

East Lansing Vote Dumps Lindemer

John J. McCune of East Lansing won a surprising victory over Lawrence B. Lindemer of Stockbridge for the second district Republican nomination for representative. The complete unofficial tally gives McCune a majority of 600.

Both young men had heavy home town backing. But East Lansing is a lot bigger than Stockbridge. While Representative Lindemer won nearly every precinct outside of East Lansing and the townships of Meridian and Delhi, his lead melted when the college city and suburban precincts came in Wednesday morning.

The Stockbridge man carried his home town 10 to 1. East Lansing gave its candidate a 2 to 1 margin. The Stockbridge majority for Lindemer on the 10 to 1 odds was 432. Out in East Lansing the 2 to 1 decision for McCune paid off with a 1,211 majority.

Lindemer had 2 men to beat in East Lansing, McCune and his father, Rev. N. A. McCune, long a pastor of the Peoples church. The reputation of the father aided the son. Lindemer's father lives in Syracuse, New York.

Representative Lindemer was the victor by 8 votes for the Republican nomination 2 years ago. That was a 5-man race. His opponents were from Williamston, East Lansing, Meridian township and Mason. Only Mason from the opposition territory swung over to Lindemer this time.

For the Democratic nomination in the second district George I. Eckman of Leslie had no opposition. Neither did Archie A. Perry and Charles N. Murphy for the 2 Democratic nominations in the first district. The first district is made up of the city and township of Lansing.

Fred L. Kircher fell short in his comeback attempt for a Republican nomination in the first district. Rep. Harold Hungerford was renominated with a total of 9,160 votes. Willard I. Bowerman, Jr., former assistant prosecutor, beat out Kircher with 6,196. Kircher polled 5,866. The other 3 candidates finished with: Harry T. Ward, 4,080; George R. Sidwell, 3,929; and Catherine R. Freeland, 2,300.

The unofficial tabulation in the McCune-Lindemer contest is:

	Lindemer	McCune

Democrats Stage Close Races For Three County Nominations

What Democrats voted in Tuesday's primary made a race of it. Not until the final official tabulation could the winners in the 3 county contests be determined. They finally emerged as Wilbur H. Schade over Benjamin F. Carman for sheriff by 574; George Wm. Parker over Mrs. Maya D. Elmer for county clerk by 1,272; and Mrs. Jennie Katz over Melvin C. Oesterle for county treasurer by 209.

Schade, Elmer and Oesterle had the backing of the so-called Old Guard. Mrs. Katz and Mrs. Elmer are wives of Michigan State college professors. Oesterle is a prominent Leroy township farmer. Parker and Schade have long been prominent in the Democratic party.

Unofficial totals for the 3 offices are:

	Sheriff
Schade	3,097
Carman	3,423
	Clerk
Parker	4,518
Elmer	3,246
	Treasurer
Katz	3,949
Oesterle	3,650

Police Chief Sounds Warning on Gravel Pit Play

Quarry operations on a gigantic scale are starting this week at the Ferris pit south of Mason's residential section.

What's now dry land will be a lake 35 feet deep. What are now bluffs skirting Barnes street will be leveled.

Big machinery is being moved in this week, a 2-yard crane, a crushing plant, a washing and grading plant and big bulldozers.

There's a quarter-million cubic yards of sand, stone and gravel in what was the abandoned Shel-traw pit. The Ferris Co. means to get it out.

But Ed Ferris and Police Chief Ralph Hall realize the hazard that operations at the pit will make. They warn children and their parents of those hazards.

Generations of youngsters have used the pit as a battleground for cowboy and Indian and cops and robbers battles. Older youths have used the pit for rifle and pistol ranges. Men and boys have hunted rabbits and pheasants in the wilderness within the city.

All that must cease, Ferris and Chief Hall warn. Sheer banks will cave in. The sides of the pools will be steep and sliding.

Sold to the state for sand lifts for the by-pass and the south end of the Holt-Mason highway widening are 40,000 cubic yards of overburden. Most of it will come from the ridge paralleling Barnes street from Kipp road north.

Thirty rods north of Kipp road, about the center of the pit, the Ferris Co. will install a crusher. The crane will take sand and gravel from the existing pool and pile it to the east. The crane will dip down to bedrock, probably 35 feet below the present pond level. The material will be piled to drain before it goes through the crusher.

From the crusher the material will be fed through a washer and grader. The graded gravel and sand will then be stockpiled along a road leading west out of the pit to the Michigan Central right-of-way and then south to Kipp road.

The Ferris Co. has sold its blacktop plant but will continue making Komac, a Koppers Co. patent developed under a French formula. The French inventor has been working with the Koppers company and the Ferris Co. for the past 2 years. Komac has stood up in state and federal tests and the Ferris company will mix it and apply it in this area.

At least 30,000 cubic yards of washed material from the pit will be needed each year for Komac processing, Ed Ferris estimated. He expects to develop other markets for sand and gravel, he said.

Consumers Power Co. is running in lines for the washing plant and the crusher this week, according to Ferris.

In addition to the 40,000 cubic yards of fill dirt bought from the Ferris Co. the state highway department has contracted with the East Lansing Sand and Gravel Co. and with E. D. Scarlett for other fill dirt for the Mason by-pass and Mason-Holt widening.

Hundreds of thousands of cubic yards of sand and gravel were taken from the Mason hogback pits when the Michigan Central tracks were laid 75 years ago. The Michigan Electric also dipped into the glacial formation for its roadbed between Jackson and Lansing. Then operations ceased and during the depression the spur which connected the pit with the Michigan Central was torn up. But a lot of sand and gravel which could not be mined profitably with existing equipment can now be had with modern machinery.

"It will take years to exhaust the supply of sand and gravel which was once abandoned," Ferris said. "When that is done there will be a deep lake right here in town. Perhaps a fill can be made along Barnes street so that home sites with lake frontage can be made available. Or maybe by that time the city will need another dump."

The city owns a piece of the esker north of the Ferris holdings and the Smith estate has a pit between the city land and the Jefferson street well.

Water in the gravel down to the bedrock is what supplies the city through the Jefferson street, Park street and the new Mason

Intangible Tax Is Distributed To Local Units

Taxes Are Collected On Bank Deposits and Other Liquid Assets

Ingham cities, townships and villages are sharing $297,458.52 in intangible tax payments. The sum is for the year ending June 30. It amounts to $1.72 per capita.

Intangible tax is collected on bank accounts, certain types of mortgage investments and investments other than real estate.

The 1950 federal census is used in the distribution, with an adjustment between the city of Lansing and Lansing township over the Midway area annexed to the city. The city of Lansing will get more than half the total, $159,163.64.

Now that East Lansing is permitted to include college students in the census, the college city will get $34,959.

Mason's share is $6,044.08 with the city of Williamston getting $3,527.72.

Village shares are: Dansville, $744.76; Leslie, $2,653.96; Stockbridge, $1,888.56; and Webberville, $1,032.00.

Townships will get these sums: County Treasurer Lyle B. Austin reported:

Alaiedon, $2,655.92; Aurelius, $2,549.04; Bunker Hill, $1,833.52; Delhi, $17,332.44; Ingham, $1,324.40; Lansing, $29,616.68; Leroy, $1,750.96; Leslie, $1,890.28; Locke, $1,759.56; Meridian, $15,665.76; Onondaga, $2,494.00; Stockbridge, $1,705.68; Vevay, $1,916.08; Wheatfield, $1,308.92; White Oak, $1,630.56; and Williamston, $2,021.00.

Tomlinson Gets Local Backing in Sheriff's Contest

Sam Tomlinson, former deputy, made a brave showing at home for the Republican nomination for sheriff. But away from home, Sheriff Willard F. Barnes went far out in front.

Tomlinson carried both Mason precincts, his home township of Vevay and the adjoining townships of Alaiedon, Aurelius and Ingham. He came within 5 votes of gaining a tie in Leslie.

Elsewhere in the county Sheriff Barnes, seeking renomination for a second term, piled up big margins over his former deputy.

Support promised Tomlinson from Lansing did not materialize. The unofficial totals credit Sheriff Barnes with 22,154 and Tomlinson with 7,712.

Wilbur H. Schade of Lansing, was the apparent victor in the close race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. His unofficial total stands at 3,997. Benjamin F. Carman ended with an unofficial total of 3,423.

The sheriff's total was the highest received by any candidate. Just 30 behind the sheriff's total of 22,154 was the count of C. LaVerne Roberts, for circuit court commissioner.

Ingham Follows State Trend on Alger and Potter

Ingham Republicans followed the state pattern on their choice of candidates for governor, lieutenant-governor and U. S. senator.

Fred M. Alger for governor, Clarence A. Reid for lieutenant-governor and Charles E. Potter for U. S. senator were alike the choices of Michigan and Ingham Republicans.

Donald S. Leonard made a surprising run for governor. If he was put in the governor's race to aid William C. Vandenberg and hurt Alger, as Alger supporters claimed, then both sides made a big mistake. Because Leonard ended up by taking votes which otherwise might have gone to Vandenberg.

On lieutenant-governor a common question on election day was "for whom should I vote to beat George W. Welsh?"

Welsh was lieutenant-governor back in Groesbeck days. Then he was a Republican, or said he was. Later he became a Democratic candidate for state office. This year he switched back to the Republicans and for awhile Tuesday night it looked as though he were in. Clarence A. Reid steadily forged ahead, though, and is now regarded as the winner.

Here in Ingham Welsh ran first or second in most precincts with Reid, Harry Henderson and David E. Young swapping positions. Yet when the returns were all in Reid led Welsh by 500.

Auditor General John B. Martin, Jr., carried many Ingham precincts, mostly in Lansing, yet Potter gained a lead of 3,000. The split field helped Potter here because in the 2-man race for the vacancy Potter's lead was cut to 2,300.

Dr. Eugene Keyes made a brave run, carrying some precincts. Clifford Prevost, former Detroit newspaperman and now on Detroit Mayor Cobo's staff, was left far in the rear. In some precincts he wasn't given a single vote.

Complete but unofficial returns on the 3 top Republican nominations are:

Governor	Alger	Leonard	Vandenberg
	14,038	8,688	8,122
Lieutenant-Governor	Reid	Welsh	Young
	12,617	8,238	7,561
Senator (full term)	Potter	Martin	Keyes
	12,617	9,633	6,802
Senator (vacancy)	Potter	Martin	Prevost
	14,962	12,620	927
Democrat plumped for Senator	Blair C. Moody	Ingham	just like they did elsewhere in Michigan.
	7,536	Ingham votes to 1,158 for Louis C. Schwinger.

Schmeichel Quits To Join Staff at New York School

Julius Schmeichel, superintendent of public works at Mason, resigned at a special meeting of the Mason city council Wednesday night. Schmeichel took the job a year ago.

"I agreed to come to Mason for a year," Schmeichel said Thursday morning. "That year is up. I have had several job offers since coming here and have passed them up. However, I now plan to accept a job offer at a military school in New York state."

Schmeichel served 17 years in the army. He was released a year ago with the rank of major. He served as post engineer at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, before coming to Mason.

"The council has no definite plans on how to carry on Schmeichel's work when he leaves a week from Friday," Mayor C. H. Hall stated Thursday. "He has set up cost accounting records and many other records which must be kept up to date. It will be difficult to find a man who can handle the accounting job and also do the foreman work out on the streets."

The council is looking for a local man to take over the duties

Both Clardy and Hayworth Are District Winners

Ingham backing gave home county candidates victories over Genesee opponents for congressional nominations.

With solid Ingham backing, Kit Clardy won the Republican nomination for representative by 9,000. In lighter Democratic voting, Prof. Donald Hayworth of Michigan State college took the nomination by 1,500.

Genesee county had 3 candidates in each party race. Ingham had only 1. Livingston had none.

Clardy amassed a total of 17,250 in Ingham. That was more than the combined vote of his 3 Republican rivals.

Hayworth had the CIO endorsement in both Genesee and Ingham. However, Herbert W. Devine, who won the Democratic nomination 2 years ago to lose out to William W. Blackney in the November election, came out the winner in Genesee. By picking up a few extra in every precinct, and by his town vote in East Lansing, Hayworth went to the front.

Hayworth was an unsuccessful candidate for the nomination 2 years ago, losing out to Devine.

Blackney was not a candidate for renomination by the Republicans. Clardy ran against him 2 years ago.

Republicans in the eighth district registered an upset. Alvin M. Bentley III, a millionaire and a former state department diplomat, ousted Congressman Fred L. Crawford, completing his 9th term. Bentley has been campaigning for Crawford's post for 2 years.

Here are the returns:

	Republican	Clardy	Flynn	Gardner	Stanton
Ingham (complete)	17,250	3,482	5,143	3,509
Genesee (143 out of 144 precincts)	8,410	4,185	12,617	5,434

ABSENT VOTES RECORDED
In Mason 76 votes were cast by the absent voter method. There were 46 absent voters in the first precinct and 30 in the second, reported Clerk George Kellogg.

Carol Davis of Lansing is the new proprietor of what has been Horn's shoe store at 124 West Maple. The change in ownership became effective August 1.

For 8 years Davis was sales manager of the refrigeration division of Kold-Hold Manufacturing Co. of Lansing. He and Mrs. Davis have 3 sons, Ron, 16, Gary, 14, and Leon, 11.

In addition to his business activities, Davis is a musician. He has been the director of the choir at the Bretton Woods Covenant church west of Lansing, although both Mr. and Mrs. Davis are Methodists.

C. K. Horn bought his shoe store from George Deuel 8 years ago. The store was then located at 130 East Ash. Two years ago Horn moved his stock to the Maple street location.

Horn is now a salesman for Jung shoes, Sheboygan, Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Horn plan to continue to make their home in Mason.

3 New Barns Are Ready for 4-H Livestock

Methodist Choral Concert Scheduled Sunday Night As Preliminary to Fair

After a summer of painting, new construction and general cleaning up, Ingham will throw open the gates to the county fair Monday afternoon. The fair will continue through Saturday night.

Three 30x100 barns were built this summer for 4-H club cattle and horses. The exhibitors office near the brick building has been pine-paneled. Sewage from fairgrounds toilets has been re-routed to better drainage fields and to the Mason sewer system.

"Folks will notice a lot of fixing up when they come to the fair this year," Secretary Joy O. Davis said.

Enthusiasm on the part of farm and commercial exhibitors is higher than usual, according to Davis. All commercial space in the exhibit tents and the brick building has been sold. Davis said. Entry blanks for 4-H and open class exhibits have been coming in at a record-breaking pace, he added.

The Mason Methodist church choir will lead off fair week with a concert at the grandstand Sunday night. The choir is directed by Mrs. L. Derwood Carn, church organist.

All exhibits, other than horticulture entries, must be in place by Monday noon, according to Davis.

Wrestling Monday Night
Professional wrestling will lead off the week of entertainment at the grandstand. Fair officials have booked 4 wrestling bouts for Monday night.

