INCREASED PRODUCTION

DEFENSE BOARD TO SET ING-HAM FARM GOAL.

Definite goals for 1942 agricultural production in Ingham county, covering virtually all important farm commodities, will be set up. Marked increases in the production of certain essential products to help meet the national goals which will make 1942 the largest agricultural production year in history will be established.

As a part of the national farm defense program, farmers will be asked to increase the production of milk, eggs, chickens, commercial vege-tables, soybeans, barley and oats, according to Ralph Glynn, chairman of the United States department of agriculture county defense board. Farmers will also be asked to farrow and save a 10 per cent larger 1942 spring pig crop than the 1941 crop, and to increase their marketing of cattle and calves for slaughter. Decreased planting of wheat will be asked with corn acreage held at about present levels.
No Sugar Increase

No particular increase in sugar production has been asked for but no acreage limit has been set. Potato production is expected to increase slightly while the acreage of white pea beans is expected to remain at the present high level. An effort will be made to increase the number of home gardens in the state from 150,000 to 185,300 in 1942.

County goals are expected to be worked out and ready for announce ment on or about October 15 when AAA community committeemen will start their annual farm canvass to talk over farm plans for 1942 with individual farmers in order to determine what each farmer can contribute toward the county goals.

As part of the farm defense program for 1942, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has issued a formal proclamation announcing that the government will support prices for hogs, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skim milk, cheese and chickens until December 31, 1942, at not less than 85 per cent of parity. This action was taken under recent legislation which provides that whenever the secretary of agriculture finds it necessary during the existing emergency to encourage the expansion of production on any non-basic agricultural commodity, the department of agriculture is required, within the limit of funds available, to support the price for producers at not less than 85 per cent of parity.

"This government-backed guarantee of price support is the farmer's defense contract and compares to the

To Protect Soil

Plans for the 1942 program have been modified to make possible the largest production of food in American history without wasting the nation's soil fertility, according Glynn. changes made in the program to gear farm conservation measures to the all-out drive for food is the abandonment of the total soil-depleting allotment, allowing farmers to grow plenty of feed crops for the increased livestock numbers, Glynn stated. In stead of soil-depleting allotments, minimum soil-conserving acreages equal to 20 per cent of the cropland on the farm will be used to prevent waste of fertility by overproduction, Exploitation of the soil while producing food to meet the enormous increase in demand will be avoided in four ways; adequate supplies of feed at fair prices will be furnished under the ever-normal granary program which now holds a record feed carryover; acreage of those crops of which acreage allotments; aside from the payment of special crops, all payments will be made for the carrier and national competition. ments will be made for the carrying Farm Bureau Groups ing seedings, application of fertilizers and liming materials, green manure crops and cover crops, etc.; and to be for the soil-building practices performed on his farm, the farmer must keep at least 20 per cent of his cropland in a soil-conserving crop or land homes to discuss local, state and nause, Glynn pointed out.

Farmers may comply with the minimum soil-conserving land use, such as legumes or grasses or new seedings seeded alone. Failure to devote at least 20 per cent of his cropland to a soil-conserving land use will cause a deduction to be made from the payment the farmer would otherwise earn on his special wheat, corn or potato allotment.

Communion Sunday

World-wide communion will be observed by all Protestant churches on Sunday. The purpose, as explained by church leaders, is two-fold: "To stimulate all Christians to participate in the services of communion in their own churches on that day; and to the millions, in all lands and churches, who are similarly and simultaneously renewing their allegiance to the same Lord. The essential oneness of the Christian family on earth, qualified as it is by many cleavages, may find expression in many ways-in cooperation for service, in mutual aid, conferences on the faith and life of the church, in united assemblies for worship.

"World-wide communion Sunday aises no controversial issues about the nature of the sacrament or of the church. Those who stress the priesthood of believers and those who emphasize the priesthood of priests can experience afresh the sense of a common loyalty and of a unity that underlies their differences, and in this simultaneous service believers may Treasurer Lucile Wilcox, Supervisor Christian faith and love."

With freedom of the press there goes responsibility of the s. Newspapermen have the responsibility to print the truth press. Newspapermen have the responsibility to print the truth, not the truth as viewed by some bureaucrat, not the truth contained in government press releases and other handouts, but the cold, hard facts to which the people are entitled, facts which people must have if they and not the bureaucrats are to govern.

There are people who are confused over the rights and duties of newspaper publishers. There are those in times of emergency who would have the press muzzled, who would have all opposition Perhaps one advertising message stifled, who would have the newspaper columns barred to those who happen to disagree with the party in power. That is a sure way to dictatorship and misrule. If government leaders can not shippers into a contemplative mood stand the criticism of the opposition then the measures criticized must be ill-advised.

