

Japanese Prison Survivor Dies of War Disabilities

Twelve years after his release from Japanese prisoner of war camps, Arthur Somers died in Veterans hospital, Ann Arbor.

Doctors attributed his death at 40 to a complication of liver and kidney ailments caused by his army service in the campaign on the Bataan peninsula in the Philippines, the siege of Corregidor, his hiding out in the jungle and his 3½ years as a prisoner of war in Japan.

Graduating from Dansville Agricultural school in 1938, Somers enlisted in the army air force in 1940. He was in the Philippines when war erupted. Across the Bataan peninsula the U. S. forces were harried by the hordes of Japanese.

Instead of surrendering, Somers finally took to the jungle. Six months later he was captured and was sent to Japan as a prisoner of war. He worked in a foundry during much of the time.

His parents did not know whether he was dead or alive until operators of a short wave radio receiving set picked up

Army Worms Attack Grain

Eating their way through rye and oats on 2 Aurelius farms are army worms.

They are in 40 acres of rye on the Rolland Snider farm on Columbus and into a 10-acre field of oats on the adjoining Paul Rowe farm.

Farmers and M. H. Avery, Ingham county agent, were making arrangements Wednesday for dusting or spraying the 2 fields by plane.

Avery took some of the worms to the MSU entomology department for identification.

In the stage they had reached Tuesday the worms were between an inch and an inch and a half long. They are dark with horizontal stripes, true worms with slippery bodies. They are not caterpillars.

Dr. Ray L. Jones of the entomology department said that moths arrived on winds from the south and deposited their eggs. It takes from 7 to 10 days for eggs to hatch. Worms have a life span of about 20 days, Dr. Jones said, but those 20 days are a perpetual feast. They prefer rye, wheat, barley and oats but will also feed on corn, and even brome, clover and alfalfa if it is in their path.

Avery and Dr. Jones urged farmers to look at lodged grain. Moths prefer down grain for laying their eggs, the entomologist said.

The moths range from one-half to an inch and a half in wing spread. They vary in color from brownish gray to pale brown according to temperature and humidity and are most active at night.

Dr. Jones urged farmers to take action immediately upon discovery of army worms in their fields.

Hospital Pledges Increase $2,000

Contributions from a Lansing retail store and a county farmers organization added $2,000 to Mason hospital pledges during the past week.

The pledge total now stands at $504,594.

Hospital fund records have been transferred to the C. H. Hall residence, 310 East Oak. Mrs. Hall has taken charge of accounts and records.

Arrangements have been made with both Mason banks to accept contributions and payments on pledges. They may also be paid through Mrs. Hall's office.

Downspouts Must Get Out Of Sanitary Sewer System

Mason property owners will have to use tin snips on their eavestroughing after council action Monday night.

The amended sewer ordinance councilmen approved orders all downspouts to be pulled from sanitary sewers. Overloading of the disposal plant and sewer line backups in some basements brought on the change.

The old ordinance gave a loophole to those homeowners located in areas not served by storm sewers. If no storm sewers were available there was no provision to force property owners to disconnect downspouts from sanitary sewers.

Sewers, wells and disposal plant problems came in for discussion at the meeting.

Councilman Al Forche, in messages from the Japanese government. That was 2 years after his capture. Later they received 2 post cards written by their son. He asked for food. More than 100 such packages were sent to him through the Red Cross. He didn't receive any.

He was in poor health when freed in September of 1945. He apparently regained his health and was employed at the Lansing postoffice until he went to the Veterans hospital.

Somers and his wife and 3 children lived in Okemos.

More about his life and family appears on Page 2, Section B.

Petition Asks Zoning Change

Pat Slusser, administrator of the Anna Slusser estate, petitioned the council Monday night to re-zone the Slusser property at Jefferson and Okemos streets to commercial.

Councilmen re-zoned the property along with 11 other adjoining lots from A residential to B residential last month at the request of Slusser.

The new change, according to the petition, is requested so the Slusser property can be used by the Farm Bureau for office space. The Farm Bureau, on the advice of attorneys, will not purchase the property unless it is re-zoned, according to the letter submitted to the council by Raymond H. McLean, attorney for Slusser.

Zoning is a confusing issue right now. The old zoning ordinance is in effect but the new ordinance is close to passage. Under the new ordinance the Slusser property is listed as R-3 multiple dwelling.

Mason councilmen are having a hard time finding someone interested in blacktopping Mason streets.

No bids were received on 2 blacktop projects Monday night. A triple seal job on Kathryn street and single seal patching in several locations throughout town will be re-advertised for submission at the July 15 meeting.

In other council action Monday night councilmen agreed to pay $54 to the Jean R. Anderson VFW post for the city's share in providing flags and markers for veterans on Memorial Day.

City Taxpayers Settle Early

Mason taxpayers are settling up at a record rate this year, according to Mrs. Leland Austin, city treasurer.

As of June 30 her books showed $12,003 in the city coffers already. Last year on the same date only $8,000 in taxes were in and the year before it was $5,000. The total city tax levy this year is $67,021.

She added that people started inquiring about paying their taxes a month before the tax lists were completed.

Mason taxpayers have until August 31 to pay their taxes.

Mason School Limits Pupils

Youngsters from surrounding school districts who contemplate entering Mason high school next fall will have some hurdles to jump first.

In a letter Wednesday to school boards on the perimeter of the Mason district, the Mason school board enclosed copies of a resolution adopted last Thursday night.

It read, "Resolved that it (the district) can not continue to accept new non-resident pupils under the present conditions. Before any non-resident pupils will be admitted from rural districts in September, 1957, it will be necessary for the school boards of the rural districts to make satisfactory arrangements with the Mason board of education before August 1."

James Vander Ven, superintendent, said that a decrease in state maximum tuition rates for the coming year plus the overcrowded conditions in the school system make it necessary for perimeter districts to begin considering other plans for educating high school pupils.

The superintendent said that last year Mason received 85 tuition pupils and received an average $85 per pupil from the state. The state money will be trimmed this coming year, he added.

Vander Ven said that districts affected have 3 alternatives. They can build their own high schools. They can annex with some other district or they might be able to annex to Mason.

He said basically, it is a matter of fairness that all districts share equally in the costs of high school education. He expressed the opinion that it is not right that taxpayers within the Mason district should pay into the building and site fund to provide facilities partly made necessary because of tuition pupils.

Vander Ven said the Mason board regretted to take the action and he added that the board has no intention of trying to strong-arm tuition youngsters out of the Mason system. He said that the board recognizes its obligation to the surrounding area and wants only to discuss the acute situation with the area boards.

Vander Ven said that in his opinion, the state department of public instruction has manipulated the reduction of tuition rates in order to further a march toward consolidation and annexation. He said that the recent directive from the state office will make it necessary for many other districts throughout the state to take similar action.

City Clerk's Job Proves Popular

Monday night was interview time at the council meeting. Candidates for city clerk soon to be vacated by George Kellogg met with members of the administrative committee. Kellogg expects to leave his post September 1.

Mrs. Charles Coss, William Peek, Harry Spenny, Mrs. Richard Morris, Miss Sharon Darrow, Ted Heins and Mrs. A. L. Jenks were among those who met with the committee.

Councilmen Abe Cohn and Nels Ferraby and Mayor Paul Richards are members of Chairman Dewayne Evans' committee.

Decision on Kellogg's successor will probably be made at the special council meeting Monday night, July 8, Evans indicated.

Lansing Extends City Hall Lease

Moving day for the sheriff's department is postponed until December 1.

Last week Sheriff Willard P. Barnes made arrangements to move his staff from the old Lansing city hall. Before the vans arrived, city officials relented and extended the deadline from July 1 to December 1.

Under original plans the old city hall was to be razed this summer. Now it has been put off until winter.

At the Lansing branch office of the sheriff is a license examiner, chief deputy sheriff and 2 regular deputies. Arrangements had been made to make room for them in the Mason office.

The board of supervisors has commissioned the steering committee to study plans for housing all Lansing offices of county government under one roof.

Strickland Leads Mason Jaycees

Ferris Strickland, Jr., will guide Mason Jaycees as their new president. He and other officers of the Mason Junior Chamber of Commerce were installed at the annual meeting in St. James church Monday night.

Attending the event were officers from Charlotte, Howell and Grand Ledge and the state Jaycee president, Richard Meyerson, of Kalamazoo.

The installation ceremony also included Val DeRosa, first vice-president; Robert Hall, second vice-president; Ivan Kerr, treasurer; Delmer Kramer, secretary; and Raymond Snider and Donald Lehman, state directors.

