of girls' teams, likewise, may attend and if the response warrants, a girls' league will be formed.

BOWLERS ADDED TO TEAMS

Teams of the Mason Strand alley league have been increased to six man membership. The bowlers added to the line-ups are C. Perryby to Kean's, R. G. Henson to the Cleaners, C. V. Post to Henderson's, Bob Wallace joins Harlan Mills outfit, Harry Spenny will roll for Dick Mills, Mark Cave is added to Starkey's, Wayne Maynard with Barton's and Putzells is the new man on Clipper's team.

Ypsilanti Symphony To Play In Concert

HENRY SIEGL TO BE SOLOIST AT OPENING.

The Michigan State Normal college symphony orchestra will give the second concert of the tenth annual Sunday afternoon concert season on December 1. The concert, will begin at 4:15 p. m. in Pense auditorium, Ypsilanti.

Henry Siegl, prominent Detroit violinist, will be the soloist, playing the Concerto in E Minor for violin and orchestra by Jules Conus. He is a native of Detroit. He attended Southwestern high school. His graduation from high school was followed by four successive years at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. After his graduation in 1931, Siegl made his debut with the Detroit Symphony orchestra. He has been a member of the Detroit Symphony orchestra for the past five years.

The program is to feature music appropriate to the holiday season: the "Christmas Overture" by Cole-bridge-Taylor, the Roblow "Christmas Tree Suite", "The Music Box" by Liadow, and "Knapserwalzer" from "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck.

CAGE SQUAD REDUCED, PAGE IS SPEEDED UP

TWENTY-TWO BOYS STILL HAVE HOPES.

A number of Mason cagers fell by the wayside Monday when the varsity and reservist were posted. Twenty-two hopefuls remain, however, and another cut will not likely be made for two weeks.

Coach Gordon Dawson intends to carry 10 men on his varsity squad and 10 on the reserve string. The biggest slash Monday was in the ranks of juniors and seniors for the reserve team. Dawson explained that if an upper classman is no further along than the reserves that his prospects in varsity basketball are not bright and that he will probably go more out of intramural basketball. Freshmen and sophomores are being given the call over the older boys on the reserve team.

The makeup of the varsity and reserve squads is due for many changes before the opening of the season with East Lansing on December 13. It is even probable that some of the kids released for intramural play may be called back to the varsity force. Several came up that way last year.

On the varsity squad as it lined up Monday night were Mike Simone, Max Murray, Dave Swearingen, Jack Shaffer, Jack Whitley and Bob Eggers as candidates for guard, Harry Michelsch and Bob Eggers at center, and Ross Hilliard and Donald Hilliard. Some of the guards will naturally be moved up front. In fact, Swearingen and Murray played at forward posts part of last year. Murray, Michelsch and Swearingen are seniors. Simone, Ross Hilliard, Don Hilliard, Shaffer, Whitley, Eggers and Marshall are juniors.

Sophomores who are clinging to reserve posts are Russell King and Ralph Simone, guards; and Rollin Dart, Bob Foote and Don Vanderveen, forwards. Freshmen up for the squad are Malcolm Little, center; Ken Palmer, Jim Ingham and L. A. Murray, forwards; and Herbert Fox, Jack King and Bob Whipple, guards.

Practice schedules are as follows for the 22 men: Monday nights, 7:30 to 9:00; Tuesday night, 5:00 to 6:00; Wednesday night, 4:00 to 6:00; and Thursday night, 4:00 to 5:00.

WPA DRAMA

Plans are nearing completion in the organization of a group of dramatic clubs in the Ingham, Shiawassee and Clinton county area and adjoining districts by the WPA recreation department with a view to staging a one-act play festival. Any club, association or other organization is invited to enter a play and the WPA recreation department will lend every aid without charge in play selection, direction, organization, and equipment available. Groups also are invited to send representatives to a series of instruction classes planned in Lansing soon. Additional information may be obtained by contacting WPA Recreation Offices, City Hall basement, Lansing.

DECEPTION

By BARBARA BENEDICT
(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

SONIA said, "I want to tell you a story about a poor girl who was thrust at a rich man by her family. She was supposed to marry the rich man in order to save her family's social position and her father from financial ruin."

Darl Evans looked at Sonia and in the moonlight his face was very grave.

"It's a grand night for story telling. Go on, finish."

"That's about all," Sonia shrugged. "As in all good stories, the poor girl was, of course, endowed with many scruples and a very noble sense of honor. She hated the role she had been given, but her family had reared her from childhood, given her every advantage. She felt that she owed them that much. And that's the end of the story."

"The end?" said Darl. "But you haven't told me whether or not she found the rich man, whether she fell in love with him, whether or not she married him and saved the family from disgrace, bankruptcy, and ruin."

"That part of it," said Sonia, "doesn't matter."

Darl lit a cigarette. Suddenly he laughed.

"You know," he said, "that reminds me of a story that is so similar one might think they were written by the same author."

"Really?" said Sonia.

"In my story," said Darl, "the girl hated the man before she met him, simply because she knew he was rich and it was her ignominious duty to inveigle him into marriage. Even after she met him, she continued to hate him. And then what do you suppose happened?"

"I can't imagine," said Sonia.

"Well, after about six months, the girl discovered that the man was as poor as she. Like her father, he had lost everything in the crash and was merely putting up a front in the hope of one day marrying a very rich girl in order to rescue himself from a distressing situation."

"And the ending of your story?" said Sonia softly.

Darl crushed out his cigarette and gestured.

"I never did hear the ending. It was very annoying, too. So annoying that I improvised one to my own satisfaction."

"Both the girl and the man thought it was a great joke and went their respective ways," Sonia guessed.

But Darl shook his head.

"On the contrary, each confessed to the other. You see, they had fallen in love, and when each discovered the other's deception they realized they had been blinded by their individual purposes. There came an awakening, and both lived happily ever after. As man and wife, of course."

Sonia caught her breath and was silent for a long time. Then she said:

"Is yours a true story, Darl?"

"What do you think?" He caught her in his arms. "Sonia, I love you. Madly. Will you marry me?"

"You're forgetting — my story. You can't want to marry me."

"I'm forgetting everything, except that I love you. That's all I want to remember. That's all that's necessary. Look at me, Sonia. Look at me. You know I love you."

"Yes, I know. I—oh, Darl, you do love me. And I love you, too, so very, very much."

"That's all that matters. That's everything. Let's get married. Now. Tonight."