Klein's Revue will take the stage Tuesday night and continue the acts through Saturday night. The previously scheduled auto thrill show has been cancelled.

Horses and tractors will pull in contests scheduled during the week. Tractors will have their chance at the tug line Tuesday afternoon. All rubber-tired tractors are eligible. Rules call for the tractors to pull from a tight chain on a draw bar not over 20 inches from the ground.

Both light and heavy horses will pull Saturday afternoon. The horse-pulling contest will begin at 1:00 p. m. The horse pulling contest usually draws the largest crowd at the grandstand during the week.

Three livestock parades are scheduled. One each will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

Governor to Preside

Governor G. Mennen Williams is scheduled to auction off last year's scramble steers Friday afternoon. The calves have been fed by Ingham youngsters since last year's scramble. Old Price & Sons of Mason will assist the governor with the selling.

More scramble calves will be loosed Friday night for the 1953 fair and fat steer sale.

W. G. Wade Shows will move into town with rides, side shows and exhibits Sunday.

Three days of racing are scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons with purses totaling $12,400.

Day for Children

Monday will be children's day at the fair. All rides will be 9c for children until 6:00 p. m. A special matinee will be held at the grandstand, according to Ralph Strope, superintendent of the event. Boys and girls will compete in running races and other sports. Ponies will race and pets will be paraded for prizes. Admission to the grandstand will be 9c. Every entrant in the pet parade will receive a free ticket for any ride on the midway, according to Strope.

Main gate for the fair has been moved further east on Ash street to near the exit gate. The change will enable cars to be parked faster than before, Davis stated. The walk-in gate and the south gate will be opened as in the past, he added.

DEXTERS MOVE TO MASON

William D. Dexter and his wife Dr. Mary Dexter and their 2 youngsters moved from Lansing to their home at 229 East Maple last Thursday. Mr. Dexter is an assistant attorney general. Dr. Dexter practices medicine in Lansing. While she intends to continue practice in Lansing through October she answers Mason calls when she is available.

Voting Increases 57% in Two Years

Up 57% in 2 years was Tuesday's primary election vote.

In 1950 the total number of voters at the fall primary was 25,146. This Tuesday the total climbed to 39,542.

One reason for the increased vote, election workers agreed, was the interest among young voters. The percentage of young voters who went to the polls Tuesday was far higher than normal, it was claimed. There were many youthful candidates on both Republican and Democratic tickets and most of them did well.

The vote by parties at the elections 2 years apart was:

	1950	1952
Republican	20,106	30,848
Democratic	5,040	8,694
	25,146	39,542

Coon Earns 30-Year Consumers Pin

Glen Coon will complete 30 years of service with the Consumers Power company Friday. Before the day is over he will be wearing a 30-year service pin.

W. R. Carlyon of Lansing, division manager, will come to Mason to make the presentation to the Mason branch manager.

Coon started work for Consumers August 8, 1922, doing miscellaneous work at Ionia. In November of 1925 he transferred to the meter department as a turn-on-turn-off man. He continued at that job until 1933 when he was made a serviceman in the service department. On May 1, 1935, when Carl Plank left Mason to become manager at Carson City, Coon was transferred from Ionia to

Methodist Choir Will Open Fair with 'Musica Americana'

The 35-voice Vesper Choir of the Methodist church will again present its annual concert "Musica Americana" as the opening activity of the Ingham county fair.

As in the past, this year's program will include old favorites and new songs which have been sung since the days of the pioneer. Melodies which were played on the showboats of the Mississippi, spirituals from the deep south, patriotic hymns of yesterday and today. These musical selections on "Musica Americana—52" are sure to include favorites of everyone from the youngest to the oldest and are neatly and smoothly tied together by the narration of Jim Lewis, who made his initial appearance in that role at last year's program. His background of writing, producing and narrating programs of this nature has long been an established fact and his local radio program "Song of Michigan" which he introduced in 1945 has been heard throughout the entire state.

Featured on this year's concert will be the solo voices of Joe B. Dean, who will repeat his great performance of the first "Musica Americana" with the stirring "Ballad For Americans." Glen Dunn, who will be heard in the "Warlike Medley," a special arrangement of the songs which bring back memories of the days of both World War I and World War II. This section of the program also introduces the women's choir composed of Nancy Bartlett, Anna Welsh and Mrs. R. R. Robbins as they blend their voices to sing, "My Buddy."

Wayne Bullen will again sing the lead in the famous patriotic hymn, "America, the Beautiful" and the men's chorus will be featured throughout the program in addition to the entire chorus effect. Orchestral accompaniment has been arranged for through the co-operation of the American Federation of Musicians and the Lansing Federation of Musicians, Local No. 303. Special sound effects and lighting will be used in the presentation, also.

Other selections scheduled for "Musica Americana—1952" will be "Empty Saddles," a medley consisting of "Oh Susanna," "California Here I Come" and "Home on the Range;" the old favorite, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia;" "Indian Summer" by the late Victor Herbert; "Deep River" the traditional spiritual, and many others of equal popularity. These will all be molded into the unusual treatment of this year's concert under the baton of L. Derwood Carn, musical director of WJIM—WJIM-TV, who will appear again this year as guest conductor of both orchestra and choir. Mrs. Derwood Carn is choir director.

In case of inclement weather this year, the program will be presented in the Methodist church auditorium.

Otto Hartig, president of the Ingham fair board, will appear on the program to extend a welcome to fair patrons.

of foreman for the city and possibly another man to do the book work, the mayor indicated.

"Schmeichel had a tough job cut out for him when he came to Mason a year ago," Mayor Hall said. "From scratch, he set up cost accounting methods used in good businesses. He made up this year's budget with facts of probable revenues and expenditures behind it. His budget included the city's first equipment fund which will make a big difference when buying equipment in the future. Schmeichel did much to bring modern business management to Mason. We are sorry to see him go."

Schmeichel received a yearly salary of $4,200 plus compensation for his car. He lives in Lansing at the present.

Besides being superintendent of public works, he served as budget director and building inspector.

GIRL SCOUTS MEET

Troop 3 of the Girl Scouts held a regular meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Howard Schbert. They made tags for American Legion to pass out at the polo exhibit at the county fair. The next meeting will be Tuesday.

Clardy Victory Is Unity Sign

His victory is a symbol of Republican unity, Kit Clardy declared Thursday morning.

Clardy was an original Taft man but he swung behind General Eisenhower after the national convention. Two years ago after losing out to Congressman William W. Blackney, Clardy did everything possible to aid the Blackney cause in November.

"People who are banking on a rift within the Republican party may become victims of their wishful thinking," asserted Clardy. "There is no rift that I could find. I do not regard my victory Tuesday as a personal tribute. It is due entirely to the demand for the end of Trumanism."

"A hard fight lies ahead," Clardy said. "The victory will have to be won over an entrenched machine which reaches out from Washington and Lansing into every precinct. To win in November Republicans must start doing battle right now."

Parties Choose County Delegates

Ingham Republicans selected 12 delegates at Tuesday's election to go to the county convention next Tuesday night. Delegates are C. Ross Hilliard, Nelson Brown, Frank Evans, Ralph Stroppe, Max McCann, R. R. Robbins, William P. Barnes, Herbert Howes, Glen R. Dunn, Alton Stroud, Frank Guerrero and J. B. Don.

Democrats chose Kenneth Shattuck, Stanley Bowen and Arthur Jewett for delegates to their convention which will be held Wednesday.

Legion Baseball Is Added To Ingham Fair Program

Ingham county fair patrons will be treated to 3 days of baseball. Mason's Junior American Legion team will play Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Tuesday at 2:30 Mason will take on the National VFW home. Wednesday at 5:30 Mason will square off with Stockbridge and Thursday at 5:30 Haslett will provide Mason with the opposition.

Mason will warm up for the fair week schedule with a game at the county park Thursday night with Post 12 of Lansing.

Stolz Hurts No-Hitter Stan Stolz provided the best performance in last week's Junior Legion baseball play. He came up with a no-hitter in his first appearance on the mound. Mason swamped the VFW team from the national home 12-1. All of Mason's runs came in a big third inning on 11 solid hits, including 3 home runs by Bob Jewett, Harry Hallenbeck and Bucky Phillips. Jewett also smacked out a double and a single in 4 trips to the plate.

In hanging up his no-hitter Stolz fanned 9 men. The VFW boys scored their lone run in the sixth inning on 2 walks and an error.

Haslett Falls Next Tuesday night Mason returned to league play with a 6-5 victory over Haslett. Coach Harold Haase's crew had to come from behind in the sixth inning in order to do the job. Mason scored 2 runs in the first inning. Haslett came back with 2 runs in the second and then went out in front in the third with a 3-run spree.

Mason finally got going in the fourth inning and added 1 run and then broke loose in the sixth with 3 more. Mason collected a total of 7 hits, all of them singles. Haslett got to Jon Davis and Loren Shattuck for 7 hits, too.

Service Clubs Swing at Ball

The Mason Lions club whalloped the old men of the Kiwanis club in an inter-club match held at the Mason golf course last Thursday evening. Dr. R. R. DeMartin and Lee Ware were the leaders for the youngsters.

Prizes for many feats ranging from DeMartin's "low net" to Frank Guerrero's "most 8's" were donated by Schmidt's Department Store, Ball-Dunn Furniture, Ware's Drug Store, Perkins Hardware, Davis' Clothing, Mason Golf Course, Frank Guerrero and the Fox Theatre. Maurice Rickly walked off with the door prize.

Minister Is Hurt In Car Collision

Rev. Paul L. Arnold was injured and his car was wrecked in an accident 5 miles south of Jackson Wednesday forenoon.

The Mason Presbyterian pastor with his son John, home on leave from Great Lakes, and Miss Jane Loos of Detroit were driving to Dayton, Ohio, to bring Rev. Arnold's parents to Mason.

At an intersection a car came off a side road and turned left to pass in front of the Arnold car. Frank Lewis of Adrian was the driver. With him was his wife. They told state police they did not see the Arnold car until too late to stop. They were headed toward a roadside restaurant driveway, they said.

The 2 cars struck sideways and the Arnold car was shoved against a structure holding 6 mailboxes. Rev. Arnold was riding in the right front seat. His head struck the windshield with such force that glass was broken. A plank from the mailbox support came through the vent in the door window and struck the Mason minister on his arm and shoulder.

Rev. Arnold was brought to the Mason General hospital by ambulance. Examination revealed no broken bones. He did suffer painful cuts and bruises. His son, who was driving, and Miss Loos, sitting between father and son, were unhurt.

BEARSS CAN TEACH

The state board of education has reinstated the teaching certificate of Hubert A. Bearss of Stockbridge. His certificate was taken up a year ago when as superintendent at Litchfield he supplied false information on enrollment. The incorrect figures gave Litchfield added school aid from the state. The state board of education issued Bearss a certificate for a year, indicating that at the end of the year his certificate may be restored. Since the incident at Litchfield Bearss has spent most of the time on his farm near Stockbridge.

JIM BROWNS BUY HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown have bought the former Webb Darling home at 844 South Barnes street from Frank Hazelton. They plan to move in a week. They have been living at 428½ South Jefferson.

TALLYING TOOK TIME

Precinct workers at Mason put in a full day Tuesday. They started in at 6:30. It was 2:30 the next morning before the first precinct was finished with the count; 4:30 when the second precinct crew finished up.

Farm Bureau Has Picnic Wednesday

Two hundred Farm Bureau members gathered at Rayner park, Mason, Wednesday to attend the annual Ingham county Farm Bureau picnic. Dinner was served at 12:30.

County Agent James P. Hoekzema, speaker of the day, chose the timely topic of "Farmers' Problems in Today's World." Entertainment for the picnic was furnished by 4-H members of the county. Billy Crumbaker of the Vantown club gave his ventriloquist act, which was highly acclaimed. The White Oak accordion trio, composed of Gwendolyn Oakley, Marlene Warfle and Diane Felton, played selections.

Welsh Ran Well In Rural Ingham

An interesting sidelight on the perils of name voting is to be found in the county tabulation of votes for lieutenant-governor cast in Ingham county. There was no apparent reason for rural voters to select the former Grand Rapids mayor as their choice for this office. Yet in all but 4 townships, Welsh led in a field of 4. Even in Mason he finished 15 ahead of his nearest rival. Voters must have picked for a familiar name. So far as is known, Welsh is not particularly well known in this county except in and about Lansing and there he ran in second place. Senator Clarence F. Reid of Detroit leading. In East Lansing, also Welsh finished in second place.

Quite in contrast, in his home city of Grand Rapids where he is known and where he has suffered repudiation several times, the voters chose to favor Senator Reid of Detroit with a plurality of nearly 1,000. In fact, in his home city, where Welsh is personally known, his neighbors voted 28,533 for his 3 rivals against a total of 15,779 registered for Welsh.

Mia Bell Humphrey in First Run Makes Clean Sweep for Register

Mrs. Mia Bell Humphrey of Mason and Vevay township registered a sparkling victory in the Republican primary Tuesday. She won all 86 precincts over her male opponent, Francis H. Taft of Lansing.

Mrs. Humphrey ran up the biggest victory margin of any candidate on either ticket having opposition. Her unofficial total stands at 19,767. Taft was credited with 8,902.

Two women will now fight it out in the November election. Ann Robinson is the Democratic candidate. She had no opposition Tuesday.

Mrs. Humphrey has been in the register of deeds office at Mason for 27 years, 22 of them as deputy. Following the death of Mrs. Ethel L. Phillips in May, Mrs. Humphrey was appointed to fill the vacancy for the term ending December 31.

County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard, County Treasurer Lyle B. Austin, Drain Commissioner Gerald L. Graham, Coroners Harry E. Leadley and W. Ray Gorsline and County Surveyor William C. Berryman are the Republican candidates nominated without opposition.

Council Asks for Detailed Plans on $100,000 Sewer

City Engineer Walter Zimmer will have an estimated $100,000 sanitary sewer program prepared in 2 weeks. Councilmen ordered the plans and estimates after listening to Zimmer's recommendations at the meeting Monday night.

The proposed sewer would drain the general area between Jefferson and McRoberts streets south of Oak street.

"Raw sewage is being dumped into the Sycamore near the Elm street bridge," Zimmer told the council members. "I met with state health officials last week concerning the creek pollution and they urged that the city take steps to correct the situation."

Zimmer met with W. F. Shephard and William Peterson of the state health department and Ross Richmond, city disposal plant superintendent.

"The state is not prodding or pushing the city into this program," Zimmer stated. "State officials have just suggested. We have not been cited."

Zimmer's plans will call for a new digester and drying beds at the plant along with other equipment. A pumping station would also be necessary to pump the raw sewage from the lower level of the proposed sewer network to the level of the present system.

The original sewers are not deep enough for gravity flow of sewage from the southwest section.

