

Subdivider Will Build 25 Homes on West Side

Kessler Construction Co. of Holt will build 25 3-bedroom houses in Mason this winter. Construction will be in Snyder subdivision west of US-127 by-pass and south of Columbia street.

The company's decision to build in Mason, Carl Kessler told the council Monday night, hinged on whether or not the city would grade, gravel and blacktop Kathryn street, approximately 1,100 feet long. Councilmen agreed to grade and gravel the street this fall and to lay the triple-seal asphalt coating when at least 75% of the homes are occupied. Under the agreement reached Monday night, the Kessler company will pay the entire costs of curb and gutter and sidewalk in the area and install water and sewer facilities under the city plan ordinance.

"The area in which the houses will be built was accepted by the city as a platted area in 1939. However, except for a rough graded road, the area has never been developed. Men from the Kessler company contended that because the area was accepted as a plat by the city in 1939, the present subdivision ordinance with its stiffer requirements has no effect on the Snyder property."

Carlton Kessler, president of the Kessler company, told councilmen earlier that the price on the Snyder land made it important that the city help out with the project.

Spenny Votes "No"

Councilman Erle Spenny voted against having the city build the road in the Kessler project. He said he wouldn't be bound by council action taken 16 years ago. Councilmen Robert Phillips, Richard Morris, Clifford Wilcox, L. A. Wilcox and Bernard Cady and Mayor Alfred Forche voted in favor of city participation.

It will cost the city an estimated $5,000 to construct the road.

"The council's decision to enter into the project came at the end of one of the longest council debates on record. The discussion lasted 2 hours."

Dr. Wilcox opposed the plan up until the last minute. He called the development west of the by-pass horse-and-buggy thinking. He said that the city should never encourage development west of the highway because of the added problems of safety any such development would bring.

"I can't see why the city should go backwards," Dr. Wilcox declared. "I'm opposed to this deal. The city might better put its money in other projects closer to the heart of town."

Early in the session, Kessler requested that the city pay for the grading and blacktopping and road drainage and storm sewers. The sewers and drainage would cost an estimated $4,300. Kessler finally agreed that the company would take care of the $4,300 if the city would take care of the $5,000.

Would Help Young People

"If we don't do something to encourage young people to live in Mason, we'll continue to be bypassed," Phillips said. "Right now, it's almost impossible for young people to own their own homes when it means $5,000 or $6,000 as a down payment. Home ownership means better citizens."

The area is going to develop anyway and it might just as well be in an orderly fashion with Kessler doing the building. If just a few better-kept shacks are built in the subdivision, the city would be obligated to build the street anyway."

Councilman Walcott agreed that it is almost impossible for young people to get adequate home financing in Mason. His only question was on the quality of the homes the Kessler company plans to construct.

Councilmen Morris and Cady also asked about the type of houses planned for the area.

"If the houses are cheaply constructed, the subdivision may be a shakedown in 15 years," Morris said. "That wouldn't be doing the city or even the proposed home owners a favor."

"We've got our own shack towns now, and no one seems to worry about them," Cady declared.

Kessler Defends Construction

Kessler defended the prefabricated home construction as equal to any custom house of the same cost or more.

He said that 2 houses in the area have already been purchased if the company develops the area. In both cases, he said, the houses will cost well over $11,000. All of the homes, he said, will have 3 bedrooms, tile floors, hot water and will be decorated beyond the usual houses in Mason. The company, Kessler said, will plant a tree in front of every house and will grade and seed all lawns. All driveways will be paved, he added.

"The homes in the development will be of the type that you councilmen would be proud to live in or have your children live in," Kessler said.

Homes Sell Easily

There isn't any doubt but what the homes will be occupied before spring, Kessler said. Already, he told the council, the company has received dozens of inquiries about the subdivision.

"Normally, we would expect to have mostly Lansing and Kell people buy the property," Kessler said. "But because of the publicity given the council decision on helping with the project, most of the inquiries have come from the Mason area."

Federal Housing Authority Regulations regulations require that the street be blacktopped and also set forth other minimum standards.

Work Starts Soon

Kessler said sewer and water lines will be installed probably this month and that all foundations will be poured before the winter freeze. The houses will be completed by February and the curb and gutter, sidewalks and blacktopping will be constructed next spring, he stated.

Usually the city would pay a third of the cost of the curb and gutter. However, in the agreement reached Monday night, Kessler will assume the obligation of the entire cost of the curb and gutter.

Kessler said that financing arrangements are being made through a Mason bank.

When the property was platted in 1939, it was owned by Adam Snyder. His heirs, John Snyder of Lansing, Mrs. Dean Crandall of Mason, Mrs. Clarence Foster of Eaton Rapids and the estate of Don Snyder, entered into an agreement with the Kessler company Tuesday.

Pupils Crowd City Schools To Capacity

Mason classrooms are bulging with pupils and will be until the new Steele Street elementary building provides relief. That won't be for several weeks, school officials said.

The greatest pressure is in 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th grade rooms. There are only 2 rooms for 87 fourth grade pupils, 2 rooms for 94 fifth-graders and 2 rooms for 89 sixth-graders. There are 3 rooms for 145 seventh-graders. When the new school is opened there will be added a combination teacher for fourth and fifth grades and one more teacher for each of the sixth and seventh grades. Supt. James H. Vander Ven announced.

In the upper 5 grades the enrollment stands at 609 with the probability it will increase to 620 by next week. At the close of school in May enrollment stood at 523 for the upper 5 grades, said Principal Richard Demlow.

By grades the enrollment in city schools Thursday and the number of rooms available for elementary classes were:

Kindergarten, 3	90
First, 3	84
Second, 3	84
Third, 3	93
Fourth, 2	87
Fifth, 2	94
Sixth, 2	89
Seventh, 3	145
Eighth, 1	140
Ninth, 1	142
Tenth, 1	116
Eleventh, 1	119
Twelfth, 1	92

Total 1,381

Area schools in the Mason system had their enrollments leveled off by shifting between schools and taking upper grades into Mason.

The area enrollments were given by Supt. Vander Ven as:

Canaan primary	23
Canaan elementary	39
Alaiedon Center	34
Douglas	32
DuBois	32
Hawley	32
Phillips	29
Robbins	24
Sandhill	28
Webb	33
Dunn	35
Harper	25
Nichols	23
Walters	26

Total 420

Because of the annexation of school districts comparative figures on enrollment with previous years are hard to come by. Last year at the opening of school high school figures were: Seventh, 111; eighth, 127; ninth, 119; tenth, 129; eleventh, 107; and twelfth, 69.

Court Calendar For September Hits New High

On Ingham's circuit court calendar for September term are 714 cases, a new high. The previous high was in September of last year when 649 cases were listed.

On the printed calendar are 92 criminal cases, 70 jury civil, 134 non-jury civil, 33 non-contested chancery, 198 contested chancery, 68 no-progress law and 119 no-progress chancery cases.

The no-progress cases are subject to dismissal when court convenes in Lansing Monday. They are cases in which there have been no action during the past year.

Jurors for the September term of court have been summoned to report in Lansing Monday, September 19. Criminal trials are scheduled to begin then.

Judge Charles H. Hayden is the presiding judge for the September term. Plans are being made to have 2 juries hearing cases at the same time.

Many of the jury civil cases are actions resulting from automobile accidents.

Seventeen of the 33 non-contested and 130 of the 198 contested chancery cases are divorce actions.

Council Sets New Date for Curb Hearing

Comforted by a new petition by 68% of Lansing street property owners, Mason's city council is again calling a public hearing for a proposed curb and gutter project. The proposed construction extends along both sides of Lansing street between South and Ash streets.

The public hearing will be Monday night, September 19, at 8.

Six weeks ago a petition asking for the curb and gutter was circulated along Lansing street with "more" than the required 65% of property owners signing. However, at a public hearing several property owners claimed that the expense of the project was misrepresented to them and asked that another petition be circulated, based on more accurate information.

Estimated costs of the project range from $2.25 to $2.65 per running foot. The city has agreed to pay a third of the cost.

Of the 25 property owners on the street, 17 requested the curb and gutter. Had only 16 signed the petition, it would not have complied with the minimum 65%, councilmen said.

Mayor Alfred Forche said that if there is no further delay, the project can still be completed this fall.

Assessments for the proposed curb and gutter project can be spread over a period of 10 years, the mayor explained.

Only the curb and gutter will be financed through special assessment, Forche declared. The ribbon between where the gutter will be placed and the present blacktop surface will be filled with asphalt at city expense, he said.

Wild Bike Ride Brings Injuries

Valerie Harvath, 9, has a broken arm to carry to school. Riding down a hill in a field across from the family residence on Columbia road east of town Saturday, she flew off her bicycle and fractured her left arm. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harvath, 1150 Columbia.

With her sister Sheryl, 11, and her cousin, Larry Sly, 10, of Lansing, she was coasting down the hill. Her bike hit a stone. Allan Harvath, 7, was a spectator. The Sly boy was riding Allan's bike.

Valerie, with her arm hanging awry, came up the road with her companions. Her parents took her to Mason General hospital for x-ray and then on to Sparrow hospital for services of a specialist. The arm was set and the girl remained in the hospital until Monday. She enrolled in school Wednesday but upon doctor's orders will remain home for several days.

School Appears Doomed

State highway officials appearing before the Mason board of education Wednesday night recommended that Walters school either be moved or abandoned. Even with the present route of 127 left, the cut on Tomlinson road will leave the building high and dry, highway officials said.

SMASHED EYEGLASSES and ignition keys helped set the time of the bludgeoned deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herrick. This picture was taken in the barn at the Herrick farm north of Stockbridge as Dr. C. W. Muehlbacher of the state crime laboratory and Sheriff Willard P. Barnes gathered evidence. The keys in the straw explained to officers why the murderer tried to wire Herrick's car for an escape. Close together were the spectacles worn by both Mr. and Mrs. Herrick. (Ingham County News photo.)

Dedication Comes Sunday For New Legion Building

Near enough to completion for occupancy, Browne-Cavender post's new home north of Mason will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Justice Harry F. Kelly of Michigan's supreme court, who served in World War I, will make the dedicatory address. He is a former governor and a former secretary of state and long active in the American Legion.

As part of Sunday's dedication, there will be installation of officers in Ingham's Legion posts and auxiliary units. Invitations have gone to all 15 posts and auxiliaries to participate. Ingham's 40 & 8, and 8 and 40 chapters have been asked to assist in the joint installation.

Invitations have also been sent to county officials, mayors and presidents of Ingham cities and villages, township officers and school officials, announced Commander Frank Schmidt of the Mason post.

Invitations to the dedication are not confined to Legion or public officials, said the post commander. The public is invited to witness all events, he said.

Eugene N. Houck of Lansing, past department commander, will represent the Michigan department of the American Legion at the dedication.

George Murthum will direct his Mason school band in several selections.

Fire destroyed Mason's Legion Memorial building on Jefferson street uptown in December of 1953. The post and Auxiliary had only $25,000 in insurance on a building with a replacement value of $100,000. Instead of rebuilding at the uptown site where parking facilities were inadequate the post acquired 6 acres of land west of US-127 and south of Pryor road.

Bulldozers went to work to clear the building site on Memorial day of 1954 but the laying of blocks was not started until a year ago.

Used so far in the new building has been $45,000. Between $5,000 and $10,000 in voluntary labor has been donated.

By Sunday, said Commander Schmidt, the floors will be sanded and finished. Some of the kitchen equipment and installations are lacking. Paneling of the interior and finishing of the foyer will be postponed. But the building will be ready for use as a civic center, said Schmidt.

"One thing should be made clear," said Commander Schmidt. "There is no bar and there are no plans for a bar. We've heard the rumor that liquor will be sold at the new Legion building. It is absolutely untrue. At public dances and other entertainments

School District Borrows Money

To finance completion of Steele Street elementary school the Mason school district is issuing $41,497 in short term notes. The notes will be dated October 1 and will mature next April 1. The notes will be paid off by the December 1, 1955 tax levy.

Bids on the sale of the notes will be taken by the school board until 8 o'clock September 21. The notes will bear interest not exceeding 3%.

The school district lacked only $41,497 of having money enough in its building and site fund to pay for the new $151,000 school. There is no bonded debt against the district.

Stockbridge Couple Fall Before Hammer Of Escaped Convict

Hammered to death, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herrick of Stockbridge were found dead in their barn late Monday night. Being sought on suspicion of the double murder is Neely Buchanan, 30, of Detroit, who escaped from Jackson prison early last Friday.

Howard Herrick, 63, and his wife Myra, 62, fell before their slayer Saturday afternoon. From Friday morning until Saturday afternoon Buchanan skulked north of Stockbridge, Sheriff Willard P. Barnes of Ingham and state police officers believe.

The suspect made his way to Mason and then to Lansing following the slaying. The last sure trace of him was at the Greyhound bus station in Lansing Saturday night.

Buchanan, assigned to a trusty detail at the prison, made his escape in a garbage truck. He had the assignment of driving the truck to farms near the prison to pick up garbage for feeding to prison hogs. The prison truck was found abandoned at the Stockbridge athletic field Friday morning.

As reconstructed by Sheriff Barnes, Buchanan took refuge in the Herrick barn on M-92 just south of where M-36 swings east toward Gregory. He had used bales of straw to make a barricade, but was probably hiding behind a door as Herrick stepped out of his car inside the barn. One blow with a ballpeen hammer fractured Herrick's skull, but another blow was struck to make sure.

Herrick had not had time to put the key taken from the car's ignition lock into his pocket and it flew from his hand into chaff on the barn floor. Blood from the blows spurted onto the outside rearview mirror on the car.

Wife Went to Barn

When her husband did not come to the house after driving into the yard, Mrs. Herrick went to the barn to learn why. As she stepped inside the door she was struck down by the burly convict.

The convict, unable to find the key to the car, then tried to jump wires around the ignition. He was unsuccessful. In his attempt he left fingerprints which state police identified as belonging to Buchanan.

Shedding his blood-soaked clothing, the convict dressed himself in a clean suit of work clothes taken from Herrick's car and then started north on M-36. He hitch-hiked a ride with Elmer Rowe to the Millville store. There he said he had car trouble and wanted to hire a ride to Mason to get repairs.

The murderer first asked George Ousley to drive to Mason. He didn't but Jarvey Wireman, employed on the Clark Nottingham farm, did. His passenger paid $5 for the trip. Wireman and Rowe both described Buchanan and told how he was attired.

According to them he wore a green cap with a letter C on the visor and carried a green sports coat. On the way into Mason Buchanan declared he had once played baseball with the Chicago Cubs, a tale which Wireman did not believe. Wireman said his passenger did not exhibit nervousness.

It was about 7 o'clock when Wireman let his passenger off at the corner of Jefferson and Maple, a half-block from the county jail; but 2 days before the murders were discovered.

Taxi Ride to Lansing

At 7:10 the Negro wearing his baseball cap, his working clothes and green sports coat, appeared at Our Cab stand in Ingham court. He said he wanted to be taken to the Lansing bus station and inquired the fare. Told it would be $3.75, he entered Percy J. Ruffett's cab. Just going off duty was Paul Willett. He left his cab and he and Ruffett both made the trip, the cab drivers in the front seat and their passenger in the rear.

On the way to Lansing Buchanan explained that he was due in Chicago to be married that night or the next morning. He laughed and joked over the fictitious marriage plans. He also inquired of the cab drivers about buses to Chicago.

At Lansing Buchanan handed Ruffett a $20 bill. When Ruffett counted back the change Buchanan insisted that the driver keep the fourth dollar bill, making a 25c tip.

Herrick punched out from work on the finishing line at Wyeth Laboratories Incorporated in Mason Saturday afternoon at exactly 3 o'clock. He drove the 15 miles home, stopping across the road at the Harry Doesberg Oakwood

Washington Will Hear About the Grand

Big Money Needed for Little River

On September 20 in Washington the board of engineers for rivers and harbors will consider reports on flood control for the Grand river at Lansing. The hearing is scheduled as an open meeting.

In compliance with a resolution adopted by the committee on public works of the senate on July 15, 1947, the district engineer at Detroit and the division engineer at Chicago, made investigations regarding the advisability of improvement for flood protection for Lansing and vicinity.

