

2,200 Acres Goes in Bank For $100,000

Ingham farmers have put 2,200 acres of crop land into the soil bank. They expect to draw out about $100,000.

There were 219 farmers who filed applications to have acreage put under the soil bank program, reported William J. Crampton, Jr., office manager for ASC in Ingham.

The average payment will be a little over $45 per acre, making Ingham total payments stand at around $100,000. When the payments will be made has not yet been announced. Each farm must first be checked to make sure that the acres taken out of production are idle, Crampton said.

To get soil bank payments farmers must underplant their corn and wheat allotments by at least 5 acres or 10%.

Generally, few dairy farmers will profit by the soil bank program as it now stands. They feed their corn and so overplanted their allotments as they are not interested in price supports. Farmers eligible under the soil bank are those, with some exceptions, who plant cash crops.

Most of the crop land which has gone into the bank in Ingham has been the least productive on the farms. Farmers can designate which part of a field goes into the bank and generally the acreage they pick doesn't raise the most crops.

Farmers can put up to 50 acres each of their corn and wheat allotments into the soil bank. The ASC sets the normal yield of the farm and payments are made on that basis unless an appraisal shows the crop to be below normal. In that case, the lower figure is taken.

Normal yields in Ingham range from 35 to 60 bushels of corn per acre and 18 to 35 bushels of wheat. To get the soil bank payment most farmers had to plow down their corn because it was planted before the soil bank became effective. In the future, farmers can just let their acres stand idle and collect, receiving about 60% as much as they would get by plowing and harvesting a normal crop.

Work Starts on Church Building

Vandenberg Construction Co. of Lansing started work on the new Methodist church building Wednesday. Actually the work was on the old building, digging new footings to shore up the old before the wall of the new goes up alongside the old.

The new structure will be 90 x 102, situated to the north of the present building which was erected 87 years ago.

Manson & Carver of Lansing are the architects. Contracts were let July 19. They total $101,600.

Peach Prospects Are Still Tops

Tree-ripened peaches will be late this year but they'll be well worth waiting for.

It will be between 2 1/2 and 3 weeks before Red Havens are ripe. Arp Beauty and a few other extra early varieties may be ready in 10 days to 2 weeks, but the Havens will not be ripe until after the middle of August unless there is a hot wave, Ingham growers said. And this doesn't seem to be the year for hot waves.

Early apples, Duchess and Melba, will be ripe next week. These hang heavy with apples and peaches in all Ingham orchards. They escaped frost damage last spring and the hail of July 16 stopped short of the orchard area.

NO RACE SUICIDE

School Population Grows

Hope that building of school buildings can slacken with the release of May 30 school census figures. The trend in population is still up, a long ways up in the suburban areas and a little ways up in the city of Lansing.

As reported by Alton J. Stroud, county school superintendent, Ingham county had 48,352 children between the ages of 5 and 19 inclusive as of May 30. Last year the total was 45,966. The increase in that bracket is spread generally throughout the county, Stroud said.

In the pre-school age bracket practically all of the growth is outside of Lansing, Stroud stated. The total of children from 1 to 4 inclusive was 23,303 this year. Last year it was 22,322, a

AMERICANS ARE WONDERFUL, exclaimed Mr. and Mrs. Kaare Lovell and son Leslie, 8, and daughter Vera, 2. The Lovells, except little Vera, were born in Norway. She was born in the United States. They are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Smith of Mason. He is shown in the foreground with Leslie. Mrs. Smith is at the left in the background with Mr. and Mrs. Lovell. Mr. Lovell will become a medical doctor in 2 years when graduated from Carl Frantzen university in Graz, Austria. After that the Lovells plan to live in Lansing. (Ingham County News photo.)

Norwegian Commuters Plan to Stay

Kaare Lovell and his wife and children commute between the United States and Europe but they're planning to make their home here. After taking pre-med work at Michigan State, Lovell enrolled in medical school in Austria. Now he spends his summers working at Sparrow hospital in Lansing and the rest of the year in the Austrian medical school.

One look at the United States was enough to convince Lovell of Norway that he would like to live in this country. That was during World War II while assigned to a wing of the Norwegian air force in Canada. Lovell returned to his native country after the war, but in 1950 he came to the United States with his wife, Edna, and son, Leslie.

Lovell will be a medical doctor in 2 years. He has been a medical student for the past 6, getting 3 years of pre-medical training at Michigan State university. In 1954 he matriculated at Carl Frantzen university at Graz, Austria where he will continue to study medicine until 1958.

The Lovells have been living out of suitcases since leaving Norway. They remained in this country 3 years while Lovell attended Michigan State. In 1954 little Vera was born. The Lovells then went to Austria. Last summer they returned to Lansing where he worked at Sparrow hospital. They returned to the Austrian university in October.

Now the Lovells are back in the United States for another summer. He is again working at Sparrow hospital. They arrived in Lansing Sunday and are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Smith of Mason before moving to a home in East Lansing.

The Lovells' trip to the United States this summer could have ended in tragedy. In Italy they exerted every effort to board the Andria Doria. Had they made arrangements for the trip to this country a day earlier, they would have been on the big ocean liner which sank off the coast of Massachusetts a few days later.

The Lovells traveled on the next ship, the Concordia Fjord, of the Norwegian line. Lovell, as on other trips between the United States and Europe, worked his way across as a deck hand.

The Lovells count their blessings in other than the dollar exchange. They earn enough in the United States during the summer months to maintain the family on a minimum standard during the school year. Until the girl was born, Mrs. Lovell worked in the state health department laboratory in Lansing. They have crossed the Atlantic several times and have visited many countries. Leslie has attended both American and German schools. All in the family speak English, Norwegian and German fluently and have a working knowledge of French and Italian.

While friends marvel at the stamina of the Lovells to strike out across the ocean for a new country and to live in a restricted financial way for so many years, they are quick to shrug off any plaudits.

"It's simply that we have our hearts set on being United States citizens and on Kaare becoming a doctor," Mrs. Lovell said. "It's easy to conform to any way of life with such goals."

The Lovells first came to America December 6, 1950. They located in Lansing because of an uncle of Mrs. Lovell, Alf Brudvik, who is a Lansing grocer.

It wasn't until Christmas Eve that the Lovells met the Smiths. The Lovells were window-shopping on South Cedar in Lansing in the neighborhood of Marie's Fashions, owned and operated by Mrs. Smith. The Norwegian couple wandered to Marie's. Howard Smith offered a stick of gum to young Leslie, then 2 1/2, and from that moment the friendship began. Mrs. Smith was born of Norwegian parents. She speaks Norwegian fluently and has made 4 trips back to Norway. The Smiths gave the Lovells moral support as well as a shower of Christmas gifts that first year.

"People such as the Smiths are difficult to find in Europe," Lovell said. "They, like other Americans, are quick to make friendships. Doctors at the hospital, professors at Michigan State and others have been quick to assist us in every way."

The Lovells plan to receive their citizenship papers this summer. They'll be 4 of the proudest Americans in the United States.

McBride Packs For Mexico Job

Russell McBride is leaving for South of the Border again. He has helped build and equip a big SMA plant in Brazil and only recently returned from Argentina. This time he is headed for Mexico City.

Wyeth Valles, an affiliate of Wyeth Laboratories, Inc., has a pharmaceutical factory near Mexico City and is building an addition to manufacture SMA. McBride has been assigned to the factory to help with installation of equipment and get production started a year hence.

There is a substantial dairy industry in the Mexico City area, Manager Howard Selbert of the Mason factory said. Although the new factory will have to buy its milk in a highly competitive market, the situation will provide close supervision of the milk supply and will use to advantage some of the company's present manufacturing facilities.

McBride returned from Argentina in June. Work has been held up there, he said.

Unless a person has stood watch at the Mason GOC post he may not realize the extent of plane travel, said Stanley Parker, chief observer of the Mason unit.

For only 82 hours out of a possible 744 hours was the Mason post manned during July, he said. Yet in those 82 hours 80 planes were logged, with 37 multi-motor planes reported to the air force filter center in Grand Rapids. There were 18 bi-motor planes, 21 single-motor and 4 unidentified small planes which went unreported, Parker said.

More men and women are needed as plane spotters, Parker said. New shifts of 2 hours twice a month are being arranged. He asked that men and women who are willing to undertake the duty notify him.

Onondaga Boy Suffocates in Bin of Wheat

Lyle Bodell, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bodell of Onondaga, was suffocated in a bin of stored wheat at Onondaga elevator Wednesday afternoon. The youngster either fell or jumped in play into the open bin high in the elevator. The wheat being removed from the bottom of the bin acted as a pit of quicksand and the boy was pulled to the bottom under hundreds of bushels of wheat.

Young Bodell had been helping out at the elevator and about 2 o'clock workmen noticed he was absent. It wasn't like the boy to leave without telling others, they said. So a search was started at once.

Earlier in the afternoon Bodell had gone to a nearby store for a bottle of pop. Searchers found the bottle half full on a beam above the bin of wheat.

Hubert Duke, owner of the elevator, and Elwin Sampson and Ed Parr, employees, immediately feared the worst. They turned to emptying the 1,200-bushel bin which was about three-quarters full.

The boy, suffocated, was found at the bottom about 5 o'clock. Lyle would have entered the ninth grade at Leslie this fall had he lived.

Besides the parents, the boy is survived by grandparents, Mrs. Robert Noble and Mrs. Esther Bodell of Onondaga and Glen Bodell of Leslie and 8 brothers and sisters. They are Howard in the air force, stationed in the Philippines, and Kay, Raymond, Norman, Myron, Myrna, Janet and Bobby, all living at home.

Funeral arrangements are being delayed until word is received by the brother Howard stating whether or not he will be permitted to return from the Philippines for the services. The Red Cross informed Howard of his brother's death Wednesday night. The body is at Luecht funeral home in Leslie. Coroner Dorwin Hoffmeyer investigated the death.

7 Men Receive Draft Summons

Only 7 young men will leave Ingham under the draft next Wednesday. They have received notice to report at the draft board office in Lansing, 1120 May street, at 7:10 that morning to board a bus for the Detroit induction station.

The 7 headed for military duty are Barry D. Christy, Virgil G. Adams, Charles K. Hathaway, Jerry D. Kirksey, George D. Tucker, Robert G. Ballor and James G. Buchner.

Cold Weather Slows Pickles

Cucumber growers, and pickers as well, are anxious for some warm days and nights. With night temperatures ranging from the 40s to the 60s, cucumbers have suffered.

When daytime temperatures don't reach the 70s until late in the day, bees remain idle. Without bee pollination the cucumbers don't set.

Because of the slow picking, many of the Mexican nationals at the Mason camp were shifted to Traverse City to pick cherries. The cherry harvest is nearing completion and the Mexicans are coming back to Mason, hopeful for warm weather and full employment in cucumber fields.

Tax Equalization Will Be Delayed

It will be 6 weeks before the state tax commission comes to Mason to conduct a hearing on the tax equalization dispute.

When Meridian and Williams-town supervisors filed appeals on adoption of the county equalization of property assessments, the state tax commission took action. Appraisers are checking valuations. At the July meeting of the county board, supervisors expressed hope that the state tax commission would conduct its hearing in August. That hope was dimmed Thursday by the announcement from Lansing that it will be at least 6 weeks before the hearing.

A special meeting will probably be called for the equalization, County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard said.

Supervisors will be in Mason Monday for their regular August meeting.

The county board usually meets on Tuesdays. That's the election day this year, so the meeting day was shifted to Monday.

School Budget May Result in Altered Plans

Study of the Mason school budget has caused the school board to delay decisions on improvements to the Jefferson street school heating plant and to the cafeteria kitchen.

Board members adopted a go-slow measure Wednesday night when they learned from Supt. James H. Vander Ven that estimated increases in revenue will fall $26,620 behind estimated increases in costs.

The estimated increase in revenue was reported as $29,514. The increase in costs will be $56,134, Vander Ven said. Most of the increased costs resulted from a new salary scale adopted by the board in May.

Teacher salaries last year were $273,498. This next year they will total $303,054. Supt. Vander Ven also said that administrative costs will increase. Another secretary may be required, he informed the board.

The superintendent informed the board that there are now only 2 teaching vacancies, one in the Alaledon Center area school and the other an 11th grade English position. Prior to that report the board approved the issuance of a contract to Mrs. Carolyn L. Ward of LaFayette, Indiana, to teach in the sixth grade at Jefferson school. She will make her home in East Lansing, the superintendent said, where her husband will be an instructor at Michigan State while taking graduate work.

The board changed its regular meeting date from Wednesday night to the first Thursday night in every month.

Light Vote Is Anticipated

Candidates Near Close of Campaign

Although candidates are seeking to arouse interest in Tuesday's primary election, indications now point to a light vote. The prophets could be wrong, they admit. Some campaigns now barely moving could catch fire, they said. There is still time for interest to be whipped up, they added.

The county election board took no chances on the balloting. Although the law requires that only 25% more ballots than were cast at the primary election in 1952 be provided, the board went far beyond that figure. The law governing the size of precincts was changed, cutting to 800 registered voters those precincts where paper ballots are used. With many new precincts, the election board had to estimate how many would vote and the board kept the estimates high so there should be no shortage of ballots on election day.

Voting machine precincts are now limited to 1,400 registered electors, with one machine for every 600 voters.

The law limiting the size of precincts forced Mason to add a third precinct. The city of Williamston had to add a precinct and so did the townships of Leslie and Stockbridge. Each had only one precinct before the law was changed.

Lansing township now has 16 precincts, and Meridian and Delhi each has 9.

County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard conducted a school of instruction for local election inspectors Monday night. The circuit court room was full, he said. East Lansing had a school of instruction Tuesday night for the one precinct which has voting machines. Lansing's school is Thursday night.

The county clerk explained changes in the election laws. He pointed out that no longer are there inspectors, clerks and gatekeepers. All those on election boards must qualify as inspectors and be willing to handle any assignment given by the chairman.

Under the new law, boards of election commissioners in cities are made up of the city clerk, city attorney and city assessor. In townships the supervisor, clerk and treasurer are election commissioners.

Those who serve as election inspectors must now disclose their party affiliations. Boards must be composed, as near as possible, of an equal number of

2 More Districts Join with Mason In School System

Mason's area school system has had 2 annexations recently and a third district will decide Monday night.

The Mason district now includes the Pink and Curtice, both in Aurelius. The vote in each was 21 for and 4 against. The Pink vote was taken July 16, the Curtice vote on Monday night. A vote is scheduled in the Rolfe district, Vevay, Monday night.

Neither in the Pink nor Curtice districts nor in the Rolfe is there a bonded debt. The Pink has a valuation of $344,000 and the Curtice has a valuation of $185,000.

Last year the enrollment at each school was the same—33. With the districts annexed to Mason, the seventh and eighth graders will be transported to Mason. The plan of operation of the Mason system is to maintain neighborhood schools where possible, Supt. James H. Vander Ven said.

Mason's first major expansion was in 1954 when the Alaledon Township Unit district and Wilson and Hawley districts in Vevay voted to merge with Mason. Later 6 other districts voted to annex. They were Walters in Vevay, Nichols, Dunn and Harper in Delhi and Webb and Gretton in Aurelius. There were 8 Alaledon schools in the merger—Canaan, Alaledon Center, Douglas, German, DuBols, Phillips, Robbins and Sandhill. The German school was closed after a year because of the few pupils in the area. The Button district of Alaledon merged with Williams-ton.

