

Scouts Will Stage Roundup At Camp Kiwanis This Week

Scouts and Explorers of Ingham district of Chief Okemos Council will have their fall roundup at Camp Kiwanis, 4 miles east of Mason, Friday night and Saturday.

Saturday's meals will be cooked over charcoal fires. A "cracker barrel" will follow Friday night's campfire.

Saturday's contests in Scoutcraft events will produce the district champions to represent Ingham district in the all-council contests scheduled for November 5. Events will include knot-tying, semaphore or Morse signaling, first aid problem, fire-building by friction, and flint and steel, and scout drill.

A feature of Saturday will be the branding ceremony for recruits who have graduated from Cub packs during the summer, or have newly moved into their communities.

Ingham district leaders in charge of the round-up are Floyd Lott, chief wrangler; Lee Austin, deputy wrangler; Harry Spenny, range boss; John Arnett, rodeo; Harley Hull, cracker barrel; Rose Arnold, show wagon for leaders; Marshall Chappell and Gary Briggs, corral bosses; and Paul J. Hoffman, wrangler's aide.

Lyle D. Hare, district chairman, and chief wrangler for the fall round-up program of Ingham district stated that the round-up staff will be present at Camp Kiwanis, Thursday evening, September 15, to answer questions, and to participate in the 3 program round-tables for leaders of Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts of Ingham communities.

Progress Lags At New School, Architect Says

George Sprau told members of the Mason board of education Wednesday night what they already knew about construction of the new Steele Street elementary school is behind schedule.

Sprau is a member of the architectural firm of Stapp-Pratt-Bulthuis & Sprau, Kalamazoo.

While school officials have hopes of getting into the new building by Thanksgiving recess, even those hopes are dimmer. The building was supposed to have been ready by the opening of school last week.

Broken schedules of subcontractors are responsible for some of the delays, said Sprau. Plastering and laying of the terrazzo floors have been behind schedule. Roofers were held up because of hot weather. Installation of ventilating equipment has been delayed because of a strike in the Frane factory, and a mixup in delivery dates at Mason.

Forie & Stewk of Lansing have the general contract at $129,840. Reed Tyler Electric Co., Lansing, has the electrical contract at $12,400. There has been no delay by Reed Tyler, the architect reported. United Piping and Erecting, Lansing, has the mechanical contract at $38,519.

At Wednesday night's meeting of the school board the members discussed ways and means of hurrying construction to relieve overcrowding.

Rooms Are Crowded

Until the new school is available, all city classrooms are crowded. The total enrollment in the district climbed to 1,858 Wednesday. Last week it was 1,801. The extra 57 have made had conditions worse in some of the rooms, said Supt. James H. Vander Ven.

The school gymnasium has been converted into a home room for eighth-graders.

In rural schools within the Mason district pupils have been shifted between schools and Mason so that rooms in most cases are less crowded than last year. Supt. Vander Ven said. When the new building is ready at Mason further relief will be available, he added.

Arrestment Due For Ex-Justice

Due for arraignment in circuit court in Lansing Friday forenoon is John William Grugel, former Leslie Justice of the peace.

When the examination of Grugel was resumed Monday his attorney, Howard A. McCowan, waived the rest of it and Justice of the Peace George Hutter of Lansing township bound Grugel over to circuit court. The bond of $1,500 was continued.

Grugel, Leslie baker and restaurant owner, is charged with embezzling $11,807.40 in justice court fines. He paid the money after the shortage was revealed by a state audit. Most of the money repaid was for fines and costs collected in truck overhauling cases. Many of the fines imposed on truckers ran up to and some even beyond $500.

It is Grugel's contention that he intended to pay the money as soon as he brought his records up to date. The prosecution contends that paying back the money after the shortage was revealed does not remove the charge of embezzlement.

Death Claims Class Mascot

Bolivar went the way of all flesh, even mutton, Wednesday. The buck sheep was mascot of the 1951 class at Mason high school. With a younger buck in the Bartley flock, Bolivar weakened before continual bunts. He was buried close to his grave where a stone marks his grave.

As sheep go, Bolivar was old. He was 10 and many of his teeth were gone. Bolivar was a ram lamb in the Hugh J. Bartley flock when he broke his leg. Bartley brought the lamb to the house in a wheelbarrow and set the broken leg. Bill Bartley made a pet out of the lamb and taught him many tricks.

In course of time Bolivar became the class mascot and even on occasion visited school. In his prime the buck, an Oxford-Shropshire cross, weighed 350 pounds. Bill Bartley, now an officer in the air force, is at Hondo field in Texas.

Indian Maize Looks Pretty

While hybrid corn yields more and fills government storehouses, Indian maize is more decorative.

Wilfred Wardowski raises Indian corn at Blossom Orchards, north of Leslie. This year he harvested 35 crates. He sells it for decorations.

Three of the colorful ears from an Ojibway strain are on display in the office of the Ingham County News.

Air Force Hopes To Recruit GOC For Mason Area

Again the U. S. air force is sending a man to Mason in an attempt to organize a Ground Observer Corps station. Earlier attempts made during mid-summer resulted in few recruits.

A public meeting has been set for Wednesday night, September 28, in the school auditorium. Officers of all fraternal, civic, patriotic and church organizations have been asked to have representatives present, said Stanley Cornwell and Dr. O. K. Pauley. They are co-chairmen of the Kiwanis club GOC committee.

At earlier meetings captains were recruited. There will be a captain in charge of each shift of observers, responsible for manning the station. Observers will agree to put in at least 2 hours a month spotting and reporting multi-motor planes.

Staff Sergeant Adwin C. Cole, Jr., of the Grand Rapids filter center will be in Mason September 28 to help organize the unit. He was in Mason in June picking sites for a station. He recommended a site at Cedar Street school.

Under the GOC program volunteer spotters watch the skies and report all multi-motor planes. Reports are telephoned to the Grand Rapids filter center of the air force which is set up to order in the reception of unidentified planes.

Air force officers are also anxious to organize GOC units at Leslie and Dansville, they said.

In previous appearances at Mason air force officers have explained that ground observers are essential because radar will not pick up low-flying planes.

Teachers to Hear Of Security Plan

Public school teachers in the Mason area will hear about federal social security coverage at a meeting called for next Thursday. The meeting will be in the Mason school auditorium at 4 o'clock.

Teachers will vote December 14 and 15 on coming under social security in addition to the Michigan teachers retirement program.

At next Thursday's meeting Raymond McDaniels of the teachers retirement fund will explain provisions of social security.

Famous Roofers Make Visit Here

Three of the Williamston brothers came to Mason Saturday to ply their trade but they left without finding a victim.

The Williamstons operate all through the midwest, making big promises and low prices on roof repair, and doing bus jobs. A Detroit newspaper carried a feature story about their trickery Sunday.

Police Chief Harry Chandler induced the brothers to leave town after they had almost made a deal with Stuart Demorest, 216 East Cherry. The deal didn't look right and the Demorests backed up, notifying the police chief. He found the brothers on the other side of town and forbade them to solicit any business without first registering with the city clerk and securing approval of the Chamber of Commerce. At that the brothers took their gear and left for a more promising field.

Early Pheasant Comes to '72

Not the proverbial worm but a fine of $72.80 did an early bird get for the early hunter.

Robert H. Ross, 24, 208 Beal street, East Lansing, fell into the toils of Conservation Officer Walter Mutchler Wednesday. He had a pheasant which he had shot with his little gun. He pleaded guilty before Justice W. R. Wood, Williamston. The judge assessed fine and costs of $72.80 and the conservation department confiscated the hunter's 22 rifle.

Annual Session Of Supervisors Starts Sooner

Ingham supervisors will go into session this year a month ahead of other years. Traditionally the annual meetings at which salaries are set and appropriations are made have been in October. Under a recent law, supervisors can advance the annual meeting to September. Ingham has done that.

Ingham's 38 supervisors will come to Mason Monday to begin the session which usually continues for a full week, at least.

Having the session a month early will permit supervisors of populous townships like Lansing, Delhi and Meridian to spread taxes upon the rolls before December 1. Meeting in October, some supervisors have not had time enough in recent years to make out their rolls by that date, they said.

Special legislation permitting annual sessions in September instead of October was first enacted for Wayne county. Other industrial counties were eventually included and this year for the first time the Ingham board decided to advance its meeting.

Several committees have been meeting the past few weeks to work out reports and recommendations prior to the opening of the annual session. The ways and means committee and the salaries committee are 2 which have had sessions.

A joint committee including ways and means, county drains and county health had a hearing on Meridian township's sewage disposal problem.

Usually one day is set aside for supervisors to visit the welfare offices in Lansing, the Ingham Chest hospital, and county hospital at Okemos. County officials said that the same program will probably be followed this year.

Officers Gain No Good Tips On Murderer

Not a break has so far appeared in the Stockbridge double murder case, reported Sheriff Willard P. Barnes Thursday.

No one has yet been found who has said he has seen Neely Buchanan, 30, after he stepped out of a Mason taxicab in front of the Greyhound bus station in Lansing. That was on the evening of September 3. Not until near midnight of September 5 were the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herriek of Stockbridge discovered in their barn. They had been hammered to death, presumably by Buchanan, officers said.

Buchanan fled Jackson prison in a prison garbage truck, with the prison identification painted on the truck, the morning of September 2. The abandoned truck was found a hour later, the motor still warm, at the Stockbridge athletic field. The sheriff said he believes that Buchanan sneaked through woods and corn fields the 4 miles to the Herriek home, probably hiding out Friday night and entering the Herriek barn Saturday. When Herriek returned from work at Wyeth Laboratories Incorporated at Mason Saturday afternoon and entered the barn he was struck down by the murderer. It is the theory of police officers that Mrs. Herriek heard a commotion in the barn and as she entered was hammered to her death.

On the barn floor were found the discarded prison garments of Buchanan. On the inside of the Herriek car were fingerprints which are those of Buchanan.

The murderer had a 2-day start. It was not until late Monday night that the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Herriek were discovered. No one had seen either since the previous Saturday afternoon.

Leaving the barn, the murderer made his way through a corn field and to M-36 where he hitched a ride to Millville and bought food at the Millville store. He hired a ride to Mason and at Mason dealt for a taxi trip to Lansing. There the trail completely vanished.

All Leads Are False

Police officers at Detroit and Jackson both reported they saw men whom they first thought was Buchanan. But none of the men rounded up was Buchanan. There was one incorrect identification made in Toledo, Buchanan's wife lives in Flint. A stakeout there has yielded no results.

Sheriff Barnes was in Detroit a week ago to confer with officers of the Detroit homicide squad and with FBI officials. The FBI is standing by, ready to join the search but can't move until some concrete evidence turns up that Buchanan has fled the state to escape prosecution. No such evidence has yet been found.

State police have instituted a statewide search, and the search is continuing, for Buchanan. Every sheriff and every police chief in the state has been enlisted in the search.

Sheriff's officers have gone back over Buchanan's trail at Stockbridge. They have been trying, so far without success, to find someone who saw the escaped prisoner leave the prison truck at Stockbridge or saw him at any time or any place before the murders Saturday afternoon.

The sheriff and state police have issued a general plea for any person with any knowledge of Buchanan or with any acquaintance with the man outside of prison to tell officers what they know of his habits. Officers have studied prison records at Jackson and police records in Genesee and Wayne counties in order to get a better line on the man they seek.

Officers have 2 murder warrants to back their search for Buchanan. They were issued out of Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams' court at Mason last Friday with Sheriff Barnes the complaining witness.

There are Stockbridge people who insist that the murderer may still be hiding nearby. Until the murderer is found, and even afterward, it would be well for prowlers to keep out of Stockbridge corn fields and out of Stockbridge barns. Many residents of the area are keeping shotguns handy, they have informed sheriff's officers.

Veterans Dedicate Building To Serve Community Needs

At ceremonies Sunday afternoon Browne-Cavender post No. 148 and its auxiliary dedicated to community use their new Legion building north of town.

Supreme Court Justice Harry P. Kelly headed the list of distinguished men and women who participated in the dedication.

As part of the ceremonies, officers of 10 Legion posts and auxiliaries in Ingham were installed.

In his message Justice Kelly dedicated anew to the faithful service of the community, state and nation the facilities of the new building. He pointed out the building was erected to perpetuate the memory of heroic dead.

Commander Frank Schmidt on behalf of the Legion post said, "This memorial structure is the embodiment of the ideal of justice and freedom for which the American Legion exists. In time of war we fight for our country, so in time of peace we strive to serve our republic fearlessly and well. In accepting this new building may we bear in mind the comrades who have gone before. May their memory dwell within this home and be a constant blessing among us."

"It is our hope and desire that this office may ever be used in the service of disabled comrades, of the widowed and orphaned, and to the benefit of our community, state and nation."

The commander pointed out that each member of the Legion and auxiliary has the responsibility of working to complete the building and to provide the community with service and leadership. The responsibility can not be transferred or shifted, said the commander.

Carl Blanchard, of the public relations and statistics section of the state veterans affairs office in Lansing, was master of ceremonies. John Powell, was sergeant-at-arms and Norman Weaver as chaplain gave the invocation and benediction.

Among guests introduced were Mayor Alfred Forche of Mason; Eugene N. Houck, past state commander of American Legion; Clyde Sprague of Lansing, sixth district commander; and Clyde Smith of Mason, district vice-commander, American Legion; Mrs. Viola Starkey of Detroit, state president of Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Pearl Jewett, president of the Mason Auxiliary; John Angell, who sold the 6-acre site to the Legion post; Rev.

Feeder Prospects To Be Discussed

Farmers can learn about livestock market conditions next Tuesday night at Mason. A live stock outlook meeting has been scheduled at the court house at 8 o'clock.

William Finley and Don Stark will lead the discussion. Finley is in the animal husbandry department and Stark is in the economics department at Michigan State.

Profits in margins, feed lot gains, the best time to buy, the best time to sell, the demand for feeders, and comparative positions of cattle, hogs and sheep are among the topics to be discussed.

Cashier Receives Wristwatch Gift

To mark 50 years of service with the bank, directors of the Farmers bank of Mason presented Cashier Lucius R. White with a wristwatch last Thursday.

Joining the bank as bookkeeper August 21, 1905, Cashier White advanced to assistant cashier shortly and then in 1923 became cashier.

"This is my first wristwatch," said the Mason banker, as he pushed back his sleeve to exhibit the gift. "To break myself of the habit of reaching into a vest pocket for my watch I have had to discard my vest."

