Man Loses Hand, Another Fingers In Cornpickers

Cornpickers have started taking their annual toll. Herb Baldwin of Onondaga lost his right hand to a cornpicker Tuesday afternoon. Frank Everett of Wheatfield lost the tips of 2 forefingers on his right hand when the gears on a cornpicker grabbed his hand Wednesday evening of last week.

Baldwin was operating his picker in a field on the Paul Zimmerman farm in Aurelius. His son, Fred Baldwin, and Zimmerman were shoveling corn into the crib. The picker plugged. Without shutting off the motor, Baldwin attempted to free the corn. The machine grabbed the glove on Baldwin's right hand and drew the hand into the maw of the picker.

Cleo Palmer, working in a field nearby, heard Baldwin scream. Palmer ran across the field and shut off the tractor. Just then Ward Lentz of Onondaga drove up. He drove to the Zimmerman house and he and Mrs. Zimmerman notified Fred Baldwin and Zimmerman. Palmer, Zimmerman, Lentz and young Baldwin worked a half-hour before they could free the elder Baldwin. Zimmerman then drove the injured man to a Lansing hospital.

Baldwin's hand was so mangled that surgeons decided to amputate. Everett was picking corn at dusk on the farm in Wheatfield when the picker clogged. Lights from the tractor did not reach the spot where Everett was working to unplug the machine. He was using his left hand. His right hand at his side accidentally came in contact with the whirling gears. The gears chewed off the ends of 2 fingers.

In the field alone, Everett jerked his trapped hand out of the gears and drove the tractor to the house. His mother drove him to the office of Dr. Ed Reynolds in Williamston where the hand was dressed.

Elevator Falls on Man
Leo Baumer, Aurelius, was crushed by a grain elevator at the Mary Shoppell farm. He was working on the elevator when the pin came out and Baumer was trapped under the heavy machine. Baumer's son, John, 10, was with his father. He helped free the injured man and aided him to reach and crawl into the trailer which was hitched behind the tractor. The 30-year-old boy drove the tractor the quarter-mile to the Baumer home.

Lynn Haynes, a neighbor, drove Baumer to the Eaton Rapids hospital. Baumer came out of the accident with cuts and bruises and strained neck and arm muscles. He was in the hospital 5 days.

Twelve friends and neighbors picked 23 acres of corn for Baumer Monday. They had 3 pickers in operation. Mrs. Baumer served a dinner to the workers at noon.

No New Polio Out in County

For the first time in months no new polio cases were reported in the out-county section of Ingham this week. Lansing has had 2 new cases since last week. That makes the Ingham total stand at 173 for the year. There have been 14 polio deaths, according to the report made by the county health department Thursday morning.

Kindling of Fire Causes Blaze At Fruin Home

Chimney sparks touched off an estimated $6,000 fire at the Basil Fruin farm home on Dansville road Saturday noon. Two Grand Rapids men on their way to the football game in Ann Arbor were the first to discover the flames leaping up the outside of the chimney on the west side of the house.

The Mason fire department and the Ingham township fire department fought the blaze in the attic and second floor of the large farm home.

The Fruins had $2,500 insurance on the house and $2,000 insurance on the household goods. A son, Basil Dean Fruin, who lived in the house with his wife, had $3,000 insurance on household goods. The Fruins were insured with the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Fruin was picking corn across the road when the fire started. Mrs. Fruin and Mrs. Lena Kelly were working in the kitchen. The wind was coming from the east and carried the first belches of smoke away from the house. The 2 women knew nothing about the fire until Bill Sanford and Dave Tossaint of Grand Rapids, driving east on Dansville road, discovered the flames and ran to the house.

Sparks from a kindling fire in the furnace caused the fire, Fruin stated. The sparks rolled out of the chimney and fell onto leaves and a bank of straw along the west side of the house. The flames followed a telephone wire and the chimney upwards to the roof. The 2 Grand Rapids men, the women and Merle Brown were the first to battle the flames. They hooked up a garden hose to a water tap in the basement.

Bird nests lodged in the cornice added to the inferno. The flames were extinguished at the base of the house, but water pressure failed to reach the flames which had climbed to the roof.

"We could have stopped the fire right then, if the water pressure had been greater," Brown stated.

The Mason fire department was summoned from the T. J. Holtz farm home 2 places west. The fire had burned the telephone wires on the Fruin house and also damaged the party line.

All of the furniture and rugs and most of the other household goods were removed while the flames were raging in the attic. The Mason firemen were the first to arrive. Water was trucked from the nearest water hydrant at the Mason city limits.

Basil Fruin and his wife are still living in the house.

"Why, I wouldn't think of living anywhere else," Mrs. Fruin stated.

Basil Dean Fruin and his wife are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stone. The furniture is stored in a barn on the farm.

Truman Hits Tie Of Ike and Taft At Lansing Stop

President Harry S. Truman listed the "cold-blooded deals of the old guard Republican reactionaries" when his campaign train stopped in Lansing Thursday.

The president addressed an estimated 3,000 persons at the C&O railroad station on Michigan avenue. The train arrived on schedule at 11:10 and remained until Truman, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Senator Blair Moody and local Democratic leaders appeared on the rear platform.

Margaret Truman stood by her father. She received a wreath of roses.

"Eisenhower says he is a 'no deal' candidate," Truman told the group. "But I tell you he is not. Eisenhower has made a deal with Senator Taft to let the moss-backed reactionaries into power. He has also dealt with rich oil interests agreeing to give the people's tideland oil to a few states. Tideland oil belongs to all the people. And you want to watch it when someone takes something of yours and gives it away."

During most of his 20-minute talk President Truman dwelt on the back-seat driving of Republican isolationists. If the people want war and deflation and a low standard of living, they should vote for the Republicans, he stated.

The president urged the election of Senator Moody and the reelection of Governor Williams. He also asked that Stevenson be backed by a Democratic congress.

At the end of the speech, President Truman was asked whether or not Roosevelt's decision to give 75 destroyers to the British in the early days of the war came under the heading of deals. The same reporter also asked him if he didn't himself have a deal with Stevenson in this campaign.

The president smiled.

President Truman drew more spectators than General Dwight Eisenhower when he appeared in Lansing earlier this month. However, Republican banners nearly equalled those flown by the Democrats Thursday.

Cries of "We like Ike" and "MCC's for Ike" punctuated the president's address.

Work Starts At School

Two school board members turned the first shovelful of earth Wednesday to begin the actual construction of Mason's new West Side school. As Dee Bray, left, and Joseph Porte look on, Raymond H. McLean and Stanley Holmes, wield the shovels. School Superintendent James H. Vander Ven is at the right.

Porte is construction superintendent for Granger Bros., the Lansing firm having the general contract. He bossed the job when Granger Bros. built the Hall Memorial library and the addition to the city's sewage disposal plant. He said he is glad to be back in Mason. (Ingham County News Photo)

Candidates Map Caravan Routes For Saturday

Candidates will be coming and going all over the county Saturday. Both Democrats and Republicans will be riding the hustings in a frank attempt to win votes by hand-shaking.

Caravans will be traveling in opposite directions. The only point of contact, if the schedules are maintained, is at Stockbridge, and folks over there are used to scuffling in the streets.

Both caravans will carry a full complement of speakers, along with some musicians. The Republicans have rustled up a calypso to help attract attention.

The Democrats will gather at Haslett for their takeoff at 10:30. Republicans will get an earlier start. They are scheduled to meet at Potter park and be ready for the road at 9:00.

The Democratic schedule calls for a Williamston stop at 11:30; Webberville at noon, Stockbridge at 1:00; Leslie at 2:30; Onondaga at 3:30; Mason at 4:30 and Holt at 5:30.

Leaving Potter park at 9:00, the Republicans will stop first at Holt, at 9:30, then Mason at 10:15; Aurelius at 11:00; Onondaga at 11:30; Leslie at 12, and Stockbridge at 1:00, where time out for dinner will be taken. The afternoon schedule calls for stops at Dansville at 3:00, Webberville at 4:00, Williamston at 4:45 and Okemos at 5:30.

Republican candidates and members of the caravan will be served their supper at the Masonic hall in Okemos. The O. E. S. will do the serving.

Schedules as announced may vary as much as an hour, caravan leaders said, because of local arrangements being made at various points.

Youth Is Injured In Hunting Mishap

Wesley Whitmore, 16, of Eaton Rapids was felled along with a pheasant in a hunting accident on the O. D. Johnson farm in Aurelius Wednesday morning.

The Whitmore youth, with Dick Rofson, 16, and the Johnson boys, James, 16, and Bud, 14, were out after birds. One went up. All except James Johnson fired. He told officers he wasn't sure whether the bird was a cock or hen and so didn't fire. He must have forgotten to put the safety back on, however, he explained.

Conservation Officer Walter Mutchler and Deputy Alvin Hartig. As he was lowering the 16-gauge shotgun, he said, it was accidentally discharged.

Part of the charge of No. 6 chilled shot struck Whitmore in his ear, the side of his face and the neck. He was taken to the Eaton Rapids hospital where doctors extracted most of the shot. The boy's condition is good.

The bird that the 3 boys fired was a cock pheasant, the conservation officer said.

Youngsters Will Be Guests At Halloween Party Friday

There'll be fun of all kinds awaiting Mason youngsters, and visiting boys and girls too, at the Halloween party Friday night.

Actually there's a series of parties, one Friday morning for the morning kindergarten class, and parties Friday afternoon at school for afternoon kindergartners, and first, second and third graders.

In addition to the big Friday night party, alongside Athletic field, for all youngsters, through the sixth grade, there'll be a dance at the school for seventh and eighth graders and high school pupils.

Boys and girls up through the sixth grade, if they are in costume, will also have their choice of 2 treats after the party. They may attend the Mason-Eaton Rapids football game or the Fox theatre free. Their costumes will admit them free at the gate of Athletic field. If they prefer to attend the show they will be given tickets at the party around the bonfire at the field. To qualify for either the football game or the party, youngsters must be in costume.

Because of the football game scheduled to start at 8, the Halloween party has been moved ahead to 6. It will be all over with at 7:30, before football fans arrive for the game.

The parade will form at the school behind the school band and the fire truck at 8. As the marchers reach the practice field alongside Athletic field the bonfire will be touched off. Judging of costumes will take place at once with prizes to winners in many different classes.

For refreshments there will be fried cakes, hot chocolate and sweet cider. Every guest will also be given a bag containing apples and special noisemaker prizes.

Joe Capps' band will play for the dance in the school gym. The dance will start after the football game.

Through school officials, Eaton Rapids youngsters who come to Mason for the game are asked to conform to Mason Halloween traditions. That means no soaping of windows or any kind of rough stuff, and none of the "trick or treat" business.

This will be the 21st community Halloween party sponsored by the Mason Kiwanis club to honor boys and girls for their good conduct on Halloween and throughout the year.

Mason and Vevay Go Above Quota On Red Feather

Mason and the township of Vevay exceeded the quota in the 1952 Red Feather campaign.

The quota was $2,400. That was reached Tuesday. On Thursday morning the total was $2,807.55.

Just to keep Mason and Vevay residents from feeling chesty over their generosity, Chairman Frank Evans pointed out that the combined totals in last year's Boy Scout and United campaigns was $3,200.

Enlisted under Chairman Evans were 51 canvassers. In Mason Mrs. William Porter led a force of 17 for the east side splitlation, and Mrs. Gerald Graham had 19 working with her on the west side.

