

Council Draft Must Be Used For Candidates

Under provisions of Mason's city charter the council must draft 3 more candidates for the spring election.

The charter adopted in 1951 carries the unique provision that where the number of candidates filing petitions does not equal or exceed twice the number of such offices to be filled, the council shall nominate such additional qualified citizens. There was no petition filed for associate justice of the peace, so the council will have to nominate at least one, and may nominate more than one.

Only 3 candidates filed for the 3 council vacancies. They are Councilman Alfred F. Forche, completing his first term, Howard W. Roberts, 732 West Columbia, and Clifford W. Walcott, 822 Roosevelt.

Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams was the only candidate to file for re-nomination and re-election. The charter carries no provision for providing the judge with opposition.

The council has until 12 days before election for nominating 3 council candidates and one candidate or more for associate justice of the peace. However, a member of the council indicated that the nominations may be made at next Monday's meeting. Nomination then would give all candidates adequate time to campaign for the April election.

Mason now has 2 justices, Adams and William S. Seelye. The charter provides that beginning July 4, 1955, a city justice court be established, with one justice of the peace and an associate justice. The justice will draw a salary of $3,400 per year, with all fees to go to the city, with the exception of those for performing marriages and for serving as coroner. The associate will get $10 per day as his services are needed.

Of the council candidates who filed nominating petitions, Forche is employed as a chemist at Wyeth Laboratories Inc., Roberts by the county road commission and Walcott is the Lansing school principal at Mason.

Mayor Clairmont Everitt and Councilman Eric Spenny circulated petitions for Roberts, Arthur W. Jewett circulated petitions for Walcott, and Leland W. Austin secured signatures on Forche's petition. Judge Adams circulated his own.

Ingham Dairymen Acclaim 91 Top Herds

Ninety-one top producers were honored at the annual Ingham dairy banquet in Leslie Tuesday afternoon. The dinner was in honor of the producers whose herds averaged at least 400 lb of butterfat during 1954. It was the largest number to ever reach above the 400 figure in Ingham. Ten of the herds averaged more than 500 lb of fat, which was still another record.

Nearly 300 dairymen and Michigan State college extension specialists attended the banquet. The banquet was held in the Leslie Grange hall. Dave Diehl of Dansville was toastmaster.

Entertainment was provided by the Aurelius Farmerettes and Gwendolyn Oakley who played her accordion.

"The Rumor Story," a color movie taken from within a cow's stomach, was shown by Dr. Carl Huffman of Michigan State college.

Hard owners whose herds averaged at least 500 lb of butterfat during 1954 were Coe Emmons, 565-07; J. H. and R. D. Chamberlain, 552-6; Kenneth Kurtz, 535-4; Hugh Oesterle, Son, 525-5; R. J. Kleis, 522-0; W. C. Wright, 511-9; Ernest Shaw, 507-2; El-

PAT MONROE, 17, of Dansville is queen of Ingham's million-dollar dairy industry. She received her crown at the annual dairy banquet held in Leslie Tuesday afternoon.

Queen Pat was among 5 finalists to compete for the crown. The other girls will serve in the queen's court. They are Agnes Rowe, Laureale Olney, Grace Bailey and Donna Hoeft. The queen and her court were selected by ballot at the banquet following talks of "What 4-H Has Done for Me." The girls were judged on appearance, personality, poise, ability to speak and farm background.

Queen Pat will compete for district honors at Marshall April 12. Ingham's 1955 dairy queen is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Monroe. She's a member of both the Vantown and White Oak 4-H clubs and has completed 26 projects during her 7 years in 4-H work. Oriental Educators Learn Here

Okinawans Visit Ingham School

Educators from the University of Ryukyus in Okinawa were in Mason Tuesday to see how a county school system operates. Seimo Nakayama, registrar of the university, and Kosei Akamine, dean of arts and sciences, are in the United States for several weeks, learning American methods of education. At Mason the men were accompanied by Francis Leppard, a Japanese-French interpreter. They conferred with Alton J. Stroud, county school superintendent.

The men are spending 4 weeks at Michigan State college studying the operations of public schools, extension and research activities and business management within the college.

The University of Ryukyus was established with American money in 1950. Michigan State college sent 6 men to the island when the university was founded. They patterned its organization on MSC.

Two colleges on the island were destroyed during World War II.

"All Okinawans are grateful to Michigan people for helping restore formal education to the island," Akamine said.

The university has an enrollment of 1200 students on campus and offers studies in agriculture, home economics, education, liberal arts, science and physical education.

While visiting the county school system Tuesday, the Okinawan group attended the Nelson school taught by Mrs. Ruth Curtis. The men talked to the children and wrote oriental words on the blackboards. The Nelson school is the smallest country school in the county and was of special interest to the men from Okinawa.

The group also saw one of the largest schools in the county system. They toured the Maple Grove school and saw the children at work.

Chosho Goya, president of the university, is also at Michigan State college. Because of sickness, he was not able to visit Mason Tuesday.

Jury Will Sift Evidence About Death at Jail

Lester Scott, 45, Lansing, is scheduled to go on trial in circuit court at Mason Tuesday. He is charged with murder as a result of the death of Martin Smith, 56, Jackson, last September.

Judge Charles H. Hayden dismissed a motion to have the murder count reduced. Stuart J. Dunning, Jr., Scott's lawyer, argued that evidence presented at the justice court examination of Scott did not indicate premeditation or willful desire to take life. Dunning insisted that the lower court magistrate exceeded his authority in binding Scott over for trial on the murder charge.

Murder charges against Scott stemmed from the findings of a coroner's jury last September 15. The jury found that Smith died as a result of the wrongful acts of Scott, from blows inflicted by Scott or from a fall during an attack.

Smith, a Jackson roofing contractor and former Michigan Central railroad engineer, was picked up in Leslie on a drunk charge following an Elks clambake. After being lodged in jail, Smith and Scott traded hard words and those words finally led to an assault, according to testimony presented to the coroner's jury. Smith died 48 hours later in a Lansing hospital.

State Kiwanis Leaders Hail Mason's Key Club

Robert Cray of Jackson, governor of Michigan district of Kiwanis, and Cecil C. Bruton of Detroit, immediate past governor, greeted Mason's Key club Tuesday night. Also participating in the ceremonies were Frank O. Stalger of Port Huron, secretary of the Michigan district of Kiwanis, and Ernest Hunt of Mason, past lieutenant-governor.

Key clubs are not a recruiting apparatus for the Kiwanis club, the charter members of the new Mason club and many of their parents were told. It is designed to serve the school much like a service club serves the community. It is a move to emphasize the fact that schools should develop leadership and citizenship, Kiwanians said.

A dinner preceded the presentation of the charter. The meeting was in the Odd Fellow hall, Rebekahs serving, the dinner. Glen Dunn, president of the Mason Kiwanis club, presided. Rev. Paul L. Arnold giving the invocation and Straiger leading group singing. Howard McCowan was toastmaster. Joe Dean sang. Joe Roe said the benediction.

Governor Cray brought greetings to the new Mason club from Kiwanis International. Bruton and Principal Richard Demlow of the Mason school made short talks.

Stalger and C. L. (Duke) Holmes of Detroit installed officers of the new club—Norman Austin as president, Terry Hunt as vice-president, John Linden as secretary and Harlan Whipple as treasurer. Harry Cairns is the faculty advisor and Frank Guerrero the Kiwanis sponsor.

A father and son combination handled the presentation and acceptance of gifts. The father, Ernest Hunt, presented to his son Terry a stand of colors, a gavel and a song for the new club. Kenneth Bailey of Fenton, governor of the Michigan district of Key clubs, presented the new club's charter to Austin, president.

Jack Davis, chairman of the Key club committee for the Kiwanis club, and Cairns presented the 37 charter members of the new school organization. Besides the 4 officers, Austin, Hunt, Linden and Whipple, they are Kenneth Bateman, Gary Caltrider, Dale Caswell, Duane Clark, Tom Clippner, Harry Cross, Daniel Cummings, Larry Dent, Bill Diamond, Lyle Foss, Michael Holbrook, John Howlett, Kenneth LoVette, Pete LoVette, Jerry Lumianski, Leigh Lyon, Ted Lyon, Dennis McKenzie, Al Mollsen, Bill Porter, David Robbins, Joe Roe, Charles Roggsw, Dick Selbert, Joe Stid, Russell Strouse, Forest Swift, Allen Tomlinson, John Tworck, Barry Wentland, Dick Wheeler, Dennis Whipple and Henry Willis.

Complete figures for the balance of the county will be made available soon, Mrs. Ferraby said. On behalf of all the workers in the annual campaign, Mrs. Ferraby extended her thanks to the public for their response.

"I want to add my personal thanks to the women who organized and conducted the Mothers' March," said Mrs. Ferraby. "Despite the cold weather, the march was staged as planned. In Mason the men and women who contributed to the patrons' fund gave a big boost to the fight against polio."

Bids Are Sought For New School

Contractors are being invited to bid on the construction of Mason's east side elementary school March 2. Three separate bids will be taken: (1) general construction, (2) plumbing, heating and ventilating, and (3) electrical.

Stapert-Pratt-Bulthuis & Sprau, Inc., Kalamazoo, are the architects.

George Sprau of the firm of architects has arranged a meeting with the Mason school board next Wednesday night to check the plans and specifications. The board gave its approval to the plans following a public meeting held at the school Wednesday night last week.

The school district has money on hand in sight for construction of the new school without having to bond the district.

Supervisors Meet Tuesday

Supervisors will meet in Mason Tuesday for their regular February meeting.

One-Day Drive Nets $82,624 For Methodists

Their faith rewarded, Mason Methodists are exulting over the success of their fund drive Sunday. They set out on their canvass with their imaginations stretched to $75,000. Before the day was over the total stood at $82,624. An estimated $15,000 has been reported since, and when returns are in from members who live elsewhere or are visiting elsewhere the total is expected to reach $100,000, church officials said.

The $75,000 set as a goal was only for the building unfurnished and without equipment. Even if the total exceeds $100,000 all of it will be put to good use, contributors were assured.

Dr. Alexander Stewart, who came on from Washington to help organize the campaign, expressed amazement over the results of the canvass. He returned to Washington Monday.

Rev. Raymond L. Norton, pastor of the church, voiced his appreciation of the work done by all who participated in the campaign. While the canvass itself was completed in a day, and solicitation of others within a few days, many hours were spent in planning, the pastor pointed out. He and other church officials expressed themselves as pleased not only with the total pledged but with the counsel and leadership provided by Dr. Stewart.

For the services of Dr. Stewart the local church paid $450 to the Methodist Board of Missions plus $256 for his expenses.

"Thirty-six 2-member teams did the canvassing. The largest pledge made was $1,500, the smallest $5, with all pledges spread over a period of 150 weeks."

"Enthusiasm and joy over the success of the fund campaign are not based solely on the number of pledges and the amount of money," remarked the pastor. "The impact upon the church will likely prove far more valuable than the money itself. We launched a big undertaking. We all declared we were willing to sacrifice to attain our goal. Yes, the church has gained far more than a new building."

The total came from 252 individual or family pledges. Rex Stribley was chairman of the canvass. William W. Dart was training chairman. Arthur F. Zickgraf was team chairman. Team captains were Elmer Schofield, Glen Coon, Frank Nethaway and Ray Perkins.

At a meeting next Tuesday night a committee of 3 will be chosen to work with an architect on the new building, which will be erected on the north side of the present building which has served the church for 88 years. For preliminary sketches the church consulted the officially designated Methodist Board architect in Billings, Montana. The committee, however, will be at liberty to engage any architect, according to church officials.

If half of the money pledged is made available before fall, construction will probably be started next fall, said Rev. Norton. Methodist church law requires that at least half of pledged funds be made available before contracts are let.

The present structure will continue in use when the new building is completed. The new building will include a sanctuary, with the old building to be used for Sunday school classrooms, offices and other purposes.

Tentative plans for the new building call for erection parallel to the alley, extending east on the north side of the present church back of the parsonage.

O. E. S. fish supper will be served at Masonic Temple, Mason, Friday night from 5:30 on. 5w1p

Blackhawk Win Surprises Haslett

Six Ingham County league teams saw action Tuesday night. Okemos swamped Fowlerville 80-45, Williamston edged Dansville 41-33 and Leslie upset Haslett 78-66.

Okemos came up with 32 points in the first quarter to demoralize the winless Gladiators. From there on it was a breeze for the Chiefs. Twelve Okemos players broke into the scoring column. Harold Redman was high with 14 points.

For the Gladiators Roger Dye continued to hit in the 20's—this time it was 23 points.

Over at Dansville the aggies dropped the second game in a row on their new floor. Williamston moved out in front in the first half and then spent the last half trying to hold off the Aggies.

Leslie pulled the upset of the night. The Blackhaws never looked better as they completely outplayed the Lakers.

Denny O'Dowd, Leslie center, was responsible for the win. He cleared the board almost every time. In addition he hit for 29 points with his tip-in shots. Bill Steinback hit for 20 to pace the Lakers attack. Leslie outscored the Lakers in every quarter except the final one.

Tests Change for Driver's License

New questions calling for new answers became effective Tuesday at examining offices for drivers' licenses. For new licenses applicants have 100 questions for which they must write answers.

Applicants for renewed licenses do not have to take the written tests. They must without exception take the reading tests and those for color-blindness.

According to Harry Willett, examiner at Mason, the new tests take the average applicant from 20 to 25 minutes to write. The old test questions were usually answered in from 5 to 10 minutes, Willett said.

Willett suggested that drivers obtain pamphlets at his office and study the rules and regulations before applying for new licenses or for renewals. He also stated that all applicants for beginners' licenses must present birth certificates with their applications.

Cooperative Nursery Plans New Educational Activities

Mason Cooperative Nursery located in the playrooms of the Presbyterian church has been filling out its pre-school educational program with several new specialized activities, said Mrs. Stanley Knopf, the group's teacher.

Recently Mrs. Knopf took the children to the local postoffice where the mechanics of the postal system were explained. They saw the bags of mail being stuffed and the letters stamped and weighed. They were intrigued by the multitude of piggy banks into which mail is sorted and stored.

Last week the older group, ages 3 1/2 and up, made a playhouse of 3 large cartons in their nursery room. They cut doors and windows and Mrs. Knopf braced it with wooden slats bolted together. A coat of bright water paint was the finishing touch. Mrs. Knopf said the paper structure held together for 4 days withstanding plenty of burrowing and pummeling from the children, and that at one time 9 youngsters had crowded inside it.

It is planned that for Valentine's Day the children will make their own cookies the same as they did at Christmas time. Mrs. Knopf plans to take a large carton of baby chicks for the children to observe as pets.

Detroit Man Presents Charter

Among Michigan Kiwanis officials in Mason Tuesday night at the presentation of the charter to Mason's new Key club was Cecil C. Bruton of Detroit. He was governor of Michigan Kiwanis last year, and under his administration the Key club was organized. Mason was the 17th Key club chartered in Michigan, Bruton said. He urged parents and teachers to work with the boys in their projects at school.

Present at the charter presentation were representatives from the Lansing Everett Key club and boys from Holt and Haslett interested in forming organizations in their schools.

Bruton heads a Detroit real estate broker firm. He is president of the Metropolitan Federal Savings & Loan association and is a past officer of the Detroit Council of Churches.

Red Cross Offers Safety Training

Water safety training leading to an instructor's rating will be offered without charge through the Ingham county Red Cross chapter, said Charles McCaffrey, Jr., volunteer chairman of the water safety committee.

This training is invaluable for summer camp workers, swimming pool directors, youth and recreation leaders, McCaffrey said, adding that a Red Cross water safety instructor certificate is usually a prerequisite for employment.