Traveler Tells Of Alaska Trip

Charles Schmitter of Mason told Kiwanians Tuesday night some of the highlights of the trip he and his wife and 3 children made to Alaska. They traveled 12,000 miles during the 54 days they were on the road. All except one night was spent in tents, Schmitter said.

Those who travel the Alcan highway and other roads in Alaska should limit their speeds to between 25 and 45 miles per hour, Schmitter said. Otherwise mechanical and tire trouble is apt to result, he explained. He told of precautions which should be taken before starting a journey to Alaska.

Food and service prices of all kinds are extremely high in Alaska, Schmitter stated. He advised taking as many dehydrated provisions as possible on the trip. The Schmitters laid in their supply at Edmonton.

Alaskan scenery is beautiful beyond description, Schmitter reported. The weather was good and they were not bothered by flies or mosquitoes, he stated. He expressed resentment at some of the price gouging in Fairbanks.

NOT IN RESPONSE to, neither in anticipation of last week's Ingham County News editorial about developing fiber crops for unneeded food acres, are these trees growing on Kelly road, John Ridgley planted the trees on his Kelly road farm last spring as part of an experiment with the University of Maryland. One hundred farmers throughout the United States and Canada are cooperating in the experiment, using different kinds of hybrid poplars. The research goal is to develop pulp wood for papermaking in from 6 to 8 years.

One of the trees, 8 inches when planted last spring, is now 6 1/2 foot high. Standing beside the fast-growing hybrid is Frances Ridgley, 12. A foot per month is the growth rate maintained in the planting.

The Ridgleys received 8 cuttings from Maryland last spring. Scarcely a bud was visible. The cuttings were placed in the soil and at once took root. The May 9 freeze killed half of them but the other 4 have thrived. This fall the university will send directions on how to make cuttings from the young trees.

Just as interested as university scientists in the hybrid trees are the Ridgleys. They are seeking a profitable crop for the light soils on their rolling farm. Two years ago they planted 400 segmented walnuts in cooperation with Michigan State University. That planting is coming along good.

School Enrollment Reaches 1000 Mark

Superintendent Clarence VanderLinden announces that enrollment for the 1955-56 year has reached 1000 pupils. This is a gain of 63 over the number enrolled at the close of school. Of this number, only 166 are students from school districts other than the Leslie public schools. All of the 166 are in ninth grade through twelfth.

Leslie still has 80 pupils in rural schools, who will be brought into the village elementary school as soon as the additions to the elementary and high schools are completed.

The breakdown as to grades, exclusive of the 80 mentioned above, who are in kindergarten through the sixth grades is as follows: Kindergarten, 77; first grade, 70; second grade, 71; third, 70; fourth, 46; fifth, 60; sixth, 56; seventh, 61; eighth, 55; ninth, 121; tenth, 86; 11th, 73; and 12th, 68.

Elementary school principal, J. Douglas Alexander, reports that the schedule for the children at tending the village school has been altered. It is as follows: 9 a. m., school begins; 11:30 kindergarten children go home; 11:40 a. m. kindergarten children in the village are dismissed; 11:45, first and second grades are dismissed; and at 12 noon, grades 3, 4, and 5 in the elementary school and sixth grades are dismissed for lunch.

At 1 p. m. school resumes; 3:30, afternoon session kindergarten, first and second grades are dismissed; 3:35, third and fifth grades at the elementary school are dismissed; and at 3:40, fourth, fifth and sixth grades at the high school and Grange are dismissed.

Principal Alexander states tickets for the hot lunch program may be purchased by the week. The cost of a single lunch, consisting of at least one hot dish, salad, dessert and milk is 30c. The cost per week is $1.50. The cost of milk, either white or chocolate, is 5c per day or 25c per week.

The sale of lunch and milk tickets by the week is a new plan this year. Milk for kindergarten will be sold on a weekly ticket only. Tickets may be purchased in advance, but must be bought by Monday of the week in which they are used.

Principal Alexander requests that children do not arrive at school before 10 minutes until opening time.

Some of the children, says Mr. Alexander, are coming as much as 45 minutes early. There are 2 major reasons why this is not desirable; the first one is that safety patrols are not on duty as yet, making it much more dangerous to come to school at that time and the second reason is that teachers are busy preparing their day and do not have the time for adequate supervision, he said.

Members of the Leslie service council will meet at the G. A. R. hall Monday, September 19, at 8 p. m., according to Miss Mary Agnew, secretary.

Leslie fire department was called and even though they responded immediately, the interior of the house was destroyed before they could get there.

TWO DECADES ago, 7,000 children died every year of whooping cough. Last year, only 310 children died of whooping cough. What explains the difference? It's the new wonder drugs — unknown two decades ago. Priceless drugs? Sure! Yet the price of the average prescription hasn't gone up any more in 20 years than has the price of a pound of coffee.

Senator Potter Will Speak At Meeting of Town Club

Senator Charles E. Potter of Michigan will address members of the Ingham County Town Club at the opening meeting of the club's fall season on Thursday, September 22, in the Women's club house, Lansing. The meeting will start with a potluck dinner at 6:30 p. m. Mrs. Virginia Brown, Lansing soprano and star of several Civic Players musical productions, will sing.

The Town club meetings usually are on the next to the last Friday in the month, but the September meeting day was not changed to accommodate Senator Potter, who is touring Michigan. All interested Republicans are invited to attend.

COMMUNITY EFFORT has given the Dansville Community church a new face-lifting. Because of other pending improvements at the church, no plans were made this year to paint the church. But an offer made by Harold Wing, Dansville painting contractor, prompted 44 men and women to help do the job. Wing furnished the scaffolding, ladders, brushes, mixed the paint and supervised the job. The first coat of paint on the big church was spread August 27 in less than 7 hours. The final coat was painted last Saturday. Women of the church provided a noon meal for both work bees. Wing estimates that the job would have cost about $1,000 if the painting had been contracted. But because of the community effort, the painting was done without expending a cent from the church treasury, according to Dorn Diehl, painter and photographer. (Photo by Dorn Diehl)

Mason Gridders Face Redwings In Game at St. Johns Friday

Wraps come off high school football Friday night. At St. Johns the Mason Bulldogs will meet the Redwings at 8 o'clock.

What's beneath the Bulldog wraps may be no band of champions, prophesied Coach Ed Kehn, but they'll look much better than last year. Last year at this time the Bulldogs could barely wag their little sophomore tails. Now they're all juniors and have experience to go along with their size. They're going to win some football games, Kehn declared, but they'll have to give all they've got to open the season with a victory.

The Redwings aren't as strong as last year, said the Mason coach, but they are rated above Mason by most prophets. They lost 9 starters but they'll still be able to put 11 men on the field.

Kehn appeared well set on his starting lineup following practice Wednesday night. Jerry Lutzinski is sure to start at quarterback with Duane Clark and Dart Stone apt to get the nod for the halfback posts and Dennis Doolittle at full.

Bill Porter has the call for center, flanked by Doyle Newman and Gary Caltrider or Larry Feazel at the guards.

John Howlett and Allen Tomlinson will likely start at the tackles with Ted Lyons standing by. At the ends will probably be Larry Dent and Ken LoVette with Ron Kast also a possibility.

After the St. Johns game will come Stockbridge to raise the curtain at Athletic field. The Panthers are due at Mason Friday night, September 23. The first conference game for Mason is with Charlotte on Friday night, September 30.

Three Mason youths escaped serious injury Saturday night when their car left Phillips road at the curve north of Mason's city limits and sheared off a utility pole. The car also overturned. Driving with them were Roger Shepard and Robert Frazier.

Softball Rubber Results in a Tie

Yet to be decided is the championship between Mason city employees and firemen. With a victory registered by each previously, the teams clashed Wednesday night at Cedar Street school playground. The score stood 10-10 when darkness halted play at the end of the sixth. The struggle will be resumed Sunday afternoon.

Hugh Silsby and Dave Stone were on the mound for the firemen with Eric Spenny behind the plate. Harry Chandler and Floyd Bowen shared pitching assignments for the other team with Ed Balmer doing the receiving.

John Evans Claims Bride in Cleveland

In St. Roberts church, Euclid, Ohio, suburb of Cleveland, at a nuptial high mass John Charles Evans claimed as his bride Miss Eileen Marie Mooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mooney of Lake Shore boulevard, Euclid, Ohio. Mr. Evans is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Evans of Mason.

Fr. Wagner, of St. Roberts parish, officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 11 a. m. in the presence of 150 guests. Thomas Hally, of Lorain, Ohio, uncle of the bride, sang Ave Maria prior to the wedding rites.

The bride was lovely in a gown of chantilly lace and net over taffeta. Lace points topped the full bouffant skirt of net. Lace scallops sprinkled with rhinestones edged the scoop neckline of the smooth-fitting lace bodice. A Mary Queen of Scots veil and lace garterlets completed her wedding ensemble. Her flowers consisted of orchids with yellow centers and stephanotis.

Attendants Wear White
Miss Roberta Evans, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor and Miss Carol Kauffman of Cleveland, for her duties as bridesmaid, were dressed identically in white floor-length taffeta dresses styled with full bouffant skirts. Bolero jackets fashioned with long sleeves were worn over their gowns. For headresses they wore Eucharis lilies and ivy and carried Eucharis lilies, catadium leaves and ivy.

James Kelly of Mason served as best man and ushers were Richard Christensen and Lawrence Laxton, both of Mason.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mooney selected a raspberry colored lace dress with matching sequin-trimmed hat. Her flowers were a purse bouquet of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Evans donned a blue dress of lace and net over taffeta. She wore a matching hat and a corsage of white orchids.

Breakfast Follows Ceremony
The bride's parents entertained 21 guests, including members of the wedding party and the immediate families, at breakfast following the ceremony in the garden of their home overlooking Lake Erie. Cakes, small cakes and punch were served from a beautifully decorated table.

A tiered wedding cake encircled with ivy and topped with miniature bride and bridegroom centered the serving table in front of a huge picture window in the dining room of the Mooney home at the afternoon reception.

Letters to the Editor

Flood Control Should Start on Farm

With considerable interest I read your articles on flood control for Grand river and would like to express some opinions I formed some time ago and still believe in.

The place to control floods is in the ponds and creeks that feed the river. After the waters have reached the river it is too late to control them.

Every county should have a water control board (this could be the county drain commission). The duties of the board should be drainage, flood control, water conservation, irrigation. It should work in close harmony with the soil conservation program. There are innumerable natural basins and ponds of various sizes capable of holding huge quantities of water collectively. Every drainage system should have sufficient dams with gates to use all of this storage space, with a control system that would close the gates as soon as flood threatens and open them as fast as the flood recedes to drain farm lands being used for storage basins. An insurance program should be provided to compensate for any crops caught in the storage basins. Existing channels should be kept free of obstructions. Residents in areas of perpetual flood should be induced to relocate on higher ground. All real estate and property harmed or benefited by water should share the expense of this program. The program should include all drainage, storage and irrigation. The tax should be uniform on all property within the district (not a heavy tax on one drain one year and some other drain the next year as at present). All the counties in a river valley should be joined in a district. Unimproved, unused lands not affecting the rest of the district might be exempted from the tax. I would like to see this letter in print also comments on some. Eaton Rapids LUMAN KLINK P. S. Let's do this job ourselves and keep out of federal control. Someone start the ball rolling before it is too late. L. K.

Kit Clardy Letters Draw Reply

Kit's still writin' letters. I figured we'd have another of him when I read the announcement of his intentions to try to regain his seat in congress at the next election. The "Letters to the Editor" column will reverberate with weekly warnings to the peasantry of the dire consequences if they do not elect another Democrat to anything.

In last week's column Mr. Clardy launches his oft repeated trade against Harry Truman. I wonder if he really thinks Harry will run again, he sure acts awful "scared." As near as I can figure, from reading Mr. Clardy's stuff, the main thing wrong with 20 years of Democratic rule is that the Dems let a few communists slip through the door and dance awhile. He hollers about a return to free enterprise with the Republicans. I wish he would be more explicit about the date we left the free enterprise system.

Mr. Clardy cries that the nasty Democrats lie about Republicans. In the same column he says the Democrats have accused President Eisenhower of nearly every conceivable crime. Now isn't that a stupid accusation. I wonder if he could put his finger on one crime Eisenhower has been accused of committing. Clardy and his "lily white" Republicans will accuse the Democrats of coddling the labor unions. Of course, us voters never heard of the National Association of Manufacturers. But then, the banding together of a group of manufacturers, grocers, druggists or power companies for the purpose of establishing uniform prices and the building of huge funds to promote legislation favorable to their interests is not a union. It is an association. A union is formed by a group of laboring men and women to promote better working conditions with a bigger pay check.

An association of manufacturers, truckers, grocers, etc. is not formed for their own benefit. Oh, no. They are formed to protect free enterprise.

Mr. Clardy makes an issue of Truman's firing of General Douglas MacArthur. What has President Eisenhower done for MacArthur besides ignore him? In my humble opinion General Douglas MacArthur is our greatest living American. He is just big enough that both parties avoid him like the plague. The general makes everybody nervous. He can spot a phony a mile away and the minute he spots one he yells "tally ho." He isn't politician enough to wait to see whether it is a right phony or a wrong phony.

I am a trucker. I own my truck and haul by the piece or the load. No one has set me up a pension plan, I have no guarantee that I will work one day after another. I have no paid holidays, unless I work them. A few years ago I was wandering around the grounds at the Ionis free fair and came upon an elaborate exhibit prepared by the Michigan Trucking association. This exhibit was there to press the fact on the people that if it weren't for the trucking companies the country would go to pot inside of 24 hours.

I thought to myself, I am a trucker, here is an organization that is right up my alley. I guess I'll go in and have a chat, they'll be glad to see me. So I ambled in and queried the man in charge about joining this holy organization. I allowed as I was a trucker and I was all for saving the country for the next generation and if joining this truckers association would help I would join if he would show me where to sign and tell me where to send my dues. He asked me how many trucks I operated. I told him I owned one truck and drove it myself.

When this representative of private enterprise heard this he bestowed upon me his best fatherly smile and muttered something about the trucking association being for large operators and fleet owners and then he suddenly found it necessary to tend to some very urgent business elsewhere.

For some unaccountable reason as I drive my truck down the highway and read the expensive advertisements financed by the Michigan Trucking association members bemoaning some new regulation or tax placed on them I can see them squirming in their Cadillac and, Mr. "Free Enterprise" Clardy, it just makes me want to cry.

