Light Shines on Methodist Spire

"Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you."

That's what Rev. Raymond L. Norton thought when he drove into town last summer to take his new charge. He saw that graceful spire above the church and determined that people should have the pleasure of lifting up their heads to see it at night.

So the new pastor bought two 150-watt projector spotlights and rigged them on the roof to light the spire. The spire now stands as a beacon at night as well as the day.

Another innovation at the church are chimes which are played on Sunday mornings before services. Rev. Norton brought those along with him from his former charge at Paw Paw. He owns them and installs them at the churches where he serves.

Farmers Want Area Service On Telephones

Decision of Commission On Petition of Farmers Is Expected This Month

Farmers in Stockbridge and Bunker Hill townships of Ingham want extended area telephone service. So do their neighbors in Henrietta township of Jackson county. They want hookups with Leslie and Jackson or with Stockbridge.

Witnesses told the Michigan public service commission examiners last Thursday that the present telephone service is inadequate.

The hearing was set by the commission on a show-cause order. The order was issued against the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Rural Telephone Co., Stockbridge for them to show cause why they didn't extend their lines to the area.

Probably before the end of the month, an official of the commission said, a determination will be made.

Hearing Was Adjourned

Last Thursday's hearing was an adjournment of the original hearing on September 20. At that hearing representatives of the companies testified that they can not profitably extend their services to the Fitchburg area which the commission has labeled as unassigned territory.

There's a farmer-owned exchange at Fitchburg but that doesn't meet the needs, the complainants said.

At last Thursday's hearing Walter Strange, Bert Schertzing, Mrs. Irvin Batdorff, Mrs. Forest Hartley, Joseph Hoggarth, Ward Vicary, Marshall Young and Almon Lathrop testified as to the inadequacy of the present service.

Dana Rose, revenue engineer for Michigan Bell, was also on the stand to set forth that the Michigan Bell acquired the Leslie exchange in 1929 and the Dansville exchange in 1945. The company extended its Leslie lines to the Bunker Hill Catholic church school and residences in 1932, he said.

Witnesses Testify

Strange declared that he was in need of telephone service to Jackson. Schertzing said that Michigan Bell once promised to extend lines to his farm. Mrs. Batdorff pointed out that the Fitchburg exchange is closed Sundays and at nine o'clock week nights. Mrs. Hartley said that the Fitchburg service is inadequate. Hoggarth told of the difficulty he experiences in his sawmill and cabinet shop by being cut off from telephone service.

Vicary, the supervisor of Bunker Hill township, declared that adequate telephone service would prove to be a good thing for everyone in the township.

Young, who lives on Haynes road, told of the distances he must drive to be able to use a telephone. Lathrop also testified as to his service and connections with Jackson.

The Stockbridge company has agreed to extend service to all Stockbridge township residents. Extensions can and will be made west to take in the town line with Bunker Hill, a company official said. That takes in residents on both sides of Pitman road, he added.

There was only one of the petitioners from Stockbridge township. That was Howard O'Brien. The rest of the Ingham petitioners live in Bunker Hill township.

Fitchburg Deal Proposed

An official of the Stockbridge telephone company said an offer was made to trade capital stock for the Fitchburg exchange but that the proposal apparently fell upon deaf ears.

Under the present assignment of territory, Bunker Hill township is open. Stockbridge township is closed to Michigan Bell.

Stockbridge Extension

Unconnected with the area hearing is a petition filed by the Rural Telephone Co. at Stockbridge for increased rates and extended service to Munith and Gregory.

The company plans to give 24-hour service.

There's a fight shaping up over the extended service angle between Stockbridge and Gregory. The Lyndilla Telephone Co. of Gregory is reported as being in opposition to the lifting of toll changes between the two towns. A new line will also have to be built between Stockbridge and Munith, the Stockbridge company said.

The requested rate increase will average about 75c per month per subscriber, according to figures released by the Stockbridge company.

Wyeth Research Develops Food Products For People Held to Low-Salt Diets

Lesofac Is Compounded from Whole Milk Protein, Rice Flour and Minerals to Benefit Patients With High Blood Pressure and Heart Disease

Wyeth has started production of a new food product for the help of people who must follow salt-free diets. The product is Lesofac. It is compounded from whole milk protein, rice flour and minerals, all of which are specially treated to limit the amount of sodium.

The new product is in form to be mixed with milk, fruit juices or other beverages, as doctors and dieticians prescribe.

Lesofac was developed in the Wyeth research laboratory at Mason under Dr. F. W. Bernhart, Howard F. Seibert, the plant manager, announced.

Clinicians have been using Lesofac on clinical trial for months. They have used it in the dietary control of a number of ailments. "The need for high protein, low sodium food in the diets of people suffering from high blood pressure and certain heart conditions has now been well established by medical research," Seibert explained. "However, a product incorporating these important factors which was still palatable and well tolerated by patients has not been available until the development of Lesofac."

New Equipment Installed

Wyeth employees began working on the new product last August but there were a lot of changes which had to be made before full production schedules could be established and maintained. Authorization for the purchase and installation of some of the special equipment had to be secured.

Some new equipment had to be installed in the Mason plant for manufacturing and packaging the new product. A roll dryer was installed. Tanks and other facilities in the special products department had to be changed around. The finishing line also had to be altered to handle the new type of package for Lesofac.

According to plant management, there will probably be no sudden spurt in employment as a result of the development and production of Lesofac. Production of the new product will be fitted into the general manufacturing schedule without much overlapping, Seibert indicated.

Bell Comes Back From Ohio Plant To Post at Wyeth

Harold Bell has been transferred back to the Mason plant of Wyeth Incorporated to serve as assistant to the general manager, nutritional division.

Wyeth Incorporated has sold its plant at Belle Center, Ohio, to the Westerville Creamery, Westerville, Ohio. Bell was manager of the plant there when it was a Wyeth subsidiary.

Changes in requirements for milk sugar and other materials formerly produced at Belle Center have made it unnecessary for Wyeth to continue its operations there. General Manager Howard F. Seibert explained at Mason Wednesday.

American Home Products, the parent company of Wyeth, acquired the Belle Center plant in August of 1943. Bell was transferred from Mason to become manager a year later.

Bell, who was graduated from Mason high school in 1930, joined Wyeth on January 3, 1935. He worked in production and in laboratories at Mason before going to Belle Center.

Although the transfer became effective November 1, Bell will be at Belle Center to acquaint the new management with details of operation there. In addition to milk sugar, the Belle Center plant makes cheese.

Mrs. Bell is also a native of Mason and Leslie. There are four children in the family, the three Bell children, Charles, 16; Connie, 11; and Joe, 3; and a niece, Marylyn Doyle, 17.

Drive for Funds Is Bogging Down

Mason's Red Feather campaign is going slow, reported James H. Vander Ven Wednesday night. It got off to a late start and now deer hunting has interfered, he said.

The campaign is being continued the rest of this week and next, Vander Ven said. He has charge of the drive in Mason.

Stockbridge township exceeded its $800 goal by five per cent, the Community Chest announced. Lawrence Lindemer led the drive there.

The Red Feather campaign in the 13 townships outside of Lansing, Meridian and Delhi has a goal of $10,000. Of that sum $3,500 is for Boy Scout work and $6,500 for 29 state and national agencies of the Michigan United Health and Welfare Fund.

Council Weakens On Snow Removal

There's nothing sure, yet, but maybe the city council will relent on its snow-shoveling edict.

Last winter the council decided it was up to residents to keep their walks shoveled. The order went out for everyone to have their walks cleaned by 10 o'clock each forenoon or the city would send a man and charge the cost to the owners.

The city has had trouble getting men to send. In the want ad columns this week is a notice that bids are wanted on a jeep to be equipped with a snowplow.

Asked if the jeep is to be used to clear walks, Public Works Superintendent Julius Schmeichel replied, "Probably. It can be used for other jobs, too. Lansing now has 12 jeeps for clearing walks and they work out pretty well. Here in Mason are a number of widows unable to clean their walks. There are old people who haven't the strength to battle the snow. If a jeep will do the trick, or part of it, maybe we should have one."

PETITION IS FILED

Lawrence Lindemer, attorney for the Rural Telephone Co., filed a petition Thursday morning with the public service commission in Lansing, asking for a hearing on a new rate schedule.

REDS COULDN'T HIT HIM

Officer Returns from War

Home from the wars is Lieutenant Byron Stevens of Mason. He is the son of Mrs. Floyd Bowen, Sr.

The Mason officer landed with the second wave in Korea July 13, 1950. He led his men in battle the full route up to the Manchurian border and back, and up to the Iron Triangle again. His platoon again and again was decimated by enemy fire. In one 13-day period Lieutenant Stevens was the only officer left in his battery. His captain was killed while engaged in conversation with the Mason officer. Three other battery officers were killed and three were wounded. Lieutenant Stevens took command, and was in charge of the battery up until his rotation leave began.

When Lieutenant Stevens left the army in 1946 after six years of duty he thought he had had enough of fighting. He enlisted in the coast artillery in January of 1940, following his graduation from Mason high school in 1937. He was sent to the Panama Canal zone and there assigned to photo reconnaissance with the air force. He helped make aerial maps over Central and South America. Then he was made a warrant officer and went to Europe to serve in an anti-aircraft battery.

After being out of the army two years, the Mason man applied for and received a reserve commission. He applied for active duty and on May 3, 1949, he reported. He was sent to Japan to serve with the Army of Occupation.

That's where he was when the shooting started in Korea. He volunteered to go into battle with the 24th Infantry of the 25th Division. He was assigned to an anti-aircraft battalion but there were no hostile planes to shoot down. The battalion was assigned to the support of infantry and tank troops and special task forces.

After hard fighting in South Korea, Lieutenant Stevens was placed in command of a platoon of half-tracks and assigned to support of the 35th Infantry regiment in what was regarded as the final mop-up. In late November the platoon was within 35 miles of the Manchurian border and listening to promises of being home by Christmas when the Chinese entered the war.

Foot by foot, Lieutenant Stevens related, the half-tracks fought back down out of the trap sprung by the Reds, covering the retreat of U. S. infantrymen.

"We had the advantage of being able to get our hands and feet warm by caressing the hot motor during the lulls in fighting," Lieutenant Stevens said. "Our casualties from frostbite were light. But we drew a lot of mortar fire. The Reds aimed all they had at us."

Lt. Byron Stevens

Instead of riding half-tracks up near the Manchurian border, where he was a year ago, Lieutenant Byron Stevens is now back home riding in a new car. He ordered it last summer from an ad appearing in the Ingham County News. The car was laid away by the Mason dealer until the officer claimed it Monday.

Last spring the Mason officer was reassigned to the 159th Field Artillery and became a support observer.

His battery suffered its heaviest casualties last June in the fighting around the Iron Triangle, the Mason officer said.

If American troops are pulled out of Korea the South Koreans will be unable or unwilling to stand off the Reds, Lieutenant Stevens declared. There are not more than three South Korean divisions of front-line calibre, he added.

While most Chinese troops are poorly equipped and badly led, the Mason officer said, "There are some good outfits. We tangled with one of them last June and suffered heavy losses. They are fanatics and hard to hold off."

After a leave at home, Lieutenant Stevens has orders to report to Camp McCoy, Wisconsin.

Captain Corbin Suffers Wounds In Korean Battle

Captain Rolland A. Corbin, 31, of Mason is in an army hospital in Korea with gunshot wounds in his left thigh and leg. He was wounded while leading his company in the battle for Hill 346.

The wounds are not critical, Captain Corbin notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Corbin, 439 West Maple. They received the letter Tuesday. He said he wrote it in haste to beat the official notice which would come from the war department. Captain Corbin wanted to spare his parents from the shock of receiving a notice from the war department, he explained.

Mrs. Rolland Corbin and their three-year-old son, Billy, live in Grand Rapids while Captain Corbin is in the army. Before being recalled to active duty a year ago, Captain Corbin was employed by the Consumers Power Co. in Lansing.

Captain Corbin was graduated from Mason high school in 1938. He served five years in World War II, winning a commission. His company was cut off during fighting in Italy and the captain was taken prisoner by the Germans. After his liberation he returned to duty. He left the army later to go onto the reserve list.

As a reserve officer Captain Corbin was called up in November of 1950. He was at Fort Riley until April 30 of this year when he was flown to Korea. He went into action in Korea May 6. He was with the third battalion of the Seventh Cavalry when he was wounded.

CLEANING CONTINUES

Court House Custodian Robert Stevenson is continuing his big clean-up job in the attic. He has tons of old records now piled in the first floor corridors. The records are being separated and catalogued so that representatives of the state historical commission can look them over for historical value. Records not considered historic will be sold for waste paper.

French Chemist Returns to Help Make Blacktop

Marcel Ceintry, French chemical engineer, is back in Mason this week working with his patented blacktop process.

The Frenchman was here a year ago to have the Ferris Co. make test batches. Those test batches were spread on highways. The tests not only proved satisfactory; sensational is the way some highway officials described them.

Ceintry has a secret ingredient which is mixed with blacktop material. That secret ingredient coats particles of sand and stone and eliminates the drying of sand and stone in gas-fired retorts.

However, economy in making blacktop is not the angle on Ceintry's blacktop. Even by by-passing the heat chamber the blacktop costs more than the ordinary mix. The claim is that it's worth more on the pavement, that it will outwear all other mixes.

Tests Prove Worth

Tests made on US-16 a year ago bear out the claims, according to Ed Ferris. On one lane patches were made with the French blacktop. On the opposite lane the material used was just the common mix. The French patch is still there, Ferris said. Three patches made with the American mix have worn through, he added.

Now the state highway department wants 5,500 tons of the French blacktop mixed up for winter patching, and the Ferris Co. has the contract.

The Michigan Central Railroad company also made tests of the French mix a year ago and found that it is superior to ordinary blacktop, Ferris said.

The Koppers Co. of Pittsburgh is the American processor of the French product.

Bituminous materials have been coming to Mason by railroad tank car. That plan is not satisfactory in winter weather, Ferris explained, because the mixing can be done only when the temperature is above 18 degrees. He said the material will probably have to be hauled out of Chicago by tank trucks during periods when temperatures are expected to remain above 18.

After mixing up stockpile material from the new mix at Mason, Ferris has other winter locations picked out to facilitate state highway department winter deliveries, he stated.

SHEFFERS BUY HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sheffer have purchased the A. W. Kilbourn home at 339 North Okemos street. They plan to move December 10.

Woman Suffers Painful Burns In Explosion

Husband Kindles Fire With Gasoline, Six Children Escape Unhurt

Breeze Carpenter's wife and six youngsters got off lucky Wednesday afternoon when he kindled a fire with gasoline.

Mrs. Carpenter is in the Mason General hospital with first and second degree burns on her hands and face. The husband and six youngsters came out of the explosion without a scratch.

By the quick use of fire extinguishers even the house was saved.

The Carpenters live in a tenant house on the Clark Nottingham farm, Cooper road, Stockbridge.

At 4:30 Carpenter decided to kindle a fire in the stove. By mistake he used gasoline instead of kerosene to soak the wood. When he lighted a match to touch off the fire the stove took off. The flames leaped out toward Mrs. Carpenter, missing the others.

Mrs. Nottingham and neighbors grabbed fire extinguishers and swung into action. By the time the Stockbridge fire department arrived, and it made a quick run, the fire was pretty well under control.

Mrs. Nottingham brought Mrs. Carpenter to the Mason hospital.

Progress Reports On School Study Are Due Thursday

At a meeting Thursday night in Mason progress reports are due on the area school study. The meeting is scheduled for the county building.

