Bob Palmer's Northern Spy is being shipped from Mason to Stevenson, Alabama, to be trained by Saunders Russell. He's trained many of the best trotters and pacers now on the Grand Circuit.

Northern Spy will be 2 in January. He's out of Mable B. Spencer, a full sister to All Spencer, 2:01 3/5. Northern Spy's sire is DeSoto Hanover. He is the sire of Hilsoto who went 2:00 2/5 at Lexington. Hilsoto is owned by Dr. F. M. McNabb of Ithaca.

Palmer, Leslie orchardist and farmer, bought Northern Spy's dam from S. A. Laxton of Mason. The dam has another colt, now suckling. Palmer looked at one of his apple trees when he was considering names, just as he did with Northern Spy. The young colt is named Delicious.

Russell and other horsemen who have seen Northern Spy believe she is as near perfect as any colt they have seen. Russell said he was anxious to get the opportunity to train her.

County Asks for 50-mile Limit On Local Roads

Ingham supervisors Monday reluctantly agreed to ask for speed limits of 50 miles per hour on secondary roads. The vote was 15-14 in favor of the limit.

Adoption by the Ingham supervisors does not put the speed limit in force. Speed limits are a matter for the legislature. Michigan now has what is known as a basic speed law without any maximum speed limit being set.

Supervisor Rina A. Dell of Lansing, who asked for endorsement of the speed limit proposal, explained that the report of Ingham's action will be sent to legislators and to other boards of supervisors. Dell introduced the resolution at the October meeting of the Ingham board. It was referred to the legislative committee. Supervisor Rex Townsend of Ingham and Wilfred Jewett of Vevay reported it out Monday and debate immediately broke out.

Opposition Develops

Supervisor C. G. Card of East Lansing declared that adoption of such a speed limit would prove ineffective because people would ignore it and there could be no adequate enforcement without doubling the sheriff's patrol. Supervisor Charles Hayden of Lansing pointed out that officers can now make arrests of all who drive faster than conditions warrant and thus a specific limit is not needed. Chairman Hubert Eddy and Supervisors John Russell and R. F. Wall, all of Lansing, also opposed the motion, claiming it could not be enforced.

Wall insisted that drivers should be taught to use common sense and not made to abide by rigid rules.

Support for the speed limit came from Supervisors Hubert Bullen of Aurelius, Jewett of Vevay, Lloyd Aseltine of Alford and Donald Crakes of Leslie. Bullen quoted County Highway Engineer Frank Evans as saying that secondary roads are engineered for speeds not over 45 miles per hour. Jewett told of the dangerous speeds which imperil children on their way to and from school. Crakes pointed out that at Monday's session the board approved a $1,400 highway safety program made necessary by speed.

Favoring adoption were Supervisors Aseltine, Bement, Bullen, Crakes, Dell, Fray, Jewett, Johnson, Leeman, Marshall, Patterson, Pufferberger, Taylor, Townsend and Wilcox. Against it were Brown, Card, Carlson, Hayden, Kirchner, Lucas, Millis, Pletz, Russell, Triquet, Twitchell, Wall, Wilkins and Eddy.

Plaques Are Bought

On recommendation of the ways and means committee, the supervisors trimmed down a highway safety program presented at the October session. Sponsors wanted to set up a commission with a director in charge. The cost would have been $8,000. As approved Monday, the program calls for the printing and placing of placards only at $1,400.

By a 21 to 8 vote the supervisors agreed to hold the December meeting on Tuesday, December 9. Some of the supervisors wanted to try meeting on Tuesdays instead of Mondays as has been customary.

Business Zoning Comes Up Monday

Zoning of the triangular block bounded by State, Park and Sycamore will come up for hearing at the council chamber Monday night.

The block has been zoned and de-zoned and re-zoned for the past 5 years. Because of a fight over the zoning, the triangular piece of ground at the intersection of Sycamore and State, the entire zoning ordinance was once abandoned by the council when a law was brought to light.

Don VanderVeen, Sr., owns the piece at the Sycamore-State intersection and wants the block zoned commercial. Emery Jewett and George Culver demand that the area remain B residential. Mason's councilmen met in special session Monday night to discuss salary increases. No action was taken pending a decision as to whether or not the council has the authority to change salaries in the middle of the fiscal year.

State Erects Mason Building in Lansing

Yes, the state is erecting the Mason building in Lansing. There has been no mistake, however. The building was never planned for Mason. It's just that the city of Mason and the new state building share the same name. Both are named after Stephens T. Mason, last governor of Michigan as a territory and the first elected governor of Michigan as a state.

The picture taken by Alex J. Corey of Lansing shows a giant crane hoisting a big tank onto the roof of the building. There are only 15 cranes in the United States big enough to do such a job from the ground.

This building is part of the capital group project designed by Smith, Hinchman & Grills, Inc., Detroit architects and engineers. Thomson-Gross of Flint has the general contract. The cost of the building, made of Indiana limestone, will be $4,366,849.

To make room for state offices now located in private buildings in Lansing the state set up a building corporation. It is known as the Michigan State Office Buildings Corporation. Senator Harry F. Hittle of the Ingham-Livingston district introduced and guided the plan through the legislature. Vernon J. Brown of Mason is president of the corporation, serving without salary. Fred N. Searl, once of Mason but now a Grand Rapids attorney, is a member of the corporation.

Through the non-profit corporation the buildings are being financed, the corporation issuing bonds. The bonds and the interest on them will be paid off in rentals collected from the departments of government occupying them. Under a law passed by the legislature there is an item for rental included in all departmental appropriations.

The state bought the 4 square blocks lying west of the capitol for the building program. The site is bounded on the west by Pine and extends from Allegan on the south to Ottawa on the north. The Stephens T. Mason building is located at the corner of Michigan and Chestnut. It will house the highway department, conservation department, the gas tax division of the secretary of state's office, the civil service commission, the state revenue department and the state retirement board. In the basement will be a cafeteria.

So You Thought You Voted for President?

Electors Must Still Name Ike

Michigan went for General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon for president and vice-president. That's what the newspapers said last week. That's the way the ballots read. But that wasn't the way it was.

No Michigan voters have yet been counted or even cast for General Eisenhower and Senator Nixon. Those who put their marks under the names of Eisenhower and Nixon on the ballots November 4 voted only for electors pledged to vote for Eisenhower and Nixon.

Michigan presidential electors were chosen at state political conventions last July. Under Michigan law they must meet in the senate chamber of the capitol in Lansing at 2 p. m. Wednesday, January 7, to cast their votes. If any elector has died or is sick or for some other reason can not attend, or refuses to act, the qualified electors present may fill the vacancy.

Up until recent years one of the electors carried the state's vote to Washington. Now the secretary of state transmits the vote by mail.

It was in 1928 when last the names of presidential electors appeared on Michigan ballots. Since then the names of candidates for president and vice-president are printed on ballots but actually they are credited with no legal votes. The electors get them.

So instead of voting for Eisenhower and Nixon November 4, here are the 20 men and women (one for each congressman and each U. S. senator) who you elected:

Walter Czarnecki, Karl B. McKeon, Mrs. Elanor Hoffman, Mrs. Isabel Wieterson, Donald F. Weldon, John H. Laub and Raymond J. Kelly, all of Detroit; Karl Kyper, Dundee; Anthony Stamm, Kalamazoo; Sib Rumery, Waukegan; John D. Hibbard, Grand Rapids; George Loomis, East Lansing; Mrs. Bell Schwadner, Cass City; Ruth Bowles, Saginaw; Max Hamlin, Manistee; Thomas P. Rau, West Branch; Mrs. Lillian M. Wylie, Sault Ste. Marie; Mrs. Lenore Pinkerton, Ontonagon; George Scott, Royal Oak; and Herman F. Luhrs, Birmingham.

Blocks Go Up At New School

Mason's new West Side school is beginning to take shape.

Granger Bros., holding the general contract, has almost completed the footings. The block-laying crew has started the walls on the south end of the school.

The Mason board of education has chosen varicolored face brick in light shades for the exterior. The brick are made by the McArthur Brick Co., McArthur, Ohio.

Fire Warning!

Woods and fields and even buildings are tinder-dry because of the lack of rain, warned Mason Fire Chief Leand Austin Thursday. He called attention to the state law which requires persons starting brush fires to first secure permits from fire chiefs. He also suggested that city residents closely watch all rubbish fires to prevent spreading.

Does and Fawns Protected Here

Michigan's new butchering law does not include Ingham does and fawns. They are still protected.

Killing of does and fawns becomes legal only north of M-20 and only on the last 3 days of the season, November 28, 29 and 30. M-20 runs between Muskegon, Mt. Pleasant and Bay City.

There will be the usual exodus of hunters to the north Friday and Saturday, according to the conservation department. With deer more numerous in Ingham than ever before, many hunters will take to the woods here.

FOR WANT OF A NAIL

One Man in Cement Plant Halts Paving on US-127

For want of a few bags of cement the traffic battle on US-127 between Harper road and Holt is lost for the winter. One man at the Consolidated plant in Cement City is blamed for the hold-up. He insisted on going hunting with his bow and arrow. When the company disciplined him, a strike was called. The strike still has the plant tied up, and paving on the Mason-Holt stretch is being abandoned until next spring.

Next week the 2-lane stretch between Dart road and Harper will be opened without any formality, according to the contracting firm, Sargent Construction Co. of Saginaw.

Grading on the by-pass will continue through the winter as planned. However, the paving which was to have been done this fall on the Holt-Mason link will have to be squeezed into next summer's schedule. That may delay the Mason by-pass paving, the contractors said.

When the bids for the grading and paving on the Holt-Mason widening were let, the link was to

Canvass Trims 382 Off Williams Total In Ingham County

Ingham's official canvass completed Tuesday trimmed 382 votes from Governor G. Mennen Williams' margin.

The Ingham official count actually increased Fred M. Alger's county total by 10 and took 372 away from Williams, making a net loss of 382 for the governor.