The Wilson school burned down 20 years ago and the pupils had been attending Mason schools ever since the fire. Building of new US-127 south of Mason forced abandonment of the Walters school last January. The building will be moved or razed when the highway is completed.

Merger with Mason or Leslie or Eaton Rapids districts are issues which will shortly be placed before other schools south and west of Mason.

Boxcar Lack Halts Grain At Elevators

ICC orders sending western and Canadian boxcars back to home lines are halting the flow of Michigan wheat.

Mason elevators have been plugged this week. Had the weather been fair, the situation at local elevators would have been even worse, operators said.

Under the ICC order, boxcars from western and Canadian lines have been rolling through Mason empty.

New York Central promised to have cars in Mason Thursday and Friday. Railroad executives said they hoped to get the ICC order rescinded or amended to relieve the boxcar shortage locally. As it now stands, New York Central, C. & O. and Pennsylvania cars are being used where found in Canada and the west to ship wheat while boxcars from western and Canadian lines are carrying no Michigan wheat.

Between half and two-thirds of Ingham wheat had been harvested before the rain set in Monday night. Most of that was good quality, 59 and 58 lb. The all-day rain Tuesday was hard on grain. There was no combining Tuesday or Wednesday. If dry weather comes now the unharvested wheat is not likely to suffer much, most farmers agree.

The moisture helped corn, beans and pasture. With that moisture, if some heat can be turned on, crops will thrive.

Retired Woman Is Stricken Unexpectedly

Mrs. Beatrice Elizabeth Merrill, 77, died unexpectedly Saturday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. Margaret Duchane, in Mason. Mrs. Duchane stepped out of the house a few minutes on an errand, and when she returned she found her aunt dead, sitting in a chair in the living room. The time of her death is set near 10 o'clock. Mrs. Merrill had not been sick.

Beatrice Elizabeth White was born November 20, 1878, to Joseph and Catherine Harle White, in Mason county. After her marriage to Richard Merrill she traveled extensively in the United States and Europe. She lived most of her married life in Milwaukee, then a few years in Los Angeles, before arriving in Mason 3 years ago to make her home with the Duchanes. Her husband died 8 years ago.

Surviving are 3 nieces, Mrs. Willis Mackey of Michigan City, Indiana, Mrs. Robert Johnson of Ludington and Mrs. Duchane of Mason; and 2 nephews, William and Norman Chester of Milwaukee.

Funeral services were conducted at Ball-Dunn funeral home Monday at 10 a. m. by Rev. Raymond Norton of Mason Methodist church. Additional services and burial were at Forest home cemetery, Milwaukee.

Congress Blocks Bill Sought by Onion Growers

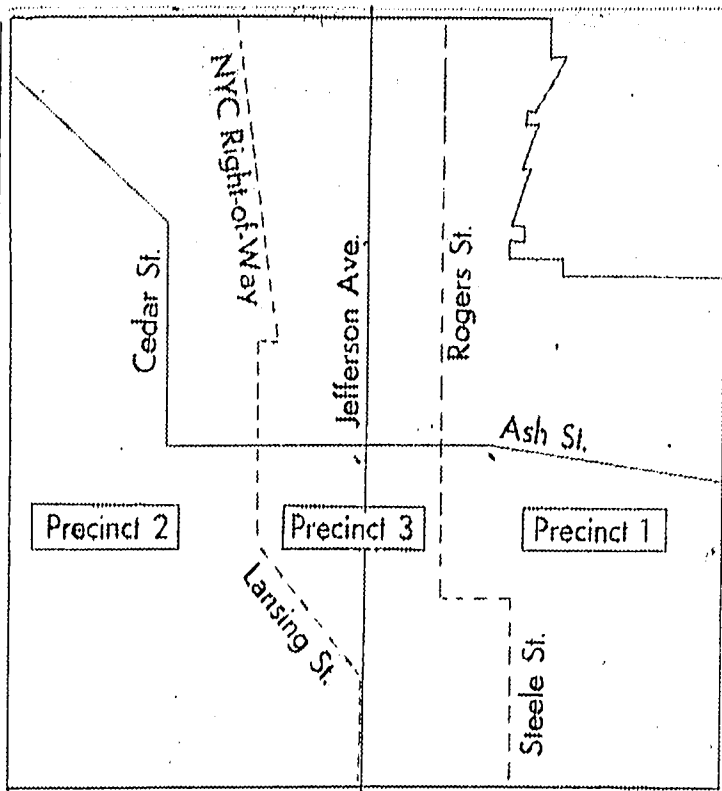

Congress has adjourned without adoption of the King bill designed to prohibit futures trading in onions being reported, said Veril Baldwin, onion grower and president of the National Onion association. The department of agriculture and the commodity exchange authority recommended to the agriculture committee that no legislation be passed in this session in order to give the authority a chance to study the situation and attempt to regulate onion futures trading to the satisfaction of growers.

There is considerable support in the industry, said Baldwin, that the legislative hearings have been helpful in that they have alerted congress to the dissatisfaction of most growers and have made the commodity exchange authority aware of its responsibility in regulating futures trading in onions. Indicative of their sincerity in doing this is the indicating of 2 big speculators, by the commodity exchange authority for manipulations in onion futures trading, Baldwin said.

There is every possibility that legislation similar to the King bill will be introduced at the next session of congress, Baldwin reported. This matter is of great interest to this vicinity since 3% of all onions produced and sold in the United States now come from Jackson-Ingham county farms, he pointed out.

Hart Gains Experience

Frank Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hart of Mason, is gaining practical training during the summer to go along with his technical knowledge gained during the winters at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He has begun 6 weeks of work with Kalamazoo Vegetable Parthenment Co. of Kalamazoo. Hart, a graduate of Mason high school and Kalamazoo college, is studying printing management.

MASON'S NEW PRECINCT 3 is sandwiched between 1 and 2. Centerlines of Rogers and Steele and a jog on South street divide 1 and 3. The New York Central railroad and Lansing street divide 2 and 3. In all cases the centerline of a street or the right-of-way is the guide line. Those who live on the west side of Lansing street south of Columbia will vote in Precinct 2; those on the east side in Precinct 3. Voters on the west side of Rogers and Steele will vote in Precinct 3. Those on the east side of Rogers and Steele will vote in Precinct 1.

Mason Gains a Precinct Under New Election Law

For the first time Mason voters will split 3 ways in Tuesday's election. Instead of the traditional 2 precincts, Mason now has 3. The third precinct had to be added to conform to a new state law. The new law provides that where paper ballots are used, not more than 800 registered electors can be held in one precinct.

Mason's 3 precincts run north and south. Jefferson used to be the dividing line between the first and second precincts. Those on the far east side are still in the first precinct, and those on the far west side are still in the first precinct, and those on the far west side are still in the first precinct, and those on the far west side are still in the first precinct.

Voters who have been shifted from either the first or second precincts to the third precinct have been notified by mail of the change.

Elections will now cost more in Mason with 3 boards instead of 2 unless the counting is that much faster.

Explorer Scouts Had Fun Camping on Isle Royale

Mason Explorer Scouts had as much fun as they had anticipated at Isle Royale, and they had anticipated a lot. They had a week on the island, a week of hiking, fishing and a little swimming. The weather was generally good, they said, although wind and fog delayed their arrival by a day. When the 19 Mason Explorers and 6 adults reached Copper Harbor for the July 22 embarkation the weather made the journey in a fishing launch unsafe. The party camped at the state park until the weather cleared the following day. They made the return trip from Isle Royale to Copper Harbor Sunday afternoon aboard the Isle Royale Queen.

It's a 5-hour trip. Some of the group headed for home and continued driving all night, arriving in Mason Monday morning. Most of them arrived Monday night.

Vance Kennedy, Norman Austin, Gary Lamphere, Merle Brown and Richard Ferris made the trip with the Explorers. So did James Armstrong, Explorer advisor, and Leland Austin, assistant advisor.

Guy C. Bateman Passes After Long Sickness

At the home in Aurelius Center Monday night Guy Carlton Bateman, 85, died. He had been sick for about 2 years.

Mr. Bateman was born in Aurelius and spent most of his life there and in Alaledon. He was the third son of Dudley and Elizabeth Parish Bateman. He was born October 14, 1870. On November 22, 1899, he and Miss Millie Lequart of Delhi were married. They had farms in Aurelius and then for a long period lived in Alaledon township, north of Mason. They retired from farming in 1938 and in 1943 they moved back to Aurelius.

Mr. Bateman was a member of the Aurelius Baptist church. When he and his wife lived in Alaledon they were members of the Mason Methodist church.

Besides the widow, Mr. Bateman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Skutt of Lansing; 4 grandchildren; 4 great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Shophell of Aurelius.

Services were at Ball-Dunn funeral home in Mason Thursday afternoon with burial in Maple Grove cemetery. Rev. Robert Worgul of the Aurelius Baptist church officiated.

Council Faces Long Session

Mason councilmen face a lengthy session Monday night.

They will take bids, conduct a zoning hearing and a sewer assessment hearing, in addition to conducting other business.

The zoning hearing is to consider the rezoning of Lots 5 and 6 of Block 8, Bush addition, from A residential to C local business. It is land adjoining the Alderman store on Cedar street.

There is also a hearing scheduled on the special assessment roll for a sanitary sewer in Ann street.

Bids will be taken on processing and stockpiling 5,000 cubic yards of gravel from the city pit; furnishing 5,000 gallons each of regular and premium gasoline to the city; and for construction of curb and gutter in Kathryn street.

Plans were made for the menu, what each girl should furnish and her duties in preparation of the meal.

ERVIN NEAL of Harper road has one of the greenest thumbs in the county. And others who appreciate the sight of tall corn, heavy tomato plants and plump fryers could easily have the greenest eyes. Neal is shown in his tomato patch where 2,440 plants are loaded down with tomatoes already as big as a man's fist. In the background is 60 acres of field corn and most of that is tasseled out and over 9 feet high. Those White Rocks at the left are ready for the Neal freezer. Grandson Francis Neal of Lansing is in the background at the left helping herd the 300 chickens into camera range.

A son, Walter, helps with the farm work on the 84-acre farm. He lives at Duck lake. Neal has 2 other sons, Harold of Mason and Forrest of Eaton Rapids, and daughters, Mrs. Duane Thurlby and Mrs. Hazel Sanders of Mason and Mrs. Ruth DeMuth of Charlotte.

The Neal farm is neat. The lawn, flowers and bushes are kept trimmed. It's a picture in any direction.

Neal has worked the farm for 47 years. While his eyesight isn't as good as it used to be, he still takes an active interest in farm operations. Mrs. Neal died 7 years ago. Since that time he has household chores as well as farm work. (Ingham County News photo.)

Father Is Held For Murder in Death of Child

Kinney Tamaribuchi will be arraigned in Ingham circuit court September 10 on a first degree murder charge. Justice of the Peace William H. Wise of East Lansing announced his decision Thursday morning.

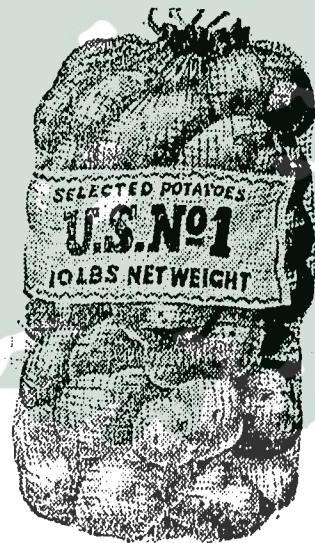

Tamaribuchi is charged with inflicting fatal injuries upon his son, Kent, 7, on June 17. The father is a student at Michigan State and the attack upon the boy took place in married student housing at the university. The father and mother came from Hawaii.

At the examination of Tamaribuchi, which was on July 19, Benjamin F. Watson, the defendant's lawyer, insisted that neither first nor second degree murder charges were warranted. He declared the state had proved neither premeditation nor malice aforethought on which the charges could be sustained. Judge Wise recessed the examination until Thursday. Then he announced his decision that Tamaribuchi be held on the first degree charge.

Ralph Ryal and Dave Sterling of Michigan State university police took Tamaribuchi to East Lansing justice court Thursday and returned him to the county jail after the decision of Judge Wise was announced.

University police alleged that Tamaribuchi beat his son with a wooden mallet and a tennis racket when the boy would not go to sleep. Mrs. Tamaribuchi was not at home at the time.

Recipe of the Week

Mrs. A. V. Smith's punch recipe has been requested and served for many social gatherings. Her version is called LIME TWINKLE (Serves 50)

4 cans frozen lemon or lime juice
1/2 cup sugar
8 cups water
8 drops food coloring
4 quarts lemon or lime sherbet

If desired, the punch base can be mixed ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator. In a blender or mixing bowl, blend 1 can juice, 1/2 cup sugar and 1 cup water. Blend or mix at full speed for 1 minute. Rinse blender or bowl with another cup of water. This makes a quart and can be stored in quart container. Repeat until the first 3 ingredients are used.

Just before serving, mix the base, food coloring, ginger ale and sherbet in the punch bowl.

Do you know of a recipe that ought to be passed along to others in the Ingham County News Recipe of the Week column? If so, send it along or let us know who has it. Just call Mason 617-7-3011.

Weather Report

Oh, for the good old summer-time! The nights are great for sleeping but not for farming. Row crops are doing all right because of plenty of moisture but some hot weather, both day and night, is needed. And some dry weather for harvesting wheat and oats. Wheat is about two-thirds harvested and many farmers have not started on their oats.

There has been .37 of an inch of rain during the week, most of it on Tuesday.

The average mean temperature for the week was 67, which is indeed mean for summertime in Michigan. For the same week last year the mean temperature at Mason was 81.

Temperatures as recorded at the Mason disposal plant were:

	Low	High
July 26	62	82
July 27	64	91
July 28	46	80
July 29	44	76
July 30	62	80
July 31	60	71
August 1	50	78

The Yankees came from behind to beat the Pirates 5-4 in boys softball last Wednesday. Ed Dingwell drove in 3 runs in the last inning. The Yanks repeated Monday, taking the Tigers into camp. 9-8. Harry Swartout's hit scored Randy Powers to break an 8-8 tie in the last inning.

In girls softball Wednesday of last week, the Bobby-Soxers pounded out 17 hits to beat the Majorettes 21-5. Ruth Strickling had a perfect day at bat, collecting 5 for 5. The Powder Puffs moved into first place in the girls league Monday, as they took a 5-0 decision from the Majorettes.

Red Feather Sets Goal of Million

Just short of a million dollars is the Lansing Red Feather goal for 1957. It stands at $991,160, reported Lawrence Lindemer of Stockbridge, area chairman. Paul D. Bagwell of Michigan State University is general chairman of the fund drive.

The directors received a report from the budget committee which totaled $1,079,991. The fall goal, Lindemer stated, is 4.86% greater than the $945,187.77 raised by workers last year to finance the needs of the 56 agencies represented.

