Workers on Farms Suffer But Get Little Sympathy

Lately we have been hearing an awful lot about farmers and their troubles.

Well, as I happen to be a farm hand, I know the farmer has been having it tough. But why is it we never hear anything on farm labor, or doesn't he figure any longer?

We have many of these people that work for as little as 50c to 75c an hour, and then have work only when the boss needs them. There are many needy people right around here who work for meager wages and can barely survive. I can't understand why there hasn't been some effort to see that these people get some of the surplus foods. Many of these people don't know what real butter and steaks taste like.

Yes, we have "public welfare," but I know it's best not to figure on that, as the red tape and bureaucracy by the law and welfare will never let you get fat.

There's just too much worry about foreign people and not our own. Let's worry more about the poor folks right around home.

Anyone having any doubts about these people's troubles, go out and see and talk to them. Many live on mud farms.

Remember the one about the farm hand and his dog? What if it rains. Well they decided the dog could run under the house and the farm hand could get to it.

Harry Doesburg mentioned the convict worms and why they always headed in the direction of Stockbridge. Well, there is probably a very good reason. It takes more than high powered cars and picture taking to get those worms.

Personal Guilt

Your editorial, "The Guilt at Parris Island" was really wonderful, but you didn't go far enough!

I agree that congress and commander-in-chief are guilty, but are my hands "lily white," or are yours?

Who really passes laws, who puts teeth in laws, who sees they are carried out, isn't it the men we elect to office?

Somehow I (being a woman) could never quite forgive Adam, his reply to God, "my wife she!" Neither can I forgive the flimsy excuse, "the congress they!" or "our president, he!" when "on close examination I find "me" is really and truly the guilty one.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Otis attended a party at the Gleason hall in Wheatfield Saturday evening.

Did I vote against liquor and its interests? I sure did! But have I tried to stamp out the evil in my own neighborhood, or do I silently stand by and say nothing?

Can I face an accusing God in the day of judgment when He asks the question, "Where is thy brother?"

Will my fingers be red when the total count of traffic fatalities is listed and the question asked, "What did you do?"

Will my hands drip blood when the question is asked, "Where were you when these innocent boys and girls were criminally attacked, because someone had one drink too much (sometimes one drink is too much)?"

Will my broken heart have to plead for the safety of my small granddaughter in a world crazed by drink?

Oh, I know writing my thoughts may make a lot of enemies, but if they know the heart of a mother, she loves her child, but she doesn't love the things he does sometimes, so, too, do I love the Toms, Dicks and Harrys, who do get drunk but how I hate the "stuff" that robs them of body and soul.

Society (that's me and you) better stop kidding ourselves with the flimsy excuse, "my neighbor, he!" and start being honest, and say, "Oh! my God it's me!"

Weather Delays Beet Plantings

Recent rains have delayed almost all farming operations, so states M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

Farmers can be rightfully concerned over the delay in planting of the small grains and sugar beets. However, Agent Avery cautions sugar beet growers not to arrive at a faulty conclusion that it is getting too late to plant sugar beets.

"It is true enough," he stated, "that in comparison with last year, when 79% of the crop was planted by May 11, we are much behind schedule."

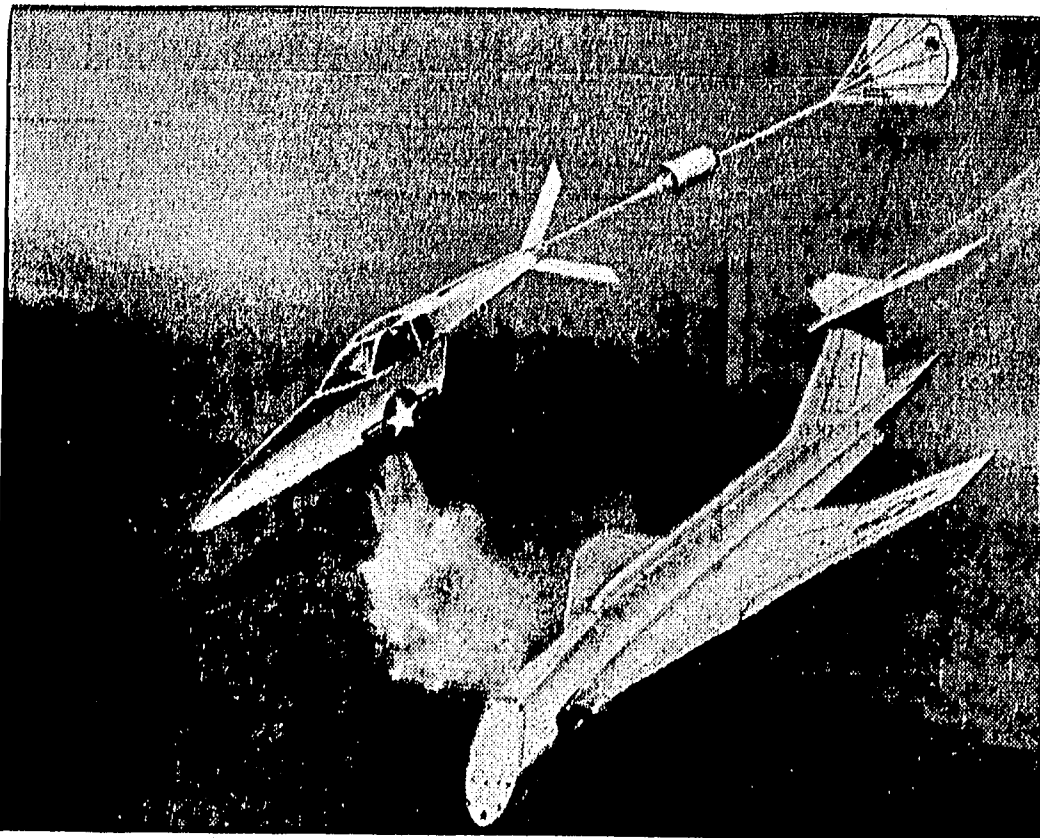

However, he stressed last year was an exceptionally early spring. In terms of both a long time average of 14 years from 1942-1955 and the 5-year average from 1951-1955, less than 40% of the sugar beet crop was planted at the comparable period in the past.

To date, 21,575 acres of the sugar beet crop has been planted. Percentage-wise this is not far short of the long term average. It is almost twice as much as was planted in 1954 when only 15% of the crop was planted at this time, and considerably ahead of 1953 when only 17% had been planted.

"Improved planting equipment permits growers to plant more beets in a shorter space of time than ever before," Avery said.

LIFE RAFT FOR NEAR-SPACE VOYAGERS—Pilot of this near-space craft watches body of his ship begin the long, incinerating fall toward earth as he drifts free in the control portion of the vehicle. Drag of the parachute will become effective as the almost nonexistent atmosphere thickens on the long fall toward earth. It will slow him sufficiently to allow him to survive re-entry into the sea of air which is our atmosphere. Main fuselage of the craft will flame across the sky as friction at supersonic speed destroys it. The sketch, above, is one artist's conception of how man will return to earth after first reaching into space toward the stars. This possible solution was offered by A. M. Mayo, Douglas Aircraft engineer, in an address made before the Aero Medical Assn. at Chicago, Ill.

Postman Finds Negative Mail

That mail box in front of Ware's drug store is for letters, not negatives to be enlarged. Mason postmen had a hard time sorting the mail Thursday morning. They didn't know where to send the plain envelope containing negatives taken of a year-old baby. The negatives were dropped in the chute sometime after 1:30 Wednesday afternoon. They're still at the postoffice and can be picked up without postage due, according to Postmaster Leslie Palmer.

Parochials Move Nearer Circuit

Lansing Resurrection and St. Mary high schools are a step nearer joining the Capital Circuit. Mason, Holt, Everett and Howell extended the official invitation. Lansing parochial school authorities gave their consent.

Official notice is being sent out to the league in which the 2 Lansing schools participated. It is made up of parochial schools in Jackson, Kalamazoo and Battle Creek. There also remains official sanction from diocesan officials before St. Mary and Resurrection can join the Capital Circuit.

Fanson Will Run In State Meet

Two Mason athletes won medals at the regional state track meet at Howell Saturday.

Dick Fanson finished second in his section of the 40-yard dash. Besides winning the medal he qualifies to compete in the state track and field meet which will be held Saturday at Michigan State college.

Harry Hallenbeck was the other Mason medal winner. He tied for fourth in the high jump with a leap of 5 ft. 4 inches.

In Class B Mason finished 11th in a field of 15. First place in team standings went to Milford.

Leslie Crushes Dansville Hopes

Leslie crushed Dansville's title hopes Monday with a 4-3 victory over the Aggies.

The game started with Dansville jumping off to a 2-run lead in the first inning. With one man out Kaye Douglas reached first on an error and moved on to second on another error. Dick Brooks reached second on a 2-base error. John Wireman then scored the runners with a smash down third base line.

In the Leslie half of the first the score by collecting 2 runs on a single, double and 2 errors.

In the second Leslie pushed in front when 2 singles and an error allowed one run to cross the plate. Dansville rallied in the third inning to again tie the score when Kaye Douglas beat out an infield hit and took second on the overthrow. Douglas moved to third on Brooks' ground ball. When Wireman ground out Douglas crossed the plate.

That ended the scoring until the seventh inning when Leslie scored the game-winning run on an error, wild pitch, walk and a hit.

Don Brown went all the way on the mound for Dansville, giving up 5 hits. DeBruiler pitched for Leslie and allowed only 3 hits. Brown struck out 12 and 16 Aggies struck out.

Wilderness Calls Kean.

Gus Kean of Mason heard and heeded the call of the wild Wednesday. He joined Jackson and Adrian friends in a fishing expedition to the Far North. They headed for Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, where they boarded a Canadian Pacific ship Thursday noon, bound for Port Arthur.

From there they will drive west 250 miles to Vermillion Bay and thence north to the end of the trail at Red Lake. There they will board planes to reach lake country on the Manitoba border.

Aggies Finish Season By Beating Fowlerville

Dansville defeated Fowlerville Wednesday afternoon on the Aggie field 6-0 to close its Ingham County League season for 1956. The Aggies posted a 5-1 record for second place in the standings.

The 1956 record proved the Aggies to be a good team when playing at home. Over a span of 3 years the Aggies have lost but one ball game in the local diamond, that being to Stockbridge in 1954.

Don Brown, the veteran Aggie pitcher came up with a lame arm and sophomore Dick Hedglen started on the mound for Dansville. Glen Wireman came on in the fourth and together they easily handled Fowlerville.

Fowlerville threatened to score in each of the first 5 innings but either the pitching or the defense was up to the occasion to keep the runners from crossing the plate.

The most serious Fowlerville threat occurred in the third inning. With one away Don Hale drew a base on balls and stole second base. Frank Davis then singled to deep center. Hale attempted to score from second and was cut down on a perfect peg to the plate from Dick Brooks to Keith Douglas, Davis going to second. Oliver grounded out. Wireman to Soule to end that threat.

Dansville scored its first run in its half of the first inning. Keith Douglas led off and drew a walk.

In the third Dansville sewed up the ball game with 3 more runs. Wireman opened with a single to left and Brown drew a walk. Soule then lashed a long double to center scoring both base runners. Soule took third on the throw. Jim Brosin singled to left driving in Soule.

Dansville picked up its fifth run in the fourth when Brooks beat out an infield single down the left base line and stole second. Wireman flied out to center. With Brown at bat Brooks advanced to third on a passed ball. Brown then drew a walk. Brown was picked off at first and in the run down, Brooks streaked into the plate before Brown could be tagged out.

The final Aggie run was scored in the fifth. Jim Cook and Dick Johnson drew successive walks after one was out. Jerry Wing was safe on a fielder's choice as his tap to short forced Cook. Keith Douglas fanned on a low pitch that got by the catcher enabling Keith to reach first safely to load the bases. Kaye Douglas singled to short left scoring Johnson. Brooks flied with the bases loaded as he flied out to left to end the inning.

Frank Davis was the big gun for Fowlerville. He got 2 of the 3 Fowlerville hits, one being a long triple in the first. He also played a good game at short halting several Dansville threats.

In the first Terry Hodges singled, Jim Yarger grounded to force Hodges then Bruce Bernard singled and Jim Beardsley doubled to score Yarger and Bernard.

Mason came through with 3 runs in the first inning when Dart Stone singled, Lumianski walked, Doug Hillon reached base on a fielder's choice and Gary Caltrider singled to score Stone and Lumianski. Three straight walks pushed across the third run.

Mason scored its other runs in the third inning on 2 singles, a hit batter and an error.

Caltrider, Tom Clipper, Stone and Dick Wheeler all came through with 2 hits each.

After the first inning Lumianski settled down and struck out 12 Vikings. He gave up only 2 walks. Lumianski received help from his mates with some tight defensive play. Mason committed one error while Everett booted 4 balls.

Kiwanians See Safari Slides

Mason Kiwanians heard Dr. Heustis Maine of Jackson Tuesday night and saw the slides taken on his African safari last year. The pictures showed big game hunting. The meeting was at Mason Golf course, where the club will have its meetings during summer months.

Douglas led off and drew a walk. Kaye Douglas followed with an infield single to third, Keith stopping at second. Dick Brooks attempted to sacrifice both runners along but was safe on a fielder's choice when Keith Douglas was cut down at third. Glen Wireman singled over second loading the sacks. Don Brown sent a hard drive that was deflected by Hale at third and trapped by Davis at short. He stepped on third to get Brooks and Brown reached first safely. Kaye Douglas scored on the play. Larry Soule then popped to Dye at first to end that rally.

Dansville had the bases full in the second but couldn't score when Kaye Douglas fanned and Dick Brooks popped up to the catcher.

In the third Dansville sewed up the ball game with 3 more runs. Wireman opened with a single to left and Brown drew a walk. Soule then lashed a long double to center scoring both base runners. Soule took third on the throw. Jim Brosin singled to left driving in Soule.

Not pictured in the artist's drawing of Wayne's main campus is the College of Medicine campus of 16 acres located at the edge of downtown Detroit. Effective July 1, the University will be known as Wayne State University. Wayne with its ten schools and colleges is the 13th largest institution of higher education in the country. It was the largest municipally-owned university outside the city of New York. Wayne's beginning dates back to 1868.

