NO CLEANUP YET AT MIGRANT LABOR CAMP

TODAY IS DEADLINE SET BY HEALTH OFFICIALS

If the Michigan Sugar company fulfills its promise to either clean up or abandon its migrant labor camp on Mason street in Mason, there will have to be lots of action within the next few hours. The county health department set July 27 as the final date the shacks could be used for housing workers unless a safe water supply and better sewage disposal services are provided. The sugar company moved out of its Jamaican laborers and some of the Mexicans but on Thursday morning several Mexican families including many children were still housed at the camp.

Philip Shirley, county sanitarian, said he visited the colony on Wednesday to post warning notices at the well. Laboratory analysis of water taken from the well showed it to be unsafe to drink. Shirley said that when he was taking up the notice a rat climbed out of the well housing, and that Mexicans at the colony informed him that rats infest the shacks.

The Mexicans were unable to read the warning notice printed in English so Shirley, who speaks Spanish, translated the notice for them. They told him that many of the adults as well as children have been sick ever since they have been at the colony. They complained of the swarm of flies and bedbugs which makes living in the shacks intolerable.

The city offered to extend water and sewer service to the colony and company officials agreed to build toilets and provide bathing and laundry facilities if the shacks are to be used after Thursday. Shirley said he telephoned M. E. Keeney at the Michigan Sugar company office in Lansing Wednesday to inquire about company plans. He was informed by Keeney that the company could do nothing to relieve the situation until the two-week period set for a clean-up had only one day to run.

Shirley insisted that the Michigan Sugar company will be permitted to use the colony in Mason unless and until the improvements agreed upon have been made.

MASON WATER SUPPLY IS ENTIRELY ADEQUATE

NO RESTRICTIONS PLACED ON
USE OF WATER

Mason residents, if they put aside enough money to pay their water bills, need not worry over the water situation. They may sprinkle their parched lawns and desiccated victory gardens without having sprinkling hours regulated as is being done in many communities.

There has been no time during the past month when the water supply has fallen short. In fact, there have been few occasions when both of the big wells have been pumped at the same time. The two wells are being used alternately. This week the new well on South Jefferson is furnishing the water. Next week the Park street well will be used. Both can be cut in at one time when needed.

Pressure Runs Low

Because of small water mains in the southeast section of the city, the water pressure has dropped low several evenings when residents have been using water in lawns and gardens, as explained by Glen Stevens, superintendent of the water system, the falling off in pressure has little connection with the supply of water in the standpipes. In other sections of the city served by six-inch and eight-inch mains, there has been no falling off in pressure, Stevens said.

Stevens explained that the standpipe can easily be kept filled to capacity (100,000 gallons) if both wells are used. City Engineer Walter E. Zimmer, in discussing the water supply, pointed out that when the water in the standpipe is drawn down to a low level, the pressure drops sharply. He explained that a water tower offers more advantages than a standpipe because the elevation of the tank keeps the pressure high regardless of the quantity of water in the reservoir.

With the standpipe full, the water pressure at the mains is 44 pounds, Zimmer said. When the reserve drops to 25,000 gallons, the pressure shrinks to less than 12 pounds, the city engineer said. With a tank mounted upon a high tower, he pointed out, the shrinkage in pressure is less acute. He explained that the Mason standpipe is entirely adequate if the reservoir is kept filled.

GOOD BEAN PROSPECTS

Ed Warner of Aurelius has 12 acres of Bluepod beans which promise a record yield if a little more rain comes. He can now see the rows because of the big vines full of blossoms. Although 73 years of age and old-fashioned enough to use horsepower, Mr. Warner's field of beans is one of the prettiest sights in the township.

Sacrifice of Youth is Honored At Service Plaque Dedication

Not only was the community war service plaque erected on the court house lawn at Mason dedicated Sunday afternoon, but the 1,000 people who attended the impressive ceremony dedicated themselves to the task of supporting the war effort and of helping re-establish the men and women who returned from the service.

Honor was paid to the 900 men and women whose names are on the service roll, with special honor given to the 16 men who have been killed or have died in service. R. Glen Dunn, assistant attorney general, was master of ceremonies. Rev. William S. Carpenter of Lansing delivered the address. Both men eulogized the men and women whose names have been inscribed upon the honor roll. It was pointed out that the ratio of war losses in this community is above the national average.

The plaque was unveiled by Mrs. Vernon Montague, president, and Mrs. R. J. Hamlin, treasurer, of the Blue Star Mothers. Mrs. Hamlin is also a Gold Star mother.

Speakers called attention to the fact that the memorial was erected by popular subscription. Names of men and women from Mason, the townships of Vevay, Alaleion, Aurelius, Ingham, Onondaga and Bunker Hill, and parts of the townships of Leslie and Delhi are on the plaque.

After the address by Reverend Carpenter, two World War I veterans, William Wotrung and Charles Couches, sounded taps as a tribute to the 16 men who have given their lives. The 16 so far lost during the war are Vevy Bolman, B. A. Davis, Roland C. Diehl, Lyle Edwards, Edward Hamlin, Ellis Hazelton, Douglas MacDonald, Floyd Meyers, Paul Murphy, Wendell Nemeth, Irvin Offit, James Parks, Forrest Rice, Tyrus R. Scott, Max Strickland and Harold Swift.

Members of 4-H Girls' Clubs Display Skill at Demonstration

One of the most successful 4-H club judging and demonstration contests ever held in the county was staged at the Mason school last Friday. At the close of the contest, girls were chosen to represent this county at the state 4-H show at Michigan State college in September.

Beverly Watkins, 15, leader of the outstanding Dubois club, was selected to represent Ingham in the state demonstration contest. In the judging contests, high placings were won by Kathryn Frost and Beverly Watkins in canning, with Martha Donel as alternate. Nellie Mae Sherwood and Zoanne Migrants, with Janice Sherwood as alternate, were picked for the clothing department at the state show. Beverly Watkins and Dorothy Frost, with Lois Rumbaugh as alternate, will represent the county in the food division at the college show.

Mrs. Bertine Benedict, county home demonstration leader for Ingham, praised the work of Miss Watkins as exceptional.

Only 15 years of age, Miss Watkins is the leader of the DuBois club. Her demonstration teams were well trained. Mrs. Benedict said. They were made up of Bernadine Shaw, making of French toast; Ardith Shaw and Barbara Leach, making of egg nog; Claribel Leach and Donna Voss, flower arrangement; Shirley McMillan, Marjorie Every, making lemonade; Phyllis Watkins, Mary Hall and Kay Curtis, in silt on meal planning; and Beverly Watkins, demonstrating labor-saving mixes.

Violet Langham and Josephine Cooke of the Bunker Hill Center Canning club demonstrated the canning of blackberries. Mrs. Glenn Cooke is leader of the club. Marlene Conklin and Lois Johnson of the Wheatfield Willing Workers club gave a demonstration of cake-making. Dorothy Frost and Kathryn Frost are the leaders.

Mrs. Corinne White, assistant state club leader, and Miss Virginia Graves of the state extension staff, served as judges at the Ingham demonstration. Eight teams gave demonstrations.

Plane Spreads Dust To Protect Onions

Ingham county onion fields are being dusted by Skyline aeroplane dusters out of Milwaukee. Fields in Stockbridge, White Oak, Bunker Hill and Alaleion have been treated this week.

The new Lethane B-71 is said to be 95 per cent effective against thrips. If normal rains continue, dusting against thrips may not have to be repeated. If dry weather sets in again onion fields will have to be dusted within another week or 10 days, growers declare.

OVERSEAS MAILING TIME APPROACHES

POSTMASTER GIVES SIZE AND WEIGHT REGULATIONS

Relatives and friends of members of the armed forces overseas who plan to mail Christmas packages and cards are advised by Postmaster William J. Barber that the mailing dates this year will be from September 15 to October 15. Barber states: "The term 'armed forces overseas' includes all forces who receive their mail through an APO or fleet postoffice in care of the postmaster. The package limit is five pounds and must not be over 15 inches long, or over 36 inches in length plus girth."

Food and clothing should not be included in gift parcels. Soft candies do not carry well and perishable matter will not be accepted. The sending of fragile articles is discouraged and incendiary, inflammable material, (including matches and lighter fluids), poisons or compositions which may kill or injure another person or damage the mails are prohibited, Barber added.

The use of postal money orders to transmit gifts of money to members of the armed forces outside the continental United States is recommended. Cash remittances often cannot be used if received because of foreign regulations. However, domestic postal money orders can be cashed at APO's wherever they are located, and are paid in local foreign currency at the prevailing rate of exchange.