Elwood Millard had a crew of 6 working with him in the business section.

Mrs. Wilfred Jewett captained the drive in Vevay. She had 5 solicitors working with her.

Business Firms Plan Expansion

Lee Ware and Al Rice are enlarging and expanding their business premises.

Ware has secured the former Cummings barbershop adjoining the drugstore on the south. The old structure is being entirely rebuilt and a new front will be installed. The present drugstore will be joined to the addition by a 14-foot archway. Lamphere Bros. has the general contract.

There will be only a single entrance to the combined stores. For the one now used for the Ware store. Later an entire new front and entrance will be built, according to present plans. The Wares expressed hope that the addition will be ready for occupancy by November 15.

The Cummings barbershop has been moved a few doors north on Jefferson to new quarters adjoining the PX store.

Rice has let the contract for a new building to house his automobile body repair shop. The shop is being built on the north end of the former hotel property, next to the alley joining Jefferson and Park streets. The building will be 31'4"x50', of concrete block construction. Lawrence Slopson has the contract.

Voters Anxious To Cast Ballots In Big Election

Unless predictions turn sour, Ingham will join other counties Tuesday in rolling up a record vote.

The campaign to get people to register and to urge them to vote will help boost Tuesday's total. But the greatest factor in creating interest is the bitter campaign being waged by presidential candidate U. S. General Dwight Eisenhower and Governor Adlai Stevenson, and the forces behind them, have waged and still are waging a battle that for acrimony and bitterness equals, maybe exceeds, any other campaign in American history.

That campaign is expected to draw voters to the polls in record numbers Tuesday in Michigan.

FREE RIDE TO POLLS
Voters who find it inconvenient to make their own way to the polls Tuesday can have free rides. The Mason Automobile Dealers association will furnish transportation to all voters in Mason and the townships of Vevay, Alaledon, Aurelius and Ingham. All that need be done to get the free ride to the polls is to call Mason 9611 or 2-3661 well ahead of the time the voter wishes to vote. The advance notice is needed, dealers explain, to arrange rides for voters going in the same direction.

The presidential contest has far overshadowed the race between Governor G. Mennen Williams, the Democrat, and Fred M. Alger, Jr., Republican.

Potter and Moody Fight
Only the contest between Congressman Charles E. Potter, Republican, and Senator Blair Moody, Democratic appointee now in office, has been a counter-attraction to the presidential show. The verbal fighting between Moody and Potter has drawn and held attention.

Except where there are special issues, voters will be offered 4 ballots Tuesday. One ballot contains the names of the candidates for president and vice-president. The Republican party in Michigan has the first column and the Democrats the second. The other parties, and the columns they occupy, are: Prohibition, third; Progressive, fourth; Socialist Labor, fifth; and Socialist Workers, sixth.

All 6 parties have candidates on the state and county ballot, which is separate from the presidential ballot. Republicans, Democrats and Prohibitionists only have county candidates.

Non-Partisan Candidates
A third ballot contains the names of candidates for the state supreme court, Ingham judge of probate, and 2 circuit court commissioner posts. That's a non-partisan judicial ballot. There are no party columns or designations upon it. Incumbent judicial officers are identified with the titles of their offices. That's a distinct advantage.

There are 3 propositions on the referendum ballot. No. 1 affects the search and seizure provisions of the state constitution. No. 2 and No. 3 provide different methods of redistributing the state for the election of legislators.

In all precincts in the county, whether votes are cast by machine as in Lansing, or by paper ballot elsewhere, polls will open at 7 o'clock in the morning of election day and remain open until 8 o'clock. Those standing in line and waiting to vote at 8 o'clock will be permitted to vote.

Prof. Donald Hayworth, Michigan State college professor and Democratic candidate for sixth district congressman, and Republican Kit Clardy have been hitting hard. Hayworth is expected to profit from the CIO blessing in Genesee. Clardy is counting on Ingham and Livingston totals to offset bad news from Flint.

Driver Is Killed Near Mt. Pleasant

Harold Jones, 43, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eber Jones of Mason, was killed in an accident on US-27 a half-mile north of Mt. Pleasant early Tuesday morning.

State police officers said they believed that Jones, who was alone in the car, fell asleep at the wheel. The car ran off the road and struck a tree.

Jones operated a gasoline service station in Clare. Besides the parents he is survived by the widow Nelida, 2 daughters and a son.

Eber Jones, the father, is assistant manager of Whitecraft Sales in Mason.

Justice Court

Last Thursday Walter McKenzie appeared before Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams in Mason to plead guilty to disorderly conduct. He was placed on probation for 3 months, the first 3 days to be served in jail.

Deputies Neil Oakley and Glen Drown at Stockbridge arrested Rollie Spradlin last Friday on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. When taken before Judge Adams, Spradlin demanded examination. His bond was set at $2,000 to appear for examination next Monday.

Oakley and Drown also brought in Ronald G. Joseph and Lillian Harper, both of Chelsea. Both pleaded guilty before Judge Adams, Joseph to drinking on a public street and illegal possession of liquor, and the woman to drinking in a public street. Joseph paid $15 fine and costs on each count, was put on probation for 3 months on the first charge and was jailed 2 days on the second charge. The woman was assessed fine and costs of $15 and put on probation for 3 months.

Lebern Allen of Stockbridge went before Judge Adams Friday to enter a plea of guilty to illegal possession of liquor. He paid fine and costs of $15 and was put on probation for 3 months.

Judge Adams has taken guilty pleas from hunting law violators brought in by Conservation Officer Walter Mutchler. Darrell Roy of Mason paid $17.50 last Thursday for hunting without a license. Kent Mayo of Lansing paid $45 Saturday for killing a hen pheasant and another $16.30 for hunting on land without securing permission of owner. Ronald Poorman, Lansing, paid $16.30 and was put on probation for 7 days for hunting on land without the permission of the owner.

Harlan Brown, Stockbridge, pleaded guilty before Judge Adams Saturday to drinking in a public street. He paid fine and costs of $17 and was placed on probation for 3 months.

Crash Interrupts Carven Journey

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Carven of Mason were victims of an automobile accident after leaving for Florida last Thursday. They were held up at Garrett, Indiana, until Sunday while Mrs. Carven underwent medical treatment and a new car was obtained.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Carven was seriously hurt. Their car was demolished.

The Carvens left Mason at 6 in the morning. Driving 4 miles south of Garrett at 9:30 they saw an approaching car veer off the road and then suddenly wheel back on. The car, with Marcus Surfenberger, 75, at the wheel, struck the Carven car. Surfenberger told officers he had dozed off or blacked out. He said he remembered nothing about his car leaving the road or coming back on.

Mr. Carven and the driver of the other car were unhurt. Mrs. Carven was cut and bruised.

The Carven car was so crushed that insurance adjusters called it a total loss and provided the Mason couple with another car.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Runyon of Holt, son-in-law and daughter of the Carvens, drove to Garrett after the accident and remained until the Florida journey was resumed.

Hunters Cause Series of Fires

Mason firemen made 4 runs the past week to put out fires caused by hunters. Three of the alarms came Monday.

One fire in the edge of Delhi township was set by hunters who tried to smoke a squirrel out of a hollow tree. The tree burned, tossing of lighted matches or burning tobacco into dry grass. Tuesday night's flurry of snow dampened the grass enough to ease the situation, Mason Fire Chief Leland Austin said.

HOW TO SAVE A DOG

If a dog has been poisoned, a good first aid measure while waiting for the veterinarian to arrive is to give the dog some warm salt water to stimulate vomiting. This emergency treatment, followed by the veterinarian's use of specific antidotes and hypodermic injections may save the animal's life.

Fire Chief Urges Prevention Plan

In an address before the Mason Kiwanis club Tuesday night, Mason Fire Chief Leland Austin urged every business man to adopt a fire prevention program. He also declared that householders can materially reduce the number of fires by making frequent checks on heating equipment and electrical appliances. Overloading of light circuits is a frequent cause of fires in Mason, Austin said. Carelessness and recklessness on the part of hunters resulted in 3 woods and grass fires this past week, the fire chief declared. One of the chief causes of residential fires, according to Austin, is smoking in bed.

The fire chief told of the new law which makes it a misdemeanor for users of party lines not to yield the line when emergencies arise. Everyone should know the fire department number, the chief declared. The fire phone rings at the sheriff's office, the city hall and the fire chief's house, he added, and the line is always open.

Belding Contest Is Moved Ahead

The gate from this game will go to help defray the medical expenses the Mason team has incurred this fall. Season tickets will not be honored for this game.

2 Fronts Will Decide Issue In Close Capital Circuit Race

Charlotte hurdled one obstacle in its drive toward a Capital Circuit title Friday night when Howell knuckled under the Oriole attack in the closing minutes to give the Orioles a 21-6 victory. Now the Charlotte gridlers must get by Everett and Eaton Rapids.

Eaton Rapids also added another victory to its string Friday night with a 25-7 tune-up win over Brighton. Both Charlotte and Eaton Rapids are undefeated in Circuit play.

Everett and Grand Ledge rounded out the Capital Circuit slate Friday night with Everett coming out on top of the Comets 38-13. The Vikings are a different team with all the injured back in action. Charlotte will have to look out this Friday.

In the next to the last week end of Capital Circuit football the Orioles will play at Everett in the crucial game of the day. Mason will try to hang the season's first defeat on the Greyhounds in a game played at the Bulldog field and Howell will go up against the winless Grand Ledge Comets.

Mason will have its mind on 2 contests. If the Bulldogs get by Eaton Rapids then Mason is in the thick of the race to the Capital Circuit throne room.

Friday night it was anybody's ball game up until the last quarter over at Charlotte. Howell scored first when Boyd Shertzer plowed over from the 1-inch line.

Then Charlotte scored when Dean Carey swept around end for 17 yards. The Orioles took the lead when the try for the extra point was good.

Howell struggled to get back into the game. The Highlanders rolled deep into Charlotte territory one more time in the first half but lost the ball on a fumble. The rest of the first half and the third quarter was played with the 2 teams deadlocked in the middle of the field.

It was not until the last quarter that the Orioles broke the game wide open. The Orioles started a 75-yard drive that ended with Ken Olmstead plunging over. Olmstead then intercepted a pass and returned it to the Howell 42 to set up the third Charlotte score. The Orioles were forced to run the ball across 4 times. The first 3 times the ball was called back because of Charlotte rule infractions.

Greyhounds Win Sixth Eaton Rapids stepped out of the Capital Circuit and polished off Brighton 25-7 for its sixth victory of the season. The Greyhounds utilized pass interceptions all night. Bill Cataline picked up 2 to set up Eaton Rapids touchdowns and Chuck Connely grabbed off another to set up a third score.

Bill Schramm, Eaton Rapids' bulldozing fullback, scored the first 2 touchdowns. Cataline

Mason Defeats Holt 27 to 7, Greyhounds Coming Friday

Mason experienced little trouble rolling over Holt 27-7 Friday night. The Bulldogs scored twice in the first quarter, once in the second period, and once more time in the third.

Chances are Mason will not have all the chips will be on the table as far as the Bulldogs are concerned. Eaton Rapids will be out to atone for the lone loss of last year which Mason handed them. Again this year the Greyhounds will go into the contest with a perfect record.

The Greyhounds have proved that last year's comeback after being the doormats of the league for 10 years was no fluke. Eaton Rapids is rated the best team in the Capital Circuit.

