

State Launches Crusade Against Traffic Carnage

Meeting in Lansing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, state and local officials and group leaders vowed to cut Michigan traffic deaths by 200 next year.

They expect to cut the carnage by strict enforcement policies on old laws and the new ones adopted at the special legislative session. They, and the "they" includes chiefs of police, county sheriffs, state police, township police, justices of the peace, prosecutors and mayors, got together on a vigorous crusade. They said they intended to arrest and prosecute every driver involved in a traffic accident who contributed to or caused the accident by violating a traffic law.

They declared that drunk driving will be that and not reduction to reckless driving in so many instances. They adopted a policy of using unmarked cars in some of their control work.

In a talk before newspaper, radio and TV representatives Wednesday, Governor G. Mennen Williams outlined the program which is being launched December 1. Such a program in Pennsylvania cut the death toll 600 a year, he declared. He showed that Michigan's death rate per 100,000 miles of car travel is far higher than most other states. It is more than double some states.

Joseph A. Childs, state police commissioner, told of the new provision which will make every driver license applicant up to 18 years of age present credentials showing he has passed a driver training course. That law becomes effective February 1, 1957.

Before then driver training courses will be in operation for every public and parochial high school pupil. Secretary of State James Hare declared.

Hare also told of the central file and recollection program which will sort out the small proportion of drivers responsible for a big share of accidents. They will be either re-trained as safe drivers.

High School Gets Needed Relief by Shift to Steele

Junior and senior high school pupils are gaining more elbow room day by day at Mason. By the beginning of next week only the sixth-graders will be left in the Jefferson Street elementary school and they'll stay there.

Already moved to their new Steele Street classrooms are the first, second, third and fourth grades and some of the fifth. Mrs. Caroline Pagan's first-graders, Mrs. Elaine Martin's second-graders and Mrs. Phyllis Cherry's third-graders left the Jefferson Street building last Friday and on Monday, kindergarten will continue using the Oak Street building until their room in the new school is completed. Pupils from Walters school will not be brought into Mason until present elementary class adjustments are made, said Supt. James H. Vander Ven.

The seventh and eighth grades are being spread out. Mrs. Charles Mills, who has been teaching in the seventh grade, will teach a sixth grade. Maurice Strait and Mrs. Margaret Twork will continue teaching the seventh grade with 2 new teachers to be added by next week.

The eighth grade is also being divided into 4 rooms. Mrs. Phyllis Stid, who has been teaching half-days, will teach a full schedule. The other eighth grade teachers will be Mrs. Virginia Schell, Mrs. Elizabeth Linden and Mrs. Adella King.

There is a sixth grade at Cedar Street school, taught by Mrs. Lillian Corson. Mrs. Virginia Elliott and Mrs. Mills will teach the 2 sixth grade rooms at Jefferson.

Footprints Lead To Hideout in Munith Barn

Deputy Sheriff Joe Southwell used tracking technique to find the man he believes guilty of burglarizing Stockbridge stores.

Held in jail awaiting examination on breaking and entering charges is Jesse James Bolton, 47, of Stockbridge and Munith. He has been in and out of prison on numerous occasions.

The Stockbridge officer tracked Bolton to a barn on the Lloyd Harr farm between Stockbridge and Munith. Bolton claimed he had used the barn for a hideout for 3 weeks without the owner knowing that he had a guest.

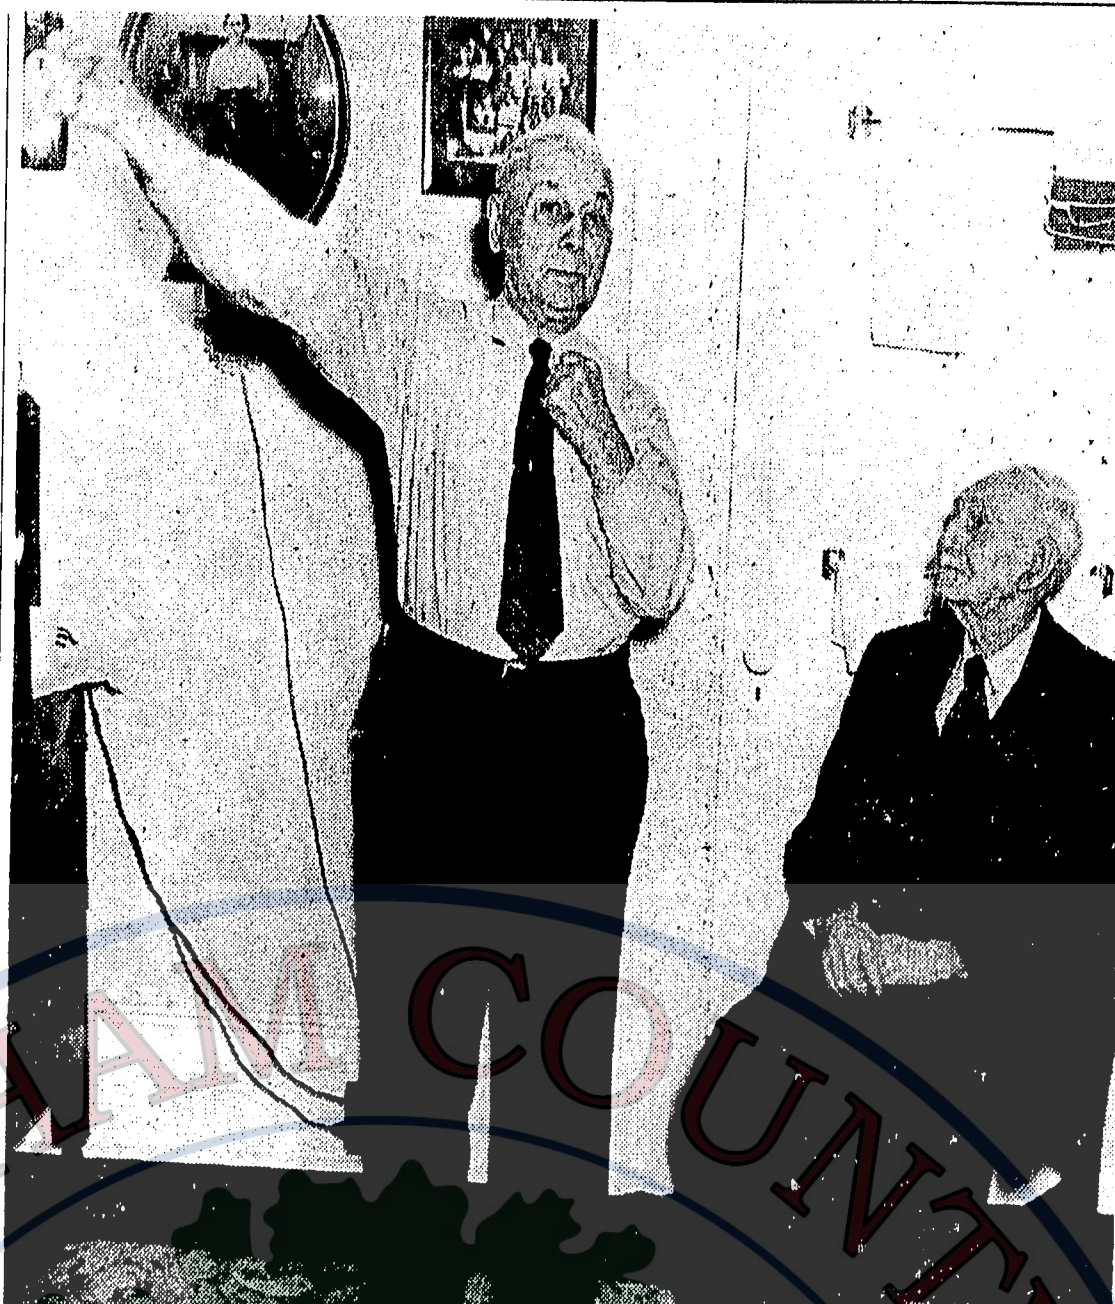

Twice within the week the Stockbridge American Legion hall south of town was entered. The second time was Friday night when there was snow on the ground. Southwell followed footprints from the hall to the Harr barn. There he said he found Bolton and a big pile of loot. In the loot was $65 in cash, clothing, watches, canned milk and other food.

Bolton's record shows trouble all the way from 1925 when he was placed on probation at Beulah for breaking and entering. Six years later at Beulah he was sent up for burglary. Released from prison in 1936, he went back again in 1938 on a breaking and entering conviction at Traverse City. He was paroled in 1943 and a year later was sent back to prison on another breaking and entering conviction at Traverse City. He was paroled again in 1951 and in 1952 was sent back from Charlotte as a parole violator. He was paroled again last September.

Officers believe that Bolton was the prowler some Stockbridge people reported seeing during the hunt for Neely Buchanan who is charged with slaying Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herriek in September. Bolton told officers he rammed around the countryside nights for many weeks.

Sheriff's officers contend that Bolton entered at least 9 places since October 31. Jobs charged to Bolton are the Malcho store on M-92, on October 31, Stanfield grocery and Dancer store both on November 3, Collins Electric November 9, Chapell's service station November 13, American Legion hall November 14 and 18, Wilde's supermarket and Bradshaw's grocery November 15.

In all about $110 in money was taken, $60 from Dancer's store and from a few cents to a few dollars at other places. Some money was taken from muscular dystrophy canisters, Bologna and sausage, tinned meats, milk, a gallon of whisky, clothing, fishing tackle and many other articles were taken from other places. At the Legion building Friday night Bolton brewed himself a pot of coffee and ate crackers. He also took some towels and a sweater. But he left tracks. They led across the field to railroad tracks and down the tracks to the Harr place and the barn.

Exercise Keeps Acrobat Young at 82

Edward J. Murray, 82, credits daily exercise and walks in the open air for retention of youthful vigor. In his youth he was an acrobat and followed the profession under canvas and in vaudeville for 16 years. While he doesn't do many handstands and back somersaults these days, he does keep in shape so he could perform if called on. Born in Saginaw, he learned early to do acrobatic stunts and at the age of 5 became a professional trapeze artist. He performed with P. T. Barnum and Ringling Bros., before Barnum even took on Bailey as a partner and long before Ringling Bros. He also performed as an acrobat and on high horizontal bars with the Walter L. Main and Forepaugh circuses.

In the winter seasons Murray played vaudeville from coast to coast. He had a partner at first until his partner missed his timing and had a crippling fall. From then on, Murray was usually billed alone.

In circus and vaudeville days Murray weighed between 112 and 115, all bone and muscle. After he reached his 30s and his own timing fell away, he finally abandoned his acrobatic career and went to work for REO in Lansing. "Trapeze bar and tumbling makes heavy demands on a performer's nerves and muscles," explained the former acrobat, "and between 10 and 20 years is about the length of most careers." After he quit performing, Murray's weight went up to 145 and stayed there until he retired from factory work. Now he feels he must exercise and limit his food intake because he carries 162 pounds. He has vowed to get back to 150 after Thanksgiving.

Longevity runs in the Murray family, which is of Irish descent. He was the baby of the family. There were 3 boys and 3 girls. A sister is still living at 99. One sister reached 93, another 91. The former acrobat said he has every intention of attaining 100.

Already 100, Hartwell Curtis refuses to stay in bed. He dresses himself but usually spends most of the day in his room. His hearing is impaired but his vision is good. He can see to read by wearing glasses, but he doesn't read much. He cares little for TV because he has difficulty hearing what is said. He was born near Dansville June 13, 1855. He married Julia Karm of White Oak in 1908. He left the farm in 1932.

Tuesday morning the 18 men at the nursing home were already getting whiffs of what "Unc" was preparing for their Thanksgiving feast. Unc is Walter Cotton, chef. He works in one of the hands-on-and-priest kitchens in Mason of gleaming white enamel and stainless steel. Turkey and all the trimmings are on the menu for Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Robart first started her nursing home at the former Tanswell farm on West Columbia road. She soon needed more space and bought the former Whitmore house on East Oak. Remodeling was done to provide for a hotel kitchen and for family living quarters above. There's another remodeling job being done now, enclosing the big porch for a day room. The men look forward to its completion. In warm weather those not bedridden spend most of their time on the porch, some even taking their meals outside.

Men only is the rule at the Robart nursing home. Most of them are widowers, a few bachelors. Right now the 18 men are about equally divided between bed and ambulant patients.

Mrs. Robart is a licensed nurse. Her husband, Theron Robart, is interested in the family project but he is regularly employed by the New York Central out of Jackson.

Mason banks are paying out approximately $60,000 in Christmas savings funds this week. One bank put its Christmas savings checks into the mails Wednesday and the other mailed some Wednesday with the rest to be sent out Friday.