Christmas mail for members of the Merchant Marine should also be mailed between September 15, and October 15, if delivery by December 25, 1944, is desired. Parcels for such persons cannot be registered or insured and there is no money order service available to this branch of the service.

NURSES MAKE PROTEST OVER HOSPITAL STORY

INSIST THAT NURSES ARE AVAILABLE FOR DUTY

There is no shortage of nurses at Mason. At least there was no shortage at the session of the city council Monday night. Six nurses threatened before the city fathers to protest official statements by a doctor and the planning commission that hospitals in Mason are closed because of a shortage of nurses.

The Ponton hospital was closed a month to permit the staff to take vacations, the nurses said, and the Corsaut hospital was closed without warning because of differences between the doctor and nurses over rates of pay and working conditions, the nurses insisted. They declared that registered nurses at the Corsaut hospital were dissatisfied with the slight difference in pay between registered nurses and nursing aides.

"There is no lack of nurses in Mason," said Mrs. Lillian Bastnagle. "There are plenty of nurses here anxious to go to work. They are here and have been a lack of cooperation." For four and one-half years Mrs. Bastnagle was employed at the Corsaut hospital.

Plan City Control

Dr. J. C. Corsaut, when he appeared before a committee of the city council and planning commission, was adamant over the issue. He declared that a doctor has enough grief without operating a hospital in addition to his practice. He said he had reached the point where he had to do something to lighten the load himself. He decided to close the hospital. He said he has no present intention of opening it. The statements made by the nurses were not discussed at the committee meeting and Dr. Corsaut was not present at the council meeting when the nurses appeared.

In a statement made Wednesday Dr. Corsaut said, "I understand there were six nurses present at the council session. Two of them have permanent positions with other hospitals. One is not available for hospital work because of small children at home. Another is employed in a Mason store. That leaves two, and one of those was dissatisfied with my offer. There may be lots of nurses but if they are unwilling to work, and their training is of no avail to my patients."

The city council and the planning commission are trying to work out a purchase or lease agreement with Dr. Corsaut. He told the committee he is willing to sell the hospital, built 10 years ago when costs were low, at cost and the equipment at a figure agreed upon by appraisers.

"I don't want to make a cent off the hospital," Dr. Corsaut said. "I realize that it will be almost as much to build an office at present prices as it cost to erect the hospital 10 years ago. I realize that the community needs hospital service and I certainly don't want to make a long-range program should be abandoned and that enough land should be purchased so that expansion of a hospital could be easily done."

Two Divergent Views

There are divergent views on the hospital program. Mayor Arthur W. Jewell expressed himself at the council session as favoring a 40-bed hospital on the outskirts of Mason, situated on at least 10 acres and probably costing $200,000. Walter E. Zimmer, chairman of the post-war planning board, also suggested that a long-range program should be abandoned and that enough land should be purchased so that expansion of a hospital could be easily done.

Aldermen L. H. Harrison and W. O. Hall said long-range programs have their advantages but that a post-war hospital would relieve the present emergency.

"It's a serious situation when Mason is left without hospital facilities," declared Alderman Harrison. "It isn't just something to be worked out between a doctor and his nurses. The entire community is affected. Lansing hospitals are overcrowded. It seems wasteful to empty the beds in Mason hospitals and throw Mason nurses out of employment at a time when hospital facilities elsewhere are overtaxed."

Alderman R. R. Robbins and the mayor both suggested that if left alone, the situation in Mason will improve, intimating that both hospitals will be open shortly. Alderman Robbins declared that the city has no business trying to adjudicate disagreements between a doctor and nurses.

Survey Being Made

Donald VanderVein, Doctor Corsaut and Arthur H. Cruickshank make up the hospital committee of the post-war planning commission. They have visited several hospitals within the past few weeks. While no formal report has yet been presented, the commission and the city fathers are not yet sold on a costly and ornate hospital layout. Members of the hospital committee say that some of the best hospitals in the state are in ordinary buildings.

Just because a hospital building costs $200,000 is no indication that the service offered is more adequate than that given patients in buildings costing $20,000 or $25,000, a member said.

GROCERY TO CLOSE

The Palmer grocery store will close on Thursday, August 3, to enable Mr. and Mrs. Palmer to have an extended vacation. The date for reopening will be announced later.

OFFICER IN NAVY

James Young, 23, son of Mrs. Madge Young of Mason, was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. naval reserve at Northwestern University, Chicago, July 19. He completed a three-months course in navigation, seamanship and gunnery and will be assigned to the fleet as a deck officer. Ensign Young was graduated from Mason high school in 1939 and attended Michigan State college and Albion college before entering the navy.

INGHAM TREASURER EYES STATE OFFICE

DELEGATES CHOSEN TO RE-PUBLICAN CONVENTION

Ingham county Republicans at their convention in Mason last Thursday endorsed County Treasurer Lyle B. Austin for nomination as auditor general, a position now held by Vernon J. Brown of Mason. Brown will surrender it December 31, having won the nomination as lieutenant governor at the primaries July 11. If he is elected in November he will become a lieutenant to Governor Harry F. Kelly, assuming Kelly is re-elected.

Austin is not alone in the race for the nomination as auditor general. Nomination is by delegates at the state convention to be held in Grand Rapids August 1. Others already in the race are Lt. Gov. Eugene C. Keyes, defeated by Brown in the primary; Albert Cobo, Detroit city treasurer; Gerald Mallory, executive secretary of the state land board; John Morris, Marquette auditor; Charles Sparks, Oakland county treasurer; Carl Faust, Battle Creek auditor; John Mustard, Battle Creek auditor; and a member of the state land board, and J. Joseph Herbert of Manistee, a regent of the University of Michigan.

Dewey Is Praised

Resolutions adopted by the Ingham Republicans praised Governor Dewey of New York and Governor Bricker of Ohio and pledged support to them in the fall election. Governor Harry F. Kelly and other state officials were praised. Lauderbach also was given Ingham members of the legislature and a publican congressmen from Michigan.

Clyde B. Smith of Lansing was chairman of the convention and was re-elected chairman of the county committee. H. S. Lucien of Lansing was chosen secretary. The 39 delegates and 39 alternates selected to represent Ingham Republicans at the state convention are Harry Freshour and Mrs. Roscoe Barry, Aurelius and Onondaga; David Beasore and W. G. Rogers, Bunker Hill and Stockbridge; J. J. Richards and Ray Burhans, Delhi; Ivan Wilcox and Paris Witt, Ingham, White Oak and Wheatfield; Raymond A. Wilcox and Alvin Neller as the two delegates and Clare Burden and Thomas Gunsey as the alternates, Lansing township; Guy C. Hull and C. C. Hall, Leslie; Joseph Speers and C. J. Porter, Leroy and Locke; Everett C. Fish and Ted Thompson, Williamston;

George H. McArthur and George Graham, Mason; H. S. Lucien, Simeon Dietrich and F. A. McCarty, delegates, and Otis F. Cook, Lester C. Peters and C. R. Crozier, alternates, East Lansing; Harry A. Platz and Mrs. Roy Roberts, Meridian.

VETERAN ROAD WORKER HAS SUDDEN PASSING

LONG CONNECTED WITH MASON
BUSINESS

Herbert A. Carn, 58, died at his home on South Lansing street Saturday afternoon after suffering a stroke of paralysis Wednesday night. Two years ago he had a severe brain concussion but after apparent recovery, he returned to his employment with the county road commission, working there steadily since. He had worked Wednesday and was in good spirits Wednesday night. When his condition was discovered Wednesday the patient rallied Friday but on Saturday he sank rapidly.

For the last 15 years Mr. Carn had been employed by the road commission. Before that he had been connected with Mason food stores for 27 years. He was born in Cheboygan August 14, 1885, the son of Arthur and Viola Torrey Carn. The family moved to White Oak township in 1887 and to Mason in 1891. Mr. Carn attended the Mason school, leaving in the tenth grade to slumber for a few days and several of the defendants enjoy deep sleep. Drowsiness was infectious Tuesday afternoon during the reading of a five-page letter by Attorney James E. Haggerty.

Several of the attorneys retained by legislative defendants have taken vacations this week. The going rate of $100 for court appearances would make a thrifty defendant who was paying his own bill want his attorney to have all the vacation possible.

The price table has been brightened this week by the presence of Nava Judd of the Detroit U. P. bureau. Milt Kelly of the A. P. has promised to send over a charmer from his office next week. J. F. M. Hally of Detroit, attorney employed by Household Finance Corporation to scout this trial to prepare a defense in another conspiracy case, was smoked out Tuesday afternoon. George Omacht was on the stand testifying about a conference held in Chicago with Household executives. Hally was scribbling away furiously in longhand attempting to keep up with Omacht's testimony. Sigler suggested that Omacht stop to give Hally a chance to get down all the words. Hally, who usually sits at the press table, took his blushing countenance out of the room. The Household attorney is listed among the top-flight trial attorneys of Detroit.