Homes in the proposed sewer area are now served by privately-built septic tanks.

Councilmen agreed that if the program is financed by revenue bonds that the sewer rates will probably have to be raised.

"I doubt if the existing rates would satisfy a bonding company," Mayor C. H. Hall said. The rates were raised a few months ago.

City councils have discussed a sanitary sewer for the area for at least 10 years, according to Zimmer.

During the depression, the plans for a WPA sewer project were developed for the southwest area. It was given up for another project.

An ordinance bringing the Hall boulevard area on the east side into a drainage district will be presented at the next council meeting. Councilmen asked City Attorney Howard McCowan and Zimmer to draw up the ordinance. The ordinance will concern only storm sewers, McCowan stated. Sanitary sewers are already available in the Hall boulevard area.

Mia Bell Humphrey

Besides Mrs. Robinson, the Democratic candidates who were unopposed for nomination were Jesse D. Parks, prosecuting attorney; Stanley E. Rhoads, drain commissioner; and Gale H. Burridge, coroner.

Berryman is the only candidate on either ticket practically sure of election. The Democrats have no nominee for county surveyor.

RIDGE WORKING AT PETERS

Edgar Ridge is working at Peters drug store during the month of August. He and his wife and daughter, Joan, then plan to move to their home in Kindale subdivision, 2 miles east of Okemos. Ridge will start working for the College drug store in September. This is the first time since 1938 that Ridge has worked in Mason.

Sheriff Is Victor

Sheriff Willard P. Barnes, seeking re-nomination to a second term, turned in an impressive victory over Sam Tomlinson, Vevay, who resigned his position of deputy to run against his former chief. Barnes' vote topped Tomlinson's, 22,154 to 7,712.

Sickness Doesn't Stop Preacher

Not even appendicitis could keep Rev. Sam Seizert, pastor of the Dansville Methodist church, from preaching to his congregation on Sunday morning. In spite of the pain he was suffering, Seizert delivered his sermon, then went to the Mason General hospital for the operation.

Seizert began to feel bad Sunday morning. He had had his first attack about a month ago, but is enrolled in summer school at Michigan State college and was hoping to finish the term before the operation became necessary. He wrote his last examination Friday.

The pastor, who is serving his third year at Dansville, had hoped to be in the pulpit again Sunday morning, but Thursday morning his wife stated that he probably will have to miss the service.

SUPERVISOR IS BEATEN

Supervisor John Russell of Lansing was defeated as Lansing alderman in the primary Tuesday. He finished third and is therefore eliminated from the November runoff. Russell now heads the county building committee on the board of supervisors.

Sewer System Is Safe for Fair

Fair officials are proud of the reconditioned sewer system at the fairgrounds, Secretary of the Fair Joy Davis claimed Wednesday. Toilet facilities at the 4-H building and at the north end have been connected with the city sewer system. The toilet at the south end of the midway uses a 12,000-gallon septic tank with a huge disposal field, Davis explained.

Both systems positively take care of all sewage at the fairgrounds, Davis pointed out. There is absolutely no raw sewage seeping into the park ponds, he added.

Canvassers Start Tabulating Votes

Ingham's board of canvassers began the vote check Wednesday forenoon.

Making up the board are James B. McIntee, Bunker Hill, chairman; Mrs. Eleanor Smith, Lansing; and Robert Inghram, Jr., Mason. County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard is clerk of the board of canvassers but has no vote in decided contests, if any arise.

The canvassers check precinct returns and tabulate the vote in permanent records. Totals which appear in newspapers or are announced over radio are unofficial. Only the canvassers after checking the tally sheets arrive at the official figures. Their check will probably not be completed until Friday.

Work Is Started On Church Repairs

Mason Presbyterians have begun work on their building improvement program. They are replacing the 50-year-old slate roof, remodeling the chancel, installing a ventilating system, redecorating the interior of the sanctuary and laying a new carpet.

The estimated cost of the improvements runs between $9,000 and $10,000.

C. C. Colton of Lansing has the contract for laying a Johns-Manville asbestos roof to replace the slate which has been disintegrating. The Schanbacher Co. of Springfield, Illinois, is doing the redecorating. Lawrence Simpson has the contract for remodeling the chancel. The remodeling will provide a bigger choir loft and make more room behind the altar.

Units Receive Highway Money

Ingham county and Ingham cities and villages are receiving checks for their shares of state motor vehicle revenue for the second quarter of 1952.

The state receives 44% of the money from weight and gasoline taxes; the counties get 19% and cities and villages get 37%. City and village shares are based on road and street mileage.

Ingham county will get $163,106.23.

City and village shares will be distributed as follows: Lansing, $119,641.86; East Lansing, $17,661.99; Mason, $5,449.48; Williamston, $4,168.94; Leslie, $246.25 (overpayment on previous distribution deducted); Stockbridge, $1,280.81; Webberville, $862.85; and Dansville, $756.66.

Summer Clearance sale still on at Schmidt's.

Workers Clear Fire Debris for Office Building

Sears from the 1949 fire which razed the 3 Schlack buildings on Maple street started to heat Tuesday morning. Mrs. Peter Thomsen, formerly Mrs. Bertha Schlack, was on hand to see William Bennett and his workmen from East Lansing clear the area before erecting a double-front single-story office building. The building will be finished in October, according to Bennett.

Mrs. Thomsen replaced 1 of the buildings 2 years ago. Collins Sales and Service occupies the building.

The new building will house 3 federal agencies, the Soil Conservation office, PMA and Farm Home Administration. There will be a total of 7 offices, including one big conference room which will be used by all 3 agencies.

Fire broke out early in the morning on January 19, 1949. Flames threatened the whole block including the city hall. Firemen fought the flames for 3 hours before gaining control. Mrs. Thomsen owned the 3 buildings and had her apartment over the center building. All the contents were destroyed. Mrs. Thomsen was living at her citrus ranch in Alamo, Texas, at the time of the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Morse operated a restaurant in one of the buildings. All equipment was destroyed.

Clarence Jacobs lost his entire stock in the hardware store he operated in the west building.

Fox Cleaners was destroyed, including all garments which had been left for cleaning and storage.

Plans call for a brick-faced building to be erected with cinder block walls. All of the west wall which remained after the fire is good enough to be used in the new building, Bennett stated.

Mrs. Osmond Beckwith of New York, daughter of Mrs. Thomsen, now owns an interest in the buildings. She and her husband are in Mason and will remain until the building is completed. Mrs. Thomsen plans to return to her home in Nebraska within a few weeks.

Incumbents Lead In Judicial Test

Circuit Court Commissioners C. LaVerne Roberts and Arthur L. Kramer led the field of 5 seeking the 2 nominations.

The law provides that double the number of candidates for non-partisan judicial offices be nominated. That permits 4 men to qualify for the November election. Edgar Lee Church and Guy H. Hill, Jr., made it. Eliminated was Lee C. Dramis.

Unofficial totals in the 5-man race for the 4 nominations for the 2 officers are:

Roberts 22,124
Kramer 15,354
Hill 12,934
Church 6,306
Dramis 3,929

Because only 2 candidates filed for the office of judge of probate both were nominated without going into a primary.

Judge John McClellan is opposed by Robert M. Montgomery for judge of probate. Montgomery is now a first district legislator and Lansing township justice of the peace.

Michigan law does not require that a judge of probate be a lawyer, although such has been the case in Ingham for many years. Montgomery is not a lawyer.

THIEVES STEAL CHICKENS

Chicken thieves broke into Harry Brown's chicken house in Onondaga Wednesday night and stole several birds. Sheriff's officers are searching for clues.

HAIRER OFFERED AS PRIZE

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob DenHerdter, of Charlotte are again offering the prize of a hairer for the grand champion female in the Brown Swiss class of the 4-H department at the fair. DenHerdter is a Brown Swiss breeder at Charlotte.

Officer Arrests Without Warrant

Someone at the county prosecutor's office didn't pass the word, or if they did, the sheriff's office didn't get it. Believing that a warrant was in force, Deputy Charles Cook of Mason did just that Sunday afternoon. He served it on Lawrence Robertson in Lansing. After a tussle, Robertson was hauled to the county jail in Mason. Later it was learned that the warrant had been canceled more than a year ago.

Robertson was released Monday. Cook was relieved of duty by Sheriff Willard P. Barnes soon after. Robertson claimed that Cook brandished a gun while taking him to the county jail. Robertson is Cook's son-in-law.

Party Delegates May Expect Call

With the primaries out of the way, party workers are now getting ready for the party conventions.

Ingham Republicans will meet in the Legion Memorial building next Tuesday night at 8 for their convention. Ingham Democrats will meet in the circuit court room at Mason Wednesday night at 8.

Delegates to the county conventions will choose delegates to the state conventions. At the state conventions delegates will nominate candidates for secretary of state, auditor general, state treasurer and attorney general. They will also make nominations for the vacancy on the supreme court, although the November election of the justice will be by non-partisan ballot. The vacancy was caused by the recent death of Justice Walter North of Battle Creek.

The delegates to the county conventions were chosen at the primaries by having their names written or posted on the ballots.

County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard's list of delegates. The clerk has staff is now going over the preliminary responsibility of sending out election tally books to write off the notices to the delegates elected.

'Coon Numbers High

This "money" infant, like the human variety, wants to find out what goes on in the world too. One of the best ways this two-week-old coon finds is to use his sensitive nose. A full grown raccoon can do a top job of defending himself when cornered. Conservation department says the 'coon population is high.

Weather

Fairly cool weather has made its appearance in the county the past week. In sharp contrast to the 50-degree days the past few weeks, high for the week was 87, and on 3 days the mercury was in the 70's.

Average temperature for the week was 67.1 degree more than last year at this time. Precipitation for the week was .41, a result of Sunday night's rain.

Temperatures for the week as recorded at the Mason Sewage disposal plant were:

Williamston's showboat, the first in its history, will sail on the Red Cedar 5 nights next week, starting Tuesday.

Capitol City Chapter No. 8 Disabled American Veterans is staging the Williamston showboat production. The performance is scheduled to start at 8:30 each evening.

The Williamston showboat is new and specially built. It floats on pontoons. Specially designed outboard motors provide the power which develops a speed of 4 miles an hour.

On board the ship will be 100 people singing popular songs and appearing in special novelty acts. One of the highlights of the performance is when the boat comes around the bend and docks before the audience at the 8:30 opening. There will be a different pilot each night.

The "Cotton Pickers' Review" includes 12 popular acts staged by professional entertainers. There are old-time minstrels and men with clever monologue and dancing.

If Used as Trailer, Wagon Is Trailer

State Asks Fee on Farm Wagons

If a farmer hitches horses to his farm wagon and hauls it to town with a load of wheat he doesn't need a license.

Neither does he need a license if he takes the horse-drawn wagon and hitches the tongue to a tractor and hauls the wagon to town.

But if the wagon has no tongue or the tongue is removed and the wagon is hitched to a tractor the wagon thus becomes a trailer and must be so licensed.

Here is the official ruling: Mason Police Chief Ralph Hall received this week from Lee Richardson, director of the motor vehicle division of the Michigan department of state:

"Farm wagon is a type of trailer. Trailer is defined as a vehicle designed for being drawn by a motor vehicle and trailers are subject to registration.

"More fact that a farm wagon is being drawn by a farm tractor which is not subject to registration, does not exempt the wagon from registration unless the wagon was not designed to be drawn by a motor vehicle."

Shiawassee Hires Dr. Roelof Lanting

Dr. Roelof Lanting, who resigned last month as Ingham health director, will head the Shiawassee county health department.

Dr. Lanting came from Shiawassee to Lansing to serve as city health chief. When the city and county health departments were merged July 1, 1947, he became head of the city-county unit.

In Ingham county Dr. Lanting was drawing a salary of $9,000 plus $800 in annual bonus when he resigned. The reported salary offered by Shiawassee in $9,000.

Dr. Lanting, when he tendered his resignation to the Ingham board of supervisors, expressed dissatisfaction over the financial backing given his department. He specifically complained of the restrictions on salaries provided for medical assistants and nurses.

LEGION INSTALLATION

Officers of Browne-Cavender post 148 American Legion will be inducted Thursday night, August 7 at 8 o'clock. They are Harley Ankeny, commander; Kenneth Hill, senior vice-commander; Wayne Miller, junior vice-commander; Richard Brown, adjutant; Ike Froedert, chaplain; Harold Haase, sergeant-at-arms; Frank Guerriero, finance officer; and Dr. L. A. Willeken, historian.

One Is Killed, Ten Are Hurt In Car Crashes

Four accidents chalked up 1 fatality and 10 injured in Ingham county over the week end.

Mrs. Inez Shiffer, 63, Lansing, died early Monday from injuries received in a collision at the intersection of Cavanaugh road and Pennsylvania avenue Sunday morning.

Raymond Karn, 18, his sister, Vanda, 16, Barbara Kerr, 14, her sister Velma, 14, and their brother Ivan, 16, were injured on North Okemos road near Thirt road Sunday evening.

Mrs. Betty M. Clark, 31, of Mason and her 3 children were injured shortly after midnight Monday morning on US-127 just south of Holt.

Leslie A. Mangles, 41, of Eaton Rapids, was injured Saturday afternoon on Onondaga road.

Riding With Daughter

Mrs. Shiffer was riding with her daughter, Mrs. Martha Bandt, 29, of Lansing, when the car collided with one driven by Eugene Schultz, 25, Holt.

Schultz told officers he was driving south on Pennsylvania avenue when the north-bound car driven by Mrs. Bandt turned in front of him.

In the car with Mrs. Bandt and her mother were Mrs. Bandt's husband, Fred Bandt; a daughter, Janet, 14; and Mr. Bandt's sister, Betty, 17, of Lansingburg.

Bandt sustained a broken jaw. Mrs. Bandt and the 2 girls were cut and bruised.

Mrs. Shiffer is survived by 7 sons, Glenn, Williamston; Bert, Lansingburg; Dale, Round Lake; Loyall, Okemos; Philo and Claude, who live in California; and Pvt. Maurice Shiffer of Camp McCoy, Wisconsin; and 2 daughters, Mrs. Arlene Jones of Eaton Rapids and Mrs. Martha Bandt of Lansing. There are also 2 sisters, Mrs. Nellie Maxwell of Williams and Mrs. Alice Newcomer of Charlotte.

Teenagers in Crash

Five Mason young people returning from Lake Lansing were hurt when their car was hit by a car driven by Donald McKrill of Lansing. McKrill was arrested by state police on a reckless driving charge as a result of the accident.

Raymond Karn was at the wheel of the Mason car. He was driving south. Around a curve from the south sped the McKrill car. There was a skid as McKrill applied the brakes and then the crash as the 2 cars collided. Neither of the drivers was seriously hurt.