"Tonight? Darl, I can't. My family. They'd never forgive me. It isn't they who should be forgiving you; it's you who should be forgiving them. This is something you'll have to decide for yourself. You'll have children of your own some day. Are you going to be selfish enough to expect them to dedicate their lives to your happiness—to give up everything they want and long for, because of your aged selfish pride?"

"No! No! Never! I couldn't be that cruel."

"Of course not. Then think of yourself—of us—that way. It isn't fair for anyone to expect you to deny yourself the things that they refused to deny themselves. To do so wasn't written in the great scheme of things."

Sonia looked up at him. There were tears in her eyes, but her face was radiant.

"And you want to marry me—despite everything?"

He laughed. "I should be asking that question. Will you marry me—despite everything?"

"Yes, Darl, dear, I'll marry you—because I love you."

"Despite what I've said, the story I told, despite even the consequences?"

"Despite everything, Darl."

He held her close in a long embrace.

They sat in the hammock on the terrace, looking up through the tree branches at the white moon. A gentle breeze stirred the leaves with a faintly rustling sound. A bird chirped sleepily somewhere overhead. Presently Sonia stirred.

"I'm glad I told you my story," she said. "It—it ended exactly as I wanted it to."

He laughed softly.

"And I'm glad I had the presence of mind to think up the story I told you. Otherwise, I'm afraid you'd never have agreed to marry me."

She looked at him quickly, apprehensively.

"Darl, wasn't the story you told me a true story? I mean, about yourself?"

"Well, not wholly. That part about the young man putting up a front in the hopes of catching a rich girl. I couldn't do that, any more than you were able to go on with your deception."

"You mean—?"

"I mean, sweetheart, you haven't been fooling me a single minute. I've known how things stood all along. But I loved you, and after a while I began to think you might love me. But in order to make sure, I had to put myself on the same level. Now that I know you do love me, nothing can change that. Nothing else matters."

She drew away from him, but he caught her in his arms.

"It wasn't fair," she said. "You—you deceived me into thinking you—"

"I did," he said, "exactly what you did. You tried at first to deceive me, and then because you loved me, you confessed. And I deceived you too, but because I love you, I've confessed. Is one worse than the other?"

Sonia opened her mouth to reply, closed it again, regarded him steadily. "It—it's all sort of mixed up, isn't it?"

"Some things about it are," Darl admitted. "But there are one or two points that appear quite clear. No doubt at all about them."

He drew her close, Sonia yielded. "No doubt at all," she breathed.

Egg-grading Stations
Are Paying Dividends

FARMERS GET BETTER PRICES ON STANDARD EGGS.

Three thousand Michigan poultrymen find better dividends from their flocks by participation in the voluntary federal-state egg grading service now operating at 20 grading stations. In October a total of 369,495 dozen eggs went to market bearing an accurate grade and assuring consumers of well kept quality.

Here is the manner in which the system is operating, as described by J. M. Moore, poultry extension worker at Michigan State college: Agencies cooperating in furthering the plan include the state department of agriculture, the agricultural marketing service of the United States department of agriculture and the extension service of the college. The plan is not associated with enforcement of the state egg law.

Stations now receiving eggs for grading are located at McBain, two at Bancroft, three in Detroit, and others at Coopersville, Ellettsworth, Hamilton, Tecumseh, Hamlet, Ithaca, Bad Axe, Inlay City, Rosebush, Ovid, Caro, Pittsford, McBrides and Caledonia.

Principal dividend in the grading is to pay better prices to farmers who take better care of the eggs from nest to grading center. An estimated gain of three cents a dozen is claimed by Moore as a result of some extra labor by the poultrymen. With unbiased grading, poultrymen also can learn any faults evident from the grading. Marketing at least twice a week from the farm is encouraged.

Consumers consequently get known quality in each egg purchase and are willing to pay small premiums for guaranteed quality. Detroit and Chicago market men are purchasing nearly all the graded product at present, but sponsors hope to expand the work to include more of the state's 11 million hens.

THE EXCAVATOR

By NANCY RHODES
(McClure Syndicate - WNI Net Inc.)

With grief in his heart the great detective gazed upon the long countenance of his friend Homer. For the edict had gone forth that Homer was to be shot late one evening, or early one morning, in the near future. He had proved himself a blight and a calamity, a disgrace to the mother that bore him. And so the die had been cast. A week was the most that Homer could expect. The great detective had brought all his influence to bear, but to no avail.

"Reggie McWhortle," called a feminine voice from the front piazza, "come in and change your pants. The minister and his wife are coming to supper. And don't let that dirty dog in the house again. I don't know what he has been rolling in, but I suspect the worst."

Homer watched Reggie reproachfully as the great detective trotted the rope. Poor Homer! He had been a great disappointment to the family. When Reggie first took him in trade for 25 cents and four small green snakes, he gave every promise of turning out to be a small bangle hound. As he grew apace it looked as though he might be a cross between a St. Bernard and a coach. But when he kept on growing, mama said she knew there had been a cow on his family tree and that Homer was a direct throw-back, whatever that was.

Homer was too large to live with conveniently. But the family could have swallowed his size if his habits had been more conservative. The holes that he dug in neighbors' gardens were not the holes that an ordinary dog would have made. They were deep excavations into which you could have thrown a horse and had room enough for a few sheep. Papa and Reggie spent most of their spare time filling up these pits. Then, too, Homer had a strong weakness for vegetable and flower beds. He liked to roll in them, and where Homer once rolled nothing ever lifted its head again.

"Put on your white pants," said Mrs. McWhortle, as the great detective dragged himself languidly upstairs. Reggie drew on the accursed white pants and fiddled around trying on and off his different sets of whiskers until the supper gong sounded.

The Rev. Mr. Howard's wife talked and laughed a lot. She seldom said anything, thought the great detective, but she made a lot of noise. Perhaps it was to cover up her husband's cringing. He was a loud chewer. In a quiet space you could hear him grit his teeth. He even chewed his water a little, but no one asked him to leave the table.

The Howards had been at the Howes' the night before. Reggie wondered if he had smacked his lips up there. The Howes had a lot of money and lived on the top of the hill in a big white house. They were awful fussy and full of prunes. See, Eddie Howe in white pants had got mama started on the idea. Mama kind of purred when Mrs. Howe came to call and agreed to everything, which wasn't like mama. And papa ran downstairs and brought a bottle with a straw coat when Mr. Howe dropped in, and that wasn't like papa, either. Reggie and Homer were the only ones who were quiet themselves when the Howes were around. The last time they came Reggie blacked Eddie's eye and Homer tore the seat out of his white pants.