James E. Haggerty, attorney for Omacht and Hancock, has a quick wit and is not about being facetious in court. On examination of Omacht it could not be determined where he spent the night of May 9, 1939. Facetiously, Haggerty asked his witness if it could be that he spent the night with the Hemans. Sigler asked that the question include Joseph Roosevelt. Haggerty took the suggestion and then asked if Omacht might not have spent the night with Sigler.

"Neither" and "neither" for either and neither, as the words are generally pronounced here, are getting some play before the jury.

Barnard Pierce, former Ingham prosecutor and one of Ingham's most prominent barristers during the war days, was in the courtroom Tuesday to listen to the trial. He is now a captain in the army. James E. Ramsey of Pierce, Planck and Ramsey, is aiding Haggerty in the defense of Omacht and Hancock.

DREDGING OF CREEK LET ON HOUR BASIS

EQUIPMENT RENTED FROM GRAND RAPIDS FIRM

After several years of backing and filling over the dredging and straightening of the Sycamore between Elm street and 15,800 cubic feet of US-127 and US-127A, and dredging of the Sycamore from the disposal plant north to the city limits, the city council on Monday night engaged the United Construction company of Grand Rapids to undertake the work on an hour-rental basis. The company will be paid $13.50 per hour for the use of a 1 1/2-yard drag line on the dredging project.

City Engineer Walter E. Zimmer estimated that 20 days will be required to move the 15,800 cubic yards in the two jobs. That will bring the cost to $2,760 for the rental of the machine, the rental including the services of an experienced operator. The city also will have to pay the cost of $120 each way to and from Grand Rapids and Mason for the dragline and $100 for a helper, making a total estimated cost of about $2,500.

The work is to be started next week on the north section to clean the outlet from the disposal plant. The council and the representative of the construction firm agreed that the work may be halted at any time by action of the council. The stipulation was made because the city has no budgetary provision for the dredging cost. Alderman L. H. Harrison said the $2,500 outlay could be handled but that the city could not tap other funds for an expenditure beyond $2,500.

Bids Too High

Bids have been taken twice the past week on the dredging job, but both times they were rejected because they were considered as too high. The original estimate was based on 15c per cubic yard. The lowest bid received last year was 22c. This year the low bid was 22c. Upon the rental basis the cubic yard price will be 16c provided the work is done within the estimated time of 20 days.

Cost of the dredging will be borne by the city at large. When the project of dredging and straightening was first broached, S. A. Morrison and other property owners with lands along the stream agreed to contribute part of the cost on a benefit basis. The council, however, has decided to assess the cost to the city at large. Aid of the county was also asked at one time on the grounds that county dredging of the Willow caused a backup of water above the junction of the two streams a block south of Elm street. The county would offer no relief.

To Remove Oxbow

The oxbow above Elm street will be removed and in most places the Sycamore will follow an entirely new channel paralleling the old one. The work will be done by the city.

Zimmer told the council the straightening and dredging should offer flood relief to Morrison and others who built houses on the banks of the Sycamore. The creek will not be dredged north of the Elm street bridge.

Executives Deny Paying of Bribes

ASSOCIATION LAWYER ON STAND THREE DAYS,
HANCOCK ALSO TELLS OF GROUP ACTIVITIES

Adding their denials to those of the 17 legislative defendants charged with conspiracy in influencing the 1939 legislature by bribery, finance company officials and their witnesses are now offering their defense. The case, which opened in Mason June 12, will probably not go to the jury before August 11. It took one week to select a jury. Presentation of the prosecution's case took almost four weeks. By Friday the defense will have consumed two weeks. Another week will probably be needed for the defense to complete its case. Then there is a solid week planned for arguments and the charge of the court.

Final proofs offered by the legislative defendants were completed at 10 o'clock Monday morning. James E. Haggerty, attorney for George Omacht, 51, of South Bend, and John Hancock, 45, of Huntington Woods, devoted an hour to outlining his defense. Omacht is general counsel for the Associates Investment Co. and drew up most of the finance bills and amendments introduced at the 1939 session. Hancock is the manager of the Associates Discount Corporation and supervisor of Associates Discount offices in Toledo, Saginaw and Flint. The Associates Discount Corporation is a subsidiary of the Associates Investment company.

Haggerty is attempting to prove to the jury that Major Charles F. Hemans was hired by the finance company group as a lawyer and lobbyist who would work in a legal and lawful manner to advance the interests of the finance companies before the legislature, and if he did offer bribes to the legislature it was without the knowledge or consent of the finance company executives.

That there was a conspiracy between finance company executives and legislators was denied by all the legislative defendants and by Omacht and Hancock.

Sidelights on the Conspiracy Trial

The 14 members of the jury are a wide-awake group. They stifle most of their yawns during the tedious hours of re-hashing the same old testimony. The sleepest time is between two and three o'clock in the afternoon. Some of the attorneys drop off to slumber frequently and several of the defendants enjoy deep sleep. Drowsiness was infectious Tuesday afternoon during the reading of a five-page letter by Attorney James E. Haggerty.

Several of the attorneys retained by legislative defendants have taken vacations this week. The going rate of $100 for court appearances would make a thrifty defendant who was paying his own bill want his attorney to have all the vacation possible.

The price table has been brightened this week by the presence of Nava Judd of the Detroit U. P. bureau. Milt Kelly of the A. P. has promised to send over a charmer from his office next week. J. F. M. Hally of Detroit, attorney employed by Household Finance Corporation to scout this trial to prepare a defense in another conspiracy case, was smoked out Tuesday afternoon. George Omacht was on the stand testifying about a conference held in Chicago with Household executives. Hally was scribbling away furiously in longhand attempting to keep up with Omacht's testimony. Sigler suggested that Omacht stop to give Hally a chance to get down all the words. Hally, who usually sits at the press table, took his blushing countenance out of the room. The Household attorney is listed among the top-flight trial attorneys of Detroit.

James E. Haggerty, attorney for Omacht and Hancock, has a quick wit and is not about being facetious in court. On examination of Omacht it could not be determined where he spent the night of May 9, 1939. Facetiously, Haggerty asked his witness if it could be that he spent the night with the Hemans. Sigler asked that the question include Joseph Roosevelt. Haggerty took the suggestion and then asked if Omacht might not have spent the night with Sigler.

"Neither" and "neither" for either and neither, as the words are generally pronounced here, are getting some play before the jury.

Barnard Pierce, former Ingham prosecutor and one of Ingham's most prominent barristers during the war days, was in the courtroom Tuesday to listen to the trial. He is now a captain in the army. James E. Ramsey of Pierce, Planck and Ramsey, is aiding Haggerty in the defense of Omacht and Hancock.

There will be no session of court Friday because of the death Thursday morning in Lansing of Judge John Simpson's father-in-law, George Palmer, 82. Palmer was widely known as the founder of the Palmer shoe fund, a charitable organization which provides shoes for needy school children. Attorneys, court attendants and newspapermen sent flowers for the funeral.

George Omacht, attorney for 24 years and an experienced trial lawyer, added to his court experience this week. It was the first time he had ever appeared in circuit court as a defendant. Always before he has been on the questioning and objecting end of the conversation. Asked about his reactions, Omacht said he found it difficult to realize he was a defendant and not an attorney. "It seemed impossible not to frame objections to some of the questions," he stated.

There have been many attorneys on the stand during the trial and all of them have found the witness chair uncomfortable. Mrs. John Hancock, who has been at her husband's side during much of the trial, was downcast Thursday when she learned there was to be no court Friday. She had hoped that her husband would complete his ordeal in the witness chair by Friday night. Now he will probably have to go back on the stand Monday.

Mrs. Abraham Cooper is another woman who meant it when she said she would take her husband for better or for worse. She, too, has been a constant attendant at the trial.

Wednesday's rain helped crops and also boosted attendance at the trial. Many farmers, rained off their fields, attended court to see how men with law degrees spread it.

Egg Production Drop Shows Culling Need

Many poultrymen are reporting a marked decline in egg production, said H. H. Barnum, county agricultural agent, which leads to the question, "Why do poultrymen keep hens in the flock after they quit laying?" The probable answer, he said, lies in the hope that non-producing birds will soon resume laying but, according to poultry authorities, a hen which stops laying early is likely to stay out of production for four or five months. Barnum said, "Flock owners should rid their flocks at once of non-producers for several reasons. First feed will be conserved and net profits increased. Second, better prices now prevail for fowls than is anticipated when the usual fall movement to market begins. In fact, according to J. M. Moore, of the Michigan State college poultry department, the markets may be unable to handle all that will be offered later. "Reasons for Mr. Moore's prediction are: The large number of hens on farms, shortage of labor for dressing birds, and lack of storage space. One is forced to the conclusion, therefore, that non-layers should be culled out and marketed as quickly as possible."

takes a lot of money to keep the boys satisfied."

