CONSUMERS PLANNING TO IMPROVE SYSTEM

TO MORE THAN DOUBLE CA-PACITY AT MASON

Improvements which will more than double the capacity of the electric distribution system serving Mason and adjacent areas will be made this summer by Consumers Power Company, Division Manager Howard Pett announced Tuesday.

Among the improvements scheduled, he said, are these:

The Mason substation will be enlarged, completely overhauled and to a large extent re-equipped with switching and control equipment of advanced type;

The present distribution voltage of 2,400 volts, three-phase delta, will be changed to 8,320 volts, three-phase, four-wire, multi-grounded operation, greatly increasing its load-carrying capacity.

Many changes will be made in the existing distribution system, including some replacement of poles, transformers, lighting arresters and transformer fuses.

Pett said the improvements have been made necessary by a steady increase, and the prospect of continued increase, in the use of electrical energy not only in Mason but also in Dansville, Eden, Aurelius and adjacent rural areas, all served from the Mason substation.

"We had this project on the drawing boards five years ago," he said, "but wartime restrictions kept us from going ahead with it at that time. Now that the restrictions are lifted, and as needed materials become available, we can proceed. Work has already started and we plan to complete the job before fall when the electric load will start up again after the customary summer decline."

Completion of the improvements, according to Pett, will give the system in Mason ample electric capacity and flexibility to accommodate not only existing industries, stores and homes, but also those which may be established during a period of growth.

"The substation will have two sources of electric power," he said. "One will be a 44,000-volt line from the Delhi substation, which is connected with the several Consumers plants to the north. The other will be a 44,000-volt line from the south, carrying power from the plants in Kalamazoo, Battle Creek and elsewhere. If service over either of these two lines should be temporarily interrupted, the other will take over through the operation of automatic switches."

The rebuilt substation will have three large transformers in regular operation. These will "step down" electric power coming into the substation from 44,000 volts to the proper voltage for local distribution. Should any of these transformers fail, which, according to Pett, is a remote possibility, a fourth "spare" transformer will be available to cut into service.

"These special safeguards will give Mason extraordinary assurance of interruption-free service, under practical any conditions," Pett said.

Schmidt Uses Plane For Business Trips

Lange Schmidt, Mason merchant, now has his own private plane for business trips, and this week he is going to St. Louis and Nashville on a buying junket. He is enthusiastic over the speed and efficiency resulting from his purchase of the plane.

On Tuesday Schmidt brought in the first plane-load of merchandise from Grand Rapids.

Schmidt learned to fly while in Florida last winter. At Sarasota, he qualified for a private pilot's license. Last week he purchased an Erco Escoupe in Riviera, Maryland. Schmidt took Doane Doane, army air force veteran, along for the maiden trip. Doane and Schmidt soared over the mountains and even through one hard storm without a mishap of any kind.

Last Sunday Schmidt flew the plane to Detroit and Pontiac. He made a late start from Pontiac and it was dark when he flew over Howell. At the Jewett airport in Mason there were no flares to mark the runway. There would have been had Schmidt called up. Schmidt came on in anyway, getting his bearings from the glass of the Jewett greenhouse. It was a perfect landing, but Schmidt is now campaigning for lights at the airport.

PEARLS RECOVERED

Mrs. Bert Annis of Leslie on Wednesday morning recovered the pearls lost at the Brown-for-Governor banquet in the Legion Memorial building Tuesday night. When she reached home Tuesday night she discovered her loss and early Wednesday morning notified E. J. Haddy, custodian. Haddy and Mrs. Annis went to the building and there beneath the table at which Mr. and Mrs. Annis sat were the pearls. The string had broken and the pearls had fallen. All of them were recovered.

GOVERNOR KELLY ENDORSES BROWN FOR GOVERNOR

Ingham Candidate Is Given Big Send-Off

Vernon J. Brown of Mason officially opened his campaign for the Republican nomination as governor amid the cheers of home folks Tuesday night. Mixed with the pledges of friends and neighbors of Ingham county were assurances of Governor Harry F. Kelly and other state leaders that they are supporting Brown in his bid for the governorship.

The party was staged by the Ingham county Brown-for-Governor club. It was held in the Legion Memorial building. A banquet attended by 500 preceded the meeting.

Evidence upon which the federal trial of McKay was based was furnished by the auditor general, Brown asserted.