Meyerson declared that the Jaycee organization provides an opportunity for young men to serve their communities and their country.

"Jaycees can make mistakes in their organization and get away with it," the state president said. "The whole organization is bent on giving young men an opportunity to lead. Industry and business won't tolerate the making of mistakes. That's why the same young men can gain so much from the Jaycee program. They have the opportunity to flex their ideas and enthusiasm and the community and country gain."

Meyerson also took the occasion to lash people who are content to lean on the federal government rather than provide for themselves. He said the United States was built on the foundation of individuality. He warned against creeping socialism.

During the program William Carl and Donald Lehman received past president pins and Peggy and Vicki Densmore, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Don Densmore, presented a dance and song routine.

Joseph Ducharme, past district vice-president from Grand Ledge, was master of ceremonies. He presented the Mason teenage rodeo winners, Donald McCabe, Gary White and Donald Drushel. Women of St. James church served a family-style chicken dinner.

Father on Guam Awaits Reunion

Dan Norton on Guam is anxiously awaiting the arrival of his wife and the daughter he has not yet seen. He is serving with the navy. The daughter, Deborah, was born after the father left for Guam.

Mrs. Norton, the former Lucille Helman, and the baby are taking a plane to San Francisco Sunday, where they will board ship for the long journey by sea to the island fortress in the far Pacific.

A Good Man

Harry Freshour Lived a Useful Life

Harry Freshour's body was laid away Wednesday. As a vital statistic, the records show that W. H. Freshour died Sunday, June 30, at the age of 77.

But his joyous spirit remains to buoy up his beloved family and his hundreds of friends.

"Let there be no mourning at my passing," said he as he faced death. "I want you all to talk over the good times we have had together. I want you to laugh as you reflect on the fun we have had."

That was Harry Freshour. That was the way he lived. That was the way he died.

Yet he was a serious man, a man of strong convictions and high principles. But he found time to make friends and always to keep those friendships green.

He was a successful farmer and business man. For 25 years he served as president of the Ingham county fair board. He and his son gained national reputations with their Holstein herd. He was an authority on blood lines of Holstein cattle and Percheron horses.

He was a member of Mason Baptist church. He was a Mason and worked at it. He was a life member and past master of Mason lodge No. 70, F&AM. He was a past high priest of Ingham chapter. He was a member of Leslie council, the commandery and the Saginaw shrine.

Harry Freshour was a man who had the confidence of his neighbors. He led in the organization of the county's first cow-

Candidates Offer Services to School

At Mason, Leslie, Dansville, Webberville and Williamston and in primary school districts Monday is election day. In most of the big districts voting will be done by printed ballots. In the primary districts nominations are made from the floor and voting is done by slips.

There are 4 candidates for the 2 school board posts at Mason. Terms of Dr. R. R. DeMartha and Louis A. Stid expire. Neither man sought renomination.

The 4 Mason district candidates, listed alphabetically, are:

W. Oren Hall, 441 East Elm, assistant cashier at Farmers bank.

Robert M. Lumlanski, 3252 Wiloughby road, professor of communication skills at Michigan State university.

Glen E. Oesterle, 1285 Eden road, farmer and real estate salesman.

Robert Seyfarth, 596 Phillips road, engineer at Lansing Oldsmobile factory.

All the candidates have children attending Mason schools. Hall lives in town, Lumlanski and Seyfarth in what was the Ahlborn township unit district before merger with Mason, and Oesterle in what was the Walters district before annexation to Mason.

Hall attended school in Wisconsin until the family moved to Mason. He was in the retail dairy business between periods of service at the Farmers bank. He was a member of the city council for 5 years.

"I have no pet theories to offer," Hall said. "If elected I will try to meet every issue as it develops. School business is big business today and I will approach it as such."

The Halls have a son, Calvin, in high school, and a daughter, Lois, at Albion college.

Lumlanski has been at Michigan State 10 years. He's a native of New Bedford, Mass., and taught school at Doylestown, Pa., and Eastport, Maine, before becoming high school principal at Lake George, New York. He was a captain in the air force during World War II. The Lumlanskis have a son, Jeffery, at Michigan State; a son, Jerry, who graduated from Mason last month; Peter, who will enter the ninth grade this fall; and Mary Ellen, who completed the fifth grade at Sandhill last month.

He decided to offer himself as a candidate, he said, when he read an Ingham County News editorial calling for men and women to accept school responsibility.

Oesterle was a director in the Walters school district. He has lived in the Mason and Walters districts for 46 years. He attended Mason high school. There is a son in school now.

"If elected, I shall do my best to see that the school progresses and that it is operated in a businesslike manner," Oesterle said. "I think I know some of its problems and I shall exert every effort to get acquainted with all others as they develop."

Seyfarth is a graduate of Princeton high school, Princeton, New Jersey, and of Princeton university. He has lived in the Mason and Ahlborn districts for 11 years. Mr. and Mrs. Seyfarth have 3 children attending Mason schools.

"Mason has a good school system," Seyfarth said. "If elected, I shall strive to make it one of the best anywhere."

At Monday's election there is only one voting place for the entire district. It is the agriculture and shop building on West Oak. Polls open at 7 o'clock in the morning and remain open until 8 at night.

At Dansville Rex Townsend and Harold Wing are both candidates for re-election. They are without opposition.

School Hires Coordinator

John Waldo, originally from Colorado, but now an English teacher at Leslie, will become schools coordinator in Mason next fall. He was hired by the Mason school board Thursday night.

Waldo will succeed Miss Phyllis Byrum who has accepted a position as sixth grade teacher at Eaton Rapids.

Waldo was a supervising teacher at Southern Oregon State college before moving to Leslie. He is a graduate of Boulder high school and received his AB and master degrees from Colorado State college.

Waldo is married and has 3 children.

The board also hired Miss Barbara Ireland to teach at Phillips school. Miss Ireland was graduated from Mason in 1951. She has completed 3 years at Michigan State and will be married this summer.

Others hired by the board include Karl L. Essenberg and Norman Bovee. Essenberg will teach chemistry and general science. Bovee will teach physics and math. Both were graduated this spring from Hope college.

Northern Lights Sparkle

Aurora Borealis staged a splendid display about 11 o'clock Sunday night. There were curtains of colored lights waving from the lower atmosphere to far above where space ships travel.

NOT FOR WILLIAM or Walter . . . that W in W. H. Freshour was just an initial. It stood for no name. And the given name was Harold, not Harry. For 77 years Harry Freshour added to his list of friends. He was a successful farmer, a community leader, but above all a good neighbor and a good friend.

Services were conducted at Ball-Dunn funeral home Wednesday afternoon with burial in Maple Grove. Rev. Clarence Rodd, pastor of Mason Baptist church, officiated. Mason lodge No. 70 participated in the services. Walter E. Zimmer, Glen F. Cline, George W. Post, William S. Seelye, Ludell W. Cheney and Peter Klont were pallbearers.

Letters

Art Somers Comes Home

Arthur Somers came back to his home town Sunday. Loyal comrades from every branch of the services tenderly escorted him to his final resting place in Fairview cemetery where he now sleeps beneath a wilderness of flowers.

They remembered him, those comrades, as a gangling school boy who by sheer determination overcame the lack of natural ability to carve for himself a niche in Aggie athletic history.

They remembered him as a student who was an example of perseverance. They remembered that his restless feet carried him out California way, thence to the armed services.

They remembered him as a survivor of the Bataan death march, of the 44 months he spent in a Japanese prison camp that eventually took their toll and hastened his demise.

They remembered him as a devoted family man and a tried and true friend.

And so it was that on this sunny Sabbath afternoon that they traveled down the selfsame road where just one month before, May 30, he had marched with them in the Memorial Day parade.

They knew him, they understood his motives. That's why they answered the call "fall in" once more to pay tribute in their own way to one of the greatest and grandest guys.

BOB CURRY, Dansville

Bike Riders on Highways

I am writing this letter to help many of the parents of boys like the ones we saw Sunday morning. Had it not been for the man who was driving a red pickup truck, there might have been another case like the Strickling boy.

I believe in justice but some can not understand until they see these things. A boy on a bike going west on Columbia road, rode into the path of this red pickup truck and the man had to take the left-hand side of the road the same as we did, and I believe we, as mothers and fathers, should think twice before we condemn any man for there are innocent men behind bars today because too many did not think first.