Questioned briefly Wednesday morning by Haggerty, Omacht declared he had nothing to do with hiring Hemans as a lobbyist in 1937 and had nothing to do with hiring him or paying him in 1939. He said he recommended Hemans to Abraham Cooper as a capable, reliable attorney.

Hemans' Salary Questioned

In a merciless cross-examination, Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler continually demanded that Omacht explain why Hemans was paid $7,200 for "so little work" while Marshall received only $381 for serving as attorney for the finance group. The prosecutor was attempting to show that the money paid Hemans was earmarked for bribery and that the finance group relied upon the lobbyist's reports and advice.

"What did Charles Hemans do that Claude Marshall could not have done?" Sigler asked. Omacht replied that Hemans' advice that Senator Hammond was the administration leader on finance measures was valuable.

Grand jury testimony was referred to by the prosecutor. Sigler made statements made by Omacht before the grand jury to the effect that Hemans was employed because of his friendship with legislators and because he would introduce finance company executives to representatives and senators. No such introductions were made, Omacht admitted.

In testifying as to normal fees for legal services Omacht declared that $100 a day is not considered exorbitant for an attorney.

Sigler asked Omacht if the testimony given by Prew and Hemans as to Hemans appearing January 26 in Detroit on crutches, the putative fee of $500 paid at the first Detroit meeting, and the minimum fee of $2,500 was correct why there was any reason to doubt the testimony about bribery. The court sustained Haggerty's objection to the question. Earlier on cross-examination Omacht had volunteered the information that he did not place credence in the testimony of Hemans and Prew.

On re-direct examination by Haggerty, Omacht testified that the $6,000 fee plus expenses of $1,200 paid Hemans was considered reasonable by reason of the large sum of money involved in the legislation. Sigler then again questioned Omacht about testimony given before the grand jury in connection with the hiring of Marshall and Hemans.

Treasurer Testifies

Hancock told of his connection with Associated Discount, of how after graduating from Grand Rapids Union he had worked for various firms before entering the employ of the company of which he is now manager. He said that at a Hotel Statler dinner there was a low-toned talk among finance company executives about hiring Hemans to pay bribes. He insisted that at the meeting when Hemans was hired that the lobbyist said nothing about being retained by Beneficial Management. Hancock, as treasurer of the group, said he always gave a complete accounting of funds collected and disbursed. He corroborated Omacht's testimony about the hiring of Hemans and the fixing of fees.

The treasurer of the group declared that both Hemans and Marshall were informed about the other's employment.

Hancock was excused from the stand Thursday morning to permit other witnesses subpoenaed for duty to testify. Charles Rubiner of Detroit, judge of the common pleas court in 1939, told of writing Governor Fitzgerald about abuses practiced by finance companies and of a conference he had with Omacht.

Wayne H. Mosier, Detroit attorney for the Contract Purchase Corporation told of his study of Omacht's bill. On cross-examination he said he knew nothing of the employment of Hemans or Marshall nor of the contribution of $900 his company made to the legislative fund.

Kenneth Artley of Monroe, manager of the Monroe City Budget Co. in 1939, testified that he attended two meetings of finance groups but heard nothing of any bribery talk. Under cross-examination by Sigler, Artley said his company paid $100 toward the legislative fund and then withheld other contributions. He said he considered the cost too high. He said he knew nothing about the employment of Marshall and Hemans and was never given any accounting of the sums raised and disbursed by the finance group.

George Wright, a municipal judge of Monroe and stockholder in the Monroe City Budget company, testified that he attended a Statler hotel meeting at which the hiring of a lobbyist was discussed. Nothing, to his knowledge, he testified, was said about buying votes. He stated that he knew his company paid money to a fund for the employment of a lobbyist, but no report was ever received by him regarding the actual expenditure of the funds.

Hancock took the stand again, following Wright to testify that in February, 1939, meetings were held in Detroit and Lansing for purposes of discussion and activities relating to the finance bills. The handling commissioner was contacted by Prew, Omacht, Cooper, and Hancock, as well as the Automotive Dealers Association with offices in Lansing. By February 21, Hancock, as treasurer, notified other finance companies that twice the original assessment paid for the employment of a lobbyist would have to be made.

Bribe-Taking Denied

Last Thursday afternoon and Friday the parade of legislative defendants to the stand continued, all of them denying they had ever taken bribes from Hemans or anyone else to influence their votes in the legislature.

Joseph J. Kowalski (D) of Detroit, introducer of the bill which, if adopted, would have on their vehicles, declared the measure was not a sandbag introduced for a pay-off. Kowalski insisted he had not heard of a sandbag bill at that time. He said that he did not discuss finance company legislation with Hemans and was never offered any money by him or anyone else for his vote.

Ernest G. Nagel, 51, (D), former Detroit senator, was an interesting witness in his own behalf. Testifying with a pronounced Swiss accent, Nagel declared that while he frequently visited the Hemans hotel room, it was only to get away from the trading going on at the legislature.

Nagel, a one-time pugilist, balloonist and sailor and a veteran of World War I, denied receiving any bribe payments, explaining that the overcoat purchased for him by Hemans was in payment of a debt. He testified that there was no truth to Hemans' story that he had accepted a bribe to kill a bill he had introduced. The Detroit senator had taken a bigger bribe to have the measure reported out of committee and passed. Nagel declared that Hemans had tried unsuccessfully to bribe him with "chicken-feed" which he spurned, later challenging the lobbyist to a fight for impugning his honesty. Nagel testified that because he held to rigid training rules he drank only mineral water when he visited the Hemans room in the hotel.

Meeky Mouse Committee

Representative Earl C. Gallagher (D) of Detroit, in giving the list of committees on which he served, named the University of Michigan committee a "Meeky Mouse" committee. He told on direct examination by his attorney, Maurice Shillman of Detroit, that he used the term because the committee seldom met.

Gallagher testified that he was an habitual poker player in the room maintained by Charles Gadd, Detroit head of education lobbyist, and was usually a winner. He was elected to the legislature in 1938 for the first time. Hemans had testified that he had bribed Gallagher at previous sessions.

On cross-examination by Sigler, Gallagher estimated that the legislature appropriated two million dollars to the University of Michigan in 1939. The prosecutor pointed out that four million dollars was the appropriation. Gallagher did attend university football games even if he did not attend meetings of the committee, he admitted. He insisted, however, that his committee assignment was regarded as a "Meeky Mouse" assignment. He said that the poker games in Gadd's room frequently lasted until three or four o'clock in the morning.

Gallagher was employed as a Wayne county deputy clerk until he was suspended at the time the conspiracy warrant was issued. Among his character witnesses was Casper J. Lingerman, Wayne county clerk. He said that Gallagher possessed a good reputation in Detroit. Asked by Sigler if he played poker himself, Lingerman replied that he occasionally played with friends but was a consistent loser.

Other character witnesses testified as to the good reputations borne by Gallagher and Walsh in Detroit.

Diggs Had No Phone

Although Senator Charles C. Diggs (D) of Detroit was not on the stand, two witnesses in his behalf testified that the colored senator did not have a telephone at his Lansing residence. Joseph Roosevelt, Diggs' handyman, had testified previously that he had named Senator Diggs by telephone to come to the Hemans room for a conference.

Senator Diggs is defended by Joseph A. Brown and Harold Bledsoe of Detroit. Brown questioned Mrs. James Taylor of Lansing, where the senator roomed, and Russell Runquist of the Michigan Bell Telephone company. Both declared that there was no telephone in the Taylor home.

Under questioning by Sigler, Runquist agreed that it would have been possible for Roosevelt to have called Diggs at some telephone other than one in the Taylor home.

Wilkowski Testifies

Senator Leo J. Wilkowski, 42, (D), who was renominated as senator July 13, said he was employed in the office of the Wayne circuit court commissioner until suspended when the conspiracy warrant was issued. Under direct examination by his attorney, Lloyd D. Parr of Lansing, he said he was first elected to the senate in 1938. He said he had met Hemans at Democratic conventions but knew him only as a regent of the University of Michigan and as a candidate for attorney general. He first met Roosevelt in 1939 but did not know he was employed by Hemans, Wilkowski declared.