The report pointed out that the 1957 goal is $88,830 less than the agencies requested and the goal will meet the bare needs and does not provide for the anticipated growth of the area.

The Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are expanding to meet the demands for entry into their activities.

Campaign leaders are establishing division quota figures for the scheduled November 8-28 drive.

Lindemer, area chairman for the drive, said the following township residents will serve as campaign leaders:

Aurelius, Mrs. Ray Mathews; Alameda, Mrs. Ralph Stillman and Mrs. H. S. Pulver; Bunker Hill, Mrs. Walter Strange; Ingham, Charles Woods; Vevay, Mrs. Willis Collar; and Mason, Les Palmer and Frank Schmidt, Jr.

Announcement of leaders from Leroy and Locke; Leslie, Onondaga; Stockbridge; Wheatfield; White Oak; Williamston city and Williamston township are expected soon, Lindemer said.

Aides, representing agency personnel who will assist the chairman, are John Scull, American Red Cross; and Isabelle Borgman and Harriet Young, American Red Cross workers.

bonnets. Sammy wore Pete's rompers of blue check that he wore 40 years ago when he was 3, also.

And the pet parade was a whooper. . . must have been around 300 children taking part. The only thing lacking was more time to spend looking at the entries. There were some dillies. It was the best kids' parade I ever saw.

Martha and Shirley Cobb with their fine costume and huge pet. . . a Holstein cow ambling down Main street with the girls taking turns riding on her back. . . is something not seen every day.

They received the grand prize which seemed very fitting that it should go to descendants of pioneers who homesteaded in Clinton county over 100 years ago. Shirley and Martha live on the original homestead. I wonder how many watching the parade knew that the girls could do a tumbling act on the cow's back including standing on their heads.

We'll echo the phrase everyone is saying. . . The pageant at the park was wonderful. I thought the parts where local folks were used were by far the most interesting as a portrayal of St. John's development in the last 100 years. The torchlight parade that was enacted must have been as big as many of the real ones. It was very exciting and real.

Nowhere do the rides. . . or the paddy wagon and funny cops arresting left and right. . . or the bastille. . . or Saturday's huge parade. . . or the reunions at most every step you took. . . come into my impressions of the centennial.

I am having the same trouble the rest of you are having when trying to condense this colossal celebration. Perhaps never again will we see in Clinton county such a crowd and spectacle and spirit of friendliness as we have just witnessed. Though I have, always considered St. John's a very friendly place it outdid itself. Even strangers I had never seen before smiled. . . and I smiled back.

I wonder how many present will be able to make it 50 years from now. . . and what kind of locomotion it will take to get us there.

May we add our congratulations and appreciation of a thing better than well done. . . the best! We're proud to be a part of Clinton county!

YMCA Changes Bus Schedule For Area Camp

Lansing Y. M. C. A. has a new transportation schedule for fourth period campers at Camp Pa-Wa-Pi, the Lansing Y. M. C. A. day camp near Williamston.

The camp bus will make stops at Everett, North, Holt and Mason schools in addition to the regular stops at East Lansing, Okemos and Williamston.

The boys will be transported to and from camp daily for the regular period which starts August 6 and ends August 16.

The camp, in its third year of operation, is open to all boys in the Lansing area and to boys who are not members of the Lansing Y. M. C. A., as well as "Y" members.

Although Camp Pa-Wa-Pi is a day camp, the program is similar to that of a regular camp having as its main theme, "Learning to live in a Christian manner in the great outdoors," and doing the activities that boys enjoy doing at camp. Fishing, swimming, archery, handicrafts, nature study and many other of the camp subjects are on the regular daily program at Camp Pa-Wa-Pi.

For those boys desiring a shorter period at camp, the fourth period at Pa-Wa-Pi will be divided into 2 sessions of a week each. The first session will be from August 6 to August 9 and the second from August 13 through 16.

Jack P. Zahn, Town and Country secretary, or Norman Wilcox, boys program secretary, Lansing Y. M. C. A. will give full details.

Grange Supports Park Beer Ban

Action of the board of supervisors at its July meet in banning alcoholic drinks from county parks met with the approval of the Wheatfield Grange.

The Grange in a formal resolution set forth that Ingham county parks were created for family recreation and that drinking detracted from wholesomeness of surroundings. The Grange commended the supervisors for their action and expressed hope that the ban will be enforced.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Centennial was colossal.

Will garments keep shrinking?

Parades were interesting.

The centennial celebration at St. Johns, our county seat, has been quite an eye-ful. For months it has been hard to recognize folks. . . men, that is. Then sun-bonnets blossomed out. When old-fashioned dresses appeared it became more fun than ever to go to town. You did not know who was under that bonnet or yards of material without a direct look into her face.

You could be sure she had a merry one for no one entered into the swing of it without acquiring smiles along the way. It has been a lot of fun both for the active participants and the sidewalk kind who went only to look.

We enjoyed the window displays but do not feel that we began to see everything because folks keep telling what they saw. . . and we did not. Seeing an accumulation of such exhibits makes one realize what a long way we have gone towards progress and improvement in most things. . . but now and then time stood still. Some clothing styles seem to be repeating themselves.

I especially enjoyed the really authentic clothes saved through the years in almost perfect condition. . . Do you suppose for St. Johns centennial. . . or the sentiment attached? Anyway, it proves that there must be a great many attics in the county and saving has not gone out of style entirely.

Susy and Sally decided they wanted to put away one of their present dresses for just such a grand occasion as this. . . say perhaps in 2000. . . and see how different it will look then. Sammy didn't want to be left out so his favorite blue suspender pants will be tucked away for him. . . though anything as practical and easy to don would not go out of style, would it???

They have used less material each year in making baby clothes, children's garments and women's sleeves and necklines. . . compared to the beruffled and tucked outfits of 100 years ago. By subtracting a stitch here, a stitch there, do you suppose that another 100 years with result in nudity? I'm not saying that trying to be funny. Anyone with one eye shut and a poor head for figures can see that we use less cloth than we used to.

Ever since they heard that there would be a pet parade the girls planned on taking part. They are strong on pets. The problem was not what, but how.

Finally they decided on a wagon caravan with a favorite pet in each of the 4 wagons. Sammy would sit up in the front one driving "The Old Gray Mare Who Ain't What She Used To Be," singing this as he drove along. The mare being Susy and Sally under a getup that resembled (vaguely) a sway-backed old horse. At least the tail looked like a horse. The head resembled a rabbit looking pig. In between the tail and head it looked like 2 bent over girls who would have tired backs.

But they insisted that is what they wanted to represent and go along with the centennial theme. They practiced in the driveway. Around the light pole they would fly with Sammy yelling, "Gilt up, Nellie, Whoa, Nellie, gee haw, Nellies, oh, Boy, Nellie!"

I laughed so hard I had to sit down on the milkhouse steps. Pete would come out of the barn to see what was going on, shake his head, and grin. Nellie got wilder and wilder, kicking and neighing. Twice Sammy flew out when they rounded the pole but he never let go of the reins.

The night before the parade they practiced with wagons, cages, pets. . . and with the route they were to walk in mind we convinced them that it was too long and hard in that position.

They changed to "Old MacDonald Had a Farm" and back to old-fashioned sisters pulling their little barefooted brother in his wagons. They wore their Aunt Lella's, Grandma Peck's and Great-Grandma Peck's petticoats, blouses, skirts, apron and 'chemise. . . and Anna Conrad's sun-

Mexican Apostolate Vacation School Attracts 95 Youngsters

Ninety-five children, many of them from families of Mexican descent, attended the Mexican Apostolate vacation school at St. James church in Mason. There were 65 teenagers who participated in the weekly program, reported Rev. Fr. Paul J. DeRose, the pastor.

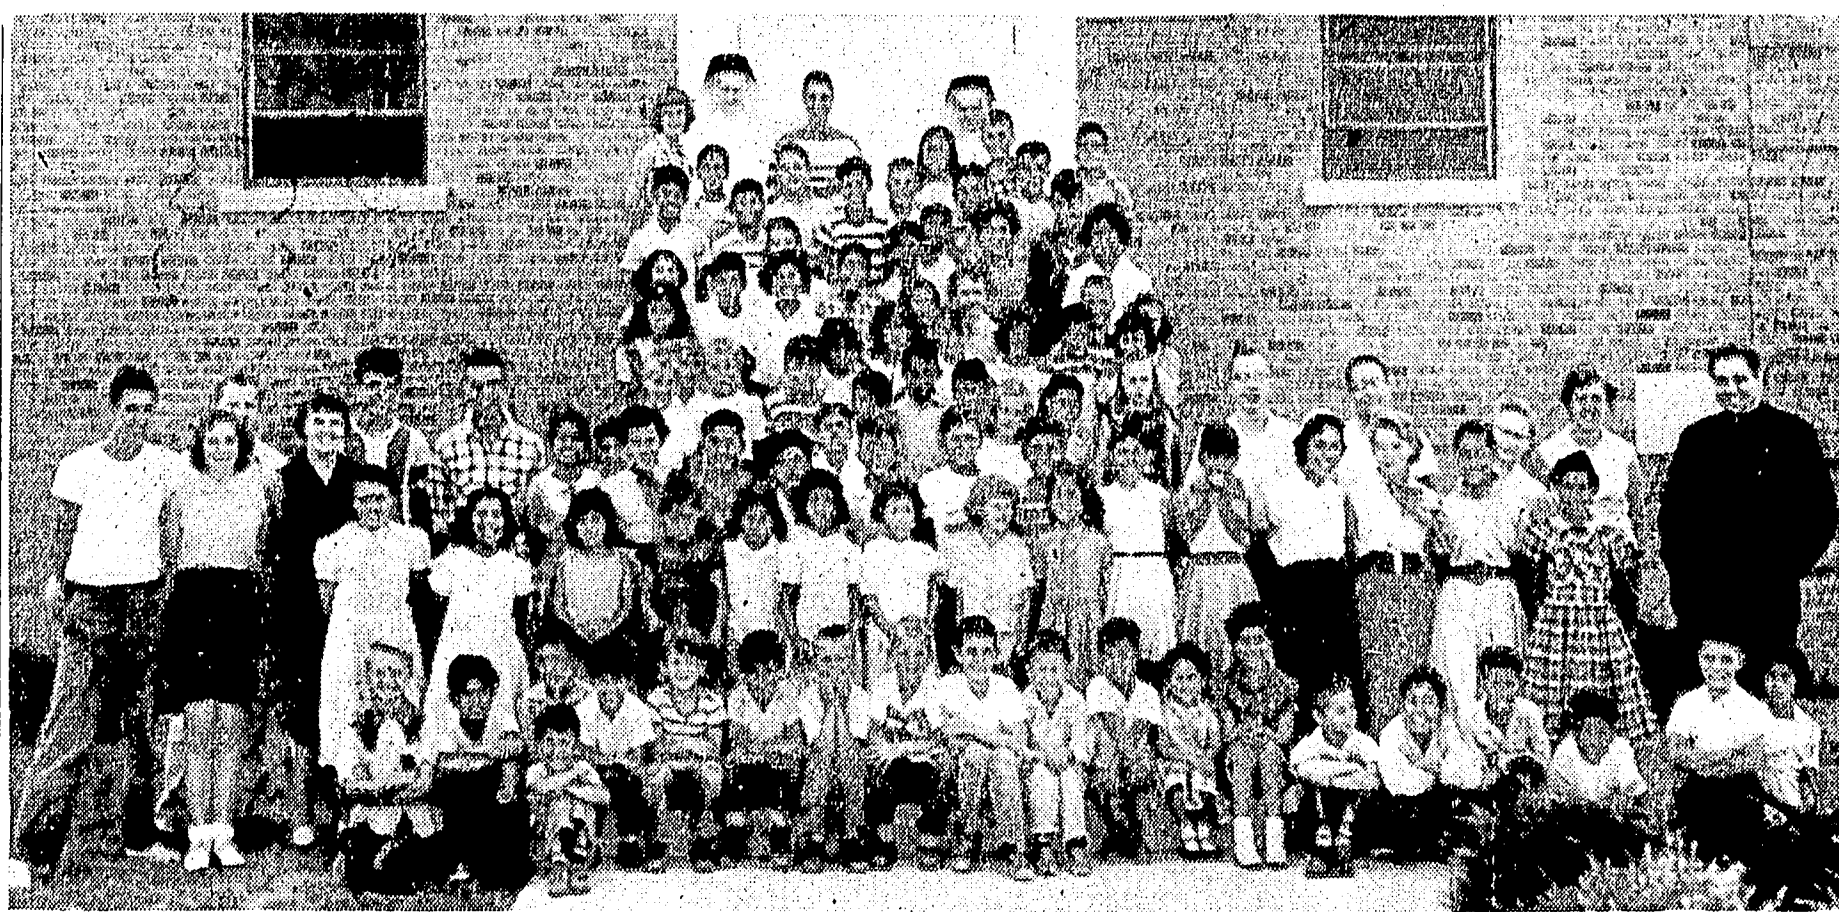

The school was opened June 20 and continued through Monday, July 30. The close on Monday was marked by a party for all the children.

Father DeRose expressed satisfaction over the success of the first such school in the area. Jack Foglio and Ken Fulver, Lansing diocesan seminarians, conducted the classes. Counselors were John and Jerome Tomlin, Mike and Pat Glynn, Dennis McDonald, Sally Halpin, Sara Zaleski, Cathy Sargeant, Sheila McMonagle and Delores Jarvacke.

The 95 children were transported from migrant camps at the Dixon, Patterson, Basore and Jordan farms near Stockbridge and from the migrant camps and from Mexican families in E-ton Rapids and Mason. There were 4 catechism classes taught by Sisters Mary Margaret, O. P., and Maris Stella, O. P., Dominican sisters from the Dominican Motherhouse in Adrian. The teachers lived at the Resurrection convent in Lansing during the 5 weeks of school at Mason.

Ten of the 95 children received their first communion Sunday. Daily class sessions included participation in supervised recreation and games. Mrs. Robert Sargeant conducted music classes.

Sixty-five teen-age youngsters participated in the religious discussion club programs every Friday night. Father Thomas Veier, O. F. M. Cap., and the seminarians conducted the discussion clubs. After the discussions the young people went roller skating at Queen's Parish, Jackson.

The summer school was made possible, explained Father DeRose, with the approval of Father Herrera, diocesan director of the Mexican apostolate, by the generosity of many people. Mrs. James Birney was chairman of the transportation committee. She was assisted by Mrs. Donald Lehman, Mrs. Frank Clery, Mrs. Thomas Moore, Mrs. Louis Beratta, Mrs. Wilbur Singer, Mrs. Frank Schmidt, Jr., Mrs. Gordon Byron, Mrs. Vern Garlow, Mrs. Frank Guerriero, Mrs. Don VanderVeen, Jr., Mrs. Harold Laws, Mrs. Harold Bell, Mrs. Howard Roberts, Mike Ross, Victor Brenner, Richard Strauss and Albert Tomlin. Leo Barron and Robert Sargeant were on the advisory committee.