Vanda Karn is in the Mason General hospital with a doubly fractured pelvis. The Kerr girls and their brother Ivan were all taken to the Mason General hospital. Velma is still in the hospital with painful contusions and the possibility of bone fractures. Barbara and Ivan are at home with bruises and cuts.

Douglas Mills, 29, Lansing, riding with McKrill was taken to a Lansing hospital with cuts and bruises.

Car Strikes Abutment

Mangles told sheriff's officers he thought he was going to be hit and whipped his car off to the right and then lost control. He was driving alone on Onondaga road south of Aurelius Center when he saw a car coming over a rise toward him. Mangles' car struck an abutment.

The Eaton Rapids man was taken to the Stimson hospital in Eaton Rapids to have a cut in his lip sutured.

Clark Family Injured

Mrs. Clark's car struck a tree on US-127 near Holt just after midnight Sunday. She told officers she was blinded by the lights of a north-bound car.

With Mrs. Clark in the car were Ronald, 8; Janice, 3; and Patricia, 2. Mrs. Clark and the 3 children were taken to the Edward W. Sparrow hospital in Lansing. Janice remained there with a fractured thigh. Mrs. Clark and the other 2 children were cut and bruised and suffered from shock.

City Saves Bond From Defaulting

Donald VanderVeen, Sr., had a $5,000 bond renewed by the city council Monday night. The bond which VanderVeen posted a year ago would have been in default Tuesday. In furnishing the bond, VanderVeen agreed to have the streets in the VanderVeen subdivision graded and graveled and to complete the manholes. The work would not have been completed by the Tuesday deadline, City Engineer Walter Zimmer stated.

Councilmen agreed to the extension after Zimmer's explanation of the delay.

"The manholes were never plastered on the outside," according to the engineer. "The work was done by a contractor hired by VanderVeen and it was not satisfactory to either him or the city," Zimmer said. Completion of the streets has been held up because of the manholes, Zimmer added.

Court action between VanderVeen and the contractor was halted when the contractor agreed to re-build the manholes according to city specifications, Zimmer stated.

Only about one-third of the water system has been installed in the VanderVeen subdivision, according to Zimmer. All of the sanitary sewer system is in with the exception of the manholes.

Storm drainage has been bypassed until it can be incorporated with the Hall boulevard drainage area now being prepared by the city council.

Judges Choose Best Speakers

Three judges picked Ingham contestants in 4-H speech divisions Thursday night at Mason. The winners will represent the county in state contests.

Sara Eckhart of the Aurelius club was the winner among the girls with Donna Voss of the Alameda club, second; and Katherine Kahres of the Gunn club, third.

Tom Beatty of the Vantown club was the winner among the boys, Wilbur Rykert of the North Williamston club placed second and Dennis Avery of Okemos, third.

In the club meeting demonstration, the Vantown club was the winner, the North Williamston club placed second, and the Dansville club was third.

Dick Christensen, a debate team member at Carnegie Tech, County Agent James Hockema and Julia Carr of Webberville served as judges of the contests.

Growers Will See Ingham Onions

Members of the Michigan Onion Growers association will hold their annual tour in the Stockbridge-Munith district Friday, according to Paul M. Harmer, Michigan State college muck soil specialist.

The group will meet at the Veril Baldwin farm northwest of Stockbridge at 10:00 a. m. The group will visit the onion farms of Patterson Brothers, just east of Stockbridge; Carl Krummrey's farm on M-106, near Stockbridge; the Lacombe Dixon and Richard Reno farms south of Munith; the Lyle Jordan farm between Munith and Jackson; and the Jack Kelly farm, 1 mile north of Parma.

Harmer said that all onion growers are welcome to take the tour, whether or not they are members of the association.

Forester Says Farm Woodlots Will Pay Out

Timber can be a profitable crop and a steady crop if farm woodlots are properly managed and properly harvested. That's what Elton Tworck told members of the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night. Tworck is the farm forester assigned to Ingham, Eaton, Clinton and Shiawassee counties.

Tworck showed pictures of well managed and poorly managed woodlots. He declared that woodlots should not be pastured.

"The farm forester recommended selective cutting so as to provide a sustained yield.

By proper management nearly every farm woodlot, Tworck said, can have its production doubled. He also pointed out that Ingham has much hilly and broken land and some poor soils which could more profitably be devoted to timber than to other crops.

Southern Michigan hardwoods are now out-producing pine in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and the Upper Peninsula, Tworck said. He declared, however, that northern forests will within a few years be on a sustained yield which will far outstrip the southern area.

Owners of timberlands would do well to consult foresters before logging their woodlots or selling their timber, Tworck explained. He cited figures to show that timber buyers are often sharper than owners in making deals.

Tworck said that his services are available to all farmers in the 4 counties for advice on planting and management and on selecting and marketing timber. His office is with the county agricultural agent at Mason.

OKEMOS BOY WINS AWARD

Robert E. Lawrence of Okemos, junior in history at Michigan State college, has been awarded an undergraduate scholarship by the William and Sarah E. H. fund. The award is based on scholastic standing, character and personality.

ELIZABETH ADAMS GAINS NATIONAL HONOR

Student Wins Fellowship

Miss Elizabeth Adams of Mason has received a fellowship from the University of Michigan to study speech education for a year. The Thomas Clarkson Trueblood scholarship will cover tuition, room and board. Miss Adams will receive a master of arts degree upon completion of the work.

The Mason young woman was chosen from open competition throughout the United States.

"Our selection of Miss Adams was based upon her outstanding record in speech at Alma college, her success as a teacher at Lake Orion, her interest in speech education at state and national levels and her ability to carry on research," Professor G. E. Densmore of the U. of M. speech department stated.

Miss Adams was graduated from Mason high school in 1945 and from Alma college in 1949. While in college she received national recognition on debating teams and in speech contests. She is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, national speech honorary. Miss Adams was also active in radio and dramatics at Alma.

The Mason student is also a member of Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics honorary, and was listed in Who's Who for American Colleges while at Alma.

In June Miss Adams appeared before the Michigan Education association in Detroit to speak on the art of conversation.

Alma college retained Miss Adams after graduation to serve the college as an admissions counselor. For the past 2 years she has taught speech and English at Lake Orion high school.

"I received some credits toward a master of arts degree at Michigan State college last summer," Miss Adams stated. "I had planned to achieve the degree by a series of summer school sessions. The scholarship will enable me to complete work for the degree in a full year instead of over a period of several summers. I will be able to use some of the credits received at Michigan State for the masters degree."

Miss Elizabeth Adams

Masters degrees are becoming a prerequisite for teachers in most large high schools. Miss Adams explained. Practically all colleges require the degree for teaching, she said.

Miss Adams is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams.

Densmore, chairman of the speech department at the university, is a Mason high school graduate, class of 1913.

Densmore is the son of E. A. Densmore of Mason.

Miss Adams plans to work for a master of philosophy degree after completing work under the Trueblood scholarship.

SHULTIS PLAYS DRUMS

Terry Shultis of Mason plays the drums in the 168-piece Michigan all-state high school band at the national music camp, Interlochen. The band will be on the air Friday night, August 8, between 6 and 7 over WKAR.

Stockbridge-Munith Districts Approve School Reorganization

Sixteen school districts in the Stockbridge-Munith area are now one. At an election held Saturday the electors adopted the reorganization plan 246 to 22 in the Stockbridge district and 283 to 93 in Munith and the 14 primary districts.

Next will come an election to choose a district board of education. The election will be set by the county board of education. A date in September has been tentatively selected.

The new school board will be charged with developing a building program. Indications point to additions to the Stockbridge high school, a new elementary school at Munith and improvements to 1-room schools.

In addition to the Stockbridge and Munith districts, those in the consolidated district now include Derby, Bachelor and Fitchburg in Ingham county; Sharpe, Bullock, Woodruff, Mapes and Fulmer in Livingston; and McCall, Parks, Moss, Kennedy, Dewey and Base Line in Jackson.

Development of onion and mint farming in the Stockbridge area resulted in overcrowding in all the area schools. The decision was reached to reorganize into 1 district and expand the school system as a unit. New legislation which provides for consolidation even though districts are in more than a single county opened the door to the Stockbridge-Munith reorganization.

The reorganization will not become official until the school board election is held and Alton J. Stroud, county school superintendent, assigns a number and name to the district. Under the reorganization plan the new district will be a registration district. Candidates for school board posts will qualify by filing petitions and their names will be placed on printed ballots.

Present members of the Stockbridge school board and all other boards of the various districts will no longer have authority following the September election. Stockbridge board members are Dr. A. J. Spencer, president; Wilbur Ostrander, secretary; Helen Cool, treasurer; and Dr. S. A. Beckwith and Elmer Lehman, trustees.

Two new board members will be elected for 3-year terms, 2 for 2-year terms and 1 for a 1-year term on the new board.

Until the new board is functioning the present boards will have authority. It will be up to present boards to contract teachers and start classes in September.

The tax base for the new district will be approximately $4,000,000.00 on the equalized assessment. This will be a sound tax base for any future building plans, Supt. Jesse Batchelor of Stockbridge explained. The census of the new district will contain the names of 482 children below the age of 5 years and the school census will list 1274 children the ages of 5 and 19 inclusive.

Other school districts which may desire to join, will have the opportunity to do so by annexation, Batchelor pointed out. This would require the passing of a resolution by the new board, a favorable vote by the people in the district wishing annexation, a consummating resolution by the board of education, and the financial settlement.

CHEF SLASHES HAND

While preparing food at Archie's Grill in Lansing Tuesday afternoon, James Glotta slashed his left hand with a sharp knife. Slitches had to be taken to connect a tendon and to close the gash in the flesh.

Fair Features 4 Wrestling Matches

Wrestling stars with television glamour will flex muscles at the Ingham county fair Monday night. Four bouts are scheduled in front of the grandstand.

Bert Ruby and Johnny Gates are matched for the first event. The 2 heavyweights will be decided on a 1 fall, 30 minute basis.

Stanley Holec will meet Mr. Satan in the second bout. Judges will decide the match after 30 minutes or 1 fall.

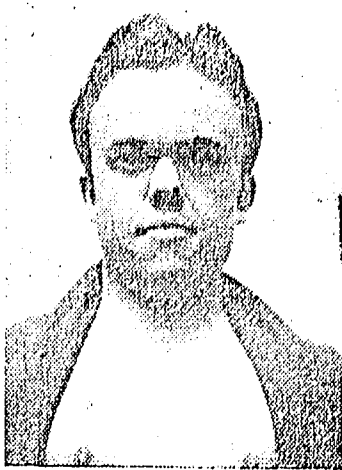

Victorio Gonzalis will be up against Tuffy McCra in the third event. Both are midweights. It will be a 60-minute bout with 2 out of 3 falls determining the winner.

The fourth bout will be between the winners of the first 2 bouts and the losers in a tag-team event. Winners must take 2 out of 3 falls in the 60-minute contest.

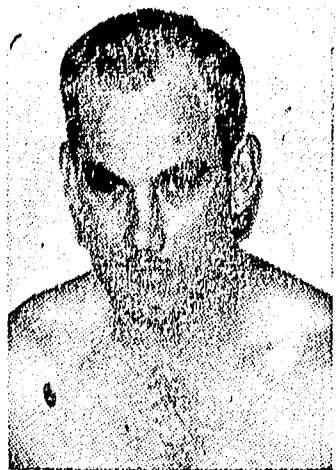

Wrestling is a new feature for the Ingham fair. With the increased popularity of TV wrestling, the act should draw a lot of interest, according to Fair Secretary Joy O. Davis.

Only the ALL-CROP Harvester has air blast separation. Between cylinder and strawrack, shelled grain and straw are whirled upward in a high arcing blast of air. Kernels are thrown free from the lighter straw and chaff, separating much of the material even before it reaches the big ten-foot strawrack.

This extra separating action saves more grain, beans and seeds — puts more in the bin and more in your pocket. It's another reason why a New ALL-CROP Harvester belongs first on your list for '52.

ALL-CROP is an Allis-Chalmers trade-mark.

Group Will Study Bike Regulations

Councilman Ralph Stroppe forgot the bees, but remembered the bikes at the council meeting Monday night. At Stroppe's request the council agreed to form a citizens committee of 7 members to further discuss bicycles and how to control them.

A plan was underway 2 weeks ago to set up a bicycle ordinance which would license all bicycles and regulate their use. After Mayor C. H. Hall told the council that it would be just another ordinance which would go on unenforced, Stroppe moved that further consideration be dropped.

"I still think that the licensing of bicycles would be beneficial to children," Stroppe told the council when he brought it up again Monday. "Such licensing would have prevented many of the thefts which have occurred in the past 2 years."

Stroppe did not say how many bicycles had turned up missing or how many were found under a neighbor's hedge.

"I would like to see a form of a bicycle court worked out for Mason youngsters," Stroppe stated. "I have read plans of how youths handle all bicycle violations themselves. The citizens committee should be able to work out a satisfactory solution to controlling bikes."

At the same time that bicycles were discussed 2 weeks ago, an ordinance was presented by Stroppe to regulate the keeping of bees. That, too, was dropped by the council. It was not brought up at the Monday night meeting.

Former Resident Dies in Crash

Col. Alfred J. Wangeman, 44, of Lansing was fatally injured in an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon. The accident happened about 13 miles east of Grand Rapids on US-16.

The colonel's wife, Mrs. Margaret Wangeman, 38, and a daughter, Carol, 12, were injured in the accident. They are in a Grand Rapids hospital. Mrs. Wangeman has a broken leg and hip. The girl was not seriously hurt.

While her husband served overseas in World War II, Mrs. Wangeman and her 2 children lived in Mason. The colonel was Mrs. Gilson Pearsall's brother. Mrs. Wangeman and Gilson Pearsall are brother and sister. In Mason the Wangeman family lived on East Ash. Both the colonel and his wife were members of the Mason Presbyterian church.

Colonel Wangeman was field instruction superintendent for the state department of administration and was commandant of the Lansing Organized Reserve Corps school.

The accident report set forth that Colonel Wangeman started to pass a Kent county road commission truck as the truck driver was turning the truck off the highway into a driveway.

Colonel Wangeman was on his way to Grand Rapids to attend a conference over the construction of a new branch laboratory for the state health department.

The colonel was born near Charlevoix November 24, 1907. He was graduated from East Jordan high school in 1924 and from Michigan State college in 1931. He was employed in federal and state jobs and with the army as an engineer with the CCC until 1940 when he went on active duty as an artillery officer. He served in Iceland, England and France.

Funeral services for Colonel Wangeman were held at the Estes-Leadley chapel in Lansing Thursday with burial in Maple Grove at Mason.

Apron Sale Is Beginning for Building Fund

"Here's your chance to do your Christmas shopping early; buy a homemade apron at the County Fair," says Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, Ingham county home demonstration agent.

Sewing machines are humming overtime this week in the homes of Ingham extension women. The number of aprons they are making to sell at the Ingham County Fair next week is mounting daily. The extension office reports that 400 aprons have already been brought in, marked and classified.