"They found a secret panel when the men were papering the attic," said Mrs. Howard, speaking of her visit to the Howes. "And a little redwood box with an old, old manuscript in it. The old paper said that Captain Howe had buried the family silver, and I don't know just how much money, in the orchard, six paces from the oldest wiesap tree."

The great detective picked up his ears. Mrs. Howard had said something at last.

"Are they going to look for it?" asked mama politely, pretending she didn't hear a thing even though Mr. Howard had started to eat the tough part of his pie crust right in her ear.

"They've dug everywhere," answered Mrs. Howard, "and they haven't found a thing. Mr. Howe says it's all poppycock, and won't allow her to do any more excavating in the orchard. But she's crazy to find the stuff."

The great detective and Homer started out on their evening stroll with an air of deep melancholy. Under a moon Reggie had his old pants and his red whiskers. Subconsciously his steps strayed up the hill towards the Howe place. The house sat like a shiny white wedding cake on a green lawn, dotted with beds of flaming red fall flowers. Gosh! What Homer wouldn't do to those flower beds if he ever got in there!

Homer loped ahead past some thick green woods that gave off strong piney and lily smells. Next they came to the Howe orchard. Winesaps. The great detective vaulted the fence and walked up and down lines of gnarled apple trees whose crooked limbs groaned under their load of fruit. A sweet clean apple smell pervaded the air. All through the orchard were signs of digging under the older trees.

The dog pawed the ground excitedly. Signs of digging and holes always stirred Homer. He clawed and dug like a wild animal. Reggie watched him thoughtfully, a vague plan forming in his mind. He made another survey of the orchard mentally listing the old and dead winesaps. Then he called Homer and set him to work.

"Bones," he said, scratching with a stick where he wanted Homer to excavate. And the dirt flew in all directions from under Homer's feet. After the dog had gone about so far into the earth Reggie filled the hole up. Then they started for another tree.

If the great detective had not come down with a feverish sore throat Homer would have met his fate sooner. But Reggie cried and Homer was spared a few days longer. When he was able to get out again they started off for Howe's orchard, Homer running ahead and barking like a dog who is well pleased with himself.

Reggie paused, thunderstruck, almost as soon as he vaulted the orchard fence. Homer waited, barking and wagging his tail as he surveyed his handiwork. During the four days that Reggie had been laid up Homer had been busy digging holes and Howe's orchard looked like a graveyard after an epidemic. Hole after hole lay before them with mounds of red clay at the brink.

"Good night!" said the great detective, sitting down weakly. Voices came down the road, one angry, the other placating. Mr. Howe and papa came around the corner. Papa had a shovel and Mr. Howe carried a cane that swung threateningly.

"I see Homer's been up to his old tricks again," said papa grimly. "Homer thinks he's an Egyptologist," added papa to Mr. Howe, trying to make a joke.

But Mr. Howe sputtered angrily. He could not see anything funny about the thing. His orchard was ruined. He had noticed the holes last night and had set a man in the woods to watch, supposing some of the townspeople were looking for the treasure.

"And we caught your dog red-handed this afternoon," he said.

Homer's tail had gradually stopped wagging. His head drooped and he crawled meekly on his stomach. He rolled over and sat up on his haunches, going through his few clumsy tricks as though he suspected he was nearing the end of his rope.

They started to fill up the holes, papa and Reggie. Mr. Howe stood around and puffed like the old wind-bag he was.

"You ought to get rid of that fool dog, McWhortle," he said.

"I intend to," said papa, wiping the sweat from his face.

Suddenly Reggie caught sight of something dark and hard-looking at the bottom of a hole. He leaped in and worked feverishly with his hands. Papa pulled him out and started working around the thing with the shovel and soon the three of them were tugging and pulling in an attempt to lug the box over to Howe's place. A chisel pried the rusty lid off and Reggie stared curiously at the buried treasure.

Treasure! Old knives and forks and spoons, black with age. Heavy dark coins and old bracelets and pins and things. They called that stuff treasure! If it had been gold and diamonds and rubies there might have been some excuse for Mrs. Howe hopping around as though a hornet had bit her.

"And this dear little boy found it?" she asked, drawing Reggie to her bosom. He pushed her off. She smelled like a drug store. Enough to knock a fella over backwards. "Homer found it," answered the great detective. "He's a great excavator. He's been digging for a week."

"That's a great dog you've got there, McWhortle," said Mr. Howe, beaming. "Have you ever traced his pedigree?"

"I'm going to," said papa, patting Homer on the head proudly. "Mrs. McWhortle and I have always thought Homer was a remarkable animal."

Need More Vegetables For Vitality Increase

USE OF HOME-GROWN VEGETABLES ENCOURAGED.

Different dinners using vegetables in many ways will be suggested at a meeting for leaders of extension groups, organized by Mrs. Bertine Benedict, county extension agent, to be held at Mason on December 5 and 10.

Stucculent, colorful vegetables, though often plentiful, still appear as a p p e l z i n g , discouraged-looking dishes on too many dinner tables. To encourage the use of these protective foods, extension leaders will be emphasizing bigger and better vegetable gardens and suitable home storage for various kinds of vegetables.

As a means toward better health and pep, homemakers will check on the amount of iron supplied daily by the family meals, using a simple scoring system. Home-grown greens, meats, beans, whole cereals, and eggs will be given high ratings as sources of iron.

It is hoped that scientific methods for retaining color, and nutritive value in cooking vegetables and tenderness and flavor in preparing meats will be used by every Ingham county homemaker following the local meetings held by the group leaders.

In this life we get only those things for which we hunt, for which we strive, and for which we are willing to sacrifice. It is better to aim for something that you want—even though you miss it—than to get something that you didn't care to get, and which you don't want! If we look enough for what we want in life, we are almost sure to find it, no matter what that objective may be.—George Matthew Adams.