The area school study committee was set up last year to study school trends and population growths and to make recommendations to local school boards and electors to prepare for them.

There are 55 on the study committee. Lyle Thorburn of Alaiedon heads the group and Mrs. Doris Puffenberger of Onondaga is the secretary.

Under the legislative act which set up the area committee, County School Superintendent Alton J. Stroud said, the group has two years to complete its study of over-all needs. That much time will be needed, he said, to find solutions for the problems in Ingham, especially in the suburban areas.

Consolidation of districts is one of the angles being studied by the area study committee. It is just one of the studies, though, Superintendent Stroud pointed out.

At Thursday night's meeting, a representative of the state superintendent of public instruction will be present, Stroud said.

Car Hits Child At Intersection

Kay Hill, 9, one of the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Hill, suffered cuts and bruises Wednesday noon at the intersection of Park and Ash streets. She was hit by a car driven by Lester Johnson of Mason.

According to witnesses, Kay and Jo were crossing Ash from the library corner to the postoffice corner. Kay darted ahead, Jo hung back. The right fender of Johnson's car struck the girl. He was headed west and driving about 20 or 25 miles an hour, Johnson told Police Chief Ralph Hall. He saw the girl run in front of his car, Johnson said, and set his brakes.

Harry Freeman was in a truck driving east. He saw the accident. He parked his truck, picked up the girl and carried her to the offices of Dr. William E. Clark and Dr. George Clinton nearby. Dr. Clark examined the girl, cleaned up the wounds and put in some stitches. There were no broken bones, the doctor said.

The Hill twins are fourth graders at the Mason school.

A special officer guards the Jefferson and Oak intersection while youngsters are going to and from school. There is a patrol at the Park and Ash intersection after dinner when children are returning to school, but not when they are going home for dinner, Superintendent James H. Vander Ven explained.

Onondaga Boy Is Killed, Two Are Hurt in Crash When Car Strikes Tree

Three from Eaton Rapids Are Taken from The Wreckage of New Car on Ferris Road

One was killed and two were mangled in a crash in Onondaga late Wednesday afternoon. The victims were:

Thomas Wayne Spurlock, 15, dead.

Vernon E. Caplinger, 20, in Stimson hospital, Eaton Rapids, with fractured right elbow, right ankle, right knee, a fractured skull, internal injuries and deep lacerations on both legs. He was still unconscious Thursday noon.

Jacqueline Turner, 14, in Sparrow hospital Lansing, with both legs broken, one in three places, one arm broken, deep cuts and bruises, and suffering from shock.

The accident happened on Ferris road just before five o'clock. The road is straight and level. There were no witnesses to the crash.

Caplinger, discharged October 29 from the army after long service in Korea, had his new car, a Chevrolet. He was driving west. Beside him was the 14-year-old girl. Also in the front seat on the right side was Spurlock.

The car, according to measurements taken by Deputy Sheriff Versile Babcock, went off the blacktop to the left and traveled 168 feet before hitting a guidepost marking a ditch. Then the car skidded across the road and went off the pavement to the right for 180 feet. At that point, Babcock said, the car apparently took to the air. It hurtled 36 feet before striking a 24-inch tree in Gates Adams' dooryard, the officer reported.

Supervisor Saw Car

Supervisor Clarence Puffenberger of Onondaga township discovered the tragedy. He was doing chores at the William Puffenberger place. As he left the big barn for the sheep barn he happened to glance to the north. He saw a car parked in the Adams yard across the road.

Because Mr. and Mrs. Adams were not at home, Puffenberger went to notify the visitors. As he neared the car he saw that a wreck had taken place. He heard moans. When he opened the car door saw the three with the motor of the car shoved up onto their legs.

Puffenberger saw that the neighbor boy, Spurlock, was dead. He also believed Caplinger was dead, because there was no apparent pulse. The girl was unconscious. It was then 5:10. The wrist watch on Caplinger's wrist had stopped at 4:53.

The Onondaga supervisor ran back to his son's house across the road to summon aid. He notified the sheriff's office in Mason. Mrs. C. W. Staley, who lives down the road to the west, telephoned to Eaton Rapids for an ambulance.

Officers from the sheriff's department, Justice of the Peace Roy Adams, acting as coroner, and Arthur W. Jewett with his ambulance made the run to the wreck scene from Mason.

It was discovered that there was still life in the driver of the wrecked car. He and the girl were taken to the Stimson hospital in Eaton Rapids by Jewett ambulance. When the extent of the injuries were known, the girl was placed in a Petit ambulance and taken to the Lansing hospital. Doctors feared to move Caplinger. He remains in the Eaton Rapids hospital.

Doctors said the Spurlock boy died of a skull fracture, probably instantly. He also had a broken ankle.

The Spurlock boy lived on Plains road, about a mile away from the crash scene. His mother is Mrs. DeForest Pierce. Caplinger and the Turner girl live in Eaton Rapids. Both the Turner girl and the Spurlock boy were in their eighth grade class at the Eaton Rapids school Wednesday afternoon. They apparently were picked up by Caplinger after school, and at the time of the wreck were being taken home. In the wreckage of the car, Deputy Babcock said, was a case of beer.

TWO STILL CRITICAL

At 1:30 Thursday afternoon attendants at the Sparrow hospital in Lansing and the Stimson hospital in Eaton Rapids reported that Caplinger and the Turner girl are still in serious condition. Caplinger's condition was listed as "critical" and the condition of the girl as "fair."

The Ingham officer described the smashed car as the most complete he had ever seen. The motor was in the front seat. The frame of the car was broken in four places.

Army Released Boy

A few months ago Spurlock took his uncle's identification papers and by using them was accepted by the army as being 18.

When the mother found that her son had enlisted she notified army authorities of the circumstances and the 15-year-old boy was released.

Besides the mother and the stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Pierce, the Spurlock boy is survived by two half-brothers, DeForest Pierce, Jr., and Michael Pierce; and two grandmothers, Mrs. Mary Shinavar of Lansing and Mrs. Ruth Spurlock of Ohio.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Petit funeral home in Eaton Rapids. Rev. Fr. Paul Donavan of Lansing will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Roselawn cemetery, Eaton Rapids.

Leslie Woman Wins Citizenship In Lansing Court

Judge Louis E. Coash admitted Mrs. Herman Kurschner of Leslie to citizenship Thursday forenoon.

Recommendation for Mrs. Kurschner's admission to citizenship was made by Naturalization Examiner Sidney Freed of Detroit.

His recommendation came after Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan asked for action in the case of Mrs. Kurschner.

Herman Kurschner got his American citizenship in September of 1948, after a re-hearing was demanded for him. He had been turned down because back in 1937 before he fled Germany he was forced into Nazi party membership in order to hold his government job. At the first hearing and at the re-hearing neighbors testified to the loyalty of both Mr. and Mrs. Kurschner. A son had served in the U. S. army during World War II.

Judge Archie C. McDonald of the Barry-Eaton circuit conducted a re-hearing on Kurschner and ordered him admitted. Then Mrs. Kurschner's case began to drag. For a year the justice department postponed investigations. Finally Mrs. Kurschner's friends appealed to Senator Ferguson.

The senator studied the case and asked that a report on her status be made. Commissioner Argyle R. Mackey of the immigration and naturalization service informed the senator that a certificate of loyalty had been granted Mrs. Kurschner May 23, 1951, and that a favorable recommendation for citizenship would be presented in circuit court in Lansing Thursday. It was.

Albert Smale of Mason was also made an American citizen Thursday morning. He formerly owed allegiance to Great Britain.

There were 19 citizens made Thursday. Only Mrs. Kurschner and Smale were from outside the Lansing area.

Three Townships Join to Collect Grain for CROP

Aurelius, Onondaga and Leslie townships are going to have a CROP campaign whether or not other sections of the county participate.

Rev. S. B. Wenger of the Leslie Congregational church has charge of the campaign in the three townships. There was difficulty, he explained, in finding a county chairman and organizing on a county-wide basis. So the three townships went in together.

Wheat, corn and beans are the three commodities sought this year. They are to be delivered to the Mason Elevator Co. From Mason they will be shipped along with other Michigan CROP contributions.

CROP is a program carried on by all American churches to feed the hungry in Europe and Asia. The food is distributed through church organizations abroad.

The campaign for CROP will continue this week and next in the three townships, Rev. Wenger announced. There will be a leader in each school district, he said.

Contributions will be accepted from farmers and city dwellers alike, whether or not they reside within the three townships, Rev. Wenger said.

BOY LOSES TOOTH

Jerry Loudenslager, 8, lost a tooth and received a cut lip when he fell in front of Palmer's food store Wednesday afternoon. Jerry was playing with other boys and tripped and fell against a wooden bench. He was treated by Dr. A. V. Smith. Jerry lives with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atcheson.

From and after the effective date of this Ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to connect to Wilmarth Drain or to the branches of Wilmarth Drain any sewage disposal system unless said sewage disposal system shall consist of sewer lines and a septic tank or septic tanks that conform to the following requirements:

A—Private Sewers:

(1) Type and Location—(All sewers, or pipes used to conduct untreated sewage from a dwelling or habitable building shall be located at least ten feet from the nearest well, pump or unexposed water suction line. All sewers located within thirty feet of any well, pump or unexposed water suction line shall be constructed of cast iron soil pipe with water tight leaded joints, or other metal pipe approved by the Health Officer. Sewers at least five feet outside the walls of any building or habitable building may be constructed of vitrified clay or other approved sewer pipe with bitumen or cement joints).

(2) Size—Such sewers shall not be less than 4 inches in diameter.

(3) Grade—Four, five or six inch sewers shall be laid at a grade of not less than twelve inches per one hundred feet. Sewers of larger diameter shall be laid at such a grade to provide a sewage flow of velocity of not less than two feet per second when flowing full.

B—Septic Tanks

Septic Tanks shall comply with the following requirements:

(1) Location—Septic tanks shall be located at least fifty feet from any well, spring, water suction line, or other drinking water supplies except where Michigan Department of Health regulations require a greater distance. No septic tank shall be located where it is inaccessible for cleaning or inspection purposes.

The outlet shall be constructed to permit the withdrawal of liquid from the tank from the area of the middle third of the depth of the liquid in the tank and shall also permit the interchange of gas above the liquid level in the tank and in the disposal line. The inlet must be designed to permit gas above the liquid level to escape through the inlet and out a vent pipe serving the line leading to the tank.

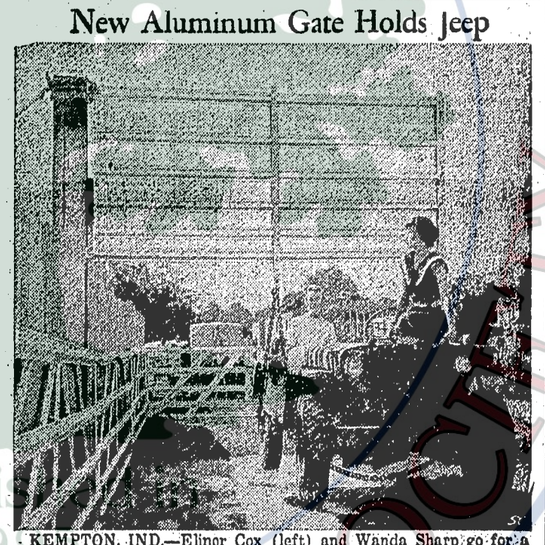
New Aluminum Gate Holds Jeep



KEMPTON, IND.—Elinor Cox (left) and Wanda Sharp go for a ride along with their jeep to show the strength of an aluminum gate made for farm use here. Alprodco, of Kempton, Indiana and Mineral Wells, Texas, the manufacturer, features patented construction which gives tremendous strength and prevents sagging and warping and assures complete alignment at all times.

Weighing 46 pounds, the gate is supporting more than 2,500 pounds of jeep and femininity. There are 116 aircraft-type rivets in the gate and even the cows and horses get a break from the manufacturer because the top strut is rounded and will not cut the necks of farm stock.

Auxiliary Has Observance Of Armistice Day

The annual family night dinner in observance of Armistice Day was held by Browne-Cavender American Legion No. 148 and its Auxiliary at the Memorial building Sunday evening. A short program was held; Mrs. Grace Ankney gave a humorous reading. Older people present were asked for reminiscences of the first Armistice Day while the younger members told of V. J. Day. Group singing of songs from World War I was a feature of the program.

The two organizations are completing plans for the annual Christmas party to be held early in December.

Browne-Cavender Auxiliary is sponsoring for the sixth year, a county-wide magazine sales campaign. Proceeds will be used for hospital equipment. Beds, wheel chairs, fracture frames, and many smaller pieces of equipment are stored at the Jewett funeral home and are loaned free of charge anywhere in Ingham county. Mrs. Alice Jewett, the unit's chairman for this project, reports that nearly 50 people had the use of various articles during the past year. The 1951 campaign was launched last week under the direction of Jay Alen of Lansing, assisted by a crew of 10 salesmen who will canvass the entire county.

The Mason unit held a short business session Tuesday evening. The next regular meeting, November 27, will be devoted to the subject of membership.

State 4-H Club Leader Picks Dallas Hyde for Chicago Trip

Michigan's delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago November 25 to 30 were announced Wednesday by A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H club leader at Michigan State college.

Among the 28 delegates is Dallas Hyde of Ingham county, who won his award on the basis of his outstanding 4-H club program and leadership and allied projects. Dallas is 19 years old and is a member of the 4-Winds club of which Mrs. Paul Rowe is the local leader.

In addition the Hyde boy leads a handicraft and electrical club in his own community, the Phillips school area, during the winter months. He has been the leader in that community for the past three years and previously led in another community. In addition to his leadership he has been outstanding in sheep and poultry work. He and his brother, Aaron, own a flock of registered and grade Shropshire sheep with which they have won many awards at the state 4-H show at East Lansing and this fall they purchased the champion ram lamb at the state fair to use with their flock this coming year.

The Hyde boy has carried a poultry program over a period of years and a few years ago was top poultry judge at the state show at East Lansing. Dallas and Aaron also put on a livestock demonstration at the state show two years ago.

Dallas has been one of the outstanding junior leaders in Ingham county because he has handled his club without adult supervision; has done a fine job with his members and they have had outstanding work in their respective projects, Club Agent M. H. Avery said. Dallas has completed 26 projects in six years of 4-H club work. His projects cover handicraft, electricity, dairy, sheep, poultry, oats, corn and junior leadership. At the present time he has completed shore course work and is managing the farm in Alaiedon township with the help of his brother.

Being selected as a member of the Michigan delegation is one of the top achievements a 4-H club member can obtain, Avery said. "Dallas was selected as one of less than 30 delegates from among 60,000 Michigan 4-H club members," Avery added.

"At Chicago," Avery continued, "Dallas will be the guest of some of the nation's top industrial and business leaders at breakfasts, dinners, luncheons, special entertainment, educational tours and at the International Livestock Exposition."

The National Congress is sponsored by the national committee on boys and girls 4-H club work, a foundation established by industrial firms and individuals to provide educational trips, scholarships and other incentive awards to 4-H club members. These awards are to encourage the youths to continue in 4-H club work, gaining practical knowledge while endeavoring to obtain state and national recognition. Projects and selection of winners are handled through state 4-H club administrators and the U. S. department of agriculture.

More than 1,500 of the top 4-H club members and leaders from every state, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska will attend. There will be many foreign delegates. Among the foreign delegates will be two to accompany the Michigan delegates. They are Miss Ingaborg Dimmler, German woman who is in Michigan to learn home demonstration and youth leadership through a scholarship provided by the Michigan Home Demonstration Council, and Kari Davaila, a Finnish young man studying extension work in Michigan through the International Foreign Aid Exchange program. Davaila is the son of the national 4-H club leader in Finland.