Bill Schramm and Bill Cataline provide the offensive spark for the high-scoring Greyhounds. The Eaton Rapids team moves equally well in the air and on the ground. Nihil Storey is one of Cataline's favorite targets when the Greyhounds take to the air.

Friday night's game will stack 2 of the best lines in the Circuit against each other. Mason has stopped all opponents cold on the ground this year but has not been too effective in stopping air attacks.

Mason must win Friday night if the Bulldogs are to stay in the race for the Capital Circuit honors. If Mason takes Eaton Rapids then Charlotte will be at the top all alone with the only perfect record. Charlotte and Eaton Rapids meet in the last game of the season. Mason's chances of sharing the crown would ride with an Eaton Rapids victory over the Orioles.

Friday night Mason came up with 2 touchdowns in the first quarter and only ran 4 plays from scrimmage. The Bulldogs kicked off to Holt. On fourth down the Mason line surged in on Holt punter, Bucky Phillips. Don Lyon took the ball in the chest. The pigskin popped into the arms of Jim Blauvelt and he lugged it across the goal line 45 yards away.

Mason again kicked off. The Ramblers picked up a couple of first downs then were forced to punt. Again Lyons got in front of the boot. This time he fell on time the Bulldogs stuck to the ground. Jennings and Jewett took turns piling up first downs as the Bulldogs marched 83 yards down the field. Jewett ran the ball across. Big Bob added 3 extra points from placement in his 4 tries.

It was again Mason's defense that stood out. The Bulldog defenders were invincible on the ground. Ralph Ellison, Don Lyons and Marv Shepard played in the Holt backfield most of the night.

Mason came back to stop any Holt bid for victory by ramming over another touchdown. This

County League Teams Near The End of the Football Trail

Last Friday's games in the Ingham County league did little toward determining the loop champion. The undefeated Lakers from Hasslet took on the Sexton Reserves and over-powered them 40-6. Holt, currently riding in the No. 2 spot in the league standings, came out second best in a 27-7 contest with Mason.

The rest of the league was busy with league games. Leslie had to rely on a last minute rally to beat a stubborn Williamston team 25-14. Okemos grabbed on to third place in the standings with a close 13-12 decision over Stockbridge. In the other game Fowlerville got a belated start and then ran over Dansville 14-0.

Friday night the Ingham County league will wind up football for another year with the exception of the crucial Hasslet-Holt encounter scheduled for November 7.

Leslie will close the season at Okemos, Williamston will wind up at Stockbridge, Holt will take on the Gladiators at Fowlerville and Hasslet will play at Dansville Friday afternoon.

Holt and Hasslet both are going into the next to the last week end as favorites. If both teams win as expected Holt will have to beat Hasslet to win a share of the title.

The Lakers will be sure of at least half of the crown.

Leslie Comes Through Leslie roared from behind in the last 4 minutes of the game Friday night to overtake and pass the Williamston Hornets. With an upset decision within sight Dick Hecksel scored from 12 yards out following a Hornet fumble. Bill James added another touchdown for the Blackhawks when Leslie recovered another fumble on the Williamston 20.

Williamston held the upper hand all the way until the Blackhawks turned the Williamston bobbles into the 2 winning touchdowns. James and Hecksel accounted for the other 2 Leslie touchdowns. The Hornets scored on a lateral-pass play from George Gibbs to Glen Lounsbury to Dick Latham and Latham added another when he recovered a fumble in mid-air and went 2 yards to score.

Swab Kick Means Victory Mel Swab split the uprights with a perfect kick which turned out to be the margin of the Okemos victory over Stockbridge. The 2 teams were fighting it out for third place in the Ingham County loop.

Stockbridge took a first-quarter lead when Bill Fouty went 10 yards for a touchdown. The extra point try was not good. Swab evened the count when he passed to Jerry Rossa for a touchdown. The Chiefs went out in front in the third period when Swab returned a punt 50 yards.

Stockbridge scored a touchdown in the third period, too. The extra point try failed and neither team could get going in the last quarter.

Gladiators Break Loose Fowlerville broke a strictly defensive game wide open with a brace of touchdowns in the third period. Up until that time the Gladiators and the Aggies were content to punt heads in the middle of the field.

Norm DeMarais passed to Howard Leicht for the first score and Jim Munsell passed to DeMarais for the second counter.

Mason Business Men Collins took 4 points from Schmidt's department store, Mason Dairy took 3 from Karbelt and Mason Elevator and Anderson's split with 2 points each. Collins had high team game for the night with 849, and Mason Elevator had high team series of 2276.

High games and series were by Bob Inghram, 208-520; John Edgar, 202-506; Jack Shaffer, 513; and Junior Hayhoe, 512.

Team standings are as follows:

Team	W	L
Mason Elevator	19	9
Karbelt	15	13
Anderson's	15	13
Schmidt's	13	15
Mason Dairy	12	16

Belding Booked For November 14

Mason football fans will be treated to one more home game than originally appeared on the schedule.

The Bulldogs will take on Belding in a game which will be played Friday night, November 14. All proceeds from the game will go toward the medical bill Coach Lou Lori's squad has accumulated.

Last year Mason and Belding were scheduled for the season tail ender but the game was called off because of a blizzard. Belding is one of the powerhouses of the central Michigan area.

This year Mason has lost some of its key players on injuries. Jon Davis has been treated for a fractured thigh, Jim Blauvelt has been playing with a finger in a cast, Don Lyons has had a bad shoulder and Bruce Collins and Bob Scofield have had concussions.

This game will help to offset these medical expenses. Season ticket holders will have to pay additional admission in order to see this game.

You Can Vote for Whom You Please

established in
We're Not Running for Public Office. We Just Want to Say

Thank You

We're running our pictures here this week with all the candidates but we are not running for office. We just want to say, "Thanks."

For 25 years we have enjoyed doing business here in Mason. Now we have sold that business, sold it to Max McCarn.

We have had our ups and downs (a lot more ups than downs) in those 25 years. We have sold good automobiles. We have serviced them.

In those 25 years the cars we have sold have grown better year by year, better in performance, in style, in economy of upkeep. And automobiles will keep right on getting better, because Oldsmobile and other manufacturers bend their entire resources to that end.

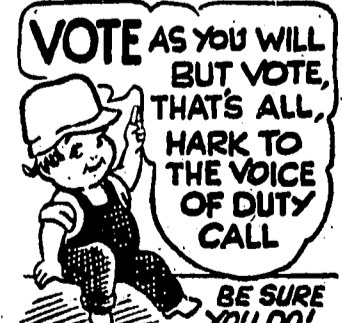

Well, this isn't any advertisement for automobiles so we'll quit talking about them and their improvements. We'll just say again that we are grateful for the privilege of serving you; that we'll always cherish the friendships which have developed over the years.

To Max McCarn and Oldsmobile we offer our best wishes. We know Max well and we recommend him to you. And we know Oldsmobile. The company needs no recommendation from us. But we'll give it anyway.

So thanks, folks. You have been mighty good to us, and we appreciate it.

The 2 extra ballots are on township propositions. One is for a tax limitation increase for the raising of an extra 1 1/2 mills for a period of 5 years for the purpose of creating a park fund. The other is to appropriate $3,500 from the township's general fund to build and equip an addition to the Miller Road Community hall to be used as a library.

Delhi township has a park commission. Mrs. Iva M. Stamper is the secretary.

"The commission is relying on the board of supervisors to provide one park for the township. The commission is also seeking to have the state highway department designate some of its unused US-127 right of way south of Holt for park use.

Yet even if parks are established by the county and the state, others will be needed to serve the rapidly growing suburban areas some distance from Holt. Mrs. Stamper pointed out, and money will be needed to equip the parks and to cover the cost of a comprehensive recreation program.

"We are asking 1 1/2 mills or $1.50 per $1,000 tax valuation," said Mrs. Stamper, "to finance the park and playground program. With the limited funds we had this year it was impossible to take the program to all parts of the township. This is unfair to the children in the outlying districts. We need enough money so that every person in the township has an opportunity to participate.

"Long term plans of park commission include parks, playgrounds, permanent playground equipment, supervised summer and winter recreation, basketball, archery, baseball, handicraft for adults and children, and ice skating.

ing, all properly supervised.

"We also want you to know that your park commission members receive no salaries.

"We feel the children of the township need plenty of recreation in their own communities rather than looking for their pleasures elsewhere; sometimes finding trouble instead of healthful recreation and pleasure.

"If voters will support us and vote yes on this proposition, the cost will be shared by everyone instead of a few interested persons."

Lawrence G. Martin, president of the North School Community Coordinating Council, is one of the supporters of the move to authorize the township board to build an addition to the Miller Road school for use as a library.

The building now used as a library, Martin explained, is inadequate. There is no water supply or modern toilet facilities in the building, he added.

"The new library for our district will not result in any increase in the property tax," Martin said. "The money will come out of contingent funds of the township, money received from the sales tax and other revenue from the state."

Four Are Hurt In Two Crashes

Farmer Peck's Wife

The pace that kills.

First things now come first.

Give someone else a chance.

Someday I declare I'll do it! Actually, probably I never will but there are times when I'd like to . . . and a lot of other people do too, I bet.

It's stay at home . . . belong to nothing . . . be involved in nothing. This must sound like someone else writing, to the folks who know me and see me go flitting by so freely and much and they can't know it is not all for myself.

We go at such a fast pace today. (I can remember a calmer way of life.) It's a silly way to spend our days rushing from here to there and ending each day, even Sundays, with a vast weariness of body and mind in trying to keep up. Some do keep up and it does not bother them. They, then, are the ones for it and not I.

The other day I counted the "things" that took bites of me out in various sizes and the number appalled me. It was 23, not counting the role of wife, mother, daughter, sister, daughter-in-law and other relationships which are very important in our family. And I am not a giant in size or ability and I find I have reached the saturation point of being a part of anything beyond the present status. I am weary of going . . . and wish I could stay at home . . . and wish I intend to. (Won't Pete be glad to see that in writing?)

From now on the best things come first and many will have to be left out. If folks think my judgment is in error when I am choosing . . . well, you cannot please everyone. Those who never do anything escape that world where you feel or hear displeasure of something you have done or said . . . for if you do nothing . . . you have done nothing to displease . . . and a sorry lot you are living for yourself alone!

Perhaps someone else would like to take a turn at these things we think only we can do! Sounds harsh but don't you think that's the way it is a lot of times? Some folks are willing to do it and the rest are willing to let them. They would if they had to and if they knew no one else would do it. Yet there are a lot of good things that would cease but for those who are willing to "push" them. Some are born pushers . . . some walk . . . some sit and some lie. Some don't do anything!

I want to urge each of you to vote. It's a shame we take so lightly what was earned so hard. It seems that which we have to fight for we prize and what is given is ignored or rejected. It gives me shudder to think of living in some countries. We may think of ourselves as very tiny frogs in a big puddle but let us be live ones and not buried in the mud at the bottom in oblivion and indifference.

Missionaries from Mason Make Japanese Headlines

Japanese newspapers have been running headlines about the heroism of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert C. Dunton, Methodist missionaries who left Mason 18 months ago for Japan.

Dunton and his wife (the former Joan Davis) used their arms and wedding presents to disarm and capture a Japanese gunman who had entered their home bent upon robbery.

The gunman is now awaiting sentence, much to the relief of Japanese citizens who had been preyed upon for several months.

The Duntons are now at a school which has been established at Atsuh near Tokyo. It is close by Hachioji, a center of Red activity in Japan.