Father DeRose said many people and firms provided services and gave assistance to the school program. He listed Mason Foodland, Parsons Service, Harvin's Ice Cream Co., Rev. Fr. John Dougherty, Bernard Brown, St. Vincent Home, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jones, Miss Mary DeRose, Mrs. Irving Heipel, Mrs. Kenneth Horn, Mrs. Victor Borejka, Mrs. William Reeser, Don VanderVeen, Sr., and Mrs. Joe Peters.

HELLO! Folks of Ingham County!

Can Harry Doesburg come into your home with a brief message? I am not a candidate for any office, I am not seeking a favor from anyone, nor am I looking for a position in this county from anyone who might be elected to office.

The people of this county have let it be known that there is a position open as sheriff. There are 4 who have placed their applications before the people.

I trust that the people of Ingham are aware of the real importance of this position and that they will exercise their thinking along these lines.

The gentleman I am about to introduce to you, the folks of Ingham county, as your next sheriff, will conduct this office as a law enforcing unit. He will conduct himself as we would expect any public servant to act and that is by being honest, upright, and on the job at all times. And if he would ever fail the people of this county after you place your faith in him, he would gladly step down and make a complete surrender to us, the taxpayers.

Marion Rex Bayles was raised in Lansing. He served 4 years as city councilman, 3 years as chairman of the police and fire committee and one year as a county supervisor. Some say they don't know this man. NOW IS THE TIME TO GET ACQUAINTED.

4-H Tour Mixes Business and Pleasure

GARDENING pays off for the family larder as well as in 4-H honors. John Mumsby tells how he handles his half-acre family garden. (Ingham County News photos.)

REXANN BEAUMONT has her senior yearling Hereford just about ready for the Ingham fair. Her brother, George, also has a senior yearling. Their sister, Marlene, is getting her exhibits ready for the fair too.

There's work to the 4-H program. No achievement comes without work. There's fun too. That should be on tap when young folks get together. Both work and fun make a 4-H club tour delightful. Boys and girls and their leaders, their parents and even the county club agent get into the act. Boys and girls see what others are doing. Parents visit neighbors. Club leaders see what has been done in project work and what should be done. The county club agent gives advice and sometimes gets some.

That's the general scheme of a club tour. That's the program worked out by the Onondaga Community 4-H club last Saturday night, with a picnic supper added for good measure.

Mrs. Dee Smith is leader of the Onondaga Community Farmers 4-H club. It is a year-around club, handicraft, for boys and knitting and sewing for girls in the winter, with livestock, gardening and foods in the summer. The club of 30 members has project leaders, Richard Byrum, handicraft and beef cattle; Robert Mohr, gardening; Mrs. Ward Lentz and Mrs. Gile McMichael, food preparation; and Mrs. Robert Moore and Mrs. George Beaumont, clothing.

Saturday night's tour started at the Robert Byrum home on Bellevue road, where Bill Byrum has beef cattle and hogs. He and his brother, Richard, 9, showed Bill's 2-year-old and yearling Hereford helpers and Yorkshire sow and pigs.

At the Nowlin farm Dora Nowlin's flower garden was inspected. It recovered from the July 16 hail better than did corn in neighboring fields. In the Nowlin house Cynthia Corwin, Linda Ridley, Ann McLean and Rexann Beaumont demonstrated foods and how tables should be set.

John Mumby in his fourth year of club work has a half-acre garden. His potatoes, sweet corn, melons, and other vegetables will keep the Mumby table well supplied. Viewing that garden gave several parents ideas for 1957 projects.

At the Denn Emens farm on Olds road Kenny Perrine's sheep and dairy calves of Bobby Emens and Tommy Emens were inspected.

At the Beaumont farm Rexann and George exhibited their senior yearling Herefords.

The last stop was at the Mont Hayward farm where Larry Todd led his 11 months old Holstein around for inspection.

At most of the stops Wilmot McDowell, county club agent, commented on the condition of the gardens or the livestock. In the case of livestock he made suggestions for showing at the county fair.

It was 8:30 when Baldwin park on the Grand above Onondaga was reached. Cars had to be parked so headlights would shine on the tables and people could see to eat. Everybody was hungry at such a late supper and no one stood on ceremony.

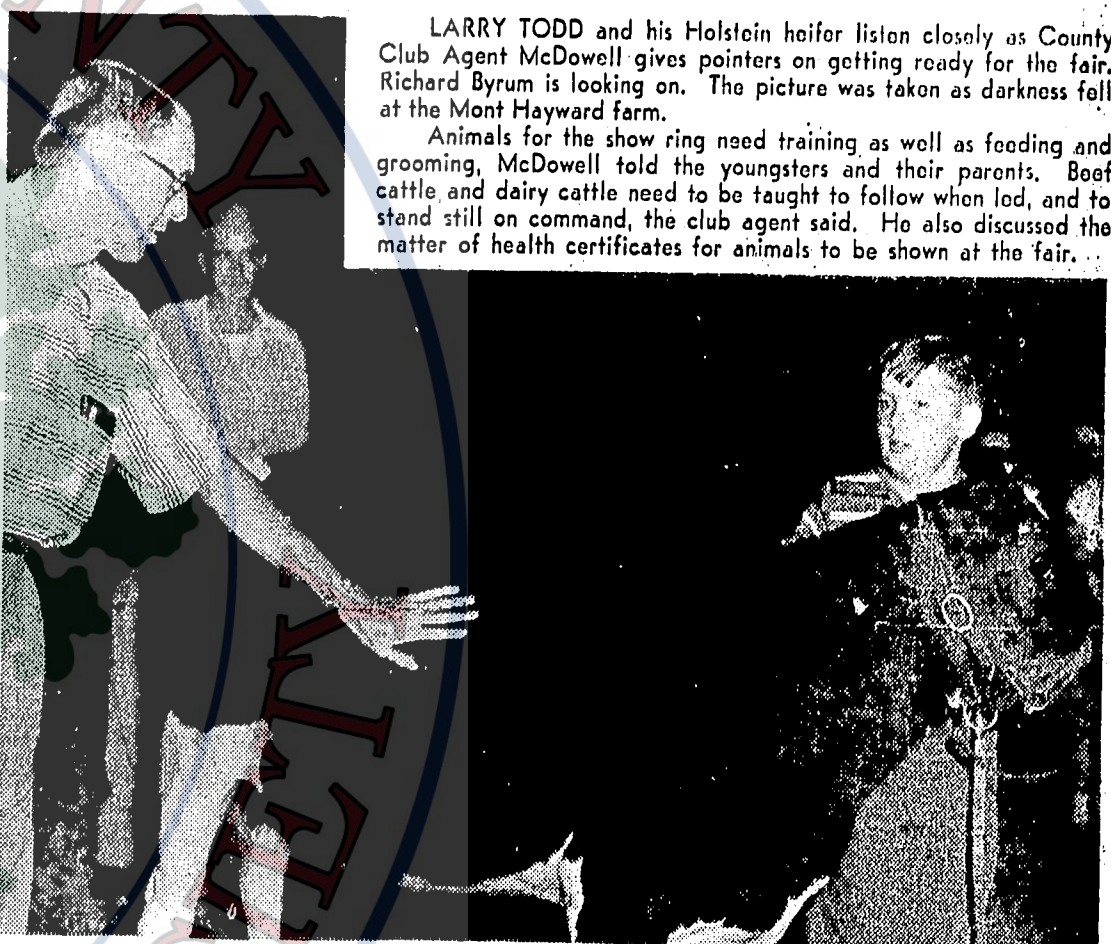

There were 45 at the table, and there would likely have been more had not fathers and older brothers stayed in the fields to combine. There had been such a long spell of wet weather that farmers with wheat wanted to stay in the fields until dark.

BILL BYRUM is in the beef project. He has 2 Herefords, and has his young brother, Richard, as a helper. Richard is only 9 and can't enter 4-H work for another year. But he's learning all he can about caring for animals and about getting them trained for the fair.

LARRY TODD and his Holstein heifer listen closely as County Club Agent McDowell gives pointers on getting ready for the fair. Richard Byrum is looking on. The picture was taken as darkness fell at the Mont Hayward farm.

Animals for the show ring need training as well as feeding and grooming, McDowell told the youngsters and their parents. Beef cattle and dairy cattle need to be taught to follow when led, and to stand still on command, the club agent said. He also discussed the matter of health certificates for animals to be shown at the fair.

FARM WOMEN no longer slap dishes of food down onto an oil-cloth covered table. Girls in 4-H work learn to set the table in style. These 2 girls are showing how to fix a tasty salad. Another girl set the table. Wilmot McDowell and Mrs. Richard Byrum are among the interested spectators at the demonstration presented in the Nowlin farm home on Bellevue road.

SHE WAS A CHILD STAR

Margaret O'Brien Returns

"Blackjack Ketchum, Desperado," rides into Oxhorn, this time on the side of the law, to outdraw 6 professional killers in Columbia Pictures' story of the legendary Texas badman, at the Fox Theatre, starring Howard Duff and Victor Jory and featuring Maggie Mahoney. It will appear as a double feature Friday and Saturday.

Duff, in the title role, is trying to live down his deadly past and peacefully wed his fiancée, Nina, in the small town of Oxhorn. When the Tettlows and their professional killers move in with their immense herd to take over the already-scarce grazing land, Blackjack reluctantly dons his 6-shooters as the leader of the desperate ranchers.

Double Feature
Terry Moore, Academy Award-winner, stars in "Postmark for Danger," which comes to the Fox as a double feature Friday and Saturday.

Authentic scenes of London's most famous landmarks create a compelling background in this drama. The locale outside Milan, Italy, is the setting for a car smashup that sets off the film's key mystery. "It was no accident," in the opinion of Scotland Yard, and a manhunt starts that uncovers a gang of diamond smugglers.

Margaret Returns
A romantic story of the Kentucky Bluegrass and the picturesque turf folk who have made that region synonymous with the color and glamor of the "fleece" limbed thoroughbred, "Glory" brings a pageantry of song, sentiment and the salty tang of life and love in the stable area, to the screen of the Fox Theatre Sunday and Monday.

"Glory" takes on added interest since it signals the entrance of 18-year-old Margaret O'Brien, former child star, upon her new career as an adult star.

"Glory," an RKO Radio Super-Technicolor feature, also notches up a fine credit for the able cast headed by Miss O'Brien's costars, three-time Academy Award Winner Walter Brennan and Charlotte Greenwood.

Fighters Appear
The world's heavyweight championship fight between Max Baer and 6-foot, 10-inch Mike Lane in "The Harder They Fall," starring Humphrey Bogart and co-starring Rod Steiger and Jan Sterling will be at the Fox Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Cameraman Burnett Guffey,

MSU Undertakes Study of Static

Static electricity is being closely studied today by science and industry with the hope of finding new ways to control or take advantage of it.

A Michigan State university physicist, Dr. Donald J. Montgomery, is currently conducting one of the nation's most comprehensive studies of the phenomenon.

Dr. Montgomery explains that one reason for new interest in static electricity is its importance in the use of modern plastics, adhesives and synthetic fibers.

Ledges Playhouse Offers Stage Hits

A real highlight of the 1956 summer schedule at the Ledges Playhouse, Grand Ledge, will be reached next week when the Slout Players present "The Rainmaker." The play will open Tuesday, August 7.

"The Rainmaker" is a western play. It concerns the Curry family and their efforts to overcome a drought season by hiring a flamboyant con man to bring rain. The story unfolds with comedy and absorbing action.

Shirley Spencer is cast as Lizzie Curry, a part made famous on Broadway by Geraldine Page. Bill Slout will play the swash-buckling fraud, Bill Starbuck. Also featured are Jud Garland, Ralph Kerns and Weldon King. "Legend of Sarah" is the present attraction at the playhouse. It is a salty tale of a young writer's attempt to induce a former mistress back to their shady habits in Greenwich Village.

Have it to thyself before God. (Romans 14:22.)

The people of a certain church had saved some money to build an education building by their church. An assembly of church members was held. The pastor presented the construction plans and estimated cost of the new building.

In opposition somebody said: "I consider it a great risk to take so large responsibility when our available money for this purpose is very little more than the amount of the first installment to be paid." The pastor replied: "If my brother has faith, let all be in the hands of the heavenly Father."

Two years later the building was finished. The beautiful building was an eloquent evidence of the truth how men can receive from God's hands when they have faith in God.

Now, if somebody talks of this building as a victory of men only, the pastor says, in protest, "No! It was a work of the faith!"

PRAYER
O God, we praise Thee for the unshakable faith Thou dost give. We praise Thee for Thy servants of long past days and of people we know today. Use us to do something for Thy great kingdom. We ask it in our Saviour's name. Amen.

LYLE A. THORNBURN, Secretary

If You're Like Me

You've never seen an injunction, but you'd rather see than be subject to one.

Just within the past few days
I've seen newspaper stories telling how various courts have issued injunctions to protect the owner of a patent, to stop someone from putting up a building which was a hazard to the neighbors, to prevent "unfair competition," and to stop certain practices in strikes and boycotts.

I've found that the injunction got its name because in the old days the English king commanded ("enjoined") special action when an ordinary court action could not solve a problem at hand. Today it is an order requiring a person (or corporation) to refrain from doing a particular act.

As a rule, you would first get a "temporary" injunction which would stop someone from doing something harmful—like polluting a stream or annoying the peace of your home. By granting it the judge preserves the status quo until a hearing has been conducted to hear both sides of the controversy. Usually, if you want an injunction, your lawyer will take sworn statements into court to show that your grievance is one which could be taken care of only by an injunction.

Often you must put up a bond to make up for any damage you do the other side if the court doesn't see things your way.

After you've made your request, the court arranges to hear the other side. They must "show cause" why the injunction should not be issued. Because most injunctions deal with immediate problems, the court hears the merits of such a case in a very short time.

After the temporary injunction is issued, a "permanent" injunction may be obtained or either party may start a lawsuit to settle the problems which the temporary injunction has cleared up for the moment.

If the court grants an injunction, it must be served on the defendant to be effective. Then if he disobeys the order, he is disobeying the court and is subject to a fine, a jail term for "contempt of court," or other action by the court.

Witnesses Hear Prophecy Of Lasting World Peace

Almost 15,000 men, women and children gathered in Lansing Sunday heard a prophecy that permanent peace will soon come to the world. Some of the 15,000 had spent part of Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Mason, Leslie and Holt. People came from all over the state to attend the Watchtower convention, a stated gathering of Jehovah's Witnesses. The crowd taxed Lansing hotels and motels beyond capacity and many of the convention guests took rooms in Holt, Mason and Leslie.

from 6,000 years of recurrent war and strife. Such a view inspires no confidence, brings little hope of peace.

Recounting the world's previous need for peace Anderson reviewed its conflicts from 2,000 B. C. to the present time. "The world needed peace when the Babylonians, Assyrians, and Egyptians kept the Mesopotamian valley in a bath of blood," Anderson said. "It needed peace in the days of Israel when the Amalekites, Jebusites, Perizzites and other pagan nations fought. It needed peace 42 years ago this fall when all the major nations plunged into World War I, 'to make the world safe for Democracy."

"World leaders stated that this war would end all wars. World War II came along and again there was no peace. In fact, there has not been one whole year of peace since Israel's day many centuries ago. "Desperate men have reared up the United Nations to fill the gap. Peace conferences of this body are in continual session to implement peace but already there is talk of World War III."