Strong swimmers over 19 years of age with senior life saving certificates or lapsed water safety instructor cards may call Mrs. Harriett Young, secretary of Red Cross safety services at 47461 for details on this course of instruction since a class will be formed shortly. Both men and women may join the class.

Sawdust Fuel Is Not New

While use of sawdust as fuel is comparatively new, Roy Adams used it successfully during coal shortages over the last 10 years, he said. The Mason man used it mixed half and half with stoker coal, he said.

Death Claims Community Leader

In the passing of Mrs. Sadie N. Ketchum, 75, at the Mason General hospital Sunday night, Mason lost a woman long prominent. Before she fell sick 2 years ago she was a leader in the Methodist church and in extension work, and for 50 years she was in business. She was a daughter of Albert L. and Jennie Smith Vandercook. The father during his long life was in business in Mason.

For 25 years Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum were railway express agents at Mason. They operated a paint and wallpaper store on Jefferson, in the location now used by Shafer Decorating Supply. Prior to that they had stores carrying books and china, and also operated a music store.

Mrs. Ketchum was the first chairman of the county extension organization. She served as chairman for 8 years. She was a member of the Alameda extension club and was long active in the Pink Community club. She was a life member of the Order of the Eastern Star. Since childhood, Mrs. Ketchum had been a member of the Methodist church. For 50 years she taught Sunday school and for 25 years she was church organist.

Born in Mason December 20, 1879, Mrs. Ketchum lived here all her life. She and her husband were married 53 years ago. For 40 years they had made their home at 3011 West Columbia, just west of the Mason city limits.

Surviving Mrs. Ketchum are the husband, Walter B.; a daughter, Miss Lucille Ketchum, specialist on the extension staff at Michigan State college; and 2 brothers, Col. Roy Vandercook of East Lansing and Dell C. Vandercook, New Haven, Conn.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Ball-Dunn funeral home in Mason with burial in Maple Grove. Rev. Raymond L. Norton of the Methodist church officiated. Six members of the Methodist church, Glen Coon, William F. Dart, Ray Perkins, Arthur Zickgraf, Joe Dean and W. O. Hall, were pallbearers.

Dairy Specialist Is Heart Victim

A. C. Baltzer, 60, extension dairyman at Michigan State college for 34 years, died of a heart attack Tuesday morning at his home in East Lansing. He was widely known throughout Michigan, especially so in Ingham county where he had attended many meetings. He was one of the leaders in organizing the Michigan Artificial Breeders co-operative and was secretary-treasurer. He led in the formation of dairy herd improvement associations and was credited with bringing Danish Red cattle into Michigan.

Baltzer had not been feeling well for several days and had consulted a doctor. The dairy specialist thought he had an attack of indigestion. It proved to be a heart attack.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Estes-Leady funeral home in Lansing Friday afternoon at one o'clock.

Service Council to Meet

Members of the Ingham County Service Council have scheduled a meeting to be held Friday noon at Hall Memorial library, Mason. Jack Zahn of the Lansing Y. M. C. A. will have charge of the program. The organization is made up of health and child welfare agencies.

Mrs. Jennie Rhodes Passes Following Extended Illness

At her home, 404 East Oak, last Thursday night Mrs. Jennie E. Rhodes, 84, died. She had been sick for 2 years, confined to her home since Thanksgiving.

For 35 years Mrs. Rhodes had lived in Mason. Until 2 years ago she was active in the Presbyterian church and its Women's Association and in the Order of the Eastern Star. She was a life member of that organization.

Born February 25, 1870, in Elmira, New York, the daughter of George and Mary Piper, she came with her parents to Chesaning as a child. She grew up there, graduating from Chesaning high school. Sixty-two years ago she married William S. Rhodes at Chesaning. He died 6 years ago.

From Chesaning Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes went to Jackson where the husband was employed by the Borden company. Later they went to Sandusky and in 1920 came to Mason where Mr. Rhodes became superintendent of Laboratory Products Co., now Wyeth Laboratories Incorporated.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes had one son, H. K. (Dusty) Rhodes. He died June 2, 1940. His wife, now Mrs. Sidney Shaffer, remained a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, even after her remarriage. Two years ago she took over the care of her former mother-in-law, spending most of her time at Mason, her husband joining her here on week ends.

Besides the former daughter-in-law whom both Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes cherished as a daughter, Mrs. Rhodes is survived by 2 nephews, Harry Church of Corpus Christie, Texas, and Clarence Church of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Services were conducted at Ball-Dunn funeral home Monday afternoon by Rev. Paul L. Arnold of the Presbyterian church. Burial was in the Corona cemetery. Arthur F. Zickgraf, D. C. Dart, Harold L. Barnhill, Erie Spenny, Jack Davis and Morea Camp were pallbearers.

Michigan Bell's School Taxes Reached $7,235,000 in 1954

Michigan Bell Telephone company's payment to the state primary school fund was the largest in the company's history and Michigan Bell remained the largest single contributor in 1954.

The amount was $7,235,000 in state property taxes. Michigan Bell, in common with railroads, Pullman, railway express, telegraph and other telephone companies, pays such a tax earmarked for the primary fund in lieu of other property taxes.

Schools throughout Ingham county, said Russell H. Engelhardt, Michigan Bell district manager, received a total of $183,714 from the company in 1954. Payments were based on a school census of 42,233 in the county. Divided by the state school census of 1,694,726, based on 1953 figures, the tax amounted to $4.35 for each youngster in the state between the ages of 5 and 19.

The Mason school district received $6,033 from Michigan Bell, based on 1,387 children.

Contributions on the $4.35 basis to other Ingham schools were projected as follows: Holt, $5,540 on 1,274; Dansville, $2,288 on 526; Okemos, $4,620 on 1,060; Leslie, $2,810 on 646; and Stockbridge, $8,004 on 1,840.

Farm Bureau and Supervisors Oppose Highway Bond Issue

The Michigan Farm Bureau and the State Association of Supervisors are on record this week as opposed to Governor Williams' proposed 500-million-dollar highway bond issue. Both groups took a stand for a pay-as-you-go policy in highway construction.

The Farm Bureau pointed out in its statement on the matter that a study of needs of all highways, roads and streets of the state is now underway.

"The full report of the legislative committee heading this study will be made by September 15, 1955," the Bureau report set forth. "In view of this, we strongly feel that no far-flung and drastic changes in Michigan's highway program and financing should be undertaken at the present time."

The study of Michigan's highways, roads and streets was started last August. It is being conducted by the Automatic Safety Foundation, in conjunction with the Michigan state highway department, Michigan Municipal League, County Road Association of Michigan and the Michigan Good Roads Federation. Approximately 300 engineers are working on the overall needs study.

The State Association of Supervisors urged a 2c a gallon hike in gasoline taxes to finance a pay-as-you-go highway program.

Previously to the stand of the Michigan Farm Bureau and State Association of Supervisors, other groups urged caution on the bond issue until all facts were known. Among these were the Michigan Good Roads Federation, the Michigan Municipal League, and the County Road Association of Michigan.

Justices May Serve as Coroners, Too

In last week's Ingham County News appeared an editorial on "The Job of Coroner," pointing out some facts about the office and its duties that are not usually known to the public. In this connection it might be instructive to quote briefly from Chapter 13 of the Michigan Code for Criminal Procedure, entitled "Proceedings for the Discovery of Crime."

Section 1, indexed as Section 773.1 in the "Compiled Laws of 1948," reads: "Justices of the peace shall... take inquests upon the view of the dead bodies of such persons as shall have come to their death suddenly, or by violence, and of such persons as shall have died in prison."

Section 2 details the duty and power of the justice to summon a jury of 6 men for an inquest upon the petition of 5 citizens, or the written request of the prosecuting attorney or the attorney general.

Section 3 prescribes the oath of the jurors; section 4 provides for subpoenaing witnesses, including a surgeon or chemist, also the witness' compensation. Section 5 gives the witness' oath; section 6 provides that in cases of supposed murder or manslaughter all testimony shall be reduced to writing and signed by the witnesses.

Sections 7 and 8 provide that the jury shall find and certify when, in what manner and by what means the deceased came to his death, his name if known, all material circumstances attending his death; and if it appears that he came to his death by unlawful means the jury shall state who, if known, was guilty, either as principal or accessory, or was in any manner the cause of his death. If the jury finds that a murder, manslaughter or assault was committed upon the deceased, the justice of the peace shall return to the circuit court the inquisition, written evidence and examinations taken by him. (Sec. 9.)

In section 10 the justice is empowered to issue a warrant for any person charged with unlawfully causing the death of the deceased. Section 11 authorizes the justice to provide for the burial of strangers, and to charge the cost of burial and of the inquest to the county of which the deceased was a resident, or to the state of Michigan in the case of outstate residents.

After all these details about the powers, duties and procedure of the Justice of the Peace in holding inquests, in section 12, as an evident afterthought, the coroner is finally dragged in: "Any coroner shall have power to hold inquests anywhere within the county for which he shall be elected... all provisions of law relating to holding of inquests by justices of the peace are hereby made applicable to inquests so held by coroners; all powers... conferred upon justices of the peace relative to such inquests are hereby conferred upon coroners."

The Justice of the peace cannot hold an inquest in the city where the coroner's office is located unless both coroners are absent or incapacitated.

Claims Committee Uninformed

The Ingham County Republican committee is either totally dishonest, totally uninformed, or totally discouraged about the future, if we judge by its advertisement in your issue of January 27.

The ad, which talked about "Pay Boosts of $6000," would have the reader believe that Governor Williams recommended pay increases for the offices of governor, the "cabinet members," and others were to go to the present Democratic holders of those offices.

Article XVI, Section 3 of Michigan's Constitution expressly provides that "salaries of public officers, except circuit judges, shall not be increased, nor shall the salary of any public officer be decreased, after election or appointment."

Governor Williams' recommendation recognized this and asked that the increase apply to officials elected in the future. (The only immediate beneficiary would be the superintendent of public instruction, now a Republican, if he survives the April 4 election.) So I say that the Republican committee is at least totally uninformed. It may not be totally dishonest, but I wonder why the county chairman's name was omitted from this ad?

Or is the Republican committee sadly admitting now that the Democratic governor and administrative board will be re-elected in 1956, and expressing the opinion that it doesn't want to see them get an increase for 1957-58?

I hope that the Republican committee will give us an answer—or an apology!

THOMAS C. WALSH

Emotions Are Mixed

I found myself with mixed emotions after the paid political advertisement placed by the Ingham county Republican committee was brought to my attention. I have been constantly appraised of the advice "never underestimate the stupidity of the Republican party" but the handling of that ad must be more than stupidity.

It indicates a complete lack of faith in the basic intelligence of the people of this county. It ignores material presented in grade school civics class.

I can make only 2 final analyses of the ad. Either the Republican party is admitting defeat in 1956 or it is so frightened that it will stoop to any lie, any misfact or any trick as a last desperate means of preventing new leadership from revitalizing the Republican party whose history is one of being dragged kicking and screaming into the second half of the 20th century.

I believe it is the duty of the Ingham County News to editorially point out that no governor can give himself a pay raise. The constitution of the state of Michigan prohibits elected office holders from receiving salary boosts while in office.

The governor's recommendation may go into effect in 1956 and if the Republicans continue with their present methods, I believe the people will give that raise to another Democrat.

for Schmidt's Dept. Store

Last week just before turning over the keys to his department store to a new owner, Lange Schmidt had several pairs of shoes to sell. He inserted a third-page advertisement in the Ingham County News, offering quality merchandise at good prices.

It was a winning combination. Friday morning the crowds started coming. By Saturday morning eager customers so jammed the shoe department, that the doors were closed in order to wait on them. Customers stood in line outside the store. More than 500 pairs of shoes were sold during the 2-day sale. Schmidt wanted to sell shoes. An ad in the Ingham County News did the trick.

Mason Methodist Church Schedules Missionary Film

"Angel in Ebony," now missionary emphasis film, will be presented by Rev. and Mrs. Dave Le Shanna, representing Taylor University of Upland, Indiana, at the Mason Methodist church on Wednesday, February 16, at 8:00.

This film was produced by Missions Visualized, Inc., for Taylor University. It presents the true story of an African prince whose simple faith has been an influence to many Christians.

Rev. Le Shanna came to Taylor University in 1949 from his home in India where his parents had been missionaries for 21 years. During the summer of 1950 he toured Europe with a group of young people in the Youth for Christ organization. While at Taylor he was a student pastor, served as chairman of the annual youth conference and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Mrs. Le Shanna plays the piano, sings and uses the flannograph materials.

Taylor University is an independent, interdenominational liberal arts college, fully accredited by the North Central association. Graduates have gone from this 107-year-old institution into all parts of the United States and many foreign countries in service of the church and society in a variety of occupations.

From the jungles of Africa Prince Kaboo came into contact with a missionary who instructed him in the Bible and gave him a new name, Samuel Morris. Churches Plan World-Wide Fund Campaign

Setting their sights at a record-high target, major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches of America are asking $9,500,000 in cash for 1955 programs of relief and reconstruction in overseas areas of need.

This year's $9,500,000 goal of the denominations represents an increase of approximately $1,500,000 over that of 1954.

Highlight of the 1955 united appeal will be the "One Great Hour of Sharing" observances on Sunday, March 20, with special services in thousands of American churches, at which special relief offerings will be made. A major portion of the funds necessary for this year's overseas program will be raised at these observances. This will be the seventh annual cooperative effort of the churches working together in ministry to human misery and despair in areas of need abroad.

When Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him. (Luke 8:40.) Read Luke 8:37-40.

For nearly two thousand years Christians everywhere have prayed daily, "Thy kingdom come." It has been their mainstay and their most cherished hope. Yet it has not come.

Yet, as early as in John the Baptist's day the kingdom of God was at hand. Did not John say so?

What, then, is the mystery of the kingdom of God? Christ said, "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation," but "the kingdom of God is within you." Ever since the days of John the Baptist, many persons have misunderstood the phrase, "at hand" to mean, "to come soon." They overlooked the one necessary condition — which was and still is necessary — repent, and believe the gospel. The kingdom was within them; that is, within their reach. In this sense it was "at hand." But they were not waiting for the Christ, not willing to receive Him.

In our day the kingdom comes to you and me if we repent of our sins and believe in the truth of the gospel and in Christ as our personal Saviour.

PRAYER Our Father, we thank Thee that the kingdom is within us — within our will, within our reach, at hand. This day grant us faith to accept Christ as our Saviour and Thy gift of the kingdom. We pray in the blessed Saviour's name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY "The kingdom of heaven is at hand." — Max Zalcman (Israel)

Couple Speaks Vows in Hastings Church

The First Baptist church at Hastings was the scene of a pretty winter wedding when Miss Barbara Bunker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur K. Bunker, of Hastings, became the bride of Clayton C. Swift, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair R. Swift of Mason. Rev. Russell Houseman, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony at 8 p. m. Monday, January 17.

Altar decorations consisted of basket arrangements of yellow and white chrysanthemums, evergreens and lighted candelabra. Ray DeVries of Chicago played traditional wedding selections on the organ prior to the ceremony. He accompanied Miss Barbara M. Brown of Kalamazoo, roommate of the bride at Bronson school of nursing, Kalamazoo, as she sang "Christian Wedding Song" and "Have Thine Own Way, Lord."

Father Gives Bride Away

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of satin and Chantilly lace styled with a nylon yoke and hoop skirt. Long sleeves extending to points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of French illusion bordered with silk Chantilly lace was held in place by a pearl tiara. She carried a white Bible topped with 2 yellow orchids, a shower of satin streamers and white hyacinth blossoms.

For her duties as maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Ardis E. Bunker, wore a powder blue floor-length gown of nylon tulle over taffeta topped with a fitted lace jacket. Her matching head-dress of nylon tulle featured white mums at each side. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow mums and white carnations with a yellow bow and streamers.