Her husband returned home at that time and crawled into the ditch with his wife and daughter. Mrs. Carson, in protecting her baby from flying debris, sustained slight back injuries.

The Carson home and car were extensively damaged by the heavy winds and debris. The roof was blown off a house across the road and landed in the ditch near the Carson home.

Mrs. Carson is the former Elaine Swan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Swan of Route 1, Mason.

REFRIGERATOR PARTS will be made out of the plastic sheets coming out of these giant machines at Dart Manufacturing Co. in Mason. ### New Product Goes for Refrigerators

Dart Manufactures Extruded Plastic

Plastic parts in that next refrigerator may well have been made at Dart Manufacturing Co. in Mason.

The company, after 6 months of design and installation work, started manufacturing sheet plastic last week. The product is contracted for by several refrigerator manufacturers for vacuum forming into refrigerator parts.

The Dart company moved into the modern building on Hogsback road north of Mason 2 years ago. Until now, most of the production has gone into the manufacture of steel measuring tapes. Key-matic key-holders, small motor parts and armed services identification "dog" tags. But now the towering machinery necessary for transforming granulated plastic into smooth sheets is turning out the most important product.

The Dart company buys Styron granulated plastic from Dow Chemical Co. at Midland. It's fed through a hopper and blown into a dryer where, through an exacting heating system, it's extruded into a continuous sheet of plastic.

Right now, a transparent sheet of Styron is being laminated onto the base plastic to give the product a glass-smooth finish. However, experiments are being conducted at the Dart plant to polish the base material instead of applying the lamination.

Once the big machinery is started up, it is operated continuously until the particular order is completed. Most orders take several days of continuous running to complete and that means 24-hour shifts.

The web of plastic is automatically cut into specified lengths by an electric eye device. The sheets are piled, weighed and finally shipped by truck to manufacturers.

The plastic industry is becoming a basic one, commented William F. Dart of the company. He said that plastic is being put to more and more uses, because it can do many jobs better and cheaper than other materials.

Ritholz

police did not know the Pinkertons were in the hire of Ritholz. The Pinkertons were seized along with Ritholz by state police, but were released when they identified themselves.

Ritholz contended that it was his plan to turn his recordings of the payment to the 3 members of the state optometry board over to law officers. The prosecution claimed that if he had had any such intention he would have notified law officers during the years when he claimed he was paying money to Dr. Feller.

Wife Supports Dr. Feller

In a return to the stand Tuesday Dr. Feller declared he was on vacation and not in Chicago at a time that Dr. George Brill claimed he overheard Dr. Feller demand $15,000 from Ritholz. Dr. Brill said he overheard the conversation in the Ritholz apartment. Dr. Brill quoted Dr. Feller as saying to Ritholz, "I am not going to fool any more, Ben. I want $15,000 or I'll run you out of business."

Dr. Feller's wife and his office receptionist both testified that Dr. Feller was on vacation with his family at the time when Dr. Brill claimed he overheard the conversation. Dr. Brill was also a character witness for Ritholz.

The defense contended that on several occasions Dr. Feller demanded money from Ritholz. Dr. Feller claimed some of the payments were for expenses, that he received the money for advising Ritholz about contact lenses.

Ritholz produced employees who testified that Dr. Feller was never in the contact lens laboratory of Ritholz, as he had claimed.

Lawyers' Views Differ

Irving R. Beattie, an assistant attorney general, and Prosecutor Charles E. Chamberlain characterized Ritholz as a shrewd, wily operator who had his hand in 25 or 30 mail order spectacle firms in the past 30 years and who at one time operated a mail order false teeth business.

James E. Haggerty, Detroit, and Victor C. Anderson, Lansing, defended Ritholz. They pointed out that he had never previously been arrested for any crime. Character witnesses included a former Cook county (Illinois) circuit judge, an executive of the Chicago Transil company, Chicago lawyers, a Chicago surgeon, and business executives. They declared Ritholz has a good reputation in Chicago.

Lawyers Advised Ritholz

Ritholz testified that he sought legal advice and acted on it to protect his own interests in Michigan and to clean up extortion. Detroit and Nashville, Tenn., lawyers both said Ritholz consulted them. It was the contention of the prosecution that Ritholz did not lay the facts before his lawyers.

In arguments to the jury the prosecution asserted they held no brief for Dr. Feller. Chamberlain and Beattie declared that Ritholz would have found law officers anxious to aid him if they had been notified that he was being victimized by extortion.

Intent Was Debated

During the long trial there were frequent arguments between counsel over the employment of extortion as a defense for bribery. The court ruled that testimony on the alleged extortion could be placed before the jury as touching upon the credibility of Dr. Feller. In his charge the judge said the testimony could also be used to establish intent.

All of the defense testimony on extortion was introduced against Dr. Feller. There was no contention that other members of the optometry board tried to extort money. The defense contention was that Drs. Howe and Brigg were used by state police to entrap Ritholz.

Chamberlain in his argument to the jury called the payments by Ritholz "calculated, premeditated bribes," declaring that Ritholz would not continually have made trips to Detroit and Lansing to have money extorted from him.

Anderson, arguing for the defense, likened the case to a Dragnet plot, with Ritholz hiring his own detectives because he feared the state police were on the other side. Anderson labeled as fantastic the actions of Ritholz in having a recording made of the August 8 transactions in the Hotel Olds if he intended the payments to be a bribe.

Two Leave Jury Box
Ten women and 4 men sat in the jury box listening to the testimony. Ten women and 2 men

Retired Farmer Dies in Sleep

Ernest B. Upton, 77, died in his sleep Sunday morning. He was at the home of his son Lester, on East Ash. Saturday afternoon he was in the business section. He returned home, had supper and retired at the usual hour. At 12:30 he arose and had a drink of water. At 8 o'clock Sunday morning a grandson, Robert Upton, 12, went to the bedroom to awaken his grandfather. The grandfather was dead. Doctors estimated that he had died about 5 o'clock.

Mr. Upton was born on a farm in Wheatfield April 22, 1879, on Meridian road. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis Upton. He spent most of his life on farms. He and his wife came to Mason 11 years ago to make their home with the son Lester.

Surviving beside the widow Effie May and the son Lester is another son Leonard, who lives in Meridian. Gordon Upton preceded his father in death. There are 8 grandchildren.

Funeral services were at Jewett chapel Tuesday with burial in Leek cemetery. Rev. Raymond L. Norton of Mason Methodist church officiated. Floyd, Raymond and Norman Rector, Norman Linn and Harry and Charles Showman were pallbearers.

Storm Water Fills Basement

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frye had 5 feet of storm water in their basement about midnight Saturday. The Frye home is on Columbia near Lawton street.

"We were playing cards with Fred's brother Charles of Bancroft and his wife when we heard an explosion and gushing water," Mrs. Frye said. "We ran to the basement stairs, but the water was already several feet deep."

There is a large window in the basement of the Frye home. The bottom of the window is below the ground level. The land behind the Frye home slopes toward the house. As the rains continued Saturday, the water pressure built up against the window and finally broke into the basement.

The furnace may be ruined. A lot of furniture, equipment and canned goods were lost. There was no insurance on the loss. There were a lot of other flooded basements along Lawton street, Hall boulevard and Roosevelt street. Even Councilman Bernard Cady on the west side of town had a taste of the flood waters. It seeped into his basement about a foot deep and had to be pumped out.

Patching up thin stand alfalfa fields by sowing timothy is a good practice, say M. S. U. farm crops specialists.

Lassies Bring Cheer to Lindy

Lassies of the Salvation Army's League of Mercy regularly visit children's wards in hospitals to cheer and comfort young patients like Lindy of St. Louis. Knowing that loneliness is a disease no medicine can cure, the Lassies also visit hospitalized veterans, patients in city hospitals and residents of homes for the aged. Last year they brought comfort to over 2 million hospital patients and aging men and women.

During Salvation Army Week, May 27-29, Americans will learn more about the never-ending work of The Salvation Army. This international religious and charitable organization had a humble beginning in this country 76 years ago with only eight people. Now, with over 5,000 officers and nearly 250,000 members, it operates 1,800 work centers and 5,000 smaller service units. Each year The Army helps millions of Americans who are troubled, needy and lonely by providing food, clothing and shelter, finding jobs, locating missing persons, helping to solve family problems and in countless other ways.

JANET

Janet: You know Zim, I think the paint troller has done more to beautify the American home in the last generation than any other one thing!

Zim: Yes, it's like a minor revolution, this "Do-it-yourself" business.

Janet: And the paint is so much easier to apply. It's almost fun!

Zim: Well one thing about it, when a woman wants to change the color of her kitchen—she doesn't have to ask the old man, she just gets a can of paint and cleans out the roller and away she goes.

Janet: Well, I wouldn't say it was quite that simple. Women don't go out and buy a can of paint, they buy a can of color. It's the color that's important to women!

Zim: Yes, but it had better go on easy or somebody hears about it!

Janet: It's a satisfaction to know that our Colorizer Paints are the easiest to apply of any we have ever carried.

Zim: I'd even be willing to give a demonstration to prove it.

Janet: You'd better be sure you mean that.

Zim and Janet together: This is the week to make the paint fly folks. May we help you?

Leslie Council Accepts Bids on Sewerage Bonds

At its meeting Wednesday night the Leslie village council accepted a bid for sewerage bonds.

The bid of Halsey Stuart & Co., Inc., Detroit, was low and was accepted. Under the contract the bonds due from 1958 to 1969 will carry 3 1/2% interest, and bonds with retirement dates from 1970 to 1986 will carry 3 1/2%. That averages out at 3.464.

For the $208,000 issue of bonds, Leslie will have to pay $190,058 in interest through 1986. McDonald Moore of Detroit was second low. Under his proposal the village would have paid a basic 3 1/2%, an average 3.7461. The cost in interest would have been $205,545.

The council voted to buy a sewer and pipe cleaner from the O'Brien company at $1,457.

The resignation of George Kitz as water commissioner was accepted. Councilmen expressed regrets.

Baldwin Urges Congress to Halt Futures Trading

Veril Baldwin, onion farmer in Jackson and Ingham counties, president of the National Onion Association, and Jack Selby, of Benton Harbor, secretary of the National Onion Association, arrived in Washington, D. C., to testify Wednesday on a bill to prohibit future trading in onions. Baldwin officially represented 111 organized groups of onion and other produce growers and sellers from all over the United States, in addition to the National Onion Association.

There were representatives of other groups from New York state, Texas, Idaho, Oregon and Illinois testifying officially. A bus load of farmers from Elba, New York, attended in a body. All were for the bills and against future trading in onions.

Michigan Representative Clare Hoffman and Senator Charles Potter will testify in favor of the legislation. Also booked in favor of the bills are congressmen from New York, Texas, Idaho, Oregon and other interest states, says Baldwin.

Hearings will continue Thursday and Friday when representatives of the various exchanges and boards of trade will be heard. Baldwin states that excessive rain in the last two weeks has caused considerable damage to onion prospects in Michigan, New York State and Wisconsin. Other onion-growing states seem to be normal for production prospects for this date, he says.

Democrats Start Drive for Funds

A pay-as-you-go money-raising drive to finance the 1956 elections has been launched by the Ingham County Democratic committee. Democratic contributors will be able to pledge donations to the joint state-local finance campaign and make payments on a monthly basis between May and December.

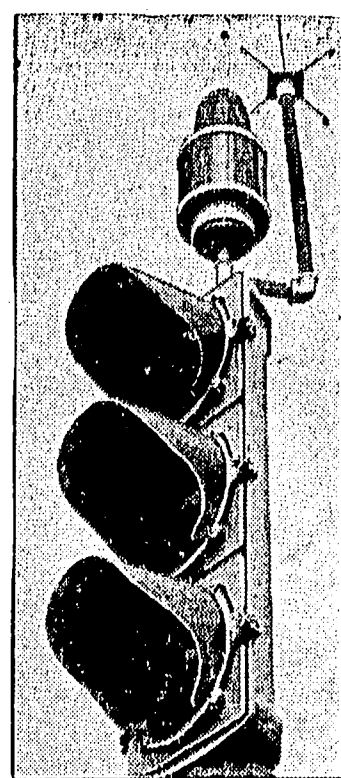

The drive is the first joint venture by the county organization. The combined policy was adopted at the February county committee meeting and will mean that the county committee will share the collections with the state and national organization on a 50-50 basis.

Thomas C. Walsh and Charles E. Hayes, co-chairmen of the drive, said the committee is seeking donations on a monthly basis. "We know that Democrats can't shell out large amounts of cash in a one-shot effort nor make contributions 3 and 4 times to different levels of the party," they said. "That is why this new one-in-all plan was created."

Headquarters for the drive will be at 337 Hollister building in Lansing where pledges and contributions will be taken. Simultaneously, solicitors will contact as many Democrats as possible in the next 3 weeks to obtain pledges.

Mrs. Deuel Gets Free Subscription

Mrs. James Deuel has a free subscription to the Ingham County News coming to her. This week she turned in the past 156 issues of the newspaper. She saves each one and re-reads them when she finds time.

She makes other arrangements for wrapping garbage, covering freshly-mopped floors and lighting fires. While there wasn't any contest as an incentive to Mrs. Deuel, the free subscription seemed like a good reward.

From now on, other subscribers, by saving 156 issues, can get a free subscription, too.

Villages Await Visiting Mayors

Mayor William Merton of Harrison will trade places with Wendell Barber, Stockbridge village president, Monday during mayor exchange day. William Douglas, president of Muir, near Ionia, will trade with Dan Jennings, president of Dansville. The 2 exchanges are part of the Michigan week program.

A public dinner at 7 in the Legion building will be the big event at Stockbridge. The Harrison visitors will meet with the Stockbridge welcoming committee for dinner at noon and will tour the village and farm areas and school in the afternoon. Paul Stevens, committee member, is ticket chairman for the dinner.

Dansville residents will welcome President and Mrs. Douglas and party at 1:30. The group will tour Dansville including the school and nearby farms and attend a dinner in Mason at night. A tea may be planned for Dansville women and visiting women in the afternoon. A. O. Greenough, welcoming committee member, said.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Curtains make a place look like home.
First discord is the hardest.
Unused thoughts are discovered.