Clean Administration

"Since 1929 I have been closely identified with state government," Brown said, "and never has there been a cleaner administration than that headed by the present governor. Every member of the official family is a gentleman. Each has come to his respective office after a successful career, either in business or in professions. Michigan today is not the cesspool of vice and corruption which some seek to have the people believe."

"On the contrary, Michigan as a state stands forth today among the other 47 states as well managed, honest, governed and free from tint of graft."

Brown told of the work done by the present administration in providing more school aid, more laboratories and classrooms for veterans at colleges, more facilities at mental hospitals, needed aid for the old and the sick, and dependent children.

"Let's have no more of these huddles behind closed doors," the Mason candidate admonished. (See SEND-OFF—Page 3)

TO LEAVE FOR EUROPE

Clair Hawn of Tucson, Arizona, a technician fifth grade in the army, plans to leave the middle of May for Europe. She was one of 600 chosen to serve at least one year with a medical detachment. She is now with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hawn, in Tucson, on furlough. The Hawns are former Mason residents and left three years ago to make their home in Arizona.

JURORS ARE CHOSEN FOR CIRCUIT COURT

COURT TRIALS WILL BE HELD IN MASON

Names of 40 jurors were drawn by lot in Mason Friday for duty at the May term of court. The May term is to be held in Mason, May 13 is the opening day of court. Jurors are to report on May 14.

The drawing of the prospective jurors was done in the office of County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard. Others who officiated at the drawing were Sheriff Allan A. Macdonald, Justices of the Peace William S. Seelye of Mason and Frank M. Fogg of Leslie, and Deputy Clerk Rhod Migrants.

The Mason man quoted other passages from Sigler's speeches; passages which point to the state government as a graft-ridden. He then said, "These statements, either by direct word or inference, constitute an indictment of every present state official, elected or appointed. The campaign slogan of this candidate appears to be, 'Let No Honest Man Go Unsuspected.'

"For one do not propose to remain silent. Who are these grafters? Who makes up this cesspool of corruption and vice? Name them, Mr. Sigler!

"You, Mr. Sigler, have had two and a half years, all the resources of the state, and full authority of the courts to search these high places. If you have found any graft and corruption in these high places, why don't you come out into the open and name names?"

Cities' Humans Salary

Brown pointed out that not a single indictment or one single charge has been made pointing to any wrongful act committed since January 1, 1943, when the present administration took office. He mentioned that there have been men who violated their oaths of office and there have been those not in office who have corrupted legislators.

"In the latter class is a native of Ingham," Brown said, "and we of Ingham resent that. We also resent the fact that he was paid more for his services than he paid the cheapskates who haunted his bedroom—and his bathroom.

"True it is that some members of the legislature were found with soiled hands. Twenty-three were Democrats and six were Republicans—and each and all were for acts committed during a previous regime—not the present.

"There is another thing about this strange hallucination that one man alone can clean up the state-house. Where was Sigler during the early days of the grand jury? I'll give you the answer direct from the records of our Ingham county circuit court. He was retained in defense of one William Green, a legislator from Montmorency county who later was convicted. It was not until the state was able to outbid the friends of Green that this attorney's withdrawal was filed with the court.

Junior Choirs Honor

Mrs. Marvin Rice
Fifty children of the junior choir of the Mason Methodist church gathered at the church parlor Saturday afternoon to celebrate the birthday anniversary of their leader, Mrs. Marvin Rice. When Mrs. Rice entered the room, one of the 10 mothers who were there to help the children pinned a lovely bouquet of roses on her shoulder, as the children shouted "Happy Birthday."

The games were played for the first hour, conducted by Phyllis Austin and Barbara Moses of the older junior choir. Mrs. Rice being the center of attraction in the games. The next feature was the presentation of the gift, a masterpiece by another mother in behalf of the children. Then birthday cakes were brought out. One large cake displayed the words "Happy Birthday, Evelyn Rice," and as the children sang "Happy Birthday to you," Mrs. Rice was presented a knife with which to cut the cake. Marvin Rice then came in with his movie camera and took pictures of the children with Mrs. Rice grouped about the table with the gifts, the candles and cake were then served to the children and Mrs. Rice by the mothers.

The gift she will cherish above all is a portrait of Mrs. Hajo-Ellison given by Mrs. Durr. Details of the meeting at Powelville. Besides Mrs. Claude Post, other convention delegates were Mrs. L. H. Harrison, Mrs. Eva James and Mrs. Ernest Every.

