LESLIE AT ALBION IN CAGE REGIONAL

BLACKHAWKS WIN DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP

By Bob Curry
Leslie high school's hard-fighting cagers fought through to win the Ingham County league Class C tourney on the home court and on Tuesday night are pitted against Jonesville at the Albion regionals.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONS. Representing Leslie and the Ingham County league in the regional basketball tournament at Albion are the Leslie Blackhaws, as good a team as has ever been put together anywhere.

All Leslie, and especially Coach Walter Gephart, is bubbling over with pride in the accomplishments of the team. It is Gephart's first year as coach at Leslie. He came out of the navy to take the post. Before entering the navy he coached at Lake Odessa.

This picture was taken Saturday night after the district trophy, held by Coach Gephart, was presented. Players shown in the picture are: Front row, Pete Hatch, 5; Norman Lantz, 11; Max Lee, 9; and Floyd Modert, 10; standing, Arthur Vince, 4; Larry Richardson, 7; Robert Taylor, 6; Joe Shaw, 3; Kenneth Howard, 8; and Dale Nowlin, 12.

WINNING FLU BATTLE
Bob Curry insisted on covering the Leslie cage tourney for the press even though better judgment would have kept him home. He was coming down with something and after the finals Saturday night the something turned out to be flu. He has spent this week in bed but hopes to be mended enough to watch the Blackhaws win the regionals at Albion.

beat Eaton Rapids in the finals of the district tournament in Charlotte. It was a close game, the Orioles winning 36-30. East Lansing knocked off Everett 33-26 in the Lansing district finals.

Hasett, winner of Class D district honors at Lansing and co-champion of the Ingham County league, plays in the regionals at Jackson, playing Litchfield in the opener at 6:00. Thursday afternoon, Manchester and Hanover are the other two Class D teams entered at Jackson, with the finals booked for Saturday night at 7:30.

Leslie Keeps Ahead
The Blackhaws upset the league legend that the winner of the league race is usually knocked off in the district tournament. In the opener Leslie had little trouble in turning back the Dansville Aggies 51-30. It was a different story Friday night. The Leslie cagers had to go all out to stave off the drive of Holt. The Hawks emerged with a 42-39 victory. Williamson was subdued 55-42 in the finals at Leslie Saturday night. Williamson beat Stockbridge 41-35 on Friday night to go into the finals against Leslie. Lead Overcome Leslie trailed in the first quarter against the Hornets. The count stood 13-11 against the Blackhaws. Then Leslie came to life and rang up an 18-6 margin in the second canto. From that point on the Blackhaws were never headed.

Sportsmen Buy Feed For Starving Deer
So far this week more than $50 has been transmitted by Nelson (Buster) Hall at the Mason City bakery to conservationists in the Mio area. The money is being used to buy hay and other feed for the starving deer. Because of the deep snow and the hard crust beneath the snow the deer are unable to obtain feed, conservation officers have reported. They said hundreds have already starved to death.

MASON TEAM FALTERS IN DISTRICT TOURNEY
EAST LANSING TAKES CLASS B TITLE
Mason high school's cagers fell before the Everett Vikings 33-20 in their first and only game of the district tournament at Lansing Saturday night. Mason put a team on the floor that was a far cry from the outfit which wound up the regular season in a blaze of glory. The Vikings took advantage of Mason's off night and gave them their own way all the game.

Health NEWS

Fighting the Common Cold

Medical science is getting in some telling licks against the common cold, which holds the dubious distinction of being the No. 1 nuisance among human ills. Not that this pestiferous ailment has been entirely whipped, for the Medical Profession isn't ready to make any such claim. But Doctors of Medicine are working now on three methods for preventing colds, with encouraging results.

These are the use of germicidal ultraviolet light to kill airborne germs, glycol vapor and an army-developed oil emulsifying agent known as T-13. The latter is used in treating floors, walls, blankets, linens, etc.

Research work so far has been concentrated in schools, factories, barracks, and other places where numbers of persons gather. Results show striking reductions in the number of colds and you'll probably read more about the outcome of these experiments.

When we realize that colds account for 32 per cent of all home calls by Doctors of Medicine, we appreciate the importance of this research work.

In the meantime, however, the best advice for everyone is to continue to take every reasonable precaution to avoid colds, for they strike the strong as well as the weak. If you should "catch cold," probably read more about the outcome of these experiments.

Bed rest is still the best treatment and it will prevent spread of your cold among others. Don't treat a cold lightly. It is often the welcome mat at the door of the house of Pneumonia.

Warning Is Sounded About Custard Pies

A recent survey of restaurants and bakeries in Ingham county by the county health department has revealed laxity on the part of certain operators in the storage and handling of cream and custard-filled pies and pastries. Miss Mildred Cardwell, acting public health director, reported.

