

Bugs Attack Tree Crop, Too

Bugs don't confine their attacks to potatoes and squash. They attack pine trees, too. Farm Forester Elton Tworck has found the larvae of European shoot moths in Ingham plantings. In the picture Tworck is inspecting the red pines in the five-year-old planting on the Warner Pickett farm, near Stockbridge.

The bugs, which attack red pine and Scotch pine, are becoming common in the southern part of the state, the forester said, as many farmers are planting marginal lands to pine. Spraying with Black Leaf 40 and DDT the last of June when the moths deposit their eggs in tree foliage is an easy way to kill the European bugs, Tworck explained. Only a few will survive to lay eggs, he said, and the leaders they infest can be cut off. But if no campaign is waged against the moth the damage to the plantation becomes extensive, Tworck added.

Pickett has one of the best pine plantings in the county, according to Tworck. The Stockbridge farmer in 1945 planted Norway spruce which have made phenomenal growth. Many are now eight feet tall. Pickett has 2,000 trees on an acre and a half of sandy soil. He's raising them for the Christmas tree market.

Tworck is farm forester for the four counties of Ingham, Eaton, Clinton and Shiawassee. His headquarters are at the county extension office in Mason. He works with county agents and with farmers on forest problems, advising as to planting, woodlot care and the cutting of timber. Before coming to Ingham last spring Tworck was in charge of state forests in the Alpena district.

Trees are one of the most profitable crops a farmer can grow. On poor soil, Tworck declared, land which will not return a profit any other way will produce valuable timber, he said. And he stands ready to help farmers work out planting plans.

DEMOCRATS HAVE CLOSE RACE

Parr Leads Parks by 28 Votes

It will take the official vote canvass and possibly a recount to determine the Democratic race for prosecutor. On unofficial returns Lloyd D. Parr leads Jesse D. Parks by just 28 votes, and that could be changed in the disputed L precinct of Lansing's sixth ward. In that precinct the voting machine totals are fouled up, election officials reported.

Lloyd D. Parr

Parks emerged from Lansing with an 11-vote lead over his rival, 1,433 to 1,422. Outside of Lansing Parr picked up enough extra votes to forge ahead.

Democratic voting was extremely light all through the county. Even the campaign waged by Donald Hayworth, candidate for congress, failed to draw voters to the polls, or induced them to vote the ticket after they did not there. Democratic leaders are not alarmed, though. They expect to do all right in November when Governor G. Mennen Williams and former Governor Harry F. Kelly square away.

Unofficial totals by cities and townships are:

Younger Doubles O'Brien's Total

Only the Irish in Dunker Hill, Stockbridge and Leslie kept Paul C. Younger from making a clean sweep over John P. O'Brien for the Republican nomination of prosecuting attorney.

Younger amassed a total of 12,833 votes to O'Brien's 6,088.

Resigning from the bench of the Lansing municipal court, Younger went into the campaign for prosecutor hammer and tongs. Earl C. McDonald, assistant prosecutor, was the first to enter the race for prosecutor. When Younger resigned as judge, McDonald secured the appointment and pulled out of the contest for prosecutor. Then O'Brien jumped in.

Poultry Expert Is Converting Mead Farm Into Chicken Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Mueller of Detroit are changing the Doll Mead farm on Clark road just west of Dansville into a chicken ranch. They are now converting the barn into a three-story poultry house.

Production will be on both eggs and broilers, according to Mueller's plans. Leghorns for eggs and heavy breeds for broilers.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mueller are Michigan State college graduates. Mueller had a year at the University of Michigan and three years at Michigan State, graduating in 1949. He took time out to serve as a heavy bomber pilot with the 15th Air Force in Italy during the war. Following his graduation he spent a year in poultry research at Michigan State.

Mrs. Mueller is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Donnelly of Highland Park. She received her bachelor of arts degree from Alaiedon college and her master's degree in guidance and counseling at Michigan State. She has worked for the Detroit bureau of the Associated Press, handled public relations for the Michigan Heart association and sold radio time for WJLS in Lansing.

There are 99 acres in the Mead farm. Mr. and Mrs. Mead moved to Lake Lansing.

County Board Stands Pat On Millage Vote

Supervisors Turn Down Plan to Place Extra Tax On Ballot in November

Ingham supervisors on Monday turned down Dr. C. J. Stringer's plan to have the people vote in November on raising an extra mill in taxes. The millage would have given the county tuberculosis hospital an extra $230,000 for remodeling and building a four-story addition. The vote Monday was 24 to 8 against reconsideration of the same proposition which was defeated 19 to 12 at the August session.

The sanatorium now has $266,000. The extra millage would have provided $496,000 in all. On the original plans the construction would have cost $405,000. After the bid of $405,000 was received from Francis J. Corr of Lansing and the supervisors balked at placing the issue on the September 12 ballot, the TB board accepted a revised bid from Corr for $264,000 on a two-story addition.

At Monday's meeting of the supervisors Dr. Stringer submitted a letter asking again that the people be permitted to vote on the extra millage.

Dr. Stringer declared that the alternate plan for the two-story addition is only part of the answer to the hospital problem. He also sent along a letter written by Architect O. J. Munson of Lansing to Andrew J. Langenbacher, president of the hospital board.

Plans Can Be Changed

The architect suggested that it was not yet too late to change the alternate plan and to go ahead with the original plan, pointing out that the original plans call for surgery on the fourth floor while the alternate plans have the surgery on the second floor.

It would be feasible, the architect continued, to build the framework for the fourth floor, finish off the fourth floor for surgery, and leave the first three floors unenclosed until the voters pass on the extra millage or until other money for completion becomes available.

Supervisor Walter Munyon of Lansing, who is also a member of the sanatorium board of control, declared his board had not seen the letter from the architect. He pointed out that the architect's letter was addressed to Langenbacher and not to the hospital board.

Supervisor Arthur Stoppel of East Lansing, who voted against placing the extra millage proposal on the September ballot, made the motion Monday to rescind the denial. He told his colleagues that he had given the matter considerable thought. He explained that the people have twice voted in favor of the extra millage, once two years ago when a two-thirds vote was required and again last year when the vote was declared invalid because of a mistake in the wording of the resolution and in the ballot.

Stoppel insisted that the people should have an opportunity to express themselves. Supervisor Charles Hayden of Lansing, who voted in favor of balloting in August, supported Stoppel's motion. The two picked up only six other votes—those of Supervisors Hubert R. Bullen and Munyon, both members of the TB board, and Wilfred Fred, Fred L. Kircher, Earl W. Collier and Chairman Raymond Wilcox.

Standing pat on the action taken in August were Supervisors Lloyd Aseltine, K. C. Brown, Samuel Brown, C. G. Carr, Rima Dell, Bert M. Foote, Eno Helms, Burton Johnson, Hal Johnson, Glen Leatherman, Earl Leeman, Edward Lucase, Fred Marshall, Phillip Mills, John Patriarcho, Clarence Pufferberger, John Russell, Joseph Speers, Dean Taylor, Barr Twichell, C. O. Wilkins, Charles Woods and W. J. Wright.

At the afternoon session Supervisor Bullen introduced a resolution transferring $50,000 from the county contingent fund to the sanatorium building fund. The $50,000 was pledged back in 1947 and makes up part of the $226,000 building fund now available without the extra millage asked.

Dansville Marine Is Wounded Again

North Koreans have it in for Pfc. Roy L. West, 22, of Dansville. He was first wounded in action August 13. After a stay in a hospital he returned to duty. On September 5 he was wounded again.

No details were given in the telegram to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olin V. West, received from the secretary of the navy.

Private West enlisted in the marine corps in 1946. After his recruit training at Parris Island he was sent to Guam. He returned from Guam early in the summer this year and was home on furlough when he was summoned to return to San Diego. From there he left for Korea.

Willard P. Barnes

Republicans chose Paul C. Younger over John O'Brien for prosecutor, and Willard P. Barnes over Jack Lechler for sheriff Tuesday. Younger resigned as Lansing municipal judge to make the race. Ingham Lines Up For Harry Kelly And Vandenberg Ingham Republicans went along with the Michigan majority in backing Harry F. Kelly for nomination as governor and William C. Vandenberg for nomination as lieutenant governor.

Former Governor Kelly led in every precinct in the county except one in Lansing's sixth ward which went to Fred M. Alger, Jr., by 10 votes. Another sixth ward precinct is credited to Dr. Eugene C. Engel. This Vandenberg is a state senator from Holland and claims no relationship to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids.

Why Vandenberg swept Ingham every precinct but the proposed target, L. L. is credited largely to his name. This Vandenberg is a state senator from Holland and claims no relationship to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids.

Alger gave Kelly a battle in Detroit but the former governor kept building up a commanding lead outside. Dr. Keyes had some good spots although far from enough. He was soon out of the race as the returns came in. Engel made a strong showing only in his home area of Muskegon. Leith wasn't taken seriously.

Here are the Ingham totals for governor:

Harry F. Kelly	9,424
Fred M. Alger, Jr.	5,441
Eugene C. Keyes	3,256
Albert J. Engel	1,765
Thomas S. Leith	287

On lieutenant governor Ingham Republicans voted this way:

William C. Vandenberg	9,463
Harry Henderson	4,404
LaVerne M. Laubengayer	1,747
Dan Mills	2,363

County Pension Ballot Wording Is Agreed Upon

Ballot Will Not Include Estimate of Pension Cost Or Schedule of Benefits

Supervisors Monday by a 23-9 vote approved the form of the employee pension ballot for the November election.

A demand that the proposal as it appears on the ballot carry an estimate of the cost was turned down.

This is the wording approved for the ballot, "Shall the County of Ingham come under the provisions of Act No. 155 of the Public Acts of 1945, so as to make available to its employees the pension plan provided by Plan 'B' as established by that act?"

Assistant Prosecutor Lawrence Lindemer, president of the county employees association, said the wording is the same as has appeared on ballots in other counties. He explained that putting details of the plan on the ballot in a condensed form would either eliminate factors important to employees or to the public.

Duty of the Press

"It's up to the press to inform the public about the proposal," Lindemer declared. "The county employees do not intend to conduct any crusade for the plan. They are naturally for it and will ask their friends to approve it."

He said he drew up the resolution providing for the pension vote and suggested the wording.

Supervisor John Russell of Lansing declared that the voters will have nothing to do before them if only the brief statement drawn up by Lindemer appears on the ballot.

Lindemer replied that the pension act itself covers 20 printed pages, a digest covers eight pages. It would be impractical and confusing to place such a ballot before the people, he insisted.

The pension plan as it now stands calls for contributions from employees and the county at large. The county share will run about $50,000 a year.

Supervisors Lloyd Aseltine, Rina Dell, Burton Johnson, Hal Johnson, Earl Leeman, Fred Marshall, Phillip Mills, John Russell and Dean Taylor cast the nine votes against the wording of the ballot to be submitted at the election in November.

Barnes Defeats Jack Lechler In Sheriff's Battle

Lechler's Out-County Vote Fails to Whittle Down Lansing Lead of Barnes

Willard P. Barnes of Lansing won the Republican nomination for sheriff Tuesday. He defeated Undersheriff Jack Lechler by 765 votes.

The unofficial total stood at 9,845 for Barnes and 9,080 for Lechler.

Barnes, who is Lansing marketmaster, left the city with 1,373 to the good and Lechler was unable to overcome it. East Lansing turned against Lechler, too, and there were some bad spots out in the county. Stockbridge, White Oak and Bunker Hill were three of them.

Former Sheriff Hugh W. Silsby spearheaded the Barnes campaign in the Mason area. The undersheriff gained a handsome vote in Mason but he lost a lot of votes to Barnes outside of town.

Stockbridge, Bunker Hill and White Oak went into the Barnes camp. Lechler carried Aurelius by one vote. East Lansing doomed the undersheriff. Barnes carried all four precincts as well as three in Meridian.