Three other members from Ingham county will be in Chicago at the time of the National Congress and will attend several events but will not be among the 28 delegates mentioned. They are LeVon Prentice of Okemos, who was high poultry judge at the state show; and Dave Beatty of Vantown, who was first in public speaking and a member of the three talent show people to receive free trips to Chicago by the U. S. Rubber company. In Chicago Dave will compete on a talent program.

Melvin Showerman will compete in Chicago in the national sheep shearing contest during the same week.

Music Study Club Presents Carmen

A study of the opera Carmen was made by the Leslie Music Study club in its meeting at the G. A. R. hall on Friday. Mrs. Harlo Smith gave a sketch of the life of the composer, Georges Bizet. Then various parts of the opera were sung and played by members of the club in costume.

Mrs. Richard Smith acted as Carmen, Mrs. Frederick Tampier as guardsman Don Jose, Mrs. H. C. Campbell as toreador Escamillo, and Mrs. Maurice Whitney as Micaela. Mrs. B. D. Walker gave the narrative and Mrs. Clayton Jewell accompanied on the piano. The opera was to be given at the E. O. T. C. club on Tuesday but the sickness of two of the members prevented that. However, Mrs. Burton Walker told the story, and selected recordings of the opera were played.

The next meeting of the Music study club will be held with Mrs. Alfred Parker on December 7. Members are asked to take toys for Christmas gifts to be distributed through the Community Service council.

PMA Will Elect New Committee

Township ballots listing the names of candidates for election as PMA community committeemen and as delegates to the county PMA annual convention are being mailed this week to all eligible farmer-voters in Ingham county, according to Ralph Glynn, chairman of the present Ingham county PMA committee.

The mailing of ballots will be completed prior to Monday and farmers who receive ballots will have until December 20 on which to mark their ballots and return them, either by mail or in person, to the county PMA office located at 100 East Ash street in Mason.

Ballots received in the county PMA office will be counted on December 21 by an impartial three-man election board, according to Glynn.

Nominating committees in each of the agricultural communities in the county have selected no less than 10 and no more than 15 nominees whose names are listed on the election ballots. Each voter will vote for five of the nominees for the community committee and for two of the nominees for delegates. When the ballots are counted in the election of community committeemen, the nominee receiving the largest number of votes will be elected chairman, the one receiving the second highest number will be elected vice-chairman. In the vote for delegates, the one receiving the highest number of votes will be elected delegate and the one receiving the second highest number will be elected alternate delegate, Glynn stated.

The newly elected community PMA committees and delegates will take office on December 31, 1951 and will serve throughout 1952.

Elected delegates to the annual county convention will meet in the county PMA office on December 31 to elect a county PMA committee consisting of the chairman, vice-chairman, regular member, and a first and second alternate, who will serve during 1952.

Any farmer who does not receive a ballot through the mail and believes he is eligible to vote is urged to call or write the county PMA committee for clarification of his status.

SHORT STORY

Police Guard

By Richard H. Wilkinson

OLD Man Bursley phoned in to headquarters about 6:30 P.M. one evening. His voice was quite calm and unruffled.

"I've just been held up and robbed," he explained, "I think if you go to No. 302 Market street you'll find not only the bandits, but the money."

3-Minute Fiction

"Wait a minute," said Deke Miller. "What is this? Let's have a few particulars."

"I suggest," cut in Old Man Bursley, "that you get down to 302 Market street at once."

Deke hesitated. "Where are you now, Mr. Bursley?"

"I'm at my office at 1102 Main street."

"O. K. You stay there till we get back." Deke hung up and nodded to me. "Come on," he said. "It sounds screwy, but you like screwy set-ups."

Old Man Bursley owned and operated one of the city's biggest department stores. There were about 300 people in his employ and he personally supervised the making up of payroll envelopes.

I asked Deke about details of the hold-up as the police car rushed us downtown.

"I don't know any," he said shortly. "Bursley simply told us to go to 302 Market and we'd find the money and the bandits."

The address at Market street was a saloon. We got out and went inside. "Where's the boss?" Deke asked. The barkeeper shot a quick glance toward a rear door, wet his lips and shook his head. "He ain't in."

Deke headed for the rear door. He banged it open. Three men were sitting around a table and on the table was a heap of money and pay envelopes.

There was a lot of excitement during the next 15 minutes. No one but Deke Miller could have handled the situation so adroitly. He stood with his back to the wall at the farther end of the room with a gun in his hand while I called headquarters.

WE saw the three gangsters safely away in a patrol wagon, then returned to the police car.

"Where to?" I asked Deke.

"Bursley's department store. I don't mind telling you I'm burning up with curiosity."

"Me too," I agreed.

SO WE DROVE up to Bursley's and a watchman let us in and told us that Mr. Bursley was still in his office. Bursley was sitting there calmly reading the evening paper.

"Did you get the money back?" he asked.

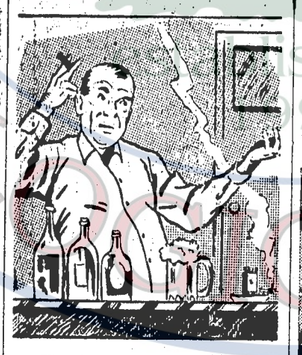
"Yes," said Deke.

"Thought you would," said Bursley.

"What made you think so?" Deke asked.

"Eh?" said Bursley. "Oh, well that's where they phoned before leaving here. I and my assistant were locked in that closet. We heard them phone."

"Do you mean to say," Deke asked, "that they were stupid



The bartender shot a quick glance toward a rear door, wet his lips and shook his head. "He ain't here," he said.

enough to give away their hide-out by phoning from here?"

Bursley chuckled. "It amounts to that, though they didn't know it. They used that phone. Dial, you know. Didn't have to speak a number so figured no one could check back." I counted the clicks. Easy. You count the clicks of the dial when she goes back, and you can figure what number anybody's calling."

It's quite a jolt when you find an ordinary citizen as calm and level-headed in time of emergency as a cop should be.

Deke cleared his throat. "Mr. Bursley, I'd like to remind you again that it is dangerous the way you make up your payroll. Now—"

"Tut, tut, tut," said Bursley. "I've taken care of that. Beginning next week I'm having the envelopes made up at the bank. Also I'm paying off by check. Besides that, I'm having a police guard to watch over things." Yes, sir, gentlemen, I've decided I ought to have a police guard to keep an eye on things."

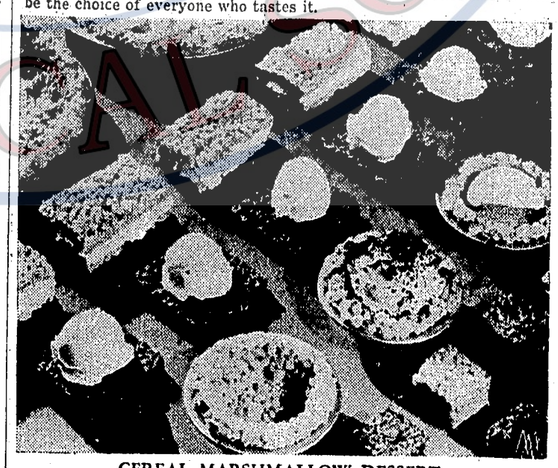
POPULAR PARTY FARE

By Barbara B. Brooks

Children's party? Club refreshments? There is always an occasion when hostess or committee is faced with the problem of simple refreshments other than the traditional ice cream and cake. Here is a dessert that is quickly and easily made in large or small quantities. Its variations are legion. Its popularity is assured. Call it Cereal Marshmallow Dessert or Sally's Choice—but serve it once and it will be the choice of everyone who tastes it.



CEREAL MARSHMALLOW DESSERT

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ pound marshmallows
½ teaspoon vanilla
5 cups oven-popped rice cereal

Cook butter and marshmallows in double boiler until syrupy. Add vanilla; beat thoroughly. Put cereal in greased large bowl and pour on marshmallow mixture stirring briskly.

Ice Cream Sandwiches—Spread mixture very thin in greased shallow pans or on trays. Cut into 3-inch squares and put together in two's with a slice of ice cream between.

Party Sundae—Cut in 3-inch squares, top with a scoop of ice cream and your favorite fruit or flavored sundae sauce.

Party Pies—Place small amount of mixture in greased muffin pans. Shape to form tart shells. Just before serving fill with ice cream or fresh fruit topped with whipped cream. Full size pie shells may also be made, filled and cut into wedges for serving.

Balls or Lollipops—Shape warm mixture quickly into any size balls desired. Wrap in cellophane or decorate with faces, if desired. Skewers may be placed in balls before they harden.

Holidays and Special Occasions—Cut in fancy shapes to suit the holiday, i.e., Christmas trees and stars for Christmas, rabbits and chickens for Easter, etc. Decorate as desired.

VARIATIONS

Chocolate and Marshmallow—Stir in 4 ounces melted semi-sweet or 2 ounces melted unsweetened chocolate into marshmallow mixture just before pouring over cereal.

Peanut Butter and Marshmallow—Stir 2 tablespoons peanut butter into marshmallow mixture just before pouring over cereal.

Weather

The big winter left and took its snow banks along. Monday's thaw and Tuesday's rain melted the snow away fast. Only a few patches are left on the north side of buildings.

Last Saturday the sun broke through and made good weather for the State-Notre Dame game. There was a dense fog Sunday morning. Then the skies cleared and the sun came out. Rain set in Monday and continued through most of Tuesday. A west wind ripped and tore Wednesday but did no great damage.

Rainfall measured .35 of an inch in the gauge at the city disposal plant Tuesday morning.

Temperatures as reported by Ross Richmond at the disposal plant were:

The Wilson Farm Bureau will meet Thursday night of this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deyo.

One way to attract birds to the area around a home is to plant flowers and shrubs that provide them with food.

A New High in Pie

There's news today! A brand new flavor in a pudding and pie filling mix—coconut cream—is now on the market! Brought out by a well known food manufacturer, it's rich in flavor, creamy in texture, has just the right amount of coconut blended right in and quite literally is "as good as home-made!"

It is mighty versatile too—equally adaptable for pudding or pie filling. Simple too! Just add 2 cups of milk and cook about 5 minutes. It's ideal, either plain or combined with other flavors.

Take this Chocolate Coconut Cream Pie, for example—a glamorously different pie, with chocolate used in the unbaked pie crust and flaked on top. This is just one of many delightful recipes for this new red letter dessert.

Chocolate Coconut Cream Pie

1 package coconut cream pudding and pie filling mix
2 cups milk
Chocolate Graham Cracker Crust
½ cup cream, whipped and sweetened
½ square unsweetened chocolate

Place pie filling mix in saucepan. Add milk gradually, blending well. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil and is thickened. Cool slightly (about 5 minutes), stirring once or twice. Turn into pie shell. Chill. Spread with whipped cream. Shave chocolate on top.

Chocolate Graham Cracker Crust

Grate 1 square of unsweetened chocolate. Add 1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar, and a dash of salt; mix well. Then add ¼ cup melted butter. Press firmly on bottom and sides of 8-inch pie pan. Chill.

Glenn Dibble Dies In Traverse City

Glenn D. Dibble, 53, former Ingham resident, died at his home in Traverse City Saturday morning, November 3. He was a motor court operator there.

Mr. Dibble was born in Mt. Pleasant May 17, 1898, and spent his boyhood days at a farm southwest of Mt. Pleasant. He and his family lived in Lansing for seven and one-half years. They also lived in Mason and Leslie for five years. He worked at the Motor Wheel in Lansing for a year and at the Oldsmobile for 12 years. The Dibbles moved to Traverse City five years ago.

Surviving are the widow, Anna; three daughters, Mrs. Herbert Ransom of Traverse City and Betty and Ruth Dibble at home; one brother, George Dibble of Greenville; one sister, Mrs. George Wahr of Jackson; and one grandson and several nieces and nephews. His mother preceded him in death one month ago.

The body was taken to Martinson funeral home in Traverse City. Funeral services were held in Mt. Pleasant last Tuesday afternoon at the Stinson funeral home with Rev. McKenzie officiating. Burial was made in the family lot in Riverside cemetery, Mt. Pleasant.

New Law Forces Fine Payments

People who get traffic or parking tickets might just as well settle up.

Under new regulations notification of the failure to settle is sent to the state police licensing board. When the man or woman who failed to settle shows up for a license renewal there's a flag on the record in the license bureau. The license is held up until the traffic or parking fine is settled or good reason is shown why it shouldn't be.

The new law brought in an old fine here in Mason this last week, and it is expected to bring in many others, Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams said. A ticket on a violation was issued last June. The violator did not appear. But last week when he applied for a renewal of his driver's license the violation stood against his record. He settled the old ticket.

Store of Honey Saved from Fire

Williamston and Meridian township firemen saved a ton and a half of honey from flames when a barn was destroyed at the corner of Meridian and Sherwood roads Sunday noon.

Warren Parsons of East Lansing owned the honey. Mrs. Mildred Mullett of Williamston owned the barn. She had insurance of $500 on the building, placed with the Ingham Farmers Mutual. Parsons had no fire insurance on his honey.

According to William Smith of the Williamston fire department, the fire probably started from a stove in the basement where the honey was being extracted.

The theme this year is "The Way Out of the Dark" and the readings, selected by poll, follow. To participate, one is asked to read regularly, thoughtfully, without hurry, prayerfully and obediently, and to copy a key verse daily and carry it for helpful reference throughout the day.

Howard F. Seibert Heads Kiwanians

At their annual election Tuesday night, Mason Kiwanians chose Howard F. Seibert, manager of Wyeth Incorporated, to head the organization next year. He will succeed R. G. Henson as club president.

Ray Perkins was elected vice-president. The five directors chosen are Rev. Paul L. Arnold, Roy Christensen, Richard B. Demlow, Clarence Adlof and Earl Urquhart.

Ralph Toaz, secretary of the merchants division of the Lansing Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker at Tuesday night's meeting. He urged cooperation between business men and organizations within a community. He declared that every town has a distinct character given to it by the people who live there. It's what makes some towns thrive and others decline, Toaz asserted.

No business man should be a free rider, Toaz declared. Everyone in business should be in it for the service he can render, the speaker declared. He should render that service, Toaz added, even if it calls for sending prospects to competitors if they can be better served there.

Toaz is a member of the Lansing

Howard F. Seibert

Rotary club and district governor of Rotary. He told of a conference held recently at which district Totary governors from North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa gathered.

Judge Assesses Driver $1,560

In circuit court in Lansing last Friday Judge Charles H. Hayden ordered LeRoy T. Reynolds of Jackson to pay $1,560 to the widow of Robert Fogg of Leslie.

Reynolds pleaded guilty October 17 to a charge of negligent homicide. On June 25 trucks driven by Reynolds and Fogg crashed at the corner of Hull and Bellevue roads, a mile west of Leslie. Reynolds admitted that he ran a stop sign when driving into the intersection from Hull road. Fogg was fatally injured.

At first Reynolds was charged with manslaughter. When the charge was reduced to negligent homicide he entered a plea of guilty.

In addition to paying the widow $1,560 over a three-year period, Reynolds will be on probation for that length of time. He had his driver's license, forfeited at the time of the crash, restored. He convinced the court that he had to have his license in order to continue his work.

Football Banquet Moved to Nov. 26

Bill Kelly, coach of the Central Michigan Chippewas at Mt. Pleasant, has been secured as speaker. Entertainment is also being arranged.