Organic Farmers Coming to Holt

Paul Pfund, consulting soil specialist, from Elmhurst, Illinois, Ollie Fink, secretary and program director of "Friends of the Land" and Herbert Clarence White, writer for "Let's Live Magazine" will be feature speakers at the third annual fall roundup of the Federated Organic clubs of Michigan.

For the second year the roundup will be in the Delhi township hall, Holt. The 2-day roundup will start with registrations beginning at 11:00 a. m., Saturday and will conclude on Sunday afternoon, following an organic produce auction. Potluck dinners will be served Saturday night and Sunday noon.

The federation is comprised of 12 local organic gardening and farming clubs. There are 550 individuals as members. Many of the members are "organic farmers" whose sole livelihood comes from the soil and many others are doctors. The roundup will give the members and the general public, who are invited to attend, an opportunity to see the produce and farm crops displayed by each club. A tour has been arranged for Saturday morning of a local 300-acre organic farm and organic farmers and gardeners will be on hand to answer questions regarding the importance of a healthy natural soil to healthy plants, animals and man himself.

changed his mind? Father Coughlin once was available to answer such questions. But he was given the silent treatment.

There were many good men, unafraid men, who attended the Chicago rally of Republicans. Several of them would make good presidents. We ought to nominate one and then keep Baruch and Rabb away from them.

Communication Valuable

Remember the unofficial values you placed on friendship and social recognition when you were in grade and high school? The value of the class and the material which was presented to you was largely determined by the attitude of the class as a whole toward that particular course.

Of course, you knew that it was right and expected of you to do well in class, but if that particular class carried a social taboo of being somewhat "girlish" or "boyish" then that class was not acceptable to the group which considered itself out of place.

American English as a course has never been considered particularly manly by our communities, and the value of clear self-expression and intelligent intercourse by word or paper is seldom a fundamental goal of our high school students.

In order not to carry a thought out of context, it is admitted that many men in communities are recognized as leading citizens largely as a result of "ability with letters," such as the editor, the governor of the state, the mayor of the city, the reporter at a local event, and the principal and superintendent of the school as well as the minister and priest in the pulpit.

Of course, it is what these people have to say that the audience or readers are concerned with, not directly with how they say or write it. It does not always appear obvious to the student in our public schools that these leading citizens are usually masters of our English language. It is seldom pointed out that to be a really outstanding architect, writer, business executive, administrator, lawyer and a multitude of other occupations, a man must have a sufficient vocabulary to express himself clearly and adequately. He must be able to correctly spell thousands of words. He must not constantly make grammatical errors in speech or writing. He must speak simply and honestly, but not so simply that his level of working English is fit only for the ears of children.

If these truths would be more widely distributed among the young men in our schools, the social attitudes which lead many a promising young man to hide his verbal candle under the basket—can be reversed. We can boast of a finer crop of potential leaders here in Mason if it becomes clear to our young men that finding a clearer manner of stating a set of facts is as important as finding a better way to kick a football—and potentially much more so.

School Board Votes to Request Fuel Oil Bids

Richard Schmitz presided at the school board meeting Monday night. The board accepted the results of the survey of the grounds of the elementary school and plans to buy additional footage from Alfred Parker. They voted to request fuel oil bids for the 1955-56 school year.

Mrs. William Kammawin and Al Woodland were appointed from the board as a committee to plan an evening of entertainment for all school employees.

It was announced that bids would be accepted for the 2 buses to be retired just as soon as the new buses arrive. Leo C. Rose of Leslie was awarded the contract for weather-stripping the 73 windows of the elementary school building at $6.25 per window. Rose weather-stripped one window to show the materials and standard of workmanship he uses in his work, as a basis for presenting his bid. Necessary boiler repairs were authorized to insure safety and better heating results.

It was voted to have the 7 school pianos tuned. Bids and capabilities of those applying will be considered. The board authorized Clarence VanderLinden's attendance at the superintendent of public schools convention at Traverse City September 18, 19 and 20. They also asked Mrs. William Kammawin to attend the school board conference at Kollong Center, Michigan State University, October 4 and 5. Other members of the board brought up the point that since school board members are business people, for the most part, who are busy during the day, that more evening sessions of such conferences would be helpful.

The board approved the purchase of 30 straight backed wood chairs at $7.75 each to replace the folding metal chairs borrowed from the auditorium, for some of the classrooms. The metal chairs, Supt. VanderLinden pointed out, were uncomfortable, noisy and more likely to be unsafe.

The contract for Lambert McClintic was approved by the board. This gives the Leslie public schools a complete roster of teachers.

years and kept many stands of bees after going to Springport, where he taught for 14 years. Part of the time he was principal as well as teacher. He also raced at the Royal Canadian Henley Matches at St. Catharines, Ontario. At Michigan State university, instead of sports, he had 3 years at Atlas Drop Forge, working nights. He did his student teaching at Leslie.

Lambert McClintic, English teacher, is a Methodist minister. A native of Albion, Mr. McClintic lived there until the beginning of his college years. He was 2 years at Wheaton in Illinois and was graduated from Michigan State university in 1941. He attended Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Illinois, Calvin seminary, Grand Rapids, and Gordon Divinity school in Boston, Mass. He received a bachelor of divinity degree in 1946. He also went to Boston university and later did graduate work at Michigan State university. He married Martha Bowden of Lansing. They have 2 sons, Gerry, 9, and David, 5. Mr. McClintic has taught in Jackson, Vandercook Lake, Montgomery and Springport. He is also the minister of the Springport Methodist outer parish. Listed among Mr. McClintic's hobbies are photography and farming.

Mrs. Neva Hasbrook is teaching at the Morse school, south of Leslie but will be teaching in the village as soon as the additions to the school buildings are completed. She was widowed in 1941, and has a daughter, Joan, and a son, James. She was born south of Leslie, as Neva Down, and was married to L. D. Hasbrook in 1930. She taught 5 years before being married and went back to teaching 7 years after her husband died. Mrs. Hasbrook's hobby is gardening.

As Amended August 17, 1955

ALAIEDON TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE

An ordinance to establish zoning districts and regulations governing the unincorporated portions of Alaiedon Township, Ingham County, Michigan, in accordance with the provisions of Act 184 of the Public Acts of 1943, as amended to provide for the regulation of non-conforming uses, to provide building requirements for the various zones, to regulate land uses in the various zones, to provide for the issuance, use and lapsing of building permits and the collection of fees therefor, to provide penalties and remedies for violation of this Ordinance, to provide for the administration of this Ordinance, including the official whose duty it shall be to enforce the provisions thereof, to provide for a Board of Appeals, its powers and duties, and the procedure to be followed in case of appeals, to provide for conflicts with other ordinances and regulations and for the amendment of this ordinance.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF ALAIEDON TOWNSHIP, INGHAM COUNTY, MICHIGAN, ORDAINS:

ARTICLE I TITLE AND PURPOSE

Section 1.1 — TITLE This Ordinance shall be known and cited as Alaiedon Township Zoning Ordinance No. 11.

Section 1.2 — PURPOSE The fundamental purpose of this Ordinance is to establish zones, zoning regulations and general building restrictions, as authorized by Act 184, Public Acts of 1943 as amended, for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

ARTICLE II NON-CONFORMING USES

Section 2.1 — EXISTING USES At the discretion of the owner, the lawful use of any parcel of land, building, or structure existing at the time of the enactment of this Ordinance, although such use does not conform to the provisions of this Ordinance, may be continued as a non-conforming use. Provided, however, that if such a non-conforming use be discontinued for a period of two (2) years, the use of such premises, building or structure shall thereafter conform to the use permitted in the district in which it is located.

Any building which is under process of construction on the effective date of this Ordinance may be completed.

Buildings which were built and occupied before the adoption of this Ordinance, which do not meet the structural requirements for the zone in which they are located, may be improved if they have the proper foundations and siding provided, however, that any new addition to such building must be made upon proper permit and must comply with all structural requirements for the zone in which it is located. Provided, however, that the foregoing shall not be construed to interfere with normal expansion of existing, non-conforming commercial property which, within the discretion of the Board of Appeals, shall be permitted upon application to said Board.

Section 2.2 — RECONSTRUCTION OF DAMAGED BUILDINGS If a non-conforming building used for business purposes, whether in a commercial zone or not, is damaged or destroyed, it may be rebuilt upon the issuance of a building permit, provided that the construction of the new building is as good as or better than the structure which was damaged or destroyed.

If any building not used for business purposes is damaged to the extent of more than sixty (60%) percent of its appraised value, it shall not be reconstructed or restored except in conformity with the regulations of the zoning district in which the building is situated, after issuance of a building permit by the Board of Appeals. Any such building damaged to the extent of less than sixty (60%) per cent of its appraised value may be restored upon the issuance of a building permit by the Board of Appeals. The extent of the damage as herein contemplated shall be determined by the Board of Appeals and its decision shall be final, subject only to judicial review in the event of abuse of discretion by said Board.

ARTICLE III USE, HEIGHT AND AREA REGULATIONS

(b) Any kind of manufacture or treatment of products clearly incidental to the conduct of a retail business conducted on the premises, provided that the manufacture and treatment is not unsightly, noisy, odorous to persons in adjacent yards, streets or buildings.

Section 3.4 — "D" AGRICULTURAL ZONES (1) In "D" Agricultural Zones, the land shall be used for farming and residential purposes only. No dwellings hereinafter erected in "D" Agricultural Zones, except those used for seasonal labor, shall be built on a lot which has less than one hundred sixty-five (165) feet of frontage on the road or street on which it faces and which has an area of less than one-half (½) acre. No building shall be erected closer than twenty-five (25) feet to any lot line which does not coincide with or lie within the boundary of any public highway, corner lots excepted.

(2) Dwellings hereinafter erected in "D" Agricultural Zones, except those used by seasonal labor, shall otherwise comply with the use, height and area regulations prescribed for "B" Residential Zones.

(3) Buildings utilized for dwelling purposes by seasonal labor may be erected in Agricultural Zones and shall not be subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, except as to set back from the highway right-of-way line, provided that such dwellings are maintained in a safe and sanitary condition, are furnished with a safe and sanitary water supply and with safe sewage disposal facilities that do not adversely affect health conditions; provided, further, that the location of such buildings shall be approved in writing by the Board of Appeals as being in harmony with the purposes of this Ordinance; provided, further, that such buildings shall not be used for dwelling purposes for more than five (5) months during the growing and harvesting season of any year.

(4) This section shall not be construed so as to prevent the construction on a lot which does not comply with the aforesaid area requirements of a dwelling for personal use and such accessory buildings as may be necessary, provided that said lot is individually owned by or being purchased on a contract by the person constructing said dwelling as of the effective date of this ordinance.

Section 3.5 — GENERAL REGULATIONS (1) All new buildings erected in or buildings moved into Alaiedon Township shall conform to the requirements of this Ordinance.

(2) Public shows, meetings, entertainments, exhibitions or religious services may not be held in the open air or under canvas unless a written application first be filed with the Township Clerk and a license be obtained therefor. Said application shall state the name or names of the applicant or applicants, the nature of the activity and the proposed site, together with a statement signed by the owners or occupants of sixty-five (65%) per cent of the land within a radius of five hundred (500) feet of the boundaries of the proposed site, indicating their willingness to have such activity conducted. The Township Clerk shall grant such a license, upon proper application, if it appears that such activity is not in violation of any law, ordinance or regulation and will not endanger the public peace, health or safety.

(3) House trailers are prohibited in all zones, except as permitted by the provisions of Chapter VII of the Ingham County Sanitary Code; provided, further, that permits shall be required in addition to those specified and said code for the parking of trailer coaches for farm labor and public exhibitions and, provided, further, that adequate water-carried sewage disposal facilities shall be provided in connection with all trailers applying for extended permits.

Plans Are Made For Opening of Co-op Nursery

Mason's cooperative nursery will re-open on Monday, October 3, for its second year of operation. The location is the same, in the Presbyterian church nursery rooms. The church has cooperated wholeheartedly in enabling the nursery group to get started, said Mrs. Warren Mueller, chairman of the group.

The nursery has been observed closely by other nursery groups and the state association and at the annual convention of Michigan Child Study association Mrs. Mueller was asked to report on the founding of the nursery.

The nursery has received considerable comment and statewide publicity and Mrs. Stanley Knopf, the teacher, was honored by being one of the few nursery teachers asked to speak at Kellogg Center, M. S. U. during the recent state convention for cooperative nurseries. Mrs. Knopf is a graduate in home economics child development, and was a teacher at the faculty nursery, M. S. U. for 2 terms. She has set up the same routine at Mason as prevails at Spartan Nursery on the campus.

Many of last year's children are enrolling for the new year but there will be openings for several more in both age groups, said Mrs. Mueller.

There will be 3 periods of 10 weeks each during the year, with a 3-week vacation during Christmas. The whole term will run October 3 to May 18.

There is no hard and fast rule about age grouping but most younger children enroll in the 2 1/2-3-year group, said Mrs. Mueller. They go twice a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the cost is $1.50 per week.

Older children, ages 3 to 6, attend 3 times a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the cost is $2.25 per week.

Officers for the new year are Mrs. Warren Mueller, president; Mrs. Frank Schmidt, Jr., secretary; Mrs. Merline Groves, treasurer; Mrs. Roland Heene, supply and participation chairman; Mrs. Clay Hulett, publicity; Mrs. Hershel Jewett, new equipment chairman; and Mrs. Duane Barr, enrollment chairman.

Change in Name Is Decided on At Stockbridge

The board of education of the Stockbridge Community Agricultural Schools changed the name of the district to Stockbridge Community Schools as permitted by the new school code. The school also has become a fourth class district instead of a rural agricultural school as provided in the same code.

The building program of the district is progressing with a little more speed than it has been doing of late, board members said. Materials seem to be the biggest problem and if these could arrive faster the Munnith and Gregory schools could be pushed along to completion, they added.

School is now in its second week under conditions which are not the best because of overcrowding, school officials said. Changes in the attendance areas of some of the pupils have had to be made and some must still be done, they added. The most heartening part is that the people of the community realize that there are many problems and they are understanding and cooperative, officials stated.

The enrollment is at an all-time high. There is a total enrollment of more than 1,600 pupils so far with a number of elementary pupils still to come. These will have to be checked on and some parents forced to get their children in school, the superintendent reported. There are 1,015 pupils in grades kindergarten through the sixth. There are 137 in grade seven, 132 in grade eight, 99 in the freshman class, 79 sophomores, 71 juniors and 69 seniors for a total of 587 in the junior-senior high school.