Because of the quick spoilage and health hazard from these foods, some bakers refuse to make and handle cream and custard-filled pies during any season, although most bakeries prepare them only during the cold months. Miss Cardwell said. However, the open storage of such pastries for as long as 24 hours with the cream filling warmed to 80 degrees have been found recently by county sanitarians. Although no local outbreaks of food poisonings have been reported recently in this area, a single pie contaminated in handling and storage would affect only six persons or less on most pie cuts in public eating places, an insufficient number to provide evidence to isolate the food causing the food poisoning.

The Ingham county sanitation regulations and the East Lansing food ordinance require that "all readily perishable food or drink, including cream or custard filled pastries, shall be kept at or below 50 degrees." These ordinances also give the health officer the right to condemn and forbid the sale of, or cause to be removed or destroyed, any food or drink which he deems unwholesome or adulterated.

"County sanitarians have been instructed to not only destroy such food when found but also to issue violation tickets, or warrants if this dangerous practice does not cease," Miss Cardwell asserted.

CHEVROLET
Again in 1946...
FIRST IN SALES!
FIRST IN CAR SALES—FIRST IN TRUCK SALES
FIRST IN COMBINED CAR AND TRUCK SALES!
The final registration figures are in, and again in 1946 America purchased more Chevrolet cars—more Chevrolet trucks—more Chevrolet cars and trucks combined—than any other make, despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year! A magnificent tribute to Chevrolet production efficiency, as well as to the dollar value of Chevrolet products! It's the best proof you can possibly have that you're wise to choose Chevrolet, the only cars giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST, and the only trucks rating as THRIFT-CARRIERS FOR THE NATION! True, there still aren't enough new Chevrolets to go around, but highest popular demand means higher dollar value, just as highest production means quicker delivery of your new car or truck. Place your order—today!

How Michigan is to finance its $270,000,000 veterans' bonus is still an unsolved problem of the state legislature, now beginning its third month of deliberation.

Approximately 620,000 men and women will receive cash payments for their patriotic service and personal sacrifice. These benefits will be in addition to the annual earnings of the $50,000,000 veterans' trust fund, proceeds of which are to be administered by local units of veterans' organizations.

A touchy topic is whether the veterans of World War II and their relatives should be taxed along with the rest of the people in the state to pay off the bonus bond issue and interest on the bonds.

Nothing was said about taxes last November when the bond issue came before the voters. But the problem is still on the books, and money must be raised somehow to foot the bill.

The bonus matter, of course, is involved closely with the over-all enigma of state finances.

A test suit is being filed to find out whether the amendment is constitutional. The Michigan Education Association spokesman for school teachers, has filed a suit to mandamus the state treasurer add state auditor general. These officials decline to fork over additional school funds until the court decides.

Another law suit is pending to test the validity of the $7.50 per pound increase for legislators' living costs while away from home on state business. Senator Otto Bishop, Alpena, chairman of the state finance committee, sponsored this bill which the senate and house adopted and which Governor Sigler signed.

Phillip C. Kelley, attorney in Jackson, has filed a suit challenging the law's constitutionality.

It is recalled that four attorneys general, prior to Attorney General Eugene C. Black, ruled that legislative expense accounts were illegal under our state constitution.

Attorney General Black was frustrated in efforts to collect $2-500 a year living expenses by Auditor General Muriel Aten who declined to honor his claims. Black retaliated by commuting daily between Lansing and Port Huron, his home town, via a state automobile and state-paid gasoline.

Black's deputy, Leo Brennan, who also sought to collect living expenses, has returned to the Upper Peninsula to accept a governor's appointment as judge. The L'Anse attorney was probate judge of Baraga county at an annual salary of $2,200 prior to his arrival in Lansing.

Two bills have been introduced in the Michigan legislature to help finance the Michigan $270,000,000 bonus to war veterans. Senate bill 94, sponsored by Senators Tripp, Bonine, Bishop and Fletcher, would impose a 1 per cent tax on taxable net income, as reported for federal tax purposes. Senate Bill 97 (Milliken, Down and Heath) would remove the $50,000 ceiling from the state corporation tax.

The first measure would finance the bonus payments by a levy on all personal income. The second measure would accomplish the same thing at the expense of corporations—"Big business" as the politicians traditionally say.

As an indication of what may be said in the legislature when the matter comes to a head, Governor Thomas E. Dewey was made the target of attacks by Democratic leaders recently when he advocated a combination of new taxes to finance a proposed $400,000,000 veterans' bonus. These taxes would raise $40,000,000 a year—a sizeable sum—in the following manner:

Addition of 1 cent to the present 2-cent package cigarette tax. (Michigan has no cigarette tax).

Addition of 1 cent to the present 4-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax. (Michigan's gasoline tax is now 3 cents).

This is the eighth and final installment of the adventures of George N. Shaffer of Mason, who spent the winter, or part of it, in Florida.