I am the lady who received the wireless telegraph warning message from the American woman who went to Russia and they thought she was a spy and they put her in prison. No matter what she had done, the Lord was listening to her prayer and sent it to me. I had an article printed in the Ingham County News some time ago about it. I received the message January 30, 1939, at 10 o'clock in the evening. I will never forget it. The Lord sent the message to me and I must in some way make the American people hear his warning. I am going to do everything in my power to make the people believe me and what I write in this message to the people will be the truth. Anyone can write or go to the places I mention and they will find I have written the truth. I said in the article printed before that I had some kind of gift and I had always kept it a secret and that is true. When that woman's message came to me I knew then I must let the people know about her warning and my secret would be revealed. Since that first warning was sent out to the American people, persons have come to my house and wanted me not to have anything more to say in the papers, but I am sending this second warning, if I am harmed in any way there are other people besides me who know who they are. A short time after I sent that woman's warning message out to the people a picture of her was in the Lansing State Journal and it said the Russians had let her go without a trial. When I read that I thought she had been saved, but I have never heard of her since. When her message came to me I waited four months before I let her message be known. I thought that would give her time to leave Russia if she was alive before her warning became known.

At one time I lived in Belding, Michigan, and at the same time my folks lived in Omer, near Saginaw Bay. During the time I was in Belding I sent up a prayer to the Lord and asked him to help me. My voice home to my folks. My mother and others in the family heard it. They thought I had come home and went to the door to let me in.

While my folks lived at Omer and when I was about 12 years old I had a nosebleed and they believed I was bleeding to death. Mother and some of the neighbors tried to stop the blood with no success. Mother went across the street to see if another neighbor knew of something to help. The lady said she would pray to the Lord to stop the blood and told mother to go back home. I would be all right. Before mother returned the miracle had happened and I have never had a nosebleed since. The woman's name was Mrs. Topp and she was some kind of miracle worker. Mrs. Topp had four children, William, Edith, Linda and Louise. Louise was just a little girl. She was taken sick and died. Several years after Louise died I was living near Holt when that little girl appeared to me in a vision. I did not know her. She looked so beautiful. She said, "I am Louise Topp. Tell my mother to stop crying." She had a beautiful light around her head and her hair shone.

About seven years ago a woman came to see me. She told me that she was tired of living. She said that she felt a strange power which made her afraid. She became so afraid she did not dare go to bed in the dark and would leave a light burning all night. She joined the Groves church. After she joined the church she came to see me again and told me she had intended to commit suicide but the Lord had spoken to her and made her so afraid she did not dare to take her life. After she joined the church that fear left her and she was at peace and happy.

A man came to my house one day and told me that his grandson was very sick and the doctors had given the little boy up and said that he could not get well. After the man went away I sent up a prayer to the Lord in Heaven and asked him to help and save that little boy. My prayer was answered and a miracle happened. The boy got well. He lived in Bay City at the time of the miracle.

One evening several years ago I heard a woman singing and it was the sweetest and loveliest voice I have ever heard. I thought an angel was singing. The next day I went to a funeral and I heard that same sweet, lovely voice that the Lord had sent to me the evening before. That woman sang at the funeral of William Franklin and before his death he lived on a farm west of Holt.

I think I must have been between two and three years old when the first vision came to me. That is as far back as I can remember. I can remember my grandmother lived in a log house. My father and mother were there at the time and mother was very sick. I saw a vision of a man at mother's bedside. Grandmother asked me what the man looked like. I described him. She said he was my grandfather, my mother's father, who was killed when a tree fell on him before I was born. Mother was about eight years old at the time he was killed. Just before grandmother died she waved her hands toward heaven. She saw something that was far greater than anything on this earth. I had always wondered what it was that grandmother saw, but since I saw that vision of heaven I don't wonder any more. I will try to explain the best I can what I saw. That vision of heaven, I will say that it had gold and silver, not like the gold and silver we wear in jewelry stores. It was different and it was all lighted up with that beautiful light. In the past when visions and messages came to me I did not heed them. I have always been true just as I saw them or heard them. When that little girl appeared before me I found out that her father and brother both had died and her mother was crying and mourning for her loved ones. Our heavenly father can see the great danger that the devil's workers are leading his people into and he is trying to warn his people before they get caught in the devil's trap.