Four Lansing precincts figured in the change. In 3 of them the discrepancies resulted from incorrect tabulations on the unofficial (newspaper) count. The fourth came from a mistake in adding up voting machine totals in K precinct of Lansing's sixth ward. In 6 K the unofficial count credited

Eddy Discusses Lansing Politics On County Board

Chairman Hubert Eddy, defeated as a Lansing alderman last week, lashed out at some of the winners Monday. Before the board of supervisors Chairman Eddy assailed some of the elements which he said brought about the defeat of himself and 3 other supervisors.

"I don't say that the city of Lansing can't get along without me or some of the others who lost," Eddy declared. "I'm not sore. It's just the principle of the thing. I've always tried to do a good job. Five new members will be coming on this board from the city of Lansing in April. Four of them are clean-cut, educated and capable."

The board chairman did not name the 4, nor the supervisor that might not measure up.

The 4 members of the county board who went down to defeat in Lansing were Eddy, Rina A. Dell, Earl W. Collier and Edward Lucase. John Russell lost out in the primary. J. K. Reed died of a heart attack. So actually half of the Lansing membership of 12 on the county board will be changed.

At Tuesday's meeting Chairman Eddy said the change will be made in April. According to another Lansing supervisor the change is more likely to be made in January.

In January Dell, Eddy, Collier and Lucase will no longer be aldermen.

Lansing's city attorney, Charles P. Van Note, is studying the charter and legal decisions to see just when Lansing does change its representation on the county board, and whether or not the representation must be chosen from among the 16 city aldermen.

The Ingham fair board is made up of 10 members, 6 of whom are supervisors. When the board of supervisors came to the financial rescue of the county fair the demand was made that supervisors make up a majority. It has proved a good arrangement for the fair because last year the county board appropriated $10,000 for buildings. A like sum was appropriated this year.

The declarations of Chairman Eddy followed the acceptance of the resignations of Supervisors Dell and Collier from the county fair committee. They asked to be relieved "because of ill health." The board accepted the resignations in the spirit in which they were offered, as a joke.

When the bids for the grading and paving on the Holt-Mason widening were let, the link was to Alger with 840 votes and Williams with 938. With the error in addition corrected, Alger carried the precinct 848 to 838.

With corrections made, the Alger total in Ingham was 42,910. Williams got 33,723.

Because of the separate ballots for presidential candidates, there were 915 less votes cast for president than for governor. In the second district where paper ballots are used, there were only 13 more votes cast for governor than president. In Lansing where voting machines are used the names of presidential candidates were over beyond the corners and just ahead of non-partisan judicial candidates. The vote for president was 932 less than for governor in precincts using machines.

The official total for electors for General Eisenhower and Richard Nixon was 51,503, better than 2 to 1 over the Stevenson-Sparkman total of 24,125. Unofficial totals gave the Republican candidates for president and vice-president 50,902 and the Democrats 23,215.

Few Minor Party Votes

Minor party candidates for president and vice-president won only 533 votes in Ingham out of a total of 76,176. The Prohibition party candidates drew 403. There were 75 Progressive votes, 28 Socialist Labor and 27 Socialist Worker votes cast. The Prohibition party had virtually a complete state and county ticket. For governor the Socialist Worker candidate, Howard Lerner, didn't get a single Ingham vote. The Socialist Labor candidate drew 11 and the Prohibition candidate 416.

On the county ticket the Prohibition candidates ranged from 454 for Paul H. Kyburz for surveyor down to 353 for Clair C. Carpenter for treasurer. Wirt McClain of Stockbridge got 368 votes for coroner and Ruth Stanley got 366 for county clerk.

Right on the nose were the unofficial tallies for Republicans Reid, Cleary and Millard on the state ticket. Just a single vote difference divided the official and unofficial.

For judge of probate on the non-partisan ticket Judge John McClellan's total remained about the same on the official as on the unofficial tally. Robert M. Montgomery gained but not enough to change the outcome. He still lost by 3,037.

Peculiarities Develop

In Ingham county for some unexplained reason there were 10 more people who favored Rep. Charles E. Potter as U. S. senator for the vacancy than for the full term. And there were 867 fewer voters who wanted to keep Senator Blair Moody for the short term than wanted him for the 6-year term.

On the county ticket the vote usually progressively drops off from prosecutor down to surveyor as the voters apparently get tired of using their pencils. That wasn't so this year. The sheriff's office in second place drew more votes than the prosecutor's office. The county clerk's office in third place drew even more than the sheriff's office.

There were 77,106 votes cast for governor in Ingham. A third of the voters didn't mark their choice of candidates for justice of the supreme court on the non-partisan ticket. That office drew only 52,704.

Voters jumped over the supreme court office to vote for judge of probate. The total in that race was 58,939, better than 6,000 more than for justice of the supreme court, but still 8,167 less than were cast for governor.

Recent Seems Certain

Recent of the votes for governor appears to be a certainty. With the canvass completed in all except Wayne the lead of Governor Williams stands at 7,924. Democrats have gone to Washington in their try to save Moody. The senator has gone there to enlist help of the senate elections committee in a Michigan probe. Moody, beaten by Rep. Potter by 47,000 votes, is pointing to "irregularities and incidents."

State Must Face Revenue Problem Or Go Bankrupt

No longer can the governor and legislature dodge Michigan's financial plight, declared Clarence W. Lock, Jr. in Mason Wednesday night. He is deputy commissioner of the department of revenue. He was in Mason to talk before the Men's Council of the Presbyterian church.

Unwillingness of the legislature to find new sources of revenue after the people adopted the sales tax diversion amendments to the constitution has sent the state far down the path toward bankruptcy, Lock declared. Governor Williams during his 2 terms have warned of the peril faced by the state, Lock said, but the legislature has not acted. One reason for the delay, according to Lock, is the political strife between the governor and the legislature. Some of that strife comes from the governor's insistence on a corporation tax and his use of the issue in political campaigns, the speaker added.

Regardless of differences between the front office and the legislature, the financial situation must be acted upon, Lock declared. According to him, the general fund deficit in 1951 was $41,000,000, which increased to $65,000,000 this year and may go to $80,000,000 in 1953.

With its wealth there is no excuse for Michigan to be flailing with bankruptcy, said Lock.

Under the sales tax diversion amendments 78% of state sales tax revenue goes to cities, townships and school districts; the state officials explained.

The austerity program which the legislature and department heads have imposed will not relieve the situation, only slow off the day of reckoning, Lock said.

The people themselves, Lock declared, must share much of the blame for the state being in the red. "The people adopted the sales tax diversion act, they approved the soldiers' bonus and the hospital plan, Lock pointed out, and in each instance made no provision for additional state revenue, the speaker pointed out.

It is now up to the people through their legislators to provide more money for the state or to decide to trim expenses on welfare, old age pensions, or education, Lock concluded.

Vernon J. Brown was chairman of the program held at the Presbyterian church. He introduced Lock as a man who was elected to serve Ingham county as treasurer and then advanced to positions of great responsibility with the state.

Annexation Vote For Lansing Set Next April 6th

Lansing city and most of the Lansing township voters will decide next April 6 on the annexation of all except a narrow strip of the township to Lansing. If annexation carries, residents of the narrow strip will probably petition for annexation to East Lansing. When and if that happens, Lansing township will be totally absorbed and Ingham county will be left with 15 instead of the present 16 townships.

Defeat of the proposition to incorporate as West Lansing an area between the present west Lansing limits and the county line and between the loops of the Grand river brought on the annexation. At the November 4 election voters turned down the incorporation scheme 1,367 to 475.

Already on file with the board of supervisors was the annexation petition. On Monday at Mason the supervisors dusted off the petition and set April 6 as the election date.

Two years ago the Everett and Westchester areas were annexed to Lansing, both taken out of Lansing township. Included in the area now seeking annexation is the West Lansing sector, a chunk west of Everett and south of the Grand river, another chunk ranging in width from 1 to 3 miles east of Lansing's present zig-zag east limits and an area north of the Grand and the present north city limits.

Xmas Layaway Budget Payment Plan!

I spent yesterday playing with the kids on our front lawn. A lot of the ladies who stopped to look at the pictures in our show window spoke to me. One lady said, "I'd love to bring my children in for their portraits, but I'm afraid your prices are too high, Schatzi."

I was real surprised. "What makes you think our prices are high?" I asked her. "The pictures are so beautiful," she answered, "they must be expensive." I could see she had logic on her side. "Good things are usually more expensive than poor things, but we've checked our prices with other studios and Kraas-Khan prices are just about the same—lower in some cases, because there are a lot of extras, we don't charge for at all!"

"Individual portraits of children or adults, in the popular 5x7 size in folders, cost only a few pennies more than $2 each. A very personal and inexpensive Xmas gift if you buy a dozen or more." "And did you know," I asked the ladies, "that Kraas-Khan takes from 6 to 8 different poses to give you a wide choice?" "That's twice as much as I've ever had!" exclaimed one lady.

"You don't have to be Mrs. Got-Rocks to have your portrait made at Kraas-Khan studio—you don't have to buy any more pictures than you need for your Xmas list—and you can use our Xmas layaway plan if you don't have the ready cash now."

"But Xmas is sooner than you think," I told them, buttoning my overcoat tighter, "Call today and make your appointment!"

DO THE JOB FROM THE BEGINNING

with MOLINE-MONITOR FLUTED FEED DRILLS

... with single or double disc openers

Progressive farmers in this area rely on Moline-Monitor drills with fluted feed and double disc or single disc openers to sow crops accurately, at uniform depth with uniform covering and careful handling.

The deep-cut fluted feed prevent bridging and grinding of seed. Even straw seed flows through evenly. An exclusive MM feature permits the operator to actually see the seed being delivered to the spots. No special gates of any kind are needed on the quality MM Monitor Drills. The regular feeds with two speed drive handle everything from soybeans to flax.

Grain growers also prefer Moline-Monitor Drills because of their dependability and long-life, trouble-free operation. Typical of the better construction are the axle bearings which are extra large and completely enclosed in a self-aligning dustproof housing.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By G. WILSON HARDER

Here are two of the many problems confronting the new Administration.

One problem has been presented almost as a kick in the face to Americans who have been in Canada the past few months. American money is now discounted when exchanged for Canadian money.