In addition to the Mason vote the undersheriff has some handsome majorities from his home town of Williamston and from the entire northeast sector to save his wounds. Williamston city voters in a doorbell campaign gave Lechler 459 votes to 33 for Barnes. Lechler also went far ahead in Locke, Williamston, Leroy and Locke townships.

Barnes now must face Jack Herby of Lansing in the November election. Two years ago both men finished behind Sheriff Allan A. MacDonald for the Republican nomination. Barnes decided to have another whirl in the Republican primary this year. Herby accepted the offer of the Democrats for their unopposed nomination.

Enrollments Up In Rural Schools

There are 45 more pupils enrolled in rural schools this year than last. County Superintendent Alton J. Stroud announced Tuesday.

The increase means about half a child more for each of the 80 one-room schools. But it doesn't work out that easy, the superintendent explained. The increases are mostly in the schools which were already crowded.

Last year at this time there were 2,309 pupils enrolled in the 80 schools. This year the total stands at 2,356.

Mason Falls Short In Blood Donation

It might have been the weather or the excitement following the election. For some reason Mason dropped a long ways below its Red Cross mobile blood bank goal Wednesday. The quota was 87, a little over 50 pints were donated.

Some of the blood taken will be flown to Korea and Japan for army use.

The Red Cross unit was set up in the basement of the Mason Presbyterial church.

Those who offered blood included Miss Florence Fletcher, James Maguire, Raymond Marz, John Rose, Fred Earls, Arthur Hayes, Robert Ingham, Jr., Mrs. Paul Mudgett, Al Rice, Don Densmore, Paul Scherer, Mrs. David Bennett, Mrs. Charles Rich, Billie Ann Aseltine; Meredith Taylor, Clairmont Everitt, Virgil Hiatt, Keith Burrell, Frank Evans, LeRoy Saclens, Mrs. Harley Ankeny, D. Lindemer Has Lead of 3 Over Schepers in Race For State Representative

Incumbent Three Votes Behind in Unofficial Count, Strope Makes Strong Bid But Finally Pulls Up Third In Five-Man Contest for Second District Nomination

Lawrence Lindemer, young Stockbridge lawyer, holds to a slim lead of three votes as canvassers set down their figures. On the basis of unofficial returns Lindemer received 1,948 votes to 1,945 for Jacob Schepers, East Lansing incumbent.

Lawrence Lindemer

Just two years out of law school, Lawrence Lindemer of Stockbridge has a precocious hold on the ladder of political leadership. He has an apparent three-vote lead for the Republican nomination as second district representative.

Trailing by three votes is the veteran Jacob Schepers of East Lansing, who has been a county supervisor or state representative for more than 30 years.

Lindemer if he is nominated and elected will be the first Stockbridge resident to represent Ingham in the legislature since Athey A. Hall. Hall served 40 years ago.

Lynn Gardner of Stockbridge served in the legislature in 1924 but he lived over the line in Livingston and represented a Livingston district.

Aldermen Agree On Budget Items Raised by Taxes

At an informal meeting of the council Monday night Mayor C. H. Hall and aldermen reached a tentative agreement on the 1951 budget, or that part of it raised by property taxes.

The city has about $120,000 to spend. Sales tax diversion, intangible tax distribution, automobile and gasoline tax money and liquor revenue bring in about $68,000. This year $52,000 was raised by direct taxation. The same figure was agreed upon for next year.

Next Monday night formal action will be taken on the budget, according to Alderman John Taylor, chairman of the finance committee.

Here are the items:

County library	$ 1,000
City debt service	2,100
Street lighting	4,800
Fire department	5,000
Street department	10,000
Sewer	16,000
Police department	6,000
Contingent fund	7,100

While the total is the same as last year, Taylor explained, there is a change in distribution. Because of many new street lights added, the lighting fund was jumped to $4,800 instead of $3,600 as it was for this year. The fire fund was increased $1,200 and the street fund was slashed $3,500.

Campaigns Start for Candidates Without Opposition at Primary

Campaigns ended for many candidates Tuesday night when the election inspectors started to count the ballots. For others the counting of the votes heralded the start of campaigns.

Nine county officials were without opposition in the primaries. Seven Democratic candidates for county office were also unopposed for nomination.

County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard, County Treasurer Lytle B. Austin, Register of Deeds Elbal L. Phillips, Drain Commissioner Gerald L. Graham, Coroners W. Ray Gosline and Harry E. Leadley, and County Surveyor William C. Berryman were Republicans unopposed Tuesday.

C. LaVerne Loberg and Arthur Kramer, holding non-partisan judicial offices of circuit court commissioners, didn't even have to have their names on ballots Tuesday. There are two commissioners to be elected and only the two tied.

Governor G. Maurice Williams and Lieutenant Governor John W. Connolly were Democratic state candidates unopposed in the primaries. Both men have been busy campaigning, however.

Democratic county candidates who had no opposition at the primaries were Jack D. Hornly for sheriff, George William Patker for county clerk, Robert D. Brunson for county treasurer, James I. Mosher for drain commissioner, Dr. Gale H. Burridge and Dr. Robert J. Kravink for coroners and Arthur J. Faggion for county surveyor.

County conventions come next week. Delegates elected at them will meet in state conventions to nominate candidates for attorney general, secretary of state, auditor general and state treasurer to complete the state tickets for the November 7 election.

Grange Passes 8 Resolutions

Ingham county Grangers held their convention at the court house on Thursday, September 7.

Eight resolutions were passed at the convention and they will be taken to the Panoma Grange to be voted upon and then to the State Grange convention. The eight resolutions are: Restore power to F. B. L. state milk standards, gas tax financing, Branman plan, socialized medicine, killing roadside brush by spraying, yellow oleo, and taxing farm cooperatives.

T. J. Tinker of East Lansing, worthy master of the Grange, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Barbara Morehouse of Leslie, Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Wheatfield and Mrs. Robert Watkins of Capitol Grange were named to the legislative committee. Mrs. Claude Morehouse of Leslie, Burton Johnson of Wheatfield and Mrs. Claud Mixer of Capitol Grange were appointed to the resolution committee.

Members of the credential committee are Mrs. Wesley Brownlee and Mrs. Ortha Steffen of Leslie and Mrs. Burton Johnson of Wheatfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dexter of Williamston Grange were elected as delegates to the State Grange convention at Muskegon the last of October.

Mrs. Daisy Schiller of Bavaria, Germany, was a guest at the meeting. Mrs. Schiller told how she operates her 1,200-acre farm in Germany.

FORMER EMPLOYEE RETURNS

Mrs. Robert Thompson of Dansville, a former employee of the county extension office, has returned to work there. Miss Mary Hallenbeck, formerly employed in the office, has been on vacation and will now enter Western Michigan College at Kalamazoo.

Possom Unequipped to Survive State's Winters, Wayne U. Biologist Believes

Wayne University coeds Alberta Vander Wall (left) of Grand Rapids, and Judy Kilpatrick, Port Huron, part of a student group visiting an opossum haul, tease a frisky possum who refuses to play dead.

The Virginia opossum, long associated with the succulent southern dish of possum and sweet-potatoes, is moving northward. However, Br'er Possum will probably never establish himself permanently in northern Michigan, says Dr. Charles W. Creaser, chairman of the biology department at Wayne University in Detroit.

Br'er Possum fares best south of the Great Lakes region in the range from eastern Nebraska to New York, and migration to a more northern climate is bringing him troubles.

In this state his difficulties are due to two things, the biologist points out, after following closely the animal's efforts to make himself a Michiganander.

First, he is not equipped to combat extreme cold, though he can live through a mild winter in the southern part of the state. Second, he depends too much upon certain crops, such as corn, for his food. If

Lecturer Tells How Faith Works In Healing Sick

Archibald Carey, C. S. B., was the speaker at the Christian Science lecture given at the Presbyterian church Thursday night. He is a member of the board of lecturership of The Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

How to "fling aside the garment of heaviness, of sickness and sorrow and despair, and in the dawn of a new light to follow Jesus in the way" was Carey's theme.

"Today we can learn the same method that Jesus utilized in healing, and achieve similar results," Carey declared.

"Christian Science gives a scientific explanation of the Christian way that was taught and demonstrated by Jesus and his apostles," Carey asserted. "The discovery of this science is an interesting story. The discoverer was Mary Baker Eddy, a woman of brilliant intellect."

Her parents were devout Christians, and her intellectual attainments were balanced by a deep appreciation of spiritual truth. As she grew up and her breadth of vision increased, she could see beyond the narrow limitations of dogma and creed which would describe God as limited, changeable, and supernatural.

"She also rose above the scientific and intellectual bigotry which would describe the world as wholly material, ignoring the existence of such an essential characteristic of God as love. She could see no reason for the conflict that seemed to exist between science and religion. A scientific approach which was based upon an honest search for truth would find its goal in a Christianity founded upon an understandable principle, a principle which maintains and controls every fact and law in the universe."

"As Mrs. Eddy sought to understand the relationship that must exist between science and religion, an incident occurred which brought a practical answer to her questions. She met with an accident which was expected to prove fatal. She took her Bible and opened it at the account of the healing by Jesus of a palsied man. As she studied this, she was instantaneously healed."

As tangible evidence that Christian Science heals today in the way taught by Christ Jesus, Carey related instances of healing. These embraced not only physical recoveries, but relief from sorrow, the improvement of home conditions, and the development of ability to meet business conditions successfully.

"These beneficial results, the lecturer said, are truly scientific in that they follow the application of definite rules in the Science of Christianity."

18 4-Her's Visit Twin Lakes Camp

Eighteen members of Ingham county 4-H Service club took a week end tour to Twin Lakes 4-H camp at Traverse City. This camp is a district 4-H camp for the three counties of Grand Traverse, Benzie and Leelanau.

The main building is a very fine lodge dedicated to Judge Gilbert, late of Grand Traverse county who gave the 85 acres of land enclosing a lake to the 4-H clubs. This lodge cost about $30,000.

Ingham county members stayed through Friday and Saturday evenings. Friday evening they were hosts to the local 4-H older youth group. Saturday morning a business meeting was held. Friday afternoon they made a tour including Interlocken music camp, Crystal Lake, Glen Lake where they climbed the dunes overlooking Lake Michigan and Sleeping Bear Point.

Saturday evening a steak roast was enjoyed in the State Park at Glen Lake. Late the group returned to camp for games and square dancing Sunday morning, a short vesper service was held. Sunday afternoon the group returned home. Part of the group returned by way of Lake Michigan through Manistee and Muskegon. The group hopes to make this an annual trip.

Detention Home Needs Storage For Garments

A committee of the board of supervisors is studying the need of the juvenile detention home at Mason for a storage for clothing.

Supervisor Burton Johnson of Wheatfield told his colleagues Monday that the clothing plan worked out by Mrs. Paul Mudgett saved the county more than $4,000 last year. The storage is needed to reduce a fire hazard, he explained, and to more efficiently handle the clothing service.

In 1948 when the purchase of clothing for county wards was left up to boarding home mothers, Supervisor Johnson reported, the clothing cost for 325 children came to $17,787.02. In 1949 when Mrs. Mudgett did all the buying and bought in quantity lots, the cost of clothing 350 youngsters dropped to $13,656.08, the Wheatfield supervisor said.

Present storage facilities at the detention home include boxes and cartons, said Supervisor Johnson. He declared that an addition is needed in the basement or under the sun porch to properly care for the clothing and to reduce the fire hazard of storing garments in boxes.

The Wheatfield supervisor also asked the county buildings committee, which will study the storage plan, to investigate the building of fire escapes at the detention home.