I have boys. Mine also ride bikes, and I would think hard before I would condemn an innocent man. He too may have innocent girls.

MRS. CLARENCE NORRIS, Mason

False Alarm

It could have been a flag-pole-sitter or a suicide, but it was only a metal door. Firemen, policemen and spectators centered their attention on the Mason standpipe about 9 Tuesday night after Louis Lee pointed out what appeared to be a man atop the pipe. Elmer Julerjohn and Hugh Silsby ascended the 100-foot ladder, but discovered the center of attention was the loose door.

Librarian Takes Course

Miss Lila Fern Colby is at American university in Washington, D. C. enrolled in a course for archivists. She will be there for several weeks.

Onondaga Man Arrested

Meresta county officers arrested Carl D. Simons, 32, of Onondaga Saturday night in Big Rapids. They charged him with rape, the charge growing out of an attack on a 16-year-old girl. Simons recently moved to Onondaga township from Big Rapids. He has a wife and 4 children.

Dansville Army Musician Plays in German Concert

Pfc. David P. Mayville, son of Mrs. Frances Mayville, 136 1/2 Mason street, Dansville, recently appeared in a band concert in Berchtesgaden, Germany, with the 76th Army band.

Mayville plays a trombone in the band which is regularly stationed in Orleans, France.

The 18-year-old soldier entered the army in July, 1956, and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. He arrived in Europe last January. He was graduated from Dansville Agricultural high school in 1956 and was employed by the Ingham county road commission, Mason, before entering the army.

Okemos

Boys Return Home

Mrs. Clyde Williams. Allen Houghton has returned from Houghton, where he has been a student at Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Allen has a summer job and will be returning to Houghton in the fall.

Jimmy Greenwood has returned from Paris after completing 3 years of service with the U. S. army.

Lions Elect International President

Edward G. Barry of Little Rock, Arkansas has been elected International President of Lions International at the association's 40th Annual Convention in San Francisco, California. Lions International, with 604,300 members in 82 countries or regions, is the world's largest service club organization.

Jury Finishes Court Trials

Unless they are summoned to return, May term jurors are all through.

Judge Marvin J. Salmon excused them Monday noon after a verdict in the trial of J. M. Bailey, Stockbridge.

It took the jury only about 15 minutes to find Bailey guilty. He was originally charged with statutory rape. Upon motion of Prosecutor Jack Warren, the charge was reduced to assault with intent to commit rape. William L. Mackay defended Bailey. Judge Salmon remanded Bailey to jail to await sentence.

Two trials which were originally set for the May term of court were put over until September.

One was the manslaughter case in which Jacob Dezeuw of Kalamazoo is held. He was the driver of a car which collided with a bicycle ridden by Ronald Strickling, 13, west of Mason, March 4. The boy died of injuries. The case was set over the term after motions for quashing and for change of venue were denied.

The other case which would have taken several days to try is that of Donald McMann of Holt. He is charged with the murder of Benjamin Bennett of Mason April 7 in Lansing. There were 15 criminal and civil trials before juries at the May term of court in Mason.

Justice Court

Speeder Admits Speeding But Dislikes Sentence

Robert Birgey of Saginaw pleaded guilty in justice court Saturday to a charge of speeding, but differed with Justice of the Peace Roy Adams' decision of a $75 fine and a 30-day jail sentence. Birgey has appealed the sentence and will be heard in circuit court. Birgey had pleaded guilty to traveling 100 miles an hour on US-127 between Holt and Mason. The judge said Birgey had been drinking and that last year he was convicted of negligent homicide in Traverse City.

Rader Roark, Jr., of Bunker Hill township pleaded not guilty to a charge of reckless driving Tuesday when he appeared before Judge Adams. He was released on $200 bond and will appear July 9 in the judge's court.

Stanley Bloome of Jackson was ordered to spend 3 days in jail and to pay fine and costs of $85 Monday when he appeared before the judge on a charge of drunk driving. Unlike Roark and Birgey, he accepted both the charge and the sentence.

Traffic tickets reported settled for in Judge Adams' court this week were listed by him as follows:

Barry Wentland, Mason, speeding, $5.

Richard A. Mills, Mason street, Mason, failure to yield right-of-way, $5.

Mary J. Prineing, Gregory, running red light, $1.

Matias Chavez, Stockbridge, speeding, $8.

Rudy Pekrul, Lansing, speeding and driving with an expired license, $35.

Richard O. Kosht, Lansing, speeding and running stop sign, $8.

Charles M. Suesz II, East Lansing, speeding, $16.

Services Held For Spink Twins

Twins, a son and daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Loren J. Spink Monday died a few hours after birth. They were named Mark L. and Marie L.

Services were conducted at Ball-Dunn funeral home Thursday morning with burial in Maple Grove cemetery. Rev. Raymond Norton of Mason Methodist church officiated.

Besides the parents, the twins are survived by a brother, David, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Guenther of Holt and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spink.

Thrown Bottles Fell Leslie Boy

Walter Purdey, 17, of 2790 Kinnelville road, Leslie, was felled by hurled beer bottles Sunday morning.

Purdey told officers he was walking alongside US-127 about 2 miles south of Mason when a car sped past. He said an occupant of the car threw 2 bottles, both of them hitting the target, which was Purdey's lower abdomen.

Robert C. Jones, 17, of Leslie, was walking with Purdey. He was not hit.

A passing driver told Robert Snow, Mason police officer, that a man was lying in the road. Sheriff's officers took Purdey to Mason General hospital for treatment. He was released an hour later.

Purdey told officers the man who hurled the bottles was riding in a red Ford convertible with part of the grill gone.

Janson Studies in East

Police Suffer Writer's Cramp

Pencil salesmen will smile when they read Police Chief Harry Chandler's report for the past 12 months.

The chief and his police officers must have suffered writer's cramp while they penned a total of 1,393 tickets.

At that the report shows that 2,493 traffic rules violators got off easy. That is the total number of courtesy warnings the department gave.

Councilman Nels Ferby pointed out in presenting the police report to the council that the department is all through issuing warnings. The police committee instructed officers to write tickets for real.

The report shows that Mason's police force has been busy with other phases of police work, too.

During the 12-month period the department investigated 90 accidents and issued 115 warrants. Forty-seven cases fell into the miscellaneous bracket.

Frankes Travel in North After Wedding at Church

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Donald Frankes are honeymooning in northern Michigan, after exchanging nuptial vows at Mason Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 3:00. The bride is the former Judith Ellen Heathman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Heathman, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Frankes of Lansing.

The bride's halleirina-length gown of DuPont silk was fashioned with princess lines. Imported rosepointe lace, patterned and scalloped, gave an empire effect to the bodice, which had short scalloped sleeves and a wide portrait neckline. Her plaited headpiece secured a veil of imported illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations.

Miss Delores Heathman of Lansing was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pink halleirina-length gown and carried a cascade arrangement of pink carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Joyce Malcho and Miss Jacklyn Gibbs of Lansing and Miss Theo Yuhasz of Mason, wore similar gowns of blue and carried bouquets of pink carnations. All the attendants wore matching head-dresses trimmed with flowers to match their bouquets.

Clifford Tavenner of Lansing was best man, and ushers were Robert Frankes, brother of the bridegroom, David Marvin and Elton Sellers, all of Lansing. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Raymond Norton before 200 guests. Baskets of white gladioli and baby's breath decorated the altars for the nuptials.

Mrs. Derwood Carn played the traditional wedding marches and other selections and accompanied Miss Nancy McKenzie, who sang "I Love You Truly and The Lord's Prayer."

30th Annual Homemakers Conference Is Scheduled

When 1,500 Michigan homemakers untie their apron strings and turn their backs on household chores for a few days—that's something! That's what will happen July 23-26 when the annual homemakers conference takes place on the Michigan State university campus.

Women from all over the state, according to Mrs. Leona MacLeod, state home demonstration leader, are welcome at the 30th annual event. It is for urban women as well as rural she adds, and it is not restricted to home demonstration group members.

They can attend the conference for all 4 days or can enjoy it as a day visitor, she tells. Those who plan to stay the full time will register Tuesday morning in the lower lounge of Shaw hall, the dormitory in which they will live. Day visitors will register in the front lobby of the university auditorium where they will be assigned to a class and a section.

For the program, Mrs. MacLeod says, Tuesday's featured event will be the talk by David G. Moore, professor of business administration at MSU, with the annual tea afterward on Shaw terrace. In the evening Stanley Andrews, director of the national project in agricultural communications, will speak on Our World Neighbors. Games and square dancing on the green will end the day's events.

