Navy Department Buys Dart Rules

Government orders calling for 223,000 Dart tape rules are making wheels hum at the Dart Manufacturing company at Mason. Most of the orders have been placed by the navy.

With the award of the government contracts, a supply of steel has been assured the Mason factory. The steel, however, is of changed specifications, calling for operational changes on the production line. New dies are being used on some of the processes. On Tuesday afternoon the production line finally swung into full speed on the huge government order. There is also a backlog of pri-

Following a lingering sickness, Mrs. Bertha C. Shafer, 74, died at her home, 218 East Maple, Wednesday,

For 17 years she cared for the old and the sick in her home. She ministered to them tenderly and faithfully, doing her utmost to relieve their pain or their loneliness, She was unable to relieve her own pain these past few months,

Mrs. Shafer was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fanson, She was born on Christmas Day, December 25, 1876, in Aurelius, the youngest of a family of six children.

After her graduation from Mason high school in 1896, Mrs. Shafer continued her studies at Michigan State Normal, Ypsilanti. She graduated from there and then became a successful teacher in city schools, On March 8, 1905, she married, George Shafer, After spending a few years on the Fanson farm she again took up teaching. Following that she returned to the home to care for her sister Olla and her father during their sickness.

Then for 17 years she took the aged and the sick into her home. Among them was her sister Edith. When she was a young girl Mrs. Shafer joined the Aurelius Baptist church. After her parents moved to Mason, Mrs. Shafer transferred her membership to the Mason Baptist church and was a member until her death, Mrs. Shafer is survived by one brother, Fred R. Fanson, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Clarence Lawton of Grand Rapids at the Jewett chapel in Mason Saturday afternoon at 2:00. Rev. Lawton is a former pastor of the Mason Baptist church. Burial will be in Maple tion is today, thanks to billions of dollars of American gifts, is at history's highest level.

Yet, the plain citizen of Europe is little, if any, better off. If people succumb to communism because of lack of material means, then Joe Stalin has won the battle. All he has to do is wait until Americans are bankrupt, thus unable to make any more gifts to Europe, and move in without spending a ruble.

Foster highlighted the problem saying it is impossible for the average man in Europe to be much better off unless European monopoly system ends.

European businessmen, he stated, do not produce to provide more jobs, lower prices. They combine to set prices, hold down production, and in all ways conspire to keep out competition.

Spenny Vacations

Obviously, when American bureaucrats consistently fail to enforce this nation's anti-trust laws, they are notoriously unable to sell European nations the evil of monopoly.

So the end will be the same. Regardless of whether American taxpayers are assessed 25 billion, 50 billion, or 500 billion to increase and carry on the Marshall Plan, the evil remains.

Blackmail is an ugly word. Yet t is the only term that fits many Marshall Plan gifts.

For example, ECA Bulletin No. 2 announces Tito's Yugoslavia has just been given another $5,707,000 worth of iron, steel, aluminum, tinplate and other scarce materials, for a total allocation to date of more than 27 million dollars.

No one disputes that Tito's Yugosavia is as communistic as any country can ever be. The only difference is that Tito and Joe are presently not on speaking terms. As long as Tito can fleece the American taxpayers by not speaking to him, Joe probably feels silence is golden.

* * *
Over a hundred years ago, when the nation had a tiny navy, the answer to another gang of pirates, located on the Barbary Coast was "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

And there's the tragedy of America in 1951.

Today, monopolies and many in government would rather bankrupt the entire nation, detroy the entire American system, pile on tax after tax, commit American lives, than go back to the basic fundamentals which made the nation great.

Both coverages all in one policy, one agent, one company, prompt service. If your house does not have $1,000 per room insurance plus $500 for bath and $500 for basement, you are probably under-insured. If your, house is less than 10 years old you should carry $2,000 per room insurance. The Farm Owners Mutual Insurance company specializes. in more coverage per building than allowed by most companies, and they pay 100 cents on the $1.00 insurance up to the value of property lost. Remember: today it costs about $10,000 to $15,-000 for a 4-room bungalow. If you have a partial fire loss, you have to pay the same cost to make repairs that it would take to build, a new house.