All the Christmas savings money does not go for gifts, bank executives said. Many who use the savings plan take their checks and apply them on taxes and other year-end expenses.

Kessler Bids Low On Street Jobs

Kessler Construction Inc. of Holt submitted low bids at the city council meeting Monday night for construction of water mains and sanitary sewers along Kathryn street in Snyder subdivision.

The Holt company, subdivider for 25 prefabricated houses along Kathryn, bid $4,063.00 for laying a water main and laterals the length of Kathryn street. City Engineer Walter Zimmer had estimated the cost at $7,497.00. The Kessler company also submitted a bid of $3,523.90 for installing a sanitary sewer and laterals. Zimmer had estimated the project at $6,179.00.

Although Karlton Kessler, president, had not signed a contract with the city and had not posted the necessary fund in escrow, councilmen approved Kessler's request to start construction on Tuesday morning.

Kessler said the company is battling freezing weather in developing the subdivision. He said he has already poured some foundations and will have 2 model homes open for inspection by the first of the year.

Mason's subdivision ordinance provides that as the houses are built and occupied, 3/4 of the cost of sanitary sewers will be returned to the subdivider.

Okemos Buys Farm To Gain Site for School Expansion

Looking not ahead, but just around the corner, Okemos school district has bought 78 acres for a site for a new high school and other school needs. Okemos is in the middle of a vast suburban development and that means new schools.

The 78 acres bought from Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Avery for $27,500 are on Okemos road a half-mile south of the present combined elementary and high school building. The new site is on the east side of Okemos road opposite Bennett road.

The new high school site is in the geographical center of the Okemos school district. Housing developments in the district are quickly making the site the population center as well, according to George Richards, superintendent of schools. The Okemos area is one of Ingham's fastest growing. Its new subdivisions have eaten up a good share of farm land in the district. The biggest crop now seems to be school children, Richards said.

The north boundary of the district is near Haslett road, the west boundary is at College road, south boundary is near Holt road and east boundary is near Meridian road. The district takes in a big area south of East Lansing.

Immediate plans by the Okemos school board call for a 6-room addition on either the Ward-cliff or Cornell elementary schools. Richards said that a survey will be taken to see which area will need additional facilities first.

That addition may be constructed by opening of school in 1956, he said. Soon to follow will be another addition to the remaining elementary school, the construction of a new gymnasium, remodeling of the present cafeteria and the remodeling of the present high school into a junior high school.

Also sandwiched among the proposed building projects will be another elementary school on a newly-acquired 16-acre site on Dobie road north of Cavanaugh road.

That will take care of district needs until about 1957 or 1958, Richards stated. Then will come the new high school, he explained.

Richards said that by the time a high school will be built, the district will be free from bonded debt and will be in a position to carry out the high school project.

Board members and Richards expressed themselves as happy about the purchase of the property. Richards said it will offer plenty of room for a big school and agricultural and shop facilities.

The present enrollment in the Okemos school system is 1250.

Change in Zoning Sought in Delhi

Next Thursday night at 7 o'clock the Delhi zoning board will hear the pros and cons on rezoning a parcel of land fronting on US-127.

R. G. Atwood, auto race promoter, has asked rezoning from farm to commercial of land lying west of US-127 and north of College road. Atwood told township officials his plans call for leasing a gas station site at the corner of US-127 and College road and using the rest of the property for a racing oval, or a trailer camp if the track is not built.

"I feel that Lansing street will continue to be a primary street and even more important for linking the west side of Mason with the business district," Dr. Willden said. "If we are to develop streets connecting up with Lansing street, then we must preserve the street with adequate drainage. If not, the people who now complain about the assessment will again complain about their property being washed away."

Actually, the final wave of complainants came too late. Councilmen, following other public hearings, had already declared the project a necessary public improvement. The hearing Monday night was only to review the special assessment roll.

All but Councilman Erie Sperry approved the roll. He originally had voted for the project. It will be spring before the curb and gutter project will be started, Mayor Alfred Forche said. Assessment payments will be due in 5 yearly installments.

Both cars were badly wrecked. It was Davis' first scrape since 1933. In the 22 years of accident-free driving, Davis said he has covered more than 660,000 miles.

Okemos Rejects Island District

Okemos school board members at a meeting Monday night turned down the proposition of a possible consolidation of the Island school district into the Okemos system. In a statement prepared to answer a "feeler" sent out by Island officials, the Okemos board declared that such a consolidation at the present time wouldn't further the effectiveness of the Okemos schools.

The Island school is located at the corner of College and Cavanaugh roads.

There are 166 children between the ages of 5 and 19 in the Island district. Average per capita valuation in the Island district is $3,956 compared to an average of $7,146 in the Okemos district, according to figures of George Richards, Okemos school superintendent. The Island district assets total $344,310.

Food Chain Loses Banana Decision

Instead of getting the $10,000 which it sought in a banana deal, National Food Stores, Inc., will have to pay $6,039 to Nico Wholesale Produce Co. of Lansing.

A jury in circuit court at Mason Tuesday forenoon found no cause for action on the part of the plaintiff and that the defendant was entitled to $6,039.14. A judgment was ordered entered for that amount, subject to a 20-day stay for an appeal. Costs of the suit were also taxed against the plaintiff.

In a lengthy trial last June a circuit court jury was unable to agree upon a verdict. The retrial opened before Judge Marvin J. Salmon in Lansing November 7. The next day it was brought to the Mason court room. The trial continued last week and through Monday. Jurors began their deliberation at 4 o'clock Monday and continued until 5:30. They returned Tuesday at 9:30 and announced their verdict about 11.

The suit involved about $8,000 worth of bananas National Food Stores, Inc., claimed they were shorted several tons of bananas in banana promotions at their stores in Lansing, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Niles and La Porte, Indiana. Vito Nico and other witnesses testified that they made full deliveries.

I was helpless with rheumatism and had been for some time. My limbs were swollen and stiff and muscles were sore. I was told I would never be able to walk again.

PTA Has Guest Speaker From New Delhi, India

Om Wabhuwa of New Delhi, India, student at Michigan State university, was guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Mason P. T. A. The organization met in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Mr. Wabhuwa told of the problems in his native land and how they are being handled.

During his talk he stated that much is being done in India to fight one of the greatest problems, disease. He said that dispensaries are being set up and the people are being taught sanitation and good health habits. Landlordism is becoming less popular by dividing the land evenly, giving each family an opportunity to raise its own crops, he said.

To combat the high rate of illiteracy, Mr. Wabhuwa stated that education is now compulsory in India, as well as free, and that children are eager to learn. India is endeavoring to establish a democratic government and at the first election ever conducted, over 60% of the population was at the polls, he pointed out. Even though many did not fully understand the procedure, they showed a definite interest in the betterment of their country, he added.

Mr. Wabhuwa told many other interesting things concerning his country, the people, their "giant family plan," religion and their way of life in general.

At the business meeting conducted by PTA president, James Ingham, prior to Mr. Wabhuwa's talk, it was voted to place the $500 ear-marked for the community swimming pool fund into a bond, that it might be drawing interest. Mrs. Laurence Parker gave the treasurer's report, and read the minutes of the last meeting. In the absence of Mrs. Beatrice Weiss, secretary.

Justice Court Actions

Roy W. Adams, Justice of Peace

Traffic violation actions declined in Mason Justice court this past week but other actions kept the court busy, reported Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams.

There were 2 trials and an examination Tuesday. Milburn Chick, Williamson, was tried on Monday on a speeding charge and Guy Blanchard, Mason, without a jury, on a reckless driving charge. Judge Adams adjourned Chick's trial until 10 o'clock Monday morning. The Blanchard trial was adjourned until Tuesday.

Following examination of Mrs. Shirley Raymond of Wheatfield, charged with cruelty to a child, Judge Adams dismissed the case. Harvey Jeffries, Detroit, appeared Monday on a drunk charge. He pleaded guilty and was given his choice of paying $20 or spending 10 days in jail. Reuben Ortiz, East Lansing, pleaded guilty Monday to a drunk charge. He was given his choice of paying $25 or spending 12 days in jail. Both Jeffries and Ortiz are employed on a Grand Trunk railroad construction crew near East Lansing.

Albert Seger, Lansing, pleaded guilty Monday to driving a car while under the influence of liquor. He was ordered to pay $75 and was sentenced to jail for 3 days with 3 months of probation added.

Phillip Brunelle, Detroit, was sentenced to 15 days in jail Wednesday of last week on his plea of guilty to vagrancy.

Glen Sharland, Dansville, pleaded guilty Saturday to carrying a shotgun loaded with buck shot and slugs without having a deer license. He declared he was out after rabbits. Conservation Officer Walter Muehleler insisted the quarry might have been deer. Sharland settled for $20.

Jesse James Bolton, Stockbridge, charged with breaking and entering in the night, appeared Monday on a drunk charge. He pleaded guilty and was given his choice of paying $20 or spending 10 days in jail.

Traffic violation tickets reported settled during the week were:

Wayne Cramer, Mason, driving too fast for conditions, $1.

Letters to Editor

Wooing Reds

At a luncheon table a few days ago, some of my friends were discussing the failure of the Geneva conference and speculating on what course our country would now follow. One of my friends wondered whether it would do any good to try to buy Chinese Communist friendship with handouts of food, money, and anything that could be used to bribe them. He seriously said that he thought all Chinese leaders could be bribed, but he added that even then he wouldn't want to trust them to stay bribed.

That kind of thinking completely overlooks the fact that communists are the same the world over. It overlooks the fact that every communist is fanatically dedicated to the destruction of every nation not already communized. And it overlooks the fact that every concession made to a communist only serves to increase his contempt and to further convince him that the rest of the world is made up of sniveling cowards.

Owen Lattimore and the now famous Institute of Pacific Relations had much to do with bringing on the communist success in China. Their line of attack was to convince those heading our government that Chinese communists were somehow different—that they were just agrarian reformers. The fact that intelligent anti-communists can be found today suggesting that we might be able to bribe the Chinese communist leaders into friendship for us is evidence that successful propaganda can do a great deal of harm.

The moment we fall for the idea that we can divert any communist from his determination to destroy us by being nice to him or by bestowing gifts upon him, then we are far down the road to self-destruction. The only good to come out of the Geneva conference was the forcing of the communists to again reveal their unshakable determination to conquer the world. They made it perfectly plain that they do not want peace unless we surrender everything and permit them to take over without a struggle.

If that lesson is not forgotten and if we do not allow the polyanas among us to again sell the idea that we can strike a bargain with the communists, something can be salvaged from this last unsuccessful effort to settle some of the world's problems. It ought to be plain to everyone now that we must never let down our guard or allow ourselves to be lulled into a false feeling of security. We do not court war with Russia and I do not think it in sight, but the scene could change overnight if we allow ourselves to be deceived. We must never forget that from the very beginning the communists have been boldly saying that they expect us to go soft and to fall into their hands without a struggle—in other words, that we will commit suicide.

With the Geneva conference fresh in mind, even those who have been promoting the idea that we can have peaceful coexistence with the communists will now surely awaken to futility of that dream.

Church Choice

After reading all sides of this religious argument that's been going on for about the last 3 weeks I would like to add my little 2c. I'm not writing this on any particular religious angle. I can look at all of this bickering from a good standpoint. I was a Protestant for 20 some years and a Catholic for 9.

I am not a Biblical authority, but I do know a little about Protestantism and Catholicism also. Religion has always been and will always be! Man cannot live without it. Now we can't all be Catholics and we can't all be Lutherans or Jews. We are what we are born to be or we can choose to our liking. That is the wonderful thing about living in a land of freedom. A God made country. You, Lutheran Mother, sound like all the world should be Lutherans. Catholic Mother, you don't help matters any. I once knew a Protestant Sunday school teacher who thinks if you are not a Baptist you will never get to heaven! That poor soul! How sad for her! She doesn't have religion. She has an obsession! You mothers arguing over religion sound a lot like my poor friend, the Baptist.

When Martin Luther protested against certain laws of the church and broke away with his handful of followers, he did it because he thought he was right. Our Holy Father the Pope is the successor of St. Peter who is the successor of Christ whom Christ

Part 1-A

Women Learn How to 'Take It Easy'

Free classes in work-simplification techniques, to teach Ingham homemakers to do their daily housework simpler and easier with less strain on their hearts, will be offered in East Lansing starting Tuesday, December 6. The series will be sponsored by the Michigan Heart association in cooperation with the Ingham county extension service.

The announcement is of special importance to all women who are incapacitated or disabled by heart disease, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, coronary heart, varicose veins, rheumatic heart, etc.