A project of this meeting is the contribution of remnants of cloth which will be sent to Greece where it will be made up by the women of that country into clothes for the 17,000 children who are among the worst sufferers of the war.
Shelter, food and medical care are supplied by the national fund but no provision has been made for clothing.

According to a representative to the W. C. T. U. material can be of cotton, wool, knit jersey, drill, denim, dress material, outling of any kind that can be made into children's clothing. Lengths from seven-eighths of a yard and more will be accepted. Thread, black and white, tape and needles should also be provided. This will be sent through the national W. C. T. U.

which has taken a big part in relief work. All those contributing should take it to this meeting.

ANTIQUE cars are beginning to come out of moth balls for Detroit's Golden Jubilee, slated for May 31, June 1 and 2. WJR news editor, George Cushing, (with derby) and announcer Bill Mitchell obtain pertinent facts about a 1906 Maxwell from its owner Jim Robbins (in costume) of Ferndale. It's the first sneak preview of such cars aired on WJR automotive program BEHIND THE WHEEL each Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Robbins plans to enter the Maxwell in the gala event and WJR plans elaborate coverage of the entire festivities.

Striking changes in American food habits have been developed during the period of World War II. Some of these are making an important contribution to national health.

One of the most important of these changes, states the National Dairy Council, is that of increased milk drinking.

Per capita consumption of fluid milk and cream averaged 340 pounds in milk equivalent during the prewar period. According to preliminary government estimates that had risen to 442 pounds in 1945. In other words the average American formerly consumed the milk and cream from four ten-gallon cans each year and now requires the product from 5.2 ten-gallon cans, or an increase of 30 percent.

LEADS USO CAMPAIGN

APPOINTED USO NATIONAL CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN, Carl Whitmore, President of the New York Telephone Company, will head the nation-wide appeal during September and October for $19,000,000 to carry USO through 1947. Gen. Eisenhower's statement,
"I want as much of USO as I can get as long as I can get it," was all Mr. Whitmore needed to make up his mind. After accepting the job, Mr. Whitmore was chairman of New York City's National War Fund campaign last year and has been identified with much philanthropic work.

Report Hitler, Eva Had

Son; Secret Well Kept

NEW YORK.—The Branzaville
radio said that a son was born to Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun at San Remo, Italy, on December 31, 1938.

The broadcast said it had been established that Eva Braun was living in San Remo and that "Italian journalists" knew that she had given birth to a boy but were forbidden to mention the matter on orders from their foreign office.

The Branzaville radio added that a year later, in the early morning hours of January 1, 1940, a German foreign office member was arrested by the Gestapo in Munich for "having stayed during the festivities. Today, the Fuehrer's son celebrates his first birthday."

Mason Track Team Beaten By Vikings

Everett nosed out Mason 55-49 in a dual meet staged at the county park in Mason Wednesday afternoon. Mason was without the services of Dale Harrison, dependable point-winner, who sprained an ankle at the Hastings relay last Saturday. Had Harrison been able to compete, Conch Paul DeVette said, Mason might have come out ahead.

Ron Osterberg of Mason was high-point man of the meet, mauling 12 points by winning the broad jump, tying for first in the high jump and placing second in the pole vault. Mac Pierce of Mason won both the 100 and the 220.

Everett won the relay, made a clean sweep in the shot put, placed one-two in the mile and low hurdles. Christiansen took first in the pole vault and tied for first in the high jump. Osenga won the mile, with Nauas second. Glaza won the low hurdles, with Rambo on his heels. Rambo took first, Titus won second and Bullion a third in the shot put.

Holt is expected to compete with Mason at the county park next Wednesday afternoon. The meet was originally set for Thursday but DeVette hopes to have it shifted to Wednesday.

Thanks Workers

As general chairman of the Ingham County Brown-for-Governor club, I wish to thank all members of all committees for their splendid cooperation and efforts in making Vernon J. Brown's testimonial dinner a success. Without their help it would not have been possible to have made this dinner such a momentous occasion.

Also my sincere thanks to the women of the Legion Auxiliary for the splendid dinner and the church down, and we'll see a better community and nation.

MRS. M. HART.

program committee are rather low-minded. There are plenty of programs traveling the country that are just as enthralling and certainly give a better boost to the morals and ideals than "men only" shows.