Wednesday will be filled with classes, speeches and an afternoon program featuring Frank L. Teuton of the agricultural research service of the U. S. department of agriculture. He will show what's new made from products of agricultural research. Daytime tours and an evening of 4-H talent will culminate Wednesday's events.

William Alexander, pastor of the First Christian church in Oklahoma City, will speak at Thursday afternoon's program. In the evening a famous musical duo, Doraine and Ellis, will present costumed scenes of famous musical shows.

Speaker for the closing event of the conference Friday morning will be Paul A. Miller, director of the Michigan cooperative extension service, who will tell The Human Side in Tomorrow's Blueprint.

Those who want to make reservations or find out more details about the conference should contact their local home demonstration agent or write to Home Economics Extension, Box 392, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan.

Pioneer Officers Retire After Fourteen Years

For 14 years E. A. Densmore headed Ingham County Pioneer and Historical Society as president, and for the same length of time George N. Shafer served as treasurer. Both decided it was time others took over, and declined to be re-elected when the society met Thursday at Mason Baptist church. Chosen to replace them were Harry Covert of Leslie and Mrs. Joe T. Bullen of Mason as president and treasurer, respectively.

Other officers elected were Roy Adams, vice-president, replacing Miss Alice Chapin of Eden, who had served several years, and Mrs. Charley Sedelmaier, re-elected for a second term as secretary.

Forty-eight members were present for the potluck dinner at noon and the meeting afterwards. Mr. Shafer was master of ceremonies and Norman Lyons led the group in singing. He also sang a solo, then a duet with his sister, Miss Marie Lyons.

Rev. Clarence Rodd, pastor of Mason Baptist church, led the devotions. Readings were given by Mrs. Howard North, Mrs. Lucy Griffin, Mrs. Charley Sedelmaier and Mrs. Bernice Allen. A display of antiques and curios, arranged by Mr. Shafer, was in the back of the church.

4-H Club Romance Leads to Wedding

From their first date at the Ingham county fair to their trek down the aisle at Williamston Community Methodist church Saturday afternoon, it was a 4-H romance all the way for Helen Elaine Watkins and Ted Irwin Noble. Both have been active 4-H club members and leaders, and have worked and played together in various club activities on a county wide basis.

The bride donned a traditional white satin gown with a brush train. Her bodice of lace over satin was styled with long sleeves ending in points over the wrists, a round tulle yoke with trimming of seed pearls and iridescent sequins in the shape of flowers, and a pointed waistline. A pearl-trimmed bandeau caught her tulle fingertip veil.

The bride carried a white gardenia and pink rosebuds with white streamers tied in lovers knots, on top of a white prayer book. Her only jewelry was a white gold heart locket, a gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a handkerchief edged with knitted lace, made by her great-grandmother. The handkerchief previously had been carried by the bride's mother at her own wedding.

Mrs. Ronald Karn played traditional nuptial music preceding the ceremony. "I Love You Truly, Because, and The Lord's Prayer" were sung by a quartet composed of Pat Adams, Anna Holmes, Karen Knudstrup and Sue Mills. Nancy Bray played the accompaniment.

Mrs. Watkins wore a pink tulle dress with white accessories for the wedding. The bridegroom's mother chose an ensemble of pink linen with white accessories. Both mothers had corsages of white carnations and pink roses.

Special guests were the bride's grandparents, Mrs. Millie Lane of Williamston and Ed Watkins of Orlando, Florida, and Mason, and the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cooper of Webberville.

The church parlors were decorated with bouquets of roses for the reception after the ceremony. The tiered wedding cake, decorated in pale pink, was made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Leroy Leyrer of Lansing. The cake was served by Mary Ellen Warner and Ruth Benjamin, and Ruth Ann Karn and Shirley McClure served punch. Mary Jo Lott, Jane Lott, Diane Weaver, Jean Johnson, Beverly VanDemark, Shirley Glynn, Vivian Thornt and Inge Gehrke, all 4-H club members in the club of which the bride is leader, helped with the serving.

The Main Drag

If city taxes are being paid earlier this summer, maybe it's because of the new black and white sign on the front of city hall. For years, the city hall entrance has been confused with the city toilets and the door to the IOOF hall. The new sign ought to eliminate the confusion.

Speaking of signs, Ray Perkins has a new one on the front of his hardware store.

Congratulations to George Gorham and Jim Smalley for observing the fourth anniversary of their grocery stores. Congratulations, too, to their wives who pitch right in and help operate the stores.

Mason Manor has already outgrown its air conditioning system. Installed a month ago, it has purchased a new 7-ton job which ought to make the dining room cool on the hottest days.

Mrs. Joseph Harvath, society editor at the News, is on vacation this week touring the West with her husband. . . . Pat Eding of the News is also on vacation this week. He packed his fishing rod and headed north to fish off the side of the Mackinac bridge.

U.S.—Bulwark of Freedom

BIRTHDAY OF A FREE NATION as the Declaration of Independence was presented to Congress in 1776. Contrary to popular belief, this historic document was not signed by Congress on July 4th. Instead, the Act by which the original 13 states broke colonial allegiance to Great Britain was approved by Congress July 2, proclaimed on July 4th, and signed at various times up to Nov. 4.

PHILADELPHIA—The Declaration of Independence was proclaimed at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, where Continental Congress met, Declaration of Independence adopted and proclaimed, Washington appointed Commander-in-Chief, and U. S. Constitution framed.

Medicines Now Need Your Doctor's Prescription . . .

The dispensing of some medicines is limited to your doctor's prescription—and for many reasons. Of these, your own safety is the most important.

Greater potency progressively makes medicines of greater value—and with some risk. Strength, dosage and use schedule must be carefully directed for your exacting need. Your doctor must know the facts and prescribe the directions, as well as the medicine itself.

NEW YORK "BEACH"—For many a lad in the teeming city of New York, the closest they come to a beach is an open fire plug and this youngster is enjoying every minute. When a heat wave causes a water shortage, the city's water department doesn't get as much pleasure from the activity.

Church Women Attend School

Six women of the Mason Methodist church attended the first Michigan conference school of missions for the year at Albion for 5 days last week. They were Mrs. Forrest Fry, Mrs. Abe Cohn, Mrs. Alfred Forche, Mrs. Ray Perkins, Mrs. Evelyn Shaffer and Mrs. Raymond Norton.

The school was sponsored by the Michigan conference Women's Society of Christian Service. Delegates received credit cards for courses on Japan, Christ, The Church and Race, The Book of Mark, and the Ecumenical Church. Workshops were offered in drama, parliamentary law, audio-visuals, and other techniques.

Stains in Cottons Can Be Removed

Cool dark cottons are popular for summer wear. Since warm weather dress styles are not cut to be worn with dress shields perspiration stains and discolorations of dark fabric often result. To help in dealing with stains on washable cottons, Ingham county home demonstration agent, Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, has some suggestions.

The fresher the stain, the better the chances for removing it. Pressing a dress that is even slightly stained may set the stain and cause more discoloration. First, try washing the stain thoroughly in warm water, and rubbing soap or synthetic detergent well into it. If the fabric has discolored, try sponging a fresh stain with a little vinegar and water solution; for an older stain, try a little ammonia and water. This may help restore the color. Rinse thoroughly.

Mrs. Schaeffer suggests reading carefully and saving any tags on ready-to-wear and yard goods. Some dark cottons carry a label saying that the dye is fast to perspiration. Other labels give facts about both the fabric and its finish that will be helpful when a stain needs to be removed.

Relaxing... Learning...

Conference Offers Wide Variety

Getting away from housework, talking with and meeting new friends from all over the state and learning, seeing and doing many fun-things are all part of every homemaker's conference.

But something new this year at the 30th annual event, July 23-26, is told by Mrs. Annette Schaeffer, county home demonstration agent. It's a choice of 5 hour-long sessions Wednesday and Thursday mornings. This program replaces the former large morning assembly.

Each one of the 1,300 women expected to attend the Michigan State university conference will enroll in 2 of the sections as they register. The 5 sessions they will have to choose from include Homemaking Is Here To Stay, Home Interiors With Skill and Imagination, Lamb's Your Meat For A Welcome Treat, News In Wood, and Learning To Be Creative.

Homemaking Is Here To Stay will be considered by a husband-wife team, Dr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Bratton, professors at Cornell university. They will discuss ways families make decisions and effects of decisions on satisfying family life.

