

Engineers Set Up $19,000,000 Plan For Ingham Roads

Engineers Make Long-Term Improvement Plan on Roads And Streets in Ingham

If minimum road and street needs of Ingham county and its cities are met within the next 12 or 15 years the cost will be $19,198,004.

That's what the highway study committee of the Michigan Good Roads Federation shows. The federation is placing its "study" before the legislature and governor, asking that more state aid be provided for highways. The federation is made up of road commissions, contractors associations, city and county engineers and highway equipment dealers.

Information on Lansing was furnished by Glenn P. Manz, city engineer; East Lansing figures were compiled by John M. Patriarche, city manager; Mason data was compiled by City Engineer W. E. Zimmer; and county road estimates were provided by Frank Evans, county engineer.

Among needs listed in the county are construction of four-lane divided highways on US-16 from the Livingston county line to East Lansing; on US-27 from southwest of Lansing to the Eaton county line; on M-43 from Lansing to the Eaton county line; and on US-127 from the Jackson county line to Holt.

Total cost of the needed improvements in Lansing was estimated at $8,531,840, including $3,666,618 for seven bridges and grade separations, $756,000 for seven downtown parking lots having a capacity for 805 cars, and $170,680 for new street lighting.

Among the structures listed as essential are a bridge on Cedar street at the Grand Trunk tracks and Red Cedar river, and a combined bridge and railroad overpass on Main street between Cherry and Cedar.

Other bridges listed as immediate needs are Michigan between Larch and Eighth, on Hazel over the Grand river; on Hazel over the Red Cedar river; on Ottawa between Grand and Larch, and on Allegan between Grand and Larch. The last two would serve as railroad overpasses.

Mason Needs Listed
The study revealed that 6 miles of local streets and 5.5 miles of major streets should be improved in Mason at a cost of $316,804, including $50,800 for bridge work on Elm between Park and Lansing, and on Maple between Park and Lansing.

Streets needing to be widened, paved or resurfaced either in whole or in part, are Maple, Ash, US-127, South Jackson, Columbia, Conover and Cedar.

In East Lansing, it was disclosed that two of the 6.5 miles of major streets should be modernized at a cost of $202,550; two of the 20 miles of local streets should be improved at a cost of $78,000, and $65,000 should be expended for two parking lots having a capacity for 170 cars. Total cost of East Lansing's needs was placed at $366,350, including $19,800 for street lights and traffic signals.

County Plans Covered
On the county road system, 91 of the 286 miles of Class B (primary) highways should be improved at a cost of $1,465,800, and 106 of the 840 miles of Class C (local) roads should be modernized at a cost of $653,400. Total cost of the county road needs was estimated at $2,119,200, including $354,700 for 21 bridges.

Nearly 47 miles of state and U. S. trunklines in the county were listed as deficient and in need of improvements costing $7,206,300, including $412,000 for two bridges and two grade separations.

These needs were put down as follows:

- US-16—Livingston county line to East Lansing, 16.1 miles, divided four-lane, $2,073,500.
- US-27—Southwest of Lansing to Eaton county line, 6.0 miles, divided four-lane, $96,000.
- M-36—East county line to Mason, 18.4 miles, high type two-lane, $1,288,000.
- M-43—Lansing to west county line, 1.1 miles, divided four-lane, $77,000.
- M-47—Williamston to north county line, 9.2 miles, high type two-lane, $680,000.
- US-127—South county line to Holt, 18.1 miles, divided four-lane, $2,919,000.

Structures listed as essential on the state and U. S. routes include five bridges and one railroad grade separation on US-16, and one railroad grade separation on US-27.

Tickets for the March 10 variety program are now being sold.

Load Restrictions Are Now in Effect To Save Highways

Breakups Are Reported On Blacktop, Frost Is Leaving Ground Rapidly

Load restrictions went into effect at midnight Wednesday. Rain Tuesday night and the warm sun Wednesday drew the frost out of the subsoil and on several stretches of blacktop break-throughs resulted.

Until the conditions improve, truck loads are restricted to 35 per cent of normal loads. Maximum weights under the restrictions are 450 pounds per inch width of tire.

County Highway Engineer Frank Evans assigned weighing crews to stations Thursday morning. Two road commission employees have been deputized by the sheriff to make arrests of truckers found violating the restrictions.

Evans explained that the break-up came so rapidly Wednesday. The rain of Tuesday night and Wednesday's warm sun drew the frost out of the ground rapidly, the engineer said.

Concrete roads stood up Wednesday but many stretches of blacktop where sub-surface drainage was inadequate broke through, Evans asserted. The two worst stretches were on M-106 near Stockbridge and M-36 between Dansville and Millville and west of Livingston county line, the Ingham engineer pointed out.

Inspector Puts OK On Ingham Bastille

W. H. Nestle, state jail inspector, thinks highly of the Ingham jail.

He filed a glowing report Thursday following his inspection of the jail Tuesday.

In the report filed with County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard, Nestle wrote, "I have no recommendations at this time, as Sheriff Allan A. MacDonald informed me he had been instructed by the board of supervisors to repaint the jail throughout."

"I wish to compliment Sheriff MacDonald on his excellent management of the jail. The completeness of his prison records is outstanding."

"The jail is very clean and sanitary throughout, and the food is well prepared and ample."

Nestle works under the division of prison industries. He is a former Gratiot county sheriff and now makes his home in Ithaca.

Rev. Morford is pastor of the Mason Church of the Nazarene. In speaking of the revival campaign, he said, "Rev. Henderson has had more than 20 years in the work of pastorates and now for six years has been successful as an evangelist. Our church extends an invitation to everyone in the community to join us in these services."

Names of 60 Drawn For Jury Duty At March Court Term

Trial of Lloyd Whipple Tentatively Listed For March Term in Lansing

Sixty men and women have been summoned for duty as jurors at the March term of court. The March term will be held in Lansing. Court opens on March 8 with the jurors reporting on March 15.

Usually not more than 40 are summoned for jury service. With so many people still in the south and west on winter vacations, and with farmers likely to ask to be excused because of spring work, the court ordered 60 names drawn.

There is also the possibility that Lloyd Whipple of Mason will be tried on a first degree murder charge at the March term. His trial is now tentatively scheduled to begin March 29. A murder trial usually calls for extra jurors because of challenges exercised by the prosecution and defense.

Drawing of names for the jury was conducted in the office of County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard Saturday.

Those whose names were drawn are:

Sam McMann and Mrs. McManis, Alameda; Henry Buckingham and Bertha Bullen, Aurelius; Frances J. Morrissey and Blanch Galtbraith, Bunker Hill; Wesley J. Reid and Sadie C. Galt, Delhi; Mrs. Jessie Mullen and Charles Kimball, Ingham; Cora Worthy and Verol Hartley, Lansing township;

City to Go Ahead On Elm St. Bridge

The Michigan Central has outwaited the city on the Elm street bridge. For three months the city council has been trying to get a commitment from the Michigan Central for sharing part of the costs of rebuilding the Elm street bridge and relieving flood conditions at the Maple street bridge and the railroad bridge nearby. Not a word has been heard from the railroad officials, Mayor S. A. Morrison reported Thursday morning, so the city is going ahead anyway.

"Just as soon as the frost goes out and the water goes down, we're going ahead with construction of the bridge," the mayor declared. "West side residents have waited long enough; too long. It's almost a year now since the bridge went out. We still believe it will be better for the railroad and the city to share costs on the Elm street bridge and the Maple street flood relief plan. There's no way for us to compel the railroad to go along with us, so we'll start work on our own."

IMPLEMENT DISPLAYS

Jury Disagrees on Award of Damages

Deadlocked for two hours Wednesday afternoon and for about the same length of time Thursday morning, jurors failed to reach a verdict in the suit of Frank LaMacchia vs. Helen J. Miller McCrumb and Donald L. McCrumb. LaMacchia has asked damages of $10,000 as a result of an automobile accident February 28, 1947. Of the total, $7,000 was asked for permanent injuries, nervous shock and pain and suffering.

LaMacchia told the court he was a passenger in the car of his son-in-law, Hugh Shelton, when the crash occurred. He declared Shelton had pulled his car off to the side of Cavanaugh road because of radiator trouble. LaMacchia testified that he was in front of the parked car working on the radiator when it was struck from behind by the car driven by McCrumb. He charged McCrumb with negligence. The car was registered in Mrs. McCrumb's name. She is the former Helen Miller of Mason.

McCrumb's defense was that he was driving carefully and as he approached the car a farmer carrying a milk pail walked into the path of his car. McCrumb said he applied the brakes in order not to hit the pedestrian and his car skidded on ice and struck the rear end of Shelton's car.

Following the disagreement of the jury in the accident case, a jury impaneled January 27 went back into the jury box to hear testimony in the case of the people vs. Francisco Trevino. He is charged with drunk driving, second offense.

On January 27 after the jury had been sworn a flaw was found in papers relating to an alleged first arrest and the trial had to be recessed until the papers were in order.

The first conviction was in Livingston county and the justice who heard the case had gone to Florida. The papers could not be corrected until his return.

The Trevino trial is the last case to be tried at the January term of court. The calendar for the March term is being printed this week. The March term of court will be held in Lansing.