In case the committee needs something to do, how about planning out a church of its choice and putting half as much effort into building it up, as they are in lowering the morale and tearing the church down, and we'll see a better community and nation.

Week Is Set Aside For Extension Work

Next week, May 5 to 12, is National Home Demonstration Week. Mrs. Bertine Benedict, county home demonstration agent of Ingham county, is proud this community can share in the honor being accorded the program.

"Home Demonstration Week is not to pay any tribute to the 3,000 home demonstration agents and their extension workers in the United States alone," Mrs. Benedict said. "It is to give credit where credit is due. That is to the nearly half million women who are leaders in their communities and the ones responsible for the national program reaching 3,500,000 homes last year."

For 30 years home demonstration work has been the source of action and inspiration for better farm living, better rural health and community facilities and better citizenship. Mrs. Benedict pointed out. This is the first time, however, National Home Demonstration Week has been observed. "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World" is the theme for the week.

Of the week, Clinton P. Anderson, secretary of agriculture, stated: "I would like to commend the 3,500,000 women who are cooperating in home demonstration work and urge you to carry forward in every way possible your goals of better homes, good health, successful family living and general community betterment."

Speaking of the rural leaders who have served, and the director of the extension work, U. S. department of agriculture, said: "There is one banner of policy to which all true believers in democracy subscribe. It is that the farm family is the hinge of the gate that leads to the kind of rural democracy that has brought and maintained steady progress towards an ever-ascending standard of living among rural people in the United States."

Plane Crash Listed In German Records

Captured German records reveal that Staff Sergeant Randolph Musolf of Danville was killed in Ober-Schoen, which is about 50 miles east of the place where the homestead on which Sergeant Musolf served was reported downed.

Sergeant Musolf was carried on the missing list for a year following the downing of the plane. Then he was officially listed as dead. It was not until the German records were found a few weeks ago that the American records were completed.

The sergeant was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Musolf.

Dansville Hosts At District Meeting

The Free Methodist district quarterly meeting for the Lansing district was held at the Dansville Free Methodist church, April 25 through Sunday, April 28. The following churches were represented at the meeting: Owosso, Corunna, Ithaca, St. Johns, Porter, Wheeler, Williamson, Perry, Leete, Humboldt, Elsie, Conway, Racy, Lansing Central, Lansing, Second, North Lansing, South Lansing and Dansville. Guests were entertained in the homes of the Dansville members, receiving their meals at the town hall. More than 200 guests were served at the hall Sunday noon.

It was a welcome homecoming for many of the ministers who had either served as former pastors or had lived in the community and attended the local school. Among those attending were Bishop M. Ormiston, who served as pastor 30 years ago. Others were Rev. W. Pickard, Rev. L. Schofield, Rev. G. Seghan, Rev. H. Artz, Rev. M. H. Osborne and Mrs. Osborne, formerly Evendale Hayhoe, Rev. Courses Are Mapped At Jewett Airport

Two new men were added to the flight instruction staff at the Jewett airport in Mason. Wednesday, Marvin A. Rice of Mason has been signed to conduct G-1 ground school classes and Floyd Martin of Lansing is to aid Stanley Keck in actual flight operations.

Rice is on the Mason school faculty and for two years was in charge of the CAP program at Mason. Martin is an ex-army flying instructor.

In explaining the set-up under the G-1 bill, Keck explained that each veteran enrolled in flight training must take ground courses to go with flight work. The school, in general, Keck said, will include the required subjects for Civil Aeronautics Administration. Class sessions will be arranged according to the needs of the students and will have to be confined to nights and Saturday mornings, Keck said. No flight training credit can be entered on the records until a student is enrolled in ground school classes appropriate to the rating he is working on, the school chief stated.

The ground school classes will be held in the music room at the Mason school.

Hours of flight training required for the various ratings are: Private pilot, 22; elementary commercial, 28; cross-country commercial, 28; advanced commercial, 28; and flight instructor, 20.

Profits Are Boosted
By Segmented Seed

Labor saving of from 30 to 65 percent in blocking and thinning of sugar beets may be effected by the use of segmented (single-germ) seed. Richard W. Bell, extension specialist in farm crops at Michigan State college, believes also that fields planted with segmented seed will outyield those sown to ordinary multiple-germ seed.