American dollars, always worth about $1.10 in Canadian money, are now worth about 90 cents.

American money is now discounted when exchanged for Canadian money. Americans who C. W. Harder protest receive this answer.

"If you Americans keep on giving everything away, by next year you'll get even less for your dollars up here."

But prosperous Canada with vast resources is a major beneficiary of U. S. aid programs.

For one thing, U. S. Officials have permitted the Canadian newspaper monopoly to continually boost prices without taking any editorial measures. Canada also receives a large share of business from purchases in Canada to give away.

For example, on just one day approximately $1 million worth in metal, tractor and farm equipment, was bought in Canada by U. S. taxpayers to give to French African colonies.

So it is little wonder that Canadian money is worth less than U. S. money. Around World they say, "We love dollars so much we are killing ourselves with kindness."

Another problem is the lack of a national building fund out of millions to be given. © National Publication of Michigan.

Death Claims Charles Drake

Charles R. Drake, 85, died Thursday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. El Mire on Onondaga road.

He was born August 26, 1867, in Dimondale, the son of Elkkanak and Plina Elizabeth Jones Drake and spent his early life in the Potterville area.

He met and married Mary Purdy. She preceded him in death. Mr. Drake was a farmer.

The body will remain at the Ball-Dunn funeral home until Saturday when funeral services will be held in the Dimondale Methodist church. Burial will be in the Dimondale cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Drake are 2 sons, Arthur Drake of Sunfield and Bert Drake of Mason; 2 daughters, Mrs. Vera Rademacher of Jackson and Mrs. Bertha Mire of Holt; 3 sisters, Mrs. Nellie Ireland of Dimondale, Mrs. Theda Fletcher of Morenci and Mrs. Orrie Barnes of Los Angeles; 7 grandchildren, Richard, William and Robert Drake, Henry and Martha Mire, Mabel Allen and Mary Stid; and to great-grandchildren, Harlan Kay Stid and Bruce Dean Allen.

Interference with a golf club operation equals or exceeds the control of private activities that the Hitler mob practiced.

It is permitted to continue on its present trend, OPS can and will exercise so much power that the recent election by which the people delegated authority will become a hollow mockery.

It may be argued that as long as the nation pours out billions to aid incompetent nations, it is only proper that a few millions be spent to give domestic aid to the nation's incompetent in the form of lush jobs in an organization such as OPS.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Lansing in said County, on the 10th day of November, A. D. 1952.

Mountain Goats Earn Admiration

The mountain goat is living proof that American sportsmen are good sports, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

This likable old man of the mountain is a relatively easy target for modern high-powered rifles with telescopic sights, yet there are nearly as many today as there were in early times. Modern hunters want hard-to-get trophies. Furthermore, outdoorsmen and mountaineers have developed a great admiration for the courage of the white goat. It never runs from sudden danger, but trots off with solemn dignity. Its bearing, white hair and chin whiskers command respect. It is not pugnacious, but will fight for a mate, and stand its ground to the death when need be to defend itself or its young. With dagger-like horns it can hold its own against wolves, hunting dogs or even grizzly bears.

Mountain goats are comparatively abundant in British Columbia, and their territory extends south into Washington, Idaho, Montana, and north through the Yukon into Alaska. They dwell by choice high above timberline in a bleak land of scant vegetation, cutting winds, and the most dramatic scenery in our hemisphere. Even in mid-winter they are loath to descend as other animals do to the valleys where food and shelter are plentiful. They survive on lichens, moss and alpine growth that can be uncovered among the wind-swept rocks.

A trick coat of perpetually white wool, like fine cashmere, is protection against the bitterest weather. White reflects the heat of summer sun and is camouflage during the long snow season. The nanny and billy goat look alike, both having horns about 9 inches long. Although those of the female are more slender, the world's record head with 12½-inch horns is that of a nanny.

Early explorers often referred to the mountain goat as a small white buffalo and the resemblance is considerable. Like the bison its shoulders are high, head low, neck short and there is a beard of long hair on the chin. But it is not a buffalo. In fact, it is not a goat. The neck of a true goat is rather long and head held high. Scientists tell us it actually is a goat-like antelope, like the chamois of Asia, having no close relatives in America.

The goat stands 3½ feet at the shoulder and weighs up to 275 pounds. It mates in the fall and is probably monogamous. The kid, born 6 months after breeding, also is all white. It is only 13½ inches tall, can stand 10 minutes after birth, jumps in 30 minutes and at 1 month is an able climber.

Stories of harrowing climbs of the mountain goat are legion. It can outdo the cougar and even the nimble mountain sheep.

Hunters tell of watching in rapt admiration as a goat, like a human fly on a skyscraper, works its way across what appears a sheer cliff. The men held their fire.

Congratulations to the sportsmanlike hunters who have spared this stout-hearted old man of the mountains.

Mason Firemen Are Kept Busy

Two barns burned to the ground Sunday noon in a blaze that was apparently started from a rubbish fire. The barns were side by side, one owned by Harold Hills and the other owned by Roy Clem, on Randolph street.

The fire jumped from a rubbish burner on the Hills property to the Hills barn and then spread to the Clem property. The flames were fanned by a stiff wind which for a time threatened to send the flames racing across a field of dry grass.

Loss on the 2 buildings was estimated at $2,000 by Fire Chief Lee Austin.

Mason firemen have been busy during the current dry spell. Sunday afternoon Mason firemen made a run to the L. K. Rathbone farm on Sandhill road to put out a tractor fire. Loss was estimated at $150.

Monday morning the Mason department was called to the Cary Whipple home at 602 East Okemos when an overturned stove pipe started an attic fire. The flames caused a $200 loss.

Monday night firefighters raced out to the Jay Coffey farm to put out a fire which threatened a 30-acre woodlot. The blaze was brought under control after it had burned off about 3 acres.

Sheriff Reports On Jail Farming

According to the report made to the supervisors Monday by Sheriff Willard P. Barnes, farming operations provided the county jail with $1,312 in food this year. That was in addition to sweet corn, squash, cucumbers and peppers used during the summer.

The sheriff said that the harvest yielded 275 bushels of potatoes, 550 bushels of beans, 110 crates of cabbage, 75 bushels of tomatoes, 35 bushels of beets, 40 bushels of carrots and 50 bushels of turnips.

Expenditures for fertilizer, tools and tool rental, supplies and seeds and threshing, bags and the cleaning of beans came to $352.84, the sheriff set forth in his report.

No labor cost was included. Jail labor was used on the farm, and supervision was provided by S. A. Laxton. To compensate him for supervision he is furnished with jail labor for his own farm, the sheriff said.

Prisoners assigned to work details at the farm, which is located next to Rayner park at Mason, are given better food, but no pay, stated the sheriff.

Mason Man Wins Appeal in Court

Lyle Johnson was acquitted Monday in a justice court appeal carried to the circuit court.

Johnson was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace on North Mason street in Mason March 26. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams. Then he appealed his plea.

In circuit court in Lansing Monday before Judge Marvin J. Salmon, Johnson admitted pleading guilty in justice court but he declared he thought he was pleading guilty only to drinking, not disturbing the peace. Neighbors testified that they were not disturbed or annoyed by Johnson on the night in question. Johnson also admitted verbally abusing Mason Officers Kenneth Merindorf and Dallas Langham. However, as the judge pointed out in his charge to the jury, the charge was disturbing the peace.

Seth Burwell of Lansing was Johnson's lawyer. City Attorney Howard McCowan represented Mason in the appeal.

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits. (Psalm 103:2) Read Psalm 103:1-13.

At mealtime we children, eight of us, often dipped too heavily from the serving dish. Father would give up a reminder by saying, "Look on your plate."

This is wise counsel for us who pray. Instead of asking God for more and more, we should take note of what we already have. There is wisdom in the psalmist's reminder, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." The number of benefits are limitless, but among them are the beauty and fruitfulness of the out-of-doors, the love and companionship of family and friends, the functioning of the marvelous mechanism of our bodies, and soul redemption through Christ.

We have today many benefits which were unknown to the psalmist. Consider the advance in the fields of medicine, scientific research, transportation, and communication. How much more should we sing today, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits!"

PRAYER

Thy blessings to us, our Father, are as the stars of the heavens and the sands of the sea. In return we have only ourselves to give. Let us this day, and in the days to come, to give ourselves wholeheartedly to serve others in Thy name and thus to serve Thee. In the spirit of Christ we pray. Amen.

Youths Sponsor Ham Dinner

Methodist youths of Mason are sponsoring a public ham dinner on Thursday, November 20, with serving beginning at 5:00, and continuing until all are served.

The project is designed to assist the youth in raising a share of a special camp improvement project which is being launched this year throughout the Michigan conference.

Church camping for youth has increased in popularity and in effectiveness in the past several years, to such an extent that Michigan Methodists have found it necessary to purchase a new camp site. The place is Clear lake, near Battle Creek, and the buildings are to be started this year. In a period of 2 years, the Methodists of the Michigan conference hope to raise $130,000. This amounts to approximately $1 per member, for each of the 2 years.

Through this ham dinner, the Mason youths expect to raise their initial share of this project.

Tickets are on sale by the youths. Mrs. Dee Bray is chairman of the dinner.

Youths Buy Gifts For Christmas Box

One of the classes in the Junior department of the Mason Presbyterian church school has recently been experiencing a practical application of the teaching of the parable of the talents.

Some weeks ago the teacher of the class gave to each of the fourth grade girls present a small box containing a dime, with the request that she increase it entirely through her own efforts.

Last Sunday the class reported that their teacher's original gift had been increased to $5, and that on Saturday the 6 girls, Mary Arnold, Margaret Brown, Kathy Brown, Maureen Strait, Mary Harkness and Helen Scofield, had enjoyed a shopping "spree," using the money to purchase gifts for the Christmas box which the juniors are now packing for a community in the Tennessee mountains.

Book Talk

from Ingham County Library. Hours open to the public at the Hall Memorial Library: Daily 2-5; Mon. Wed. Sat. 1-5 p. m. Tues. and Fri. hours (during school year): Sat. 10:12 a. m.

