New Judge Takes Oath, Judge Hayden Retires

More than 150 attorneys and friends filled the Ingham circuit court room in Lansing Monday morning to witness the swearing in of a new circuit judge, Theodore P. Ryan.

In a short, formal ceremony, Judge Ryan was presented to the court and bar by Judge Charles H. Hayden who retired December 30. Judge Hayden presented his successor to Ingham County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard who administered the formal oath of office.

Circuit Judges Louis E. Coash and Marvin J. Salmon presided.

5 Candidates For Court Job Force Primary

Because there are more than 2 candidates for the Ingham circuit judge vacancy a primary will be needed. The non-partisan judicial primary will be on February 18.

The 2 candidates who get the greatest number of votes in the judicial primary will contest at the April 1 election.

Five candidates filed for the circuit court vacancy. They are the newly appointed incumbent, Judge Theodore P. Ryan, and Sam Street Hughes, C. Bruce Kelley, Earl E. McDonald and James W. Williams. Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock was the deadline for filing nomination petitions.

There will also be primary elections for township nominations in Lansing and Meridian townships.

In Lansing township Raymond A. Wilcox has changed his mind about serving. He is again a candidate for supervisor on the Republican ticket. Edgar G. Cheney also filed. There are contests for clerk, treasurer and trustees on the Republican ticket. Democrats will have a complete ticket but there will be no primary contest. Robert K. Wilson heads the Democratic ticket as candidate for supervisor.

Meridian Democrats have put up a complete ticket, led by James F. McClure for supervisor, Bernard Ward, incumbent supervisor, heads the Republican ticket.

At state conventions nominations will be made for vacancies on the supreme court on the non-partisan ballot and for state highway commissioner, 2 regents of the University of Michigan, member of state board of education, and 2 members of state board of agriculture on the partisan ballots.

Skating Is Good Again

Skating is the best of the winter at the county park ponds and on the Sycamore. The ice is smooth and it is thick. Best skating on the Sycamore is above the Ash street bridge. The rain which preceded the last freeze also raised the level of farm ponds, which also provide skating.

Reading Is Condensed Again

STILL SLIM is the Ingham County News on its second week of ad dieting. With the advertising fat out, what's left is good reading muscle. Read about Oscar Hood reaching 90. It's on Page 1, Part 2. That's where the Yester-Years feature is, too.

WANT ADS are on Pages 6 and 7, Part 1, with the classified directory on Page 6, Part 3.

EDITORIALS are on Page 2, Part 3. Readers may not find them inspiring, but the editor declared he felt that way when he wrote about the Esker and about dentures.

LETTERS to the Editor are on Page 3, Part 1, and on Page 2, Part 3. After the first batch were printed along came a letter from a major general and another from Harry Deesburg.

FARM NEWS is on Page 3, Part 3. As an added feature there's Jim Brown's Country and Town column on the same page.

Postal Order Extends City Mail Delivery

Mason postoffice started an additional service Saturday morning. After several requests by Postmaster Leslie Palmer, a new mounted delivery route was approved by postal authorities.

The route will serve 85 patrons. Thirty-three of the patrons live on Mason street and have had no mail delivery service at all. The balance will be taken from Route 3 patrons.

Parcel post carriers Bill Schwartzwelder and Charles Brown will serve the mounted route. The new route runs out Columbia street to Walnut court, on Walnut court to the end of the street and then back to Columbia and out as far as the G. L. Bailey residence, serving the Kossler subdivision along the way.

The route returns to the bypass and heads north to Dart road where it cuts over to Hoggs back road and goes north as far as Pryor. There it turns south, serving the Mason Heights area. The carrier will return to Mason on Cedar street to North street, down North to Mason street and then proceed the length of Mason street. It will finish on East street at the entrance to Maple Grove cemetery.

Carriers on the new service will not be able to sell stamps or do any money order business, Postmaster Palmer pointed out.

Express Roads Will By-Pass Three Cities

Grand River road will follow an entirely new route from east of Williamston to west of Portland. The new route will by-pass Williamston to the north, East Lansing to the south and then will go north and west around Lansing.

That new route is closer than county, city and state officials believed last fall. Some of it may be built next year.

One of the obstacles to the new route was removed Friday when the state board of agriculture agreed to give a right-of-way through the campus.

After by-passing Williamston on the north, the new route will extend west to about Meridian road, thence swinging south and west across Hagadorn, Beaumont and College roads before turning north, paralleling Harrison road and crossing the present Grand River route just west of the M-78 junction. That's the intrastate limited access route. There'll be an urban interchange with Lansing's Main street extended east from Lansing.

There will be another urban interchange west of Lansing, using St. Joseph street west to about 2 miles beyond Waverly and thence swinging north to reach the new US-16.

New interchanges are being planned for US-127. The new route will carry traffic north, by-passing both Holt and Lansing to the east. Travelers on US-127 will not have to drive through Leslie, Mason, Holt or Lansing.

The intrastate route will be of even more limited access than the new 127 between Mason and Jackson, according to preliminary announcements.

In its tentative acceptance of the new route and its agreement to release the right-of-way, the state board of agriculture insisted on compensation for the loss of a sewage treatment plant site, on reimbursement of the dollar value of all land used for the highways and on promises that underpasses will be provided for vehicular traffic between the campus and the university farms.

Much of the new US-16 west of Lansing will be re-located. Portland will be by-passed.

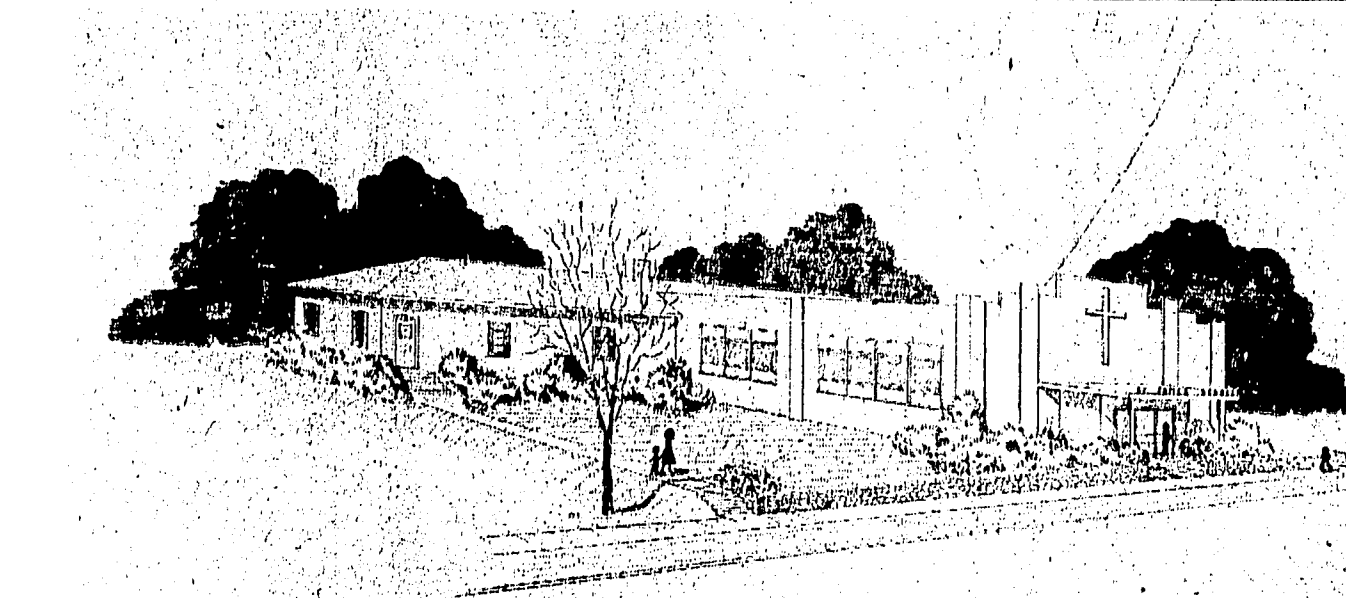

Shotgun Pellets Hit Boy in Face

Ronald Ray Sherwood, 10, had a close escape from damaging his sight Sunday noon. He was struck below his right eye with shotgun pellets.

The boy went out with his father, Orville, after rabbits. The father believed the boy was out of range, over next to Brown road, near Dansville. When a rabbit popped up, the father shot and then heard his son scream.

The boy was out of the line of fire. He was struck by pellets which ricocheted from a stone. The father took the boy to Mason General hospital. Pellets were cut out from the flesh beneath the boy's eye.

Church Starts Parochial School

What was once the Nazarene church on West Elm will be converted into a parochial school and convent by St. James Roman Catholic church. This is an architect's sketch of how the building will look when remodeling is completed.

Parish Opens Campaign for Building Fund

St. James parish will have a parochial school and a convent on West Elm street. The former Nazarene church was bought by St. James parish a year ago. A new front will be built and extensive remodeling done inside.

Before school begins next fall 4 class rooms will be provided for 6 elementary grades. There will also be living quarters for 4 nuns assigned to the school as teachers.

Committeemen for the drive to secure $35,000 are to meet Sunday evening in the rectory to discuss final details of the campaign.

Fr. Paul DeRose, pastor of St. James, has been named honorary chairman of the campaign. G. F. Lenz of Washington (Mich.) will serve as consultant.

Frank Schmidt, Jr., is general chairman with Victor Brenner the assistant chairman. Mrs. Leah Horn, Mrs. Joan Dolbee and Miss Mary DeRose are secretaries and Gordon Byron and Richard Hayhoe are treasurers. Harold Bell, assisted by Frank Guerriero, Harold Dillon and Don Lehman, make up the special gifts committee. Don VanderVeen and Lester Palmer are on the publicity committee.

Ed Kehe, Charles Schmitter, James Birney, William Wallace and Howard Roberts are team captains with William Reeser, William Peek, Ed Corr, George Mitchell and Frank Lock their lieutenants.

On Monday night, January 7, at 8 a parish-wide meeting is scheduled for the rectory, 235 West Elm, to acquaint members of the church with the needs for the school and convent and with the program and plans for the construction.

Date Is Set for Vasquez Hearing On Murder Count

Tentatively set for next Tuesday forenoon at 9:30 is the examination of Manuel Vasquez of Leslie, charged with murder. He demanded examination on the charge of slaying his wife when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Roy W. Adams last Thursday. The examination will be in the court room at Mason.

At that appearance his brother, Jose Vasquez of Lansing, said that Lawrence B. Lindemer, Stockbridge and Lansing lawyer, had been retained to defend the Leslie man. Lindemer declared later that he has not been retained.

Manuel Vasquez is charged with the shooting of his wife at the family home in Leslie December 22.

Frederico Chappa of Leslie, who was with Vasquez the night before the shooting and was also at the house the morning of the shooting, is being held in jail as a material witness. Prosecutor Jack Warren asked for the detention of Chappa or his posting of a bond to assure appearance at the trial of Vasquez. Judge Marvin J. Salmon set the bond at $2,500.

Warren told the judge that Chappa is single, has no family ties in Leslie and might not appear as a witness for the state unless compelled to by detention or by putting up a bond. There is no charge against Chappa.

Legion Schedules Venison Dinner

It will be stag night at the Browne-Cavender post 148 American Legion building next Thursday night when Joy O. Davis, past commander, puts on his venison steak spread. For the past several years Davis has given venison for the annual feed. But this year should be the best of all, according to Davis.

Davis said he has secured Waldo Johnson of Adrian to furnish entertainment. Johnson, already a legend among Canadian and United States sportsmen, will show films of his African safari taken last year.

The dinner and program are free to all veterans, Davis said. No reservation is needed either, he added. Davis also said that sportsmen who are not veterans may attend by making reservations with him.

Woods Worker Loses Life in Felling Tree

When a tree was felled on the Columbia road farm of Paul Rowe Saturday afternoon a limb struck 2 woodsmen. Freal George Needham, 61, Coldwater, died an hour and a half later in Mason General hospital. His nephew, Charles R. Collier, 24, Coldwater, was not seriously hurt. His face was bruised and cut.

The men were not struck by the tree they had felled but by a limb from another tree which snapped back at them as the giant maple fell. They were at an apparently safe distance to watch the tree go down. Collier said he did not see the limb coming at them. Neither did Rowe. Both men said they were watching the tree fall.