SHOOTS TO S

By Richard Hill Wilkinson ON THE MORNING of Aug 4th, Sandra Hunter glanced through her bedroom window and saw a strange spectacle. Between the great while house and the street was a wide expanse of lawn, and this lawn was at present occupied by a young man pushing a lawn-end and that the servants were in the rear of the house. By the time she had dressed and ventured outdoors, the young man had finished his mowing and was resting in the shade of the veranda.

"Will you kindly explain what this is all about?" said Sandra. "I just mowed your lawn as it should be mowed."

"Should be mowed?" Sandra puckered up her brow, "What do you mean, 'should be mowed'? Who are you? And where is Rufus, our gardener?"

"I'm Jerry Leonard, I bribed your gardener this morning to let me mow your lawn. You see, I have to drive by your house every morning on my way to work, and every morning I've noticed that Rufus cuts the lawn unevenly."

"Well of all things!" "Besides, I've been wanting to meet you since last June."

"Meet me?" "Yes. My mother and I moved into the old Saunders place last June and, the day after, I saw you and decided I had to meet you. I noticed your lawn and thought of the idea of bribing Rufus. It was like killing two birds with one stone." He grinned. "I knew your father and mother were going to be awav." "Why, the very idea! I-I can't believe you're serious." Jerry Leonard scratched his head. "I was never more serious in my life. Shucks! I'm sorry if you feel the way you look."

"The way I look!" Sandra began to wonder how she did look. A dozen retorts came to mind bu they all seemed flat and inadequate, almost silly. She hesitated for a instant longer and then turned abruptly and strode back to the house.

Jerry Leonard watched her gu and into his face there came a look of disappointment.

THROUGHOUT the day Jerry was conscious of a forlorn misery All his carefully formed plans had proved fruitless. At 5 o'clock he drove home via a route that did not take him past the Hunter estate Leaving his coupe outside in the drive he entered the cottage by the rear door and found a note on the kitchen table, left there by his mother, which advised him that she had gone to a church supper and that if he didn't want to come tor he'd find some warmed-over things in the oven. Jerry moodily ate the warmed over things and afterward stepped outside to smoke a cigarette. He was about to ease himself comfort ably onto the doorstep when he chanced to glance toward the drive He blinked, rubbed his eyes, swal lowed. "What the devil!" he said As he approached, the girl who had been washing the automobile's wheels straightened up and stood off survey her work. It was Sandra Hunter. "What the dickens," said Jerry

"are you up to?" "Oh," she said, "Hello." She gestured toward the coupe. "Dirty wheels. Been getting on my nerves for weeks,"

"Wha-what?" said Jerry. "I've noticed you driving by every day from my bedroom window. Rest of the car looks fine, but you always seem to forget the wheels. Very an

"No," said Sandra. "I've been hoping you'd speak to me for ever so long, but you gave the impression of being well, rather high hat. This seemed like a logical method to promote friendly relations," she grinned. "You see, I knew your mother was away."

CUTTING GUIDE FOR LAYER CAKES By Marguerite Mickelsen

There is a satisfactory method of cutting each kind of cake. The factors to keep in mind are the size and number of sorvings and the cutting utensil to be used. The size and number of servings depend upon the size and number of layers in the cake. A knife with a sharp straight-edged, thin blade is most suitable for cutting batter cakes, To make a clean cut, dip the blade into warm water before cutting each portion and keep the blade free from frosting and cake crumbs, The following diagrams illustrate methods of cutting cakes of various sizes other than the small ones which are cut from the center to the outside edge. The average number of servings per cake are given.

RUSSIANS USE RADIO IN ROUND-UP - According to the caption accompanying the Soviet-released photo above, Russian shepherds use methods just as modern as those of flock watchers in the Western world. Equipped with radio communications, these Daghestan shepherds check with headquarters as they move their flocks from the lowlands to the higher regions of the Caucasus. It can be noted, however, that none of the sheep wear headphones.