Both labor-saving and higher yields depend, Bell says, upon uniform stands of single seedlings in weed-free rows. To obtain these standards, Bell suggests that weed seedlings be killed prior to planting. Destruction of weeds within rows after planting will also prove labor-saving. The use of plate-type drills, equipped for segmented seed, does a better job if spiral seed-tubes are replaced with small diameter, smooth-bore metal tubes. Such parts are available through fieldmen of the various sugar companies at a price of about $10 for a set of four.

Bell recommends segmented seed be planted shallower than regular multiple-germ seed. It should never be planted deeper than one inch. To obtain uniform distribution of the seed in the row, the drill should be driven at a speed of three miles per hour or slower.

Bell predicts that an acreage larger than last year's 93,000 acres will be planted in Michigan this year. Seeding has started in some localities.

Hungarian Liability

Hungary's plains, watered by the middle Danube and the Tisza, are second only to Russia's Ukraine as a European granary. Rain is plentiful in the growing season, stays away at harvest time. Gradually since 1918 the feudal estates of the church and nobility are being broken up into farmer-owned small farms.

An up-to-date mobile display of army air forces equipment will be on exhibit in downtown Lansing all day Thursday, May 9.

Eight colorful vehicles strong, this recruiting caravan presents an understandable picture of the technical training possibilities behind a future in the armed forces.

Five of the large vehicles are converted semi-trailer-tractor units and house a complete operating display of one-time secret, mechanical inventions, including in a part a B-29 engine, cut-away view, electrically controlled multiple gun turrets taken from some of the largest bombers; a detailed outfit of captured Japanese and German aircraft; a full-size photographic laboratory; the control column and instrument panel of a Lockheed P-38 fighter plane, together with aerial photographic cameras and equipment.

A group of seven officers and 17 enlisted men will accompany the caravan to demonstrate and answer questions about the display. Local recruiting teams will likewise participate in the presentation of the opportunities afforded young men by the army air forces.

The caravan recently completed a tour of the state of Illinois, covering approximately 3,000 miles with an attendance of more than 150,000.

The drill should be driven at a speed of three miles per hour or slower.

Dean Chester in a statement to Herbert Hoover.

A fact-finding committee of American newspaper editors recently visited Germany to get information first-hand for their newspaper readers. Here are a few shockers:

"The American people do not want to see anyone starve whether enemies or friends. Now that the war is over, we must convince the American farmer that he must get his food out, the same as during the war." — Robert Reed, associate editor of the Kansas City Star.

"If we do not feed the Germans adequately, it is inevitable that a great deal of chaos will result and there will be a tendency to swing Germany toward the Soviets which I consider unfortunate." — Gardner Cowles, Jr., Des Moines Register-Tribune.

"Michigan observed the traditional Christian event, Easter Sunday, with thankful hearts and with bountiful dinner tables.

Yes, the war is over. Thank God for that. Two-thirds of Michigan's men and women in military service are back home.

No Michigan homes were destroyed during the war. Pay checks were at record highs. Michigan consumed more food in 1945 than in 1940, a pre-war year.

Strangs, isn't it, that frantic appeals for food to avert starvation of hundreds of thousands of war-distressed human beings in Europe is meeting with apparent indifference and callous disregard of Americans at 1946 Easter Sunday? Ordinarily the American response to such a call would be immediate—emphatic and generous.

Why, then, all this in 1946?

According to the U. S. department of agriculture, the off-farm wheat stocks on April 1 totaled 175 million bushels while the on-farm stocks, now being held by farmers for stock feed or for higher prices, totaled 203 million bushels. The overall aggregate was 378 million bushels.

And yet this latter amount is not available immediately for shipment to Europe. If it were, American ships could transport wheat at once to hungry millions abroad and the emergency export goal could be met successfully without resort to a mandatory 25 per cent cut in wheat stocks processed by flour millers.

Charles Figi, director of the state department of agriculture, recently pointed out in this column that the milling order would not adversely affect the average Michigan farmer. We quote again:

"Most Michigan farmers have general farms whereby grains are grown for feeding of livestock and chickens. They are going to see that their livestock and chickens are fed."

President Truman's famine emergency committee has recommended that grain prices should be increased to discourage the feeding of grain to livestock and poultry. The president asks Americans to go voluntarily on a European diet (one-half what we ordinarily eat) two days a week to save food that most Americans eat too much anyway, and we waste too much food.