An illustrated talk on home interiors will be given by Helen Ludwig, related arts professor at the University of Minnesota. A demonstration on lamb cookery which will show unusual cuts prepared in novel ways will be done by Mrs. Marguerite Hague, home economist with the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc.

Thelma Thompson, of the wool bureau in New York, will tell what's new in wool, besides illustrating good pressing techniques.

Learning to be Creative will include filmed ideas to best use leisure time. The films were made and will be discussed by MSU's home economics professor of related arts, Mrs. Ruby Mackenzie.

Mrs. Schaeffer adds that many other classes, speakers and entertaining features are a part of homemaker's conference. Registration details may be obtained from the county extension office.

"I saw Farmer Pete's Wife piece about the 'rare insect' and knew at once what it was as my sister and I were in the woods once when we were small and came across the same kind of little brown egg. Only we called them berries and bit into one but didn't like the taste so spit it out. We took some home and showed them to my father who got a big laugh out of it."

FOX

The Kettles on Old MacDonald's Farm
Tues.-Wed.-Thurs.

The Kettles are back again—Ma, Pa and their big brood of boisterous children—in "The Kettles on Old MacDonald's Farm."

The film serves to introduce a new Pa Kettle, in the person of Parker Fennelly. He joins Marjorie Main, the irascible but lovable Ma, in a series of adventures, or more appropriately, misadventures, in attempting to bring Gloria Talbot and John Smith, 2 young lovers, together. With Ma helping and Pa hindering, the young ones stumble through a series of pre-marital pitfalls that would dismay the most marriage-bent couple.

FOX

The Tattered Dress
Friday and Saturday

The Tattered Dress has a suspenseful story built around courtroom drama.

Filmed in CinemaScope, the picture boasts a 5-star cast—Jeff Chandler, Jeanne Crain, Jack Carson, Gail Russell and Elaine Stewart—in its leads.

Chandler is a brilliant criminal lawyer hired to defend Reed on a charge of murder in a small California desert resort town. He wins the case but then is forced back into court to defend himself against a jury-bribing charge trumped up by a corrupt sheriff, expertly played by Jack Carson. Thus there are 2 thrilling trial sequences in this film.

FOX

Men in War
Sunday and Monday

A realistic and authentic story of a platoon in combat in the Korean War, Men in War stars Robert Ryan and Aldo Ray.

The picture casts a sharp but compassionate light on the loyalties, ideals and bitter conflicts of officers and enlisted men under extreme stress.

For the first time, Men in War treats the relationship between officers and enlisted men under fire in an adult manner. The antagonism between Aldo Ray, a sergeant, and Robert Ryan, a lieutenant, is not one merely of clashing personalities, but of underlying tensions inherent in the army system of rank and responsibility.

Van Fleet and John Ireland. The complex saga of a strange alliance—between Lancaster, the marshal who lives only to rid his territory of a gang that has killed his brother, and Douglas, a law-scouring, gun-slinging gambler who risks death with every turn of a card—the VistaVision film builds its tension through its juggernaut movement toward the savage gun battle that provides its climax.

There are many skirmishes along the way—saloon brawls, knife fights, house-to-house stalkings, as the friendship between the oddly-matched partners is cemented.

PRIMER FOR AMERICANS

You live in the United States of America. You are an American.

Real Americans like their country. They are proud of it. They think it is a good place to live. And they want to keep it good—to keep it getting better all the time.

Why is America the way it is? What makes it a good place to live? The answer is simply this:

Throughout our history most Americans have believed that every person has certain rights and duties and responsibilities.

Americans have believed that there are certain things people should do, and things they should not do.

They have also believed in certain things that people are, and are not.

These things that people believe are called principles. This book is an attempt to state the Principles of America in simple, primer fashion so that you can understand them, learn them, and remember them.

This is important. It was because earlier Americans believed in these principles and guided their lives by them, that America has grown to be the good place it is.

If all of us learn and remember these principles—if we also guide our lives by them—then we can help to keep America growing better, and better, and better.

And if we follow these Principles of America, we can help make the world a better place to live in, too.

The Principles of America are these . . .

1. Each Person is of Importance and Value as an Individual.

This is the cornerstone . . . the foundation of all our other beliefs in a person's right to live his own life, to speak for himself, to choose and change his leaders.

From it comes our hatred of those "isms" under which the individual has no value or importance as a person, but is only one of many unimportant people who have to live the way their leaders tell them to.

Coming directly from that first principle are two others that are also part of the foundation of Americanism.

2. We Believe that All Men should Enjoy Personal Freedom.

3. We Believe that All Men are Created Equal.

It is worth noting that the Declaration of Independence expressed the belief that "all men are created equal." It did not state or imply a belief that men develop equally or have equal ability, or that they should ever be forced to an exact equality of thought, speech or material possessions.

That would be equality without freedom. Americans have always believed the two should go together.

In our Constitution, and in other laws of our land, there are set down principles to protect the rights and freedoms and equality of individuals.

4. The Right to Freedom of Speech.

This includes freedom of the press, of radio, of motion pictures, of every means by which man may express his thoughts.

5. The Right to Freedom of Assembly.

As we believe in the right of individual action, so we believe that individuals should be free to act together.

6. The Right to Freedom of Worship.

Not only is the individual free to worship as he will, but religions themselves are free and equal.

7. The Right to Security of Person and Property.

Not just one, but three Amendments to the Constitution (4th, 5th and 14th) protect against illegal search and seizure, or loss of life, liberty, or property, without "due process of law."

8. The Right to Equal Protection before the Law.

As individuals are equally important, so laws must apply equally to all, without special privileges for any group.

9. The Right to Freedom from Slavery.

This includes "the right to quit," for no individual may be forced to work for another.

10. The Right to Petition the Government.

The right of the individual to "petition the government for redress of grievances" is evidence of the American belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people.

11. The Right to Vote for people of your choice.

This is the individual's most potent weapon in the protection of his rights and freedoms . . . a weapon that to be effective must be constantly and wisely used.

Other Principles hold that every man has . . .

12. The Right to a Good Education.
13. The Right to Live where he pleases.
14. The Right to Work where he wants to.
15. The Right to Belong to an Organization.
16. The Right to Own Property.
17. The Right to Start his Own Business.
18. The Right to Manage his Own Affairs.
19. The Right to Make a Profit or to Fail, depending on his Own Ability.
20. Every Man is entitled to Freedom and Equality of Opportunity.
21. Every Man may Earn his Living When, Where, and How he wants to.

There are also Limiting Principles . . .

Principles of individual freedom sometimes clash with those of individual equality. Therefore our rights as individuals must be limited, and those limitations are themselves principles.

22. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with those of Other Individuals.

Your right to swing your arms stops where the other fellow's nose starts.

23. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Welfare of the People.

Freedom of speech does not give the individual the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theatre.

24. Every Individual owes Obedience to the Laws under which he Lives.

The individual has the right to talk against a law, to work and vote to change that law, but NOT to disobey that law.

Principles that are Patterns of Behavior . . .

Many of our principles of individual freedom and equality are guaranteed to us by law. But we have other beliefs, other general rules of action and conduct that have grown to the status of principles. And these too, are foundations of Americanism.

25. A Man shall be Judged by his Own Record.

A man's family background, his race or his religion, is not as important as what that man himself can do, for Americans believe a man must stand on his own feet.

26. A Man is Free to Achieve as much as he can.

We believe that where any boy may become President, where any man may achieve greatness, there is the greatest incentive for every man to do his best.

27. To Achieve anything, a Man should be Willing to Work.

Americans have always known that "you don't get something for nothing," that to get anything takes a willingness to work.

28. Achievement also Depends upon the Ability to do a Good Job.

Add to "willingness to work" the ability to produce results and the combination is the basis for most individual achievement in our country.

29. Every Man has the Right to a Fair Share of the Results of his Work and his Ability.

Because of this belief, America has not only produced more goods, but they have been more fairly and more widely shared by more people than in any other country.

30. Security is the Ability of a Man to Provide for himself.

The only true security for any individual is the opportunity, the ability, and the determination to work and plan and save for his own present and future. Self-reliance is vital to individual independence and personal freedom. No man can be "proud and free" who depends on others for his security.

31. When an Individual cannot Provide his own Security, the Responsibility should be Assumed by Others.

We believe that no one should starve, or be without adequate clothing and shelter, so those who have more than their basic needs share the responsibility of providing the essentials of security for those who need help.

32. Each Individual must Deal Fairly with others.

Honesty, fairness, and personal integrity are virtues that help free and independent individuals get along with each other without losing their independence.