Housecleaning! And I was the gal who wasn't ever going to use that word. Just keep house so that that big frenzy of tearing things apart each spring and fall wasn't necessary. How I did hate those big upheavals that meant "cleaning house" and nothing according to normal. It wasn't one bit like home with the curtains all down and rugs rolled up and the smell of fresh wallpaper and paint everywhere.

Well, here I am 30 years later putting a husband and 3 children through the same experience. I wonder if Susy and Sally will come home from school tonight wishing they could wave a magic wand like I used to. Probably not because I will have the curtains back at the windows, thanks to that miracle fabric, fiberglass. And no ironing. . . how, wonderful.

To me it's curtains that make it look like home. With none at the windows it looks bare and un-lived-in. Though the kind that shut out the light and view can be too much of a good thing. Along with cleaning house goes ridding it of the accumulation that you thought valuable. . . at least worth saving. Out of drawers and closets come all sorts of things. In a lot of cases you just shut your eyes and give it a heave into the wastebasket. (And wish next week that you had it back?) It's the first thing that you throw away that is hardest. After that it's easy. Every year I say that I am going to quit saving things.

Before throwing away a big jotting-down pad in a kitchen drawer near the sink (where most of my ideas hatch) I'd like to extract a few items. They have become outdated and many were unsuitable in the first place. Probably I never intended some of those thoughts to appear in print. I wonder???

But how could I have missed telling you about Clinton County's 4-H camp near Maple Rapids. . . and staying in a tiny tent with Sally and Martha Oberlin? And the ceremonies, programs and meals for over 100 just summer. The kitchen was so hot and the cooking dishes that Roscoe Smith used so huge and delicious. A bird concert each morning at 4 like nothing ever heard before. I jotted it down for a whole column in itself and here it appears months later just one paragraph. Must have been one of those whirlwind weeks when I was lucky to get a column sent in at all. . . probably even stood up typing what was sent in.

Then going to Silver Lake and the sand dunes with the Burton Tabors last summer. It was a wonderful time for all of us. We still talk about what a good time we had and things we saw or did keep popping up. How could I have missed telling about that? We are certain we heard a rattlesnake and Esther, the children and I ran in big leaping jumps over the burning sand to get far away from it. Burton and Pete pool-pooled the idea as they were off to one side. If we hadn't been so scared and so many miles away by the time the men caught up with us we'd have gone back and dragged the varmint out with our bare hands to prove, for once, that we weren't imagining things. Are all husbands like that?

And during one of those blistering weeks Mary Helen McDaid came over on a Friday afternoon looking as cool as a cucumber with her 5 little like-peas-in-one-pod look-alike youngsters. She had made over 100 loaves of bread besides 40 pies and many other baked goods already that week. We had had such a good visit and Sammy enjoyed playing with her youngsters. How come I never got that in?

And little Henry. He is George and Virginia's baby who arrived to surprise and delight everybody. Nothing, just nothing, rivals the joy that older children receive from a new baby in a family. Henry is such a nice, big, fat, good-natured baby. He is a big baby already and has been in my notes many times.

Well, down comes that big fat pad of notes and up goes a new one. I'm sorry so many things were left out. The weeks zip by so fast and always full of something new and different. How can anyone say, "Nothing ever happens around here?" Boy, oh, boy! Some weeks it reminds me of a 3-ring circus!

I just got to beat that cuckoo clock and get into bed before he cuckoos again. Each time he crows I can hear Pete turn over in bed. Yes, I did start this early this morning but this is several hours and interruptions later. As I said, "Life is never dull around here."

Red Cross Unit Helps at Flint

Although Saturday night's big storm, like previous ones this year, spared Ingham, the Ingham Red Cross chapter lent aid. Most of the aid Saturday went to Flint. It included an emergency shipment of 51 pints of blood.

Disaster unit volunteers were alerted Friday evening and remained on call all during the period of tornado and flood warnings, said W. C. Wilkinson, manager. On Saturday night Jerry H. Kies, executive officer of the disaster committee, went to the endangered area south of Kalamazoo to assist in contemplated evacuation about midnight, but city pumps handled the threatened flood waters and made further clearing of the district unnecessary.

Firm May Build Delhi Mausoleum

John Hill Builders, Inc. of East Lansing will begin this week taking subscriptions to construct a 64-space mausoleum in Maple Ridge cemetery in Delhi township. The above-ground-burial facilities will be built when enough families or individuals contract for space, Hill said. No money will be paid until construction actually begins, he added.

Hill pointed out that while mausoleums are rather new in Michigan, they are common in many places of the United States and Europe, and above-ground burial is one of the oldest forms of burial known.

Ted Galka of Holt is the local representative for the company. If built, the structure will be of stone and concrete with a central reception room. There will be 32 burial spaces on each side and they will be 4 tiers high.

Dairy Farmers Will Get More For April Milk

Dairy farmers supplying the Detroit market will receive $4.61 a hundred pounds, f. o. b., Detroit, for base milk shipped in April, according to figures provided by the Michigan Milk Producers' association. This base price is 54c higher than in April last year and 46c over the amount received last month.

Under provisions of the federal marketing order, the base price would have amounted to $4.24. The additional 37c results from the $5 per hundredweight price for Class I milk obtained by the M. M. P. A. in negotiating with the dairies April 1. Under the federal order, the price would have been $4.48 for Class I milk. The price for excess milk in April was $3.20 per cwt compared with $3.05 last year.

The increased difference between Class I and base prices is brought about by greater production of base milk, Glen Lake, president of MMPA said. Only 76.5% of the entire supply of base milk was needed to meet the Class I demand, he explained. This indicated that farmers have increased their production of base milk considerably faster than fluid milk sales have gone up. Ten years ago 93% of the base milk was utilized in Class I in the Detroit market, he added.

Poultry Co-Op Directors Discuss Trends of Market

Meeting in Mason Monday night, directors of Central Michigan Poultry Co-op discussed market trends on poultry and eggs.

The grading station at Judson is now paying 38c per dozen for large No. 1 eggs with a 2c premium on white eggs, plus a 1c premium for producers of 90 dozen per week and a 2c premium on 180 dozen per week.

John Chilson reported on the poultry marketing co-op at Hemlock. He said it now processes chickens, ducks and turkeys the year around. Plans are afoot to buy fliers in Georgia to supply the co-op market until enough local birds are available. The co-op is paying a half-cent more per pound for Michigan fryers than for Georgia fryers.

Henry Larzelere, economist at Michigan State, said that 10% fewer chicks are being hatched this spring for fall laying.