Mrs. Nella O'Brien was hired last week to teach in the Stockbridge junior high and to complete the staff of 1955 on the faculty.

KNOW HIM ?

Juvenile delinquency was just a term until they sent the boy down the street to what they politely termed a "training school." Then it became real, because this boy wasn't just a statistic but a kid who had played with your kids. Why, only last Sunday you had gone fishing with his father.

So now . . . you wondered why. The boy came from a good home—or did he? There was money enough, luxury enough, but it's true that his parents sometimes left him pretty much to his own devices. There were his mother's clubs and his father's business, and they led an active social life.

You asked yourself why . . . and in your heart you knew the answer. It lay in those gaps that had been left in his upbringing—great chinks, that should have been filled with faith, spiritual guidance, and solid enduring values. Thinking about it, you made up your mind to start taking your own kids to church on Sundays without fail—no matter how good the weather was for fishing.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Kiwanians Name Delegates To Convention in Lansing

The Kiwanis club of Mason will be represented at the 1955 convention of the Michigan Kiwanis District at Lansing, September 27-28, Glen Coon, the president announced.

Local delegates to the convention will be Dunn, Laurence Parker and Jim Glotta.

Kenneth Lohced, trustee of Kiwanis International and Toronto, Ontario businessman, will be a featured speaker during the 3-day meeting at the Olds hotel. Also on hand will be Walter Patenge of Lansing. He, too, is an international trustee.

Delegates from 158 clubs, representing a membership of more than 9200 business and professional leaders, will participate in the various sessions. Committee conferences, a discussion of plans for the coming year, and election of officers will highlight the convention program, Dunn said.

The presiding officer at the 3-day session will be Robert Cray, governor of the Michigan Kiwanis district. Cray is a Jackson attorney.

Lohced, who will serve as the official representative of Kiwanis International at the meeting, is a past governor of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime Kiwanis district. He is now serving as an international trustee. A long-time leader in youth betterment programs, Lohced has been a director of the Lohced Trust Fund, which is administered by the Toronto Kiwanis club for the support of youth activities in that city. His interests include other civic and philanthropic organizations in Toronto.

Patenge has been a Kiwanian for 22 years. During that time, he has been president of his home club, lieutenant governor and governor of the Michigan Kiwanis district, and a member of district committees, a member of the International committees on new club building and inter-club relations, and chairman of the International committee on new club building for the United States. A graduate of Michigan State university school of engineering, Patenge is president of an auto parts manufacturing concern in Lansing. He is active both in professional and civic affairs. In addition to membership in the Society of Automotive Engineers, and chairmanship of a committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, Patenge is a leader in local charity work.

Michigan was the first state to have a statewide milk pasteurization requirement—and the first to declare its cattle free of bovine tuberculosis.

Part 3

Fox Theatre Books Four Top Pictures

Theater goers have the opportunity to see some top films this coming week at the Fox in Mason. Included in the list are 'The Far Horizons', Walt Disney's 'Stormy', 'Strategic Air Command' and 'The Wizard of Oz'. Then next week comes Judy Garland in her great hit, 'Over the Rainbow'.

In the winter of 1804 a band of buckskin-clad explorers pushed on up the Missouri river to the Mandan Indian village in what is now North Dakota. It was there that an Indian girl joined them. The men were members of the U. S. army expedition led by Captains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. The girl was Sacajawea, destined to become the guide for the expedition.

In the picture Fred MacMurray is Captain Lewis, Charlton Heston is Captain Clark, and Donna Reed is Sacajawea. Barbara Hale also plays a prominent role as the woman both men loved.

The picture dramatizes the hazardous journey which opened the West and gave the United States a valid claim to all the land west to the Pacific. Mixed in with the history is a heart-stirring human story.

Horse with Complex
Stormy is the story of a handsome colt with a famous bloodline, a colt born out of season in the Kentucky Bluegrass section.

Because he is so much smaller and younger than the other members of his yearling class, Stormy receives scant attention from his owners and trainers.

When his mother is weaned away from him, Stormy is alone, without the company of other horses, who are all occupied with their various phases of training. Only Sylvester, a young groom, has time for a few kind words and a simple rule or two of conduct for the little horse.

When the other favored yearlings are sent to the famous Keeland auction, to be sold at fabulous prices, Stormy is left behind.

And when the others depart with their new owners to be prepared for a glamorous life as a race-horse, Stormy is sold for a few dollars as a work-horse and sent to a ranch in California.

All this gives Stormy an inferiority complex and the story builds up to the big comeback, where Stormy develops into a top polo pony and wins the big game.

Air Picture Is Tops
Hailed as the top thriller of them all, 'Strategic Air Command' has thrilled audiences all over

Bombers of the U. S. air force's atomic striking arm play a dramatic role in the lives of James Stewart and June Allyson, co-stars of 'Strategic Air Command'. The picture is booked for the Fox screen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It's a Paramount VistaVision and Technicolor epic, giving the nation a glimpse into the lives of men and women of the newest air force branch.

Donna Reed is starred in 'The Far Horizons' which is scheduled for the Fox Friday and Saturday. She plays the part of the Shoshone Indian girl who guided the Lewis and Clark expedition. Fred MacMurray, Charlton Heston and Barbara Hale are co-stars in the VistaVision Technicolor saga of the West.

The world: "It is coming to" the Fox Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The picture is the story of "Dutch" Holland, star third baseman for the St. Louis Cardinal (James Stewart), who is at the height of his career and earning power after a wartime stint with the air force when he is called back to active duty and assigned to the strategic air command. When Holland protests that he has already done his duty and argues he is too old for further flying, he is told SAC is composed of older, more seasoned men. The strategic air force is the atom-bomb-carrying command whose inter-continental bombers provide the retaliatory strength upon which the U. S. relies to keep the peace.

Holland's career in SAC is traced, taking the viewer to such installations as Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth, home of the B-36's, and MacDill AFB at Tampa, Florida, home of the B-47's. Theater goers fly with Holland in these exciting planes, return with him to his wife, Sally (June Allyson), experience with them the frustrations, pressures, demands—and rewards—of life in SAC. This is primarily the Holland's personal story, and that of their colleagues in the command whose every facet of existence is affected by their duty with SAC.

As a human document it is revealing. As a first opportunity to see this amazing organization in operations it is most exciting. And the broad sweep of Vista-Vision makes this panorama of skyborn grandeur something to be remembered.

Judy Is Film Star
Wednesday and Thursday of next week Judy Garland's 'Over the Rainbow' is coming to the Fox screen.

Although Judy Garland's most recent picture was called "A Star is Born," Judy's star first went into ascendancy in 'The Wizard of Oz'.

In the memorable film its youthful star not only made famous the name of Judy Garland but also gave seeming immortality to a song called "Over the Rainbow."

Holt Will Have New Postoffice

Construction of a new, one-story building to house the postoffice at Holt began this week.

Robert R. Justus, regional postal director, Chicago, announced that the postoffice department had signed a 10-year lease with J. Gover Chapman, Holt, who is erecting the cement block and brick building to be located at the south side of Delhi avenue between Cedar and Chestnut streets.

The building, 1,313 square feet in size, will be ready for occupancy on January 1, 1956. The rental agreement calls for the owner to furnish water and sewage service.

Book Talk

Summer hours, effective immediately, at the Mason branch of the Ingham county library: Monday through Friday, 2-5 p. m.; Saturday, 10-11; Tuesday and Thursday, 9-9 p. m.

It's wonderful to have a son all your own. So writes John McNulty, author and sophisticated New Yorker. In his book, MY SON JOHNNY, the mighty McNulty humbles himself. "Some old boy said that the proper study of mankind is man. I might make so bold to add that an exceedingly good study of a man is his little boy, from whom he can learn a whole lot." He makes it plain that his whole life has been changed for the better, and some of it rubs off on the reader.

That's one way, but Scott Corbett has another. He makes a living writing about the place he likes to live in. In CAPE COD'S WAY Corbett writes a history of the place and its 15 townships. Clipper ships, whalers, privateers, saltworks, cranberry bogs and rum-running, all play their part. He introduces some well known Cape Codders as samples, including Miles Standish, Daniel Webster, Henry Thoreau, Horatio Alger, and Grover Cleveland. Read this book before you visit the Cape. It might make the trip unnecessary.

Hildegard Dolson may be remembered as the one who shook the family tree. Her newest is SORRY TO BE SO CHEERFUL, with HOW TO BE MUDDLED THOUGH SINGLE suggested as a subtitle. She writes about the bat that was stunned by a snowshoe, a recipe for choice sea slugs, and the problems of having a black eye in Paris. She reports on her interview with Emily Post, during which organized etiquette was set back 20 years.

Heading this fall's fiction parade will be Herman Wouk's first novel since the Caine Mutiny. MARJORIE MORNINGSTAR is about the aspirations and loves of an orthodox Jewish girl, Marjorie Morganstern. The novel is long, clever, high class Molly Goldberg, and bears Wouk's trademark, that of a positive moral tone.

Robert Penn Warren, Pulitzer Prize Winner, has written another contender, BAND OF ANGELS. Warren is concerned with the freedom given to slaves by the Civil War. Amantia Starr, raised as a white citizen, at the age of 16 finds out that her mother was a slave. At her father's death she is sold by his creditors and finds out how the other half lived. She explores the blacks and

Motorcyclists Are Hurt

Two Grand Rapids young men suffered injuries Friday when their motorcycle overturned at the curve of US-127 at Fitchburg road, intersection east of Leslie. Robert M. Tompkins was driving his motorcycle north. Riding tandem was Alfred E. Pratt. They were traveling too fast for the curve. The motorcycle ran into a ditch and hit a signpost. The 2 men were taken to Mercy hospital, Jackson. Tompkins was considered the more seriously injured. His back was injured.

At least 29% of the nation's total salt deposits are believed to be located in Michigan.

Two standard bearers, regular as the seasons, are Frank Yerby and Frank C. Slaughter. Yerby, author of consistent best sellers, has written THE TREASURE OF PLEASANT VALLEY, a novel set in the California Gold Rush. Yerby's books have sold to the tune of 13 million copies.

Slaughter, a physician, usually writes historical novels about doctors in the south. FLIGHT FROM NATCHEZ is no exception, a swift moving adventure story of the south before the Revolution.

If you don't see what you want, ask for it at your nearest branch of the Ingham county library. A new branch was added this summer at the Ingham county hospital and rehabilitation center at Okemos. This is the library's second institutional branch, the other being in the Ingham County Chest hospital.

A white man—Etienne Brule—reached Michigan's Upper Peninsula in 1618, two years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

For Today, Not 2955

The Mackinac bridge is designed, engineered and constructed to stand for 1,000 years, declared Dr. David B. Steinman, the designer.

A thousand years is a long time. Long before that people will be whisked from peninsula to peninsula by a rocket device or magnets. They won't be using automobiles. But of course someone can make some money by showing the old unused bridge as a tourist attraction.

A lot of highways have existed long enough to gain historic value. Every state has them, roads built first for horse and buggy travel and then converted to 35-mile-an-hour automobile roads. Their historic value remains. Their value to get people safely from one place to another has vanished. Perhaps roads should be designed, engineered and constructed for 10 years or 20 years. Maybe we've built them to last too long, so long that a road becomes a rut.

Michigan people might profit from a drive down into Ohio. There they can see, and by October 1 can drive, on a road not built to last for 1,000 years but one which should carry a lot of heavy traffic between October 1 this year and 1972 when the bonds will be paid off.

Stretching all the way across Ohio is a turnpike, a toll road, which for $3 will give a driver a clean comparatively safe shot across Ohio in less than 4 hours. Except at specially designed interchanges there will be no turning on or turning off. Straight across Ohio on easy grades lie the 4 ribbons of concrete, waiting for customers.

Here in Michigan we don't know what truck traffic is, unless around Detroit. On all of Ohio's routes between Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Columbus and toward New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, everywhere except north across Lake Erie, mammoth trucks roll. Ohio is doing something about it. The legislature has adopted an axle tax to make truckers pay for the highways they use and wear out. The turnpike is going to lure thousands of trucks off public highways. Ohio isn't building a bridge to last 1,000 years but the great state south of Michigan has built a road for today and tomorrow and part of next week. Go look at it. After October 1 drive on it, and then ask Michigan politicians why they're so afraid of a turnpike connection extending from the Ohio line on up to Detroit, Pontiac, Flint and Saginaw.

Followers Are Needed

"Republicans have plenty of leaders," declared President Eisenhower in Denver last week.

It's as right as right can be. Republicans have more leaders than they need. The great Republican need is for followers.

Trusties Become Desperate

Had prison authorities and the state police been as concerned as they should have been over an escaped prisoner Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herrick might still be living.

On a Friday morning a trusty drove a truck away from Jackson prison. He was a trusty before he decided to make his break. Then he became a desperate man. That's so in every case when a trusty escapes, or "walks away," as the expression is used.

Nearly Buchanan was not considered a dangerous man, although his record in and out of prison pointed that way. He had been "passed over" by the parole board.

Buchanan drove a prison truck to Stockbridge and abandoned it in plain sight. The abandonment of the truck was reported while the engine was still warm. Somewhere within a mile or two of the abandoned truck a desperate man was hiding.

State police and prison guards went to Stockbridge. They looked around. They didn't see him, not even in the coffee shop. He was a trusty. He would turn up soon. It was the Labor Day week end. The state police head and the governor wanted every available state trooper out on the highways. Maybe that was one of the reasons the search was called off, or not pressed. That and the fact that "walk-aways" from the prison have been regarded too casually.

Buchanan skulked around Stockbridge, finally taking refuge in a barn 4 or 5 miles from town. He was a desperate man. He struck to kill Howard Herrick to get money and a car. He killed Mrs. Herrick, presumably because she came upon him in the midst of his previous murder.

Every man, regardless of his previous record, becomes desperate when he escapes from prison. Every escape, every "walk-away" should be regarded in that light. Had Buchanan's escape been so regarded the search for him would have been pressed all day Friday, all through Friday night and all day Saturday, whether or not picnic-bound week-enders scaped fenders.

Some way could have been found to recruit a posse. Prison guards, state police, sheriff's officers and men from farms and stores and factories could have been enlisted in a methodical search. Had that been done the day the prisoner escaped the Stockbridge man and wife would probably not have been hammered to death in their barn. We have all taken prison escapes and "walk-aways" too casually.

Prisoners when they escape are desperate. They are capable of desperate deeds. No effort should be spared in their capture.