Miss Joyce Steenwyk and Miss Janet Conklin of Hastings, friends of the bride, served as bridesmaids in identical gowns of pink and Nile green nylon tulle fashioned similar to the maid of honor's. They wore matching headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of yellow mums and white carnations. Nancy Buehler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Buehler of Hastings, was flower girl in a pale yellow dress with matching headpiece. She carried a small bouquet.

Paul Swift of Mason, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Jim Swift of Lansing, cousin of the bridegroom, and Jack Collins of Hastings. Douglas Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Smith, acted as ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bunker chose a navy blue crepe dress with pink lace inserts and pink accessories. Mrs. Swift wore an aqua 2-piece butcher linen dress with which she wore black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

Farm Kitchen Demonstration Shows How to Save Money

Bread baking 100 years ago may have resulted in some mighty good eating, but it took a lot of effort on the part of mother.

A comparison of how this kitchen procedure has changed through the past 100 years will be the theme of the exhibit prepared by the foods and nutrition department at Michigan State. Michigan women will see it when they visit Farmers' Week, February 7-11.

Besides food exhibits in the home economics building, homemakers will be able to visit the equipment labs in the home management houses where they will see many types of energy saving furniture. These range from posture chairs to sit-down ironing boards.

Farmers' Week visitors at Michigan State college can also see a complete modern kitchen in action in the agricultural engineering building. The kitchen is equipped with built-in and deluxe appliances such as ranges, refrigerators, freezer, dishwasher, water heater, air conditioners and cabinets.

The kitchen is housed in a 32 foot trailer and is the first appearance of the 1955 equipment. Simple cooking and laundry demonstrations will be given along with coffee and donuts.

Another exhibit of interest to women at the Centennial Farmers' Week will be the demonstration of finishing techniques on wooden footstools which will be made in a model woodshop. These stools will be sponsored by the forest products department and will be in the east side of the stadium.

Ingham County Federation Studies Raising of Horizons for Reading

At the meeting of the Ingham County Federation of Women's clubs in Lansing Wednesday of last week, reading habits were discussed. Much of the discussion concerned the impact of so-called comics upon the young.

A panel discussion, "New Horizons for Better Reading Habits," was conducted. Frederick Tripp, former Lansing alderman and supervisor, now administrative aide to Governor G. Mennen Williams, was moderator. Mrs. Frank Landers, Lansing mother and club leader; Clarence Rosa, Lansing, P. T. A. Council; Norman J. Bunker, Mason, county librarian; Mrs. Charles Mosher, principal of Kalamazoo street school in Lansing; Mrs. Frederick Bell, Lansing psychologist; and Mrs. Dianne Poxson, Lansing alderman, participated.

Mrs. Landers led off the discussion with the declaration that clubs and P. T. A. units are beginning to be heard in their clamor for a law against comics. If the groups would band together to alert parents to the danger, the situation might immediately improve, she said.

According to Rosa, 20,000,000 comic books are sold in Ingham county every month, among them many that are extremely instructive in the techniques of delinquency and criminality.

"These books are readily available to our children," said Rosa. "As parents we must be familiar with what our children are reading. A child's continued interest in comics is symptomatic of his need for parental guidance or for professional therapy."

Bunker, the county librarian, declared that some parents use comics as whipping posts in an effort to shrug off their own responsibilities. With the help of schools and public libraries, Bunker said, comic books can be defeated without imposing censorship.

"Comic books," Bunker explained, "have an initial advantage over better reading because they are cheaper and are widely distributed. Public libraries, circulating the greatly improved children's books being published today, can show up comics for the shoddy things they are. To do this, libraries would have to have a great deal more support than they now have, and would have to have the backing of all parents and teachers."

"It is the responsibility of every parent to supervise the reading done by their children," said Mrs. Mosher. "If comic books make up the children's diet, parents should force a transition by providing easy-reading books of humor from school or public libraries."

According to Mrs. Bell, horror and crime comics often stir up considerable anxiety in children who are overly controlled, and fearful of their own hostile and aggressive impulses.

Mrs. Poxson said, "The parent is the one who has the first responsibility for a child's reading habits. Schools and libraries are doing those parts well, but their programs fail when parents do not exclude objectionable comics at home. It is just as important that the parents replace comics with good books."

In summing up the discussion, Tripp declared that comic books are only a small contributing factor in juvenile delinquency. The first defense against comics, he added, is in the love and understanding that only a parent can provide for a child.

Mrs. Glenn Carpenter, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Walter Strange of the EOTC club of Leslie led the devotions, the theme being "Faith, Hope and Charity," stressing faith in fellowman and country, hope for the betterment of mankind, welfare of the country and ceasing warfare, and charity for all.

Mrs. Charles Parkhurst reported on the S. E. district convention held in Ypsilanti October 12 and 13, followed by a detailed report on the activities of the country library given by Mrs. Robert Farley of the EOTC club of Leslie. She told of the need for more room at the county library and discussed plans for moving it. She also explained the need for another Bookmobile.

Mrs. John S. Bersey reported on the county activities as co-sponsors of the play "My Name Is Legion" and told of the plans as presented by the state chairman, Mrs. John Bird.

The activities of the Ingham County Rehabilitation Center were given by Mrs. James L. Mitchell. She stated that her committee is sponsoring a hat and hair styling benefit in the ballroom of the women's clubhouse March 2. The proceeds will be used to purchase a hot pack for the therapy department at the Center.

Mrs. W. J. Baumgras presented a memorial and tribute to the late Mrs. H. L. Reed, county parliamentarian since 1925.

Mrs. G. E. Carpenter was elected delegate to the Michigan State Federation of Women's Club convention in Detroit, March 30 to April 1. Mrs. Earl Segar is alternate.

Hostess to the convention was the Woman's Clubhouse association. Mrs. Robert Angell, president, welcomed the presidents, delegates and visitors from the 26 clubs. Serving on her committee were: Mrs. Gerald Eddy, Mrs. Jake Burnham, Mrs. A. G. Duge, Mrs. A. E. Seyfried, Mrs. G. D. Abbott, Mrs. Gertrude Wing, Mrs. Fred Nichols and Mrs. J. D. DeHann.

Mrs. L. E. Severance and Mrs. J. C. McDougall, in charge of registration, reported 88 present. A bohemian luncheon was served at 12:30 with decorations in the Valentine theme. Mrs. James Howlett, of the Stockbridge club, gave the invocation.

Following the luncheon the Sexton high school girls trio sang "Stay As Sweet As You Are," "Winter," "For You" and "Muskrat Ramble."

The meeting closed with members repeating the club collect.

MSC Instructor Advises on Small Home Furnishings

Women seem to be concerned about furnishing their small homes so that they'll not look so cluttered. Mrs. Helen Evans at Michigan State college offers some concrete suggestions to those homemakers.

Creating an illusion of space in the small homes of today is a major problem and challenge to homemakers. Here are some ideas on what can be done by selecting the right kind of furniture and home furnishings.

Draperies extending from floor to ceiling give the illusion of vertical space, adding height to a room. In a small room we need to create a feeling of horizontal space. Therefore, horizontal draperies such as cafe curtains or sill length curtains are effective. You can also create a feeling of spaciousness by treating 2 windows near each other as one large unit instead of draping them separately. Drapes that blend with wall colorings are good especially if that color is light and grayed. Carpets extended from wall to wall seem to add space.

One center of interest in a room rather than many creates more space by not challenging the eyes so many times. Use fewer pictures for less "busy-ness." Patterns in rug, wallpaper and curtains give a restless quality—not of spaciousness. For example—the Japanese capitalize on the absence of confusion of pattern. Regardless of how small their room, it seems spacious. A subtle control of pattern, a predominance of horizontal line, movement of horizontal line, movement of vertical line, a single center of interest, perhaps just a vase of flowers, a few scatter pillows on the floor—allow restfulness and spaciousness to prevail.

A feeling of space can actually be accomplished by furniture shapes. Furniture which is low and horizontal in movement creates a space-giving quality. Furniture which is the same height creates a rhythmic flow of line which is easy for the eye to follow. This is quite different from the zig-zag formed by furniture of different heights. In that case, the eye has to travel up and down to get a visual image.

Ease of vision and rhythmic flow of line has the effect of space creation. Arrangement of the furniture, furniture that can be used for many purposes and storage areas also come into the picture when it comes to furnishing and living in these small homes.

Fresh Foods Are Abundant. Have you noticed the abundant supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables in the market at this time of the year? The green leafy vegetables seem to be of especially good quality and at reasonable prices. These are vegetables that are being shipped in from Florida, Texas and California. Besides head lettuce there are enough "greens" to add variety to winter meals. Escarole, cabbage, leaf lettuce, endive, spinach, celery cabbage and broccoli are all in good supply. Not only will a fresh green salad perk up your meals but they also are invaluable as sources of those precious vitamins and minerals.

Remember that any food whose natural color is yellow or green, shows high vitamin A quantity. Aid Society Serves Potluck. A truly delicious potluck meal was served by the women of the Lee-Meech Ladies Aid Society at their regular meeting in the Webberville community building Thursday. The beef roast was perfect and the potatoes mashed till they were fluffy and creamy. The brown gravy was outstanding. When asked how they were able to make such smooth gravy, they replied that many cooks had had a hand in it. The thickening was added (after the cook's consultation) to a broth that had been boiling but had been subdued

Couple Wed in Mason Presbyterian Church

Miss Darleen Bohnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bohnett of Webberville became the bride of Weldon Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Parker of Webberville in a double-ring ceremony Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Mason Presbyterian church.

Rev. Paul Arnold, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with candelabra and baskets of white gladioli. Miss Sally Story sang "Because." "Oh Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" for the nuptial ceremony. Mrs. Geneva Chadwick played traditional wedding music on the organ and accompanied Miss Story.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of nylon tulle and imported rosepoint hand-clipped and pattern lace over Skinnery satin. Deep scallops formed the wide scoop neckline of the molded bodice. Scallops finished the short sleeves and matching lace mitts, and flowers applied on the bodice were scattered with iridescent sequins. The bouffant skirt of layers of tulle, the top layer of which fanned into a wide chapel train, was trimmed with 3 rows of narrow scalloped lace and applied motifs scattered with sequins.

Her finger-tip veil of imported French illusion was held in place by a matching lace cap with scalloped edges and scattered sequins. She carried a colonial cascade bouquet of white carnations and red roses with English ivy and a shower of white satin ribbons. She approached the altar on the arm of her father.

Twin Is Maid of Honor. Laureen Bohnett was her twin's maid of honor in a floor-length dress of blue net over satin and a matching tiara. She carried a colonial cascade of contrasting colors. Judith Smith and Mary Lou Bohnett, sister of the bride, wore white net over satin for their duties as bridesmaids. They wore matching headresses and carried colonial bouquets of contrasting colors. Sister Peter son, in a frock of blue net over taffeta, acted as flower girl. Gerald Wolverton, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Elroy Glover and Merlino Fulton were ushers. James Bohnett, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a satin pillow.

MR. AND MRS. WELDON PARKER

Mrs. Bohnett chose, for her daughter's wedding, a navy blue dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a powder blue gown and white accessories. Both mothers wore coronas of pink carnations.

Reception Follows Ceremony. A reception in the church dining room followed the ceremony. Sandra Bohnett had charge of the guest register. Shirley Sly presided at the punch bowl and Betty J. Wright and Mrs. Earl Wacker served the wedding cake. Mary Minnis poured the coffee.

Guests attended from Lansing, Howell, Ploverville, Williamston, Webberville, Dansville and Mason. After a short wedding trip, the newlyweds will be at home in Lansing where both are employed. The bride works at Sparrow hospital. She is a graduate of Dansville school. Mr. Parker graduated from Webberville high school and is employed at Demmer Tool and Die Co.

Do-It-Yourself Trend Hits Pepper

The delicate flavor and aroma of freshly-ground peppercorns for seasoning meats, fish, poultry and other foods is now available to consumers at small cost.

Because the true flavor of pepper tends to diminish after it is ground, A & P Food Stores has arranged to distribute an imported pepper mill with a 2-ounce package of Ann Page dried, whole peppercorns. When ground immediately before use, the full flavor and aroma is retained.

Peppercorns are the fruit of a perennial shrub native to India. The shrub is cultivated on the Malay Peninsula, as well as in Sumatra, Java, Ceylon and several other countries. It was one of the first spices used by mankind for hundreds of years in early history was an important article of commerce between India and Europe.

The pepper mills being distributed are attractively finished in natural wood and are imported from Italy.

The Centennial stamp is only the third in the history of U. S. Commemorative stamps honoring a college or university.

Stolz Sets New Scoring Record with 38

Stan Stolz's name went into the record books after Friday night as the hottest scorer ever to play for Mason. He pumped in 38 points Friday as Mason swamped Grand Ledge 71-44.

Stolz shared the Mason scoring record with Jim Kelly up to Friday night with a 30-point mark he hit last year. Kelly hit 30 back in 1950.

The Mason senior hit the record mark with 15 field goals and 8 free throws in 11 tries from the foul line. His point production for the year now stands at 248, an average of 22.5 points for the 11 games so far this year.

Mason's next game is with Everett. The Bulldogs lost out to the Vikings last before Christmas. Everett has come a long way since then and is in the thick of the title race.

Mason could move into the thick of the title race, too, if Everett is a victim instead of a victor Friday night. Holt is way out in front of the pack with a 2-game bulge but there are still 4 games remaining on the Holt schedule and they are all with top-ranked teams.

Everett has a high-scoring outfit built around Dean Look, Frenchy Wilson and Larry Guile. Look pops them in from out on the floor, Wilson is the hotshot under the basket and Guile collects his from the corner.

The Vikings also have some good rebound boys with height. Against this array of talent Coach Vaughn Snook will throw Stolz and Harry Hallenbeck, guards; Art Weirauch, center; and Chuck Merindorf and either Dick Wheeler or John Howlett as forwards. Hallenbeck has played some top-flight ball the past few games. His defensive work has been perfect and he has come through with some points, something he didn't do at the start of the season.

Comets Fold Early Friday night was one of those nights when Mason could do no wrong. The Bulldogs elicited in every phase of the game. In the first quarter the Comets tried to make a game out of it. When the firing stopped Mason was out in front 17-13.

Stolz started to find the range in the second quarter and Mason was on the move. Before the period was over Mason had added 23 more points to its total while Grand Ledge struggled through with 12.

Stolz continued to put the ball through the hoop at a fast clip in the third period. Hallenbeck and Weirauch also added to Mason's scoring punch. The Bulldogs ended up the third quarter with a comfortable 58-36 lead.

In the last quarter Coach Snook cleaned off the bench and still the Bulldogs held the advantage.

Weirauch was second high for Mason with 13 points and Hallenbeck followed him with 10. Grand Ledge showed little scoring spark. The usually productive Bill Brooks led the Comets with 19 points. Gail Shoemaker, another Grand Ledge scoring leader, collected only 9 points. The rest of the Comets proved to be helpless.

Mason was just as good on defense as it was on offense. Time and again the Comets failed to move the ball up the floor and many times Mason jumped in and intercepted Grand Ledge passes.

Mason also took the reserve game from the Comets with a 52-29 victory. Larry Dent, Ron Kast, Jack Hart and the rest of the Mason reserves played their best game against the Comets.

Lakers Run Over Fowlerville 79-59

Haslett is the latest team to dump the Fowlerville Gladiators. The Lakers turned in a 79-59 win Friday night. The Gladiators have not won a game so far this year.

Friday night Haslett will play at Dansville while Fowlerville will try its luck over at Leslie.

The Lakers will be favored to take the Aggies into camp but the new floor plus a stubborn bunch of players may alter the outcome. Dansville almost upset Okemos Friday night. Except for a third-quarter spree by Okemos Dansville completely dominated the play.