Tickets are being sold to the public by gridders, their mothers, and Judy Heathman, Sandra Slee, Betsy Parisian and Millie Laxton. They are also available at Palmer's, Ware's and Collins' stores.

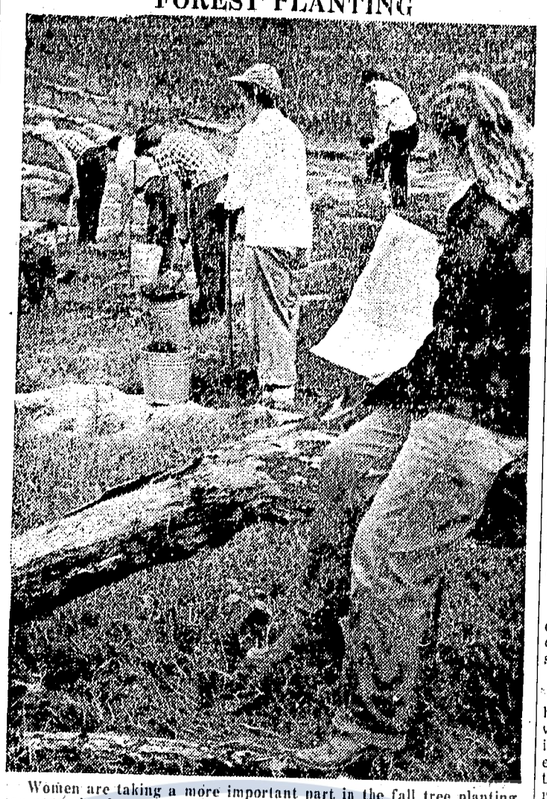
Money Is Stolen In Leslie Store

Mrs. Mildred Seabolt of Rives lost $45 while at work in the John Grugel bakery in Leslie Saturday, she reported to sheriff's officers.

The money was taken from her purse which had been placed under a counter, Mrs. Seabolt said. Between four and six Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Seabolt said, a man came into the bakery and asked for some baked goods to be packed in boxes. To get the boxes Mrs. Seabolt had to leave the building to go next door where the ovens are. She is certain that the man took her money while she was getting the boxes. When she went to go home she discovered the money missing from her purse.

Until 1857, pennies minted in the United States were large coins.

FOREST PLANTING



Women are taking a more important part in the fall tree planting as a result of seasonal male labor shortages. Previously used in the nurseries where finger dexterity is an asset in thinning operations, they also are proving capable of an acceptable job in the actual planting here at Fife Lake and other state forests. Following the plow-made furrow, they use the dibble or planting bar which opens the soil enough to permit seedling insertion. Conservation department fall planting goal is 3,500,000 seedlings.

Jackson Banker Suffers Injury In Auto Mishap

Lawrence R. Gould, 50, cashier of the Jackson National bank, sustained a fractured pelvis in an automobile accident on US-127 last Friday night. He was also cut about his face. His car left the pavement and ended up in a deep ditch on the curve north of Plains road.

Mrs. Gould, riding with her husband, suffered chest bruises. Both she and her husband were taken to Foote hospital in Jackson.

The Goulds were riding north. Rounding the curve, Gould told officers, he applied the brakes. His car skidded off the highway to the left and dropped down into the wide ditch into water three feet deep.

Harvey Williams of Jackson was at the Laxton farm buying eggs. He witnessed the crash and ran to the scene to pull the trapped pair out of the car.

Household Goods Scattered

On Thursday night a truckload of household goods were scattered on US-127 two miles north of Mason.

Miss Berle Shaw of Dansville was driving toward Mason when her car struck a trailer loaded with furniture. The trailer was being hauled by a car driven by Robert Garland. He had attempted to turn into the driveway of the Harry Cross place. The driveway was slippery and Garland was unable to get far enough in for his trailer to clear the pavement. The trailer extended between three and four feet onto the pavement, Deputy Sheriff Sam Tomlinson reported.

After striking the trailer, Miss Shaw's car bounded across the pavement to collide with a car driven by John E. McEvoy of Lansing.

Miss Shaw was treated at the Mason General hospital and McEvoy at a Lansing hospital. Both were cut and bruised. The trailer was demolished and the cars of Miss Shaw and McEvoy were damaged.

Monday evening at seven o'clock two cars collided on the curve at the intersection of Ash and Cedar in Mason. The car of Merwin Ward, 203 East Elm, Mason, lost a front fender and hub cap. The other car, driven by Paul L. Ames of Jackson, was not damaged. Neither driver was hurt.

These 4-H Club Members to Attend National Congress

FOUR Michigan 4-H Club members will be royally entertained and dined in Chicago, November 25 to 30, when they join more than 1,200 other outstanding 4-H Club members and leaders at the National 4-H Club Congress.

Bill Woodard

Maxine Harris

Lois Anderson

Cynthia L. Krans

They are William H. Woodard, 17, Cornell; Lois Ann Anderson, 19, Otsego; Maxine Harris, 18, Mattawan; and Cynthia L. Krans, 17, Iron River. The four were named for the honor by virtue of winning state honors according to A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H Club leader, Michigan State College.

Woodard's trip for his outstanding record in 4-H field crops projects is sponsored by the International Harvester Company, Chicago. He has carried a potato project during each of his 7 years of club work. In 1950 he received the county field crops award.

Although field crops projects have been his main interest Woodard has a well-rounded 4-H activity record behind him. In 1950 he was admitted to the State 4-H Service Club and was elected vice-president.

Lois Ann came by her award for 4-H food preparation. She says, "I enjoy cooking meals and planning menus." She used her experience during her third year of club work when her mother was ill. Kelvinator Division of Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, Detroit, will sponsor her Chicago trip.

Teen-aged Lois Ann has completed 31 4-H Club projects, has held all offices in her local club, and is serving as secretary of the Allegan County 4-H organization.

Gardening is Maxine's favorite hobby and her 4-H garden project work resulted in her Club Congress trip sponsored by Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, Tractor Division, Milwaukee, Wis. Now a freshman at Michigan State College, she has completed 63 projects, has held all offices in her 4-H Club and served as president two years of the Van Buren county 4-H Club organization.

Previous honors for her gardening ability include being named sectional winner of the 1950 National Junior Vegetable Growers Association contest, being a member of the 1949 state vegetable judging team, giving the state champion 4-H Club demonstration on freezing green beans in 1950, and winning four county gardening medals.

Cynthia, an Iron River High School senior, has a long list of 4-H Club activities behind her. Included are five years of junior leadership and three years as a club leader. She has completed a total of 89 club projects and demonstrated better homemaking practices to more than 1200 persons. Her outstanding 4-H Club demonstration work resulted in five trips to Camp Shaw, four trips to the State 4-H Club Show and a trip to the National Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa. She will also represent Michigan at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C. next June.

She also has served as state 4-H Club secretary, as president and treasurer of the Iron County 4-H Club organization. Her Club Congress trip for girls' record is sponsored by Montgomery Ward, Chicago.

The National 4-H Club Congress is an annual event cooperatively financed by business and industrial firms and individuals through the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago. The Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, cooperate in selecting outstanding representatives.

LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED

It seems odd that so many folks can tell us so much about the future and yet do so little—past or present.

It is significant that Communism makes its greatest inroads where ignorance and injustice rule.

PROPAGANDA VICTIM?—An editorial cartoonist could sketch this scene as it is and say it portrayed the superiority of American military might over the Russian bear—except for the fact that the animal is not a Russian bear. The shaggy 300-pounder is an American bruin which recently took to roaming the Army's Ft. Lewis, Wash., target range and was brought down with a .30-30 rifle by M/Sgt. Adam C. Miller who poses above with his potential rug.

Good Performance Wins Trips For Michigan 4-H Clubbers

POULTRY, health improvement, home improvement and tractor maintenance 4-H Club projects give thousands of 4-H Club members practical experience in these fields. Barbara Drumm

Jean Schweinfurth

Elwyn L. Shugars

Janis Black

Barbara Jean Drumm, 18, of Albion in Calhoun county, is the state poultry winner and will attend the national meeting for 4-H'ers in Chicago. A Marshall High School senior, she has been in club work for 9 years and is serving as president of her local club.

Barbara Jean says her poultry 4-H Club work has taught her that to be successful in raising chickens you must buy disease-free baby chicks, control disease, feed a balanced ration and follow other recommended management practices. Blue ribbons in poultry from the State Fair prove her ability. Dearborn Motors Corporation, Birmingham, Mich., sponsors her trip.

Jean Schweinfurth, a 17-year-old high school senior from Grass Lake, found that her health improvement work in 4-H Club has "been very useful to me and has been a lot of fun." She will have even more fun as a Michigan National 4-H Club Congress delegate.

She became the first president of her health and safety project club. At their meetings, members discuss better health habits then apply their new knowledge to improve their own health. Jean attacked three problems — developing better posture, eating well-balanced meals and maintaining a cheerful attitude. Then came study of first aid, health examinations and immunizations to round out her health improvement activities. Sponsoring her trip will be the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek.

In addition to a smoothly running tractor, the 4-H Club tractor maintenance project resulted in the trip award for Elwyn L. Shugars, 19-year-old Marcellus member.

The Van Buren County 4-H Club president and former county secretary says that when "our tractor is busy most of the year we have no time to be bothered with a tractor that is not in tip-top shape: Good tractor maintenance is a must and I learned how to take care of a tractor in 4-H." Elwyn's trip sponsor is the Standard Oil Co., (Ind.)

Home improvement was the practical 4-H project Janis Black, 17, Akron, worked on to give the family 65-year-old house a "new" look and win a trip to the Club Congress, sponsored by Sears-Roebuck Foundation, Chicago.

The remodeling job took three years and most of the work was done by the Black family. Janis has been a club member for seven years, and she has served as county 4-H Club secretary-treasurer for five years and as local president.

The National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago, annually sponsors the National 4-H Club Congress. Cooperating is the United States Department of Agriculture, Michigan State College, Cooperative Extension Service and other land-grant colleges.

There's no accounting for tastes. And here's proof. A check on strange restaurant orders reveals diners who: like mustard on cherry pie; pepper their beer; put sugar on raw onions and combine them with cooked meatballs; garnish peanut butter with mustard; crumble chocolate cake into a bowl of buttermilk; eat crackers between two slices of bread; order coffee piping hot and then ask for an ice cube to pop inside. Those are restaurant orders from all over these United States.

Couple Wed in Millville Church

Millville Methodist church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Vanoma Ireta Sprague of Mason and Dr. Orville Lee McFadden of Mentone, Indiana, Saturday evening.

Rev. Carlon Foltz, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony at eight o'clock before an altar banked with baskets of mums, palms and candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nellie Sprague and the late J. C. Sprague of Mason. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russel McFadden of New Haven, Indiana.

Hazel Olsen of Fowlerville played "Always" preceding the rites. She also rendered the traditional wedding marches during the ceremony and accompanied Kenneth Olsen of Fowlerville who sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Harley Sprague, chose a gown of white slipper satin styled with long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The full skirt extended into a long train. Her fingertip-length veil was held in place by a tiara of lilies of the valley. She carried a colonial bouquet of white shattered mums.

Lois McFadden, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of powder blue chiffon. Her colonial bouquet was made up of yellow shattered mums and she wore a tiara of yellow mums.

Jay Sprague, brother of the bride, served as best man. David and Diane Sprague, niece and nephew of the bride, served as usher and usherette. They seated the wedding guests who came from Detroit, Plymouth, Gregory, Fowlerville, Lansing, Dansville, New Haven and Indiana.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Sprague chose a dress of navy blue crepe with which she wore navy and white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was made up of pink mums.

The bridegroom's parents were unable to attend due to sickness.

After the ceremony the couple greeted their guests at a reception in the church parlors. Gladys Stewart, Gladys Sprague and Helen Sprague served the decorated wedding cake, ice cream and coffee to the guests.

Too Early a Christmas Is Tough On Youngsrers

Within the past two years the trend has been to push Christmas upon us weeks before that great day arrives. Store windows have been giving us more than sly hints since late October. Santa Claus appears on the streets much earlier in recent years and parents wonder how to keep the excitement down to a normal level.

Miss Jean Foulkrod of the Michigan State college home economics faculty, sees the impact of this premature Christmas as she works with young children in the campus nursery schools. She says that while one month for Christman preparation seems all too short to a busy mother it seems an eternity to a child. To most little children even a week is a very long time.

Let the child have a normal place in preparations for the Christmas holiday. His very activity and sense of being a part of it will relieve the strain of wondering what he's going to get for Christmas. If parents want to avoid that over-stimulation, harmful to the health of the child, the simplest way is to take it easy on pre-Christmas preparations, Miss Foulkrod suggests.

Over-stimulation over a long period will begin to show up in irritability and restlessness which are symptoms of fatigue. When children are unhappy the whole family is upset.

Parents often become overanxious to provide too many toys and too many thrills for their child all at once. This deprives him of his normal right to grow up, a stage at a time. The most marvelous thing about Christmas is that you can have it anywhere so long as there is someone to love and share with; it is not merely a matter of glitter, glamour, high excitement.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Pete says kids' boots are made like funnels.

The Mrs. leads the way on a tractor.

Suzy thought Mina's cranberry jam was the best ever!

Mrs. Nellie Beagle, former neighbor, now living in Tucson, Arizona, who reads this column each week, said she'd like me to give a weather report once in a while. Well, Nellie, I have one for you this week. It was some kind of a record for the first week of November—first with the severe cold and then the snowstorm which made us snowbound. Here, any place in the yard, the snow was over my overshoes and if, like Susy and Sally, you are looking for snow banks it goes to the waist.

Wednesday morning I was fixing winter rigs for them to go out to play in. Such a time! However bad adults think a too early deep snow is for beans and corn, it is a different matter for youngsters. They dashed from windows and back hardly waiting to eat breakfast.

Sally was ready long before Susy because our little Susy is growing so round and healthy, her last year's suit would not stretch enough to cover her. I didn't want her to wear her pretty new red outfit out to play so while I improvised an old one of Sally's for her, she ran around in circles behind me and finally leaned on me urging me to hurry.

Then out they ran and they didn't come in until I called them—protesting. How hungry they were and then they took long naps until five o'clock (no school on account of the deep snow). They were pretty disgusted to think I had let them sleep all afternoon or as Sally said, "Wasted a whole afternoon sleeping."

Last night, though, when she came home from school I don't think she had wasted anything for there was hardly a dry thread on her—shoes, stockings and boots were dripping. She's only seven and it's her first drenching—this year.

Pete says kids' boots are made like a funnel anyway, but we don't want her to turn into a human icicle. I know someone could make a fortune if a warm, waterproof snow playing outfit were invented. How about something on the order of hip-length wading boots with adjustable shoulder straps?

Pete was disappointed to see all this snow. He has been trying to get the soy beans combined. Such a time! One day last week while dad went to the dentist, I helped him. My job was to drive a tractor ahead of his tractor and combine and pull him out of some bad places. Right now I know I'll never be a good tow-operator. In the first place, every time I needed some power my motor stalled.

Pete was real patient with me. Then I jerked (I guess I must have) and broke the chain and then occasionally I drove too fast and tried to pull everything (that was so the motor wouldn't stall for me)! Then once in a while the whole shebang would rare up in the air and scare the daylights out of me.

I was never so glad to get out of that freezing heebie-peebie suit in my life. If we make any money out of that crop this year we will appreciate it, you can bet on that. I think (if husbands could stand the ordeal) that wives should help out in the fields more often so then they'd know some of the problems, chills and effort put into the dollars they spend. One of the truest statements I ever wrote!