The report of the district and division engineers, which is favorable to the improvement, is now before the board for review and recommendation. The reporting officers recommend that a federal project be authorized for flood protection along the river and tributaries at and in the vicinity of Lansing to consist generally of:

Excavation and clearing of the Red Cedar river channel to provide for an enlarged channel from East Lansing downstream through Lansing township to its confluence with the Grand river in Lansing.

Cleaning out of the existing Grand river channel from its confluence with the Red Cedar river, downstream through Lansing to about one mile below the North Waverly road bridge.

Construction of a diversion dam in the Grand river upstream from Lansing to by-pass major Grand river flood discharges around the city via the new cut-off channel between Millet and Delta Mills.

Ripraping and paving the channels at critical locations where the velocity of flood flow might be high enough to cause scouring damage.

Constructing new and reinforcing existing highway and railroad bridges as required.

Making alterations to existing utilities and highways as necessary to meet the conditions of the proposed channels.

Engineers said the work will be done with a view to passing such peak flood discharges in the individual channels as would cause, when combined, a discharge of approximately 25,000 second-foot below the confluence of the Grand river and the proposed Grand river cutoff channel, which is about 10% in excess of the reported maximum flood of record (1904) and about 50% in excess of the April, 1947, flood.

The estimated first cost of the recommended project to the United States is $9,158,000. The recommended work is contingent upon local interests contributing 2.9% of the federal construction cost (presently estimated at $276,000) and giving assurances satisfactory to the secretary of the army that they will furnish without cost to the United States all necessary lands, easements, and rights-of-way, at an estimated cost of $822,000.

Hold and save the United States free from all claims for damages incident to the construction and operation of the project.

Maintain and operate the project after completion, including the existing dams on the Grand river in the Lansing area and the new diversion dam, in accordance with regulations prescribed by the secretary of the army.

Prescribe and enforce regulations satisfactory to the secretary of the army designed to prevent encroachments on the proposed rights-of-way and improved channels.

Construct new highway bridges and grade crossings across the new diversion channel at an estimated cost of $1,213,000. Make all changes and additions to streets, bridge approaches, water mains, electric power lines, sewers and other miscellaneous utilities necessitated by the channel improvements at an estimated cost of $497,000.

Stockbridge Slayings store to have the gasoline tank on his car filled. The store is at the intersection of M-36 and M-92. It was about 3:30 when the car was serviced by Mrs. Doesberg. Before Herrick left the store he told Mrs. Doesberg of plans to spend the Labor Day week end on a trip north.

After leaving the store Herrick drove across the road to his own driveway, around back of the house to the barn where he housed his car.

The Doesbergs and other neighbors did not become alarmed over lack of action at the Herrick place. Herrick kept only a flock of chickens, no other livestock, so there were no chores to keep him and his wife home. He had already told Mrs. Doesberg that he and his wife had planned a trip.

Lester Herrick, a son who lives near Gregory, drove over to his parents' place Saturday. He found the house open, an unusual occurrence when nobody was home, and found the car in the garage. He assumed that his parents had gone for a ride with friends. The son returned Sunday and found the same situation. He concluded that his brother Harold of Onondaga might have come for his parents.

Son Becomes Suspicious
On Monday Lester Herrick returned to the farm again. He fed the chickens, noticed that his mother's parakeet was unfed and saw the car in the barn. He discovered that ignition wires had been tampered with. He also discovered that his father's lunch pail had not been removed from the car Saturday afternoon. He then drove to Dansville to inquire of Mr. and Mrs. Olin West if they had seen his parents. The Wests and the elder Herricks were close friends and made frequent trips together.

When the Wests said they knew nothing of the whereabouts of the Herricks, the son called his sister, Mrs. William Foreman of Williamston. She and her husband and the Lester Herricks then drove to the Harold Herrick home in Onondaga. The Harold Herricks knew nothing about their parents' plans for the week end.

Then it was decided that a search should be undertaken. They took a portrait of their father and mother with them. Harold Herrick stopped at the sheriff's office in Mason to give notice of his parents' disappearance. The sheriff dispatched Deputy W. E. Ganaway to accompany Lester Herrick to the farm.

Deputy Carl Acker was also sent to the Herrick home. As the officers were searching the house the Herrick brothers went to the barn. As they stepped inside they saw the bales of straw and from beneath one bale one of their father's legs protruded. Immediately they saw the body of their mother.

Identification Is Made
Sheriff Barnes, Detective Captain Versile Babcock and other deputies sped to the Herrick home immediately after the finding of the bodies. Some neighbors had already reached the scene. Harry Doesberg immediately informed the sheriff about the Negro who had been given a ride to Mason.

The discarded clothing of the convict was found in the barn. It was spattered with blood, the sheriff said.

Wayne Baker, proprietor of the Millville store, identified a picture of Buchanan as that of a man who had entered the store about 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon, had inquired about bus schedules and had bought a 10c pie.

The sheriff summoned Coroner Darwin Hoffmeyer, Dr. Charles E. Black, pathologist, and Dr. C. W. Muehlberger of the state crime laboratory staff. They discovered Buchanan's fingerprints in the car.

While the theories of the officers and members of the family differ, it is generally believed that Mrs. Herrick either worried about her husband's absence and went to the barn or heard a commotion and went there to find her husband slain. Officers said they found bloodstains in several places in the barn as though Mrs. Herrick had tried vainly to elude her slayer.

Mrs. Doesberg said she heard what might have been a woman's scream shortly after Mr. Herrick left the store. The scream was not repeated, Mrs. Doesberg said, and she concluded the sound probably came from a radio or TV set.

Mrs. Hugh J. Brown, a neighbor, saw Mrs. Herrick feeding the chickens Saturday morning and on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 saw her and waved to her. At 2:30, Mrs. Brown said, she was returning from Dansville. As she drove past the Herrick house Mrs. Herrick was at the mail box and was about to cross the road to the store. She did go to the store and made some purchases, Mrs. Doesberg said.

Officers Find Checkbook

In a search Thursday forenoon Captain Versile Babcock and Deputy Philip Malville discovered Herrick's bank book in a corn field 1,000 feet northwest of the Herrick barn.

Officers picked up the trail of the murderer in the barnyard and followed it across open ground to the edge of the corn field. In the corn the tracks were easy to follow and officers quickly came upon the bank book. The book was issued to Herrick by the Farmers bank of Mason. The last entry was on August 19.

From where the discarded bankbook was found, the tracks of the fugitive led northeast out of the 12-acre field of corn, across the corner of an open field, across the corner of another corn field and thence to M-36. The point on M-36 was about a quarter-mile north of the Herrick home and was where the murderer hitched his first ride, Captain Babcock stated.

Members of the family told officers that 2 pocketbooks usually carried by their father are still missing.

Cap Came from Prison

Prison officials said Buchanan was permitted to wear the baseball cap while driving the garbage truck as trustee. Members of the Herrick family identified the green sports jacket as belonging to Herrick. Members of the family also said they believed Mr. Herrick had about $30 in his wallet. That was missing. Wireman and the Mason cab drivers described the wallet that their passenger carried. Their descrip-

Buchanan was doing 1 to 15 years in Jackson, his second term. He began his second term only in January and shortly became a trustee. Last month the parole board "passed" Buchanan's application for parole, declining to consider it until August of 1957. He could have been paroled next month had he not been "passed." His record showed armed robbery previous to the breaking and entering charge upon which his present sentence was based. Buchanan was sentenced from Detroit. He has relatives there and in Flint. A nephew is on the Detroit police force. Buchanan's wife lives in Flint.

Officers Searched Area

At least 2 search teams from Jackson prison and 2 sheriff's patrols scoured the Stockbridge area Friday after word was received of the abandoned garbage truck. Officers could find no trace of Buchanan then, the sheriff said. They concluded he had made his getaway from Stockbridge.

Sheriff's patrols continued to keep a lookout for the escaped convict Saturday forenoon. Sheriff Barnes stated. They said they could find no one who had seen Buchanan. However, after the discovery of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Herrick, a farmer, who asked that his name not be revealed, told Captain Babcock he had seen a Negro in a corn field east of M-92 Friday, the captain reported.

Herrick had been employed at the Wyeth plant in Mason since November of 1944. He was born October 9, 1891, in Dansville. Mrs. Herrick was born December 8, 1892, in the farm home where she met her death. Mr. and Mrs. Herrick were married December 8, 1913. Both were only children and both inherited family farms. Mr. Herrick one near Webberville and Mrs. Herrick the one at which they made their home. They moved there 14 years ago. Before joining the Wyeth staff, Mr. Herrick worked in a Jackson defense plant.

Surviving Mr. and Mrs. Herrick are the 4 children and 10 grandchildren.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Herrick were taken to Gorsline-Runciman funeral home in Lansing. Wednesday they were moved to Gorsline Bros. chapel in Williamston from where funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 with burial in Fairview cemetery, Dansville. Rev. Frank Cowick, pastor of the Ingham Methodist circuit, which includes the Millville church, will officiate.

Mr. and Mrs. Erie Spenny and family spent the Labor Day week end at Lake George. Monday they visited Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Schneider of Merrill.

4-H Clubs

Sandhill
Members of the Sandhill 4-H club met at the home of Andy Thorburn Thursday evening. All members gave their reports and discussed having a weiner roast in October at the Richard Andrews home for parents and children.

Local achievement day will be November 11 at the home of Ira Ritter. Mrs. Thorburn served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Genco and Tony visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Casarilla of Lansing Saturday afternoon.

Hospital News

Patients discharged from Mason General hospital this week are Mrs. N. K. McBeth and Mrs. Earl Garner of Leslie, Mrs. Edna Bailey, Mrs. Harry Sawyer, Brenda Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clesler Horton, Mrs. Jack Williams, Mrs. Myra Chesney, Mrs. Fred Frye and Mrs. Richard Perry.

Patients in Mason General hospital are John Will of Lansing and Alfred King, Mrs. Nellie Seefield, Mrs. Dayton Rose, Mrs. Glen Dekett, Mrs. Ted Shaffer, Alfred King and Henry Fries of Mason.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. Brown

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie J. Brown, 86, were conducted at Jewett chapel in Mason Thursday afternoon, September 8. She died at Holt nursing home Tuesday afternoon after a long period of sickness. She was in Poston nursing home at Mason for a year.

Born in Eagle January 18, 1869, Mrs. Brown spent most of her life there. She was a member of the Methodist church at Eagle. Rev. Paul L. Arnold of Mason Presbyterian church officiated at the services Thursday. Burial was in Niles cemetery, Eagle.

Mrs. Brown is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred Balderson of Mason, and a son, Donald Brown, Lansing. There are also 4 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren.

PLENTY OF BANANAS

Some 90 million bunches of bananas are shipped out of the American tropics yearly, about 60 million of which come to United States. Bananas grow on woody plants 15 to 30 feet tall, and produce fruit in 18 months from planting time. The banana is one of the oldest known fruits of the world, and perhaps the first to be cultivated by man. Many scholars think it to be the fruit of the Wise Men, although this is difficult to prove, either way. They were found growing native on all south Pacific Islands when white man first got there.

Couple Wed in Candle-Light Ceremony

In a pretty candle-light ceremony Saturday evening at Vantown Memorial Methodist church, Miss Shirley Ann Sly of Webberville became the bride of John Richard Curtis of Dansville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Sly of Webberville. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Curtis of Dansville are the bridegroom's parents.

Rev. Charles Gross, pastor of the Dansville and Vantown Methodist churches, performed the ceremony at 8 p. m. before an altar decorated with white gladioli and palms with a touch of red gladioli and cedar. Witnessing the double-ring rites were 175 guests. Mrs. Dora Diehl of Dansville played Always, Evening Star, O Promise Me and O Perfect Love. Vocal selections, Because I Love Thee and The Lord's Prayer, were sung by William Ansley of Dansville.

For her nuptials, the bride selected a floor-length gown of white dotted nylon fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt. A headdress of white beaded lace held in place her fingertip veil. She carried rubrum lilies on a white satin pillow.

Dolores Gilbert of Morrice, MSU roommate of bride, was maid of honor. For her duties, she donned a white nylon frock with red dots styled with a fitted bodice and full skirt. She carried a heart-shaped arrangement of red carnations and white mums. Mrs. Jack Curtis of Okemos and Miss Joyce Malcho of Dansville were bridesmaids. The bride's attendants wore matching picture hats and carried like floral pieces. Pamela Tiffany of Dansville was flower girl and Kenneth Sly of Webberville carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Twin Is Best Man
Jack Curtis of Okemos was best man for his twin brother, Bill Sly of Webberville and Jack Halbert of Dansville served as groomsmen and ushers were Bob Sly of Webberville and Tom Botsford of Holt.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sly chose a 2-piece dark blue tulle dress and dark blue and white accessories. Red and white roses made up her corsage. Mr. Curtis wore a black tulle dress with red accessories and a corsage of red and white roses.

Bouquets of seasonal flowers decorated the church parlors for the reception immediately following the ceremony. Pictures of the bride and bridegroom framed with hearts of ivy were placed behind the gift table. Bride's cake decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom and 3 bridesmaids, groom's cake, brownies, ice cream, punch and coffee were served by Miss Lauren and Mrs. James Reynolds of Webberville, Mrs. Leland Perrine, Jr., of Dansville and Mrs. Weldon Parker of Lansing. Miss Mary Minnis of Dansville presided at the guest register.

Following a 2-day wedding trip through the thumb of Michigan, the couple returned to make their home at 322 Elm Place, East Lansing. Following the reception, the bride changed to a dark brown princess style frock which she complemented with coffee-colored accessories. The new Mrs. Curtis graduated from Dansville high school in 1953 and attended Michigan State university for 2 years. During the summer, she worked at the D & C warehouse in Stockbridge. Mr. Curtis graduated from Dansville high school in 1951 and is employed at Oldsmobile Division in Lansing. Both newlyweds plan to attend Michigan State.

Following the rehearsal Friday evening, the bridegroom's parents entertained at a luncheon. The hosts served open-faced sandwiches, frozen salad, lemonade, coffee and relishes.

The Zimmers See Sights in Europe, Too

Mason Couple Enjoy Music Festivals

Their ears still ringing with the world's greatest music, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Zimmer are back in Mason after a summer of music festivals abroad. In addition to visiting shrines of opera and classic music, and hearing and seeing famous artists, the Zimmers also traveled extensively both along and outside of tourist routes.

Mr. Zimmer, Mason city engineer and consultant in sewage disposal for other cities, seasoned his music with sewage treatment plants. He ducked a few operas to inspect sewage treatment operations, and he said he was in places where more attention should have been paid to the sewage than to the music. Venice, for instance.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer are not only musically inclined, they are students of music. Mrs. Zimmer is a director of the Wilde conservatory of music in Lansing. She credits her husband with having an even finer ear for music. He has long sung in the Mason Baptist choir. Not only does he have an ear for music, Mr. Zimmer has a tongue for German. His fluency in the German language added to the value of the tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer took the pleasant Homeric cruise to Europe. They sailed from Quebec June 11, down the St. Lawrence and across the Atlantic to La-Havre. They had planned to visit England first but the London dock strike interfered. They first spent 2 days in Paris and then went to Frankfurt-on-Main, the city on the Rhine from where Mr. Zimmer's father emigrated to the United States.

It was at Frankfurt-on-Main that one of the most enjoyable events of the tour happened. Mr. Zimmer called on the city engineer. He insisted that the Zimmers visit the Passavant works in the Rhine valley 85 kilometers away. The company is known throughout the world for leadership in disposal plant equipment. At the factory both Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer were guests at a luncheon tendered them by Passavant executives.

Leaving Germany, the Zimmers went by air to Shannon, Ireland, to join a Study Abroad Tour. First they visited Dublin and were welcomed by the lord mayor.

The tour was planned primarily from the music standpoint, the Zimmers said, but with opportunities along the way to visit contrasting areas of Europe. They liked the tour arrangements with accommodations and guides provided, and with the tickets reserved for music festivals and operas.

After touring the Killarney section of Ireland the tourists went to the international music festival at Llangollen, Wales. That festival drew choruses from all over the world. After 3 days there the tour led on to London with a visit to Rugby and to Cheltenham where the Westminster abbey choir was heard. Then came a trip to Stratford and to the theater there to see Merry Wives of Windsor.