Needham and his nephew had come from Coldwater Saturday morning to cut 23 big maple trees in the woods on the Rowe farm occupied by Russell Rowe. They started work in the middle of the forenoon. After dinner Paul Rowe took his truck and drove back to the woods. When he arrived the men were sharpening their chain saw. When they had finished they started work on a big tree.

Before the tree began to topple, Rowe said, he called his dog and went back to a fence. As the tree started down, Rowe explained, the other 2 men retreated to what appeared to be a safe distance. After watching the tree fall, Rowe said, he glanced back at the men. Both were sitting on the ground.

As he went up to them he saw Needham slump over. The limb had struck both men and the saw they had been holding between them. The saw was broken and partially buried in the ground.

The limb that had struck the men and their saw was not dead wood, but green and heavy.

Rowe said he could feel no pulse in Needham's wrist but that there were a few gasps for breath.

Rowe and Collier carried Needham through the woods to where Collier's car was parked. They then drove to the Mason hospital. Enroute Needham began to breathe more deeply, Rowe said, although there was only a fluttering pulse. The injured man died about an hour later, of a fractured skull and brain damage.

Needham's body was taken to the Ball-Dunn funeral home and on Sunday was taken to the Jenkins funeral home in Union City, where services were conducted. Needham was a bachelor who made his home with a sister. He served in World War I.

Classroom Shift Is Being Made

When Mason junior high and senior high school pupils return Monday they'll find that some changes have been made during the Christmas recess.

What was a sixth grade room on the first floor has been converted into a kitchen for the hot lunch program. With the moving of the school shop across Oak street to the new building, the band will take over what was the shop and vocal music will have the room the band used. The vacated agriculture room in the high school building will be converted into a combination classroom and cafeteria.

Some of the equipment ordered for the new agriculture and shop building, has not yet arrived. Enough is on hand, however, to accommodate the classes. Supt. James H. Vander Ven said.

Stockbridge Bank Provides 4-H Scholarship at State

Harold Oakley, a member of the White Oak 4-H club, is going to use a Stockbridge State bank scholarship of $100 to take a short course at Michigan State. He has built up an outstanding record in 4-H work, said Delmar Carr, club leader, and the scholarship comes as a partial reward.

The scholarship student has enrolled for an agriculture short course during the winter term at Michigan State.

When he was a lad of 10, young Oakley joined the club. He has won recognition in dairy, crop and tractor maintenance projects. He has also won honors in county and state plowing contests. This last year he was picked as Ingham's all-around tops among 4-H youths. He served his club as president last year and as a junior leader in dairy.

Oakley was graduated from Dansville Agricultural school last May.

He and his father, Howard Oakley, are in partnership on big acreage east of Dansville. They are in the dairy business.

Accident Kills Onondaga Girl At Lake Odessa

Nancy Ann Ballard, 20, of Onondaga lost her life in an automobile accident near Lake Odessa Saturday afternoon.

Miss Ballard, a student at Albion college, was riding with Keith Lepard, 20, of Sturgis, also an Albion student. They had left Onondaga shortly after noon to take some gifts to college friends in Hastings.

The car skidded on a snow-covered stretch of pavement and struck a tree. Lepard was taken to the Hastings hospital with broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Miss Ballard was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Ballard. Besides the parents there survive a sister, Mrs. Esther Richmond of Watervliet; a brother, James of Onondaga; and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Byrum, Eaton Rapids.

Services were on Tuesday afternoon at the Eaton Rapids Methodist church with burial in Rose Hill cemetery, Eaton Rapids.

KENNETH RAYMOND MOORE checked in at Mason General hospital 9:50 p. m. New Year's Day to become Mason's first baby of the year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moore of Kipp road. The Moores have a son, Lyman, 2; and a daughter, Anna, 1. The Moores make their home with Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Freshour. Dr. Mary Dexter had the honor of delivering the holiday baby.

Jewett Nears Completion of Subdivision

Laylin subdivision, containing 50 residential building sites, is getting the final touches this week, according to Arthur W. Jewett, subdivision owner. The area is located north of Roosevelt street and east of Lawton. Storm and sanitary sewers and water mains are already in the ground and streets are being graded. Curb and gutter will be built in the spring, Jewett said.

The subdivision is the first to come under the authority of the city's new plat ordinance which requires water and sewer lines and street grading to be completed before acceptance by the city. The subdivisor, under the ordinance, is partially repaid for the sanitary sewer and water main costs as houses are built and occupied.

The Federal Housing Authority has already approved the subdivision for FHA loans providing the curb and gutter are built and providing the city council agrees to backstop streets in the subdivision when it is developed, Jewett said.

The subdivision has entrances on Washington street, Maple street and at Columbia road.

IN A CEREMONY at Mason Presbyterian church, Miss Frances June Sterle became the bride of Paul Douglas Drumm Saturday, December 29.

Double-Ring Rites Unite Couple in Mason Church

In a double-ring ceremony at Mason Presbyterian church, Miss Frances June Sterle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sterle of Lansing, and Paul Douglas Drumm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burdett Drumm, repeated their nuptial vows.

Rev. Paul Arnold, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony at 2 p. m. Saturday, December 29, in the presence of 70 friends and relatives. Mrs. Dora Diehl of Danville, played traditional wedding selections on the organ.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white, net over tulle. Long sleeves of her dress extended to points at the wrists. She wore a white pearl tiara, and carried an arrangement of white and yellow mums and gladioli. Mrs. Robert Osterle of Webberville was her sister's matron of honor. Mrs. Jay Skelton, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Basil Lance, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids in dresses of yellow and blue, respectively. The attendants carried bouquets of roses.

Don McCabe, friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert Sterle, Robert Osterle, Willard Sterle and Basil Lance.

Mrs. Sterle wore a blue dress with black roses. Mrs. Drumm also wore a blue dress. She complemented her ensemble with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses.

A reception in the church parlors honored the couple immediately after the ceremony. Wedding cake, coffee and punch were served by Joann Nelson of Detroit and Janice Dodge and Sharon Miller, both of Mason. Jean LoVette of Mason presided at the guest register.

After a wedding trip to Bear Lake, the couple returned to make their home at Route 2, Mason. Drumm changed to an aqua suit. She is a graduate of Mason high school with the class of 1956, and is employed at Auto Owners Insurance company in Lansing. Her husband graduated from Danville school in 1953. He is engaged in farming with his father.

Guests attended the wedding from Chicago, Danville, Bath, Webberville, Munith, Lansing, Webberville, Stockbridge, Detroit and Mason.

Carl Ives-Joyce Arnold Exchange Wedding Vows

The Free Methodist church of Williamston was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday evening, December 29, when Miss Joyce Loretta Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Arnold of Williamston, became the bride of Carl James Ives of Fowlerville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hoag of Owosso. The vows were read at 8 o'clock by Rev. A. D. Hackaday before an altar banked with evergreen and poinsettias. The pulpit contained the traditional silver candelabra with white candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin with an overdress of white lace, styled with a fitted bodice and a small Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a halo of lace. She carried a white Bible topped with a cascade of red roses.

Mrs. Lillian Lockwood of Williamston, sister of the bride, attending as matron of honor, wore a gown of yellow taffeta with an overdress of yellow lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of rainbow baby mums.

Misses Geraldine and Leatrice Arnold of Williamston, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of light pink and blue with overdresses of pink and blue lace. They carried cascade bouquets of rainbow baby mums.

Larry Davids of New Hudson, friend of the bridegroom, assisted as best man, and ushers were Ronald Robinson and Arlan Estes, friends of the bridegroom, both of Fowlerville.

Wedding music was played at the organ by Miss Elsie Cobb, aunt of the bride, and Miss Marie Williams, cousins of the bride, sang, "O Perfect Love," "The Voice Over Eden" and "I Love You So." Irvin Cobb, cousin of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Arnold chose a maroon rayon dress with dusty rose and black accessories. Each mother wore a corsage of white carnations.

After the ceremony, a reception was given at Locke Center town hall. The serving table was centered with a 4-tier wedding cake, cut by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Helen Green. Janet and Alice Killenger, nieces of the bridegroom, Carolyn Cobb, cousin of the bride, and Karol Sessions assisted with the serving.

After a week end trip, the couple will be at home on a farm north of Fowlerville. For traveling, the new Mrs. Ives chose a rase dress of rayon with brown accessories.

BALL-DUNN MATTRESSES

THE SOUNDTEST SLEEP IDEA in HISTORY!

THE TICKING TELLS THE TALE!

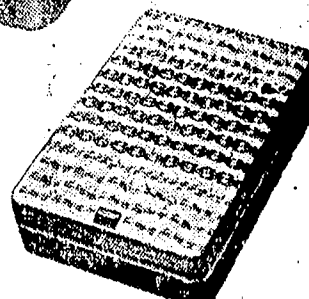

Spring Air's exclusive cover designs point out the firmer midsection... the resilient end sections... of every Health Center Mattress.

$79.50

The Health Center Mattress is a fine, firm mattress... that's firmer in the CENTER where your weight lies. No sagging back. But no nagging neck, either. Or cricks in your morning legs. This mattress relaxes, just enough, where your head and feet spend the night. Such blissful support! You'll sleep more restfully, and awaken more zestfully, if yours is a Spring Air Health Center Mattress.

Spring Air's Matching Box Spring, too, features this new Health Center construction, at no extra cost.

Come in today... our whole Spring Air line is new and fresh... and very much worth seeing.

Dorr Cady is in the East. He first went to Washington to be with his son, Robert Cady, now a member of the U. S. navy band in Washington, and then went on to visit other relatives in New York.

Recipe of the Week

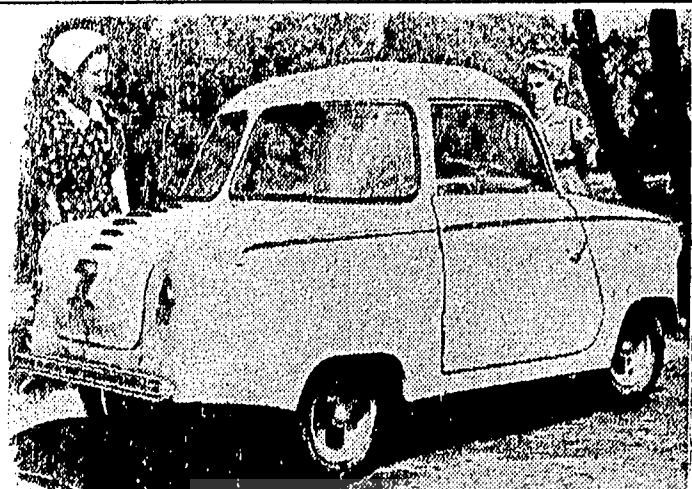

This week's recipe was chosen from the collection of Favorite Recipe Exchange of the Ingham county home-makers. It's Leora Fry's recipe for noodle and hamburger casserole.

NOODLE AND HAMBURG CASSEROLE

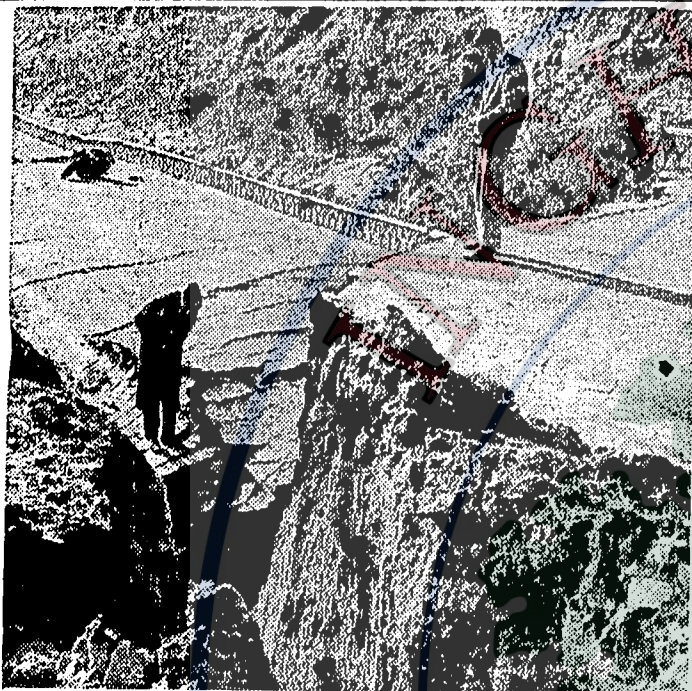

1/2 cup crumbs
1/4 cup margarine
5-oz. pkg. noodles (cooked)
1 cup shredded cheese
1/2 c minced onion
1 chopped pimento
1 lb hamburger (brown)
1/2 cup milk
Salt and pepper to taste. Brown bread crumbs in margarine. Add noodles and hamburger and mix well. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes.