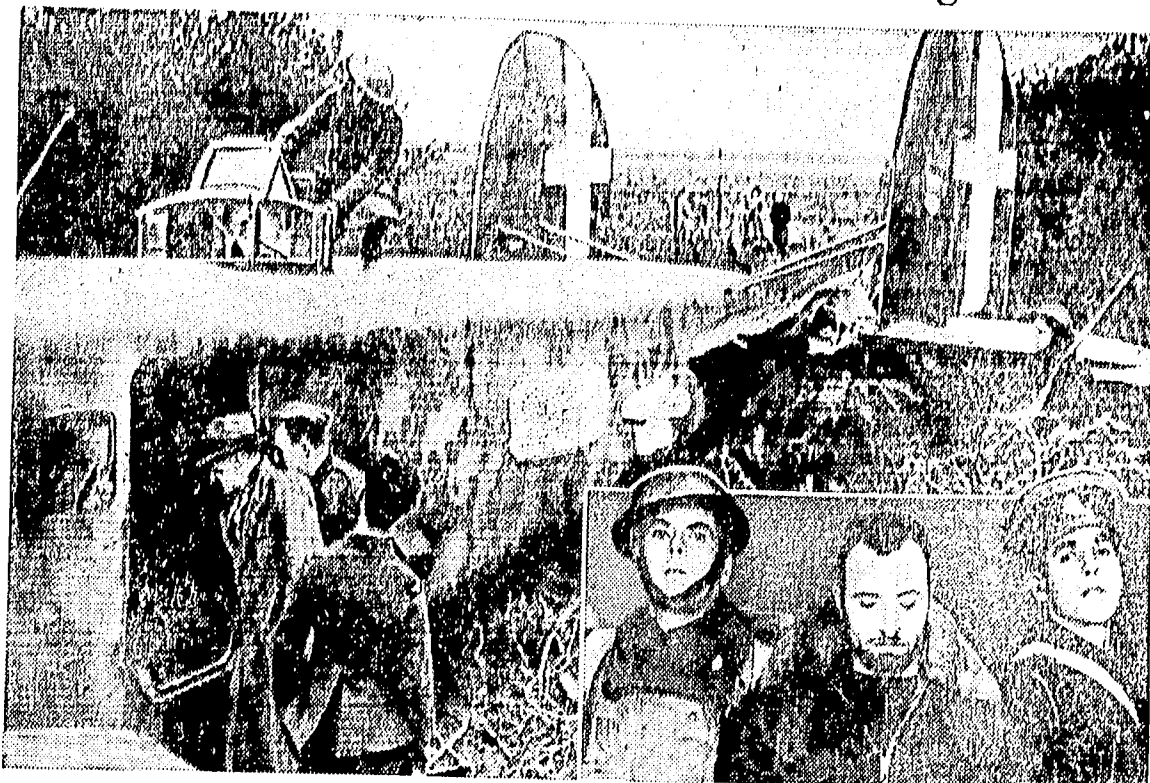

Sometime ago I sent up a prayer to our heavenly father for a lady who lives in Mason and my prayer was not answered. So I asked the Lord why he did not answer that prayer and this is what came to me. Two ladies were talking and it was when they were raising money for charity in Mason. I could see people going and coming. I think it was some kind of a fair. I will call one woman Mrs. C. and the other Mrs. F. Mrs. C. lives in Mason and Mrs. F. is a farmer's wife and lives not far from Mason. The two were talking about the warning I had sent out to the American people. Mrs. F. said to Mrs. C., "There is nothing to it, don't believe her." Mrs. C. is too quickly and easily convinced about things that she hears. That may be the reason why she did not receive a divine healing a few years ago. Mrs. F. was taken seriously sick and I sent up a prayer to the Lord and asked him to give her another chance on this earth. My prayer was answered. Mrs. F. is sure that you use that chance the Lord gave to you in the right way. Mrs. F., I pray for my enemies just the same as I pray for my friends. I personally do not know either of those ladies, but the Lord up in Heaven sent me a vision of them, their voices and also their names and they were both standing when that vision came to me.

Several years ago a sick man in the neighborhood where I lived told me several times he thought the devil was after him. I told him he must pray to the Lord to have him and I prayed for him. One morning at my front door I was wakened by a noise. I could not see anything, but that noise was right there. I went to the sick man's home and stayed day and night until after he died. After the funeral I told his people about what had happened. They said they heard the same noise. It came to their back door and their dog pitched onto something. The dog cried as if he had been hurt and died a short time after.

An old couple came to my husband and I for help. We asked them who sent them to us. They said they had prayed to the Lord for help and he told them to go to the Bagleys. We did not know them very well at the time they came to us for help, but we did our best to help them. They are very dear friends of ours today.

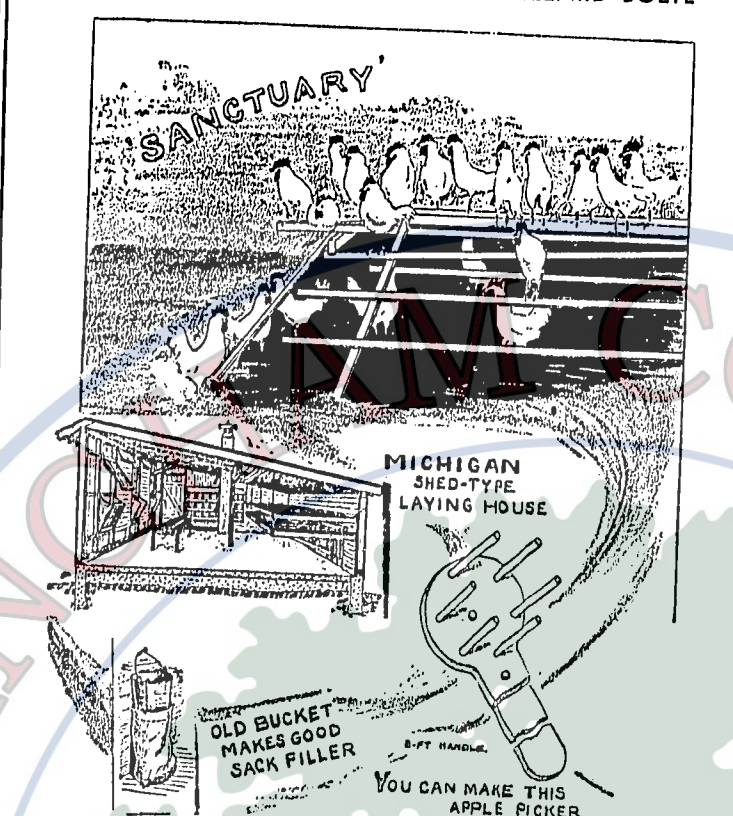

When that warning message came to me I sat beside the radio listening to it. I had the radio turned on quite loud for there was a storm raging. There was quite a lot of static on the radio. When that woman's voice and her prayer came to me I could see her kneeling. I knelt and prayed for her. I don't know just what did happen. I did not hear a sound on this earth, not even the radio. I have had visions of people living as well as dead. I have had visions of people I have never seen and afterwards meet those same people and talk with them. I am just a farmer's wife. We are poor people trying to make an honest living. The Lord gave me this wonderful gift. American people, why did the Lord put me in that trance, why did he send me that vision of heaven? Believers in the Bible, heed his warning. That is the way our Heavenly Father speaks to the people on this earth. I am doing my very best to do as he wants me to do. What are the devil's workers doing at night, under the cover of darkness? Are they getting ready for a revolution here in the United States? Some of the American people think that it cannot happen here in America, but I tell you it is happening right under your very nose and some of the people haven't sense enough to see. They won't be-

Trapping Is New Topic For 4-H Club Studying

WILD FUR TO BE HARVESTED AS CROP.

Something new in 4-H club projects in Michigan is the chance to study fur trapping and management and to use some of the woods lore that Indians within the state once knew.

But a modern touch is evident, says R. G. Hill, game management specialist of the Michigan State college extension service staff. Nowadays Michigan's fur crop ought to be considered similar to other crops on the farm and likewise managed with discretion.

Felts, largely trapped by farmers, are worth approximately $1,500,000 annually in this state. Hill points out. About two-thirds of this income is obtained on farms in southern counties.

Under normal conditions, members of the 4-H groups are learning, the wild fur crop ought to be harvested at the proper time and not to exceed proper limits. There usually is an annual fall surplus over the number of animals required for breeding stock. Youths enrolled in the project will be asked to determine the fur-bearing population in a trapping area as one of the required activities.

Muskats number six times all other furbearers trapped in recent years, so much of the survey work will include the habits and numbers of the muskrats along streams and marshes.

That's where some of the Indian lore will come in handy. Hill suggests ability to "read the sign" will be of value to the youthful trappers. Familiarity with the various furbearers and the value of the catch in successive years.

Youths participating will be well versed also in state trapping laws. In fact the project is sponsored in part by the state department of conservation.