But is the food situation in Europe so critical?

Here are some facts as vouched for by reliable persons. Judge for yourself.

Unless I get 300,000 tons of wheat within the next few days, hundreds of thousands of people will starve to death." — Florello H. LaGuardia, director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

"There is not enough food within the borders of the American zone in Germany from German sources to sustain life even at starvation levels." — Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of the United States Forces in the European zone.

MY LADY OF CLEVES, Margaret Menjou. Barnes has brought to this modern day world a story of 15th century England, concerned with Anne of Cleves, Henry VIII's fourth wife. To this court of much intrigue she brought a wholesomeness that was appreciated even by Henry after he had divorced her, that brought her the love of her step-children as well as her subjects, and that finally made her Henry's companion. The story is well told, with deft descriptions of times and characters, and is a welcome relief from more recent sensational fiction and war literature.

WE THOUGHT WE HEARD THE ANGELS SING. Newspaper publicity spread the story of Eddie Rickenbacker's lost plane and miraculous rescue some time later. Probably many have read his story of those awful days and nights.

Mason residents will have an opportunity for a closer knowledge of that trip when they hear James Whittaker, commander of the special plane assigned to Rickenbacker, talk of those experiences at the High School assembly. This is his story as taken from his diary, the only diary kept by any of the men.

OUR OWN HOUSE, how to choose, plan and build. Helen Koues is becoming well known for her sensible plans for home builders as well as colorful designs for the interior decorator. Full of photographs and detailed design, this will give ideas to the person who expects soon to be able to remodel his own or another new house, as well as the one who hopes to be able to build from nothing.

NEW HOMES FOR TODAY is another book of house plans which have a slightly more modernistic tendency, and which will bring delight to the house-planners.

VETERANEWS

From the OFFICE OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS LANSING

An increase in the Special Projects staff by the addition of four more veterans' training co-ordinators was announced early this week by the State Office of Veterans' Affairs. With this addition nine co-ordinators familiarly known as job-training expeditors are available to plan with employers and assist in the writing of training plans for veterans in the on-the-job phase of the G. I. Bill of Rights. At least one co-ordinator is to be assigned full-time to the Upper Peninsula.

During the past week and all next week the new co-ordinators are undergoing an intensive training course. This is to provide them with knowledge of correct procedures and future development. In addition it will give them necessary "know-how" to make training plan which will insure that average veterans and approved employers both receive a fair deal from the benefits for learning provided by the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Employees interested in securing the services of a co-ordinator are advised to see the local veterans' counselor and ask that the counselor make necessary arrangements.

A beautiful big American flag now flies from the pole of the Ingham county courthouse at Mason, the compliments of the County Press, which sort of lost the want ad contest to the Ingham County News at Mason.

Last week after the flag was sent to the wilderness at Mason by autogiro, the News sent a special courier over to Lapeer. It was Bob Shoemaker, former Almont resident, who was a pretty good fellow before he went to Mason.

Bob came plodding in on snowshoes and said he was the first to get over the pass this Spring.

"Editor Nelson Brown sent me," he said, "We got your flag and it sure is pretty. But he wants to know how you put it up. Do the stars go at the top?"

Proper instructions were sent back, and now Mason folks are delighted.

Editor Brown wants to have another want-ad contest next year. So do we.

During the past week and all next week the new co-ordinators are undergoing an intensive training course. This is to provide them with knowledge of correct procedures and future development. In addition it will give them necessary "know-how" to make training plan which will insure that average veterans and approved employers both receive a fair deal from the benefits for learning provided by the G. I. Bill of Rights.

color film version of the Ben Ames Williams best-seller opens Tuesday at the Fox Theatre with Gene Tierney, Cornel Wilde and Jeanne Crain in starring roles. The picture tells the story of a young wife, played by Gene Tierney, who is obsessed with the desire to monopolize her husband's (Cornel Wilde's) every attention and affection, and who will stop at nothing, even murder. When Jeanne Crain unwittingly finds herself the object of Wilde's attentions, the subtly psychopathic young wife brings the drama to a tense and exciting climax.

SOME MEN ARE GRAFTERS—NOT ALL

By intimation and innuendo, by sly hints and by implication, a former Ingham special prosecutor who is now a candidate for office is trying to get across the message that every thing about state government in Lansing stinks—that it is so rotten no one except himself can clean it up.