Each homemaker attends 4 lecture-demonstration classes on December 6, 8, 13 and 15 from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and will meet in the College Lutheran church, corner of Division and Ann, East Lansing.

The work-simplification classes, which are free community services of the Michigan Heart association, are designed to fill the doctor's prescription of "take it easy" by showing the homemaker how to save as much as 75% of her walking, 75% of her movements and 60% of her reaching. This tremendous saving of time and energy means lessening the strain placed on the heart by reducing the physical effort expended by the homemaker.

Mrs. Ruth C. Kettunen of the Michigan State university home management staff conducts the classes. She emphasized that the classes are designed to benefit any economic level and that it is not necessary to remodel a home in order to conserve the homemaker's time and energy.

"Any homemaker can learn to 'take it easy' while doing her various household tasks," Mrs. Kettunen said. "By merely following the work-simplification techniques, principles and ideas taught in the Heart of the Home Classes."

The course is available to every woman in the county, although those with an ailment of the heart or blood vessels will be given first listing. Homemakers in Ingham may register for the free classes by calling or writing Mrs.

himself instituted at the Last Supper in order for His teachings. His work and His church to be carried on after His crucifixion. The Catholics have been taught that and they believe in it. Lutheran Mother, you believe what your pastor teaches you from the Lutheran Doctrine.

If we believe what we are taught and do what we feel is right and keep the commandments (which are the same in all doctrines) we will all get to the same place. There is only one Heaven and one Hell. You can take your pick. There is only one God and all he asks of any of us is to believe in Him. Living to please God is not arguing over religion so why don't you characters quit all of this arguing over such a beautiful thing and look at each other's beliefs with an open mind. You might feel a little more understanding about each other's faith.

If I can live with a Protestant husband without any knock-down or drag-outs, I'm sure you ladies could do so also. Get together and air out your different opinions.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allens and family will spend Thanksgiving Day in Plainfield with relatives.

Mrs. Neva Butler was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Smith and family. Mrs. Smith and Susan and Mrs. Butler were in Mason Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Riggs of Stockbridge called on Mrs. Carrie Riggs Sunday evening.

Michigan was first in the nation in the development of road side parks and picnic tables.

LEARNING SHORTCUTS TO A LONGER LIFE—Mrs. Ruth C. Kettunen (seated at the ironing board above) of the Michigan State university home management staff demonstrates one of the many "heart-saving" techniques which she will teach in the Heart of the Home classes being offered free to Ingham women by the Michigan Heart association. Sitting down to iron lessens the strain placed on the heart by reducing the physical effort expended. Women attending the classes learn practical ways of making their housekeeping simpler and easier by eliminating wasted energy and unnecessary steps.

Mrs. Ruth C. Kettunen

"Buying expensive appliances for the home is nice," explained Mrs. Kettunen, who is a member of the Michigan State university home management staff, "but everyone cannot afford them. We emphasize the little things which will conserve a homemaker's time and energy."

Annette Schaeffer, home demonstration agent, or phone Mason, Orchard 7-9411, Ext. 25.

Homemakers are urged to register this week in order that they may attend the first class on December 6. No medical advice, diagnosis, treatment or examination is given in the classes.

The Ingham County Medical Society has endorsed the program and doctors of medicine are urged to refer their patients to the classes.

Fire Damages Herrick Home

Fire from an over-heated chimney pipe did an estimated $4,000 damage to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herrick on Rolfe road Sunday morning.

A stove pipe on a coal-burning stove in the dining room ignited the ceiling and joists, according to Leland Austin, chief of the Mason fire department. Flames swept to the attic and destroyed the roof on the west wing and part of the upright section of the house.

The Herricks had some insurance on the house. Firemen from both Mason and Leslie battled the blaze.

Aurelius Woman Dies in North

Mrs. Nellie Florence Brown, 80, died Monday in a Charlevoix hospital. She was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marian Tyrrell, at Charlevoix several months ago. She had been in the hospital 2 weeks. Death came after an extended sickness.

Mrs. Brown, widow of Dewey Nelson Brown who died last April, was born in Calhoun county October 27, 1875, the daughter of Judson and Fannie Lusk Rindel. Mr. and Mrs. Brown long made their home at 666 S. Onondaga road, Aurelius township. She was a member of Aurelius Baptist church and the Ingham Farm Bureau.

Surviving are 2 daughters, Mrs. Tyrrell at Charlevoix and Mrs. Caroline Ragan, Mason; 4 grandsons; and 5 great-grandchildren. There is also a step-ter, Mrs. Bertha Wilmore, of Sherwood.

Services for Mrs. Brown were at Ball-Dunn funeral home Wednesday afternoon at 2 with burial in North Aurelius cemetery. Rev. Allen Northrup of Eastport Baptist church officiated. Howard Clark, Clark Haynes, Lynn Haynes, R. J. Topf, Roy Rusch and A. B. Ziegler were pallbearers.

Onondaga Expects New Dial Phones To Be Ready Soon

Such progress is being made on lines and installation work that the Tompkins-Onondaga dial telephone system may be ready to use in January or February. It was just a year ago that contracts were let.

Ten years ago the farmer-owned telephone systems at Onondaga and Tompkins appeared doomed. The lines had been permitted to deteriorate. The switchboards had become obsolete. Michigan Bell Telephone company did not see its way clear to expand its Leslie, Eaton Rapids or Jackson lines to take in the new territory. The company had enough work ahead of it to take care of expansion within its own areas, officials said.

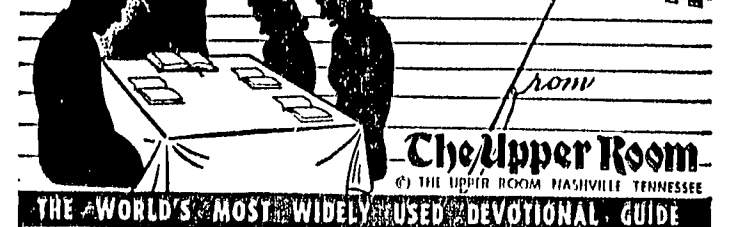

In 1951 and 1952 residents of the 2 communities decided that if they wanted an adequate telephone system they would have to do it themselves. They went ahead after receiving authorization to organize a new company to be known as the Grand Valley Telephone Co., which would take over from the Onondaga and Tompkins associations. They put up their own money and borrowed more. They engaged the Harris-McBurney company of Jackson for the engineering and installation. The Jackson company provides crews to set the poles and string the wires, and to install the switchboard and house telephones. The company even takes over operation, maintenance and clerical work.

Tompkins subscribers will have LO (for Locust) prefixes on their 5 digit numbers. Onondaga subscribers will have LA (for Lafayette) as a prefix on their 5 digit numbers.

When the system is ready to go there will be 350 patrons connected.

G. Vernon Richmond of Tompkins is president of the Grand Valley Telephone Co. Gale McMichael of Onondaga is vice-president. Milton Green of Tompkins is treasurer, and Ward Lantz, Onondaga, is secretary. Others on the board of directors are Merlin H. Smith, Tompkins; and Hubert A. Duke and Robert C. Noble, Onondaga.

WCS Marks 15th Year at Bohemian Meal

Woman's Society of Christian Service of Brotherhood Temple Methodist church met in the social hall Wednesday evening, November 16, for a Bohemian supper and program in commemoration of the 15th anniversary of the society.

The tables were decorated with 3 ships (white on a royal blue background) representing 3 values of being a member of a World Christian membership, discipleship and fellowship. Vases of fall flowers also adorned the tables. There were 69 members and 5 guests present. A beautifully decorated cake with 15 candles centered the table. ## County League Teams Prepare For Tight Basketball Race

Ingham County league cagers will jump off into the midst of the league cage war Friday night, December 2.

Okemos looks like the team to beat, according to the rest of the league coaches. The Chiefs finished second last year behind Stockbridge. The Panthers took the championship by winning 12 straight. Most of that championship aggregation has graduated, though.

Okemos has Garth Richey back to spark the cagers this year. Richey is rated as one of the all-time greats over at Okemos. There are plenty more members of the Okemos team back for another shot at the title.

The dark horse in the race, though, may be Dansville. Coach Sam Briggs has some veterans back this year and the Aggies should pull plenty of surprises. Don Brown and Larry Stole, regular guards, are back for another season and so is Don McCabe, center. At forwards Briggs will be able to call on experienced Dick Brooks.

Aggie opponents will be seeing double. Up from last year's crack reserve squad are the Douglas twins, Kaye and Keith. Both are expected to see plenty of action. Also up from the reserves are Carl Minnis and Jerry Wing.

Dansville was handicapped the first part of the season last year by not having adequate practice facilities and having to play all the games on the road because of the construction of the new gym.

Over at Leslie prospects are bright for continuing the improvement shown last season. The Blackhawks finished fourth last year. From last year's squad Warren Conant, Lynn Hecksell, and Bill Kannawin are ready for another season of shooting. Last year's reserves are expected to contribute a lot of help.

Haslett, third-place finisher last year, will have rough sledding this year. Last year the Lakers relied on Ken Schaibly for the most of the scoring. He will not be around this season.

Fowlerville is on the way back to the top this year. Last season the Gladiators failed to win a game.

Williamston is another team which may be full of surprises. The Hornets finished last year with 4 wins and 8 defeats. This year they have pretty much the same unit back, paced by Willie Gaffner, high scoring center.

The year should produce one of the tightest cage races in recent years with all the teams indicating improvement. Chances of any team escaping without a loss will be remote.

Gas Tax Boost Yields Big Sum For Highways

The state highway department has begun the distribution of $9,812,410.65 in weight and gasoline taxes collected under Act 87 of the 1955 regular session of the legislature. Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler announced.

Last week, the commissioner announced the distribution of some $29,531,000 of weight and gas taxes from the motor vehicle highway fund, under Act 51, Public Acts of 1951.

Act 87, provided for an increase in certain weight taxes on certain types of trucks and raised the state gasoline tax from 4 1/2 cents to 6 cents a gallon, effective last June 1. The 1 1/2 cents a gallon gas tax and additional weight tax collected under this statute, known as the highway finance act of 1955, are placed in a new "Highway Construction Fund" so as to be kept separate from the motor vehicle highway fund set up by the 1951 act, which also increased weight taxes, increased the gas tax from 3 to 4 1/2 cents a gallon and set up a new formula for distribution of these monies.

The current distribution of Act 87 funds is for the 4-month period from June 1 through September 30. Hereafter, funds will be distributed quarterly. June was included as a fourth month this year to eliminate necessity of making a distribution for the single month in the second quarter.

Under Act 87, the amount raised by the extra 1 1/2 cent gas tax and the additional weight taxes levied under its provisions is divided on the basis of 75 per cent to the state highway department and 25 per cent to the counties, cities and incorporated villages. Act 87 further specifies that the county-city-village 25 per cent share be split as follows: Thirty-seven-fifty-sixths to the counties and nineteen-fifty-sixths to the cities and incorporated villages. The act also requires the highway department's share be spent on the interstate highway system and certain designated sections of US-27, US-127, US-24, US-222, US-31, US-131, M-21, M-53, and M-78.

The state highway department has received $7,359,207.99 from the new Act 87 monies. The cities and incorporated villages will receive $332,202.69 and the counties, $1,620,799.97.

Under the distribution Ingham will get an extra $35,093.82. City and village shares for Ingham are: Lansing, $20,455.84; East Lansing, $3,033.48; Mason, $778.73; Williamston, $394.71; Leslie, $330.31; Stockbridge, $192.28; Webberville, $136.73; and Dansville, $118.71.

Redecorating Is Resumed

With completion of the long civil trial of National Food Stores vs. Nico Wholesale Produce, Inc., Tuesday noon, work was resumed on redecorating the court room at Mason. Harry Howell is supervising workers from the jail in the painting.

Miss Mary Hawley Dies in Wisconsin

Tuesday morning Gerald Diamond received word that Miss Mary Hawley, 70, formerly of Lansing, died at the home of a sister, Mrs. Alice Perry, Shell Lake, Wisconsin. Miss Hawley was taken sick about a year ago and in July suffered a heart attack. Following that attack she had made her home with her sister at Shell Lake. Before she was taken sick she had been employed at Ingham Chest hospital for 15 years.

Miss Hawley was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Hawley. She was born on what was long known as the Hawley farm on Dexter Trail, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunt.

Besides the sister in Wisconsin, Miss Hawley is survived by another sister, Mrs. Lucy Swift, Phoenix, Arizona. Gerald Diamond and Miss Hawley were cousins.

Services will be at Ball-Dunn funeral home in Mason Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Hawley cemetery. A twin sister, Rev. Raymond L. Norton of Mason Methodist church will officiate.