COAL FACTS

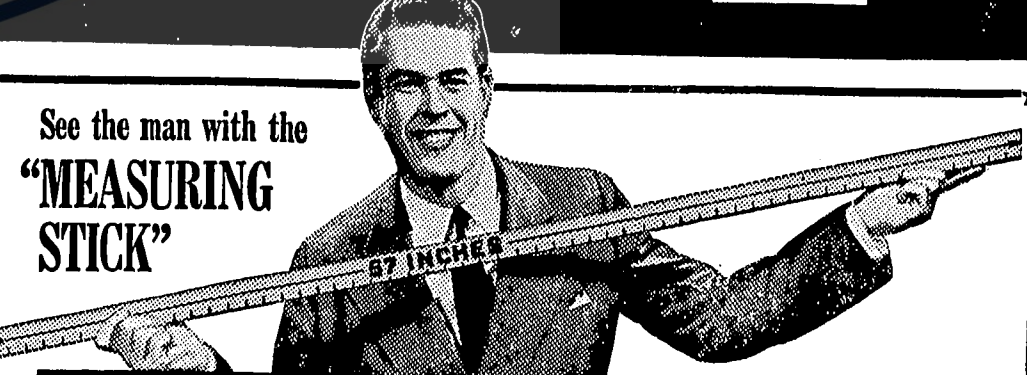

Coal is the slowest burning of all commercial heating fuels.

Because coal is slow-burning, it is easy to regulate properly without the shocking "quick changes" in temperature that sometimes result in colds and even more serious ailments. Without an equal for economy, coal is also the one natural, healthy fuel.

Dial 5421

When I was 14 years old the Seventh Day Adventists were holding a meeting about a mile from my home and something kept telling me that I had to go to that meeting, so I went, alone. I saw an old crippled man on crutches and with a long white beard. I had seen him before but did not know him personally. I knew he had been crippled for a long time. Two men on the platform said that if one were sick or crippled and wanted to be healed by the Lord to come up on the platform and they would try to help. The old man went up and a miracle was performed. The crippled man did not have to walk with crutches after that day.

I know there is some great danger threatening the American people. I did my best to warn the people that they must put a different man in the White House at Washington. If the right man were in power at Washington now, instead of making dams and bridges he would have had the ready for the eyes that are turned toward America. If the American people only knew how friendly the man in power at Washington is with Italy and Germany! American people, I have done my best to warn you. American Legion, in 1918 you were boys. America is proud of you. Today you are men. America is just as proud of you today as then. American Legion men, you must march again for your country and old glory, but do your marching in the good old U. S. A. The Lord has his warning. Don't wait too long to do your marching, you must lead the way. Boys of today, your country is calling. Don't be afraid to be a buddy in the U. S. A., for you will be guarding your flag and country. Your forefathers guard your flag and country with their lives, courage and wisdom, so you might have freedom and liberty today. Boys, don't let someone who is hunting for greed and power take your freedom and liberty away from you today. You may get caught in the devil's trap, but the Lord will guide your way.

MRS. MAE BAGLEY, Route 1, Mason, Michigan.

Williamston

By Inez C. White

Tuesday, November 26, 1940, being the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Avery, his sister and family of Flint spent Sunday the 24th with them and his niece Mrs. Gye Barnes and family the evening, each taking appropriate tokens the 24th. The Williamston family of the Methodist Sunday school of which she is a member sent them a golden potted plant and a gold card and in the evening her brother, Frank Cobb and family gave them a surprise, taking a token, and ice cream and cake, which was served, they also received many more cards.

Henry F. Eberly, who died at the home of his niece Mrs. Lottie Fisher, Monday evening, November 18th, at the age of 83 years, was born in Jackson county, January 22nd, 1857. About 25 years ago he came to live with his sister, Mrs. Lucy Webb, and has lived with her since for the past ten years. Mr. Eberly was a deaf mute from birth, but despite his handicap, received a good education and mastered the trade of shoemaker, which trade he followed until a few years ago, when failing health compelled him to surrender the work. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Mary West of San Francisco, California, and Mrs. Jennie Haggerty, Big Rapids, and four brothers, William and Stephen, Williamston, Samuel of Lansing, Alonzo, Okemos. One brother Bert and a sister Josephine passed away several years ago. Funeral services were held at the Corliss Brothers chapel Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Harold Reise, pastor of the Baptist church, burial being in Summit cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gould and son and Mr. and Mrs. Gerold Garfield and son, who have been hunting in northern Michigan returned Sunday. The former brought home a deer.

THE MARRYING OF NELLIE GRAY

By ELSIE J. PEARSON
(Michigan Syndicate—WNU Service.)

YOU all know Nellie Gray, who lives on the hill in a big house, has a very nice family, a sport car and a hauteure as affected by the "very best" people. And, of course, if you know her, you know Bob Swett — big, jovial, well liked, well known, with a record of achievement in his town in this or that activity, and a good job with a comfortable income.

But poor Nellie Gray; no one knew her well, not even herself. Her mother taught her the proper expressions of scorn, how to smile without warmth, but all her embellishments to the old-time art of being highly snobby she had precociously taught herself. She built for herself a shell of coldness, and even her friends were not familiar enough with her to be contemptuous of her. But these porch oracles predicted a great come-down for Nellie some day; in fact they thought they could trace it already.

It was generally admitted by the fairer sex that Bob Swett had the requirements for an ideal beau. Knowing this himself, undoubtedly, was the reason he had applied to Nellie. His aspirations were on the verge of realization, friends of the two thought. About a hair and a half ahead of Marmaduke Paunceforte, known to the discerning ragamuffins of the lower village as "Dish-rag" Paunceforte. This was by virtue of Bob's having two certified nights a week, one at home, and one theater night, while Paunceforte rated but one, and that not inviolate.

Mr. Gray frankly liked Bob. Mrs. Gray thought it unbecoming and a weakness in one to express anything but dislike. And Nellie was afraid of letting herself slip because of what people might say of the match. Bob kissed her one night, and it was not quite fair. She stumbled on a vine on the porch stairs, and gallant Bob, lucky boy, was right there to catch her. He held her for a moment longer than he should have done and then he noticed how conveniently close her face was, how alluring her lips, and so he kissed her. Nellie, contrary to his expectations, nestled her blonde head on his shoulder and seemed quite satisfied.

The door opened, though they didn't hear it, and a heavy creaking tread was heard, one peculiar to overfed, underworked matrons.