I left snow-bound Washington after taking my sister to her school, with bright prospects of a fine day. Getting out of Washington is not so hard as getting into it, I found; possibly because I have taken time to study the city map some. That helps a lot. Maps are time savers and really life savers. A few minutes of concentration upon a map of a state you are approaching, or a city, clears everything up and adds much to one's enjoyment.

Massachusetts avenue is one of the five wide streets of Washington. It is one of the busiest, too, and is also US-240, leading north up through Maryland toward home. I love to drive through Maryland. The roads are smooth and well marked and just winding enough and just rolling enough to make it interesting. One can not go to sleep. If you do, you may find yourself in a barnyard or worse, because there are plenty of sharp turns. The old-fashioned southern styled houses are interesting too, and you wonder how old they are; and what they could tell about the Civil War days if they could talk. Many of them were scenes of Civil War activities and all along are placed plaques bearing legends of what Civil War general had his headquarters in this house; or what captain led his troops up this road; or what battle took place here.

One cannot read these bits of war history on the move; but, if he wishes to become conversant with the facts, he must drive up close and spend minutes mulling out the closely written lines. If one did this at each place, one would get nowhere fast. I just read the headings and pursued on my way to Frederick Town, since the home of Barbara Pritchelle, who so gallantly waved the Union flag in the face of Stonewall Jackson. The house is still there and is a sort of museum where for 50c one may see the old fashioned furniture of the day and the tiny low ceiling rooms, just as they were in Barbara's time, so they say. There is always a flag flying in the breeze, but of course hardly the same as the one she waved on the "Cool September Morn." I think it is a shame that her name is used to advertise a brand of candy. Everybody you see the great posters, "Barbara Pritchelle Candy." One would think that she and Fannie Farmer, Mary Lee and others were rivals at candy makers.

Frederick is a typical southern town among the hills or low mountains. The streets are narrow and paved, and with the snow also crooked; and with the snow heaped everywhere, a driver had no time for sight-seeing. Route 240 runs into US-40, one of the principal highways across the United States, and it extends for more than 3000 miles from ocean to ocean. I had scarcely left Frederick when I picked up a hitch-hiker, a man just past middle age and a professional miner before he became a professional tramp. At 52 he was no more desired in the mines, and he had not accumulated anything for the future. He did not look for a job he said, but I had my doubts about his looking very hard. At first I regretted that I had been so generous, but later he proved to be not a bad egg at all. He was a superior tramp if we may use the term. He did not even smoke. His education was meager, but he was not a crab, and he did not rant at the government or think it owed him a living. He seemed satisfied with his lot although he had but 15c to his name, and he hated to have his mother see him out of work, he said. He had an older mother living near Washington, Pa., a town about half-way between Washington, D. C. and Mason, and the place in which I usually stay over night on this route. And let me say for the love of heaven, that it is the very best I ever stayed at, and at any price. The rooms are large and well furnished and spotlessly clean, the beds are super, the bath elegant and there is a garage. The whole ensemble is strictly first class, including the charming landlady.

However, she is not a widow. She has a healthy looking banker for a husband. I like to stay at the Lanes and the price for a single is $1.50.

All went well until about 3:00 p. m. at Cumberland, Md., when it began to grow dark and looked very much like a snow storm coming. We were deep in the mountains and my ears had been crackling as cars to whom one ascends to much higher elevations. I felt uneasy because I knew that more snow added to the highway might prove just too bad for me. Well, the blizzard broke about 100 miles from Washington, Pa., and I had quite a dismal time of it. Right here I was glad of my companion, maybe because misery loves company. Snow plows were busy, but in spite of them cars were being stalled along the way and it grew so dark and snow fell in such quantities, driven by a high wind, that everyone drove with headlights which scarcely pierced the gloom. I sure was glad I was not alone as the towns had miles of cars piled along the way and the houses along the way were far apart and looked mean and deserted. Again I felt a quail of conscience because I had made much of a tiny leak in the hood of my new Chevrolet right over my left foot. I told you this car got into the all the grades on high, except when I was unfortunate enough to get behind a slower one, and it stuck to the road through snow and over ice, and passed up many a car of higher breeding. The heat kept us warm and the defroster did its stuff and I can say as I have said about every car I have owned this 1946 is the best yet.

We reached Washington before dark and I was glad to find a nice warm place to stay. I gave my hitch-hiker 50c to get a sandwich and cup of coffee (I hope it was coffee he got) and to catch a bus seven miles out to his mother's home! And now after refreshments at the dairy bar across the way, I am ready for a good night's rest at Lanes.

People sometimes say to me, "George, don't you get lonesome driving so many miles alone?" or "What pleasure do you find in talking trips on your own?" or "At your age, how dare you drive alone over mountains, through deserts, picking up this one and that one? You might get black-jacked! You might have a heart attack!" And to myself I wonder what they mean. Maybe I'm a little lonesome, but never lonesome except when I'm with certain people. In a crowd, I'm lonesome. In large cities I'm lonesome; but never in the open country, or in the mountains, or the desert, or the forest, or at the sea shore. Why should I be? Haven't I got all my life around me? Haven't I got a thousand experiences to live over?