Home-Made Brainwashing

High army officers, politicians and news and TV commentators are beating their gums over a brainwashing program for air force personnel, whether there is or ever was such a program, what it has or hasn't done for or to the men, and whether it should be or shouldn't be done.

More words have been wasted upon American turncoats than the situation warrants. There were only a few who traded their honor for promises of favors.

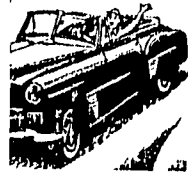

One sob-sister wrote, "Teen-agers from poverty-stricken homes with only a few years of schooling, they simply were not equipped to cope with the arguments of communist propagandists, and they eventually came to believe a good deal of the balderdash the propagandists threw at them."

Balderdash, to say the least. History of the communist movement in this country proves that the lures have always been thrown to the highly educated, the so-called intelligentsia, the Alger Hisses, the Harry Dexter Whites, the Rosenbergs, the Bishop Oxmans, the men and women who had more education than common sense.

One of the fundamental errors in dealing with communists anywhere is the theory that they're communists because they're poor and hungry or ignorant. They're communists because of underlying defects in character, because of twisted and tangled thinking, as often because of too much as too little of what goes for education.

All this talk about washing brains here at home is evidence that education is no cure for stupidity.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Structures don't have to be ugly to be useful. Which explains why functional buildings are looking better all the time.

Invited to a Cleveland wedding and to the home of city cousins in Shaker Heights, my wife and I left the Sycamore valley last Friday. We stopped off in the valley of the Maumee, too, before reaching the Cuyahoga valley. At Maumee once stood Milo Bennett's tinotype school, my alma mater. LeRoy Lee is also an alumnus. Now the school has been moved to English, Indiana, where Doyle Robinson recently matriculated.

On the way to Cleveland and back we saw a lot of things and enjoyed most of them. The wedding at which John Evans of Mason and Eileen Mooney of Cleveland spoke their vows was impressive. The Mooneys were delightful hosts at the reception. Their home is a double city block affair stretching from Lake Shore drive down to Lake Erie. Don and Ruth Murray of Birmingham were there to see their nephew marry. We shared their motel for several hours and went walking and wading with them on the beach.

Don, once superintendent of schools at Mason, is a counselor at Northern high school in Detroit, a responsible and highly interesting post.

I started out to talk about functional beauty. The mammoth Michigan Elevator Exchange elevator on this side of the Michigan-Ohio line and the companion piece at Bellevue, Ohio, are 2 good examples. They give small towns Manhattan skylines. New church, factory and school buildings all along the route also prove that ugliness does not necessarily have to be present because something is useful.

Ohio fruit near the shore of Lake Erie escaped the May 9 freeze which took such heavy toll in Michigan. Pickers were finishing the peach harvest and were starting on apples last week end. Many of the apple trees are heavy laden.

Even though Chicago newspapers ran banner headlines on the Stockbridge murder, the crime went unnoticed in Cleveland. I was able to find no one there who had heard about it. The Michigan dynamite slaying got a play. With 386 pages in Sunday's Plain Dealer there was no excuse for not listing everything that had happened in the midwest during the entire week.

It's not that Cleveland people are uninterested in murder. They're still talking about Dr. Sam.

Moses Clevealand in 1796 founded the city which now bears a misspelling of his name. The Evans-Mooney wedding was in Euclid, a suburb. Euclid is one of Cleveland's main streets. Euclid figures into a lot of place names. Yet none of those I asked could explain the connection between the ancient Greek mathematician and Cleveland. Maybe there isn't any.

If the Dutch elm disease really gets going in Ohio a lot of naked streets will result. Giant elms shade many city and town streets.

Wayne county in Michigan is noted as one of the most industrialized counties in the United States. Wayne county, Ohio, is one of the top agricultural counties. It's rolling land and highly productive. Dairying is the biggest business. We visited the William Van Valey's near Wooster. Mrs. Van Valey is the former Kathryn Sherwood of Cleveland. Her mother is the former Helen Stewart of Leslie and Cleveland. Mrs. Sherwood's mother was the former Grace Covert, sister of Kathryn Covert, Kathryn Covert was my wife's mother's maiden name. That was why we visited the Sherwoods and Van Valey's.

Mrs. Van Valey is of the same generation as George Covert at Leslie. Both are descended from great-great-grandpa Mahlon Covert. Both now milk Holsteins by machine.

The Sherwoods live on Shaker boulevard in Shaker Heights and have an extra bedroom. That was why we stayed all night.

From Wooster we struck north and west to reach the main Toledo-Cleveland route at Norwalk.

We would have reached home sooner had it not been for our try to unravel history at Fremont. We stopped at the Fremont hotel for dinner and the china bore pictures of one Colonel George Croghan and Rutherford B. Hayes. We realized we were in historic country and after dinner toured the area looking at monuments. Col. Croghan and 150 men of the 17th U. S. Infantry stood off 1,500 British and Indians under General Proctor and Chief Tecumseh in 1813, according to the engraving and to the footnotes on the menu. The D. A. H. monument credits the colonel with having 160 men and had him fighting only 1,300 redcoats and Indians. I figure the hotel is right.

It was at Fremont, then called Upper Sandusky, that Indians herded their white captives, to take them across Lake Erie to Detroit to collect the British bounty. That's how lend-lease started.

Rutherford B. Hayes, the 19th president of the United States, was once city attorney at Fremont. During the Civil War he worked his way up to major. After the war he entered congress, then became governor of Ohio and finally followed U. S. Grant as president. Howard McCowan is Mason's city attorney.

Small towns away from the main tourist routes are often built around a commons or square. Lodi is one and it's a slightly place. People are going to find even more beauty in Ohio when truckers take to the turnpike. Until the turnpike is opened October 1 a lot of views are from behind or beneath giant trucks. I thought that truck traffic was heavy when US-127 used the street past by house. That traffic on the busiest day would not compare with a slow day on US-20 or 2 or many of the other main roads linking Ohio's industrial cities.

Why do they call them turnpikes? My wife asked that and I couldn't answer for sure until I reached home and consulted the dictionary. A turnpike is a revolving frame with pikes, a turnstile. A turnpike road is therefore one where toll is collected for use of the road. That's what a turnpike is in Ohio. In Michigan it is a political football.

Ohio people and even Michigan people who buy their gasoline in Ohio get about 20 miles more for their gasoline dollar than they do in Michigan. In Ohio regular gasoline, Standard or any competitive brand, sells for 27.9c tax included. The Michigan price is 33.4 with a 6c state gasoline tax. The Ohio price must also include the federal tax and a state sales tax. There's also a federal tax, and both Ohio and Michigan have state sales taxes. In Michigan the total tax bite is 8.8c.

The same dollar which takes a car 87 miles in Ohio takes it only 63 miles in Michigan.

That's why I filled my tank to the brim at Perrysburg on the way to Cleveland and again at Toledo on my way home.

If You're Like Me...

You think you're a reasonably good driver; that any accident you're in is likely to be the other fellow's fault. But, should one happen, we ought to know what to do.

I've come upon dozens of auto accidents, everything from rumped fenders to horrible smash-ups that made me look away. I've never been involved in anything serious, and, of course, I never hope to be.

Nevertheless, I've tried to plan out what I'd do if the time should come. Even though a fractured temper was my greatest personal injury, and some crumpled chromework and shattered glass the worst damage to my car, I'd still want to do the right things. What appeared to be a minor accident at the moment might have some serious future results, and I might be so excited or nervous—or just plain mad—right after it happened that I couldn't think clearly unless I'd already gone over the important steps of what-to-do beforehand.

After thinking it over, and talking with people who know the answers, here's what I'd try to remember to do, if I were in an accident while driving, and I'd do as many of these things as I could:

1. I'd stop right away, without blocking traffic. If there was any sort of injury or damage I'd be breaking the law if I didn't offer my name and address to the other driver (or to a pedestrian struck by my car).

2. Before I did anything else, in a serious accident, I'd try to help anyone who had been injured; try to make him or her comfortable, but be mighty careful about moving the victim because I might possibly add to the injury with my good intentions (and that might cost me later).

3. I'd make sure that someone called the police (in the city) or the state police or sheriff. Even if I felt I'd been wrong, or partially so, I'd still have many rights which I'd want protected by an official report of the accident.

4. I'd get the other driver's name, address, and license number; and I'd be sure to get the name and address of anyone injured, or possibly injured. I'd show the other driver my driver's license, giving my name and address. He has a right to that information.

5. I'd round up as many witnesses as I could—right on the spot—and get their names and addresses. I'd obtain from them their version of what happened. All of this I would write down, right then and there.

6. I'd make my own written notes of all the significant circumstances concerning the accident, and I'd be specific. Maybe I'd even pace off the skid marks on the road and make a sketch of the position of the cars. I'd jot down any detail which seemed important. I'd keep this detailed information to myself for the time being, although I would willingly give police officers a general account of what happened (which direction the cars were traveling, my estimate of the speed, traffic conditions, etc.)

7. I would try to remain calm and make no comment on the accident. I would make no hasty admissions, and, above all, I would not sign anything at the scene. Even though I felt I was in the wrong, or partially so, there would be plenty of time to admit blame later. Meanwhile, investigation might prove that I was not in the wrong, or that the other driver was equally to blame or more so. I'd keep in mind that no one may force me to give details, or admit blame, either at the scene or even at a police station; that I have the right to see my own lawyer before I make any formal statement, or sign any kind of paper.

8. I would go to my doctor within 24 hours (sooner, if possible) if I suspected any injury whatsoever. Serious and costly injuries don't necessarily result in immediate pain or bleeding.

9. I'd report the accident, no matter how slight, to my insurance company at once.

Those are the major steps that I would try to follow. While I might legally drive away from the scene of a minor accident after identifying myself and getting the other driver's name and address, to be on the safe side I'd wait for the police to come.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Sammy misses the girls.
Pickles pep up meals.
Exciting days at the Pecks.

I don't know who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder... but I know someone who does such things. Take 3 guesses.

It's Sammy! He looks too innocent for words. Just like a little lamb. Such a sweet face.

The face isn't what gets into things!

He's been so good all summer. Then schools started and all these tricks began. Susy and Sally were on his trail the past 3 months and he couldn't get far without them. He surely does miss them. Keeps saying, "When are the girls coming home?"

Egg whites in the pickles! It came out easier than you would imagine. But if you come to our house some time and we serve pickles you won't be able to tell which ones Sammy gave the eggs. Probably many wonderful discoveries came about just through such mistakes! Now Sammy is going to be a scientist... or winner of Pillsbury's grand national baking contest?

Perhaps dog food makes flowers grow better? And what is its nutritive value to a 2½ year-old boy? And do cold air registers need 3-in-one oil? I know I don't use my sewing machine attachments very much but I doubt they were intended for his little tractors. Do they make a toothpaste tube so you can put back its contents after it is all squeezed out?

Pete says he read a book called "Peck's Bad Boy" when he was a boy. But that Sammy isn't Peck's bad boy. He's just 100% all there and we're not 100% alert enough!

I don't know what we'd do without Sammy! He surely puts sunshine into our lives. He may make us get the broom out more than we used to but he's worth it.

Many times during a week I thank God for such healthy active children and ask guidance in bringing them up. Not too much spoiling or spanking!

How I wish mother and dad were here to see them. That's one thing I miss about them the most. Not having them to talk things over... things that sound too personal or uninteresting to anyone but a grandmother... or mother.

Grandma and Grandpa Peck live but a mile over but some of my thoughts aren't fit for her ears. Wish I were nice and quiet like she. She never says gossipy things about ANYONE. I bet she doesn't even think them!

Still making pickles. I know they don't have any food value but they surely do put pep into a meal. And I have a good family to prove this. All 3 youngsters have been raised on pickles, contrary to popular support of such a practice.

I use quite large crocks for the sweet 9-day process pickles. I have to watch out. How awful next winter, to reach down and bring up not a cucumber but our Sammy where he had fallen into the vinegar and turned into a pickle!

That mistake could be made very easily. For Sammy is the same shade of green as some of the pickles. I used green food coloring in some of the recipes to give them a more interesting green color. He got hold of some of the "empty" bottles and became the weirdest looking boy you ever saw... green face, green feet, green teeth... green everything.

Will I never learn?

Dear Editor, you think I use too many dots, dashes and exclamation points? Well, that's how it is around here. Real exciting!

New Conservation District

The Ontonagon soil conservation district, just recently formed, is the 74th soil conservation district in Michigan, reported Russell G. Hill, extension conservationist at Michigan State University. Hill also said that Marquette county people also plan to organize a soil conservation district in their area. A public hearing has been held and a referendum has been ordered.

The Middle West's first hydro-electric plant was built in Grand Rapids in 1881.

Farmer Has Short End of Retail Sales

Efficiency Is Key to Price Squeeze

By M. H. AVERY
County Agricultural Agent

Many organizations and individuals have suggested methods of solving the difficult farm surplus problem. We should all be working on solving it to the best of our ability. Here are a few ideas:

L. L. Boyer, ag economics department, Michigan State University, in the September Ag Economics sites the excellent condition of business and economy of the country as a whole, except agriculture. He states that usually agriculture is well off when others are, but there have been periods of sustained depression when agriculture was depressed.

Currently, though, farm product prices are fairly good. The farmer is getting only 45 cents of each consumer dollar spent for food compared with a post war high of 54 cents. Consumers are therefore paying more for transporting, packaging and other services on foods than for the food itself. This trend is quite likely to continue and possibly the farmer will have to take a larger part in these services if he is to receive his fair share of the food dollar.

Farmers geared for wartime production have continued to improve since the war closed. The fact that his income per bushel or pound of meat or milk has been cut has encouraged him to greater efforts. What has the reduction in acreage control crops done? Here are figures on controlled and uncontrolled crops for 1953 compared with 1955.

	1,000 acres	1953	1955	Total Reduction, 1955 over 1953
Wheat	78,789	57,463	21,326
Corn (all)	81,730	81,799	69
Total Reduction			21,257
Increase in acreage of a few uncontrolled crops grown in this area:	1,000 acres	1953	1955	Increase over 1953
Oats	43,875	47,634	3,759
Barley	9,659	15,843	6,184
Sorghums	14,651	22,815	8,164
Soybeans	16,367	19,860	3,493
Total Increase			21,600

We have planted the reduced acreage on controlled crops to those of uncontrolled crops, but all will go to make feed for livestock. From these figures we can deduce that up to the present time allotments and marketing quotas have not worked to the best interests of agriculture as a whole.