Asked by Parr as to the number of times he had been in the Hemans hotel room, Senator Wilkowski said he first visited the room with a Senator Murphy of Detroit and that he was at the room five or six other times. He said he discussed a University of Michigan appropriation bill with Hemans but never discussed finance company legislation with the lobbyist. He denied ever receiving any money from Hemans, Roosevelt or any other person for his votes.

Went to Washington

Senator Wilkowski was given a thorough going-over by Sigler relative to the trips the senator and Representative Francis J. Nowak made to Washington and Baltimore to see Hemans. The senator had testified that he did nothing to dissuade Hemans from appearing before the grand jury.

Hemans had testified that on one trip the two Detroiters visited him uninvited and Hemans had agreed to the other trip. Senator Wilkowski declared that Hemans had asked Nowak and him to report to him in Washington to give information concerning grand jury developments.

Senator Wilkowski said, "We reported to Hemans on the progress of the grand jury from what we had read in the newspapers. He told us he was not guilty of any wrongdoing. We urged him to come back and tell the truth."

During their conferences in Washington and Baltimore, Senator Wilkowski said, Hemans told them that Representative John D. Hamilton and Roosevelt had tried to extort money from him, and that he had fired Roosevelt.

Discusses Trip

Representative Francis J. Nowak (D) of Detroit took the stand and under Parr's questioning corroborated the Wilkowski version of the Washington and Baltimore trips. He told of riding to Lansing in 1939 with Joseph Roosevelt and of calling on Hemans in his room. He said he had seen John Hancock in the room. He named a long list of legislators who visited the Gadd lobbying headquarters frequently.

Hemans telephoned him to take Senator Wilkowski and go to Washington. Representative Nowak testified. He said he did not learn until he visited Washington that Roosevelt was on the Hemans payroll.

Sigler pulled no punches in his examination of Representative Nowak. He questioned him about his poker playing in the rooms of lobbyists and about the two trips to see Hemans.

Comstock on Stand

Former Governor William A. Comstock, Michigan's first Democratic governor since Woodbridge N. Ferris back before World War I, led a contingent of character witnesses to the stand Monday morning. Comstock, now a member of the Detroit city council, testified that he had known Ernest G. Nagel since 1926 and that Nagel has a good reputation in Detroit. Under cross-examination by Walter Nelson, Comstock said he knew Charles Gadd but did not know he was a lobbyist. Questioned by Sigler, Comstock stated he had never been in any lobbyist's room in Lansing.

The same question was asked by the special prosecutor of all other character witnesses, and the same reply was received. Other character witnesses were Roman Rozinski of Detroit for Joseph L. Kaminski, Thomas Giles Cavanaugh, Jr., and Lewis F. Witt for Francis J. Nowak, and John C. Ray, assistant United States district attorney, Arthur Kreut and John Kaminski, all of Detroit, for Senator Leo J. Wilkowski.

Last Legislative Witness

Representative Martin Kronk, 44, of Detroit was the last of the legislative defendants to take the stand.

Senator Charles C. Diggs, Representative Adam W. Sumner and former Representatives Leo Domrowski and Walter N. Stockfish did not avail themselves of the opportunity to testify in their own behalf. The latter three were the only legislative defendants on trial who had received checks from Hemans.

Frank Chermanski, attorney for Kronk, in his opening statement said that his client was graduated from the Orchard Lake academy and the University of Detroit, and after engaging in various business enterprises, including distributing beer, was elected to the legislature in 1936.

On Important Committee

Representative Kronk said he was the only Democrat to serve on the important ways and means committee in 1939, and that his work with the committee took almost all his time. He testified that he called occasionally at the Gadd lobbying headquarters and on those occasions usually visited the room of Hemans.

"Just one drop of whiskey" in a glass of soda water was all the liquor Representative Kronk took in the rooms of lobbyists, he said, a statement which caused him some difficulty on cross-examination by Sigler. He then said the "just one drop" was a relative term and that he did not measure the liquor with a medicine dropper.

Representative Kronk has poor vision, he testified. Sigler objected to testimony on eyesight with the remark that Kronk's vision was good enough to see how to get into and out of the Hemans bathroom. The statement was ordered expunged from the record.

Hemans had testified that although his memory was hazy on the subject, he seemed to recall that he had advanced money to Representative Kronk to cover automobile repairs. The representative declared he had never owned an automobile.

Representative Kronk said he had never received any money from anyone to influence his vote. He said he had never discussed any legislative matters with Hemans, although under Sigler's cross-examination, he said he had discussed legislation in the hotel rooms of other lobbyists.

Mrs. Demetrius Thomas Knaggs, clerk of the house ways and means committee in 1939, testified that Representative Kronk attended all sessions of the committee and that many meetings were held at night. Representative John P. Espie of Clinton county, chairman of the committee, testified that Kronk was a faithful worker on the committee. Deputy Sheriff Lester Huff of Livingston county took the stand to tell about an accident near Howell June 15, 1939, in which Representative Kronk was injured while riding as a passenger of a bus.

$3.00 Per Day Expended

Sigler used Representative Kronk as the means of exploding the fallacy that legislators receive only $3.00 per day for their services. The special prosecutor brought out that legislators receive $3.00 per day for every day in each year of a two-year session, although the legislature is in session only four or five months out of two years, which makes the salary approximately $2,200.

Representative Kronk testified that Representative George N. Higgins of Oakland county had asked him to support Senate Bills 85 and 166.

Her entire life was spent in the Aurelius community and she had resided for 28 years on the farm where she died. TRAPPED IN SCHOOL

Two Holt boys were trapped by Deputy Sheriff Fred Fry in the Harper school last Thursday night. Officers were notified when residents near the school saw the two boys prowling around. No charges have yet been placed against the pair. They were taken to their homes by Fry, who explained the situation to the parents.

FIRE WARNING

John Gunderson, state conservation officer, has asked people to be careful about fire. There have been several fires in swamps and woods the past few weeks. No fires should be set, even bonfires, without first securing a permit from the state conservation officer. That law which has long been effective in northern Michigan now applies throughout the state.

RESCUE MANEUVERS CARRIED OUT BY CAP

PLANE NAVIGATED BY DEAD RECKONING

On Monday, July 24, the Mason Civil Air Patrol proved it could handle an emergency flight and rescue by means of dead reckoning in navigating the rescue plane. A point was established 7 1/2 miles by air from the new airport. The field was 11 miles from Mason by road, and was marked on a county map by a tiny pencil dot.

The task of navigating the plane was turned over to Harold Frye of Mason's Squadron 637-1. At 8:25 p. m. a plane took off from the airport, piloted by Flight Officer Les Richardson of Lansing CAP Squadron 637-1. Once in the air, Frye took over the task of guiding the ship to its goal.

Approximately 25 members of the Mason Red Cross were stranded. They prepared signals, using a confidential Red Cross code, and waited for the rescue plane to come over. If any fear was experienced for the success of the venture, it was speedily removed by the sight of the plane coming in straight as an arrow to its mark.

"Navigating isn't a simple process," explained Lt. Marvin Rice, commander of the local squadron, Squadron 637-1. "It has worked hard on its problems. To fly a plane by this method, a number of factors are taken into consideration. When Frye leveled off for the flight, his head was full of such items as true course, compass course, correction for wind, and magnetic course.

Frye came through 100 per cent and as he climbed from the plane on the return trip, one noticed the big smile and contented expression that has been entirely absent during the take-off.

As the plane flew over the area where the doomed squadron was located, the pilot saw the strips of cloth arranged in intricate patterns, signaling the conditions of the stranded party. The message duly recorded in Frye's note-book, was flown back to Mason. It read as follows:

"CAP signal crew here, 100 persons killed, 500 persons injured, 50 persons homeless. We need out clothing for 100. Send relief director. Send miscellaneous drugs. End of message."

Parachutes were dropped and hit the target with accuracy. To lighten the note of the maneuver, bottles of soft drinks were dropped to the waiting squadron members.

"If any doubt exists as to the amount of study necessary to properly navigate a plane," Lt. Rice said, "one should take off with Flight Officer Richardson. He should fly to 1000 feet and try to locate his stomach while the plane goes through a wing slip, a dive, and a few other simple turns. Then if he can still talk, he should attempt to find and guide Richardson back to the airport strip. By this time he will have forgotten any ideas he may have had about 'navigating' to any other more distant destinations."

FILM NEWS

FOX THEATRE

The first film to show modern Australia, where so many American boys are now stationed, is playing at the Fox theatre Saturday. This is M-G-M's "The Man From Down Under," starring Charles Laughton with Binnie Barnes, Richard Carlson and Donna Reed in stellar supporting roles.

As Jocko Wilson, a happy-go-lucky, good-for-nothing Aussie, Laughton scores in his most felicitous role to date. He leaves Belgium for Australia and home at the end of World War I, taking with him two young refugees whom he believes to be brother and sister and leaving behind him, literally waiting at the church, Argie Dawkins, a cockney entertainer, played by Binnie Barnes.