I'm a romantic guy. As I drive along I weave a romance about every house I pass, about every interesting person I meet, (and who isn't interesting in some way?) don't need the Florida Girl. Besides, the romance. It is just around every corner. I just over every hill and believe me I catch up with it too now and then. You can't expect to catch a trout with every fly you cast, can you? No, indeed, it is the suspense, the hope of success, that buoy one up and keeps him forever at it.

I'm a musician too and I sing thousands of songs, not always aloud—songs I have committed to memory in years gone by. The things I pass say to me, and I sing them. The car is musical. It sings the sweetest of songs, and the rhythm of the tappings of my Chevrolet are put into words and melody. I do, and I love it, and I am thankful I'm alive and am able to journey about in my simple way and get so much enjoyment out of it. Who wrote "The Song of the Open Road?" He knew and I know that song. If you don't, you've missed a lot.

February 27. This morning dawned overcast and gray and it was not until about 10:00 that the sun came out and made the driving through Ohio less monotonous than it usually is. Ohio is one of the states which I do not enjoy. No poetry, all prose in Ohio. I had parked my car in a filling station for parking, I gave him and his young helper each a coin, which pleased them. I left Route 40 for state highway No. 18 and proceeded north and west through the arm of West Virginia that extends up the west side of Pennsylvania like a cat's paw to Chester and U. S. Highway No. 80. I had breakfast here at 10:00 a. m. and fancy dishes at the greatest pottery works in the world. I crossed the Ohio river on the Newell bridge for 10c into East Liverpool, Ohio; another great pottery and mining town. From here I proceeded by Route 45 to Salem, where I visited the Deming Foundry & Pump Co. and received some repairs I had ordered from them and had not received. From Salem I drove northwest by Route 14 to Deerfield and Route 224, west through Akron with the great Zeppelin hangar on my right. Looking like a monstrous half-deflated balloon to Route 18. By Routes 18, 250 and 20 I arrived in Sylvania on the boundary of Michigan and Ohio and just 100 miles from home. Here I picked up two boys, 16 and 20 years old, going to Jackson from a hitch-hiking adventure around in the state of Ohio, looking for an easy job with big pay. They had not been successful, and were returning to Jackson.

At first they appeared somewhat shy and only answered my questions, volunteering little in the conversation; but after I had given them some cigarettes which I happened to have in the car and which they had been out of for a half day, they began to feel at home. They began humming softly to themselves, trying to harmonize as they called it, and at last broke out into about the worst singing I have ever heard. The older boy had a high-pitched falsetto, trying to ape a hillbilly. The younger boy's voice had not yet become stable, and he sang his husky tones everywhere. However, of the two he was the better singer. Their repertoire was all hit-box stuff and they must have spent hours of time and plenty of nickels in order to learn it. I got an original rendition of "I Love Brown Eyes," "My Little Darlin'," "The Crash on The High-

"Open The Door, Richard," "Close The Door, Dora," etc. etc. By the time we were 200 miles out of Jackson, I had stood all that I could stand. What made me the most disgusted was the idea that I was uncontrolled, and that they were doing so well. I stopped the car and told them either to shut up or get out. I told them other things too which I cannot print here and ever face my preacher again. They said nothing, but I know what they thought, and that was that was an old duck who did not know good music when I heard it. Anyway, we finally arrived in Jackson and I got rid of my two song-birds. Now I can excuse young people for not knowing more than they do, and their apishness at silliness, and their apishness at the radio and the movies. What I can't take is that they think all this is being clever, and that we oldsters consider them clever. As I drove into Mason, it was just 7:00 p. m. I had driven 585 miles from Washington, D. C.—15 miles less than I had ever made before. The roads were splendid all the way with the exception of the 100 miles through the blizzard. I think I have found the best and shortest route from Mason to the nation's capital city. Although I was ill for three weeks in Florida and suffered from the cold, I never went hungry or lacked a bed for the night.

A lot of people down there are trying to get all they can out of the northern tourists and not giving value received, yet there are a lot of good people in Florida. I like the lovely orange groves with their dark green leaves and "globes of gold," as some poet has put it; I like the age-old live oaks draped in their garlands of gray Spanish moss; I like the sea, of course, and the blue inland lakes. In fact, there is so much down there that I like that by next winter I shall have forgotten all the unpleasantness, and shall start out in my old Chevy by then, and shall stay even longer than I did this time. I'm still a booster for Florida.

Just as a recapitulation of my trip, I shall record a few facts and figures which may be of interest to some.

Days spent on trip—59. Miles traveled—4,950. Miles from Mason to Florida via Cincinnati, Ohio; Nashville, Tenn.; Montgomery, Ala.—1,265. Miles traveled in Florida—2,320. Miles from Florida to Mason via Washington, D. C.—1,456. Gallons of gas consumed—260. Average cost of gas per gallon—25. Quarts of oil used—17. Miles per gallon of gas—19. Cost of whole trip, excluding expense for illness and cost of souvenirs—$250.