Farm Bureau officials claim that the level of price support should depend on farmers' success in bringing supplies into line with demand. They state that instead of building up large stocks of surplus commodities which hold down market prices we should stockpile fertility in the soil.

This could be done by requiring farmers to devote a percentage of their crop land to soil-building crops or practices in order to be eligible for conservation payments or price supports.

Others have brought forth the idea that for each acre taken out of production the farmer should receive a cash payment of, so much per acre. There are other suggestions but to date none have solved the surplus problem or increased or even held the farm income at the previous level.

What can the farmer do?

It seems to me that his job is to carry on his regular program but to cut operating costs wherever that is possible.

Labor is one of his greatest costs. He should install labor-saving methods wherever possible. He should try to have machinery which he can use efficiently and keep that machinery in good repair.

Attempt to increase the number of bushels per acre or pounds of milk per cow by efficient methods. Use high quality seed and the correct high analysis fertilizer. Fertilizer has gone up less comparatively than other things which the farmer buys. Cull the dairy herd and beef herd religiously. Use latest practices where possible.

He should study the market and know the trend of the market for each of the various products which he has to put on the market and attempt to have the largest amount of produce ready for the top market of the year for that particular product.

Ingham county farmers have been doing a good job in the milk market with the base and surplus program. Much can be done in the crop and other meat animal programs.

These suggestions will not solve our problem completely but if each farmer carries them through to the best of his ability it is certain to make a difference in his net income.

Don't wait too long to turn on the lights in the laying house. Do it gradually—it is easier to keep laying than to start them laying again after they have dropped in production.

A creep should be built so that baby pigs can eat without being molested by the sows. Pigs will start cracking whole kernels of grain at 2 weeks old. Putting commercial pellets of corn, whole wheat, rolled oats or hulled oats in a convenient place will encourage pigs to eat at an early age.

Artificial grain drying makes possible harvesting earlier in the season and in the day without moisture worries, says Bob Madex, ag engineer. Drying reduces the peril of weevil and other insects and makes it possible to sell grain without moisture discount. Drying also reduces mold in corn.

Check your grains which are in storage to make sure that they are not heating. It might be due to weevil in the grain and if so the bins should be treated immediately.

Hold those heifers that are ready to breed now for breeding in late October or late this year, advises W. W. Snyder, dairyman. In that way you will have them during the base-making period beginning next August.

Oats and Barley and other grains are good for feeding lambs on pasture now to keep them fattening for the fat lamb market. During the rest of the pasture season lambs can lose what they gained unless worms are controlled by drenching now with Phenothiazine.

Any time pasture gets too short to provide enough feed for beef steers keep them on feed to keep them gaining and have them ready before usually lower prices after January 1.

To get the most out of each ear of corn, shock it green and feed to steers.

Surplus in State Treasury Will Not Mean Less Taxes

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

Michigan's hard-pressed taxpayers took a breather of a sort when Gov. Williams disclosed an $18 million surplus.

But they still kept paying.

The governor said that the increase in collections and a number of economies in state government had built up the surplus from the dust of a $65 million deficit 2 years ago.

It was at this point of fiscal desperation that the legislature passed the $30 million a year business activities tax. A business boom did the rest.

Republicans said this year's surplus would be more like $13 million. Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), chairman of the house taxation committee said: "The governor seems to be optimistic."

Seers at the capital immediately predicted that agencies which have been pleading for years for more cash to run their services would renew their requests and the surplus would vanish.

"There will never be a tax reduction in state government," said one bureau chief. "Services may expand, and more people may be hired, but no less money will be required."

Gov. Williams took the opportunity to blast Republicans in the legislature for paring down his appeal for more building money for state colleges and universities.

Republicans said the problems couldn't be solved with mere money, that complete survey of the needs of higher education should be undertaken.

The study is now underway under the direction of Senator Don Vander Weir (R-Fremont), chairman of the senate education committee.

"We'll have something for the 1956 legislature," he said.

Ancient problem of what to do with an overflow of mentally retarded children is coming home to roost.

The governor is getting ready to call a special session of the legislature late in October to cope with the same issues that have bothered lawmakers in regular sessions for years.

The story has been told many times.

There are more than 1,800 youngsters with mental problems who cannot be admitted to Lapeer Home and Training school because it already is overcrowded.

"Commitments have become a farce because there's no place to send these unfortunate," said a mental health expert.

During the last session, committees of both the house and senate fought over bills which would take over tuberculosis hospitals at Gaylord and Howell for the care of mentally retarded children.

The battles were fought and lost. Tuberculosis officials pleaded that the space would be needed if those who already had contracted the disease could be found.

Grisly problem of traffic death will also be considered at the special session. An 11% increase in the number of fatalities for the first 7 months of 1955 over last year was announced by state police. This apparently convinced the governor that no more time can be lost before taking action.

The legislators will again be asked to pass laws which will tighten driver licensing, reduce highway speeds and provide funds to maintain files of driver records. Existing law provides for files but money must be appropriated if records are to be kept properly.

These and other laws have been recommended in past years by the state safety commission, but proposals frequently became enmeshed in politics.

Farm groups have taken new heart in their campaign to move the state fair out of Detroit.

For years the drive has waxed hot and cold with charges flying that the Detroit fair is "a carnival" and that farmers have little opportunity to display their products in the proper atmosphere.

Latest impetus to the take-the-fair-outside campaign came with Michigan State University's centennial farm equipment exposition which drew thousands to the campus.

It was the first test of an outside function devoted exclusively to farmers and their equipment.

"The campaign to move the fair out of Detroit is getting hotter by the day," said George B. McIntyre, state director of agriculture.

Opponents of the idea say that the engineering and industrial exhibits, the sideshows and midway at Detroit is what makes the state fair solvent.

After years of deficits, the fair is now earning a small sum or "at least it's paying for itself," said McIntyre.

The final decision rests with the legislature, however, and its membership is still outstate-minded though Detroit and other metropolitan areas are gaining in influence.

Government reform is continuing in Michigan, though the approach is slightly changed this year.

For 5 years, the legislative committee on state government reform has been operating as a research group, studying ways to improve the functions of state government.

There have been a number of notable ideas written into law for the agencies.

"That function is now finished and we must promote some of the other ideas we have developed," said Senator Frank Andrews (R-Hillman). He is chairman of the committee working for acceptance of new ideas. Among them: Abolition of the state superintendent of public instruction and the auditor general as elective offices.

Low pork prices are predicted by the U. S. department of agriculture during the coming fall and winter due to the big pig crop last spring. Michigan State nutritionists remind that pork should be cooked slowly and thoroughly. Beef may be served rare, but never pork any other way but well done.

SIX FIRST PRIZES for floral displays at the Michigan state fair in Detroit were won by Richard C. Jewett of Jewett Flower Shop, Mason. The Mason florist showed wedding bouquets, table displays and general exhibits in the commercial floriculture classes.

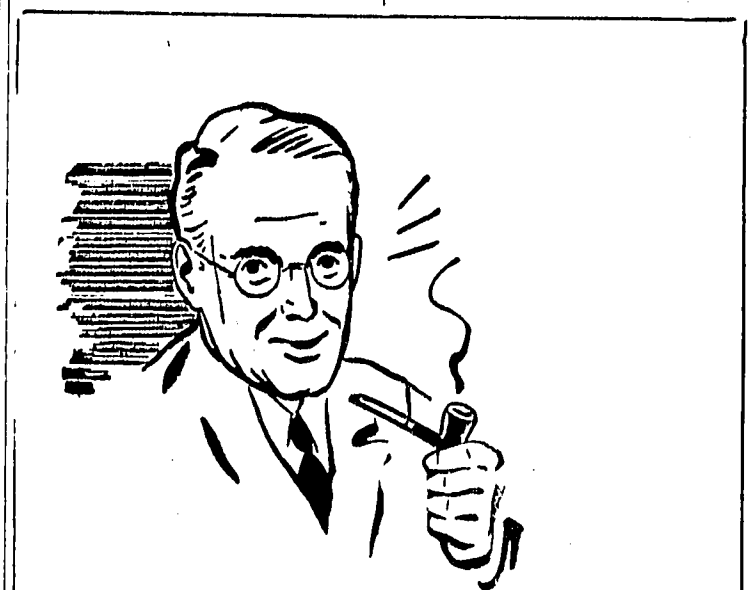

professor in the history department, will be the instructor. Professor Williams reports that the course "will cover slavery and manifest destiny, preservation of the union, and rise of agrarian and urban conflicts."

Teachers, persons interested in history, and others enrolling in the course may obtain 3 term hours of undergraduate credit for the course.

B. B. Varnier, vice-president of M. S. U., said, "Michigan State is offering credit and non-credit courses across the state to meet the needs of the people and is happy to provide this course at Mason to fill the need shown in the community."

Nutritionists say pork is a valuable addition to the diet, not only because of its energy and its protein, but because it is probably the richest of all meats in thiamine, a B vitamin needed for growth and reproduction.

Residents of Mason still have time to enroll in the Michigan State university extension course being offered at Mason this fall term.

The first meeting of the class was held September 12, but additional enrollments will be accepted on Monday, September 19 at the Ingham county courthouse. The class will meet Monday nights from 7 to 10 during the fall term.

The course is "History 222—The Growth of American Civilization: The Strengthening of Nationality." Frederick Williams,

"Everything I am I owe to ARCADIAN 12-12-12"

It takes plenty of big, full heads of wheat or barley to make profitable yields, when growing costs eat up 15 to 20 bushels per acre. Many Midwest growers make big profits on grain by using ARCADIAN 12-12-12 to turn out 40, 50 and even 60-bushel yields. Here's how it's done:

Full-feed your wheat this fall with 400 to 600 pounds of ARCADIAN 12-12-12 per acre drilled in at seeding. Free-flowing ARCADIAN 12-12-12 spreads easily, dissolves quickly in the soil, feeds your fall grain fast and full-feeds it right through to ripening a big crop. Use ARCADIAN 12-12-12 now to supply all the nitrogen, phosphorus and potash your crop needs for a strong start, good wintering over, and big yields of plump grain.

Soil Conservation Saves Water For the Crops

This summer many Ingham county farmers learned that soil conservation practices helped save moisture, declares M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

The unusually dry growing season with its occasional flash rains again proved the value of conservation practices that help hold rain on slopes. Run-off demonstrations operated by a number of soil conservation districts also showed the value of these practices, he claims.

Cross-slope cultivation, contouring and strip-cropping saved an additional one inch of water over practices which allow run-off, Avery points out.

This experience is similar to results from experimental work conducted by the Western Iowa Experiment Farm, says Russell G. Hill, extension specialist in soil conservation at Michigan State university.

The Iowa farm reports that each year for the last 7 years one to 2 inches of rainfall were saved on sloping fields when conservation practices were used. The Iowa researchers further estimate that this additional water available to the crop during the growing season meant an increase of at least 5 bushels of corn to the acre.

This is further proof, says Avery, that farmers should be interested in applying conservation practices not only to hold soil, fertilizer and seed on slopes but also to conserve water.

Gas from Silo Can Be Lethal

Be sure to take safety precautions when filling your silo this fall. Carbon dioxide gas which often replaces oxygen in the silo pit after filling operations can cause suffocation dangers.

Richard Pfister, Michigan State university farm safety specialist, recommends definite precautions in partially-filled silos where silage has set over eight hours.

Pfister claims that it's a good idea to let the blower run for a few minutes with the lower silage doors removed before going inside the silo. This will circulate the air at the base of the silage level and remove possible carbon dioxide gas.

You can check for carbon dioxide gas by lowering a lantern into the pit. If the lantern goes out—you had better watch out, Pfister warns.

Make sure the silo ladder is in good shape. Remove the bottom steps to protect younger children from falls. Check silo platform too.

State Gives Seedlings for Next Spring

Michigan farmers can get a special packet of forest seedlings adapted to windbreak use. The new packet along with the order list for other trees has been announced by the conservation nursery at Michigan State university.

The seedlings are for delivery in the fall of 1955 and the spring of 1956, according to W. Ira Bull, Michigan State university forester in charge of the nursery.

The windbreak packet includes 100 red pine, 100 Norway spruce and 100 white spruce transplants. Transplants of red pine, Jack pine and white spruce along with seedlings of white pine, Jack pine, Austrian pine and Scotch pine are available for reforestation use. Hardwood seedlings on the list include black locust, American elm and Douglas fir transplants appear on the list for the first time in several years, according to Bull. Black walnut stratified for spring planting will also be available for purchase during the winter and spring. Early purchasers can get small numbers of Norway spruce and tulip poplar.

Trees sold by Michigan State cannot be used for ornamental plantings, warned Bull. They cannot be planted within corporate limits of towns and cities, nor can they be planted on building lots in residential subdivisions outside of cities.

Orders can be made now for both fall and winter planting. Price lists and order blanks are available at county extension offices and soil conservation district offices. They may also be obtained by writing to the Conservation Nursery, Michigan State university, East Lansing.

MSU Offers New Books

Two new extension bulletins on lamb and hog production are now available at the extension office, reports M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

"Lamb Feeding in Michigan" and "Producing Pork in Michigan" have just been published. Animal husbandry staff members at Michigan State university wrote both publications.

The bulletins cover many phases of production. Feeds, feeding methods, equipment, housing, management, diseases and parasites are all discussed in each publication.

Co-Ops Arrange Tax Discussion

Michigan sales tax problems is the theme of a series of co-op clinics sponsored by the Michigan Association of Farmers Co-operatives, scheduled throughout the state in September and October, said L. A. Cheney, assistant secretary.

All managers, sales and office personnel handling sales slips are invited to attend. It is hoped to clarify some of the problems these people have in judging what is taxable and what is not taxable to the farmer, Cheney said.

Cheney will outline the MAFC program and Edwin Steffen, general counsel for the MAFC and the Farm Bureau Services, will present the sales tax problem and how to determine taxable items. Lee Trumble and Ray Bohnsack, both of the Farm Bureau Services will talk on the practical application of the laws.

All clinics will begin with dinner at 7:00 p. m. with the meeting following from 8-10. Time will be allowed for discussion and questions.

For Ingham county the meeting is scheduled for the Lansing Y. M. C. A. on September 18.

Early Start on Insect Control Is Effective

Plan control measures now to avoid many insect problems next spring, advised Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department at Michigan State university. He said many insect problems actually can be foreseen. Too often, however, control measures are delayed so long that each problem then must be treated as an emergency, he added.