Just to desire peace doesn't bring peace. Until the divisive factors are removed there can be no peace on earth, he said.

Reading from James 4:1 he went on, "From what source are there wars and from what source are there fights among you? Are they not from this source, namely, from your cravings for sensual pleasure which carry on a conflict in your members? You desire and yet you do not have. You go on murdering and coveting, and yet you are not able to obtain. You go on fighting and waging war. You ask, and yet you do not receive, because you are asking for a wrong purpose, that you may expend it upon your cravings for sensual pleasure."

Selfish differences have caused this dissension and world unrest, Anderson said. God predicted through his word the Bible that so long as sin and rebellion exist there will be no peace, he added. However, in the same word he predicted that a world free of sin and rebellion with lasting peace can and will be realized, Anderson asserted.

The speaker read scripture after scripture to prove this argument and then concluded, "Jehovah's faithful servants as mirrors of God's word reflect a bright and clear future."

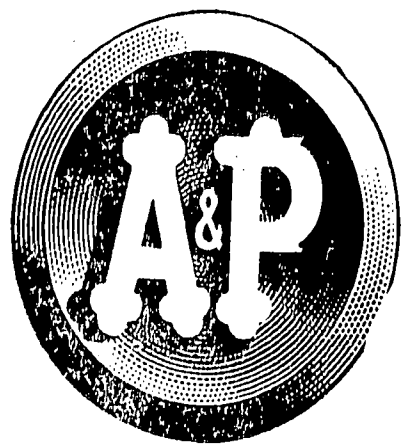

His final admonition to all of good-will was, "Turn your back on old world violence and live for the new world where men will learn war no more. Peace will come in our day."

The tremendous preaching work which must be one before Armageddon.

SCHOOLS OF FUTURE
Many changes are in store for America's schools of the future, predicted Dr. Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, in a lecture at Michigan State university. Among his predictions: Automation releasing more teachers to teach, television a commonplace classroom aid, closer coordination between schools and the community and more experimentation with courses of study.

Pets Require Bathing Only Infrequently

By Robert G. Schirmer, M. S., D. V. M.
Michigan State University
Hot? Well, your pets probably are just as hot as you are. There are some things that you can do, however, to make them a little more comfortable during the summer months.
An occasional cold dunking may provide relief from heat on a high-temperature day. But the animal should not be washed much more often than once a month under normal conditions.

When you do wash the pet, be cautious about what type of soap you use. Household detergents are fine for dishes and clothes, but they may affect your dog or cat quite differently.
Detergents will remove the natural oil from the animal's skin and hair, leaving the hair unruly and unmanageable. Even worse, the animal may become prone to dermatitis, or other skin infections, just as you would if you made a practice of washing your hair with detergents.

Your animals should be able to ward off most insects, but if insect bites become a problem, make sure you use only sprays, soaps or insecticides made specially for animals. The others may burn the skin rather badly.
Aerosol-type animal sprays are often used with good success and a minimum of bother.
Treat your dog as you would yourself. Wash dogs and cats with a shampoo having an oil base. A human shampoo will do, or a special one for animals. If your animal has a particularly sensitive skin or a long coat of hair, special problems might arise which require the advice of a skilled veterinarian.
Short-nosed dogs may pant, drool or foam slightly during the summer months, but this is normally nothing to worry about. On hot days, dogs should be kept in the shade or sheltered. Long-haired dogs will be more comfortable if they receive an all-over summer clipping.

Like humans, animals may sometimes suffer from heat strokes. If the animal acts strangely, move him to a cool, quiet place, with cool cloths near him. Give him plenty of water. If he becomes violent or begins to shake uncontrollably, a veterinarian should be called or the animal taken to him.
It is possible that parents of small boys may find "small animal zoos" in their yards or homes this summer. Interest in such collections was revived recently by a picture article in a national magazine showing young nature lovers with home collections.

If your boy has plans for starting such a zoo, give him a few simple warnings first. Tell him not to catch squirrels or chipmunks that are friendly and easy to capture. The animals may have rabies and bite him. It is wiser to trap animals in enclosures that will not injure them. If done in this way, there is greater likelihood the "zoo" specimen will be a normal, healthy animal.
Boys should know their Michigan snakes before trapping any of them for zoo use. Almost none of them in this state are poisonous or in any way dangerous, but it is safer to be positive.

Properly caught and cared-for tadpoles and small animals and rodents should prove interesting and educational for the young nature-lover if he is careful when handling the animals. Some rodents, like rats and mice, may attempt to bite the child and may transmit disease. However, there will be no danger of this if a good trap is used, and the animal transferred to the cage without handling.
The giant liners, America and United States, could sit side by side on the flight deck of the new aircraft carrier, Saratoga.

Age Problem Grows Acute

Recent rent increases and the fact that the cost of living is still rising make the problems of our aging population more acute, and my anger rise. The general indifference towards them is becoming a national disgrace. Those who witness the growing distress among deserving older citizens, with low incomes ask these questions:

Why cannot some of our surplus food be distributed among needy older people when we can feed many other countries? Not that I object to feeding the other peoples of the world. But we must consider our own need first.

Why does urgently needed low-rent housing for the aging remain only a promise? We have had enough promises. Why can't we see some action for a change?

Why do we allow sick older citizens to die for lack of medical care when small incomes make it impossible for them to pay prevailing exorbitant doctors' fees? Why cannot older citizens who are eager to keep their independence and self-respect, be helped to jobs which are not obtainable because of our over-glorification of youth?

One looks to congress for a solution and finds that bills introduced to alleviate these urgent needs are used as political footballs. The creation of a "Federal Council on Aging" leaves not much hope since most of its mem-

Banks of the Sycamore

The first thing I want to make clear, is that this letter is not from the Junior Chamber of Commerce, but from me personally.

I could not help noticing the article on the front page of the Ingham County News last week. The headline read, "Sycamore fill causes dispute."

It seems strange to me that such a place would be printed on the front page of our local paper, when not a soul from the Junior Chamber of Commerce had been contacted to see what the actual plans were. Had it been a piece in the paper praising someone for some real good thing had done, you probably could have looked toward the back of the paper in small print to find it.

bers are the same bureaucrats who have hampered a solution so far.

No wonder that good citizens are aroused when hopeless victims of this delay land in mental institutions where their care is more costly to the nation than would be an intelligent program for the solution of the urgent needs of our aging population.

With the coming elections, we as voters must put some vital thoughts upon this and many other such problems. We must do something now for our aging people.

Promises of Candidates

I suppose readers of the Ingham County News have had the pleasure of looking over the many smiling faces that have appeared on the pages of the paper in the last few weeks. The field is full of candidates for public office and they are busy on the highways, and making many stops to deliver their messages to "we the people." They make many promises of what they shall do, if elected.

In Washington the men who have served you in the past 2 or 4 years are back home. I would not venture to say how much money they have asked the American people for, but one thing I do know. They did a good job of seeing there were no reductions anywhere.

They did get the president to sign the upside down farm bill.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

and they saw to it that all checks that are to be mailed out will be drawn on the Taxpayers Banking and Trust Co. of America.

We have slaughtered hogs. We have burned the wheat. We have fed potatoes to the hogs. We have paid subsidies on many, many items, but Mr. Congressman is your nation stronger, or is it weaker economically? Is it not true Mr. Congressman, that there has been a great increase in the cost of living? With unemployment and continued rising prices the conditions could get serious. If new men are sent to Washington will they see that the light is flickering, or will they pick up where the others left off?

We come back home in our very own state. We have 3 candidates seeking the office of governor. Have you heard one mention the fact that he thought it was high time to hold the lines, and head in the direction of a bit of economy? You have not. Everything is spend more money. We need this. We need that. People are losing their lives from our hazardous highways. What is your death toll so far this year? Less or more? But the motorist today is making a contribution of 10c every time he buys a gallon of gasoline. The motorist watches his mileage, but how many watch the unforeseen costs in the mileage?

Next Tuesday you and I will go to the polls to vote. This day I will call selection day. Your choice of candidates is large. The selection is good if we the people will pause for a bit, and forget party politics.

In primary campaigns, here in your own county, campaigning has come down to what I call silly issues. One candidate says he will fight for an increase in your tax exemption. Why was this not done once before when this candidate was in Washington for 2 years? Another local candidate in the last minute rush has sent men to sea, offered premiums, mustered the cavalry, and air squadrons, but left out the submarines. Will we forget some of the water that has gone over the dam, or will we as never before look at our government, from the hamlet to the capitol in Washington, seriously?

To have better government do vote. Take a friend. Make this a big primary day for "we the people."

Book Talk

Hours open to the public at the Mason Branch, Ingham County Library: Monday through Friday, 2-5; Tuesday and Thursday, 7-9 p. m.; and Saturday 10-1.

Before you make up your mind this fall, find out what really happened in the 1952 election. The Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan has made a study of that election, comparing it with the one before. Some of the questions considered are: Did the women vote Republican? Did the college grads vote for Stevenson? What appeals are most likely to move the voter now? Take it easy, candidates, we have but a few copies. The book is THE VOTER DECIDES, a study of the voters' perceptions, attitudes and behaviors, now in the Ingham county library.

Lamont Buchanan has come up with BALLOT FOR AMERICANS, a pictorial history of American elections. Paintings and photographs, broadsides and posters tell the story of 42 presidential and 84 congressional elections. The book seems to prove a remark once made by a European observer, "Part of the fun of American political campaigns is to watch what silly spectacles the candidates make of themselves."

During prohibition days, there were other spectacles, other campaigns. Such as the smuggling runs made by Manny Zora off Cape Cod. In THE SEA FOX, Scott Corbett sets down the story. Zora was responsible for much of the stuff "right off the boat," even if it had to be scraped off. He was pursued by the Coast Guard at sea and by gangsters on land. Between the 2, he almost became a beachcomber.

Girls that help pull the world together, that's how some PHILANTHROPIC FOUNDATIONS see themselves, according to a book by F. Emerson Andrews. He describes the types of foundations now in existence, with estimates of their assets and current expenditures. He claims they now give away about 5 billion dollars a year. It is made plain that no personal gifts are allowed, and he describes the procedures followed in securing grants.

Living American language is the interest and occupation of Mitford Mathews. He has proven it again by editing A DICTIONARY OF AMERICANISMS, containing words or expressions that originated in America. This dictionary is based on historical usage, that is, every meaning is backed up with a dated quotation. Coined words are included, as bugologist for entomologist. The earliest use of the term "Michigan" they quote as 1835. "Michiganeese" in 1837, "Michiganian" in 1819, "Michiganian" in 1813, and "Michiganite" in 1894. What'll you have?

Ask any of the local dealers—they'll say USED CARS—A GOLD MINE. Eric Cassier has bought and sold 8 million dollars worth. In this book he reveals the secrets of his trade. Customers should read it, too, to make the game more interesting.

Do you have a hungry buffet in your house? Load it down with food from the BUFFET COOK BOOK by John and Marie Robe.

son and listen to it groan. By using casseroles or chafing dishes, these authors show that you can be gay and carefree as your guests. One of the casserole dishes is ham and squash in elder. What could be gayer? There are more than 100 illustrations of this footloose food.

With a full stomach, let's tune up on some AMERICAN MOUNTAIN SONGS. Compiled by Ethel Richardson, arranged by Sigmund Spaeth, the book contains ballads, lonesome and love tunes, spirituals and nonsense songs. Besides the words and music, there are notes on the origins of some of the ballads and most of the language.

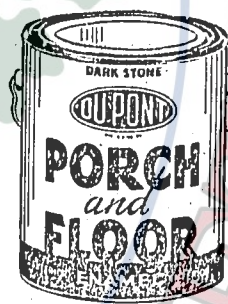

Before buying records, consult RECORD RATINGS, the Music Library association's index of record reviews. It was compiled by Kurtz Myers, head of the Music and Drama Department of the Detroit public library. This book lists almost all serious music ever recorded in the U. S., each with a summary of opinion of the major reviewing media. Pressings go back to 78 rpm, and are so arranged that you can find what has been recorded of some of your favorite musicians, composition, conductor, artist, or orchestra.

If you've ever prepared a bibliography, you should know that there are bibliographies of bibliographies. Or even bibliographies of bibliographies of bibliographies. At any rate, Robert B. Downs has prepared a bibliography of bibliographies with 5,578 entries, all classified by subject. Many of them indicate special collections in libraries, thus the title, AMERICAN LIBRARY RESOURCES. There are 14 entries on Michigan history.

No longer need you twiddle your thumbs at parties. Make them do tricks of legerdemain and you'll have everybody on the edge of their seats. Before they leave, do some card tricks, and go into a clairvoyant trance. While waiting for the doctor to come, remind them that you learned it all from the GREATER MAGIC LIBRARY in 5 volumes.

The old wizard of the diamond says he never deliberately spliced anyone in his life. So states John McCallum, author of an informal biography of Ty Cobb, THE TIGER WORE SPIKES. This inside story claims that Cobb played in more games, made more runs, more hits, more triples, more stolen bases, and had a higher lifetime batting average than any other player.

Don't cry, little man, don't cry...

This unhappy little fellow is learning an important lesson — tears do not solve problems.

Life brings many difficulties to the average person, often heavy burdens of responsibility, grief, and pain that must be met without compromise.

But there is a wise solution for all of us if we fortify ourselves with qualities that will give courage, faith, and hope in the face of all trouble.

In hours of stress and anxiety, the Christian religion is a rock of refuge. In the Church you will find spiritual strength, guidance, and enduring comfort. Go to God's House and put your trust in Him.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Legislature Takes Recess In Feud Over Employment

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

Forced into more recesses than a kindergarten class, the state legislature took another temporary leave from Lansing July 18 after scheduling an August 6 date to reconvene.

The legislative technique of "meet-recess-meet again" is the answer given to Governor Williams for his action in calling back the members for special sessions. Last year he called a second special session when the legislature adjourned without acting to his satisfaction. But the governor is powerless to end the recess.

Present deadlock of interests in the governor-legislature feud won't be broken soon, according to Capitol observers.

A new unemployment compensation plan is the core of this dispute.

Republicans charge that the governor is trying to capitalize on Michigan's economic situation as a political ploy. They place small stock in his "gloom and doom" tactics. Leaders hold that early summer decreases in employment were temporary; that the state is not heading towards "disaster."

Both sides agree that the legislature is doing little. The Democrats refuse to take action in the unemployment "emergency."

Republicans on the other hand see too much smoke and no legitimate plan being presented by Governor Williams. But they protect the situation by standing ready to act if unemployment should assume larger proportions.

Free polio vaccine will be available for a third shot to all children from one to 14, because of the only bill approved by the legislature during its July meeting. This will cost about $831,000.

Two other proposals, including the final appropriations for the new medium security prison at Ionia and a bill to give the driver-licensing department power to keep bad drivers off the highway, were not approved by members at the special session.

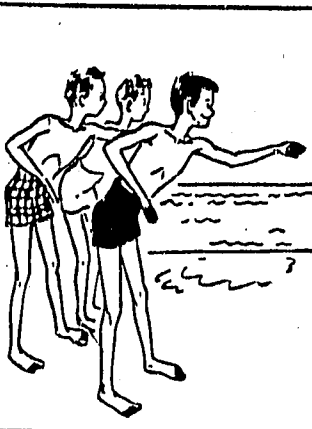

Construction workers refuse to continue building the new Ionia prison unless the state agrees that prisoners will not be used on any portion of the job.