Sally had such a good time on her birthday anniversary. She had not only one celebration, but four. Elizabeth was here for dinner. She decorated cupcakes on which we put candles—seven of them. She even gave Sally a simplified version of a spanking. Sally lay across Elizabeth's knees because she asked her to and she received eight taps (one to grow on) not very hard ones as she couldn't with her lame hands. Then two little cousins, Sharon Stewart and Bobby Whittaker came for supper.

Later on in the evening, Harold and Elizabeth and their family, Howard and Mildred and their family and Mrs. Addie Whittaker and Ruby and Raymond and baby came and I made popcorn and candy, the kids shined apples and we had a big time. Sunday the Browns from Corunna came as we have celebrated their Margaret's and Sally's birthday anniversaries together. Susy and Sally have talked ever since of how well Margaret can read. She reads out of any of the Golden books with ease.

One day last week we went over to Dad's and Mina's. When we got ready to come home, they asked us to stay for lunch so we did. She went down cellar and brought up a pint jar of her cranberry jam. Susy kept eating and when she took the third helping I was embarrassed. I thought maybe I ought to get the recipe and make it so I could cure her of eating her head off like she used to with olives. Whenever we would go away and the hostess would have olives, Susy and Sally used to eat just olives—until I bought a pint jar of them and let them eat all they wanted. Now when we go anywhere sometimes they won't take any. Mother did the same with me, I remember, with jello at Volney Carters long ago.

But to get back to this cranberry jam: Mina copied it down for me and I hope you like it as well as we do. It's pretty and not as strong as cranberries if some members of your family don't care for clear cranberries. Susy won't eat cranberry sauce at home!

Here is the recipe:
1 lb. cranberries
1½ quarts diced apples
1 sliced lemon
1 sliced orange
6 cups sugar
4 cups water

Cook 45 minutes, dip out the lemon and orange rind and seal.

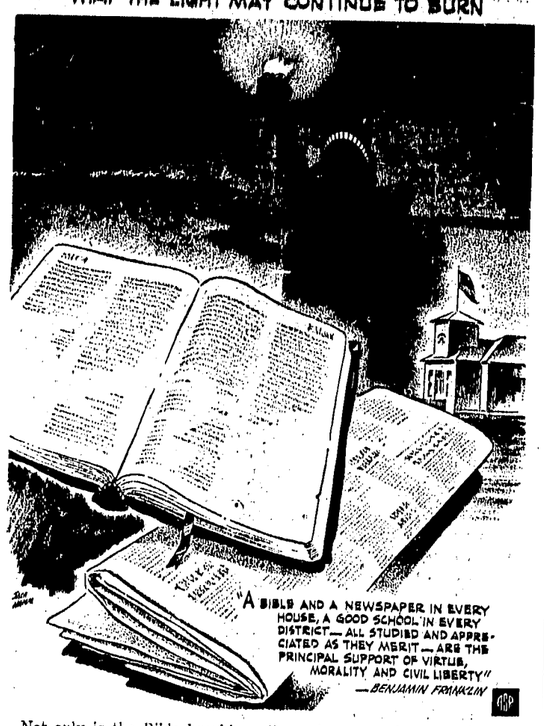
THAT THE LIGHT MAY CONTINUE TO BURN



Not only is the Bible breaking all previous records as the world's best seller, but there is more reading of the Bible than ever before in our day, according to officers of the American Bible Society. The Society is sponsoring a worldwide reading of the Bible between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Announcing as a theme that Bible reading is "The Way Out of the Dark" for nations and individuals, a committee of distinguished Americans of which President Truman is honorary chairman is supporting the movement. A list of the greatest selections of the Bible has been prepared for daily reading in some forty countries.

". . . Ye have taken away my gods which I made, and the priest, and ye are gone away; and what have I more? . . ." (Judges 18:24.) Read Acts 17:22-31.

Long ago in Peru, the time of the annual feast of Inti-Raimi had arrived. All of a sudden, the Inca who was about to pronounce the sacred words of adoration and thanksgiving to their god, the sun, turned his back to it. He retired to his royal chamber, leaving the ceremony unfinished.

The Inca told his closest officers: "That day at the hour of worship when I lifted my eyes toward our god, he was covered by clouds. He was lost! A great doubt came to my mind: There must be a God better than the sun, a God who will not let the clouds obscure Him. I am sad because I do not know Him! I wish someone would tell me who He is and where He dwells. I would travel all the distance, then place my kingdom at His feet!"

Sometimes, lust of money, pleasure, power, and other personal desires, become like gods in our lives. Are we then sad because we do not know the real God? How good it is to realize that we can have the light of Him who has called us out of darkness into His marvelous light!

PRAYER

Our Father, help us to travel spiritually whatever distance is required to see Thee. Make us aware of Thy presence ever about us. Help us to be true to Thee and steadfast in faith. In Christ's name. Amen.

YOU and the FUTURE

Is RELIGION Out of Date?

Disregarding loose theories to the contrary, men have been roaming this earth for about 6,000 years.

When we stop to think about it, the events of this mere iota of time, no matter how many history books they may fill, are of no importance whatever—except as they are related to the infinitely great and vast eternity! How could it be otherwise?

Yet business, politics, entertainment, and a million trifles loom before us, obscuring our vision of that all-important eternity.

Lost in the Woods?

It is like being "lost in the woods." Of course, it is important that we be familiar with the affairs of this life; but we must be sure that they do not prevent our attaining eternal life. Don't become so confused by the dense "woods" of modern times that you lose sight of that incomparably vital destination.

It is easy to see that the only truly important things—the only enduring things—are religious things; because spiritual things are our guides through the "woods" to eternity. Have you ever thought of it just that way?

Take one spiritual thing, for instance, that some people consider unimportant: the Sabbath. They think the Sabbath is completely out of joint with the times. It is just the opposite: the times are out of joint with spiritual things!

Why the Sabbath?

The Sabbath, as you know, is a day consecrated by God Himself for spiritual and physical rest. It is a regenerating force that benefits us now and for eternity. It renews our faith and trust in God and strengthens our allegiance to Him.

The richest blessings in all the Bible are offered to those who will observe this sign of God's creative power, yet some people feel this is unimportant if it means inconvenient adjustment of routine matters.

When God placed man upon earth, as the climax of creation, He established a memorial for him to observe. "That memorial of creation (Genesis 2:1-3) was an actual portion of time—a day.

We are told in the Commandments, by which we will be judged, that we are to observe this memorial because "in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it." Exodus 20:11.

That sacred day of spiritual renewing exists now—as surely as God created the world. It will continue into the new and recreated world: "From one new moon to another, and from one sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord." Isaiah 66:23.

Are you "lost in the woods"? One thing that will help you to find your way more surely is the utilizing of that sacred day established by God for rest, refreshing, and reconsideration of your course. Use it to plan for eternity and the new world to come. (Next: The Case of the Desecrated Flag.)

John Shiraef Is Assembly Speaker

The students of junior and senior high were privileged to hear John D. Shiraef II, newspaper man, ex G. I. teacher, lecturer and specialist on foreign affairs at an assembly program Friday afternoon.

Mr. Shiraef has made three trips since the war ended by traveling to the Iron Curtain countries legally and illegally in search of the truth about Communism. He was born in Philadelphia, of Russian descent and has a working knowledge of Russian and seven Slavic languages. He worked four years for the Ford Motor Company, taught citizenship classes in Detroit, worked four years for the Ford Motor company, taught citizenship classes in Detroit, worked four years for the Detroit Times and served in the Pacific theater during the war.

He has traveled in all 48 states, Canada, New Guinea, Sweden, Belgium, Switzerland, Mexico, France, England, Italy, Poland, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Russia. He states that Communism in America can be stopped by practicing democracy every day as an example to the Russians that our way of living is the best in the world and that the U. S. A. must have a more definite foreign policy with the full backing of the American people.

Following his talk the students were given the opportunity of asking questions concerning Russia and communism.

Ancient Shaving Habits Reviewed By Wayne University Professor

Enjoying his "brushless" shave ancient Egyptian style, Don Thielke of Daggett, Michigan, looks quizzically at his "barber", Dr. George Lechler, assistant professor of history at Wayne University.

Hate to shave in the morning? If you are like millions of other men, you wake up, yawn, feel the stubble on your face, pick up the necessary implements, and dutifully shave.

Why is it that men don't go around with long beards and save all this excess labor? According to Dr. George Lechler, assistant professor of history at Wayne University in Detroit, the ritual of shaving has both practical and religious meaning in history.

The ancient Egyptians shaved because they tried to imitate the clear face of their sun god, Ra, and also because of pesky little insects that have plagued civilization since the beginning of history: lice.

Our modern electric and double-edged razors are a far cry from the shaving implements of these ancients, Dr. Lechler points out. Lacking modern "brushless" and hot-lathering processes, the Egyptians spread clay on their faces. After the clay dried, it was hacked off with flint razors, carrying with it the embedded hairs.

The American Indians used a different method, according to the historian. They steamed their faces, and then pulled the hairs out with tweezers of copper or stone, much in the manner the modern girl plucks her eyebrows.

Today it takes an average of seven minutes for a man to shave, but our ancestors may have taken ten times as long, Dr. Lechler believes.

Brazil Nut Stuffing Vies With Bird

Turkey holds a place of honor at holiday feasts. However, we can still add something new to its glory by way of an unusual stuffing. A Brazil nut and bread cube stuffing is new and truly excellent.

Creamy, chopped Brazil nuts add richness of flavor and texture to the bread base. It is this nut flavor that stimulates the family toward second helpings of a stuffing that will compete in interest with the turkey.

Shelling of the big, crinkly Brazil nuts for holiday use is simplified if the nuts are boiled about three minutes in water. Then drain and cover the nuts with cold water for a minute. Once the shells are softened, the nut meats can easily be removed.

As a special treat with the dessert course, serve toasted Brazil nut chips. Thin, lengthwise slices of Brazil nuts are dotted with butter, sprinkled lightly with salt and toasted 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Brazil Nut Turkey Stuffing

8 cups cubed, day-old bread	½ cup diced celery
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning	2 cups finely chopped Brazil nuts
1½ teaspoons salt	½ cup butter or margarine
2 small onions, finely chopped	¼ cup boiling water

Combine in large mixing bowl, bread, seasonings, onion, celery and Brazil nuts. Melt butter in boiling water. Pour over bread and toss with fork until well mixed. Stuff into bird lightly.
YIELD: about 12 cups stuffing for 10 to 12 pound turkey.

Book Talk

from

INGHAM COUNTY LIBRARY

Hours open to the public: Daily, 2-5 p. m.; Monday, Wednesday and Saturday 7-9 p. m.; Saturday 10-12 a. m. Tuesday and Friday noons. Story hour Saturday 10:00 a. m.

During the week of November 11-17, libraries throughout the country are celebrating Children's Book Week. The purpose of this project is to encourage boys and girls to love books and reading, and to increase public appreciation of good books for children. Librarians hope that many parents and children will visit their library during this period and browse through the large number of interesting books available to them.

For the Saturday morning story hour at the Hall Memorial library, a marionette show, THE THREE WISHES, will be presented for the boys and girls. THE THREE WISHES is an old Swedish folk tale, long a favorite with children. The marionettes for this play were made by Miss Laura Eitel, reference librarian at the county library.

NEW HORIZONS WITH BOOKS is the theme for the 1951 Book Week. Many old favorities, as well as new books continuallly arriving, open new horizons to the interested reader. There are books of facts; books of fun; books of adventure, poetry, music, art, people, places; and books to meet practically every interest.

Among the popular books recently placed on the shelves is one for the young cook, A CHILD'S FIRST BOOK OF COOKING by Alma Lach. This well illustrated text emphasizes safety rules and the directions for cooking are simply and clearly stated so the child can work independently. It is of interest to boys as well as girls.

SQUIRRELY OF WILLOW HILL, a new animal book by Berta and Elmer Hader, will appear to children not only because of its delightful illustrations, but also for its charming story of the Squirrel who was tamed, became a member of the family, and was finally set free to live with the other animals.

Children and parents who are interested in winter sports may want to refer to SKIING FOR BEGINNERS by Conrad Brown for practical suggestions and instruction in skiing. The instructions are well illustrated by many excellent photographs.

LITTLE GAMES AND PARTIES by Margaret Powers will be appreciated by parents, for it contains many suggestions for activities and fun for the youngest children. Other books of this type are PLAYTIME FOR YOU by G. Warren Schloat and WHAT CAN I DO NOW by Emily Dow. For the older boys and girls who want to plan parties, HOLIDAY CRAFT AND FUN by Joseph Deeming is a source of many clever ideas. The invitations, decorations and favors which are suggested are those which are inexpensive and can be made by the older children. Appropriate games for the various holidays are also included.

A newly-published book for the young junior scientist has just been received by the library. This is George Bishop's ATOMS AT WORK, in which Bishop gives a clear, simplified discussion of the nature and behavior of the atom. The books contains many diagrams which help clarify his explanations. WEATHERCRAFT by Althelstan F. Silhaus will also interest the junior scientist with its suggestions for easily constructed instruments for measuring rainfall and for indicating the speed and direction of the wind, as well as its paragraphs on how to fortell the cold weather and rain.

Some recent fiction books for the boys and girls include Eames' GHOST TOWN COWBOY, a new type of cowboy story, Rebecca Caudill's UP AND DOWN THE RIVER, a story of country life along a Kentucky river in the late 1800's. Alden Steven's LION BOY'S WHITE BROTHER, which treats of the friendship of an East African boy and a white boy and their adventures in the African Wilds; Lattimore's THE FIG TREE, a story of Sally who discovered the secret of grandmother's tea set; and many more titles which the children will want to read.

Holt Takes Fourth Title in Row With Win Over Haslett and Snow

Holt did it again. The Ramblers rolled over Haslett in the snow and mud of the Holt athletic field Friday night for a 25-0 victory and the Ingham County league championship.

The two teams did not let the snow and cold of last week stand in their way. Holt students and townspeople worked Thursday and Friday clearing off the snow from the field and parking lot.

Up until Friday morning there was some question as to whether the game would be played. If the game had been cancelled Haslett would have won the crown with its record of five victories and one tie with Holt second in the final standings with a record of five victories and one defeat.

This is the fourth Ingham County league title in a row for the Holt crew. The other crowns were won with Fred Lawrence, now backfield coach at Alma college, at the helm. This year Ted Bauer, working his first year as head coach, piloted the Ramblers to the title.

It was a team victory. The Holt backfield worked like a charm while the Rambler forward wall handled its blocking assignments well and kept the famous Laker attack from ever being a threat.

Herb Hagenbuch, the fancy-stepping Haslett back who has run over and around all other teams this year, could get nowhere. The Lakers gained a total of only 68 yards on the ground.

The Holt pass defense was just as tight. The Lakers took to the air for 21 passes but connected on only three. Haslett gained a meager 49 yards through the air.

While the Lakers were bogged down the Ramblers were having themselves a night. Holt stayed pretty much on the ground. Hugh Smyth, the pint-sized Holt quarterback, tossed nine passes from the T and completed five of them for 64 yards. On the only other pass Jim Kimball did the flinging and Smyth was on the receiving end.

Holt booted away its first scoring chance early in the game when the Lakers fumbled on their own 33-yard line. Then the next time the Ramblers got the ball they set their sights on the Haslett goal 46 yards away and pushed across the first touchdown with a pass from Smythe to Roger Parker.