Hutson pointed out that cleaning up of crop remnants in gardens this fall will reduce chances of serious insect infestations next spring. Removal of all crop residue right after the first frost will deprive the insects of their feed and winter protection.

Livestock insect problems can also be reduced by some control measures now. Spraying with methoxychlor, for instance, will cut house infestations that begin when livestock are housed for winter.

Other insect problems that can be treated now include cultivation of land for control of grubs and treatment for the peach tree borer. Hutson said, also that now is the time to check for heating in stored grain as a sign of insect infestation.

Michigan's streams and rivers traverse approximately 36,350 miles—almost one and a half times around the world.

Michigan Cows Boost Production

Michigan's milk production rose 5% in the past 10 years even though the milk cow population decreased 15% during the same period, R. G. Warmbold, Michigan representative of the American Can Company, reports.

Improved feeding and dairying methods bringing about greater productivity per cow were advanced by Warmbold as one of the major reasons for the increased output.

The 5,600,000,000 lb of milk produced on Michigan farms in 1954 helped set an all-time national record of 123,500,000,000 lb, said the official of the can company which annually produces hundreds of millions of paper milk containers. Michigan farmers shared in milk receipts totaling about $199,000,000, he added.

This national record, Warmbold said, was produced by 12% fewer milk cows than were on America's farms in 1914, when the cow population was at a record total of 25,000,000 cows. However, Warmbold pointed out, the 22,400,000 cows in 1954 produced an average of 5,512 lb of milk each, almost a thousand pounds more than the 1914 cows.

Country & Town

By Jim Brown

The terms Town and Country and Country and Town are becoming ever-popular in describing the suburban out-in-the-country living today. First there were the Jim Brown (no relation) Town & Country stores. Then came the clothing stores. Somewhere along the line, this column was started with a similar title. Now, Rev. Charles Gross of the Dansville Methodist church points out that the Methodist church has recently set up a 50-year Town & Country program.

Rev. Gross points out that the population move to big cities during the past 50 years took the emphasis from smaller community churches. But now with the retreat of city people to suburban and farm areas, community churches are without facilities to do the job. Methodists and other church groups are now rebuilding community strongholds of Christian living.

Dansville Methodists are among the first to bolster town and country churches. The Booster club repainted the church Saturday.

A lot of folks have asked for the jam recipe of Mrs. Donald VanderVeen, Sr. I tried to record it a couple of weeks ago, but the lines of type became jumbled with a recipe for hash. To you cooks who tried to follow the recipe, I'm sorry.

Here's the jam recipe:
4 cups of rhubarb
4 cups of sugar
1 package of strawberry gelatin

Boil the rhubarb and sugar for 10 minutes and then add the gelatin. That's all there is to it. The jam is a Canadian treat from a friend of Mrs. VanderVeen.

How many saw the flying saucer Sunday night? It was right there in the east. It probably fooled a lot of people because it looked more like a cup than a saucer. A Jackson radio broadcast claims that it wasn't a saucer or even a cup, but a weather balloon. The announcer said the balloon was so high, the sun was still shining on it long after we earth people had gone to bed. I was sorry, because I have always wanted to see a flying saucer.

Congratulations to Don and Leone Densmore on the grand opening and first-year anniversary celebration at the IGA supermarket. It was a little over a year ago that the Densmores closed a prosperous grocery business in uptown Mason and opened the supermarket north of the city limits.

There wasn't another retail business within a mile of the new location. Skeptics claimed that the supermarket was on the wrong side of the new Mason by-pass. They claimed it was at the wrong place on the big curve. They claimed nobody would drive that far to buy a sack of groceries.

A year in action has proved the skeptics dead wrong. Don and Leone doubled their floor space this year to take care of the crowds and added a lot of new services never before offered in Mason. Other retail business places have been built near the supermarket, forming a shopping center where many commodities are available.

A vision proved successful for the Densmores. They and their big grocery operation are a credit to Mason.

Letters to Editor

Soldier Sends Greetings

Greetings from across the river from the nation's capital.

I especially enjoy the editorials and many of the letters that different people send you. Especially do I enjoy the articles written by Frost, Updike of Stockbridge and former Rep. Kit Clardy. They boost me up when I am feeling run down. Sometimes I can't say that I agree to all the printed material that one finds in the papers about the political scene or front and the news that Washington, D. C., gets. Of course, I know that we are all human and capable of making a few mistakes. So goes the world around us. Keep the papers coming to me. I enjoy them more each week. As you probably know by this time, I have re-enlisted in the army and will no doubt stay right here in the Washington area. I have hopes of writing a letter to you for your paper about the problem of teenagers and what they face in life.

Prediction Is Confirmed

Last week's letter was written in advance of Truman's visit to the state. My prediction that we were in for another smear type campaign was confirmed with a vengeance.

His appearance, coupled with the things he had to say demonstrates that columnist Dave Lawrence was completely right when he said that Truman and Trumanism will be one of the main issues in the coming campaign. And his suggestion that Truman is the logical Democratic candidate was echoed by our present congressman. According to press reports, he approves of Truman and all he stands for. He is quoted as having suggested that Truman ought to be returned to the White House.

Democratic leaders in the house and senate worked themselves bring on a depression. I am sure into a frenzy last year trying to you have not forgotten the "doom and gloom" attitude of Senator Paul Douglas. What he said was repeated and approved by the Democrats in all corners of the nation. If they were willing to go that far in an effort to win an election last time, it ought to be easy to forecast that will happen when the presidency is at stake. Of course, we are at the peak of national prosperity. Their gloomy forecasts have been given the lie by events. But if they should succeed next time, it seems pretty certain that policies the nation repudiated in 1952, will be reinstated.

While many differences between the 2 parties can be named, the chief one is a matter of political philosophy. They believe that big government and inflation are desirable if not actually

Organic Farmers Plan Meet

For the second year Federated Organic clubs of Michigan will conduct their annual meeting at the Delhi township hall Saturday and Sunday. The 2-day event will start with registrations at 11:00 a. m., Saturday. Potluck dinner will be served Saturday night and Sunday noon.

The federation is comprised of 12 local organic gardening and farming clubs located throughout the state. There are more than 550 members. The meeting is designed to give members and the general public an opportunity to see the produce and farm crops displayed. A tour has been arranged for Saturday morning of a 300-acre organic farm. Organic farmers and gardeners will be on hand to answer questions regarding the importance of a healthy soil to healthy plants, animals and man himself.

With its diversity of fruit crops, southwestern Michigan is often known as the "Fruit Basket of the Middle West."

Girl Is Winner Of Many Ribbons

Elene Behrens of Williamston has a flock of ribbons to show for her 4-H work. This year besides ribbons won at the Ingham and Fowlerville fairs and at the state 4-H show, she captured major honors at the state fair.

At the state fair in Detroit she picked up her fifth grand championship award. She competed there for the first time, winning a blue ribbon and grand championship award for senior yearling Hereford heifer and a blue ribbon on a Hereford calf. Her entries were in the junior show.

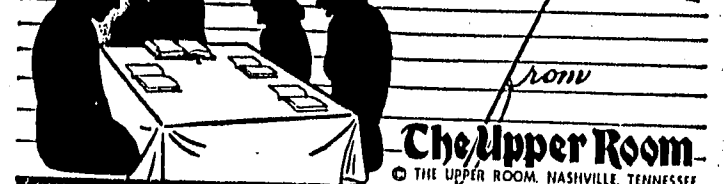

To show for her 3 years of competition the Williamston girl now has 39 ribbons. This year her big winner has been L. M. Miss Dana Princess IV. Besides the 39 ribbons she has taken home 4 other first place awards and grand championships.

Elene is 14, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Behrens.

Hooker Electrochemical, DuPont, and Union Carbide are several of the companies which have located in Michigan in recent years because of the state's large supplies of salt and brine. Iron, copper, limestone, and timber are several others of the state's most plentiful natural resources.

TODAY'S meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

When a flood arose, the stream broke against that house, and could not shake it; because it had been well builded. (Luke 6:48, ASV.) Read Luke 6:46-49.

History records many instances of chained Bibles but not so many, if any, of a chained church. About the turn of this century, a church in Darwin, North Australia, was wrecked by a cyclone. The faithful band of worshippers determined to guard against a repetition of such a disaster. They replaced the destroyed church by a steel-framed building chained at the corners to concrete anchor-blocks.

How important it is for us to anchor ourselves in God through faith in His Son, the Christ, so as to be able to withstand the storms of life! How subtly easy it is, when things are going well, to let faith slacken! We are then prone to imagine that keeping hold of God through prayer, Bible reading, worship, and by Christian fellowship and service does not matter much. But when sorrows, setbacks, and losses come; when illness, accident, or bereavement overtakes us, then we realize afresh the need for a daily, virile, steadfast faith. As the result of such faith Jesus Christ can keep us serene and strong.

PRAYER

O God, the all-loving and all-discerning, we seek Thy forgiveness for the feebleness of our faith. Inspire us afresh to a fuller commitment of our lives to Thee. In the face of storms, from within or without, keep us this day serene and strong; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Secure in Christ, we are ready for any storm.

Chicago Dairy Show Will Begin October 8

Purebred dairy cattle from many states and Canada have been listed for the 3rd annual International Dairy Show scheduled for the International Amphitheatre in Chicago October 8-15.

The first entry consisted of a show herd of purebred Milking Shorthorns from New York. They are coming from the Last Chance ranch near Lake Placid.

Owners of the continent's finest dairy animals will compete for over $10,000 in cash prizes that will be offered in competition featuring 6 breeds—Ayrshires, Brown Swiss, Guernseys, Jerseys, Holsteins and Milking Shorthorns. The management of the show anticipates an entry of over 2,000 animals by the final closing date for listing exhibits—September 12.

$25,000 Recipe Contest

One of the feature attractions at this year's event is the International Golden Dairy Recipe Contest in which more than 5,000 women have submitted favorite dairy recipes. The contest will be conducted by Ruth Flesher Holbrook, Chicago food consultant. She will conduct a twice-daily food forum during the 8-day run of the show in a specially installed dream kitchen.

Prizes valued at $25,000 will be awarded to winners in this event—the grand prize winner to receive an all-expense trip to Europe. Other winning entrants will receive refrigerators, washers, stoves and varied other useful household appliances.

Mrs. Omer Williams of Tenney street, Lansing, says: "I want to give my testimony to what Stars Rheumatic Solvent did for my husband. He was practically helpless for years with neuritis, arthritis, and sciatica. His rheumatism was caused from over-work. It settled in his hands, feet, legs and hips, also it affected his eyes. We spent a fortune trying everything we heard of, but Mr. Williams didn't get relief until he started taking 'Stars Rheumatic Solvent.' Two treatments put him at work again."

Whales Once Cavorted in Great Lakes

It may come as a surprise to Michigan people to learn that whales once cavorted in the Great Lakes!

Russell C. Hussey, professor of geology at the University of Michigan, points out that whale skeletons have been found in the Lower Peninsula.

And in case people might think this is just a tall tale about "the big one that got away," several finds have been made. One whale skeleton was found near Oscoda where an excavation was being made for a new high school; another was found near Flint, and still another near Tecumseh. A portion of a fourth skeleton was found in a swamp south of Ann Arbor.

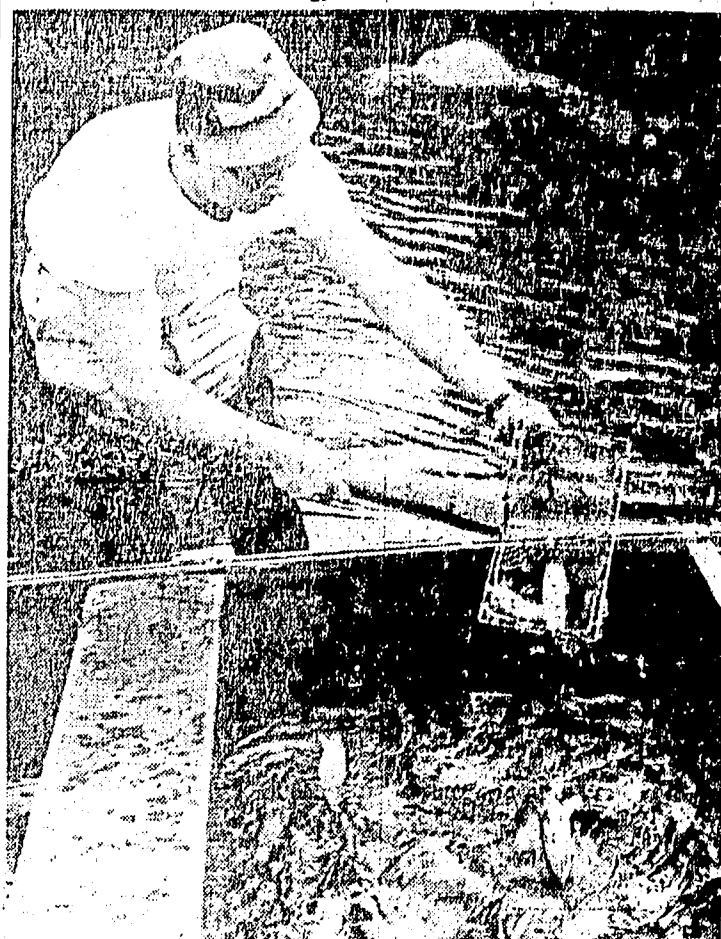

"These bones were in place," the professor said. "They showed no evidence of having been brought in by the ice of prehistoric glaciers and there was no possibility that they had been carried by human beings."

Whales are marine animals today and can not live long in fresh water. The question immediately arises, how did they get from the ocean to Michigan, for this is exactly what they managed to do.

According to the university geologist, the problem may not be so difficult, after all.

"When the ice started to melt, great quantities of water poured out from the ice front, and collected in depressions on the land surface, eventually forming the great system of glacial lakes. "There was, then, after the Ice Age, a fairly direct water way between this state and the ocean, and the big sea-rangers followed up one of these old water connections and eventually reached Michigan where they perished of starvation," he concluded.

Living Memorial

A state Conservation Department worker prepares to release some of the 1312 11-inch rainbow trout turned into the South Branch of the Ausable recently in part fulfillment of the will of George Mason, former president of Nash-Kelvinator corporation, who died last fall. Mason deeded eight miles of the river to the public of Michigan and set up a fund for stocking the water annually.

WHERE IS THE FARMER HEADED?