Of course, the candidate is out after votes. He has the right to run for office, yet his labeling of all men connected with the state government as grafters doesn't ring quite true. Harry F. Kelly is governor, Vernon J. Brown is lieutenant-governor, D. Hale Brake is state treasurer, Herman H. Dignan is secretary of state, John Dethmers is attorney general, Dr. Eugene Elliott is superintendent of public instruction, Charles Ziegler is state highway commissioner, and William H. Berkey is chairman of the state board of agriculture. The former special prosecutor should say which one of those state officials is a grafter, which one is dishonest.

If during the two and one-half years he served as special prosecutor at $100 per day he secured any information linking any of the men now in high state office with graft he should certainly have asked for a warrant. If the information came to him after he was ousted from his job then he should go before the grand jury now with his evidence. That's the way to clean up graft. It's a surer way and a fairer way.

Of course, the truth is that the percentage of grafters in government is no greater than the percentage among lawyers, doctors, publishers, farmers, ministers or machinists. Millions of dollars in state money has been handled faithfully and honestly by state officials last year, the year before, and the year before that. There were some rumors of graft and state officials were anxious that those rumors be sifted. So anxious were they to have any graft cleaned up that the legislature turned over almost a half-million dollars to the grand jury to wage a battle. So anxious were officials to have the graft cleaned up that the grand jury probe is being continued under Dick Foster after the former special prosecutor by his own acts and public statements made any future effective prosecution by himself virtually impossible.

By and large, Michigan government is honest government. A few men are grafters—only a few, and no one is probably more anxious to have those few exposed than are present state officials.

THERE SHOULD BE TWO-WAY CONVERSATION

"Why do city folks insist on sending missionaries to teach farm people how to live when there are so many lessons that farmers can teach city people?" an Aurelius farmer asked. He was sounding off because of the resolutions adopted at the recent conference on rural living held in Mason.

"Out in Aurelius we are afraid the city missionaries will pervert us instead of convert us," the Aurelius man added. He went on to point out that the rural home, the church and the school are cooperating to turn out just as good or better boys and girls as cities are developing.

"Farm boys and girls are taught from childhood how to make themselves useful," the farmer said. "They have the real sense of security and confidence which usefulness brings. Take a look at the exhibits at the recent 4-H achievement day and compare those exhibits with anything city boys and girls do. Take a look at the FFA program. See what those farm boys are doing in your high schools. The work and play programs being operated in every community in this county for farm boys and girls stand head and shoulders above the play program fixed up for city children."

Perhaps the missionaries should keep at their work but should be as much concerned with their labors in the cities as in the country. There are some city people who forget that the farmers are no longer isolated. House for house, there are more radios and newspapers and magazines in rural homes than in city homes. Here in this county there are only a few houses without electricity; and the farm house without running water is becoming scarcer week by week.

Of course, radios, newspapers and magazines and even inside toilets are too often confused with moral values and civilizing influences. A savage is not converted into a civilized man merely by tipping over his outhouse or by fixing him up with a bathtub or a radio. Neither is a man of high principles or morals worsened by having to use open plumbing.

If good plumbing, if libraries, radios, newspapers, discussion groups, and uplifters from every category were all that were needed for civilizing people then the world today would not be in its present condition of hate and hunger and fear. Something more than well-meaning programs is needed. What the world needs is the faith and courage and honesty which comes from living beneath the open sky, which comes from work and not from play, which comes from honest and straight thinking.

There should be missionaries—and those missionaries should work both going and coming. There are many things which the farm people can teach the city people about living—as many or more things than the city people can teach the farmers.

LOTS OF TALK—LITTLE ACTION

Enlisted men of the army and navy claim that all the talk about doing away with the officers' caste system has ended with talk—that nothing as yet has been done to equalize the privileges.

The hearings down in Washington, the reports by men recently discharged and by the men still in service all point to the inequalities which exist between officers and enlisted men—not so much the difference in pay as the difference in privileges.

The United States should lead the way in leveling the barriers which exist between classes. Surely the army and navy which has brought new hope to millions of people in other countries should abolish the traditions which are founded upon feudalism.

There can be discipline—even better discipline than now prevails in the army and navy—if the caste system is abolished. There has been talk enough—the time has come for action.

POOR TASTE IN PRONOUNS

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, has poor taste in pronouns. Last week he said, "Unless I get 300,000 tons of wheat quickly, hundreds of thousands of people will starve to death."