Bucky Phillips, heads-up Holt safety man, set up the next score with a 41-yard runback of an intercepted pass. He was finally brought down on the six yard line. Kimball took it the rest of the way.

On the very next play from scrimmage Parker picked one of the Haslett passes out of the air and brought it back 19 yards. Smyth faded back and tossed to Kimball in the flat and he went all the way for the third Holt touchdown.

From there on out the Ramblers resorted to straight safe football. No chances were taken. When the occasion arose the Ramblers punted on third down and never once took to the air. The only other score of the game came in the third period when Haslett fumbled on its own 33 yard line. The Ramblers were off again. This time, after having one touchdown called back because of a penalty, Kimball cracked over the middle from one yard out for the fourth and last score.

Holt dropped two games this year. One was its lone conference loss to Dansville and the other was a shellacking at the hands of Mason.

Haslett did not have a loss on its record up to Friday night. Fowlerville held the Lakers to a tie and Eaton Rapids battled it out with the Lakers to a 19-19 tie.

Prospects in the Holt camp may not be so bright next year. Bauer will have to find replacements for 16 lettermen who will graduate this June.

Final Ingham County league standings are:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Holt	6	1	0	12
Haslett	5	1	1	11
Fowlerville	4	2	1	9
Okemos	3	4	0	6
Leslie	3	4	0	6
Williamston	3	4	0	6
Dansville	2	5	0	4
Stockbridge	1	6	0	2

A Two-Stroke Shaver

Clifton Webb shows how to shave in just two strokes. He appears in "Mr. Belvedere Rings the Bell," coming to the Fox screen next Thursday and Friday. There'll be a continuous show on Thanksgiving Day, starting at three o'clock.

Hunters Who Kill Ingham Deer Are Asked to Notify Rose Lake

Hunters bagging deer in south central Michigan areas during the November 15-30 season are urged to notify the conservation department's Rose Lake wildlife experiment station at Lansing.

The hunter can phone the station collect, Lansing 8-8638. A game biologist will go out to weight the deer, measure the horns, and determine the age by examining the teeth.

The hunter can bring the buck to the station if he desires. Rose lake is about 25 miles north of Mason, two miles north of M-78 on the Stoll road.

"We would like to examine every buck killed within a 50-mile radius to the station this season," said Ted Black, station manager.

"A special effort is being made in northern deer country as well, to find out the effects of food supply on deer weight and antler size. Aging deer by their teeth is a new and more accurate method we will be using for the first time.

"Studies thus far indicate well-fed southern farmland deer tend to be heavier and posses larger racks than those of the same age in northern winter food shortage areas."

Black pointed out that a 185-pound, 10-point buck recently shot in Clinton county by an archer turned out to be only one and one-half years old.

An estimated 10,000 deer are in the southern third of the state.

Paint Bargains May Cost Plenty

Michigan farmers today were again warned about tricks coming into the state with painting equipment and "sharpies" who tell a story about having been on a big job in a big city and having just enough aluminum paint left over to cover the metal roofs on the place.

Art Bell, Michigan State college agricultural engineer, says that during the past three or four years there have been literally dozens of these outfits from out-of-state roaming the highways.

He recommends doing business with a local man who expects to be around for awhile. The out-of-state outfits "guarantee" their jobs but in 18 months to two years when the paint fails they aren't around to make good on the guarantee.

Aluminum paint is a good paint if used correctly but it should never be put on directly over rust, Bell points out.

Bulldogs Open Cage Practice

It didn't take long for Mason athletes to make the big change over from football to basketball. Last Tuesday night the football team worked out in the blizzard in preparation for Friday's game with Belding. The game was called off Wednesday morning and Wednesday night cage practice started.

Coach Don Carey will be looking over some new faces this year. This is his second season at the helm in Mason. Last year the Bulldogs had one of their better years. Mason won 12 games and lost only two. The Capital Circuit wound up the 1950-1951 season with three teams on top. Mason was one of them along with Charlotte and Everett.

Coach Carey has some big holes to fill in last year's smooth-working team. Sharpshooter Denny Stolz, a main-stay for three years, is now doing his shooting for Alma college. Jim Kelly, one of the best centers in the state, graduated and Mason's top playmaker of the past two seasons, Phil Parisian, will not be able to compete in the sport because of the 19-year age limit. Bruce Douglas has quit school.

On the brighter side the Bulldogs can count on big Bob Jewett being back along with Jim Roggow and Max Hovey. Roggow and Jewett were both starters last year and Hovey saw plenty of action.

Another member of last year's varsity back for more action is Bob Thomas. He will see plenty of action this season.

Last year Mason was blessed with a better than usual reserve team. They will all be fighting it out for spots on the starting five.

Those up on the varsity this year from the last year's reserve outfit are Jim Heathman, Doug Alderman, Loren Shattuck, Monty Crowell, Jon Davis, Clarence Randall and Marvin Crandall. Two other men fighting it out for varsity berths are freshmen. Charley Willis is a speedster with plenty of promise and Leon Lee is a freshman transfer from Dansville with the makings of a ballplayer.

Members of the reserve team this year will be picked from Ken Colby, Dave Green, Ivan Swift, Joe Graham, Lenny Ballard, Bob Donaldson, Norm Austin, Lora Wilson, Dick Hall, Garth Disenroth, Danny Menovske, Tom McDonold, Danny Hancock, Art Wirek, Chuck Merindorf, Stan Stolz, Bob Scofield, Brian Brondberg, John Coy, Don Lyons and Jody Roe.

Disenroth, Menovske, Hancock, Scofield and Lyons are the only reserves with any experience at all.

The Mason varsity will be able to put quite a lot of height out on the floor. Jewett, Roggow, Alderman and Heathman are all over the six-foot mark.

Mason wil start off the season at Leslie on December 4. The next games will be played at Michigan Center with the first home game a conference affair with Everett. Everett and Howell look like the teams to watch out for this year with Charlotte right up there with its usual good team.

TULSA, AND GOLDEN HORDE ARE COMING, TOO

Jim Thorpe Picture Is Booked by Fox

Walter Wanger in Tulsa, Burt Lancaster in Jim Thorpe All American, the great feature based on the feats of Genghis Khan and the Golden Horde, and Clifton Webb in Mr. Belvedere Rings the Bell are the major attractions coming to the Fox this week and next.

Thursday and Friday of this week Roy Rogers in South of Caliente, and Joe Palooka in The Triple Cross are at the Fox.

Tulsa Coming Saturday

Tulsa, booked for Saturday, is based on historical fact. Co-starring Susan Hayward and Robert Preston, it portrays the colorful background in the birth of Tulsa as one of the world's greatest oil and cattle regions.

When Wanger sent director Stuart Heisler to the Sooner State for location scouting, Heisler discovered the most picturesque pasturelands in Oklahoma are not located in the vicinity of Tulsa. To the consternation of Tulsa's civic leaders, he found the suitable spots nearer Oklahoma City.

As a result, practically all the cattle ranch scenes in the film were shot on the outskirts of Oklahoma City, much to the chagrin of loyal residents of Tulsa and environs.

To make things even, the film troupe spent considerable time in the city of Tulsa proper, with the camera showing many of the city's famous landmarks. After seeing the technicolor film, members of the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce contend that when the grassland scenes are viewed they will look so much like Tulsa grazing regions that few will be able to tell the difference.

The private cattle ranch of Oklahoma's Governor Roy J. Turner, a 12,000-acre estate, was used for one of the many location sites.

Jim Thorpe Carries Ball

Another great film biography is "Jim Thorpe All American," starring Burt Lancaster in the title role. It is at the Fox Sunday and Monday.

A tender love story, a thrilling sportsman's saga, a story of an American Indian who became one of the most widely acclaimed heroes of his day, the real life story of Jim Thorpe packs more interest and drama than half a dozen fictional pieces.

Phyllis Thaxter plays the girl for whom Jim turned from track to the glamorous sport of football to become the nation's number one star. He apparently impressed her, a fellow student at Carlisle Indian School, for they were married when Thorpe returned from Europe where he performed the prodigious feat of winning both decathlon and pentathlon events in the 1912 Olympics. It was in Stockholm that the King of Sweden crowned him champ and said, "You, sir, are the greatest athlete in the world."

He won an honor for every star, this lone Oklahoma Indian whose fighting courage won him the title of "Greatest Athlete of Our Time." And that story is coming to the Fox screen next Sunday and Monday. The title is "Jim Thorpe—All American."

Much drama followed, however, and life held many more battles for the Red Indian boy. Thorpe is today alive and well and living in California where he engages in youth athletic work, a lifelong desire. Last year he was acclaimed by the sportswriters of America in a nationwide vote, "the greatest athlete of the first half of the twentieth century."

Charles Bickford essays the role of "Pop" Warner, the coach and friend of Thorpe. Steve Cochran, Jack Big Head and Suni Wareloud are also in the cast of "Jim Thorpe All American," for Warners.

When the Mongols Rode

Action-packed entertainment at its best is offered in Universal-International's lavish Technicolor extravaganza, "The Golden Horde," which runs Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story is laid in the 13th century when a mighty barbarian host, led by the brutal Genghis Khan, swept westward out of Asia to destroy Samarkand, fabulous gateway city to Persia.

The Mongolian horde, though, meets its match in an army of knights led by Sir Guy of Devon who was sent from England to warn Genghis Khan to stay out of Europe. In some of the most realistic battle scenes ever recorded on film, Sir Guy saves the city of Samarkand and its beautiful ruler, Princess Shalimar.

In the leading roles of Sir Guy and the Princess, David Farrar and Ann Blyth form an excellent romantic team. Farrar, a British film star who makes his American debut in this film, offers an outstanding characterization of the swashbuckling, impetuous knight. Miss Blyth, always a good performer, turns in one of the finest roles of her career as feminine ruler of Samarkand.

The important role of Genghis Khan is portrayed by Marvin Miller, who gives a convincing portrayal of the bloodthirsty war lord. High praise is also given rising young actor Richard Egan who plays Gill, Sir Guy's first lieutenant.

Another Belvedere Film

Anything that Mr. Belvedere sets out to do is accomplished with verve, finesse and a plethora of laughs. That's the superlative way of saying that "Mr. Belvedere Rings the Bell," which opens next Thursday, is a delightfully funny picture. And who can be anything but superlative in reviewing Clifton Webb's polished performances on the screen, not forgetting, of course, "Cheaper by the Dozen" and "Sitting Pretty."

In his newest film escapade Webb, as Belvedere, decides to prove to the inmates of an old folks home that life can be full and beautiful without a dull moment. In the course of rejuvenating the doddering ways of the place, he trifles with the affections of Joanne Dru, the pretty young nurse in charge of the inmates, and ends up stirring the slumbering romantic urges of her fiance, Hugh Marlowe, who plays the role of an inhibited minister.

Webb is at his best as he outquotes a bishop on the Bible, expounds on everything from embroidery patterns to stamp collections, proves himself adept at speaking Chinese and tops everything when he produces a youth potion he claims to have received from a 112-year-old Oriental.

Miss Dru and Marlowe share honors with Webb and add an agreeable touch of romance to the hilarious proceedings. Zero Mostel, who heads the cast, helps bring matters to a climax which threatens to destroy his master's plans as well as his theories. But it remains for Lynn Belvedere's genius and his great heart to bring the crisis through to a happy conclusion. Two of the old people, Billy Lynn and Doro Merande must be given a special hand for their deft comedy performances.

Low-Down on a high-powered Performer

Let us tell you this:

The Buick pictured here packs more power than you find in any other car of its size and room and price.

That's the power of Buick's newest high-compression valve-in-head eight—the F-263 Fireball Engine, that really gets miles from a gallon of gas.

Add to this the fact that it tips the scales at 3817 pounds curbside—and you begin to see why this big-powered beauty is such a nimble-footed number out on the road.

But that's only Chapter I of the performance story.

There's a big-car feel to the way this trim traveler covers the ground—hugs the curves—holds its course on the straightaway—smothers the bumps with its big soft coil springs on all four wheels.

There's big-car room inside—six-passenger room—headroom, hiproom, shoulderroom, kneeroom, front and back.

Come in, look it over, and we think you'll agree—it's big in everything but price.

And that's where it really shines. If you've shopped around you'll know what we mean when you read the price tags, and what they include in the way of standard equipment that shows up as "extras" on so many others. Such things as an oil filter, air cleaner, vacuum booster, built-in summer ventilation are all yours at no extra charge.

It's hard to believe but it's true. If you can afford a new car, you can afford this Buick at the prices we're quoting today.

Better come in and look this smart buy over.

Coyness Is Not in Keeping

People like a modest man, But coyness and modesty are not the same thing.

Many people are becoming convinced that General Eisenhower is more coy than modest.

Certainly the time has come for him to tell where he stands on the most important issues this nation has ever faced. Truly the time is here for the general to say whether he is a Republican or a Democrat and what he intends to do about it. If a man, even a general, is not a Republican he certainly should say so when he is being urged by Republicans to enter the lists for the highest office in the nation. No man, even a general, should keep silent as to his party affiliation, when he is being talked of as a Democratic candidate. If he isn't a Democrat he should say so.

These delegations of politicians who fly back and forth across the Atlantic to take turns saying the general is this or that, or isn't, and that he is a candidate of this party or that, or isn't, are confusing an issue which should be crystal clear.

There can be conspiracies of silence. There is no need or no place for one when candidates for the presidency of the United States are being considered.

If the general doesn't know whether he is a Republican or a Democrat or is reluctant to say, then right now he should remove himself from consideration by either party.

This is the time of all times when a man should be willing to stand up and be counted.

Coyness is not in keeping with the size of the office. For his own good and for the good of the country, General Eisenhower should say what he is and whether or not he is a candidate for president.

"I'd Give Everything"

"I'd give my right arm if I could do that," people sometimes say after watching an outstanding performance.

Yet often they could keep their right arms and still do it.

"I'd give anything if I could play the piano like that," we say when a famous pianist plays.

But we wouldn't. Many of us who say it had the same opportunity to play the piano. All we would have had to have done would have been to practice three or four hours a day. All the sacrifice required would have been for us to study and practice instead of listening to the radio, sitting in a movie, or playing. All we would have been called upon to give would have been a few hours otherwise wasted.

"I'd give anything if I had studied medicine, or law."

What would we have been called on to give besides our idle time?

"I'd give anything if I had taken difficult courses in high school so I could have learned how to study when I reached college," young people say.

Well, all they would have had to have given would have been an hour or two a day that was whiled away.

"I'd give everything I own if I could do that."

That's what we say. But we don't mean it. When it comes right down to cases we wouldn't give anything, or we would have given it willingly long ago.

So we might just as well keep our right arms, our right eyes and our everything, because if we had been really willing we would be on the stage or the television screen and the others would be in the audience, or we would be performing the operations with Doctors Clark, Clinton, Smith and Ponton coming to us with their aches and pains and pocketbooks.

Moving the World

If you would move the world, first move yourself. That's the Socratic theory as expounded by Plato.

It sounds good. It is good. Yet there's something lacking.

A man doesn't move himself just for the sake of moving. He is moved by various and different motives. One man moves himself for money, another for power, a third for position. There are others, and the world needs so many more of them, who move themselves for the good of others.

If you would move the world, first move yourself. The priest and the Levite moved themselves as they passed by on the other side. But the Samaritan had compassion. He stopped to bind up the wounds of the man who had been set upon by thieves. The Good Samaritan moved the world by moving himself to help another.

Hugh Silsby Will Listen

There have been several (at least eight) complaints registered with the Ingham County News over the storage building planned for the east side of the court house.

In every case the complainant has been told, "Tell Hugh Silsby. He's on the committee."