On September 4 the Duntons had their home ransacked, and again shortly afterward. They thought then they had been crossed off the robber's list until they awoke at 3 a. m. October 16 when a pane of glass in their bedroom window was shattered. Standing outside the window was a man demanding money. As Dunton flashed on his electric torch which was on a table beside the bed, he saw that the intruder held a pistol in his hand. Dunton handed over the money in his wallet, less than $1, to the robber. He and Mrs. Dunton had hidden other money about the house. Mrs. Dunton then related to the robber that she and her husband were missionaries and had little money.

At that, the robber said he wanted to learn more about Christ and so holsted himself into the room. Thereupon he demanded more money and watches. He demanded Dunton's flashlight and then started to ransack the room. He was working on the dresser where money was hidden when Dunton leaped from the bed, turned on the electric light switch and hurled himself upon the robber, all in one instant.

Dunton grabbed the robber's hand clutching the revolver. The revolver was discharged. In the melee Dunton and the robber rolled into a closet where Dunton still had the robber by the gun hand.

That's where Mrs. Dunton profited by the experience of her father. State Trooper Nathan S. Davis, Mrs. Dunton jumped from the bed, picked up a pottery vase given to her by her mother for a wedding present, and used the weapon on the head of the robber. She knocked him out.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunton then trussed the robber up with neckties and a rope. While they hand stood guard over the captive, Mrs. Dunton ran outside and summoned teachers and students from the mission school. The police soon arrived and marched off with the robber.

The robber was armed with a Colt .38. He pleaded guilty to a series of armed robberies and is now awaiting sentence.

Bars have now been placed across the windows of homes at the mission and a signal alarm system has been installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunton reported that their son, Tom, 3 months old, slept while his parents battled and subdued the robber. He occupied the same room in which his parents slept.

Approval of Proposal No. 1 at the general election November 4 will give Michigan police a powerful weapon in the war against the narcotics traffic, according to Chief of Police Ralph Hall.

The amendment would apply the same provisions to making a search for narcotics legal without a warrant as were applied to concealed weapons in a constitutional amendment approved by the voters in 1936, the Mason officer said. The concealed weapons amendment has been pointed to as having been most effective both in the reduction of this type of crime and the prosecution of offenders. The same results are expected if the narcotics amendment is adopted.

Paul P. Belser of Chelsea became Michigan's 95th most excellent grand high priest following election and installation ceremonies held by the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Michigan, Saturday at Marquette.

Paul P. Belser

A native of Michigan's first university city, Paul Pratt Belser was born at Ann Arbor, March 22, 1893. He is the son of Frederick H. Belser who was a New Washington, Ohio, banker. His mother was the former Emily Eslick.

The new grand high priest enjoys the unusual experience of being elected to the state's highest Royal Arch office during the same year that his only son, Frederick Curtis Belser, is serving as excellent high priest of Olive Chapter No. 140, which is the mother chapter of both.

Grand High Priest Belser was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason by Olive Lodge No. 156, June 21, 1921, and served as worshipful master in 1950. He was a member of Olive Chapter No. 140, November 4, 1921, and served as excellent high priest for 8 years.

60% of State Revenue Goes Back to Counties

Michigan collected $655,512,382.60 in state revenue for the year ending June 30, 1952. But local units got 60% of it, a total of $393,601,101.80.

More money came back to local units from the state than the local units collected from property taxes. The total property tax levied by local units was $375,314,891.57.

From the state Ingham units received $1,373,548.49 for general government, $4,391,460.79 for schools, $247,500.59 for public health, $2,066,572.49 for welfare, $1,723,639 for highways, $52,250.31 for regulatory services and state aid received by local units in Ingham amounted to the stupendous total of $9,855,793.27.

Schools Offered Topics on Health

Michigan high schools are again being invited to enter the TB speaking project and the school press project, tuberculosis educational activities which highlight the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

The TB speaking project, in which students prepare and present talks on tuberculosis, will be co-sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Michigan State Medical Society.

The press project, which gives student journalists a chance to write about TB, will be co-sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association and the Columbia Scholastic Press association.

In both projects, honor awards are presented for outstanding efforts.

Last year, 2,300 high school students took part in the speaking project and 99 school papers entered the press project.

Polio Cases Set New State Record

The number of polio cases reported to the state health department has gone over 3,000 for the first time in the state's history, exceeding the entire yearly total of 1919, the previous high year.

A total of 3,252 cases was reported up to October 17.

The disease apparently reached its peak in Michigan the third week of August. The decline following the peak, however, was much more gradual than in any previous year.

In the United States, the third week of September was the high week before the decline began. Only 4 times in the past 25 years has the peak of reported cases of polio been as late, or later, than it was this year.

Detroit Law Dean Is Candidate for High Court Post

Charles H. King, dean of Detroit College of Law, is a candidate for justice of the Michigan supreme court at the November 4 election. He is seeking to fill the vacancy on the court occasioned by the death, in July of this year, of Justice Walter H. North of Battle Creek.

Dean King has been a practicing attorney in Detroit since 1933, a member of the faculty of Detroit College of Law since 1937 and dean of that college for the past 8 years. Widely recognized as a legal scholar, his analyses of current legal problems have appeared in professional publications throughout the state and country. In 1946, an entire issue of the Michigan State Bar Journal was devoted to an article which he wrote for the benefit of returning lawyer-veterans, dealing with developments in the law of Michigan during the war years.

Actively interested in bar association work, Dean King is a member of the American Bar association, the American Law Institute and the American Judicature society. He is also a member and serves on several committees of the Detroit Bar association and the State Bar of Michigan. He is president of the Michigan Law Institute, an agency of the Michigan post-graduate legal education is available to lawyers throughout the state.

Dean King is 46 years old, married and has a 14-year-old son. He has lived in Michigan since 1919. He resides in Highland Park, where he is a member of that city's civil service commission and where his father, William A. King, is still actively engaged in the practice of law. At 81, the older King is the dean of the Highland Park bar.

Dean King attended Highland Park high school, holds a bachelor of arts degree from Detroit Institute of Technology, a bachelor of laws degree from Detroit College of Law and a master of laws degree from the University of Michigan law school.

Under Michigan law, candidates for justice of the supreme court are nominated by the several parties but are elected on a non-partisan ballot. Dean King was nominated by the Republicans.

Dansville Woman Gets Recipe in Cappers Farmer

Mrs. Irene Braman of Sunset Haven rest home at Dansville has a recipe for oven-fried potatoes in the November issue of Capper's Farmer.

Here's her way to fry potatoes in the oven while the roast is cooking:

Peel and slice potatoes into strips as for French fries. Soak in ice water 30 minutes to 1 hour. Drain and pat dry between towels. Place potatoes in well-oiled shallow baking pan and sprinkle with melted fat.

Bake in a hot oven (475 degrees) about 45 minutes. Turn and toss several times so strips brown evenly. Drain on soft crumpled paper. Sprinkle potatoes with salt to taste and serve while hot. Serves 4.

Birth Rate Jumps Throughout State

Will we be ready about five years from now to meet the needs of the growing child population?

That this is a real question for community planners to be looking into is attested to by provisional reports of the state health department for the second quarter of 1952 which show a steady increase in births in Michigan.

During the first three months of 1952, a total of 39,530 babies were born, 2,728 more than during the same period in 1951. For the first 6 months of 1952, the total was 82,287, a gain of 1,524 over the corresponding period in 1951.

The number of babies born in Michigan last year exceeded all previous records with a total of 172,451 having their births registered with the state health department, topping the previous high year of 1947 by more than 12,000.

STUDENT IS HONORED Barbara J. Anderson, Dansville junior at Michigan State college, was honored Monday night at a banquet given by John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State college, for students who achieved an "all-A" record summer term in 1952.

Ancient History

One Year Ago Mason's community Halloween party drew the biggest crowd in years Wednesday night.

Don Oesterle escaped with cuts and bruises when he was flattened by a tractor at the Oesterle farm Saturday. One of the big wheels skidded across Oesterle's shoulder and face.

Royal Scaton of Howell has bought the Our Cab Co. from Max Hovey.

S. A. Demorest has resigned as operator of the sewage disposal plant. Ross Richmond is the new operator.

Mason high school's football team defeated Eaton Rapids 21 to 6. Holt and Haslett lead the Ingham league. Holt has won 5 and lost 1. Haslett has won 4 and tied 1.

10 Years Ago—1942. Miss Velda Wiseloge of Mason has been accepted for duty with WAC.

Coffee, gasoline and fuel oil have all been added to the rationing list.

Some day China and India may rule all Asia declared Dr. Sul Wang in an interview at Mason. Dr. Wang was a college classmate of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ball. She was teaching in Peiping when the city fell to the Japanese. Dr. Wang escaped from the city and went to Tokyo. She came to the United States last year before war broke out between the United States and Japan.

A light vote is anticipated in Tuesday's election. Homer Ferguson is contesting Senator Prentiss Brown's U. S. senate seat. Harry F. Kelly and Murray D. Van Wagner are in the race for governor.

20 Years Ago—1932 Plans are complete for the second annual Halloween party for the kiddies at the county park next Monday evening.

Funerals for 4 long-time residents of this vicinity were held during the past week. Those passing were Myron A. Holmes, Vevey; Mrs. Charles Coy, Vevey; Mrs. Daniel Sears, Aurelius; and Will Ellsworth of Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pitt Ellsworth of this city.

The Safety Problem Countless thousands of words have been written and spoken on safe hunting practices. And despite all the warnings, carefully outlined safety rules, and repeated instructions to young hunters, it's a pretty good bet that 25 people will be killed by gunning accidents and another 150 injured in Michigan before the year is out.

Are You a Safe Hunter? If you hunt with other persons does your gun ever swing directly toward your companions? You store on Saturday. Crowds flocked to the new store for the bargains offered. Beef steaks—round, sirloin and Swiss—were sold at 9c lb. Leg of lamb sold for 15c and hamburger at 3 lbs for 25s.

50 Years Ago—1902 Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the missing Louis N. Gansley, deputy county clerk, now charged with embezzlement of more than $100 from county funds. The board of supervisors has ordered an audit of all county officers and has recessed until such audit report is ready for its inspection.

Veterans of the 9th Michigan Volunteer Infantry which gained fame during the Civil War met here for their annual reunion. A large number of former members attended.

A barber shop has been opened at Aurelius Center. Miss Minnie Farley visited friends at Jackson over the week end.

Deer Hunters Guilty It's a frightening fact that deer hunters are guilty of the same inexcusable violation. I have seen deer hunters sitting in a blind, their gun leaning precariously beside them, with the safety off. Surely the element of time can't

The Trip to Korea

Some people declare that the pledge of General Eisenhower to visit the battlefield and peace tent in Korea is grandstanding.

Maybe it is. But it is time that somebody did a little of that kind of grandstanding. Certainly such grandstanding will accomplish as much or more than the grandstanding Secretary of State Dean Acheson has been doing before the UN and before Democratic gatherings.

President Truman might far better have been doing some of that Korea brand of grandstanding than using taxpayers' money to whistle-stop up and down the country.

General Eisenhower has taken and is taking Korea seriously. He has made none of the Acheson remarks like "Let's let the dust settle first."

General Eisenhower is apparently sincere in his promise to do his best to end the war on honorable terms. There are thousands of men in Korea and thousands of men and women here in the United States who are anxious that General Eisenhower or someone else determined to find peace set out for Korea at once.