Those long winter evenings are just about here now, and the Ingham county library has several interesting new books this week that will add to your enjoyment of them.

THE ALEXANDRIANS, by Charles Mills, is a new novel of the South, but somewhat different to most of the modern southern novels. It is, however, a chronicle of the lives of the inhabitants of a small town in Georgia, beginning with the founding of Alexandria in 1839 and ending with the celebration of its centennial. The principal character is Ann Anderson Redding, a daughter of one of the founding families, who, with her neighbors tell us a great deal more about what the South was really like than the famous Gone With The Wind.

THE SECRET ROAD, by Bruce Lancaster, is a stirring story, with vivid incidents and suspense, of the activities of General Washington's secret service during the summer of 1778 when the British were quartered in Manhattan and Benedict Arnold was in command at West Point. This is an excellent and authentic historical novel by the author of Bright to the Wandered, Venture in the East and Scarlet Patch.

SCALPEL, by Horace McCoy, is a tough and violent novel about a middle-aged surgeon who, except for his lowly origins, had everything to make him content—an army commission, success in his work, a way with women, and a fine taste in art, music and good food. How he works himself out of feelings of self-doubt and guilt into a reassessment of his own worth as man and a doctor, is the main theme of the story.

THE LONG GREEN, by Bart Spicer, is one of the Carney stories, and contains a kidnapping which creates as much breathless suspense as one could wish for in a detective story.

Servicemen, veterans, and their families will be interested in YOUNG GOT IT COMING TO YOU, by Lieutenant Colonel Frank Mallon, who has written the book as a guide to benefits and entitlements, and a yardstick to eligibility for them. There is information on GI insurance, social security, the GI bill, GI loans, homesteading, compensation, pensions, insurance and allotments; also, a family section on allotments, relief, the housing situation around various important army posts, and education overseas.

THE HOUSE OF CHAN COOK-BOOK, by Sou Chan, is a new book which contains recipes for delicious food in all categories from appetizers to desserts. Most of them are easy to make and can be prepared from materials easily available, but they are dishes which have proved to be favorites of the patrons of this famous New York restaurant.

Checking Station Locations

The conservation department will ask deer hunters this fall to give hunting information - good or bad - to department biologists at any of eight checking stations in the northern lower peninsula. Age and health of deer and hunter success information is needed for continuation of a sound deer herd management program. Station locations are indicated by stars on the map above. Also, information will be gathered at district headquarters buildings and equipment stations throughout the region as located on the map above.

The Big Year For Ducks

This is the year the duck hunters will be talking about for a long, long time.

Some say the best in 15 years, others are more conservative, but all agree there are more ducks and more shooting in Michigan this year. Research has shown that the greatest single influence on year-to-year variations in duck hunting success is the weather.

And the next most important element is the system of hunting regulations set up by the federal government whose job it is to control the shooting of migratory "owl."

Duck's Life Is A Short Life

Professional and amateur ornithologists have been banding ducks on a gigantic scale in North America—and surprisingly enough the return of the bands has been gratifying. Hunters are interested in the past life history of the ducks they shoot, so they return the bands and get the related information. Thanks to the banding, duck mortality can be studied, and from these studies the Fish and Wildlife service has a pretty good lineup on the life of a duck, which is a little on the short side. In the Mississippi flyway upon which Michigan is located, the mortality for adult mallards is about 50% per year. In other words half the total mallard population lives from one year to the next. The other half dies from natural causes or from hunters' guns.

A University of Wisconsin survey has proved still more about mallards. Ducks of this species raised in captivity and turned loose in the fall have a much poorer chance of living through

In 1940 the mines of Hopkins County, Ky., produced 3,784,000 tons of coal. Now their output is four times that amount.

Census takers in the United States are paid an average of seven cents for each person interviewed.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Death takes father.
Memories will never fade.
He liked me like I was.

"Thank God for Pete and 2 little girls who make chores seem natural and necessary and fill the days with activity and having to put one foot down ahead of the other."

Dad was buried Friday after an illness of a week and 2 days. His illness was worse to watch than the still calm peace of death is. Most of you will know what I mean. I know, for we have seen how some folks live on in a body that is worse than dying. . . that death does not come to release.

We can be thankful that Dad lingered no longer yet it did seem so very long. It was long when we waited for him to start breathing again after he would seem to stop.

At times he would seem to know us for a brief second and this did not fade right up to the very last but mostly he talked of those times so far back that none of us 3 children nor Mima could remember the people he mentioned when we could understand him. He was 76 while George is 33, Elizabeth is 40 and I am 38.

Now that he is gone memories come flooding over us to live with us forever to keep him near. Some things seem like a picture to me, they are that clear and we do have some good colored movies. That movie camera has paid for itself in the way we have Mother and Dad with us in laughing and almost-alive flashes on the screen.

One day I stood by his bed at the hospital and he opened his eyes and grinned and called me something he hasn't in years. It was, "Hello, my little old chum." I used to be "old chum" to him all the time and I had almost forgotten it. When Elizabeth and I went to live with Mother and Dad he started calling me that and I did him, too. He surely was my chum. In fact he's the only person I ever knew who took me as I was, and around him I never had to try to live up to something or prove myself to feel that I amounted to something. I felt he clung to me just as I clung to him without any furbelows needing to be added.

I used to know of this approval and would shine when I knew better. Mother called it making a monkey of me for as far back as I can remember he laughed at things I said and did and repeated them in front of me. It's a good thing Mother took a firm hand for I hope she toned some of this zestiness down year by year.

I couldn't have felt like this . . . being resigned to him being just a dear memory if it hadn't been for seeing him in the last 3 days of his illness.

My old chum has gone in body but never in that memory of how I desperately clung to something . . . to him . . . as a baby who needed a father and he willingly and lovingly filled that need and never made me feel he was sorry but glad . . . glad and was my true dad.

Wilkinson, a group of workers employed by the magazine syndicate are contacting old and new subscribers in all parts of the county exclusive of the Lansing area. "Early this week," said Mrs. Alice Jewett, the chairman of the Auxiliary's hospital committee, "our wheel chairs, 8 in number, were all in use. Nine of our 13 hospital beds also were loaned out, the other 4 having been returned only a few days earlier."

The unit also has a supply of smaller equipment, such as crutches, bed rails, bed tables and other small necessities for the sickroom, which are in use much of the time.

"We plan this year," said Mrs. Jewett, "to purchase at least one additional wheel chair, as the demand for these usually exceeds the supply." The workers in the campaign carry letters of identification signed by Mrs. Erma

Smith, Mrs. Isabelle Miller, Mrs. Grace Ankney and Mrs. Susan Sheffer, the officers of the Auxiliary, showing that they are accredited representatives.

the comfort of self-delusion

THE BEST ADVICE is often more than we can bear. It takes courage to face the impact of truth, and firm resolution to form new habits to fit the facts.

Your doctor is sometimes confronted with the stern necessity of advising restrictions in your usual routine. Your favorite dessert or that comforting cigar may be denied you. There is a strong temptation to treat such advice lightly, to feel you know your needs better than your doctor.

Such self-delusion may be comforting, but it defeats the very ends you seek. Carefully follow your doctor's advice.

Mason Polishes Off Comets 31-0 Before Belding Finale Thursday

Mason dumped Grand Ledge Friday night 31-0. The Bulldogs victory plus the Eaton Rapids win over Charlotte throws the Capital Circuit race into a 3-way tie, Mason, Charlotte and Eaton Rapids split the championship.

Last year Mason was co-champions, along with Howell.

The Bulldogs will play one more game, Thursday night. Mason will tangle with Belding in a game that will start at 7:30. Mason will be looking for its eighth win of the season. The Bulldogs have only one defeat on the record books this year. Charlotte upset a favored Mason team early in the season.

Comets Burned Out

Friday night Mason could do no wrong. The Grand Ledge grid-ers put up a good battle for one quarter, forcing the Bulldogs to punt once, one of the few times this year the Mason powerhouse has kicked.

After the first stubborn stand, though, all the starch was taken out of the Comets. In the second period Coach Lou Lott's crew ground out 3 touchdowns.

Bob Jewett tossed 30 yards to Jim Blauvelt who took the ball to the Grand Ledge 2-yard line. Jewett climaxed the march up the field with a touchdown smash for the final 2 yards and then Alton Jennings took over the scoring duties. He ripped off a 40-yard run into paydirt. Mason again took to the air. This time a Jewett to Blauvelt pass was good for 50 yards and a touchdown.

In the second half Mason juggled up its combination, looking toward next year. Still the Bulldogs roared. Gordon Snee got into the scoring act with a smash up the middle early in the third period and Ralph Ellison added another touchdown on an end-around play.

In the last quarter Mason did not score. The Bulldogs ended the game with linemen getting a taste of playing as backs and backs working at the line positions. Still the Comets could get nowhere.

Thursday's game will mark the end of the football trail for 13 Mason seniors. Alton Jennings, Jim Blauvelt, Bill Post, Ron Surato, Bob Jewett, Don Lyon, Dale Burgess, Ralph Ellison, Marvin Shepard, Dick Bartlett, Bill Gabel and Aaron Hyde will be making their last appearances. Jon Davis also graduates. Davis has been out most of the season with a fractured leg.

3 Teams Split Circuit Title

All eyes in the Capital Circuit were focussed on the wind-up battle of the season over at Charlotte. The Orioles and Eaton Rapids Greyhounds put on a fight to the finish with Eaton Rapids coming out on top 7-6. The loss was the first one of the season in the Capital Circuit play for the Orioles.

Plus the humility of defeat the Orioles now have to share the Capital Circuit crown with Eaton Rapids and Mason.

Charlotte's chances of victory dimmed early in the second quarter. John Betty, the Oriole sparkplug and top scorer was forced from the game with leg injuries. The Orioles were never the same after that.

Doug Strang was the hero of the night for the Greyhounds. He recovered an Oriole fumble on the Charlotte 32-yard line. Bill Cataline and Bill Schram ground out 4 yards apiece. The Orioles dug in and stopped the Greyhounds for 3 plays. Then Cataline stepped back and tossed a perfect strike to Chuck Connelly, who stepped across the last stripe. Cataline bucked the ball across for that all-important extra point.