Robert Dowdy, Onondaga

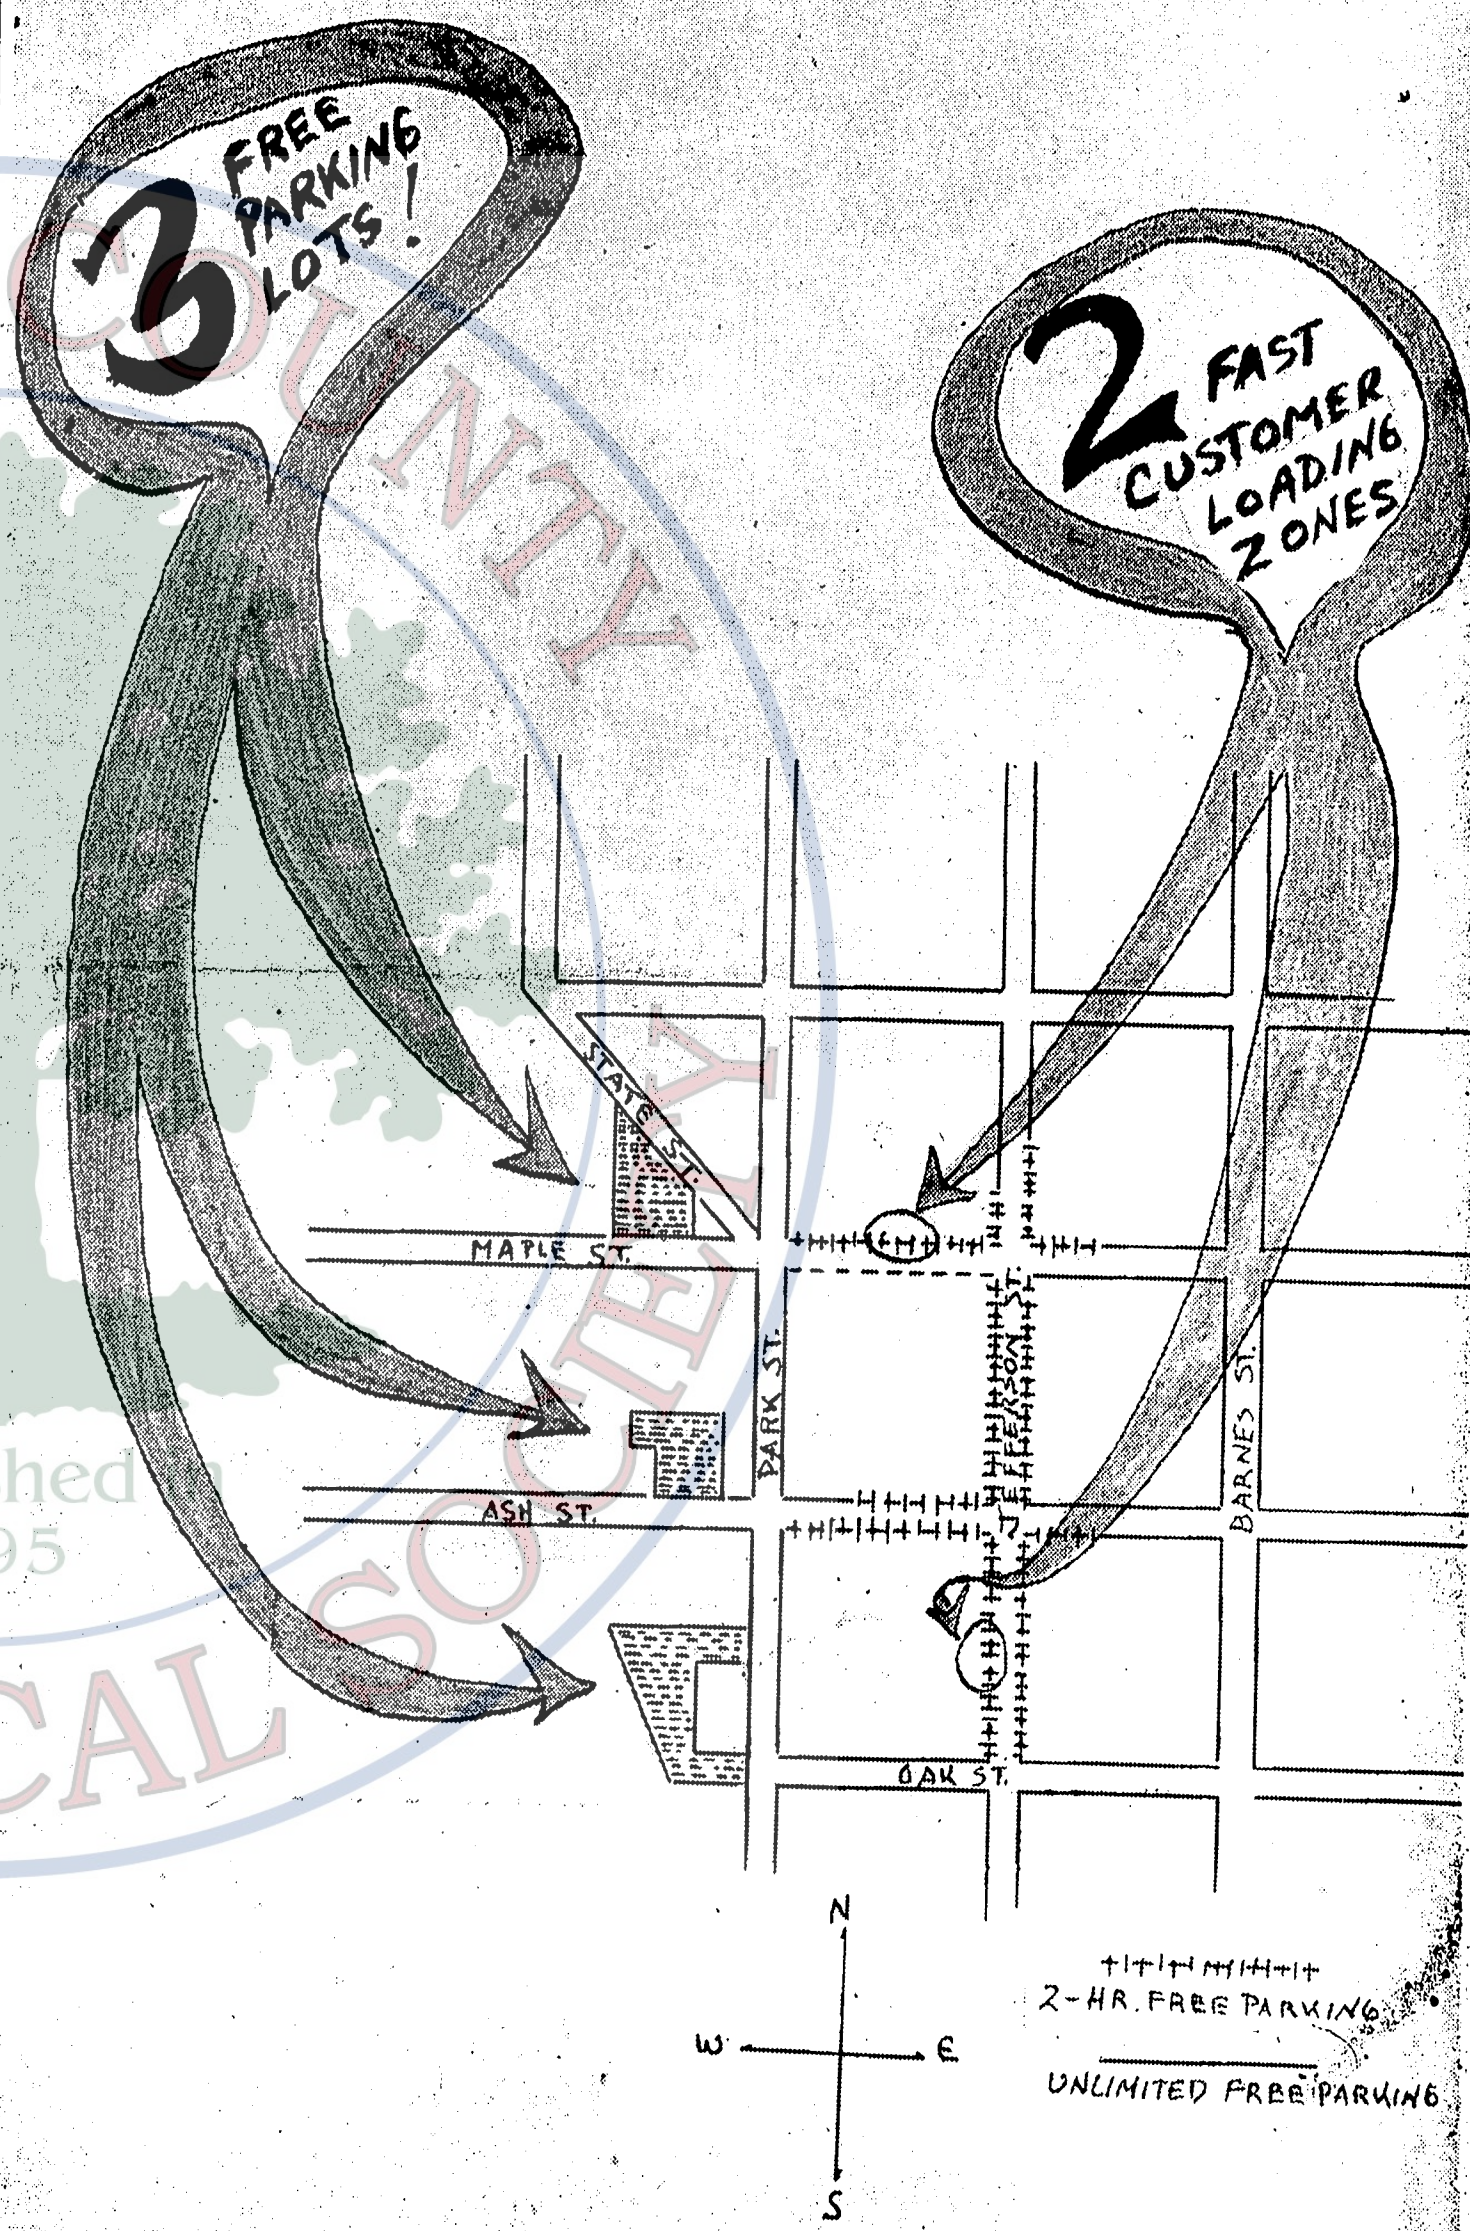

trucker for the co-op, now picks up eggs Mondays and Wednesdays, and hauls them to the co-op plant at Judson. The truck has been equipped with a new insulated body.

For the November meeting, scheduled for either the Vevay or the Ingham town hall, Warren Mueller and M. H. Avery will have charge of the program. It was decided to have an evening meeting with dinner. Hans Borgard will discuss marketing trends at Hemlock.

Officers and directors of the association are: Fred Ruthig, Leslie, president; Arthur Deyo, Mason, vice-president; Mrs. August Balzer, Onondaga, secretary-treasurer; and John Chilson and Warren Mueller, Mason; Austin Cavanaugh and Arthur Fogg, Leslie; Walter Kyes, Bath; and Harold McVay, Stockbridge, directors. Chilson and McVay were named as a nominating committee.

Luxurious "Bridge" Across Lake Michigan

THE CLIPPER SAILS AGAIN — Photo shows the beautiful 361 foot S.S. Milwaukee Clipper in service this summer again between Milwaukee and Muskegon, Michigan. By taking this ship with their automobiles placed on board, motorists avoid having to drive all around the southern end of Lake Michigan, thus save driving 240 miles. That's why the popular Clipper is called "the bridge" across the lake. It connects Highway 16 on both sides. It is also popular for one-day cruise vacations for passengers without cars.

Milwaukee. — Through September 17, starting May 23, the S.S. Milwaukee Clipper, luxury lake liner, will again operate between Milwaukee and Muskegon, Michigan, this year, serving as a "bridge" on Lake Michigan between the two cities.

"The beautiful Clipper is called a 'bridge' because motorists who take it, arranging to have their cars aboard, avoid 240 miles of cross-country driving on traffic-packed highways.

As Frank J. Knohlauch, Vice President of the Clipper Line, has pointed out, the Clipper's route across Lake Michigan is really an extension of U.S. Highway 16 on both sides of the lake. By using it, from Milwaukee or from Muskegon, motorists avoid having to drive clear around the southern end of the lake — and at the same time enjoy one of the most pleasurable travel and vacation experiences in America.

The Clipper skims straight across the lake, 85 miles, and makes the voyage in 6 hours. Equipped with luxury conveniences of an ocean liner, offering dining, dancing to a name band, movies, a TV theater and a supervised playground for children, among other entertainment features, including just good relaxation, the Clipper accommodates 400 passengers and 15 automobiles. Comfortable bedrooms accommodate 2 and 3 persons. Individual berths are also available in the clubberth section.

In addition to its attraction for motorists interested in a short cut between Milwaukee and Muskegon, the Clipper is popular for the one-day cruise which it offers vacationists with their automobiles — people who just want a pleasurable lake cruise as an outing. Business groups have found it especially desirable for combining a business session with a pleasure cruise. It is also a special favorite for annual outings for school and club groups. The beautiful Clipper, registered under the U.S. flag and meeting rigid Coast Guard inspection, is 361 feet long, displaces 4,272 tons of water, sailing smoothly and steadily as an ocean liner — and is equipped with ship-to-shore telephones, radio direction finder, and radar. A comfortably appointed open air deck with lots of reclining chairs is a special attraction for relaxing in the sun and breezes or just strolling and enjoying the Lake Michigan scene. Below this deck is a dance floor with music by a name band playing afternoon and evening dances. There are organ interludes played on the electric Hammond and community sings.

The Clipper has a reputation for quality food at popular prices, whether full meals in its spacious main dining room, or snacks at its soda bar. Also for the courtesy of its crew under its experienced skipper, Capt. Clarence Van Dongen. One and a half round trips are made daily during the week between Milwaukee and Muskegon, with two complete round trip sailings on Sundays. Capt. Van Dongen said this week that most likely celebrities of one kind or another, of the stage or of the business world, will again be among passengers on most sailings, as the Clipper, though popular, also appeals to people who want and can afford the best in transportation. Complete information on Clipper service can be obtained and reservations also made at travel agencies, A.A.A. offices, or at local Clipper Line offices in various cities. In Milwaukee, the Clipper dock is at 601 East Erie Street, and in Muskegon at "the Mart."

Club Members To Earn Awards For 4-H Work

Over-all accomplishment in 4-H projects and activities will bring valuable awards to 441 club members all over the country through the 1956 National 4-H Achievement, boys' agriculture and girls' home economics award programs.

The achievement awards, which are among the highest honors given in 4-H, are presented for outstanding accomplishment in all 4-H projects and activities. Both boys and girls are honored in the program.

The incentives, provided by Ford Motor company, consist of 4 gold-filled medals for county winners, an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for the state winner, and $300 scholarships for 12 national winners.

Two special awards are also given in the achievement program. The outstanding boy and girl in the country receive chests of silver awarded by the president of the United States.

Winners in the boys' agricultural program will be honored by the International Harvester company. Medals are available for 4 winners in each county, and the state winner will be the company's guest at the Club Congress. At the congress, 6 of the state winners will be named as national champions, and will receive $300 scholarships. Accomplishment in all agricultural projects is the basis on which the winners are selected.

Award winners in the girls' home economics program are also selected for project accomplishment. Awards, provided by Montgomery Ward, are the same as in the boys' agricultural program.

All of the programs are conducted by the cooperative extension service and the awards coordinated by the national committee on boys and girls club work. Full information may be obtained from county extension offices.

TORNADO SAFETY RULES

TO KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN A WARNING IS RECEIVED, OR A TORNADO IS OBSERVED, MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH!!

I There is no universal protection against tornadoes except caves or underground excavations. When time permits, go to a tornado cellar, cave, or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure. It should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas, or debris; and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.

II If you are in open country:

1. Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.
2. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

III If in a city or town:

1. Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!
2. In homes: The southwest corner of the basement usually offers greatest safety, particularly in frame houses. People in houses without basements should find other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar, although a depression, such as a ditch or ravine, can offer some protection. If time permits, clear city and town lines should be shut off. Doors and windows on the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.
3. Standing against the inside wall on a lower floor of an office building offers some protection.

IV If in schools:

1. In city areas: If school building is of strongly reinforced construction, stay inside, away from windows, remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. AVOID AUDITORIUMS AND GYMNASIUMS with large, poorly-supported roofs!
2. In rural schools that do not have strongly reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.

V If in factories and industrial plants:

1. On receiving a tornado warning, a lookout should be posted to keep safety officials advised of the tornado's approach. Advance preparation should be made for shutting off electrical circuits and fuel lines if the tornado approaches the plant. Workers should be moved to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.

VI Keep calm! It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively few, a few places in a warned area are directly affected. You should know about tornadoes though, "just in case".

VII Keep tuned to your radio or television station for latest tornado advisory information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, as your individual request may tie up telephone lines unnecessarily to thousands in the critical area.

The COW BELL

Sponsored By Ingham Dairymen

The cow bell has almost vanished from today's farm scene. It's now most often heard at barn dances, "horning bees" and football games. Occasionally, one is seen hanging beside the front door of a home for use as a doorknob.

... But the cow bell is a symbol. In other days it served a useful purpose on every farm. The farmer of yesterday had no fenced-in meadows of brume and alfalfa with a trench side and hay rack nearby. At milking time the search for the cattle was on ... and into the brush went the farmer looking for his cows ... Yes, you guessed it, the old cow bell, swinging on tosy's neck, broadcasted a signal pattern that led the farmer in the right direction ... and he found his herd without needless wandering and searching.

... It is our goal to make this space a modern-day cow bell by offering to both dairymen and consumers factual information. We will answer questions and endeavor to inform readers of the activity and objectives of your representatives in the oldest and largest milk marketing cooperative in Michigan — the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

... We aim to assist our county sales committee representative in his responsibility for the free flow of information to and from Association members. We shall inform consumers of the economic position of dairy farmers and of the value of dairy products.

OUR GOAL . . .

1. To make this space a modern-day cow bell by offering to both dairymen and consumers factual information about the dairy industry.
2. To keep readers informed of the activity and objectives of farm-representatives in the oldest and largest milk marketing cooperative in Michigan — MMPA.
3. To assist the Ingham sales committee representative in his responsibility for the free flow of information to and from members.
4. To better inform consumers of the economic position of the dairy farmer.
5. To stress the value of dairy products.

Watch for announcement of county meeting. Bring the questions you want answered in this column

Mausoleum Will Be Built Near Holt

Company Offers Above-Ground Burial

Soon to be built at Maple Ridge Cemetery in Holt

Final arrangements have been completed with the Delhi township cemetery board for the construction of a Community Mausoleum in this area. The building will be as fine as money, art and science can build. The exterior walls will be of time defying Bedford stone; the inner walls of hardest reinforced concrete and the interior will be finished in stone and marble. All metal work will be of copper and bronze. Since the first mausoleum was built in 353 B. C., which still exists, for King Mausolus (from whence we get the word mausoleum) such improvement in building materials has been made, that a double walled structure such as this is almost indestructible. It is of such strength that after a few hundred years when present cemeteries are obscure and present grave markers are lost, leaning or fallen, this building will stand out little if any the worse for the time it has stood, as stone becomes harder with time.

PROGRESSIVENESS

A growing demand for the Community Mausoleum is shown by the fact that so many such structures have been and are being built. While this particular section of the country have a few at the present time, in many sections of the United States they are predominant. In the past the excessive cost has made this type of burial out of reach of the average man but now it is actually cheaper than the average ground burial.

OUR DUTY TO THE LIVING

Since the beginning of time it has been man's custom to reverence his dead and it becomes a comforting thought in any age to know that one has done all possible and has given his loved one the most suitable resting place which the present time has to offer. This building provides a place where families may lie side by side in snow white compartments, high and dry, above the ground where neither water, dampness nor cold can enter. Embalming has reached such a high state of perfection that if a body is kept dry it will retain its present condition for centuries to come. This was true in Egyptian burials because they buried where water and dampness was non-existent, however, water or moisture quickly nullifies all of this.

To make provisions for a final resting place, which will be secure, ready, and one which cannot be molested, is not only a duty owed to our dead but is evidence to the living of our desire for their well being both now and for always. To put off arrangements until the time arrives is no better business than omitting other business transactions until the last moment. In the case of death the grief is so great and decisions so numerous that many regrettable and unchangeable mistakes are made.

THERE IS A BETTER WAY

From time immemorial it has been customary in Europe for families to select a final resting place for their members in advance of actual needs. This sensible practice has now become the custom in America among thinking men and women.

Death is no respecter of person or persons, and sooner or later every family must face bereavement. The average death follows a period of heavy expenses, often accompanied by loss of income. The insurance that was intended for the care of the loved ones or the education of the children is depleted and the family left in debt.

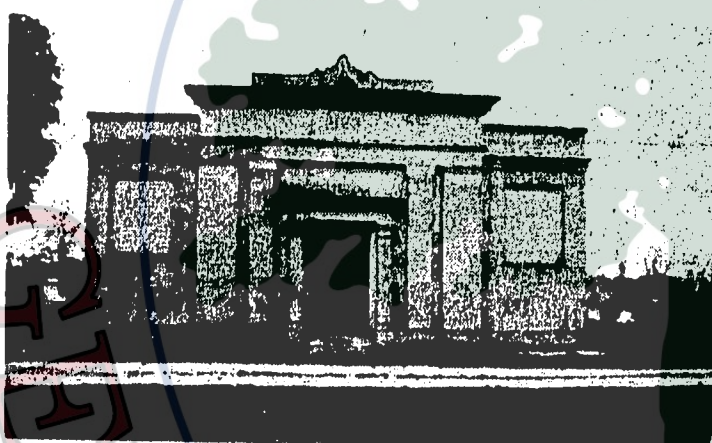

A final resting place must be selected within a limited time, regardless of finances, weather, mental anguish or personal inconvenience. Frequently the choice has necessarily been left to a disinterested outsider; and too often have such hasty arrangements been the cause of everlasting regrets. It is often true that these sad but absolutely necessary arrangements are hampered by lack of adequate funds or lack of time and mental poise for the exercise of one's best judgment. We consign the mortal remains to a shallow earthly grave over which we have scant control at present and probably none in the future. A drive through a cemetery which is no longer in use will show how quickly earthly burial is blotted out, the grave and stone obliterated.