Fill 'er Up

Those are the words gas station operators like to hear. But they don't sound so sweet when the driver of a battleship, destroyer, submarine or plane drives up.

A navy Mars plane flying from Hawaii to San Francisco uses 7,000 gallons of aviation gasoline. Jet fighters consume 450 gallons of gasoline every hour. In a recent flight 73 army jets set out from California to Japan and Korea. That means it took 1,800 gallons of gasoline for each jet, 180,000 gallons for the flight to Hawaii, and that's only a third of the distance to Korea.

Now about 50% of the gasoline used in the Pacific comes from the Middle East. There is a vast quantity of oil in those Middle East fields but it takes a lot for war or for even maintaining the peace.

"Fill 'er up" are welcome words to gas station operators, but they lose some of their music when the taxpayers have to foot the bill for filling the fuel tanks of ships and planes.

Not What Color, But What Kind

Most of us now here in the United States are here because we were born here. Why we were not born in Africa, Asia or Europe is something beyond our knowledge. A Mason preacher pointed that out Sunday in a sermon.

He also pointed out that there is nothing any individual can do to change his color or race, and often there is not much he can do to change his citizenship.

We can't determine our color or race. We can determine what kind of a Caucasian, or Oriental or Negro or Indian we shall be. And that should be our chief aim in improving ourselves as individuals or in rearing our children.

Where we were born and of what color or race are beyond our control. Directly in our control is what kind of a person we shall be.

A Decision Is Needed

For the third time the city council plans a final decision on the triangular half-block bounded by State, Park and Sycamore streets.

Twice before that "final" decision has been reached. The zoning ordinance has been twisted around, tossed out and brought back in or partially in over that triangular piece of property. It's high time that a decision were reached. Let's hope that this third "final" decision stays that way. A fourth "final" would be just a little too much.

No Pay for Voting

No one should be paid for voting. If a man or corporation pays the wages of employees while they vote he or it may some day feel moved to dictate how those votes shall be cast.

Every citizen should consider it his duty to vote. He shouldn't ask to be paid for it. He should be insulted at the offer of pay for his vote.

Proclaiming a holiday on election day would be no assurance that more votes would be cast than now are. Good Friday has come to be a part-holiday. Here in Mason the stores close up for 2 hours. A small percentage attends Good Friday services.

A holiday to many people means a day for pleasure. Voting hours and the absent voters law are so arranged that nobody need lose his vote because of employment.

No on 2, Yes on 3

To keep the legislature representative of all the state and not just 4 industrial counties, vote against Proposal No. 2, and for Proposal No. 3. No (2 letters on 2); Yes (3 letters on 3).

Adoption of Proposal No. 2 would reapportion the legislature in such a manner that Wayne, Genesee, Oakland and Macomb could and would control the state. Such a setup would be bad for Michigan and all the counties, even the big 4, in Michigan.

Proposal No. 3 gives every section of Michigan an even voice in the legislature. Fairness demands a no vote on Proposal No. 2, and a yes vote on No. 3.

Campaign Oratory Grows Stale

By Vernon J. Brown

This is being typed after a week end of political television. It is to be expected that as the curtain is being lowered on the 1952 political production, more and more screams will be heard from the wings, and more and more dire predictions will fall from the lips of the principal characters in this the greatest stage play of all time.

Over the week end I punished myself by watching all comers. I saw and heard General Eisenhower as he spoke at Detroit. I looked in by TV on Stevenson here and there; I even took it on the chin while our president dug in the mire and mud in his "give-or-take" campaign of smear. I sat it through when Elmer Davis and his phoney "panel" set the stage for Walter Reuther and his tirade against the Republicans.

I listened while our own "Snappy" told us of the awful iniquities of the automobile industry and especially of the conspiracy among the auto dealers to steal a Michigan election. I have watched and listened while Moody and Potter exchanged compliments in the campaign for United States senator.

I am fed up. I am sick and tired of the show. I will be happy when it is over. The worst that can come will be a relief from the din which has assailed the ears of Americans since last summer's presidential conventions got underway.

Of course I am prejudiced. So are most of my fellow citizens. I am a party man. I have never believed the self-styled independent voter was as good as the most hide-bound partisan. After all, in a country where the party system prevails there can be no such thing as an effective independent voter. He can pick and choose, yes, but he must do his choosing from among the candidates selected by some party convention or primary election.

As for party platforms, they are phrased by party delegates. The issues are determined by popular will and neither the party affiliate nor the independent can do much about that. The real issues are decided by the individual voters, one by one, as they stand over their ballots behind the curtains at the polls on election days.

So I am not terribly disturbed. I shall vote my convictions next Tuesday and nothing except mental or physical incapacity or death shall stop me. I shall not vote for the general with as much enthusiasm as I did when I cast my first vote for McKinley, a protective tariff and sound money. Then the issues were clear. We had no television shows to confuse. I will not have the same exultation I experienced when I voted for Theodore Roosevelt. My inner feelings may approach those I felt when I voted for Harding after that convention debacle of 1920 but probably I never again will feel the thrill of marching in a torchlight procession such as I engaged in even before I was old enough to vote.

Yes, the years have sobered the nation and I have not escaped. Indeed I am so hardened I pay little attention nowadays to campaign arguments and campaign promises. I hold myself against the floods of suspicion and innuendo, the hate and bias and barbs, the intolerance and class arrangements, and all the name-calling of this modern day. In spite of what our governor had to say, the automotive dealers I know are pretty decent fellows and I will trust them a lot farther than I will the Gus Scholtes.

John L. Lewis may glare and rare and Tom Dewey may do his best oratory. I will do my turn Tuesday and will reconcile myself to the results of the balloting, whatever they may be.

All this leads me to one little thought which has been growing in my mind the last couple of weeks. I want to plant a seed or two right here and now. I am not sure these seeds are any good but I am convinced they are as fertile and promising as some I have

Down by the SYCAMORE

Gib Putman of Williamston is back from a hunting trip in the Ozarks. This is son-in-law season there, reported Gib. Men with marriageable daughters take to the woods, hunting for mates for their daughters. Gib wasn't even shot at. His wife was along. That put Gib on the protected list.

Lyle Howlett was the man who presented the $50 to help Sid Grayson get fitted to contact lenses.

One of the best movies coming out of Hollywood in months is The Greatest Show on Earth. Don't miss it.

Is your wife doing you full justice with apple pie? If she isn't in full pie production now you'd better do some encouraging.

Some things remain unalterable. The stars in their courses through the heavens change little through the centuries. The earliest Egyptians, Carthaginians, Phoenicians and the Greeks, Chinese and Japanese and South Sea Islanders used the stars to plot their courses by sea.

Those same stars are relied upon by navigators today. Ship navigators have radar and loran as aids, but they rely upon the stars to find their true positions. The tossing seas, atmospheric conditions and certain other circumstances interfere with radar or loran. The stars give the exact position.

Navigators aboard the navy Mars, flying boats have all the modern devices, yet there, too, the navigators rely on the stars to check position. To a landsman it seems remarkable that a navigator can leave Hawaii and strike the Coast anywhere between Alaska and the Panama Canal. But to a pilot who can read the stars he can strike any square foot of coast he happens to aim at.

A few days more and the newspapers, air waves and sound waves will be freed of their burdens of political disputes, arguments, pleas and vilifications.

I wish the pollsters would now set out to find how many people are actually persuaded by political arguments. I believe the total is a lot smaller than most politicians guess.

"It is better to debate a question without settling it, than to settle it without debate," according to Joubert. That's one advantage this political campaign has given the people. We have heard just about everything debated with nothing settled. We should at least know more about the questions because of the debates and arguments, even if we don't know the answers.

Don Quixote maintained that there were no answers to one command and to one question. The command was, "Get out of my house." The question was, "What do you want with my wife?"

Probably more men are fooled by women than there are women fooled by men. Yet there are few professional "woman magicians." June Allerbaert of Michigan State college is one of them, and about as clever as they come. She mystified Mason Kivanians on Tuesday night of last week and some of them considered themselves hard to fool. Probably most of them are fooled by women every day.

Forrest Smith has turned from sheep and beans to corn and hogs. Really, his son-in-law Clarence Frye did the turning. While his father-in-law was in Florida 3 years ago Clarence bought 9 sows. That's where the switch from sheep was made. For this year Smith and Frye held over 50 Hampshire gilts. Those gilts now have, or did have until Monday, 335 pigs. One load of 48 left the farm Monday for market. There were 333 pigs. Seventeen were rolled on or trampled in infancy. Only one died after the herd was turned into pasture.

Drive out West Columbia and see the cornbelt brand new, built from timber cut from the farm woodlot. The giant crib holds 6,000 bushels of corn. When Smith & Frye swing into action they pick 100 bushels of corn every 20 minutes. On Saturday they stopped after picking an even 2,500 bushels. They considered that a day's work, and then they went hunting.

Really, those pigs belong to Mrs. Don Densmore. The hog lot comes right up to her back door. She protested when her father and brother-in-law turned the hogs into the field.

"Those hogs won't come near your house," the men assured her. "They'll stay down by the creek where we put the self-feeders. You can have all that come to your place."

By actual count, declared Mrs. Densmore, all 335 have been hanging around her back door. But she doesn't mind even though she doesn't intend to claim ownership. Forrest and Clarence have been buying chlorophyll tablets to mix in with the feed. The hog lot now smells like a bed of roses.

A. G. Spenny & Sons will be missed in Mason business circles. It was the biggest family partnership, father and 3 sons, since Hugh Silsby died. The Silsby partnership was father and 4 sons.

Let's see, I guess it's next Tuesday that we vote for president. At this time next week you can buy a lot of campaign advertising cheap. And you can pick up a lot of political prophecies which didn't jell, and many a political promise which didn't draw a vote, heard fall from more eminent sources.

Recently I heard a distinguished college man talk about education and its place in our public affairs including our government. He gave some figures I had not learned of before. According to his statement there are about 33 1/2 million boys and girls in our tax-supported public schools and young men and women in our colleges and universities. In these United States there are about 1800 colleges and other institutions of higher learning.

About one-third of the total number, but most of them with limited enrollments, have some connection with some religious group. When I add in the number of young people attending night classes, trade schools, technical institutions, business training schools and similar, I come up with the startling fact that just about 1 out of every 4 persons in this country is under some type of training. That all means that at least every 15 years our whole philosophy of life might well change. It all depends on the character of the instruction and influences offered in these schools and colleges.

This last thought was driven home to me the other evening when I made an appearance at a Parent-Teachers meeting at Dansville. After the program, a father whose hair line is receding a little, came to me and reminded me of my being present at a dinner honoring the Future Farmers of America of that school when he was a student there some 15 years ago. He is now head of a family with children in the same school. Fifteen years is about the average time from high school days to Parent-Teacher days.

What I am getting at is this—why not use some of the money now wasted in vain attempts to "contain" communism abroad to underwrite a system of public education here among our own youth to teach them the theories and fundamental philosophies which guided the founding fathers when America was launched? Dean Munyon of Notre Dame in his "Keys to Peace" insists there is not now and never has been a system of government like ours. Perhaps we need to get back there and rebuild or at least examine some of those same foundations.

We might use our Generals MacArthur and Eisenhowers and our Governor Stassens and even some of our better ex-presidents and others who have proved their trustworthiness as the nucleus of the first faculty list. Let scholarships be established and degrees in American political philosophy be offered and for a time at least be liberally subsidized from public funds. Let a central college be first established and when the pattern is fashioned, let the teaching be spread until every teacher-training school in America comes under its influence. Fifteen years of intense effort would be required in preparation of and selection of teachers and another 15 years of actual schoolroom teaching in the American way of life before final results might be expected.