Michigan is the only state which permits a manufacturer the option of paying personal property tax on either the inventory value as of December 31, or on the average value throughout the year.

Mason Cagers Start Shooting Over at Albion on Wednesday

Coach Bob Cone is busy putting the finishing touches on Mason's Bulldogs this week. He will send his cagers into action Wednesday night, November 30, over at Albion in the college gym.

The Bulldogs will participate in the annual Albion Rotary carnival. Mason's reserves will take on the Albion reserves starting at 6:30. The varsity contest will follow and the third game on the program will be played between Albion college and a semi-pro group.

Cone has been handicapped in preparing for the first game by an epidemic of flu. Several prospective starters have been out most of the past week.

With the opening game only a week away the new Mason coach has a tentative starting lineup in mind composed of John Howlett and Larry Dent at forwards, Dick Wheeler at center and Harry Hallenbeck, Jerry Lumianski or Jack Hart at the guards.

Dent, Howlett and Wheeler should give Mason backboard control. The Mason guards, though all are on the short side, are also good on the rebounds.

Coach Cone intends to have a running ball club. Mason will use a fast break whenever it is possible, he added.

Coach Ed Kehe is not quite so close to having a starting lineup in mind for his reserve squad. He has some crack performers on hand from last year's winning freshman combination. Larry Wheeler, Tom Clipper, Chuck Roggow, Dennis Whipple, Dick Judson and Rod Caltrider are slated for front-line action so far with several other players apt to move into contention for starting honors.

Rites Are Held For Mrs. Beebe

Morrison and George Post were pallbearers.

Mrs. Beebe died in Sparrow hospital, Lansing, Friday. She was born in Eaton county October 4, 1890, the daughter of C. C. Hine and Lucinda Robinson Hine. On October 4, 1911, she and Enoch Beebe were married in Mason. Mason had been her home most of the time since. For a few years Mr. and Mrs. Beebe lived in Leslie. Mrs. Beebe was long active in the O. E. S.

For '56 Plenty of EXTRA in this SPECIAL

The 1956 Buick SPECIAL 4-Door Riviera

THIS ONE is the news-maker that's front-page big.

This one is the new Buick SPECIAL for 1956 — the biggest bundle of high-powered energy and high-fashion luxury ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

Just a quick listing of some certain facts will give you the picture.

First—its engine is a big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine with an all-time high in horsepower for this Series—and an engine that hits the record book at a neat 8.9 to 1 compression ratio.

Second—its getaway—with the double-action take-off of the new Variable Pitch Dynaflo®—is spectacular even at only part throttle—and comes with a new boost in gas mileage to boot.

Third—on ride, this new SPECIAL is more than great—what with all-coil springing, and torque-tube stability, and a new deep-oil cushioning, and a whole new front-end geometry that adds a wonderful "sense of direction" to the car's travel.

Fourth—on room, luxury, interior finish—there's never been a Buick SPECIAL like this before. From the big, broad seats to the stunning new instrument panel—there's new decorator smartness and quality throughout.

But get the picture on price, and you have the biggest reason why this sizable automobile is so extra special a buy.

For this Buick comes to you, at a figure so close to those of the most widely known smaller cars, the difference in price is small change.

So—come in and see and sample this beauty. You'll find it, we firmly believe, the biggest package of automobile at anywhere near its budget price.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Half its Horsepower is for Safety !

A pretty steep hill, you'd say?

Well, not so far as this gentleman is concerned. He just gave the accelerator a little encouragement with his toe . . . and swept from bottom to top so effortlessly he was scarcely aware of it.

For he's at the wheel of a beautiful new 1956 Cadillac. And beneath that long, sleek, graceful hood rests the smoothest, most powerful engine in Cadillac history.

The fact is that this great new Cadillac engine is powerful and dynamic far beyond the requirements of normal usage. In the course of ordinary motoring, it is entirely possible that the driver may never have to put the accelerator to the floor board.

But how wonderful that extra length of throttle will be if he does need it!

It will be there to give him that extra burst of speed that can carry him free from an awkward or difficult driving situation.

It will be there in case he needs it for safety in passing . . . or to answer the challenge of a rugged mountain road.

And even when not in active use, that great reserve of power will add in many wonderful ways to his motoring pleasure.

It will bring him confidence and contentment and peace of mind . . .

. . . and it will provide the kind of operating economy and dependability that can come only from a motor car that literally loafs at the legal limits of the highway.

Of course, Cadillac's magnificent performance is only part of the exciting Cadillac story for 1956. There is inspiring beauty . . . and extraordinary luxury . . . and superlative craftsmanship. For this is, literally, the Cadillac of Cadillacs.

Why not stop in soon and let us show you what we mean?

We've got the keys and the car—all you have to provide is an hour of your time.

We can promise you . . . it will be the most revealing sixty minutes you ever spent at the wheel of a motor car.

As every parent knows, learning to say "thank you" is one of the elementary lessons in a child's home education. It is page one in the book of good manners.

It is also one of the first lessons in a person's religious education. And here it is something more than mere good manners.

In every age man's spiritual insight can be measured by his readiness to recognize God as the source of strength and blessings, and by his eagerness to express his gratitude to the Almighty. No one has ever doubted the religious sincerity of our Pilgrim fathers: they gave us Thanksgiving Day.

Today, in a world hungry for spiritual leadership, how much depends on our faith in God... and our ability to turn to Him in gratitude and prayer!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Republicans Must Realize They Face Tough Battle

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

Plight of state Republicans was outlined in Muskegon last week by D. Hale Brake, who spent more than 20 years as an elected official in government.

"It won't be easy to regain control of Michigan's government," he said. "It looks like Governor Williams will seek a fifth term, and he'll be hard to beat," he continued. "The Republicans will have to put up a top flight candidate, and even then, it won't be easy."

Hoping for peace within the party, Brake warned that the GOP cannot stand a bitter primary battle next year. "There were no animosities among candidates after the 1954 primary," Brake pointed out, "but there was feeling among backers of the losing candidates, and the election campaigns lacked interest."

Recalling that "there hasn't been a majority candidate for governor on the Republican ticket since 1938," Brake feels it would be advantageous if Republicans could reach agreement on a gubernatorial candidate who could command support from a majority of Republicans.

At present 3 names pop up as possible candidates. Mayor Albert Cobo, Detroit; and Representatives Gerald R. Ford, Jr., Grand Rapids; and Alvin M. Bentley, Owosso.

Cobo is given much attention on grounds he could pull a heavy Wayne county vote. Republicans hope to gain substantially there while polling usual majorities outside. But is also said that his health prevents him from running; that he wishes to retire.

Ford is considered a strong possibility advantage. But he holds an office in Washington which might be lost to Democrats if he should win in Michigan. His financing is believed rather limited so that he would be hard pressed, should he lose.

Bentley, who announced that he would step aside if either of the other 2 entered the race, looks to many like the strongest possibility. Bentley's home area is more solidly Republican, reducing danger of a Democrat gaining his seat should he leave the house in the Nation's capitol for the governor's desk in the state capitol.

The GOP spring convention will take place in Detroit May 5. In the fall they will meet in Grand Rapids on September 1.

Primary election takes place August 7 and the general election on November 6.

This leaves time to do much rearranging. By November 6, it can be judged how well this time was put to use.

Funds to bring more industry to the state will be sought by the Michigan economic development commission. A request for $125,000 will be submitted to next year's legislature. Specifically the money will be used to advertise advantages of locating industry in Michigan. Biggest share of the sum, about $60,000, would be used for space in national business magazines. Smaller amounts will be budgeted for an industrial promotion television film, a Michigan supplement of the New York Times, exhibits at manufacturers' conventions and a national publicity campaign.

Other states are spending $3 million this year in attempts to lure Michigan industries to other localities. Dan Gerber, president of Gerber Baby Foods and commission member, announced.

If granted, the $125,000 will become the first appropriation by the state to promote itself in this manner. Some promotion has taken place, but most of it was privately financed by power or transportation companies.

Recent figures show 234 plants in 119 Michigan communities looking for new tenants. The fall edition of the economic development's available plant summary, sent to 8,000 industrial realtors and manufacturers, showed this information.

It also showed that since the spring inventory of plant sites, 66 of the 255 then listed have been occupied. Of the 234 plants available now, 216 are in the Lower Peninsula.

Capitol landscaper architects lost a point to Senator Bert J. Storey (R-Belding).

Last year, he complained bitterly on the floor that shrubbery blocked off the inscription under the statue of Gov. Blair, the state's chief executive during the civil war.

It took a long time, but Storey finally won. Workmen dug out the tall shrubs and put back some cushioned yews, a small evergreen variety which look best when trimmed to knee height.

"Now people can read of the accomplishments of one of Michigan's great governors," said Storey.

Storey has a special interest in old wars and warriors—he is 76, and a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He played cornet in an army band, and was younger than the army thought.

Michigan will observe S-D Day December 1.

It is one day during the year when police, motorists and the public generally attempt to live and let live for 24 hours with no accidents on the highways.

S-D Day? That's Safe Driving Day in Michigan.

Book Talk

Hours open to the public at Hall Memorial Library; Monday through Saturday, 2-5; Tuesday and Thursday, 7-9 p. m.; Friday and Saturday, 11:30 to 12:30; Saturday, 10-12 noon.

All future space cadets are advised to get their feet on the ground before blasting off. Fred Hoyle's new book, FRONTIERS OF ASTRONOMY, now at Hall Memorial library, will provide a good geography of space. New discoveries in physics, together with improved methods of observation, have increased our knowledge greatly, according to Hoyle. The new methods of radio astronomy and its results are also discussed.

We cannot comprehend the explosion of a super nova. Our own explosions are too big for us. F. O. Miksche, in ATOMIC WEAPONS AND ARMIES, is concerned with but the military aspects of the problem. Miksche, who acted as liaison officer on General Eisenhower's staff, attempts to foresee how atomic weapons will change the conventional roles of air force, infantry, artillery and engineers. He considers the possibility that A bombs will bring about a new type of trench warfare.

Alphabet bombs have already made work for the likes of Maxwell Maltz. A plastic surgeon, Maltz's second book is ADVENTURES IN STAYING YOUNG. His first was DOCTOR PYGMALION. Both books are selections of interesting case histories from his own practice.

If you are fond of leftovers and tired of hash, get POTLUCK COOKERY by Beverly Pepper. The author begins with whatever you happen to have on hand and goes on from there. She includes a half-dozen ideas for leftover chicken and turkey, and has remedies for leftover beefsteak, if there ever is such a thing.

A good letter can get you a job. So state the authors of WRITING BUSINESS LETTERS. Besides job getting letters, the book describes letters for sales, orders, special requests, collections, and the writing of reports.

What do all those numbers mean? THE INTERPRETATION OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS by Benjamin Graham and Charles McGonick will help you assess the worth of any institution issuing financial statements. This book is up to date on the latest accounting procedures, and written for those who are not accountants.

Arthur Larson, under secretary of labor, has put together in one book the essential facts of the social security law. KNOW YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY includes the 1955 changes. Government officials have found that thousands of people lose the benefits to which they are entitled, through misunderstanding or neglect.

Denizens of the American desert know no security. Joseph Wood Krutch, author of VOICE OF THE DESERT, was a native of the northeast before going to the desert. He has interested himself in how other creatures have adapted themselves to the same environment. Tarantulas, kangaroo rats, peccaries, foxes and birds come under his scrutiny and camera lens. He asks us to remember that the unlovely scorpion was the first air-breathing animal.

Desert sounds have been faithfully recorded in several instances, allowing us to consider the background of such techniques. Roland Gelatt has written THE FABULOUS PHONOGRAPH, from infallible to high fidelity. Edison was working on a problem in telephony when he invented his talking cylinder, we learn. Gelatt takes us through the inventions which followed, accompanied by many a legal battle and amusing incident.

MUSIC AND RECORDINGS 1955, edited by Frederic Gramfield, covers musical achievements in America up to June, 1955. Opera, the orchestral world, the recital scene, jazz and pop recordings are included with a large section on LP recordings. There is a day-by-day listing of musical events throughout the country.

With the right records there should be no obstacle to your enjoyment. That is, if your record changer is working. Eugene Eckland's REPAIRING RECORD CHANGERS will set you right. Detailed diagrams and explanations of the popular makes will allow you to spot the trouble, part by part.

Do you laugh at your child's drawings? Find out what they mean before you laugh. A German child psychologist and student of art, Wolfgang Goetzinger, has studied the part played by art in child development. In SCRIBBLING, DRAWING, PAINTING, he attempts to explain to parents and teachers the child's symbolic language of form. He traces the progress from early scribbles to more elaborate creations, emphasizing the utility of bimanual drawing.