Freedom of the press is not some special privilege that publishers enjoy. Freedom of the press was established by the constitution to safeguard the rights of the people. The Only Recourse

Taxpayers today have only one recourse. With congressional power abjectly surrendered to a spendthrift administration, with state expenses continually climbing and with local taxation on the rise, taxpayers will have to vote down every proposed extravagance and will have to organize to force through every possible constitutional limitation if they are to survive against the spenders elected

The income tax was to be an emergency measure designed only to help finance the first World War. The state's sales tax was a measure just to tide the state over the depression and was to be abandoned as soon as the emergency passed. Of course, the income tax remained and now is being jumped to an all-time high. No one talks seriously of reducing the state sales tax. Michigan taxpayers forced the reduction of property taxes by a constitutional limitation. That measure reduced taxes in rural areas and in some of the

There is another movement underway which will yield tax reduction. That is the proposed amendment to cut the price of automobile license plates. Petitions for such action are now being circulated and are being readily signed in Ingham county. It is the only recourse remaining for taxpayers.

The proposed limitation on automobile weight taxes will just about offset the special $5.00 tax per car imposed under the new federal tax measure.

State highway officials have declared that the proposed limitation amendment will wreck the highway program. A peek at the record will refute that statement. The proposed amendment will lop off about $14,500,000 a year from highway revenues. However, that reduction of $14,500,000 will still give the highway fund the same amount it received prior to 1939.

In this year of 1941 the state highway department will receive from all sources the tidy sum of $65,146,397, an increase of $7,000,-000 over 1940 and an increase of $14,000,000 over 1939. Back before 1936 the aggregate receipts of the state highway department for any year never reached $50,000,000.

In fact, even with a reduction of $14,500,000 the state highway department will receive more income than the "freezing point" it suggested a few years ago. Perhaps with $14,500,000 lopped off, a few less publicity agents and lawyers and other political hangers-on would have places on the payroll. It might well be that the scope of the highway dynasty would have to be reduced and that highway department revenues would have to be devoted to road building instead of the building and operating of political machineв.

The county highway departments are joining the fight against the petitioners. That's their privilege, yet it should be pointed out that the legislature can change the apportionment of highway revenues to the counties and there is reason to believe that the apportionment would be arranged so that limitation would not cause any decrease to county highway funds.

Michigan had roads before we got the habit of providing $65,000,000 a year to the state highway department. Michigan can still have an excellent road system if the aggregate is reduced to $50,000,000, where it was until 1940. The only way the reduction can be made is by the people. The highway officials and contractors will never ask for less. The people have only one recourse and that is to impose a limitation.

In 1837 the legislature created a board of regents of the university with 20 members. Plans were laid for a new institution. Because the Ann Arbor Land company granted a site of 40 acres of cleared land, Ann Arbor was chosen for its location. 100-Year-Old Hall

When you visit the north wing of University Hall at Ann Arbor, you will find the original Mason Hall, built in 1841 to serve not only as the classroom of the new institution but also the students' dormitories and the scientific collections of the school.

Seven students comprised the first class that met in 1841. Their two professors were the Rev. Joseph Whiting, professor of languages, and the Rev. George P. Williams, who taught mathematics. Thus mathematics, Greek and Latin made up the first curriculum, a modest start for this great state institution.

The college will celebrate the centennial of its opening with a full day's program on October 15, featuring an address by Dr. James Rowland Angell, president emeritus of Yale university, an alumnus of Michigan, and son of James B. Angell, illustrious president of Michigan from 1871 to 1909.

First in Teaching Michigan's progressiveness in education is also shown by the fact, also little known, that the first chair of the science and art of teaching in the United States was established at the state university in 1879.

Co-education was introduced in 1870, and again the university pioneered in a custom that is observed nation-wide. As early as 1837, when the state of Michigan came into official being, Michigan had led the nation in the establishment of free schools operated at public expense including grade or elementary schools, the academy or high school and the university. This plan was drafted in Marshall by the Rev. John D. Pierce in collaboration with General Isaac E. Crary, first attorney of Calhoun county and representative to Congress from 1835 Interestingly enough, the plan was nearly wrecked by a controversy over whether or not the Bible should be used in public schools. It was finally decided that a teacher might open sessions by reading the Bible, but could not comment upon the text. From this small beginning education in Michigan has grown until today there are eighteen colleges and universities, six teachers' colleges, eleven junior colleges, eight professional schools, twelve private schools about 1,600 high schools, 6,800 public school districts for elementry classes and 465 parochial schools.