33. Fair and Free Competition is a Good Thing.

Americans have always believed that competition among individuals or groups encourages greater effort which in turn brings greater benefits to all.

34. Cooperation among Individuals is Vital.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said: "The freedom to compete vigorously accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

Principles of Individual Responsibility . . .

Freedom for individuals carries with it an equal responsibility to use that freedom wisely. If we wish to remain free, we must faithfully fulfill this responsibility.

35. The Individual is Responsible for himself and his Family.

He must protect them and provide for their present and future well-being.

36. The Individual has Responsibilities to the Groups of which he is a Part.

He must give of his best to his community, his church, his employer, his union, and to every group in which individuals cooperate for their mutual benefit.

37. The Individual has Responsibilities to his Country.

He must be an active citizen, interesting himself in local, state, and national government, voting wisely, thinking and speaking and acting to preserve and strengthen freedom, equality and opportunity for every individual.

38. The Individual has Responsibilities to the World.

Man's horizons have expanded. What happens in the world affects him, and his actions can affect the world. Today, therefore, each man has a responsibility to act—and to encourage his country to act—so that freedom and cooperation will be encouraged among the people and the nations of the world.

For America's Future

Most of us have faith in our country's ability to move forward, to improve, to grow, to provide more and more individuals with more and more of everything they want and need in life . . .

If we, the people of the United States, want to have more material benefits, we must believe in and follow these two principles:

39. The only way we can Have More is to Produce More; and

40. As we Produce More, we must make it possible for More and More People to Enjoy that which we Produce.

If we, the people of the United States, want to have a better life, spiritually as well as materially . . .

41. We must stand firmly for our Beliefs, our Rights, our Principles.

There are those who would chip away our confidence so that their special brand of tyranny might creep into America. They must not succeed. So, let us ask of every plan, or act, or idea . . .

Is it With or Against the Principles of America?

Plans for Stockbridge Fair In July, Near Completion

Mrs. Helen Beeman

All Legion efforts at this time of the year are directed toward the carnival, which will take place July 16 through 20. All committees are working on their part of the fair and indications point to another successful fair. It will be the 11th consecutive year for the fair and the 11th year the Downriver amusement company has had the rides.

Cephas Smith has agreed to line up relics, curios and antiques for a display, now to the fair this year. Arrangements have been made for a dunking concession where, if it is good, prominent citizens of Stockbridge may be dunked in a tank of water. The next regular meeting is July 8, when final plans for the fair will be made. Refreshment committee members are Max Cool and Richard Mackinder.

Hutson Heads School Board

At a special meeting of the board of education of Stockbridge Community schools, the board was reorganized for the coming year. At the annual election Ward Hutson and Forrest Dixon were reelected to the board for the 3 year terms ending in June, 1960. Ward Hutson is the newly elected president for the 1957-58 year. Raymond will continue as secretary and June Taylor will continue as treasurer.

Dr. A. J. Spencer has been president of the Stockbridge board since 1951. At the special meeting words of appreciation were spoken by other members of the board for the long service given by Dr. Spencer as president. He now becomes trustee along with Forrest Dixon, who with the 3 officers, will comprise the board for the coming year. Lyle Hepler & Co. of Lansing are now in the process of auditing the financial records of the school and as soon as this report is completed a summary will be printed.

At its next meeting board members will try to decide what methods will be used in the disposal of unused rural school buildings.

At the annual election permission was given the board to make the disposals.

Driver Is Bruised In Trailer Wreck

LaVerne Ott of Howell, a partner in Ott Brothers Trucking Co., narrowly escaped serious injury when his 20-ton tractor and trailer half-way overturned in a ditch on M-92, a mile north of Stockbridge.

The truck left the road and travelled 292 feet before coming to a stop in the ditch, taking out a tree 10 inches in diameter enroute. Ott was thrown onto the pavement and the tractor and truck were a total wreck, the officer said.

The accident occurred a little after 7 a. m. Smoking wires on the truck led passersby to think it was on fire. The Stockbridge fire department was called but the call was countermanded when discovery was made that the truck was not on fire. Loren Collins, one of the firemen alerted, took Ott to a Stockbridge physician's office, where he was treated for head lacerations and body bruises.

The accident was policed by Stockbridge Village Marshal Joe Southwell and, Ingham county sheriff's officer Steve Leslie.

ONE IDEA OF GOD

At the entrance to the valley where they buried their kings an ancient and industrious people carved the Sphinx.

This was their idea of God: the body of a lion, suggesting power... the face of a man, suggesting personality... the whole amazing image suggesting their belief in a MIGHTY deity who could be KNOWN.

Today, in our churches, we worship God as Jesus Christ revealed Him: almighty but merciful... knowing and eager to be known... loving man and seeking man's love... saving all who believe in their Saviour—His Son!

Can the ancient Sphinx have any significance for men and women like ourselves who have before us the Gospel and example of Christ?

Only this: As long as it remains, the awesome Sphinx will remind us of man's search for God. Just as our own church bells remind us of our opportunity to know, love, and serve Him!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Highway Chief Names Key Men

The Michigan civil service commission has approved appointment of Fred E. Tripp, 36, and Otis S. Hardy, 33, to newly created positions in the state highway department.

Hardy, 33, of Ann Arbor, became highway information director.

John C. Mackie, new highway commissioner, said the appointments are part of a major reorganization of the department. Hardy has taken over the duties of Elmer Hannan, who resigned effective July 15, and, in addition, is supervising the public information section of the department.

Hardy previously served as administrative officer of the Michigan Turnpike Authority, working in that position since March, 1955.

Hardy was news and special events director of Ann Arbor radio station WPAG from 1946 until 1952 and served in the same capacity for station WIRV at Ann Arbor from 1952 until 1954. He was a special feature writer for the Detroit Free Press and later for the Detroit Times and is a former United Press correspondent. He was born in Lansing, and attended public schools in Dearborn, Ypsilanti and Dundee, graduating from Dundee high school in 1940. He attended the University of Michigan. He is married and lives at 715 S. Forest avenue in Ann Arbor.

Tripp, former legislative aide to Governor G. Mennen Williams, became district administrator of the highway department Monday.

"Tripp will act as a liaison man with all district offices and will direct the administration of those offices," Mackie said. "He will supervise organization of an office manager system in the district offices which will free engineers, currently engaged in administrative paper work, for the technical jobs for which they were trained."

Tripp was born in Lansing, graduated from Lansing Central high school and, after serving in the navy during World War II, returned to graduate from Michigan State university, majoring in public administration.

He worked for 11 years in the finance division of the Lansing postoffice.

Californian Is New Leader Of Kiwanis International

II. Park Arnold, Glendale, California, lumberman and manufacturer, has been named president of Kiwanis International. He was elected to the Kiwanis post last Wednesday by delegates attending the 42nd annual convention of Kiwanis International in Atlantic City.

As head of Kiwanis International, Arnold will be official spokesman for a quarter-million Kiwanians in 4,350 clubs, located throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. He succeeds Reed C. Culp, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Arnold is owner and operator of a lumber yard and is a precision parts manufacturer. He is active in both business and community affairs in the Los Angeles area. He is past president of the board of directors of the Southern California Lumber association, a member of the board of directors and a past president of the Glendale YMCA, a member of the advisory council of the

TB Agency Chief Will Soon Retire

Theodore J. Werle, head of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association for 35 years, will become executive secretary emeritus on September 1.

The change was announced today by Theo V. Eddy, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, following a meeting Thursday, June 27, of the executive committee. Eddy said that a successor to Werle as executive secretary will be announced in about 2 weeks.

When he joined the Michigan Tuberculosis Association in 1921 Werle found the entire number of sanatorium beds, some in abandoned almshouses, totaled only 800. Today Michigan has a tuberculosis hospital system which cares for 4,000 TB patients the year round.

Werle is an advocate of education as the key to tuberculosis control, and under his guidance the Michigan Tuberculosis Association has won nationwide recognition as a leading agency in the field of health education.

Werle is completing 47 years of work in voluntary tuberculosis associations. He began in Wisconsin at the age of 19. For many years Werle was a lecturer at the University of Michigan School of Public Health. He holds an honorary doctorate from Grand Rapids university for his work in tuberculosis law. In 1946, he was awarded the Deartholt medal by the Mississippi Valley Conference on tuberculosis for outstanding contributions to tuberculosis control.