Have You Met?

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Schaeffer and their three youngsters?

They live at 405 East Ash and have been in Mason about a year and a half. They came here from Kentucky.

Mr. Schaeffer is a colonel, but not of the Kentucky cavalry. He was a lieutenant-colonel in field artillery during the war. He was in the army five years. Before entering the army he was on the engineering staff of the Kent county road commission at Grand Rapids. He is now an engineer with the Ingham county road commission.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Schaeffer are graduates at Michigan State college. Mr. Schaeffer is a native of Pennville, over in Allegan county, and was graduated from high school there. Mrs. Schaeffer was born and reared in Iron Mountain and is a graduate of the Iron Mountain high school. She never tackled any of the suicide jumps at Iron Mountain, though.

There are three little Schaeffers. Tom, who'll be six in another few days; Anita, two and a half years old; and Joel, one year old.

Six From Mason Chosen For State School Band Contests

Patty Sowers, Gordon Fortman, Roger Topfiff, Shirley Pfeister, Jimmy Soper and Herman Bushnell of the Mason school band have won their way into the state band contests at Michigan State college in April.

The Mason musicians were chosen at district competition in Jackson Saturday. There were 150 bands from five counties participating in the district contest. In the Mason delegation were 15 boys and girls.

Patty Sowers was picked for her alto saxophone playing, the Fortman boy and young Topfiff play clarinets. Herman Bushnell plays a trombone. Jimmy Soper is a drummer and Shirley Pfeister plays a tenor saxophone. Patty Sowers and Fortman are seventh graders. The other three from Mason are high school pupils.

Soper and Bushnell won first place groupings. The other three from Mason were given second place groupings.

Other Ingham county musicians, outside of Lansing and East Lansing, chosen at Jackson for state competition were Richard Langham, Williamston, clarinet; George Redlawski and Gerald Smith, Williamston, and Kenneth Vince, Leslie, clarinets; and Aletha Porter, Leslie, baritone horn. The Williamston cornet duet of Redlawski and Smith was placed in state competition.

Jimmy Soper and Roger Topfiff have been picked for the all-state band which will appear before the National Music Educators conference in Detroit April 21.

At a "pop" concert in the Mason school auditorium last Thursday night the instrument fund was boosted by $113.67. There was no admission charge to the concert but an offering was taken.

The concert was enthusiastically received. The senior band played the Loyalty march. Hilltoppers and the March of Youth, overtures.

FARM BUREAU NEARS GOAL

Although membership campaign workers are continuing to turn in reports, the 1948 membership campaign is nearing the goal set for this year, according to George Foglio, membership chairman. A total of 625 Ingham farm families have joined the Farm Bureau, either as a renewal of membership or as newcomers to the organization, he said. The total is expected to near 700 by the time complete returns are totaled.

There is a definite move being made to have the election law interpreted differently. In fact, the attorney general who made the first interpretation is no longer in office.

Several Ingham lawyers, some of whom are known to be receptive to the suggestion, are being approached by the attorney general.

Under the program being worked out, good farm machinery for which the owners no longer have use and new machinery placed on sale by dealers will be offered at the sale.

"If the sale is held," asserted M. H. Avery, county club agent, "we intend to make sure it won't be a sale of junk. Sometimes such sales draw a lot of old horse-drawn tools no one wants. We don't want that. We know of farmers who have bought haychoppers. Now they won't need haychoppers or silo fillers, but somebody else will. That's the kind of machinery we want at the sale: tools farmers need and want, and tools which are in good shape."

Business Man Dies From Heart Attack

William G. Grow, 80, died suddenly last Thursday afternoon from a series of heart attacks which began the evening before. He had been in business in Mason for 38 years and was on the job every day until last October when he underwent an operation. At most given up at the time of the operation, he recovered after long weeks in the hospital and at home, and was up and around.

Twice on Wednesday Mr. Grow drove to the business section. He appeared to be feeling better than usual. He went across the street to the William S. Rhodes residence to make arrangements with a man working there to have fruit trees and shrubbery trimmed in the spring. Early in the evening he had a heart attack. Dr. George R.

Clinton was summoned and Mr. Grow was carried to his bed. The doctor pronounced Mr. Grow's condition critical and ordered him to remain in bed for several weeks. On Thursday Mr. Grow felt much better. In the afternoon he told Mrs. Grow he had a pain in his shoulder, much less severe than the night before. Mrs. Grow gave her husband a tablet left by the doctor and a glass of water. Mr. Grow took the tablet and the empty glass to the dining room adjoining the bedroom when she heard a noise. Her husband was dead.

In Business 38 Years
Born in Bennington in Shawansee county October 9, 1867, Mr. Grow came to Mason as a boy of 15 to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Densmore. Mr. Grow was next to the youngest in a family of five girls and three boys and was taken into the Densmore home to be a companion to Francis E. Densmore, the only child.

After leaving Mason high school Mr. Grow worked at the Mason Carriage Co. under the late Angus McDonald as a painter doing the fine trim. Then he went with Thaddeus Densmore into the elevator business. Later Mr. Grow and the late Rodney Coy became partners in what is now the Farmers Elevator. Mr. Grow and Mr. Coy were partners for about 10 years and then Mr. Grow became sole owner. He sold to the present management in 1927. After leaving the elevator Mr. Grow secured an interest in the clothing store of his son-in-law, Joy O. Davis, and the firm became known as Joy O. Davis & Co. Mr. Grow worked at the store until his sickness last fall. He was one of the original stockholders and directors of the Dart National bank.

On October 13, 1891, Mr. Grow and Jeannette Smead Brown were married. They moved into the present home at 325 East Oak and spent their entire married life there.

Mr. Grow had served as trustee and as treasurer of the Presbyterian church. He was long active in Mason lodge No. 70, Knights of Pythias.

Surviving besides the widow is the daughter, Mrs. Joy O. Davis; three grandchildren, James Davis, Mrs. Harlan Smith and John William Davis of Mason; and a great grandson, Allan Smith; and one sister, Mrs. Ida Weidman of Grand Rapids. The sister is almost 90.

Funeral services were held at the Ball funeral home Monday afternoon with burial in Maple Grove. Rev. Marshall W. Simpson of the Mason Presbyterian church officiated. Pallbearers were Albert Humphrey, Charles Swartzout, Clarence Bickert, Dr. F. J. Kellogg, D. C. Dart and Vernon J. Brown. Members of the Knights of Pythias lodge attended the services in a body.

GUESTS AT DINNER
Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Shepard and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hobbey of Lansing for dinner on Sunday.

To make apple sauce taste like a new dish, mix with some canned crushed pineapple of sliced peaches.

Methodist Church Is Scene Of Father and Son Banquet

One hundred fathers and sons attended the father and son banquet at the Mason Methodist church Monday evening. The dinner was prepared by members of the W. S. C. S. and served by members of the Youth Fellowship.

Rev. Henry Liddell opened the evening's program by giving the invocation. Glen Conn led in group singing, with Richard Peek as accompanist. Bruce Ball, acting as toastmaster, introduced Gerald Armstrong and Norman Austin, who rendered a vocal duet.

Dr. Russell R. Robbins, giving the toast to the sons, told of the six kings, which are working, thinking, joking, shirking, winking and talking. He explained the ones to head and the ones to avoid. George Bauer responded with a toast to the fathers, in which he solicited their help and interest.

Next on the program was Gordon Portman, who played piano selections. Cello numbers were played by Robert Graham, a student at Michigan State college.

The address was given by Rev. William Beckett of Charlotte. His topic was "Father and Son Incorporated." He spoke of the companionship that should exist between father and son.

Ernest Bartlett, 70, died suddenly of a heart attack last Friday morning. He had been in poor health for several years and during the last seven weeks was confined to his bed.

Mr. Bartlett was born in Vevay township September 25, 1877, the son of Lorenzo and Mary Bartlett. He was married to Elsie Whipple of Dansville November 15, 1899. To them were born two children, both of whom survive.

They are Freda, now Mrs. Leslie Hodgson of Vevay, and Foster Bartlett of Williamston. Besides the widow and the two children there remain four grandchildren, a great granddaughter and two brothers. The brothers are Lewis Bartlett of Vevay and Orla Bartlett of Argentine.

For many years Mr. Bartlett was engaged in highway work. For eight years he was highway commissioner of Vevay township. Following that he was employed by the Ingham county road commission for 17 years. During his employment with the county he worked out of Mason, Stockbridge and Williamston at various periods. He resigned from the road commission staff several years ago to return to his farm in Vevay, where he had since lived and where he died. He spent his entire life in the county, most of the time near Mason.

Funeral services were held from the Jewett chapel Tuesday afternoon with burial in Maple Grove.

Rev. Loyd Caraway of the Mason Baptist church officiated. Six nephews served as pallbearers at the services. They were Omar, Hollis, Curtis and Russell Bartlett, and Elton Austin of Argentine and Merle Austin of Lansing.

SERVING AT TAMPA
Pfc. Leslie L. Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Austin of Mason, is now a member of Colonel Alfred P. Kalberer's famous world mapping 55th Reconnaissance Group (Very Long Range) at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Florida, one of the largest bases in the United States. Austin enlisted in the Air Forces for a three year period last September 15, and was sent to San Antonio, Texas, where he completed 13 weeks of basic training. He was then assigned to the 55th Group, where he is now working as an auto mechanic.