Republican leaders feel the situation is incongruous in that unions, which often receive close cooperation from Governor Williams, are now delaying his prison program.

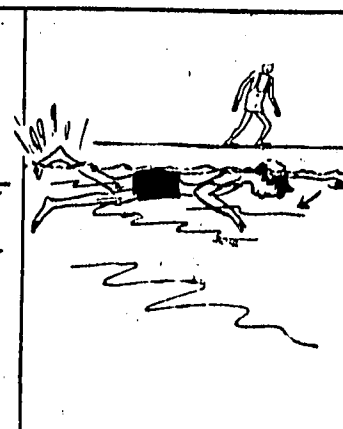

The "bad-drivers" bill, legalizing license denials because of poor driving record, received a temporary setback when some Democratic senators attacked it. They claim it grants new powers which would be too broad. When the arguments ended the bill was sent back to the highway committee.

Opposing groups met after the session and agreed on a change in the bill which would deny a license to anyone convicted of 6 moving violations in the preceding 24 months. On this basis, legislative leaders say passage of

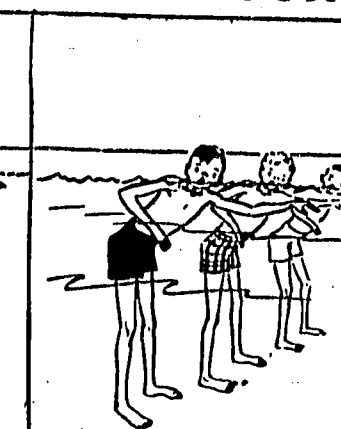

Learn to Swim---3

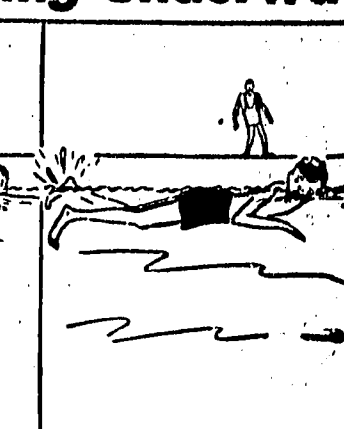

1. The arm-stroke which is most basic to swimming is commonly called the "dog-paddle." Practice sliding the arms forward alternately then pressing backward, first on land, then standing bent forward in shallow water, and finally lying face down.

2. Next combine the "dog-paddle" of the arms with the crude flutter kick previously learned. Start with the glide, add the flutter kick, then add the arms, and you will be able to cover as much distance as one breath will allow.

3. To swim any distance with your newly acquired strokes you must be able to breathe while swimming. This is where "blowing bubbles" comes in. Take the above position in the water, inhale at one side, then roll the face under water and exhale.

4. Now fit the breathing into the stroke in this way: Start with a prone glide, add the arms, and then put in the breathing. Turn the head to breathe in as one arm is extended beyond the head, exhale under the surface, and repeat each time the same arm extends.

Getting Underway

the proposal seems assured at the August meeting.

Michigan's speed law is not as simple as a limit of 65 miles per hour by day; 55 at night. In fact, drivers pulling trailers have been arrested legally when driving within these ranges.

The State Bar of Michigan became so concerned over the lack of general understanding concerning speed laws, it took pains to warn drivers of this exception: a vehicle pulling a trailer is limited to less than 50 miles per hour, regardless of posted limits.

Laws covering cars with trailers were defined prior to the new speed law, according to State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs. They provide that any vehicle hauling a trailer of any weight under 5,000 pounds is subject to the 50 miles-per-hour limit, while trailers over 5,000 pounds weight must observe a 45 miles-per-hour maximum speed.

Michigan residents should understand that in many local and resort areas stringent enforcement of the above limits is often observed, the State Bar comments.

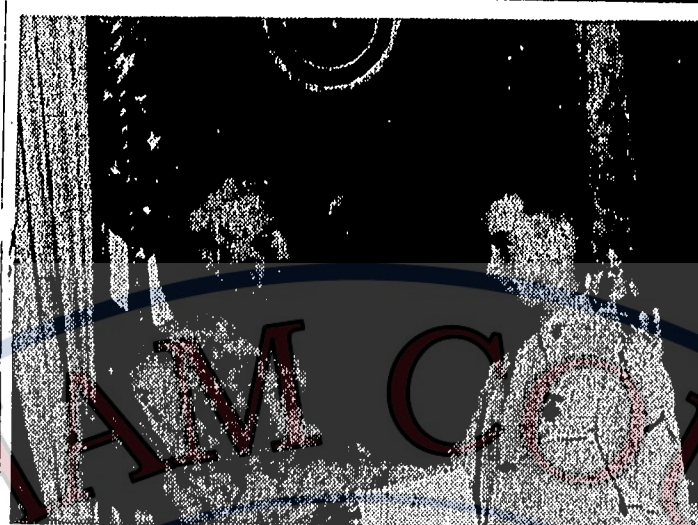

Irresponsible political candidates who fan racial and religious prejudices to gather votes will receive no help from their respective political parties.

A fair election practices committee composed of Michigan educators, clergy representing major religious views, and members selected from minority racial groups, is being reactivated by Governor Williams as a watchdog over the 1956 campaign.

Wholeheartedly endorsed by Republican Chairman John Felkens and Democratic Chairman Neil Staebler, the committee relies entirely on its ability to rally public opinion in curbing anonymous attacks, and racial and religious bigotry.

First initiated 4 years ago, the committee served in the last 2 elections with good results, said Boris M. Joffe, secretary of the board. All results in investigations are made public in reports throwing the spotlight on offenders.

Michigan Mountains Once Towered as High as Alps

By ROSAMOND HAAS

Michigan once boasted mountain peaks as high as any of those in the Alps or the Andes, according to Russell C. Hussey, professor of geology at the University of Michigan.

"At one time, the Killarney mountain range—one of the grandest mountain ranges in all history—extended, in Michigan, from Marquette west to the Houghton-Hancock area. The Hurons and the Porcupines are remnants of the great Killarney range which in length extended some 1,000 miles from Ontario southwest to Oklahoma," Professor Hussey stated.

But this all-but-vanished grandeur was a feature of pre-Cambrian days, more than 500,000,000 years ago, before the advent of the seas which covered Michigan at intervals during long geologic periods.

For Michigan has, in fact, been invaded at least 12 times by great bodies of marine water, the geologist stated. Evidence of the one-time presence of these seas is at hand in Alpena, Rogers City and Petoskey where rocks, containing marine fossils of the animals which once lived in these great shallow bodies of water can be found, he explained.

These rocks were soft muds previous to the withdrawal of the seas in the Upper Peninsula the fossils are best studied in the Escanaba area where the rock crops out along the Escanaba river.

According to Professor Hussey, the first sea that invaded Michigan swept in about 500 million years ago—the last about 200 million years ago.

He stated that these ancient seas advanced along 4 seaways—lower California, the Alaskan area, the Newfoundland-Nova Scotia area, and the region of the Gulf. The seas, which from time to time have invaded all the continents, and on this continent pushed in as far as Michigan, encroached wherever the land, slowly sinking, had subsided below sea-level.

The geologist called attention to the fish-fossil-bearing rocks of the Alpena quarries of the Devonian period. "At that time," he asserted, "tropical conditions prevailed over a good part of North America and Michigan was covered by warm, shallow seas in which corals lived. Whole Silurian coral reefs may be traced from Ontario, southwest through northern Michigan down into Ohio, Illinois and Indiana."

Commenting on North America's present "dry" interval, the geology professor said that there has been no invading sea for 60 million years. "But we are sure to get another! At some time in the future the land will undoubtedly sink and another great sea will come in. It's quite likely that Hudson Bay may be the beginning of another such sea."

Soldiers Study Lessons on Film

U. S. servicemen all over the world are now able to study high school courses via television, thanks to educational television stations such as WKAR-TV at Michigan State university.

The Michigan State university television station recently began producing 2 series of 20 programs each in American history for the U. S. Armed Forces Institute. The series of film lectures will cover 2 high school semesters.

According to Dr. Charles J. McIntyre, education TV chief for the Office of Armed Forces Information and Education, the films will be televised over armed forces television stations, shown as conventional film at military bases which have enrollment in USAFI courses, and supplement group study classes in the armed forces.

Basic Economic Law

A basic economic law is that you can't get something for nothing, either from the government, or anyone else. Each pound of wage and fringe benefit increases given to industrial workers might make it appear that way, pointed out W. J. Brake, state grange master. But the increases are automatically reflected in higher prices for the manufactured products which these industrial workers must pay, along with other workers, business and professional people and farmers, Brake added. Quite often these products are necessary to the farmer's business, he said. But in no government farm program that has ever come along has it been possible to get something for nothing, he explained.

More Troopers Are Sought by State Police

Applications for a civil service examination on September 22 for the position of Michigan state police trooper are now being accepted.

Closing date is midnight, August 22, at which time all applications must be in the mail or in the hands of the civil service commission.

Applicants must be between 21 and 29 years of age, inclusive, not less than 5 feet, 9 inches in height and have a high school education or its equivalent. Married men as well as single are accepted.

The state police offers a career service with members being eligible to retire at the end of 25 years on a pension of half pay which also goes to widows.

Beginning with the time he enters training school, a new trooper receives $151 every 2 weeks, with regular increases thereafter up to a maximum of $222 in that rank. Promotions also bring substantial increases.

In addition, the trooper gets $3 a day for subsistence, paid vacations, paid sick leave, extra vacation days beginning with the sixth year of service and longevity pay upon the completion of the sixth year.

Application blanks may be obtained at any state police post, or from the state civil service commission or state police headquarters in Lansing.

The current applications are to fill out 168 new trooper positions granted by the legislature this year.

Small Business Makes Leaders

Do small businesses do a better job of developing executives than large businesses?

A Michigan State university professor, Dr. Eugene E. Jennings, thinks so, and hopes to prove it in a 2-year study of today's shortage of executives.

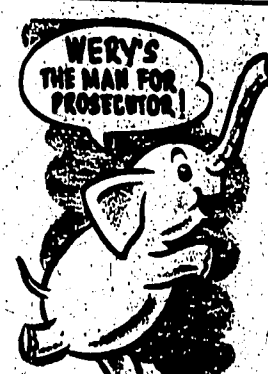

The shortage of executives, he says, is the "No. 1 problem" in business and industry today.

In seeking causes for the shortage, he is stacking questions like these: Is there a so-called "executive type" and if so, what constitutes this "type"? How should executives be selected and who should select them? Who makes the best executive—the old-fashioned tyrant, capable of quick decisions and of making his subordinates jump, or the "modern" type—well versed in human relations and a smooth politician who molds his employees into a team?

Dr. Jennings thinks that part of the cause may be that it is difficult for firms to train key men because executives move around so often. According to the professor, most executives stay on one job only about 5 or 6 years.

Results of the study will have important implications for Michigan State's executive management program for experienced executives (a 4-week course each spring) and its executive development course for graduates and undergraduates.

The Creek Needs the Room

Last year Mason's Junior Chamber of Commerce adopted beautification of the creek banks between Maple and Ash as a project.

It's a good one and the JayCees made a brave start. They slashed down the brush and grubbed out unwanted shrubs and trees. They used a bulldozer to level off the ground. They intend to plant other trees and grass and to have a little park there.

There's a difference of opinion though over the next step. It was the decision of a JayCee committee that a lot of fill dirt should be hauled in, that the area should be built up with dirt before any planting is done.

The first and most important use of the area between Maple and Ash is to prevent floods on Maple street. Nearly every spring the block above Maple serves as a flood valve. It was so this spring. Had there not been ample storage above Maple street the bridge would have washed out and cellars of Maple street homes would have been flooded. Park use should be secondary.

Fortunately there need be no dispute between those who want the area slicked up as a park and those who want only flood protection. Sycamore floods last only a day or so, never long enough to drown out trees or even grass. All that the area needs for use as a park are the trees and the grass and that will grow even better at the present level than on fill dirt, even if the broken sidewalks and curbs are sifted out.

The JayCees should be encouraged to continue with their park plans for the Sycamore banks between Maple and Ash.

The park will be prettier and Maple street residents will be happier if the present grade is maintained.

Permanent Ownership Not Needed

In this column last week was a suggestion that the Mason school board consider a textbook plan widely used in the Thumb. Under that plan the school district provides high school textbooks and rents them to pupils.

Some people who read the piece concluded that the editor was recommending adoption of a socialistic practice; that somehow free enterprise would be jeopardized.

Pupils need only the use, not the ownership of a book. Pupils need to possess the knowledge a book contains, not the book itself. There's no difference between a school district providing a textbook and a blackboard. The title to the blackboard remains with the school district. There's no reason why the title to textbooks should not so remain.

Under the rental system the school district gets back its investment in rentals. The system works well in other places. There's no reason it wouldn't work out well here. It's a suggestion that merits consideration.

Scenery Can Be Beautiful

Yes, scenery can be a real treat, but often it's not in Michigan. This state, with probably the most beautiful landscapes of all, is probably the farthest behind in the effort to rid highways of unsightly billboards and signs.

Those who use the Pennsylvania, Ohio and New Jersey turnpikes can appreciate the difference between the cluttered highways of Michigan and the breathless beauty of turnpike landscapes. No commercial signs or billboards are permitted along the borders of the turnpike which connects the Midwest with the East. The pikes were designed with safety and beauty in mind. Naturally, roadside billboards have no place in such a highway system.

Yet in Michigan, signs are allowed to be erected even in anticipation of future roadways. Michigan taxpayers are paying millions of dollars to build superhighways and then those highways are cheapened by being plastered with signs. It is a distracting influence to drivers to say nothing of distraction from the natural beauty which we like to brag about in Michigan.

Now, Michigan is financing the greatest highway construction program in history. The master plan calls for superhighways to criss-cross the state. Ingham county was one of the first areas to share in this great undertaking. This is the time for us to put our collective foot down against those who would mess up Michigan's roads with cheap signs.

Billboards are all right in street cars, busses and trains or on city buildings. But let's stop there. Let's leave Michigan's one natural attraction—beautiful scenery—out in the open where folks can enjoy it.

It ought to be against the law to erect hideous signs along any public road. Such signs as are permitted should be standardized and permitted only to direct or otherwise aid drivers in their travel.

It's a Party Primary

At every primary election in Michigan some voters spoil their ballots by marking them for candidates on both parties.

Partisan primary elections are for parties to nominate candidates. They are for Republicans to choose the men and women they want as candidates, and for Democrats to choose their candidates. The choice as between Republican and Democratic candidates comes in November, not in August.

"But what do I do if I'm neither a Democrat nor a Republican?" some people ask.

The answer is, that such a person under Michigan law may go to the polls and without disclosing party preference vote for candidates only on one side of the ballot. The only alternative is to stay away from the polls.

Partisan primary elections are for parties to choose candidates. They are called primary because nomination is a first step, and election comes later or not at all.