Traveling by way of Oxford, the party went to Norwich to board a channel ship for the Hague. They visited Leyden from where the Pilgrim fathers sailed, and Amsterdam and thence to Paris by train. They were in Paris 4 days, seeing the sights by day and attending concerts, plays and operas by night.

From Paris the way led by overnight train to Cannes and thence by bus along the French and Italian Riviera.

In Italy they visited Pisa and Siena with its famous school of music, stopping to visit beautiful cathedrals on the road to Rome. They were in Rome 4 days. One of the most memorable events of the trip to the Zimmers was an outdoor performance of opera under the stars at the ruins of the Baths of Caracalla.

They went to Assisi to see the basilica of St. Francis, and to Perugia and Arezzo on their way to Florence. Truly, the Zimmers said, Florence is as beautiful as pictured. They were there for 2 glorious days.

From Florence the tour left the beaten track. By bus the tourists went to Italy's east coast. In addition to scenery they saw fertile fields with good crops. They also visited Dante's tomb. Then they headed northwest, stopping at Padua and Naples before reaching Venice.

At Venice, where they remained for 4 days, the Zimmers heard Rigoletto sung by a notable company in the public square. They went on to Verona where they witnessed the staging of Aida, presented from a stage a city block in length. Present at the performance was the president of Italy. At Milan they witnessed more opera at the famous LaScala.

Leaving Italy, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer continued their tour by bus, going into Switzerland. They visited Luzerne and other beautiful sections of Switzerland. It was all beautiful, they said.

Salzburg, Austria, and its famous music festival, was one of the tour objectives. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer said all their expectations of Salzburg were realized. They were guests at a reception given by the mayor. They saw the performance of "Everyman." They saw the presentation of Mozart's Magic Flute in the famous Marionette theater.

From Salzburg the route led to Munich and Nuremberg in Bavaria and to Bayreuth in Germany for the Wagnerian festival. At Bayreuth members of the party were guests in private homes.

It was at Bayreuth that Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer bade farewell to their companions on the Study Abroad Tour and again set forth on their own. They took off for Scandinavia, visiting Copenhagen, Stockholm, Oslo, Bergen and other cities in Denmark, Norway and Sweden. They found Scandinavia gleaming and bright, with excellent food and accommodations and the people eager to be hosts to a new tourist trade.

Leaving Scandinavia, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer crossed the North Sea to Scotland. They visited Edinburgh and were guests at the lord provost's reception. They heard the BBC symphony there and saw presentations of Julius Caesar and the Barber of Seville. At the festival they also saw the Royal Danish ballet.

From Edinburgh the Zimmers drove across Scotland to the west coast. They boarded a plane at Prestwick at 4 o'clock one afternoon and the next morning at 10:30 stepped down at Idlewild airport in New York. After a day in New York they continued their journey by air, flying non-stop from New York to Flint.

Now they're catching their breath. And waiting for hundreds of feet of movie film and Kodachrome slides and black and white films to be processed. "It was a wonderful trip," the Zimmers said, "the result of thorough planning. We were with friendly people on the tour and always and everywhere we found Europeans friendly. We found people eager to know Americans and eager to show their friendliness. From an economic standpoint they are making their way back from the poverty left by war."

Retirement Plan Will Be Debated

Proposed changes in the retirement program for Ingham employees will be explained and discussed at a meeting scheduled for the Delhi town hall at Holt next Wednesday night.

A potluck supper will be served at 6:30. Those who attend are to take their own table service and a dish of food for the table, said Mrs. Inez Swaninger, vice-president of the Ingham County Employees association.

If we would amend the world we should mend ourselves and teach our children to be not what we are but what they should be.

TOP HOLSTEINS at the state 4-H show at Michigan State university last week were owned by 3 Ingham youths. Herb Miller, 18, of Williamston is shown at the right with the grand champion of the Holstein division. Herb is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Miller and is a member of the Vantown 4-H club. In the center of the picture is Joyce Wilson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson of Mason. Her animal won the reserve grand champion award. Miss Wilson is a member of the Canaan 4-H club. At the left, Patricia Covert, 12, of the Northwest Leslie 4-H club displays her cow which won a first place ribbon. Patricia is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Covert of Leslie. The animals were selected from among 168 Holsteins at the show. The Holstein division was the largest of any breed on exhibit. Officials at the show can't remember when all 3 top spots have been won by club members from the same county.

There were other winners in the Holstein class, too. They were William Diamond, Susan Wilson, Polly Diamond and Bruce Thorburn, all of Mason; David Sturman of Yeway; and Harold Oakley of Webberville.

Shirley Glynn of Mason won a second place ribbon in the Guernsey show. Marilyn Potter of Munith won a second place in the Ayrshire class and Joyce Madden placed third.

Two Scientists Return on Visit

Dr. M. R. Curtis and Dr. W. F. Dunning of Miami have been in Mason and East Lansing this week on a combined business and pleasure trip. The 2 women scientists are attending science research sessions at Michigan State university and in between visiting Mason friends and relatives.

During war years the women maintained their cancer research laboratory on Dexter Trail. They moved their laboratory to Mason year and a half ago following release from the army. Mrs. Curtis homestead to carry on their work. They have been working for many years with rats and mice in cancer research. At Mason they also carried out commercial experiments with Caracul sheep.

Five years ago, as a result of a foundation grant, Dr. Dunning and Dr. Curtis moved their cancer research laboratory to Miami.

Holmes Enters College

Raymond E. Holmes of North Aurelius has entered William Jennings Bryan university at Dayton, Tennessee. For 6½ years he has been with the state police, presently on the information desk. He rejoined the staff a year and a half ago following release from the army. Mrs. Holmes will go to Dayton to be with her husband.

Fire Destroys Powelson Barn

The origin of the fire that completely destroyed the Robert Powelson barn and threatened his home is still unknown. It was discovered by Gary Braman who was riding toward the Powelson home on Hawley road to return a saddle horse he had borrowed.

He saw flames at the rear of the barn and quickened the pace of the horse to tell the Powelsons. Mr. Powelson was at work. Mrs. Powelson summoned the Leslie fire department and worked as fast as possible to remove their valuable saddles from the barn. The flames gained such headway that many valuable articles had to be left behind.

Fire Chief Oliver Eckert said that the barn fire was a huge torch by the time the firemen arrived. All their efforts and the 5,000 gallons of water were used to save the house. A brisk breeze carried burning shingles from the barn to the roof of the house.

Nearly 100 friends and neighbors assembled and helped the firemen sweep the shingles off the roof as soon as they fell. Others carried all of the furniture out of the house and carried it back again when the house was out of danger.

Loss is estimated at $3500. Mr. Powelson's chest of tools was lost in the barn as was a new stove, new plumbing fixtures and bathroom fixtures which they had for the remodeling of their home. Quantities of paint and truck parts were among valuable things known to be lost. Their 2-ton 1950 truck parked beside the barn had 4 tires and the paint job ruined before it could be driven away.

The paint on the house and many of the windows were broken from heat.

Grugel Hearing Set for Monday

Examination of former Justice John W. Grugel of Leslie on the charge of embezzlement of justice court funds is adjourned to September 12.

Ingham County Prosecutor Charles E. Chamberlain charged Grugel with having kept fines levied against defendants appearing in his court instead of turning the fines in to the county treasurer. He issued a warrant arresting Grugel on August 18. Grugel was released on $1500 bond.

The examination was first set for 10 a. m. August 28. It was postponed until September 2, at 10 a. m. In Judge McDonald's court in Lansing. The case was adjourned at 10 a. m. without action being taken before Judge McDonald at one p. m. to be heard in the same court room. Justice George J. Hutter of Lansing township presided at the examination.

After 3 1/2 hours of introduction of records by Prosecutor Chamberlain and Assistant Prosecutor Joseph Lavey, Justice Hutter announced adjournment.

Life-Long Resident Is Taken by Death

Mrs. Cora (Harwood) Rocky, 81, died early Sunday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Glen Rocky, of Rives Junction. Mrs. Rocky was a life-long resident of Leslie area.

She was a charter member of the Willing Workers of Leslie, an organization formed at the time of World War 1 to make dressings and other useful things for the armed forces. She was also a member of the Earnest Workers of the Zion church of Rives.

Mrs. Rocky is survived by 3 daughters, Mrs. Hicks, of Rives, Mrs. Lucille Bunker of Leslie, and Mrs. L. C. Kyes of Jackson; 2 sisters and one brother, 8 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at Jupp funeral home. Burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Music Club Begins Year's Activities

Mrs. M. C. Dowling of Jackson opened the Leslie Music Study club year with an address on program planning and a report of the biennial convention of National Federation of Music Clubs, in Miami this year. Mrs. Dowling is chairman of National Music Week, second vice-president of Michigan Federation of Music Clubs and director of the chorus of the Jackson Tuesday Morning Musicians.

Mrs. Dowling stressed the use of all types of American music in planning programs, folk music, Negro music, Indian, historic or chronological music and works of all national composers. She suggested, too, a program embodying international music relationships, telling of the National Federation's project of helping musicians in Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

The suggestion of using talent from the Veterans hospital in Battle Creek for a program, possibly in the form of an open meeting, at which a silver collection might be taken to help with a musical project at the hospital was made.

Mrs. Dowling's talk was given in the setting of a pretty dessert luncheon in the home of Mrs. Harlie Harwood on Olds road. President of the Leslie Music Study club, Mrs. Lester C. Kraft, gave her greetings to members in a brief outline of what belonging might mean to each of them. She thanked her committees for their co-operation in planning a worthwhile year and paid tribute to the record left by former presidents.

Mrs. Ford Chapman sang two selections. There were 2 special guests present, Mrs. Kenneth Tator of Detroit and Mrs. William McDonald of San Antonio, Texas. Mrs. McDonald is chairman of the program committee of the San Antonio Tuesday Music club, which has a membership of 200 and brings 4 major concerts to the city, in addition to their programs for members, only.

Rev. Vernon H. Beardsley's sermon topic for Sunday morning at 11 a. m. will be The Glory of Christ. Rev. Donald H. Carrick will be the speaker at 7 p. m. at their quarterly conference. Communion will be observed Wednesday evening at 8 p. m.

The Big Story

Slightly more than one year ago, we made a decision to change not only the location of our grocery store from the Jefferson Food Market in the downtown area, but to change also our whole concept of merchandising. We affiliated with the IGA (Independent Grocers Alliance) chain of privately owned stores with a central purchasing and promotional set-up.

Your response has been so terrific that now we have been crowded out of our original quarters and have completed an addition which doubles the floor area to better serve you.

To This

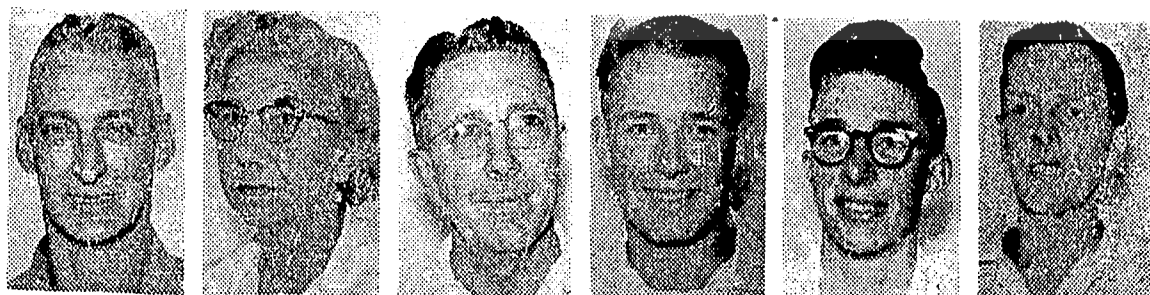

We Now Have

- 40 feet of self-serve frozen foods and ice cream
- 48 feet of self-serve and service meat counters
- 20 feet of self-serve dairy and delicatessen
- 34 feet of refrigerated produce, beer and soft drinks
- 22 feet of drugs and cosmetics
- An enlarged check-out area
- Salt-free and sugar-free diet section
- Parking for 125 cars
- A play area for the kiddies
- Many added lines of merchandise

All this would not have been possible if every member of our staff had not worked to capacity to meet our deadline. We would like you to meet them.

Mason High School Class of 1910 Gathers

Had a teacher been present to call the roll only 2 members of the 1910 graduating class at Mason would have been marked absent at the reunion Sunday. Both would have been excused. One was sick and the other is dead. Present were 17 of the 18 living members. Wives and husbands sent the total up to 23.

The Mason graduates met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dolbee, 710 1/2 Alton road, East Lansing for the reunion they have every 5 years. They had dinner in the spacious dining room of the Dolbee home, served by Mrs. Dolbee assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Gill, and by Mrs. Larry Dolbee.

Following the dinner and a song, the president, Mrs. Lennagene Swearingen, presided at a business meeting. Committee chairmen made reports. At the election L. A. Brower of Birmingham, soon to move to Riverside, California, was chosen president. Mrs. Ethel Thorburn, Holt, was elected vice-president; Walter Dolbee, East Lansing, secretary; and Miss Florence Lathrop of Battle Creek, treasurer.

With the new president presiding, the group gave a vote of thanks to Mr. Dolbee for getting the group together and to Mrs. Dolbee for being hostess and serving the excellent dinner.

Named to a committee to arrange for the next reunion to be on the Sunday next before Labor Day in 1950 were Mrs. Ethel Thorburn, Mrs. Florence Jewett and Walter Dolbee.

Nelson Brown of the Ingham County News took pictures of the group. Copies will be sent to each member of the class present. Mr. Dolbee announced.

There was much visiting and reminiscing beneath the shade on the Dolbee lawn. At departure the guests declared it to be the best meeting they had had.

In attendance were James Avery, Ithaca, New York; Mrs. Lennagene Swearingen, Mason; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Brower, Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. George Thorburn, Holt; Mrs. Lillian Coe, Royal Oak; Miss Ethel Ellsworth Dow, Highland Park; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fowler, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Standish, Coventry, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Huntley, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, Hart; Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Jewett, Leslie; Miss Florence Lathrop and her guest, Mrs. Perkins, both of Battle Creek; Mr. and Mrs. John V. Shaffer, Findlay, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith, Mason; Miss Florence Taylor, State College, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wixson, Grosse Ile; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dolbee.

The only absent member was Mrs. Esther Lott Guenther of Holt, unable to attend the reunion because of illness.

Ernest Cook is the only member of the 1910 class not living.

Norris Wythe and sons of Holt visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wythe Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Zimmerman spent Sunday and Monday in Detroit at the gift show selecting new Christmas merchandise for their shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Orren Wasper of Leslie and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wasper called Sunday on their uncle, Charles Wasper, who is in Sparrow hospital, Lansing.

Mrs. Carrie Westover of Alger is visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Collar Potter. Sunday and Monday guests of Mrs. Potter were, Mrs. Everett Collar, Mrs. Russell Pearsley, Nan Moran and Herbert Taylor.

Mrs. B. L. Palmer returned home Saturday from Washington, D. C., after accompanying her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Shroyer, of Grand Rapids to meet their daughter, Margaret, who has just returned from Frankfurt, Germany, after spending 2 1/2 years under government employment. Margaret Shroyer will spend a month with her parents then return to Washington, D. C., to resume work.

Nortons Direct Methodist Camp At Lake Louise

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Norton spent last week directing the senior high Methodist youth camp of the Albion-Lansing district, at Lake Louise. One hundred and thirty youth were registered and the majority of them were high school juniors and seniors and college freshmen and sophomores.

Twenty-six counsellors and staff members provided leadership for the camp. Among the leaders were Rev. and Mrs. Wilson Tennant of Holt, George Barona of Holt, Dr. and Mrs. Ross McLennan, Rev. Paul Conklin, Mrs. Harry Hunt, Mrs. Ruth Evans, Rev. Meinte Schuurmans and Miss Marilyn Schuurmans, all of Lansing, Rev. Maurice Glasgow of Dimondale and Miss Wilma Ireland of East Lansing.

Mason Methodist youth who attended this camp were Barbara Stroud, Lois Hall, Lee Perkins, Barbara Norton, Dale Caswell, Kenneth Bateman and Ervin Owen.

The preceding week Mason sent 3 delegates to the first camp which was composed of high school freshmen and sophomores. They were Nancy Bray, Judith Hanna and Barbara Norton. Parents providing transportation for the group were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Stroud, Mr. and Mrs. Chellis Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Bray and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perkins.