"I SCREAM, YOU SCREAM . . . FOR ICE CREAM"—Twin girls, a pair of slippery hands, and two ornery ice cream cones set the stage for a double tragedy at New York City's Rockaway Beach. Quicker than you can say pistachio, Margaret and Duanne Edge dropped their cones. Both ice cream and the hearts of bystanders melted as the tots sat-and bawled.

CHILL IS RED-HOT

Chili was extra hot at the Lehman dinner table Saturday night Mrs. Wilma Lehman forgot to turn her stove off while she went to the country for raspberries Saturday afternoon. The chili burned to i crisp. Don Willett discovered the smudge while delivering groceries to the Lehman home. He turned in the fire alarm. The chili was in a chicken fryer and that was ruined, but no damage was done to the house, Mrs. Lehman said.

Improperly cured hay in barns the main cause of some 20,000 barn fires in the United States each year. Make sure it's dry enough to put in, then check it for heating to prevent ruined hay and possibly a bad fire.

Qualified For Service

· BEFORE being granted a license to practice, every funeral director must meet certain standards of education and professional profieiency — and finally a state license examination. This is your assurance that we are qualified to serve you. Beyond this, however, is our sincere desire to help - not only as professional men but as your neighbors.

"... the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." (John 4:15.) Read John

A middle-aged woman disabled by illness once had a friend to call on her. Hoping to say something that would comfort the invalid woman, her friend remarked casually, "Illness does so color life, doesn't it, dear?" To which her homebound friend promptly replied: "Yes, and I propose to

One of the conclusions we can draw about life is that the art of living well is not the same as the art of well living. The former refers to the standard of living as related to the body and its comforts. The latter refers to soul growth and spiritual enrichment of heart and mind.

As for the invalid woman, she had learned, despite her affliction, the art of spiritual living. She did not choose the white flag of surrender, nor the blackness of despair, but rather the crimson badge of faith. She had tapped the spiritual fountain, which became for her a well of living water springing up, springing up even into everlasting life.

Eternal Father, through Thy Son, Jesus, Thou hast revealed Thyto the children of men. Thou art near to us. We look triumphantly at life, for we see it in the spirit that faith in Thy Son gives us. We pray in our blessed Saviour's name. Amen.

Needle Needles Dog

A dog and his owner in

Swanbourne, West Australia, found out the hard way that lockjaw can be contracted without stepping on a rusty nail. The dog developed this disease-scientists call it tetanus-after swallowing a sewing needle that someone had dropped on the ground. Tetanus is caused by a sporeforming germ that lives in the soil, which explains how the needle picked up the germ and transferred it to the dog's body. Recovery was prompt veterinarians administered drug treatment and extracted the needle, which had punctured the stomach.

Politicians Don't Serve 565 Years

Had Robert Bohr been as generous with public funds as he was with private funds he would hold high government of-1 44 1 112

As it is, he is facing 565 years in prison, according to the daily press,

Bohr stands accused of being too gen-'erous with loans at the Westphalia State mand the same kind of integrity in public bank. He has been indicted by a federal grand jury because as cashier he didn't have the heart to turn down a loan, Bohr's generosity cost the bank about $400,000. To bank examiners who discovered the shortage, Cashier Bohr said, "I just didn't have the heart to turn the customers down.'

Overdrafts ranged from $500 to $134,-000, the bank examiners reported.

"I felt sorry for the folks," Bohr explained. "I knew all of them and I was sure they'd pay back the money eventual-

The bank failed a year ago and Bohr faces 113 federal counts. If convicted on all he'd be required to serve 565 years in prison.

Yet had Bohr gone on to bigger things, such as handing out RFC loans, he might now hold cabinet rank. Had he developed his technique far enough he could have won a chance at being a war contract expediter. Could he have learned to use other people's money, Bohr might have been taken on as a federal pump-primer.