Where Beer Belongs

The brewing industry is spending millions of dollars every year to try to have its product accepted as respectable. "Beer belongs," the brewers say.

A wretch so inhuman as Howard W. Moore of Lake Orion might have murdered the 3-year-old without having been stupefied with beer. So might the Lansing man who killed the little boy 6 years ago. He had been drinking beer, too. Yet Moore blamed his crime on beer and so did the Lansing man. And who could possibly know better what impelled them to commit such deeds?

True it is, that few people who drink beer would ever do such deeds, regardless of how much they drank, yet we can't escape the conclusion that beer does not belong within reach of many others.

If there is a profit to the beer business it does not go to the courts and prisons and state hospitals. It does not go to the parents of 3-year-olds snatched out of playpens and carried off to torture and to kill.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Presidential candidates have zipped through Mason on the Michigan Central. Never has a presidential candidate stopped. Once when Henry Wallace was vice-president the Ingham Democratic County committee arranged for a stop of his cavalcade at Mason, enroute from Jackson to Lansing. There was a foulup. The cavalcade turned left at Jefferson and Lansing street and kept on going.

Last Monday in Mason Wallace expressed regret at disappointing the Mason gathering. And I believe he meant it. He struck me as being a sincere, humble and friendly man. He bears no earmarks of a professional politician—which is why he was doublecrossed by the Pendergasts, the Kellys and the other Big Town bosses who gave us Harry instead of Henry for the fourth term of FDR.

Henry Wallace is a pleasant man to meet. He looks and acts like a scientist, a student—a man more interested in a laboratory than in what goes on in a smoke-filled hotel room. He is the only vice-president I have ever photographed. When the word came last Monday that Henry Wallace was sitting on the front stoop at the Lilly nursing home I hurried to the assignment and forgot the light meter. The camera setting was f11 at 100 with a 40 flash bulb. The film was Super Pan Press, the camera a Speed Graphic. The first of 4 shots was a fizzle. The other 3 were all good.

Always I am surprised when a picture comes out good. There are so many things which can go wrong and so often do when I click the shutter.

It's gladiolus whether there's one flower or a carload from now on at the Ingham County News. Hereofore we have veered between the 2 schools of nomenclature, gladiolus and gladioli for the plural. No less an authority than Douglas Neff of Leanington, Ontario, declared that the word is gladiolus whether singular or plural—just like sheep. Neff is president of the North American Commercial Gladiolus Industry association and here at the Ingham County News his word is now gospel.

More and more in public life today the candidate's wife and his family become part of the deal. Eleanor and the sons and daughters were in the spotlight with President Roosevelt. Bess not so much as Margaret shared the headlines with President Truman. Mamie plays an important part in the President Eisenhower story.

At the Republican picnic in Mason last Thursday night wives and youngsters of candidates were much in evidence. They added glamor and color to the affair. And they probably changed some votes.

There were Mrs. Charles Chamberlain and the 2 Chamberlain daughters, all so winsome and appealing. Should I vote for Chuck for congress, or for Jim Gardner, whose wife baked the raspberry pie served at our table, or for Kit Clardy or Dave Magee?

Patty Wery, 9, handed out campaign literature for her father, Francis J. Wery, candidate for prosecutor. She's a sweet girl and her father ought to be glad she's on his side. Boys get into the act, too. Robert Brooks, Jr., 10 last Fourth of July, carried water for his father at the picnic. Robert Brooks, Sr., is a candidate for prosecutor. His boy kept our table supplied with ice water all during the evening. He might have carried the water because his name is Brooks but I suspect that he was out to help the family cause. Mrs. Brooks is a pleasant woman, and remained so even when I introduced her as someone else to my wife.

Leo Farhat's mother lent her culinary skill to her son's campaign for prosecutor. She supplied a tasty Syrian dish, meat and rice wrapped in cabbage leaves and served steaming hot.

Bob Drake's boy, hardly old enough to carry water, did do some handshaking for his father. Bob's wife and mother help out, too.

Laurence Parker's wife and 2 daughters lend glamor to the husband and father's campaign for county treasurer.

Yes, family acts go over as good in politics as they do on the stage. In this day and age of campaigning the old axiom doesn't hold: He that hath wife and children hath given hostages to fortune; for they are impediments to great enterprises, either of virtue or mischief. Lord Bacon said that back before the days of popular elections.

History never repeats itself, despite an axiom to that effect. Once in a while it comes close to it. A case in point is the Detroit Free Press and Ingham County News. Legend has it that the Ingham County News was launched in 1859 with type from the Detroit Free Press.

The Detroit Free Press has sent another shipment, including some of the same faces sent in 1859. Turn back a page and see the ad that John Knight has been working on the past week when he could spare time from his Editor's Note Book. In the ad for the Free Press are Antique Shaded, Gothics of ancient vintage, Cloister, Open Face Caslon, Shaded Caslon and Cheltenham. After the ad is run we must return the type to the Free Press and distribute it into the cases.

Rex Beaumont of Onondaga has great faith in the Ingham County News, such faith that he did not plow under his corn which was struck by hail July 16.

"My neighbors didn't read the paper as close as I did," Rex said. "They failed to read or failed to heed the Ingham County News report that little damage was done to corn south of Olds road. They went ahead and plowed their corn under. I rely on your newspaper. I let my corn stand and expect to harvest a near normal crop this fall."

Polls open at 7 and close at 8 Tuesday.

Kit Clardy

(Member 83rd Congress)

An Open Letter . . .

TO THE VOTERS OF THE SECOND DISTRICT OF INGHAM COUNTY:—

During the past few weeks I have met many of you personally in advocating my candidacy for the Republican nomination as your State Representative. Others of you have not been at home when I have called or the limits of time and distance have made it impossible for me to stop at your home. To you, I particularly direct this open letter.

Being a life-long resident of Ingham county, (43 years of age), having engaged in the general practice of law in Mason for 18 years, being a veteran of World War II and having my home and family here in the heart of the district, I am sincerely interested in the welfare of the entire district and have had opportunity to become cognizant of its many problems.

My educational background includes being graduated from Mason high school in 1931, obtaining an AB degree from Kalamazoo college in 1935 and receiving my law degree from the University of Michigan in 1938.

Since completing my formal education I have maintained an active interest in civic affairs: I have been out-county chairman of the Red Cross drive, Mason chairman for the Cancer fund, out-county chairman for sale of defense bonds (prior to my entering the armed forces), am presently a member of Ingham County TB and Health society board of directors, am a past president of the Mason Kiwanis club and a member of the Mason Baptist church.

My governmental experience includes serving as city attorney for 5 years, special counsel to a committee headed by Senator Hittle investigating the rate-making procedures of the Public Service Commission, a member of the Mason city charter commission, and a member and for 2 years chairman of the county board of canvassers. While in service I supervised the preparation of the budget for the City of Manila, Philippine Islands (a city of over one million population at that time), and served as an American officer in charge of one branch of the Manila police department.

I sincerely feel that by training and experience I am qualified to ably represent you in the State Legislature and respectfully solicit your consideration in the August 7th primary. In any event, I urge you to VOTE.

Candidate for the Republican nomination

Michigan Farmers Face New Economic Situation

Michigan farmers should get used to operating under changed economic conditions. Some of those changes were set forth in a recent talk by Dr. L. L. Roger, head of Michigan State's department of agricultural economics, in a talk before county agents.

"Forecasting is like shooting at a target," he declared, "the closer you are the more likely you are to hit the target. Any forecast for the future of the complex U. S. economy is at best an approximation."

In 1955 the U. S. economy grew to almost 400 billion dollars, up 4 times since 1940. Credit has reached 12% of the disposable income. Installment credit is increasing and is largest on automobiles.

Being added are more than 2 million consumers each year, a trend that has continued for almost 30 years. However, the increase has been more rapid in the past 5 years than any previous period of equal length. Labor has had a shortage of help and therefore labor has received an increased income per worker.

There may be a change by 1965. Since 1940 production has been up 70%. Inventory of products other than farms is not high.

There is an 8.9 billion-dollar carry-over. Farm output is up 37% and stocks of farm products continue to break records.

U. S. farm products are losing out in the world market because world food production is catching up after war time low. Imports and exports of agricultural products will not affect Michigan agriculture very much, since the agricultural products which Michigan has in surplus will not be much needed nor will we want those from other countries.

Land values have continued to increase due to the need for larger farms. The farmer share of the dollar is dropping. It is now at 41% and will continue to drop because of people wanting more services. These services are largely being done away from the farm such as the frozen food program.

Dr. Roger stated that 1951 to 1955 was the most stable period in history with farm parity about 80%. Since 1948 and 1949 world production of food has increased more than world population. About 91% of the people of Michigan live in the urban area with only 3 to 8% of the income coming from agriculture. Michigan farm prices have been below U. S. average but the trend is reversing. The diversity of agriculture in the state stabilizes its agricultural income but causes wide variation among the different areas.

In order to build the outlook for 1955 the following assumptions were made by Dr. Roger:

There will be a U. S. population of 190 million of people.

There will be no shooting war but a continuation of the cold war.

Economic activity will continue at high 1955-56 level with no more than 4% unemployment.

A U. S. labor force of 75.6 million with 3 million in the armed forces and 1 million overseas.

Output per worker will increase at high rate.

Total output of all goods and AIRPLANE SEEDING of rye in corn is nothing new to Ludell Cheney, shown here standing in a 13-acre field of rye. It furnished 26 heifers good early spring pasture for 3 weeks. Cheney's farm is on College road west of Mason. After a short time to let the rye grow some more, Cheney plowed it under for green manure. Rye was airplane-seeded September 7 and this picture was taken by Melvin Stroud, soil conservationist May 4. Farmers wishing to use airplane-seeding of cover crops in corn can get the details at the co-operative extension office in Mason.

services will increase 33% to 531 billions of dollars.

Average weather conditions will prevail.

Present government farm price support programs will continue with production controls when needed.

Here are estimated production and consumption balance programs for 1965. Consumption of food grains will be up 4% above the present consumption, non-citrus fruits up 5%, citrus fruits up 28%, fats and oils up 12%, feed crops up 8%, livestock up 19%, dairy up 15%, food products up 19.8%, non-food products up 2.9%. In all, total agricultural products would increase 16.9% over 1955 with no great change in price. Food grains would be down 15% in price, citrus fruits down 10%, fats and oils down 8%, feed crops down 10%, livestock down 2%, food products down 7.9% and non-food products down 8.7% or a total for all agricultural products price change down 8%. What does this mean? It means that farmers must work for greater efficiency of production. This no doubt means a continued increase in the size of the farm and the use of many labor-saving machines and equipment.

Though these assumptions may not be entirely correct it would seem to me that they would give us considerable guidance in planning for the future agricultural program in this area of the state.

Lawn Seed Does Best in Late August

August is the month for lawn seeding, according to County Agricultural Agent M. H. Avery. The best time is between August 15 and September 1 in the southern half of the lower peninsula, he said.

Avery pointed out that grasses grow best during cool, moist weather, and this area gets that kind of weather most often during September and October. By planting in August you get the rains and still make sure the grass seedlings have enough growth before winter comes to survive cold weather.

Another point in favor of fall planting is that the grass has little competition from annual weeds.

Here are some recommendations: Kentucky bluegrass does best

State Farm Tour Includes Labor-Saving Management

How 2 men can handle a 50-cow milking herd, tend 100 feeder cattle, feed out 60 hogs and yet farm 475 acres will be revealed by Walter B. Lillie, Montcalm county, during the 1956 state farm management tour.

The tour will visit the Lillie farm west of Greenville during the morning of August 15, according to Everett Elwood, Michigan State university farm economist and state chairman of the tour.

Lillie and his son, Jack, supply most of the labor for this livestock farm. A high school age son, Elwin, helps with summer work.

The Lillies have made use of labor-saving ideas and equipment to help them turn out a large amount of work per man. In the dairy operation, a self-feeding bunker silo with concrete slides and floor have cut roughage feeding time. A shuttle-type conveyor distributes silage from an on soil that is high in both organic matter and fertility. Red fescues do better on red and brown clays, on sandy soils and in shady areas. Best results will come from seeding just one kind of grass.

However, if you're in doubt as to the type of seed to use, try a 50-50 mixture of bluegrass and fescue. If the soil is high in fertility, the bluegrass will predominate, and if the soil is low in fertility, the fescue will take over.

One to 2 lb of seed per 1,000 square feet is the recommended rate of seeding. For even distribution divide the seed into 2 equal portions. Seed one-half while going the length of the lawn, and the other half while going across it.

Put on a high nitrogen fertilizer, such as 12-6-1, just before seeding, and rake it in lightly. Apply the fertilizer at the rate of 10 to 20 lb per 100 square feet.

Grass seed mixtures containing nurse grasses like redtop and rye will start much faster than the pure seed mixtures. But the nurse grasses become coarse and competitive once they are established. The desired grasses should be used alone.

upright silo into a basement manger.

A loose housing arrangement and an elevated milking parlor along with a concrete barnyard are other features which allow the Lillies to maintain a high output per man.

Skilful feeding practices help put good gains on their steers with a minimum amount of labor. Walter Lillie estimates that their feeding program puts about 2 lb of gain per day on each steer.

Elwood urges visitors to come promptly at 9 a. m. to allow time to see the farm's unusual features. Michigan State university crops, dairy and livestock specialists will be present to discuss each feature.

The tour will stop for lunch at the Greenville fairgrounds to hear D. B. Varner, vice-president of Michigan State university. In the afternoon, the tour will continue on to the cash crop farm of Alvin Hansen, near Stanton.

Change Is Made On Committee

Chellis P. Hall of Mason is the new member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee.

Hall's appointment became effective July 26. The committee on which he will serve determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans. Hall succeeds Carlyle C. Waltz, Mason, whose term expired this year.

The other 2 members are Lynn Jewell, Leslie, and Wayne Runciman, Williamston.

The committee works with the county supervisor in connection with all types of loans. It is responsible for determining loan applicants' eligibility, certifying the value of farms being purchased or improved through Farmers Home Administration loans, and making recommendations on loan approvals and loan servicing actions.

Each member is named for a 3-year term and one appointment expires each year. A member completing his 3-year term cannot succeed himself.

FHA Reports On Farm Loans

Ingham farmers obtained loans totaling $145,420 through the Farmers Home Administration during the year ending June 30, 1956, the agency's county supervisor, Harold D. Gates, reported.

Repayments on loans outstanding during the year totaled $144,454.36. The Farmers Home Administration is a supervised credit agency, making loans for full-time farming operations to individuals who are unable to obtain sufficient credit from private sources to carry on a full-time farming program, Gates explained.

At the present time, the Ingham county office has 81 operating loans with a total outstanding indebtedness of $372,677—16 real estate loans which include soil and water, housing and farm ownership with $134,326, making a total of 97 loans with $507,003 unpaid principal.

During the past fiscal year, a total of 43 livestock and machinery loans were made in the amount of $112,470. Under the real estate program, 3 loans were made amounting to $32,950. Livestock and machinery loans are made from 5 to 7 years and real estate loans up to 40 years.