If one can imagine shock, grief, surprise, hauteur, anger and coldness all burning in two words, imagine how Mrs. Gray disturbed the peace with her "WHY, HELL, EN!" Nellie, dutiful daughter, well trained, guiltily disengaging herself, went and stood beside her mother. Mrs. Gray pierced poor Bob with her eyes, then roared him to a turn on the spit of scathing scorn.

"Mr. Swett, to think that you dare—just think of it—dare to force your cheap and unwelcome affections on my Helen, on her own grounds, in her own home! Like a vulgar tradesman, snatching kisses at back doors. If I were you, I'd go now; and in the future, if you cannot control your emotions, it is better, for decency's sake, to see little of Helen."

"Mother, you don't—" Nellie began. Mrs. Gray put a capable hand on Nellie's mouth, and said all right. "Now, now, dear, it's all right, and I'll see that it won't happen again." With that she swept the unwilling Helen into the house, and the door slammed behind the two.

Bob gaped at the door, and a large round tear of humiliation and anger stood in each eye. He smacked his fist into open palm, and ground out, "By the holy mackerel, I'll marry her, in spite of the old woman."

He went crunching down the gravel driveway. "She doesn't want a real man," he modestly observed, "with a bean on his shoulders, and a little gumption. She wants a wishy-wishy rotter, with money and a rotten name among real men. These pin-headed girls, they're disgusting."

But he was unwilling to believe it, so he banished those evil thoughts with a mental wish for the final disposition of amiable Mrs. Gray. But opposition worthy of its name always acts as a spur to a man worthy of his capitan.

He called her up in the morning, and found that she had a golf engagement and a dance scheduled with Marmaduke for the afternoon and evening. Bob tried to give his voice an authoritative tone.

"Nellie," he began, "I must see you tonight."

"Really," she raised her voice to that dangerous level, "and if I can't?"

"Oh, I know you better than that. It's a question of whether you will or you won't, not whether you can or you can't. Is your mother still huffy, or had I better meet you down town?"

Silence for a moment, then the voice back on a normal level said, "Oh, you persistent wretch. Down town, I suppose. Bob, you know, I almost quarreled with mother over you last night. She said some perfectly horrid things about you. She doesn't mean them, I know for sure. And, Bob, I didn't mind last night at all. I hope you didn't feel bad over what mother said. The same time at the same place then. Bye-bye."

"Well, that's that," said Bob, as he hung up with a satisfied air. He paid a hurried visit to the City Hall, conferred with certain officials, then paid a visit to the jeweler, and picked out two articles of jewelry with great care, and even accepted the clerk's advice on a certain matter.

He met her that night at the same place at the same time, and, oh, occasion for great joy! there was a moon out. They both looked up at the moon, then at each other, and were highly satisfied, for they were good to look upon, and soothing to the eye. When they were in the cab, he felt her hand, and found a certain finger, and she made no move. She held up her hand to inspect her smile that all was well. And because he was big and strong and well liked, he sealed the bargain with a kiss.

Then he began his great plea. He marshaled facts, arguments, pleas, entreaties, expostulations and threats, even, in a grand array and paraded them before Nellie. Bob, still with his satisfied smile, helped her out in front of an office, and because he was a clever lawyer, and some little convincer, they went inside.

When it was quite all over, kiss, ring and all, the door jumped violently inward, and Papa and Mamma Gray stood framed in the doorway, incredulity frankly written on their faces. When they understood that the damage had been done, Mr. Gray, with a twinkle in his eye, and a familiar deep throated chuckle, wrung Bob's hand with hearty approval. "Knew you two were bound to do it. And good luck to you."

Nellie was weeping on her mother's shoulder. "I got Bobbie's note tonight saying that he was going to marry you down here, and we hurried right down to be in time for the ceremony. Dear, dear, and I have been waiting 20 years to marry you in grand style, and then you had to do it in this dingy little hole. But I was so afraid for a while that you were going to marry Marmaduke!"

And she beamed on the smiling Bob.

VILLAGE OF DANSVILLE

Plan Christmas
Wednesday night, December 4, the members of the Junior Ladies Aid society will hold a Christmas party at which time their families are entertained. The event will be held at the town hall and a potluck supper will be served at seven o'clock. The dinner committee consisting of Miss Olin, Laura Harrison, and Lillian Abbott, Mrs. Madeline Howlett, and Merna Arnold are in charge of the program. Members are requested to bring their own table service, a dish of food and a ten cent gift, which will be exchanged.

Hot Lunches Served
Hot lunches will be served again this year in the local school providing enough funds can be furnished by the community. Plans are being made for starting the project about December 2 and continuing until spring vacation. For carrying out the lunch the following supplies are needed: canned tomatoes, corn, peas, dry beans, potatoes, fresh meat, eggs, milk, butter, cabbage, onions, carrots, parsnips, rutabagas and turnips.

The mill carriers of Ingham county met last Friday night at the town hall for the purpose of entertaining the retired carriers of the county. About 25 enjoyed the potluck supper, which was followed by the business meeting. Carriers were present from Lansing, Mason, Stockbridge, Williamston, Webberville and Dansville. Four retired carriers were honored, Mrs. Mary Wood of Lansing, William Townsend of Stockbridge, James Hathaway of Williamston and John Nixson of Mason, and all gave short talks.

Aggies Meet Fowlerville
The first basketball game of the season will be played in the local gym Friday night with Fowlerville. Both first and second teams will play and the game will be held at 7:30. Selection by the high school band directed by Miss Proctor. The boys making up the first team will be Junior Anderson, Glen Webster, Robert Walker, Paul Wolf, Darwin Williams, Forest Walker, George Biesel and Douglas Simons. Of these Bob Walker is the only regular from last year. However, Junior Anderson and Glen Webster saw some service on the first team. The team this year is small but fairly fast. Just how effective they will be remains to be seen. The boys who will probably see service on the second team are Bob Kirby, Steve Yuhaz, Kenneth Fellows, Nolan Wempe, Eugene Groh, Joe Pollok, Guard Kent and Rodney Benjamin.

Missionary Program
Next Sunday morning is missionary Sunday at the Methodist church and is sponsored by the Junior Society of Christian service. The program is presented at 10:30 previous to Sunday school and is as follows: a playlet "Whose Money Was It?" by Geraldine; "The Little Missionary," Shirley Lockwood; "How Does It Pay?" by Fergus Parks and Roland Wing; and a reading "Uncle Dan's Prayer" by Delores Speers.