It's Unanimous

With the swearing in of 3 men Monday, Democrats gained complete domination of state elective administrative offices. Sworn in were John B. Mackie as state highway commissioner; Lynn M. Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction; and Chris M. Magnusson of the state board of education.

Walter F. Patenge of Lansing was elected one of the international trustees.

Clarence Adloff, district lieutenant-governor, and Jack Davis, a vice-president of the Mason club, were convention delegates. Mrs. Adloff and Mrs. Davis went to Atlantic City with their husbands.

Farm Bureau Asks New Corn Program

The American Farm Bureau federation has proposed that farmers be given a choice between continuation of the present corn program and trial of a new program.

The acreage allotment program has proved ineffective and a new approach is needed, Farm Bureau leaders said.

The proposal, based on recommendations of Farm Bureau leaders from the corn belt, calls for congressional authorization of a referendum late in December.

The proposed new corn program would provide:

Price supports for the 1958 crop at 70% of parity in the commercial area with no acreage allotments.

Price supports for other feed grains — oats, barley, rye and grain sorghums—at levels determined by relative feeding values and the commercial corn area support price.

A chance for corn and feed grain producers to participate in the acreage reserve program on a voluntary basis.

If a majority of producers voted for the alternative program, it should be effective for one year only.

In the 1956 corn referendum, 61.2% of the farmers in the 24-state commercial corn area voted to get rid of acreage allotments. But the law requires a two-thirds vote, and the Farm Bureau said the "majority of corn farmers were denied the kind of program they had voted for."

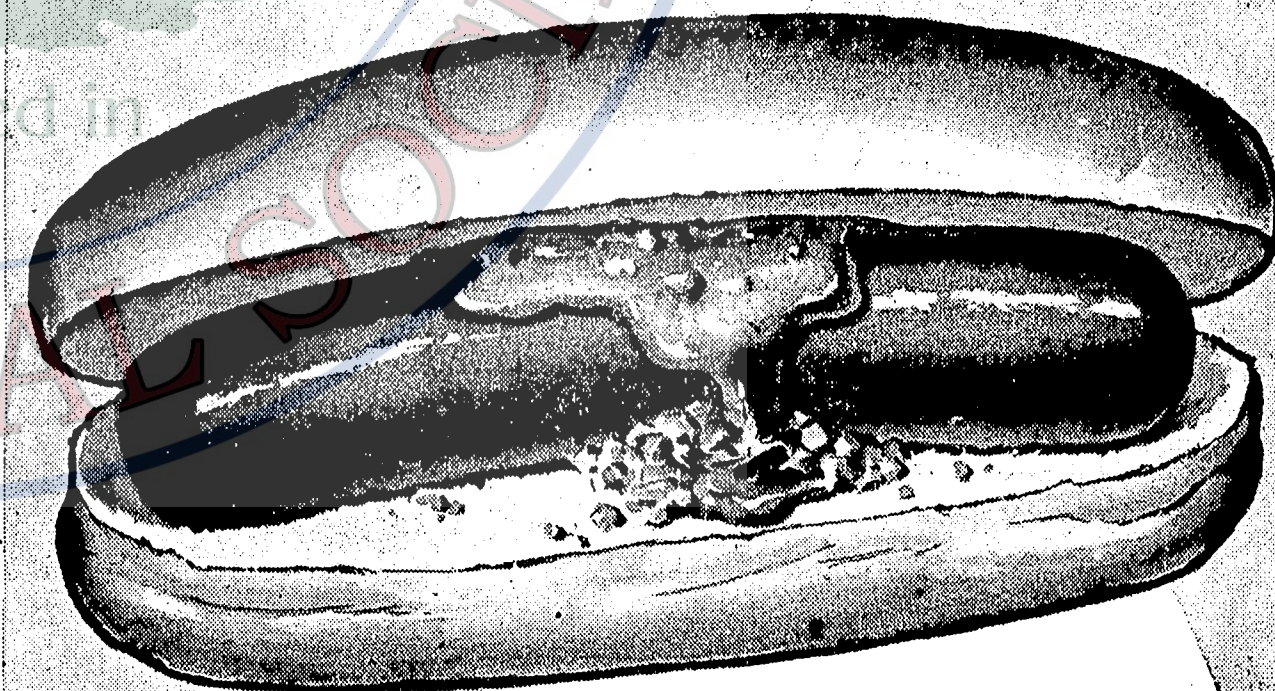

The present corn program provides for restrictive acreage allotments and price supports ranging from 75 to 90%.

Van Peursem Casts Doubt On Governor's Statistics

By GEORGE M. VAN PEURSEM
Speaker of House

The governor has been consistently asserting that Michigan has gained 150,000 more industrial jobs during the 5-year period between 1952 to 1956. Where are these 150,000 jobs? I have checked the governor's statements about job increases, and I can't find the jobs.

The most reliable source to determine the job situation in Michigan is the Michigan employment security commission. This commission keeps track of job movement in Michigan, and its records show just what is happening to our industry.

The total number of jobs in Michigan in 1952, excluding agricultural and the self-employed was 2,275,000.

In 1956, the total was 2,349,000. This is a net gain of 74,000 more jobs for the state during the past 5 years (1952-56).

But even more important, however, is the analysis of the total job figures. Average factory employment in 1952 was 1,104,000. Average factory employment in 1956 was 1,074,000. So while the governor brags about 104 new plants and 150,000 new jobs in Michigan, the cold figures compiled by the official commission charged with this responsibility show a net loss of 30,000 jobs between 1952 and 1956.

A gain of 104,000 jobs occurred during this period in non-factory employment (retail jobs, service industries and the like) to offset the factory job loss.

The truth, then, is that we are worse off from the standpoint of factory jobs today than 5 years ago. This should plainly point up the problem that is facing Michigan. We need to attract more industry, and to encourage those that are here to stay and expand in Michigan.

Michigan's reputation as an industrial state grew on the automobile industry. But from 1952 to 1956, there was a loss of 31,000 jobs in auto production in Michigan.

In other words, the state has been losing ground, and if we don't wake up fast, we will lose more than we can ever make up.

The low rate of job gains in Michigan, along with our ever-growing unemployment problem, can only be further aggravated by Michigan's rate of population growth. From 1950 to 1956, Michigan's population increased faster (18%) than the national average (10%), and faster than any other midwestern state.

From July 1, 1952, to July 1, 1956, Michigan's population increased more than 13% (881,000). Now these children don't need jobs today, but they will be ready to join the labor force within a short time, and jobs must be provided for them.

If a healthy economic climate isn't created in Michigan, and if industrial expansion by Michigan industries in neighboring states continues, not only these children, but the entire state stands to lose.

There is no need to panic. Through cooperation, foresight, and adequate planning, these problems can be met. But these problems can only be solved, if the Democrats administration in Lansing will, first of all, face up to them.

Injured Rabbi Dies

Rabbi Oscar Bloom, 26, of Flint died Friday in an Owosso hospital from injuries suffered the night before on M-21, 5 miles west of Owosso. Officers said they believe the rabbi fell asleep. He died of internal injuries and a fractured skull.

Sick Boy Sees World

The comedian, Red Skelton, and his sick son are seeing the wonders of the world. Richard, the 9-year-old son, is apparently doomed with leukemia. Mrs. Skelton and their 10-year-old daughter, Valencia, are also making the trip.

At Ease in Zion

"Woe unto them that are at ease in Zion," prophesied Amos as the Israelites were buying firecrackers and potato salad ingredients for their Fourth of July picnics.

"Let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream," the prophet said. But the people paid no heed. The mighty nation was destroyed.

People seldom pay heed. That's why world history is a record of mighty nations being built and hastening to their own destruction. Egypt, Greece, Rome, Spain, Portugal, France, Germany and England can be numbered among them. The United States of America is now the most powerful nation in the world. Its economic and political might, its military strength, its influence in all parts of the world and its determination to even penetrate the outer spaces have carried the United States of America to a pinnacle in world history.

Ye the prophecy of Amos should not go unheeded.

Our supremacy is comparatively no greater than was that of other nations at other times in history. And as those nations abandoned the commandments of God to hold fast to the tradition of men they went down. Some toppled overnight. Others gradually declined, wasting their powers as they increased their ease.

In every time, as Amos said, those "that lie upon beds of ivory, and stretch themselves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall" shall eventually go captive.

Leaders of this nation must distinguish between the commandment of God and the tradition of men.

Setting up propaganda bureaus at home and abroad, crying out over air waves beamed to foreign nations, handing out planes and bombs and spreading violence and strife along with lavish outpourings of cash and food is paying honor with lips, not the heart. It is offering burnt sacrifices, instead of letting "judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."

