Lott Electors Vote For Annexation

At a special meeting of the electors of the Lott district No. 4 of Holt township Tuesday evening, October 16, a vote was taken on the question of annexing that district to the Holt school district. The result was 42 in favor and two opposed.

With that vote the annexation became effective immediately since the Holt board of education had already passed a resolution approving the plan. The only steps left are a resolution of final consummation by the Holt board of education, an audit of the Lott district's financial records, and the turning over of record books, funds, and property, to the care of the Holt board of education.

Holt school plans to start an afternoon section of kindergarten at the Midway school for those Lott children who are enrolled at the Lott school as beginners. Some of the overcrowded afternoon kindergarten at the main building may be shifted to that group, too.

This will allow the Lott first graders to have a full day of school instead of only a half day as it has been. Lott first, second and third graders will continue to attend the Lott school with Mrs. Gertrude Graham as teacher.

Hot Apple Slice Fritters So Tender! So Good!

The time to serve these hot Apple Slice Fritters is on a brisk day when the family blows in with appetites as big as all outdoors. They're a filling, hearty dessert for all their delicate sugar-dusted crispness. The centers are tender apple slices, spicy and rich. Over them is served a bubbly hot sauce, piquant with sweet mace and apple juice.

Better make lots of the fritters. Mother—for those second, and third, helpings! Fortunately, that's easy to do. By using canned sliced apples you spare yourself all coring, peeling and slicing. Just coat the ready-to-use apple slices with the batter and drop into deep fat.

The most choice of tart varieties of cooking apples are used in canning apple slices—that's why they have such good-tasting flavor.

APPLE SLICE FRITTERS
1 cup sifted all purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons confectioner's sugar

2½ cups (1 can) well-drained sliced apples
1 egg
Mace Sauce
Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Drain apples; add. Beat egg; add. Mix well. Drop individual apple slices into deep fat or salad oil heated to 375° F. Fry, turning to brown all sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Serve hot with sauce. Yields 6 servings.

Mace Sauce
1½ cups apple juice
½ cup sugar
4 teaspoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon mace
2 tablespoons butter
Few grains salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and mace; gradually add apple juice, stirring until blended. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lemon juice and butter, stirring until melted. Yields 6 servings.

BUDGET-WISE HOMEMAKERS BUY APPLES

Cheaper by the Bushel

With Halloween and the holiday season just ahead, Michigan homemakers are buying more and more of the plentiful Michigan apples on the market now. Budget-wise homemakers are buying this excellent quality fruit by the bushel, says Mary Bodwell, food economist for the agricultural economics department at Michigan State college.

Those homemakers who want to make the extra saving of buying by the bushel should select those which are known as "all-purpose" apples—for eating raw, salads, sauces and pies. Five Michigan apple varieties on the market now are considered "all-purpose"—Jonathan, McIntosh, Northern Spy, Steele's Red and Baldwin.

Steele's Red is the best keeping variety and under good storage conditions will keep until February or March. Northern Spy, Jonathan and Baldwin varieties will keep until late January. McIntosh apples keep fairly well under normal conditions until Christmas or New Year's.

All varieties will keep best if stored in the refrigerator but apples purchased in quantity may be stored in any cool place where they will not freeze.

Many Michigan homemakers will find it convenient to divide a bushel of apples into three or four smaller baskets according to the apple sizes. This allows selection of exact sizes for a particular use and helps the homemaker in locating any apples which might begin to spoil. She can then remove and use them before they are wasted or cause other apples to spoil.

Apples in retail stores are sold by grade and often by size. Differences in grade are mainly differences in color. The quality of U. S. Fancy and U. S. No. 1 is essentially the same, says Miss Bodwell. Mature apples are firm, crisp and juicy, and the Michigan crop is of excellent quality. Purchased by the bushel for use in salads, desserts and that extra between-meal snack, Michigan homemakers will be giving both their family and their food budget a treat.

THIS FARMING BUSINESS

BY CARL COLLIN
USDA will support apples to the tune of $1.30 this year.

We're eating about a fourth more turkey now than we did on the average for the last 15 years. But even with the increase, this year's turkey crop may be too much for the regular market to handle. USDA already is making plans to buy turkeys if the market becomes overloaded. The "standard" program under which the USDA would buy heavy birds, provides distribution of turkeys to schools for lunch programs and to some non-profit institutions.

Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Baldwin, Cortland, Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Rome Beauty, Stayman and York Imperial. A price of $1.50 has been set for small Grimes Golden and Jonathan apples ranging in diameter from 2.25 to 2.5 inches.

Storage of apples up to October first was about the same as a year ago. In midwest states which have about a fourth larger crop than last year, movement into storage was a little heavier than in 1950 at the same date. Michigan apple storage on October 1 had 262 thousand bushels.