Funeral services were held from the Jewett chapel Tuesday afternoon with burial in Maple Grove.

U-M Has New Weapon in Polio War

ANN ARBOR—War against infantile paralysis has been extended on a new front at the University of Michigan.

Researchers at the School of Public Health now have the weapon needed for a more penetrating study of the virus which causes poliomyelitis. Certain essential information about the virus is needed before a cure or preventive measure can be developed.

Above, Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., chairman of the Department of Epidemiology, looks on as Dr. Martin Hanig, research associate, places some infectious material in an ultracentrifuge. This machine, just received, was purchased with funds provided by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The ultracentrifuge can revolve the receptacle in which the infectious material is placed at speeds up to 1,000 revolutions a second. This high speed sets up enough centrifugal force to separate out the tiny viruses for study.

Shaggy Dog

By HANK MCALL

HERMAN'S career as a theatrical agent flashed just long enough to burn all his money. He was flat broke. Not only was his wallet folding air, but his spirit slept in the gutter. He had to get an act, a good act, or forsake his wonderful free life for a job.

He lit a cigarette and wandered through the dusk. His aimless course led him into an alley dividing a row of run-down apartments.

Suddenly he heard a piano playing, distant and faint, but very distinct. The notes had a pleasing quality that bewitched him.

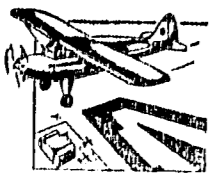

Even in Carnegie hall, no cadenzas flourished like these cadenzas. They were great! They were beautiful! Never had he listened to playing like this playing.

Herman found the window, peered in, saw the back of a young man stooped over a piano. The agent waited until he finished the score before rapping.

"The artist came over calmly and asked, 'Yes?'"

"Look, Mister, I'm a music lover. That last number was great! How about letting me in?"

Mason Girl Hurt In Newaygo Crash

Thelma Royer, 17, is in Sparrow hospital, Lansing, with what doctors believe is a compressed fracture of the neck. She was injured Saturday night about 11 o'clock near Newaygo when the car in which she was riding was overturned. Grace Jones of Leslie, also a passenger in the car, received two cracked ribs. The car was being driven by Robert Miller of Lansing. Dick and Don Miller of Lansing were also in the car. The three brothers were not seriously hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Royer started out Saturday morning to spend the week end with Mrs. Royer's mother, Mrs. Bessie Morrison, of Cadillac. At Shepherd their car broke down. They had their dog with them and dogs are not permitted to ride on buses, so the Royers called their daughter who was spending the week end with the Miller brothers and their uncle, Ora Miller, of Freemont.

The young people drove from Freemont to Shepherd, picked up the Royers there and drove them to Howard City where the Royers took a bus for Cadillac. The daughter, the Jones girl and the boys, with the dog, started back to Freemont. They were driving on a gravel road near Newaygo when the car went out of control.

The Royer girl was taken first to the Freemont hospital and then on Sunday afternoon was transferred by ambulance to the Lansing hospital.

Property Owners Take Court Action On Meridian Drain

An attack on the validity of proceedings taken by Branch No. 3 of the Remy-Chandler drain is being made by property owners in a suburban area of Meridian township. They have petitioned the circuit court to have work stopped on enclosing the drain and to have the assessments set aside.

Gerald Graham, county drain commissioner, explained that the project was started on the filing of petitions and that all steps taken have been in accordance with the procedure set up in the law. Graham said full notice was given of the hearings on necessity and on benefits and of the letting of the contract.

Everett Defeated By Leslie Cagers

Leslie gave another Capital Circuit team a basketball lesson Tuesday night, defeating Everett 67-49 on the Viking court.

Using plenty of reserves in the game, Leslie had little trouble running up the big score. Joe Shaw tallied 22 points with Vince adding 13 and Richardson and Taylor making 11 each for the Blackhawks. Christensen and Williams made 15 each for the Vikings.

Leslie led 18-13 at the quarter and 31-15 at the half. In the third quarter the Blackhawks swarmed around the bucket to rack up 23 points to 13 for the Vikings. Leading 54-29, Leslie sent in the reserves the last quarter.

WEBBERVILLE IS UPSET

After a brave start on the big Vocational floor Tuesday night, Webberville lost out 41-37. Webberville had an 11-7 lead at the quarter but it melted away before intermission. At half-time the count stood 20-17 in favor of Vocational. From there on, Vocational stayed ahead.

Holt Tournament Opens Wednesday

Ingham league teams are going to spread their tournament over four days instead of the usual three.

Drawings were made at Okemos Wednesday night. The tournament games will be played in the Holt gym.

Stockbridge, Dansville and Williamston are in the upper bracket with Leslie, Okemos, Holt and Fowlerville in the lower bracket, which makes it quite likely that Leslie and Williamston will meet in the finals. At least, that's the way it ought to work on the basis of the season's records. Actually, tournament tradition is that the favorites are quite often upset and a dark horse comes out the winner.

Holt and Fowlerville are the darkest of the horses.

Stockbridge drew a first round bye. Williamston and Williamston will play at eight o'clock Wednesday night.

There are two games booked for Thursday, Leslie vs. Okemos at 7:30, and Holt vs. Fowlerville in the nightcap. The winners in those two games will meet in the semi-finals Friday night at eight o'clock. The finals will be at eight o'clock Saturday night.

At the official meeting Wednesday night the coaches and school officials decided to abandon the picking of a mythical all-star team. They agreed to let the record speak for itself.

STOCKBRIDGE WINS

Stockbridge downed Pinckney 25-18 Tuesday night. Pinckney was ahead at the half. Bob Lambert, with 10 points, paced the Panthers.

Tourney Drawing Pits Mason Team Against Trojans

Mason drew the favored team in the Class B district tournament at Lansing Eastern. Everett and Howell will clash at Lansing Eastern at 7:30 Friday night with Mason and East Lansing booked to start at 8:45. The finals will be played Saturday night.

At Lansing Sexton on Thursday night Alma and St. Johns will meet at 7:00 with Lansing Tech and Grand Ledge due to start at 8:30. The two winners will play it off Saturday night.

There are two separate district tournaments under the new set-up. Everett, Howell, Mason and East Lansing are in one district, with Alma, St. Johns, Lansing Tech and Grand Ledge in another.

In Class C at Eastern, Lansing Resurrection and St. Mary's are booked up for Thursday night in one game with Vocational and Haslett in the other.

Pottsville and Bath are paired in the Class D opener at Sexton Friday night with Webberville and Dimondale hooked up in the second game that night. Finals will be played Saturday night.

In Justice Court

Justice Roy Adams handed out stiff sentences to two of the three Danville young men caught last Friday after a chase through the countryside. Stockbridge Deputy Alva Beeman and Howard Trapp took up the chase of a speeding car in Stockbridge. The officers said the car, driven by Gordon Richner, 20, of Danville, was going 80 miles an hour. The officers, clinging to the trail out through the country and finally rounded up the youths in a corn field after their car had run short of gasoline.

Richner pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. Roy L. West, 20, pleaded guilty to being drunk. He was given his choice of paying a fine of $15.00 plus $11.45 costs or doing 30 days in jail. He paid up. He was also placed on probation for two years. Arlo Shaw demanded a hearing on the charge of altering his driver's license to make it appear that he is older than he really is.

ASK DRIVE BE KEPT CLEAR
Alta Parks, county librarian, has asked that the driveway at the county library be kept open. It is now occasionally blocked by parked cars. The cars are sometimes parked on Ash street in front of the driveway entrance and there are times when people park their cars in the driveway itself. The driveway is needed, Miss Parks pointed out, for use of the county library delivery truck and the bookmobile.

Kiwanians Debate Course in Driving

Whether or not a course in automobile driving should be added to the curriculum of the Mason school was debated at a meeting of the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night.

Dr. D. R. Lethbridge was moderator of the five-man panel. On the affirmative team were Al Rice and Raymond H. McLean. Taking the negative were Frank Guerriero and Nelson Brown.

The affirmative assertions were that the cost of such a course is comparatively low, and by means of high school instruction the accident rate among teen-agers can be reduced 50 per cent.

Clung to by the negative team were the claims that the licensing and instruction of drivers is a matter for police officers and not the schools, that accidents are not caused by lack of instruction but by lack of judgment which can not be taught, and that under the plan suggested to the Mason school board one full-time instructor could teach only 32 pupils a semester, making the cost of the course prohibitive.

CARL GIBBS INJURED

It Would Take a Bright Boy

WITH NOTHING ELSE TO THINK ABOUT

TO REMEMBER All THE INCOME TAX Deductions!

Really Smart Folks Leave The Remembering To Their Check Books

Nobody can expect to remember all the countless expenditures, deductible expenses, income and losses that constitute an income tax return. But folks with checking accounts have their job neatly tabulated as far as the expense items are concerned, because those cancelled vouchers are irrefutable proof of yearly payments of all kinds.

For the saving in time and effort that a checking account makes possible, its expense is almost negligible. Make arrangements to open one this week.