The executive committee of the women's extension groups has announced the sale of aprons at their booth in the brick exhibit building at the fairgrounds. Mrs. Helen Pollok and Mrs. Lawton Gauss are in charge of the project. The proceeds of the apron sale have been earmarked to be the start of a building fund. The long time aim of this building fund is to help provide for an all purpose year-round community building area for all extension activities and meetings. Other organizations needing the same type of building are invited to cooperate with the women's extension groups.

The theme of the exhibit this year revolves around the use of the sewing machine in the home. It is based on the lesson taken by the women last November. Michigan State College Specialist Marjorie Eastman and Mrs. Annette Schaeffer taught this lesson while the women learned how to take care of their machines and how to use the attachments. They were shown and practiced many good sewing habits. Along with this lesson came the special interest workshop where women reconditioned and cleaned their own sewing machines. Machines that had been known to be in constant use for 60 years were reconditioned and sewed smoothly and easily after the workshop.

Interest in sewing machines and their attachments renewed members' sewing activities and led to the apron project sale.

Mrs. Alvin Goble is chairman of the committee which will set up this fair exhibit. Other members are Mrs. Roy Hills and Mrs. Morell Fox, who will work with the apron committee.

Now come, I will send thee into Egypt. (Acts 7:34.) Read Acts 7:30-36.

Stephen was pointing out new values in old facts. That did not set well with his hearers. It seldom does! Among others, he mentioned Moses, to whom, in the wilderness, the Lord's angel appeared in a flame of fire in a bush. Moses was astonished. By getting close he expected to see better. What happened was better than that. When he came close, God's voice came clear. He heard the best! His curiosity was rewarded with God's revelation of Himself and His will for Moses—"Now come, I will send thee into Egypt."

We tend to run in grooves, or we settle down when we ought to be on the go! We do not attempt to find new meanings in our familiar ways. We do not set out to see God's sights! There are fields white unto harvest which we never see. It is true that real living takes time. It also takes trouble. We can obtain bondage through ease. Liberty requires strenuous vigilance and struggle. So does growth in Christlikeness. No cross, no crown.

PRAYER

Dear God, awaken us from our ease. Arouse us to look for tasks speakable to be done for Thee. Help us today to hear Thy voice as Thou speakest to us in the familiar things and events. We know Thou wilt be with us as we go forth into some Egypt to which Thou art this day calling us. Teach us obedience to Thy will. For the Master's sake. Amen.

Accident Is Reported Wrong—There were several errors in the story of an accident in the Williamston news last week. Mrs. Ada Lienhart of Stockbridge was reported to have been driving a truck. She was driving a car. She was not given a ticket, did not have faulty brakes and state police were not on the scene, as reported in last week's paper.

A community locker kitchen for processing fruits and vegetables offers an excellent method for conserving home grown produce and makes good use of the locker plant during the summer, ordinarily a slack season in the plant.

MINUTES OF THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE OKEMOS CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL DISTRICT

July 14, 1952, 8:00 p. m.
The meeting was called to order by President Eberly who then read the purpose for which the meeting was called. President Eberly next instructed Erwin J. Henne, Secretary of the Board of Education to read the minutes of the Annual Meeting held July 9, 1951, at 8:00 p. m. There were no amendments or alterations to these minutes; hence, they were approved as read.

Copies of the Annual Financial Report, which this year was contained in the Annual Report of the Board of Education, were distributed at the door and were discussed by Mr. John Whitmyer, Treasurer of the Board of Education.

Some discussion centered around this report. One mistake in addition was pointed out. It was suggested by Mr. Roda, Director that the proposed budget for the coming year also be included in the next Annual Report.

It was moved by Mr. Whitmyer and supported by Mr. Clarence Prentice that the Financial Report be accepted. Carried.

The next item of business was the election of members of the Board of Education to succeed those members of the Board whose terms expired. President Eberly appointed and administered the oath of office to the following electors:

Mr. Don Winters, Chairman, Mrs. Frank Hinkleley, Mrs. Olga Jean, Dorothy McCloud, Mr. Reuben Everett. When Mrs. McCloud became a candidate, President Eberly requested Mr. Lansing DeLind to act in her place.

President Eberly called for nominations of a trustee for a two-year term to succeed Mr. Walter Sheldon whose term expired.

Mr. George Barlow nominated Mr. Walter Sheldon.
Mr. Samuel Cardone nominated Dr. John Taylor.
Mr. Clyde Williams nominated Mrs. Dorothy McCloud.

It was moved by Mr. Murphy and supported by Mr. Cardone that the nominations be closed. Carried.

The tellers distributed, collected and counted ballots. They reported that 138 votes were cast, of which 37 were invalid, 69 were cast for Mr. Sheldon, 42 for Mr. Taylor and 24 for Mrs. McCloud. Mr. Sheldon was declared elected.

Mr. Prentice asked about the value of the old building and its site.
Mr. Eberly explained that the building had little value and that the site was not considered suitable by the State Department of Education; also that certain liabilities had to be cleared up before the Board would have the authority to sell the property.

It was moved by Mr. Macenardini and supported by Mrs. Williams that the meeting be adjourned. Carried.

You Can Whisper - and Be Heard!

We should like, very much, to have you come in for a ride in a Golden Anniversary Cadillac. And when you do, we hope you will just sit back and relax... and listen!

And what will you hear?
Well, you'll hear the soft sound of the wind as it slips past the streamlined body... and, possibly, the quiet ticking of the electric clock.

But aside from these—you'll hear almost nothing. In fact, you'll find that you can actually whisper—and still be heard!

We want you to experience this because nothing speaks more eloquently of motor car quality than—silence!

It tells you, first of all, that here is automotive engineering at its superlative best. For such silence of operation can only come when every phase of the car's performance is in perfect harmony.

It speaks of precision—for only the greatest accuracy in design and construction can result in such freedom from vibration!

It is a convincing testimonial to fine craftsmanship—to quality materials—and to scientific styling.

And, of course, this remarkable quiet foretells many of the pleasures and satisfactions of owning a Cadillac. It promises rest, for instance—and relaxation—and peace of mind... and a minimum of upkeep expense.

So why not take our suggestion—and come in and drive this beautiful Golden Anniversary creation today? Let it tell you its own wonderful story through the things you cannot hear!

Aerial Trapeze Artist Will Perform 90 Feet Up

Direct from the Australia and European continents where he thrilled and entertained thousands come the James Millette aerial act to appear at the Ingham county fair in Mason on August 12, 13, 14 and 15.

This outstanding artist presents some of the most spectacular aerial tricks ever witnessed. At the dizzy height of 90 feet disaster is continuously tempted during the performance of this young artist. His amazing bag of tricks include a free head balance on the trapeze routine with ankle drops. Then he ascends the high pole doing hand and foot flags and finally a hand stand on top.

One false motion, one careless cue might mean tragedy yet the entire performance of this superb artist is a symphony in speed and grace when the incomparable James Millette comes to the danger-packed finale, a free head balance swinging on the trapeze and finishing with a free head balance on the revolving trapeze and ball at 200 revolutions per minute.

LOCK DOORS, WINDOWS

It's a good idea, of course, to lock all doors and windows when you plan to be away from home for some time, but don't pull down the window shades. That would signify an empty house, and might invite intruders.

Martin-Parker Vows Said in Holt Saturday

A single strand of pearls, first worn by her grandmother, was worn by Miss Maxine Ruth Parker at her wedding Saturday evening to Thomas Martin Lechlitter. Maxine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Parker of Holt and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lechlitter of 5208 Miller road.

The double-ring candlelight ceremony was held at the Holt Brotherhood Temple Methodist church. Rev. Wilson M. Tennant read the service at 8 o'clock.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of lustrous satin and rose-point lace for her wedding. A satin cape covered the strapless bodice and was edged with lace. Her lace cap held the veil of imported illusion. She carried red roses and a shower of baby's breath.

Sister of the bridegroom, Miss Barbara Lou Larnes, was maid of honor. She and the bridesmaids, Miss Jeannette Galka, and Miss Kay Robinson, wore lime green, yellow and powder blue frocks, respectively with head bands of rosebuds. Their fan-shaped bouquets of red roses were bordered in ribbon to match their gowns.

Best man was Edward Jewell and ushering was by Kenneth and Richard Parker of Holt, brothers of the bride.

A reception was held in the church parlors. Those assisting were Mrs. Kenneth Parker, Mrs. Lynn Donlittie, Mrs. Richard Parker, Miss Mary Lou Riley, Miss Dawn French and Mrs. Ronald Kiersey.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Parker chose a natural lace gown with yellow roses and Mrs. Lechlitter wore a green print and a corsage of yellow roses.

The couple is honeymooning in the north and will reside with his parents until their new house is completed in Lansing on Pennsylvania avenue. Guests were present from New Hudson, Delta Mills, Battle Creek, Detroit, Canada, Lansing and Albion.

Connors Are Moving
The Kenneth Connors were given a farewell party by fellow members of the Methodist church, Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell. The girls like their sand-box.
Pressure cookers are handy.
Flowers are good pepper-uppers.

The girls like their sand-box a lot and so do I. It is right under my kitchen window and besides keeping them within bounds since babyhood it has taught me a lot. No need to elongate on that subject... guess all mothers can see themselves over and over again in their children's actions and words as they play. The sand swept out and taken out of small socks and shoes, the bed and davenport over the years would make a small sand dune but I consider the benefits worth it.

If all the seeds, pits, nuts and things both growable and otherwise that the girls planted in their sand-box had come up we would have an enchanted forest around here. Some things sprout, some the banty chickens eat and some never get a chance to do anything. I have known Susy to dig a peach pit up as many as six times in one day to see if it had grown a tree... or any peaches.

Their latest try is a 'cupful of sweet cherry pits which they declare to be the best fruit in the whole wide world. Susy says, "I sure wish we could make these cherry pits grow into sweet cherry trees. Bet we would have a million trees of them and then I wouldn't eat anything but sweet cherries all day long."

Have you used your pressure sauce pan lately or is it stored away? I go by fits and jerks myself using it but lately have been using it a lot. I would never use it for young chicken though but that is my personal opinion. It seems to me it takes away the character or something that fresh young chickens have all their very own. But a pressure sauce pan is wonderful for so many things.

These last few hot weeks and busy days outside have made me conscious of time savers and heat reducers and thought I'd pass the reminder along to you to use your pressure sauce pan. Be careful though, and never take the cover off until the steam is down where it should be. That's the voice of experience speaking!!!!

Have you read any stories about this summer to the whole family... even daddy? Last night there was no after-supper combining and we were all together... Like Sally said, "My, it's nice to be a family again." We took turns reading this story and when the goose died tears ran down

Randolph Scott's Gun Is Ready at Fox

One of the great war pictures of the year will play Saturday afternoon and night at the Fox Theatre. David Brian and John Agar are starred in "Break Through."

This action movie will be shown along with a Joe McDonakes comedy and a Bugs Bunny Cartoon.

"Carson City," Warner Bros. adventure story set against the sprawling Nevada capital during the turbulent 1870's, will play its local engagement at the Fox Theatre on Sunday and Monday.

Photographed in color by Warnercolor, the western epic stars Randolph Scott, with Lucille Norman, Raymond Massey and Richard Webb in featured roles.

As in "Fort Worth" and "Cott 45," Randy again carries the Scott tradition of action and drama based on early west history which has kept the rugged, handsome actor a perennial screen favorite. In "Carson City," Scott portrays the role of a construction engineer of a railroad being built to haul gold and silver ore from the rich Comstock Lode in the mountains down to the main line.

Opposition forces, led by Massey, resort to sabotage and murder in order to hamper the project. The townsfolk look to Randy for justice, and get it in the form of an exciting man hunt climaxed atop the ledge of a mountain.

James Millican, Larry Keating and Vince Barnett play supporting parts in "Carson City," directed by Andre De Toth.

Tuesday and Wednesday Fox film patrons are in for a great treat when the fabulous picture, "King Kong," again unfolds on the screen. Along with the film Sally's cheeks and splashed with a soft little plop onto the page. Read August's "Country Gentleman," page 24, and see how it affects you.

My own private fairyland never grew such pretty moss roses as it has this year... just solid blossom of all colors. Pete's favorites, zinnias, bless them, don't care how hot it is or dry, they come out to cheer you regardless. Just like Pete says, "Nothing makes a 'splash' in your garden like those zinnias. Put in lots of those for me." There are so many different kinds of them. Every time I hear some one scoff or turn up his nose at the mention of them it makes me disgusted.

For a cheerful effect you can't beat zinnias, to my notion. Petunias do the same thing week after week and really last longer than zinnias so they get my vote as the best pepper-upper there is... but don't run down zinnias in my presence either.

Poppies come out in gay dresses to cheer you on... how I love them, fleeting though they are. Snapdragons are a favorite too, and make me feel rich. You can give bouquets away all summer and do better for it. I spend each morning out there admiring and coaxing.

Truly the language of flowers is exhilarating. Gay little bluebells, fragrant stocks, jaunty bachelor buttons, neverfail marigolds, floating in a glass dish balsam, heavenly sweetpeas, more-of-heaven Nicotiana, proud cockscomb, sweet candy tuft, tall cockscomb, dear-forget-me-nots, fuzzy little ageratum, nasturtiums that Susy and Sally never get quite "all" picked, fragrant and flaunting 4 o'clocks, sweet alyssum white and violet, queenly asters, painted daisies, scabiosa like a pin cushion, dahlias elegant, pansies, mignonette, pinks, angels trumpet, and many others are in various stages of production to make for me a bower of flowers.

How often have I turned to my favorite hoe when sadness or perplexity or mean thoughts needed working out... and I sing and whistle and a peace and happiness hovers over me. So long as there is earth to plant and watch, I'll never grow old in my heart.

Randolph Scott prepares to defend Lucille Norman in "Carson City," Warner Bros. new western drama in color by Warnercolor, playing Sunday and Monday at the Fox Theatre. Raymond Massey, Richard Webb and James Millican have featured roles in the film.

masterpiece Fox patrons will get a cartoon and a variety short.

Thursday and Friday a double feature program has been booked that will provide plenty of action. The first picture is "The Magic Carpet." The second attraction will be "Desert Pursuit."

A world of wonders and of 1001 thrills is depicted in "The Magic Carpet." Columbia Pictures' new romantic adventure. Lucille Ball and John Agar are starred, with Patricia Medina, George Tobias and Raymond Burr cast in the important supporting roles of the Superdine color fantasy of old Baghdad.

"The Magic Carpet" contains such exotic and actionful elements as the flying magic carpet itself, harem temptations, dungeons, desert raiders and dangerous nights of love.

Miss Ball plays a seductive temptress in "The Magic Carpet." As the sister of the tyrannical Caliph of Islam, she intrigues to win Agar, not only because he is handsome but also because he is a desert raider leading the fight to free his people from the Caliph's tyranny.