Haslett and Fowlerville played even ball in the first and last quarters Friday night. In between Haslett ran up a sizeable margin. As far as point production was concerned the second quarter was the best for the Lakers. Going into the second period tied up at 18-18 Haslett collected 17 and held the Gladiators to 5.

In the third quarter the Lakers dumped in 23 points while Fowlerville picked up 17 tallies. The Lakers managed a one-point scoring advantage in the last quarter.

Roger Dye of Fowlerville ran off with the individual scoring honors. He collected 28 points on 9 field goals and 10 free throws. Ron Ray was the hottest Laker. He piled up a total of 23 points on 8 field goals and 7 free throws. Ken Schaible bagged 16 points.

Dansville Drops Game to Chieftains

Dansville threw a scare into Okemos Friday night before finally bowing to the Chiefs 67-51. It took a fantastic third-period scoring spree which produced 31 points to tip the scales in favor of the Chiefs.

Friday night Haslett moves into the new Dansville gym for its crack at the Aggies. The Lakers have been up and down. They should win in a breeze but probably won't.

Okemos moves over to Stockbridge for the critical game of the Ingham County league season. The Chiefs have to win this one in order to head off the Panthers. Stockbridge has won every game. The Chiefs are in second place with the loss to Stockbridge the only blemish on the record.

If the Chiefs win it will still be a tough battle for them to hang on to a share of the lead with Stockbridge. In the remaining games the Chiefs must meet Haslett and Leslie, a couple of spoilers. Stockbridge has the schedule break. The Panthers wind up the season with weak Fowlerville, Leslie and Dansville.

The first-half honors went to Dansville Friday night. The Aggies ended the first period on top of the Chiefs 13-10. In the second quarter they boosted the lead to 30-25.

The third quarter started out the same way. Dansville added 2 more points to the lead and looked as if it was on its way to an upset when the roof of the beautiful new gym fell in. In 30 seconds of fast shooting the Chiefs pumped in 6 straight field goals to move out in front. Before the period was over the Aggies were down 56-40.

Both teams came up with 11 points in the last quarter.

Garth Richey topped the Okemos scorers with 19 points. John Grettenberger bagged 14 and Jim Cooper accounted for 13.

For the Aggies Junior Kirby was high with 18 points.

Okemos won the reserve game 45-35.

ONE SHOE OFF, ONE SHOE ON—Unlike "my son, John," of the nursery rhyme, Swedish ski jumper Toivo Laufer wasn't caught in bed in this predicament. He lost one ski "shoe" at take-off point of the ski jump at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, landed on one ski and finished the run on his stomach, unhurt. Long-lens movie camera caught this high-point of jump.

Vikings Hang on To Title Chances

Everett held onto its Capital Circuit title hopes Friday night by topping Charlotte 77-64 in the Viking gym.

The Orioles are now just about out of it with one of their poorest seasons in years.

Friday night Mason and Everett will tangle in the Mason gym with Everett having much at stake. The Vikings have won 5 and dropped 2. Mason owns a record of 3 wins and 4 losses.

On paper the Vikings should have an easy time of it but Mason is capable of pulling an upset. The Bulldogs already have pulled the carpet from under Charlotte and Grand Ledge when they were not supposed to do it.

Charlotte and Grand Ledge will take their spite out on each other Friday night over at the Comet gym. Both teams were counted on to fight for the title. The Comets have lost 3 straight and Charlotte has dropped 2 out of the last 3 games played.

Everett jumped out in front of Charlotte Friday night and stayed there. The Vikings piled up a 26-16 lead in the first quarter and increased it to 50-25 by the end of the half.

All through the third period the Vikings maintained their 25-point cushion. In the last quarter Coach Ted Bauer emptied the Viking bench and the Orioles started to cut the lead down a little.

Dean Look topped the Viking scorers with 19 points even though he sat out the last half of the game with 4 personal fouls. Roger Quinn followed Look in the scoring race with 14 points and Frenchy Wilson collected 11 tallies.

For Charlotte Jim Borgman and Tom Dewey topped the scorers. Dewey hit for 19 and Borgman scored 15.

IT'S NOT CREAK-IT—It's cricket they're dressed for, but it wasn't "cricket" to run in these heavyweight wrestlers as crickets in a match at Colombo, Ceylon. To make it a really "wicket" competition, the opposing team was made up entirely of brave, lightweight jockeys.

Last-Half Rally Brings Rams No. 8

Holt picked up its eighth straight Capital Circuit victory over at Eaton Rapids Friday night. The Rams declined the Greyhounds 59-42 with a last-half scoring spree.

Holt leads the pack in the Capital Circuit. The Rams will take on Williamston Friday night in a non-conference tilt and then will move over to Charlotte for a Tuesday game.

The Rams must beat Charlotte, Mason, Everett and Grand Ledge if they are going to keep their state clean. In order to insure themselves of the championship they must certainly have to beat Everett, the only team in a threatening position in the cage race. The Vikings have won 6 and lost 2.

The Rams had a hard time getting started in the Eaton Rapids game. Eaton Rapids and Holt each scored 9 points in a slow first quarter and the Rams moved out in front by only one point at the half. The second half was a different story. The Rams boosted their 28-27 lead to 39-35 in the third period and then went on to collect 20 points in the last quarter.

Holt had to rely on a sick Gary Rodocker to win the game. The lanky scoring ace collected 33 points even though he was down with the flu. Holt was without the services of starters Ken Black and George Albert. Both men were down with the flu.

Wes Whittemore led the Greyhound attack with 14 points.

Kehe's Freshmen Post 2 Victories

As the season progresses Mason's Frosh cage team keeps on improving. This week Coach Ed Kehe's crew picked up another pair of victories. Thursday night Mason slaughtered the Ionia freshmen 62-28 in a game played at Mason. Monday night Mason beat St. Johns 23-13.

Mason's point production again Ionia was tops for the season. It was a team accomplishment, too. Twelve Mason players broke into the scoring column. Tom Clipper took his turn at leading the scorers with 14 points. Larry Wheeler added 9 points and Dennis Whipple collected 8 tallies.

In the St. Johns game it was again Clipper who paced the attack. This time he bagged 20 points on 8 field goals and 4 free throws. Chuck Roggow followed him with 13 points on 5 field goals and 3 free throws.

Monday night Mason will take on Lansing Resurrection over in Lansing. Mason knocked off the Lansing parochials in their last meeting.

Grade School Cagers Have 4 Close Contests

Vern Elliott led his fifth grade Badgers to a 14-8 victory Saturday morning in Mason's school-boy league. The Badgers are in first place with 6 wins and one loss. In the other fifth grade contest the Buckeyes used a 16-10 win over the Wildcats to stay in second place.

In the sixth grade section the Gophers upset the Bollermakers 16-10 to force a first place tie between the 2 teams. Each has won 5 and lost 2.

In the other game the Hoosiers beat the Wolverines 14-11.

Tom Day was high for the Hoosiers with 8 points. Dan Fry paced the Wolverines with 5 tallies.

Bob Forche topped the Gopher attack with 6 points. Tom Heathman collected 4 points for the Bollermakers.

Bowling

Young Men's League Davis Clothing and Ball-Dunn won all 4 points from Court Cafe and Mason Dairy, while Roy Christensen Ford Sales was winning 3 points from Thorburn Lumber & Coal.

Only 2 bowlers were able to hit the pins consistently. Lee Potter had a 203 game in a 520 series and Basil Adams came up with a 511 series.

Team standings are as follows: Davis Clothing 14 Court Cafe 14 Roy Christensen Ford Sales 11 Thorburn Lumber & Coal 8 Ball-Dunn 7 Mason Dairy 6

Jim's Market went farther out in the lead by defeating Rice Chevrolet 3 games. Morse's Restaurant lost ground after dropping 4 points to Wolverine Engineering. George's won 3 points from Ware's drug store and Neely's won 3 points from Wyeth. Cummings Barbers and Drewry's split points and Hilton and Richards took all 4 points from Modern Cleaners.

Sixteen 500 series and 7 200 games were rolled by Jim Inghram, 548; Harry Shultis, 519; LeRoy Lee, 202-525; Bob Inghram, 212-562; Bill Clark, 203-524; Joe Stierle, 528; Austin Williams, 508; Claude Foster, 233-591; Wayne Barker, 204-548; Ken Horn, 532; Don Williams, 525; Dick Lyon, 552; Ralph Swinehart, 212-529; Dick Mills, 515; Dick Nethaway, 552; and George Rusk, 216-572.

Mills Store, Ware's drug store and Wayne Miller Sales each won all 3 points from Kean's, Mason Golf Course and Denmore's IGA. Mason Home Appliance, Christensen's and Drewry's each took 2 points from Mason Cab, McCann Olds and Dart Bank. Christensen's rolled both high game and series with 733 and 2098.

Panthers Squeeze by Hornets To Keep Hold on County Lead

Stockbridge cage followers almost saw their perfect record and the Ingham County basketball title Friday night. The Williamston Hornets almost put the Panthers out of business. Stockbridge finally squeezed through 47-46.

The win, even though it was tainted a little, was the eighth in a row for the Panthers.

The blue chips will be down Friday night over at Stockbridge. The Panthers will entertain second-place Okemos in a fight to the finish. Okemos can grab off a share of the lead if it can win Friday night.

The Panthers won the first encounter over at Okemos. Since then the Chiefs have uncorked a scoring attack that has been mowing the opposition down.

The game will be won on the backboards. Both squads have controlled the boards for a good share of their victories. The Panthers will have a slight height advantage but Okemos has some good jumpers in Garth Richey and John Grettenberger.

Williamston will take time out from Ingham County play to move over to Holt for a non-conference tilt with the Capital Circuit leaders. It will probably be a dark night for the Williamston rollers.

The Hornets caught the usually high-scoring Panthers on an off night. Stockbridge players just couldn't hit. When the first quarter ended Williamston was out in front 11-9. The Panthers managed to come back in the second quarter to take over a 21-18 lead.

In the third period the Panthers picked up 2 more points to add to their lead but had the fight of their lives staying off the Hornets in the last quarter. George Gibbs snuk a frantic shot in the last 5 seconds to pull the Hornets to within one point of the Panthers. Time ran out before the ball could be put in play.

Jim Eckman topped the Hornets scorers with 12 points. Gibbs tallied 11 markers. Terry Ward topped the Panther scorers with 19 points. Denny Collier collected 13.

Spartans Plee 2 at Top

Michigan State has 2 basketball players in the top 12 among Big Ten scorers. They are Al Forrest in eighth place with a 19.5 average, and Julius McCoy in twelfth with an average of 16.2. Robin Freeman of Ohio State leads the list with 33.5 with Don Schlundt clinging to second with 27.3.

Mason's Junior Cagers

Win Games from Comets

Coach Maurice Strati's junior high cagers still keep rolling along. Friday night both the seventh and eighth graders took games from Grand Ledge.

Friday afternoon 2 practice games will be played at the Mason gym. The seventh grade will take on the eighth grade reserves and the seventh grade reserves will tangle with Mason's hot sixth grade team.

Lonnie Day and Jerry Willis were the top men for the seventh graders in their 43-26 conquest of the Grand Ledge cagers. Willis hit for 21 points and Day added 10.

The eighth graders topped the Comet eighth graders 38-25 with Bruce Horton tallying 18 points and Jimmy Hallenbeck dropping

Legislators Plan to Continue 'Temporary Tax' on Business

By ELMER WITTE
Michigan Press Association

Michigan is getting the tax answer it expected weeks and months ago.

Rather than scour for another revenue source, Republicans are ready to extend the life of the business activities tax beyond March 15.

The tax is a story in itself. When adopted and allowed to become law without Governor Williams' signature, tax law authors figured it would bring in $32,000,000 a year and keep the budget balanced.

Last year for the first time since the sales tax diversion plunged state government into red ink, the budget was balanced and the business activities tax was responsible.

Republicans, who forced it through the legislature over Williams' protests, believed they had arrived at a levy which kicked up a minimum of criticism and a maximum revenue.

During the first year, the take was around $28,000,000—a sum still formidable, a budget-balance.

Republicans, who put the March 15, 1955 expiration date on the original bill, figured it would be well to extend the only tax bill in history that had not kicked up a storm of protest.

Senator Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), new chairman of the senate taxation committee, put in a simple bill the first day of the 1955 session. It merely erased the expiration date.

"It's better than looking for a substitute which would collect that kind of money with as little objection," he said.

But, there is still a doubt whether it will be enough for next year, with demands coming in every hour on the hour for more money to run state government.

As an example, W. J. Maxey, state social welfare director, said he would turn in a $5,000,000 deficiency request. Extra costs to maintain dependent children and the needy aged are responsible.

Will there be anything else to add to the tax picture? Said Morris: "I'm not as yet prepared to say what new tax demands, if any, will be made on Michigan citizens."

Republicans and Democrats are at war again in the legislature.

To set an example, Democrats divided up committee assignments on the powerful state administrative board to give 2 holdover Republicans a proportionate representation.

On the 5-member committees, the 2 Republicans got 2 seats and on one 3-member committee, one assignment. That was the pattern

February 3, 1955

Democrats hoped would carry over in the legislature.

So, Republicans in the senate rebelled. After a day of bickering in a secret session, the Republican majority on the committee on committees, rejected the Democratic plea for a proportionate share of the seats.

As it now stands, Democrats have much less a membership on committees than their proportionate membership. Republicans say they're just following the Democratic policy when they had the majority in 1937.

Michigan's aged will get a break this year, if all goes well in the legislature.

Those receiving the $70 a month maximum in old age assistance will get $80 and those requiring medical care $90 if recommendations of the social welfare commission are heeded.

The commission made the proposal because rents and medical costs were increasing. Strangely, the cost of food is remaining constant.

Senator Harry F. Hittle (R-Lansing) introduced the bill. Then came Senator Philip Rahol (D-Iron Mountain) with a proposal to increase both phases of the program to $90 a month.

Hittle followed up with a bill to repeal the lien law, which empowers the state to reclaim welfare money from the estate of the recipient after his death.

Col. Barr Gains New Assignment

Col. Marshall D. Barr, former administrative officer for the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories at Fort Monmouth, N. J., has been named to the headquarters command post for the post. The newly established position went into effect February 1.

The change was ordered by Maj. Gen. Victor A. Conrad, senior commander of the post, after studies revealed that bringing several activities together under one head would make them more effective in performing support to the mission of the Signal Corps Center.

To operate as a special staff section of post headquarters, responsibilities of the headquarters commandant will include duties on all housing and billeting, property, custodial matters, as well as the operation of the officers field ration messes.

Other command functions include liaison with public schools, the Signal Corps museum and the visitors bureau.

Colonel Barr, who commanded one of the army's first radar training units in World War II, also was in charge of a signal battalion landing at Normandy. His unit won battle stars for action in northern France and Germany.

After the war, from December, 1946, to January, 1950, he was director for administration in the Fort Monmouth Laboratories. Later he was signal officer for the New York port of embarkation.

A native of Mason, Colonel Barr went to Korea in April, 1952, to direct communications for the Koje prisoner of war camp during the uprisings there. He earned the Uchi Korean distinguished military service medal with the silver star and U. S. Legion of Merit. The Uchi medal was for work he did for the South Korean government as a technical advisor to their minister of communications.

On return to the states, he served as Signal Officer for the Maneuver "Exercise Flashburn" at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

Naval Reserve Unit Asks for Volunteers

U. S. Naval Reserve Aviation Company 9-1, recently commissioned at Lansing, is open for additional volunteers.

The company is the first of its kind in the Ninth Naval district and the central Michigan area. All former aviation personnel, officers and ratings of the navy, marine corps and coast guard who are eligible and living within a 50-mile radius of Lansing may apply for assignment to the company.