Wedding Vows Said At Church Ceremony

Pink Gladstoll and yellow daffodils before a bank of palms and lighted tapers formed an altar at the First Methodist church in Holt Sunday afternoon at three o'clock when Miss Janice Hartley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hartley, 1805 Aurelius road, was united in marriage to Howard Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cummings of Lansing.

Rev. Wilson Tennant performed the double ring ceremony before 100 guests, Miss Virginia Connor sang, "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Charles Parker accompanied.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was dressed in the traditional white satin dress with a sweet heart neckline, embroidered with seed pearls, long pointed sleeves and a fitted bodice. A full skirt with a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil fell from a satin-trimmed tiara. She carried red and white carnations.

Rheumatic Fever Peril to Children

"Rheumatic fever is still the leading fatal disease among Michigan school children, and more than 50,000 Michigan adults who have survived the disease are suffering handicaps resulting from it," Dr. J. K. Alland, commissioner of the Michigan department of health, declared.

"Better public understanding of rheumatic fever, and better utilization of new diagnosis and treatment centers in the state can save the lives of many children and the handicapping of many adults," Dr. Alland said.

While rheumatic fever is the most serious chronic illness beginning in childhood, many parents do not recognize the ailment in their own children. It is, serious, difficult to diagnose and hard to treat.

Although the disease has been recognized since Hippocrates' time, 400 years before Christ, the medical men still do not know its exact cause, nor a preventative for it, nor a special treatment for it. The disease is probably not communicable. It often follows streptococcus infections, scarlet fever, tonsillitis or a "bad cold," and it is more likely to occur among children whose families have a history of rheumatic fever.

The germ or virus which causes the ailment attacks the heart valves and muscles, and leaves scars which impair the function of the heart throughout life. One attack of the disease does not immunize the victim against another attack, but instead, makes him more likely to suffer a second or recurring attack.

Rheumatic fever usually starts in early childhood, between the ages of five and fourteen years. It flourishes in cold, damp weather, under crowded living conditions, and among children who do not have or do not eat proper food. Symptoms which should indicate an immediate medical check-up for the disease are: low unexplained fever which persists; pain, particularly in joints and muscles; fast pulse (rapid heart action); repeated nosebleeds without apparent cause; pallor; poor appetite; loss of weight or failure to gain; jerky or nervous movements; frequent sore throat or tiredness; abdominal pain or pains in arms and legs such as are sometimes called "growing pains."

The signs or symptoms may be so slight that the doctor will have to check the child for months or consult specialists before he can be certain, but to protect the heart and the life of the child, early diagnosis is extremely important. The symptoms listed do not mean, necessarily, that the child has rheumatic fever, but they do indicate that something is wrong and that the child should be examined by a physician.

If the physician decides the child has rheumatic fever, the first treatment will probably be complete bed rest. The doctor will treat the infection while it lasts and the rest period may involve weeks, months or years, but its observance is of the utmost importance to the child's future health and length of life.

Prevention of recurrence of the disease is also important. A child who has one attack, is likely to have another. Parents should see that the child is properly clothed, that he keeps his feet dry, avoids children with respiratory diseases, eats sufficient and proper foods, gets plenty of sleep, follows medical instructions and has frequent medical check-ups. The child should be taught how to protect himself and the reasons for doing so.

Just how necessary it is to take such precautions is shown by the fact that one out of every five children who develop rheumatic fever dies within ten years.

Rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease cause almost five times as many deaths as infantile paralysis, whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and cerebrospinal meningitis combined.

To afford better diagnosis of rheumatic fever among Michigan children, one state and local medical societies, the Michigan Society for Crippled Children, the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission and other agencies have started rheumatic fever consultation centers in 15 Michigan cities. They include 16 in Detroit and one each in Marquette, Kalamazoo, Alpena, Traverse City, Muskegon, Grand Rapids, Bay City, Saginaw, Port Huron, Pontiac, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Lansing and Battle Creek.

Rat Population on Farms Runs High

Rat killing campaigns in many Michigan counties will get under way between March 10 and April 1, 1948. Michigan State college extension specialists say that every farmer has a part in the fight.

The following formula shows the stake that farmers have in ridding their farms of rats:

If you never see rats, but see signs of rats and their damage, there are one to 100 rats on your farm.

If you see rats now and then at night, there are 100 to 500.

If you see rats every night and a few occasionally in the daytime, you are boarding from 500 to 1,000.

If you see lots of rats at night and several every day, you probably have from 1,000 to 5,000 rats.

Early Chicks Add To Poultry Profits

Getting early hatched chicks will help the poultryman obtain a large number of eggs at the time egg prices are high. Charles Reed, extension poultryman at Michigan State college, pointed out that these early hatched chicks can often make the difference between a profit and a loss in the poultry enterprise.

Egg prices are higher from July through December, reaching a peak about the first of November. Planned brooding can help have hens near their peak of production during the fall months. Before ordering baby chicks, poultrymen should consider that it takes an average of six to seven months to bring pullets into heavy production under good care and management. February and March are the months to brood chicks in order to have them in production by July and August. Chicks hatched later than March can't possibly be in heavy production by the peak price season.

Chicks should be brooded so that they insure early maturity and ability to produce more large eggs. An advantage of early hatched pullets is that the small pullet-sized eggs will have increased in size to larger eggs during the high-priced fall and winter season. More often there is less trouble from coccidiosis when chicks are hatched early because they have passed the most susceptible age before conditions become more favorable for coccidia organisms to become active.

If straight run chicks are bought rather than sexed pullets, early brooding is necessary to have the cockerels ready to sell before the large number of later hatched cockerels reach the market and force the price down.

The 1947 deer season is taking its place as Michigan's greatest, as late license sale returns account for 344,457 resident deer hunters. 21,151 more than at the same time a year earlier and 2,655 more than the final count for 1946. If late collections in the next five months equal those of a year ago, the final total for '47 may be 30,000 more than in '46, itself a record year.

Winter Proved Kind To Pheasant Flocks

The long cold winter may be tough on people but it is a MacMullen of the conservation department's game division said the ring-neck pheasant is doing right well in it. Much better, in fact, than in the thawing and freezing weather of last winter.

No pheasant losses because of severe weather have been reported so far this winter. MacMullen said pheasants seen along roads, now that a little melting has begun, are looking for grit that was unobtainable while the ground was snow covered. Pheasants frequent barnyards are attracted by easy pickings rather than by hunger. At the time of the winter's worst ice storm in Monroe county, corn was spread for pheasants, but they turned up their beaks at it, left it untouched.

On recent aerial reconnaissance of the pheasant range, MacMullen reported seeing mature spread on "at least one field in every quarter section" of the area surveyed. Winter spreading of manure has been greatly underestimated, he believes, as a pheasant's winter food source.

Pheasant counts continue high. Harold Tibbs, district game manager of Caro, reported seeing 554 hens and 91 cocks in 110 miles of driving in the Thumb. And at Rose Lake wildlife experimental station, on fine days, game men are already hearing some pheasant cocks crowing.

Scholarship Fund For Michigan Boys

Aided By "Tartar" In Wayne U. Show

Getting together for a dress rehearsal of a benefit show is quite a fussy business. Tartar, the goat, finds out as Otto VandenBosch, of Grand Haven (left) and Robert Dewar, of Traverse City, do the primping-up job. Both men are committee members for the project.

"Tartar," Wayne University mascot goat, who lends his support to worth-while student projects around the campus, has had his enthusiasm fanned to a warm temperature this winter because he is now contributing to a project which provides a 1948-49 scholarship fund for high school seniors in the State of Michigan.

His contribution will be handling a role in a variety show sponsored by Mackenzie Union, all-campus men's organization, on the evening of March 12 in Detroit's Cass Technical High School auditorium. The production, to feature not only Tartar, but a chorus line of bevy male beauties, is strictly a fund "benefit."

And Tartar, like a good little "ham," doesn't at all mind the trouble that's entailed for him by rehearsals for his forthcoming debut. Seemingly to realize that the cause is good, he submits patiently to having his beard combed out and his lady's hat carefully adjusted over his horns.

This is the second year in which proceeds of the show have gone to the fund, but the first year in which Tartar has had a direct part. The winner of the 1947-48 scholarship award, now attending Wayne, is Nicholas Onychuk, a graduate of Hamtramck High School, Hamtramck, Michigan.

For the 1948-49 award, male members of 1948 graduating classes of accredited high schools in Michigan are eligible to apply if recommended by their school principal. The winner will receive $200 to help in his education at Wayne during the coming University year. Leadership qualities and need for financial aids will receive major consideration in the selection.

Applications must be mailed to the Chairman, Mackenzie Union Scholarship Committee, Webster Hall, Wayne University, Detroit 1, Michigan, by June 7. Blanks are available through high school administrators.

Several laps around the indoor track is a must on Guerre's daily schedule.

Strong, muscular legs contribute to Guerre's cat-like quickness.