CONVENTION DELEGATES

Chairman Raymond Wilcox of the board of supervisors and Supervisors Wary Vicary of Bunker Hill; Tom Deil and Ben Helms of Lansing; Earl Leeman of Williamston; and Burr Twichell of East Lansing will attend the annual convention of social welfare boards at Traverse City next week.

Land Developer Offers Acreage For County Park

C. Rowland Stebbins of Lansing is offering to give nine more lots to the county for park purposes. He gave about six acres in the Pleasant Grove area in 1942. The nine lots on South Catherine avenue and Fauna street adjoin the park.

There has been no development of the park. The only string attached to the new gift is that development of the park be started soon.

Stebbins' offer was referred to the roads and bridges committee which will include the project in its annual inspection tour next week.

In Ingham county the road commissioners also make up the county park board.

The road commissioners, key highway officials, members of the road and bridge committee, Chairman Hubert Bullen of the ways and means committee and Chairman Raymond Wilcox of the county board will be in the highway inspection party.

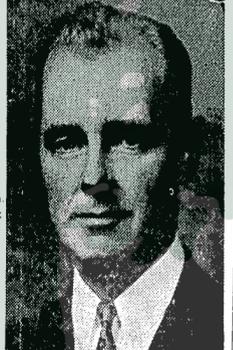

Norton Heads United Campaign

Wilbur H. Norton, General Motors vice-president, will head Michigan's third annual United Campaign. Norton will act as state campaign chairman and will guide Michigan's United drive for $1,818,083 on behalf of 23 state and national health and community service agencies.

In the Ingham county United Red Feather campaign, Robert E. Griffin, executive assistant to general manager of Oldsmobile division, will act as advisor of Section 1 of the labor and industry division.

W. J. Mahoney, personnel director of Oldsmobile division, and I. E. Hinchey, director of industrial relations at Fisher Body, are making plans to help direct the solicitation in their respective plants during the drive, October 5-18.

The United Campaign will raise funds to support all 47 services that now belong to the Community Chest after the recent merger of the Ingham County United Health

Wilbur H. Norton and Welfare Fund and the Greater Lansing Community Chest.

In Justice Court

City Officers Ken Merindort and Charles Hildebrandt arrested Edward Eissie of Fowlerville at two o'clock Sunday morning on a speeding charge. The officers claimed Eissie ran the stop sign at Jefferson and Columbia and then sped out on Okemos street at 70 miles an hour. Eissie pleaded guilty before Judge Adams and paid a fine of $40.00 plus costs of $5.55.

Deputy Howard Trapp of Stockbridge arrested Otis Collins on a drunk and disorderly charge late Saturday night and Clarence Fayette on the same charge at two o'clock Sunday morning. Both men were lodged in the county jail at Mason. They went before Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams Monday, both men pleading guilty. Each paid a fine of $5.00 plus costs of $12.00.

Walter Wagner and his wife Josephine and Thelma Bise of Dansville faced Judge Adams Tuesday. They were arrested in Dansville on drunk charges Monday afternoon. All three pleaded guilty. They each paid a fine of $5.00 plus costs of $2.40 and were placed on probation for six months.

Dansville Man Weds in Arizona

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ertel of Dansville have received the announcement of the marriage of their son, Robert Lee, to Miss Dorothy Ann Bursik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bursik of Rialto, California. The vows were spoken at Kingman, Arizona, Saturday afternoon, September 2, after which the couple left for a three days trip through the Grand Canyon.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ingham Township Agricultural school, Dansville, class of 1949, and has since been in the West, where he is employed as manager of the Culligan Soft Water Co. at Fontana, California. The bride is employed in Rialto at the Citizens National bank and the couple will reside at 330 Millard, Rialto.

Tossed Cucumber Costly to Boys

Four boys on Bellevue road are having to pay for a cracked windshield. They were fring cucumbers at passing cars last Thursday evening when one of the picker's hit the windshield of Clifton B. Harper's car. The cucumber cracked the windshield.

Sheriff's officers investigated and learned the identity of the boys. They paid up.

Boys are also paying up for windows smashed in the J. William Couch tenement house at the corner of Barnes and Edgar. The boys broke three windows, sheriff's officers said.

Officers have been at Onondaga and Kinneville trying to solve melon patch raids. Boys trampled many of the vines in raiding the Derwood Cary patch at Kinneville last Thursday night, and broke irrigation equipment in their raid at the Dean Hazelton farm Sunday night.

An Apology . . . To the People of the Mason Area

We are sorry to announce that the motorcycle races that we had hoped to hold Sunday, September 17, at the Mason fairgrounds will instead be held at the Fowlerville track.

THE TIME TRIALS WILL BEGIN AT 12 AND THE RACES AT 2 O'CLOCK.

Of course, there will be free parking, free grandstand, and children under 12 will be admitted free.

We sincerely hope that next season we will be able to reach a fair and reasonable agreement with the fair board so that our many friends and enthusiasts can enjoy the fine sporting events without driving such a distance.

May we see you Sunday at Fowlerville?

Sincerely yours,

Lansing Motorcycle Club, Inc.

Capital Circuit Ready to Go Friday Night

King Football will take over the spotlight Friday night in the Capital Circuit league. All six teams will take the wraps off their 1950 grid machines.

Mason will entertain St. Johns, Charlotte will battle it out with Battle Creek Lakeview, Eaton Rapids will play at Hastings, Grand field will warm up on its home field against Sixton reserves, Everett will take on a strong Inham squad and Howell will look horns with Ponton.

All Capital Circuit teams will have plenty of new talent. Both Charlotte and Mason, last year's co-champions, will field practically a new team.

Everett is the pre-season favorite to walk off with all the blue chips this year. The Vikings under a new mentor, Beau Shipley, are big, fast and experienced. Experience is what most of the other teams lack.

Shipley is not new to the Capital Circuit. He came to Everett this year after piloting Lansing Technical high school. Before the coach coaching job, though, he was head man at Grand Ledge.

Grand Ledge is on the comeback trail this year after hitting the slumps the past couple of seasons. The Comets are bigger and faster than they have been for some time.

Howell is the dark horse of the circuit. The Highlanders will field a new team that promises to give a good account of itself.

Charlotte has a lot of hopes to fill. Dan Brown will be missing from his customary spot in the Oriole backfield. The big backup has been the mainstay in the Charlotte backfield for the past three years. Jim Gammage is back at end though, and that is one position the Oriole coaches won't have to worry about.

Eaton Rapids was an on-again-off-again team last year. A good share of the Greyhounds will be back for action this year. Don Sent, a quarterback prospect at Mason last year, has joined the Eaton Rapids camp. Sent could be a big help.

Capital Circuit teams will all have two games under their belts before actual league competition begins. The first Circuit game for Mason and Charlotte will be the top one. Mason and the Orioles played to an exciting 6-6 tie last fall for the only blemish on the league record of the two teams. Both squads will be out to win this one.

Clardy's Margin In Ingham Fades

Kil Clardy of Lansing fought his way to the front in Ingham. But the battle went against him in Livingston and Genesee. Congress-nominated over Clardy with 6,700 votes to spare.

Clardy carried 56 of Ingham's 83 precincts. In Aurelius, Leroy and Precinct B of Lansing's second ward the two men tied. Blackney carried the other 24.

Unofficial totals gave Ingham to Clardy by 1,182. The lead stood up in early returns. It faded when Genesee returns came in.

Here's the score, with Ingham and Genesee complete and with 18 of Livingston's 19 precincts included:

Blackney	Clardy
Ingham 8,408	10,281
Livingston 1,695	1,024
Genesee 13,325	6,103
22,428	17,411

In concealing his defeat Clardy pledged to head every effort towards Blackney's election in November. He also declared that on the day after election he will launch his own campaign for nomination in 1952.

Genesee county Democrats doomed the congressional bid of Prof. Donald Hayworth of Michigan State college. Hayworth left Ingham with a 1,300-vote lead over Herbert W. Devine, Flint, and Russell B. Harrington, Flint. The lead melted in Genesee. Devine beat Harrington by 2,000 and Hayworth by 3,700.

Total vote was 8,257 against 6,134 for Harrington and 5,020 for Hayworth.

In Ingham the complete totals were: Hayworth, 2,518; Harrington, 1,093; and Devine, 1,020.

State Recruiting 72 New Troopers

Under authority of the legislature the state police is recruiting 72 new troopers.

Married men will be accepted. That's something new. Heretofore only single men have been accepted as recruits.

Recruits must be between the ages of 21 and 29, at least five feet ten and not over six feet four. They must be high school graduates. Veterans of World War II will have civil service preference.

During eight weeks of special training the recruits will receive $100 per month and maintenance. The 60 who will finally go on the payroll will draw good salaries.

The new class will start October 1 and applicants must file by September 26. Further information may be secured at the East Lansing police post or at the state civil service office in Lansing.

Motorcycle Race At Fowlerville

The Lansing Motorcycle club has switched races to Fowlerville Sunday which it had hoped to stage in Mason.

C. G. Spencer, president of the club, said he had tried all summer to secure the county fair track at Mason for races. Always he was turned down, he said, with the excuse that use of the track for motorcycle racing would ruin it for harness racing. With the fair out of the way, Spencer said, he made another try. The fair board cut the price at $200 and that was considered too high, the motorcycle club decided. The Fowlerville location is considerably lower, Spencer said.

The one trials at Fowlerville will begin at 12 o'clock Sunday, with the races to start at 2:30.

Alaiedon Voters Okay Cemetery

By a vote of 142 to 57 Alaiedon voters Tuesday authorized the town board to spend up to $1,500 for additional land for the Leek cemetery.

The town board has decided to clean up and maintain its cemeteries, using money from sales tax and intangibles tax distribution. The DuBois cemetery will be maintained, along with the Leek.

Around Aurelius

Worship service will be held September 17 at 12:00 a. m. with Rev. Gilbert Miles in the pulpit. Church school at 10:45 a. m.

Tuesday, September 19, is family night at the Aurelius church. A potluck supper at 7:00 p. m. Those attending are to take a dish to pass, own service and sandwiches. There will be special music rendered by members of the Scripture family and Rev. Miles has some ideas to present.

Episcopal youth group met Tuesday evening in the church parlors for a Bible quiz. It was conducted by Rev. Miles, assisted by Carolyn Dolbee. The quiz was held in Baldwin park last week, ended in a tie, with Rev. Miles accompanying the children.

The school enrollment for this year is three less than last year. The number enrolled in Mrs. Lorne Sims' room is 29 and in Mrs. Rene Cremer's, 27. The largest grade in the primary room is the second, with 12 pupils. The largest grades in Mrs. Sims' room are the fifth and seventh with six in each. There are 47 enrolled at present in all.

Two hundred and twelve ballots were cast by the primary voters Tuesday, September 11 at the Aurelius town hall.

Harold Ware Wins With Sizzling 33

It took two days of play to do it but the Mason open champion has finally been determined. In the first fight Harold Ware slugged it out with Ben Yates of Holt. The match was slated for an 18-hole but went for a total of 37 holes before Ware finally gained the edge.

The match started Saturday afternoon and after 21 holes the count was even. Sunday morning the two men shot even golf for 7 holes. Ware finally clinched the title on the eighteenth. Ware's total on the last nine was a sizzling 33.

Saturday 30 employees of the state were on hand for their annual tournament.

Hittle Returns

Senator Harry Hittle of the 14th district was confronted with a Vandenberg threat, John Roland Vandenberg of Brighton made the run against Hittle. State Senator William C. Vandenberg of Holland was also on the ballot. Some folks thought that U. S. Senator Arthur Vandenberg was running, too. Senator Hittle piled up a sizeable majority in both Ingham and Livingston counties but probably got fewer votes than as though he had been running against someone by the name of Smith or Jones.

Wheat Insurance Deadline Friday

Friday, September 15, is the final day on which applications for federal wheat crop insurance may be accepted for protection of the 1951 wheat crop.