Active participation in the reserve aviation company will enable all personnel to earn credits for promotion in rank, advancement in rating and retirement. Members can not be called for active duty unless by act of congress and general mobilization.

The commanding officer of the reserve aviation company reminded all reservists that unless they are actively engaged in a reserve unit before expiration of current public laws on June 30, 1955 and with new navy regulations, they will be subject to discharge from the reserve.

Applicants should contact or write the commanding officer of the company at U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, E. Saginaw St., Lansing. Drills are held on Monday nights twice a month.

Fox Film Is Based on United States Camel Experiment

A little-known episode in the transportation history of the United States unfolds as part of a double feature at the Fox Theatre Friday and Saturday. The picture is "Southwest Passage."

"The Bob Mathias Story" is the other part of the twin bill. "Southwest Passage" reveals one of the least-known chapters in American history.

The story revolves around a Syrian camel driver named, or rather nicknamed, Hi Jolly who helped to drive a camel caravan across the Southwest in 1857 to establish a shorter route to California and to prove that camels were practical as beasts of burden in the Great American desert.

Hi Jolly was, born in Syria about 1828 and came to this country on February 10, 1856, with the first group of camels shipped here for the U. S. government. His real name was Hadji Ali, but the people of the frontier found that too difficult and named him Hi Jolly.

He joined Edward Fitzpatrick Beale, who is played by Rod Cameron in "Southwest Passage," as a camel driver in his California expedition in 1857.

For a few years he tried unsuccessfully to establish mail and freight routes with the camels and finally turned what remained of his herd loose around 1868.

After that, Hi Jolly lived as a prospector, packer and guide until his death. He married Gertrude Serra in Tucson, Arizona in 1889.

One of the most outstanding American athletes in world sports brings his own dramatic success story to the screen.

"The Bob Mathias Story" racks up another hit for Allied Artists in a true-life story which combines action, drama, humor and romance.

There are many facets of interest in this story of the only athlete ever to win the Olympic decathlon championship twice. For one, Bob Mathias, now 23 years old, plays himself. He not only duplicates for the Hollywood cameras the athletic feats which brought him world fame, but reveals himself as a competent actor with ease and naturalness in the dramatic part of the story.

His sweetheart and wife is played with equal competence by his real-life wife, Melba Mathias. Further realism is added to the picture not only in actual scenes of the Olympic Games in England and Finland, but also in the reenactment of most of the story in the actual town of Tulare, Calif., where Bob Mathias was born and reared.

The high school where he first trained, his parents' home and other Tulare landmarks became the "sets" for this absorbing film.

Lavish MGM Musical Next "Deep in My Heart," a new M-G-M color musical, boasting one of the most glittering aggregations of stellar personalities ever assembled for a single motion picture, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Fox Theatre.

Based on the life and melodies of Broadway's famous composer Sigmund Romberg, "Deep in My Heart" has 19 stars, 104 speaking roles and 21 songs, with music from 10 Romberg operettas represented. All of M-G-M's 28 sound stages were required for the picture's production numbers and story sequences, with the sets covering approximately 178 acres.

The cast is headed by Jose Ferrer in the role of the composer; Merle Oberon, making her return to the Hollywood scene after a long absence abroad; and Helen Traubel, the celebrated opera star in her film debut.

Others in top roles are Doe Avedon, who recently scored in "The High and Mighty" and who now is seen as Mrs. Romberg; Walter Pidgeon as J. J. Shubert; Paul Henreid as Florenz Ziegfeld, and the international ballet star Tamara Toumanova as Gaby Deslys, with guest-stars Rosemary Clooney, Gene Kelly and his brother, Fred, making their first appearance together; Jane Powell, Vic Damone, Ann Miller, William Olvis, Cyd Charisse, James Mitchell, Howard Keel, Tony Martin and Joan Weldon.

Great Novel Is Filmed When a motion picture so completely overflows the emotions as does Universal-International's Technicolor masterpiece "Magnificent Obsession," such a picture must be considered an extraordinary experience.

And extraordinary "Magnificent Obsession" certainly will prove to be when it plays Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Fox Theatre. It is a moving experience few movie-goers of either sex will find it possible to resist.

To allocate credit for this superb achievement between the brilliant performances by Jane Wyman and Rock Hudson, the powerful love story by Lloyd C. Douglas, (the author of "The Robe"), and the inspirational mood of the entire production would be futile. For "Magnificent Obsession" is that perfect blending of story, acting, direction, setting and musical background.

The theme of the celebrated Douglas novel is keyed to a woman's great need for the man she has most reason to hate, a man who has almost destroyed her life. An accident to wastrel Hudson requires use of the one rescuer in the area, a resuscitator owned by Dr. Wayne Phillips, who perishes from a sudden heart attack when he is denied the benefit of that equipment. As if that were not enough, Hudson's reckless pursuit of Miss Wyman, Dr. Phillips' widow, results in an automobile injury and apparent blindness to her.

Out of Hudson's devotion to Miss Wyman in an effort to undo his lifetime of wrong comes the magnificent obsession, an obsession that provides one of the most compelling love stories ever told on the motion picture screen.

book was published, Mrs. Kirkland found that her neighbors resented her apt descriptions. On returning to the East, Mrs. Kirkland was the main attraction of the literary salons, together with W. C. Bryant and Edgar Allan Poe. Going abroad later, she got to know Charles Dickens and the Brownings. Her book, republished last year, is regarded as a documentary of great value, and one of considerable significance in American literature.

If you think we're having a cold winter, read about Christine Ritter. Her story is A WOMAN IN THE POLAR NIGHT, an account of the year she spent with her husband in the Arctic. She left her child behind to make the trip, and helped her husband in his work of hunting and trapping.

Time and motion studies for use in the home can be made after reading MANAGEMENT IN THE HOME by Lillian Gilbreth and others. She will be remembered as the mother of the brood in CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN. Dr. Gilbreth, besides her better known accomplishments, is an outstanding engineer, holds 15 degrees, and has taught at several colleges. Her methods will save you time and energy, she claims.

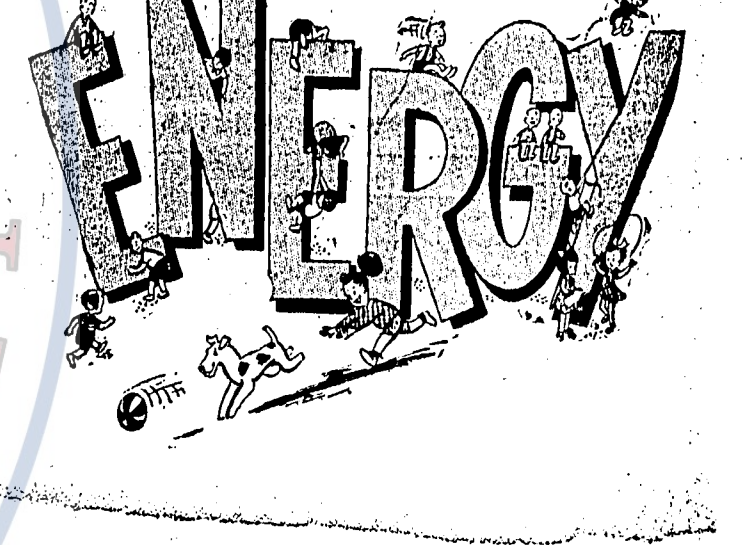

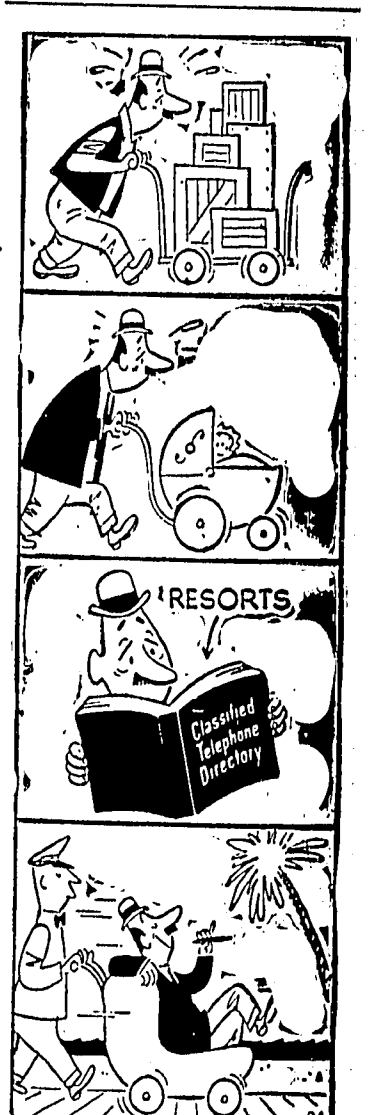

Famous sayings that were never said have their day in court in THE SPOOF OF SPOOKS AND OTHER NONSENSE by Bergen Evans. In his chapter, "Autointoxication," Evans compares the death rate from automobiles with the plagues of medieval Europe.

Seen some strange tracks lately? Don't fret about it. Consult A FIELD GUIDE TO ANIMAL TRACKS by Olaus Murie. Including all the mammals of North America, as well as some birds and insects, the book is a field guide to animals you didn't see. The drawings were made from field specimens.

Robert Scott couldn't have used that guide while tracking elephants in Africa. In BETWEEN THE ELEPHANT'S EYES Scott tells how he realized his ambition to hunt in Africa. Better known as the author of GOD IS MY CO-PILOT, Scott tracked and found the giant elephant, Old Samburu. Remember radio? Fred Allen recalls it quite clearly. In TREADMILL TO OBLIVION Allen recounts his life as a radio comedian, and some of the characters created on his program. Many of the scripts are still funny, and will be for some time to come.

Before the time of the slow burn, the double take, and the Prat-fall, what was Hollywood? Not much, according to Muck Sennott, author of KING OF COMEDY. Originator of the Keystone Cops, pie-throwing and trained model-T's, Sennott tells us of the tragedies in the private lives of early Hollywoodians, and that clowns have 2 faces.

Methodism Pays Off

Methodism, spelled with a lower case m, proved its worth in Mason these past few weeks.

Methodists, spelled with a capital M, found they had outgrown their beautiful old church. They realized their need for added facilities. So they developed a method.

They first discussed the situation among themselves, then with the leaders of their church. It took weeks and months to work out all the details of the method to be employed. When the details were worked out, the congregation was called together and the method was fully explained. On Sunday the method was employed. The $82,624 result even exceeded the $75,000 expectation.

The method used was not extraordinary in any sense of the word. Church officials employed the services of a man who is widely experienced in such undertakings. He showed them what method to employ and, just as important, which other ones to discard.

First came recognition of the need. Next came recognition of the fact that what the church needed was within the reach of the members, if they sacrificed. They decided to sacrifice, not with long faces but with enthusiasm. That enthusiasm became a major part of the method.

Methodism, meaning sound methods adopted after study, proved its worth for the Methodists. Following that method any group, any community, can reach almost any goal it sets for itself.

Discovering the Truth

Republicans in the legislature are facing a difficult task, made more difficult by insistent demands of the governor for more money and more taxes. People want and need more roads and more schools and a lot of other improvements. Yet just as we all can't afford luxury cars, we can't always get just what we want in government. We sometimes have to settle for what we can afford.

It is the responsibility of the legislature to decide what people can afford, to determine what they are willing to pay for. It is the responsibility of the legislature to make a thorough study of every proposal which comes up. We don't elect legislators to serve as rubber stamps, to do the governor's bidding; nor do we elect them simply to oppose what the governor demands.

Republican legislators must discover what the people are able to pay for and are willing to pay for. If Republicans make their discovery and then line up to provide it they can cease worrying about the makeup of their State Central committee, and about the governor's press agents, even about their own.

Republicans have the responsibility of exposing the false and of discovering the true. Exposing the false is the easy part of the responsibility, and has been so recognized since the days of Cicero. Discovering the true is the hard part, and it is time for the Republicans in the legislature to devote full time to their quest.

Classrooms Are Needed

Study of school enrollments, the census and area development charts indicate that this district needs more classrooms now and that the need will become more acute year by year.

Families are larger, suburban development will continue, children stay in school longer. Classrooms must be provided.

Members of the Mason board of education are bent on doing their utmost to provide the needed classrooms at low cost—if anything can be considered low in cost these days. School officials and architects at the public meeting last week said their primary concern is to give the district the most classrooms it can get for the money.

Fortunately Mason has no bonded indebtedness. None of the school taxes we pay goes for interest charges. We are paying as we go. Maybe the district won't always be able to follow this policy, but we ought to follow it just as long as we are able.

Residents of the Mason section of the school district must remember that neighborhood schools in the rural sections are also entitled to full consideration. All the new buildings can not and should not be built in Mason. Alaledon, Wilson and Hawley residents were told before the merger that Mason was committed to a new east side school; that only by such construction could the high school building be made available to handle increased enrollments. Not a complaint has been heard from Alaledon, Wilson and Hawley residents that they are being neglected. They must be assured that they won't be.

The study of school needs also indicates that other outside districts may soon face merger decisions. Those decisions should be based on fairness and complete understanding.

Construction of the Cedar street school did not relieve the need for further building. Construction of the east side school will afford only temporary relief. The entire area, not just Mason, must provide more classrooms and the teachers. It's going to be a big job. School board members recognize the magnitude of it, and the need for keeping the people acquainted with their responsibilities.

Cash and Carry Milk

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson goes along with the theory that consumers are entitled to lower cash and carry milk prices, and that such lower prices will benefit producers as well as consumers.

The middleman has been getting a steadily increasing proportion of the consumers' fluid milk dollar. In 1952 the middleman got 48c of that dollar. Now he gets 54c.

Milk retailing costs in cities include competing retail routes and doorstep deliveries.

The soft drink industry doesn't make doorstep deliveries. Neither does the brewing industry. Both industries make it easy for the housewife to pick up cartons of their products at a store and carry them home.

Once there was a need for home delivery of milk. Now with almost universal refrigeration that need no longer exists, and the public should no longer be asked to pay for something few of them need and few of them want.

Producers will get a bigger share of the milk dollar if they insist on providing a cash and carry service for the benefit of the consumer, not big city processors and distributors.

Instead of holding political rallies over the milk question, real friends of the farmer should be encouraging the Michigan Milk Producers association or some other agency to remove home delivery prices from cash and carry milk. It costs money, a lot of it, to place milk on doorsteps. It would cost as much to deliver baked goods or ice cream or soda pop by that method. If the milk isn't delivered that way the charge for such delivery should be eliminated. Producers and consumers should both share in the savings on cash and carry milk.

Down by the SYCAMORE

All of us here at the Ingham County News who attended the annual meeting of the Michigan Press association at Kellogg Center Friday and Saturday learned much and should profit some.

The first thing we learned was that the Ingham County News didn't repeat as champion. As graciously as lay within us we offered congratulations to The Plymouth Mail, first; Alma Record, second; and Lapeer County Press, third. They're all good papers, too.

Leslie people can share some of the pride in second place. Rex Babcock is the editor of the Alma Record. He taught mathematics at Leslie in 1916, 1917 and 1918. Knowing full well that 2 and 2 made 4, he went on to make a success of the newspaper business.

Another Leslie item: Mr. and Mrs. Irving Helmy were present. Now owners of the Wayland Globe in Allegan county, they are revolving rapidly, turning as the globe turns. They like it there, just as they liked Leslie. And Wayland folks probably like them, because I have never heard of anyone who didn't.

Dick Nethaway of Mason is well known in the graphic arts field. He's a service man for Ludlow Typograph Co., manufacturer of Ludlow and Elrod machines. Dick calls on printers throughout the Mid-West.