GUERRE TO RUN AGAIN—Michigan State college's football stock rises for 1948 as George Guerre, the Spartans' leading offensive weapon for the past two seasons, proves that his leg broken last fall against Kentucky, has fully healed. Left, George sprints in Jensen fieldhouse to strengthen the mended bone, just above the right ankle. Right, a close-up of the powerful legs that drive this 5-foot, 6-inch 160-pound human dynamo from Flint. ### Tetanus Immunization

Hundreds of tragic deaths can be averted this year if every man, woman and child receives immunization shots against tetanus (lockjaw).

To insure the maximum protection, these tetanus shots should be given during infancy. Leading Michigan medical authorities recommend tetanus immunization sometime between the ninth and thirty-sixth months of life and booster shots every five years or at the time of injury.

Lacking protection against lockjaw, the average person or child has a very difficult time fighting the disease. Despite the best medical care, lockjaw can too often result in death.

Protection afforded by tetanus immunization shots is an almost fool-proof defense against this deadly disease. These shots were given to men and women of the armed forces who served during World War II. As a result the tetanus death toll, generally at an all-time high during wars, was nonexistent during the war years.

Lockjaw can result from very slight as well as from severe wounds. Abrasions, splinters, blisters on the feet can give the deep wounds. The rough-and-tumble play that goes hand-in-hand with childhood often results in just the type of cuts and scratches that are the perfect invitation to tetanus germs.

Parents can stop worrying about the threat of lockjaw today by having their children's protection with medical science has developed against this disease. These immunization shots are available to every child in Michigan through their family medical doctor.

Evergreen Seedlings Available at M. S. C.

Tree seedlings for forest planting, windbreaks, erosion control, wildlife cover and food, and Christmas trees, are now available from the Michigan State college forestry department.

Tra Bill, MSC forester, advises that tree planting is an excellent conservation measure. Farmers should note particularly the soil, its moisture content, and the grass or brush cover. Planting a mixture of species is preferable to pure plantings. The MSC forestry department or county agricultural agents can give information on what and how to plant.

The following evergreen species are available at the present time: European larch, jack pine, Ponderosa pine, white pine, and white spruce. The supply of red pine is exhausted from the state conservation department, Lansing. Scotch pine, a popular Christmas tree species, is also exhausted.

Among the deciduous trees available are green ash, white ash, American elm, black cherry, black locust, and red oak.

The danger of pregnancy disease in ewes comes just prior to lambing time, reported Dr. B. J. Killham, extension veterinarian at Michigan State college.

Pregnancy disease is costly. At times it has claimed as many as 25 percent of the ewes in a flock. It is usually most prevalent following a cold hard winter.

The disease is not contagious but instead is related to feed and management. Affected ewes show evidence of depression and refuse to eat or drink. Finally the sick ewe goes down. She will usually champ her jaws or grind her teeth. The head is usually held back or to one side. Coma and death follow.

Prevention of the disease is more successful than treatment. Quality feed is essential. Good quality legume hay, oats, and bran are helpful. Yellow corn is recommended for its carbohydrate and vitamin A content. Molasses has also been found to be very beneficial.

It may be necessary to compel exercise. The opportunity for exercise is sometimes not enough and raisers compel the ewe to go into a field for hay. To do this, it is sometimes necessary to plow a lane.

Farm Plans Readied For Aid to Hunting

Three hundred farm plans in the next two months is the quota the conservation commission has set for the beginning of its program for improving conditions for wildlife on private lands.

For the farms to get plantings for wildlife aid this spring, 200 will be planned entirely by game men of the conservation department's game division, 100 will be planned by sportsmen who will get technical advice from the game specialists.

For all 300 farms the department will furnish seedling pines and shrub planting stock, seed for lespedeza and sweet clover plantings, and some fencing to protect plantings from grazing. Labor will be furnished by farm owners and sportsmen's clubs.

On the average farm improved for game, the wildlife food and cover plantings will cover about one acre in an odd corner, a swale or gully. A condition of the grant of planting stock is that the farmer will not charge for hunting, though his control of who shall hunt on his property is otherwise undiminished. Farms on which plantings are planned are all in the pleasant range.

Expansion of personnel after June college graduations provide more of the necessary technicians will make possible planning for wildlife on private lands on a much more extensive scale later in the year.

Some evergreen trees lose their leaves every spring as new leaves unfold.

Hill, executive secretary of the committee, states that movements are also under way in Isabella, Branch, Montcalm, Cheboygan, Jackson, Shiawassee, and Washtenaw counties.

Better Citizenship Is Goal of 4-H Program

The goal of Ingham county 4-H clubs for 1948 is better citizenship. In 1947 there were 49,500 members in 5,000 clubs in Michigan. Ingham county had 965 members who completed 1,371 projects under the direction of 128 different local leaders representing every township in the county. Michigan's program increased 15 per cent during 1947, or 6,000 members. The Ingham county program increased over 18 per cent, or 105 different members.

The Ingham county goal is 1,000 members by the end of 1948.

The theme for 1948 is "Creating better homes today for a more responsible citizenship tomorrow." Ingham county clubs are raising money to send seeds packages to needy families of Europe, sponsoring county-wide safety meetings, one of which was held Wednesday of this week; raising money to make an addition to the 4-H building on the fair grounds; and helping others in their own communities.

During national club week, window displays will be placed in store windows by the 4-H service club. Posters will be placed in schools and meeting places, suggesting that members select projects for the summer program.

There are three main objectives in 4-H work.

The first one is to learn better practices in agriculture and home economics through the project carried; how to better feed a calf or to make a dress.

Second and equally valuable, is to learn to work and play as a group. Enduring friendships are made through local club meetings, district meetings and tours.

Third, is to learn to help others. Many chances appear in a 4-H group to help or share with other members the things learned in 4-H work.

The 4-H club pledge that all members learn, typifies the 4-H program. It is, "I pledge my head to clearer thinking, my heart to better loyalty, my hands to larger service, my health to better living, my club, my community, and my country."

Club members are proud of the 4-H emblem, the four-leaf clover with the "H" in each petal, which stands for each one of the words: head, heart, hands and health. This emblem signifies good luck and achievement. The interpretation of the pledge is given in the following 4-H creed which is found in the local leaders' Guide Posts:

"I believe in boys and girls 4-H club work for the opportunity it gives me to become a useful citizen."

"I believe in the training of my head for the power it will give me to think, plan and reason."

"I believe in the training of my heart for the nobleness it will give me to be kind, sympathetic and true."

"I believe in the training of my hands for the ability it will give me to be helpful, skillful and useful."

"I believe in the training of my health for the strength it will give me to enjoy life, resist disease and make for efficiency."

"I believe in the United States of America, and in my responsibility for their development."

"I am, therefore, willing to devote my efforts for the fulfillment of these things which I believe."

The National 4-H motto, "To make the best better," should be the aim of every club member and leader.

The 4-H colors are green and white. The white background stands for purity and the green is emblematic of springtime, life and youth.

Ten Guide Posts have been developed to guide 4-H clubs in planning their programs: Planning talents for greater usefulness, joining with friends for work, fun and fellowship, learning to live in a changing world, choosing a way to earn a living, producing food and fibre for home and market, creating better homes for better living, conserving nature's resources for security and happiness, building health for a strong America, sharing responsibilities for Five thousand Michigan 4-H Clubs look to the observance of National 4-H Club Week, March 1 to 7 with a record of a highly successful year behind and a goal of further achievement ahead.

The youth movement, which reaches rural, village and often urban boys and girls between 10 and 21 years of age, has a record of building better citizens. The theme for the national week is "Creating better homes today for a more responsible citizenship tomorrow."

Michigan's program, like that of other states, is directed by the Land Grant college in cooperation with the counties and the federal extension service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The National Committee on Boys and Girls Work Chicago, a non-profit group, makes possible scholarships and awards for successful achievement and sponsors the 4-H Club Congress each year in Chicago. It is supported by contributions from individuals and firms.

In every one of Michigan's 81 counties 4-H Club work was provided last year through the extension service of Michigan State college and its county extension services. More than 6,500 local leaders gave their time to organizing and directing project work in the local communities. These leaders helped 5,000 different clubs comprised of 49,500 boys and girls.

Membership in the past year was 6,000 more than 1946 or an increase of approximately 15 percent. Michigan's goal is 75,000 members by 1950 and officials hope to enroll 55,000 in the work this year.

Directing the work and assisting local leaders are 50 4-H Club agents in the various counties and districts who devote their entire time to the youth program. Eleven persons make up the state staff at East Lansing which is directed by A. G. Kettunen, state leader. In most counties, county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents assist with the program.

While the more glamorous programs of livestock production, food preparation and preservation, dairy production and clothing get the most public attention, 4-H Club members are doing much to build citizenship.

Most 4-H Clubs have sponsored some type of a community improvement program and several hundred packages of food and clothing have been sent to alleviate suffering in foreign lands by club members.

Clubs have just completed a program of running shoes to be sent to 28 different European countries to provide garden vegetables for community improvement, and serving as citizens in maintaining world peace.

Many 4-H members will not stay on the farm, but the things they learn through 4-H work will help them to live better and happier lives. Work teaches young people of the inspiring things in rural living and gives them a vision of its possibilities as a life work.

Club work demonstrates a better practice in agriculture and home economics by means of demonstration and exhibits.