As this is being hammered out Monday afternoon not a person has carried his complaint to Supervisor Silsby.

"I'm willing to listen to anyone's suggestion about the storage building," the Mason supervisor said. "I've been hoping people would call to let me know what they think. Nobody has. Maybe that's what's wrong with our government here in Mason, in the state and in the nation. People will talk among themselves, but they won't go to headquarters."

And maybe he's right. Instead of "Don't Tread on Me" emblazoned on our banners we have embroidered, "I Won't Stick My Neck Out."

Mayor Cobo Stands Out in Detroit

He Might Be the Man for Governor

By Vernon J. Brown

A new star has been discovered in the Republican skies of Michigan. Just coming up over the horizon political astronomers have already recognized it as the personality of the recently elected mayor of Detroit. The mayor himself has given no indication that he cares whether or not he has been detected in his new role. Neither has he indicated in any way he might like the new role being assigned him. Nevertheless it will do no harm to tell what we know about this man Cobo. It might well be his beams may some day lighten the Stygian darkness that now shrouds Michigan's G. O. P. celestial sphere.

Albert E. Cobo is the direct product of the business world. Back in the hectic days of the early 30's, when the late Frank Murphy was mayor of Detroit, that city's financial troubles became acute. Property tax was then about all government could depend upon for subsistence and that source was drying up.

In Michigan, tax delinquency was a very serious problem and at no place was it more severe than in its metropolis. Detroit bonds issued right and left during the glorious 20's were in default. Thousands of home owners were out of work and had no money for the tax collector. Real estate developers were forced to cancel contract sales and taxes were too high for them to meet. Landlords collected rents but failed to pay their taxes. Machinery for forcing collections were cumbersome and ineffective.

Cobo Was Chosen

Wall Street and eastern investors were clamoring for money on bonds in default and about all the hope anyone had was for industry and business to come to the rescue with advance payments on taxes not yet due. Industry and business refused to do this until some order and control were injected into city hall affairs. Board of Commerce officials provided the moving forces, investors met with business heads, and one of the largest industries of the metropolitan area—the Burroughs adding machine concern—was appealed to for help.

Albert E. Cobo was one of the Burroughs field men. He was loaned to the city and given a free hand in reorganizing the tax collecting operations of the city. Elected officials stood aside and Cobo took over. Obsolete methods gave way to modern equipment and up-to-date methods. He fired the inefficient and hired capable people to get the work done and substitute order for chaos and waste.

Cobo mustered influential men of affairs in and about Detroit and came to Lansing for legislation needed to carry out desired reforms. That was when and where I first came to know and to admire the present mayor of Detroit.

Subsequently Cobo ran for and was elected city treasurer in his own right. He made good. Then Detroit elected him mayor and according to last week's election figures, he has made good again.

Radical laborites do not like him. They opposed him when he first ran. They trotted out the best they had against him during the recent campaign. They complained about his attitude during the long street car and bus strike. They charged him with other doings the radicals did not like. But the voters seemed to like the manner in which Cobo had carried on the business of the city. His overwhelming vote is reassuring.

Meanwhile during all the years which have passed since the depression years when Cobo was jerked out of private business to take a plunge into local government and its muddles, he has gone quietly about meeting people in every walk of life and making new friends every day.

Not the Glad-Hander Type

He is not the usual glad-hander type. I doubt if he will ever make a success of square dance calling and I have a hunch he would feel out of place at baby kissing. I doubt if he would ever come to yearn for queens to crown.

I do feel, however, that should the Republican party have sense enough to nominate Albert E. Cobo for governor, his record during the past 20 years in handling the affairs of the city of Detroit would make good campaign material outstate. And if elected, I am as confident as one can be of anything, that his administration would be sound, substantial, efficient and productive of good management and careful consideration of every public question.

Perhaps Mayor Cobo will prefer to remain at his post in Detroit. It may be he has no further political ambitions. Nevertheless I am going to keep my eye on that new star. As its beams brighten and its rays pentetrate farther, that star might lead the wise men of Michigan to a new birth event.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Three Detroit men who had fatal heart attacks while shoveling snow last week went down in history as victims of the blizzard. Had they dropped while mowing their lawns last summer they would have been heat victims. What makes it tough for the metropolitan headline writers is when a man drops while raking leaves in the fall or setting out posies in the spring.

Shoveling snow, raking leaves or running the carpet sweeper all call for more sustained action than a football game. According to John J. Wicker of Richmond, Va., the length of time the ball is in play in a 60-minute college football game is 11 minutes, 40 seconds. That's the ball-in-motion time from the kickoff to the final whistle. With two platoons doing the chores, that's something like six minutes of real action for most players over a period of 2½ hours. When a player gives his all for dear Old Siwash he doesn't have to give it very fast.

A woman moved to Mason two months ago and attended church several times. Why is it, she wonders, that members of the congregation have been able to find her house to sell eggs when the preacher or members of the congregation haven't yet been able to get to her house to invite her to join the church.

For 69 years there has been a clothing store at the southwest corner of Ash and Jefferson streets in Mason. That may be a state record. The state association of clothiers is trying to find out where the longest-established stores are located.

Makers and sellers of men's clothing are having hard going. Young men are buying little because they'll soon be getting free uniforms. Older men are having to economize on clothes to buy food and keep up car and television payments.

In a Chicago paper last week was the statement that President Truman has promised to bolster the American market by buying 4,500,000 suits to clothe South Koreans. He'll have the Koreans all outfitted by Easter, the manufacturers hope.

The V. F. W. will need three good men to take the place of the one they have now lost at the national home. They'll need one to operate the farm, another to oversee the maintenance of the buildings and another to be father to the 200 youngsters. Charlie did all three. No man in Michigan had a more important job. There are now men and women all over the world who look upon Mr. and Mrs. Adams as the only parents they have known.

A few months ago the Ingham County News printed a directory of former boys and girls at the V. F. W. home. While many now live in far places, there are scores who fell in love and settled down close to the only home they ever knew. Or they settled down first and then fell in love. More of them live in Eaton Rapids than in any one other place. A few of them went a little farther, to Charlotte, Grand Ledge and Mason. They're good citizens wherever they are, and Charlie Adams had a lot to do with making them that way.

It's too bad that Nate Davis is deer hunting and not here in Mason to greet Jim Thorpe Sunday or Monday. Nate played guard with the Durant Stars 30 years ago when the Lansing professional team played and defeated Jim Thorpe's team. Jim was on the way down then, Nate said, but was still a hard man to stop.

Three pictures have stirred old memories this week. Charlie Hanna brought in two pictures of men and hores at work on the first improved road over the big hill just east of Diamond road on M-36. I showed the pictures to Edgar Artz of Bunker Hill. He worked on that job and thought he could distinguish his horse in the picture. The horse was a big bay with a star on its forehead. Arthur Aseltine can be seen in the picture. Walter Fosdick was the foreman. The best guess is that the pictures were taken in 1910.

William McCowan, by courtesy of Langley Rayner, has a picture of Mason firemen taken about 1900. Lou Acker and Fred Parker are the only two yet able to answer alarms at Mason. Two others are able to answer alarms elsewhere, George Shaw in Holt and Alva Bell in California. The rest were Jay Lane, John Bateman, Carl Hardenburg, Carl Gansley, Ira Snyder, Felix McDaniels, Al Petty and Arlo Whipple.

That upholstery which beautifies the chassis of C. Harold Knudstrup bears witness to the culinary skill of his wife. Danish rolls and pastries are specialities with her.

According to William Feather, writer of the Imperial magazine (a house organ), the introduction of the Conestoga wagon about 1750 changed the rule of the road to keep right instead of left. The heavy wagons, used for hauling great loads long distances, were pulled by two and three pairs of horses. The driver rode the left rear horse because that position gave him more freedom in the use of his whip. In passing other vehicles he kept to the right so he could see that the passing wagons cleared each other.

In time the ponderous Conestogas forced all other type of vehicles to conform to their rules of the road. Now most of the world swings to the right. Some of them vote left.

Miss Marian Rathbone has 40 pupils in her third grade room at Mason. Ten of them are southpaws. That's 25 per cent. The average incidence of lefthandedness is about 8 or 10 per cent.

Left-handedness is regarded as an hereditary factor. It is usually handed down from father to son or mother to daughter, once in a while by a grandparent. It is increasing because of environment. Only a few years ago parents tried to break the tendency of left-handedness in children. Such treatment is now frowned upon by psychiatrists and child psychologists.

"What harm does it do to switch a youngster over from being left-handed to right-handed," I asked Fred Bell, psychologist at the Lansing Child Guidance Center.

"There may be no actual harm," he replied, "yet it may handicap him to have to do things the hard way for him."

Maybe that's why the Encyclopedia Brittanica reports that the incidence of left-handedness among people generally ranges from 4 to 8 per cent, "except among asylum inmates where the rate doubles."

Modern psychiatrists and psychologists now challenge the Brittanica statement. They declare that the incidence of left-handedness in asylums, if it is high, may be because parents tried to switch their youngsters to right-handedness.

If you feel thwarted or frustrated, try using your other hand.

How many apples are in a pound? Nobody knows, of course, because it all depends on the size and weight of the apples. Color doesn't matter so much. Seems peculiar that grocers sell apples according to weight when they buy them by the bushel. Cherries and raspberries, to name only two, are bought and sold according to quart measure. But apples along with peaches and pears are now bought by the bushel and sold by the pound.

It might be to the growers advantage to work with retailers pushing Michigan apples. Ingham growers sell No. 1 apples for $2.00 a bushel. Seconds are selling for $1.00.

If grocers and wholesalers would buy apples in large quantities, level them off in peck or half-bushel baskets or in cartons covered with cellophane and ribbon, selling Michigan apples would be no problem. Selling them in pound lots like avocadoes from Southern California makes apples appear like a luxury item. And they're not. Ingham apples are tops in nourishment and taste. They're also cheap. It would only take the right selling program to move a lot of Ingham apples right here in the county.

Breeders who raise pedigreed stock—cows and hogs especially—live in a fools paradise of inflated values, according to a prominent breeder here in Michigan.

"If registered stock was bought and sold only among the top breeding farms, such as Pabst and Curtiss, there would be few registered animals selling for much above the average grade prices," he confided to me. "If it wasn't for the new breeders who want to build up good herds and thus buy animals with good names, or the breeders who make a hobby of collecting ribbons and receipt stubs, the old-line breeders would have a tough time selling their get. It's good advertising for a breeder to say he paid a high price for some critter with a name longer than most kings knighted six times."

Registered stock looks good, sure, and production is right up there in most cases, but based only on production alone, it's hard to see the advantage of owning a $20,000 bull over a $200 sire. Unless there was this market for herd names, the $20,000 bull might be in for a let-down.

Livestock Show Attracts Many Farm Youngsters

Young farm boys and girls from across the nation will again play a major role in the big events of the International Livestock exposition.

Greatest livestock event in the world, the International stock show is set for November 24 for an eight-day run through December 1 in the International Amphitheatre of the Chicago stock yards.

Youngsters have always been an important part of the exposition, showing the International grand champion steer 15 times since they were permitted to compete in the open classes in 1928. Similarly they have shown grand champion barrows and lambs in competition with adult livestock feeders and breeders.

A young Texas lad, Lloyd Robinson of Big Springs, Texas, last year showed his blocky Hereford calf to the grand championship of the fat steer show. The outstanding steer, named "Big Spring Special," was later auctioned to establish a record price of $12.00 per pound, enriching young Lloyd $12,300 to start his own purebred Hereford ranch.

The junior livestock feeding contest in which boys and girls show baby beeves, lambs and barrows of their own raising is among the curtain-raisers of the show on Saturday, November 24.

But many more activities for boys and girls bring them into the limelight during International Week. The 30th National 4-H club congress will be held in downtown Chicago, attracting delegates from most of the states, Canadian provinces and a number of foreign countries.

They will be the very cream of the nation's farm youngsters, winning their trips to Chicago through accomplishments in agriculture.

Wednesday afternoon of the great stock show, the massed 4-H club congress members will attend the horseshow matinee in the International Amphitheatre. That evening, before a packed audience of spectators, they will parade, 1,500 strong, around the arena in a spectacular pageant.

Judging contests are also slated for youths engaged in agriculture. College-age men and women will have their collegiate livestock judging contest while club youngsters will have their junior livestock judging contest. They will be rated on their ability to correctly judge the quality of cattle, sheep, swine and horses.

Dairy Bulls Need Balanced Rations

Feeding bulls balanced rations is vital to good dairy breeding practices and profitable for dairymen, says A. G. Baltzer, Michigan State college extension dairyman.

Baltzer supervises the feeding operation for 90 bulls owned by the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative and has some suggestions for feeding the dairy bull.

He said that grain, salt, steamed bone meal, cobalt sulfate and roughage makes up the ration for the bulls. Each bull gets 20 pounds of hay a day, 12 pounds of ensilage and four pounds of grain.

The grain mixture is made up of 1,200 pounds of oats, 600 pounds of bran,300 pounds of middlings, 300 pounds of corn, 200 pounds of meat scraps, 100 pounds each of linseed meal and cottonseed meal, 100 pounds of a high protein-vitamin-antibiotic concentrate and 50 pounds of salt with cobalt sulfate.

Average weight of the Holstein bulls in the MABC bull stud is 2,183, Guernsey bulls weigh an average of 1,678, the Jersey bulls average 1,553 pounds, and the Red Danes average 1,834 pounds.

Baltzer said that dairymen should consider the weight of their cows as well as their milk production to feed most economically for best profit. A tape measure can be used to figure their weights and the Michigan State college dairy extension office will furnish charts for feeding.

Steel mills and foundries need scrap metal badly, especially heavy cast iron such as old tractors, mowers, etc. It will pay you to do one of three things, now with every old farm machine:

1. Fix it up and use it.
2. Sell it to a neighbor who needs it worse than you do.
3. Sell it to a commercial scrap dealer who will break it up and classify the metal for shipment to a waiting mill or foundry.

Scrap collection has become a man-size job . . . with mill requirements totaling 75,000 tons each day to give the nation finished steel we all need. It can't be done without farm scrap.

Supply of Grain For Livestock May Get Short

Livestock numbers are going up at a faster rate than is the feed grain supply so farmers who need more feed grains should buy their 1952 supply of corn at harvest time this fall.

That's when prices will likely be at the lowest level of the year, according to Michigan State college agricultural economists. They explain that the total feed grain supply for the 1952 feeding season will be four to five per cent smaller than the record supplies of the past two years. And the number of animals to eat that grain has gone up three per cent.

This situation will make it necessary to draw on our reserve feed grain stocks and further reduce carry-over stocks by the end of 1952, the Michigan State college agricultural economists point out.

Supplies of oil seed cake and oil meal are expected to set a new record for the 1952 feeding season probably about five per cent larger than the 1951 supply. The big cotton seed crop this year is largely responsible for that. Supplies of linseed and soybean meal and cake probably will be a little smaller than in 1951.

Feed concentrate supplies per animal, including the grains and by-product feeds, will be six to 10 per cent smaller than the big supplies in the past three years but nine per cent larger than the pre-war period.

Hay supplies in the nation are the largest on record. But more hay than usual in Michigan is coarse, over-ripe when cut or damaged by rain, so that the feed value has been reduced.

MEMBERS OF CABINET

MORE FRUITS EATEN

The average person in the United States today eats about 60 per cent more fruits and vegetables than he did in the period 1909 to 1913. Increase in individual diets, plus an increase in population, has boosted the importance of home gardens and other sources of fresh vegetables and fruits.