Only when the mind is undisturbed by grief or financial uncertainty, can this important duty be disposed of calmly and intelligently. Every family deserves the protection which the ownership of Mausoleum space offers.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD SECURE SPACE

Because: The same business judgment demands it, that prompts you to save money, to carry life insurance and to make your will. Now in the calm of health you can consider and choose that which you think is best; an almost impossibility when a death occurs and the family's mind and judgment is racked with despair.

(Advertisement)

Because: Mausoleum entombment is a scientific and civilized, as well as a sentimental mode of caring for the dead. The only way to keep a body perfectly preserved after it has been embalmed is by keeping moisture and dampness away from it.

Because: At present the cost is no more and in most cases not as much as ground burial when a lot, monument, steel vault and other cemetery expenses are considered. The building is the monument, far surpassing in size and beauty any other form of monument or memorial. Owners have free use of the interior of the chapel for funeral services, thereby avoiding rain, cold and snow.

Because: This mode of entombment is both reasonable and scriptural. Our Lord was laid in a rock hewn crypt and early Christians followed this custom. The wealthier class of people have used this type of burial almost exclusively for many centuries and most of our national heroes have been buried in stone tombs or mausoleums. Some of which include Grant, Lincoln, Garfield, Washington and McKinley. Modern mausoleums now make this type of burial in reach of almost everyone.

Because: When you place the familiar form of any of your loved ones in this memorial, it will be a great comfort to know that they are at rest in a clean, dry, place free from the disagreeable features of ground burial.

Because: Preparation is wisdom's cure for worry—the only cure. Insuring the house does not prepare it to burn, but prepares us to live without worry as to the ever present possibility of it burning. Providing for mausoleum protection is not preparing to die, it is preparation to live without worry as to the ever present possibility of loved ones dying and being placed in damp cold graves.

Because: It is an investment. It cannot be damaged or destroyed and will be worth more in later years than it is now. Due to the fact that when a Community Mausoleum is built in a town this size, all space is contracted for before it is built; therefore space is limited to those who have bought, and cannot be used except by those, unless one of the owners desires to sell his or her interests.

THE INEVITABLE—FOR WHICH WE SHOULD PREPARE

If you desire to be prepared and assure yourself and family a permanent and clean resting place, you should inquire for particulars about the mausoleum to be erected in your city. The cost now is in most cases not as much as ground burial when all expenses are considered. Reservations should be made early because the amount of space is limited. In the event of death between the time of securing space and the completion of the Mausoleum, the expense of renting a receiving vault will be borne by the company. In the event anyone has relatives already buried in the ground and desires them space, arrangements can be made for the transfer.

WHERE WILL YOU PLACE YOUR LOVED ONES

You have the choice of only three modes of burial. Ground burial which means a cold, black, damp grave. Cremation in which fire blots out name, form and memory. Burial in a mausoleum with its dry snow white compartments of stone and marble. Which shall it be? Eventually you must decide.

This project is being financed and supervised by John Hill Builders Inc., 104 E. Grand River, Lansing, phone IV 4-0141. Any-one desiring information, photographs, etc., please contact either Mr. Hill or Ted Galika, 1462 Walnut, Holt, phone HO 4-2581, who is the local representative for the Community Mausoleum. There will be no obligation whatsoever on your part for a detailed explanation of this subject. It will be an asset to you, to the cemetery and to the community.

Guns Blaze in Action at Fox Theatre

This is the week of smoking guns at the Fox theatre. Teamed up on the Friday and Saturday double bill are "Red Sundown," a western, and "New York Confidential," a big city racket story.

"Red Sundown" stars Rory Calhoun, Martha Hyer and Dean Jagger. The story concerns Alec Longmire, a hot-tempered man who vows to stop living by the gun when one of his best friends is killed. Alec, played by Calhoun, is induced, however, to become a deputy sheriff and as such he has to unlimber his guns again. All this leads up to a climax which is one of the most suspenseful gun duels ever to reach the screen.

"New York Confidential" stars Broderick Crawford and Marilyn Maxwell. It is one of Crawford's usual rough and ready roles.

Italian Battle Is Background
An unusual and powerful war story, "The Bold and the Brave," in which the battlefield serves as the background to personal stories of 3 men, Wendell Corey,

Reformed gunfighter Rory Calhoun uses his fists to deal with villain Robert Middleton in this scene from "Red Sundown," Universal-International action drama in Technicolor, which co-stars Calhoun with Martha Hyer and Dean Jagger. It will play at the Fox Friday and Saturday.

Mickey Rooney and Don Taylor, will play at the Fox Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Laid against the Italian campaign of 1944, "The Bold and the Brave" depicts the action of a patrol unit preparatory to an advance by the main body of troops. In this particular front-line combat, the lives of Corey, Rooney and Taylor, 3 infantry enlisted men, are resolved.

Nicole Maurey is the Italian girl who has known many soldiers and with whom the straight-laced Taylor falls in love. Rooney is a GI who wins $30,000 in a crap game and has to take the money into action with him. Corey is an idealist who finds courage when he faces a German tank alone.

Lone Ranger Rides Again
"The Lone Ranger" makes his first appearance on the motion picture screen Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Fox Theatre.

The Lone Ranger, who has never been photographed without his mask, has portrayed the defender of law and order since the show's inception to TV in 1939. Jay Silverheels, who has been riding as Tonto on Scout since then, was considered one of Canada's outstanding professional athletes.

Completing the cast are Bonita Granville, who plays the wife of a cattle baron and Lyle Bettger and Robert Wilkie, veteran screen badmen.

Bulldogs Win On Wheeler's Clutch Pitching

Mason kept its perfect baseball record intact Monday over at Grand Lodge with a 4-1 win. The clutch pitching and hitting of Dick Wheeler saved the day for the Bulldogs.

In the first inning the first 2 Comets came to bat doubled and singled. Wheeler settled down and retired the side without allowing a score. For the rest of the game he gave up 3 scattered singles. Grand Lodge picked up its run in the sixth inning when Mike Miner reached first on an error, stole second and then came home on Jerry Waldrop's single. Mason scored one run in the second when Jerry Lumianski walked, stole second and then crossed the plate on Wheeler's single. In the fourth inning the same thing happened with Lumianski scoring on a single punched out by Bruce Horton.

That ended the scoring until the last inning when Horton reached first on an error and Dennis Doolittle walked. Duane Clark then blasted a triple to score the runners.

Clark led the Mason attack with a triple and single. Wheeler followed with 2 singles. Doug Hilton and Horton each hit safely once to give Mason a total of 6 hits.

Bob Lawther hit 2 singles out of the total of 5 the Comets collected.

In spite of the long layoff caused by the weather Wheeler showed his best control so far this year. He walked only one man. Six Comets were struck out victims of Wheeler's fast one.

Pine Sawflies Destroy Trees

The hatching of the eggs of the European Pine Sawfly is nearly completed in Ingham county, according to Elton Tworck, district farm forester.

These are the little black and shiny headed, greenish worms which eat the needles of the pines, he points out. Each cluster of worms will usually defoliate the branch on which it has hatched, leaving an unsightly tree. The larvae may be found on all species of pine but prefer Scotch, Mugo, Red and Jack pines, he added.

The larvae are more easily controlled while they are small and before much damage has been done, however, they are difficult to locate at this stage. Tworck tells how to spot these insects.

"Inspect your pines looking at the ends of the branches as this is where the eggs are usually placed," he said. "When very small, the larvae do not completely consume the needles but leave the mid-rib. The mid-rib dries up and curls slightly and looks like a piece of dried grass. This is a give-away sign and you will find the larvae close by. After there is more defoliation the bare limbs will indicate where they are feeding."

To control this insect, spray with DDT, 50% wettable powder, or lead arsenate at the rate of 3 lb per 100 gallons of water, Tworck said. For small quantities use 3 tablespoons to a gallon of water, he added.

Fire has made life possible in cities in northern climes, but it has destroyed some of them—including Rome, 64; London, 1666; Chicago, 1871; San Francisco, 1906; Tokyo, 1923; Coventry, 1941; and Hiroshima, 1945.

Showboat Lengthens Run

The meaningful emblem of Body by Fisher

When you see "sterling" on silver you know what it means—solid silver, all the way through.

And when you see the medallion "Body by Fisher" on an automobile it means much the same thing—quality all the way through, in things unseen as well as on the visible, gleaming surface.

The significance of this emblem cannot be tested on the showroom floor. Its meaning was not built up in a day but only after long years in which owners learned that "Body by Fisher" was a veritable symbol of solid, enduring satisfaction.

Only one who has owned a Chevrolet for several years can fully know the deep sense of satisfaction this emblem pledges. It is the warranty of an inner soundness that your eye or your touch cannot test. And only Chevrolet in the low-price field is entitled to wear the small, proud plaque that proclaims "Body by Fisher."

School Mergers

The letter last week on school annexation should cause people to think, I comment you for doing time and space to it. Mr. Underwood and Mr. Penzel are attired to a vote of thanks for the time they devoted to research and for their courage in signing their names to the communication. It takes courage for people to stand upon their convictions giving taxpayers truths that may be unpalatable and not too popular in some circles.

Some will say that the story is too late; that the water has already gone over the dam. Annexation is consolidation. If annexation and consolidation mean economy to taxpayers, as some say, then why don't we do away with all local government and put all power in the hands of a few?

Education is the largest unit of government, and the most costly part. It should be managed with economy, justice and in the interests of all. In the big letter last week the writers used such words as threat, fear, lavishness.

To them could be added discipline and morals.

When consolidation first came popular schools sent out salesmen missionaries to pick up rural schools here and there. Then there seemed to be plenty of facilities in the big schools. As consolidation grew, there came the cry for the consolidated districts to build. The new crop of consolidation crusaders told of vast savings to taxpayers, of the improved education offered children. When districts did not rise to the bait the consolidators began to spread fear and threats. Rural parents were told their children would be left by the roadside, denied high school education. The program got results.

Here in this area the people once voted the building program down. That was only a $300,000 or $400,000 deal. Then came another vote for $665,000. That passed. Now that education (all under one roof for economy) has a lot of roofs. There's a new school at Gregory, another at Munith with the cathedral in Stockbridge nearing completion.

This is not the annexation, this is not the consolidation, this is not the people to gain their consent. Taxpayers now know they are paying and will pay far more taxes than they ever paid in the past.

From these little school houses now being abandoned came great men and women, schooled in discipline, in economy, in frugality. School districts kept out of debt. Pupils learned discipline in school and at home. The moral side of life was emphasized. Parents took a close interest in their neighborhood school.

Farmers have many problems. They are at the mercy of the seasons and the machinery manufacturers and the tax collectors. As never before, they should be aware of schemes designed to raise their taxes. They should keep a watchful eye upon all government, most certainly school government.

The Farm Bill

The tortured treatment given the president's farm program by the Democratic party was for purely political purposes. And while the congressman from this district now confesses I have correctly reported how he voted against the president, he persists in trying to excuse and confuse. The very heart of this farm legislation controversy is the rigid versus flexible philosophies. The president and the farm organizations united in condemning the rigid support idea—pointing out that it is the root of our present day injustice to farmers. So long as it is in any program it will aggravate, not help solve the problem. That's why the Republican 83rd congress in which I served enacted the present flexible measure.

The Democrats thought it smart politics to ignore these truths and try to make farmers think this proven unworkable idea would bring them more immediate cash. Make no mistake, the present congressman has fallen in with his party's scheme. Let's examine the record on which there is now no dispute because of his grudging admissions.

When the bill came back from the senate the president warned it could not work because the rigidity of his bill would do what was intended. Despite this the Democrats including the one from this district, obeyed orders and voted to continue the drive to restore rigid supports. Count noses—read the Record—and you will discover that he and the rest of the Democrats went down the line to slap the president.

Then after the veto these Democrats repeated and again voted to restore the rigid support poison. The president exposed the dangerous delusion now advanced as an excuse, that combining this with the soft bank idea was a valid solution. No, these men who are trying to make an issue on which to defeat the president this November, were all acting in concert—and as the Democratic leaders demanded.

You may remember how the present congressman misrepresented and distorted my own voting record—and how he talked loudly about how he would go down the line for the president. Admitting this had been discarded, now he would have you believe that voting against the president several times on one bill—and contrary to the judgment of farm organizations—is something to be praised.

This week may witness another such incident for the bill now up is still a bad one. The solution of the farmers' price problem will not come from making a political football of the issue. Until justice is done the farmer, the president and other Republicans will not be content—but we will not indulge in trickery, nor will we try to make out that an idea that's proved wrong can contribute anything to the ultimate solution. This incident has certainly proved that Democratic promises to help a Republican president are easily broken when the heat is turned on.

World's most popular POWER STEERING?

Buick Roadmaster 6-Passenger 4-Door Riviera

Right this way!

EVERY YEAR, more and more of the new cars sold are equipped with Power Steering. Many a man has bought it "for the wife"—then wondered how he ever got along without it.

And if you have in mind a new car with this increasingly popular feature, you ought to consider this fact:

Since the beginning of last year, Buick has sold far more new cars equipped with Power Steering* than any other car—over 20,000 more in 1955 alone.

That's the record—and the reasons for it are just as impressive.

Buick brings you In-Line Safety Power Steering. In addition to the one-finger ease of turning common to all such systems in varying degree, it has several distinct advantages.

It gives you surer, steadier, safer control at highway speeds—because it retains that good natural "feel" of the road. (That's something you really should compare.)

On the other hand, it gives you more power assist when you need it most—at crawl speeds and at full stop. For parking and other tight maneuvering, Buick's Power Steering makes wheel turning nearly twice as easy as other types of systems. (And that's by engineering computation.)