Applications may be obtained from authorized agents working at the townships or at the county PMA office, according to Ralph Glynn, chairman of the Ingham county PMA committee.

Federal insurance for wheat provides the grower with protection against loss of his out-of-pocket costs of production for a premium rate of 55¢ per acre, Glynn said.

High Court Backs Bus Crash Award

Mrs. Grace L. Winslow of Eaton Rapids won out in a supreme court appeal involving $11,384.75.

She was awarded the judgment by Judge Marvin S. Salmon, who heard the case without a jury a year ago. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, against which the judgment was awarded, carried an appeal to the supreme court. The high court handed down its decision Tuesday, sustaining Judge Salmon.

Cleland H. Winslow was fatally injured in February of 1948 when his car and the VFW school bus collided on M-188 in a fog. Mrs. Winslow was administratrix of her husband's estate. She brought suit against the National Home, claiming negligence on the part of Mark Dillingham, driver of the bus.

The high court held that Winslow was driving his car on his own side of the road and at a moderate rate of speed at the time of the collision. The VFW had proved in circuit court that her husband was on the proper side of the road.

Gerald Evans Weds Marshall Girl

Trinity church in Marshall was the setting for the wedding of Miss Jehanne Modlin and Gerald W. Evans of Mason Sunday evening at eight o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Modlin of Marshall. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Evans of Mason.

Rev. John Knapp performed the single-ring ceremony in the presence of 100 friends and relatives of the couple. Palms, baskets of glad-foil and branch candelabra holding lighted tapers banked the church altar for the services.

The bride donned a ballerina-length gown of teal lace over tulle. She wore a matching Juliet cap and carried a bouquet of white pampas.

Mrs. Phillip Manino of Albion was the bride's matron of honor. Her gown of dusty rose was also of ballerina-length. She wore a Juliet cap of the same shade. Her arm bouquet was made of a yellow pompon.

Duane Evans of Mason was his brother's best man. Belmont O. Priest of Kalamazoo and Dean Maurer of Lansing acted the wedding guests.

The bride's mother accented her yellow wool dress with black accessories. She planned a corsage of bronze mums to the shoulder of her dress.

Immediately following the rites, a reception was held in the parish house. Mrs. James Alden of Kalamazoo cut the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Dunne Evans, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, poured the coffee.

Mrs. Evans chose a suit of plum wool with navy accessories for traveling with her husband to northern Michigan for a one-week honeymoon. She wore a shoulder corsage of white gardenias.

The newlyweds will make their home in Lansing, where the bride is employed in the traffic department of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. She graduated from Marshall high school. Mr. Evans, a senior at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, graduated from Mason high school. He served with the army medical corps in Asia for two years.

Guests attended the wedding from Lansing, Mason, Albion, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Marshall.

Helen Yuhasz, Stanley H. Carr Married Sunday

Mason Presbyterian church was the setting for the marriage of Helen Yuhasz and Stanley H. Carr, both of Lansing, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Marshall W. Simpson heard the couple repeat their vows in a double-ring service. Guests of glad-foil banked the altar for the candlelight rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Yuhasz of Mason. Mr. and Mrs. William Carr of Lansing are the bridegroom's parents.

Louis Yuhasz of Holt gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of light blue slipper satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in points at the wrists and a short train. Home Fashion Notes

Are you afraid of modern lamps? Most of them probably look very tall and extreme to you, but the idea the designers had has been proved worthwhile. That idea concerned the use of lower tables and taller lamps. This is a treatment anyone would approve of once tried, because it affords the pleasure of good lighting where it is needed.

No longer do you have the inadequate, poorly-placed light of a small lamp, nor the too high, out-of-reaching area light of a floor lamp.

You'll find many of the better lamps have three-way sockets and reflector bowls. These lamps really take the place of the old floor lamp as far as both general and direct illumination are concerned.

You will also find that the well-designed modern lamps are beautifully simple with gracious, flowing lines. A lamp that is modern only in color and material with frills, flowers, festoons, etc. fits neither into a contemporary or traditional room.

If you're looking for a lamp to enjoy for years to come, look for one with sleek, simple lines and colors that are complementary to your room.

We now have a group of lamps styled by well-known designers of the day. Each of these lamps bears the name of the designer. Come in, look them over during national home week.

Bulldogs Set to Bare Fangs In Grid Opener Friday Night

Coach Lou Lort is making the final adjustments on his 1950 Mason high school grid machine this week. St. Johns will be in Mason Friday night to give it its first test.

Mason will field a green team. St. Johns players will find few veterans facing them when the opening kickoff sails through the air.

Last week Mason scrimmaged Leslie and East Lansing. There were plenty of weaknesses in the Bulldog play. Defensively Mason has a long way to go. Both East Lansing and Leslie galloped almost at will. The Mason forward wall can be counted on to hold its own. The big question mark is in the secondary.

Wayne Every has been cracking the line in the style. Denny Stolz will lend some experience to the Mason attack.

Bob Jewett, lanky sophomore up for his first taste of varsity football, has been making Lort and Assistant Coach Don Carey smile with his home-jarring tackles and offensive play. Jewett will handle the Mason kicking assignment.

Mason will rely on a mixture of T-formation and box plays. Denny Stolz will do most of the tussling for Mason's passing attack. Jim Kelly and Jewett will be his principal targets. Both the Mason ends can hang onto the ball.

St. Johns has the same kind of an offense as Mason. The Red Wings are apt to fill the air with a lot of footballs Friday night. The St. Johns backfield is full of bucks that can pass the ball.

Game time is 8:00 p. m. Season tickets for the five home games went on sale Monday.

Alger, Jr., Dr. Eugene Keyes, former lieutenant governor, came in third, not too far behind Alger. Albert J. University Plans Orientation Week For New Students

About 5,000 new students—freshmen and transfers from other institutions—are expected on the University of Michigan campus for orientation week, beginning Sept. 18.

A full schedule of events is planned for the newcomers, including health examinations, aptitude tests, conferences with faculty counselors, and meetings with student leaders. Orientation will be climaxed by the registration period, Sept. 20-23, during which a total of approximately 21,000 students are expected to enroll for the fall term. Classes will begin on Monday, Sept. 25.

All undergraduate students enrolling for the first time at the University of Michigan are required to attend the orientation week events. Events which are open to all incoming students include freshmen assemblies at which student activities will be explained by upperclassmen; meetings at which students will hear from university officials about the functions of university offices such as those of the dean of students and dean of women, a tea at the home of President and Mrs. Alexander G. Ruthven, house meetings in residence halls, a party for men students at the Michigan Union and one for women at the Michigan League, and "church night" at which time the several campus churches will have open house for new students.

All new students have been divided into groups of 25 to 30 each, and each group will have an upper-class student as a leader. The leader will take the group on tours of the campus and will also see that members of the group meet their appointments for health examinations, conferences with faculty academic counselors, and aptitude tests. The health examinations are given by doctors from the university health service. New students also receive a hearing test given by staff of the university speech clinic.

Freshmen entering the University of Michigan in September include Fern Louise Owen, Mason, dentistry; Robert Clyde Campbell, Leslie, literature; Dyrick John DeWitt, Okemos, engineering; and Patricia Ann Corby, Williamston, literature.

School Enrollment Drops at ITAS

The total enrollment for I. T. A. S. for 1950-51 beginning the second week of school is 511.

Enrollment according to grades is as follows: Beginners, 45; first grade, 45; second grade, 33; third grade, 28; fourth grade, 33; fifth grade, 28; sixth grade, 37; seventh grade, 35; eighth grade, 24; ninth grade, 30; tenth grade, 62; eleventh grade, 40; and twelfth grade, 36.

This enrollment is a decrease of about 70 from last year's enrollment, due to dropping of the Smith district from the group of non-resident schools transported. A decrease in school age resident pupils accounts for the remainder.

This condition, however, is a very favorable improvement over last year's crowded school room.

Slagh-Miller Rites Held at Presbyterian Church

Miss Betty Irene Miller and Howard M. Slagh chose Saturday, September 9, as their wedding day. The couple spoke their vows to Rev. Marshall W. Simpson at the Mason Presbyterian church at eight o'clock. Three hundred friends and relatives of the couple witnessed the double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Floyd L. Miller of Route 1, Mason. Mrs. John Slagh of 624 South Barnes is the bridegroom's mother.

Baskets of white gladioli and branch candle-labrus banked the church altar for the candlelight rites. A bouquet of dahlias and gladioli was placed on the choir rail.

Mrs. E. G. Millard sang "Because" and "With This Ring I Thee Wed" preceding the ceremony. She rendered "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction. Mrs. N. S. Davis accompanied Mrs. Millard and also played traditional nuptial music.

Miss Audrey Ann Slagh of Lansing, the bridegroom's sister, acted as maid of honor. Mrs. Robert E. Ware of Big Rapids and Miss Jeanne Swaininger of Lansing served as bridesmaids.

Mr. Miller gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of candlelight slipper satin featured a chantilly lace bodice and hip pelerins with scrolls of satin. The long lace sleeves ended in points at the wrists, and the full skirt flowed into a cathedral-length train. A tulle of lace over satin with satin scrolls held her lordly veil of nylon tulle with scattered appliques of chantilly lace. She carried a styled arrangement of white rosebuds, calladium leaves and gardenias.

Miss Slagh's gown was of cocoa brown lace over matching faille taffeta. The gown was strapless and the matching jacket was made with cap sleeves and a horseshoe neckline. Matching lace mitts and a taffeta headress completed her costume. Her bouquet was made up of burgundy gladioli and croton leaves.

The two bridesmaids wore forest green faille taffeta frocks, styled like the maid of honor's gown, and matching lace mitts and headresses. They carried daisy-type bouquets, made up of chrysanthemums and croton leaves.

Jack Shafter attended the bridegroom as best man. Harold Ware, Joseph Johnson, Clarence Wheeler, Jr., and Thomas Wallace, all of Mason, were ushers.

Mrs. Donald Wightman, a sister of the bride, wore a gray gabardine dress and green accessories for the wedding. Mrs. Slagh selected a brown gabardine suit and brown accessories for her son's marriage. Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Slagh wore shoulder corsages of lily-of-the-valley.

Farmer Peck's Wife

School makes youngsters hungry.

Kittens don't have nine lives.

Count your husband first in counting your blessings.

Flowers can make friendships.

Every day at noon we have a little bear come in to eat dinner with us. As I drain the potatoes I can see it come skipping and running to get here fast. It went up the road the same way in the morning. It's really silly but the appetite and gusto with which she demands and devours instant food remind us of a real bear.

Sometimes she's cross, too, along in the afternoon like they say real bears are so she has to take a nap. That afternoon nap is as necessary around here as that cutting is. She surely burns up a lot of energy bouncing around enthused with every tiny part of school life. She cautions Susy to watch all the pets and especially the kitten so nothing will happen to it.

Cats may have nine lives but not around here. Of those nine kittens we had this spring there are only two left and one of those is too big for a little girl to cuddle and carry. Some got stepped on by cows, some run over, we gave two away and the one grew up. That yellow one from the Cooks. Now Susy sits by the hour holding and talking to this kitten when the kitten purrs away so contentedly with eyes shut and relaxed. It's a pretty good substitute for a bigger sister who marches away so proudly and sure every morning to leave her looking out the window as long as she can be seen.

Susy and I are having some good times together making cookies and sewing. She's such a good little thing and will sit engrossed with a bit of cloth and some buttons. It makes me feel happy to see her beside me. I guess she is going to be like her dad and Sally is more like me. I was hoping they would both take their dad's name and calm way of accepting life instead of jumping in with both feet and getting worn to a frazzle. Some way of explaining it but I guess it puts it as is.