A child too sick to draw may need other diversions, not to mention special care. Marion Lowndes in CARING FOR THE SICK CHILD AT HOME attempts to be practical about things like meals in bed, adapting for illness, aids and comforts, and recreations. She claims there are 5 million children afflicted with long term illness in the U. S. today.

Top Movies of Year Play at Fox Theatre

For the best in film entertainment this week's bookings at the Fox theatre are outstanding.

Starting with the Friday and Saturday double bill some of the year's top film entertainment will be on hand.

Randolph Scott stars in Warner Bros.' action feature, "Tall Man Riding." It is a Friday-Saturday attraction. The roaring, turbulent land-grab days of the West form the background for the outdoor adventure, starring Dorothy Malone and Peggy Castle.

The story presents some of the most exciting western action ever filmed highlighting a gun duel in total darkness between Scott and a land baron.

Dorothy Malone, who made a tremendous impression on film fans in "Battle Cry" as the lonely married woman in love with a young Marine, has the top feminine role as the love interest of Scott. Her rival for Scott's attention is popular Peggy Castle, who is seen in the role of a cabaret entertainer.

Prominent in supporting roles are Bill Ching, John Baragrey, and Robert Barrat.

The second hit stars Lin McCarthy and Bill Mason in "Yellowneck." It features action in the fabulous Florida Everglades and is filmed in brilliant natural color.

Great Love Filmed

"Love Is A Many-Splendored Thing," William Holden and Jennifer Jones in the star roles, will play at the Fox Theatre Sunday and Monday. This poignant and tender love story, based on Han Suyin's best-selling autobiographical novel, "A Many-Splendored Thing," was filmed in its indigenous background of Hong Kong, with the forbidding and forbidden mountains of Red China in the distance.

The story is a personal one of a beautiful Eurasian woman doctor, half-English and half-Chinese, whose love for an already married, but estranged, American war correspondent defied racial custom and social convention. The picture is both a delicately told love story and a social document, giving audiences a close look at the turbulence of human emotions in the British Crown Colony where the East and the West meet and mix with more suspicion that understanding.

Miss Jones portrays Dr. Suyin, the beautiful Eurasian, and Mr. Holden has the role of the newspaper correspondent. Other members of the stellar cast include Torth Thatcher, Isabel Elsom, Murray Matheson, Virginia

Two's company in a moment for lovers, as Jennifer Jones and William Holden demonstrate in this scene from "Love Is A Many-Splendored Thing," Twentieth Century-Fox's new CinemaScope production in color by DeLuxe playing at the Fox Theatre Sunday and Monday. Based on Han Suyin's autobiographical best-seller about the love of an Eurasian woman doctor and a newspaperman in Hong Kong, the film has been written by John Patrick, directed by Henry King and produced by Buddy Adler.

Has 10,000 Sons

A motion picture that promises to be as rich and as exciting as "From Here to Eternity" and "The Caine Mutiny," comes to the Fox Theatre's CinemaScope screen on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. It is 4-time Academy Award-winner John Ford's "The Long Gray Line" with a powerful starting cast headed by Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara. "The Long Gray Line" is the story of All America, although its setting is West Point and its principal figure a sergeant who devoted his lifetime to shaping into men the cadets who have marched from the academy. Starred with Power and Miss O'Hara are Robert Francis, Donald Crisp, Ward Bond, Betsy Palmer and Phil Carey.

"The Long Gray Line" is based on Sergeant Marty Maher's book "Bringing Up the Brass," in which he describes his experiences as athletic trainer, friend and second father to 10,000 or so cadets. Under Ford's direction, "The Long Gray Line" is a magnificent story of a West Point which at first bewildered, then almost every one of its 365 true-life scenes. Miss O'Hara, stars with Power as his bride, the girl who shares with him the affections of the boys he teaches to be men.

People Need All the Facts In Self-Rule

The community newspaper can perform a valuable service by helping its home community make sound judgments.

That's the belief of Paul A. Miller, director of the Michigan cooperative extension service. He spoke at the 4th annual community newspaper editorial conference at Michigan State university recently. Miller pointed out that many American communities often pay more attention to their feelings than they do to facts in making decisions.

Because people move often and sometimes far, community living has changed drastically. It's up to the newspaper, he declared, to help the community and its many new citizens interpret their problems.

The newspaper can help, Miller said, by encouraging the community to fully consider possible results of projects under consideration. Teaching and interpreting are as much of the newspaper's job as describing, according to Miller.

By encouraging people to take part in the many activities of the community, newspapers can do their part to keep the right of decision-making in public affairs in the hands of the people.

He cautioned that because many people go to a community activity doesn't mean its going to be conducted wisely. The community must have an informed and active interest in its affairs.

The People's Choice

Congressman Alvin M. Bentley of Owosso knows how to win the nomination for governor. But presently he has the wrong answer on the more important question of how to win the election.

For the last 4 elections Republican candidates have had no difficulty winning nominations. But they have failed to win an election. And there are few people who believe that the election was lost because of fights in the primary. In fact, the last time the Republicans had a red-hot primary the winner was easily elected. The winner was Kim Sigler, nominated in a bitter primary struggle in 1946. By political maneuvering Sigler and Dr. Eugene B. Keyes kept other candidates out of the 1948 Republican primary. Sigler and Keyes won the primary without a contest. They ingloriously lost the election. The Republicans had lots of candidates but few arguments in 1950, 1952 and 1954. But they didn't get a governor elected.

The primary is here to stay. Politicians may not like it. A showing can be made that good men sometimes lose out to candidates less qualified. But the primary system is not going to be junked. In Michigan the candidate must carry his campaign to the people twice. He must rally their support in the primary and get increased support in the general election.

Bentley won nomination to congress by the primary route. He carried on a strenuous campaign. After gaining support in the primary he consolidated that support in the election. That's how he won. That's the only way a candidate for governor can win.

In Michigan today it takes far more than the support of party leaders to win an election. The man Republicans nominate for governor ought to be one who wins the support of a big segment of the people. Such a man can then go on to win the election.

A candidate for governor under the primary system must be the choice of the people. He must be the people's choice in the primary and he must be the choice of even more people in the election. That's the way congressmen are elected, too, as Bentley well knows. No Republican can become governor of Michigan by backing into the office. He must fight with both hands all the way. He must be more than the choice of the party faithful. He must be the choice of the people at both elections.

Agencies Compound Confusion

There are not enough beds available in mental hospitals, some legislators claim. There are enough if the patients who can not be helped were removed, others declare. There are facilities enough for all the mentally afflicted of all ages if beds available in tuberculosis hospitals were used for mental cases, it is reported.

Yet when available beds are counted there is a big difference in the total. One group insists that there are many beds to spare. Another group says, "Just wait until we find a lot of new cases and we'll show you there are not beds enough for tuberculosis patients."

There may or may not be too many beds in state hospitals. Certainly there are too many agencies and too many doing the counting. There should be one over-all agency operating state hospitals. Then when one disease is conquered the beds made available can be used by those afflicted with other diseases. Under such a program patients in tuberculosis hospitals could be concentrated in fewer buildings and the released beds, whether at Howell or Gaylord or elsewhere, could be used for retarded children or other mental patients who can be helped.

In the many cases where help for the mentally afflicted is not possible they can be cared for in less expensive institutions than hospitals.

The remarkable rise in longevity has resulted in a steady increase in old-age mental affliction. Under a proper system many of these people can be helped to adjust by outpatient treatment. They require no institutional care.

A revamping of the entire health and hospital system is needed but it can't come easily amid the jealousies and prejudices now existing between separate and even hostile agencies.

Nor should the finger be pointed alone at the state. Here in Ingham county we have two county hospitals and three health agencies all going their own way. The Ingham Chest hospital, which has been developed as a tuberculosis sanatorium, is one of the newest and most complete in the state. Ten miles away is the county hospital, an institution which has grown out of a county farm. It is now a laboratory in geriatric psychiatry. The Chest hospital is operated by a five-man board elected by supervisors. The county hospital is operated by supervisors through a three-man social welfare board. Through their own committees supervisors operate the county health department.

Upon these three boards all dealing with health — with public health — there is not a doctor. There is no coordination between the institutions and departments. Nurses are assigned separately. Supplies are bought separately. If there are extra beds in one hospital and a waiting list in the other, patients are not shifted about.

So before we here in Ingham point our fingers at the state for refusing to coordinate public health activities let's consider our own situation, and our own responsibility. Ingham is the capital county of the state. If right here under the shadow of the capitol dome we reorganized and consolidated our own health and institutional care programs we might induce the state to make an honest try.

Thanks for a Lot

Thanksgiving is a day proclaimed for returning thanks for Nature's blessings.

To hear some so-called economists talk, we ought to be even more thankful for less. Our thanks ought to be reserved for crops less bountiful, we could conclude by listening to politicians preaching the benefits of scarcity.

In sections of the East this year there are no surplus food stocks. Floods took care of the situation. In the Southwest the drought fixed things so that there is ample storage for wheat and corn. Somehow here in the midwest with our granaries packed to the top and with our filled barns few of us would trade places with farmers in the flooded areas or the drought-stricken sections.

Our concern ought to be over doing the most good with the surplus. Half the people in the world go to bed every night hungry. Those who can buy, want to buy what we have to sell. They want to come and get it. But we permit politicians to restrict trade. Everyone can't buy our wheat and corn and cotton. We won't sell to certain countries. That is part of the cold war. If others do buy it we insist on shipping most of it in our own ships which pyramid shipping costs.

Thanksgiving is a day for giving thanks for our blessings. No people in all the history of the world have greater reason for being thankful. No people in all the history of the world have had such opportunity to make others grateful for our generosity.

When we give thanks for the bounteous supplies of food, for the comparative peace in which we have dwelt for the past year, for the freedom we enjoy, we should remember our responsibilities. We should accept our opportunities.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Howard Coy in looking through the effects of his mother, Mrs. Mary Coy, who died recently at 87, came across a picture she had received from her father, Lovewell Irish. It was a picture of Grandpa and Grandma DeCamp and of my mother, taken by Van Slyke in Mason several years before my mother was married, and she married almost 60 years ago.

Morley Fraser, speaker at the Mason football banquet last week, remarked that few men can boast of more than one true friend all through life. Lovewell Irish could have been the one true lifetime friend of Grandpa's. They enlisted together in Co. G, 12th Michigan Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War. They served together. They lived near each other in Vevay township. They held each other in the highest respect.

Lovewell Irish and Grandpa by serving in Company G always seemed more heroic to me because of the song:

Shoo fly, don't bother me, shoo fly, don't bother me,
Shoo fly, don't bother me, I belong to Company G.

Back before the days of DDT freedom from flies was worth fighting for—sort of a fifth freedom.

When people asked Lovewell Irish how many children he had, his reply was, "Five sons and each has a sister." Some people concluded there were 5 sons and 5 daughters. There were 5 sons and one daughter Mary. Of course, she was a sister of each brother, and a wonderful sister.

The picture which her son gave me will be on the mantel at our house Thanksgiving Day.

The Covert family at Leslie has been receiving deserved recognition recently. My children through their mother are a branch of the same antediluvian ancestry. There were 2 Covert brothers—Monmouth and Ansel. They married sisters, Kate and Mary Root. Monmouth died young and he begat Harry and Muriel, and Harry begat George and Marjorie, and among their begats are Patricia and Mahlon.

Ansel Covert had 4 daughters, no sons. I had the good fortune to marry one of Ansel's granddaughters—a daughter of Kate. Gertrude's son Bill is a vice-president of Packard-Studebaker. Grace's daughter married a steel company executive in Cleveland. Carrie's son Covert invented and promoted the sales of a new kind of slide rule. He's in California. There are shoots out of the stock from coast to coast. They ought to return to Leslie someday and all in a heap acknowledge their debt to a common ancestor.

Names go only with the male line under our U. S. customs. Under a matriarchal system the names would go with the line of descent. Maybe the English system of where the names are mixed up would work out. Take the Adams family of Mason as a case in point. There were 4 sons. All the sons of those 4 sons were daughters so now there's not a male Adams left to hand down the illustrious name.

There used to be a saying that meat packing was so efficient that everything was utilized, even the squeal of the hog as he was being stuck. But all that's saved in these days of dieting can not be sold at a profit.

A 225-lb hog provides a year's supply of meat for 2½ people, lard enough for 3½. A 300-lb hog supplies meat for 3½ people for a year but lard enough for 9 people. Think of that on Thanksgiving Day when you crowd up to the trough for seconds and thirds. Where will you market that extra lard?

It's nice to have a new school but to downtown business men it's not all gain. They miss the youngsters who no longer play along Jefferson on their way to and from school. Who's going to keep the piles of snow at the curb tramped down this winter?