The other important roles are filled by Miss Medina, as a spirited young woman who joins the patriots' movement; Tobias, her brother and Agar's staunchest supporter; and Burr, who is seen as the Caliph's wicked minister.

In "The Magic Carpet," Agar is seen as the mysterious Scarlet Falcon who leads his desert raiders against the Caliph's soldiery. His men lack arms and thus their fight is weakened. When the secret of the Magic Carpet is revealed to him, Agar is able to outwit the Caliph's soldiers, obtain the necessary arms and lead a powerful assault upon the Caliph's stronghold.

Three camels, ships of the desert, contribute a unique twist to the plot of "Desert Pursuit," new Wayne Morris-Virginia Grey starring picture. The story is not one of the Sahara desert, nor of Arabia, but has its locale in the Death Valley area of America's Great Colorado desert, a spot at once terrifying and beautiful, ideal for tense dramatic action.

The appearance of the camels in the picture is not a fictional distortion, for camels once were a familiar sight to those who traveled the wastelands of the Southwest in the years shortly before the War Between the States. In 1856 Jefferson Davis, secretary of war, organized the American Camel Corps of the United States Army, which mapped the southern route across the plains and deserts from Texas to California. After completion of the transcontinental railroad, some of the camels were sold to civilians and some were turned loose and were seen by prospectors and surveyors a decade later.

In "Desert Pursuit" Wayne Morris plays a prospector relentlessly pursued by a band of villainous Arabs, mounted on camels, who are out to murder him for his gold. Virginia Grey is his partner during the long chase, which ends in a most surprising climax. The original story was a novel by Kenneth Perkins, and the screenplay was written by W. Scott Darling, a top writer in Hollywood for many years.

Not Sauters, but Meteors

Meteors Will Light the Sky

With many parts of the nation already seeing strange objects in the skies perhaps it's wise to report now that August will bring with it the annual shower of meteors.

Hazel M. Losh, associate professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan, reports that the Perseid shower of meteors will reach its peak around the evenings of August 10 or 11.

"The flashes of light from these shooting stars may be seen in any direction of the sky during the peak period," she points out. "But when you trace back their paths, the meteors seem to follow trails that intersect in the northeastern part of the sky where the constellation Perseus rises about 10 p. m. This fact has accounted for the name of this annual display."

The shower of meteors takes place each year when the earth encounters the swarm of shooting stars as each is making its year-long swing around the sun. Entering the earth's atmosphere at a high rate of speed, the bits of iron and stone that make up a meteor are slowed up and the resulting friction sets them burning at such a high temperature that a brilliant flash is produced in the sky.

Most of these meteors burn themselves out when they enter the earth's atmosphere, although a few frequently fall to the ground.

Besides the meteors, the August sky will be dominated by the Milky Way, that vast mass of stars which stretches across the sky from northeast to the south. The long bar of the Northern Cross is practically at the zenith or mid-point, Prof. Losh says, while the constellations of Scorpion and Sagittarius are at the two southern branches.

The bright planet rising in the east around 11 p. m. will be Jupiter.

ter. This planet will far outshine all other objects in the sky and will remain conspicuous in the evening sky for the next few months, Prof. Losh asserts.

"Coming over the horizon at about the same time at a little to the left of Jupiter is the star cluster of the Pleiades," she reports. "Fashioned in the form of a small dipper, 6 stars are easily seen but if you have exceptionally keen eyesight you may be able to pick up 7 or more."

Hundreds of stars may be counted in this cluster on a photograph taken with a large telescope and the entire group, which is 500 light years away, is caught in a net of nebulous material.

Fair Booth Planned By Farm Bureau Group

The Ingham County Junior Farm Bureau held its monthly meeting at the summer cottage of Margene Kistler at Pleasant lake on July 31, 1952. Planning of the county fair hamburger booth and election of officers were the events of interest.

The following officers were elected and will take office in September: President, Jerry Janson; vice-president, Max Cosgray; secretary, Francis Cronkite; treasurer, Jean Wald; publicity chairman, Mary Wigle; and camp chairman, Gordon Monroe.

The hamburger and refreshment booth will be in the same location as before, across from the 4-H building.

After the meeting, refreshments of cakes and sandwiches were served by the hostesses.

Hot, humid weather is conducive to a rapid life cycle of intestinal parasites of poultry.

Health Officials Urge Precautions Against Polio

Reported cases of polio in Michigan are above all previous marks for this time of year, the state health department discloses, and urges parents to observe the following precautions to help guard their youngsters against the disease:

1. Insist on rest periods of an hour or so a day for your children. Do not allow them to play to the point of exhaustion. This does not mean rest in bed, but an hour or so of reading, sitting-down games or any quiet activity that can be carried on at home without much physical exertion. This precaution will not prevent polio, but may help to prevent the development of more serious polio if the child already has the virus. Experience has demonstrated that persons who are over-tired when the polio virus is already in their bodies are likely to develop a more serious form of the disease.

2. Do not allow your children to become chilled. Don't let them stay in swimming until their lips are blue, their teeth chatter and they break out in "goose pimples." Chilling has the same effect as exhaustion in bringing about a more serious condition if the polio virus is in the body.

3. Keep children within their own circle of friends. There are several strains of the polio virus and it is probable that persons who have acquired immunity to the strains in their own neighborhood may be susceptible to different strains in other areas.

4. Be alert to detect early signs of sickness, particularly signs similar to the common cold. Low fever, upset stomach, intestinal disturbances, headache, backache, stiff neck or back, tenderness or weakness of muscle groups, may mean polio. Report such signs to your doctor immediately. Calling the doctor early is important. Although he has no specific remedy that will stop the disease, he does have a number of methods of treatment that will influence its course and possibly prevent the development of serious paralysis. Early diagnosis, prompt hospitalization and proper treatment are the doctor's weapons against the disease.

5. Don't allow fear to cloud your judgment. Your anxieties will instill fear in your children. Even if your child should get polio, he has an excellent chance for full recovery. Half of those who get paralytic polio recover completely, and 3 out of 4 recover to the extent that they are not handicapped.

6. Keep your children clean, well-rested and well-fed. See that they wash their hands and face thoroughly before eating, and wash their hands after going to the toilet.

7. Consult your physician about postponing nose and throat surgery and your dentist about postponing tooth extraction if there is polio in your community.

8. Observe these same precautions yourself. While 75 per cent of all polio cases occur in children under 16 years of age, the remaining 25 per cent occurs among adults of all ages.

Book Talk

from
Ingham County Library

Hours open to the public at the Hall Memorial Library: Daily 2-5 p. m., Wed. Sat. 7-9 p. m. Tues. and Fri. noon, Sat. 10-12 a. m.

Among the new books available through the Ingham county library is, JOHN BONWELL, by Charles Pulse. This is a rousing story for men who like historical romance and adventure. The setting is the river country of Ohio and Kentucky in the stormy days just before the Civil War, when John Bonwell came west from Virginia to make his fortune, and, with the help of a prosperous uncle, acquired a plantation and slaves before becoming sympathetic to the Union cause.

For those who like to read about an unfamiliar sport, MATADOR, by Barnaby Conrad, is an excellent new novel about a great Spanish bullfighter. The reader will find here all the color, tension, ritual and fanaticism of this popular foreign sport.

THE NEW YORK GIANTS, by Frank Graham, covers the history of this colorful ball club from the fashionable 'eighties through the pennant-winning season of 'fifty-one. The book will be interesting to baseball fans and includes entertaining stories about notable Giant players and managers, besides describing important games.

ACROSS TO NORWAY, by David Howarth, is about the smuggling of secret agents and ammunition from the Shetland Islands across the North Sea to Norway, and the rescuing of refugees from that Nazi-held country during World War II. The whole operation was irregular but effective in its small way, as a half-dozen fishing vessels, manned with Norwegian volunteers, operated in defiance of the Germans and of the stormy seas which they crossed in winter when they could be protected by the long sub-Arctic nights.

A WAR OF SHADOWS, by W. Stanley Moss, tells of his adventures as a British secret agent in Crete, Greece, Cairo and Thailand. The author's keen sense of humor and talent for writing make his reporting on the guerrilla warfare in these places more interesting reading than many war reminiscences.

PEACE, WAR AND YOU, by Jerome Davis, concerns the application of Christianity to the social order, and an American Quaker's strategy for the abolition of war. The author feels that we should substitute a positive moral program to meet the economic needs of the rest of the world rather than have a negative foreign policy or armaments.

Other interesting new books in the Ingham county library, include:

Presenting Miss Jane Austen, by May Lamberton Becker.

The Monogahela, by Richard Bissell.

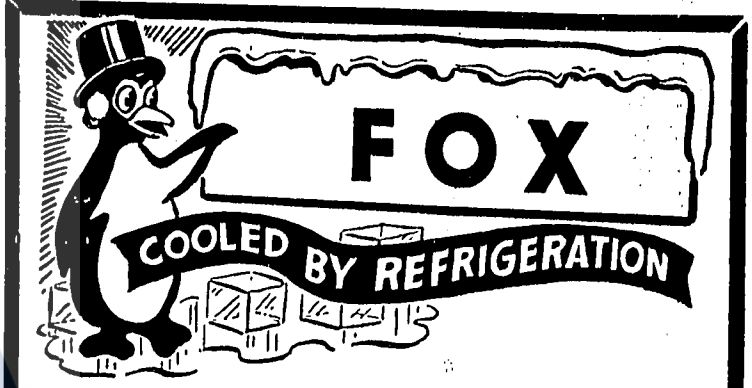

Community Planning for Human Service, by Bradley Buell.

The Autobiography of a Hunted Priest, by Grahame Greene.

The Life of Billy Yank, by Bell I. Wiley.

Heavy, Heavy Hangs, by Doris Miles Disney.

After summer fairs and exhibits, show stock should be isolated from the home animals for at least 30 days. If the show animals are healthy at the end of this period, they may be put back into the herd.

Lakes Are Not Too High

Lake levels are not too high. They have been as high before. The trouble is that people have built upon the sands.

For 20 years real estate promoters have been parceling out Great Lakes shore line without regard to high water marks. Around Lakes Michigan, Huron and Erie and even Superior people have built summer homes and cabins on land which was once lake bottom or which was so close to the water that any change of wind would bring water.

Now there is a clamor for Washington to play King Canute and sweep the water back. Lake Superior residents succeeded in cascading water through the Soo locks and down into the lower lakes. There are those who now want to open the Chicago drainage canal way up and send the water down through the Mississippi.

Instead of regarding that extra water in the Great Lakes as a curse we ought to conserve it as a blessing.

In New England and the South crops are withering because of lack of water. In those areas a generous rainfall through the years has been wasted, just as we waste a lot of water here in Michigan. By our drainage systems we hurry it off the land instead of conserving it for future use. Only in the last few years have Michigan farmers in any considerable number tried to have the water walk instead of run off their land.

Mother Nature knows best. She may be filling the Great Lakes reservoir a little fuller than usual this year so we'll have enough water next year or the year after.

In our panic over a few summer resort cottagers getting their feet wet, we must be careful not to waste what Nature has so generously given. Else we may not have it when we need it most.

Time for Action

For months, for years, ever since 1933, our political leaders have talked economy. While talking it, they went blithely along spending more each year than was spent before.

In the primary campaign which happily closed Tuesday candidates promised economy.

There are few city, township, county, state or federal offices where, outside of inflation, the cost of services has not risen sharply. More services have been undertaken, and more people working fewer hours have been hired to do them.

Only now, just within recent days, has any economy been practiced in federal office. That has come about because there is not enough money in sight to continue on as before.

And that's the only way any economy will result—by cutting appropriations. Few office-holders believe their own budgets should be cut. Most of them demand more year after year, and we don't have to go to Washington to find examples. Here in Mason and every other town the cost of government has increased by leaps and bounds. At city halls and town halls, at county court houses and at state capitols we have gone merrily along, flinging out money with both hands.

Army, navy and marine corps publicity staffs are now being reduced in the economy move in Washington. News analysts are being let out of other branches. And how the bureaucrats are hollering. Their departments are being wrecked, they scream.

Those screams are music to the ears of people who have been promised economy and haven't got it for 20 years. The people should not be content with echoes of Washington screams even should those screams grow louder. They should want to hear the screams of economy victims closer home.

If there is ever going to be any economy in government—if there is going to be anything left to save—economy will have to begin now.

A Place for Science

Maybe science should be confined to laboratories. Yet in the search for the causes and the cures of polio, scientists might find it profitable to take to the field.

There are developments in the Ingham outbreak this year which would indicate that clues might be traced here.

Mason's cases have been largely in one section of the city where sewage disposal is inadequate. Raw sewage goes into Rayner creek. It has been in that section of town where most of the local cases have developed.

There is also a definite connection between 2 Bunker Hill polio cases and 2 of the Mason cases. There is a definite connection between 2 of the Leslie cases.

Scientists looking for polio causes and cures may make more progress by confining their work to laboratories and by checking statistics. Yet it could be that some clues could be uncovered by visits to the field where the cases develop.

The local situation merits the attention of polio research staffs.

Now for November

The votes in the primary election are counted. Within a few hours the winners will be officially determined.

Now the campaigns for election November 4 can be launched. From here on no one can afford to be neutral. The time has come to take sides. We should be fair. We should be open-minded. But we dare not be neutral.

Railroads By-Passed Dansville

By Vernon J. Brown

One town in Ingham county has a history of frustration and disasters from fire that is unique and should be recorded. I speak of Dansville, once called Ingham Center.

Settled first in 1836 by Samuel Crossman, Dansville once had the brightest of prospects. Among its early settlers were men of vision and enterprise. The surrounding country is made up of some of the best soil in Michigan. Its farming area has always been pointed to as progressive. Its schools and its churches have been among the best over the years. Indeed, few at present would care to compete with the excellency of the Ingham Township Agricultural school of today.

But fate seemed always to lay its heavy hand upon Dansville and its ambitions to become a big town. First, despite the best efforts of its leaders over the first half-century to secure a railroad, none ever came. Mason, 8 miles to the west was its nearest shipping point. Williamston, 10 miles north and east on the original Detroit, Lansing and Northern railway, was next nearest. Lansing and Jackson were its nearest larger cities and shopping centers, while Stockbridge, 13 miles southeast, after the coming of the Grand Trunk Air Line between Pontiac and Jackson, provided a market outlet for the farmers of the southeastern portions of Ingham township.

Yet Dansville Grew

Despite these handicaps, Dansville grew to become a thriving village. As early as 1872, Rice & Cobb had a brick store on the southeast corner of the town center. At that time there was no newspaper to advertise the businesses of the town so the merchants began the publication of a free circulation, 4-page sheet of well edited and well printed material. The firm opened its columns to all merchants of the town, competitors included. Mason, Lansing, Jackson and Stockbridge merchants also advertised their wares in the paper. The paper was named the Dansville Gazette.