Add another plus: this Buick feature works through the new Buick front end—where a unique new geometry and steering linkage bring a sweet new response and a wonderfully easy handling and a surer "sense of direction" even to new Buicks not equipped with the power system.

So there you are—and here we are, waiting to prove it all to you.

Waiting, also, to let you try the new thrills to be had in Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo—where getaway response and gas mileage both step up even before you switch the pitch.

And waiting to show you how the highest power yet, the sweetest ride yet and the boldest styling yet—all help to make this bright new beauty the Best Buick Yet.

Today is fine with us. How about you?

*Buick's In-Line Safety Power Steering is standard on Roadmaster and Super, optional at moderate extra cost on other Series.

†New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE CHURCH POINTS THE WAY

Thousands of columns have been published in American newspapers about Juvenile Delinquency. Investigations have been held in scores of cities, and many witnesses have been called in an effort to find the cause and the cure.

In all this sudden excitement little has been said about the lack of religion in the homes and hearts of these thousands of unfortunate youths. Far too much emphasis has been placed on inadequate play facilities, too little discipline, too few policemen, etc.

Juvenile Delinquency is primarily a moral and religious problem. Neither jail nor playground, as necessary as they are, will do much to foster love, goodwill, self-respect and charity in the heart of a person. The development of love and charity in the life of a youth needs constant day by day cultivation. But how can a parent properly train a child if that parent has had no religious or spiritual training or background and lives a selfish and faithless life? How can a parent teach a youth the fundamental spiritual values if that parent does not even attempt to live an exemplary life and does not admit his or her dependence upon God, our creator?

Down through the ages the Church has been the bulwark against crime, sin and evil. Those who would solve the problem of delinquency in young or old should seek the way of the Church, for those who need spiritual healing should seek spiritual treatment. The Church stands ready to help parent and youth alike.

No Cure Is Needed

The Michigan Education association and the Michigan Farm Bureau are out to cure something that in Michigan has not been sick.

The 2 groups are seeking signatures to petitions which would take from the people their present right to choose a state superintendent of public instruction.

Two things are wrong with the proposed constitutional amendment. It would further reduce the right of the people to have officers of their own choosing. It would set up an 8-member board of political cunctos to control state colleges. Education would thus be taken out of the hands of the people and given over to a little coterie responsible only to personal followings.

No state has a better school system than Michigan's. No state has had better men at the head of its system than has Michigan under the present law. Regardless of party affiliations, Michigan's state school chiefs have served the people honestly and capably.

Under the plan proposed by constitutional amendment the superintendent would no longer be responsible to the people. His job would depend solely upon pleasing 8 men and women. He would no longer be answerable to the people. He would hold office at the whim and pleasure of a coterie.

The Farm Bureau and Michigan Education association in their advertising campaign to gain signatures call Michigan's system archaic. They say that Michigan is one of only a few states which still permit the people to choose their state school chief. That's a poor argument for change. Here in Michigan the people have done a good job. They should retain their right of election.

The Farm Bureau should be the last organization to engage in a campaign to take school responsibilities away from the people. Farmers have complained about losing their right to elect a county school commissioner. They now face the threat of losing their right to elect a state school executive.

The Farm Bureau and the Michigan Education association are peddling cures for a healthy patient. They might better seek cures for those who are sick.

People who cherish their right of election and a system of responsive and responsible government ought not to circulate or sign the petitions. And if enough signatures are secured to place the proposal on the November ballot, they should oppose its adoption.

We've Done Some Nullifying Too

Here in the north many people have expressed shock and amazement because southerners are defying the supreme court on segregation.

We talk about nullification as though it were something new and strange to us. Actually, northerners have set a pattern of nullification.

The 18th amendment and the supreme court decisions which gave it teeth was nullified by New York state. The state government of New York refused to enforce the federal law. New York City officials and officials in many other big cities thumbed their noses at the constitutional amendment and the supreme court decisions which should have given it force.

Editors of many big city newspapers and national magazines fought the 18th amendment and did everything within their power to block enforcement. They heaped ridicule and opprobrium upon honest and conscientious public officials who tried to enforce it. They defied the constitution and the supreme court. Then the constitution was not regarded as sacred nor the supreme court as infallible.

Here in the north we want no segregation in schools. We want the southerners to do away with it. We ask them to give Negroes their constitutional rights and we ask them to accept the supreme court decision as to those rights. But we ought not to assume such a pious attitude about nullification. We showed southerners how it was done. They may change their attitude quicker if we change ours.

Trees Need Attention

When a tornado strikes, many sound and healthy trees are stripped of limbs or uprooted. Whether a tree is healthy or diseased then makes little difference. But in just ordinary storms and winds only the weakened and diseased trees cause damage, and those should have been spotted and removed long before the storm.

Several Mason streets are lined with giant maples. Most of them are strong and will bear up against any ordinary storm. Others are weak from disease or starvation or lack of care. They should be removed.

On Park street Saturday afternoon a big limb, split and cracked for months, fell to the ground amid a group of children at play. The limb missed the children. It smashed a car. It could have killed a child.

Trees lining paved streets do not ordinarily get enough water to keep them healthy. Many trees have been so butchered in the maintenance of telephone and power lines they can scarcely hold up what few limbs remain. They are misshapen and weak. They are dangerous in a storm. They are ugly to the sight. They should be removed.

There are many new residential developments where there are no trees at all.

One man, William Rayner, provided most of the big trees shading Mason streets. That was 80 years ago. Not much in the way of care has ever been given the trees. Some property owners have cared for their own. Utility companies have done trimming but primarily to cut tunnels through treetops for wires. For several years the city council had a few trees trimmed each year. But the trimming did not keep up with the need.

Trees give beauty and shade to Mason. They would give more beauty and more shade if they received more attention. Trees for replanting can be had from almost any farmer's woodlot. They can be planted by the city or by individuals. Planted now and given a little attention, they will lend beauty and give shade to Mason residents in 2035 just as the Rayner plantings of 80 years ago provide now.

There are many things the councilmen have in mind for the city. They are concerned with street improvements and extensions, with sewer systems, with fire and police protection. They ought to be concerned over trees, too, concerned enough to remove diseased, dying and dangerous trees, concerned enough to arrange for planting and replanting where needed.

Mason trees need attention. They need attention for their own health and for the safety of the people who dwell beneath them.

Storm Water in Sewers

Sanitary sewerage lines are designed to handle organic sewage. Engineers have made no provision, and rightly so, for the addition of storm water to the sewerage system. Yet storm water, by the thousands of gallons, is being dumped into the Mason sanitary sewerage system. The water comes from eavestroughs, ground area drains and basement tile. Over the years, and with city council knowledge, these storm water facilities have been hooked up with the sanitary sewerage system.

As a result, the situation has helped wear out the sewerage disposal plant. It also floods basements with raw sewerage.

Down by the SYCAMORE

The Ritholz trial, although unspectacular, has been about spectacles. That's a poor pun but about the best that would come while sitting there in the court room.

Benjamin Ritholz, on trial for bribery of public officers, operates an optical business, although he is not an oculist or an optometrist.

At the start of the trial even the judge admitted confusion over the different categories of those who deal with eye glasses. Inquiry among witnesses and consultation with the dictionary finally brought out the fact that an optometrist is one able to make a scientific examination of the eye to detect diseases or defects, to prescribe corrective lenses or exercises but not the use of drugs, and to supply the lenses. Those who practice optometry are permitted to perform 3 out of 4 ocular examinations, the remaining being performed by ophthalmologists and oculists who are physicians specializing in eye diseases and care.

An optician is one who makes or deals in optical glasses and instruments. An optician is a specialist in the science of optics. An oculist is a maker of artificial eyes. An optometrist is one who sees through rose-tinted glasses.

That double rainbow spanning the heavens Friday night was good for everybody's optic nerves.

Judge Philip H. Hadsell, presiding at the Ritholz trial, has pleasant memories of Mason. He and Fred Searl were classmates at law school in Ann Arbor. Both men are now circuit judges. Judge Hadsell was best man at the wedding of Fred Searl and Margaret Cady of Mason. That was June 28, 1922, and Judge Hadsell returned to Mason for the first time last week. Dr. William B. Hartzog performed the ceremony. Eugenia Dunsmore of Berkeley, California, was the bridesmaid. I intend to ask the judge what became of her.

How-to columns rate high in readership these days. Here are 3 how-tos: How to buy coffee at 64c per lb, how to make razor blades give 10 times the number of shaves and how to get rid of the bunch where shirts and shorts ball up in sticky weather.

Coffee is available at 64c for those who grind their own at stores providing that service. After grinding your pound of 80c coffee, pull back the slide and fill the sack with what other customers spilled. An ordinary pound sack will hold 1 1/4 lb when jogged down. That brings the price down to 64c and you'll like the blend.

You can get 10 or more shaves from every Gillette blade if you don't wipe the blade after using. Wipe the razor frame but not the blade. Cotton or linen toweling takes the edge off the blade.

To get rid of the bunch where shirts and shorts meet is easy. BVD suits are again available at Mason stores. They come a little higher than the $1 a suit of the old days but they are worth it.

A kindergarten girl shed her clothes and was about to plunge into the Sycamore by the city park bridge Friday when Mrs. Ralph Slisby glimpsed the scene. The water was deep and the current was swift. Mrs. Slisby shouted a warning. The girl picked up her clothes and fled, stopping every little way to put on another garment.

A headline which started out "Big Machines Start Gnawing" came out "Kawing" on the proof and a proofreader happened to spot it. It was changed but the debate continues as to why. In the case of a silent letter what difference does it make what letter is silent. It can be just as silent as g in gnaw, or l in plow or z would serve as well. Either g or k before now is silent, just like l in fish.

A thing to look forward to every spring is the crop of new uge. When storm water rushes into the sewerage system, it quickly backs up into basements taking raw sewage with it. Up until now, councilmen have tried to meet the problem by merely asking householders to take their eavestrough water out of sanitary sewers. Few have heeded the request.

In the interest of public health it appears that the council should pass a suitable ordinance to require roof drainage to either empty into storm sewers or else onto the ground if storm sewers aren't available.

The water and sewer ordinance of 1952 expressly forbids the hooking up of ground area drains with the sanitary sewer system, yet several exist. The ordinance does not give permission to property owners to hook roof drainage to sanitary sewers, yet it has been done with council approval.

There will be flood conditions in Mason probably, even if storm water is kept out of the sanitary system, yet such positive action on the part of the city council will certainly help. It will at least keep raw sewage out of the flood waters.

Residents whose houses have been damaged by water are entitled to all the relief they can get. Taking storm water out of the sanitary sewerage system is one way and a quick way to get that relief. The council should take action at once.

All-Purpose Fruit Sprays Aid Backyard Orchardists

By CARL COLLIN

Many folks have a couple of fruit trees in their yards and want to spray their trees to get good fruit. They are confronted with the problem of what to use. Commercial fruit growers use a variety of insecticides and fungicides for controlling bugs and diseases, but this isn't practical for just a couple of trees.

There are several commercial preparations on the market which will do a good job without all the complications of using different materials for various bugs and diseases. They are general purpose fruit spray formulations, and, according to Purdue specialists, they fall into 2 types. One is a mixture of ferbam, DDT, lead arsenate and aramite. The other is a mixture of methoxychlor, malathion and ferbam or captan. Both formulas have given good control of fruit diseases and insects in home gardens. Directions for their use should be followed carefully. Read and study the manufacturer's recommendations on the package.

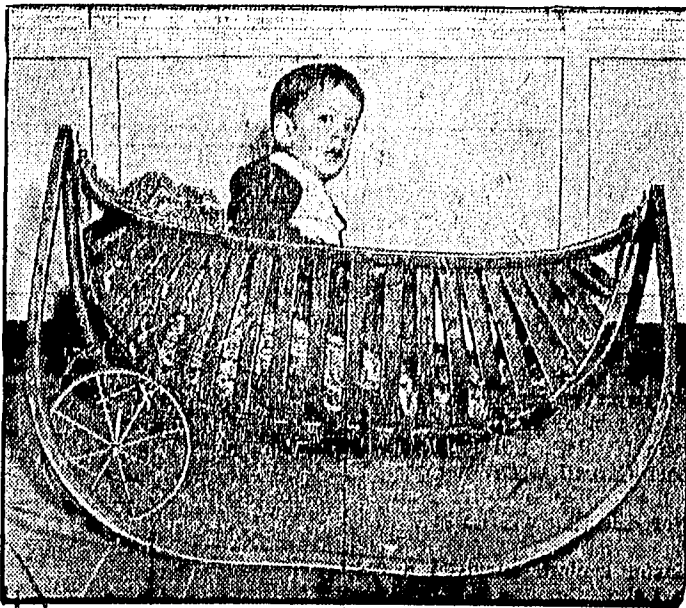

This may be a bad year for bugs and plant diseases. Orange growers in Florida are against a reappearance of the Mediterranean fruit fly. Major areas of the cotton belt have a heavy infestation of boll weevils. Corn borers are a serious problem in several states, Illinois especially. Spotted aphids are laying waste hundreds of acres of alfalfa in the west and southwest. Cutworms, greenbugs and brown midges are on the move in the Kansas wheat fields.

The rainy wet weather we've had here in Michigan is a natural for cutworm activity. They can be controlled in gardens and orchards by using DDT as a spray on the soil around plants and trees. USDA reports show that insects take a terrific toll every year, with the losses amounting to over $4 billion in U. S. crops.

Government loans on 1955 crop corn will be available to farmers who complied with their acreage allotments last year up to June 1. Because of low market prices, a lot of last year's corn has been put under loan. Through April 15, farmers had taken out price support loans on over 366 million bushels. That compares with about 185 million bushels this time last year.

The Weather Bureau says the present outlook for weather in this area during the rest of May is for near normal temperatures and above normal rainfall. If we don't get any more rain this month, considering what we've had so far, the foresters would be on the beam as far as precipitation is concerned.

On April 15, potatoes brought 123¢ of parity, the highest of any farm crop. At the other end of the scale was rye at 60¢. In between these 2 extremes were: Wheat, 85¢; corn, 70¢; dry beans, 72¢; hogs, 67¢; beef cattle, 70¢; butterfat, 81¢; milk at wholesale, 88¢; and eggs, 93¢.