Charlotte came back strong. The Orioles piled up 70 yards in nine plays. Betty passed to Jim Young and to Ken Olmstead to cover most of the ground. The Orioles stalled temporarily then after Betty was forced out of the game, Dean Carey plunged over for the tally. The try for the extra point failed and the rest of the half produced no more scoring.

Charlotte had a second chance late in the game when Carey covered a fumble deep in enemy territory. The threat never materialized, though, as Eaton Rapids recovered a fumble on the next play.

Final standings in the Capital Circuit are:

	W	L	Pct.
Eaton Rapids	4	1	.800
Charlotte	4	1	.800
Mason	4	1	.800
Howell	2	3	.400
Everett	1	4	.200
Grand Ledge	0	5	.000

LESLIE DROPS FINAL

Leslie wound up the 1952 grid season on a sour note by dropping a contest to Jackson St. John 26-20. Dick Hackett scored 3 times for one of his best nights but it was not enough. Leslie had one of its poorest seasons. The Blackhawks marked up only 3 victories in 8 contests. Four of the defeats were handed out by Ingham County league foes.

EVERETT TOPS OKEMOS

Lansing Everett had a hard time Friday night but finally subdued the Okemos Chiefs 14-13. George Price was the bright light for the Vikings. He tallied both touchdowns in the second half. The Chiefs completely dominated the first half. Jerry Rossa tallied the first Chief score and Dick Ewing collected the second.

'Greatest Show on Earth' Reaches Fox

Only 2 shows are booked for the Fox theatre for the coming week, but what films they are, "The Greatest Show on Earth," a Paramount picture opening Friday at the Fox for a 4-day run, combines 2 of America's most popular entertainments—a Cecil B. DeMille Technicolor spectacle and a big-time Big Top show.

This panoramic melodrama of the circus and circus life is super-lavish and costliest production. Advance reports indicate without exception that it is also his best. More than $4,000,000 and almost 3 years of planning, research, training and actual production went into "The Greatest Show on Earth." A record 1,500 people were actively engaged in the mammoth project and almost 80,000 crowd extras were recruited for the parade sequences.

DeMille's greatest film achievement is noteworthy for more than its size and scope. It is the first picture to deal authentically with the circus and the performers and workers who keep it rolling. It is also the first Big Top spectacle in which Hollywood stars perform their own circus stunts. Among those who flouted the laws of gravity in the interests of exciting realism are Betty Hutton, who soars clearly above the tank-bark as Holly, the trapeze beauty; and Cornel Wilde, who stunts precariously on the flying bar as Sebastian, the dashing acrobat.

Trim Gloria Grahame also displayed a jaunty disregard for the frailties of the human body by supporting an elephant's foot on her face in the role of Angel, the elephant girl. Other stars in less dangerous, but equally authentic, roles are Charlton Heston as Brad, the circus manager, and James Stewart as Button, the clown.

Made with the cooperation of the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey circus, the DeMille epic features hundreds of Ringling's famed attractions—circus "fliers," acrobats, tightrope walkers, clowns, performing elephants and horses, as well as the entire menagerie of animals gathered from the 4 corners of the world.

DeMille's color cameras also captured intimate behind-the-scenes glimpses of the circus at work and at play. Sequences showing the spangled excitement of the Big Top's arena displays were filmed during actual performances at Sarasota, Florida, Washington, New York and Philadelphia. For these scenes, the 300-man Hollywood company of performers and technicians made 4 cross-country treks totalling more than 20,000 miles.

The tremendous production expenses for this glittering drama—spectacle included a half-million dollars' worth of costumes, floats and decorations, and a brilliantly colored $100,000 circus tent designed by Norman Bel Geddes.

Korean Air War Filmed

The poignant romance between a hard-bitten army colonel and a courageous American girl working for the United Nations in the East is told against the dramatic background of one of the most stirring pages of military history. Co-starring Robert Mitchum and Ann Blyth in Howard Hughes' "One Minute to Zero," the film blazes across the screen in an authentic saga of heroic heroism, brutal humor, delicate romance and grim efficiency.

The film will play at the Fox theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Mitchum portrays a sympathetic, highly disciplined colonel whose sole object is to save as many of his men as possible, but whose training has taught him to accept, no matter how bitterly and reluctantly, the cruel fact that casualties are a part of war.

His co-star, Ann Blyth depicts a spirited American girl working in the official UN ranks for the one reason which has motivated such civilians since the beginning of wars... an earnest desire to help in whatever capacity they may be needed. Together, the 2 popular stars form a highly understandable and completely realistic team.

The Edmund Grainger production for RKO Radio cleverly combines a moving love story with some of the most spectacular scenes of warfare to reach the screen this season. Presenting the military problem of the defense of a ridge, the film portrays the actual methods used in such operations. Accented are such things as unexpectedly changed plans, desperate individual chances taken, the ability to make use of the smallest detail in an instant of recognition. These elements meld into the ever-present knowledge the fighters have to the ultimate reason for the positions they are in and the absolute necessity of maintaining them.

Tremendous in scope and sympathetic in approach, "One Minute to Zero" is one of the most dramatic pictures of its kind to come from Hollywood in years. The mechanics of production alone posed a problem since hundreds of pieces of mobile equipment were needed, and shots of planes had to be combined with actual combat footage to achieve the panoramic background. Filmed in Colorado with thousands of foot soldiers, actual war conditions were duplicated in order to get the necessary effect.

William Talman, Charles McGraw and Margaret Sheridan are top-featured in pivotal roles. Talman will be remembered as the honest young cop in "The Racket," McGraw's recent stellar role in "The Narrow Margin" scored a hit; and Margaret Sheridan will be recalled as the heroine in "The Thing," which marked her screen debut.

Producer Grainger's skills have won him accolades from those who enjoyed his "Flying Leathernecks," "Sands of Iwo Jima," and "Wake of the Red Witch," among other films.

Tay Garnett, who directed "China Seas," and "Valley of Decision" directed "One Minute to Zero" from a screenplay by Milton Krims and William Wister Haines.

PANTHERS BEAT PINCKNEY

Bill Fouly paced Stockbridge in a 37-7 sweep over Pinckney Friday. The Panther star accounted for 2 first-half touchdowns and added one more in the second half. Ronnie Thomas tallied the other 2 touchdowns for Stockbridge.

Gladiators Lose To Highlanders

Fowlerville didn't have the horses to stop Howell Friday night. The Highlanders rolled over the Gladiators 37-0. Howell threw off an attack of first-quarter jitters.

Howell struck late in the first period when Marshall Borden smashed over. In the second period Boyd Shertzer connected with Dick Slayton and on the next play Glen Catrell smacked over.

Eldon Haller scored 2 touchdowns for Howell. On the first one he romped 75 yards through the entire Fowlerville team. The last Highlander touchdown came on a pass from Catrell to Shertzer.

DAVIS IS READY

Jon Davis threw away his crutches last week in preparation for the cage season. The Mason senior fractured his leg in the Charlotte grid game.

Haslett Takes Ramblers 46-0 To End Season with Clean Slate

Haslett wound up the 1952 grid season with a prized 46-0 victory over Holt. In getting by Holt the Lakers have established one of the best season records ever turned in by a Haslett team. In Ingham County league play Haslett won every game and in its one encounter with a non-league foe Haslett walked over the Lansing Sexton Reserves.

Haslett's victory over Holt dropped the Ramblers all the way down to a 3-way tie for third place, a new experience for the usually powerful Ramblers. Okemos wound up the season in second place, Stockbridge and Fowlerville are grouped with Holt in third.

Friday's loss was sort of a sour farewell to Holt from the Ingham County league. From now on the Rams will be bumping heads with the larger schools in the Capital Circuit.

Hagenbuch Runs Wild
Herb Hagenbuch added a little more lustre to his football reputation with 3 touchdown runs against Holt. The Laker speedster gathered in one pass, smacked through the middle for 9 yards and brought back a punt 65 yards for his 3 tallies.

Bill Haskins, the lanky Haslett flanker, was also in rare form. He scored one touchdown and set up 2 others with circus catches.

Holt never threatened. The Rams never once reached beyond Haslett's 30-yard line.

Final standings in the Ingham County league are: W L Pct.
Haslett ..... 7 0 1.000
Okemos ..... 5 2 .714
Stockbridge ..... 4 3 .571
Holt ..... 4 3 .571
Fowlerville ..... 4 3 .571
Leslie ..... 3 4 .429
Dansville ..... 1 6 .142
Williamston ..... 0 7 .000

Easy Remedies for Ballot Ills

Remedies are close at hand for making easier the marking of ballots and the counting of them after they are marked.

Yes, there is the voting machine method. Voting machines are all right when they are in working order and voters are mechanically-minded enough to use them. But the machines sometimes get out of kilter as some of them did in Lansing November 4. In one precinct no votes were registered on a proposition. It could just as well have happened to a candidate.

The cost of providing all precincts with voting machines runs high. It's a lot of machinery and a big investment for use only a few hours a year. The speed of machine returns is also overrated. There were rural precincts voting with paper ballots which had their totals available as soon as Lansing precincts did.

So let's talk about making easier the use of paper ballots and making the count of those ballots sure and quick.

In the first place there is little excuse for letting minor parties clutter up the ballot. Here in Ingham November 4 in the biggest election in history there were only 545 votes cast for candidates offered by the 4 minor parties. For the candidates of the three fringe parties, Progressive, Socialist Labor and Socialist Worker, there were only 124 votes cast. Now each party, even one with only a lone candidate, occupies a full column on the ballot. A better way would be to have columns for Republicans and Democrats and any other party getting a fair percentage, say 10%, of the vote at the preceding general election. Those who want to vote for candidates of minor parties could write or paste the names of candidates in a blank column. Such a system would have cut the ballots in half at this year's election.