Sudden Death Claims Well Known Resident

Funeral services for James Fraser, a well known businessman of Webberville were conducted Monday afternoon at the M. E. church.

Mr. Fraser was born December 2, 1863 in Toronto, Canada, the son of the late John and Mary Ann Fraser.

Services were conducted by Rev. Clyde Onyette. The Masonic lodge held services at the church with interment in the Webberville cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Helen; two sons, Earl Fraser of Webberville, J. Health Topics
Russell E. Robbins, D. C.

The late Elbert Hubbard, one of the most brilliant writers of recent times, personally investigated the claims of chiropractic. He wrote in his book, "The Science of Keeping Well,"

"Above all things, a good chiropractor has faith in nature. He does not make the proud boast that he cures people. He knows that it is nature that heals. All the chiropractor can do is to put his patient in line with the healing forces of nature. Chiropractic never brings an adverse result. The chiropractor does not pin his faith in any single panacea. He simply knows the physical fact that a pressure of bone on the nerve brings about a condition where the telegraph system fails to act properly. With skilled hands he brings about the right relationship and proper adjustment. He finds the cause and removes it. Chiropractors are not doctors of medicine. They are doctors of health. From them we get a new science which is adding greatly to the happiness and welfare of the world."

The Red Cross drive is on...

WHY?

- ASK THE VICTIMS OF DISASTER. Hurricanes, floods and epidemics strike at thousands of American families every year.
- ASK THE VICTIMS OF ACCIDENTS. Every year 100,000 are killed and 10,000,000 injured by accidents in the U.S.
- ASK OUR WOUNDED VETERANS. They know at first-hand how Red Cross helps them through their suffering, and makes their days less drab.

Yes, this year, as always, the Red Cross will be there — with emergency medical aid for the injured — food, clothing, and shelter for the homeless — rehabilitation for the needy.

GIVE!

so your RED CROSS can carry on

Your Red Cross needs your help to carry on this vital, humanitarian work. Your contributions will help thousands of our fellow-Americans — many of them in our community.

YOUR DOCTOR

Why does your doctor have a reception room?

You probably have never given a thought as to why your doctor has a waiting room — it's one of those things you just take for granted. And that's the wonderful part of it—you DO take it for granted. You take your place in the waiting room as matter-of-factly as you take your turn at the voting booth. It's as democratic as America itself. The doctor's reception room is the American way of making YOU the elector of your own medical service, — of giving you the freedom of choice in selecting your doctor.

Johnson (Lloyd Corrigan) is an affable, well-meaning businessman who is overly fond of his two daughters (Anita Louise and Helen Koford) and is just as proud of his game of golf. Early one morning, while out on the fairways, he inadvertently stumbles onto a murder scene. In his confusion, he loses an initialed golf ball and although he escapes, his identity is revealed to the criminals.

Z. Sakall's) manager. Their one chance of opening is a direct appeal to Maestro Cassel which they arrange through a trumped-up "chance" meeting of his beautiful granddaughter, Vicki (Martha Vickers).

THE TRUTH ABOUT MURDER

With romance and murder as its twin themes, "The Truth About Murder" features Bonita Granville, Morgan Conway, Edna Corday and Don Douglas in the picture which will be shown at the Fox on Thursday and Friday.

The romance is between Conway, a district attorney, and Miss Granville, a woman lawyer who gives up her job as his deputy to undertake the defense of a friend on a murder charge. Neither the girl nor the district attorney really believe the man to be guilty, but the circumstantial evidence is so strong that the official has no alternative but to hold him for trial.

ONLY 47 MORE RESOLUTIONS NEEDED

Within a year's time the federal budget can be balanced, billions of dollars can be slashed from the tax bills of the people and hundreds of thousands of needless federal workers can be released for production. All that is needed is for 47 other states to follow the example of Indiana.

Here is the resolution adopted by the Indiana legislature: "Indiana needs no guardian and intends to have none. We Hoosiers—like the people of our sister states—were fooled for quite a spell with the magician's trick that a dollar taken out of our pockets and sent to Washington, would be bigger when it came back to us. We have taken a good look at said dollar. We find that it lost weight in its journey to Washington and back. The political brokerage of the bureaucrats has been deducted. We have decided that there is no such thing as federal aid. We know that there is no wealth to tax that is not already within the boundaries of the 48 states. So we propose henceforward to tax ourselves and take care of ourselves. We are fed up with subsidies, doles and paternalism. We are no one's stepchild. We have grown up. We serve notice that we will resist Washington, D. C., adopting us. Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, the Senate concurring: That we respectfully petition and urge Indiana's congressmen and senators to vote to fetch our county court house and city halls back from Pennsylvania Avenue. We want government to come home. Resolved, further, that we call upon the legislatures of our sister states and on good citizens everywhere who believe in the basic principles of Lincoln and Jefferson to join with us, and we wish them to restore the American Republic and our 48 states to the foundations built by our fathers."