Bob Marshall, illustrious son of the venerable Schuyler Marshall, is treasurer of the Michigan Press association. He's publisher of the Ogemaw County Herald at West Branch. He began his training when Schuyler published the Ingham County News, and continued it when the father went to St. Johns to consolidate the News and Republican and come up with the Clinton County Republican-News, one of the state's best weeklies. Somehow an error crept into the program, making it appear that Sky is one of the oldest past presidents of the organization. He's in Florida, kicking up his heels in Miami night spots. That's how venerable he is. Maybe they meant venial—sinning—but entitled to forgiveness.

Emery Pratt Co. is Lansing's oldest business institution, I guess. The stationery store was started by A. M. Emery's grandfather, Mrs. Jack Sinclair (her husband publishes the Hartford Day-Spring) is an Emery daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Leonard of the Chelsea Standard said the thing they most admire in Mason is the pink bank. When I told them that the bank is considering new quarters they asked me to plead with directors to paint the new building the same shade of pink. "Yes," said the charming Mrs. Leonard, "I love that shade of pink. I think it would be fine if every small town building owner used soft and harmonizing colors."

Dart bank officials choose pink for their building because the shade harmonizes so well with green—the long green which is stacked in the vault.

Ink White, Sky Marshall's successor at St. Johns, commented on the fact that most small town newspapers are carrying more probate legal notices than normal and asked for reasons. After long debate, it was agreed that people are now dying who have never died before.

Marguerite Higgins, winner of a Pulitzer prize for Korean war correspondence for the New York Herald-Tribune, and who has gained additional fame and cash by endorsing Camel cigarettes, wasn't smoking that brand Friday night. She was born in Hong Kong and educated in France, England and the U. S. She's a brilliant woman. Good looking, too.

I've been trying to remember the name of the publisher who enlivened a serious panel discussion with a mixed metaphor. "When you return home," he urged publishers, "no longer be a mouse among business men. Be a rat."

Donald F. Schram, Detroit Free Press columnist (The Day in Michigan) is a modest man. Talking with him in a corridor, I remarked that John Knight uses good judgment in putting the column on the page with comics, thus drawing reader traffic to the back of the paper. "That's not the reason," replied Don. "John puts it there to reward early birds. I get my copy in early; right after breakfast the day before."

Well, I guess that's enough about the convention, except to warn against making steaks out of your next turkey. At the Saturday night banquet turkey steak was the piece de resistance, and it resisted too much. It's difficult to improve on roast turkey, in my opinion.

Because the road was steep and long
And through a dark and lonely land,
God set upon my lips a song
And put a lantern in my hand.

Joyce Kilmer should be as well remembered for that poem as for Trees. Those lines ran through my mind Tuesday night of last week when Gean and Pauline Greenwell sang their concert in Mason, before 50 or 60 people in a lonely auditorium—lonely, that is, before the Greenwells started to sing.

Instead of calling off the concert, or cutting down the program, the Greenwells ignored the empty seats and sang their songs to the few who were there. They sang so beautifully and graciously that their hearers were transported from the lonely auditorium to the Diamond Horseshoe of the Met.

Here comes a Capitalist!

It could be the president of a big corporation...or the president of a bank...or the President of the U.S.A. But it isn't any of these. It's the worker who helped build the car he owns...who has stock in the company he works for...and cash in the bank for the future.

In America everyone who earns and saves is a capitalist—a stockholder in the free enterprise system that makes America's standard of living the highest in the world. Working and saving in this way produces lasting benefits for all.

So when someone calls you a capitalist, stick out your chest. He's saying that you are a member of the American productive team. Who wants to be anything else?

We invite you to bank your dollars here—where you have multiple safeguards for your money...where every account is important, regardless of its size.

Council Members Discuss Ordinance

The proposed zoning and building ordinance was the subject for an exploratory hearing held by the Leslie village council Thursday.

The Michigan municipal league was called in for advice on this matter a year ago. Robert Fryer from the league met with the council and suggested the names of several men whom they considered competent to work out such a plan.

Ray Eastman, whose name appeared on this list, was chosen. He is the zoning and planning director for the city of Ann Arbor. Mr. Eastman with John Ryan, director of buildings and safety for the city of Ann Arbor presented the zoning and building ordinance plan in text and map form to the council and the assembled townspeople. Village president, Marvin L. Piskley; secretary, Kathryn Farley; and council members, Ralph Kelley, Erwin Jewett, Harry Wallace, Don Moran and O. G. Chamberlain were in attendance.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Samuel Wenger Wednesday at one o'clock at the Leucht funeral home. Burial was at Woodland cemetery, Jackson.

Milk Is Used as Fire Extinguisher At Metcalf Home

A heavy milk-drinking habit and the alertness of the Leslie fire department saved the home of the Robert W. Metcalfs on US-127 in Leslie at 9:30 p. m. Saturday.

The near zero weather had prompted a heavier than usual fire in the Metcalf living room. Mrs. Metcalf thought she smelled something scorching.

When a piece of asbestos on the ceiling above the stove was torn down, flames were licking along the rafters. Mrs. Metcalf hurried to the phone, which had been out of order all day, and gratefully put through a call to the Leslie fire department. Then she hustled their 4- and 8-year-old boys into warm clothing and out of the house.

Mr. Metcalf poured on the flames the only pan of water available, because of frozen pipes, but remembered 15 quarts of milk in the icebox. Emptying a quart of milk at a time in a pail he splashed it as high as it could be thrown upon the burning rafters. The milk was much more effective than the water. He was gaining a bit on it and as he was tossing his last quart upward the Leslie fire department and carloads of neighbors, who had heard the siren, came to his rescue.

A gaping hole 8 feet long and 4 feet wide remains in the living room ceiling. The Metcalfs are home again after spending the night with Mr. and Mrs. James Stone, Mrs. Metcalf's parents, also of Leslie.

New High-Speed Planters Plant 130 Hills Per Minute

New tractor-mounted and pull-behind planters designed for today's high-speed planting requirements are being introduced this spring by Minneapolis-Moline. Planting speed for the 2-row and 4-row rear-mounted and 4-row pull-behind models is 130 hills per minute.

Important among the features that help make possible the fast planting speeds are the newly designed high-speed valves that are located to insure dependable planting action at modern planting speeds. The new planters feature a simplified planting mechanism that has no seed shaft clutch. The seed plate turns continuously, and the entire planting mechanism is driven directly off the press wheels by a steel-link chain. Elimination of the seed shaft clutch does away with pawls, springs, rollers and timing of the ring gear and pinion.

Seed cans on the new planters have a capacity of 1 1/2 bushel of corn and are designed for easy removal. A fertilizer attachment for the new planters has a capacity of 80 to 90 pounds and a metering rate of up to 400 lbs. per acre. It features a newly designed fertilizer divider.

Combination checkrow and drill and combination drill and hill-drop planters are available in both the rear-mounted and pull-behind models. The 2-row and 4-row rear-mounted planters are designed to fit standard 2-point hitch.

A salesman member of the church bought soap, replenishing his sales stock out of profits, and returning his $10 plus $35 in profits. Rev. and Mrs. Bullock invested in vegetable seeds and returned their $10 plus $15 in earnings.

Several others related interesting experiences concerning the various ventures.

Rev. Samuel Wenger was the speaker for the annual banquet of the Doric Masonic F. and A. M. lodge in Grand Rapids Thursday. His topic was "God's Radiant Children." The meeting was held in the Masonic temple.

MOST PEOPLE still don't believe it. But it is true. And when you look into the facts, you'll find these two solid truths:

Buick is one of the "Big Three" in sales volume—and hotter this year than ever before. And Buick is one of the "Big Three" when it comes to prices—which make such popularity possible. The price we show here proves it.

So why not get what a Buick has to offer, if you are in the market for a new car?

You find that the dollars you pay for Buick buy you a lot more automobile—and the sheer satisfaction that comes with bossing a brawny traveler of this caliber.

You find it in the record-high V8 power that gives life to this spirited performer. You find it in the soft and level and cruiser-steady ride that comes of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability. You find it in the extra roominess, the extra frame strength, the extra tread width, the extra silencing—all part and parcel of every Buick.

We could tell you about the little things, too. Things usually charged for as "extras" in other cars, but yours as standard equipment at no extra cost in every Buick. Things like direction signals, oil-bath air cleaner, full-flow oil filter, automatic lighting in glove and trunk compartments—and so on.

But—you get the idea. This is a buy, this '55 Buick—a great buy—and a thriller from the instant you press its gas pedal. Come in this week and check things for yourself, won't you?

*2-door, 6-passenger Buick SPECIAL Sedan, Model 48, illustrated. Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities. Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargains, such as: Heater & Defroster...$81.70; Radio & Antenna...$92.50.

Aggies Falter and Lose to Okemos

After playing flawless ball against Okemos for 2 1/2 quarters the Aggies faltered for 4 minutes and thereby lost another game to the Indians.

Exceptionally accurate shooting together with a weakened Aggie defense gave Okemos 20 points in record time.

The fourth quarter was all even but the damage had been done and Dansville lacked the reserve strength to overcome the Okemos lead. The Aggies otherwise played a fine floor game. Okemos' shooting was better and their superior height gave them better control of rebounds.

The final score was 67-51. The little Aggies lost 45-35.

Tuesday the Aggies played Williamston. Friday they play Haslett.

A few teen-agers may be a menace on the highways—but almost half a million others are working daily to protect your life on the road.

That's what newsmen learned when they interviewed winners in the 1954 National 4-H Safety Program recently at the 93rd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Eight national winners received $300 college scholarships from General Motors, Safety Program awards donor. GM also provided all-expense trips to the Club Congress for national and state winners.

"Sure, some teen-agers are reckless drivers," said Jim Messerschmitt, 19, Elizabeth, Colorado, a national winner. "That's all the more reason why a lot of us feel teen-agers must take the lead in fighting for safer roads and safer driving."

Young Messerschmitt, for example, helped plan the first Teen-Age Traffic Association in the nation and in 1954 attended the White House Conference on Highway Safety.

Thousands of other young crusaders for road safety have organized safe driving clubs, given radio talks on highway hazards, placed safety posters in store windows and encouraged public officials to erect warning signs at highway danger spots.

Some youngsters, like Sam Ellen Phillips, 17, Midville, Ga., had their interest in traffic safety spurred by accidents that struck close to home. Sam Ellen began the work that led to a national 4-H award after three of her school mates were killed in a highway accident.

Contributions to highway safety also helped win national awards for Peggy Pfefferkorn, 18, West Friendship, Md.; Norlene Lawson, 19, Kenyon, Minn.; Jack Martin, 20, Gardenville, N.Y.; Ella Blossom, 18, Hoffman, N. C.; Ralph Ray Swinford, Jr., 17, Wichita Falls, Texas; and Florene Richardson, 17, Cedar City, Utah.

Remember their names next time someone talks about teen-agers running wild on the roads—and remember the 4-H safety army, half a million strong.

Stockbridge Beats Stubborn Hornets

Stockbridge teetered on the edge of defeat at Williamston Friday night but finally salvaged its eighth straight Ingham county league victory, 47-46, from a stubborn Williamston team.

Although the Hornets were never in the lead during the last half, they did manage to overcome an 11-point deficit to throw a scare into the Panthers in the final period.

With a minute to go, Williamston trailed by a mere one point, then Dennis Collier, Stockbridge center, dropped in a 2-pointer to move the league leaders into a 3-point lead.

Williamston managed to cut the lead on a basket by George Gibbs but time ran out before the Hornets could pull an upset.

Bed Wetting Can Now Be Stopped

The Story of Paul

By Mrs. J. F. G.

FOREWORD

This is the story of Paul. It is also the story of Paul's mother as she tells it herself. It is, too, the story of countless other children and their mothers who have learned how to solve a problem that has brought unhappiness and embarrassment to many homes.

"We wish to send you our sincere thanks for ending our 10-year-old son's problem of enuresis. What a relief! And what a wonderful change in Paul's personality!"

"But let me tell you the whole story and you will understand how much your 'Miracle Machine' (as we call it) means to us. I will try to be brief but the story of a 10-year struggle with alarm clocks, wet sheets, wet pajamas, wet mattress pads and all the rest cannot really be brief.

"First of all we have always felt that we knew as much or more than the average parents about this problem because I have a Bachelor's Degree in Education and a General Elementary Teaching Credential from U. C. L. A. We tried to practice the psychology I studied at U. C. L. A. and later at courses offered by our Alhambra schools. I took our son to Parent-Education classes called Pre-School Play Group—where mothers observe their children with other children—for 3 years before he entered kindergarten. There I discussed with the teacher and other mothers this bed-wetting problem and read all the material available there in the fine library.

"We understood that Paul was not deliberately wetting his bed and never scolded him or made him feel guilty. But we tried all the ideas we heard of such as limiting liquids, eliminating milk after 4 p. m., eating lots of salty foods especially just before retiring, eliminating acid fruits, sleeping with a knotted towel around the middle, eating lots of raisins, chiropractor treatments and setting the alarm at 2-hour intervals.

"Nothing helped until we used your apparatus. We still cannot get used to the miracle of it and the experience of having Paul get out of bed during the night to go to the bathroom, even though he has been dry now for 11 nights! He feels so confident of himself we are sure he is completely over the old bad habit. He is so happy, too, about it all and is excitedly looking forward to being able to accept invitations to stay overnight with friends and cousins. He is especially thrilled about being able to accept a friend's invitation to spend some time this summer on their ranch without 'mama.' And 'mama' is looking forward to a vacation—a real vacation—without packing a separate suitcase with rubber sheets and mattress pads and with no wet bedding to wash in odd places such as motel showers or bath tubs—and then get dry by nightfall in some way while driving to another spot! What a change!

"And so, for this change in our vacation plans, the change in Paul's personality, the change in the way we spend our nights and begin our days again, our sincere thanks.

"Your theory for the cause of enuresis and your plan for how it can be overcome have been marvelously proved to us. We would be very happy to let you show our letter to others whom it might help."

AFTERWORD

Now you have read the story of Paul. This story came to us from Mrs. G. entirely unsolicited by us. Out of her gratefulness for our help in solving her problem she voluntarily sat down and wrote her interesting experience.

Her story is typical of hundreds of others who have used the Enurton method for correcting the distressing habit of bed-wetting. We have many letters in our files that are just as enthusiastic as the one you have just read.

The Enurton method is a new, scientific way that is approved by nationally-famous medical consultants and is effective in practically every case in 30 days or less.

During the past several years the Enurton method for the correction of bed-wetting has moved to the forefront in acceptance by the medical profession. Medical journals have reported favorably on this new development. Articles describing and recommending the Enurton method have appeared in the Journal of American Medical Association, May 30, 1953, issue, the British Medical Journal, 1950 issue, and the Journal of Pediatrics, June 1952 issue.

The Enurton method was described and highly recommended in the child behavior column, written by Dr. Frances L. Ilg and Dr. Louise Bates Ames, who are nationally-famous child psychologists, associated with the Yale Clinic of Child Development and The Gesell Institute. Their column appears in the Detroit Free Press and 160 other newspapers throughout the country.

If you would like to get full particulars about this amazing Enurton method without any obligation whatsoever, just telephone or write.

Benson Blames Surpluses For Farm Recovery Lag

By CARL COLLIN

Secretary Ezra T. Benson, testifying before congressional farm committees, said farm recovery may take more time than expected. He told legislators that "farm prices have about stopped their postwar decline" but he conceded that net income of farmers this year may not be as high as last year.

Reports from Washington farm observers indicate that members of congressional agricultural committees don't see eye-to-eye with the secretary on his general farm programs. They want to know when the farm price decline will be halted. The secretary told them large surpluses of farm commodities are retarding farm price recovery. Not until supplies of farm products are closer in line with demand will farm prices be strengthened, he said.