Another saving, and one which was considered by the legislature a few months ago, would result from correcting an error made in measuring squares in 1930. Following the Groeschel-Brucker recount the legislature decided to have standard-size squares on ballots in each county. They chose the size then used in Ingham, known as 18 point, about three-sixteenths of an inch. They read to the wrong mark on the ruler and got three-eighths of an inch. That error, increased by each name carried on the ballot, extended the length of the ballot. Correction of the error would result in shortening the ballots, making them easier to mark in cramped voting booths, and easier to count. They would be easier to handle in the booths and on the tables while making the count.

The three-sixteenths square (18 point) would also cut the cost of printing the ballots. It is plenty big enough. This is the size: □

There is another plan, now available, which makes counting quicker and probably surer. That's having a fresh shift of inspectors and clerks take over the counting after the polls close. Among Ingham townships which used shift systems November 4 were Bunker Hill and Wheatfield. The Bunker Hill count was completed before 11 o'clock, the Wheatfield count two hours later. Choosing of election board workers for aptitude and efficiency would also speed up the voting and the count in many precincts.

Michigan is one of the few states where polls are kept open until 8 o'clock. In most states the voting halts at 5:30 or 6:00. If we want to have Michigan votes counted as soon as Ohio, as the metropolitan newspapers insist, then Michigan polls should be closed as early as they are in Ohio.

All these remedies for ballot ills are close at hand and easily available. No general overhauling of the law is necessary.

These oversize ballots used in both the primary and general elections in Michigan are awkward, unwieldy and expensive. They cost more for printing than would smaller ballots with smaller squares. They are harder to handle, harder to mark and harder to count.

Serious study by the legislators, willingness on their part to correct a 22-year-old error and the courage to insist that minor parties use a blank column would remedy most of the ills of marking and counting paper ballots. Having one column for minor parties would also speed up the voting and tallying on voting machines.

Remedies for ballot ills are so close at hand and so easy to apply that there is no excuse for not putting them into effect.

Transplanted Government

When pioneers from New England and New York came to Michigan they brought their familiar form of township and city government with them. That's why townships were set up to govern themselves and why township and city representatives govern a county through a board of supervisors.

At about the same time the New England pioneers were coming west to what is now Michigan, missionaries and whalers from New England were settling in Hawaii. They carried the same pattern of government there. Hawaii has four counties each governed by a board of supervisors. They have the same county officers we do—prosecutor, sheriff, clerk and treasurer.

There are many political science professors who point to county government as being archaic or outmoded. Always the professors want to reform county government by making it dictatorial, with one or a few men chosen to govern the county.

This New England type of county government may not work well in the big industrial counties like Wayne. It does work well in smaller counties. It is adaptable to conditions. It is responsive. It is representative—in Hawaii as in Michigan.

There are probably some improvements which could be made in the structure of county government. Those changes should not be made just because our system is old. Why it has grown old is because it works. The fact that people here in Michigan as well as those in Hawaii have kept this form of government so long is a good indication that it works. We should go slow in making drastic changes.

Predjudices Come a Little at a Time

Political Campaigns Warp Thinking

By Vernon J. Brown

All too frequently the general public finds itself believing something that is based on impressions and ideas that have sprung up from some remote source, often forgotten, but nevertheless false in every particular. Most of our prejudices have come to us in small portions. We have swallowed some bias and absorbed some preconception, untried impressions have infiltrated our minds, twisted our thinking, and warped our judgment without our realizing what was happening to our conclusions.

The recent campaign gave proof of how prejudicial some of our convictions have become and how emotional some of our mental processes have grown.

Usually when the average person thinks of a great corporation he thinks of some administrative organization with richly furnished offices, ornate decorations, swivel chairs, polished desks and corpulent executives. Huge bank accounts and generous dividends along with high salaries to a few topnotchers complete our mental picture. With this picture comes the impression of hundreds and thousands of shop workers laboring to pile up treasure for the favored few.

The facts are, our corporations, at least our industrial corporations which employ the most of our workers, are not owned by Wall Street, nor even by Main Street.

We have been hearing a lot about "the common people" versus the "capitalists." Even though it has not been said in so many words, the intimation has been that the workers have to fight the capitalists for every penny they get, that corporations are tax dodgers, that they fight against every social reform, and that by and large this country will be ruined if ever these money-mad kings of finance ever get control of our government.

With all this in mind I was greatly interested in a statement recently released by a concern employed to ascertain some facts about our big corporations, who own them and how many—and further who works for them and how many.

A study was made of 15 of the largest American corporations, at least the largest from the standpoint of the number of workers employed. The survey did not include mining nor utility companies except for American Telephone and Telegraph, which by the way employs more workers than any of the other 15 and also is owned by the largest number of stockholders of any. AT&T employs 618,459 men and women. The employees are more than a million other men and women, except that many of the workers are also shareholders.

The overall picture of worker versus shareholder (the owners) discloses the fact that the 15 companies studied are owned by 3,300,244 shareholders and that they pay wages to 2,619,244 workers. This means there are approximately 3 owners for every 2 employees.

A lot is being said and written about our national economy. Another study shows that the United States no longer can stand alone in the economic world. The reason is we no longer can supply the raw materials to keep our industries going at a pace that will keep our workers employed and this nation strong. The reason for this? We have exhausted or at least depleted so many of our natural resources that we are now dependent upon foreign sources for our needs. We also need customers to buy our products in order that we may keep our trade balance on the right side of the international ledger.

Here is another factor in this race for industrial supremacy. In 1900 American industry employed one engineer for every 350 production workers. Today there is one engineer to every 60 production workers. Chemists employed in industry are doubling every 15 years and the number of physicists every 8 years. Between 1930 and 1947 the number of scientists, technicians and engineers in industrial research has increased almost 4 times. Private industrial laboratories serving the smaller concerns have increased the number employed by more than 25% during the same period.

Let Europe concentrate on social reforms but let us continue to develop new products and find better ways to put them on the market. Let Europe occupy itself with redistribution of wealth. As long as we here in this country spread our share-owners beyond the number of workers and continue to pay fair wages, we need have no fear about great concentrations of wealth nor great holdings of land. Our own particular brand of economy will take care of all these problems.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Over in Clinton county Tuesday the 25th anniversary of the opening of the Clinton Memorial hospital was observed. The man who led the campaign to establish the hospital and who long served on the board was Schuyler L. Marshall, former publisher of the Ingham County News. Sky and his wife stopped off in Mason on Tuesday of last week. Both looked mighty stylish in their party clothes. They were on their way to attend an election party in Jackson.

With a scholarship of $175 added to the prize list this year, the cherry pie contest for girls between 15 and 20 should draw more contestants. Practicing should start at once. Apples and pumpkins can be used instead of cherries for practice. But don't let your daughter use squash. As a vegetable squash is good eating. It never was designed for pie. The only thing worse would be green tomatoes which some folks try to palm off as mince-meat.

My wife's cousin's wife Louise Pickett from Santa Monica, California, insists that no one has come up with a better definition of education than this one by Socrates 2100 years ago:

Whom then, do I call educated? First, those who manage well the circumstances they encounter day by day, who possess a judgment which is accurate in meeting occasions as they arise, and rarely miss the expedient course of action.

Next, those who are decent and honorable in their intercourse with all men, bearing easily and good-naturedly what is offensive or unpleasant in others and being themselves as agreeable and reasonable to their associates as is humanly possible to be.

Furthermore, those who hold their pleasures always under control, who are not unduly overcome by their misfortunes, bearing up under them bravely and in a manner worthy of our common-natures.

Finally, and most important of all, those who are not spoiled by their successes, who do not desert their true selves but hold their ground steadfastly, as wise and sober-minded men, rejoicing no more in the good things which have come to them by chance than in those which through their own nature and intelligence are theirs since birth. Those who have a character which accord not with one of these things, but all of them. These I maintain are educated, and whole men possessed of all the virtues of a man.

How many women would gladly pay $55 to talk with a husband? Mrs. Richard Shank of the Ingham County News staff, gladly paid that fee. After 6 months in Korea Pfc. Shank went to Japan on rest leave. He put through a call to his wife. The cost was $44 plus $11 tax for 11 minutes. "It was worth every penny of it," the soldier's wife declared. When Mrs. Shank talked it was 8 o'clock at night here, 10 the next morning in Japan.

Romance has struck my neighborhood on the west bank of the Sycamore. Gloria Rathburn and Bill Conklin spoke their tender vows Friday night. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Lem Bailey celebrated 40 years of wedded life. And 3 neighborhood gals have reached the serious hand-holding stage.

Lloyd Butcher and his wife, Elsie, the new superintendent and matron at the county farm, are well liked there. Patients hope the Butchers stay as long as the Hammonds did. That was 31 years.

Lansing Postmaster D. D. Harris has sent in his resignation. He is a good postmaster. If the Ingham County News had the picking of his successor it would be someone from the present post-

Hog Skeletons Are Too Small

Some pigs may be hogging down various stepped-up rations so fast they are outgrowing their frames, warns James P. Hoekzema, county agricultural agent. He notices that the various B vitamins and some of the antibiotics are great for growth but a pig needs balanced rations, he claimed.

Hog specialists at Michigan State college point out that farmers can make a mistake in the efforts to gain better growing rations, with B-12 vitamins. Calcium and phosphate also should be added to the ration, they note, to build bone. That way hogs can carry their weight to slaughter without becoming cripples. Plant proteins used in rations do not build frames like animal proteins, they explained.

Experiments are being made to find how much phosphorus—in short supply nationally—and calcium are needed with various growing pig and hog-fattening rations.

COW ENDS TEST

With 326 pounds of butterfat and 18,003 pounds of milk to her credit, Willow Hill Ormsby Butter Girl Inka, registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Howard Barton of Lansing has completed a 365-day production test in official herd improvement registry. She was milked 2 times daily, and was 9 years 11 months of age when she began her testing period. Her record averages approximately 23 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by Lansingher test.

Country & Town

By JIM BROWN

South American llamas are a lot like people. The beast of burden used in the Andes mountains will carry 100 lbs of luggage for days and days and never wince. But give him 101 lbs and he won't be budged. If he's overloaded, he just refuses to work.

Another thing. The nimblest llama driver can't saddle a load on a llama unless the animal can see another llama being loaded. That's why llama caravans are always lined up face-to-face when the burden is being shared.