Office Managers Meet for Session

The Lansing chapter of the National Office Management association, N.O.M.A., inaugurated the 1955-56 series of dinner meetings, Thursday, at Michigan State.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. George Salway, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church. He spoke on human relations in dealing with your employees.

Program chairman for the affair was Walter McComb, controller of Dudley Paper company.

New officers for the year are: Mary Greenfield, Lansing board of education, president; Nick Musselman, branch manager, Friden Calculating company of Lansing, vice-president; Charles A. Rathbun of Mill Mutuals Agency of Lansing, treasurer; and Neva Kirby, office manager, Farm Bureau Services, secretary.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Arnold and family arrived home Thursday from a vacation in northern Michigan. Thursday afternoon they attended the General Motors Powerama exhibit at Soldiers field on the lake front in Chicago. On the return trip they visited Mrs. Arnold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. DeYoung of Kalamazoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Corbin, Mrs. Chuck Corbin and Laura Lynn and Mr. and Mrs. Vance McWhorter, all of Lansing, visited Mrs. C. R. Beebe Sunday. Mrs. L. H. Walters will leave Saturday for New Lothrop to spend a few weeks with friends and relatives.

TENNANT FAMILY REUNION

Fourteen members of the Tennant family observed the 48th wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. George Tennant last Saturday at the Pleasant lake resort lodge near Cadillac. Three of their 5 children present with their families, were Rev. Wilson Tennant of Holt, Rev. Wirth Tennant of Scottville, and Mrs. Raymond Norton of Mason. The chicken dinner which was served at 3 o'clock, was highlighted by an anniversary cake crowned with pink bells. Mrs. Tennant wore an orchid suit with a corsage of pink carnations. Following the dinner pictures were taken and a family worship service was given.

Mason Songster Appears on TV

Mrs. Rita Collar of Mason was a recent guest star with Rem Wall and his Green Valley Jam-boree over WKZO, Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Collar and her husband, Gene, sang with Wall when the band appeared on tour at the Onondaga town hall last winter. Wall asked Mrs. Collar to appear with him on TV and the Kalamazoo appearance was worked out.

Haslett Church Plans Program

Haslett Baptist church homecoming will be Sunday, September 11. An all-day program is being planned for the occasion. Sunday school will begin the services for the day and former pastors will be guest speakers.

Members, old and new, are to take their own table service and a dish to pass for the potluck dinner which will be served in the church parlors Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Lyle Hoag, pastor of the Haslett Baptist church, reports that over 200 former pastors, members and friends are expected to attend the homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jewett and Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jewett returned last Thursday from a vacation trip in the east. They went through Canada, Maine, Massachusetts and Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Alfred Allen visited her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Dowd, of Kalamazoo at their summer home at Gull lake for 3 weeks.

Sanderson-Fairbotham Vows Are Spoken

Given in marriage by her father, Saturday evening, Miss Patricia Lou Fairbotham became the bride of David Earl Sanderson of Lansing. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hersel Fairbotham and the bridegroom is the son of Henry Sanderson of Ogdensburg, New York.

Rev. Robert Worgul of Leslie, pastor of the Aurelius Baptist church, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with a center floral arrangement of white flowers flanked by candelabra. Mrs. Edward Daft played traditional wedding selections. Anthony Vacek of Leslie sang "The Lord's Prayer, Because and I Love You Truly. One hundred fifty guests witnessed the ceremony, attending from Ogdensburg and Lisbon, New York; Eaton Rapids, Grand Ledge, Lansing, Holt and Mason.

A waist-length gown of net and lace over tulle was chosen by the bride for her nuptials. The lace bodice extended to a high stand-up collar, and long sleeves of lace came to points over her wrists. The full skirt was gathered on a scalloped lace peplum. A tiny lace half-hat held in place her finger-tip veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses.

Sisters Are Attendants

Mrs. Ernest Woodman of Holt donned an ice blue waist-length gown when she served as her sister's matron of honor. Her flowers were a cascade of fall flowers. Mrs. Marvin Sutton of Eaton Rapids and Mrs. Lyle Darling, also sisters of the bride, wore waist-length gowns of purple and rose, respectively, fashioned identical to the matron of honor's. They wore matching headpieces and carried bouquets of fall flowers.

Homer Sanderson of Lisbon, New York, was best man for his brother. Ushers were Marshall Fairbotham of Holt and Dale Fairbotham, Beatrice Ann Sutton and Linda Lou Darling, nieces of the bride, acted as flower girls.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fairbotham wore a light blue dress with navy and white accessories. Pink and white roses made up her corsage.

A reception honored the newlyweds immediately following the ceremony at the Aurelius town hall. Fall flowers decorated the hall for the occasion. Mrs. Homer Sanderson of Lisbon, New York; Mrs. Marshall Fairbotham of Holt and Mrs. Dale Fairbotham served bride's cake, bridegroom's cake and punch. Miss Pauline

MRS. DAVID EARL SANDERSON

Hawkins presided at the guest register.

Following a wedding trip in the west the couple will reside at 2737 North Grand River, Lansing. The bride donned a navy blue tailored suit with navy and white accessories for going away. She is employed in the car distribution department at Oldsmobile Division of General Motors corporation in Lansing. She graduated from Mason high school in 1953. Mr. Sanderson graduated in 1949 from Lisbon high school, Lisbon, New York. He plans to attend Michigan State university.

Rehearsal Luncheon Given

The bride's parents entertained at a luncheon in the basement of the church immediately following the rehearsal Friday evening. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

Surprise Party Fetes Mrs. Evans

Mrs. Lester Poyrine and Mrs. Gerald Durlin were hostesses at a surprise birthday celebration Thursday evening at the latter's home in honor of Mrs. DeWayne Evans.

A decorated cake, coffee and mints were served to the guests, after which the honored guest was presented with gifts.

Those present were Mrs. Robert Fletcher, Mrs. Fred Butler, Mrs. Francis Olney, Mrs. Orville Woodard, Mrs. William Carl and Mrs. Milburne Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Richards of Lansing and Mrs. Clair Dexter and 2 sons of Leslie were Sunday guests of Mrs. Maude Richards.

Mrs. Brotherton Dies in Hospital Following Injury

Mrs. Alveretta Brotherton, 82, died in Foote hospital, Jackson, Saturday. She had been there 8 days, following a fall in which she sustained a broken hip.

Mrs. Brotherton was born July 19, 1873, in Dansville, the daughter of Horace Aseltine and Amanda Minkler Aseltine. Except for the past 2 years she had spent her life in Dansville and Mason. She was a Mason resident for 40 years until she went to make her home with a daughter, Mrs. Wynette Aseltine in Cleveland. Recent summers she was with Mrs. Aseltine at Pleasant lake.

For 14 years Mrs. Brotherton had been a widow. Her husband was Amasa Brotherton, mason contractor. Mrs. Brotherton was a member of Mason Methodist church and of the W. C. T. U. chapter in Mason.

Surviving are 2 daughters, Mrs. Aseltine of Cleveland and Mrs. Alveretta Reese of Rives Junction. There are also 2 grandchildren, Philip Aseltine of Bel Air, Maryland, and Roberts Reese of Rives Junction.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at Ball-Dunn funeral home in Mason with burial in Maple Grove. Rev. Raymond L. Norton of the Methodist church officiated. Glen Coon, W. O. Hall, Lynwood Lardlow, William Darr, L. C. Otis and Lyle Howlett were pallbearers.

Hearing Resumes In Grugel Case

Monday forenoon at 10 o'clock before Justice George Hutter in Lansing the examination of John William Grugel of Leslie is scheduled for resumption. It was adjourned last Friday afternoon.

Judge Hutter, Lansing township justice of the peace, became the examining magistrate, taking over from Lansing Municipal Judge Earl E. McDonald, who issued the warrant August 17 charging Grugel, former Leslie township justice, with embezzling $11,807. Grugel had paid the money to the county treasurer prior to the issuance of the warrant.

At last Friday's proceedings only the preliminaries in the proceedings were established, a showing that Grugel was elected and did serve as justice of the peace for Leslie township and that his belated reports and payments were filed with the treasurer.

Most of the $11,807 came from fines and costs in highway truck overloading cases taken before the Leslie justice.

The model husband is always married—to somebody else.

Purse Taken from Store

Mrs. K. A. Zimmerman had her purse taken from a shelf in Zimmerman's Home Service Saturday. The purse contained $30 in cash and 2 checks for $5 each, she reported to police.

Truman Tactics Reveal Pattern

Harry Truman's recent outbursts pretty well outline the kind of smear campaign we can expect from now until election day. Those who have read my past letters to the editor will recall that I long ago forecast that this would happen. I predict that it will grow steadily worse. The president has now been accused of nearly every conceivable crime, but they will think up new ways and new words to call him and the Republican party everything that is bad.

The publisher and columnist, Dave Lawrence, suggests that Truman "is the logical person for the Democratic party to nominate in 1956." He goes on to say that "it is the Truman record which the Democrats are still boasting about as having been so much better than the Eisenhower record and it is a return to Trumanism which the country may expect if it elects a Democrat to the White House."

Lawrence goes on to make the point that just as Stevenson didn't dare repudiate Trumanism, next year's Democratic candidate "will likewise have to campaign in defense of the same doctrines." And he specifically mentions that when "Mr. Truman violated the constitution in seizing the steel industry" he did great harm to our form of government. He mentions the great damage done by Truman's "summary dismissal of General Douglas MacArthur." And he reminds us that Truman has never explained why he kept Harry Dexter White and even wrote him 2 letters of commendation long after the FBI had warned him that White was a traitor.

Truman is a product of the Pendergast gang. His slanderous type of demagoguery therefore comes naturally. It is the stock in trade of such people. Some will remember that I was on the receiving end of the same kind of lying, vicious, personal smear attacks last year. My character, my record and my attitude were deliberately misrepresented in much the same way they now openly lie about the president. They seem to think that some of such slander will stick because they know the president cannot lower himself to reply.

The recent actions and statements of Truman, the Democratic national chairman, Williams and others in that camp now warn us that we are in for another long campaign of personal vilification and misrepresentation. And it will be enlarged to include everyone they seek to defeat.

The people of this country must come to understand that these methods are the product of desperation. They must also understand that Dave Lawrence has put his finger on the real issue. In the next election, the country must decide whether it wants to continue the Republican efforts to restore free enterprise or whether it wants to return to the kind of government we had under Truman. And as Lawrence (who happens to be a Democrat) concludes, the people must demand "specific assurances" that, if the Democratic party comes back to power, it will not again be as soft in handling Communists as it was during the 20 years it occupied the executive branch of the government."

Russian Victory Was a Defeat

From the Ingham County News 1905: "The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia ended August 29 with Russia victorious."

From Outline of History: "The Russians badly led and dishonestly provided were beaten on sea and land alike. The Russian Baltic fleet sailed around Africa to be utterly destroyed in the Straits of Tshushima."

"A revolutionary movement among the common people of Russia infuriated by this remote and reasonless slaughter obliged the Tsar to end the war in 1905. He returned the southern half of Sighelien which had been seized by Russia in 1875, evacuated Manchuria, resigned Korea to Japan."

Some victory.

RAY BULLEN

Editor's note: Indeed the Russians lost instead of won the war with Japan, the war which ended in 1905. The news account in question referred to the magnitude of the Japanese at the peace table. The Russian "victory" stemmed from the decision of Japan not to make Russia pay all war costs nor to make her surrender her navy. In other words, the "victory" came from the fact that Russia didn't have to pay the full penalty as originally claimed by Japan.

Miss Bernice Allen of Mason, a cousin of Mrs. Lawrence, went to the Lawrence home by plane Sunday.

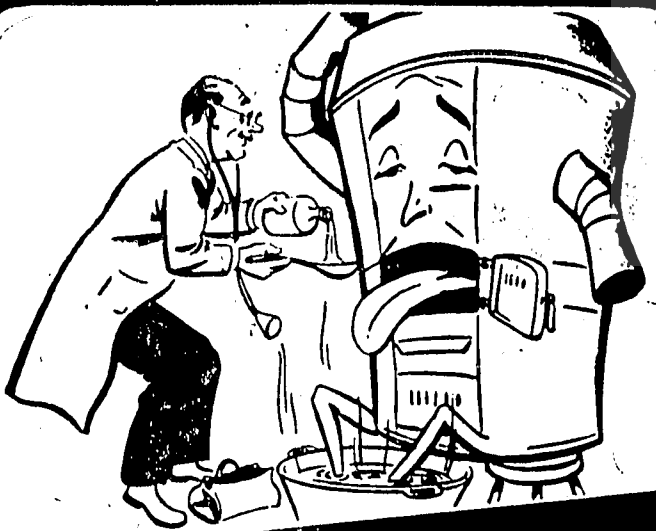

Washington Calls Captain

Captain Frank Guerriero has been ordered to report in Washington for 2 weeks of special training with army counter-intelligence. He plans to leave Mason Saturday, reporting in Washington Monday to begin 2 weeks of schooling with the reserves.

Glacier National Park is much larger than the State of Rhode Island.

Captain Guy Lawrence died suddenly last Friday at his home in Ware Neck, Virginia. Funeral services were conducted at Hampton, Virginia, Tuesday.

Captain Lawrence was graduated from Mason high school in 1901. After a few years operating a farm in Aurelius he went to Hampton Roads, Virginia, to join his father in the shipping business. He became a ship's captain. His wife is the former Elizabeth Royston of Mason. They have 3 children, a daughter, Mrs. Paul

Republicans Will Be Next With Parley at Mackinac

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

State Republicans are rubbing their hands in happy anticipation of their "open to everyone" political get-together at Mackinac Island September 17-18.

They watched a similar meeting of Democratic bigwigs last month with some anxiety. But as the session continued, GOP leaders relaxed.

"They are just rehearsing the same old chatter," said a leading Republican spokesman. "They just haven't got an issue and they know it. The Republican national administration has given the country peace and prosperity; provided the working man with the best income ever, and will probably balance the budget. Personal attacks on Eisenhower have been getting them nowhere, so they must scrape the bottom of the barrel for anything to criticize."

Truman's appearance failed to produce much interest, according to GOP observers. In fact, they believe that it is Democratic worry about the former president's unpredictable statements that caused him to cancel several campaign speeches this fall—not his health as was announced.

Republicans are billing their meeting as the All-Michigan Republican Forward to '56 Conference. Anyone interested in good government is said to be welcome.

Program calls for several nationally known speakers, like Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the national committee, to be present. There will be talks on foreign affairs, finance, domestic problems; panels on such subjects as mental health, education and state economy.

Subdivisions of the GOP will huddle to decide what should be done about winning the state election in 1956. Besides the State Central committee, which will ponder the same problem, sessions have been scheduled for the Young Republicans, Republican women, Republican war veterans, etc.

"A blue ribbon slate." That's the aim of the GOP and its machinations. They are hoping to find a list of well qualified, energetic candidates, with irresistible public appeal. Who they will be—or where they'll be found is not yet certain. In fact, recent trial balloons for candidates for the governor's race indicate that things are very much up in the air.

Peace and prosperity for the Michigan of Tomorrow. That's the announced theme for the GOP Mackinac meeting. A necessary part of any such plan, from their standpoint at least, means the first big job to be accomplished is the organizing of their own party into a machine that can win Michigan elections.

Organized efforts by many local groups will soon be made in a campaign to urge all eligible voters to register. This is part of a national drive, suggested by President Eisenhower, to get out the vote for coming elections.

Cooperating with the idea, Governor Williams appointed a state committee to promote the idea through branches of their individual organizations—political, trade, civic, religious, etc.

Constitution Day, September 17, will see the kick-off of the 7-day drive. The period will be called Citizenship Week. The governor has also issued a proclamation asking for widespread participation in the promotion to insure registration of all eligible voters.

Various activities will be seen in various areas. In metropolitan areas branch registration offices will be set up, manned by firemen, policemen or other volunteers. In other localities, telephone campaigns will be organized. Bulletin boards will remind people to register. Newspapers, radio and TV will carry the message.

Humorous suggestion was submitted by the editor of a northern weekly newspaper in an open letter to the "New Secretary of State—Whoever You Are."