CHURCH AT THE BOTTOM OF THE WORLD—This chapel is in the deep, deep South—the Antarctic. The quonset structure is at McMurdo Sound, where temperatures range near 60 degrees below zero.

NEW '57 MODEL, SOVIET STYLE—A pair of Russian women look over the latest model of the Soviet S2L midsize automobile. The pint-sized stubby car was designed and produced at the Serpukhov Motorcycle plant in Moscow.

"YOU TAKE THE HIGH ROAD . . ."—This divided highway, in Rome, Italy, involves a unique form of division. The ground under the Viale Angelico suddenly caved in, above, splitting the road in two, and dropping one section several feet below the level of the other. Heavy rainfall was blamed for the landslide.

INGHAM TAXPAYERS—I will be at the Ingham town hall in Dansville Wednesdays and at my home each Friday. Please bring your tax notice when you pay. Arthur Dowling, Ingham township treasurer. 50w12

WHEATFIELD TAXPAYERS—Taxes are payable at 1206 Zimmerman road Wednesday and Saturday from 9 until 2 except December 23, January 19, February 16 and 23. Will collect at Peoples State Bank on these dates. George Vandemark, township treasurer. 52w1f

MATTESON—I wish in this way to thank Dr. Clark and Dr. Cairns for the house calls. I would like to thank neighbors, friends and organizations for their messages of cheer, gifts, cards, plants, fruit and calls. I especially would like to thank Mrs. Gerald Wattersdorf and my sister, Mrs. Norman Rose of Jackson. Mary Matteson. 1w1p

BARRY—We wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, and beautiful floral offerings received from our kind friends and relatives during our recent bereavement in the loss of a beloved husband and father. We especially thank Rev. Gilbert Miles and Rev. Robert Worgul for their comforting words and prayers. Browne-Cavender post No. 148 of the American Legion for their part in the services; the teaching staff of the speech clinic at the University of Michigan; the students, Mr. and Mrs. William Hakola and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Swartz, Mrs. Mahelle Bond, Aurelius Ladies Aid for the nice dinner and the Ball-Dunn staff for their services. The family of Roscoe Barry. 1w1f

KEEHN—We wish to thank all our Dansville friends for the floral offerings and other acts of kindness during our recent bereavement. Mori Keehn and family. 1w1f

BROWN—The members of the family of Russell M. Brown are deeply appreciative of the many thoughtful and generous courtesies extended by friends during his illness and at his death. For the floral tributes, the messages of sympathy and for all the other kindnesses we are truly grateful. 1w1p

HEATHMAN—We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness during the illness and at the death of Martin Gress. Also for the beautiful flowers. Thanks to the caretakers and Rev. David Evans and all who helped in any way. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heathman. 1w1f

ROBERT NURSING HOME—We want to thank all who were so kind and thoughtful of us at Christmas time. To all organizations, individuals and to carolers whose singing was so much appreciated, we say thank you so much. Robert Nursing Home staff and patients. 1w1f

Year's Events Of Village Areelayed

Leslie's big news in 1956, says Village President Marvin L. Pley, has been the beginning and near completion of the sewage disposal plant and the interceptor sewer. General obligation bonds in the amount of $298,000 of the $310,000 project were sold to Halcyon-Stewart of Chicago in May at 3 1/4 percent, an interest rate lower than the financial consultant predicted. Work has progressed on or ahead of schedule by the Dale Latham Construction company on their $158,604.19 sewage disposal plant and with Mead Brothers on their $111,266.35 project for the interceptor sewer.

Other important events listed by Village Clerk Katherine Farley is the appointment of a director of public works, Ellis Warr; and appointment of a committee to plan for an alley east of and running parallel to Main street.

The beginning of a plan for Davey tree surgeons to care for the village trees, and the purchase of permanent Christmas street decorations by the village and merchants also took place in 1956.

Superintendent Clarence Vander Linden cites moving into the new high school wing and the new wing to the elementary school as important, making it possible to have all the children in the Leslie public school system attending school in Leslie. He mentions the burning of the mortgage on the "Wild Eighty," by the FFA boys in Russ Miller's ag class which represented the liquidating of a $2,000 obligation incurred in the purchase of the land in 1952.

During the year there was: Letting of the contract and its completion for use of the Mason to Leslie route of US-127; building of a 40 by 40 addition to the Jackson Automatic Products on Mill street, owned by Anthony Moll, for a steel storage and shipping room; and building of a new 36 by 78 foot Leslie Coop elevator, which with the use of the old building more than doubles their capacity.

The beginning of the Childs Bible church, the addition of a wing to the Felt Plains Methodist church, the raising of funds in the Methodist, Baptist and Congregational Christian churches for improvements to buildings and programs occurred in 1956.

The near-tornado winds that struck on Baseline and Walker roads shearing off fields of corn and wheat and blowing down some barns, silos and uprooting several orchards will be remembered by those affected. Nearby Rives township was more severely battered.

Council Votes To Conduct Special Meet

At the regular meeting Thursday night, Leslie village council voted to meet in special session with Harold Hamilton of the Peoples Bank of Leslie, Monday, January 7, at 8:30 p. m. to discuss investing of funds. These will be surplus funds for projects not due to begin for 90 days, or more, and the voted tax which has to be held for a stated length of time.

The council will ask the township board, school board and representatives from the state highway department to meet in joint session. They will discuss exits and entrances to the new US-127 by-pass at Bellevue road and at the South Main street crossing at what is known as the Five Points at the intersections of Main-Hull and Olds roads.

Village Attorney Tom Walsh was asked by the council to make a revision of water rates for those who might not need water service for a full quarter period. So far there has been no provision for splitting the fee for this length of time.

It was decided to have a good drawing of the current map of the village made so that copies may be made.

Christmas decorations have been taken down in the village.

Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Kraft, Carl and John spent Christmas, Eve with Dr. Kraft's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Don Stronchein, of Birmingham. Early Christmas Day the Krafts went to Pandora, Ohio, where they were guests of Mrs. Kraft's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Amstutz, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney W. Steiner and Miss Mary Elizabeth Amstutz. Carol Kraft returned to her studies as a senior at Wheaton college in Wheaton, Ill., on New Year's Day.

Michigan State university is the school chosen by Rita to attend this fall. She will take a secretarial course.

Rita, whose hobby is reading, has been active in school, community and church activities. She has been on the honor roll continuously from the seventh grade to date. School activities include 2 years in the FFA with attendance at 2 summer camp workshops at St. Mary's lake; secretary of the student council and of her class in her junior year; secretary of the senior class and president of the student council this year; and member of the Latin and Speech clubs. She was a Girl Scout for 4 years, attaining her first class rating. She is a member of the Newman club of St. James Catholic parish in Mason. She was representative to Girls State in Ann Arbor this year.

Clerk Prepares Calendar

County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard is completing the calendar for the January term of circuit court. Copies will be mailed to lawyers the forepart of next week, the clerk said.

Use Salt and Sand

Sprinkle icy walks with finely ground salt mixed with sand. This mixture will break up the ice and prevent slipping while the ice is melting. Fine salt will be diluted quicker and not as injurious to nearby shrubs as concentrated rock salt.

Hi Neighbor!

Did you ever realize exactly what your stake in America is? Regardless of how you may measure it, you will come back to this basic conclusion: It's your home, your friends, your school and your church. In other words, it's the community in which you live.

That is why your I.G.A. grocer has dedicated himself to the proposition of being a "Community Builder." Through building his community, your I.G.A. grocer feels that he is contributing to the growth and the furtherance of one of the greatest nations ever to grace the earth.

He invites you to join with him in this patriotic endeavor.

Services were Monday afternoon at 2 at Jewett funeral home with burial in Maple Grove. Rev. Roy Muman of the Mason Church of the Nazarene officiated.

Mr. Campbell was 11 years old when he came to Ingham from New York state with his father in 1874. The boy helped his father clear the land and build a log cabin from the timber. Mr. Campbell used to recall that they began in the middle of the forest and chopped in 4 directions. It was about 15 years, he said, before enough land was cleared to do much farming.

Mr. Campbell attended both Pollok and Swan country schools. He was born in Lockport, New York, February 26, 1863.

He is survived by a son, Lyle, at the home of his daughter, Wayne, of Holt; 2 brothers, Sherr, man Campbell, and sisters, Mrs. Alta Showerman and Mrs. Edith Showerman, all of Mason, 11 grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren.

Ground Observers Are Still Needed

More volunteers are needed to keep Mason's ground observer post open more hours, Mrs. Sara Robbins said. She is assistant supervisor of the post. Mrs. Rev. Sunborn, the supervisor, has gone to Florida for several weeks and asked that volunteers notify Mrs. Robbins if they are unable to keep to their schedule. Presently the schedule calls for 2 hours of duty per week.

The tower, south of Cedar Street school, is comfortably heated. Those on watch report Wayne, of Holt; 2 brothers, Sherr, man Campbell, and sisters, Mrs. Alta Showerman and Mrs. Edith

Four Pay Fines Under Game Law

Four violators of state game laws paid heavy fines for their actions during the week. Walter Mutchler, state conservation officer assigned to Ingham, made the arrests.

John W. Hubble, 25, East Lansing was arrested Friday in Meridian township, arraigned Saturday in Justice George Hunter's Lansing township court, charged with possession of a fox squirrel. He pleaded guilty and paid $32.80.

Thomas Barker, 31, Inkster, paid $58.65 in fine and costs for shooting a pheasant in Stockbridge township Sunday. He pleaded guilty before Justice Roy W. Adams in Mason Monday.

Paschal Adams, 25, Farmington, and Dan W. Creisinger, 28, Garden City, each paid fine and costs of $58.65 in the Adams court Monday. Both were arrested Sunday. Allen for shooting and having possession of a quail, and Creisinger for possession of a pheasant. Both were hunting in Stockbridge township.

Former Mason Resident Dies

Mrs. Bessie (Walters) Woodworth, 74, died Friday at the home of a son, John Walters, in Grand Ledge. She was a former resident of the Mason area.

Bessie Walters was born January 20, 1882, at Eaton Rapids to Owen and Ellen Lawrence Walters. Most of her life was spent in Lansing. She lived for a time in Mason, and for the past 7 years was a resident of Grand Ledge. While in Mason she attended the Baptist church. Five years ago she retired as bookkeeper at Redman Brothers, Lansing. Since that time she had been in poor health.

Surviving besides the son at Grand Ledge is a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Crowell of Mason; 2 stepchildren, Jean Woodard of Lansing and Ellen Bennett of Chicago; 5 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at one o'clock at O'Toole-Mapes funeral home in Grand Ledge with Rev. Carl Hart officiating. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery, Grand Ledge.

Former Pastor Dies in Lansing

Rev. Howard A. Bowser, 79, former pastor of Baptist churches in Dansville, Stockbridge, Leslie and Haslett, died in a Lansing hospital Saturday. Funeral services were Wednesday morning in Lansing with Dr. Julius Fishbach, pastor of Lansing's First Baptist church, officiating. A second service was conducted at the Sheldon Park Baptist church at Temperance Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in Toledo.

Mr. Bowser was a Baptist minister for 45 years. Besides serving churches in Ingham he had been pastor in Battle Creek, Ovid and Temperance in Michigan and in Sylvania and Toledo, Ohio.

The widow is Mary Kendrick Bowser, formerly of Dansville. A son, Clyde J. Bowser of Seattle; 3 stepdaughters, Mrs. Chester Benjamin and Mrs. Paul Elsenor of Lansing and Mrs. Donald Hunt of Albion; a stepson, Harry F. Kendrick, California; and 2 sisters, Mrs. Bessie Payne and Mrs. Grace Martin of Toledo also survive.

Volunteers Launch Polio Campaign

Ingham county's 1957 March of Dimes drive against polio opened this week with more than 5,000 volunteers hoping to raise $64,300 to continue the fight.