Hog prices are expected to average about 10% above December levels for the months of February and March. That's the opinion of Purdue farm economists. They figure there will be a 5 to 15% decline in hog prices in the fall and winter of 1955, compared with this year. The 5% increase in spring farrowings indicated in the recent USDA survey, plus some liquidation in hog numbers next fall, will cause the expected decline.

The European corn borer was first discovered in this country near Boston, back in 1917. Almost immediately USDA entomologists began a search for insect enemies of the pest. By 1940, 4 different parasites, natives of Europe and Asia, had been established in the east. Since that time scientists have kept a careful tab on the effectiveness of these parasites in the control of the borer.

In a 78-square-mile area near Hartford, scientists have found that the parasites destroy 1 out of 3 of the first or summer brood of corn borers, and about 1 out of 5 of the fall brood. Three of the parasites are wasps. The fourth looks much like a housefly.

A senate banking committee has concluded that the rise in coffee prices between December, 1953 and August, 1954 "was far beyond that to be expected by the natural effect of the law of supply and demand." The committee backed up the federal trade commission's report which was severely critical of the coffee exchange and some of the trading activities that had been going on there. The congressional committee called the report made by FTC "splendid, factual and soundly conceived." Hearings on the coffee price situation and actions of coffee trading activities during the time of rapidly rising prices will take place the latter part of February.

A new electronic brain is to be used by the U. S. weather bureau to help prepare better forecasts. The machine is capable of absorbing huge quantities of figures to solve complicated mathematical equations. Weather scientists will be able to use more data in figuring atmospheric conditions. Apparently there is data forecasters can't use because of the time involved to apply and evaluate them. The "brain" chews them up. One scientist says it would take 60,000 men working day and night to keep up with the weather by working out equations and problems by hand. The brain does all this and more in an incredibly short time.

Secretary Benson told the National Dairy Council recently that milk prices could be lower if greater efficiency were practiced by middlemen in handling milk. Farm prices for milk have dropped 18% in 2 years but consumers are paying scarcely any less. He pointed out the middlemen's share of the consumer's fluid milk dollar has climbed from 18¢ in 1952 to 54¢ last year. This doesn't necessarily mean the middleman is making more profit. It could be caused by rising costs or more services. Benson emphatically asked for greater efficiency in distribution of milk to consumers and that housewives get a break when they pay cash and carry their own supplies.

A hog is not only a smart animal but a clean one, when given a chance. Cornell livestock specialists put hogs ahead of mules, horses, goats and sheep—in that order—in estimated intelligence. Cows probably ranked behind hogs but the scientists weren't sure. Pigs don't have a chance to display their intelligence because they go to market so young.

A horse will work itself to death but a mule will more than take care of itself. (There's some kind of a moral hidden in this profound observation!) Goats rate over sheep because they are more aggressive. Hoof animals, the professors say, are smarter than poultry but not as smart as dogs or cats. And that's that!

Miscellany. . . The acreage allotment for durum wheat will be boosted. Production of this high quality product has fallen far below needs because of price. Most durum is raised in North Dakota, some in South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana. . . 80% of all sows kept for 1955 spring pigs are in the Corn Belt states. . . Stillbirth, the drug that boosts beef gains, isn't digested and seems to be taken into blood streams of animals without chemical change. . . Nearly 60% of the families in the U. S. own their own homes, compared with 40% back in 1929.

Muck Growers Have Busy Time At Farmers Week

Vegetable growers and muck farmers will get a concentrated course in packaging and marketing of vegetables during Farmers Week at Michigan State college.

On Thursday, February 10, both the Muck Farmers' and Vegetable Growers' associations will meet in the music auditorium for a program starting with the film, "Potatoes Unlimited."

Horticulturist D. H. Dewey, Michigan State college will discuss packaging in 1955 and Duane Baldwin, Stockbridge onion grower, will talk on onion packaging. Packaging of carrots and radishes will then take the center of attention.

Shortly before noon Thursday, District Marketing Agent C. R. Cunningham of Lapeer, will talk on vegetable marketing problems and Jack Tuuk, marketing advisor, will give the celery growers tips on selling more of their produce.

Peter Tack, head of the Michigan State college fisheries and wildlife department, will lead off the afternoon program by talking about the multiple uses of farm ponds. The outlook for the next year in the vegetable business will then take the spotlight.

The meeting will adjourn in time for the growers to hear Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson in the college auditorium.

Milk Producers Plan Meeting

Members of the Stockbridge local of the Michigan Milk Producers association will feast at a ham supper Wednesday, February 9, at their annual meeting. Dansville Booster club will start serving at 7:30 in the new school gymnasium.

Featured speaker of the evening will be Glenn Lake, M. M. P. A. director from North Branch. The program will include instrumental music by Diane Felton, Marlene Warfle, Janet Cooper and Mary Sheathelm of Millville.

Norm Petersen, director of membership relations of the Michigan Milk Producers association will speak representing the state-wide organization.

The business session will include election of officers.

Total production of all crops in 1954 was the fifth largest in the history of the United States, say U. S. department of agriculture economists.

Ingham Farmers Will Be Honored At Farmers Week

Farmers from Ingham county will be honored during the forthcoming Farmers Week at Michigan State college, according to Agricultural Agent M. H. Avery.

The farmers to be honored are Orla Sheathelm, Dansville; Paul Redman, Leslie; Dell Wolf, Williamston; and Frank Cosgray, Eaton Rapids.

They will be among 85 farmers who have kept the farm business analysis farm account book in the agricultural economics farm account project continuously for the past 20 years or more.

These 85 co-operators come from 39 counties in all areas of the state. They will receive certificates for their co-operation and will be recognized along with 236 other farmers who have been in the project from 10 to 19 years. Former director of the Michigan State college Co-operative Extension Service, C. V. Ballard, will make the presentations.

Governor G. Mennen Williams will be the main speaker. His topic is "Meeting the Challenge on Our Farms." He will speak to an estimated 600 co-operators at the banquet, Avery adds.

The Michigan State college Girls Glee club and Miss Janice Somers, runner-up in the Miss America contest, will be on hand for the entertainment.

Donald Williams Wins Dairy Award

Don Williams of Webberville has been picked as one of the top 2 boys in 4-H dairying in Michigan. Don was given this award on his efficient milk production record over the past few years.

Don has been in 4-H club work 9 years. He has been in dairy for all of his 9 years, too. Don, at the present time, is in partnership with his father on the home farm. They have a milking herd of about 22 cattle and 8 of these are Don's 4-H project. He also has some heifers.

Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Williams. The young farmer will receive a gold watch and a beautiful plaque for his achievement. The contest is sponsored by the National Dairy Products Corporation.

Don is also a good corn grower. He was awarded a trip to Chicago last November by the Lansing Lions club for his outstanding work in corn production.

The other boy to win this award along with Don, is Larry Segerlind of Grand Ledge.

Coal burned to provide light for New York City totals more than 280 carloads every 24 hours—15,260 tons a day.

Proclaim Dairy Food Festival

Feb. 10 to 19 will be the dates of Michigan's Dairy Food Festival, and above is seen Guy G. Mennen Williams handing a proclamation declaring same to Charles E. Stone, secretary-manager of the American Dairy Association of Michigan and co-chairman of the Festival. Behind Stone is W. R. Keasey, manager of the Michigan Retail Food Dealers association, whose organization is co-operating. At right is Forrest A. Smith, of the Michigan Chain Store Bureau. All retail stores, producers and processors of milk, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Michigan State college and many others are out to tell consumers of the economy and nutritive value of the state's dairy products.

Analyst Sees No Boost For Detroit Milk Prices

Little hope for any early improvement in Detroit milk prices is seen by H. R. Varney, market analyst for the Michigan Milk Producers association.

"Production of milk per farm continues to increase above what it was a year ago," he says. "Farmers who are naturally discouraged by low prices apparently are trying to bolster their income by increasing milk production on their farms."

Varney said the surplus was coming from old shippers, not from new shippers being brought into the market. On association routes, he said, no new shippers have been added for more than a year, except as replacements for shippers going out of business.

He said some dairies were taking on new shippers but the association had no control over this. The main cause of the surplus, though, is that old shippers are producing more milk than they used to.

Detroit prices, however, still compare favorably with prices at other midwest markets. He cited these average blend prices for 3.5% milk in 1954:

Detroit	$3.90
Chicago	$3.46
Cincinnati	$4.01
Cleveland	$4.01
Columbus	$3.89
Dayton	$4.00
Toledo	$4.10

In other sections of the country, prices are higher. Where this is true, however, it is usually due to higher production costs.

4-H Leaders Hold Winter Meeting

The 4-H handicraft and electrical leaders in Ingham county met at the court house in Mason Thursday, January 27, for their winter-leader training session.

At this meeting the enrollments were corrected, final reports were gone over, slides of state show electrical projects were shown, achievement day plans were reviewed and the method and means of judging at the spring achievement program was discussed.

Per Lundin, assistant state 4-H club leader from Michigan State college, talked to the leaders on types and uses of finishes on 4-H projects.

MSC Will Hold Bred Ewe Sale

During Farmers Week this year the 20th annual bred ewe sale will again be held at the livestock pavilion at Michigan State college. It will be held on Wednesday, February 9, at 12:30 p. m.

There will be about 86 bred ewes at the sale representing 9 different breeds.

The sale is sponsored by the Michigan Sheep Breeders' association. It has agreed to give 4-H and P. F. A. members 10% off on any purchase.

Specialized Farming Groups Will Meet at Farmers Week

Specialized farmers and those with general interests will find answers to their business problems at Farmers week at Michigan State college next week.

Ingham county agricultural agent M. H. Avery points out that many groups are making trips to East Lansing by special bus during the week.

While exhibits will be open all during the week at Michigan State college, Avery points out that many farmers may want to attend certain programs.

For example, Monday is dairy day, with meetings of all dairy breed groups. On Friday the Artificial Breeders Cooperative will hold its open house and program jointly with the American Dairy association.

Monday is also horse day with meetings of the horse breeders and state dynamometer associations.

Tuesday is the first of 3 poultrymen's days with broiler days. It is also sugar beet day. "Bangs Facts For You" also starts its 3-day run on Tuesday.

Wednesday is swine day, poultry day and beef day, with meetings of all the beef cattle organizations on the schedule. Wednesday night is banquet night for short course alumni, crops and soils, and livestock raisers.

Thursday afternoon Secretary Benson will speak and it is also turkey day. The muck farmers will meet Wednesday through Friday.

Avery Tells of Clover Seed Shortage

By M. H. Avery
County Agricultural Agent

D. L. Clannahan reports, as many of you already know, that clover seed will be short for the 1955 season and suggests that farmers planning on buying seed get their order in with their local dealer soon. One reason for the shortage of the clover seed is that a disease, Northern Anthracnose, has been hitting many of our red clover fields. The Anthracnose may be recognized in the fields by the fact that the leaves on certain stems turn brown and drop off. Not all the leaves or stems on any one plant may be effected, or at least show the result of the Anthracnose.

Some new named varieties are being introduced which are quite resistant to the Anthracnose disease. The one especially recommended in new varieties for 1955 is Pennoscot 174. Clover which is ideal for Southern Michigan and seed is available in limited quantities.

Clannahan reports that the Hardigan seed is not available in the state but seed from California is satisfactory for Michigan. He reports that there has been considerable wilt on farms in Michigan. If you have trouble with wilt in your alfalfa, you should shift to Ranger which is wilt-resistant. If you want your alfalfa to stand for several years, the Ranger might also be good. The Ranger does not yield quite as heavily as Grimm for the first 2 seasons Grimm will outproduce the Ranger variety.

Ladino clover has received considerable interest and is recommended to be added to alfalfa seedings where the alfalfa will be used for pasture. It adds greatly to the pasture. He makes this suggestion, that you be sure to buy certified Ladino clover seed since you cannot tell the Ladino from Dutch clover by looking at the seed.

Farmers ask questions about when to plant clover seed. He suggested in late February and March for most folks so that the seed could be put on before the frost went out of the soil in the spring. However, he felt that alfalfa should be put on later and put in with a drill when the soil is right. The alfalfa will not stand as much freezing as the clover will.

Clannahan left a number of bulletins listing new varieties and other varieties of seeds which may be purchased for spring seedings.

Experts Discuss Orchards

Don Hootman and A. W. Kenworthy of Michigan State college met with farmers of Ingham and Jackson counties Thursday to discuss orchards. The meeting was held at the G. A. R. hall in Leslie.

Hootman talked on orchard management. He mentioned 4 important things that he thought farmers should keep in mind in raising or producing an orchard. First, select the correct site, whether you are starting a new orchard or adding to an orchard you already have. This site should be slightly rolling, but on high enough soil so that it will be possible to get on the ground with a 4-wheel tractor early in the spring. Second, select good soil—soil that will have nutrient value to produce fruit with the addition of commercial fertilizer. Third, select good varieties. It is important to use varieties that are popular with the consumer. Popular varieties right now are Northern Spy, McIntosh and Delicious, with some others popular in certain areas. Fourth, have a large enough orchard to make an economical unit to be able to have spraying equipment and other things needed for doing a good job.

Hootman mentioned that the fruit business looks good at the present time and therefore he urges the fruit growers to do a good job in caring for their orchards so that they might be able to have top products for the consumer.

He mentioned that the apple scab is one of the great problems and is a problem every year. His recommendations were that fruit farmers start spraying their orchards in mid-April and carry on for 6 weeks or until the first week in June with this program trying to keep the trees covered during that time. The number of sprays will be guided by the number of rains that wash the spray off. Scabs come with the rainy period and early in the season. Some farmers use as many as 14 sprays last year. John Robinson used 14 in spraying the Tuttle orchard in Ingham county. He urged farmers to get the new spray calendar when it comes out this spring. From this calendar will be given a complete guide as to the sprays and type of material to use for the various diseases and insects.

A. W. Kenworthy talked on the leaf analysis of fertilizer for fruit trees and showed results of analyses on leaves sent in by local farmers from Ingham and Jackson counties. He believes this is a more accurate way to fertilize fruit trees. It is called the spectrographic leaf analysis and sheets are available in the extension office.

Festival Plans Set
At a meeting Thursday of representatives of dairy farmers, Ingham county dairies, Grange, Farm Bureau and others interested in dairy products, plans were made to carry out the Michigan dairy food festival program in Ingham county.

Advertising kits put out by the Michigan A. D. A. will be given to all grocery stores in the county. Kits will be delivered to the stores in Lansing and vicinity by representatives of the Lansing dairy companies in co-operation with the A. D. A. representatives in the Lansing office, under the direction of Charles E. Stone.

Kits will be delivered to stores in out-county by representatives of the county dairies, dairy farmers, Grange and Farm Bureau representatives.

The festival is to run from February 10 to 19. It is hoped that the stores will have the advertising displays up in their stores by Friday.

The rural women of the county are going to make contact with the grocery stores on Friday and Saturday, February 11 and 12, to see the displays in the stores and to help if possible in arranging the exhibits to an advantage if their help is needed. Lists of stores will be given to the women through the Farm Bureau women's organization, through the extension groups by Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, home demonstration agent, and lists will be given to farm women at the extension dairy banquet on February 1 so that the dairy farmers' wives also will have a chance to contact the stores and see these displays.

Advertising Pays
A similar advertising program carried out in Wisconsin in 1954 sold millions of pounds of dairy products over and above average sales.

It has been found by studies that if proper milk products are called to people's attention or placed in a handy position or container for them to get, more products will be sold. A survey by a Michigan State college graduate student showed that people will drink milk instead of coffee many times if they are given a choice. In a survey at Kellogg Center at Michigan State college, it was found that only 4% of the people eating there drank milk when they had to ask for it, but when the waitress asked if they would like milk, 11% chose milk. Now, Kellogg Center guests are still asked to make their choice as to milk or coffee. In another survey where milk was placed at every plate, 84% of the guests drank it. Farm groups drank more milk than city folks—93% compared with 75%. Men drank more milk than women—22% compared with 7%. A large number of men drank both milk and coffee.