But Bohr's lack of judgment broke the Westphalia bank, people say. It sure did, But not any more broke than the United States economy will become if the same fiscal policies now in force are long con-

There lies our trouble. We don't debusiness that we do in private affairs. We still look askance at lack of judgment in private affairs. In public affairs we vote for the man who promises to shovel out federal funds. Because Bohr was generous with other people's money he is in federal court, and he should be. Right along beside him should stand the federal, state and local officials who have used even poorer judgment than Bohr in squandering money. Because Bohr thought the bank loans would be repaid. Public officials infected with squandermania don't even want the money back.

Squanderers of private funds must answer for it. We not only let off the squanderers of public funds from answering in court, we perpetuate them in office.

Politicians who squander public funds aren't faced with prison terms adding up to 565 years. They and their friends are usually rewarded with an aggregate of 565 years in public office.

Frugality in public office has ceased to two hands instead of one in passing out be a virtue. Little wonder that the same lack of thrift is creeping into private affairs, even in Westphalia.

Air Travel Shrinks World

By Vernon J. Brown

This old world is shrinking. It certainly has shrunk since Hiram Parker trudged his way from Detroit to section 13 in Vevay township and thence through the dense forests to Kalamazoo where he filed his claim to a quarter-section of land, From there he went to Detroit and across the lakes and over mountain trails to his Vermont home where he married Charity Brush, She returned with him to the crude cabin he had creeted here. That much travel took all the year from early spring until late fall of 1836.

My Grandfather Jacobs came to this part of Michigan a little more than 100 years ago and that too over a long trail and many days from Ohio. Forty-niners were then spending month after month in the long trip in search for California gold. Few of us realize how short distances have become when measured in the time required for the journey. Once it was an allday trip to Lansing and back from where I now live.

Today there are those who make daily round trips to and from some Lansing factory from their homes several miles farther away than this farm. In the old days Jackson was almost too far away to negotiate with a horse and buggy and return the same day. Now two

People Take Wings

But these are only mentioned to get us ready for some real globe trotting in the modern style, Our son Russell arrived in San Francisco last Thursday, Enroute by air between Manila and Honolulu he wrote an eight-page letter which he mailed on arrival in the U. S. A. Ray Bullen left it in our mail box Saturday morning, 48 hours after it was written.

Perhaps some will be interested in the route the Russell Browns followed from Bahrein in the Persian Gulf to San Francisco, If a globe is available, take a string and find the islands off the coast of Arabia. Lay that string along the globe, or a map, where the name Karachi appears. It will be found in the upper reaches of the Arabian Sea. Next find Calcutta and then the Philippine Islands in the Pacific. The distance between the two groups of islands is not far from 10,000 miles. The four places named lie almost exactly in a straight line.

I am going to quote Russell's letter here to show what modern transportation has done even in that remote part of the world where, until the development of air travel slow vessels plying the sea were about all-few railroads and little in the way of passable

But now Russell writes: "We left Bahrein as scheduled on the 17th of July. Flew to Karachi via BOAC and stayed there overnight, departing Philippine Air Lines on the 18th. Flew non-stop Karachi to Calcutta, then non-stop to Manila, flying in a straight line over Burma and Indo-China. We had booked berths but found none available so had to sit up all the way; six hours, Karachi to Calcutta, nine hours Calcutta to

9,000 Miles at a Leap

According to scale on my maps this 15 hours saw the travelers a little more than 9,000 miles away from their morning start.