The campaign will continue until January 31 when the annual Mothers' March will take place.

John Pomeroy, Lansing radio station executive and general chairman of the 1957 March of Dimes, said that a campaign to encourage all Ingham county adults and children to obtain Salk vaccine will be coupled with the fund-raising endeavor.

The Salk vaccine now has been established as a safe and effective preventive of paralytic polio.

Pomeroy said polio leaders base their 1957 goal on estimated cost of caring for present and future polio victims, need for additional research, continuation of medical training, and operation of rehabilitation centers.

Ingham county registered 17 new cases of polio in 1956, including 2 fatalities. March of Dimes funds were spent to aid 124 local polio patients during the year, Pomeroy said. In the last 12 years more than $350,000 has been spent in Ingham county to care for polio victims and assist their rehabilitation, he declared.

Volunteer groups launched the drive by distributing 1,300 coin collection canisters to business establishments. Veterans' organizations and the Italian-American club directed the distribution in

Fellowship Groups Plan Activities

Methodist Fellowship groups are scheduled to meet Sunday evening.

Junior High Fellowship will meet at the church at 5 p. m., with Roberta Judson and Georganna Post as program leaders. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Judson are the parent sponsors.

Holt Senior High Fellowship group has invited the Mason group to be its guest for a special missionary lecture on Africa. Colored slides will illustrate the lecture. Cars are scheduled to leave the Mason church at 6:45 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drascha will open their home to members of the Adult Fellowship at 8 p. m. The program topic is "Family Life in Other Countries of the World."

Golden Glovers Start Training

Time is running out on Golden Glovers boxers. Lansing tournament officials are issuing the final call for entrants this week for the tournaments at the civic center January 24 and 31 and February 7.

A large entry list has already signed up for the tournament which will decide the 16 boys to participate in the state meet in Grand Rapids in February.

According to Al Van Ness, meet director, boys in the Mason, Eaton Rapids, Charlotte and Dansville areas will do their training in Dimondale under the direction of Bert Field.

This year's squad representing Lansing has a high record to maintain. Last year's team took second in the state meet.

The Lansing tournament is sponsored by the Lansing Capital Caravan club for the benefit of the crippled children's fund.

Boys interested in putting on the gloves have been asked by Van Ness to contact him in Lansing.

G.O.P. Leader Resigns Post

Because of sickness, Fred C. Newman has resigned as chairman of the Ingham County Republican committee.

In his letter of resignation Newman wrote that he came down with an ear infection which has necessitated surgery twice.

His sickness has made it impossible to continue as chairman, Newman said.

Willard P. Barnes, president of the candidates organization, received Newman's letter. He said a successor will be chosen within a few days.

Life with the Zimmermans

Time: 9:15 a. m. Thursday

Place: Zimmerman's

Janet: About next week we're going to pick up the paper and read about every kind of sale under the sun.

Zim: Yea, I know, for sales, white sales, clearance sales, and end of the year sales, etc. Every business trying for a sale on that last dollar left after Christmas.

Janet: There is such a thing as saving something besides money.

Zim: Now you tell me, after beating my brains out all these years for money! What is this unheard of article?

Janet: TIME and it can be pretty precious to people in certain things of work-like farmers.

Zim: Time! I thought farmers had a little more of that right now.

Janet: That's just the point. These two or three months in the winter give farmers time to point and paper without having to hire it done.

Zim: I see what you mean about saving time. It is about the same as saving money at that!

Janet: And it isn't too busy a time for it either, and we can concentrate on applying the time to our customers.

Janet and Zim together: With your time and our time will save the old homestead folks!

The Best Things in Life Are Free
Tues., Wed., Thurs.
Gordon MacRae, Dan Dailey, Ernest Borgnine and Sheree North head the cast for "The Best Things in Life Are Free," Twentieth Century-Fox's new CinemaScope-DeLuxe color musical, which will be at the Fox Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. John O'Hara wrote the story, which centers around the career of the famous song-writing team of De Sylva, Brown and Henderson whose songs were the rage of the Jazz Age in this country during the middle 1920's. The action takes place in New York, where the trio of tunesmiths were engaged in writing the music for such Broadway hits as "George White's Scandals," "Good News," "Follow Through" and "Hold Everything" in Atlantic City during the production tryouts; and in Hollywood where they wrote the tunes for several Shirley Temple pictures and where De Sylva produced "Sunny Side

Up" with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell as the stars.

FOX Jubal

Sunday and Monday
Columbia Pictures' "Jubal," the story of a drifter to whom trouble always came in the shape of a woman, is due Sunday and Monday at the Fox. "Jubal" stars Glenn Ford, famed for his work in "The Blackboard Jungle," Ernest Borgnine, voted "best actor" by the New York Critics for his performance in "Marty," and Rod Steiger, who won an Academy Award nomination for "On the Waterfront." "Jubal" introduces 2 provocative newcomers, Valerie French and Felicia Farr. Filmed in CinemaScope and color by Technicolor, the drama features Basil Ruysdael and Noah Beery, Jr.

FOX Fighting Trouble

Friday and Saturday
Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys manage to get themselves involved with unfriendly gangland hoodlums and friendly, curvy girls in their latest comedy, "Fighting Trouble," opening Friday and Saturday at the Fox. Sleuthing after a phony money mob, with Hall as a newspaper photographer, using the weirdest camera contraption ever assembled, the boys manage to shoot up the works of a counterfeiting gang in hilarious style.

ARCADE War and Peace

Sunday and Monday
Against a background of the Russia of the early 19th century, Tolstoy tells his story of War and Peace. It will be at the Arcade Sunday and Monday. Here are the nobility of Czarist Imperialist Russia, and the peasants for contrast of a way of life, and here came the magnificent upstart, the Emperor Napoleon, who had all Europe at his feet, and who sought to bring mighty Russia into vassalage as well. Here then, was war, and in the intervals thereof, in the marble palaces of Moscow and in the meadows and snows of the country, was peace. But it was peace with its own special brand of problems which were personal, human and essentially everyone's here, there and everywhere.

The ever-changing pattern of the piece, from the tranquillity of the countryside to the intriguing of romantic interludes in Moscow, from the glittering shimmer of gaudy war-a-horse, to the frozen, sudden, bitter defeat of the Napoleonic debacle in the retreat across Russia's winter face, carries the audience constantly, with no perceptible lapse, with no flagging of interest or excitement. For these are at all times humans, of any day or any place, caught up in life's crazy currents, whirled and tossed as they pass across the stage.

THE GLEAM FROM BEYOND THE CLOUDS

There may be folks who dream of a new year with no clouds over the horizon. But life has taught most of us that there is never a day free of uncertainty.

Some like to rejoice in the calm of today and give no thought to the clouds of tomorrow. There is a contentment without strength, a happiness empty of hope.

But stronger souls see both the calm and the clouds. And they look beyond the clouds to the Light whose rays bathe the horizon.

These are the souls who face the new year with faith in their God. They know the days will not be without shadow. The ripples may sometimes become angry breakers. But they follow the gleam across another year . . . the Gleam from beyond the clouds.

The Church is for those who would look ahead . . . ever toward the Light.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Legislature Seeks Means Of Raising More Revenue

An old problem faces Michigan in the new year: "Where is the money coming from—and where is it going?" Much more often than not in past years, both state and city governments have had more expenses than bankroll. This has led to a higher and higher tax bill for the man on the street.

Between $40 million and $80 million more will be needed to operate the state next year, according to present estimates by legislators. An accurate figure will not be available until the governor outlines his ideas in his message to the legislature, due within 10 days after the new group convenes.

His programs will indicate how much more must be raised in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1957; not whether there will be a deficit.

Already apparent are some of the needs. About $10 million more will be needed to cover salary increases granted by the civil service commission.

Because income to school funds from state sales taxes are considerably less than was expected, the legislature must dip into its general fund to the tune of about $18 million.

More than $13 million more is needed by state universities if they are to accommodate young people seeking college education. Operating costs for state buildings are increasing, and must be covered. Every time the state opens a new office, or improves an existing service, there is an inevitable price tag.

What are other needs in 1957? Among recommendations made to the legislature by Gov. G. Mennen Williams are expected to be the following, none very expensive to the state treasury: a campaign to promote industrial safety; more emphasis on highway safety; higher (and more expensive to the employer) unemployment compensation; increased workman's compensation.

The tax problem is in the lap of the house. According to law, bills to raise revenue must originate there. This means that representatives will spend much time trying to find ways to make ends meet in 1957—and new methods to raise tax money. This is never a pleasant task, and usually a thankless one.

While legislators wrestle financial problems of the state, they will hear cries from the cities. Michigan municipalities, particularly the larger ones, are hard pressed for some new sources of revenue.

This problem was underlined by Dr. Arthur W. Bromage, political science professor from U-M, in an article in "Municipal Review." Prof. Bromage points out that cities and villages can follow only 3 courses. They can keep increasing property taxes, depend more on state-collected taxes related to individual communities, or levy local, non-property taxes.

If they are to do the latter, they must have specific authority from the legislature. Cities in other states have "successfully" taxed income, utilities and admissions to theaters and athletic events.

If Michigan cities are to do this, existing law must be changed.

Michigan's "four under forty" are said to be one of the big hopes for the state's Republican organization. "Four under forty" is the catchy reference to the 4 young Republicans who are beginning their first terms as congressmen in Washington.

They are William S. Broomfield, Oakland County; Charles E. Chamberlain, Lansing-Flint area; Robert P. Griffin from the northern part of the lower peninsula; and Robert McIntosh from the thumb area.

Party hopes for inspiration and leadership rest on the shoulders of these 4 men. All have good records as young GOP leaders. All are considered dynamic, personable, bright and keen politicians.

All are known as "modern" Republicans, subscribing in general to principles and policies of President Eisenhower.

As freshmen congressmen in the house of representatives, they will be watched by Michigan's Republicans in the hope that their record of activity there will serve to unify and advance the GOP cause within the state.

Dates have been set for state party conventions. Democrats will be meeting February 23. Republicans will meet in Detroit February 9. Both parties nominate candidates for positions on the spring ballot.

These include candidates for superintendent of public instruction, state highway commissioner, justices of the state supreme court, 2 members of the University of Michigan board of regents, 2 members of the state board of agriculture of Michigan State university, a member of the state board of education.

The GOP must also select a new chairman and vice-chairman to head the state central committee. John Pelken, present chairman, announced he will not continue in the post.

Special Section Coming

Ingham County News will publish a special soil conservation section next week. The extra space will be devoted to personal interviews with Ingham farmers who have made soil conservation pay off. Merchants throughout the county will also pay tribute to the soil conservation effort. The special section will announce the annual soil conservation district meeting at Dansville Tuesday, January 15.

Farm Family Shared Christmas Joy With Student Visitor from Chile

Mrs. Robert Sturman

MAN TRAP — Bachelors beware! Tread ever so lightly on this snare and voom! — 13 jagged teeth spring into your leg, rendering you helpless in the face of husband-hunters. The flendish device, being pondered over by Chris Connell in New York City, was once used to ensnare poachers on an English estate.

We were asked to meet our guest at the court house in Mason at 2:15 on Saturday, December 21, which we did, and 13 students from all lands came to Ingham county, one student, a Chinese girl, became lost in the Christmas shuffle between California and here, we were told.

A woman from South America was assigned to us. Her name is Miss Godoy, of Chile. She was a teacher in one of the large cities there, now studying food technology at the University of Massachusetts. They are a Spanish speaking people. Her English was fair, slightly broken.

We left the court house and I made a quick trip to our A & P market for a few things. I invited her to go along. She marveled at the big store, with so many pretty things in it. She drew my attention to the fresh vegetable counter. We have so many things wrapped in cellophane and pretty boxes. I told her we have these year around. She asked, "how come?" "It's all black outside," (meaning no green things growing) she said. I told her that the carrots, cauliflower and celery were shipped in from California. She asked if we had the red cabbage. That was one of her main vegetables. The red cabbage and the hot peppers were missing on the counters. They have no sweet corn or popcorn in Chile. We had sweet corn for supper Saturday night. People have about the same kinds of fruits as we have but only seasonal, our visitor said. Their transportation is poor and expensive. She said they do not have televisions, except for the rich have them. When asked if she drove a car she replied, "Oh, no, only the rich have cars! And then no women drivers!"