But what are 30 years in eternity when so much is at stake? At any rate, more progress would have been made even at that slow rate than is now being recorded in a futile world-wide attempt to sell America, when we Americans are not fully sold.

I have been trying to put myself in the place of that first voter now coming of age and more important in the place of that person, previously a non-voter and now under urge and about to mark a ballot. I have been honestly appraising the stuff which has come out of this campaign and its effect upon these 2 classes of voters. I am sincere when I say I fear they are more confused than they were 6 months ago. Only next Tuesday's results will give me the answer to my personal concern for the true liberty-loving people among us.

Could You Go Broke? State Could Too!

Michigan is nearly broke. During the last four years under a Democrat governor, the State has spent 89 million dollars more than it took in. You and I can't spend more than we take in without going broke. Neither can the State!

That's Fred Alger's solution to the State's financial crisis— LESS SPENDING NO NEW TAXES.

Fruit Growers Enjoy Orchard Work

By J. P. Hoekzema
County Agricultural Agent

"I have great confidence in the fruit business for this area," Jens P. Hansen, orchard owner west of Mason, states. "We are in a fine location, have a good market, Lansing especially, as it is a better market than they have in the fruit belt, where there is more competition. We can sell most of our fruit at retail and we are in an importing peach section so fruit is easy to sell and brings good prices."

Seven years ago Hansen purchased 20 acres located in Aurelius township. There were many old apple trees that had been neglected for years. Jens believed that there was a real opportunity to develop a good orchard so left his position as a herdsman at the Wayne county training school. He had always liked fruit, though after coming over to this country from Denmark, he had been a fester in an Iowa D. H. L. A. project. In the old country he had attended agricultural college so knew something about fruit. He also had developed many colonies of bees.

The first year little fruit was produced. Hansen had brought about 200 colonies of bees with him. He said that it was fortunate that the first year was a good honey year and between 16,000 and 17,000 lbs of honey were produced. There was little income except from the honey, so Jens was glad that this first year was a good year for honey production.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Hansen take time out from spraying Color-Set to pose for this picture with their nephew, Eric. Both of the Hansens take an active part in working with the fruit and keeping the bees. Photo by James Hoekzema

Some of the trees were too old to produce economically. Most of the old Baldwin trees have been removed, but about 80 of the Winter Banana trees still remain. These were planted in 1918 and are large, productive trees now. Among the older trees were McIntosh, Jonathan, Northern Spies, Grimes Golden and a few Red Delicious. Six years ago Cortlands and Steele Reds were planted. These are just coming into production.

The largest crop of apples produced in any one year was the crop of 1951 when between 3,000 and 4,000 bushels were raised. Many of the apples are sold at the farm and the fruit is known for its high quality. Excellent production methods are followed. Nitrogen fertilizer had been applied to the trees each spring. Two years ago NuGreen was added to the spray and applied directly to the leaves. This method allows nitrogen to be applied as needed. The apple orchard is sprayed 12 to 15 times a year. The regular spray calendar as developed by Michigan State college is faithfully followed from early in the spring until late in the season. During the scab season, Hansen sprays the orchard every 2 or 3 days. He sprays with the wind so the spray hits one side of the trees one time and the other side when the wind changes.

Red apples should have plenty of color so this year he sprayed them with Color-Set. This spray is applied just before the apples are ready to pick and causes them to hang on the trees for a week or 10 days longer than is normal. This gives the apples a better color.

Another method used to get top quality and a large number of fancy apples is to spray the apples about the time they are setting with a spray that causes some of the apples to fall off. This allows those that remain to become larger and produces more "fancy" grades.

A John Bean sprayer that has a capacity of 200 gallons with a 15-gallon pump that develops 600 lbs pressure enables Hansen to do a thorough job of spraying.

About 500 peach trees were planted 6 years ago. These are Redhaven, Halehaven, Fairhaven and Shipper's Late Red. Two years ago a second planting was made. At this time the J. H. Hale, Fairhaven and July Elbertas were planted along with a few Golden Jubilees.

Eight hundred bushels of peaches were produced this year and all were sold at the farm. Again the quality was high as the peach trees had been fertilized and about 8 sprays were applied. The best varieties have been planted and the local demand has been good.

A few pear trees, plums and cherries are also in the orchard. Most of the apples are sold at the Lansing market and some of the yellow apples are sold to apple pie companies in Detroit.

In addition to the fruit, Hansen also has 125 to 150 colonies of bees, and these require considerable attention. About 1/2 to 2/3 of the honey is extracted and the balance is cut comb honey. He doesn't like the regular comb honey as the bees are more apt to swarm when comb honey is produced.

Mrs. Hansen, who came to this country several years later than he did, is also vitally interested in the orchard. She attends the trade and does much of the selling while her husband is busy working in the orchard. This is a real partnership and both are looking forward to increasing the number of trees, to the time when the trees will be in maximum production and to the continuation of producing high quality fruit.

Local Dairymen Tell Shortcuts

Ten Eaton and Ingham county dairy farm operations are used by a national farm magazine as outstanding examples of "how one man can increase production."

The 10 operations are featured in the article "How Many Cows for a One-Man Farm?" in the November issue of Capper's Farmer.

"Dairymen are looking for ways to increase herds without making the job too big for one man to handle. Labor is scarce and high priced," is the problem, which the article helps solve for many dairymen.

The 10 dairy operations which provide "answers, straight from farm experience" are those of Frank Cosgray, Jerald Topfitt, David Klink, Leon Cowdry, Louis Wilson and George Helbig, all of Mason, and Warren Childs of near Lansing, and Ellis Ray, Alex Kalbarczyk and Glen Baxter of Charlotte in Eaton county.

Time and labor saving habits developed by the dairymen are explained. It was found that they spent an average of 7.7 hours a day (including part-time help) tending herds ranging from 15 to 30 cows.

"Handling herds like these is not done without hustle, regardless of amount and kind of equipment used," is one conclusion from the study.

The overall conclusion is: "It looks as if that 25-cow goal is not clear out of sight, even in old barns without too much in the way of equipment."

Miscellany... Swine erysipelas is making headway among turkey flocks. Four to 6-month-old toms usually affected. Disease not necessarily fatal if moderate methods of treatment are followed... Farmers produced about 20 times more commercial broilers in 1950 than they did in 1934... Fewer apples are bringing higher prices. Michigan Jonathans in Chicago have been selling about 25c higher than a month ago and almost double a year ago... Alfalfa seed production in Michigan this year is up 15% from 1951. It's still about 25% below what we averaged in 1949... Midwest states having affected areas in which parts are under quarantine against vesicular exanthema include Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

Turkey Growers Plan a Festival

"More exhibits than ever before" is the promise made visitors to the sixth annual Michigan turkey festival next week at Civic auditorium in Grand Rapids. J. M. Moore, extension poultry specialist at Michigan State college, is working with Michigan Turkey Growers association on the show. He reports there will be a minimum of 45 booths.

Magic acts, music and other entertainment are scheduled in the show which will open at 9 a. m. Tuesday, November 4, with placing of entries. It will close with a banquet at 6 p. m. Thursday, November 6, at the Pantlind hotel. W. A. Billings, extension poultryman from University of Minnesota, banquet toastmaster, will be just one of a group of nationally-known poultry specialists taking part in the 3-day program.

Banquet entertainment includes magic acts by the "Houdini of Michigan," whose identity Moore did not reveal, and the "Pitch Pipers" barbershop quartet singers of Grand Rapids. The Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce will have a city tour program for women visitors Thursday afternoon.

A consumer education program, with 20 turkey door prizes, is scheduled for 2 p. m. Thursday. Miss Mary Bodwell, consumer education specialist at Michigan State college, will show how to select and cook turkeys. Charles Hawks of the Poultry and Egg National Board will show how to cut and carve turkeys.

Martin Potratz of Charles City, Iowa, will auction off the grand champion oven-ready hen and tom at the banquet, and the biggest turkey will be given to the governor, G. Mennen Williams, according to practice.

Pre-Calving Care Boosts Production

Dry your old cows up early, and break your heifers into the milking herd gently, before calving time for the best dairy herd results, advises James G. Hays, Michigan State college extension dairyman.

Michigan farmers generally feed the same ration to dry cows that milking cows receive. If the roughage is at least 50% legumes, no high protein supplement is necessary, according to the Michigan State college dairy department. High protein feed supplement like soybean oil meal is necessary with grass roughage.

Cows cannot eat enough to cover body and milk needs for about a month after calving and therefore should have a rest before calving to get in top condition. Thin cows and heavy milkers need about 8 weeks dry period before calving; fleshy cows and low producers require about 6 weeks of rest. This lets them build up minerals as well as flesh burned up in milk production.

Heifers about to join in milking herd should go in a month early, get used to barns and handling, and have careful attention to their bedding and their udders. Massaging udders and teats is helpful and bedding should be deep enough to keep them from hurting hocks and udders while learning to lie down.

Graining of heifers also should start about a month before freshening, Hays reminds. If they have been raised economically, they have not had grain. Good roughage, including pasture, is sufficient for a growing heifer that is in calf.

Lack of lime is still the chief cause of legume seeding failures, report Michigan State college soil scientists.

The number of cattle raised in the U. S. has been increasing now for 4 years. As a result, the number of cattle slaughtered has started to climb this year. A more rapid rise in slaughter is in prospect for next year.

The increase in cattle slaughter is expected by USDA economists to hike total meat production next year a little above 1952.

Heavier marketings of cattle in 1953 may result in some further decline in prices farmers receive for cattle. Because of competition from beef, prices of hogs and lambs are not expected to change very much from this year.

The corn-hog ratio this fall is slightly below average. This normally would discourage any increase in spring pig crop next spring. However, the bumper corn crop of excellent quality in the western corn belt tends to encourage larger pork production. USDA economists figure prospects for a 1953 spring pig crop just about the same, or at least a little larger, than the 1952 spring crop. Furthermore, economists don't expect hog prices this winter to be as depressed as a year earlier. For the year as a whole, the 1953 hog prices are expected to be a bit higher than they have been so far this year.

The 1953 crop soybeans are going to be supported at the same rate as this year's crop. National average support rate for next year will be $2.56.

A week or so ago mention was made of experiments using antibiotics to stimulate plant growth and increase germination of seeds. New reports say that the so-called wonder drugs control some serious plant diseases.

Antibiotics have the peculiar ability to spread throughout the plant by means of the inner circulatory system. Various types of blight seem to be affected by the drugs.

Scientists are running experiments to see if antibiotic injections into the trunks of fruit trees can control fire blight and peach brown rot. Preliminary experiments have been successful. This could be potent for fruit growers. Scientists say inoculation of trees would be much cheaper than spraying and dusting. Antibiotics would be safer to handle, too. Residue effects wouldn't be a problem. Use of antibiotics such as penicillin and terramycin to speed up plant growth and also control plant diseases may have just as great an influence on crop production as it has on livestock feeding.

A new and superior strain of white meat chicken has been announced by Purdue University poultrymen. The name is Purdue Dominant White.

White chickens are favored for meat purposes. They don't have dark pinfeathers. But chickens with the dominant white gene so common to White Leghorns are rare among meat strains. Cockereels of the new Purdue strain will produce 100% white chicks when mated to Barred Rocks, New Hampshire or Rhode Island Red hens.