After a few days with their daughter, Virginia, and her husband and enjoying the company of a two-year-old grandson never before seen, the journey homeward was resumed and here I quote

"Our first stop out of Manila was Guam, six and a half hours; our next was Wake, six and a half. We left Wake about an hour and a half ago for Honolulu and expect to arrive there in about another eight hours. We have two double seats facing each other which make up into lower and upper berths. We slept about five hours between Guam and Wake and expect to get more sleep before we reach Honolulu. Traveling east as we are, it seems we have had but little night time. We lost two hours between Manila and Guam and another two hours while enroute to Wake. We lose another two between here and Honolulu and as we will soon cross the international date line we will lose a full day. Then we will repeat this 26th day of July and have a second Thursday this

Business Venture's Far

Another event which set me thinking about the changes all this modern transportation and all the business that goes with it has brought about was a visit out here at the farm on Saturday paid mother and me by a close friend of our son and daughter-in-law, a Mr. Mohamed Kanoo of Bahrein. He is visiting the United States after an extended tour of European countries. He came all the way out from Detroit to pay his respects to the parents of his friend, which was pretty nice, we thought. In addition we enjoyed every minute of his stay. He is a strict Moslem by faith but was educated in a Christian college at Beniut or Beyrnith as you prefer. He speaks perfect English fluently and is a charming individual and most companionable.

What I was going to say, however, was that modern travel has changed the entire course of life for such as the Kanoos, For many generations this family has been close to the royal family of that country. When the Persians invaded the country many generations ago, forcing the king and his court to flee into exile, the forefathers of our visitor went with the members of the royal family.

$150 Is Enough Money

Mr. and Mrs. Kaj Neilsen and their little son Erik are starting life in the United States with $150. That's enough for them, because they have so much more than money can buy. They have courage, determination and ability. They are industrious and capable. These attributes will soon earn them a stake in their new world.

There is little hope for people in Europe, the Neilsens said. Even industrious people like the Neilsens can't get ahead. The two wars have drained away Europe's resources. They have sapped the strength of the people.

That's why the Neilsens left Denmark. They could not be content with what life offered them there. They want to work and get ahead. They want to give Erik and the brothers and sisters who will follow him a better chance. That better chance is still possible here in the United States to those who are willing to work for it.

The Neilsens arrived rich in the things that count. They have the riches of youth, health, ability and ambition. They have the wealth of character that will sustain them whether or not their $150 pyramids as fast as they would like.

Ingham county welcomes the Neilsens and all others whether they come from Denmark, Germany, Russia, Poland, Mexico or anywhere else who appreciate the opportunities before them, who will help to make even more opportunities.

Accidents Leave Town

Accidents leave the city to happen in the country. Of the 35,000 motor vehicle deaths in the United States in 1950, rural accidents accounted for 24,800. against 10,200 in the cities. The rate of death per 100,-000,000 miles traveled was 10.5 in rural areas to 4.6 in

There's a lot more traffic in the cities than in the country. But city traffic is controlled traffic. Drivers have to go slow whether they want to or not. When drivers accustomed to speeds of 25 and 30 reach the city limits too many of them step those speeds up to 60 and beyond. That's why there are more accidents among the tall corn than there are among the tall buildings.

Drivers are safer on city streets than they are on country roads. All of us should remember that when we are tempted to tramp on the gas because no one else is in sight. They'll soon be in sight at 60 miles an hour.

Just Wetness Won't Do

At a northern resort Saturday was a young couple from Maryland.

Why did they come all the way from Maryland to spend their vacation in northern Michigan? Why didn't they go to the Maryland or Virginia seaside to swim? Why didn't they stop off in the Adriondacks? Why didn't they get three or four more extra days of swimming by staying at the Finger Lakes of New York?

Those two people came to Michigan to enjoy clean water and a clean beach, they said. Ocean beaches crawl with crabs and other creatures. Near industrial centers the beaches are littered with trash and often the water is polluted with industrial wastes. The Finger Lakes do not have sandy beaches. Most of the fresh water resorts in the east are dammed-up rivers and creeks.

Just wetness won't do in the building up and holding of vacation business. Pure water and clean beaches will do, and they'll lure people to Michigan from across the continent.

We should remember that in developing our resort business. We have virtually ruined Houghton Lake and have started in on others by unwise exploitation and commercialization. Clean water, clean beaches and clean surroundings are what the tourists seek and what they are willing to pay well to get.