When I count my blessings I put Pete first as a lot of us women do who need and look for a husband's restraint to hold them back from some pretty foolish and thoughtless moves. Now I bet that that is one of those statements that will look mighty queer in print. You get to lying along and put down thoughts that would be better off confined to your diary but that's column-ing, I guess. So much of your personal life and thoughts and feelings get printed that it gets to coming back at you in the strangest ways.

I was glad to see Opal and Paul at the Carr school reunion this year. I hope more of our gang go next year. You can think a lot of seldom thoughts sitting in the spot where you spent so many happy years. I wish Mrs. Payne would go as I haven't seen her in years.

Mrs. Earl Bryant, who lives on Willowbrook road with us four other families, went with me. She likes flowers, too, and we had such a nice visit about varieties, kinds, colors, the control of thrip, etc. We are going to go up to Jake's glad patch at Eureka some evening now and will stop and take her friendship. It's pleasant sharing this door yard where several tall growing waving plants about 15 feet tall. They were kiss-me-over-the-garden-gate which she said she could not find in a seed catalogue. She gave me a bouquet and when the seeds fall out I'll save them for some places I want to hide next spring. They really are an old-fashioned flower.

I'm slow in answering all those letters that have come this summer. I'm going to start tomorrow night getting caught up. You don't know how happy it has made me to go to the mailbox and get a letter or note or card backing me up on some thinking or disagreeing but having to smile at what we did.

I hope this column has made you see the happy side of farm life and to appreciate your husband and folks more, to live with your children and play with them, to put faith in Christ and take your family to church and Sunday school, to grow some flowers, to take an interest in 4-H clubs and some farm organization. Guess that's my creed. Wowie, ain't it a long one!

Eggs Result in Better Cooking If Used Right

From angel cake to zabaglione, most recipes call for eggs. Everyone knows that eggs improve the color and flavor of many foods, but do you know why they are used and how to get the most from them?

Two qualities that make eggs valuable in cooking are their ability to act as thickening agents and their ability to hold air in recipes. They will perform these duties much better if you know how to get the most out of them, advises Lois Jackson, foods and nutrition department at Michigan State college.

When using eggs for thickening in custards, sauces and puddings you can prevent streaks of cooked egg in the recipe by adding the hot liquid very slowly to the beaten eggs and stirring at the same time. This same thickening quality explains the use of eggs for a coating to hold crumbs together on breaded foods.

It is the air beaten into eggs, not the eggs themselves, that helps to leaven batters and doughs. This way of leavening foods is especially important in sponge cakes. The way that eggs are beaten makes a difference in the final product. Recipes give such directions as "beat slightly," or "beat until thick and lemon-colored." Here are some hints on how to get the best results from beating.

Take the eggs out of the refrigerator ahead of time so they can warm to room temperature before beating and they will give better volume. If the whites and yolks are to be separated, do so while they are still chilled. Do not beat eggs until you are ready to add them to the recipe.

To beat slightly, just mix with a fork, whether it is a whole egg or the separate yolk or white. To beat until thick and lemon-colored, use a rotary beater or electric mixer until the egg becomes lighter yellow and thick. To beat

Egg whites stiff, be sure there isn't a speck of yolk in the whites. Use a beater until the mass is stiff but not dry. The whites will form peaks that topple. If they stand up stiff, they are overbeaten and will not give as much volume.

When cooking cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower many homemakers end up with a lot less flavor and nutrition than they desire, says Mary Bodwell, agricultural economics department food specialist at Michigan State college.

Here's Miss Bodwell's formula for properly cooking these closely related vegetables now in the plentiful supply season in Michigan.

Cabbage can be nearly ruined with improper cooking. For best flavor, easy digestion and retaining most of the vitamins, it should not be cooked over seven minutes. Cook in a small amount of salted water in a covered kettle. When put into boiling, salted water and cooked quickly it has a pleasant color and mild, sweet flavor. Cabbage is our leading leafy vegetable in vitamin C content.

Broccoli and cauliflower also should be cooked in a small amount of boiling, salted water, only until tender and with the kettle covered.

If the broccoli stems are thick, it's a good idea to split them lengthwise before cooking. This will avoid overcooking of the heads in order to get the stems cooked.

All three of the cooked vegetables can be served in a variety of tempting ways. Popular recipes include serving with butter, cream sauce, cheese sauce or as a scalloped dish.

To keep the vegetables in good condition until they are used, wash in cold water and place in the refrigerator, either in the hydrator or wrapped in waxed paper. Cauliflower should be well-wrapped to prevent its odor from reaching other foods.

How about preserving for winter use? Miss Bodwell says that broccoli and cauliflower are both excellent vegetables for freezing. Cabbage is not well adapted to freezing or to canning except in the form of sauer kraut. Solid heads of fresh late cabbage, however, will keep for months in a cool, dark place. They are stored commercially for the fresh market the year around.

Food Hints

To Keep Pie Crust from Soaking For fruit pies, spread a little dry sugar and flour over bottom crust before adding fruit.

For custard pies, brush the unbaked crust with a little beaten egg and let dry for ten minutes before adding filling for baking.

Praline Crisps Left-over pie pastry can be used for these if desired. Roll out pastry, spread with butter and brown sugar which has been creamed together, sprinkle with pecans, cut into squares or triangles and bake.

Fluffy Honey Iceing 1 cup honey 1/4 teaspoon salt 2 egg whites Heat honey over boiling water for 15 minutes. Add salt to egg whites and whip to stiff foam. Add honey slowly, beating until frosting stands in soft peaks.

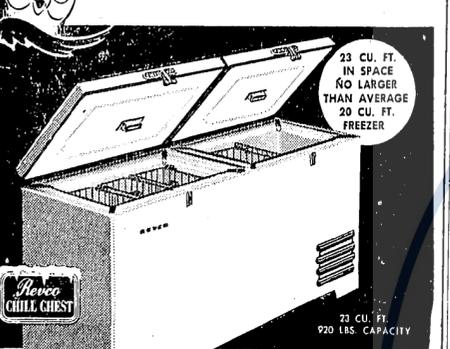

Left-Over Egg Yolks These can be stored under water in a covered jar in the refrigerator, or hard cook the yolks and press through strainer for use on cooked vegetables or in salads.

Arthritis - Rheumatism

Do you suffer the pains of arthritis and rheumatism? Do your shoulders, hands, knees, or feet pain you? Do you wake up mornings fatigued, actually more tired than when you went to bed? Do you feel discouraged and down hearted, as though it were all impossible?

Well, dear friend, I have gone through all of this for 12 years, with very little relief after having carried on a program of treatment which cost nearly $30.00 a month for several years.

During these last 12 months, however, I have found blessed relief, all without the use of drugs and at a cost of about two dollars a month. I cannot express my full appreciation for the marvelous improvements I have experienced.

If you will send me your name and address, I shall be very happy to forward to you information regarding the nature of the product that has given me such wonderful relief.

Arthritis - Rheumatism

Do you suffer the pains of arthritis and rheumatism? Do your shoulders, hands, knees, or feet pain you? Do you wake up mornings fatigued, actually more tired than when you went to bed? Do you feel discouraged and down hearted, as though it were all impossible?

Well, dear friend, I have gone through all of this for 12 years, with very little relief after having carried on a program of treatment which cost nearly $30.00 a month for several years.

During these last 12 months, however, I have found blessed relief, all without the use of drugs and at a cost of about two dollars a month. I cannot express my full appreciation for the marvelous improvements I have experienced.

If you will send me your name and address, I shall be very happy to forward to you information regarding the nature of the product that has given me such wonderful relief.

Democracy Must Take Time Out To Choose Men for Governing

By Gene Allaman
(Michigan Press Association)

A democracy must take time out, even from war, to govern itself.

Michigan voters went to the polls Tuesday to pick party nominees for congress and for governor and lieutenant governor. At Washington the house and senate were busy winding up affairs for a recess. "Politics as usual" is a periodical requirement in a democracy. That's why politics replaced the war headlines for a day this week.

Can Governor Williams, the Democratic nominee, win enough "protest votes" from disgruntled Republicans to win re-election? That's the new question being asked this week at the capital city in the wake of primary returns. Remember—Republican protests against Kim Sigler put "Snap" into office two years ago.

Michigan again has become the nation's No. 1 "hot spot."

General Motors' cost-of-living wage increase set into motion a long chain reaction of pay boosts in the automobile industry. Chrysler, Packard, Ford, Motor Wheel and other firms jumped on the band wagon. Economists call it the "fifth round." After each previous round, prices have gone up. Consumers then paid more.

J. A. Livingston, business expert, says: "Inflation, like a forest fire fanned by a favorable wind, has a

THE INGHAM COUNTY NEWS

Section 3

Two Are Added To Health Staff

Dr. George R. Landy has joined the county health department staff as school physician, and a full-time physical therapist will soon be added.

Dr. Landy is school physician, in charge of examining pupils. He was director of the Sanilac county health department before coming to Ingham.

The Lansing Rotary club will pay the salary and transportation expenses for the physical therapist. She will work in the homes of crippled children. Under the plan, treatment as prescribed by children's doctors will be given the youngsters, and parents will be assisted in carrying out home care.

Indian Scout Jim Bowie Hero of Fox Theatre Film

The plot of "Borderline," the Saturday feature at the Fox, has to do with a Los Angeles policeman who goes into Mexico for the Narcotics Bureau to uncover activities of a dope baron and who falls in with a top member of a rival dope peddling mob, with whom she starts for the United States as man and wife, burdened with a load of narcotics.

Pursuit by the other dope mob leader provides a series of situations complete with half's breath escapes for the couple who after falling in love with each other learn to despise each other before their mission is accomplished; the fact that both had the same mission to fulfill brings about a happy ending.

Fred MacMurray and Claire Trevor are the stars.

Western in Color
Universal-International's Technicolor western spectacle "Comanche Territory," co-starring Maureen O'Hara and Macdonald Carey, which will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Fox, adds the name of Jim Bowie to the list of Americans glorified on the screen.

The role of isovite, famed for the two-edged hunting knife to which he gave his name, is handled convincingly by Macdonald Carey, while the part of the beautiful and strong-willed young woman who might have become his wife but for the fatal intervention of the Battle of the Alamo, is in the hands of Maureen O'Hara.

The story opens with Bowie, traveling West in 1830, finding a gang of outlaws plotting to rob the Comanches of their lands, in a silver rush. Carey becomes the Indians' friend and helps them to fashion replicas of his famous knife.

The outlaws, led by Maureen's brother, beguile the Indians into turning in their firearms, then attacking them. Bowie and his friend, Daniel Seeger, Indian scout, aid the Comanches in the battle. Maureen makes a last-minute switch in sentiment and also joins the Indian cause, saving them from annihilation by rushing a wagon load of rifles to them.

Academy Award Director
Seven men meet their fate in M-G-M's gripping new drama, "The Asphalt Jungle," the attraction on the Fox screen Tuesday and Wednesday.

Directed by John Huston, winner of two 1949 Academy Awards, this realistic, pulse-pounding story of crime and punishment holds a with a sniveling bookie and an underworld genius at safe-cracking. It is told in brilliantly conceived camera terms and offers an unforgettable group of underworld characterizations in depicting the severest men who hold life and freedom cheap in their desperate quest for easy money.

Maureen O'Hara rebukes Macdonald Carey in this scene from the Technicolor production "Comanche Territory," coming to the Fox on Sunday and Monday.

Realistic Treatment of Crime Story

Sterling Hayden and Jenn Hagen try to escape a police dragnet in this scene from "The Asphalt Jungle" the Tuesday and Wednesday feature at the Fox.

Sam Jaffe enacts the notorious jewel thief who interests slick criminal lawyer Louis Calhern in a master-mind million-dollar robbery to take place in a large mid-western city. Jaffe and his accomplices, small-time stick-up artist Sterling Hayden and wily, hunch-backed James Whitmore, together with a sniveling bookie and an underworld genius at safe-cracking, plan and execute the daring robbery. Calhern is to dispose of the million dollars worth of loot. It is when the crooked lawyer plots with his pal, a disreputable private-eye, to doublecross the others that the forces of the law win out.