Club work develops rural leadership, community pride and spirit. Club work develops self-reliance, ambition and aggressiveness. It develops individual ownership and gives members a chance to earn money and acquire property.

Above all it develops the highest type of manhood, womanhood and citizenship.

The 4-H leader, usually a father or mother in the community, has a great opportunity to help in developing standards and ideals in these future citizens of their communities.

Parents are all-important in the 4-H club program. Parents may encourage their boys and girls and invite their neighbors' young people to become members. Their interest will help the 4-H members over difficult spots and make the leader's job a lot easier.

Over 700 boys and girls are carrying projects during the winter months. Clubs are being organized now for the summer season. There should be a club in every community.

Community clubs setting organization meetings during March are:

4-H CLUBS HELP FEED EUROPE

President John A. Hannah of Michigan state college expresses satisfaction with the Michigan 4-H Club program to send vegetable seeds to starving European families. Marilyn Jones, Inola, and Ray LaSalle (Monroe county), both MSC short course students and active in their own community 4-H Clubs for the past eight years, show the president the contents of one of the cartons. Thousands of these cartons as a result of 4-H Club activity in Michigan.

starving people. Each club in Michigan attempted to provide the four 4-H Club Week program in Michigan required to purchase and ship a carton of seed which would produce four to five tons of vegetables. Results of the program are not complete but it is certain that several thousand packages will be mailed either directly to some individual or to a recognized relief agency.

Four junior leader training schools were recently held in Michigan at which one boy and girl from each county were sent for a two-day training course. At present 810 older club members are serving as leaders of clubs in Michigan and this number will soon grow to more than 1,000.

Only one state surpassed Michigan in 1946 in the percentage of projects completed. Michigan club members completed 33 percent of the projects started. Each member has one or more projects for winter months and additional projects for summer months. Achievement days are held in the spring and fall at which time projects are judged and awards made.

A friendly beacon shining through the darkness of night, the lights of the telephone exchange are never dimmed. At any hour the telephone is ready to carry your messages, do your errands, summon aid in an emergency.

Behind the telephone are the men and women of Michigan Bell—operators and office workers, clerks and craftsmen, indoor and outdoor workmen. They keep a big company functioning as a single unit at a flash of the signal from your telephone.

There is a very real spirit of service among Michigan Bell folks. It is based on belief that public service is a high calling. It is fostered by the knowledge that opportunity to advance in the business is open to all—because promotions are based on merit and are made from within the ranks.

So it is not surprising that most telephone men and women think of their work as a career—something more than just a job. For you, that means efficient and friendly telephone service of constantly increasing value.

THE CART WITH THE HORSE

In fighting fire the cart is as important as the horse. Power pumps are of little use unless there is water to pump.

The Mason fire department has been handicapped on recent farm runs because of lack of water. Handicapped is an understatement; the firemen and the property owners have had to stand helplessly by while the flames licked up the houses and contents.

Back in 1943 the need of an additional supply of water at farm fires was recognized. The regular fire truck carries only 300 gallons. A used oil tank truck was hurriedly, too hurriedly bought, on recommendation of the fire department with the approval of the council.

The tank truck was bought as a bargain at $450. Like a lot of bargains, it cost more than it was worth. The old 1931 chassis was worn out. The brakes were inadequate for the heavy load. Just recently $270 was paid out for new brakes, and that was throwing good money after bad. The tanker is still unsafe for those who ride it and unsafe for others using the road. It is unreliable. After one slow trip to the Kahler fire in Alameda, and that trip too late, one of the tires blew out. The department has been unable to get a spare because wheels for the 1931 model are no longer made. The second trip to the Kahler fire could not be made.

When the tanker was bought in 1943 the life of the truck was estimated at only three years, and the townships of Alameda, Aurelius, Ingham and Vevay chipped in only $150 each to pay for it. The Ingham County Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance company put up some money for repairs and for a paint job. The tanker was never reliable and it must be said that there was never too much care lavished on it. The water in the tanks was left to freeze once or twice.

In 1946 with the three-year agreement running out, no concerted effort was made for a new one either for the old tanker or for another truck. The 10-year agreement on the blue truck runs out this year. Probably that, coupled with the fact that trucks were scarce in 1946 anyway, kept the city and townships from working out a new agreement on a new tank truck.

The four townships put up $1,500 each for 10 years of fire truck service when the city bought the blue truck in 1938. That $1,500 sounds like quite a sum, yet spread over a 10-year period it is only $150 per year. With each fire run costing the city about $50, the $150 per year has certainly been a bargain for the townships.

A new agreement between the city and the townships is being worked out. People in the townships are willing to pay full value for the fire protection furnished by Mason. People here in Mason don't want to make any profit off fire protection given to the townships. Both parties to the agreement are more concerned with getting and giving the best protection possible than with seeing how little it costs.

The new agreement between the townships and the city won't be worked out for weeks. There may be a dozen rural fires in that length of time.

We suggest that now, this week or next, $1,000 be found somewhere for the purchase of a new truck chassis for the tanker. The tank wagon can then be taken to farm fires. That $1,000 may be saved three or four times over at one fire.

Perhaps the city can put up the $1,000. Maybe the townships have $250 each for the chassis. Or it may be that the hat can be passed among Mason business men and farmers. Yet somehow, some way, a new water wagon must be immediately placed in service.

Buying a tank truck now before a new agreement is signed for rural fire protection may sound like putting the cart before the horse. Actually, it is putting the cart with the horse. Mason is going to continue furnishing outside fire protection, and the cart might better be bought right now.

TOO MANY TEARS FOR TOO MANY TEACHERS

One thing wrong with teaching today is the continuous crying and whining over the condition of teachers.

Teachers are beginning to feel sorry for themselves. They are getting a martyr complex. Young folks are being scared away from entering the profession. They believe what they read in the magazines, that teaching is a poorly-paid, and overworked profession.

Sure, there are cases where teachers are underpaid and overworked, just as there are cases where bank presidents, bricklayers, farmers and store clerks are paid too little and work too hard.

All teachers aren't in the same underpaid class, though. By and large, teaching is as profitable a line of work as many others calling for the same length of training and the same working hours. All we have to do is to look around us. The salary schedule of teachers in Ingham rural and city schools is comparatively high. Teachers we know are well fed and well dressed, and they work no harder than many other people. They have summers off. They have frequent vacations throughout the year. Most of the teachers would like to have the public prints quit pointing at the teaching profession with scorn.

Magazines which use pages of every issue crying over the plight of teachers should be specific about the objects of their grief. Readers should be told the names of the teachers being cried over and where the schools are located.

A PROMISE OR A THREAT?

Constitution tinkerers are promising that the Michigan constitution will be streamlined, just like New Jersey's.

Let's see; isn't New Jersey where Boss Hague operates? Any constitution adopted in New Jersey must first have the approval of Boss Hague. It must suit him.

Is it a promise or is it a threat that Michigan will have a new constitution just like New Jersey's?

THIS IS BROTHERHOOD WEEK

Brotherhood week is another week now set aside for special emphasis. It is to emphasize tolerance among Americans of all racial strains and of all religions.

If by setting aside a special week better relations can be built up among Americans of all races and colors then we can certainly spare the week.

It strikes us that the best way, though, is to talk less about brotherhood and to practice it more. A man of a different color or a different faith may like to be told that he is a brother. He would rather realize it by the actions of those with whom he works and among whom he lives. Brotherhood week needs much more than lip service.

"Finishing the Job" Could Mean More Jobs on Patronage Counter

By Vernon J. Brown

One morning in January, 1939, just after I had assumed the office of auditor general, Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald sent for me to come to his office. When I arrived I found in the executive office, with the governor, Emerson Boyles, his legal advisor, since then elevated to justice of the supreme court.

Mr. Boyles had in his hand a bill which had been prepared for introduction in the legislature then in session. The bill was to be proposed as an amendment to the state land board act of 1937, sponsored by the sub-committee of taxation of the Legislative Council of which I had been chairman back in 1935-1936. I had prepared the final draft of the bill, had introduced it and after a lot of difficulties had finally secured its passage by the 1937 legislature. During that session I was chairman of the house taxation committee.

State Gets Land

It will be remembered that during the depression years, as a result of unbridled taxation during the 1920's, almost a million parcels of real estate had become so delinquent that reversion to the state seemed the only solution. In many instances accumulated taxes, interest and penalties exceeded the true value of the property.

The land board act and its companion measures offered one last opportunity for the owner to pay his original taxes without interest or penalties if he chose to do so before November 1 of 1939. If the taxes had not been paid at that date, the title to the property passed absolutely to the state. The state land office board was created to dispose of this property for and in behalf of the several municipalities and to divide the proceeds in proportion to their respective interests. It was an unique piece of legislation, placing tremendous responsibility on the members of the board to be appointed by the governor.

Governor Frank Murphy had been afraid to tackle the job and had refrained from appointing the board members. That morning in early 1939 Governor Fitzgerald told me frankly he was scared of what might happen and said to me, "This is your baby and I am going to lay it in your lap. I have told Emerson to draw up this bill. It makes the auditor general chairman of the board and authorizes him to appoint the other two members. It is to be introduced this morning and we wanted you to know about it."