Use of antibiotics will become common in the preservation of food in the not too distant future. That's the opinion of a top official of a big chemical company. His outfit manufactures Aureomycin. This antibiotic has performed remarkably in the preservation of meats and fish shipped for long distances. Fish are shipped in ice treated with antibiotic and have kept well compared with fish shipped in untreated ice. The drug actually retards the growth of bacteria that cause food spoilage. The small amounts of the antibiotic used may also halt sub-clinical diseases in humans who eat the treated fish or meat, diseases which rob the body of much dietary nutrition.

USDA economists and officials can't see any major change in farm price outlook for the rest of the year. Seasonally, prices will compare closely with last year. Net farm income may be off some, possibly 5%, because of rising production costs.

What effect will farm prices have on political trends? That's really a big question. Opinions of seasoned observers are changing. They don't believe the Democrats will hold the advantage they did a few weeks ago. Low prices will be a factor in fall elections, but how much? If the election is a tight one, small swings in a farm vote could be decisive. But right now a tight election doesn't seem to be in the cards.

A major political crop is hogs, but it doesn't appear now that the bottom would drop out of hog prices just before elections as they did last fall. Wheat and dairy prices probably won't be much different than last year. Poultry may be down some but probably not as low as 1954. Cattle prices may be stronger this fall.

Miscellany. . . Cold weather and continued drought cut winter wheat prospects 35 million bushels during April. Current outlook for winter wheat production is about 681.5 million bushels. Last year's harvest was 705.4 million. . . Michigan's winter wheat prospects dropped only slightly in April, about 70,000 bushels. Good moisture conditions from now on could make up that loss.

Farm commodity exports for the first 9 months of the current market year ran only fractionally ahead of a year earlier. A bigger increase had been expected. . . Chick placements in broiler areas are still going at a heavy rate; this means plenty of broilers on the market for the next few months. . . The government has filed suit against several large concerns to recover allegedly "erroneous and illegal" payments by USDA in the purchase and resale of cheese and butter under price support operations.

if you're like me. You didn't know that judges sometimes take cases away from the jury, or even throw out cases without a trial.

It's your privilege to engage in a lawsuit and go to court to straighten things out anytime you feel you've been wronged in any one of thousands of ways. That's why we have courts. Among these thousands of lawsuits, however, are bound to be some that should not be tried because the plaintiff doesn't have a case to start with.

In such cases judges have been given the power to call off trial or put an end to a suit.

Our system required that one side in a suit must make out a case before the judge will let a trial jury decide it on the facts. There are several "timesavers" which a judge uses now and then when it appears that it is useless to continue a trial on the basis of legal points alone.

One method is for the judge to grant a motion to dismiss. Take an imaginary example where an auto dealer sues John Jones for failing to go through with his contract to buy a jalopy. The court finds out that John is under 21 and cannot be bound until he comes of age.

Another common shortcut is the directed verdict. A judge may let a trial start, only to find that one side doesn't have enough facts or evidence to make out its case under the law. The judge then may direct the jury to bring in a verdict for the other side whenever it's obvious that the face-value of the evidence presented could support no other verdict.

Giving judges the power to "short-circuit" lawsuits allows our busy courts to give more time to those cases which need careful consideration and avoids crowded dockets. It also saves money and, as a taxpayer who shares in the cost of operating our courts, that's of great interest to me, too.

Michigan Is One of Top Ag States

By M. H. AVERY

County Agricultural Agent
Once a year during Michigan Week it seems like a good time to take stock of Michigan as an agricultural state. What are some of our major agricultural products and how does Michigan rank with other states in some of the products raised?

This particular year of 1956 farmers are feeling a bit low in Michigan because of the long cold winter and now a wet May. But if we stop to take a look around at things that are happening in other states, the drought in the west, the frost in the south and far west, the floods in the east and west, then Michigan is not too bad a state to live in after all.

Michigan, though known as an industrial state at the present time, still has a very important agricultural program. For example, the total gross income from the state in 1953 was over 11 billion dollars. Manufacturing would account for about 44% of the income of Michigan or little over 6 billion dollars. Agriculture runs around 700 million and the tourist trade around 500 million.

Michigan has a wide range of products in agriculture with dairying one of the leading enterprises. But also important are many livestock products; a well known fruit section in both tree fruits and small fruits and an increasing number of acres in vegetable crops which are becoming more widely known each year. The swamps which have been drained and are now productive muck farms in a number of areas in the state, produce large yields of mint, onions and other vegetable varieties including potatoes and are coming to be well known throughout the country.

Southwestern Michigan is known for its fruit area and some vegetable crops such as cauliflower and asparagus. The Grand Traverse area along Lake Michigan from Oceana on north is well known for its cherries. Strawberries are becoming an important crop in this area. Central Michigan is best known for poultry and dairy. Southeastern Michigan is known for cattle and in the southern part it's hog feeding. Poultry is grown over much of the state but is best known in Allegan county where the Hamilton Co-op is located.

Let's take a look at some of the crops in which Michigan is a leader throughout the agricultural world. Here they are: Michigan is considered first in red tart cherries, red clover seed and cucumbers for pickles. Did you know that Mason has a major cucumber area which supplies the Madison pickle company? Michigan is also tops in cantaloupe production. The state rates second in the white pea bean largely from the thumb area, though Ingham county also grows quite an acreage of this white bean.

She is also second in plums, spearmint, carrots, cauliflower, summer and early fall celery, sweet corn and onions among late producing states. Michigan also rates third in grapes, cucumbers for fresh market sale, tomatoes for fresh market and strawberries, this last among the late producing states. She was also fourth in red beets, peppermint, pears, sweet cherries, maple syrup, buckwheat, snap beans and head lettuce. Michigan rates fifth in asparagus for processing, ket and cabbage; sixth in apples, peaches, asparagus for fresh market, sugar and cabbage for kraut; seventh in sugar beets and snap beans for processing; eighth in lima beans, popcorn, alsac clover seed; and ninth in corn.

Much of Michigan's agricultural success can be attributed to the research work done at Michigan State university experiment station. This information is relayed through the teaching and extension staff to the people of the state. According to Dr. Lloyd Turk, head of the experiment station, at the present time Michigan has about 250 people working part time or full time on the many varied experimental projects under way. There are some 330 of these experiments being carried out at the present time. Experiments are conducted in 6 outlying substations as well as the station at the university. And still agriculture spends only about 28¢ out of every $100 of agricultural income for agricultural research work. Industry spends 10 times this amount for research work in its field.

Most of the newer changes in agriculture have come in the last 50 years and many within the years since World War II. In the early day of agriculture in Michigan, it was believed that anyone who had been raised near or on a farm could make a success of agriculture if he labored long hours. Today the farmer has become a specialized person with a large financial overhead and requires good managerial ability. He must be well-educated in the field in which he is producing, if he is going to be a success. New varieties, new chemical materials, new methods of tilling the soil and applying fertilizer are being developed every year and the farmer must go to school or read widely to keep up to date.

In the field of chemical weed control alone, there have been many advancements in the past 5 years which are being used on many farms in Ingham county. There is much yet to be done in the advancement of agriculture and the experimental stations of our land grant colleges will be playing an important part in this program. The extension service will attempt to relay these new developments to the people of Ingham county through meetings, newspaper, radio and demonstrations.

Few little known facts about Michigan agriculture: The municipal fruit market at Benton Harbor is the largest cash-to-grower regional market in the world and covers 14 acres. Fruits and vegetables from this market move to 28 states mostly by truck. The value of Michigan poultry products is 94 million dollars a year. Michigan is the largest producer of cultivated blueberries. The largest grain elevator in Michigan is at Ottawa Lake with the capacity of 4 million bushels. Michigan Haven peaches are internationally known and were developed at the Michigan State university experiment station at South Haven. Sanilac county has more cattle than people with 35,000 cows. It's evidence that dairy is big business in many

Fresh Eggs From Farms Are Advised

Consumers are still buying large numbers of eggs from farm sources, according to a recent survey made by J. D. Shaffer and G. G. Quackenbush, farm economists at Michigan State university.

Only 36 per cent of the eggs bought by a group of 250 Michigan families were purchased in stores, the usual marketing channel for most food. About 54 per cent were bought directly from farmers, from the farmers' market or from roadside stands. The remaining 10 per cent were bought from other sources such as the milkman and specialized stores.

Farm economists say the survey indicates that most of the consumers apparently were not satisfied with the eggs they usually get from grocery stores. Consumers said they believed eggs from farm sources were fresher and superior in quality.

Weather and Washington Slow 1956 Crops

By M. H. AVERY
County Agricultural Agent

Michigan weather and the slowness of making decisions in Washington is making it difficult for Ingham county farmers to plan their 1956 program. Here are a few suggestions that may help in complete plans for the rest of the season.

Administration of any changes in farm program made this late in the season is unlikely to be effective this year. We may as well carry out plans on the basis of what is best for each of us on our farm. However, farmers who can plan to increase seeded crops for reserve set-aside should keep this in mind for the national farm program that should come through soon. Current conditions make it advisable to concentrate on fewer acres and play for higher yields per acre, which means better seed bed, more fertilizer, more timely planting and good management.

Labor is expensive and difficult to get. However, you will be able to pay good wages per hour for a man to operate your tractor extra hours after he has completed his 8-hour day in the shop or on Saturday if so doing means getting the crops in on time and cared for better.

Loans on 1955 corn must be completed by May 31. However, you may have opportunity by July 31 to get acceptable price on the open market.

Keep your ears tuned to any reports of drought in the cattle country. Any real severe drying up of pasture could break cattle prices which might hurt those with cattle to sell here.

If you have any old wheat not under loan, get it to market in the next 2 or 3 weeks. The new crop harvest will be in full swing in May in the southwest.

Chicks Increase
It looks like a larger than expected number of early chicks being raised for layers. It may point to lower egg prices earlier than usual this fall.

Dry up cull or border cows. Put grass fat on them while pasture is lush and send them to market. The spring price is usually better for lower grade animals than the fall price.

Keep receipts of gasoline and other fuel oil bills. You can get refund of federal tax, 2c per gallon, on gallons purchased for use on farms. Claims can be filed after next January 1.

Best guess is that number of pigs farrowed this year will be down at least 5% from 1955. This may reduce hog numbers enough to put pork production safely on the profit side.

For the past 5 months, milk production has been running ahead of the same month a year ago both in total and amount per person. This is the result of greater production per cow, not from any increase in the number of cows milked. The increase is due entirely to better breeding and feeding, the better feeding due largely to cheaper feed. The fact that production of milk is increasing faster than our population should discourage any gamble in further dairy expansion at this time.

The food habits acquired when we are young seem to remain with us when we grow older. A permanent result of the school milk program may be a generation which has acquired the "drink milk" habit which should benefit the dairymen of the future rather than the dairymen of today.

Handling apples in bulk boxes can save time, money and labor, according to a study made by H. P. Gaston and J. H. Levin, a Michigan State university research team.

The report of this study is made in a new MSU special bulletin now at the Ingham county extension office.

Gaston and Levin report that about 10,000 of these bulk boxes were used in moving the 1955 Michigan apple crop. They believe the trend is likely to continue and that this type of bulk handling could be used to advantage for other fruit and vegetable crops.

Patch Your Alfalfa
An alfalfa stand that's too good to plow up and too thin to leave, is a problem that hits many Ingham county farmers every year.

But a farmer can seed timothy in the spring or in the fall to do a patch-up job, points out M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

That was proved in some tests of Crops Researcher S. T. Dexter at Michigan State university. And the patches of alfalfa gave hay yield increases of up to 10 tons per acre over the thin alfalfa.

The seed needed very little loose soil. Dragging with a spike tooth harrow was as satisfactory as using a springtooth.

Such patching up with timothy kept out the weeds as well as increased the yield.

Brome grass was tested, too, for the patch-up job, but it was too slow in getting established in thin alfalfa stands to make it worthwhile.

Red clover did establish itself, but Dexter didn't consider it as good as timothy.

Plant Early Corn
Considerable corn in Ingham county will be planted later than expected due to the cold wet spring.

It is suggested that farmers try to get an earlier hybrid than they planned on to make sure it gets mature before frost.

A corn farmer will get a better stand if he uses the right planter plates and keeps his tractor speed down to 3 miles per hour.

Put the plates in the corn planter and pull it a short distance on the driveway. Then you can see how the seed is spaced and make adjustments to give the plant population desired.

Drop a rock to mark your starting place. Check your watch and travel with the planter for 30 seconds. Drop another rock and measure the distance between the rocks.

The number of feet you have traveled divided by 44 equals miles per hour.

Farmer Can Cut Costs, Add Profit

A Michigan State university farm economist declared there are ways for the individual dairy farmer to boost his income starting right at home.

Glynn McBride said there may be some adjustments in the dairy farm business that will return more income at little added expense.

First, high producing cows bring in more income. Returns over feed cost increase as production increases. M. S. U. studies have shown that cows producing an average of 13,700 lb per year returned $320 over feed costs while cows producing 8,200 lb returned only $157.

Second, cows that are dry from 6 to 8 weeks seem to produce the most milk. Longer dry periods result in more production but not enough to pay for the extra feed.

Third, uniform production brings in more income. Most dairymen have high production during the flush months. Freshening periods should be timed to even out production over the year and avoid big surpluses when prices are low.

Decision on changing quality of cows on hand, timing of production and length of dry period will vary from farm to farm. Management experience, equipment and proportion of the farm income that comes from dairying should all be considered.

With cows performing well, dairymen should be sure they use their own labor well, McBride suggested. Changes in the chore system or adjusting the size of the operation to make the best use of labor could result in greater profit.

McBride said the final decision on making these adjustments should be based on the expected returns and expected costs.

Cattle Cure Should Bring Human Relief

Undulant fever is a hard disease to pin down. Doctors say its symptoms may resemble those of typhoid fever, malaria, influenza, or even tuberculosis.

The disease seldom causes death, but it may hang on for a long time. The sooner it is identified by a physician, the better, according to the Michigan department of health.

In cattle, the disease is known as Bang's Disease or brucellosis. A program aimed at eradication of the disease in Michigan dairy herds by 1960 is now under way.