The editor referred to the running battle about the site of the jet interceptor base in northern Michigan, calling it a "Lazy Susan basis, stopping here and there." He suggested that the matter be left to the U. S. navy. The base could then be built on an aircraft carrier, which could steam to the area which satisfied the most political pressures. Other advantages of this plan were listed: No roads required; no television towers; no congressional district boundaries. In the summer it could be moved from the National Music camp area, because, he says, no enemy would be expected to attack during "music season."

Slogans on license plates describing the wonders of Michigan may be abandoned in 1957.

It all started when Secretary of State James M. Hare assigned a committee to a study of highway safety measures and an anonymous attorney questioned the right of the state to advertise on license plates.

Hare mentioned that the National Safety Council was recommending that states drop the slogans to make the digits more readable.

Then came the dissenters. Robert J. Furlong, executive secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council, asked Hare to spare that slogan until the facts could be gathered. He said he had a letter from the National Safety Council, denying a recommendation one way or the other on the slogans. At the moment, the issue still is unsettled.

A parking ticket is the worst you ever expect from the police—so you'd hardly know what to do if arrested.

Sure, I'm a law-abiding citizen and go to church every Sunday. I never intend to tangle with the police.

Let's suppose, though, that a policeman did come to arrest me—or you—on a serious charge. So, first off, I'd want to know that policeman had good reason to be after me, and I'd ask to see his warrant for my arrest. He would have to have one (unless he had all but caught me red-handed), and he would have to show it to me within a reasonable time. That much I know. Then, I guess I'd go along peacefully; not happily, but peacefully.

BEST TRACTOR OPERATOR in Michigan is Carl Minnis, 16, left, Dansville. He took first prize in the 4-H club tractor operators contest during the state 4-H club show at Michigan State university Wednesday. Carl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Minnis of Vantown. His tractor operating score was the best ever recorded at the annual state contest. Carl is shown being congratulated by Robert White, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State university. (M. S. U. photo.)

I know I've got those "civil rights" that start from the time the policeman first appears and—if necessary—follow me right through to the supreme court. But I'd want to take full advantage of every one of those guarantees.

We all know that we can't legally be forced to answer any questions or sign any papers, that we have a right to a prompt court hearing, and that we are entitled to apply for bail. We know these principles from our history books, at least, just like I know in a vague sort of way that American law assures me that I'm entitled to learn the exact charge placed against me, and to have a copy of the formal charge in writing.

It's one thing to know that I possess these rights, but it's a rare occurrence when criminal courts have a serious miscarriage of justice, and that policemen are upright citizens earning a livelihood the hard way, with no authority or desire to harass the innocent. It's something else to know exactly what course to take when you run smack into the law.

Yes, sir, if a policeman came for me and had a warrant with my name on it in big letters I wouldn't give him a hard time, because he has a legal order to arrest me. He wouldn't have that warrant unless some judge or justice of the peace had been convinced by a person with firsthand information, on a signed complaint, that there was good reason to believe I had committed a certain criminal act. Or, perhaps, a grand jury has worked my case over and found enough reason for an indictment. A warrant as a rule isn't easily come by.

Even without a warrant, a police officer could legally arrest me if he had reasonable grounds to believe I had committed a serious crime, or was attempting to commit one.

Although I knew a cop was dead wrong—that I was 100 per cent in the clear—I wouldn't pull any funny stuff. Sure I'm entitled to bring suit for damages in a case of false arrest, but again I'd want some straight advice, for chances are that almost any well-trained police officer could offer pretty strong proof that he had reasonable grounds for his action.

Honoring their parents were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Moore, Treva and Ivan Swift, of Lansing and Forrest and Eleanor Swift of Mason. Noel Canfield was also a dinner guest.

Seniors Organize For Year's Events

With school beginning only last week, seniors quickly organized under the leadership of their advisor, Mrs. Alice Hunt, and are underway with their money making projects.

They have begun picking up magazines and newspapers. Charles Weeks is chairman of the first drive. They will soon be taking magazine subscriptions and selling Christmas cards.

For the magazine subscriptions Geraldine Underwood and Bonnie Ojala are co-chairmen with Clifton Riebs and Margaret Wilhelm as captains. Mary Daman is chairman for the Christmas card committee and her assistants are La Donna Nims and Bob Sly. LeClear studies took the underclassmen and faculty pictures Wednesday and they will have a photographer take pictures of the Dansville-Williamston football game Friday, September 16.

Tuesday, September 20, senior pictures will be taken. Nancy Ellis is general chairman for selling at all high school games. The senior class officers and senior student council representatives met for a governing board meeting and discussed problems pertaining to the allocation of class funds.

WCS Will Meet

The regular meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be Wednesday, September 14, at the home of Mrs. Rosa Anderson. Mrs. Allie Thompson will serve as assistant hostess. There will be a potluck dinner at noon and the business meeting and program will be in the afternoon.

Painting Bee Scheduled

Saturday, September 10, there will be another painting bee at the Dansville Methodist church. It is expected that the outside painting will be completed at this time. Dinner will be served at noon for the workers. Monday evening, September 12, at 8 p. m. there will be a meeting of the official board at the church. It will be presided over by the pastor, Rev. Charles Gross.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Abbott and son of Rives Junction, Mrs. Lenah Abbott of Pleasant lake and Mrs. Mina Otis were Labor Day visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Cort Crossman of Ortonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stetler and Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Taylor spent the Labor Day week end vacationing in northern Michigan.

Mrs. Charles Woods spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. John West of Lansing.

Booster Club Practices Third Verse of Psalm

By Helen Young

All members of the Dansville Methodist Booster club have put into practice the third verse of psalm, O Master workman, O Thou dost the vision send and give each his task and with the task sufficient strength, show us Thy will, we ask, give us a conscience bold and good, give us a purpose true, that it may be our highest joy, our Father's work to do.

There was evidence of His work well done at the eighth annual Booster club auction at Diehl's fields Saturday. This day and for every auction day in the past the weather was perfect.

The auction was a climax to a week of preparation when the community was canvassed for household items, farm equipment, clothing and bake goods. It's a day of fellowship, a homecoming where one meets neighbors from many cities and a circus where 100 children dress up.

Did you see the young woman with a purple hat and orchid-rimmed smoked glasses? For days Dansville will enjoy seeing these youngsters parade. All young girls save their money so they may buy hats, purses, jewelry and dresses at the sale.

The boys, too, enjoy wearing women's hats, decorating them with beads, buttons and pins. The MYF had a part in the sale too, with a lunch stand serving continuously from 11:30 to 7 o'clock.

Like the increase in acreage from the square inch of seed wheat planted in Tecumseh a few years ago called the Dynamic Kernel so the Dansville auction, rummage and bake sale has increased with the following results: Auction sale, $479.65; rummage, $337.89; bake sale, $195.85; total, $1,013.39.

This is an increase of $392.61 from the 1954 sale. The largest share of the articles in the auction were donated. It seems each year the quality of the auction improves and the money received goes into the church improvement fund to be used to build an annex for needed class rooms, kitchen and other facilities.

Sunday School Has Picnic

Forty-five members and friends of the Free Methodist Sunday school attended the wiener roast Friday evening at Consumers park. Following the wiener roast games were played. Later gifts were presented to Vernice Sherman, who has been teacher of the pre-school children's class for the past 2 years. Vernice left Monday for Spring Arbor where she will attend school this year.

Girls Scouts will resume their meetings next Tuesday, September 13, after school at the town hall. The meetings had previously been discontinued because of the summer heat. Mrs. Bernard Gumbold is their leader.

Watch that stumble!

What's the stumbling block that keeps you from believing in Jesus Christ?

Is it the story of Adam and Eve? Check with a theologian and find out what the story actually meant in the original Old Testament language.

Is it the fairy tale of the Great Flood? You'll have to argue with archeologists here. They've proved it happened.

Do you want historical proof that Christ actually lived and worked unexplained miracles? Good libraries can supply such objective, historical writings . . . records written during Christ's generation by those whose only object was to report what was happening. There are the Roman records, and the writings of Papias, and "The Antiquities of Josephus" . . . and that last is something you ought to read, especially the 18th book. Here was a man, this Josephus, who lived during that epic first century A.D. He was an historian, pure and simple. He was not a Christian. He wrote a history of his times, and he mentions Jesus Christ and His miracles and His appearance after death. Josephus speaks, almost with awe, and he concedes that Christ could be the Son of God.

Remember that this is history, not a passage from Scripture. Recorded history, not guesswork.

But common sense plays as big a part in eliminating stumbling blocks as history or anything else.

Stop for a moment and ask yourself why Peter and Paul, two of Christ's apostles, repeatedly risked certain death to preach the gospel. Right in the middle of Rome they preached it, which was tantamount to suicide. And killed they were—one beheaded, the other crucified on a cross.

Certainly they wouldn't face death so willingly if they were inventing the story of Christ's appearance after death, or of God's messages to them. Offhand, I'd say they were mighty positive about the whole thing—positive to the extent that there simply could not have been any mistake about it. Who would lose their head for less?

The important thing, however, is this. Whatever your stumbling block is, be sure you're doing all you can to analyze it. Look for an answer. Try to fight it. But don't be complacent about it, because if there is a Christ—and every fact leans that way—then your complacency, your lack of interest in fact-finding, may just pay you off with an eternity of utter misery.

If you don't believe in Christ, be positive of your facts. Only a fool would do otherwise, because an eternity is at stake.

No Doubt In His Mind This Time!

This happy gentleman has just taken title to his seventh motor car.

And while he would probably have difficulty recalling all the different makes and models he has purchased through the years, there is one thing he knows with absolute certainty: He never felt like this before when he took the keys and made for the open road.

For this is his first Cadillac! And what a glorious feeling it is to know that at last he has chosen the "car of cars"!

Gone are the doubt . . . and the worry . . . and the wonder. This time he knows he's right!

And how quickly and convincingly the evidence will assemble in support of his sentiment!

First of all, there will be the eloquent testimony that comes from the car itself—its magnificent performance . . . its marvelous comfort and ride . . . and its incredible ease of steering and handling.

And then, as he takes the sweep of the boulevard, there will be those quick glances of approval from his fellow motorists to tell him that he is not alone in his judgment.

And, finally, there will be that delighted assembly of family and friends that will be waiting for him at journey's end . . . offering final confirmation of the wisdom of his choice.

Of course, the man who takes title to a new Cadillac today enjoys the double satisfaction of having made the wisest possible choice at the wisest possible time.

Because of Cadillac's increased year-end production, for instance, he will find that he can have prompt delivery on his new Cadillac.

And, as if this were not sufficient in itself, we are also in a position—because of our low inventory of used cars—to offer him a most generous allowance on his present automobile.

Why not come in soon—and spend an hour at the wheel—and let us acquaint you more fully with this unique opportunity?

HOW TALL THE TREES...

How tall the trees, and how straight the road. It cuts unswervingly through the countryside, and the trees border it like sentinels. Sentinels they have been too, walls of protection during the storm, blessed shade when the heat of the noon-day sun is mercilessly strong.

As we go through life, it might be easier if our roads could be that straight. But so often they aren't. So often they are full of unexpected turnings. So often we're tempted to stray from them entirely.

But we, too, have a sentinel to protect us... in the Church. It is there to shelter us in storms, to shade us when we've erred.

The Church teaches mercy. It teaches compassion. It teaches forgiveness. We need the Church, and it is never too late to find it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake; (2) For his children's sake; (3) For the sake of his community and nation; (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Book Talk

Summer hours, effective immediately, at the Mason branch of the Ingham County Library: Monday through Friday, 9-5 p. m.; Saturday, 10-1; Tuesday and Thursday, 7-9 p. m.

Of all knowledge and mental training, reading aloud is the principal means, and reading aloud intelligently the unmistakable, if not the only, sign. Yet this, which was so common when our present generation of mature men were boys, is just what our highly and scientifically educated teachers seem either most incapable or most neglectful of teaching. And yet the means by which children were made intelligent and intelligible readers 30 or 40 years ago were not so remote as to be beyond attainment and use by a teacher of moderate ability and acquirement, who sets himself earnestly to his work.

As it is remembered, that is the way in which children were taught to read with pleasure to themselves and with at least satisfaction to their hearers. Boys of not more than 7 to 9 years old were exercised in defining words from an abridged dictionary. The word was spelled and the definition given from memory, and then the teacher asked questions which tested the pupil's comprehension of the definition that he had given, and the members of the class, never more than a dozen or 14 in number, were encouraged to give in their own language their idea of the word, and to distinguish it from so-called synonyms.

The same class read aloud every day, and the books that were read were of sufficient interest to tempt children to read them of themselves. When the reading began, all in the class were obliged to follow the reader, each in his or her own book; for any pupil was liable to be called upon to take up the recitation even at an unfinished sentence, and go on with it, and if he hesitated in such a manner as showed that his eye and mind were not with the reader's, the effect upon his mark account was the same as if he himself had failed in reading.

If the reading of any sentence did not show a just appreciation of its meaning, the sentence was stopped, and the class for a better expression of its sense. Words were explained. If they were compound words, they were analyzed; the different shades of meaning which words have in different connections were remarked upon, and the subject of the essay, the narrative, or the poem which formed the lesson for the day, was elucidated.

How to Read Books

Lord Bacon says: "Some books

JERRY LEWIS, masquerading as an 11-year-old in an attempt to evade a killer, threatens Dean Martin with his milk-pistol in this hilarious scene from "You're Never Too Young," coming to the Fox Sunday and Monday. The newest VistaVision, Technicolor comedy co-stars Diana Lynn and Nina Foch and 200 teen-age girls.

are to be tasted, others swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested; that is, some books are to be read only in parts; others to be read, but not curiously; and some few to be read with diligence and attention.

"Novels," says Thackeray, "are sweets. All people with a healthy appetite love them, almost all women; a vast number of clever hard-hearted men, judges, bishops, chancellors, mathematicians are notorious novel-readers, as well as young boys and sweet girls, and their kind, tender mothers."

The book which makes a deep impression upon a young man's mind often constitutes an epoch in his life. It was the reading of the Pierre which first lit the poetic fire of Keats. "A love of books," said Thomas Hood, "preserved me from moral shipwreck." The great scholar, Erasmus, said "I can never read the works of Cicero... without fervently pressing them to my lips."

The nucleus of a valuable library can be formed with a dozen well selected books, and the same number can comprise an extensive course of reading if chosen in a scholarly manner, and read with proper appreciation. It is one thing to talk about books and what they treat of, and another thing to know about them.

How many people of the present time have read Milton's Paradise Lost, or Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress? Yet those 2 books have been read more extensively by the scholars of the world than any other books, and the grandest existing types of a purely imaginative literature.

"It has been said," observed that astute writer, Samuel Smiles, "that a man may be known by the company he keeps in his books."

Note: The above excerpts were taken from GEMS OF DEPORTMENT AND HINTS OF ETIQUETTE, by Mrs. M. L. Rayne. Now in the Ingham County Library, this book was published in 1861.

Martin and Lewis Present New Film At Fox Theatre

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis' newest film, "You're Never Too Young," will be at the Fox theatre Sunday and Monday. Diana Lynn and Nina Foch co-star in the Technicolor laugh film.

An Indian war that took 2 years and 10,000 lives before it came to its halt, is pictured in Columbia's "Seminole Uprising," starring George Montgomery at the Fox theatre Friday and Saturday. Karim Booth is featured in the film, which was photographed in color by Technicolor.

"Davy Crockett, King of the Wild Frontier" will be at the Fox theatre Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday as a full-length adventure in color by Technicolor and wide screen, produced by Walt Disney.

Directed by Norman Foster, the historical drama depicts the legendary life story of Davy Crockett from his young manhood in the backwoods of Tennessee, where he fought Indians under the command of General Andrew Jackson, through his political career as a canny legislator and U. S. congressman, to his final days at the Alamo, where he met a patriot's fate with Colonel Jim Bowie and other heroic volunteers.

Bridge Builder Helps Students

The regents of the University of Michigan have announced the receipt of a $10,000 gift from D. B. Steinman, designer and chief engineer of the Mackinac bridge, to establish a scholarship fund in the school of engineering.

The grant was made through the David B. Steinman Foundation, established by Dr. Steinman and his family to provide financial aid to deserving students to enable them to complete their engineering education.

During the past 6 months the David B. Steinman Foundation has given a total of $60,000 in grants to 6 educational institutions. The gifts are inspired by Dr. Steinman's life-long gratitude for similar aid he received in the form of scholarships and fellowships as a student.