Comparative tests have shown the Dominant White has meat quality better than many of the common strains. Egg production has equalled the best shown by other meat birds.

Production of synthetic fibres is increasing rapidly throughout the world. Effects on cotton and wool industries may be rough. U. S. manufacturers plan a 60% boost in output of rayon and acetate staples. Productive capacity of newer "wonder" fibres—nylon, orlon, dacron, etc.—is to be boosted 4.5 times the 1951 production.

Good growing conditions throughout most of the country this year have brought supplies of feeds back to a safer level. The supply of feed per grain consuming animal is about the same as this last year. Carryover at end of current crop year will hold steady for the first time in 3 years. Only thing in sight that might upset better feed balance would be unexpected boost in pig crop next spring.

Quail have been made to lay fertile eggs in February, instead

Achievement Means Something To 60,000 4-H Youngsters

About 60,000 of the happiest, busiest young people in Michigan are pausing November 8 to take a look at their past year's achievements. They are the 4-H club members of the state who have wound up an estimated 95,000 projects and are well into winter activities.

Reaching 100,000 farm families annually, the Michigan Cooperative extension service sponsors the 4-H club program. More than 11,000 adults and older boys and girls acted as volunteer leaders for almost 5,000 local clubs throughout the state.

Michigan ranked highest in number of completed projects in the midwest last year. Michigan 4-Hers completed more than 80% of their projects.

range from simple needlework to building houses, from turning out a cherry pie to fattening up a champion steer.

In recent years a new interest in talent has been displayed among the members. They participate in talent shows in their counties and later take part in state competition at the annual State 4-H Club Show on the Michigan State college campus, East Lansing.

Scholarships, expense-paid trips to national meetings and prizes are earned by members who take part in state-wide competition. Many commercial firms provide awards for the youngsters who excel in their project work.

Lymarlan Montvic Rag Apple Rose has produced a total of 109,423 lbs. of milk and 4,070 lbs. of butterfat on 2 milkings daily

ONE LITTER—2½ TONS

2½ TONS OF PORK FROM ONE PIG IN 6 MONTHS—This litter of 18 Farmer's Hybrid pigs recently set a new world record for six months weight—a total of 4,992 pounds. Owned by Lawrence Meyer of Spring Grove, Minn., (left) the champion litter was raised on Terralac, synthetic sow's milk, and terracyclin-fortified dry feed. Prof. H. G. Zavoral of the University of Minnesota (far right) was on hand to make the 100-day weight official. The heaviest pig weighed 342 pounds, the lightest 226 pounds. This is the first year synthetic milk has been available. Meyer says the pigs might have been largely lost by starvation if farrowed a year ago.

Delegates elected by the 18,000 members from 165 local units in 37 counties of the lower peninsula will have an all-day session during which they will hear reports by association officials on the finances and operation of the organization during the past year and adopt resolutions and formulate plans for the guidance of the directors and management during the year to come.

The program for the meeting includes an address by Dr. Charles L. Anspach, president of Central Michigan College of Education at Mt. Pleasant, whose subject is "So What?" Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, acting dean of the college of agriculture, is included among the speakers and will introduce Dr. Anspach.

A demonstration of parliamentary procedure will be given by the winning team in the Future Farmers of America state-wide contest from the Ionia chapter. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wolf of Williamston, winners of the association's "Outstanding Farm Couple in 1952" award will be introduced and also will be guests of the producers organization at the National Milk Producers Federation meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, November 9 to 13.

Guests in attendance will include officials of the state department of agriculture, staff members of Michigan State college, newspaper representatives and personnel from allied dairy industries. Dinner will be served by the 500 members and guests by the women of the People's church. The election of 4 members to the board of directors for 3-year terms will be the concluding business of the day.

By James Haselkorn

Rural folk make pleasant friends because they have time to chat. They haven't yet learned to be spectators at life's drama. Even with TV sets being installed faster than milking machines, they are living life—not just watching the face of it on a screen.

My dad came over from Holland and because he loved America and carved for himself a place in a land where he started without a dollar, I especially like the poem by Struthers Burt, which reads in part—

My people came to this country
In need of a land that was free,
So I think the only thing I can do

If a decent man I would be,
Is to walk with my head held high and proud

For the blood that runs in me,
And God bless all the dripping fields

From the mountains to the sea,
And grant that I walk like a fearless man

For the blood that runs in me,
I'm sick to death, even as you are,
Of the political smearing going on day after day.

Russia would have me thus confused and if possible keep me from the polls in November. But deep in my memory is a poem by John Pierpont. There are only 4 lines but they carry such truth that we must not forget them—

The Ballot
A weapon that comes down as still
As snowflakes fall upon the sod
But executes a freeman's will
As lightning does the will of God.

A PHD is mighty fine to have but a pair of BVD's is warmer.

If you meet a highbrow don't get worried. He's only a common guy educated beyond his intelligence.

I heard a joke at a 4-H club meeting that said a rooster carried the least luggage when he went traveling, because all he had was a comb. Who says so? Any dairyman knows that it's the heifer that carries the least luggage. She's only got a little bag, "As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is no democracy." Abraham Lincoln said it. Who can improve on it?

"Democracy means not 'I am as good as you are,' but 'You are as good as I am.'" A Reverend Parker said that but I'm sure we all feel a deep response to its challenge.

A snob is anybody who puts up a big front to hide what he hasn't got!

It isn't the quantity of our yields that counts. It's the quality of our youth.

Early 1953 Pigs Will Make Money

Michigan farmers have a much bigger supply of well-ripened corn this fall than last. They should be able to produce more pigs for more profit in 1953 than in 1952, suggests H. F. Moxley, Michigan State college extension swine specialist.

Last spring, farrowings were later than usual as hog raisers looked to more help from pasture and the 1952 feeds. This year, with the favorable corn supply, the smart farmer will have his sows farrow earlier to gain the returns of the higher prices for pork in August, Moxley advises. They also will boost their overall hog production to take advantage of the feed they have.

If farmers have equipment to take care of early pigs, they should breed sows within the next few weeks to have February farrowings. Gilts to be used as brood sows should be 8 or 9 months old, at least 200 lbs., well-grown and not too fat, say Michigan State college swine specialists. They should be separated from the herd, given pasture and an outdoor ration.

A good mixture for self-feeding would be 1,800 lbs. of ground oats, 100 lbs. of soybean meal and 100 lbs. of molasses. The mixture should be 14% on gas!

"Get acquainted with your neighbor. You might like him," is an old saying but the solid truth of it isn't always practiced.

Try smiling at a stranger. It might give him the lift he needs and your own face won't suffer any damage.

"Money talks," I've heard it said. But after a rich man is dead, it's his heirs who talk louder.

Try giving your wife a compliment. If it doesn't kill her it may cure her. In either case you're the winner.

Some kind of an award ought to be given to the 2 Grand Rapids men who discovered the Basil Fruin fire Saturday noon. Bill Sanford and Dave Toussaint were on their way to see the Michigan-Minnesota football game in Ann Arbor. As they passed the Fruin farm home on Dansville road, they spied flames leaping up the outside of the chimney. They rushed to the door and notified Mrs. Fruin.

But the neighborly acts didn't end there. The 2 men helped lug furniture and clothing from the threatened house. They helped firemen extinguish the flames.

Sanford and Toussaint left in time to probably see most of the game, but their clothes and faces were smudged with smoke after the 2-hour battle.

There ought to be more helping hands at fire scenes. There are too many curiosity seekers and not enough helpers like the Grand Rapids men.

The pair did an Ingham farm family a real favor. Thanks, strangers.

This has been a good year for popcorn, according to F. E. White, Lansing corn buyer. He buys up all the Ingham popcorn he can and then makes up the balance of his requirements with lower-quality Ohio corn.

Neighborhoodness is a wonderful thing. Twenty-eight neighbors of Floyd Rice joined forces Saturday to pick 20 acres of corn belonging to the Bunker Hill township farmer. Eight pickers and several wagons did the job. Women of the community put on a real feed at noon at the Felt Plains Methodist church. Rice spent the late summer and fall caring for his wife. She was able to look out the window Saturday to see the corn pickers at work.

Mrs. Rice died Saturday night.

While out on Meridian road, I continued on down to Seger Rice's pumpkin-squash plantation at the corner of Fogg and Meridian roads. Rice's squash pile isn't as high as it was last year. Those late summer frosts nipped the crop before it could be harvested. But the giant squash that were harvested are perfect specimens.

Rice grows Silver and Golden Hubbards, butternut and buttercup squash and a lot of other ones that I can't remember. He is completely sold out of Mother Hubbards.

I brought home a pumpkin which stands 18 inches high. It will be used to scare away the Halloween spirits Saturday night.

Besides the small pumpkins, Seger has some really big ones to sell, too.

The second outbreak of the highly contagious and infectious disease of swine, Vesicular Exanthema, has appeared in Washtenaw county, according to Dr. Lee Davisson, state veterinarian. The disease occurred on a garbage-feeding premise in Salem township.

A quarantine prohibiting the movement of any hogs has been placed on Northfield, Salem, Superior, and Ann Arbor townships, in Washtenaw county; Greenoak township in Livingston county; and Lyons and Northville townships in Wayne county. As soon as the extent of the disease is determined and it is brought under control, the quarantine will be

The disease is spread primarily through the feeding of unrotted garbage. The federal bureau of animal industry is cooperating with the Michigan department of agriculture and pays one-half of the indemnity on hogs that are ordered to be slaughtered. Early symptoms of the disease are lameness of the animals. Swine are the only kind of animals affected by the disease.

"The Big Sky" Playing at the Fox

Fox Theatre movie goes will have plenty of excitement served up to them in the coming week. Friday and Saturday fans will be treated to a double feature attraction of "When in Rome" and "Storm Over Tibet."

The call for something new in film plots is brilliantly answered in "When in Rome," the new M-G-M comedy-drama starring Van Johnson and Paul Douglas on the Fox screen.

Here is something definitely off the beaten path, the story of a young priest and a hardened racketeer, whose lives are curiously entangled when they share a cabin on the small boat taking them to Rome during the Holy Year.

Father John X. Halligan (Van Johnson) and Joe Brewster (Paul Douglas) are making the trip to the Eternal City for strikingly different reasons. For the young priest from a Pennsylvania coal-mining district, it is the culmination of a life-long dream. For the wily Joe Brewster, it is an avenue of escape from a life sentence at Leavenworth. When the boat docks at Genoa, Joe finds the Italian police waiting for him and eludes them by stealing his cabin-mate's hassock and passport and posing as the Father. The adventures that follow as the police seek out the disguised criminal, the amusing complications which ensue on the latter's attempt to impersonate a man of holy calling, the conflict in the mind of the young priest as to whether he should turn in the man who he had come to regard as a friend, and the final surprise ending in which Joe proves himself, provide a story which is not only supplied with exciting action but with tenderness, warmth and human understanding. It is a picture which leaves the spectator with a glow.

Columbia Pictures' highly unusual adventure thriller, "Storm Over Tibet," which actually was photographed atop the storm-tossed and treacherous Himalaya Mountains, will round out the double feature program. Rex Reason and Diana Douglas are starred.