Miss Godoy lives with her parents, 2 brothers and 2 sisters at home. Her father is a retired school teacher.

Her family shares an ice box with their neighbor next door. They have electric lights only and cook and heat with gas. They use brick only in building and all buildings must have firm foundations.

tions because of so many earthquakes.

Miss Godoy when in her teens spent one week on a farm for a vacation. So she knew little of farm life. She prefers the big cities. She watched our TV closely Saturday night and the ice skating program. She said, they have the same basketball games, some baseball, but our football is much different than theirs. They have lots of horses, and horse races. She said they have very little meat, and not enough milk to go around. She missed her wines very much, she said.

She raved about our dill pickles, our brown bread and oh—so much milk. Rhubarb is only used as a medicine in Chile, she said. Coffee powder is mostly used, but tea is very expensive and used only on holidays. And there are no dry cereals at all in her country, she said.

She said that the North American people rush and hurry around so fast, and many people are so fat. It is not so in her country, she declared.

On Sunday morning as usual we attended the Baptist church in Mason. There she marveled at our great pipe organ, the music, the choir in their pretty robes. We do much more singing in our country, the visitor said. It was the second time in her life she had been in a Protestant church. The other time was in Massachusetts, she said.

After leaving the church, and as I pointed out the various things of interest, the 2 new schools, the high school and the 2 funeral homes, she at once asked, "What is a funeral home?" She wanted to visit one. So we did. Mr. Dunn answered our door bell ring, asked us to come in and told us what he could about it. Still it wasn't clear to Miss Godoy. In their country they have many flowers for weddings but not for funerals.

And then the cemetery, what was that? We made a visit there and saw a newly made grave, and then another on our way to East Lansing. (We learned later—from a friend, this funeral business is very different in their country.)

Our guest was a bit homesick, being away from home and country since September. So when church was over Anna and Julia Holmes spoke a few Spanish words in Christmas greetings to her. She sighed, and said, she felt much better inside, having talked with the girls.

By the way, she just didn't like living in a dormitory. It was too noisy, so she lived in a private home with another teacher, she said.

On Saturday night we made a trip to the barn and watched the cows being "sucked out," as she expressed it.

She marveled at the long string of cows (19 in a row) and the milking machines. She said she thought it cute for each cow to have a water bowl between them, but how do cows know enough to push the valve down and drink? Miss Godoy examined the corn silage keenly and said she thought it a wonderful way to feed cows in winter-time.

Sunday evening by 5:30 we had our guest back to Kellogg Center, there to meet her roommate from France, also a teacher in home economics and by 6:00 we were at dinner served by the college administration.

After the holidays were over, I called the extension staff, hoping to talk to Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, but Mr. McDowell, our 4-H club agent, answered. So he in behalf of Mr. Avery and all the staff suggested I write a brief story on the guest we had this season, and encourage the other hostesses who had students to do so also.

This is our fourth year to have students on the Christmas Adventure plan. We have had a nurse from Thailand, a doctor from the Gold Coast in Africa and a girl from Sweden, studying to be an interpreter of languages for the United Nations. She already spoke 5 languages well.

We, my husband, our 17-year-old son, a daughter of 14, a boarding girl of 6 and I have enjoyed these visits. We say to you who have not had a student in your home, that you are missing a great privilege and blessing. All these students are here in our country on scholarships.

When Miss Godoy prepared to leave, she asked if she could have some popcorn balls. After packing them in a box for her, I asked if there were anything else she might like to take along. Joking she replied, "Yes, a cow."

Robert Osborne Is Master of Leslie Council

Robert Osborne was installed as three illustrious master of Leslie Council No. 50, Royal and Select Masters, at a joint public installation ceremony at the Masonic temple in Howell Saturday evening.

Serving with Mr. Osborne in the Leslie Council will be: Carl Johnson, deputy master; J. Carroll Huff, principal conductor of the work; Herbert J. Colby, chaplain; Harold Hamilton, treasurer; George Covert, recorder; Herbert Koons, captain of the guard; Gerald Huff, conductor of the council; George W. Post, steward; Don Heal, marshal; and Leroy Hutchinson, sentinel.

Officers of Lansing Council No. 29, Corunna Council No. 38, Williamston Council No. 64 and Livingston Council No. 73 were installed at the same time.

Clifford A. Taylor of Spring Lake, the most illustrious grand master of the Grand Council of Michigan, presided at the rites. He was assisted by the other line officers of the Grand Council, each of whom installed the corresponding officer in the local council.

Assisting in the installation rites were: Arvid R. North of Mason, deputy Grand master; Charles D. Logsdon of Sault Ste. Marie, grand principal conductor of the work; Raymond M. Carlson of Okemos, grand captain of the guard; James Van Waggoner of Saginaw, grand conductor of the council; William Harmon of Cheboygan, grand steward; Glen Rick of Mt. Clemens, grand marshal; Charles Sinclair of Cadillac, grand sentinel. Past Grand Masters Knapp and Kilstadt and Rev. Robertson of Howell also participated in the rites.

Book Talk

Faced with new resolves for a bigger and better year, let us examine the lives of those famous and infamous, as the case may be. New biographies at the Ingham county library are ready for the open season on reading, which begins this month and ends a year from now.

Let us begin with the inspiring story of Dean E. Hess, the clergyman turned fighter pilot. He flew 300 missions in World War II and Korea, and personally trained the Korean air force. As a man of God, Colonel Hess may be best remembered for his heroic efforts on behalf of Korean orphans. He established a permanent institution on an island off Korea which he still directs. The book is BATTLE HYMN.

Meanwhile, back in old New York, we find that the daughter of a famous politician has written a biography of her father, the late Al Smith. In THE HAPPY WARRIOR by Emily Smith Warner, it is claimed that Al Smith was not elected president in 1928 because of his religion. He started his career as a process server, and ended up as governor of New York, a warm and faithful servant of the people.

Triple champion, millionaire, national idol, playboy, and alcoholic, today Henry Armstrong devotes his life to the ministry. He is the only man in boxing to have held 3 world championships at the same time (featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight). GLOVES, GLORY AND GOD, an autobiography, is the story of Armstrong's climb to fame and the spiritual experience that took him into the pulpit.

Phyllis Stark reveals that she had similar leanings in I CHOSE A PARSON. Life is not dull at the Stark's, rectory or no. Once an ape broke into the house and stayed for breakfast and wasn't offered a chance to sing in the choir; another time the family camped out on the prairie among a thousand Sioux Indians.

A story of inspiration and service to others is that of Martha Berry, founder of the Berry schools in the south. HARNETT T. KANE writes of her in MIRACLE OF THE MOUNTAINS. Berry school has a campus of 30,000 acres of forest, mountains, and lakes, all dedicated to the education of mountain people. All the Berry schools are maintained by the students themselves, who also built many of the buildings.

Miners become expert in the use of explosives, and Harry Orchard became adept at a particular application, that of blowing up people. Known as "the dynamite man," the hired assassin of the Western Federation of Miners, he blasted to death at least 20 persons, including the governor of Idaho in 1905. Stewart Holbrook, author of several books involving Michigan, tells the story of Albert E. Horsley (Harry Orchard) in ROCKY MOUNTAIN REVOLUTION. Michigan's tragic copper country strike of 1913 was but a sidelight to the bitter labor struggles in the western mines, we find.

Slim Williams got acquainted with Alaska as a necker. Necking in Alaska back in 1905, meant pulling a sled loaded with 200 pounds by means of a rope yoke. By this means he saved his own grubstake, roamed the north country for the next 32 years. Slim's life in Alaska is related by Richard Morenus in ALASKA SOURDOUGH.

Virginia Cowles takes us back a bit earlier in her GAY MONARCH, the Life and Pleasures of Edward VII. Through letters and memoirs of those times, the author recreates the atmosphere of the "Marlborough House Set," specializing in lavish and unconventional entertainment. Edward VII is also drawn as a man with serious convictions regarding foreign affairs, and a good king.

In this land of equal opportunity, one of our greatest singers has regrets. She wishes she could have gone to music school. Marian Anderson could probably teach there now. Her autobiography is MY LORD, WHAT A MORNING. Despite her personal success, she had disturbing experiences as a public figure and a Negro. Her own hard work and unusual talent have not enabled her to forget.

Finally Believed His Eyes and Ears!

He has heard and read a great many wonderful things about this new 1957 Cadillac since it made its first appearance a few brief weeks ago——about its magnificent new luxury, for instance... its brilliant new power and responsiveness... its marvelous new handling ease... and its extraordinary new smoothness of ride.

And so, quite frankly, he began to wonder if it weren't all too good to be true. Could any motor car be as wonderful as this latest "car of cars" was reputed to be?

Well, he's decided to put his eyes and ears to the test today. And the verdict is unmistakable!

It's a joy just to lean back into those deep, soft cushions and look out over that graceful hood into the beckoning highway.

And what a revelation the car is to drive!

A curve in the road ahead? He simply follows it with the arc of his hands and the car responds with perfect obedience.

A hill in the offing? He just nudges the accelerator and the car sweeps up and over as effortlessly as if it were traveling the level road.

A stop light coming up? He presses his toe—ever so gently—on the broad braking pedal and comes to the smoothest, surest stop imaginable.

Yes, it's true what they say about this newest of Cadillacs. This is far and away the finest motor car ever to travel the world's highways.

How about you? Have you heard the wonderful things they're saying about the 1957 Cadillac?

Well, the proof is in the driving—and the facts about Cadillac have never been more convincing.

The Mandate of the People

Nothing has a shorter life than a mandate from the people.

Woodrow Wilson won re-election to the presidency in 1916 with the slogan, "He Kept Us Out of War." Already his administration was making plans to get in.

In 1940 the people voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term because the United States was not at war and they hoped that the president would keep things that way. They should have known better that time, because lend-lease was already in the works and we were virtually committed.

Last November the international situation was a compelling factor in the re-election of President Eisenhower. Already the United States is flexing military muscles.

The voice of the people is heard only during the few weeks preceding a presidential election. It is not heeded much the rest of the time. The rest of the time the voices of the internationalists, the syndicated newspaper columnists and the TV and radio commentators seem to drown out the voice of the people.

Mandates of the people seldom last through the inauguration.

The Esker Is Going

What's left of the hogback through Mason is doomed. For a hundred years men have been digging away in the glacial esker. This time most of the gravel and sand will be taken.

Angell Construction Co. is moving in with giant machines to mine everything above bedrock. The Ferris company is also operating on a big scale. Within 5 years what was long a hill and longer a more or less abandoned pit will be scraped clean. There'll be a canyon, probably a body of water, unless the canyon becomes a dump as it has in the north-end of town.

Before the esker is gone we ought to examine it closely. That ridge of gravel and sand was not shoved up or dropped off by a glacier. It was the bed of a glacial stream.

Glaciers did not come down from Labrador as solid chunks of ice. They flowed along, scooping up loose rocks and dirt ahead of them. Snow fell and the glaciers were built up as they traveled. But there were periods of the year when as there are now when rain instead of snow fell, when the sun melted some of the ice. The water cascaded through crevices in the glacier, carrying glacial debris with it. For centuries one of those main glacial water courses was from what is now Lansing south through what are now Holt and Mason. That's how the hogback was built. That's the kind of an esker it is.

Glaciers came down and retreated at least 4 times. The last one disappeared from this area 15,000 years ago. When the next one will head this way nobody knows, probably not during the Eisenhower administration. Yet the average mean temperature of Michigan will have to drop only 12 degrees from its present 48 for glaciers to form. They form and start moving at 36 degrees.

Gravel from the Mason pits was used for railroad ballast between Jackson and Mackinaw City. For many years Mason men shoveled sand and gravel into gondolas for shipment by rail. Much of the sand and gravel north of Mason has gone for building construction in Lansing and for highway and street construction. Thousands of cubic yards of fill dirt from Mason pits went into new US-127. Now as pits closer to Lansing are being exhausted the pits at Mason will be used for Lansing needs.

In former days of hand shoveling and even in the later days of power equipment, only part of the gravel could be reached. With modern equipment there will be little left, just enough to shore up the buildings on adjoining properties.

Ferris Co. and the Angell Construction company have a responsibility to the community. They have a right to get all the sand and gravel they can. With that right they have the responsibility to bear in mind public safety and community development. City officials, too, have a responsibility. They are responsible not only for the city's small holding in the pit but for the far larger concern for community safety and sightliness.