My first stop was at Ithaca to view the spacious new addition to the Gratiot County Herald. Then I stopped off at Harrison to call on Emil Bucholz in the neat plant of the Clare County Cleaver. The elder Bucholz returned from a Detroit hospital while I was in his shop. He has been laid up for repairs; a queer thing for a man who took on Spikehorn's bears in wrestling matches up to a few

Up in Roscommon I had made arrangements for Harley Holmes to pick out a choice fishing spot and to file a claim on what he considered to be the best huckleberry patch. That's where planning paid off. I filled the boat with fish. It was the only time in my life that it took me three times as long to clean the fish as it did to catch them. It's usually the other

After a dip in the lake to wash off the bluebottle flies, yellowackets and other insects which had been attracted by the fish entrails entwined around my arms huckleberry claim. I never saw nicer berries in the north country. I enjoyed this year's picking here in Ingham but up in Roscommon we could play with does and fawns while filling our pails. We didn't see any bear.

Returning from the huckleherry claim Harley voiced his and my philosophy on berry picking.

"Floss wonders why I come out here in the woods to pick huckleberries," Harley said. "I used to wonder myself. Now I know it's because I dislike seeing anything go to waste. I have resolved to do my best to see that this huckle-"berry crop is put to good use."

When school keeps, this Harley is Supt. Harley Holmes of Marshall. When school doesn't keep, he's in the woods or swamps or in a boat or wading streams to see that berries and game birds and fish don't go to waste.

Harley and Floss are called just that by their children and grandchildren. There's no father or mother, or dad or mom, or papa or mamma in the Holmes family When our family gets together I never know who Kathy, Vernon or Valerie mean when they talk about granddad, whether they are speaking to me, the grandfather in New York or their great-grandfather. The youngsters identify my "Granddad on the father as Children calling parents by their real names might preserve the individuality of parents. Too often individuals become known as Mary's father or John's mother when really they are Sam and Lizzie. General adoption of such a practice might also tend to prevent young men from becoming labeled as Sam's oldest son or Lizzie's youngest daughter. It could even blast this business of calling a boy Junior.

My mother has always, freely admitted and has even taken pride in being Vern Brown's wife. She always resented being called the auditor general's wife or the lieutenant-governor's wife. She insisted she was never the auditor general's or the lieutenant-governor's wife. The man she married, she declares, was Vern Brown. If a man wants to do right by his son he should at some time in his career let himself be toppled off the peak of success. Having an illustrious father is a handicap to an ordinary son. There are exceptions, General Douglas MacArthur. for one. His father was a famous came through Mason on his honeymoon. In describing the visit to my wife I told nothing but the truth as to the beauty, the charm, the poise and the sheer loveliness of the bride. My wife intimated then that I had permitted my emotions to carry me away, that no young woman could possibly be so good as the young Mrs. Pickett.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickett visited us last week on their third wedding anniversary. Not only did my wife uphold my judgment, she even said that my report of three years ago proved to be an understatement.

Irotection for you alone is not enough

That's why FULL FAMILY MEMBERSHIP is an important and valuable feature of Blue Cross-Blue Shield!

HANCES ARE one in four that you will be faced with hospital and medical bills this year for yourself or a member of your family. And the chances are even greater that, if you are among the one in four, the bill will be for a member of your family. Blue Cross-Blue Shield records show that family dependents use two to four times as much medical treatment requiring hospital care as the employed

That's why the hospitals and doctors who run Blue Cross and Blue Shield have provided a program of Full Family protection that offers the subscriber the opportunity to enroll his wife and children for exactly the same comprehensive benefits as he himself receives.

subscriber himself.

In addition, BLUE CROSS AND BLUE SHIELD provide many other family protection features. For example: under the Full Family Contract, the newborn child is covered from birth. In addition, all eligible children under 19 years of age, no matter how many in the family, may be enrolled and receive the same full benefits without additional cost to the subscriber.

Yes, the family is important to BLUE CROSS-BLUE SHIELD and BLUE CROSS-BLUE SHIELD are important to your family. Protection for you alone is not enough.