Adoption of that resolution and then living up to it would revolutionize and revitalize this nation. It would again put a premium upon thrift and a penalty upon waste and extravagance.

While the Michigan legislature is marking time waiting for something to do perhaps this one-paragraph resolution from our neighboring state would make good study.

GIVE THE GREEKS A CHANCE

Some people believe that the foreign policy of the United States should be left to Walter Lippman and that no ordinary citizen should ever discuss foreign relations. Yet when millions of young men so recently and so wearily came home from Europe and Asia and so many more are still serving abroad all of us should have our say about the policy of our government. It can't be left to Walter Lippman, nor to Senator Vandenberg, nor to President Truman.

That's why a lot of Americans are wondering why the Greeks are not given the opportunity to manage their own affairs and to work out their own salvation. If the United States is to extend aid to Greece why don't we deal direct instead of pulling the chestnuts of Great Britain out of the fire.

Our trouble has been that we have not dealt directly with the Poles, the French, the Italians, the Greeks, the Yugoslavs and the other peoples we have tried to help. We have furnished the goods but have turned them over to enhance the prestige of the Russians or the British. We have sent the relief with no strings of our own attached; but strings have been attached by the Russians and the British and the others who have passed it out.

Russia would never have swept practically all of Europe into Soviet control had not her way been paved by supplies furnished by the United States. Russia traded American food and medical supplies for political advantage and control. We even permitted Russia to remove American labels so that the natives would more readily believe the relief was coming from Russia.

We should deny help to Great Britain and Russia in any country where the British and the Russians do not belong. If U. S. aid is to go to the Greeks it should be given to the Greeks, not to the British for the Greek faction favored by the British. If U. S. aid is to go to what is left of Poland or Yugoslavia it should go to free governments of the Poles and Yugoslavs—not to Stalin stooges picked by Russia.

Every investigator who has had a look at the relief furnished by the United States but distributed by other governments has brought back tales of political maneuvering and trickery. It is time we gave the Greeks, the Poles and the other desperate peoples a chance instead of using their hunger and need to enslave them.

WHO SLEEPS WITH DOGS—

Some new liquor commissioners have been appointed by the new governor and so everything is just fine with the liquor business in Michigan—at least for another few weeks. Then some other head must fall; and once more everything will be sweet for a few weeks.

Few men with judgment would accept a responsible position with the state liquor control commission. Such men know they have little chance to control a traffic which flouts control and flouts decent standards.

"Who sleeps with dogs shall get up with fleas" is an adage handed down from ancient times; and the kind of DDT dust sprinkled over the commissioners just doesn't "take hold" on the fleas engaged in the liquor traffic.

IT'S CAUCUS TIME

During this week and next 15 of Ingham's 16 townships will pick party nominees for township office. Lansing township is the exception. Primaries were held there February 17.

At township caucuses anyone may be heard and almost anyone can have his name put up for a nomination. And it would add to the interest of most caucuses if a few more names were put up.

People complain about the caucus system. Some claim that nominees are hand-picked, that just a few people attend caucus and most of those few won't get to their feet to nominate anyone. That's not the fault of the system. It's the fault of the people. It's the apathy that is striking down many of our institutions.

Township government is good government because it is responsive and responsible. It can be responsive and responsible only as long as the people themselves are responsive and responsible. If township residents turn out for the caucuses and then take part in them after they get there they will have contributed their part to good township government, and they will then be entirely justified in complaining about the kind of government they get.

STATE'S CAPITOL EXPANSION PLAN GETS NATIONAL PRAISE

Workmen Waiting For Legislative Action

*GAS FROM SOUTHWEST NEEDED HERE *MICHIGAN STATE BUILDING FUND THREATENED

By Vernon J. Brown
The state of Michigan occupies the architectural spotlight of the nation this month, at least so far as its need for governmental housing goes and so far as it has done something about it. Featured in the current number of the Architectural Forum is the planning done by the Capitol Building Commission of Michigan whose report is now in the hands of the governor and the state legislature. The article, copiously illustrated by photos taken by the famous Ezra Stoller from models of the proposed state government buildings, covers nine pages of the Forum. The magazine is circulated among the leading architects, engineers and builders of the world over.

Concluding its brief description of the proposed structures, including an historical sketch of the technical planning which went into the studies as to space requirements and the specific functions of the agencies for which the several structures were designed to serve, the Forum says:

"Having been served by a far-sighted building commission, having acquired the logical site, and having obtained designs for a handsome functional type of buildings, Michigan's legislature will, it is hoped, promptly build the sorely needed state office center—a center which will eventually pay for itself, and give the state the most efficient government in the nation."