There's another angle too. Mason gets practically all its water from what is left of the eskers. Our water comes not from deep wells, but from only 50 feet down, at the bottom of the esker; on top of the bedrock. That water supply has been unfailing. What will happen when all the sand and gravel above the bedrock is removed? City officials ought to know.

The gravel from Mason's esker is going. What will be left is something that all of us are interested in.

A Park Fee Is Fair

Michigan State researchers found the obvious in their polling of 4,700 persons about willingness to pay fees for use of state parks.

Eleven out of every 12 persons polled said they would be willing to pay fees—fees necessary for upkeep of the parks and for purchase of additional park lands.

The present fee of 50c per family per night is inadequate. It was inadequate even before inflation.

People don't use state parks because they are almost free. They use them because they like to live in the open, because they don't want to keep going to the same place as they must do with a cottage of their own. They use them because they like to travel about the state. They use them because they have more fun than they would have in hotels, motels or cabins.

This theory that people used state parks because camping was cheap could have been exploded by a look at the expensive automobiles, fancy trailers and luxury tents at almost any park.

People are willing to pay for what they get. They have money to spend for other things on vacation. They are willing to spend money for the privilege of camping amid clean and uncrowded surroundings. Now that so many of them have said so, the state conservation department and the legislature ought to map out a bold program of park purchase and development. Michigan has already waited too long.

Dental Health Is Important

In Detroit, in Lansing, in St. Johns and in a lot of other places arguments have arisen over adding fluoride to city water supplies. Proponents of the fluoride addition program claim that it will save teeth, that drinking and using water with adequate fluoride will make the enamel on the teeth of young children harder and thus prevent cavities developing.

Fluoride arguments usually develop more heat than light. Maybe if all the interest and energy developed and expended by the fluoride arguments were devoted to general education in the home and in the school we wouldn't need to talk so much about fluoride. Maybe our children wouldn't need so much hardening of tooth enamel if we trained them to use less tooth-softening food and drink.

Parents and health officials and school officials ought to know the score as the dentists do at army, navy and air force recruit and training stations. Those dentists are appalled at the increasingly poorer teeth they find.

Dental standards for officers have had to be lowered and

Down by the SYCAMORE

Back in the days of more primitive living a vulgar expression was often used when a man's luck transformed what looked like disaster into profit. "If he fell into the privy pit he'd come up with a gold watch," people said.

Dell Bennett out on Bennett road has that kind of luck. He didn't even fall into the pit. But a mink did, and Dell fished it out, cleaned up the fur and sold it for $17.40.

When some woman of pampered vanity wraps her mink stole around her shoulders one of those pits at least can recall days when things were not so plush. It may even be pleased to be so high and dry.

Banjo factories have opened up again. Banjos were out of production for 20 years. Few people played them. Nobody made them. When I tried to buy a second-hand banjo for Christmas I ran around and searched hock shops. I found only one banjo and that was priced higher than a second-hand piano. So I finally settled for a banjo ukelele, and probably that's good enough. Potato bug mandolins are also out of production. They won't come back until some TV star popularizes them. That brought on the banjo renaissance.

Joy O. Davis was an ornament to society at the governor's inaugural ball Tuesday night. He appeared in a brand new tuxedo, his very own. The manager of the Mason automobile license branch is building up an enviable record for the secretary of state. He's sold twice as many license plates this year as for the same period last year. Of course, the changed law which calls for plates fore and aft has been a factor.

Oscar J. Hood reached 90 Monday. He always signs his name with round O letters, a big O for Oscar and 2 other perfect circles between the J and the d in Hood. There's no prettier signature in court records and the Mason lawyer is still practicing. "He knows the law that lawyers know and the other laws of faith, hope and charity."

For about 30 years the signature with the 3 perfect circles appeared on documents of Mason Presbyterian church. Oscar was clerk of session. As clerk he paid close attention to trust funds. Under his administration not a penny was lost in interest on invested funds and every one of those pennies was put to use for the purposes intended and no other.

Bert Dycus of El Paso, a brother of Mrs. Russell Brown, made a flying trip to Mason to be with his sister last week. He's in the real estate business and all through the southwest people are concerned over the long dry spell, he said. The Rio Grande has become the Rio Poco with only a trickle of water. Bert has gone into the water situation thoroughly. He is convinced that there is just as much water in the world as there ever was but that the distribution has changed. We are sludging it off the land instead of letting it seep down into the soil.

According to Bert's theory, the water we drink today is the same that Pharaoh threw out from his bath. Water is an indestructible element, and the same amount exists in the lakes, rivers and oceans, in the clouds or in ice and snow as came along at creation. I asked Bert to return to enroll in Professor Prophet's Geography 407.

Bert had to hurry back to El Paso before he had time to explain why most people write it drought instead of drouth. Webster gives it either way. In the Ingham County News we save out the g and transpose the t and h. During 1956 we saved 1,918 g's that way. We have them neatly boxed in 100s.

Mrs. Albert Scheguit of Houston, also came by plane to attend funeral services for her brother-in-law and to be with her sister for a few days. Monday she tried frantically to find black-eyed peas and hog jowls for a New Year's dinner. By proclamation of the governor, that's the dish served in Texas on New Year's Day. It is supposed to bring good luck all the year.

Dental standards for enlisted men have been virtually thrown away. Thousands of teen-agers going into military service now have full or half-dentures. Many others get them as soon as they can be processed.

Why? Americans are eating better than ever before. Almost everyone has a toothbrush. But what American boys and girls eat are soft foods. They eat far too many sweets. They drink far too much pop. Smoking, also, is bad for teeth, filling what cavities there are with tars. Teen-agers may have toothbrushes but they don't use them properly or often enough.

The truth of the matter is, while we boast of miracle drugs we do not protect the miracle of sound teeth. It does no good to brush on fluoride and then throw away the benefits by drinking pop or eating soft food and over-sweetened food. It does no good to have fluoride added to the water if youngsters have more and more sugar added to their diets.

Americans are rapidly becoming a nation of dental cripples. Nobody is more aware of it than dentists who work on the thousands of young men going into military service. What those dentists find ought to be reported fully to parents, and health and school officials. And those reports ought to be studied and ought to generate some positive action.

I looked up this little item once and intended to use it before Christmas but somehow it didn't get in. If your Christmas stockings didn't fit, find out for sure the size you need before exchanging them. Stocking size is measured in distance between the tip of the toe and the end of the heel in a straight line. If the measurement comes to a quarter-inch, go back to the nearest full number or the half; 8 1/4 calls for an 8, 9 1/4 for a 9 1/2.

More blood for the Red Cross blood bank would come from more meat. The rate of rejects for prisoners runs far higher than for free men. Their hemoglobin tests are down. Maybe that's the foundation for the old saying that you can't get blood from a turnip. Meat, not vegetables, makes good blood.

Search through your corncribs and you'll find no normal ears of corn with kernels in up-even rows. Corn grows in an even number of rows from 8 to 26. Sometimes an entire row aborts but not often. Corn with an odd number of rows of kernels is scarcer than four-leaf clovers by far.

For out of old fields, as men say, Corneth all this new corn for year to year.

That's from Chaucer in The Parliament of Fowles. It's his spelling, too. Corn meant grain in those days. The corn we call maize or the maize we call corn was then known only in the new world which was waiting for discovery.

There'll be 53 Tuesdays in 1957. According to the Gregorian calendar which most of the world now uses, every year has 53 of the days it begins on. Happy New Year and let's make that extra Tuesday count.

About Estes

What happened to Estes? We have not heard a peep out of him since election.

It's about time we did away with the electoral college and had a direct primary. We have 9 senators over 65 years old, one near 90, and 14 in the house of representatives are more than 65. It's time we gave some of them a rest.

No man should serve over 2 terms and no labor union should be allowed to contribute one dime of someone else's money for election purposes.

The C. I. O. and A. F. L. donated 1.8 billion for the 1956 election. It cost $35,000 to elect Senator Morse of Oregon.

Why should they feed at the public trough for life?

Stop some of the murder on the highways by cracking down; one accident, 30 days without a license; second accident, 90 days; and third accident, 10 years. This would make some of them take notice.

The Poem

I just finished Mrs. Peck's column and thought she might be interested to know the title of the poem in her column is "The Kitchen Prayer" and the author is Clara Munkres.

I believe framed copies may be obtained at the Rosary Book Store in Lansing. I'm not positive as I received mine as a shower gift before I was married.

It is my favorite "Kitchen sink morale booster."

McCues Arrive

We left our home in Grovenburg November 13 and arrived in Holbrook, Arizona, 4 days later. The first night we stayed with friends in Elkhart, Indiana. The next night we stayed a few miles west of St. Louis. The next morning it was raining and continued for about 4 hours. Then it cleared up and was nice all the rest of the way.

We were anxious to get started on our trip. While I am not a weather prophet, I felt the Ingham summer wouldn't last much longer. Because of the condition of the corn this year, we wished to dispose of it before we left home, so that delayed us with the transaction.

We found our folks well and busy and our daughter with 40 music pupils. We have music morning, noon and night. The pupils come to our daughter's house so we don't miss any of it. Our great-grandson told one of the pupils, "You play just like Liverache." I don't know whether I am going to be able to take this night life or not.

A week ago, 75 students from Brigham Young University of Utah, came to Holbrook, and put on a variety show. There were students from 29 foreign countries, and students from 46 or the 48 states. They are a very talented group of young people.

If you are planning on hitchhiking a ride west it would be best to have some money in your pocket to tide you over the rough spots. The other day, I parked up town. A man and his wife were standing there trying to hitch a ride. I asked them where they were from and they said they had been on the road 30 days and were from St. Louis, about 1,300 miles from here, and were trying to get to Los Angeles. That is something we never do—pick up hitchhikers. There have been too many robbed and have lost their lives by giving someone a ride.

I have been having a good time. I was Santa Claus in a department store and on the street for 2 days. We spent our Christmas with our granddaughter, Mrs. Carol Lee Jenkins in Tucson. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laskowsky, and her son, Michael, were also present.

Attitudes

In the study of the modern problem of the use of alcoholic beverages and the attitudes of some churches to ignore the whole problem, we must go back to the original translation of the Bible as well as study the social attitude of our modern society.

Rev. Albert Smith, pastor of the First Baptist church of Sheffield, Alabama, says, "Too long have we listened to the pious expressions from many quarters, 'Let the preacher stick to his Bible and leave the liquor question to laymen and politicians.'"

It is evident these people have failed sadly.

Part of the confusion comes from the apparent discrepancies in the translations of the Bible. The Greek translations do not discriminate between "wine," sweet grape juice, and "wine," fermented high alcoholic beverage. The same word is used for each while the Hebrew translations had different words for each. Therefore when the Greek of the new testament was translated by some there seems to be a certain sanction of the use of alcoholic beverages.

This is not actually true as Christ did not sanctify sin in any form.

Often today the same attitude is seen in the casual use of beer and wine.

When 3 boys claim they drank 23 bottles of beer and then went on a spree of vandalism we assume they were at least mildly drunk.

When the name of one young man appears in the court accounts for drunk driving twice in 6 months we begin to feel sure that he is headed for the so-called disease of alcoholism, especially when this man's brother was involved in a fatal accident 2 years ago when a man was killed in an automobile crash caused by a car full of drinking teenagers.

So we wonder why a fine point of argument on the liquor subject is allowed to rule out sober judgment. A point such as the Bible translations sanctioning the social use of alcohol in Christ's first miracle or a fine point such as alcoholism being a disease instead of a numbing influence on the mind and body of the user.

This latter argument is responsible for the statements, "I don't use it so I'll never have the disease," or "The first bottle of beer won't hurt you. It is the following bottles which might be the cause of an automobile accident in which someone might be killed or injured."

This is called a fine point but still the first bottle is the important one, just as are the second, third and all the others down the road to alcoholism.

Another fine point is the attitude of the church on any fine point such as the age-old problem of sin.

Calvin Coolidge said he was against it but some have said of sin, "It is any willful act less than our best." This again is another fine point but a point aimed at Christian perfection.

So using this last fine point, the first bottle of beer is very much a sin. Let us as Christians stick to the fine points which invariably direct us to truth and perfection. The Methodist church, as well as some others, say a true Methodist just can't drink at all.