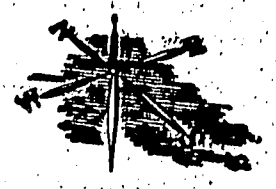

Brucellosis is an occupational disease of those who handle infected cattle. Eradication of brucellosis in cattle will nearly end undulant fever among humans, scientists claim.

Pasteurization, which is required of all milk sold in Michigan, protects consumers. Health authorities also urge farmers to use pasteurized milk.

Symptoms of undulant fever include weakness, nervousness, headaches, aching joints and muscles, chills, and loss of appetite. A fever is common, often varying between 100 and 104 degrees in the acute stage of the disease.

Persons who get undulant fever should go to bed and stay there, advises the department of health. Doctors say bed rest with good care is the best treatment.

Country & Town

Dr. C. J. Hubbard, Mason veterinarian, ran to the aid of his young son Gary, but ministered only to a pooch named Jerry. Sue Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mills, was caring for the youngster at the nearby Mills home Saturday afternoon. The doctor was getting ready to dodge an all-female party at the Hubbard home.

That was when Sue called excitedly to say that Jerry (but it sounded like Gary) had a sick eye.

"It's all red and bulges right out of his head," Sue said. "It looks horrible."

Doc hopped the hedge to see what had happened to his son. But it was Jerry, not Gary that was in trouble.

That's why dogs should be called Fido, Spot, Blackie, Tippy or anything else except boys' and girls' names.

Too much has been said about the weather this spring. During the coming Michigan week, we all ought to give Michigan weather a little self-confidence. Let's say how much we like it. We do, don't we?

Beginning May 21, it will be "Help the Poor Forgotten Mailbox Week" throughout the nation. Postmaster Leslie Palmer of the Mason office is leading the charity drive in this area. He claims rural mailboxes ought to be fixed up and painted with box numbers and names inscribed in big letters. Palmer claims mail patrons will be repaid by better mail service, especially when regular carriers are relieved by substitutes, as occasionally happens.

How did Jefferson avenue between Ash and the alley south end up with 2 sidewalk levels? The 18-inch strip between the walk and the street can't be used for walking, driving or parking. It's a complete waste of space, observes Jack Davis at Davis Clothing Co.

He points out the possibility of more and easier parking along the street if the gutter were moved back to the sidewalk.

If much more rain water gushes down the street this spring, the situation may take care of itself.

Base Price For Corn Is $1.50

Base for minimum price support for 1956-crop corn has been raised to $1.50 a bushel and supports will be available on 1956 corn in more areas, according to an announcement by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

Supports are being extended to farmers who produce in designated commercial areas and do not stay within their acreage allotments, according to Benson's announcement.

This is in line with President Eisenhower's farm message of April 16 announcing prompt administrative steps to increase farm income, including action to increase and broaden corn price supports.

As a result of this action, the following supports will be available for corn produced in 1956:

1. Corn produced under acreage allotments in commercial area counties—a minimum average of $1.50 per bushel, but not less than 82.5 per cent of parity at the beginning of the 1956-57 marketing year, October 1, 1956. ($1.50 per bushel reflects 86.2 per cent of current corn parity.)
2. Corn in the commercial areas which is not produced under acreage allotment controls—$1.25 a bushel, but not less than 70 per cent of parity at the beginning of the marketing year. (Previous year, no price support has been available for corn in the commercial areas which was not produced under allotment controls.)

The support level for 1956 corn which is not grown under acreage allotment controls in the commercial area has been set at a level reflecting slightly above 70 per cent of parity in order to bring this support generally in line with the price supports available for the other feed grains—oats, rye, barley and grain sorghums.

The controlling legislation specifically provides that supports for corn grown in non-commercial areas shall be at 75 per cent of the commercial area rates.

In addition to making all corn grown in commercial-area counties eligible for price support for the first time, the above-mentioned action raises the corn price support base by 10 cents a bushel from the $1.40 level which was previously announced. The base support level for 1955-crop corn was $1.58 a bushel, reflecting 87 per cent of parity.

A total of 840 counties in 23 states are included in the 1956 commercial corn area. The 1956 corn acreage allotment for the commercial area is 43,280,697 acres—a decrease of 15% from the 1955 allotment acreage.

The price support program for the 1956 corn crop will be carried out through Commodity Credit corporation loans and purchase agreements, as in the past.

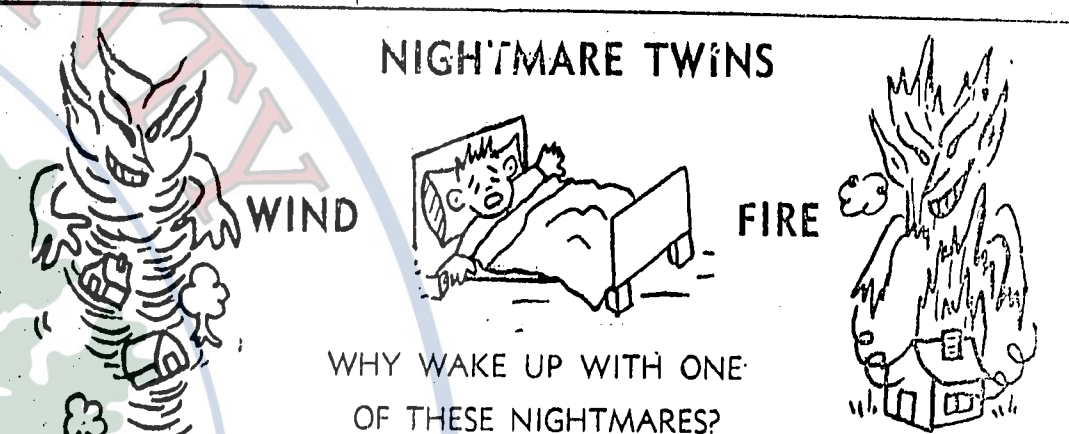

These will be available from harvest time through May 31, 1957, in most areas and will mature on July 31, 1957. Rates by counties for loans and purchase agreements will be announced at a later date.

Approximately 5.5 million bushels of 1955-crop corn had been put under price support by Michigan producers through April 15. Of this total, 4.4 million bushels were put under loan, and 1.1 million bushels under purchase agreements.

Michigan State Scientists Undertake Cancer Research

(Editor's Note: If a cancer cure or preventative is found, such a triumph will have its roots in painstaking research, constantly moving forward in many laboratories. The following is the first of a series of articles describing the varied approach in the cancer problem by research teams at Michigan State University.)

Research teams at Michigan State are waging a 5-pronged attack against cancer from their East Lansing laboratories.

Their approach to the disease is as varied as the scientific backgrounds of the men involved—zoology, veterinary medicine, botany and plant pathology, chemistry, natural science and microbiology.

By this diversity of attack and method, the men hope M. S. U. will be able to contribute significant findings to cancer control, prevention or cure.

Although there is clinical research underway, the teams are primarily engaged in basic research. Through study of body and plant cells and their functions, the researchers hope to find the key to the secret of why some cells become cancerous and "run wild."

Fundamental laboratories such as these continually feed their individual findings and indications into the nation's larger and more complex cancer research centers and organizations, each one adding something to fill the gaps still existing in medical knowledge of cancer.

If a cancer cure or preventative is found, it will have its roots in long years of day-to-day basic research painstakingly done in laboratories by scientists such as those at Michigan State.

"In the search for cancer inhibitors, scientists can overlook nothing reasonable," says Dr. Eugene H. Lucas, professor of horticulture, who, with Dr. Richard H. Byrum, associate professor of chemistry, heads one of the groups.

The 2 men develop and test extracts from selected plants to see if they will affect cancerous cells. They select plants on previous knowledge or hints of medicinal values. Prof. Lucas has studied plant folklore extensively for clues.

"Medicine men, witch doctors and just plain people have handed down some medicinal recipes from generation to generation by word of mouth. In all that time, a process of elimination must have taken place, so what is left merits scrutiny," Dr. Lucas suggested.

"South American Indians fought malaria with quinine for centuries, and ancient India knew of the drugs we have only recently begun using to treat insanity. In 1785, a British doctor reported that foxglove—which contains digitalis glycosides—was of medicinal value. He experimented on it after a woman told him she successfully used the plant extracts for treatment of dropsy. Today, digitalis is used for heart disease."

One of Lucas' folklore hints paid off recently. Attracted to the St. Johns-wort plant family by statements in old books that it "drove out witches," Lucas and his co-workers on another project discovered a new antibiotic which in its unpurified state—has one-tenth the effectiveness of penicillin.

Drs. Byrum and Lucas have discovered that some growth-regulating substances in plants show action against cancer, and that some anti-bacterial mixtures may kill cancer cells as well as bacteria.

"The 2 scientists have been working under grants from the American Cancer society and the National Institute of Health, The Sloan-Kettering Institute is cooperating in the studies by doing additional screening and actual testing with animals. Thus far, the institute has tested almost 3,000 samples from the laboratories of the two men.

Michigan State also has a large-scale program of clinical research in cancer. The patients are dogs, cattle and other animals afflicted with cancer or leukemia. But the diagnostic techniques and treatment used in the clinics of the M. S. U. college of veterinary medicine may prove important in shedding light on human cancer.

Dean Chester E. Clark points out, "The rate of cancer in dogs is relatively the same as in humans and of the same types and activity," said Dr. Andrew C. Wheeler, veterinarian and instructor in radiology. "Treatment is carried out in animals along pretty much the same lines as it is in human cancer patients."

The university's small animal clinic, under the supervision of Prof. Edward K. Sales, treated more than 200 animal cancer cases last year. Members of the college staff are making intensive studies on identification of cancer and on the effects of clinical treatment with irradiation by deep X-rays, surgery and chemotherapy.

The large animal clinic treated 39 cancer cases in 1955, and diagnosed many more. Cancer in cattle is just as common—or more so—as it is in humans according to Prof. George R. Moore, who directs the clinic.

Most common is lymphocytoma, which is similar to human leukemia. Just as in the human form, there is as yet no known cure for the disease. But there is an economic advantage for farmers in early diagnosis so the animal can be salvaged rather than left to a drawn-out death on the farm.

Each year, about 10,000 cattle are condemned on packing house floors when federal inspectors find them affected by neoplastic diseases, many of which closely resemble cancer.

White-faced Hereford cattle also frequently develop carcinoma of the eye. The eye cancer results in death unless treated surgically before it spreads. Federal packinghouse inspectors condemn cattle who have this cancer, since the meat of such animals is considered unfit for food.

Thus, this phase of the M.S.U. cancer program has important implications for farmers and consumers, as well as possible applications in the field of human medicine.

Volunteers Help With 4-H Barn

Tri County Farm Service will begin work on a 4-H sheep barn June 12 at the Ingham fairgrounds. Material will be there a day or so ahead of this date, according to M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

The 30x100 barn will be pole-type construction with a steel roof, 10-foot alley and pens down each side of the alley.

Avery is asking each community 4-H club to have older boys and parents help set up the building. Help will be needed Tuesday, June 12, Wednesday, June 13, and Thursday, June 14, he said.

TORNADO INFORMATION

WHERE TORNADOES CAN OCCUR:

Any place in the United States at any time of the year. They happen most frequently in the midwestern, southern and central states from March through September.

HOW OFTEN DO THEY OCCUR:

The records show that the average number of days with tornadoes varies from about 12 per year in parts of the Mid-West to less than one per year in the Northeast and far Western states.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A TORNADO:

Usually observed as a funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly, and extending toward the earth from the base of a thundercloud. When close by, it sounds like the roar of hundreds of airplanes.

TORNADO "WEATHER":

Hot, sticky days with southerly winds and a threatening, ominous sky. However, many such days occur without tornadoes.

CLOUDS:

Familiar thunderstorm clouds are present. An hour or two before a tornado, lopsided clouds appear sometimes bulging down instead of up. The clouds often have a greenish-black color.

PRECIPITATION:

Rain, frequently hail, preceding the tornado, with a heavy downpour after it has passed.

TIME OF DAY:

Mostly between 3 and 7 P.M., but they have occurred at all hours.

DIRECTION OF TRAVEL:

In most cases they move from a westerly direction, usually from the southwest.

LENGTH OF PATH:

Usually 10 to 40 miles (the average length is 16 miles), but they may move forward for 300 miles.

WIDTH OF PATH:

The average width is about 400 yards, but they have cut swaths over a mile in width.

SPEED OF TRAVEL:

25 to 40 miles per hour average, but they have varied from 5 to 130 miles per hour.

WIND SPEED:

Estimated as high as 500 miles per hour within the tornado.

CAUSES OF DESTRUCTION:

- (1) Violent winds which uproot trees, destroy buildings, and which create a serious hazard from objects blown through the air.
- (2) Differences in air pressure which can lift automobiles and can cause buildings to collapse.

OVER 175 HORSEPOWER IN RESERVE!

...when you're cruising at everyday speeds!

THE ROCKET'S EXTRA MARGIN OF POWER MEANS AN EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY!

HIGH HORSEPOWER... high torque... high compression. It takes all three to describe Oldsmobile's Rocket! But there's still another important side to the picture.

It's reserve power—in abundance! In fact, at normal cruising speeds the Rocket still has more than 175 horsepower left... beyond what it takes to propel the car! It's this reserve that whips you through a passing situation so quickly, so effortlessly.

That means economy, too! The Rocket just uses along, when lesser engines are straining. You can see the result in Oldsmobile's double victory in the Mobilgas Economy Run!

The modern "big bore—short stroke" design cuts friction and power loss. The Rocket's design made high compression practical... and today's Rocket hits a high 9.25 to 1 compression!

Come take the wheel of a Rocket Oldsmobile. You will feel a distinct difference in performance, in riding and handling qualities... just as you see a glamorous difference in Oldsmobile's beauty. We'll be looking for you soon!

Conservation Department cartoonist Oscar Warbach and biologist Ralph A. MacMullan take a long second look at their publication "The Life and Times of Michigan Pheasants," recently given the national award of "best publication by a state agency for 1955." Warbach produced all the cartoons and art work and MacMullan, now in charge of the Houghton Lake wildlife experiment station, wrote the material from an extensive Pittman-Robertson field study completed under his direction. The national Wildlife Society made the award recently at its annual North American Wildlife Conference meeting in New Orleans, Louisiana.