Bovine Mastitis Can Be Prevented

Farmers could prevent many cases of bovine mastitis, if they would abide by sensible and proved preventive rules.

Mastitis is often brought on by use of faulty milking equipment, and through barnyard and pasture udder injuries which might have been avoided.

One Illinois man lost a $5,000 investment in less than a year simply because he used the wrong kind of suction cup on his milking machine. The entire herd developed mastitis and had to be slaughtered.

To help prevent mastitis losses this winter, dairyman should:

(1) Guard against udder injuries by removing sticks and other sharp objects from barnyards. Also, door sills should be kept free of ice so cows will not slip and stumble on them.

(2) Sterilize milking equipment and use only machines which are properly adjusted.

(3) Avoid rough handling while hand stripping.

(4) Milk infected cases last.

(5) Buy only clean, healthy replacements which are known to be free of mastitis.

(6) Work out a practical control program with the veterinarian, using both medical treatment for affected cows and preventive methods with those that are free of the disease.

Clinton Adopts Tax Schedule on Farm Property

At a session of the Clinton county board of supervisors held last week a rate schedule for farm personal property was adopted.

The supervisors of the neighboring county increased the schedule on livestock, but reduced the rates on new farm tools from two-thirds to one-half the original cost. Used tools will be taxed according to the judgment of the assessor.

The Clinton rates for livestock are:

Registered cows, $175; registered 2-year-old heifers, $125; registered one-year-old heifers, $75; grade cows, $125; grade 2-year-old heifers, $80; grade 1-year-old heifers, $50.

Registered bulls, $175; 2-year-old grade bulls, $100; 1-year-old grade bulls, $75.

Brood sows, $30; other hogs, market value; beef cattle, market value; excess feed, market value.

Operation Helps On Hard Milkers

A simple operation by local veterinarians will save the extra time and work spent in milking the naturally hard-milking cows.

Michigan State college veterinarians explain that the operation is performed on the muscles in the ends of the cow's teats. It gives the milk more room to get out.

Farmers should not try to do the job themselves, the Michigan State college authorities warn, because the udder must not become infected and there is a danger of cutting too deep and making leakers out of the teats.

CONCEPTION OF EQUALITY

The average man's conception of equality is a state in which he will be considered an important citizen.

Farmer Squeezed By Price Spiral

All signs point to an increasing financial squeeze on farmers. Prices of farm products are down 7 to 10 per cent as compared with a year ago. The below normal corn crop due to soft corn and some grain not being of high market value due to the wet summer and fall are definite contributing factors to lower dollar income on farms.

Non-real estate farm debt climbed faster during 1950 than in any year since the end of World War I. It reached the highest point in 28 years, and doubled in the last five years. These non-real estate farm debts may be chattel mortgages, unsecured notes, sales contracts, or open accounts. The farm real estate mortgage debt is higher than at any time since 1943.

A shrinking dollar in return for produce, and a demand for more dollars to buy the same goods make it a real squeeze.

Credit agencies, including the cooperative production credit associations owned by farmers, are unanimous in reporting a violent up-swing in short-term loans.

The executives and the board of directors of the Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul point out that due to this condition many loans ordinarily considered of a short-term type are quite likely to be of long-term nature.

The Capitol National Farm Loan association with offices at 804 East Michigan Avenue, Lansing, has made over 70 loans amounting to about $300,000 this year, reported Secretary-Treasurer George Greenleaf. Hubert Bullen of Mason is president of the farmer-owned cooperative.

A Pork Producer Says:
Try Them Yourself and That Will Convince You

Tom McNeil of Perry is one of the state's most successful pork producers. This year he is feeding six gilts with 58 small pigs. Mr. McNeil is confident that they will average 200 lbs, at 4½ months and that he will not lose one of them.

He has this to say about Wagon Wheel Feeds: "Study the ingredients listed on the tag, ask any farmer who has used them and try them for yourself. That will convince you."

Small white turkey is a popular bird.
Butter imports may be speeded.
Army is demanding beef from slaughters.
Lower profits loom for hog raisers.

The small Beltsville white turkey, developed by USDA scientists, is greatly responsible for the increase in total turkey production during the last year or two. The bird supplies a need for small families. Poultry specialists believe that the small turkeys will increase in popularity. Production of the small type will grow to meet the bigger demand. Incidentally, these small turkeys are better egg layers than the larger breeds. Hence plenty of eggs will be available for a vast increase in this type of turkey.

The small turkeys are better suited for year round marketing. They don't compete too much with the heavy birds which are preferred by institutions and public eating places. Therefore, an increase in the Beltsville Whites wouldn't necessarily mean a downward pressure on the prices of other turkeys.

To get an outlook for turkey production and prices next year, growers should watch 1951 holiday prices; USDA's January report of farmers' intentions to grow turkeys in 1952; the volume of turkeys in storage about February 1; and the USDA's mid-February report of the number of breeder hens on farms January 1.

The army has been having a tough time getting all the beef it needs to feed our soldiers. It has tried to make purchases not only in this country but has figured on getting some Argentine beef.

To help the army get the beef it needs, federally inspected slaughterers will be required to set aside for army purchase all beef they process in excess of their kill in the same period of 1950. Federally inspected slaughterers handle about 70 per cent of the nation's beef supply.

Only the three top grades will be affected—prime, choice and good. Complete details of the program are being worked out. The new set-aside on beef probably will take effect next month.

DDT has been a great aid in fighting flies. But flies have a tendency to build up a resistance to the powerful insecticide. Now comes a new chemical called pyrolan, made by a Swiss firm. It kills DDT-resistant flies. The new insecticide is not dangerous to man and other warm-blooded animals. It is about as toxic as rotenone.

Rats often ignore bait, especially when they have plenty of other feed around. One way to tempt the pests to nibble away at the bait is to add some cod liver oil. Apparently the rats go for the stuff. Iowa State research people say to use a quart of crude cod-liver oil to each 10 pounds of bait which is half-and-half cornmeal and rolled oats.

Pressure is building up for congress to do something about the import restrictions on butter. Butter production is down. So is consumption. Oleo sales have been rising.

A further per capita increase in oleo is expected this year. The somewhat wider than normal spread between retail prices of butter and margarine is one reason for the increase. Also availability of yellow margarine has boosted sales. Production of yellow margarine was 76 per cent of the total the first eight months of 1951, compared with 21 per cent in 1949. Eight states with population of 30 million have recently repealed prohibitions of its sales.

The USDA is asking for an increase in potato production next year. That's the first time the government has asked for more spuds in a long time. Potato surpluses have been a headache for the USDA's support programs. Each year recently the CCC has taken very large losses on the potatoes it had to buy outright or has taken over under commodity loans.

The USDA is asking for a 13-million bushel increase next year. If the 1952 acreage goes up much and weather is moderately good, a serious surplus situation could worry CCC again. Even though the total acreage of potatoes does not go up much, yields are apt to increase and that could result in another surplus headache.

Only three commodities—beef cattle, veal calves and lambs—were above 100 per cent of parity on October 15. Milk and hogs at 95 per cent and corn and soybeans at 93 per cent were among the main commodities over the 90 per cent mark. Potatoes at 76 per cent and chickens at 77 were the tail end of the list.

Michigan State college economists say that lower profits are ahead for Michigan hog producers. The hog-corn ratio in Michigan this year will average slightly under 13 to 1. Next year's ratio probably will be about 12 to 1. (The national hog-corn ratio on October 15 was 12.4 compared with 12.9 in September and the long-time October average of 13.4). The economists stress the importance of more efficient production next year. They suggest trying to have an extra pig per litter at farrowing time. A good average number of pigs weaned per litter in Michigan, they say, is eight.

Miscellany . . . Since January 1, the Chicago stock yards has handled the biggest volume of hogs in seven years. On November 3 the 3,000,000th hog of 1951 reached the market . . . Corn dries about 10 times faster in the field than in an ordinary crib without a ventilator . . Farmers' prices and net income next year are not expected to differ greatly from 1951 . . . Most important factor in economic outlook for 1952 is continued expansion of nation's defense program . . . Egg production next year may hit four per cent higher than the record 1951 output . . . Hog production seems to be leveling off after five years' expansion; downtrend is likely to start next year . . . October price decline this year on commercial broilers began at about the same time as a year ago but has not been as sharp.

POULTRY CULLING

Culling the poultry flock is a job that never ends, say Michigan State college poultry husbandry specialists. It never pays to keep birds that are poor producers.

Ingham County's 4-H Program Has Had Year of Achievement

BY M. H. AVERY
County Club Agent

National 4-H achievement week has just closed. This is the time of year when emphasis is placed on achievements of 4-H club members throughout the nation. The 4-H club organization is the largest rural youth organization in the world. Club members number 2,000,000 of which there are about 60,000 in Michigan and 1,200 in Ingham county.

For many years the 4-H clubs have made their influence felt in education for farming, homemaking and rural community life.

This is certainly a time when all citizens of Ingham county will do well to encourage the work of 4-H clubs; examine the results which they have achieved and tell others of the benefits to be derived from taking some part of the program.

They Establish Goals

Clubs constitute an outstanding body of boys and girls. They attain worthwhile goals in life and as a character-building influence they are of uppermost importance. The work of the 4-H clubs is based on each club member doing a useful piece of work on the farm or in the home or community under skilled guidance and doing it the best way known to research and practice. Clubs have become an outstanding influence in developing the cultural, social and recreational as well as the practical aspects of modern rural life and right now are doing much to help make America strong.

The 4-H summer club program just completed has been outstanding for Ingham county in terms of project completions, honors and trips won in county and state competition and exhibits at county and 4-H state show.

State Honors to County

The National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago the last week in November will be represented by four members from Ingham county, Melvin Showerman will participate in the sheep-shearing contest as winner at the state show at East Lansing in August.

Dave Beatty will compete in the amateur program sponsored by the Goodrich Tire company at a breakfast on Thursday morning of the National Club Congress as one of the top three members from Michigan. LeVon Prentice from the Okemos club receives his trip as top poultry judge in the state, a distinction won at the state show, and Dallas Hyde has been selected as one of the delegates for his leadership program in Ingham county.

Ann Martineau, for her outstanding leadership and 4-H program, has been selected as the achievement winner in the state and her records will go to Chicago to compete for a national scholarship. Ann will receive an artistic statue symbolizing 4-H achievement. Alfrieda Frost of Wheatfield receives a $100 scholarship for her cereal activity in foods. Rhoda Kelly of Okemos receives a $100 scholarship for her baking activity. Russell Buxton and Lee Staser of East Lansing Junior Farmers club receive a trip to Cleveland to the National Junior Vegetable Growers association convention in December with their vegetable demonstration team on roadside marketing of vegetables. They will travel with the state group from East Lansing.

County Wins Plaque

Ingham county 4-H clubs will receive the state's plaque for the safety program during 1951. Trips already taken which were won by members of Ingham county this program which is called the 1952 program since projects will be completed next spring. A leaders' meeting was held last Thursday evening, but because of the inclement weather many leaders were not in. Extension workers suggest that these leaders contact the extension office to get material for their clubs as soon as possible. Communities that need help in getting clubs started are given it by the extension office.

fall were the trip to the Waterloo Dairy Congress by Wilbur Rykert and his father for his winning the clean milking machine demonstration at the state show, and the trip by Stanley Fay given by the Michigan Milk Producers to the International Dairy Show at Indianapolis, and Gwendolyn Oakley, going with her heifer, to show at this same show where she received first in showmanship and sixth on her animal. This is the largest number of honors in trips won by members of Ingham county in any one year. Many other high placings were taken in exhibits at the state show.

Ingham county carried a large program of projects during the summer months and with the closing of the achievement day figures on these projects are available.

There were 1,225 projects completed during the summer season with dairy, 206; vegetable garden, 173; food preparation and outdoor meals, 229; flower gardening, 163; beef feeding and breeding, 49; sheep, 24; swine, 54; horses, 43; poultry, 29; rabbit, 22; corn, 55; potatoes, 16; commercial garden and other field crops, 24; junior leadership, 30; canning and freezing, 90; and wildflower, 13.

This is just about the same size program as for 1950 with some projects increased and some showing a slight loss.

Winter Club Program

Clubs throughout the county are now organizing for the winter

The following clubs already have their enrollments in the extension office:

Canaan Pins and Needles, Mrs. Lee VanKuren, leader, and Lana Dart and Edna Doolittle, assisting; Felt Plains, Marian Wilhelm, leader; Pleasant Grove Sewing circle, Mrs. Ruth Hollihan, Mrs. Marie Allen and Mrs. Arlene Verway, leaders; Sandhill, Mrs. Onalee Cooney, leader; Fitchburg, Mrs. Lee Bailey, leader, with Mrs. Barber, assisting;

Aurelius, Mrs. Lawrence Dolbee, leader, with Mrs. Bigelow and Mrs. Eunice Hill, assisting; Ferris, Mrs. Lora Olney and Mrs. Fayola Dodge, leaders; East Lansing City Stitchers, Mrs. D. L. Clanahan and Mrs. Harold Edwards, leaders; Gunn Busy Fingers, Mrs. George Kahres, leader, with Katheryn Kahres, assisting; Tower Flying Needles, Mrs. Lucille Roggow, leader;

Southwest Leslie, Mrs. DeLoy Monroe, Leader; Okemos No. 1, Mrs. Keith Shaull, leader, Mrs. Frank Hogle, assistant; Marble Needle Pushers, Mrs. George Hunt, leader; Community District Busy Bees, Mrs. Everett Angell, leader, Mrs. Reiser, Mrs. Aber and Mrs. Cornell, assistants; 4-Winds, Mrs. Isabell Miller and Dorothy Hall, leaders.

Handicraft and electrical clubs have very few enrollments in. The Walters-Kipp club, led by Lloyd Wheeler with Mrs. Wheeler, assisting; Ferris club with Tom Olney, leader; and Dexter Trail, led by Gwendon Usher, are the ones now organized.

PICK CORN CLEAN

Clean picking will make corn in the crib keep better, Michigan State college agricultural engineers point out. Loose husks and shelled corn in the crib prevent the free circulation of air through the crib and proper drying is delayed.

Chlordane Helps With Crabgrass

A new approach to crabgrass control, through use of the insecticide chlordane, has been developed by Dr. B. H. Grigsby, weed control research scientist at Michigan State college.

An important part of the research is that applications of chlordane may have both insect-killing and weed-killing value.

Work was first begun on the idea of using the insecticide as a weed killer when it was reported that chlordane applied to the soil left a residue in the soil which affected seed germination.

Results from greenhouse trials indicated that chlordane has the property of delaying emergence and preventing germination of crabgrass seeds. It also has some effect upon the germination of other grass seeds.

This fact is important because all crabgrass control methods now available do not affect seed germination and require repeated applications after the original treatment.

Dr. Grigsby's research at the Michigan agricultural experiment station indicates best results come when the technical resin form of chlordane is used in an oil carrier. Foliage application rates used in the trials, the equivalent of five to 10 pounds chlordane an acre in a refined oil carrier, gave a rapid kill of crabgrass without injury to lawn grass.

Results from applications of chlordane in crabgrass spray oil or in kerosene showed clearly that the insecticide would increase the crabgrass killing properties of these oils without causing undesirable effects on lawn grasses. The method permits a quick kill of crabgrass with a single application of spray mixture and also leaves a residue in the soil which may prevent reinfestation later in the season.

Dr. Grigsby's preliminary tests represent a new approach with an insecticide combined with a herbicide to secure greater weed killing properties. Chickweed can be killed about as readily as crabgrass with chlordane in oil.