Later there was the short-lived Ingham County Farmer which had its christening July 20, 1880, and still later what I recall as the Dansville Star published for a while during the late 80's.

I glean from the columns of the Gazette of April, 1872, a few items like the following: "The Hoffman has the materials on the ground for his new store which was built on the south side of the main street to the east of the Rice & Cobb store; Frank H. Field has bought the former home of the late Robert Young;

Down by the SYCAMORE

Ingham county's biggest and best fair will reach the prelude stage Sunday evening with the concert sung by the Mason Methodist choir. Without apparent foundation is the rumor that Rev. E. C. Prettyman of the Michigan Temperance Foundation and Fred Alger will sing a duet.

Mason and Holt Kiwanians have joined in a barbecue enterprise along the midway. The Mason Rebekahs and Odd Fellows will again do business with their restaurant. Mason and Leslie Lions are in together with the turtle derby. There are many other local concessions along the midway too deserving of patronage.

The Ingham County News will again dispense information and pure water at the fair. Both come free. On display inside the tent will be many of the news pictures taken during the year.

Among former Mason people at the wedding of Pat Walcott and Robert Foster at the Peoples church in East Lansing Friday night was the former Marie Simmons. There's a drugstore romance which paid off. The beautiful Marie lived with the Walcotts and toiled at the Ware soda fountain. Eddie Campbell of Lansing came daily at first and then 3 and 4 times a day with deliveries of Coca Cola. Encouraged by Bud Swinehart, Marie landed the handsome Coke deliveryman. With Marie out from behind the counter, Eddie shifted from delivery to sales and moved on up. Then he switched to Pepsi-Cola and landed in Chicago. He's now been transferred to Milwaukee.

"That's a tough break," I remarked to Eddie at the wedding. "How do you expect to sell Pepsi in Milwaukee?"

"Selling soft drinks in Milwaukee is easy," Eddie replied. "The beer that made Milwaukee famous is drunk elsewhere. The per capita consumption of soft drinks in Milwaukee is as high as in any other city and higher than in most."

Well, what I started to talk about was Marie and not mouth wash. Marie and Eddie have 2 girls as pretty as pictures. Some day they will be as pretty as their mother. They are Karen and Julie. Karen must be about 11 and Julie 5.

My younger daughter and I stopped in at the Hemstreet dairy bar in Leslie Sunday afternoon for nourishment. It was a great day for Bernard. He had sold out his business the night before and was working Sunday because he wanted to, not because he had to.

"This is a neat place and a busy one," I said to the former Mason milkman. "Why did you sell?"

His reply was prompt and to the point: "Folks claim that I have got rich here in 4 years. I want somebody else to have a chance at a fortune."

According to information released last week by Michigan State college, records show that cows were milked as far back in history as 9,000 B. C. Professors from the foreign language department are now engaged in translating the DHIA reports for April and May of that year.

Farmers should never kill a snake. The U. S. department of agriculture claims that the value of the average snake to a farmer is between $50 and $75. That's because Michigan snakes feed largely on rats and mice which destroy large quantities of grain.

There are 10 snakes more or less common to Michigan. The rattlesnake (Massasauga) is the only poisonous snake ever found in Michigan, and the massasauga is only mildly poisonous. The other 9 snakes, all harmless, are hognose snake (puff adder), milk snake (spotted adder), fox snake (pine snake), water snake, green (grass) snake, red-bellied snake, garter snake, blue racer and ring-neck snake.

The National Cotton Council will soon launch an advertising program to induce housewives to have 6 sheets for every bed, 3 complete changes for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Another campaign will be undertaken to discourage the practice of taking a sheet off the bed to cover the oilcloth when company comes for dinner.

Is there a tree in Mason which reaches up higher than the spruce in front of the former Fred Hall place far south on Barnes? If so, where?

If you don't want to climb to the top of a tree to measure it, or you don't want to cut it down to apply the tape here's the way mathematician Don Green measures trees when his helicopter isn't working:

Stand 100 feet from the base of the tree. Hold a yardstick 2 feet from your eye in a vertical position. Sight over the top of the yardstick so that the top of the stick and the top of the tree appear to coincide. Now, holding the stick in that position, note the distance from the top of the stick to the point where the bottom of the tree appears. You have established proportionate triangles that are approximately right triangles. Multiply the apparent height noted on the yardstick (in feet) by the distance you are standing from the tree. Divide this product by 2 feet (the distance from your eye to the stick) to obtain the height of the tree.

John West has just bought the farm on the west side of town. It was there he later moved his blacksmith shop where he did general work for the farmers during daylight and his own work at night and early morning.

Business Boomed

Among the advertisers are found the firm of Waldron & Dakin, makers of "house trimmings" such as mouldings, balustrades, trellises, fret work and parlor brackets; A. P. Ferguson, manufacturer of wooden force pumps; W. W. Heald, carriage manufacturer; Theo. Hoffman, hardware, E. Sherwood, physician and surgeon had his professional card inserted. The Union Hotel also advertised, and so did the Dansville flouring mills.

News items included the startling statement that in London, England, women were being employed as bank clerks and that corned beef was then being shipped from Texas to England and was expected to open up good markets for Texas "long horns."

Turning now to the columns of the Ingham County Farmer of July, 1880, we find Hoffman's hardware its biggest space user. The Hoffman hardware of that period was one of the finest in the country. Other businesses advertised included the J. A. Richards furniture store and undertaking business; L. K. Strong, general store; John Curry, boots and shoes; R. P. Dayton, agricultural implements; C. A. Nimms, harness, whips, robes, blankets, trunks and valises; and E. Rice was still in business with a complete line of dry goods, men's clothing, crockery and furniture. Special attention was called to an extensive line of white vests for men.

The back page of the Farmer carried the usual line of patent medicine advertising common to that period. Included were Hostetters Bitters, Hunt's kidney remedy, Malt Bitters, Hamburg blood purifier and dyspepsia cure, Willhofs fever and ague tonic, D. I. C. sure cure for drunkenness and Perry Davis pain killer.

Stage Was Operated

No description of old Dansville would be complete without mention of the stage line which was operated between that village and the county seat, its nearest railroad and express station. Wesley Glynn was the first operator I recall. He was a large man, strong and rugged, wore a full beard and large gold rings in his ears, pierced to retain the personal adornments without which I never recall seeing him. His freight and passenger conveyance was fashioned to serve its patrons and for use over the sand and mud trails that served as roads in those days.

The vehicle was an ordinary high-wheel, narrow-tired wagon. Up front was a spring seat with a folding top like an overgrown carriage top. Three could ride easily in that seat. Sometimes with only 3 passengers the driver would sit on a small seat attached to the front end gate. At other times when more passengers were to be transported, an additional seat was arranged across the high sides above the assorted boxes, barrels, bags and other containers in which merchandise and supplies for Dansville merchants were shipped.

When Wesley retired his son Perry took over, then for a time Claud West operated the stage line. The last operator known to me was Amos Whipple. Our farm laid alongside the high hill near the present site of the Boy Scout camp. Frequent rests for the horses were necessary to negotiate that heavy grade of deep sand so as a boy I came to know the stage people well.

Another freight and passenger line was operated between Dansville and Williamston but concerning that another writer will tell us in a later issue. In passing, it should also be stated that Theodore Hoffman did his own freight hauling. Several times a week his wagon, drawn by a good team of horses went to Mason and frequently to Williamston to keep his store supplied with the merchandise he sold to the families of the surrounding country.

THIS FARMING BUSINESS

BY CARL COLLIN

There's a comparatively new hog disease that's causing a lot of trouble in the Midwest. It's called vesicular exanthema. The disease has been prevalent in California for many years but just recently has spread to other parts of the country. V. E. is similar to foot and mouth disease but affects only hogs. The animals usually recover in 2 to 3 weeks. The chief loss is that the disease lowers the efficiency of fattening hogs.

The USDA in cooperation with state agricultural departments has issued an embargo on shipment of hogs from certain counties in Nebraska, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa and Kansas. Hogs sold in these localities for interstate shipment may be sold only for slaughter at approved points.

These approved plants must be equipped to sterilize the pork in the event V. E. is discovered in any animal. That means no pork from animals having the disease may be sold as fresh pork. It has to be processed into canned products. There's no danger to humans who eat the pork in any event. But if the virus isn't killed it can spread to hogs in contaminated garbage. That's the chief way the disease spreads.

The appearance of the disease in the Midwest, with the resulting quarantine imposed by USDA, has affected several major markets. Eastern shipper demand for hogs has dropped off at markets in the infected areas. Eastern buyers have shifted their purchases, more to markets in the eastern part of the corn belt. Up to August 1 the disease hadn't been reported in Michigan.

The recent earthquake caused a lot of damage to crops in California. One of the major factors affecting agriculture was the damage done to irrigating systems. Unless major repairs can be made quickly, damage to crops in the area is expected to exceed $25,000,000.

Considering the inroads oleomargarine has made on sales of butter, any new means for marketing cream is important to the dairy industry.

Dried coffee cream may soon appear on the market. It's a 100% dairy product combining pure cream with milk solids. It dissolves instantly when sprinkled on hot coffee. Furthermore the product will keep 4 or 5 weeks without refrigeration. A 4-ounce can of the product is equal to 2½ pints of bottled cream. If the new product finds out according to the indication of advance notices, it could be a good outlet for cream.

Who will be the new secretary of agriculture when the new administration takes over after the first of the year? Representative Clifford Hope of Kansas is mentioned frequently as a possibility if the GOP wins the election. Hope has been a member of the house committee on agriculture for years. If the Democrats win, some farm officials figure R. M. Evans, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, may be the new secretary. Evans is a good administrator and was with USDA for a number of years. He headed Triple-A for a while. Both these men would probably go along with current farm programs.

Farm programs could play an important part in the presidential elections again. In the 1948 campaign they played a very important role. It's generally conceded that the Republican attitude toward CCC storage program lost a lot of votes in the corn belt. The farm plank in the present GOP platform isn't too specific. Eisenhower may have to spell things out more definitely before many Midwest farmers feel the GOP offers as much protection as the Democrats.

Congress passed legislation just before it adjourned that guarantees high support prices on basic commodities through 1951. That allows the Democrats to take credit for high-level price supports, although congressional farm leaders of both parties were active in passing the legislation. Incidentally, both the Farm Bureau and the Grange were against the passage of legislation supporting high, rigid support prices and extension of the dual parity principle of establishing price floors.

Foot and mouth disease is causing huge losses in some of the European countries. In France more than 600,000 cattle have become infected since the first of the year. Estimated loss in weight and milk production is around $17,000,000. Apparently the French epidemic is still not under control. Outbreaks in Germany have responded to control measures and the number of cases has dropped greatly in the last 6 months.

The USDA has purchased 470,000 cases of canned sour cherries to support prices on the current crop. Prices paid ranged from $3.60 to $3.80 for smaller size cans, to $4.39 to $5.70 for the larger ones. Purchases were made in Michigan, Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, Oregon and Utah.

Miscellany . . . A lot of grain came down the Great Lakes during the steel strike. Between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 bushels were shipped in ore boats. Ordinarily there's considerable competition between grain and iron ore for space on the freighters. USDA moved the grain during the lull in ore shipments. Demand for ore, now that the strike is over, probably would have ruled out any movement of wheat from Lake Superior ports.

Fresh hay is replacing last year's manure in the barns, coops and tents at the fairgrounds this week at Ingham. Festivities are scheduled to open Monday and continue through Saturday night.

Fair officials are looking for an upswing in livestock and crop exhibits. Homemakers promise to make an even bigger showing in canned goods and clothing divisions at the fair.

All exhibits must be in place at the fairgrounds by 6:00 Monday night, according to Joy O. Davis, secretary of the fair. Floriculture exhibits will be accepted up until noon Tuesday, he added.

Livestock stalls and pens will be furnished with first bedding. However, it will be up to the exhibitors to furnish bedding for the other 4 days. A livestock loading ramp is available south of the cattle barns for exhibitors bringing animals. Feed men and hay will be available for sale at the fairgrounds, officials pointed out.

Tractors will pull in a contest Tuesday afternoon. All rubber-tired tractors are eligible to compete. Tractors will pull from a light 10-foot chain with a drawbar not over 20 inches off the ground. Tractor contestants will get 2 chances.

Three livestock parades are scheduled for fair week. One each will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

The steers captured in the 1951 calf scramble will be sold by auction following the racing card Friday afternoon. The 1952 calf scramble will be held following the show Wednesday night.

Horses will do their pulling the last day. Besides just pulling the stone boat loaded with cement, the horses usually pull the biggest crowd of the week to the grandstand. The horse-pulling contest is scheduled for 1:00 Saturday afternoon. Both light and heavy horses will perform.

Judging of exhibits will begin Tuesday morning. It will continue through Friday afternoon.

There's considerable competition between grain and iron ore for space on the freighters. USDA moved the grain during the lull in ore shipments. Demand for ore, now that the strike is over, probably would have ruled out any movement of wheat from Lake Superior ports.

Farm officials expect the August 1 crop report to show a larger corn crop than the one indicated a month earlier. Around half a billion bushels are expected to go under CCC loan

Farm Economists To Meet at MSC

Approximately 400 of the world's top agricultural economists will be on the Michigan State college campus August 15-22 to attend the eighth international conference of agricultural economists.

Purpose of the 7-day event, which hasn't been held in the U. S. since 1930, is to promote international understanding of agricultural economics programs and provide a medium for the exchange of ideas from nation to nation.

Non-governmental in nature, the conference will be held in Michigan State college's Kellogg Center. Michigan State will serve as host to the event which is being sponsored by the Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek.

Top international economists will deliver scientific papers and participate in workshop discussions of the economic problems of the world.

President of the group since its founding more than 20 years ago has been Dr. Leonard Elmhirst, president of Dartington Hall, England.

Chemicals Will Cut Fence Post Costs

The cost of maintaining fences can be materially reduced by the use of chemical wood preservatives and Lester D. Bell, Michigan State college forestry specialist, has figures to prove it.

He says that it is a matter of simple arithmetic. If a post costs 75¢ and it costs 50¢ in labor to set it and staple the fence to it, you have a total cost of $1.25. If this post rots off in 5 years, it has cost you 25¢ per year of service.

If, on the other hand, you take the same post at 75¢, add 25¢ worth of chemical preservative, and then add the 50¢ labor cost to set it, your post has cost you $1.50. This is where preservatives really pay off because the treated post can be expected to last 3 times as long as an untreated post—15 years.

With 15 years of life, the annual cost of the treated post is 10¢ a year as compared with 25¢ a year for the untreated post. You also save the labor and trouble of resetting the other two untreated posts it would take to cover the 15-year span, Bell points out.