I am sure the members of the capitol building commission will appreciate the kind words of the editors of the Forum. I am not certain the legislature will so promptly provide the funds for the building.

Three plans are submitted by the commission for financing the proposed structures, the site for which has already been for the most part acquired: (1) issue revenue bonds to be retired by selling state securities presently paid for leased space occupied by state agencies in privately-owned structures; (2) sale of full faith and credit bonds; and (3) by appropriating from general revenues three million a year for four years.

The state is now paying out approximately $200,000 a year in rentals to owners of Lansing real estate. This amount would meet the interest charges on the whole cost if borrowed outright. To this saving should be added at least another $100,000 extra cost of operation by the several departments, commissions and agencies now scattered about the city in crowded, inadequate, ill-designed, ill-lighted, poorly ventilated structures.

It is unfortunate indeed that the administration is so perplexed over the fiscal future of the state and its subsidiary units of government that it cannot even consider the merits of the plan proposed.

With a record of 36 session days behind them, members of the 1947 legislature have to their credit only one major bill passed and that the soldier's bonus act calling for $270,000,000 payment to the 600,000 men and women of Michigan who saw service in World War II. Even in this accomplishment, the legislators have not as yet decided from whence the money is to come to pay off the debt. All sorts of new taxes have been discussed but no final decision made.

A total of 386 bills has been introduced during this session—213 in the house and 173 in the senate.

A two to three-week recess has been suggested to permit the members to go home and do some thinking and perhaps get some much-needed advice from the home folks. As the weeks draw on, more and more of the members are becoming disgusted with the progress made. Some point to the fact that the administration has been slow in putting its own measures into bill form. Most of the trouble, of course, can be found in the fiscal difficulties in which the state is found due to the passage of the sales tax diversion amendment adopted by the voters last November.

Michigan state college stands to suffer greatly from the curtailed building program decreed by some of the members of the appropriating bodies of the legislature. Unless money is forthcoming for completion of the engineering laboratories and classrooms a lot of engineering students now enrolled will be forced to apply elsewhere for the finish of their courses. With most states putting up barriers against students from other states this situation may put a stop to further educational opportunities for Michigan students.

It will also prevent those in high schools from enrolling. Cutting off funds for completion of the addition to the central heating plant will make it impossible to open up for use some of the buildings now nearing completion. Such a situation also would make occupation of the new dormitories useless for what would be the use of rooming students if there is to be no room for their classes?

A measure of vast importance to Michigan, its individuals and its industries, is now before the national congress. It has to do with curbing the authority of the Federal Power Commission over the transportation and distribution of natural gas from southwestern states. It appears that the Federal Power Commission has been pulling chestnuts for the railroads and the coal interests. These interests it is charged, do not like the idea of making available large quantities of gas for industry and home heating. That cuts into the coal-mining industry and cuts into the revenues of the railroads and steamship lines which haul from the mines to the point of consumption.

John L. Lewis and his miners also are heard in opposition to the expanded use of gas or any other fuel which might cut into the coal market and thus weaken to that extent the stranglehold that bushy-browed gentleman now enjoys.

It is contended that the FPC has even gone so far as to attempt to dictate the end use of gas and to tell the household and industry alike, who can convert from coal to gas and how much gas they can consume. The bill, recently introduced by Representative Ross (R., Okla.), would make the transportation of gas by pipe line and its distribution and use something of no concern to the FPC. The bill is bound to draw opposition in Congress from many strong forces. Michigan is one of the industrial states which can use a lot of gas, both in manufacturing and in domestic use, yet we find objectors to bringing in Oklahoma and Texas gas among our own folks. They are the owners of small holdings in Michigan limited and dwindling gas fields. They fear competition.

Another piece of legislative grist yet to grind is that attempting a merger of all agencies intended to provide services to the veterans. According to press reports the bill is yet in the making. With all due respect to the bill drafters, it is suggested that the pattern set right here in Ingham will serve to point the way. The Ingham supervisors did not wait for the legislature. They went ahead and did the job. Right now it looks like a bang-up good job.

Was Not Writer

An one of your past issues there was an article written and signed by a volunteer fireman.

Now I have been accused by several people here in Mason as the one who wrote that letter. All I have to say is that I did not write that letter and furthermore as a taxpayer of the City of Mason, there are lots of things that I do not agree as to what the city council does or how it handles the taxpayer's money.

I also want it known that I am not a member of any clique and I don't believe in any clique.

If I have anything to say I don't beat around the bush to tell it. I go to the person's face and tell what I think.

Some people don't know yet that this is supposed to be a free country. We are supposed to have freedom of speech, press and religion in this country and no one should hesitate to sign a letter.

Young People Deserving

In the issue of the 27th—February 27 I was especially interested in your words of commendation for the young people of the class graduating this year from Mason high school. It would be gratifying if more editors would give time and space to reporting the attainments of our many fine, capable young people rather than making headlines of the mistakes of the few misguided ones.