Board Is Set Up

My reply to the governor was that as auditor general I believed I had a full-time job, yet I believed so thoroughly in the land board act I was willing to assume the chairmanship.

"But," I said, "you are the governor and you should appoint my associates." He insisted that I do nothing to do with it. He stated that already the pressure for appointments to the board was embarrassing him. After considerable argument, it was agreed I would be the chairman and the governor would be satisfied with an agreement that he would not appoint anyone not satisfactory to me and that I would seek two men for the jobs.

Mr. Boyles changed his amendment to agree with that understanding and it was introduced and in due course was passed by the legislature.

But Governor Frank Fitzgerald never had a chance to sign that bill nor carry out his agreement with me. He died very soon after that morning conference.

Back in 1936 when I was working on the bill, Senator George McCallum of Ann Arbor, chairman of the taxation committee of the upper house, helped me a lot. So I asked him to help me find an outstanding realtor from the vicinity of Detroit, to go on the board, to look after the distressed property which of the distressed property was located near that area.

I told Senator McCallum I wanted a man of outstanding integrity, one well up in the real estate business, yet one who had not been engaged in the speculation, for the other member I looked for a good lawyer located outside the metropolitan district, a lawyer of repute who owned real estate and who understood land values as well as the tax law.

Fred W. Greenleaf, a Ypsilanti as the real estate member, and A. Mustard, a lawyer, were selected as district governor of Kiwanis.

Lawrence Dickinson had succeeded to the office of governor on the death of Governor Fitzgerald and had retained Mr. Boyles on his staff. Therefore there was no hitch and before Governor Dickinson signed the bill he sent me to was brought home. He still can't be carried below the knee down and legs from the knees down are encased in concrete and both legs have pins through them at the ankles and knees. Earl thinks one of the pins is a railroad spike picked up at the scene of the accident.

"I felt sorry because I had no shoes until I saw a man who had no feet. It is a line in a current movie. There's quite a lot to it, Earl agrees. After wearing casts from toe to hip, it feels just like running barefoot in the grass when half the casts are cut away.

It will be several weeks, though, before Earl can be raised any more. Right now he is fretting over his flower garden. He's a great man for flowers and youngsters. On Sunday, as I was telling another neighbor about my visit with Earl, a child spoke up to inquire, "all they let girls almost five in to see Mr. Whipple? I thought that was about as fine a tribute as one could hope for."

If farmers want to take the rat census on the farm here is the scale worked out by expert rat scale enumerators at Michigan State college: If you never see a rat but see signs of rats and surface damage by rats, you have between 1 and 10; if you see rats now and then at night, you have between 100 and 500 rats; if you see rats every night and a few occasionally during the day, you are harboring between 500 and 1,000 rats; and if you see lots of rats at night and several every day, it's a safe bet you have between 1,000 and 5,000 rats.

Somehow enough federal money should be found for a monument to Marvin Gifford of Leslie. Back in 1932 while a resident of Rockford, he thought up a way to relieve the depression. He worked out the program and sent it to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. Here is the letter written to the inventor of CWA, sent from an executive mansion at Albany, and signed by Franklin D. Roosevelt:

"My dear Mr. Gifford: Thank you for your suggestion for the relief of the depression and also for your word of good will.

"It is my earnest wish that I may always deserve the confidence which has been shown in me."

Folks who like to play casino, euchre, 500, Pedro, pitch, cribbage, bridge, hearts, gin rummy, fan-tan, spit in the ocean, up and down the river, tank or take it, rounce or finch should reserve their tables now for the community card party and style show. It's next Thursday night in the Legion Memorial building. It's sponsored by the Mason Child Study club. Only blackjack and poker, both draw and stud, are barred.

The style revue is an added attraction. Three Powers models are expected to model the gowns. It's really going to be an unusual event for the Sycamore valley.

No political payrolls were built up. All its operations except record-keeping and supervision were conducted through established and licensed real estate brokers. Such is the record of the state of Napoleon. Howard McCowan won second place with "Spartacus" to the Gladiators. John Dart took third on "The Secret of Lincoln's Power." Curry St. George with "Death of Garfield" and Doris Harrison with "The Message to Garcia" tied for fourth.

Department Paid Own Way

Altho this has been accomplished without disturbing existing values in real estate and without cost to the taxpayers of the state, in accordance with the act, was deducted from the gross sales, interest and rentals before remitting to local units. And the total deductions to cover this expense amounted to less than 2 1/2 per cent of sales and rentals. Ask your realtor if this is a good record. More important than all else in connection with the record of this board during its existence, since November 1939, is the fact that not one word of scandal or one suspicion of graft has ever marred its record.

And what was the reward Greenstreet and Mustard finally received for all this meritorious service to the state? On December 1947, John D. Morrison of Marquette succeeded me as auditor general in 1945 and Muri K. Allen followed him when Morrison was kicked off the ticket at the 1946 state nominating convention. Both these men took keen interest in the land board operations and both praised the type of men with whom they were associated. Throughout the entire state nothing but commendation for the operations of this board were heard.

Agricultural Teacher

Accepts State Job

Elmer Lightfoot, for the past seven and one-half years a teacher of vocational agricultural training in the local school, has accepted a position with the state department of public instruction, as a member of the staff of supervisors of vocational agriculture.

Mr. Lightfoot takes to his new position much practical experience gained with close work among his students and farmers at large. He has never been too busy with his school work that he could not spare a little time to help some farmer or stock breeder with their problems. Adult farmer classes, as well as the young farmers' classes, have been opened during the past few years.

During his years on the local staff of the high school, the agricultural work has gained national attention, many of his farm boys receiving prizes in close competition. His agricultural classes not only give the farm boy a year of farming, but he went further, planning a long term project for them so that at graduation time they had the experience, as well as funds earned from their work, to fit them for practical farming. During his years here his department has given teacher training experience to 76 Michigan State college teachers in vocational agriculture, 46 of whom are now teaching.

Mr. Langdon, who joined the Williamston teaching staff last August will assume Mr. Lightfoot's duties at the school. An assistant agriculture teacher will be added to the teaching staff.

SUGAR BEET ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AGAIN?

Reenactment of Acreage Allotments on the Individual Farm Basis Appears to be a Certainty for the Sugar Beet Crop Next Year.

Provision for Allotments Is in The 1948 Sugar Act.

Actual U. S. beet sugar production last year was in excess of 1,800,000 tons, which is the annual beet sugar marketing quota under the Sugar Act.

If Michigan farmers individually do not maintain their production history by planting an adequate beet acreage in 1948, the allotments for their farms will be reduced and given to other farms that have been, and will continue to, increase their acreage.

Therefore, this year, 1948, each farmer should plant Sugar Beets to the maximum that is consistent with good farm practice. Doing so will accomplish these things:

- It will give him a higher allotment next year and in years to come.
- It will retain for him the right to grow an adequate acreage of one of the most profitable crops he ever has had in his cropping system.

Planting a good acreage this year is VITAL to the future of the sugar beet crop in the eastern area.

Sugar beets will be a high profit crop in 1948. The Sugar Act contains provisions for stabilizing the price. Based on expected sugar, pulp and molasses prices, beets testing 16 percent sugar should bring about $15.45 per ton. And that's not counting the feeding value of the tops.

Sugar beets belong in a sound system of crop rotation. Their deep root action improves soil tilth and leaves a residue of organic matter highly beneficial to following crops.

This year, farmers who know the true worth of sugar beets and the dangers of reduced allotments will not consider whether to plant—but how many acres to plant. Order fertilizer from your dealer now.

This advertisement is published in behalf of the sugar beet crop and all Michigan agriculture by the processor members of the

Insulation saves plenty

It's amazing—how much fuel money a house can waste. Heat going into rooms can leak out twice as fast as it should—through walls, windows, floors, ceilings.

That's why insulation saves so much effort, time and fuel. The cost of insulating isn't heavy, and you can do much of the work yourself. Best of all, the savings go on for years afterwards.

It's always time to fill any lack of storm windows, caulking, weather stripping or inside insulating.

play and helped with the narration.

Two families of children now attending the school are descendants of the early settlers. DuWayne Jenks is a great grandson of E. W. A. Morgan, who settled at North Leslie in the 1850s. Nancy, Jack and Eddie Hasbrouck are great grandchildren of Luther Hasbrouck, who settled near Leslie in the 1870s.

Stage properties and costumes of the early days are being provided by Mrs. Grace Tuttle Annis, Mrs. Nellie Moore, Mrs. Emma King, Mrs. Pearl Brownlee, Mrs. Cynthia Scott, Mrs. Blanche Jewett, Mrs. Kathryn Warner and Mrs. Hazel Monroe. Some of the properties and costumes were made by Mrs. James Miller, Mrs. Ben Long, Mrs. Morna W. Brown, Mrs. Blanche Holmes, Mrs. Florence Hasbrouck and Mrs. Doris Jenks. Alfred Wardowski and boys of the school did the work on the stage.

Among the exhibits secured for the pageant are old maps collected by Mrs. Russell Warner and drawn by Bob Hanson, relics of early pioneer life provided by descendants of pioneers, and a picture of Chief Okemos.