The last issue of the "Demand and Price Situation," the official outlook report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, reveals consumer income has risen to record levels even after taxes during the past year. This is due to the pickup in economic activity which is expected to continue to rise still further. Wage rates and factory payrolls increased. Non-agricultural employment rose by 700,000 persons from March to April and is one million higher than in April of 1954. Sales of durable goods increased by 18%. Residential construction continued at high levels although there is some evidence of its leveling off. Commercial construction is up 17% from last year. Business investment may be 5% higher in 1955 as compared to 1954. This will vary by industries with some increasing by as much as 15%.

Now let's look at the farmer and his status. In the first four months of 1955 average prices received by farmers were 5 percent below 1954. Receipts from livestock and products were 8 percent less than a year ago. Hog prices dropped due to an 18 percent increase in slaughter. More cattle are being fed for market, indicating increased marketing at lower prices to come. Milk production was lower for the first four months than a year ago while consumption of fluid milk has increased. Broilers, poultry, eggs, and turkey prices are down about 10 percent. Corn and other feed grains are selling 6% lower on the farms than a year ago. The 1954 Maryland tobacco crop sold at 12 cents per pound or approximately 20% lower than in 1954 during the first 2 weeks of auction sales.

In view of the lower economic trends on the farms of this nation, it appears that the American public cannot expect farmers to carry out the conservation measures so badly needed to preserve our greatest natural resource—the soil. The present conservation programs must be continued and expanded with the public sharing the costs with farmers. Many agronomists and soils technicians point out that the application of agricultural liming material of which only 20 million tons were used in 1953 (less in 1954) as compared to an estimated need of 80 million tons annually is one of the items most needed and which is essential to the conservation of our soils.

College Station Will Again Send Lessons Over TV

Central Michigan residents, sitting in the comfort of their homes, can continue their college education by dialing in the Michigan State university television station.

"Telecourse" will be offered again this fall for the sixth term over WKAR-TV, beginning September 26.

The invitation to earn college credits—or to enroll for non-credit work—is extended by Dr. Lawrence E. McKune, continuing education service producer-coordinator for the "University of the Air" series.

Regular university credit will be granted for the course, "Contemporary History of Europe and Asia," taught by Dr. John B. Harrison. The class will "meet" from 7 to 7:30 p. m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning September 26.

Two of the M. S. U. telecourses are non-credit, offered for entertainment and enlightenment. On Thursday nights from 7 to 7:30, beginning September 29, He will demonstrate and explain the various basic principles and laws of physics.

Dr. Alfred Leitner will teach the other non-credit course in "Introductory Physics" on Thursday nights from 7 to 7:30 beginning September 29. He will demonstrate and explain the various basic principles and laws of physics.

The Michigan State university station was the third educational station in operation, going on the air in January, 1954. WKAR-TV covers a 15-county, central Michigan area—with an aggregate population of 2,300,000. TV viewers within the range of the station may write to the continuing education service for data about the fall courses.

BULLET BLADE Bottoms

with new soil-piercing action

Here's a real advance in moldboard plowing—a series of completely new soil-piercing bottoms with four big advantages:

NEW MOLDBOARD CURVATURES . . . to match modern tractor speeds.

UNIFORM "SUCTION" and SELF-SHARPENING BLADES . . . spreads wear, eliminates blacksmithing.

REPLACEABLE SHINS . . . area of greatest wear can be renewed at low cost.

CHANGED EASILY to fit the season . . . using different moldboard sections matches the curvature of the bottom to changing soil conditions.

Four styles of Bullet Blade Bottoms are available here. Let a demonstration prove the difference Bullet Blade Bottoms can make.

Falling Farm Prices Enter Political Picture

By CARL COLLIN

It's becoming increasingly evident that falling farm prices will be an important issue politically. Right now top political leaders don't believe farmer discontent will reach such proportions as to seriously dent GOP strength in normally Republican strongholds such as Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas, but should there be much of a shift in farmer voting in the states where there are large urban centers, where the Democratic party traditionally does up big margins, the Republicans would really be in trouble. Don't sell short the possibility of some change in the administration's stand on present flexible price support programs. There's a feeling that a continued downward trend in farm commodity prices (which is highly probable) could force congressional action before the 1956 election.

There's nothing to stop private traders from selling farm products to Russia, according to Secretary Benson, as long as they can get an export license from the department of commerce. Benson also says he doesn't figure the commerce department would have any objection to sales of such perishable farm commodities as butter, cheese, fats and oils. One major problem: Is Russia willing to buy our surplus products at this time?

Hogs fed raw garbage at any time in their lives may not be moved interstate after the first of January. This is a further move on the part of the federal government to control vesicular exanthema—the hog disease that broke out in a number of Michigan areas several years ago, when hogs were fed garbage at dumps neighboring various cities. More than 80% of all hogs fed garbage in this country now get it cooked. But USDA vets say all garbage feeders must cook their garbage if V. E. of hogs is to be completely controlled.

The corn-hog ratio on August 15 was 12.1; this means it took 12.1 bushels of corn to equal in value 100 lb of hog live weight. It's interesting to note that this was a better ratio than a month previous, even though hog prices during August declined the most for the month on record. Chicago buyers paid an average of $15.30 for the month's supply. What contributed to the better hog-feed ratio was the decline in corn prices. Government forecasts for a crop exceeding 3,000,000 bushels weakened current prices for the major feed grain. In other words, even though hog prices were poor, corn prices were poorer!

Michigan growers got rather good prices for their strawberries this year. Demand was especially good early because of frost losses in southern producing areas. Consumers should still be able to get frozen berries reasonably this winter. West coast processors who account for two-thirds of the P. S. pack have frozen over 180,000,000 lb of strawberries so far this year. That represents an increase of around 23% over last year for the western processors. Packers have been paying growers about 17 cents a pound for berries in California, up one cent over a year ago.

It looks now as though egg prices would stay right up there for the next few months. A lot of farmers stayed out of the chicken business this year because of the low prices. Now with fewer layers on farms, the outlook is good for those who stayed in the egg business. With lots of feed on hand, there will be heavy buying of chicks next spring.

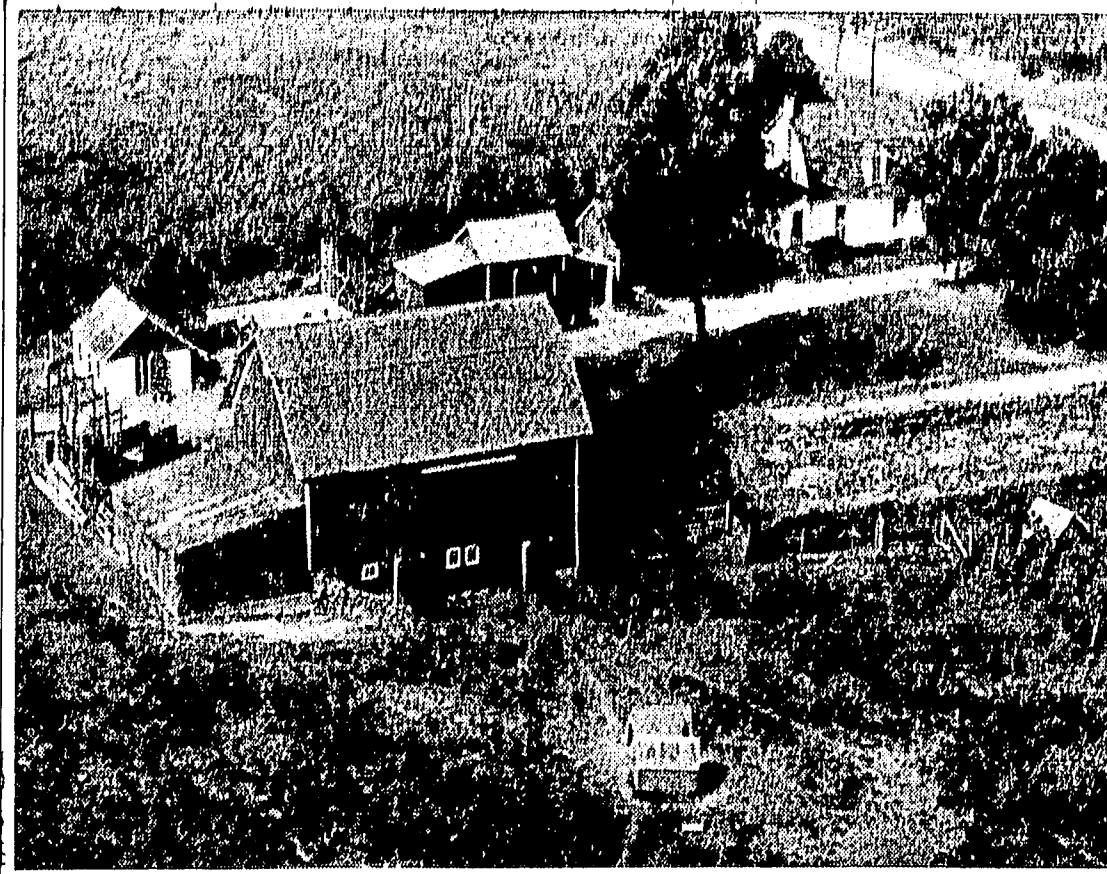

With lots of cheap corn available it's probable that there will be another increase in the spring pig crop, even though hog prices hit some low levels during the next few months. Marketing people don't believe next year's pig crop will approach the record in 1943. That would take a 20% boost over last year. But any way you look at the hog price situation now, it appears that relatively low prices for hogs will stay with us for a while.

Corn allotments were originally established to stabilize hog prices. If farmers stayed within their acreage allotments the price of corn would not go much below support level. But low compliance upset stabilization of hog prices through corn allotments. Some observers say the breakdown of the corn-hog plan is due to a weakened farmer commitment system. At one time these commitments "sold" allotments to farmers but enthusiasm has waned in recent years.

MISCELLANY . . . CCC may take over about half the 1955 rice crop under price support operations. Rice is a more perishable commodity than some other grains the government now has in storage. Could be a big headache . . . Non agricultural uses take over about 650,000 acres of farm land yearly . . . Do you like avocados? This year's Florida crop is half again as large as in 1954. Output is expected to hit 18,000 tons. Growers are kicking in 10 cents a bushel to finance advertising to sell the fruit more widely. Avocados are a very nutritious food, incidentally . . . When USDA tallies its farm price support spending for 1955 a new record high loss, double that of 1954, is expected.

Michigan ranks first in the growth of tart cherries. More than half of the entire U. S. cherry crop is grown in the state.

HAROLD AND RONALD FISHER, father and son, operate the 200-acre dairy farm pictured in last week's Ingham County News mystery farm series. The farm is located 5 miles south of Williamston on East Holt road. The Fisher family have operated the farm for 45 years. Harold Fisher took over the duties 20 years ago and last June, his son joined in the operation as a partner. Ronald was graduated from Williamston high school last June. He and his bride of a few months live across the road from the parents.

Mrs. Harold Fisher is employed at the Ingham county hospital at Okemos. A daughter, Patricia, 11, is at home.

Mrs. Janette L. Holbrook of the Consumers Power Co. staff was the first to identify the Fisher place.

Giant Animals Once Roamed In What Is Now Michigan

The giant beaver, who lived in Michigan ten thousand years ago at the end of the Ice Age, was as large as the modern black bear, according to University of Michigan geologist Russell C. Hussey.

How the prehistoric forest must have reverberated when he slapped his tail! Plainly the beaver that toils in Michigan today would have been no match for that giant creature.

The house of one of these oversized beavers measured nine feet across.

"The giant beaver was just one of an amazing assemblage of animals, completely unknown to our state today, which came to live here with the return of the forests and grass lands after the ice retreated," he states.

"Skeletons of the woolly mammoth have been found in Michigan and the condition of the bones indicates that they are only a few thousand years old. This elephant came to North America by way of a land bridge that connected Siberia and Alaska. He was well equipped to withstand low temperatures since he was protected by a heavy growth of woolly hair next to the skin and several inches of fat just beneath his shaggy hide," Professor Hussey says.

"Skeletons of the American mastodon are more common here than are those of the mammoth. They have been found in a number of places throughout the state commonly in swamps, and buried to depths of only a few feet," he states.

An unusually well preserved skeleton, found near Owosso, has been mounted in a standing position in the U-M museum and is one of the university's finest and most spectacular exhibits.

The professor calls attention to the fact that many of the mastodon bones from the swamps of Michigan are so recent and fresh that they still contain some of the original organic material, and even pieces of cartilage are found fastened to certain parts of the skeleton.

"Such discoveries mean that mastodons survived in our state until comparatively recent times," he says, "and they must have been common all through the forests of Michigan. But nobody has been able to explain why the elephants and mastodons survived the worst conditions of the ice age and then, when living conditions were apparently getting better, disappeared completely from North America."

Describing still another animal, now vanished from the scene, Professor Hussey remarks that the musk ox lives today in Greenland and the northernmost parts of Canada. "When the great glacier occupied most of the Canadian region," he says, "these animals were forced to retreat southward before the slowly advancing ice front and then when the climate grew warmer, they migrated northward, since their animals may have been seen by the advance guard of Indians who once lived in this region. But they are all gone today and the cause of their disappearance is a profound mystery," Professor Hussey concludes.

Michigan has the longest coastline of any state in the union. Its 3,121 mile shoreline is equal to the Atlantic coastline from Maine to Florida.

Pheasants Make Easy Targets

Pheasant production this year is excellent and if weather and other conditions are up favorable this fall, Michigan hunters will harvest 1,250,000 ringnecks during the October 1-November 10 general season.

Conservation department workers made this prediction at the completion of the annual pre-season mall carrier census this week. Ralph Blouch, department game specialist, said 572 rural mall carriers voluntarily counted broods and total numbers of birds seen during their regular daily rounds of southern Michigan in recent weeks.

Their reports show the pheasant population up slightly from last year and now standing at a 10-year peak. In 1954, hunters bagged 1,126,000 birds.

The pattern of production by southern Lower Peninsula areas follows that of previous years. The Thumb showed the highest number of birds, the Ottawa county area was second, the central counties were third, southeastern Michigan fourth and southwestern Michigan last. Four counties on the fringe of the main pheasant area, Mecosta, Newaygo, Oceana and Gladwin, all showed some decline from 1954 populations.

The carrier survey fits into the general pattern of others conducted earlier this year. One important sampling came from 271 farm cooperators who said in summary that the hatch this year was generally successful and that they saw more birds than last year. Conservation office counts, now being tabulated, will provide another pre-season census check in the near future.