DOWN BY THE

Sycamore

A month or so ago there was an item in the 50-years-ago column about Zack Clark of Fitchburg selling electric belts to cure rheumatism and liver and kidney ailments. Floyd Clark of Gregory called at the office Saturday. Zack was his father.

"Those belts were a great thing," the son said. "He kept them in vinegar to keep the copper from tarnishing and that vinegar gave them added power in use. The vinegar was supposed to charge the coils. I got a laugh from that paragraph in the paper."

A lot of people were cured by the electric belt method. They thought they were cured, anyway, and that's half the battle.

Dansville juniors used exceptional judgment in choosing a class president. Virginia Howell is the chief executive of the juniors. She is a tall, straight and graceful blond—a girl with fine manners.

"I am glad I did my barn-building when big barns were in style," quoth Earl Whipple. "Big barns are passing out of the picture. A man doesn't need all that barn room today. By chopping or baling his hay he can get twice as much hay in half the space needed for loose hay. Silos also cut down on the need for barn room. Tractors and other farm power equipment are kept in a garage, not in a barn. Horses are getting scarce and there are many barns where the horse stalls have been torn out. Then, too, milk inspection is forcing many farmers to drive all stock except the dairy herd out of the barn."

"How much would a $4,000 barn cost now, and what will you do if a windstorm goes through Ingham again this spring and flattens barns?" Earl was asked.

"A $4,000 barn will cost about $11,000 today and I don't know who would build it," the Mason barn-builder replied. "I think I would just go out and get a bunch of farmers to pitch in and help. That's probably the only way a barn could be put up these days. But I don't want the job of building barns this year. That's why I am using what influence I have to head off windstorms which start in this direction."

Columbus went east by sailing west, and the same confusion exists over the road named for him here in Ingham county. Farmers who live on Columbia east of Mason yet west of the Meridian road live on West Columbia. People who drive out from Mason to visit Reuel Perry drive east to reach the Perry farm on West Columbia. East and west for the county road system starts from the Meridian road and not U.S. 127. However, the veterans housing project which is west of the Meridian road is an East Columbia street. East and west in Mason starts from Jefferson street. People who live on Columbia east of Jefferson live on East Columbia if they live west of the east city limits. If they live east of the east city limits but west of Meridian road they live on West Columbia. It's that simple.

"What's your best recollection of the accident about 25 years ago when two people were decapitated at the interurban crossing south of Mason?" I have been asked. I have no best or worst recollection. I have only the one recollection. My recollection is that a man and a woman heading north into Mason were struck by the interurban and ground beneath the wheels. When I have more time I'll look up the files.

Charles Edward Carvyl, asked his best recollections replied:

My recollectest thoughts are those Which I remember yet
And bearing on, as you'd suppose,
The things I don't forget.

All hail to the Leslie Blackhawk. Their determination and team play won a half-share of the Ingham County league title and then their three wins in the district championship gave them the district title. All Ingham County is pulling for the Blackhawk to win at the regionals and then go on to win the state tourney.

It's not news until it's printed in the Ingham County News. That's why the picture of the Holt railroad mishap adorns the paper this week. Jim and I leaped from bed to accompany Undersheriff Jack Lechler to the scene of the crash and Jim took and developed the pictures. We saw the State Journal photographer in action and knew the Jackson Citizen Patriot would also have a man on the job. Yet we went right ahead anyway. Pictures which force us out on cold nights will be preserved for posterity through the columns of the Ingham County News. For camera addicts this information is offered: The best pictures were taken at 100 on F4.5 using GE 22 Photo-flash bulbs. The film was S. S. Ortho Press.

The Welch family was lucky in that none of them was seriously hurt when the coal cars bowled their house part way over. As I watched the crowd at the scene of the accident that remark of Don Mayers came to mind, the one about the man who was so unlucky that he ran into accidents which started out to happen to someone else. That wasn't Welch. The accident started out to happen to Welch and if the big tree hadn't been in the way the accident would have happened to both Welch and the Lynn Doolittle family next door.

Foster Makes Plea Before High Court

(Last Week's Item—Crowded Out)
Special Grand Jury Prosecutor Richard B. Foster pleaded before the state supreme court Tuesday that Charles P. Homans be required to testify in the anti-chain bank conspiracy case. Twenty-four bankers and legislators had the examination on the conspiracy charges adjourned when Homans fled the state. Homans is now serving time in a federal prison and Foster demanded that he be ordered to go onto the witness stand. Federal officials are willing to surrender the reluctant witness.

Homans is in federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., following his conviction on the federal charge of fleeing the state to avoid testifying in a criminal matter. He has appealed his conviction, though.

The anti-chain bank case was the one which caused the launching of the grand jury probe. For the 2 1/2 years while Governor Kim Sigler was prosecutor there was no court action in the bank case. Immediately after Foster took over as special prosecutor he swung into action on the case.