At a recent gathering at Kellogg Center editors argued over the location of their editorial columns. Many editors believe they can do a better job of correcting the world's ills by spreading editorials on the first page.

I didn't say so at the meeting because I'm just too bashful, but it is my considered opinion that the person who gets the most good out of editorials is the man who writes them. It gives him an opportunity to marshal his own thoughts, to learn what it is he really thinks.

Here at the Ingham County News I do what thinking I can do on Monday morning. Those thoughts are immediately run through the machinery and cast into type. The type goes onto the first page that's open, usually the second page of the last section.

Honestly there has never been a complaint registered here that the editorial page is too far back.

Country & Town

Vantown 4-H club members are to be congratulated for shouldering the community responsibility of maintaining a club building. The former school house was purchased from the Dansville Agricultural school last summer. School board members are to be congratulated, too, for selling the building at a reasonable price. If it had been sold to an outsider, Vantown would have been without a meeting place. The 4-H group is doing a community service.

Anything that might be said about the Michigan-Ohio State football game Saturday would only hurt Attorney Howard McCowan's feelings. He's one of those Michigan alums who got out of the university with some of that much-talked-about Michigan poise. He only kicked his radio during Saturday's game.

I lost some of my poise Saturday after I discovered I had painted the upstairs hall and stairs and had failed to retrieve blankets and other cold weather necessities. The family camped in the living room Saturday night shrouded in overcoats and table cloths. I thought of course the paint would dry in time, but alas! My wife lost her poise, too.

Here's a recipe from Mrs. Carl Sherwood. Ordinarily, I shun breakfast food mixed up in pastries. But Mrs. Sherwood claims these Christmas Twinkles are good:

In a double boiler, put in a cup of semi-sweet chocolate chips, 2 tablespoons of white syrup and a tablespoon of water. When melted, add a cup of coconut and a cup of peanuts (or breakfast food). While still hot, drop from teaspoon onto waxed paper.

Watch next week's Ingham County News for the annual Christmas edition. It will be printed on green newsprint with some of that new black ink. The special section will be loaded with hundreds of gift ideas which can be bought right here in Mason.

If Christ isn't back in Christmas, it isn't the fault of advertising people. Advance Christmas publicity and advertising mails carry the word Christmas and not Xmas this year. Here at the Ingham County News, we've always made an effort to spell out the whole word. That's why I always questioned the psychology of the church-sponsored slogan, "Put Christ back in Christmas." It might better have been, "Keep Christ in Christmas."

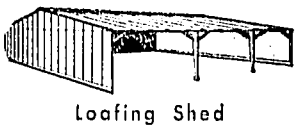

This week, the slogan should be, "Keep Thanks in Thanksgiving."

Federal Farm Economists See Further Price Decline

By CARL COLLIN
Federal farm economists aren't very encouraging about the outlook for farm income next year. They figure net farm income this year may be 10% below 1954 and some further decline is in prospect for 1956.

Cash receipts from livestock products in 1956 may total as much as this year if farmers and the current expansion in hog production.

duction. Receipts from dairy products may be a little larger next year but crop receipts are expected to be smaller.

Latest reports from surveys on hog production show that there will be an increase in the coming spring farrowings over 1955. Farmers could change their minds considerably in the next couple of months and send a lot of sows and gilts to market. We'll get a better idea of that next month when a pig crop report comes out December 22. It will show farmers' intentions regarding spring farrowings.

Broiler producers had better watch their step—they may be starting more chicks than the market can take care of at a good price, a couple of months hence. Chicks produced by commercial hatcheries during October reached a record for the month. Production totaled almost 108 million compared with 86.4 million during October last year. Of the chicks hatched, over 92 million were turned out for broilers. About 25% more broiler chicks were placed in the 13 principal commercial broiler producing areas during October than a year before, and a near record hatch is in prospect as the number of eggs in incubators on November 1 was 25% bigger than a year ago.

November crop reports for Michigan estimate grape production this year at 22,000 tons compared with 46,000 last year and the 10-year (1944-53) average of 31.6 thousand tons. The grape crop nationally this year was about a fifth greater than in 1954.

Michigan's potato crop this year was the smallest since 1937. Some other field crops were big ones. The 90-million-bushel corn crop for the state sets a new record. Oats and barley crops are the largest since 1946. Our field bean crop is 30% above last year and the largest since 1949. Michigan farmers have harvested a record soybean crop this year. Generally, our fruit crop was only an eighth below average in spite of the freeze we had right at blossom time.

Speaking of records, October milk production in Michigan set a new record for the month amounting to 464 million pounds. Michigan hens laid a record number of eggs for October, some 133 million.

The National Agricultural Advisory commission meeting this week in Washington was scheduled to meet sometime in December, but the pressure is on USDA to come up with some definite farm program proposals for submission to congress as soon as it convenes. The administration has promised to have a program ready for congress to consider. With everybody getting into the act with some kind of criticism or suggestion there's bound to be a lot doing on the farm situation in Washington. All of it is aggravated by the elections coming up next fall.

Surplus commodity trading with Communist Russia is now being actively considered. We reported before that Russia is permitted to buy farm products from private traders at U. S. prices, but there's a ban against selling federally-owned commodities to Iron Curtain countries at cut-rate prices.

Henry Wallace suggested an exchange of surplus farm products for a Russian pledge not to ship arms to Egypt. Wallace told the annual meeting of the Iowa Farm Bureau that "It would be a good bargain for us and the whole world." Wallace said neither flexible nor rigid 90% of parity price supports were complete answers to the farm price problem. The so-called "soil bank" method of removing acreage from production would be helpful, he said, but other measures would be needed to solve the farm problem. He didn't amplify that statement.

Miscellany. . . . Government holdings of butter, cheese and dried milk now total about 400 million pounds. A year ago they amounted to over a billion pounds. . . . Scotland Yard has been investigating large scale cattle rustling in Britain. Over a quarter of a million dollars worth of beef and dairy cattle imported from Ireland have just disappeared. . . .

Rain is needed in many parts of the winter wheat belt to help get the young crop through the winter. Not long ago this drought-plagued area was suffering from very heavy rainfall and floods. . . . Despite bumper crops and decreased prices to farmers, the housewife's food bill next year will be just as high as in 1955, says USDA. . . .

ACID SOILS ARE UNPRODUCTIVE

An acid soil is one that has been robbed of its fertility by cropping and leaching. Crops obtain their feed nutrients from the soil. Both the grain and the forage are removed from the fields taking the minerals drawn from the soil with them. The water falling as rain as well as the water applied by irrigation systems goes down through the soil leaving its hydrogen while carrying plant nutrients down out of reach of crop roots. The more porous or sander the soil, the faster the water seeps through and the further the nutrients are carried.

The nutrients removed by these processes must be replaced if succeeding crops are to get sufficient nutrients to obtain satisfactory production both in quantity and quality. Replacement of the nutrients thus removed is accomplished by fertilization with a nitrogen, phosphate and potash mixture which also frequently contains other plant food elements. Fertility can also be restored by applications of liming materials. Limestone which is calcium and magnesium carbonate restores these nutrients which the water carried out of the soil. An application of 1 to 5 tons of this material per acre depending on soil type, cropping practices and humidity restores the proper balance in the soil, reduces the acidity, preventing the iron and aluminum from locking up the applied nutrients as well as facilitating assimilation by plants of the nutrients native to the soil. In fact more and more evidence is being found to prove that the calcium and magnesium carbonates thus added provide necessary plant food which produces bigger and more nutritious crops rather than this being a result of correcting the soil acidity. While acid soils produce poor crops—poor in both quantity and quality—it is because the plants are starved because of the acidity.

State May Assist Crop Promotions

Consideration of establishing a bureau within the Michigan department of agriculture to coordinate Michigan farm product promotional activities and assist in the marketing of the state's quality farm products is being given by the commission of agriculture, which sets policies for that department.

Director G. S. McIntyre and his staff were recently instructed by the commission to study this matter and report at the December 13 meeting.

The purpose of such a bureau within the department, if considered practical, would be to tie together all agricultural promotional efforts.

The department already assists many commodity groups in promoting their own products through newspapers, radio, TV and other means.

Nearly 1,000 varieties of flowering plants bloom among the Olympic Mountains of Washington, says the National Geographic Society. About ten of them are found nowhere else in the world. They grow mainly on the slopes and ridgetops above 4,000 feet.

State Lead in Sour Cherries Will Increase

In 6 years the state will have about 28 percent more bearing red, tart cherry trees than at present, according to Director G. S. McIntyre, of the Michigan department of agriculture. The figure is indicated by the federal-state crop reporting service following a tree survey made this year. Montmorency is the main variety.

Michigan for many years has been the nation's No. 1 producer of red, tart cherries, some years producing as much as 60 percent of the total national crop.

At present there are about 3,450,000 bearing trees in the state. Yields for the past 5 years averaged about 77,500 tons a year. And some of those 5 years were poor yield years because of unfavorable weather conditions. Had frosts not have taken a toll the average per year would have been higher.

More young trees have been set out. In 6 years there will probably be about 4,400,000 trees.

putting out gorgeous white blossoms in spring and crimsoned cherries in summer. This is expected to be the largest number of red, tart cherry trees in the state's history. Cherry production in the future will probably equal and surpass the peak year of 1950 when Michigan's crop amounted to 100,000 tons. And 100,000 tons of cherries is a lot of cherries.

Nearly all of Michigan's crop is raised in a narrow strip in the western part of the state extending along Lake Michigan from the Indiana line to nearly the Straits. About 55 percent of the crop is raised from Montmorency, with the area around Traverse City probably the greatest concentration in America. The area south of Manistee to the Grand Rapids section takes in another 25 percent. Twenty percent of the crop is produced in Berrien, Van Buren and Allegan counties where recent cherry tree plantings are heaviest and where much of that 25 percent increase is expected to come.

Boys and Girls Share Many Awards

Three former Michigan 4-H members have been selected to receive state honors in the 4-H club annual recognition award program.

They are: Mrs. Floyd Day, R. L. Hancock, Jackson county; Leonard H. Perrine, R. 4, Jackson; and William D. Knox, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, and formerly of Chippewa county.

Receiving a distinguished copper award recognition plaque, the 3 state winners were chosen for their effective community, state or national leadership, success in their chosen careers and interest in 4-H and other similar programs.

Mrs. Day, who was a 4-H member in Jackson county and in Ohio, has been a 4-H club leader 5 years. She served as a secretary for 7 years and is now a housewife.

Perrine, a 10-year 4-H club leader, helped start the Jackson county tractor project. In 1951, he traveled to Washington, D. C. to report on the progress of the tractor project to its sponsors on its 10th anniversary. Perrine operates a 181-acre general dairy farm.

Knox's most outstanding contribution to Michigan 4-H as a member was in the late 1930's. It was then that he solicited and received support from Michigan legislators to get funds for the establishment of Camp Shaw. Camp Shaw is now the center of 4-H activities in the Upper Peninsula. At present, Knox is editor of Hoard's Dairyman, national dairy farm publication.

There are other boys and girls who have won top honors, with a $300 scholarship from Ford Foundation included in some instances.

An outstanding record of achievement earned for James Thar, 18, Detroit, the state 4-H achievement award for boys. Son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Thar, the Van Buren county boy has been in 4-H for 8 years and now is a freshman at Michigan State university.

With a record of community leadership and outstanding work in 4-H projects, Janet June Housman, Albion, has been presented the state 4-H achievement award for girls.

Janet, a Michigan State university freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Housman, Jr., who live on a 357-acre farm in Calhoun county.

Last year her canning exhibits paid off to a tune of a trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago. She has been a winner of the DeWitt Foundation award and has won a county medal for leadership.

her outstanding 4-H club work in the field of poultry. As state winner in the poultry achievement contest she has been awarded an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Frederick, the Ingham county girl has been in 4-H club work for 8 years. During this time she has completed work in poultry, foods and clothing. She has received recognition for her work in county, district and state shows.

Besides her 4-H club work, Elaine is active at the Mason high school. She is co-editor of the high school newspaper, treasurer of the student council and county cherry pie baking contest winner. Elaine says, "I have loved being in activities and doing what I could to make our club a better one."

Elaine's trip is being sponsored by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago.

Nancy Ann Leland, Whitmore Lake, has earned statewide recognition and an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club congress in Chicago, for her outstanding 4-H club garden project.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leland, the Washtenaw county girl has been in 4-H club work for 9 years. She has carried her garden project for 8 years.

For her outstanding garden, Nancy received the National Farm and Garden award of a $250 scholarship and the county garden award.