FRESH-FROZEN SUBMICROSCOPY—Using a new freeze-drying technique he developed, Dr. Robley Williams, professor of biophysics in the University of California at Berkeley, made these pictures of the submicroscopic world with an electron microscope. At left is an organism freeze-dried and at right is a similar one dried by the conventional method. Note the freeze-dried specimen retains its live shape and casts long shadows, whereas the other is squashed almost flat by the removal of water. The organism is 1/2000 of an inch long.

Several chemicals are satisfactory for treating fence posts. He suggests that you contact your county agricultural agent or write to the forestry department at Michigan State college, East Lansing for further information.

Williams Herd Completes Test

Several registered Holstein cows in the herd of Donald A. Williams of Mason have completed official production tests under herd improvement registry rules.

Testing was supervised by Michigan State college, in cooperation with the Holstein-Friesian association of America.

Highest producer among these was Ada Burke Ona with 695 lbs of butterfat and 17,935 lbs of milk testing 3.9%, produced on 2 milkings daily, in 365 days at the age of 6 years and 11 months. Her record averages approximately 24 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by her test.

Another high producer was Hiemke Texal with 688 lbs of butterfat and 18,808 lbs of milk, produced on 2 milkings daily, in 359 days at the age of 7 years and 11 months. Her record averages approximately 24 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by her test.

Feeder Pig Price Depends on System

You can pay up to $18.20 for 50-lb feeder pigs if you feed them balanced rations, and use good sanitation and production practices, including good legume pasture.

That's the answer Robert Kramer, Michigan State college agricultural economist, gives to farmers who are wondering about buying feeder pigs today. That figure assumes corn at $1.70 a bushel and 40% protein supplement at $6.00 a hundred pounds. It also assumes that you will market your feeder pig as a 225-lb butcher hog 4 months from now.

With that point as a starter, you can figure back to your own situation. If you feel that you will have to pay $1.80 a bushel for corn and $6.70 a hundred for protein supplement you can afford to pay only $17.10 for your 50-lb feeder pig. In other words, you can pay $1.10 each less for your feeder pigs for each 10¢ increase in the cost of corn and protein supplement. Or you can add $1.10 for each 10¢ less you figure they will cost.

On the other hand, if it costs you more to put gains on your pigs, you'd better figure on paying less for them.

These figures assume that market hogs will sell for $21 a hundred pounds the first week in December when your feeder pig would weigh 225 lbs and be ready for market, Kramer said.

Check on Cause When Stock Dies

When you are in doubt about that cause of death of livestock on your farm, have an accurate diagnosis made by a veterinarian before burying the carcass, advises Dr. Glen Reed, Michigan State college extension veterinarian.

Dr. Reed has some other suggestions for reducing the spread of livestock diseases. He advises against having the rendering truck drive onto your farm to pick up the carcass of an animal if it can be avoided. Instead, every farm should have a vehicle for moving dead animals.

This precaution is aimed at preventing the introduction of disease organisms to the farm. Dr. Reed also warned against dragging a dead animal across a barnyard.

No matter what you think caused the death, don't feed dead animals to other animals, the Michigan State college extension veterinarian warned. He also urged extreme care with aborted feti, dead pigs and dead chickens. Dead animals should never be thrown into a ditch or along a roadside.

The surest way to prevent the spread of disease is to get an accurate diagnosis when in doubt, then burn the carcass or bury it. In the case of anthrax, bury the carcass at least six feet deep or burn it.

Rats may raise four or more litters a year, averaging from six to ten a litter. They are expensive boarders. Controlling them will save grain, help control disease and save possible losses of young farm animals and poultry.

Reed Canary Grass Thrives on Muck

Wet mucklands that are normally too wet for other crops can make highly productive pasture areas if seeded to reed canary grass, according to D. L. Clannahan, Michigan State college farm crops specialist.

The summer months, when the water table is low, make an ideal time to clear, plow and fit these areas. Reed canary grass should be planted before August 15. If this is not possible then late fall seeding after the growing season has passed has proven satisfactory, Clannahan said. He explained that in this case the seed lies dormant until the following spring.

Five pounds of seed per acre is the recommended amount. Fertilizer also should be applied at the rate of 300 to 400 pounds to the acre. Clannahan recommends a fertilizer high in potash and phosphate such as 0-20-20, 0-9-27 or 0-10-20. The seeding should be followed with a roller to firm the soil. This operation often spells the difference between success and failure of a seeding.

Clannahan said that new reed canary grass seedlings will need a year to become established. If annual weeds are thick, a clipping is recommended to reduce competition. The grass will furnish a long grazing period and is green when many other grasses become dry and woody.

Onion Growers Will Take Tour

Ingham and Jackson county onion growers will join for a tour Friday, August 8, according to Ingham County Agent James Hoekzema. The tour will start at the Verli Baldwin farm at Stockbridge at 10:00 and proceed to the Patterson Brothers and Carl Krumery farms.

Three Jackson county farms are listed for the tour after lunch in Stockbridge. During the luncheon the men will discuss the market outlook for onions. Dr. Paul Harmer, muck crops extension specialist from Michigan State college, will be the main speaker.

Fred Sackrider, Jackson county agricultural agent, will assist in the discussion of muck problems and in the question and answer period of the tour.

Country & Town

By JIM BROWN

There's an advantage to diversified farming. Here in Ingham, if the wheat is average, the corn is good. When potatoes run only softball-size, cucumbers hang heavy on the vines. That's what the experts call balanced farming. Lots of different farming operations usually prevent any widespread farming disasters. And when Ingham's business and industrial activity is mixed with the farming operations, it practically insures most of us that we'll get 3 meals a day.

Further north, the folks farm just one crop—people. While loafing in the north last week, I took field notes on farming operations along the tourist belt. I covered the sunburn route from Harrison where a sign claims "This IS the North" on to Grayling on the Au Sable river.

Native merchants all along the line claim 1952 has produced the biggest crop of tourists in history. Hot weather is largely responsible. Rotation plans have done a lot. I could find no evidence of how fertilizers or weed killers have helped.

Yes, northern folks have had a good year. The crop has been good. But let a few poor crops of people invade the north and folks up there would wish they had a few patches of cucumbers or a few acres of wheat to fall back on.

A week away is enough. I was glad to return to Ingham. It was reassuring to see that wheat harvesting and cucumber picking went right on while I was away.

I have had no response on the tentative plans for my peaches contest which were released last week.

Let's see, the county fair rolls into town this week end. One of the top days of the week-long event is Sunday before the fair. I try to be on hand to watch the strong boys erect the big tents and the thrill equipment. I like to watch the gypsies drive up in their new Cadillacs. It's fun to see the dancing girls limber up prior to a week of practicing their torch-dance art.

One of the big attractions at the fair will be the new screened dining room of the Rebekahs. The new construction marks the beginning of an era at the fair. The Rebekahs will feature flyless, dustless food, which may taste just as good.

Members of Ingham 4-H clubs will have more elbow room at the fair. The 3 new barns north of the midway are big improvements.

Those who lose their sheep, children or wives will be able to find them, as usual, at the Ingham County News information tent during fair week.

The News tent will feature a display of pictures taken in the county during the past year. But probably the biggest feature will be chairs to rest tired feet. Drop in for a visit and take your shoes off.

Members Qualify For 4-H Judging

Ingham county will be represented by 44 members at the 4-H judging elimination at Michigan State college Thursday and Friday.

Those who will participate in the various judging events are: Dorothy Showerman, Melvin Showerman, Elmer Phelps, Clark Phelps, Dorwin Sheathelm, Patricia Monroe, Don Williams, Mary Minnis, Bonnie Wilbur.

Dan Waltz, Peter Stid, John Coy, Sara Eckhart, Phyllis Baldwin, Faith Fernald, Irah Baker, Jean Baker, Elaine Frederick, Agnes Rowe, Laurence Olney, Ruth Dodge, Wilfred Wardowski, Robert Sterle, Billy Smith.

Maurice Rykert, Herb Miller, Jr., Wayne Blossy, Arthur Webster, James Lightfoot, Tom Beatty, Ronald Fisher, Wayne Karn, Clayton Hayhoe, Phil Hayhoe, Helen Watkins, Ed Voss, Roger Eberly.

Max Benne, Jean Avery, Dennis Avery, Katherine Kahres, Carolyn Childs, Phyllis Pearson, and Diane Clannahan.

The boys will stay in the quonset buildings and the girls in Williams dormitory. A program is planned for Thursday evening.

Farm Bureau Backs Balanced Legislature

Outspoken on behalf of the proposal for a balanced legislature is Clark L. Brody of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Two proposals calling for legislative reapportionment will appear on the November 4 ballots. One is the CIO-sponsored proposal which would place representation in both house and senate on a population basis. That would give control of the state to the 4 counties of Wayne, Genesee, Saginaw and Oakland.

The balanced legislature proposal, according to Brody, would give recognition to area and diversified interests as far as the senate is concerned. It would raise the number of senate districts from 32 to 34 and would bring about districts that would be more nearly uniform in population.

The number of house districts would be increased to not to exceed 110. Wayne county would have full representation. Moity would be retained and clarified. The "bed-sheet ballot" by which 21 representatives have been elected at large in Detroit would be ended.

"This proposal would be self-executing," Brody explained. "If the legislature should fail to carry out its provisions within a specified period of time, the job would be turned over to the state board of canvassers who could be forced to function by mandamus proceedings.

"Adoption of this amendment by the voters in November will insure a balanced legislature with equitable representation to all sections of the state."

Hoekzema Advises On Trench Silos

A properly constructed trench silo is a satisfactory substitute for the conventional upright silo even though trench silos are not as efficient in preserving silage. J. P. Hoekzema, county agricultural agent, pointed out.

A well-drained site is the first requirement for a trench silo. If there is a gentle slope, the trench may be dug the desired depth at the upper and the excavated dirt used to build up the sides at the lower end. On a level site, the trench may be below the natural ground level if suitable drainage to a dry well can be provided. In this case both ends of the trench should slope sufficiently to permit driving through the trench.

On poorly drained ground a trench may be built above the natural ground level by constructing stone or concrete walls with heavy footings backed up by wide, thoroughly compacted dirt banks, Hoekzema said. For any type of trench silo, stone or concrete approaches should be provided to permit the silage to be hauled out or self-fed in all kinds of weather.

In deciding on the size of a trench silo, farmers should take into consideration the size of their herd, the amount of silage to be fed daily, the length of feeding season and the amount of forage to be stored. Mature animals need 1 cubic foot of silage per day if considerable hay is fed with it, or up to 2 cubic feet or more per day if little or no hay is fed. Well-compacted silage will average about 40 lbs per cubic foot.

The county agent has further suggestions for farmers who want to use a trench silo.

Good Accounting Reduces Taxes

Paying $15 for a tractor repair job, then forgetting to enter it in a farm account book, may cost a farmer an extra $1 at income tax time.

J. P. Hoekzema, Ingham county agricultural agent, said that for each dollar of legitimate expense a farmer fails to enter on his income tax report he pays an extra 25c to 30c in taxes. That makes good record keeping just as necessary to showing a profit at the end of the year as any other farm job, he pointed out.

This example does not apply, of course, in those cases where income may be lower than exemptions and personal deductions, he added.

Many farmers pay out more than they should in income taxes because they don't set up complete depreciation schedules of capital item investments, Hoekzema said. Some also fail to pro-

Only the ALL-CROP Harvester has air blast separation. Between cylinder and strawrack, shelled grain and straw are whirled upward in a high arcing blast of air. Kernels are thrown free from the lighter straw and chaff, separating much of the material even before it reaches the big ten-foot strawrack.

Warning Is Issued By Police Officers

The sheriff and local police department have issued another warning to people of the city about following the fire department engines too closely, and reminding them that there is an area surrounding a fire in which they may not park. Growlups, as well as children, drop what they are doing when the siren blows, rush to their cars and break all rules for safe driving in their hurry to get to the fire. Some even pass the slower moving fire truck in order to arrive at the fire ahead of the equipment.

Recently one man was in such a rush that he got ahead of the fire truck and turned into the only entrance to the fire, thus blocking the fire trucks' way, which caused a serious delay. In the past, warnings have been published against this unlawful practice of following fire engines and no grown persons needs further warning.

In the future all cars except those used by firemen themselves found parked at the scene of a fire will be ticketed and full penalty under state law covering the offense will be assessed against the violator, according to the sheriff and local police department.

Phone Company Changes Name

The previously announced change in the name from Michigan Associated Telephone company to General Telephone company of Michigan became effective August 1, according to officials of the company. Announcement of the proposed change was made earlier this year and necessary details have now been completed.

Michigan Associated is a subsidiary of General Telephone Corporation, parent concern of 15 telephone companies operating in 19 states. Names of all major operating companies have been changed to include the word General, thus obtaining greater recognition of the largest independent telephone system in the country, with assets in excess of a third of a million dollars.

Officials emphasized that the change is in name only, with properties and personnel not being effected. They requested that after August 1, all communications be directed to General Telephone Company of Michigan and that checks in payment of services be made payable accordingly.

Sharpen That Shooting Eye

Bird hunters looking forward to more shooting with our longer seasons next fall will do well to sharpen their shooting eyes this summer. Most sportsmen's clubs have facilities for trap or skeet shooting—and regardless of how good a shot you think you are, a few practice rounds, especially at skeet, won't hurt a bit!

On the other hand, if you grew a little disgusted with your shooting last fall—if you were looking for alibis when the birds didn't drop—you can learn plenty and improve your shooting on a skeet range.

Don't Try Too Hard!

Most shooters actually try too hard. And when the effort is too great it's impossible to relax. Nerves and muscles can't coordinate when they're taut. In skeet shooting—and trap, too—you'll learn to bring that gun up with an ease and rhythm that gives you freedom of movement, with no cramped or awkward feeling. The stock will nestle in your shoulder with that feeling of a perfect fit. Your cheek will lie along the stock just right, with the eye automatically aligned with the sights.

In the hunting field you just don't get enough shooting to feel completely relaxed and natural with the gun at your shoulder. And for the first couple of days you'll probably be flinching when that gun goes off—although you may not realize it.

Another common fault in the field comes from raising the head to get a better view of your flying bird while the gun is at the shoulder. This will throw off your aim every time, and causes a surprising number of misses you can't account for.

Practice Makes Perfect

These things can't be perfected without some practice, either at trap or skeet. So, if you want to bring home limit bags of Michigan game birds next fall take steps now to use the nearest practice facilities.

Skeet will be most helpful, especially to the partridge hunter faced with a fast flying target in heavy cover. Nobody can even predict the direction of flight on a partridge. It may be straight away, straight at you, or at absolute right angles and going a mile a minute. You may have less than 2 seconds to aim and fire. That's where skeet simulates the sport, teaching you the proper lead to allow for various angles.

But best of all, skeet or trap makes shooting as easy and natural as pointing your finger. So don't wait until the bird season opens next fall. Get old Betsy out right now, and insure more satisfying sport in Michigan Outdoors come October 1.