The program includes group singing led by Melva Wilson; fiddle, banjo and piano music by Frank Atwood, Truman Whitney and Mary Ryness; reading, "Pioneers" written by Edith Woodruff and read by Russell Warner; duet, "Whispering Hope," by Mrs. Virginia Johnson and Mrs. Ruby Price; musical reading, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," by Mrs. Rebecca Boyle Dennis, a teacher back in the 1880s, and Mrs. Anna Layton; and duet, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle," by Nancy and Betty Warner.

Nancy Hasbrouck and Dick Peat will be the narrators for the pageant.

Part 1 will depict the wilderness which existed in 1836. There are two scenes, a ceremonial Indian dance and one showing the dream of kings. Part 2 will show the arrival of the Armstrongs in 1837. Part 3 will depict the first school board meeting in 1845. It

Book Talk

From Ingham County Library

Hours open to the public at Hall Memorial Library, Mason: Every day except Sundays and holidays, 2-5 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, 7-9 p. m. During school year, Tuesday 12-1 p. m. STORY BOOK HOUR every Saturday, 1-2 p. m.

This is National Brotherhood Week, and it seems fitting that it should come during the Lenten season. Miss Dorothy Rozek, who is in charge of our displays, has prepared material suggestive of our resources and ones which seem particularly readable.

BISHOP'S MANTLE by Agnes Turnbull is also good fiction for the Lenten season. It is the story of a young Episcopal minister who has just been called to a large metropolitan church attended principally by the wealthy. Surrounding the church site are the church services are provided by the church. In an attempt to make his church a living useful one he runs into many obstacles, and although his personal life is made more complete by his young and very attractive socialite wife, that too, at times adds to his parish problems. Although the plot is not particularly original, and its conclusion is evident from the first, it is good reading and should be popular with many.

LEWIS AND CLARK, PARTNERS IN DISCOVERY is well worth anyone's reading time. Written by John Bakeless, himself a graduate of Carlisle Indian Industrial School, a soldier and scholar, he is well fitted to tell this story of two heroes who made much of our early expansion possible. Probably one of the most wonderful parts of the whole expedition was the fact that the two young men were able to really complement each other and that the men never felt that either one was in charge more than the other. Happily for both historian and reader most of the men kept diaries and it is on these as well as on personal visits to the scenes of the story that Bakeless bases his book.

The "burly" calls Alice Coppel, author of OVER THE LINE, a combination of Edgar Allan Poe and Noel Coward and that seemed an odd combination to us, and the Noel Coward part irritated us at first reading, but as the story unfolds, the fascination and horror of the old Poe story gains the attention. It is an unusual tale of horror and mystery and will satisfy those who like something a little different.

Leslie's Great Cage Team Victor Over Ionia 48-32

Big or little, they all look alike to Leslie's high-jumping basketball team. Last Friday night the Blackhawk triumphed Ionia 48-32. On Tuesday night of the same week Mason was set down 40-36. Both Ionia and Mason are Class B teams, but Leslie neither asked nor gave quarter. The victory over Mason gained added lustre because Larry Richardson, Leslie ace, was unable to play.

The Leslie team is one of the best the school has ever turned out, and that's saying plenty. In the past several years the Leslie team have won the Leslie county championship. During Dave Lattier's high school days the Blackhawk were always up in the running, and they had good teams before Lattier and have had some good teams since.

This year's edition of the Blackhawk is a fighting, never-say-die team. They met with only one reverse this year, a 45-31 setback at Mason early in the season. That defeat was wiped off the record by the Leslie victory in the return game.

Against Ionia Friday night Joe Shaw showed the way with 15 points. Art Vince added 12 and Richardson, back in combat again after nursing a leg injury for a week, came up with 10.

The two teams traded shots the first quarter. With the score at 14-14, Leslie stepped out at the opening of the second period and had the visitors down 28-10 at the half. In the last half Leslie out-scored Ionia 20-13.

Panthers Win Final Games

What Stockbridge has been working for all season came off Friday night on the home court when Dansville was downed 33-31. It was the first league victory of the current campaign for the Panthers.

Don Kipper was the hero. He pitched in the clinching basket from the corner late in the game. Dansville held a 7-5 lead at the quarter. At the half Stockbridge clung to a 10-14 lead. The Panthers forged ahead the third quarter to lead 20-19. In the last period the Aggies whittled down the lead and the score was tied at the auto-matic timeout. Kipper's fancy shot sent Stockbridge ahead to stay.

Kipper's total of 11 points matched the total of 11 rung up by Sammy Williams of Dansville. Leslie, the Panther center, made 10 points.

Powderville forged to the front the second half to put down Okemos 37-33. Okemos was in front 16-13 at the quarter and 21-20 at the half.

Charles Westin with 12 and Don Cheney with 11 points paced the Gladiators. Doug Richey with 12 was high for Okemos. Markwart added 10.

Mason Loses Out In Last Home Game

Mason high school again let a game slip through its fingers Friday night when Grand Ledge whipped them for the second time this year 26-23. Mason's offense was way off. Grand Ledge didn't have much scoring punch either but the Comets came through in the last quarter to take the lead and hold it with stalling tactics.

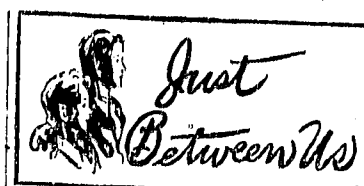

Mason will tangle with Howell Friday night in the last conference game of the season. The game will be played on the Highlander court. Mason turned the trick a few weeks ago but only after a hard fight.

Mason jumped into the lead against Grand Ledge running the count to 6-1 before Grand Ledge settled down and closed in to make it 6-5 at the end of the quarter. Mason's scoring came on two free throws and a field goal by George Whyte and a long tom put down by Harold Ware. Don Harley dropped in two long ones and Carl Holbrook dropped a free throw for the Comets.

Mason controlled the game the second quarter. Ware found the range from the center of the floor and dropped in three long ones. Jack Davis counted from the corner for the other Mason score. Mike Armstrong pushed in two field goals and Holbrook tipped in another to complete the scoring. Mason ended the half in front by the score of 14-13.

Mason was behind for the first time at the beginning of the third stanza when Tom Vandersteen tipped in a rebound. Mason didn't stay behind long though when Davis and Ware both connected to send Mason out in front 18-15. Vandersteen again dropped one in. Roy Johnson slipped in a free throw but just before the quarter ended Harley parted the meshes with a long one and the score was knotted 18-18.

The last quarter was a sad story as far as Mason was concerned. Grand Ledge ran the count up to 26-19 and then proceeded to freeze the ball. Mason never had a scoring opportunity until the last two minutes of the game. Davis connected with a corner shot and Windy Fell talked with a head shot but the final whistle sounded before Mason could close in any further. The final count was 26-23.

Everyone likes a compliment. The dictionary calls it an "expression of courtesy." And so it is. Wanting to hear nice things about ourselves is not necessarily a trait of vanity. We like to know the characteristics we have that make others feel good.

It's so easy to be critical. To see that John is an awkward dancer and forget that warm feeling you get when you see him being so kind to everyone.

Each person in the world has at least one thing about him that deserves praise. Even very homely people may have nice hair, a pleasant smile, a way of wearing clothes. But appearance isn't all that can be complimented. It may be an admirable quality, habit or form of behavior: patience, warmth in greeting people, courage, good humor.

Compliments are a form of compliment. You compliment your mother when you say, "Mom, that's the best apple pie!" Or to your father, "Dad, you certainly know how to mend ice skates." Enthusiasm should be a part of every compliment or congratulation.

"But," questions a young friend, "aren't compliments just plain flattery?" The dictionary defines flattery as "insincere complimentary speech; false praise." So the word to remember when praising anyone is "sincere."

How do you accept praise? Do you shrug it off with, "Oh, this old rag. I had it last year," or "Aw, I'm no Peter Lawford?"

Not accepting compliments in a gracious way shows lack of poise, and makes the giver of praise feel awkward and ill at ease. People with inferiority-complexes can be spotted quickly when you compliment them.

How should one accept a compliment or congratulation? The nicest and best way is simply, "Thank you." And say it with a smile. If you wish to add, "It's so nice of you to tell me," or "I'm glad you like it," all the better.

MEMO FOR YOUR MIRROR: Be generous with compliments. Accept praise graciously.

Sponsor Basketball Game

The Leslie post of the VFW is sponsoring a basketball game between the Leslie veterans' team and the Vagabond Kings of Detroit, to be played at the Leslie high school gymnasium, Tuesday evening, March 2. In the lineup for the Detroit team will be David Lattier, a graduate of the Leslie school, who has since been playing in professional baseball and basketball.

HIGH ? TIME

You, like a million others who'll buy a car this year, will probably spread the purchase price over a period of months... buy it "on time".

That gives us, as reputable factory-appointed new car dealers, another chance to serve you well. For the purchase price itself becomes a "commodity" when you finance. In other words, you've got to buy the money to buy your car.

And we... charged with a very real community responsibility... are honor-bound to make, in your behalf, the best possible financing arrangements.

We want you to know that we recognize that responsibility—and accept that challenge. We want to point out, too, for your protection that your responsibility for driving SAFETY demands that your car be mechanically checked regularly.

Our service department will be closed this Saturday afternoon only, February 28.