An active student in high school activities, Nancy received the state board of education scholarship for tuition at Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, where she is a freshman in elementary education.

Jean Irons, R. 1, Sherwood, has won statewide recognition for her 4-H club work in the field of health and safety. As a state 4-H winner she has been awarded an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodell Irons, she has been in Branch county 4-H work for 10 years. A few of her project areas have been dairy, beef, sheep, beef breeding, gardening, canning and health and safety.

A 10-jewel wrist watch has been awarded to Margaret Hawkins, Hudson, for winning state honors with her 4-H bread demonstration.

Fifteen-year-old Margaret says that in preparing her demonstration she enjoyed learning about the history of bread and the origin of particular roll shapes.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hawkins, she has participated in Lenawee county 4-H club work for 6 years. Her project areas have been handicraft, food preparation, personal accounts, wild flowers, flower gardening and poultry.

Nellie Lou Ashley Vosburg, Climax, received statewide honors by being named state winner of the 4-H leadership award. For her outstanding leadership record in 4-H work, she was awarded a 19-jewel watch in addition to the state-wide honors.

Nellie, 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ashley, Climax. She has been a member of 4-H clubs in Kalamazoo county for 10 years. For 5 years, she took junior leadership as a 4-H project and has led 97 4-H members in that time.

Outstanding leadership activities in 4-H work have won a 19-jewel watch for Rex C. Smith, Gallien. In recognition of his accomplishments, Rex has been named the state winner of the 4-H leadership award.

Rex, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Gallien, has been a member of Berrien county 4-H clubs for 7 years. In that time, he has completed projects in dairy, rabbits, personal accounts, health and safety, corn, tractor maintenance, electricity and photography among others.

Kenlyn Houlden, Wheeler, has won statewide recognition and an all-expense paid trip to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for her outstanding project in recreation and rural arts.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Houlden, the 17-year-old Gratiot county girl serves as recreation leader in her county service club, and has helped train recreation chairmen in local clubs and at county officers meetings. Being a member of the square dance group that won the national recreation and rural arts blue award in 1951 is just one of her many 4-H recreational activities. She is also a member of the "K-Notes," a vocal quartet which was a blue ribbon winner at the state 4-H club show in 1955.

Russell "Riley" Goodenough of Marcellus has received statewide recognition for his 4-H club work. Russell, 18, was named the state winner in the boys' agricultural program. As a result he has been awarded an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress

In Chicago, November 27 to December 1.

Russell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Goodenough, Marcellus, and has averaged 14 projects per year in his 8 years of 4-H club work in Cass county.

Patricia Lou Spike, Owosso, has won statewide recognition for her 4-H club work in canning. As a state winner, she has been awarded an all-expense paid trip to the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Cyril G. Spike, Patricia has been in Shiawassee county 4-H club work for 8 years. An enthusiast for canning, she has done the family canning as well as her aunt's and sister's. For her canning projects she has won blue ribbons at the state 4-H club show from 1949 to 1954.

Suzanne Doughten, Gallien, has won statewide recognition for her outstanding 4-H club work in forestry. The 18-year-old Gallien girl has been named state winner and has won a gold-filled medal and certificate of honor for her achievement.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Doughten, Suzanne has been in 4-H club work for 5 years and has completed work in the field of forestry, health and safety, gun safety, knitting and many other areas.

Light Hogs Make More Farm Profit

Feeding hogs to heavy weights doesn't pay off in this season of the year, according to M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. He points out that feeding hogs to weights over 225 lb is rarely profitable except in time of rising prices. Even then chances are only fair of realizing more money from the additional feeding to heavier weights.

Heavy hogs are usually discounted in price compared to light hogs of 180-225 lb. This discount is heaviest in the winter months and again in the summer, says Avery. With the current heavy supply of hogs and low hog prices, discounts will be even more costly.

Livestock specialists at Michigan State university give this example of how marketing at lighter weights can be profitable: There are 3 reasons why marketing at lighter weights will be profitable in this year of heavy hog supplies, according to livestock specialists at Michigan State university.

Hogs marketed at lighter weights mean less pork on the market. The decreased supply will bring higher prices.

Second, carcasses from lighter weight hogs will contain less lard. A 225-lb hog provides enough meat for 2½ people and enough lard for 3¼ people. On the other hand, a 300-lb hog has enough meat for 3½ people and lard for 9 people.

Cuts of meat from a 220-lb hog will have less lard in relation to lean meat—something that consumers like.

Third, lighter weight hogs make more efficient use of feed. Under a good feeding program, hogs fed up to 220 lb will make a pound of gain on less than 4 lb of feed. But feeding to 300 lb takes about 5 lb of feed per pound of gain.

Vantown 4-H Club Has Own Building

Vantown 4-H club is one of the first clubs in Michigan to own and operate a building for 4-H and community purposes. It was purchased last summer from the Ingham Township Agricultural school district after it was absorbed in the larger school system. The former Vantown school is located on Howell road near Williamston road.

The Vantown club is one of the largest 4-H local clubs in Michigan. There are 106 boys and girls enrolled under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Minnis, leaders.

The Vantown club was organized in the spring of 1931 with Harlow Sly as leader. There were 6 members. The club was organized through the Willing Work-ers' Sunday school class of the Methodist church where Sly was a teacher. H. H. Barnum, county agricultural agent, assisted in organization.

The second year Maynard Webster took over the club and led for 6 years. The club had grown to 25 members.

In 1937 Hugh Oesterle became leader and continued for 16 years.

During this period the club grew from 25 members to 75. The club developed from a dairy

Counties Share Forest Receipts

Twenty-six northern Michigan counties recently shared more than $171,000 as their portion of national forest receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955.

The payment represents a 25 percent share of the revenue from timber sales and special use fees at the 5 federal forests located in the Michigan counties.

The largest payment went to Gogebic county which received $30,168 for timber sold out of its 275,000 acres of Ottawa national forest.

The smallest check, $1.13, went to Roscommon county for its share of sales from the county's Huron national forest acreage.

Michigan's share of the federal funds was the highest among the 9 north-central states.

An additional 10 percent of the 1955 receipts is to be spent by federal authorities for road improvements in national forests in the state.

project club to a community club with a variety of projects including beef, sheep, hogs, horses, poultry, dairy, crops, vegetable and flower garden, foods, tractor maintenance and junior leadership. The club also added a number of activities including club picnics, tours of projects, softball teams, model business meeting, floats at the Ingham county fair, talent shows, and the county-wide club activity contests.

Some members also participated in judging, demonstrations and public speaking.

During this period, Oesterle served on the county 4-H council and as superintendent of dairy at the county fair. The Oesterles were selected as one of the first couples to receive a county leaders' trip to Chicago.

Because of the fine spirit in the community which had been built up by previous leaders, the club has continued to grow, under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Minnis.

In the 1955 summer program, 106 members completed 173 projects.

Since the Minnises took over, the club purchased the rural school for a club house. The land reverted to Bruce Granger who leased it to the 4-H club because of his interest in 4-H projects.

The building has oil heat, piano, bookcase and indoor toilets.

The final climax to the 25th year of the Vantown 4-H club was the club's local achievement night held in November at Webberville county hall. Over 250 people including original club members turned out to this anniversary party. An anniversary cake topped with 25 candles was served to the guests at the potluck supper.

Farmers Get Bid From Democrats

Farmers from Ingham county may say their piece about current farm problems at a Democratic farm conference Monday, November 28, at 7:30 p. m., at Michigan Center high school.

The event is a series of 8 meetings covering every county in Michigan.

Purpose of the Democratic farm conference is to hear directly from farmers what they think should be done to improve the present farm price situation, and to discuss national proposals of political parties.

The 8 conferences are being organized and run by members of the Michigan agricultural commission, farm members of the state fair board, and local dairy, grain, poultry and fruit farmers, with Democratic members of the state administrative board and other Democratic party officials as observers.

Summaries of each conference will be forwarded to state and national Democratic leaders for consideration in farm policy recommendations.

Democratic officials emphasized that all farmers are welcome regardless of political affiliation.

Soil Test Results in Better Crop

Ed Longnecker, extension specialist at Michigan State university, claims that this is the best time of year to take soil samples. It takes time to get the samples and the soils testing laboratories need time to run the tests. Reports on samples can be received quicker now than at any other time, he said.

In addition there'll be more time to plan next year's crops, and the rotations for the next several years. And if the soil does need supplementing, as most soils do, fertilizer and lime can be ordered now with assurance of getting it, Longnecker pointed out.

Some farmers worry about samples taken this time of year being unusually low due to plant food removed by the previous crop. Longnecker says that this makes little difference.

The farm should be sampled once during every rotation. If a soil-testing program is new, test the field that is going to be planted to a legume for next spring or the spring following, he advises.

Use a clean spade to dig the samples and put it in a clean paper bag or tin can, he said. Take one composite sample from each major soil type in the field. Each composite should be made up of 8 or 10 small samples well mixed in a clean pail. Each sampling should represent the entire plow layer, he added.

A new blueberry variety, called Sunray and developed by the U. S. department of agriculture, looks promising for Michigan growers.

Farmers Must Speak with One Voice

By M. H. AVERY
County Agent

In this age of competition and a highly organized society it is important that farmers be able to speak with a unified voice.

In Ingham county the strong organization representing farmers is the Farm Bureau. Does the Farm Bureau speak for you? Does it say the things you want said concerning agriculture and its needs?

Following are notes taken from the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau at Michigan State university.

The Farm Bureau has grown steadily in membership and influence. In Michigan this year there are 65,830 farm families in the leading agricultural counties of the state banded together in 1,474 community Farm Bureaus and 63 county Farm Bureaus.

We live in a time when farmers have suffered declining prices for their products while their prices of the food resulting therefrom have been going up to consumers. Recurrent rounds of wage increases and larger profits for industry and merchandising have been responsible for the shrinking percentage of the consumer's dollar received by the farmers and for the increased cost of operation and supplies which subject farmers to an acute price squeeze.

Certainly we desperately need the best possible program of public relations so that we may be able to explain our problems, our aims and aspirations to other groups and classes. Reliable statistics show that we are experiencing a declining net income at a time when business, industry and labor are enjoying unprecedented prosperity.

The blessings of abundance of food and fiber which this nation enjoys have been obtained through the willingness of the farmers, not only to work hard and intelligently but to use agricultural mechanization and automation efficiently. More than our own selfish interests are involved. We are not merely farmers, we are citizens with a deep and abiding ing concern for the general welfare and for the preservation of these liberties which constitute our American heritage.

Farm income has not kept pace with rising farm expenses. Billions of dollars of government funds by congressional enactment have been poured into agriculture since 1947 in the form of rigid 90% of parity price supports and in other attendant expenses. Yet net farm income has continued to decline.

The abundant prosperity of non-farm industries stimulated by easy credit policies combined with ultra-liberal labor management wage agreements have been reflected in mounting costs of farm equipment, supplies and other expenses. The inability of the farmer under prevailing economic conditions and relationships to pass his increased costs on to purchasers of his product, as is done in other industries, has precipitated a cost-price squeeze on agriculture.

The board of delegates pledged the facilities of the Michigan Farm Bureau to the accomplishment of the following projects towards the elimination of the burdensome surpluses:

1. A more intensive and effective sales and export program for the disposal of surplus products.
2. Stimulate export and domestic trade by upgrading the quality of farm commodities by measures that assure maintenance of quality standards essential to the merchandising of an increasing volume of products.
3. Provide greater incentives for the production of higher quality products by varying price supports in accordance with grade quality.

4. The judicious contribution of excess commodities to relieve hunger, distress and human misery where it can be done without neutralizing commercial trade opportunities.
5. Reduce ocean transportation costs on agricultural exports by amending the Mutual Security Act. Rates on shipments in U. S. ships are much higher than in foreign bottoms.
6. Sale of farm produce to all nations including "Iron Curtain" countries, particularly where strategic materials are received in return.
7. We strongly commend the advertising of farm products through such programs as the American Dairy association, as one of the most effective means of reducing surpluses and adjusting production to demand.

8. We are strongly opposed to further development of extensive federal irrigation and reclamation projects while farm surpluses are reducing the income of farmers.

Farm Bureau has had tremendous influence on farm policy throughout the country.

This statement was made at the conference. "If we hope to maintain this influence, if we expect to continue to speak for farmers we must grow not only in numbers but also in the determination to transmit our policies into action. We don't expect the challenges and issues to decrease, we must be prepared to meet them."

"Counties that contain industrial areas may need to carefully appraise their potential. We believe that anyone who is interested enough to live on a farm or produce farm products, even though he is not a full-time farmer, should be considered for membership. Our attitude towards part-time farmers whose philosophy promotes our way of life should be tempered to include these people in our organization."