Temperance to a wise man of any faith means total abstinence. Let us all at a very early age "sign the pledge" and then keep that pledge through a long, sober and happy life. No one will regret it.

Another Program Is Set for MSU

Sheepmen Will Meet in Williamston

There will be a sheep meeting in the agricultural room of the Williamston high school Tuesday night, January 8, at 8:00.

Sheep producers and those interested in wool production or sales are invited, according to M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent.

There will be 2 speakers for the evening who will emphasize wool production and selling.

Seldon Harvey, manager of the Michigan Coop Wool Marketing Association will discuss the wool market and marketing problems. Graydon Blank of Michigan State university extension service, specialist in animal husbandry, will discuss the wool and lamb promotion program and timely sheep management reminders.

Avery will discuss the possibility of an Ingham county sheep tour for early spring.

Both commercial and purebred sheep breeders in Ingham county will be interested in the program being planned for the annual meeting of Michigan Sheep

Breeders association, according to Avery.

Date for the event is January 17 at Anthony hall on the Michigan State university campus. Starting time is 10:30 a. m.

At the morning session, sheepmen will hear Dr. G. F. Eversole of the state veterinarian's office discuss control of sheep scab; a review of the wool outlook and promotion program by Seldon Harvey of the Michigan Wool Marketing association; and a discussion of the use of the aureomycin and pelleted feeds in creep and lamb feeding by MSU animal husbandry specialists. A production testing program for commercial and purebred breeders will also be presented by MSU animal husbandrymen.

In the afternoon, the program will include a lamb-saving clinic, a review of sheep research at MSU and the ram testing program now under way, lamb carcass grading and a discussion on how retail cuts affect the price of a live lamb.

Younger 4-H Boys Now Get Training in Tractor Work

There's now a junior 4-H tractor project for boys and girls 10 to 12 years of age, explained Mac McDowell, Ingham club agent. It is an introductory program which may be carried prior to enrollment in the regular "A," "B," "C" or "D" units of the tractor project, he said.

The purpose of the junior tractor project is to develop interest in the regular 4-H tractor project, to teach the importance of periodic inspection of mechanical equipment, to promote wider use of the operator's manual, to promote safe tractor operation and to make safety a habit.

The junior project is divided into 6 sections: Parts identification, the tractor operator's manual, community machinery accident survey, safe use of hand tools, tractor and fuel storage and starting the tractor.

The goal of the project is to learn to do things right. Farm-boys will appreciate this new project, McDowell said, because tractors are basic to our modern farming. Boys and good farmers can and will enjoy leading this new tractor club, he added. As long as there are many tractors, tractor accidents and waste of tractor power calls for pushing the tractor project, he said. Boys of 10, 11 and 12 years are beginning to use tractors and here is the project for them, McDowell stated.

Growth of power farming in Ingham from 1950 to 1955 is phenomenal, as this table shows.

| Ingham county | 1950 | 1955 |
|-------------------|-------|-------|
| Number of farms | 2,531 | 2,328 |
| Tractors | 2,523 | 3,209 |
| Combines | 735 | 1,035 |
| Corn pickers | 248 | 755 |
| Pickup balers | 169 | 408 |
| Forage harvesters | | 250 |
| Trucks | 979 | 1,304 |

The number of farm boys of 4-H club age are 1,038.

These figures are taken from the Farm Implement News.

The number of commercial farms is decreasing but the use of farm tractors and mechanized farm machinery is increasing. Farm boys need to be skilled in the use of this machinery, the club agent said. They must know more about these tools as the tools become more complicated, he added. They must know more about them to prevent accidents, to be more efficient operators and to reduce operator costs by knowing how to keep records, the club agent explained.

"With the help of older farm boys, farmers, 4-H leaders and school instructors, we should aim for one-fourth to one-third of the 1,038 farm boys enjoying the tractor or farm machinery project," McDowell said. "The fifth, sixth and seventh grade farm boys should be taking the junior tractor I. It can be handled by older young farmers, or any interested farmer."

"The older farm fellows 11, 12 through 20 years of age will be interested in the other units of the 4-H tractor program. These are the A, B, C and D units, (not years). To do these tractor units right may take 6 to 8 years in the tractor and machinery care projects. A project year can be started in the winter and carried through the summer."

The 4-H tractor program includes the following:

A unit — Tractor care, safety, what makes an engine run, operator's manual, general lubrication, oil for the engine and hydraulic system, clean air for engine, mixing fuel and air, ignition and cooling systems for engines.

B unit — Tractor care, engine ignition systems, saving fuel, valves and valve service, steering and front wheels, power transmission, care of tires, trouble shooting and winter care.

C unit — Tractor care and tractor service and cost records. (The best way to handle this project is to start it with another tractor project and continue keeping records during the summer.)

D unit — Machinery care, nuts and bolts, screws, rivets and nails, transmitting power, tools for breaking the soil, tools to work the soil, hitching tractor to a plow, servicing seed planters,

Country & Town

By Jim Brown

Honest! I didn't write it. There's a start-to-finish story of Neely Buchanan and the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Herick in this month's issue of Master Detective. It's written by James P. Brown, however, and not James N. Brown. James P. entitles his story "The 24-Hour Vigil of Death."

With a few exceptions, the story seems accurate and minus any attempt to make it any more sensational than it was.

Arthur W. Jewett and Laylin Jewett are doing a real job developing their 50-lot subdivision on Mason's east side north of Ash street. It will be the first subdivision to be accepted by the city under the city plat ordinance which requires water lines and sewers to be installed and streets graded. The Jewetts will go one step farther and install curb and gutter.

Last summer the No. 1 topic of conversation centered around our hard-to-get-through screen doors. There was something about the position or size or style of the screen door handle that created a mental block for most people. It was easier to crawl under the door rather than open it. One feller tried to climb through it.

We took down the door after the first few snow flurries, but now people still grumble about our door. When we open it in the morning, we must leave the key in the lock until we go home. The key won't come out unless the door is locked.

So 3 out of 4 people who open the door try to do us the favor of removing the key. Replacing the broken lock with a new one has top priority in 1957.

Oscar Wilde said, "I never travel without my diary. One should always have something sensational to read in the train."

Now It Can Be Told Department — My wife found only one needle missing from our Christmas tree when she stripped it of all glitter Tuesday. The needle later was found in the bottom of my foot as I shuffled across a shag rug. The tree didn't get even a teaspoon of water during the month it stood in our house. We gently wrapped the base in a sheet right off the bed and think of it — only one needle was missing.

Nels Ferriby is coming of age. For years he's insisted on driving red, pink or lavender automobiles. His latest model is a drab brown and cream.

There's still at least 361 days left in 1957 so once again, Happy New Year!

A unit — Tractor care, safety, what makes an engine run, operator's manual, general lubrication, oil for the engine and hydraulic system, clean air for engine, mixing fuel and air, ignition and cooling systems for engines.

B unit — Tractor care, engine ignition systems, saving fuel, valves and valve service, steering and front wheels, power transmission, care of tires, trouble shooting and winter care.

C unit — Tractor care and tractor service and cost records. (The best way to handle this project is to start it with another tractor project and continue keeping records during the summer.)

D unit — Machinery care, nuts and bolts, screws, rivets and nails, transmitting power, tools for breaking the soil, tools to work the soil, hitching tractor to a plow, servicing seed planters, cutters for crops, seed and separation.

Any 4 or 6 sections of a unit will make up a project year if they are done right with the 4-H members preparing demonstrations, McDowell said.

Each unit has a booklet for each member which, with the operator's manual, gives the answers to most of the questions. These projects, said McDowell, will help farm boys to learn more about tractors and other engines on their farm. It is easy to learn, he declared, so easy that soon some boys will be able to show others.

Tractor members should turn in their tractor care project books, McDowell said. There are awards for those who do the best work, he explained. The top 4 winners in the county will receive silver tractor medals. The state winner will have an expense-paid trip to 4-H congress in Chicago.

Winners of the tractor handling contest in the county will receive special awards.

Winners of the county plowing contest will receive special awards.

Special awards will be made for demonstrations given or exhibits made.

Ingham county implement dealers and fuel supply dealers are helping with the Ingham county tractor program.

"Boys who would like to join a tractor 4-H club or be a tractor 4-H leader, should call, write or drop in at the office," McDowell said, "and we will be glad to furnish the tractor material."

Farm land values will likely stay at present levels in the near future, believe M. S. U. farm economists.

Congress Must Enact New Corn Plan

By CARL COLLIN

One of the first farm problems congress will be asked to act on is a new corn program. It's generally conceded that the present allotment deal is, in effect, just no program at all. Individual farm allotments under current law will be cut back so far that too many farmers simply won't attempt to comply.

Secretary Benson is expected to come up with a plan that will aim at increasing the acreage a farmer can plant and still qualify for supports. Also he will certainly propose some plan to make the acreage reserve idea more attractive to corn growers.

Secretary Benson can be expected to advise replacement of the allotment plan by the base acreage deal as it operated this past year. This would take congressional action, because the latter plan failed in the December referendum and currently the allotment plan is the law.

There should be a lot of controversy over this action. It not only involves the important corn-hog area of the country but indirectly brings in other areas too.

hit liked at the favored treatment extended to corn growers by the soil bank.

Crop insurance will be tried on a relatively small scale for peaches this year. Spartanburg county in South Carolina will be the "guinea pig." If the program proves successful in this major peach producing area, it may be extended to cover peach growers across the country.

Amount of coverage per acre a grower may elect to receive varies from $100 to $300. The policy provides that the grower will bear the first 40% of the loss under the coverage elected in order to maintain premium rates at a reasonable level.

Premiums will be determined in accordance with the amount of coverage selected and classification of acreage which varies for different producing areas.

The insurance provides coverage for damage due to frost, freeze, tornado, hurricane, hail or a windstorm if accompanied by hail.

USDA's December pig crop report contained some interesting facts. First, this fall's pig crop is down, less than had been expected. It's off only 4% from a year ago. These pigs will be marketed next spring. It appears from the federal survey that the 1957 spring pig crop will be off only 2% from last year. If farrowing intentions materialize, supplies next summer and fall will be about as large as last August-November. Marketing people expect rather sharp winter price rises for butcher hogs followed by a sharp early spring decline.

There may not be a lot of new farm legislation passed next year but Washington farm observers figure there will be a lot of investigating by various congressional committees. These problems are expected to include hearings on the soil bank, freight rates on farm products, cattle prices, packers, alleged chain store monopoly, feed industry's influence and control on the turkey industry, CCC grain storage, sanitary poultry inspection, humane livestock slaughter, parity formula, agricultural research—to mention a few.

Thirty more government-owned ships have been ordered out of the reserve fleet to make them available to carry bulk cargoes of agricultural commodities. Ten more are expected to be ordered out soon. Most of these ships are expected to be used in transporting wheat and other grains. The additional shipping should help in efforts to expand foreign markets for U. S. farm products. Altogether now some 70 ships have been released from the reserve fleet for this special hauling job.

President Eisenhower will make a trip through the Great Plains this month to get a look at drought damage. Conditions are reported to be the worst in history in that area. Out of this trip some kind of drought relief and water conservation program is sure to develop. A vast part of the southern plains is now vulnerable to "blows." Several million acres already have been reported hard hit by wind erosion since December 1. What little moisture there is hasn't done much good to growing crops and grass. The subsoil has had no additional moisture to rebuild depleted reserves.

Michigan again ranked third in production of dry beans. Michigan farmers produced 96% of the pea beans and 82% of the cranberry crop. Total output this year of all dry beans was 5.4 million bags (100-lb), second largest crop on record, exceeded only by 1949 crop of 5.5 million bags. Crop quality is generally good because of favorable harvesting conditions last fall.

Miscellany. . . This year's cattle slaughter under federal inspection will exceed 20 million, greatest number ever butchered. . . It cost farmers 20.6% more to operate farms last year than 1949. . . Farmers signed up 1.3 million acres in 1956 for conservation reserve program.

International wheat agreement will continue in effect for another 3 years. . . 1957 winter wheat production officially estimated at 625 million bushels but trade estimates are slightly lower. Average yield per acre of 17 bushels, USDA estimate, may be high unless drought breaks. . . Unrest in communist satellite nations is arousing hope for trade. Several obstacles would have to be cleaned up before we send agricultural products to them but they could take quantities of food and feed grains, fats, oils, cotton. . . Be careful about calling yourself an expert. An "ox" is a has-been, and a "spurt" is a drip under pressure!