Double Feature
A love story of the High Sierras is developed in "Roughshod," with Robert Sterling, John Ireland, Gloria Grahame and Claude Jarman, Jr. in the starring roles. The film is scheduled for Thursday and Friday at the Fox.

Filed against the picturesque background of the Sonora Pass region along California's eastern border, the picture presents Sterling and young Jarman as a pair of brothers trying to drive a herd of horses across the Pass and at the same time avoid a trio of escaped convicts who have a score to settle with the older brother. The latter's romance with a

Fowlerville Sweeps Playoff For Tri-County Championship

Fowlerville left no doubts as to whether it was the best team in the Tri-County by sweeping the first two games in the championship playoff. The Merchants wound up the regular season on top of the heap.

The Fowlerville Merchants clinched a successful season this week end by taking the first two games of the championship series and in doing so won the Tri-County Baseball League championship. Fowlerville won the league title in 1946 and becomes the first team to repeat as champion. Chaska, Brighton and Webberville are the champions of other years.

In the first game of the series played at Fowlerville on Saturday night before a capacity crowd of 1,500 persons, Webberville jumped off to a quick two-run lead in the first inning when Norm Andrews opened the game with a single and Ron Stover blasted out a home run. Fowlerville came right back in their half to knot the count through the benefit of an error, a single by Stan Hyst, and two walks continued to take advantage of Toy West's wildness by scoring twice in the second on another single by Hyst, a base on balls and a triple by Carl Bowles. Webberville tied it up in the sixth when Sam Glover drew a life on an error and West hit one over the centerfield fence for a home run. This ended the scoring until the ninth when Webberville staged a three-run outburst. The game appeared to be safely tucked away but with one out in the last of the ninth, Moe Miller doubled, Zeke Vogt singled and Hank Green drew a pass. With the bases loaded, Marv Grosick popped out. Don DeForrest batted for Hyst and popped one to the third baseman but everyone was safe as Bernard Andrews' dropped the ball. Ferd Gillis walked to force in a run and Bowles singled to break up the tie.

Dee and Dale Bray have bought out the controlling Isbell interest in the Mason Elevator Co.

Incomplete reports indicate the 1949 county fair lost about $1,000.

10 Years Ago—1940
Governor Luren D. Dickenson won the three-cornered Republican contest for re-nomination. Attorney Thomas Read was a poor second and O. L. Smith of Detroit finished third. State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner had easy sailing in the Democratic primary for nomination as governor. He beat Eugene I. Van Antwerp almost five to one. Dr. Dora H. Stockman of East Lansing won the second district Republican nomination as state representative.

She defeated Harold J. Harris, East Lansing attorney, by 800. Congressman William W. Blackney carried every precinct in the district to win from David L. McBride of East Lansing.

Dr. Florence Taylor, Mason high school graduate with the class of 1910, has been made an assistant professor of education at Pennsylvania State college. She resigned from the Columbia University faculty to take the Pennsylvania position.

The army recruiting drive and the step-up in defense orders have not cut down relief costs. WPA is still going full blast and many more families are being added to direct relief rolls.

30 Years Ago—1920
Seymour H. Person of Lansing, backed by wet votes, swampered Hudson for nomination as sixth district congressman. An avalanche of wet votes in Hamtramck and the part of the district which lays in Detroit more than offset Hudson majorities in Ingham and Livingston. Person won in Lansing, Hudson carried Livingston and Genesee. Person won in Oakland.

Wilbur M. Brucker defeated Alexander Groesbeck for the Republican nomination of governor. Ira Rose, former A. & P. manager at Mason, is returning from Grand Rapids to again be store manager.

Charles Davis, Mason student at Michigan State college, has been named on the college dairy judging team to compete at the National Dairy Congress in Waterloo, Iowa, and the National Dairy show in St. Louis.

Mason water rates will be raised 20 per cent, the council has decided.

Arthur Zickgraf has the contract to partially complete the disposal plant addition at $14,950.

Donald and Ernest Hile of White Oak won first place at the state fair in Detroit with their farm crops demonstration. They were awarded a trip to the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in December with all expenses paid.

50 Years Ago—1900
The dedication of the new church at Eden will take place Sunday. D. P. Whitmore is building a stone walk at his residence on Oak street.

The West Holt postoffice will be discontinued September 15 when a rural free delivery route will be established at Holt. Ed Switzgabel has the appointment as carrier.

Meridian Station's hay house is rapidly nearing completion.

Mason is making big plans for the 34th annual reunion of the Ingham County Soldiers and Sailors association. It will be held September 18 and 19.

The Heritage We Talk About

Our children expect great things from us. They should. We received a wonderful heritage from our fathers. No generation has talked more or worried more about the heritage we are going to hand on to our children. And no generation has so wasted it.

Unless we act at once there won't be much of a heritage left.

We have squandered the inheritance we have received from our fathers. Instead of cash bequests, our children will receive tax bills for their share of the biggest national debt any nation ever attempted to shoulder.

Instead of an inheritance of opportunity our children will find we have let politicians and labor bosses shackle it with what they call security, the kind of security where youngsters must buck seniority systems instead of going ahead on their merits, where they must sign up for life with one firm or forfeit pensions, where they can move up a notch only when someone ahead dies.

Instead of an inheritance of liberty which was handed down to us our children may have to obey the orders handed down by UN or Atlantic Union.

Instead of being free to plant, harvest and sell, free to produce goods, and free to sell them in any market, our children will have to wait upon orders from Washington.

Instead of choosing their servants our children are quite likely to have to serve masters.

We have stripped the timber faster than we have replanted. We are using up the precious topsoil off our farms. We are exhausting iron and copper ores. To make a present profit we are jeopardizing the very existence of our children.

We have so watered down education that there is little nourishment left. We have passed so many do good laws that boys and girls are prevented from learning the greatest lesson of all—that of honest work.

A father who squandered the inheritance of a son could be brought into court, and he should be. There is no court to protect our children against the foolish acts which imperil a far greater heritage—the heritage of liberty and freedom which we have also hocked along with the jewels in our squandermania.

It's time we stopped to appraise our own inheritance and to see what little there is left for our children. It's time we made up our minds to gain some of it back, if we really mean what we say when we talk about our regard for children.

Citizenship Responsibility Is Continually Increasing

By Vernon J. Brown

Just being a good citizen these days takes a lot of earnest attention and considerable effort—and sometimes great sacrifice. Even with that it sometimes appears that just doing what seems best and proper carries with it its own penalties.

Take for instance the careful, frugal and motherly woman who presides over the average American household. She is confronted with inflated prices on about everything she buys for the husband and her children and not having as yet forgotten how shortages, rationing and price fixing and black markets took their toll in family living during the years of World War II, she is doing her best to keep the budget as full as she can. Her reward is to be called a hoarder.

Then take the fellow who heard and read about all the advantages to be had from keeping his name on army or navy reserve rolls or the one who read the advertising posters and the billboards telling him what a patriotic thing it would be for him to join up with the National Guard in his home town or having listened to the fairy tales told him over the various radio stations, all paid for out of his own pockets in the way of extra taxes. He now finds himself headed for a war which is not a war, just a police job, but nevertheless sent to Korea to be set up for a target for better trained and better equipped soldiers than he or his comrades.

Reservists Called Up: During the past week a sizeable group of Lansing naval reservists who served in the official World War II were called up and sent to Detroit for examination. Only two out of 77 were rejected and the others were loaded aboard a Grand Trunk train with a very short stopover in Lansing where their young wives and their little children were allowed brief minutes for farewells at the station before re-entraining for another brief stop before embarking for a trans-Pacific trip to the fighting front. All these men took their government at its word and in attempting to attain the standards set for good citizenship now find themselves torn from the arms of those they love and cherish, find their business futures imperiled, their jobs going to others and their whole life pattern changed.

But one does not have to be in the National Guard or the army or navy reserves to learn that war is war whether it be called that or by some other name.

I am thinking about a thrifty and ambitious young fellow, a good worker who had old-fashioned ideas about saving his money. This young man recently purchased a site for a home. He has worked nights, holidays and Sundays at building an attractive dwelling and has taken a lot of pride in what he had undertaken. The home was not quite completed when his number came up in the draft. All his savings are tied up in materials he put into that nice little home along with other money borrowed and which was to be paid off from rents from the place. He has even given time off to get the place ready for occupancy. He is now on his way to the Korean shooting fray which the authorities say is not war but police duty.

Wide Choice Offered: Just to be counted a good citizen is not easy either. Here in Ingham county the voter who this week went to the polls to do his civic duty was confronted with what some called a heroic task when he faced up to a ballot filled with unfamiliar names from which he was expected to select those he preferred for certain public offices.

But take a look at what the quarter million voters living in Wayne county had to do. There they were forced to make their selections from the same list of candidates for governor and lieutenant governor that we in Ingham had to choose from. But from then on it was a task indeed. In one congressional district 22 Democrats qualified for a place on the official ballot. Another district listed eight and another five. Forty-eight Democrats wanted to go to the state senate along with 23 whose names appeared on the Republican side of the ballot. Voters were forced to select 21 from a list of 200 who had filed petitions for the house of representatives in the state legislature. Eleven wanted to fill a single vacancy in the probate court. Thirty had qualified as candidates for the recorder court and 20 were available for a single seat in the Detroit city council.

Minority Candidates: The average Detroit voter does not attempt to vote for all places on the ticket. Probably not a handful could claim acquaintance with 21 out of the 200 who wanted to go to the state legislature. The careful and the cautious vote only for those they know or can learn about. That adds to the dangers of minority winners.

Whether it be for war or peace, doing one's duty as a citizen in these troublous times has become complex, confusing, unsatisfactory and downright annoying. It is not to be wondered at that one hears so much muttering and muttering and so many caustic comments wherever people gather. The public is becoming aroused. Some good may come from that.

Farm Page Editorials

Readers who like to work out their own editorials should turn to the farm page. There's an article there this week with a lot of meat in it. The moral is that sheep do better if someone shears the wool from around their eyes.

If sheep do better with wool sheared away from their eyes so do humans. That's why in this nation there should be a vigilant press and two strong political parties. They shear the wool away. Maybe once in awhile they nick the ears or gouge the neck of a few sheep, but they shouldn't put their shears away because of that. They should sharpen them and learn to use them more skillfully.

Guide On the Yellow Lines

Mason has adopted a sound plan in painting yellow guide lines at intersections. Drivers who follow the lines won't be cutting corners and denting fenders.

There has been an epidemic of crashes here in town as a result of careless driving at intersections. The yellow lines should lead Mason drivers to a better safety record.

Where Is Important Toc?

Journalism students are taught the value of w. A newspaper story should start off with at least three. Some authorities insist on five. The five are what, when, where, who and why.

Let's apply that to a fire alarm, say last Sunday's fire alarm which sounded during church services.

The fire siren was what, right then was when, the firemen were who, and the fire on Rolfe road east of College road was why.

But not enough attention was paid to where. Instead of heading south on US-127 to Rolfe road and then turning west to the fire, the firemen went northwest 2 1/2 miles on US-127 to the intersection with College road and then went 4 1/2 miles south to Rolfe road. Where last Sunday morning was five miles out of the way.

Luckily no damage was done by the mixup. It was a brush fire and was willing to wait until the firemen finally reached the scene.

Where in a fire is just as important as w as when.

Maybe what should be done is to blow the siren only long enough to summon firemen, not long enough to get everyone all excited and confused and bewildered so the trucks go in the wrong direction.

Storing Isn't Hoarding

People should not confuse hoarding with storing. They should shun the one and practice the other.