Patric Kirkland, Dick Powell, Linda Darnell and Jack O'Neil share stellar honors in "It Happened Tomorrow," Rene Clair's sprightly comedy which makes its entrance at the Fox theatre on Sunday.

It is the story of Larry Stevens, young reporter on the Evening News in 1890 who receives a copy of tomorrow's newspaper . . . today. As a result of his ownership of the paper Stevens finds himself involved in a series of strange adventures during the course of which he wins a fortune at the racetrack, predicts the future with uncanny accuracy, and finally lands in the calaboose when the police link his name with crimes he has predicted after reading tomorrow's newspaper. The tangled events unravel to a surprise climax after the phantom newspaper predicts Stevens' death.

"Music and War," showing at the Fox on Tuesday and Wednesday, is Robert Taylor's last movie for the duration. Taylor is now serving as a lieutenant, junior grade, with the naval air corps.

In the powerful story of Russia today, Taylor portrays a young American composer and conductor who makes a tour of Russia as a goodwill ambassador. The outbreak of Russo-German hostilities. In Russia he falls in love with and marries a Russian girl. With the German invasion of Russia, he is able to observe at first hand that nation's magnificent fight for survival and to witness America with his life to fight as he knows best—with music.

Filled with action, sparkling lines and a number of new tunes, Republic's latest production starring Roy Rogers opens at the Fox on Thursday.

Giving fans a new twist in the story, Republic has laid much of the plot on board a showboat named "Yellow Rose of Texas" on which Rogers, posing as an itinerant cowboy, is employed as an entertainer. He is in reality an investigator for an insurance firm trying to solve the mystery of a payroll holdup.

The local showing of the new Columbia melodrama, "Two-Man Submarine," appears Thursday and Friday at the Fox theatre.

Tom Neal, Ann Savage and J. Carroll Naish score heavily in the leading roles. "Tom" is cast as a man of science, transformed into a man of action when Jap and Nazi agents secrete themselves on the South Pacific island where he is conducting experiments on the extraction of penicillin and attempt to steal our process.

"Nuremberg Egg" Old Nuremberg, Germany, gave the world its first pocket watch, known far and wide as the "Nuremberg egg." The city gave Germany statesmen, sculptors, singers and poets. It was long known as the "Jewel Case of the Reich."

One Public Job at a Time

The conspiracy trial at Mason is bringing out some information not generally known heretofore and the people of the state of Michigan will be foolish unless they use that information to make some needed reforms.

Practically all of the Wayne county legislators on trial held two jobs at once. They had city and county jobs passed out by the Democratic machine in Wayne county while they were drawing pay as legislators. Most of those who didn't draw two pay checks, one from the county and one from the state, were fixed up with county jobs upon adjournment of the legislature. Some of the defendants have testified that they did little or no work for the city or county while in the legislature and drew their county or city pay under the guise of influencing the legislature to be "good to Wayne county."

There should be a clause in the state constitution prohibiting any senator or representative, or any other state official, from drawing pay from any city, county or school district. Senators, representatives and state officials are elected to serve the state, all the people in the state, not to grab things for their own communities.

Then there is the matter of Charlie Gadd and Charlie Gadd's room in the Hotel Olds, a poker-playing, liquor-drinking hang-out for legislators. To think that the Detroit board of education from tax money it receives locally and from the state operates such a joint is appalling. Further reflection that the joint is maintained under the guise of getting more state money for education of Detroit youngsters makes one wonder if such educational support is worthwhile; if money obtained by such means can be used for any good purpose.

Institutions which use public funds, whether they be university, school district, city or township funds, for buying whiskey and operating a card room to influence legislators should have all state funds denied them.

The conspiracy trial is costing Michigan a lot of money. It may prove to be a good investment, however, if Michigan people take steps at once to correct some of the abuses disclosed.

"Use All the Water You Want"

Mason people don't have to quit sprinkling their lawns and gardens or to sprinkle only certain hours. There is ample water in the two big shallow wells developed for the Mason water supply. The supply is gauged to the maximum use, not to the minimum or normal use.

There was a time when Mason people had to conserve water when its use was needed most. That's the way it works in many other cities. But here in Mason now there is plenty of water. At no time within the past month of dry weather have the wells been pumped dangerously low.

A city in the water, business should have water for all the customers. We wouldn't think much of the ice company if on the hottest days the supply of ice ran short. Neither would we think much of the power company if the juice ran out on the darkest of nights. Hot, dry weather is just the time when we need to use lots of water. The city council in supplying that water is merely carrying out sound business practices.

The Responsibility

The business manager of Flint's public schools a few days ago stated that it will cost the taxpayers of that city more than $5,500 to restore broken windows in the school buildings of Flint. He said that this was an increase over the cost of the previous year, when it required $5,100 to make similar replacements.

"Intentional vandalism is the cause of most of this waste," he said.

And who is responsible for this VANDALISM?

Do you remember back just a few years ago when the fathers and mothers of Flint were pictured in the newspapers while hurling rocks and clubs through the factory windows of Flint?

Do you remember one picture which showed hundreds and hundreds of men and women marching along a street, breaking every factory window they could reach with their rocks and clubs?

No, do not blame the boys and girls of Flint who now prowl around the streets after dark getting a "kick" out of hurling rocks through school windows.

Blame their parents, who set the example of lawlessness for them. Blame the state officials and the city officials who permitted anarchy to rule supreme in Flint for days and weeks and months.

Flint public school window smashing is the first harvest of the New Deal whirlwind of anarchy, law defiance and general disregard of property rights. —Elton R. Eaton in Plymouth Mail.

Hospitals Close

Over at Mason where there have been two small hospitals serving the sick for the past several years, both have closed this month. Both were operated by doctors as an adjunct to their practice. Neither has been able to give the complete service which an approved hospital is expected to give.

This emphasizes a current condition. As we have repeated many times in this column, a public hospital is the result of cooperation between three distinct groups, viz., the public which built it and patronizes it; the hospital staff which operates it; the doctors who use it as an instrument for the care and cure of their patients.

If any one of these three groups fails to cooperate, the hospital suffers.

It is not necessary to state that hospitals — which are really hotels for the sick — are operating under unusually difficult conditions today. The war has taken many of the nurses and doctors. The war also has resulted in absurdly high wages being paid for inexperienced workers in war plants. Finally, wartime prosperity plus the trend toward hospital insurance, has made greater demands on hospitals.

If hospitals in small towns are to survive, the public must expect that it cannot get all the attention and extra frills of peacetime. Moreover, what they do get is costing more. The doctors who bring patients to hospitals must realize that, with curtailed professional help, they cannot be waited on hand-and-foot by nurses as was possible in peacetime. Finally, hospital employees must realize that hospitals are not paid by the federal government on a cost-plus basis as are many war plants.

This is a difficult time for the public, for the doctors and for the hospital staffs. No one is to blame. It is a condition and everyone knows the cause.

Clinton county has likely been better situated than many rural communities... but Clinton Memorial hospital has been and is experiencing its difficulties. For more than a month there has been no regular surgical nurse on the staff. In the past there were always two. The staff of 22 registered nurses has shrunk to 10 or 12. It has been a corps of nurses' aids who have made continued hospital service possible.

Everyone should be grateful to those people who have remained on the job, loyal to the institution and to the public they serve and the doctors they daily work with. We think that they, like their sisters in the armed services, are performing a distinct patriotic service. They, even as you and I, are working harder than ever before. Be considerate of them — and of everyone in every undertaking.

If you feel the war jitters coming on, count ten. There are happier days ahead. Let's all be good soldiers. —S. L. Marshall in Clinton County Republican News.

Plowed Under

Henry A. Wallace had a taste of his own medicine at the Democratic convention. It was he who as secretary of agriculture in 1933 ordered the cotton and the wheat plowed under. He it was who ordered the slaughter of the little pigs and the pregnant sows. There was too much cotton and wheat, too many pigs and sows, he said, and they were destroyed.

There were too many vice-presidential candidates at Chicago and Wallace, with his handle on the plow, was the candidate who was plowed under. He went the way of Jack Garner. President Roosevelt didn't want Garner in 1940. He wanted Wallace and got him. Had he said the word, he could have had Wallace again but he realized that Southern Democrats might not stay in line with Wallace on the ticket. It became expedient to toss Wallace aside and President Roosevelt did it. Wallace was plowed under.