A survey of central Michigan families showed that they bought 80 to 85 per cent of their eggs in lots of 2 dozen or more. Containers holding more than one dozen eggs might boost sales for individual producers, believe M. S. U. poultrymen.

Farmers Week Programs

Will Include Questions

Visitors to the 1957 Farmers' Week at Michigan State university will be able to use their time efficiently in learning the latest tips and views on farm production, marketing and many other subjects.

The event will be held from Jan. 28 through Feb. 1 on the MSU campus at East Lansing.

General sessions lasting about a half-hour will begin at 1 p. m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. In all other sessions, extension and research specialists from the university will speak about and answer questions on current problems and developments in agriculture.

At Thursday's general session, outstanding leaders of Michigan agriculture will receive a "Distinguished Service to Agriculture" award.

These leaders are Stanley M. Powell, Ionia, who is legislative representative for the Michigan Farm Bureau and a member of the executive committee of the Michigan State Grange; Harry E. Rohlf, Akron, certified seed grower and active in many agricultural organizations; and Erich Kerlikowski, Coloma, fruit grower who has been a leader in many Michigan horticultural groups.

John A. Hannah, president of MSU, will preside at the Thursday session and Gov. G. Mennen Williams will deliver the main address.

At the general sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday, the theme of Farmers' Week, "Blueprint for Tomorrow's Agriculture," will be dramatized in a special pageant. All programs during the week will be built around that theme as a joint effort with the plans recently developed by the state's farm organizations to make Michigan agriculture one of the most progressive and prosperous in the nation.

Visitors will be able to buy a box lunch in the new Anthony hall during each noon hour before attending the general sessions in the building's auditorium.

In the new animal husbandry presentation, MSU specialists will demonstrate how to judge carcass desirability of beef cattle and hogs through on-foot appearance.

Many department exhibits will be displayed in Macklin stadium and the auditorium visitors will also have a chance to inspect the university's livestock facilities.

Farmers Can Get Protection From Liability

Accident statistics prove that farming is one of America's most hazardous industries. What can you do to protect yourself?

Most important, be careful, said Warren Vincent, farm economist at Michigan State university. He emphasized that insurance cannot prevent accidents or remove the pain of an injury.

In addition, learn about your liability to hired workers and the public from accidents on or near your farm, Vincent advised.

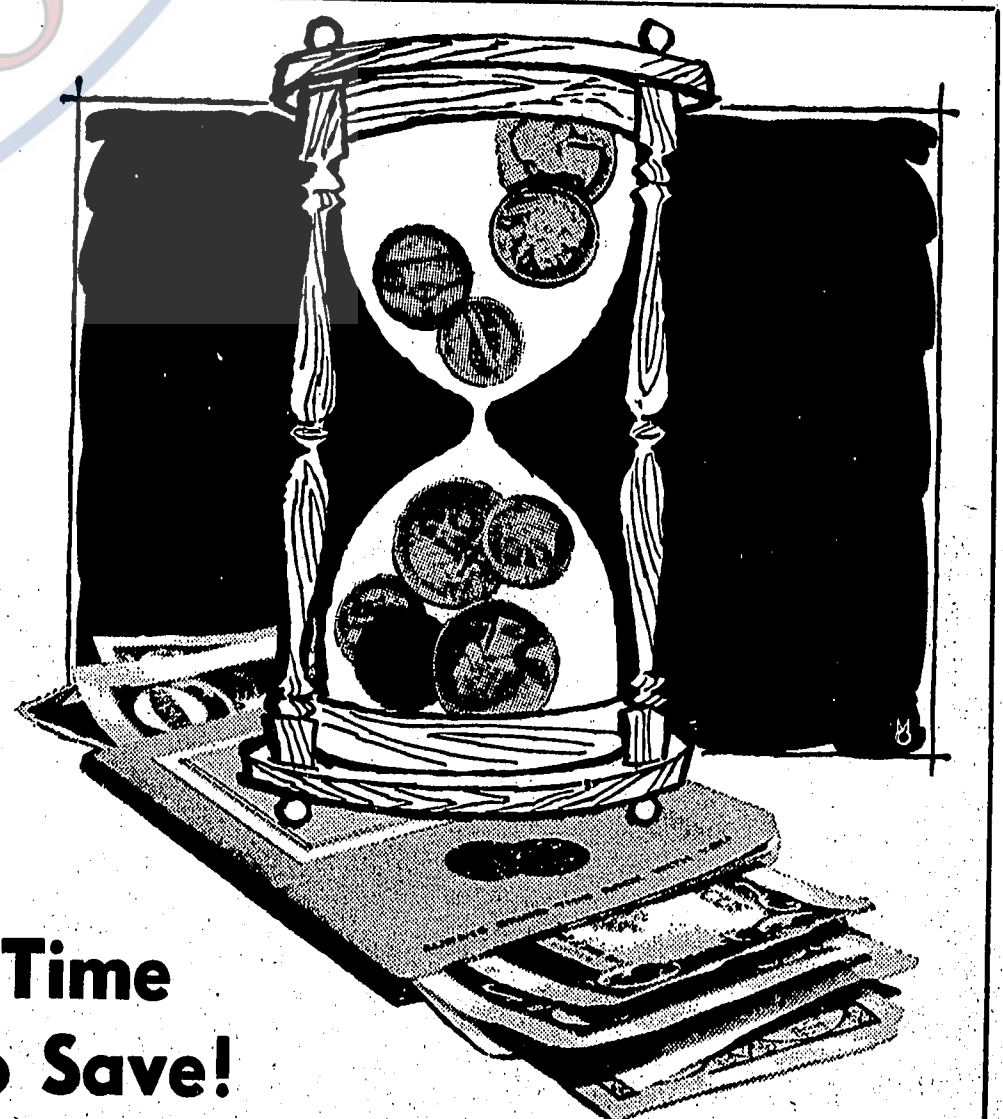

Farmers, like other businessmen, must provide safe working conditions for their employees. They might be sued if their negligence contributes to the injury of a hired man. And a lawsuit can be a heavy financial burden.

Some farmers have protected themselves by taking out workmen's compensation insurance. This insurance brings them under the Michigan workmen's compensation act which automatically provides a fair and standard payment to the employee in case of injury or death, Vincent reported.

Premiums for workmen's compensation insurance vary with the employer's payroll. Today, the premium for farmers is $3.28 for every $100 paid to workers either as board and room or as wages. However, the minimum premium for any policy is $39.

Employer's liability insurance is also provided by most private insurance firms in the state. Generally, medical expenses are the only costs which these policies automatically pay.

Along with employers' liability insurance, most companies offer a comprehensive policy covering a wide variety of accidents to farm visitors and to the public. These policies vary greatly between companies. Because the accidents which they cover are rare, a small increase in premium may extend the coverage to many mishaps on or near the farm.

State Bosses Get Less Than Aides

By ELMER WHITE
Michigan Press Association

Who wants to be boss in a shop where workers get more than he does? Who wants to be boss of a business where employees earn more than the man with most responsibility?

The answer, obviously, is, "not many."

Yet the income circumstances outlined above are exactly what our state government provides for several important state positions. And situation plays a big part in the lack of enthusiastic candidates.

The state superintendent of public instruction is paid $12,500 per year. He is responsible for the education of Michigan's nearly 1½ million children. But 4 employees of his department, all of whom enjoy the securities of civil service, receive higher salaries. The present superintendent has indicated he has not yet decided whether he will run for reelection in April. Surely finances must play an important part in his decision. If he had maintained his former capacity as deputy superintendent, he would now in all probability be drawing more than $15,000 per year. Superintendents of schools in many localities are paid this amount. In Detroit and several of the larger cities salaries are as high as $30,000.

The tremendous responsibility of the state highway system rests in the hands of a man paid $12,500. He handles more than $200 million per year. On the highway staff are at least 4 people receiving salaries higher than the commissioner.

When the top job in a department pays less than subordinate positions, it is understandable that competent, professional people would prefer not to be "promoted."

Perhaps less desirable than the salary deficiency is the political aspect. The administrator must run for office each term. This is almost always a physical and emotional trial as well as an expensive one.

The "boss" is always a target for fair and even unfair criticism from citizens or political opponents. There are, for instance, many who believe that the governor's blasts at Charles M. Ziegler were much more for political reasons than any other.

Some key appointed positions are little better. John H. McCarthy, chairman of the public service commission since 1949, announced his resignation effective the first of the year. His salary is $9,000, only $500 more than it was when he accepted the job. At the same time, he has been directing staff people who are paid more than he is, including one employee paid $13,800.

Legislators have indicated some inclination to improve this matter in the coming session. If action is not taken, the situation will grow less and less practical as other salaries increase.

Michigan's "sickest" field crop may be in for some doctoring. The Michigan potato, which has slipped steadily from the housewife's favor, must either regain its former popularity or disappear entirely from the agricultural picture as a major factor in this state.

Representatives from all phases of the sagging potato industry were invited to a meeting at Michigan State university. Joint hosts were the Michigan department of agriculture and the university itself. Present were growers, shippers, brokers, retailers, promotion people and a lone woman speaking as a consumer.

The potato plight was explained by George S. McIntyre, director of the Michigan department of agriculture, and Dean Thomas K. Cowden, college of agriculture at MSU.

The conferees were told that in 1934 Michigan had 323,000 acres in potatoes with a yield of 36 million bushels. In 1956 this crop was reduced to 13 million bushels from only 51,000 acres.

The group agreed that it is a "do or die" situation. Members discussed various aspects of the situation including the idea of letting the potato industry in Michigan wither on the vine. Other problems they faced involved the need for quality control, good seed, a marketing and promotion program.

Basic decision reached is that Michigan can grow good potatoes and that there is a market here for them.

Next decision was that the potato industry needs an organization like the Michigan Apple commission or the Michigan Cherry commission which, it is considered, have added greatly in the marketing of Michigan apples and cherries.

First steps to form such an organization were taken. An executive committee was appointed to study all aspects.

This committee is expected to recommend specific attacks on problems of the potato industry and how more housewives can be made happy with Michigan-grown potatoes.

If You're Like Me

You've thought of laws as rules that you shouldn't break.

Or sometimes you think of laws as rules that will force or cause others to do right by you.

But have you ever thought of laws that can do valuable things for you during your life and afterwards?

Well, there are such laws. For want of a better name let's call them "constructive laws." These are laws that can get work done.

There seems to be any number of such laws. Laws respecting contracts which can help make your new home be what you want it to be. Laws that make it easier to work with other people as partners or as employer and employee. Laws that enable you to patent your inventions, and license them to others so that you can obtain royalties.

It was interesting to learn that a will, for example, will do that which you would like to have done. In other words, by means of a will the administrator or executor, with the approval of the probate court, will distribute your property just as you would if you were there. If there is no will, your property will be distributed according to a stated formula expressed in the laws of the state.

Distribution can also be accomplished by setting up a trust, either in the will, or during your lifetime. This is possible under what I call constructive laws. Trusts are a big subject, but in principle they are simple: as a "grantor," you choose your trustee, and turn your property over to him. You tell him what to do. He does it.

You know, the more I write about these law angles the more I see law as being the efforts of society to help me in a friendly way. I used to be just scared of the law, period.

If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. (II Corinthians 5:17.)

Last spring I received a letter from a lady, a widow, who lives in a big city hundreds of miles from any relatives. She works to support herself. Two years ago she underwent major surgery, followed by a long period of recovery. As a young woman, she had been a Christian, but later drifted away. Following the death of her husband about 4 years ago, she turned back to God and the church.

She wrote in her letter: "We are having some wonderful Lenten services at our church, and I am enjoying them so much. I just love my little church. It is difficult for me to describe my feeling, but somehow I feel as if the church is a part of me and wonder how I lived without it. Life is now so different. No problem seems difficult any more. God is with me wherever I go. Loneliness is not bad any more. Illness and pain are easier to bear. I'm sure you understand."

Knowing Christ enables one to really live.

PRAYER
Our Father, forgive us wherein we have tried to live our own lives without Thee. Help us so to give ourselves to Thee that we may know Christ and the joy and victory which He alone can give.
In His name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Am I really living, or am I just passing time and occupying space?
Wayne A. Lamb (Tennessee)