I don't know what a native does if he only has one llama. A minimum would be 2 llamas according to llama union rules.

Yes, llamas are a lot like people. People generally will carry the load as long as its being shared. American tradition calls for people to wait in line for turns. A few people bucking the line can make everybody dissatisfied with the line-up and the system falls.

If people are like llamas or llamas are like people, then that could be the key to the anti-inflation war to be waged by the Republicans. If services are cut and taxes cut equally, the American people ought to be able to take it in stride. But if a few people manage to sidestep the intent of the government, no one will be satisfied.

I had a good look at Miss America last Wednesday. I met her in the Abstract office alley. She was coming from the Lions club dinner just as I was going. I flashed a picture of her in the darkness.

It was impossible to meet the glamour editor's deadline and have the picture and story published the next day. So I waited until this week to tell the whole world of my meeting with Miss America in the alley.

Miss America thanked me for the consideration. She thought the delay was downright clever what with the election results taking the major interest last week. Miss America spoke highly of the Lions club members. She was especially pleased at the way Bud Swinehart kept the Lions at bay.

Need Seed? Pays to Read

Michigan has a seed labeling law that permits condemnation of seed lots containing noxious weeds, according to Richard W. Bell, Michigan State college extension specialist in farm crops. These weeds include quackgrass and Canada thistle. Farmers will also find it pays to examine seed labels before buying. Good seed is the start of good crops, he explained.

Dairymen Can Cut Production Costs By Five Methods

According to studies made in Michigan, herdsmen can cut the cost of producing 100 lbs of milk by nearly 50%. The amount of milk produced on each farm can be increased by as much as 75% without increasing the amount of land or labor needed or without increasing the number of cows.

The increase in production under these conditions would increase profits on dairy farms and would bring dairy farmers more in line with farmers on investment in other farms and business. Present returns, on investment and for labor, on dairy farms are much lower than for other types of farming, and this is one of the reasons for the 16% drop since 1941 in cow numbers in this country.

Farmers can cut costs, increase milk production and returns by adopting the following practices.

1. Upbreed the herd from poor or average stock to good cows. Do this by improving breeding practices, culling the low producers and improving general management practices. The result—10,000-lb milkers rather than 5,000 lbs.
2. Improve building arrangements and style. If you need a new dairy barn, consider a pole-type barn. This will save 20% of the cost of housing an animal as compared to the conventional stanchion barn. Where rebuilding is not needed, make sure that the present structures are being used most efficiently.
3. Improve chore equipment. Repair or replace worn-out parts and keep movable items where most used and in good condition.
4. Improve feeding methods. Don't feed all cows the same amount of grain. Those producing 10,000 lbs of milk require and can profitably be fed considerably more grain than those giving 7,000 lbs.
5. Feed good roughage. This applies whether it is pasture, hay or silage. High quality pastures consisting of alfalfa, clovers and other legumes and grasses will save 300 to 500 lbs of protein supplement and grain per cow as well as 800 lbs of hay or silage during the pasture season.

Roughage to be of high quality must be grown on soil which is well supplied with minerals such as nitrogen phosphate, potash, calcium, magnesium and many other minor elements. To assure maximum returns from dairymen be sure to use enough fertilizer and lime to produce quality roughage.

NO CHANGE IN PRICES

Broilers and fryers will sell for about the same in 1953 as in 1952, from 28 to 35 cents per pound live-weight at wholesale in Detroit, forecasts Henry E. Lenzler, Michigan State college poultry marketing specialist.

A LOT OF MILK

Caroldale Admiral Ormsby Lassie, a registered Holstein cow in the herd owned by Donald A. Williams, Mason, has further added to her outstanding lifetime production of more than 100,000 lbs of milk. That's the equivalent of 47,500 quarts. In 8 milking periods, covering a total of 2,712 days, this cow has produced a total of 109,288 lbs of milk and 3,854 lbs of butterfat. Her highest single record was made at the age of 10 years, 4 months when she produced 17,885 lbs of milk and 648 lbs of butterfat.

US Milker Wins Jersey Production Title from Canadian Cow Champ

June Volunteer Fantasy has brought a production championship of her Jersey breed to the United States which had been held by a Canadian cow for 19 years.

Close to the midnight hour on October 26 she completed a 365-day record of 20,097 pounds milk containing 1,319 pounds butterfat in her barn up Oregon way. It beat by 6 pounds the Canadian butterfat record held by Hampton Basilia (pronounced Basil-yah) since 1933.

The new production champ is owned by Lindow Jersey Farm, Independence, Oregon. She started her milking career at the age of 1 year and 9 months at a pace not too often equaled by the most outstanding mature cows. At 6 years of age she had broken a breed record that had stood for 19 years and brought her total production to 60,760 pounds of milk containing 3,880 pounds butterfat.

June Volunteer Fantasy made her championship record on a family-sized dairy farm which is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lindow and their 2 children, June, 15, and Danny, 9.

The cow was fed from 18 to 20 pounds of home grain mix containing about 16% protein each day she was on test and all of the top quality hay she could consume. She grazed with the rest of the herd during the summer months. Seven different official testing supervisors from Oregon, Washington, and Idaho checked her daily production on 20 different occasions during the record.

The pedigree of June Volunteer Fantasy is filled with some of the production greats of the breed. In fact her sire, June Volunteer Buddy, is a great grandson of the bull which sired the former breed champion. He died at 15½ years of age only a few days before his illustrious daughter completed her championship record.

Fantasy is not only a production champion but also a breed winner of no small means. The milk she has produced in 4 years has brought approximately $5,430 on the Salem milk market. A daughter was sold in the "Your Opportunity Sale" at North Portland, Oregon, for $1,750.

By definition the name "Fantasy" would indicate a product of imagination. It seems the Lindow Jersey Farm has made the product a reality.

Dairymen Like Gutter Cleaners

Dairymen are turning more and more to using mechanical gutter cleaners developed 4 or 5 years ago. They find they can remove manure from stables to fields without costly hand labor, according to Robert L. Maddex, extension specialist in agricultural engineering at Michigan State college.

Two main types of gutter cleaners are being marketed. The endless chain cleaner circulates around the entire barn and up an elevator where manure drops into a manure spreader. The single gutter cleaner has one motor to pull it out with the load of manure to the spreader, another motor to pull it back into place. Some other types use rubber belts and wire meshing.

Almost any type of cleaner will be satisfactory if properly installed, Maddex states. Manufacturers have taken the kinks out of the drive units, which originally caused headaches. Most cleaners now give little trouble and need little maintenance.

Cleaning time for most barns is about 10 minutes.

Farmers who can afford the original cleaner costs will find operation costs low. Records kept on several Michigan farms showed a cost of 2c to 4c per cow to operate the cleaners for the winter season.

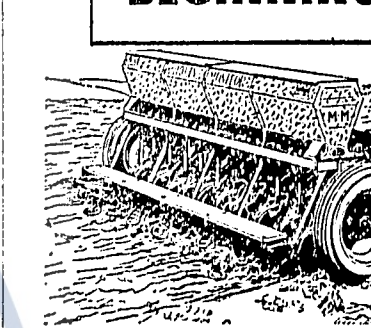

Cleaners were put in first mainly by large operators but there is no minimum size herd to be serviced by a cleaner. Labor supply, physical handicaps and finances are the ruling factors.

Maddex reports that most farmers who have gutter cleaners would rather give up any other appliance on the farm.

Drainage ditches with sloping sides can be mowed; that's easier than chopping out brush and weeds that clog them.

DO THE JOB Right FROM THE BEGINNING

with MOLINE-MONITOR FLUTED FEED DRILLS

... with single or double disc openers

Progressive farmers in this area rely on Moline-Monitor drills with fluted feed and double disc or single disc openers to sow crops accurately, at uniform depth with uniform covering and careful handling.

The deep-cut fluted feeds prevent bridging and grinding of seed. Even trashy seed flows through evenly. An exclusive MM feature permits the operator to actually see the seed being delivered to the spots. No special gears of any kind are needed on the quality MM Monitor Drills. The regular feeds with two speed drive handle everything from soybeans to flax.

Grain growers also prefer Moline-Monitor Drills because of their dependability and long-life, trouble-free operation. Typical of the better construction are the axle bearings which are extra large and completely enclosed in a self-aligning dustproof housing.

Tromans Have 3600 Turkeys for the Holidays

By J. P. Hoekzema
County Agricultural Agent

Turkeys by the thousands, and broad-breasted ones at that, are being raised by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Troman of Leslie.

Back in 1941 the Tromans purchased 23 acres at the north edge of Leslie on US-127. Troman was a druggist in Leslie for 25 years, but 6 years ago he decided to go into the turkey business.

At that time a decision had to be made in regard to the breed. After considerable deliberation, it was decided to raise the White Hollands.

Mrs. Troman said, "We selected White Hollands because the average family does not want too large a bird and this breed will have hens that dress out all ready for the oven weighing from 9 to 12 lbs. The young toms will dress out about 15 to 19 lbs so we have birds of the weight that is wanted by different consumers. We didn't like the black pin feathers that some of the popular breeds have, either."

For several years the regular White Hollands have been raised, but this year the young poults were obtained from Portsmouth, Ohio, and are called Broad-breasted White Hollands. They live up to their names. The dressed birds have an unusually high percentage of breast meat. In addition the son, Gordon, who is interested in turkeys, and is a senior in high school, is trying out 100 Nebraskans. He has this breed as his P. P. A. project. It is a mutation from the Bronze, but with mostly white feathers. They are larger than the White Hollands, and are being tried out for the first time this year.

On a small acreage the Tromans knew that there is not enough land to provide clean range. They have a system of management that is working very well. The first year they raised 600 and each year since have been increasing production until this year they have 3,600 turkeys.

The young poults are obtained in early May or June. About two-thirds are of the early hatch and one-third arrive a month later. The poults are started in batteries. Five hundred are placed in each battery with 100 in each compartment. They are left there for 3 or 4 weeks and then removed to the rearing houses. Infra-red heat bulbs are available in these houses.