The statement might better have been, "Unless people in Europe get 300,000 tons of wheat quickly, hundreds of thousands of them will starve to death."

People are starving, and there is no time to quarrel over pronouns. We should send the wheat and other food. We should cut down on our own food and stop food waste.

Europe, too, should be put at work to feed itself. The huge armies, which are being supported in large part by American funds, should be demobilized. The concentration camps maintained by Russia and France and even our own country should be abandoned and all the able-bodied put at work raising food first glance, I felt that your child-like trade, containing so many falsehoods and half-truths and inferred willful misconduct on the part of the common council, needed no comment. On second thought, however, I feel that those who are paying for the sidewalk constructed in front of the properties owned by George McArthur, Leo Burton and J. William Couch—that is, the taxpayers (including the three mentioned above and the "clever aldermen")—are entitled to know that your editorial is not only misleading but that parts of it are actually false. And if you have nerve enough to see the truth printed in your own paper to publish this letter, they will be able to read here the true story as it happened, not a biased, prejudicial, erroneous account as you have maliciously set forth in the above-mentioned editorial.

Going back to 1942 to the time when you accuse the city council of being "clever" in building new sidewalk after ordering property owners to repair same. And being "clever" in "sacking" George McArthur, and finding it difficult to "keep from snickering" at George being "over a barrel," I have this to say:

"The average layman, one not versed in the law and its legal definitions, says his sidewalk needs fixing, or repairing, no matter in what stage of disrepair it may be. He says repair, when actually the sidewalk may be beyond repair and actually needs replacing with new sidewalk. Our city attorney, at the time, was also attorney for an organization which met the same night that the common council met. As a result, the council had no legal mind present to put them right on what the legal definition of repair is as compared with that of new construction. As a result the common council, in good faith and with no malice aforethought or intent to do anyone, including Mr. McArthur, an injustice, as you accuse, but with the express purpose of improving the looks and eliminating safety hazards within our city, ordered certain sidewalks repaired.

The common council, in addition to a city attorney, employs a city engineer. The city engineer advised the council as to what would be necessary to put these sidewalks back into good condition. That advice was followed. And, according to the court, that work was not repair work but was new construction. Had we had a city attorney on the job to advise us as to correct legal procedure, we could have ordered the property owners to construct new sidewalks instead of repairing the old, and all this trouble would never have occurred.

Where sir, can you find any intent in this on the part of the common council to teach George McArthur "to keep his nose out of city affairs" or Bill Couch or Leo Burton? And, sir, since when have you been endowed with the ability to read one's mind and make definite statements as to what line one's reasoning may follow, unless definite statements are being and have been made. If you heard any such statement as you quoted in the second paragraph of your editorial, as a taxpayer, demand to know who made it. As a member of the common council of the city of Mason, I never heard any such statements as those made by anyone.

It is a sad state of affairs when a city elects men from the community to manage their city and then certain influential citizens of that city, instead of helping to make their city better, find it more to the liking of their perverted sense of humor to "pick at the council." That is what I have been told one of the members of this community told a former alderman when asked why he didn't get on the council—that it was more fun to stay on the outside and pick at the council. That's a great type of civic spirit that one should be proud of.

It is your city, Mr. Editor, not the common council's. It is from here that you make your bread and butter. Mason has been good to you, sir. You can help your city if you wish—or you can have fun also by picking at the council. It is your city, Mr. McArthur.

Resents Editorial

Relative to your editorial, "Be Good, My Maid—", I feel that the taxpayers of Mason have a right to know the truth relative to this matter you have referred to. At Epictetus while campaigning for the council came up with the remark, "If you wish to be good, first believe you are bad." I wish to be good, and so I am glad to have Alderman Robbins help convince me I am bad.

"Without, or with, offense to friends or foes, I sketch your world exactly as it goes." Those were the words of Byron in "Don Juan." That little couplet sounds good—sounds like a slogan which any newspaperman could and should follow. The trouble is that a lot of people find fault with the position of the sketcher. Had the man who drew the sketch stood six feet to the right or two feet to the left of where he did stand, he would have got a different view, his critics say; or had he stood below and looked up at the man climbing the tree, he would have sketched a different kind of a picture. The sketcher must sketch what he sees or what he thinks he sees. That's the best he can do."