The majority of the drama was photographed during the First International Expedition to the Himalayas, organized to map previously uncharted regions of the Tibetan mountain range. Andrew Marton, co-director of "King Solomon's Mines," is reported to have recorded in "Storm Over Tibet," sights no man has ever seen before. Highlights of the film include a tremendous avalanche on the icy roof of the world, in which a billion tons of ice hurtle five miles straight down; a spectacular 200-mile-an-hour gale; and exotic never-before-filmed Tibetan temple ceremonies.

"Storm Over Tibet" tells the story of a man and wife who join a UNESCO expedition to Tibet because they suspect that the woman's first husband, reported killed in a wartime plane crash, might still be alive. Making their way over billions of tons of ice and braving violent storms they search for a clue to the mysterious past.

Pioneer Adventure Filmed
A little-known chapter of American adventure in 1830 is unfolded in "The Big Sky," Howard Hawks' stirring pioneer drama for RKO Radio distribution. The film will appear at the Fox Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Kirk Douglas and Dewey Martin as a pair of young Kentuckians seeking adventure, Elizabeth Threatt as the daughter of a Blackfoot chief, and Arthur Hun-nicutt as an experienced mountain man, have the starring roles in the picture, along with Buddy Baer as a boatman. The plot turns on the stirring adventures of the men, who join a fur-trading expedition from St. Louis headed for the upper reaches of the Missouri River in what is today Montana—a region few white men then had ever seen.

The hazards of the trip provide memorable dramatic moments for film-goers, and its scenic backgrounds of the Grand Tetons and Wyoming's famous Jackson Hole region lend unusual realism to the thrill-packed offering. Hawks produced and directed the film from Dudley Nichols' screenplay of the A. B. Guthrie Jr., novel. RKO distributes the production for Winchester Pictures.

Swords Ring Out
The glamour of seventeenth-century France with its swash-buckling cavaliers and its lovely ladies is captured in a thrilling drama of brave deeds and romantic situations in "At Sword's Point." The RKO Radio film, in color by Technicolor, stars Cornel Wilde and Maureen O'Hara as, respectively, the dauntless D'Aragnan and the lovely Claire, son and daughter of the famous Musketeers. This film takes over the Fox screen Wednesday and Thursday.

It all starts when the aging Queen of France, faced with treachery in the court and her own failing health, sends for those faithful Musketeers who, many years previously had fought valiantly to defend the throne. But they are no longer brilliant young guardsmen, but the fathers of grown children. The sons of D'Aragnan, Aramis and Porthos immediately offer their services. The daughter of Athos, herself a brilliant swordswoman, also volunteers.

The traitor, Due de Lavalle, has discovered that the Queen's young defenders are rallying to her, and determines to overpower them before they can aid the monarch. There follows a series of thrilling situations in which the defenders and the traitor see-saw until the adventurous musketeers finally complete their dangerous mission.

Robert Douglas, Gladys Cooper and Blanche Yurka are co-featured, heading a cast that includes such players as June Clayworth, Dan O'Herlihy, Alan Hale, Jr., and Nancy Gates.

Jerrold T. Brandt produced the RKO Radio film and Lewis Allen directed from a screenplay by Walter Ferris and Joseph Hoffman.

One of the new books available through the Ingham County Library this week is, THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA, by Ernest Hemingway, a short novel about an old man who fished alone in a boat in the Gulf Stream. The story which tells how he caught a huge marlin and fought to kill and save it from the sharks, has the familiar Hemingway richness and simplicity, and the reader will appreciate the strength and dignity of the old man as developed by the author's artistry.

THE FAR COUNTRY, by Nevil Shute Norway, is a simple, heart-warming love story about an English doctor's daughter, who visits an Australian sheep ranch where she meets a Czech D.P., a physician, but not licensed to practice in his new country. Incidentally, the conditions in modern England and especially the difficulties of the physicians under socialized medicine are contrasted with Australia which is shown as a land of promise and natural beauties. Mr. Norway is an Englishman who moved to Australia a few years ago and is very enthusiastic about his new home.

LAMENT FOR FOUR VIRGINS, by Lael Tucker, is about the young daughters of the 4 leading families of a Georgia town in 1927. The novel traces the results of this disappointment upon the 4 women during the next 20 years.

Members and guests of the Capitol National Farm Loan associations met last Wednesday night at the Legion Memorial building in Mason. The occasion was the 32nd annual meeting of the organization.

President Hubert Bullen called the meeting to order and appointed M. H. Avery to act as chairman for the evening. Hubert Bullen and Charles Woods were re-elected to the association's board of directors. Other members of the board whose terms did not expire are Kenneth Powell, William Lovejoy and Julius Baum-

Secretary-Treasurer George Greenleaf announced that since January 1, 1952, the organization had done approximately 40% of all the farm mortgage business in the county. He also explained the reserves accumulated and pointed out the strong financial position of the organization.

Ken Brown, assistant secretary-treasurer, introduced the guests, and James Hoekzema, county agricultural agent, spoke briefly on the importance of credit in today's agricultural economy.

The entertainment portion of the evening was conducted by Dr. Conrad Pozz of the English department of Michigan State college. A "silver dollar quiz" was held with winners earning silver dollars by correctly answering questions about the cooperative features of the association.

Miss Anna Crane, assistant secretary-treasurer, was presented with a gift in honor of her 15 years of service to the organization.

Refreshments of coffee, cake and ice cream were served by the Legion Auxiliary.

By GUY H. JENKINS
The governor swore to get even with Clardy and the Democrats who took a walk. When the legislature adjourned he launched his removal proceedings. The charges were slim. If Comstock had used loaded dice nothing was about to happen than the state was about to see the departure of Clardy. Dunn and Waples were allowed to resign.

If ever there was a time to call a halt to wasteful, heedless government spending, that time is now. Every dollar wasted in Washington or Lansing means higher taxes for you, higher costs of food and clothing, less "buying-power" in your pay envelope.

Here is why we are mad—and why you should be too. In just five short years the cost of food . . . clothing . . . all the things you buy have gone up over 47%! The dollars you earn have dropped in value to where they buy only what 63¢ would buy in 1939. AND THE DEMOCRATS KEEP RIGHT ON RAISING YOUR TAXES AND SPENDING YOUR TAX MONEY ON MANY FOOLISH WASTEFUL SCHEMES TO "BUY" YOUR VOTES.

You can't afford to lose much more in this fantastic, socialistic game of cheap donkey-dollars. YOU CAN STOP IT . . . NOW . . .

Farmers Now Use Liquid Nitrogen To Boost Yields

Michigan farmers are becoming more aware of the soil, crop and dollar values of nitrogen. They are using the newer liquid and liquid gas forms of "top dressing" and "side dressing" to advantage, reports Paul J. Rood, Michigan State college extension soil scientist.

Anhydrous ammonia, gas, in liquid form under pressure, solutions of ammonia, mixtures of ammonia and ammonium nitrate and mixtures of urea and ammonium nitrate are being used. The nitrogen in these fertilizers will do a good job and pay off—just as the crystal forms have. They do not take the place of the complete fertilizers used at planting time, however, stresses Rood.

Solutions like ammonium nitrate and urea are transported in rail tank cars and "squirreled" in orchards. Not under pressure, these solutions can be splashed around trees like water. One hundred acres of orchard were given a nitrogen "sprinkling" in one day with a tank-truck at the N. J. (Nick) Fox farm near Shelby, Oceana county, in the western Michigan fruit belt. A man on each running board splashed around each tree as they went up and down rows.

Seven contract operators in Lenawee county and one in Tuscola county applied anhydrous ammonia for farmers, mainly for row crops; corn, sugar beets and beans—at the start of summer. They used tractors with pressure tanks and other special equipment. Rood expects such work will increase if more storage tanks are located through Michigan so operators can re-fill their tanks.

Soil scientists at Michigan State are testing the best uses of anhydrous ammonia.

Experience shows a milkhouse should have at least 10-by-12 feet floor space, say Michigan State college agricultural engineers.

Paint Will Save Farm Equipment

Painting farm machinery and implements for winter storage to prevent rusting can save hundreds of dollars, states a University of Michigan paint authority.

"The best way to go about it is to give such possessions a good washing with water to remove all dirt, Leo L. Carrick, professor of chemical engineering, advises. Wash them again with gasoline to remove the oil and grease, before using a steel brush to take away the rust from any exposed metal parts.

All brushed parts should be painted within 3 hours, he asserts, or they will rust again. Professor Carrick cautions that nothing but a good agricultural implement paint should be applied to any machinery used around farm stock.

Such paint is composed of non-poisonous pigments designed for maximum protection to the implement, as well as to farm stock. Several instances of stock dying from licking poisonous paint off farm implements and stanchions have been reported, he says.

Plow shares, disk and mower blades, and all implements which normally have bright metal should be covered with a good graphite grease, axle grease or a similar hard oil, he advises.

CORN IS OLDEST CROP

Corn is not only the greatest crop the United States grows, but by far the oldest. Plant scientists estimate that some 200 centuries ago corn was a wild grass in what is now Central America. It is still a grass but, far from being wild, it has become so dependent upon man throughout 20,000 years of cultivation that it can no longer rescue itself. Should man vanish from the earth, corn would soon follow him into oblivion.

Woodlots Should Get Fall Trim

Farmers owning mature woodlots should cut an amount of timber each year equal to the annual growth within the woods, according to James Hoekzema, county agricultural agent. Income from logs and harvesting of material for farm use can add considerably to farm property.

Lester E. Bell, extension forester at Michigan State college, points out that the proper and wise management of a woodlot insures continuous production over the years.

The county agricultural agents in Michigan stand ready to aid farmers and other land owners in developing proper cutting practices on their woodlands. If the owner has mature hardwood trees, some form of selective cutting may be a desirable practice, Hoekzema stated.

Science and research in forest practice by Michigan State college specialists indicate different cutting practices are desirable for different forest types Bell stated.

Elton Twomb, district farm forester, is available to answer forestry problems in Ingham county, Hoekzema stated.

Henry Larzalek, marketing specialist from Michigan State college will also give a talk about marketing poultry products and grading of eggs as they affect prices.

Plans are being made for a panel of local producers to discuss how they care for their eggs. Three directors will be elected.

Sawdust found excellent for cattle bedding

Sawdust or shavings will make warm, absorbent bedding for dairy cattle, according to reports from Michigan State College's Upper Peninsula Experiment Station at Chatham. Folks there have found that, under controlled conditions, sawdust or shavings have no harmful effect on soil when the manure is later applied to fields. Bedding the herd on sawdust will also mean savings in liquid manure. Northern Michigan dairymen usually find shavings easy to obtain; in other sections, good supplies can be picked up from nearby sawmills. For more information, call your nearby County Agricultural Agent.

Rockets and telephones have much in common

To reach its target, this guided missile depends on an "electronic brain" developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories and produced by Western Electric, the manufacturing unit of the Bell Telephone System. Western Electric production techniques also turn out electronic controls and firing systems for Army and Navy guns and Air Force bombing planes. Did you know these same techniques are used to make the "electronic brain" that guides your Bell telephone calls to the right number? Thus modern research and facilities give you better telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

Michigan Life Lines!

FROM THE VERY BEGINNING, roads were built to further commerce and trade, and down through the centuries the first requirement whenever a new territory was to be settled has been to build roads.

Michigan has over 100,000 miles of roads and streets, most of which are surfaced and in good condition. These are Michigan's life lines, without which the State could not exist.

For over these highways farm produce goes to market, raw materials and parts get to factories, finished products reach the consumer. Yes, over these roads children get to school, fire-fighting equipment responds to emergencies, the moving of household furnishings takes place.