Grass Waterways Make Farming Safer

By MELVIN STROUD
Soil Conservation Service

During the heavy rains, such as we had last spring, more water falls on nearly all cropland than can be soaked up by the soil. Three to six inches of excess rain water runs off every acre of Ingham county farmland each year. This water will run off through some kind of water course. And unless a safe waterway is provided, a gully will usually develop. These gullies, besides carrying away a lot of valuable topsoil, present a real hazard to farming. The safe removal of this surplus water is a problem common to nearly every farm.

Paul Simpson, Aurelius township farmer, has found an effective remedy for these water courses. He has found that one of the most economical and practical means of protecting a waterway is by the use of grass. Simpson has nearly 200 rods of grassed waterways on his 250-acre farm. These waterways have been developed over the past 7 years as part of his complete soil and water conservation plan in cooperation with the Ingham Soil Conservation District. The technical assistance was furnished by the Soil Conservation Service.

The grassed waterway shown in the picture was developed 7 years ago. Simpson used a plow and an auto patrol grader to get the proper size and shape. However, many excellent waterways have been prepared using only regular farm machinery such as plow, disk and harrow. An effective grassed waterway must have certain qualifications or fulfill certain requirements. The shape must be practical for crossing by farm machinery. It must be large enough to safely carry all water brought to it.

The Simpson waterway is about 2 rods wide and one foot deep. It was developed at the same time the field was being prepared for wheat. The grass seed was sown the 20th of August. The best fall seeding date in this area is August 15 to September 1, to take advantage of the fall rains. A seeding mixture of 15 lb of bromegrass and 5 lb of rye grass was sown.

The use of commercial fertilizer and barnyard manure are important to get the grass started. A complete fertilizer high in nitrogen is recommended. Simpson used 400 lb per acre of 5-20-20. This past year the waterway was top-dressed with fertilizer.

After a good dense sod has been established, the waterway

UGLY GULLY would be no more if it was graded and protected by a grass sod. Waterways need the help of shaping, fertilizer and grass seed to prevent such soil losses and dangerous conditions as this picture shows.

AS IT SHOULD BE—Paul Simpson inspects a grassed waterway established on his farm 7 years ago. What once was a gully is now an excellent bromegrass sod. (Photos by Stroud.)

should be protected. Simpson always lifts the plows and straightens the disks when crossing the waterways. He doesn't find this objectionable.

"I don't mind raising the plows when I cross the waterways," Simpson said. "Besides, I consider it a lot better than trying to work through a gully. The grassed waterway is a very practical and effective erosion control practice."

To be most effective, other conservation practices are needed to go along with the grass waterways to protect the field area against loss of topsoil. Each

Farmers Can Get Gas Tax Refund

Ingham farmers can still claim a refund on the federal tax on all gasoline bought and used for farming for the period of January 1 to June 30, said M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

Any owner, tenant or farm operator who buys gasoline for use on a farm can file a claim. A farmer may also ask for a refund of tax on any gasoline used on his farm by a custom operator or neighbor in soil cultivation or raising and harvesting a crop.

For the period, January 1 to June 30, claims may be made for a refund of the tax of 2c per gallon. This should not be confused with the new federal tax of 3c per gallon which went into effect July 1. Refund for this tax may be claimed at the end of the 12-month period, July 1, 1956, to June 30, 1957.

The county extension office has forms for making application for the tax refund. The deadline for filing is October 1 for a refund for the first 6 months of this year. Claim periods shifted to a full 12 months beginning July 1.

Refund claims must not be made for gasoline used off the farm or for purposes other than actual farming, Avery said. He suggested that keeping records to back up the accuracy of the claims is a good idea.

Country & Town

By Jim Brown

It took men with vision to promote, plan and construct the turnpike system which stretches across Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey and into New York. The system will soon span Indiana, making a continuous twin ribbon of highway from Chicago to New York.

The turnpike, linking East with West, is probably the greatest highway in history. Engineers encountered every conceivable problem in its construction. The road streaks through 5 tunnels, over countless bridges and hugs sheer mountain ledges. But with all the engineering problems, the motorist experiences only a gently rolling roadbed with easy curves.

To make the turnpike trip, as was my pleasure last week, is to experience a unique driving thrill. It is possible to cross each state without once stopping.

Plazas for food and fuel are spotted every 25 to 50 miles. They in no way affect the driving speed or safety of others who want to by-pass the plazas. Speeds are held to 65 miles an hour for cars with few noticeable violators. Though the top speed limit is 65, it's possible to average 65 miles an hour, because it's seldom necessary to slow down.

Yes, the superhighway system is a great one. It proves that good engineering can save lives. It's easy for traffic experts to blame the poor dumb drivers for all of the traffic accidents. The experts claim it's speed, poor judgment or disregard for traffic signs. Yet on the turnpike system the average speeds are faster than on other roads and accidents are rare. There are traffic signs on the turnpike, too, but motorists seem to read them.

Yes, engineering plays a big part in the highway death rate. Turnpike drivers are given ample warning of approaching traffic problems. If there's a plaza ahead, motorists know about it 2 miles in advance. If there's a cloverleaf turn-off, large signs are posted 10 miles in advance and then reminder signs every mile. Motorists know what to expect on the turnpike. There are no horse-and-buggy stop signs placed right at intersections too late to remind motorists to stop. The signs aren't hidden by brush. Painted lines designate the outside edge of the highway as well as the center line.

The Ohio pike is the last word in superhighways. It was completed last year. The divided highways are never parallel. The road beds are usually at different levels. The non-parallel approach makes night driving easier and in the event of a car out of control, a huge rolling ditch prevents head-on collisions.

From time to time, the turnpike system vs. super free-ways has meant open war between politicians in Michigan. Actually, as far as construction is concerned, there is little difference. The turnpike system requires the construction of exit and entrance gates and the employment of men to operate the toll system. In all 3 turnpike states, the toll averages about a 1c a mile traveled. In no way is the construction of a toll road different from a free superhighway.

Any argument between those who fight over the feasibility of a turnpike system, can settle their differences on a sheet of paper and a simple question of business policy. A survey would quickly tell whether or not there would be enough traffic on a toll road to pay off the mortgage and provide enough money for maintenance and operation.

The toll road has the advantage of letting those who use the roads pay for them. That means that in a state like Ohio, a lot of the toll money comes from drivers other than those from Ohio. It is debatable whether or not Michigan would have enough outside help to pay for roads through a toll system. Michigan is too far north for the advantage of transcontinental traffic.

The freeway system, such as the one now under construction between Mason and Jackson, is financed through a general obligation bond issue and/or added taxes. Out-of-state drivers ride the freeways free of charge.

Whether it's freeway or tollway, the country needs the superhighway system. It's a new experience in driving ability and safety. The turnpike through Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey proves what can be done to lessen the highway slaughter through better engineering.

Michigan engineers, now leading state taxpayers through the biggest highway construction era in history, should incorporate as many of the good features of the turnpike system as possible.

Limited access roads will save lives.

Michigan's Peach Crop Ranks Third in Nation

Although southern peaches are seen in local markets, home-grown Michigan peaches are not expected to be ready for picking before August 7, and the harvest will be the third largest in the nation.

Michigan's peach production this year is expected to amount to 2,650,000 bushels. Last year's harvest totaled 2,300,000 bushels.

The greater part of Michigan's peach production is centered around Berrien and Van Buren counties in the southwestern part of the state near Lake Michigan. Other sections include the Grand Rapids area and a section around Romeo and in Ingham county with scattered plantings of peaches to be found along the west coast north of the principal areas.

Berrien is the first county to have peaches ripen. It is expected that Redhaven peaches will appear on the market around August 7 to 10 to be followed by the Halehaven variety sometime between August 16 and 19. The Elberta variety should start around August 28 to 30 depending on the weather. Other late varieties should be available during September.

Michigan's 2,650,000-bushel crop this year is third largest. California is first because of demands of its big canning industry with a crop estimated in excess of 35 million bushels. South Carolina is second with a crop estimated at 4,000,000 bushels.

Michigan's production, mostly of freestone varieties, has been less since 1950. In that year it

November freeze either killed or seriously weakened many thousands of peach trees. Replacements in orchards are coming into bearing now, and volume again is on the increase.

Tree-ripened Michigan peaches are excellent for eating out of hand, sliced with cream and sugar, or in pies or shortcake. Nearly all are ideal for home canning or for the home freezer.

Vapor Barrier Prevents Peel

Paint peeling on the outside of your house?

You can prevent a large part of it by putting up a moisture barrier when you redecorate, said James Boyd, an agricultural engineer at Michigan State university.

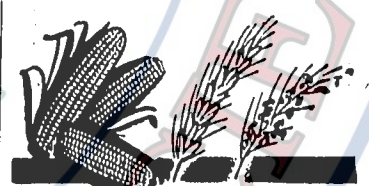

He advised 2 coats of good quality lead and oil paint or aluminum paint as a moisture barrier, especially for the kitchen and bathroom walls. The decorating color can be painted over the aluminum.

If you're building a house, he suggested, make sure you put a moisture barrier, such as plastic film, under the inside finish. If you use insulation that includes aluminum foil, however, the plastic film would not be necessary.

Wheat Spoils If Not Dry

If a farmer doesn't harvest and store dry grain or provide for drying in storage he runs the danger of having "sick" wheat.

"Sick" wheat develops when the grain is stored with a moisture content of 14 per cent or more, explained M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent. Up to 100% of the kernels in a storage may be damaged because of the moisture. Insects are also more active in wet grain than in dry grain.

A farmer can tell whether he has "sick" wheat by examining the germ of wheat kernels. The normal germ is white or creamy white while a "sick" germ is tan, brown, or black. A sharp knife or razor blade can remove the bran which covers the germ.

A farmer can avoid "sick" wheat by getting a moisture test of a sample at the elevator before he combines, Avery said.

And the farmer should be cautious about combining early or late in the day. Just because the dew has dried off the heads of the standing grain doesn't mean the grain is ready for the combine, he cautioned.

The kernels have had all night to absorb moisture, so it pays to wait until the grain is dry enough to thresh and store safely.

Grain should be hauled and stored as fast as it is combined in order to keep it cool. Cool grain will keep better than warm grain in storage, tests show.

MSU Arranges Day for Florists

Michigan florists will have an opportunity to inspect research work being done in floriculture at the annual florists day at Michigan State University, August 9.

In addition to guided tours of the plant science greenhouses, florists will hear practical growers and industry leaders on latest developments in flower production and marketing.

This event, open to all persons associated with floriculture, is sponsored by the MSU department of horticulture and the cooperative extension service in cooperation with the Michigan State Florists association.

year, and that's not surprising. But it's interesting to note what countries show the largest boost in tractor use. Biggest proportional increase has been in the least mechanized region, the Far East. There the increase has been around 55% in the 3-year period 1952-54. Europe was next with a 31% increase, Africa 14%, Near East 12% and U. S. and Canada both 6%.

As tractors increase, horses and mules used on farms dropped materially. Before World War II there were 74.4 million horses in the world. Today there are less than 59 million. There were 184 million mules pre-war. Today there are about 15 million. Believe it or not, there are more camels used for pack and draft animals today than before World War II, rising from 7.8 million to about 10 million.

About 63% of all families in the U. S. were in debt early this year. Federal reserve board reported that about 9% owed on mortgages and personal debt, and about 37% had only personal obligations outstanding. Most of the personal debt outstanding is of the installment type. About 20% of all spending units reported they owed money on new or used autos.

Eight out of 10 married couples under 45 with children reported some type of debt. Only one-third of the spending units headed by persons over 45 and without children had any debts.

County ASC office managers are to get some definite attention from USDA. The positions are to be put on a basis comparable with that of the county agents, local SCS men and other professional jobs in the county. Other county ASC office personnel are to get pay increases when money is made available. The trend in cutting down the size of ASC and county offices, started a few years ago, has gone into reverse. Under new farm legislation, county ASC offices have the responsibility of administering major farm programs such as price support, loans and storage, acreage allotments, agricultural conservation, marketing, quotas and the various parts of the soil bank plan. Volume of work has jumped mightily with the introduction of the soil bank program.

MISCELLANY . . . The world food bank idea is being kept alive in congress but it doesn't have enough strength to get through this session . . . Americans purchased 1.5% more coffee in the first half of this year than they did a year ago. Purchases of "regular" ground coffee declined 2% from last year during the June quarter, but instant coffee purchases jumped 17% . . . Western Europe now has 14% more people than it did before World War II, but its farm production is up 25%. West Europe's livestock output is now 121% of the prewar level . . . USDA boosted direct donations of surplus foods by 50% in the year ending June 30, giving away $547.8 million of it at home and abroad . . . Both weather bureau and private forecasters say we can expect above normal precipitation during August. High July humidity held up grain harvesting, affecting quality. The same was true with hay in many areas.

State Fair Ups Syrup Premiums

The Michigan state fair has increased premiums in its maple syrup and sugar products exhibit from $370 to $458 this year.

There are 4 new premiums available to individual producer displays of maple products.

In addition, 10 places are offered for maple syrup in quart glass containers. There are 8 prizes offered for these classes: Maple sugar cakes, maple cream and maple candy.

A premium book is available at the county extension office. Entries must be in by August 10.

Tomato Acreage

With 7,700 acres devoted to raising tomatoes for the fresh market, Michigan this year is expected to place No. 1 among late producing states growing tomatoes for fresh fruit trade, according to Michigan department of agriculture estimates. In addition, 7,305 acres are being grown in processing tomatoes to supply the canneries trade, giving Michigan a total tomato acreage of 15,005 this year. Immediately behind Michigan in fresh market tomato production are New Jersey with 7,300 acres and New York with 7,200 acres among the late producing tomato states.

The youngsters are being called back for another session at Michigan State next Thursday, when a team of 5 will be selected for judging elimination week.

Farmers' Share of Dollar Climbs Up but Won't Stay

By CARL COLLIN

The farmers' share of the retail food dollar increased in recent months. They received 41% of each dollar spent for food at retail during the April-June quarter. That's a 2c increase over the previous quarter, but a cent below the same period in 1955.

Economists figure marketing costs will widen in the second half of this year, shrinking the farmers' share of the food dollar. In addition to seasonal factors, USDA specialists say rising costs for labor, freight and materials will cut into the farmers' share.

Labor costs accounted for 47% of last year's food marketing bill. Transportation claimed 13%, and other costs took up 34%.

One of these days somebody's going to have to eat crow.

Either our agricultural department or Brazilian coffee interests are off in estimates of coffee supplies. USDA officials say world coffee supplies for the year starting this month will be around 38.7 million bags. But Brazilian interests say they will be only 32 million bags. The difference in the 2 estimates confers around the Brazilian crop itself. USDA says the Brazilian crop will hit 15.5 million bags. Brazilian coffee people say 10 million bags. That's a whale of a difference. The size of the crop would of course have a material effect on prices. If Brazilian coffee interests are off again in their estimate, the federal trade commission may have to delve into the situation as it did a couple of years ago. At that time it directed a blistering report on certain coffee interests, but the price stayed up.

Current levels of food prices are expected to hold for the rest of the year. USDA economists say a combination of expanding consumer buying power and a slight drop in supplies of some foods will keep prices steady. Higher retail prices are forecast for such items as meat, dairy products, fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, and food fats and oils. Lower retail prices are expected for poultry and eggs.