Turkeys require a high protein feed for the first few weeks of their lives so a 28% protein feed is used for about 8 weeks. When the birds are taken to the rearing pens they are placed on 2 by 2 slats with no floor. All the manure goes through the slats on the ground. The houses and the out-door pens are 3 to 4 feet off the ground. There is no danger of contamination.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Troman and son, Gordon, show one of the broad-breasted White Holland turkeys in the picture above. They are producing 3,600 birds on their small farm north of Leslie.

When 8 weeks of age the turkey starter feed is changed to turkey grower feed—a 24% feed. In addition "horse-feed" is self-fed. This is a combination of oats, corn, barley, alfalfa meal and molasses. It is fed until the birds are about 20 weeks of age. For the last 8 or 10 weeks the turkeys are fed grower and shelled corn. By following this method these turkeys are fat.

Raising turkeys is not the easiest thing in the world. There are many problems. Lugging water would be a problem, but automatic waterers are used. When birds are closely confined they are apt to get into mischief and start pecking at each other. To prevent this, all birds are de-beaked with an electric debeaker when 8 to 10 weeks of age. Usually by the time the beaks grow out the birds are ready to be killed.

Marketing turkeys by the thousands is no small task, but the Tromans have developed a private trade.

"Eighty per cent of the birds are sold during the holidays," Mrs. Troman stated. "Most of them are sold privately though some are sold wholesale. All are sold oven-dressed, and are individually wrapped and boxed."

Turkeys should be killed when they are mature. This is when they are fat and after the pin feathers have disappeared. Starting about the middle of October, 100 of the fattest birds are selected and are dressed out every other day. About a half-dozen local folks help for Christmas money, according to Mrs. Troman.

A regular assembly line is set up. Turkeys are selected when fat and are brought into the dressing room in crates. They are quickly killed and are then placed in hot water to loosen the feathers. Another operator feather-picks them mechanically and any pin feathers not removed manually are removed.

TROMANS WIN RIBBONS
The Tromans won 14 ribbons at the Michigan turkey festival in Grand Rapids last week. It was the first time that the Leslie turkey raisers have competed at the festival. They entered 22 oven-ready birds. Among the Troman ribbons were 1 first place award in the heavy hen class and a second in the light hen class. More than 400 turkeys were entered in the contest.

mechanically are removed by hand. Other operators then oven-dress the birds, and the giblets are placed inside the body cavity. All birds are washed and are placed in special bags to be frozen.

This season a 12- by 18-foot walk-in freezer was built. This should hold from 800 to 1,200 birds at a time. Many of the birds are sold fresh during the holiday period, but fancy-dressed birds are available at almost all times of the year.

In the dressing room everything is spick and span. The same is true in the rearing pens. As a result the Tromans are producing a high-quality turkey that has been grown rapidly and dressed properly. It is no wonder that much of their business is the result of repeat orders.

Each fall about 350 of the best poults are kept and some of the best toms. These are kept to produce hatching eggs which are sold at Zealand.

The Tromans are producing a meat-type bird, and have shown that a success can be made on a small acreage.

Weed Trees Make Good Fence Posts

Michigan Farmers making woodlot plans this fall and winter should remember that their so-called inferior trees make good fence posts, according to James P. Hoekzema, Ingham county agricultural agent.

Inexpensive preservatives will make these "home grown" posts serve as long as more durable non-treated woods, the agricultural agent said. The durable wood supply is dwindling.

Posts should be cut and peeled immediately in the late spring and early summer. Then they should season for 3 months or more. A cold soak treatment, using pentachlorophenol or copper naphthanate, can be easily applied on the farm.

The service life of many woods can be doubled or tripled by this convenient preserving method, according to the county agent. If farmers use some durable woods from their woodlots, they should also treat these woods for longer life.

For further information on methods and preservatives, the county agricultural agent suggests writing to the extension forester at Michigan State college.

Plan for Calves Before Arrival

The way to raise a calf right is to start working on its pen before the calf is born, according to dairy extension specialists at Michigan State college.

The pen should be cleaned and disinfected so the cow can go into it several days before calving and help should be at hand for the cow when it is needed. If the cow does not clean up the calf, the dairyman should do it.

As soon as possible, within an hour or 2, the calf should be given some of the cow's new milk for the colostrum and vitamin A benefits.

Farming expenses will go up 4 or 5 per cent in the coming year, Michigan State college farm economists predict.

Michigan State college surveys show we are consuming less butter, but more milk, cream, cheese and ice cream.

THIS FARMING BUSINESS BY CARL COLLIN

The hog market in November will be steady to seasonably weak, reflecting pork marketings and a hesitant storage demand. That's what the National Livestock Producer sees ahead. There should be a generally stronger market for best fed cattle with all classes and grades in an improving position.

Reduced supplies and an active late feeding demand should make the lamb market substantially stronger for the month.

Economists figure that demand for farm products in this country will continue strong well into 1953. They base their opinion on the belief that general economic activity will continue to rise.

They see spending for national security continuing heavy. State and local governments will increase their spendings for schools, roads and other public facilities. Businessmen will continue to invest in new plants and equipment at a high rate. Consumer spending again will increase.

There is some feeling among economists that defense spending, and investments for new expansion may level off the latter part of next year.

Crops matured and dried out well this fall. The need for mechanical dryers hasn't been as great this year as last. Farmers still can get help in buying mobile mechanical dryers from the department of agriculture. Loans are available through county PMA committees. Up to 75% of the cost of equipment can be borrowed. Interest rate is 4%, the loan to be repaid in 3 yearly installments.

When a sow is bred, 9 to 12 or more eggs are fertilized. If the sow is in good nutritional condition, baby pigs develop from these embryos and a large litter of husky pigs is farrowed. Good management can boost number of pigs farrowed, offer greater opportunities for profit and boost pork output. Currently the national average number of pigs weaned per litter is 6.4.

What effect will the election have on farm policies? Probably not much in 1953. Programs will go on about as at present. New farm programs will develop slowly, not in the first year. Republican administration has promised 90% of parity through 1954 for basic commodities. Also the new administration has endorsed conservation benefit payments, REA, research, crop insurance. Eisenhower has indicated he will try to find some answer to supporting prices of perishables. That'll be a tough one probably involving further discussion of Secretary Charles F. Brannan's controversial plan. Clifford Hope seems to be the best prospect for secretary of agriculture at this point. He's had a lot of experience on the house agricultural committee. Hope has gone along on nearly all farm legislation in recent years except the Brannan Plan. He's for high supports.

USDA has developed a new insect killer. It's called allethrin. It's an effective weapon against mosquitoes, many household pests, lice and aphids. Allethrin is being produced commercially now.

Commodity Credit Corporation lost over $9,900,000 in carrying out its price support programs during the first quarter of the fiscal year beginning July 1. Main losses were due to dried eggs and wheat. Net loss for the same period last year was over $31,000,000.

Speaking of price supports, they're not so new. Early laws of Virginia tell of efforts to keep tobacco supply in line with demand and help growers get fair prices by limiting acreage and setting minimum prices. Virginia history going as far back as 1631 report these efforts by the assembly. Just what results these measures had isn't recorded.

The Illinois state department of agriculture has announced a ban forbidding the feeding of uncooked garbage to hogs. Move is aimed to control vesicular exanthema. That's the hog disease that raised hog with hog marketing in Kalamazoo and Calhoun counties recently.

Incidentally, all quarantine on movement of hogs in both counties is now over. Only garbage dump in Oshkosh township, Kalamazoo county, is still under quarantine and will remain so for a while.

Miscellany... A new type of grape juice from white grapes has been developed. Usual hot-press process hasn't worked on these grapes. Reports indicate juice from white grapes now has excellent flavor and attractive color... Scientists digging under Mexico City have found some corn grains around 25 thousand years old. Apparently there was some farming going on in North America then. Indians are usually thought of as only hunters... USDA is still buying turkeys to support prices. Some 17,300,000 pounds had been purchased up to last of October. The buying program is scheduled to stop about mid-November. Total purchases are expected to be over 25,000,000 pounds by that time... Federal livestock specialists now figure spring hog farrowings will be up from 1952.

Michigan Dairies Good for '53

Dairy farming will enjoy a more favorable position in 1953 in relation to other Michigan agriculture than it has in recent years, according to Michigan State college agricultural economists.

The present favorable milk-feed price relation will continue through 1953. Less favorable hog and beef prices have checked the downward trend in dairy cow numbers.

A few more cows and higher production will mean more milk in 1953. Fewer but larger dairy herds and improved breeding, feeding and management have resulted in increased milk production per cow each year. Drawbacks to keeping more cows is shortage of labor and being tied down by twice-a-day milking.

Feeding grain fairly liberally to high-producers will be profitable. The 1952 hay crop is ample and of higher quality than in 1951. Dairyman can lower costs by feeding good quality roughage. Many successful dairymen have cut expensive protein supplements and grain and fed good roughage.

Labor will continue scarce and labor-saving equipment will be good business if farmers beware of gadgets that do not pay. Labor and equipment will be more efficient with 20 or more cows. Milking more cows in 1953 will pay if labor, feed and barn space are available.

Veal production will probably be less profitable with veal prices taking a downward trend. It will be profitable to veal calves if farmers must sell fluid milk at surplus price or in a poor market.

Demand will be strong for fluid milk and ice cream and less of the supply will go into butter. The evaporated and condensed milk market will be stronger. Butter consumption—9 pounds per capita in 1952—probably will be less. The spread between margarine and butter prices has continued to widen. The non-fat dry milk solid market is expanding with new consumer packages.

It Takes A HEAP OF HAULING ...to make a Home!

IF YOU'VE BUILT a new home recently—or are in the midst of doing so now—you know how dependent building is on motor transport.

From the moment the big excavating shovel arrives at the vacant lot astride a low-bed truck-trailer to dig the hole for your basement, it's a steady procession of trucks of one kind or another until the house is ready for occupancy.

Cement blocks, sand, steel, lumber, roofing, brick, plumbing, hardware, paint—everything that goes into the building of your home has to get to the site in motor trucks.

Then, when you arrive at the point where you're ready to move in, you call on motor transport again to transport your household furnishings for you.

If you've got it, a truck brought it!