Inseminators Recognized
During the month of December 3 inseminators in Michigan were listed in what was called the 400 lb club. Two of these in-

How Long Do We Benefit From Nitrogen Fertilizer?

What happens to nitrogen fertilizer the current year's crop doesn't use?

That's the question Wisconsin soils specialists wanted to answer. So in 1952 and 1953 they set up a series of experiments on silt loam soils near Madison.

Results, using a corn crop, followed by oats the next year, indicate that the unused portion of nitrogen is carried over in the soil and used by the following crop next year. While these tests were on silt loam soils, the experimenters say you will probably get the same result with clay soils. The carry-over in sandy soils will be less, and there may be no carry-over of nitrogen in light sands.

The scientists used various nitrogen fertilizer rates on the corn crop, ranging from one to 200 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre. They found an oat yield increase of 31 bushels per acre when 120 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre was put on the corn. The same increase in oat yield resulted from a 200 pounds application of nitrogen per acre on the corn.

When they put 30 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre on the corn, the oats the following year didn't benefit much because the corn took up most of the nitrogen. Other tests show that crops will benefit from the nitrogen in a legume green manure crop for at least two years. Red clover was used as the green manure crop in these tests.

seminators were from Ingham county. Our Ingham-Mason inseminator, Charles Brown, headed the list with 444 points; Gerald Stockbridge inseminator, Gerald Runkel, 425 points. These 2 men have had a lot to do with the high percentage of the dairy animals in Ingham county using the artificial breeding program. Ingham county dairy farmers should check the list of herds listed as high artificial breeding herds.

Testers Get Honors

Ingham county will have 2 testers recognized at the dairy herd improvement testers meeting at the college Tuesday of Farmers' Week. They will be recognized at the luncheon at Michigan State college at 12:15. Singers of the Ingham-Mason association, and Maxwell Bontrager of the Ingham-Williamston association will receive the honors.

They will receive awards for outstanding work in 1954 from the National Dairy Products Corporation for encouraging efficient production practices through their work.

Sanilac Farmer Is a Candidate

Frank Merriman, Sanilac county farmer and civic leader has announced that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for member of the state board of agriculture at the Republican state convention in Detroit Saturday, February 19.

Merriman was born in Decker, Mich. where he graduated from high school. He is an alumnus of Michigan State college and has remained active in various agricultural functions of the college. He owns and operates a 200-acre dairy farm.

In 1939 he was elected star farmer of Michigan by the Future Farmers and he was elected secretary of the organization the same year. In 1940 he was elected state president of the FFA and was elected an American farmer by the national organization in competition with young farmers from all over the United States.

He has represented his county and district on many agricultural councils. In his home county he is president of the Farm Bureau with over 2,100 farm families; president and one of the founders of the Young Republican club in the county. He is a member of the advisory council to the state extension service. He is acquainted with many of the problems of education, having served as secretary of the local rural agricultural high school since its organization 6 years ago.

Included in his many agricultural activities is the presidency of the largest Artificial Breeders' association local in Michigan, a college-sponsored activity. Merriman said in announcing his candidacy, "With the background that I have in agriculture I feel that I could represent the county to the state extension service. He is acquainted with many of the problems of education, having served as secretary of the local rural agricultural high school since its organization 6 years ago.

White advises getting quick warm-ups with a radiator thermometer or a radiator cover to get the most out of a tractor in winter.

White Gives Tip On Tractor Care

Your tractor will last a lot longer if you operate it at a temperature of 180 degrees and make sure that it reaches that temperature quickly.

That's advice from M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. A more frequent oil change on the basis of operating hours also is a good idea, according to Avery.

Robert G. White, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State college, explains that a tractor has to be operated for very short periods during cold weather. As the tractor cools down the air inside the motor condenses. That means water joins with carbon deposits, dirt and other foreign material to form sludge.

That's why there is more sludge in oil during the winter than summer, White indicates. That's why more oil changes are needed.

Low engine temperatures, ac-thinking of the Michigan farmer on this most important hour and the farmers would be given a true voice in the running of Michigan State college which works so closely with agriculture in this state."

Plans Shape Up For Dairy Event

With the Michigan Dairy Food Festival set for February 10 to 19, the chief of the Michigan department of agriculture's bureau of dairying, F. M. Skiver, last week was in New York City explaining the state's program and regulations on milk production to a national group.

Skiver, who for the past 16 years has been chief of the dairy bureau, was guest speaker before the Dairy Products Improvement Institute.

In the course of his talk Skiver said that Michigan sells about 5 billion pounds of milk annually, which comes from approximately 105,000 dairy farms. He said that half is sold as fresh milk and fresh cream, and that a quarter goes to butter manufacturers. Other outlets for the rest of the state's 5 billion pounds per annum are: 10% to condensed milk or evaporated milk; 7% to cheese, mostly American style cheese; and 8% to the manufacture of ice cream and sherbet.

Michigan was the initial state in the union to adopt a compulsory milk pasteurization law.

These facts and others will be brought out by the press, radio and television from February 10 to 19, when grocery retailers, hotels, restaurants, soda fountains and others will feature dairy products during the Michigan Dairy Food Festival.

Festival committees have been organized in most of the counties. Grocers are being supplied with special dairy food sales kits, and at least one grocery chain in the state is planning a special cheese display in each of its outlets.

Huge Increases Seen for Small Grain Plantings

Production trends for 1955 already are showing up, USDA officials say. Biggest early indication of where millions of diverted acres will go this year is provided by rye seedlings. Farmers confronted with sharp wheat cut-backs have upped rye plantings 25%. Similar relative increases are expected for oats, barley, grain sorghums and soybeans.

Lower price support for these is expected to stimulate production, rather than discourage it, say the experts. Supports for oats, barley and sorghums in 1955 have already been set at 70% of parity, down from 85% last year. Soybean support very likely is to be set at about 70% of parity too.

New surpluses of these commodities seem sure, but top support officials don't show much concern. Because of lower support rates, they'll be taking over less of 1955 output than they would have been compelled to under a higher support rate, they claim.

In a carefully worded statement on this, Secretary Benson says: "It is apparent that large acreages diverted from wheat, corn and cotton will go into feed grains—even more than in 1954, which saw a sizeable shift in this direction."

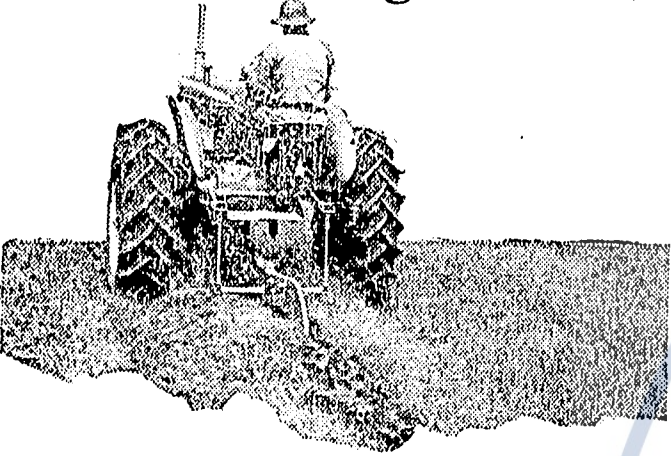

"Continued supports at 85% of parity could only mean that the government would wind up as owner of a considerable portion of the increased feed grain production."

Stocks of grains now on farms are huge... indicating big carry-overs on top of the probable bumper crops this year. While on-farm corn holdings of 2.1 billion bushels are down 3.5% from a year ago, stocks of other feed grains are much bigger.

Oats stocks on farms January 1 were 20% greater than last year; barley stocks 53% greater and sorghum grain stocks 43% larger than a year earlier.

You don't need "tracks" to subsoil big fields...

do it with the WD-45

Here is wheel tractor power that subsoils to a depth of 18 inches and covers lots of acres in a day.

The dynamic new WD-45 Tractor with POWER-CRATER engine and the Allis-Chalmers Mounted Subsoiler shatter toughest hardpan... let water soak in, not run off. If the going gets tough, automatic Traction Booster transfers weight to drive wheels... and you keep moving.

And the WD-45 has all the extra power you need for subsoiling... at reasonable price—$2095.00; subsoiler, $54.00; both prices f.o.b. factory. We'll gladly demonstrate.

Country & Town

By Jim Brown

Michigan State college's Farmers' Week is winning national attention in extension education circles. Colleges and universities across the country are picking up the Farmers' Week program for expounding the new ideas in agriculture.

Ingham farmers are fortunate in having such a program right here in the county. Farmers from many states will be in Ingham this coming week to attend Farmers' Week. Ingham farmers should realize the benefits of such a gathering of facts and figures and attend as many sessions as possible.

Farmers' Week is the grand-daddy of all farm tours, meetings and demonstrations. It's a week of all this rolled into one commercial-free discussion of better farming ideas.

Dairymen are waking up. Beginning February 10 Michigan will promote its dairy food festival. And in a big way, too. Purpose of the event: To show that the chain and independent retail grocery stores, when products are properly advertised, can sell an increased amount of dairy products.

In a similar program held in Madison, Wisconsin, last year 3,000,000 extra pounds of milk and milk products were sold and consumed in 8 days. This extra consumption equaled 8.6% of the total surplus dairy products purchased by the federal government during the same period.

Just think what a continuous advertising program in every state and city would do for the dairy industry—and the government's over-used surplus storage facilities. Coca Cola does it. Automobile manufacturers do it. Soap-makers do it, too.

If advertising and promotion works for all other commodities, it certainly will work for dairy products. The Madison dairy festival proved it. We'll prove it, again, in Michigan next week.

Ingham dairymen will be emphasizing the industry this week at the annual dairy banquet. This column is being written Monday. The banquet is Tuesday. So as this is being written, Ingham's 1955 dairy queen is unknown. She will be chosen by popular demand at the banquet in Leslie. I'll have no complaints if she's as nice as girl as Suzanne Thompson, dairy queen for 1954.

I'll also have no complaints if those in charge of the banquet see to it that there is plenty of milk to drink.

Farm Youth Delegate Attends National Directors Meeting

Rhoda Kelly, Michigan International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate to Greece in 1954 is attending the national IFYE board of directors meeting in Indianapolis, on February 4 and 5. Miss Kelly is a junior at Michigan State college. She was the first United States girl representative to the Middle East.

Michigan's IFYE alumni will be host for the 1955 national conference from August 4-7 at Michigan State college. About 300 IFYE alumni from the United States and about 75 IFYE foreign exchangees in the country at that time are expected to attend the 4-day reunion conference.

The national conference is set up to enable alumni to exchange ideas and promote ways of continuing their help in promoting world understanding.

This exchange program began in 1948 and since that time about 500 United States exchange delegates have been sent to 41 countries abroad. The same number of foreign exchangees have come here. They each move in with rural families for about 4 or 5 months to live, work and play as members of the family. The program is dedicated to the belief that understanding is the basis for world peace. Upon return home delegates spend considerable time sharing their experiences through talks, colored slides, television, radio and the press.

Do Not Combine Poultry Vaccines

Unless the directions on the package specify, don't mix poultry vaccines or use them at the same time.

That's the advice of M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. He suggests following the directions on the package to the letter.

An internal vaccine for bronchitis, for example, should not be put in the drinking water along with Newcastle vaccine unless the directions say so, Avery cautions.

A Michigan State college poultry pathologist, Dr. S. C. Schmitt, backs up the agent's advice. When the vaccine package directions do not specify mixing, he asserts, there has not been enough research with the product to assure safety and effectiveness.

Be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions when sulfa drugs are fed to poultry flock, Avery adds.

The drugs can be dangerous if they are fed at too high levels or used for too long a period. He cites Ohio research which showed that birds can be killed by feeding 5/100 to 1/10 per cent sulfanoxaline for periods longer than 10 to 14 days.

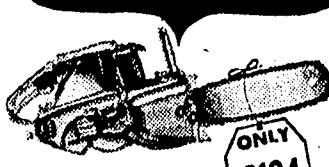

PAINT POINTERS

Odorless paint promises to do away with seasonal peaks in indoor decoration. Hospitals, stores, hotels, schools and public structures as well as homeowners are finding now that paint odor has been lost in the laboratory, interior painting is practical in any season, any weather. Gloss or semi-gloss is recommended for kitchen and bathroom walls and all woodwork because they are highly scrubable. Flat paint is usually preferred for living room and bedroom walls. Best way to paint kitchen cabinet doors is to remove them, together with the hardware, and paint in a horizontal position.

FARMERS' WEEK
February 7-11

LAST WEEK'S MYSTERY FARM PICTURE was correctly identified by Mrs. Wilfred Jewett as belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Redman.

The farm is located on the corner of Ives and Barnes roads. Rev. Herbert Cherry, pastor of the Eden United Brethren church, lives in the house pictured in the mystery photo. The Redmans live across the road. For the past several years the Eden church has rented the house for a parsonage.

The Redmans farm 140 acres with dairy and poultry the base operation. Redman's father bought the farm back in 1915. He has owned it since 1940.

The Redmans have 4 children. George is taking graduate work at North Carolina State college at Raleigh, North Carolina; Ralph and Don are seniors in the engineering school at Michigan State college and Mary, 12, attends the Hubbard school.

Club Sheep Raisers Receive Discount

Members of 4-H and F. F. A. clubs who want to get into the sheep business will have a good chance during Farmers' Week, February 7-11, at Michigan State college.

Gerald VanSingel, county 4-H club agent, points out that youngsters can buy bred ewes at a 10% discount on Wednesday, February 9.

They will be able to purchase the animals at the 20th annual bred ewe sale at the college's livestock pavilion. The sale begins at 12:30.

Boys and girls who plan to take advantage of the discount must bring a signed statement from the county 4-H club agent or a leader, or from an F. F. A. advisor, VanSingel says. The statement should indicate that the ewes to be purchased will be used for project work.

More than 225 ewes have been purchased by boys and girls for project work under this program.

All sale ewes will be judged at 10:00 a. m. by Pete Cameron of Thamesville, Ontario. Breeds to be represented among the 86 ewes to be sold include Corriedale, Suffolk, Shropshire, Hampshire, Oxford, Southdown, Cheviot, Columbia and American Delaine.

All kinds of farmers—dairy, poultry, livestock, fruit, vegetable—and those just interested, will find plenty of attractions at the Michigan State college Farmers' Week, February 7-11.

CROP Will Send Seeds to Greece

The Michigan State CROP committee met this week in its annual meeting to make plans for the 1955 CROP activities. The meeting was called by the chairman, C. V. Ballard, former director of agriculture extension services.

Among the plans approved by the committee is the sending of $800 worth of garden seeds to Greece. These seeds were requested by the World Council of Churches team working in Greece to help re-establish Greek refugee farmers. Seeds will be purchased from the Michigan Farm Bureau seed department, and shipment will be made within a week. Funds for payment will be taken from the 1954 CROP contributions and will be at least partially replaced from returns of a special garden seed appeal during 1955. Most of the contributions made to CROP in Michigan are being used for sending "surplus" food from government storage houses on a basis of $20 worth of food distributed for each dollar used for distribution.

The committee also approved a 10-week leave of absence for the director R. M. Hartzler, to make a trip to Europe as a cattle attendant for the Helfer Project Inc. Hartzler explained that there is a good working relationship between Helfer Project Inc. and CROP, though there is no organizational connection.

The committee set the CROP goal for 1955 at $100,000 in cash and farm commodities.

Mrs. Carl Topliff of Eaton Rapids represented Farm Bureau and Farm Bureau Women at the recent meeting.