Production of apples in the seven states in which purchases will be made is estimated at a little over 21 million bushels. That's nearly five million bushels heavier than a year ago.

USDA is buying apples again this year in seven midwestern states and will distribute them to schools for use in lunch programs. The government purchase price is $1.80 a bushel for U. S. No. 1 apples, minimum of .75 inches, on viously, several wild birds, including ring-neck pheasants and starlings, have been identified as natural hosts for Newcastle. This disease is tough to combat because it can survive in almost any environment.

Full Feeding May Not Be Cheapest Way to Gain Beef
Full-feeding grain is the quickest way to get a steer to market, but it isn't necessarily the cheapest or the most profitable.

Plain cattle, for instance, should be fed longer and more cheaply than well-bred steers of good type, according to G. A. Brannaman, Michigan State college animal husbandman. He points out that there are several ways of fattening cattle.

"Corn silage full-fed along with protein supplement may replace all the grain for plain steers when fed a longer time," he comments. "Yearling steers usually are fed from four to seven months, depending on their grade and quality, and the amount of grain fed. Calves require a longer time to fatten and two-year-olds a shorter time."

Calves may be fed two to four months on a limited grain ration, then finished for a late summer or fall market, which tends to be higher than spring prices. Brannaman added, feeding grain on pasture will help reduce costs of labor in harvesting hay and hauling manure, Brannaman pointed out.

Wintering calves on roughage, then pasturing for part or all of the summer without grain results in cheap gains. They may be fed grain in late summer, fall or winter depending on the feed supply and the program.

Under present cattle and feed prices it is possible to pasture cattle for two summers, feeding roughage in the winter. These animals may be grain-fed for a short time or sold as grass-fat cattle. "Such cattle should weigh from 1,100 to 1,300 pounds and are not popular on the market unless choice to prime in finish," Brannaman remarked.

Ingham Holsteins End Year Record
Two Ingham Holsteins recently completed production records for the year. Both averaged more than 500 pounds of fat.

Farmers Plan for Trip to Chicago
If enough farmers show interest, a bus will be chartered for a trip to the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago November 26, 27 and 28.

Scientists attack peach blossom blight
Michigan ranks among the top three states in peach production. To protect this important industry, scientists at Michigan State College's Agricultural Experiment Station are experimenting with methods of controlling blossom blight.

Michigan's honey crop this year is up 10 per cent over 1950. Canadian livestock is on the comeback again.

Dairy industry spokesmen say that if import controls in the defense production act are repealed, the butter industry faces unlimited supports at prices much below price support levels. Foreign butter can be landed in this country with all costs and duties paid at less than 50 cents a pound. In some cases the price would be as low as 42 cents. The support level is now 66 cents which represents 90 per cent of parity. Cheese imports have increased from 8.5 million pounds in 1947 to 56 million in 1950. Last year's cheese imports were about equal to the pre-war average.

Maybe woolly bear caterpillars are pretty reliable weather forecasters after all. Some folks say winter will be what kind of a year the woolly bear has around the size of the brown bands around the caterpillar. And maybe they're right. A group of scientists from the American Museum of Natural History in New York City has announced an expedition each fall to collect the caterpillars and measure the sizes of their stripes. For the past three years the results have been rather astonishing.

The "superstition" holds that if the brown bands around the middle of these black caterpillars are wide, the coming winter will be mild. If they are narrow, the winter will be bad. The woolly bears have hit it right on the nose now for the last three years. These fuzzy little fellows are on the move now. Maybe you'd like to do some checking yourself and keep some records for a few years.

Miscellaneous: Heart disease, No. 1 killer of humans, is also apparently on the increase in dogs, according to vets. Rats eat about four per cent of all U. S. grain and cereal crops; insects take five to 10 per cent of the national production of food and feed grain each year. Collectively these losses add up to pretty big figures.

Private land adding up to more than 1.5 million acres will pass to federal ownership as a result of the defense program. This change in ownership could make considerable difference to local and state tax receipts in some communities.

Canadian livestock numbers are expected to increase for the next few years. They have been going down, but livestock specialists say they have hit the bottom and are on their way back up again.

Economists agree that general business conditions are the dominant controlling factors controlling farm prices. Purdue scientists have developed a gadget that grades tomatoes for color. It's called a color ratio meter. It measures the redness of the tomato. By getting a true grading color, both producers and canners gain.

A proud mother walked into the furniture store of an E-Zee Credit company clutching a small monthly payment. She placed it on the counter happily. "Here," she said, "is the last installment on our baby carriage." "And how is the little baby?" asked the clerk. "Fine," the mother replied, "he was drafted last month."