New Fords Offer 5 Safety Features

Ford Motor company has announced that its 1956 cars will feature a 5-part package of safety devices aimed at reducing injuries to passengers in the event of highway accidents.

The safety devices are a result of Ford's crash-injury program, embodying a new safety concept of "protecting the passenger" as a means of limiting injuries.

The injury-prevention study is a companion project to Ford's accident prevention program which includes the development of such things as better brakes and improved steering.

Announcement of the 5-piece safety package was made during the 2-day national safety forum and crash demonstration sponsored by Ford at Dearborn, and attended by 100 traffic safety specialists from the U. S. and Canada for the purpose of exchanging safety information informally.

The new safety features which will appear when the 1956 cars are introduced include:

1. A deep-center safety steering wheel which slowly gives way under crash impact, thus absorbing the energy and distributing it over the driver's chest. This, engineers explain, is safer than steering wheels which collapse under impact, exposing the driver to the steering column. Automobile crash injury studies at Cornell university show almost 40% of all injured drivers are hurt on the steering assembly.

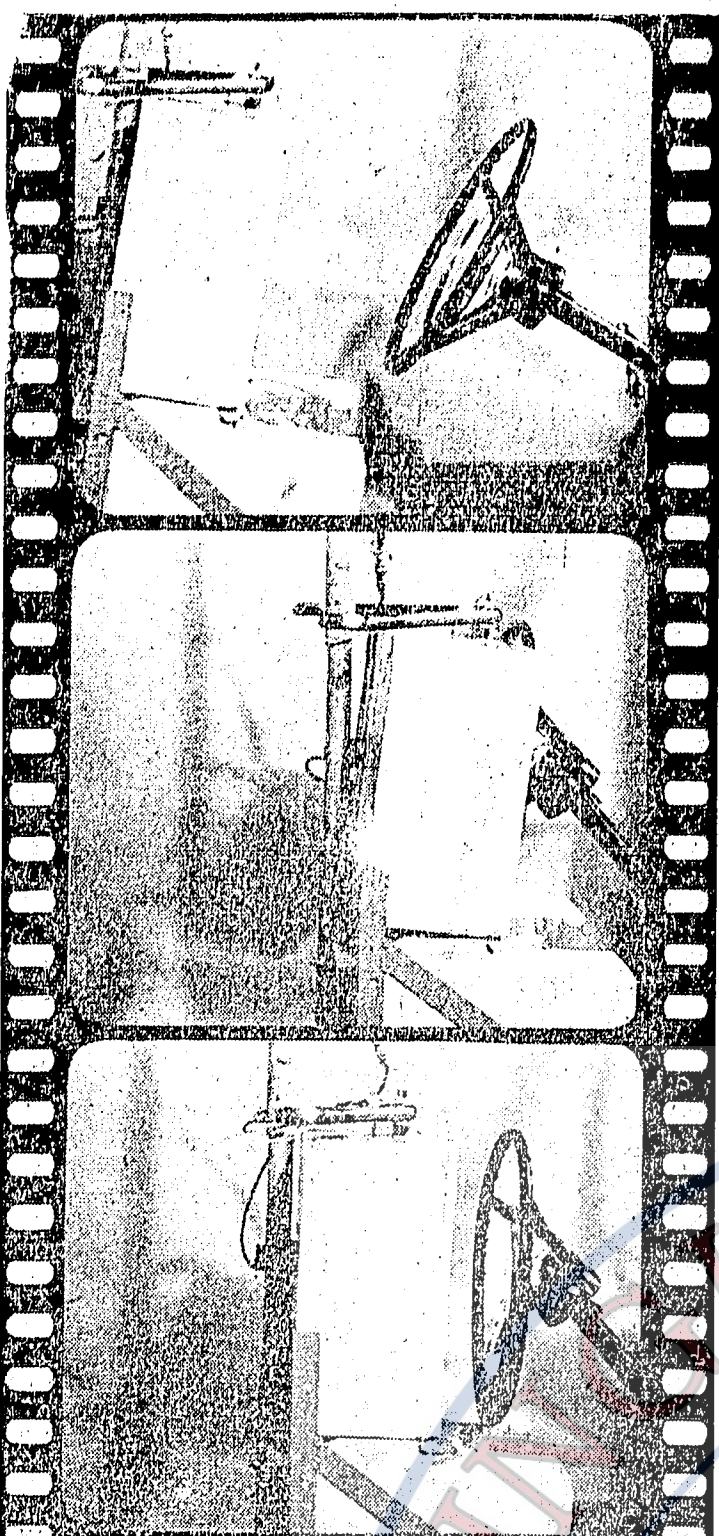

2. Safety door latches, designed to prevent the door from springing open under impact, thus giving the passenger added protection against being thrown out into the road. Research by Indiana state police and at Cornell indicates a passenger's chances of escaping injury in an accident are twice as great if he remains within the protective shell of the vehicle.

3. Seat belts which are structurally anchored to the vehicle with a steel plate. The restraining belts not only help retain an occupant inside the vehicle, but also reduce the possibility of his being thrown against the instrument panel, header bar and windshield area. Belts will be available for both the front and back seats in 1956 models.

4. Crash cushioning which will be available for the instrument panel and sun visors. The padding, 5 times more shock-absorbent than sponge, depresses under impact and distributes the force over a wider area of the head or body. Cornell research indicates that about 38% of the injured front and center seat passengers are hurt on the instrument panel.

5. Safety rear view mirrors which have a specially prepared backing to reduce the possibility of glass falling out when shattered. Research indicates about 4% of all injuries to front seat passengers in accidents are received on the mirror.

In addition, Ford has redesigned the mirror frame and the front and back seat supports to reduce the possibility of seats coming loose under severe shock.

Cornell researchers have found that almost half of all injuries suffered in automobile accidents are received on the steering wheel, the instrument panel, the mirror, or by being ejected from the vehicle.

The new Ford concept of "protecting the passenger" is based on the principle of first trying to keep passengers within the vehicle during an accident, and then designing car components to help occupants absorb the energy of the crash.

Each of the devices has undergone numerous evaluation tests in the field, including simulated accidents in which life-like dummies rode in cars which were crashed into each other or into concrete and earth barriers.

Official opening of Tacoma Hills, formerly the Kirkpatrick farm, east of Okemos, has been set for September 11 by Albert Ehinger, president of the Ehinger Realty company. One feature of the huge project is a 700 by 300 ft. artificial lagoon surrounded by large homesites.

September 11 will be rally day for church school at Okemos Community church. Potluck dinner will be served in the parlors at 12 noon. Mrs. Winters will give a brief summary of the international Sunday school convention with special mention on the home and church emphasis.

Pioneer guests day and picnic was at the Okemos Community church, with an attendance of 48. The program consisted of music by Archie Barnes and his sister, Mrs. Palen, and history by Miss Jessie Turner. Mrs. Leslie Buxton and Mrs. Musselman participated in a guessing contest. Group singing followed. Guests were from Mason, Lansing, Detroit, Flint, Howell and Eaton Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Weaver and family of Detroit spent the week end and Monday in Okemos with their parents and other friends.

Mrs. Ida Carr of Eaton Rapids and Mrs. Agnes Young of Flint spent several days with their nephew and niece, Robert and Jessie Turner. They attended pioneer guests day Wednesday.

Mrs. Frank Blackledge spent the past 2 weeks at Inckinaw City.

Mrs. Ida Jackson spent the past week in Detroit.

Mrs. Kate Linn and Mrs. Nova Whiting attended a shower for the Joe Griffith baby at the home of Mrs. Minnie Morse in Lansing recently.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me. And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life. (John 5:39, 40.) Read II Timothy 1:1-7.

The late H. G. Wells tells a story he called "The Pearl of Love." A young prince of North India married a beautiful princess. After a year she died. He resolved to erect a worthy monument. The body was placed in a stone coffin, and over it a building begun. Each year more was added, keeping in the structure a central aisle. The prince called in an architect to plan for future development. He told the prince that one thing marred the harmony along the aisle. It was the stone coffin. Could it be removed? "Yes," replied the prince, "take it away." He overlooked the original purpose of the building.

The Pharisees asked Jesus why His disciples did not walk after the tradition of the elders. He replied that the elders had left the commandments of God to walk by the traditions of men to follow the commandments of God. So must every generation of Christians.

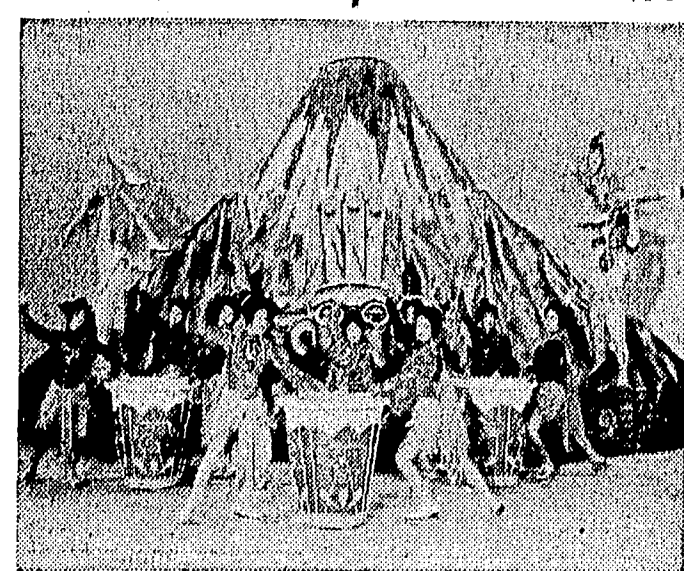

PRAYER

Our heavenly Father, sometimes in serving Thee we think of the measure of our successes and fail to honor Thee. Help us not merely to point people to Christ but also to live so close to Him that we can take them with us into His presence. May Jesus Christ be all in all to us. In His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

I pray my religion may be not a form but a force.

Ice Show Will Open Civic Center

USING AN AZTEC SCENE, starring Sook and Roman, Bob Saccente, Genevieve Norris and John Dietel, Holiday on Ice of 1956 presents the "Bolero" of Maurice Ravel. Eight production spectacles will be seen with the show when it opens a 7-day engagement at the new $4,000,000 Lansing Civic Center from September 28 through October 4.

As the contractors are putting the finishing touches to Lansing's new $4,000,000 Civic Center auditorium, Manager Charles Zogas announced the first event will be "Holiday on Ice of 1956."

In announcing the event, Mr. Zogas said, "For the grand opening of such a beautiful building, we wanted to present class entertainment and were fortunate in obtaining Holiday on Ice, which has now become the world's largest producer of ice shows."

The 11th edition of "Holiday on Ice" is all brand new, featuring 8 costumes, production numbers and 25 acts, plus comedy that make up each 2½-hour performance. Included will be "Bolero," with the music of Maurice Ravel, an erupting volcano and starring Genevieve Norris, John Dietel, Jeanne Sook, Ted Roman and Bob Saccente.

Another number is "Noah's Ark" with animals and the 40 days of rain. The rain effect is produced for the first time on ice. There is a grand finale with a winter-time theme that includes snow, snowballs, sleighs and reindeer in which the entire company appears.

Performances will be presented each evening at 8:00, with matinees Saturday and Sunday at 2:30.

MASON PUBLIC SCHOOLS SCHOOL DISTRICT
INGHAM COUNTY, MICHIGAN
NOTES

Sealed bids for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of Mason Public Schools School District, Ingham County, Michigan, of the par value of $41,497.00 will be received by the undersigned at the High School Building, in the City of Mason, Michigan, until 8:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, on the 21st day of September, 1955, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

The notes will be dated October 1, 1955, will mature April 1, 1956, and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding three per cent (3%) per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company to be designated by the purchaser of the notes. Denominations and form of notes to be at the option of the purchaser. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such notes must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from October 1, 1955, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the School District. No proposal for the purchase of less than all the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

The loan is in anticipation of the December 1, 1955, tax.

Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Notes."

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the School District must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, Attorneys, Penobscot Building, Detroit, Michigan, which opinion will be furnished, without expense to the purchaser of the notes prior to the delivery thereof, approving the legality of the notes. The purchaser shall furnish notes ready for execution at his expense. Notes will be delivered without expense to the purchaser at a place to be designated by the purchaser.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Folly Tainted with Pork

Being perpetrated upon the people of the United States generally and upon the people of Ingham and Eaton counties specifically is a costly piece of folly — folly tainted with pork. The folly will cost the people of the United States $9,158,000 for a starter. The first cost to Ingham and Eaton residents will be $2,532,000.

The piece of folly is the piece of pork which in the congressional pork barrel is called Rivers and Harbors. Out of that barrel politicians expect to get a total of $11,690,000 for controlling non-existent floods on Grand river.

Only twice in 51 years, just once in 50 years, have spring freshets done damage to any Lansing structure not located in the river bottom.

For this $11,690,000 the federal government wants to make a new river to by-pass Lansing, a new river extending from Millett upstream from Lansing to Delta Mills downstream. That and the building of a diversion dam to send water into the new channel is the big part of the deal. The little parts cover cleaning and dredging present Red Cedar and Grand channels, things which we could do for ourselves at a fraction of the cost that will come from federal participation, building new highways and bridges and buying a lot of land.

To snatch the $9,158,000 piece of pork, Ingham and Eaton residents must furnish all lands, easements and rights-of-way at an estimated cost of $822,000, must forever hold and save the federal government free from all claims for damages incident to construction and operation of the project, must maintain and operate the project in accordance with regulations laid down by the secretary of the army, must construct new highway bridges and grade crossings across the new diversion channel at an estimated cost of $1,123,000, make all changes and additions to streets, bridge approaches, water mains, electric power lines, sewers and other utilities necessitated by the channel improvements at an estimated cost of $497,000.

And then, of course, when spring freshets come there will have to be other federal projects built downstream at Portland and Ionia and Lowell and Grand Rapids because they'll get water from upstream that much faster.

Already, federal district and division engineers have recommended the improvement. A hearing was conducted on the proposed project in Lansing April 15, 1948, and all the federal, state and local politicians liked the smell of pork. Privately they all knew then and know now that if the channels are unobstructed by building encroachments there would never be a flood.

All the engineers and the public officials know that for a fraction of the first cost and a far less fraction of what the final cost will be every piece of property now encroaching upon the river bottom and all the lands along both sides could be bought and developed into a public park.

State officials employed by the water resources commission profess to be frightfully concerned over the dropping of the water table at Lansing and elsewhere in the state. They make speeches deploring the trend to hurry water off the land. Here's the chance for executives of the state water resources commission to make an effective protest over wasting water and hurrying it off the land.

Next year is another campaign year. All candidates for public office will be swarming the hustings telling all who will listen that they favor economy, a balanced budget and decentralized government. The September 20 hearing on an $11,690,000 boondoggle should provide them an audience.

So let's be listening: Or if you don't think it wise to supinely wait for the answer in such a case, you might be able to put in a word. Write or telephone your U. S. senator or congressman, your state senator and representatives, your mayor or township supervisor, your county drain commissioner, your own soil conservation district if you're a farmer. Speak up now or don't go around a few years from now deploring this huge sum wasted on a needless project.

Research Could Make New Crop

In the midst of boom business conditions, farmers are having a struggle. Research has not only made two blades of grass grow when one grew before, research has made two ears of corn, two kernels of wheat, and two bales of cotton grow where one grew before. And the market can't take the surplus. Unless remedies are quickly found, farmers will have to have bigger and bigger subsidies.

Research has brought about higher yields of things we don't need. Research could also bring higher yields of things we do need. Among those things is fiber for making paper.

The name of paper itself comes from the ancient Egyptian papyrus. A little research has shown that paper can be made from cotton, from bagasse (sugar cane pulp), wheat straw and cornstalks. It has not been feasible to make paper from straw as a byproduct or from cornstalks as a byproduct. But scientists ought to be able to develop wheat with straw growing 10 feet high, wheat grown for straw instead of grain. Such straw might make paper-making profitable. The same with cornstalks. Or perhaps bamboo, or box elders, or some other species of tree could be hurried along to make pulpwood crops in 4 or 5 years after planting.

There is little point in taking acreage away from wheat to plant more corn, and then to take acreage away from surplus corn to plant for surplus beans, or for pastures to produce surplus milk. Surpluses keep multiplying. What is needed is to devote acres now used to produce surpluses into crops for which there is or could be profitable markets.