Speaking as your county agricultural agent, I would like to say that I sincerely believe that every farmer, if not every rural person interested in the rural way of life, should be interested in some organization that is working for the best interests of the farmer and his way of life.

Cow Vacation Is Profitable

As dairymen have long suspected, cows do produce more milk and butterfat if they have at least 6 weeks to 2 months of rest between lactations.

That was proved from a summary of records on 3,500 dairy cows. The figures were compiled by IBM machines from dairy herd improvement records at Michigan State university.

Extension dairyman Larry

Johnson reports these comparisons on the results of various rest periods for cows:

Holsteins dry less than 2 weeks produced 347 lb of butterfat and 3,511 lb of milk. Those dry 2 weeks to a month, 390 lb of butterfat and 10,838 lb of milk. Cows dry 4 to 6 weeks, 404 lb of butterfat and 11,218 lb of milk. And those dry 6 to 8 weeks, 413 lb of butterfat and 11,567 lb of milk. Figures for other breeds are in the same proportion, according to Johnson.

The average was slightly higher for cows that were given 8 to 10 weeks' vacation. But, Johnson

Want Bulk Tank? Note Future Need

Dairymen who are considering bulk milk tanks for their farms, should be sure to consider one that will take care of future expansion of the herd.

"That's a word of caution from the future," said Larry Johnson, extension dairyman Donald L. Murray of Michigan State university. He pointed out that several Michigan dairymen already are finding that the tanks they bought 2 years ago are too close to the capacity they need.

So when the size of tank is considered, he advised, it should be based on possible increases in herd size, boosts in herd production, and with enough capacity for 5 milkings during the period of peak milk output.

More Than Spray Is Needed To Erase Dutch Elm Disease

The dreaded Dutch Elm disease can't be licked just by spraying trees, said a University of Michigan professor of forest pathology and botany.

Dow V. Baxter, who has been studying this serious conservation problem for almost 30 years, cited the chief hazard as "the dying, or recently-killed, elm which serves as suitable wood for breeding bark beetles, the vector for the fungus."

"The prompt removal and destruction of such wood is of prime importance," he stated. "And, when used to supplement a sanitation program involving both spraying with an application of DDT is helpful," he said.

A current outbreak of the disease among Michigan's elms has focused public attention on ways of lessening its ravages.

"There's a double expense involved in the problem," Professor Baxter pointed out. "Sine owners want to plant trees to replace those they have had to destroy in checking the disease."

Still further expense will be entailed if the sick trees are part of a formally planned landscaping program, this expert declared, since their destruction will throw future plans out of kilter in addition to wiping out the value of all previous work.

"You're just inviting trouble if you street-plant elms formally," he maintained.

Dutch Elm disease was first diagnosed in the U. S. in 1930 when it appeared in Ohio. Since it is an introduced fungus from abroad it centered in ports of entry, veneer plants and railroad distributing yards.

The fungus is transmitted from elm to elm by the activities of a beetle which feeds on the trees, leaving wounds which are excellent places for the fungus infection to grow.

Professor Baxter listed the external symptoms of Dutch Elm disease as: Curling leaves which show wilting, yellowing or browning, bark which dries out and dies, and discoloration of the outer annual rings. If the bark is peeled away larvae of the elm bark beetles may be found—though they are only carriers, not causers, of the disease.

"One thing is clear," Professor Baxter said, "the beetles prefer unhealthy trees, so keep elms healthy by watering and fertilization."

Midwinter Prices Best For Steers

Feeding cattle to hit the midwinter market is a good bet for Michigan cattlemen.

Large numbers of yearlings in the feedlot now will mean a big rush on the spring market, says M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. He urges those feeders with cattle weighing 800 lb to feed them out as fast as possible.

Very passes along these feeding suggestions from W. L. Finley, extension beef cattle specialist at Michigan State university. Plan to use plenty of protein supplement in the ration. Protein supplement will improve both the rate of gain and the efficiency of gain. The supplement should contain 30% protein or higher. In most instances, Finley advises a feed containing stillbistol.

For calves, Avery says good quality animals might well be overwintered on large quantities of roughage with the grain feeding program to start toward spring. These cattle would be ready for market in August, September or October of next fall.

Dairy-bred steers or part dairy-bred steers should be fed heavy corn silage rations plus stillbistol and protein supplement, Avery claims. He recommends that feeders plan to market these steers on the spring market in April, May or June if at all possible.

Honey Production Sets New Record

Record production of an estimated 10 million pounds this year indicates there is a plentiful supply of Michigan honey for cooking purposes and also for dunking hot, fresh biscuits.

The Michigan department of agriculture, whose representatives checked on 80,099 colonies of bees in 1955 for American foulbrood, report the value to the state's farmers of this record crop of honey and beeswax to be more than $1 1/2 millions.

Of even greater value is the fact that bees pollinate annually more than $48 million of fruit and field crops grown on approximately 428,900 acres.

Manning, in the northern part of Canada's province of Alberta, advertises itself as the "northern-most midwestern farm town in North America." Its first crop of wheat was grown in 1929, says the National Geographic Society. The town is 565 miles north of the United States border.

Fall Freshening Builds Up Base

Now is the time to breed heifers for fall freshening, M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent, says that heifers 14 to 16 months old showing normal or better growth should be bred. That's so they will freshen during the base milk months: August through December, he pointed out.

The extra milk from fresh heifers, he claims, will help build the base.

It's necessary to start heifers on a fall freshening plan if they are expected to fall freshen for later lactations and produce a calf every 12 months, Avery said.

MSU Provides Planting Stock

Michigan State university this year distributed 2,443 white pines, the state's official tree, to schools, cities, clubs and other public organizations. Occasion was the university's centennial year.

Dr. P. A. Herbert, director of the institution's conservation division, selected the tree because it was the state's most important source of lumber in Michigan's early history.

The white pines were purchased by the institution for ornamental use and were distributed by the conservation nursery under the direction of W. Ira Bull.

The Bulk Tank For ALL TYPES of Milking Operations

'Like Sucking Milk Through a Straw'

That's what you'll say, too, when you use ZERO's Super Strainer and T-20 Vacuum Refrigerated Milk Tank. For successful dairy farmers everywhere are buying Zero's T-20 Milk Tank and Super Strainer, like Mr. and Mrs. Ray Frothing, Hampshire, Ill. Their son, David Frothing, shown here, is only 10 years old... yet he's big enough to help with the milking. Naturally he can't lift the pail high enough to pour milk into any cooler, but with Zero's Super Strainer, handling the milk is a snap... "just like sucking milk through a straw."

Mr. Frothing likes his T-20 too because "it's easy to clean and the milk tastes better with rapid cooling." Other smart dairymen choose Zero because of "its better, stronger construction," "no more lifting or carrying heavy milk cans"... "it's the beginning of my fully automatic milk system." And Zero gives you vacuum refrigerated milk with animal heat and odors removed. See us today!

- ★ Use it as a pour-in
- ★ Use it with Zero's Super Strainer
- ★ Use it with direct cow to tank hook-up under vacuum
- ★ No Releasers needed

The easiest of all to clean! Lids go in wash tank... one, two, three... and paddle is out. The rest is easy because the tank is round... From top to bottom and from one end to the other, all parts are visible from the outside.

Don't be happy with the tank that just passes the requirements today... Visualize what will be required in the future.

Willing Workers Stage Meeting

Sixteen members of the Willing Workers Aid met Thursday at the home of May Taylor. Their theme, "Backward, turn backward, Oh time in your flight, Make me a child again, Just for tonight," was carried out by each member going dressed as a child. Those who were not in costume had to pay a forfeit of singing a childhood song or speaking a childhood piece. Members took their first baby picture.

The report of the delegates to the Michigan State Grange, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rykert and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Morehouse, showed the following resolutions made by the county Grange to have been approved by the state delegation and sent on to the National convention: Asking stiff penalties for motorists found driving after their drivers' licenses have been revoked or suspended; that trucks on the highway keep a distance of 500 feet between them and that warnings to that effect be posted; that trucks be prohibited on the highways on Sundays and special holidays; that there should be no sales tax on that part of the bill covering the labor involved; favoring a statewide speed limit.

Further resolutions sent on to the National Grange were: that Rural mail deliveries be made directly to the home and not to corners a long way from the home; that more education be provided in the field of marketing; retain as an elective office, the position of state superintendent of public schools; gain a return to elective office, of the position of county superintendent of schools; that the Grange stand against monopolistic practices detrimental to the public welfare; that the Grange stand against buying farms to evade income tax; that the Grange favor legislation requiring that all hospitals and clinics required by alcoholics, be paid for from taxes on alcoholic beverages and not from the general tax fund since the non-drinker is not responsible for the plight of the alcoholic but those who buy and sell liquor are; that traffic be made, by law, to stop both ways, when a school bus stops.

The hostess served a potluck lunch.

Travelogue Given By Rev. Wenger

The European travelogue given Thursday by Rev. Samuel B. Wenger and his son, Kent, at the Grange with accompanying colored slides was well attended by friends of Grange members as well as members themselves. An open meeting was planned to permit this.

The program also consisted of the group singing, 2 violin solos by Doris Fortman accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Claire Morehouse and 2 accordion solos by Alice Gordon.

A potluck lunch was served. Mrs. Wesley Brownlee, secretary, says the menu for the public dinner, December 8, has been changed to turkey dinner.

Village Council Meets

At the village council meeting Wednesday evening, hearings were conducted on the 4 petitions of owners of property to have their homes classified from residential to commercial. They were: George Luecht, undertaker; Al Woodland, The Andrews company; and Mrs. Naomi Davis. It was announced that E. Dale Mann, a Southern Michigan prison guard, would try out the night deputy's post in Leslie to see if it will fit in with his present schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Austin were Friday evening guests of Mr. Austin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Austin.

Mrs. Samuel B. Wenger, wife of Rev. Wenger, minister of the First Congregational Christian church, entered Foote Memorial hospital for major surgery Thursday morning. Her condition is listed as good.

Mrs. Imogene Losey was taken to Mercy hospital at 1:30 a. m. Thursday by Luecht ambulance service. Her condition is listed as improved.

A large tree was blown down in the pathway of a car driven by A. W. Nowlin Wednesday night. He called Marshal Donald Haynes who alerted the county road commission. The tree was removed immediately.

Donald Haynes and Duane Kinch spent 2 days at Vanderbilt, at the home of Arthur Haynes, Don's father, on a deer hunting expedition.

You're never quite sure whether your wife should use your first name, or her own, when signing an important paper.

Maybe you wonder, too, whether to put a "Mr." or "Mrs." in front of your signature, or a "Jr." or "Sr." after it, when you sign your name on a legal document or a contract to buy something. Also, what about your middle name or initial? I checked this all with my lawyer recently when I sold a little piece of property to a young friend of mine—Jim Jones and his new wife for the home they're going to build.

It seems that under the common law for centuries back a legal name has consisted of one Christian or given name and one surname or family name. The law presumes that every person has a given name, and a surname which must be stated in full on any legal document.

The law doesn't pay much attention to the middle name or initial, but it is wiser to use one or the other for exact identification. But you must be consistent. For example, Jim Jones was advised to sign all papers by his full name "James Aloysius Jones, Jr." to make it clear which of the James Joneses was buying that property.

While the law doesn't consider "Jr." or "Sr." a significant part of your name, use of such description titles helps distinguish you from namesakes.

As for "Mr." in front of your name, that's not important at all. The same goes for "Mrs.", because it's your wife's own given name that counts.

When a woman marries, she takes her husband's family name.

Her maiden surname is absolutely lost. Many women incorrectly use their husband's full name, and sign "Mrs. James A. Jones," for example. The correct way is for her to sign her own given name, and her husband's surname as Joan Marie Jones.

A divorced woman who wants to resume the use of her maiden name may have it returned to her by a court order, under some circumstances.

My advice is that it's best for

Holt Man Wins Honor at Alma

Donald Jackson, junior from Holt, attending Alma college, has been elected to the "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" for this year.

Selections are made by the student council and the members of the faculty combined and are based on scholarship, leadership, citizenship, service, and promise for future academic and social success.

Jackson has maintained a B-plus grade average throughout his 2 years at Alma and has participated in Student Council, Inter-Fraternity Council, band, choir, intramurals, and the track team. He is first vice-president of A. C. A. and chaplain of Delta Gamma Tau fraternity. His major is psychology, which he plans to use in his future life as a minister, upon graduation in June, 1957.

A successful rat and mouse killing campaign takes more than poison. You must clean up the dirt and filth in places that harbor rats, say M. S. U. specialists.