Well Known for Writers Challenging the literary reputation of its sister state, Indiana, Michigan can boast of a large number of literary men and women whose writings notionally famous.

Rex Beach and James Oliver Curwood, both native Michiganders, wrote tales of early Michigan lumbering history. Stewart Edward White, now living in California, described life in Michigan lumber camps in "The Riverman" and "The Blazed Trail." Harold Titus, member of the state conservation commission, lives at Traverse City. James B. Hendryx (born in Minnesota), adventure fiction writer, lives near Sutton's Bay, and Karl Detzer, another prolific writer, has a summer home near Leland. At Detroit are Edgar A. Guest and Anne Campbell, bards of the press. Arthur Pound, native of Michigan, wrote many books dealing with the state's growth. Paul de Kruif, born at Zeeland, is the author of numerous books. Other Michiganborn writers—and this fact is probably little known to our readers-include Ring Lardner, Edna Ferber Helen Topping Miller, and Webb Miller, Carl Sandburg, Chicago poet, lives near Benton Harbor, while Ernest Hemingway spent most of his boyhood in our state. William Lyon Phelps spends his summers in the

The Church Needs Your Support and You Need The Church

The four Mason churches need your support, your enthusiastic personal support, even more than your financial support, yet you need the church far more than the church needs you.

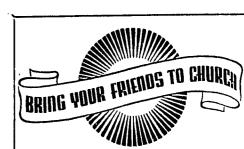

You need the friendships, the inspirations, the co-operation of working together and worshipping together. You need the helpful influence of the church and those close to the church. You need the quietness, the spiritual and mental peace, which comes with worship. You need to take time out of your busy life to contemplate on what lies ahead. You need the courage, the truth, the uplifting forces of Christianity.

These are busy times and confusing times. Our families are being scattered by defense efforts. Day after day, night after night, we worry about what the morrow holds in store for us, for our community, our state and our nation. That's why on one day in the week everyone should take time off to renew his faith and to restore his courage. That's why the churches join in inviting you to attend church somewhere every Sunday.

Yes, the church needs your support, but your need for the church, the community's need for the church, is even greater.

If you are not now a regular attendant elsewhere, you are invited this Sunday and every Sunday to attend divine services at the

MASON BAPTIST CHURCH MASON METHODIST CHURCH MASON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH MASON CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

"Say not ye, there are yet four months, and then cometh harvest."

Harvest time is always with us. The good deeds we do today can be harvested tomorrow or the next day. The good deeds we put off are sometimes never done.

Sunday worship stimulates deeper thinking and finer and firmer resolution. Your presence in church will not only help you, it may be the turning point in some other person's life.

There are not yet four months before the harvest. The church has too long been neglected. That is why democracy is now endangered. That is why our prisons are full, that is why millions are confused, strife-torn and mentally and physically sick. That is why vice and crime and sin and disease are stalking through the world.

Today, this Sunday, this glorious month of October, this year, is the time to give your support to the church of your choice.

The Soyn Bean

The recent rise in prominence of the soya bean in relation to wartime economy has perhaps surprised many people who are not acquainted with this product. It has been the boast of the German army that without the use of soya bean food preparations, the blitzkrieg would have been im-

For more than one hundred generations, the soya bean has been one of the main foods of Oriental mankind. Its long-established use in Asia was slow to be recognized in this country, although the farmer has been acquainted with its properties as a soilbuilder and fodder for many years. Its recent entrance into the industrial field, largely through the efforts of Henry Ford, has added further significance to this crop.

There are a great many varieties of soya bean and its composition differs greatly according to the variety and conditions of growth. The bean itself has a high protein and fat content, a large amount of mineral matter, and almost no starch. Its protein is more complete as a bodybuilder than that of cow's milk, so that it can replace the protein of cow's milk or meat in a dietary. Soy bean milk is a fine, stable emulsion of the bean in water, and besides this, of the bean in water, and besides this, various cheese-like preparations and a sauce used as a condiment are made.

An edible variety of the bean is now being grown in this country. The former types did not lend themselves to cooking and only their products were used. At present the beans are subjected to heat treatment, and hulls removed and the bean ground to the flour. When done carefully, the flour has a sweet, pleasant, nut-like flavor, and may be kept for months without spoiling. The 40% protein of this flour readily takes the place of meat and can be made into excellent bread for soldiers, who may eat large amounts of it. It is readily digestible.