Fiber for making paper is one market where there has not been for many years a surplus; and where in the foreseeable future there will be no surplus.

Agriculture now produces more food and fiber than present markets can use. Forest management doesn't produce enough wood pulp to begin to meet domestic needs. In such situation research ought to pay handsome dividends.

Agriculture and industry should conduct joint operations on a new fiber crop, a crop which will employ crop land for pulp production, not as a byproduct but as a primary crop.

Highway Lessons Learned

The 25 miles between Jackson and Mason on US-127 may be constructed as a limited access highway.

Really there isn't much point in building such a costly highway without making it of limited access. To move traffic, as toll roads have proved, access must be limited.

Between Mason and Lansing the divided highway does not permit full use because it is used as a city street. Residents come out of their driveways directly into the path of traffic. Store customers duck in and out of traffic. Not only does unlimited access slow traffic, it constitutes a hazard which increases day by day.

With the millions being added to Michigan's highway investment we ought to see to it that 4 lanes carry 4 lines of cars, not 2 lines in the middle, with right-hand lanes reserved for turning off and on and for parking.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Just as Winter lingers in the lap of Spring, Summer lingers in the lap of Fall. While Summer does not expire by the almanac until September 23, here in Michigan Labor Day is about the end of it.

Even though the sun is warm the cold nights and the cool air make sun bathing more comfortable than bathing in water. I took an assortment of children and grandchildren over to Big Portage for a last fling Monday afternoon. There were just comfortable positions—all the way under or all the way out.

The Sunday and holiday average of 500 swimmers had dwindled to a hardy 25 or 30. The end of summer had come—had come while some people were still talking about the heat.

I earned my Monday afternoon fling by 3 half-days of toil. Thirty years ago I built a garage in the wrong place and for 30 years kept packing it with the wrong things. Last Thursday night I emptied it, and Friday Buster Whipple and his helpers moved it. But they didn't break up the concrete foundations and floor and they didn't sort out and haul away the junk which had accumulated through the years.

Skis, skates, bicycle and tricycle wheels, ball bats, bed-springs, discarded table lamps, chicken fencing—load after load came out of that small garage. Only hand tools and the lawnmower went back. The rest went to the Kiwanis sale and the city dump. The greatest salvage was a tin filled with about 10 lb of popcorn, some of the 1939 crop. We tried a batch and every kernel popped.

To set the record straight, a recent social item was in error. The item set forth that Glen Dunn made his first plane trip and upon his arrival at Harbor Springs was greeted by his wife and 2 daughters. It wasn't his first trip by many thousands of miles going back to navy days. It was his first trip in a single-motored plane. He was greeted by his wife, his daughter Deborah and his new son Bruce Ball Dunn.

Back in 1910 Mason high school girls must have graduated before they reached their teens. I took a picture Sunday afternoon of the 1910 class reunion and the women looked to be in their 40's instead of their 60's.

Two members of the 1908 graduating class from Saginaw Arthur Hill are now serving together in the cabinet of President Eisenhower. They are George Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, and William Marion Brucker, secretary of the army. Humphrey was president of his class and a member of the 1907 state championship football team.

Ingham people need have no inferiority complex because patronage at the county library runs 80% juvenile, only 20% adults. A recent Gallup poll taken nationally showed that 73% of the people interviewed had not read a book within the past month and 61% had not read a book within the past year.

Vernon J. Brown has a batch of pedigree barn kittens, guaranteed mousers. In the interests of mouse control he's giving them away free. They're half-grown and completely trained on mice and small rats.

As you look at your watch this week reflect upon the heroic action of Mason aldermen in 1905. They adopted standard time 50 years ago and it has stuck with us since. What was originally adopted was central standard time. World War I caused a temporary shift to daylight savings and after a few years of veering back and forth, eastern standard was adopted. In World War II clock-tinkering brought on daylight savings beyond eastern standard, but the glorious victory set the clocks back to eastern standard and that's where they're apt to stay until WWII.

Of course, everyone didn't conform to standard time 50 years ago just because the city council approved it, but it took the heart out of arguments about what time it was. For another 10 years many farmers still had their clocks set for sun time.

Time always made a good subject of conversation when city folks visited their country cousins. A couple of hours before farewells were to be said the matter of time would come up, and the country hosts would begin to reckon how much sun time they would need to hitch up and get their guests to town to catch a standard time train. All the way to town watches would be consulted with frequent glances at the sun to confirm or to refute theories on time.

At Mason sun time, as I recall, was generally considered to be a half-hour faster than central standard, or railroad time. Actually it must have been 22 minutes faster than central standard, which now makes sun time 38 minutes slower than eastern standard time.

The United States has used standard time since 1883, but it was not until March 19, 1918, that congress finally established limits for the various time zones.

So Mason's city council in 1905 was 13 years ahead of congress.

Here's a suggestion from a Vevay resident which merits consideration by the county park board: Instead of letting Rayner park ponds grow only green algae why not plant pond lilies and give people the pleasure of looking at white, red and yellow blossoms all summer? If the park board says the word, individuals or clubs may lend a hand with the planting.

Now that schools have started up again, one of the most frequent questions which teachers ask without knowing the answer themselves is the elevation of Mason. So here it is, right at the start of the year: The southwest corner of the court house square at ground level is 920 feet above sea level. Let's make that the first science lesson of the year.

All G Bonds Are Not Due

Last week on this page appeared a piece stating that war bonds of series G no longer draw interest. That was a mistake. G bonds which have matured no longer draw interest, but all G bonds have not matured.

Some G bonds will not mature until May of 1964. G bonds which have matured 12 years from date of issue no longer earn interest. Others which have not matured are earning interest.

Farm Price Decline Gives Ammunition to Politicians

By CARL COLLIN

The drop of 2% in farm prices from mid-July to mid-August has added fuel to the fire of an already blazing political controversy over falling farm income. Democrats are laying plans to make sagging farm income a major issue in 1956. Claude Wickard, Indiana farmer and former secretary of agriculture, has been named head of a committee to map plans for the campaign. Charles Brannan, another former agriculture secretary, is also on the committee.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson is on the spot because of the continued declining farm price situation. They've moved in only one direction since he became head of USDA — down. At the same time price-depressing influences are more widespread than before he became secretary. His current trip to Europe is an effort to reduce surpluses and relieve some of the downward pressure on farm prices. It's possible that GOP political strategists may force a revision of Benson's flexible price program to counteract probable demands for higher support prices.

Farm organization officials want some action on the part of USDA to stop downward trend in farm prices. Grange Master Hershel Newsom recently criticized USDA officials' story that the present slump in farm income is toward a normal, desirable balance.

One of Benson's top aides said recently that farmers' pocket-books are about the right size for peacetime. They shouldn't yearn for "dream world" prices of the post-war era, which may never happen again. Newsom countered that it's not fair that farmers should be getting less income while almost everybody else gets more. Shouldn't farmers share in the boom too? That's the problem the administration faces with an election scheduled next year.

USDA moved in fast with a proposed potato diversion program to help stop falling potato prices. Payments of 30c to 50c per cwt will be made to growers who sell their potatoes to starch or flour plants or for livestock feed. The subsidy will apply only in states where the local potato industry develops a satisfactory marketing plan to cut the flow of potatoes for ordinary eating purposes. (About 60% of all potato volume is already regulated under local marketing plans.)

Those who like to propagate their own plants might check into the use of sphagnum as a medium. USDA has a new bulletin called "Sphagnum Moss for Plant Propagation" which describes in detail the use of the moss to germinate seeds, root cuttings and rooting older branches by air-layering. I've used this moss for a couple of years to help get small plants started. There's something in the moss which is supposed to cut down loss from damping off. It's nice stuff to work with too.

A private crop forecast has estimated the total corn crop dropped about a quarter of a billion bushels in August. The sharpest drop in yields occurred in states west of the Mississippi with several states east of the river gaining. It will be interesting to see what the official USDA report has to say about the corn crop as of September 1. The government report is due out September 10.

Corn here in Michigan has been hurt by the dry, hot weather. Yields were reduced severely in many southwestern and central counties.

The wheat crop in Canada made a terrific comeback this year. Wet weather in the spring held back planting, but excellent growing weather brought on a crop of about 500 million bushels, up 201 million from last year. The quality of the crop is reported very good. Just what our Canadian friends are going to do with this huge wheat crop is a problem. Right now port elevators are jammed with old-crop wheat and storage space at interior points are loaded too.

The decline of the hog market during August was the worst in history for the month. Chicago buyers paid an average of $15.30 for the month's supply, according to Drovers' Journal. The average was down 30c from July and the largest August price slump in 29 years. Percentage of packing sows was the smallest since May.

Miscellany. . . U. S. farmers touring Russia were amazed to see huge tractors pulling up to 10 plows at once; spring tooth harrows 40 feet wide are common. At a testing station they saw a 27-foot self-propelled combine. . . Next spring, seed of hybrid grain sorghum will be available to growers in limited quantities for the first time. USDA scientists figure that in the next 5 years most of the 10 million acres now planted to open-pollinated varieties may be planted with new superior varieties. Hybrid seed can boost yields as much as 35%. . . World's biggest terminal elevator with a capacity of 16.3 million bushels is at Enid, Oklahoma, and owned by a federation of co-ops.

Keeping good alfalfa stands with topdressing requires a properly limed soil and a good alfalfa stand to start, caution Michigan State university soil scientists.

Cattle With Brucellosis Are Tagged

Cattle found to be reactors in the Michigan brucellosis eradication program must be permanently identified, according to state regulations. This identification helps make sure reactors will not become confused with clean animals, says M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

Reactors are required to be branded with a letter "B" 2 inches or larger on the left jaw and a reactor tag placed in the left ear. If the reactor is to be kept in the herd for a time, a tattoo is also placed in the left ear indicating the date of reaction.

To qualify for indemnity payments for the reactor cattle, the owner must dispose of all of his reactors within 15 days after branding and appraisal. Appraisal must be made on the farm. Sale of the reactors must be made to an approved slaughterer or through an approved livestock auction yard, according to Avery.

Maximum indemnity paid on reactors is $25 on grade cattle and $50 on registered cattle. The indemnity cannot be more than one-third of the difference between the appraisal value and the net salvage value. Information on making application for indemnity payments may be obtained from the veterinarian doing the testing work or from one of the 24 area-supervising veterinarians in the state.

Blood testing done by state or federal veterinarians does not cost the herd owner, says Agent Avery. Reactants may be made on reactor animals but at the herd owner's expense 30 to 60 days after the original test. Avery pointed out.

Records Show Farm Profits Make Pattern

By KENNETH L. BROWN

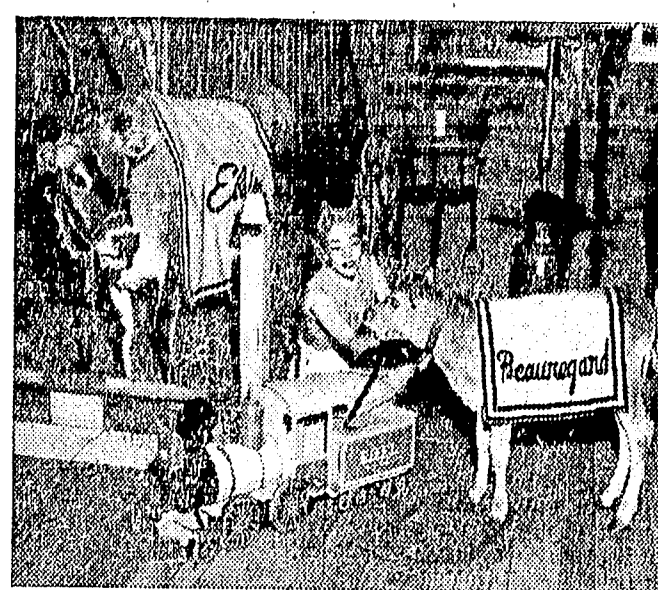

Why do some farms pay better than others? According to Michigan State university records on 133 farms in and around Ingham county during 1954 there was a difference of $632 a month labor income between the average of the one-third most successful farms and the one-third least successful farms. Labor income is what is left for labor and management after taking out cash expenses, an allowance for family labor other than the operator, and interest on the investment in 5% from total cash income. Inventory changes either up or down are also allowed for. This labor income puts farms on a fairly equal basis to allow for differences in family help and money invested.

During the past week I have spent a couple of days with Michigan State university agricultural economist Dick Wheeler visiting 21 Ingham farmers who kept farm account records during 1954. Labor incomes on these farms varied from $18,000 to a minus $4,500. I was impressed by the importance of a few factors involved.

Gross income is the first. Regardless of whether farmers have a small or large farm they must have a lot to sell. Thirty-three farms with a higher gross and an average size of 140 tillable acres had 3 times the labor income of 33 farms averaging 219 tillable acres. Of course, the large farms doing a good job of having a lot to sell, were the real money-makers. The high return farms averaged $12,595 of gross income per man, operated 135 tillable acres per man and had a machinery investment of $48 per tillable acre. These figures would make the Russian farm experts blink. I'm sure, but a lot of our own farmers could well afford to pay attention to them too.

It is really surprising as you travel from farm to farm to note how little differences there are in total expenses. Modern farming requires about so much machinery and labor—the 2 big expense items—whether it is 120 acres or 240 acres. That's why high gross incomes are so important. The high income farms generally had slightly higher expenses (especially feed, seed and fertilizer) but still had about $29 more net income per acre when the books were totaled.

We all realize the importance of high crop yields but the records show that the kind of crops is also important. The high income farms had greater shares of ELSIE THE COW is going to Lansing and she's taking her calf, Beauregard, with her. The bovine pair will make personal appearances Monday and Tuesday, September 19 and 20, at the corner of Washtenaw and Washington from 2 to 10 p. m., each day.

Elsie and Beauregard will greet their friends in their new traveling, nine-paneled boudoir. Elsie in her antique, Apostrophe bed and Beauregard in his playpen corral. Elsie's boudoir contains an old-fashioned ox yoke dressing table with many cows-metres, milk bottle lamps, churn lamps, a pitch-fork hall-tree and portraits of her ancestors, one of whom is Great Aunt Bess in her wedding gown—just as she looked the day she was left at the altar.

Visitors will see Beauregard's tractor-seat high chair and his toys, including his new railroad engine and his Texas Ranger yams.

This will be the first time that Elsie and Beauregard have visited Lansing. Chuck Gleason, manager of Borden's Ice Cream plant, said that all who visit Elsie will get souvenirs.

their acres in row crops and alfalfa than the others. This does not necessarily mean wearing the land out but rather using it to its full capacity. High income farms used $5.60 worth of fertilizer per tillable acre compared to $3.76 for the low income average. Yields reflected this difference in fertilizer use.

Livestock is an especially important part of the farm business in Ingham county. Keeping enough livestock, fitting the right kinds to the farm, getting good production and doing a good job of marketing are all important.

Ingham dairy farms visited seemed to fit into one of 3 groups. The high income farms had high dairy sales per cow ($400) and fairly large herds and used the principles it brings had low dairy sales per cow

($225) and their total farm income was low. In another group were a number with about average sales per cow ($314) and fairly large herds. These were the ones whose farm earnings were lowest. It seemed that the more successful ones concentrated on fewer livestock enterprises, cared for them better and had them large enough to make for higher efficiency.

The extension office has a free bulletin available to anyone interested called "Farming Today—What It Costs and How It Pays." It is a summary of 133 farm account records in 1954 presented in readable form. I am sure many of our good Ingham farmers could profitably study while so many with small herds and use the principles it brings out.

Zinc Lack Hurts Fruit Production

Defects from a lack of zinc are showing up in some Michigan peach orchards.

Michigan State university horticulturists, who have noted the lack of zinc, say growers can tell the deficiency by:

Small, narrow leaves that show a lack of color between the veins. With the short and slender leaves, the shoots look as if they had been hit by a virus.

In one zinc-deficient orchard the researchers found that the internode (portion of the stem between joints) length was shortened.

In western states fruit growers have been using dormant sprays of 25 lb of zinc sulfate per 100 gallons of water to correct zinc deficiency.

Soil applications of zinc sulfate have not been completely successful, the horticulturists indicate. They say that chelated zinc offers promise—they suggest trying it. Chemical companies have the material.