DOWN BY THE SYCAMORE

Truth is always kinder than rumor. C. W. Harlow, a philosopher from the Leslie-Onondaga community, was in the office Saturday. We discussed one thing and another and then the matter of a man moving out of the neighborhood because he was caught stealing a sheep was brought up. Harlow knew such a man. He moved to the adjoining township because of the story about the stolen sheep. However, the story followed him, only it had been enlarged to the point where he had stolen five sheep and had moved out. So the man moved again, this time to an adjoining county. But the story followed him, bigger than ever, this time that he had stolen 25 sheep. That was too much. The man sold out and moved back to the home town where he had stolen the one sheep, declaring he didn't want to be thought a bigger thief than he actually was.

"Why," asks a subscriber over in White Oak, "do newspapers carry pictures of young women whose engagements are being announced or who are being married? What news value is there in such pictures? Just about every girl can become engaged if she wants to, and most of the girls get married, some to their sorrow."

"Newspapers should throw out the pictures of the betrothed girls and the sweet young brides and use pictures of women in birth announcements, or when they can be a big pack of peaches or tomatoes, or turn out an extra fine batch of biscuits, or help their husbands do the plowing or get in the hay. In any case there should be some accomplishment to merit a picture and so far as I can see there has not been enough accomplished in most instances of engagement and wedding announcements to warrant the printing of a picture."

I can see some sound logic in the White Oaker's stand on the value of pictures, and some of his suggestions should be adopted. Pictures of women with captions, "Son Born Tuesday," "Flows 30 Acres in Day," "Puts Up Two Bushels of Tomatoes," "Turns Out Big Washing Without Roman Cleanser," "Honored at Stork Shower," "Arm Caught in Stringer," "Makes Old Dress Do for President's Ball," or "Young Wife Having Bridgework Replaced" would certainly attract more attention than "Engagement Announced" or "Wedding Vows Spoken at Double-Ring Ceremony."

I don't care for double-ring ceremonies, nor do I like to see a wedding ring upon a man's finger. People can tell whether or not a man is married by taking one look at him and there is no reason for him to go around wearing a badge attesting to his conjugal state. A woman is different. Many married women can, and some do, disguise their married status, but there are few married men who can deceive anyone as to their condition. There is just something about marriage which marks a man and sets him apart from bachelors.

Jackknives, except the mammoth Boy Scout type, suspended from a chain, are off the market in the Sycamore valley. Only experienced traders should now continue to swap jackknives and only the most glib will do any lending.

One of the most competent girls in Ingham county, according to Mrs. Bertine Benedict, who should know, is Beverly Watkins, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Watkins. The Watkins girl is the leader of the DuBois 4-H club and there is not an adult leader in the county who does a better job of leading than Beverly.

Deputy Sheriff Lester, Huff of Livingston county is a lingual purist. He uses the right word in the right place. In testifying at Mason Monday, he told of an accident happening. The attorney questioning him spoke about the accident occurring. An accident happens; it doesn't occur. While the words are similar, in meaning, occur is the more formal word, carrying the intimation that the event was planned. An accident just up and happens.

A lot of poultry flocks in the Sycamore, Hutton and Portage valleys will be thoroughly culled this week and the best cockers will be served at the Catholic picnic at Bunker Hill Sunday, August 6. Poles will have been loaned to get chickens for Sunday dinners can have all they want at the picnic. No man with a big family can afford not to attend the picnic because a special prize is offered to the largest family present.

Mason people who have enjoyed speculating about a marital upset here in the valley will be able to continue in their enjoyment. The divorce case has been suppressed by the court, which means that the divorce will be consummated but that the information in the bill of complaint and all other court proceedings will be shrouded in secrecy. The affair is an open covenant, just as Woodrow Wilson demanded, but is not openly arrived at.

Alderman R. R. Robbins was guilty of an atrocious pun at the council session Monday night. In discussing with nurses the operation of a hospital the alderman remarked that there is a lot of labor connected with a hospital.

MASON
CIVIL AIR PATROL
NOTES
—By Leroy Yerxa—

At the last Friday night session, men and women of Squadron 327-5 drilled together. Squadron Commander Marvin Rice reviewed the squadron which in turn made every possible attempt to turn right and left at the right moments. In all due fairness, it can be stated that if the women cannot "Right Dress," they do dress right. Don't get us wrong. They're a grand bunch, and they mean business.

Proof? Witness Mrs. Tommy Royston who brought honest-to-goodness orange-ade (with ice cubes) to the barn-hanger at the airport Sunday afternoon. Not to mention a cake with chocolate icing piled sky-high on top. To the squadron members were sweating it out the hard way, that cake and orange-ade were the absolute ceiling in sumptuous stuff.

Lieutenant Marvin Rice is cooking his own meals this week, and we can mention to Mrs. Rice upon her return that her husband has been seen running around. He's been mixed up with a number of problems that we think Mrs. Rice will be able to figure out. Strictly on the level, though, the problems concern only navigation and hard work at the airport.

We liked the look of sublime happiness on Frye's face when he returned from flight assignment on Monday, knowing he had finally hit his mark on the head. Frye has worked plenty of navigation on paper. This time he sent a plane across country and came out on a postage stamp. We'll allow that the stamp might have been one of the "billboard" commemorative issues.

Magazine articles on the development of Mason's airport will appear in CONTACT, the state CAP magazine. Another article is being prepared for FLYING magazine. A complete publicity program is being arranged for Mason CAP, including a pictorial history of the squadron's growth, and educational stuff for future study.

Both the CAP unit and Mayor Arthur W. Jewett are pleased by the increasing interest in the airport. A recent visit by pilots from neighboring towns brought a land office business to the port. Forty cars were counted on the used run-way during the 20-minute stay.

Both the eyes of youth and the eyes of their elders have turned to the sky.

Air enthusiasts explain, "If you must meet Sunday drivers on this earth, it's easier to dodge 'em in the air than on the ground. In the air you can go four ways. On the ground only two."

"Walk In the Sun" by Harry Brown is the short, swift story of one platoon of American soldiers who were set down on a beachhead in Italy. One after the other the officers in charge are taken from the beachhead, seriously wounded or mentally unstrung. Their objective is a machine gun nest in a farmhouse six miles inland. Threatened with panic as they see their commanders fall, they are again made into a fighting unit when a more corporate assumes leadership. It is a simple story of heroic efforts being made by many who will never reach newspaper columns, or receive medals. It is the characteristic story of American youth who can do great things when the occasion demands.

"Counterfeit" by Laurence Dwight Smith is subtitled, "Crime Against the People." It isn't the treasury which is the victim, but rather the bankteller, the restaurateur, the druggist or the operator of the dry goods store. Few of us know our money as we should. In this book Dwight Smith has written a complete story on the making of United States currency, the making of counterfeit money, and the detection of this currency. In it he has included stories from crime records, detective work of the secret service and one real engraving made by the bureau of printing and engraving with a "counterfeit" of the same thing. It will prove profitable and interesting reading for all.

"ABC of Poultry Raising" by J. E. Flores is a complete guide for the beginner or expert. If you are raising chickens or are thinking of raising them, it will prove helpful. Charts, equipment, breeds and breeding are discussed, and proper

Leslie Citizens to Choose Memorial

At a meeting of the Leslie Veterans Memorial committee held Wednesday evening at the G. A. R. hall it was decided to submit to the residents of Leslie and vicinity the proposition as to the type of memorial to be erected and the manner of its management. A ballot is to be prepared and printed in a coming issue of the Leslie Local-Republican upon which those interested may make their choice in this matter. Each ballot must be signed with the name and address of the voter and deposited in boxes to be placed in the Leslie postoffice, the Peoples bank, business places, and also at convenient locations in the townships of Bunker Hill, Onondaga and Rives.

The first portion of the ballot is to provide for a choice in the matter of the type of the memorial, such as a recreational building, with provision for the new side-walk on the south side of West Bellevue avenue was completed Wednesday by the placing of the new walk in front of the Baptist church parsonage.

The second section of the ballot has to do with the type of management which should be provided if the choice should be a community building; should the management be solely in the hands of the veterans, or should it be composed of a board of directors of five members, three of whom should be veterans and two from the community at large; or should the board of directors be seven in number from the representative organizations of the community with the proviso that at least one of them should be a veteran? When the balloting is finished, the counting of the votes will be conducted by the veterans' memorial committee. The meeting was presided over by Russell Hammond, vice president of the organization, in the absence of E. T. Blackmore, the president.

Attends Conference

Rev. Charles E. F. Howe will be in Chicago attending a ministers' conference during the first week of August. A guest minister will preach the first two Sundays of August at the Presbyterian church.