Hoarding is buying things you may not need just to make sure someone else doesn't get them. Being thrifty and frugal is putting by things you will need and which may go to waste if you don't store them.

This has been a good fall for peaches and plums. There are still canning peaches available. No one is hoarding when they buy and can peaches and plums. That adds to the food supply. It doesn't take away.

Modern house heating has interfered with storing fruits and vegetables in cellars. The time was when a thrifty family would fill a vegetable or root cellar every fall with enough potatoes, squash, turnips and apples to last well into spring. That wasn't hoarding, and isn't hoarding now. That's merely being provident.

People with rented frozen food lockers or with home freezing units don't need to have guilty consciences if they have a store of vegetables, fruits and meats laid by. Actually they are rendering a public service. In case of emergency they wouldn't have to depend on public agencies. Whether an emergency develops or not, produce stored in homes relieves commercial storage by just that much.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Final returns in the Presbyterian pregnancy contest came in last Wednesday. The score was 7-0 in favor of the girls. Four months ago Rev. and Mrs. Marshall Simpson invited six deacons and their wives to a party at the manse. All six of the wives, seven counting the preacher's, were expecting. The Hollin Darts, the Ed Murrays, the Marvin Lotts, the Harold Hosleys, the Bob Ingrahams and the Simpsons, all six couples had girls. Odds then climbed to 6 to 1 that the Dick Browns would have a boy. But they didn't. Nancy Joan arrived to make it seven girls from the seven sets of parents at the party.

The demand is growing that all seven girls be baptized at one time. It's a good idea, I think, and as one of Nancy's grandfathers I have given my consent.

Those who have seen the seven little girls are hoping that the deacons' party at the manse will be made an annual event.

There were six, not seven, vestal virgins, Vesta was the Roman goddess of the hearth. The Romans kept a sacred fire burning on her altar at the foot of the Palantine Hill. Four priestesses of Vesta, later six, were known as vestals or vestal virgins. They had charge of the sacred fire. Daughters of noble families sought the positions, which carried the perquisites of the choicest seats at the games in the arena. The virgins served for 30 years, 10 to learn the duties of the temple, 10 to perform them, and 10 more to teach them to others. At the end of 30 years a vestal was free to return to her father's house, or even to marry. The fall of a vestal from virtue was regarded as the most shocking of crimes and was punished with death by stoning or burial alive.

Although the signs read that only fathers and grandmothers are permitted to visit the nursery at St. Lawrence hospital, I had a look at the new granddaughter there. The guardian of the portals let me in as a grandmother. It was a great sight—row upon row of little baskets containing newborn of all sizes, shapes and colors. It's a mystery how the nurses keep the youngsters and their mothers straight—if they do.

A hospital door is an ideal vantage point for viewing human nature. For a half-hour while waiting for others in the party to come down I stood outside the exit. Some people would come out bubbling over with joy and high spirits. Probably they had been on the third floor to see the new mother and the new grandchild. Others would come dragging out the door, their faces showing gloom and worry. They hadn't been welcoming new members of the family. They had been watching some loved one getting ready to depart.

The saddest sight of all was that of a young couple who came out the door, the woman sobbing and the husband carrying a pair of baby shoes—about the size for a two-year-old boy. Was the youngster sick with some dread disease? Had he been run down in an accident? If the occurrence had been in a small town I could have learned of the tragedy. I could have shared in the grief. But in a big city like Lansing is getting to be, sharing of burdens is hard to handle.

Saturday afternoon I stopped at Palmer's orchard down towards Leslie to buy muskmelons. I parked behind a car with an Alabama license. Two young men from Alabama were stopping to see sights that Michigan tourist literature seldom mentions. The Alabama youths were walking through the orchard, marveling at the trees borne down by gorgeous fruit. They had never seen a sight so pretty, they said. They rated the unexpected view of the apple orchard as high on Michigan's lure list as the sight of the Great Lakes, the Soo locks and Greenfield Village.

Girls away from army and navy installations have to get their men between wars. The way young men are being shifted around in World War Two-and-a-half is going to make for another crop of out-of-state sons-in-law and daughters-in-law.

It was just getting so that local couples were once again reaching the altar when the new emergency arose. There's a flurry right now of those strictly local weddings; but it won't last. Soon boys will meet their girls in San Antonio, New York or San Francisco, and she'll remind him so much of a girl back home that he won't be able to wait to get home.

War romances work out just about as well as the others. Maybe because one set of in-laws at least is a long way off.

Thanks to Richard Whitmyer of Okemos for selling a sound Kalamazoo wood auto for a range so cheap and for helping load it. And thanks to Al Rice for the loan of his truck, Frank Rathburn for the loan of his stove trucks, and to Russ Huntington, Claude Cady and Dick Brown for helping unload the range, and then to Russ again along with Jack Scheller and Ed Hall for moving out the old range and getting the new one in and set up. Finally to Bert Royston for his carpenter work and getting the stovepipe in place. That news in the Ingham County News last week resulted in four offers of ranges for the Mason widow.

Book Talk

from Ingham County Library

Hours open to the public at Hall Memorial Library, Mason, Mich., 2-5 p. m.; Monday, Wednesday, Saturday, 7-9 a. m.; Saturday a. m. 10-12.

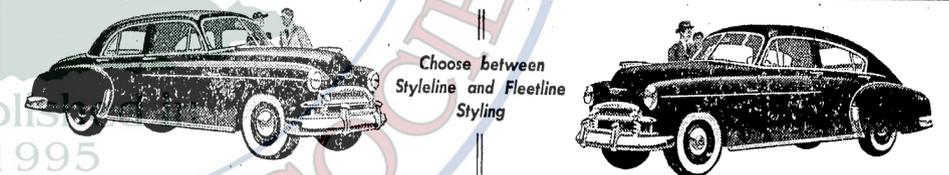

ANYBODY CAN DO ANYTHING, says Betty MacDonald, author of the best-seller, "BIG AND L." At least that's what her sister Mary told her and seemed to be able to carry it through, but not so Betty. Even though her father had been a mining engineer, that didn't make Betty a good secretary for one, especially since she couldn't transcribe her shorthand notes from the best stenographer across the street to do the job. In the midst of depression time, Betty came home with her two small daughters, and, with no real preparation, tried to earn a living. If you liked the comedy of her other books, you will enjoy this too.

SON AND STRANGER is a rather pathetic story of a middle-aged couple who go to visit the grave of their only son in England. Married, but not very close in their thinking regarding their son, they are trying to decide whether to move his body to the States or not. At the cemetery they find that others are interested in their son, and from then on the story progresses. Whether people would act as they do, we are not sure, but the philosophy of the story seems a sound one.

GREENHOUSE GARDENING FOR EVERYONE is just what many will want for the coming cold spell. Even though you do not plan to go into it in such a large manner, there will be ideas for the home grower, and the window sill planter as well.

300 PROJECTS FOR HAND DECORATING should be fun for the winter months as well. With Christmas present making in the offing, most of us are ready for something original and inexpensive to make, and this is full of ideas for both fabrics and metals. Applique on cork, painting on aluminum or copper, crayoning on wood for trays lacquer films, it's all here.

MURDER'S WEB is the mystery of the week. A body is found in the wealthy Overbrook garage and the lives of many people of the community seem to become involved. As the quotation so aptly says, "Murder does not stop hurting with one death alone. It is the people involved on the fringes of a murder who are the real victims."

Butcher Talks About Bankers

"Couldn't run my business if it weren't for my bank," he says. "I make my living selling meat," says August Bestedt, "but believe you me, I couldn't run my business if it weren't for my bank. I deposit my daily cash in the bank. The bank takes care of my operating money. I buy my meat—pay my rent with bank checks. The bank lends me money when I need it. "Best of all, I get real friendly service from my bank. I get it because banking is just as competitive as butchering. If I don't treat my customers right, they go to somebody else's shop. If my bank doesn't treat me right, I can go to another bank. "That all adds up to competition. I like it and I can't see how any business could get on in this country without the banks. I know I couldn't." This is another in a series of workday stories about people and their banks as told to the

Flower Show Is Big Success

Red Cedar Garden club held its most outstanding annual flower show at St. Mary's hall last Friday and Saturday, with an attendance of over 300. The standards set this year were very different than in other years as the club was trying to win a purple ribbon award, which is given by the national Federation of Garden clubs. Besides the flower exhibits, there was also a section for the educational and conservation departments.

The entrance portrayed the theme of the show "Fall Harvest" with all fall fruits, corn cobs, pumpkins and gourds. Among the arrangement creating the most interest was the shadow box of gold, featuring the class majoring in yellow, and arranged by Mrs. Lita Ingersol, consisting of yellow gladioli, cattails and brown-eyed susans. The table setting, winning first prize portraying a golden wedding, was arranged by Mrs. Alice Smith. The man's game table, arranged by Mrs. Jean Smith, used the hunting season theme, with a centerpiece of corn tassels, leaves, a pheasant and small squash and vines. This also won first prize.

Other tables of merit were fall breakfast by Helen Miller and the wedding tables. Only four arrangements were entered portraying a book or song. Ribbons were won by Nina Ketchum for "The Bible" and Clara Hathaway for "The Yearling". The conservation exhibit, by the committee headed by Mrs. McCornick, was a dump, as it was in former years and then as it is today. This arrangement was complete with bridge and buildings of the park with river flowing through the center of the arrangement. The educational section was very complete, consisting of a large tree with all sorts and kinds of bird houses, from an old shoe to an up-to-date robin house. Also on display was the cotton plant, raised by Dr. Walter Squires, and the yard long bean, grown by Mrs. Tillie Pratt. Of special interest to garden growers

Leo VanHorn, 85, was found dead in the yard at his home on West Grand River, early Thursday morning, September 7. He was a well-known retired businessman of Williamston. He and Mrs. VanHorn, who preceded him in death many years ago, owned and operated the VanHorn bakery on the corner of Grand River and South Putnam streets, moving into the building which was vacated at that time by the Williamston postoffice. After the death of Mrs. VanHorn, he devoted much time to the city's civic affairs, being president of the village, and serving for many years on the council. He was also very active in fraternal orders. Surviving are a brother, James VanHorn of Jonesville, and a sister, Mrs. Vera Rogers of Hillsdale. Services were held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Gorsline Brothers funeral home. Burial was made at Constantine.

Lightning Strikes Home

The Williamston fire department was called out late Sunday afternoon during the electrical storm to the home of Leon Preston on Rowley road, where the lightning struck, entering the house and burning out the electrical equipment, including the pump, refrigerator and radio. Damage was confined to electrical equipment, the lightning coming into the house on the wires.

Miss Darlene Gassman of Lima, Ohio, who has been spending some time with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Horstman, has returned home.

Looking for a Money Saver?

Better Buy Buick!

YOU CAN SEE here how smart it is—don't have to be told that it's the most quickly identified car on the road today.

You probably know that the engine under that broad bonnet is a Fireball straight-eight valve-in-head engine and a lively stepper in any company.

You can check the abundance of its room by the simple expedient of taking the family and trying out its spaciousness at the nearest Buick dealer's—and a very few minutes on the open road will satisfy you that all-coil springing, low-pressure tires and Buick's torque-tube drive really do produce a ride that is matchless for its soft comfort.

BUT RIGHT NOW, it may be that the money angle is the thing uppermost in your mind, and on that we'd like to make two points:

All our records go to show that this is the most economical Buick ever built. It is easy on gas, on oil, on tires, on upkeep.

And if you choose it with Dynaflo Drive,* it immediately eliminates all chance of friction-clutch repair and replacement—not to mention greatly reducing rear-axle and transmission maintenance.

Best of all, your initial outlay is a highly favorable one—whatever Buick you buy. For these brawny straight-eights—built rugged and solid for durable service—are priced at a level that makes them a standout buy in any price class.