Michigan farmers can expect higher average milk prices at the plant this year, reports Dale Butz, farm economist at Michigan State university.

IN THE FAMILY FOR 60 YEARS has been what is still known as the True farm pictured above. It is on Section 9 of Alaledon, on Okemos road. Present owners are 2 True sisters, Mrs. Lucille Peterson of Lansing and Mrs. Gladys Ryan of Knoxville, Tenn. The farm came into the family through Mrs. Bert True, from the Stevens family. Bert True and his wife lived there until 1921 when they moved to East Lansing. Both are now dead. The daughters kept the 143-acre farm and operated it by tenants. William Fillwork was on the place for 6 years until a year ago. Kenneth Thayer is the present tenant. The farm is equipped for dairying. First to correctly identify the farm was Lawrence Fichter. He telephoned Thursday afternoon at 4:30. For being first he will receive a year's renewal of his Ingham County News subscription.

Plan Now For Pasture Next Year

Fall is a better time than spring for Ingham county farmers to evaluate pasture programs and make definite plans for improvement next year, according to M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. In the spring farmers are optimistic and the grass is greenest. In the fall, both the optimism and the grass usually have faded. However, now is the time to plan. Here are some important points for all Ingham county farmers according to Avery: First, in August milk production begins a drop that continues all fall. Adequate good pasture may help hold production up.

Crops like alfalfa, brome, ladino and sudan grass can close this fall gap and provide good pasture for August and September.

Second, the best pasture programs in Michigan are based on the use of alfalfa and mixtures of alfalfa with brome and ladino clover. The use of longer-lived alfalfa varieties like Ranger is especially helpful on fields intended entirely for pasture. When legumes make up less than 50% of the grazing, the fields should be re-established. Worn-out hay fields are not productive for either hay or pasture.

Third, good pastures must be used through good livestock to get the greatest returns. Fourth, occasionally there are arguments about the best way to manage a pasture program. For example, should pastures be rotated or grazed continuously? Should pastures be clipped if weeds are not serious? Is it practical to cut the pasture with a forage chopper and haul it to livestock? There are answers from experiments to some of these questions while answers to the others are not yet available. Before any of these management practices can be put into use, however, it is necessary to develop pasture so it can be managed.

Forages are Michigan's most important crops, emphasizes Leighton Nelson, extension farm cropsman at Michigan State University. Hay and pasture occupy half of Michigan's farm land and 4 out of every 10 acres of cropland. Forages supply more than half of the feed used in livestock production. When hay yields are high, the yields of other crops in the rotation tend to increase.

Organic Farming Group to Meet

Willard C. Anderson, president of the Tri-County Organic Garden club, has announced that the Federated Organic Clubs of Michigan, will have its third annual fall roundup at Holt, Saturday and Sunday, September 17 and 18.

Three speakers will be featured on the 2-day program which begins at 11:00 a. m. on September 17 and ends the following afternoon. Ollie E. Fink, executive secretary of Friends of the Land, Columbus, Ohio, will address the group on Saturday night. "The subject of his talk will be, 'The Soil-Health Relationship.' Fink is a leader in conservation. In addition to his years of leadership with Friends of the Land, he is executive vice-president of the National Garden Institute.

Herbert Clarence White, garden editor of Let's Live magazine, and one of the leaders of "natural gardening and farming" in the United States and Paul Prund, consulting soil specialist from Elmhurst, Illinois, will be the speakers Sunday.

The federation is comprised of 12 organic gardening and farming clubs. The 2-day affair, scheduled for the Delta township hall, will give the members and the general public opportunity to see produce and farm crops on display as well as an opportunity to visit a local 300-acre "organic farm."

County Agents Will Convene

M. H. Avery and Ken Brown, Ingham county agricultural agents, plan to attend the 40th annual meeting of the National Association County Agricultural Agents at Michigan State University, September 11-15.

Nearly 1,200 county agricultural agents, wives and families are expected to attend the event which honors the first college to teach scientific agriculture. Also, this meeting is the first of the group's to be held on a college campus.

The agents gather each year for professional improvement and to exchange ideas with workers from other areas of the county.

New Lettuce Is Developed By MSU Man

A new variety of leaf lettuce that will boost yield—both in the home garden and greenhouse—has been developed at Michigan State University.

Horticulturist S. H. Wittwer, who developed the variety, said the new lettuce combines the good features of both the Grand Rapids and Bibb varieties. He has dubbed the vegetable "Tendergreen."

Wittwer pointed out that no other variety compares with Tendergreen's yield in the greenhouse during the short days and cloudy weather of fall and winter in Michigan. Fall plantings harvested in midwinter have exceeded yields of the Grand Rapids variety by 35%.

Wittwer recommended seeding Tendergreen in greenhouses from September through November for harvest during January and February.

Tests in Grand Rapids and Lansing stores show that consumers prefer Tendergreen over the Grand Rapids variety.

Since the new variety goes to seed early, home gardeners will have to sow in early spring and harvest the crop before June 15. Certain growers in the Grand Rapids area have limited supplies of seed for sale now.

Acid Content Is Important

Cottage cheese can stay in grocers' display cabinets for almost 3 weeks if it has the right acid content and the temperature is kept low enough.

That was the conclusion of dairy market researcher Larry G. Harmon after several months of study under Michigan State University's marketing program.

Purpose of the study indirectly is to boost the sale of cottage cheese—to make the housewife a repeat customer.

Harmon purchased 48 samples of cottage cheese from retail stores and got 35 samples directly from plants. And he stored all the cheese at 42 degrees F.

The retailed cheese varied in shelf life from 5 to 19 days. Cheese direct from the plants ranged from 6 to 23 days without spoilage.

Another reason some cottage cheese spoiled while other samples retained quality, Harmon found as much as 11 degrees difference between the lower and upper portions of the display cabinets.

Sheep Shearers Like Their Jobs

Two youths who won top prizes in sheep shearing at the state 4-H club show at Michigan State University recommend the vocation.

Robert Bell, 17, Lansing, first place winner, and R. Warren Thorne, 18, Hanover, runnerup, get a trip to Chicago in November besides.

They will compete in the national 4-H sheep-shearing contest during the International Livestock Exposition in November.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bell, won the contest last year but didn't have enough confidence to compete nationally. He's confident enough now, though, he says. He sheared about 300 sheep around the Lansing farm community last spring. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Leonard Thorne, took the wool off 400 sheep this spring. "I made more money at shearing sheep than on a city job this summer," he asserts. He is planning to go "up north" next spring to make more money.

The winners competed against 2 other 4-H club members—Richard Milleson, 17, of Hastings, and Bill Donohue, 14, of Gregory.

Twenty-four per cent of Michigan's dairy farmers are still using scrub bulls.

Attend the Centennial of Farm Mechanization at Michigan State University in East Lansing, Aug. 15-20.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Cooler weather for canning.
Pecks attend centennials.
Sally gets blue ribbon on her muffins.

You can just about tell what is going on in people's kitchens before you get inside. This time of year there are many interesting canning whiffs drifting onto back porches . . . down the walk and beyond. And should something run over . . . oh, my, then it is not good but still interesting.

Such a happy busy time of year. Those blessed lower temperatures have been a treat this past week in helping with the peaches, peaches, pickles, corn, beans, relish, etc. These cool mornings put me in a good frame of mind to bring up a big batch of cans. Then out to the garden to bring in the harvest.

Each year for the last few years the girls have been a big help in canning. This year it is wonderful. They take such an interest in helping and even doing some of it all by themselves.

So once again I have to tell Pete, "Every year gets better and better. Working with the girls is just as much fun as playing with them when they were little." I know he thinks so too but he does not feel like saying it so often.

To me, the wonder of having a family does not grow old. Am I crazy or something to be so thankful and happy and goofy over something I should take for granted?

The folks we have as we skin peaches or wash cucumbers are mighty revealing. I have to smile into a can many times. Somehow when your hands are occupied and you are intent on a task you can talk about things easier. Things that sound stiff and hard to get out.

One of the hardest things to do is not to scold or reprimand during these little talk-fests. I don't want them so they won't talk freely to me but sometimes things out that you feel needs discouraging.

I have more peaches to can now but it is pleasant to change jobs now and then. I feel that the peaches will go faster for this rest. Besides while I am typing this I cannot eat them . . . have eaten so many now that my stomach hurts. You know how it is when you come to a soft spot . . . too good to throw away and too risky to put in a can. Or don't you do that?

Centennial celebrations for Michigan seem to be in order. We have attended 2 in the past couple of weeks. We went to East Lansing 2 days to the Centennial of Farm Mechanization at Michigan State University. Had intended to go only one day. But the men in our group went by themselves and we women went by ourselves. On the way home and that evening in comparing what each saw there was quite a difference. So back we went and it was worth having tired dirty feet for 2 days.

The pageant was the best part. And I liked the kitchens, both old and new. And the cold water. I told Pete that the next time we bought any machinery we should buy an Allis-Chalmers brand to help pay for those refreshing drinks. You can't heat a cold drink of water on a hot day.

NICE CATCH — The way Spike Jones, shown here, tells it, the big one didn't get away. He was "deep sea" fishing in a Las Vegas swimming pool and came up with a mermaid (named Ida Merrier). So he posed in the typical fisherman's stance with his five-foot, nine-inch, 135-pound catch.

We went to Ithaca's centennial 2 days too. Don't we ever stay home? Well, we decided we would take what would be our vacation time in attending some of the very worthwhile attractions in neighboring counties (practically in our lap).

Going to Ithaca was one big reunion with the most noise I ever saw. Everybody and their grandmother was there. I asked a bewhiskered young man whom I think was Bud Kern how many people he estimated was at the Saturday parade and he said, "I figure the best way to find out would be to count all the feet and divide by 2." He added that he thought 20,000 and the paper since has said that amount. I'll believe it. For blocks and blocks the streets were jammed.

Sammy's rig lost a bolt, running over folks' feet. I think I went into Ralph Preshaw's hardware to get one and received a real old-fashioned kindness. Said he didn't charge for baby buggy burs when they broke down in front of his store . . . or something like that. He was mumbling in his beard (really was). Maybe he meant just during centennial celebration! Oh, well, Sammy will hardly need repairs on his stroller 100 years from now . . . or maybe he won't now if he makes it to their next one?

The parade was the biggest one we've ever seen. Really wonderful. Seeing so many friends and relatives made the event extra special. Watching a girl make yarn at a spinning wheel from a bunch of raw wool was fascinating. I had never seen that either. She was in Larry's hardware window.

P. S. Sally got a blue ribbon on her muffins.

Country & Town

By Jim Brown

It's great to be back in Ingham. After trekking through 14 counties in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana the Sycamore valley looks better than ever. That's one good thing about most vacations. They make the old home town look just a little bit better.

A youngster visiting our neighbor last week end was overheard saying his prayer. It went something like this: "Goo, uess daddy, mother, sister and my dog Snappy. Take that last part back, God. Daddy sold Snappy last week."

Michigan is way ahead of Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana in roadside picnic facilities. In Wisconsin, we drove several hundred miles and didn't see one. There are just a few in Illinois and Indiana. In Michigan on US-16 there are 3 picnic spots on the south side of the road for every one on the north side. That may be just by accident and it may be that the state highway department has found that people traveling east have bigger appetites than west-bound folks.

Law enforcement is everybody's job. This week near Stockbridge at the brutal double murder of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herriek, neighbors and nearby farmers were quick to speak up about incidents that somehow seemed to be linked with the crime.

It's these eye-witness accounts from observant citizens that often mean solutions to crime. Officers couldn't solve many crimes without the volunteer reporters who put 2 and 2 together. Men like George Ousley of Millville are to be commended for supplying information to police officers concerning law-breakers.

Out of 168 Holsteins exhibited during state 4-H club week at Michigan State college, 3 Ingham county animals won a grand champion award, a reserve ribbon and a first place ribbon. It was the first time in recent 4-H history that one county won the 3 coveted prizes. Herb Miller of Williamston won the grand champion ribbon. Joyce Wilson of Mason, the reserve award and Pat Covert of Leslie the first place award.

This year was the first in 5 that my wife and I didn't attend the Dansville Booster club auction. We've still got some old chests of drawers that we haven't fixed up since last year's sale. The Dansville Boosters move a lot of merchandise at their annual sale. It shows what can be done with cooperation and a ready market.

Another example of bargains is the Mason Kiwanis rummage sale in 3 weeks. Kiwanians have 3 wagon-loads of clothing ranging from underwear to Bermudas, plus furniture, antiques and even a barn. All of this will be sold at depression prices 2 days, September 23 and 24.

State Reports Size of Lakes

A revised and updated list of information about Michigan's 20 largest lakes is available free from the conservation department's fish division at Lansing.

Houghton lake with 20,044 acres is largest in the state, followed in order by Torch, Charlevoix, Burt, Mullett, Gogebic, Manistique and Black lakes. All these are 10,000 or more acres in size. Torch lake is deepest, going down 285 feet while the Michigamme reservoir in Iron county, 17th in size, has 78 miles of shoreline, by a wide margin the longest in the group.

More than a third of a million people attended the Centennial of Farm Mechanization at Michigan State university, August 15-20.

Communion services will be Sunday evening, September 11, at 8 p. m. at Housel church, Rev. D. H. Carriek will be the speaker. School at Housel began Tuesday, September 6, with Mrs. Dorothy Jackson as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. August Shank and Jim have moved to their new home at Woodland. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deeg of southwest Leslie have purchased the Shank home. They will move later in the year.

Phyllis and Lila Pierce spent last week with their grandmother, Mrs. Zole Bowser, at Nashville and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, near Nashville.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker spent a week end recently in the Upper Peninsula.

Mrs. Leon Gillett and Evelyn are spending 2 weeks at Nogales, Arizona. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Huff are parents of a son at Nogales. Mrs. Huff was formerly Miss Joan Gillett.

Mrs. Paul McCreery and Mrs.

Claude Howe accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Eric Dietz and son of Eaton Rapids to the Upper Peninsula over Labor Day week end. Frank McCreery spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olmstead at Lake Odessa.

Mrs. Elma Pierce spent last week with Mrs. Ruth Hall at Morrison lake.

Mrs. Warren Galloway and Mrs. Gale Pierce and Mrs. Clare Waters of Eaton attended funeral services for a cousin at Hillsdale Saturday.

The barn of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Powelson burned to the ground last Friday.

Cross Road Farmers 4-H club will meet at Housel school Thursday evening, September 15, at 8. Mrs. Pearl Leonard accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vance and son to Vanderbilt for a week recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wright attended a shower for her sister, Evelyn, Saturday evening at Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gale Pierce and daughters attended the Johnson reunion on Labor Day at Hillsdale.

Rev. John Baldorf of Sunfield died Sunday. Rev. Baldorf was a former minister at Housel and was the father of Mrs. Lark Amba, a former resident of this neighborhood.

Herd Averages Reported

Averages on 3 Ingham and Livingston herds have been reported by the Holstein-Friesian association. The Charles J. Davis herd of Onondaga, 18 cows, maintained an average of 477 lb of butterfat, 12,655 lb of milk. Ernest Carter, Lansing, 16 cows, averaged 484 lb butterfat, 14,270 lb milk. Glenn Hanson, Gregory, 13 cows, had an average of 501 lb butterfat and 12,985 lb milk.

11th Wolverine Holstein Sale

Saturday, September 10, at 11 o'clock, a. m., in the Wolverine Purebred Livestock Sales Pavilion on US-16, 2 1/2 miles west of Williamston, Michigan.

Due to the loss of his barn and all the feed the Peter Kern herd of Reese will be completely dispersed. This is one of the high producing herds in the state with 512.8 lb fat—13,455 lb milk average with individual records up to 714 lb fat—18,210 lb milk in 11 months. The type is outstanding and is one of the best herds we have ever dispersed.

11 first calf heifers from the Amil Olsen herd all from very high record dams.

Consignments from some of the top herds of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Ontario.

8 head of the best bulls we have had in any sale with Budd Farm, Pabst, Carnation and Tribune breeding.

There will be over 100 head to sell—your chance to buy real bargains. TB and Bangs tested. Milking cows Mastitis tested.

Bank terms—See Floyd Kehrl, National bank of Detroit, Plymouth, Michigan.