Funeral Rites Held

Mrs. Ida M. Pekrul, 75, died Monday evening at the home of her son on Aurelius road. Mrs. Pekrul had been a resident of this locality for the past 20 years, coming here from Poland. She was an attendant of Zion Lutheran church of Lansing. Surviving are four sons, Emil, Gust, Henry and Michael Pekrul; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Decker and Mrs. Augusta Dron of Lansing; 18 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. Funeral services were held Thursday from the Estes-Lendley chapel in Lansing. Rev. E. L. Hoffmann officiated and interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Service Men Honored

A bohemian supper will be served in the home economics room of the school Friday evening, July 28, honoring Sgt. Arthur Adcock, who is home from New Guinea on his first leave in two years. All other Delhi township service men and women here on furlough or discharged from service, also will be guests. John Buck Post No. 238 of the American Legion is sponsoring the affair, which is open to the public. Plans for a program include a speaker and toastmaster. Persons who attend are asked to take a dish to pass and sandwiches and own table service.

Honor Guest

Mrs. Cecil Langham was delightfully entertained Saturday afternoon at a luncheon and games were played afterward, in the home of Mrs. Wesley Black. A delicious meal was served to 14 guests. The main table featured a miniature cradle in which were a pair of twin baby dolls. Pink and blue streamers ended at each place which were marked with favors of baskets in pink and blue and decorated with a large question mark in contrasting color. Pink and blue cradles burned on either side of the cradle. The small tables were decorated with pink and blue flowers. A guessing game of baby pictures afforded much amusement and the prize was won by Mrs. Langham. A game of hunting for infant apparel also afforded much enjoyment. The gifts were distributed in various hiding places and clues for finding were suspended from curled ribbons on the bottom of a gaily decorated umbrella which hung from the ceiling. Each clue was in the form of a rhyme. Guests were present from Birmingham, Port Huron, Owosso, Lansing and Holt. Mrs. Ernest Langham assisted Mrs. Black.

Bible School Closes

The Daily Vacation Bible school closed last Friday evening at the study hall of the school, with about 225 present. An entertaining program was presented by the pupils. Six denominations were represented, with a number not connected with any church. The total enrollment was 163.

Miss Ida Lucille Klaiber, cadet nurse at Bethesda hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio, was a week-end guest of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Klaiber.

Dinner guests Monday at the Methodist parsonage were Rev. and Mrs. Charles E. F. Howe and the Rev. and Mrs. Kearney Kirkby and their three children.

Miss Myrtha Marie Klaiber, who is taught in the Jackson schools last year, has signed a contract to teach in Lansing the coming school year.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baur are the parents of a son born at the Sparrow hospital. Mrs. Baur was formerly Miss Frieda Klaiber.

Miss Patricia Grinnell and Miss Barbara Siegrist attended the Presbyterian young people's conference at Waldenwoods, near Hartland last week. Miss Grinnell gave her report Sunday morning and next Sunday morning Miss Siegrist will give hers.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Noll of Lansing called on friends in Holt Tuesday evening.

Mix Seed

Many gardeners grow the first radish crop by mixing a few radish seed with the seeds of carrots, parsnips, parsley and beets, all of which can be sown as soon as the soil has been prepared. An early radish is used, which will germinate quickly to mark the location of the row, and come to maturity before the main crop has developed far enough to be injured by crowding.

OBITUARY

Myra Dennis Bravender

Myra Lydia Dennis, daughter of Joseph and Fannie Dennis, was born in Wheatfield township, Ingham county, Michigan, July 23, 1878, and passed away at the farm home on Saturday, July 15, 1944, at the age of 65 years, 11 months and 22 days.

She attended the Williamston high school and was graduated with the class of 1897. Her entire life was spent in the community in which she died, with the exception of three years which were spent on a farm near Dansville.

On March 16, 1904, she was united in marriage to Alva I. Bravender of Dansville, who preceded her in death on February 11, 1935. To this union were born two daughters, Doris Helen, wife of Howard Atwood of Northville, and Lois Arlene, wife of Ralph Baker, who shared the farm home, three and one-half miles south of Williamston.

She was a kind and loving wife, mother and grandmother, a steadfast friend and it can be truly said that hers was a noble character. During her declining years she found her greatest enjoyment in administering to the comforts and needs of her children and grandchildren, and was ever thoughtful of their welfare. She gave her time, strength and means to provide for their comfort. Her happy disposition and many acts of kindness will be greatly missed by those she leaves behind.

She was a member of Dansville Chapter No. 90, O. E. S., and received her membership in November, 1943.

Besides the daughters, she is survived by four granddaughters and three grandsons; one brother, Fred J. Dennis, and one sister, Flora B. Hammond, both of Wheatfield township, and a host of relatives and friends. She has gone but her influence will linger as a comfort to her family and friends.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, July 18, from the Vogt funeral home in Dansville, with the Rev. Harold Reese of Williamston officiating. Interment was in the Dansville cemetery, where Dansville Chapter No. 90, O. E. S., conducted the burial service.

Fair visitors will find cause for a higher respect of the science of farming and animal husbandry in the livestock exhibits of this year.

Racing, horse pulling and saddle horse shows are apt to be regarded by most as purely entertainment, and frankly, these exhibits are offered largely for this purpose, but we would like all Ingham County Fair visitors to keep in mind that these features, while presented in the form of entertainment, represent the highest degree of skill in production and development of your neighbor farmer and stock breeder.

This year your fair board is recognizing a growing interest in saddle horse production, development and use. We are offering for your approval a well balanced saddle horse show, including 3-gaited and 5-gaited types, combination, fine harness, stock, plantation and models. These will be presented before competent judges in a manner established by leading fairs of the country.

Rabbit production is another activity that has developed to a stage where your fair board has felt it to be of value to fair visitors to present a well-ordered exhibit of these animals.

This year we will have our first exhibit of this kind. It will be strictly high quality, well judged, and decidedly worthy of your inspection.

It should be remembered that our racing program starts on Tuesday and will continue Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, four days of top-quality racing.

Other entertainment through our stage show, midway, stock parades and special features has been given very careful attention.

We are very confident that you will like all of the fair this year and are looking forward to your daily attendance.

Sincerely,
OTTO C. HARTIG, President,
Ingham County Fair Association.

Rules and Regulations

1. All animals or articles entered for premiums must be entered by owner or agent entering in owner's name, using entry blanks provided for that purpose.
2. All animals or articles intended for exhibition must be entered in the Secretary's office. Exhibitor will receive a card with a number as entered on the books of the society.
3. A new 1944 rule requires that all open class livestock and poultry entries must be made not later than Saturday, August 12. Entries in other classes (except 4-H) close Tuesday noon, August 15, and exhibits must be in place at that time. 4-H entries close Wednesday noon, August 16, and exhibits must be in place by that time.
4. No animals or articles shall be taken from the grounds during the continuance of the fair without permission of the superintendent of the department.
5. Where there is but one exhibitor in a class, the animal or article may be awarded first, second, or none at all as the judge may deem worthy.

6. Special rules applying to departments only will be found under the heading of the several departments.
7. Exhibitors winning premiums are urged to check their placings with the department superintendents to avoid mistakes and misunderstandings. This should be done as quickly after the class is judged as possible.
8. The classifications herein provided shall constitute the entire list of entries on which premiums will be paid.
9. Exhibits must remain in place until 4 p. m. Saturday. Superintendents are instructed to see that this rule is observed.
10. Exhibitors are not entitled to draw more than one money in any one class nor exhibit the same animal or article in more than one class except as entered in a group. Provided, however, that an exhibitor may be awarded more than one ribbon in a class.
11. Livestock stalls and pens will be given the first bedding. Thereafter exhibitors will furnish their own. Exhibitors will provide their own hay and grain, except for poultry, which will be fed by the management.
12. The former rule requiring exhibits to be owned by Ingham county residents has been removed, except 4-H classes and light teams in the pulling contest. Quality entries from out of the county are solicited.
13. The management reserves the right to reject any exhibits deemed unworthy or that are not properly prepared. Judges will be instructed against awarding prize money to unworthy exhibits even though there may be no competition.
14. The management will not be responsible for any loss, damage, or injury to any animal exhibited, or for any article of any kind or nature that may be lost or destroyed or in any way injured. Each exhibitor will be responsible for any injury that may be occasioned to any person whomsoever by any animal owned or exhibited by him; and shall indemnify the management against all claims or injury occasioned by any animal owned or exhibited by him, or arise from any negligence of the person in charge of any such exhibit.
15. The management reserves to itself the sole and absolute right to settle disputes and misunderstandings arising out of premium awards or any phase of enterprise of the fair without claim for damages.
16. All devices for gambling, under any form whatever, will be subject to the control of the State Police, and will be excluded from the grounds of the society and any persons caught practicing any gambling devices, or games prohibited by the laws of this state, on or near the grounds, will be arrested at once.