Quota Exceeded
According to the latest reports $50.00 has been raised for the Ingham township Red Cross roll call. The quota to be raised by the township was $40.00 so Dansville goes over the top. Robert Curry has been chairman of the drive and was assisted by G. E. Manning, Clyde Barr and A. O. Greenough.

Attended Game
Twenty-five members of the 4-H club and P. F. A. groups attended the Michigan State and West Virginia game at E. C. Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. LeClerc, G. E. Kelley accompanied the members. Martin Pollok, local 4-H club leader, also accompanied the groups.

A representative from the Crane studio of Detroit was at the school last Wednesday and photographed the 35 members of the senior class.

Wrappers Needed
Mrs. Iva Corwin, president of the Woman's Society of Christian service requests that wrappers from Proctor & Gamble products be turned in this week to the James Kelley store.

The Junior Missionary society of the Free Methodist church will meet Friday afternoon after school with their leader, Mrs. Ruth Wilcox. After the business meeting the Christmas box for Woodstock home will be packed by the children.

Tuesday night, December 3, is the regular meeting of Dansville P. & A. M. No. 100. This will be the annual meeting with the election of officers the main feature of business. A good attendance is requested.

Monday afternoon, December 2, Mrs. Bertine Benedict, county home extension agent, will be at the town hall at two o'clock for the purpose of giving a lesson on Christmas Gift Wrappings. Following the demonstration tea will be served by the executive members of the southeast district. Everyone in the community interested in this district is welcome to attend the meeting.

Tuesday night, December 3, there will be a keno party at the town hall. Playing begins promptly at 8:30 and the committee is Alma Dalton, Grace Kline and Isabel Reynolds.

The Sadlers from the National Program service will present an entertainment at the school Monday night, December 2, at eight o'clock. The program is sponsored by the student council. There will be a small charge for those not paying nickel-a-week. Everyone is urged to attend.

Have Amateur Program
Wednesday afternoon the members of the high school student body enjoyed an amateur program in the high school assembly. Warren Peterson was introduced by the chairman Virginia Powelson as Major Bowes. There were 10 entries and first prize was awarded to Alfred Powelson and Jim Young for a negro skit, second prize to Juanita Brown for a vocal solo. She was accompanied by Doris Proctor. Two third prizes were awarded to Billie Robbins and Rex Dufols, the former for imitations and the latter a piano solo. The judges were Mrs. Wayne LeClerc and Mrs. Eugene Kelley.

Play Benefit Games
Basketball games are being planned to raise money for the Community Christmas tree this year. The plan is to have high school boys and girls play with teams composed of alumni boys and girls. The band will also put on a short concert during the evening. The date set is December 17 and only a small admission will be charged. The proceeds will be used to defray expenses of the annual community Christmas tree sponsored by the Brotherhood.

PREPAREDNESS for the unexpected

The National Defense Program is one of numerous situations that can cause a tremendous increase in the number of telephone calls. Some occasions can be foreseen—a national convention, a holiday, a World's Series, an election. Others come without warning—the death of a prominent person, changes in the market, a storm or flood. The telephone Company must adjust its forces and equipment quickly to unexpected "peak" loads. That requires closest co-operation between highly trained workers. The ability of telephone men and women to rise to emergency is an important reason for this Company's preparedness to do its part in the Nation's defense activity.

"King Of Kings" In Mason Four Nights

Cecil B. DeMille's "King of Kings" will be shown at the Mason Presbybyterian church for four nights, starting Sunday night, December 1. The film is said to be one of the greatest religious pictures of all time. It has a cast of more than 5,000 persons and was produced at a cost of more than $2,500,000.

Several enormous sets were built for the production. The temple of Herod is the largest and was said to cost $100,000. Pilate's hall of judgment was created at $170,000. The Golgotha set cost $70,000.

The immortal story upon which the "King of Kings" is based and the DeMille technique with its thrust and vividness have made the picture a success. The adding of sound to the film gave it greater appeal in hundreds of churches during recent months.

Word has been received from the Rev. Raymond Spurrlock of the Calvary Methodist church, Jackson, that the picture is being held over another week because of the number of people who want to see it. He said, "Many people come to see a show and go away with a religious experience."

No admission is charged. A silver offering is taken to finance the showing.

December 10, with Miss Kathryn Hubbard. This will be the Christmas meeting.

About 200 residents of Holt whose occupations bring them in close contact with the public have volunteered to take a free tuberculosis test to be given Tuesday morning at eight o'clock at the school.

The clinic schedule will be from eight to 10 o'clock in the morning on Tuesday and from 7:30 to nine o'clock in the evening. A volunteer group of physicians from the Ingham county medical society will administer the tests.

Dr. P. L. Frost of Holt has been in charge of medical arrangements for all clinics during the tuberculosis case-finding campaigns. Mrs. Hazel Waldorfsky is chairman of the county service committee cooperating with the county health department. Her group includes Mrs. Mary Clever, Mrs. Minnie Sheldon, Mrs. Mae Clever, Mrs. Ed Nuffer, Mrs. Maude Duling, Mrs. Eva Wilson, Mrs. Alice Hyde, Mrs. Laura Smith, Mrs. Ollie Bullen, Mrs. Thomas Johnson, Mrs. Raymond Rice, Mrs. Earl Weaver, Mrs. Harold DeWitt, Mrs. Charles Cliff, Mrs. T. F. Russell and Mrs. Richard Berry.

Red Cross Drive Started

The Red Cross drive headed by Howard Chappell is well under way. Captains under Mr. Chappell are Mrs. Charles Conner, Mrs. Emma Wilson, Mrs. C. D. Aldrich and Mrs. Pearl Parker. A house-to-house canvas is being made as far north as Willoughby road. Anyone missed may make contribution at the bank and receive a card from Mr. Chappell. Miller Road and Maple Grove is in charge of Mrs. Carl Enyart.

WANT LABELS

The labels from Crisco, Camay soap and Ivory flakes, that are being collected by the Epworth League must be in by December 1. The money received from them when sent to the companies will be used for missionary work. The league is divided into two teams with Lucile Dean and Jim Cotton as captains. The team that collects the most labels will be given a party by the losing team.

HAS OLD NEWSPAPER

Boyd Longyear was recently going through some family records when he discovered an original of the New York Herald of April 15, 1865, telling of the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln in Ford's Theatre in Washington the night before. The paper is slightly frayed around the edges but otherwise is in good condition.