Cull Pullets Now

Egg production from pullets next winter depends a lot on the kind of care and management poultry raisers give their birds low, according to H. C. Zindel, Michigan State college extension poultry specialist.

He points out, for instance, that you don't need to wait until you house the birds to start culling the poor ones from the flock you plan to put in the laying house. 'That'll raise eggs-per-bird average and save the cost of feeding the stragglers in the meantime.

"Pullets need a well-balanced feed to grow," he said, and warned, "Don't rely on the neighbor's good luck and his feed formula. It's better to buy a good quality prepared feed, or if home grown grains are available, pecially important now when most might be economical to have a mill

Honestly, I was just a little excited when I received a letter Monday from Loris Curtis down the Sycamore valley in Alaiedon. This column business is risky. There are too many good farmers around waiting for someone to make a mistake. I thought I had blundered the first week. The letter follows:

· Dear Jim:

Your first Country and Town column was interesting. I predict success for you but wouldn't want to say as to an increase in circulation. If it will make you feel better, let's just say that I promise not to cancel my subscription during your 30 days of probation.

I have a problem that you might like to dig into. I was going to send it to Bud Guest for his Sunny Side of the Street, but he might not give it the serious attention which it deserves.

It is this: When I want my cows to get-the-heck-out-ofhere, I holler "Whay!" What is the origin of the word and why can't I find it in Webster's new dictionary?

Surely its not a colloquial interjection peculiar to southeastern Alaiedon. I understand some people at MSC are compiling a dictionary of agricultural terms. Perhaps they should be told about this sad omission from our lexicons.

Webster says that "whey" is the "watery part of the milk," so maybe some one of our ancient ancestors, on milking a Holstein (just kidding, I'm a Black and White man myself) may have looked at the lacteal fluid in disgust, kicked the cow in the ribs, and yelled, "Whey!" Webster says "Wheyey" (a most intriguing word) means "of the nature of whey." Can may save up to 20 per cent on the you imagine a more useless word? We are told that most any of this group suffered losses in the handle and to use. Observe all the word will get in the dictionary, if usage warrants it. I know disaster. Generally speaking, these that many farmers are saying "Whay," as well as some other insurance contracts cover only ufacturer on the label. words, seven days a week.

> Sincerely yours, LORIS CURTIS"

Answer: Alaiedon farmers who yell "Whay" at their cows really mean to say "Weyd-monat." This is an Anglo-Saxon name for pasturing cattle in the spring. Verstegan wrote, " . . . because the beasts did then weyd in the meadow, that is to say, go and feed there." Verstegan never said whether or not the meadow was planted to Ladino grass.

So you really don't mean "get the heck out of here" when holler "Whay."

"Whay" means go out to pasture, you big cow, and come Indiana is down 20 per cent, Illier crops probably will be harnois off 21 per cent. Only increases vested. These will keep not farm back with a load of milk.

I probably couldn't answer a difficult question as fast as I Dakota which were up about five have answered this one.

In addition to taking Creston Twenty Grand and four of his daughters from Harry and George Covert last week, John Buth also took 39 (I counted 'em) forks of manure. It makes good footing for livestock being trucked, according to Buth. George Covert said he gets the same results by using a bundle of rolled hay for footing. Transportation of animals is risky business and good footing should be provided.

their lowest point in late November. Marketing specialists say to push hogs for early sale this fall. Seven per cent more hogs will go to market this fall and winter than a year ago. This is the result of a large spring pig crop. Demand for meat this fall will probably be stronger. But the increase in hog numbers may just about offset the effects of better demand, Hog prices are expected to be above parity in August. Some kind of a ceiling may be set. A lot depends on the outcome of the Korean cease-fire negotiations and any possible cut-backs in military appropriations. The result may be tragic. The vaccinated animals come down with the disease. It spreads to other animals, then to the neighbors' stock.

Why does this happen? Because the vaccinating needle is a two-edged sword. When used by a person who has had long scientific training and experience, it saves lives. When used improperly, it can be a dangerous instrument of destruction