Yes, better buy a Buick. Your dealer will be glad to demonstrate, glad to work out all the arithmetic of a deal. See him right away and get an order signed.

Interest to Farmers

THIS FARMING BUSINESS

BY CARL COLLIN

Looks like there would be plenty of turkey and "trimmings" for the holidays on the outlook for a large turkey crop. Now comes a report that the cranberry harvest is heading for a new high.

Massachusetts, which contributes about two-thirds of U. S. cranberry supply, expects to have a 600,000 barrel crop. Wisconsin, ranking second in production of cranberries, looks for a crop of 15 per cent over a year ago and 80 per cent larger than average. Growers in Wisconsin expect to harvest 230,000 barrels. New Jersey, third in production mark, expects to have a 27 per cent larger crop than last year.

If you want to take advantage of government price support on hay and pasture seeds, get in touch with your county PMA office. In many cases support prices are reported to be materially higher than the prevailing prices being paid farmers for their seed. Here are the support prices on a few of the seeds most popular in Michigan: alfalfa, 32¢ per pound; red clover, 35¢; sweet clover, 12¢; bromo, 14¢; and timothy, 7½¢. Prices are for clean, biggest seed which meet basic specifications of germination (90 per cent) and purity (98 per cent). Also there are premiums set for some certified varieties.

Be careful of poisonous gases in your silo. You can check the bottom of your silo by lowering a kerosene lantern or a candle inside the silo before you crawl in to clean it. If the flame goes out, you're pretty sure there's not enough oxygen. If the lower doors cannot be opened you can bale carbon dioxide out with a bucket that's fastened to a rope. It's heavier than air and can be baled out like water.

Here are two important dates for wheat growers in Michigan: September 15 is the earliest Hessian fly free date in this area. Growers in Gratiot, Montcalm and Newaygo counties shouldn't plant their winter wheat before that date. Some of the other fly-free dates: Ionia and Eaton, September 16; Clinton and Ingham, 17; Kent and Barry, 18; Ottawa, Calhoun and Branch, 19; Allegan and Kalamazoo, 20; VanBuren and Cass, 22; and Berrien and St. Joseph, 23.

In past years Hessian fly damage to wheat was considerable. But careful observation of fly-free

Farm Terraces Pay Dividends

Farm terraces have been known to pay for themselves in extra crops within three years if they fit into the farm program, states Leonard Braamse, Michigan State college extension soil conservationist.

Most Michigan terraces are built with the regular farm plow and tractor. Experiments in Wisconsin have shown that crop yields are from 10 to 15 per cent higher on terraced than on nonterraced land.

Terraces should be planned and staked out by trained persons, Braamse says. If they are well-planned, solidly built, and taken care of they will last indefinitely. In many places in Michigan, terraces are of limited application because of the uneven, short slopes. However, according to Braamse terraces have a place in Michigan farming under favorable soil and slope conditions, especially where row crops are included in the rotation on long regular slopes up to 10 per cent grade.

8-FOOT FIELD CULTIVATOR

FINGER-TIP CONTROL

Matches WD Tractor Power

Here's an outfit that's hard to beat for renovating pastures, alfalfa and lespedeza stands, for killing grass and weeds, and for tilling summer fallow land . . . in addition to seedbed preparation.

This 8-foot field cultivator is automatically controlled by the WD Tractor hydraulic system. Finger-tip depth control. Wheel spacing - easily adjusted with engine power - permits setting of wheels for stability and even penetration on rough or rolling land; reduces "gouging" and "scratching."

Compact design simplifies work in corners, small areas and right up to fence lines. Heavy-duty, all-steel construction.

Now you can have a field cultivator that is designed and built for modern tractor power. Stop in and see it.

Michigan has a good peach crop this year. In fact we have about the only good peach crop in the country. Usually the peach crop from the southeastern states offers plenty of competition to our crop, especially at the beginning of the season. However, this year the crop in Georgia and South Carolina was hard hit by late spring frosts. Georgia, for instance, shipped out only 1100 cars of peaches this summer compared with 3300 in 1948 and 6600 in 1947. Jack Selby, U. S. D. A. marketing specialist on the Benton Harbor Fruit Market, says that Georgia has a tree potential of 10,000 carloads. Jack worked in Georgia during the peach harvest this summer.

Speaking of peaches, there's an unusually long spread between the Hale Haven and Elberta harvests this year. Jerry Mandigo, fruit specialist in Southwestern Michigan, says he didn't notice any difference in the time the two varieties blossomed last spring. He attributes the lateness of the Elbertas to the cold dry weather we've had in the last few weeks.

Cold storage will protect germination of seed corn for a long time. Tests at Purdue University showed that seed corn grown in 1939 and stored under constant cold temperatures germinated almost as well 10 years later as did corn grown only the year before the test. Other seed from the 1939 corn crop kept in ordinary storage had long since ceased to germinate.

Any constant temperature between zero and 40 degrees F. is satisfactory. However, storage of corn at zero seems to be more effective. The seed should be dry at time of storage, carrying not more than 11 per cent moisture. It should be kept sealed in metal containers to prevent absorption of moisture during storage.

Of 200,000 to 300,000 known plants in the world, only about 250 are cultivated as sources of food, fibre or for economic purposes. There may be another 20,000 plants used to some extent in forestry grazing and as sources of drugs. But that leaves some 180,000 to 200,000 plants about which little or nothing is known. Plant scientists are exploring the possibilities of making use of more plants, particularly for improving strains of plants now grown for food and fibre.

The most spectacular plant exploration in recent years has not taken place in remote parts of the world. It has been in laboratories. Penicillin, streptomycin and aureomycin are by-products of plant life which were just molds a very few years ago.

Tired after a hard day, a distinguished congressman in Washington handed the menu back to the waiter and said: "Just bring me a good meal."

A good meal was served and the congressman gave the waiter a generous tip.

"Thank you, Sir," the waiter said gratefully, "and if you have any other friends who can't read - just send them to me."

FARM VALUES UP
U. S. farm real estate values rose two per cent in the 4-month, March-July 1950, period, according to a report by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Increases in 34 states ranged from one to three per cent in most states. Michigan's increase was two per cent.

Wool Over Eyes Keeps Lambs Lean

Shearing the faces of heavily woolled feeder lambs is a good management practice, according to Graydon Blank, extension animal husbandryman at Michigan State college. The shearing will increase gains in lamb feeding.

Lambs that can see readily, are better eaters, and will gain more rapidly than lambs blinded by excessive wool about the eyes.

Tagging lambs before they go on feed will make for cleaner, neater lambs at market time. Dirty lambs may be severely cut in price because of the increased shrink from the manure in the wool.

When done properly by an experienced shearer, the cost is more than offset by the wool received.

Wool Over Eyes Keeps Lambs Lean

Never open the housing covering the blower blade to unplug the blower while the machine is running, Steinicke cautions.

If you must be inside the silo - be careful. There is always danger of carbon dioxide, especially if silage has stood overnight or longer. It's a good idea to start the blower a few minutes before feeding the corn. This will circulate the air, removing the gas. Also have as many doors open in the silo as possible to get good circulation.

Dairy Prospects Bright for 1951

Prospects for profits from dairy farming next year are "good," farmers attending the second annual Michigan farm management tour in Calhoun and Eaton counties were told by Gerald Quackenbush, Michigan State college milk marketing specialist.

Quackenbush explained that a new all-time record in milk supplies was expected, but that higher demand would mean a ready market. Consumers will have more money to spend and less goods to spend it on as the defense or war program builds up and inflation increases, he said. They will be spending more for milk and other foods.

This is not the time, however, to be switching to dairying, Quackenbush told the farmers. Some of the other farm enterprises will have a profit advantage over milk production, because their prices increase faster during inflationary periods. Beef was given as an example.

The price outlook for next year, according to the M. S. C. economist, calls for slow advances in fluid milk prices and moderate increases for butterfat, with the largest increase due to milk for manufactured products.

Money-making practices suggested for the year ahead included full production with liberal feeding, and doing everything possible to save on labor costs.

Silo Filling Job Needs Extra Care

Silos have come to be important parts of many Michigan farms. Through the year they supply economical and nutritious feed. Silo filling time, however, calls for extra caution, says David Steinicke, Michigan State college farm safety specialist.

Danger starts long before the silo is filled. Several important points need to be checked before work begins.

One of the first is to keep the silo ladder in repair. Remove or cover the bottom steps to protect young children.

If there is silage in the silo, check it for carbon dioxide by hanging a lantern in the pit. If the light goes out, watch out! Also check the crops on the silo to see that they are strong, and not rusted.

Once started, be sure to have the shaft for the power take-off on the field cutter.

Be careful around the cutter at

Miller Holstein Has High Yield

Miller's Bela Bess Ross, Holstein owned by H. A. Miller & Son, Williamston, produced 654 pounds of butterfat and 16,654 pounds of milk testing 3.0 per cent in a 354-day production test in official herd improvement registry. She was milked twice daily, and was 6 years, 6 months of age when she began her testing period.

With 629 pounds of butterfat and 17,022 pounds of milk to her credit, Willow Hill Ornishy Belle Mutual, registered Holstein cow owned by Howard Barton, Lansing, has completed a 374-day production test in official herd improvement registry. She was milked twice daily, and was 9 years, 2 months of age when she began her testing period.

W. H. Freshour & Son, Mason, recently sold a registered Holstein cow to James E. Byens, Prattville. Change of ownership for this animal, Lymanville Parkfields Farm has been officially recorded by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The association issued 20,439 registry and transfer certificates to Michigan breeders during 1948.

Animal Checkup Due After Fair

It's wise to isolate animals that come back from exhibition at fairs until there is no chance they may have a disease, says Dr. B. J. Killham, Michigan State college extension veterinarian.

Though most county fairs operate under state regulations that require clean bills of health before animals can be shown, it is a good plan to isolate show animals from the rest of the herd for at least three weeks after they return to the farm. Then you're doubly sure no infection can be spread.

College Harvesting Crop of Bananas

Michigan State college will harvest its first crop of bananas in late November, according to Dr. William B. Drew, head of the department of botany and plant pathology.

According to Dr. Drew, about 11 dozen bananas will be taken from a dwarf banana plant, the first one of its kind to be grown in MSC greenhouses.

Among other tropical plants in the MSC botany greenhouse are ginger from the East Indies; vanilla from Mexico; Arabian and Near Eastern figs, and bamboo and sugar cane from Asia.

Farm Loan Group To Meet Tuesday

More than $2,500 in cash dividends will be distributed at the annual meeting of the Capital National Farm Loan association next Tuesday night. It is the largest cash dividend the co-op has ever declared for its 350 members, according to Hubert Bullen, president.

The annual meeting will be held at the court house in Mason, commencing at eight o'clock. In addition to the short business meeting a program has been arranged for the whole family. The highlight of the evening will be the appearance of the "Wacky Trio"—one of the attractions at the Lowell Showboat. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

This year has been an excellent one for the association, according to Bullen. The co-op, from its headquarters at Lansing, made 33 loans to farmers in Ingham county. The office loaned over $360,000 to Ingham and Eaton county farmers.

The association directors expect a large turnout at the meeting. All interested farmers are invited, Bullen said, as this is an excellent way of learning about farm credit and the work that it is doing.

On the office staff are George G. Greenleaf, secretary-treasurer; Anna Crane, assistant secretary-treasurer; and Paul N. Anibal, field assistant. The board of directors is composed of Hubert Bullen, president; Kenneth Powell, Webberville, vice-president; Charles S. Woods of Dansville, Julius Baumgras of Lansing, and William Lovejoy of Perry.

Stirring the milk with a rod during the cooling process may be introducing unwanted bacteria.

Don Murray, Michigan State college dairyman, suggests that tight covers and an occasional rocking of the can gives the same results as stirring and helps keep out bacteria.