There is always the danger of putting trust in wrong things. Here in the United States we have too many people, some of them leaders, who place their trust in armament. Not in all of history has armament, or the power to destroy, saved any nation. It can not save this nation.

We are now at ease in Zion. Commands out of Washington cause the rise and fall of other nations. Those commands carry freedom to a few. They bind the chains of others. The USA is powerful.

We are at ease in Zion, and when any nation is in such ease its own destruction is being hastened.

Our every act should be to carry out the commandments of God, to seek justice for all, to provide liberty for all, to do right even though it calls for the abandonment of some of our control over others.

Beware the Scare

Grievous results of the hurricane and tidal wave which struck Louisiana Thursday point up a lesson that Michigan people could well consider.

Casualties might have been reduced in Louisiana had more people paid attention to civil defense warnings of the approaching holocaust.

But Louisianians had become so accustomed to CD officials and weathermen attaching tidal wave and hurricane fears to every lapping wave on the Gulf of Mexico, that few heeded further warnings Thursday.

Even the weather forecaster of a Louisiana radio station failed to impress his own wife who was listening to him at home. She and their family were lost in the floods — refusing to take the advice to travel inland.

The constant warnings broadcast by radio and TV can do more harm than good if they create a feeling of indifference. Constant harping about possible situations which seldom materialize can, and did in Louisiana, produce such indifference.

That's the lesson for us in Michigan to learn. Civil defense officials with the help of radio and TV commentators have overconditioned Michigan people in their fear of tornadoes.

Should a tornado actually strike today, many would undoubtedly be unprepared simply because they have grown deaf to the constant warnings.

Warnings of natural and man-made disasters should be reserved for occasions when it's probable they will occur.

A tornado could catch Michigan people off guard, as the hurricane did in Louisiana, if residents are continually saturated with warnings of disasters that seldom happen.

We should beware of the scare.

Advertising Pays Off

Manufacturers of cigarettes by aggressive and consistent advertising have gained 2 smokers for every one scared off by lung cancer.

This piece is not in defense of the tobacco trade or to comment on the lung cancer controversy. It is just to point out the power of advertising, and to the fact that there always seems to be a lot more money available for promoting evil than good.

Just supposing that the people opposed to cigaret smoking and to drinking liquor would kick in 10% of the money the liquor and tobacco companies spend on advertising. In a year's time, by aggressive advertising, there might not be enough smokers left to fill a smoking room. There might not be any new customers for the saloons.

The trouble is, the forces for good usually want a free ride. The forces for evil are willing to pay.

If you're wondering what the cigaret manufacturers are doing while you try to get your cancer cured, quit worrying. If you're worried about the vats running over while you're taking DT treatments, rest assured that no one will suffer. Advertising will find a replacement; will perhaps find 2.

It's as simple as that, this advertising. The liquor and cigaret people realize and appreciate its value. When the forces for good catch on reform will have a chance.

Every dollar of capital is the result of someone's denial of an immediate need in favor of a future satisfaction.

The worker who sets aside five dollars a week, smokes a pipe instead of cigars, takes a walk with his children in the evening instead of taking them to the theater, and whose wife patches, mends, and makes over the children's clothes in order that they may last longer—such a man, I say, realizes that the houses, factories, and stores of goods in this country are the result of thrift, temperance, prudence, and industry.

He does not believe that our railroads "just grew," and he does not believe they would have been built unless thousands of people had pooled their savings and paid for them.

The capitalist system is a device for encouraging people to spend less than they earn, and to use the balance in building up the country. Without the guarantee that his savings are secure, no one would try to save.

Down by the SYCAMORE

Traverse City is blessed in tourist attractions and in men and women with judgment and vision to promote them.

One of the greatest blessings perhaps is that Traverse City has enough business and industry so the man on vacation has the added pleasure of seeing others work.

The vacationer doesn't feel that the whole area's economy is dependent on his pocketbook. There are resort towns in Michigan where there's little else and instead of being entertained, tourists are exploited. That is not true in Traverse City.

Traverse City maintains good municipal beaches. In its downtown zoo and museum parents and their children can spend an hour or so without spending cash. The state park offers good camping facilities. There are many fine motels and the Park Place hotel is one of the best in the north country.

The many lakes, the fruit-chad hills, the miles of beaches and the nearby dunes offer hundreds of miles of scenic drives and hikes. Then there is Inter-lochen close by, too.

The Michigan Press association had its summer outing at Traverse City last Friday and Saturday. The Ingham County News sent delegates. Some stayed at the Park Place hotel; others under canvas at the state park. Both groups returned Sunday night; some of them tired from rocking on the Park Place veranda, others lame from climbing Sleeping Bear sand dune, all well nourished from MPA banquets, all refreshed from 2 1/2 days of freedom from usual toil at home.

John Bathgate, who preached one of his first sermons after seminary at Mason Presbyterian church, is pastor of a new Presbyterian church in Traverse City. He preached in Mason 11 years ago, but he was not a candidate. He was bent on going to India as a teacher. He did, and taught and preached there for 18 years. He preached a good sermon Sunday. The Harold Haase family are members of the church. The Mason delegates, as they were entering for the 10 o'clock service, met the Haases coming out from the 8:30 service.

Dick Demlow, who resigned as principal at Mason high school last year because of health, is in the pink again. He and his wife both taught at Ludington after leaving Mason and they and their 2 boys are at the Traverse City state park camp for the summer. Dick is on the staff.

Traverse City uses white containers with green lettering, and people seem anxious to carry their candy and gum wrappers and other trash to them. Maybe Mason people would be neater if they had white instead of dull green cans to fill.

What people aren't spending on automobiles they're investing in boats and camping equipment. In the tent next to ours was a young couple with a 20-foot cruiser powered with 2 motors, each of 35 hp. The tent, trailer and boat represented an investment of almost $5,000. They considered it a bargain in family recreation. Every week end they cruise by land and sea.

Traverse City and a wide area extending from Ludington to Petoskey and as far inland as Cadillac sponsor the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City. It's an arena show under canvas. Richard Arlen with Patricia O'Connell were appearing in "Anniversary Waltz." Next week Zazu Pitts is the star.

Studying under Professor Ed Prophet added to my pleasure in ascending Sleeping Bear dune. When I had climbed it previously I was concerned only with the struggle up and with the breath-taking view from the top. This time I reflected that the dune was fashioned under water 10,000 years ago and then was conveniently placed on shore for the pleasure of summer tourists to the beautiful Glen lake, Glen Arbor and Glen Haven sector.

The Leelanau peninsula and all the cherry area around Traverse City is burdened with a bountiful and beautiful cherry crop. Sweets are being harvested this week. Picking of the saurs will start in another week.

If I get my own crop harvested in time I intend to head north again to help with the Traverse crop.

Putting up a tent in a heavy rain gives added zest to a camping trip. It carries with it a sense of accomplishment; a triumph over Mother Nature. Being snug and dry inside as the rain pelts the tent makes for sound sleeping, especially when you have the side of the tent which doesn't leak much.

If you're headed north you'll find better going away from US-27, beyond the end of the divided highway between St. Johns and Ithaca. Trucks, boats on trailers and house trailers make going slow north of the divided highway.

On our way home we cut east over M-57 from M-66 to US-27 and went through as nice farming country as can be found outdoors anywhere.

Library Offers Many Books On Traveling and Boating

By NORMAN BUNKER
County Librarian

Travel tips, population, boating and big business are featured in new books at the Ingham county library this week.

Now that your summer trip is all planned, remember that books at the library will help you decide where to go, how to travel, and what to look for when you get there. Up-to-date guidebooks are available on most of the states and on the many historical and scenic places throughout the country.

Two of the most complete travel guides to the U. S. are Guide to America and The American Guide. Both books give a tremendous amount of travel information about every state and city, recreation areas, and historical points of interest.

Among recent pictorial guides to the U. S. is Around the USA in 1,000 Pictures, edited by Alfred Runyon.

Other travel books published in recent months include Your Nation's Capital, by Morgan Beatty; How to Enjoy Your Western Vacations, by Ruth Kent; Cape Cod's Way, by Scott Corbett; Las Vegas: Playtown USA, by Katharine Best; National Parks: What They Mean to You and Me, by Freeman Tilden; Robert O'Brien's This Is San Francisco; George Stewart's US 40, and Clinton Twiss's Long, Long Trailer.

For the budget-minded traveler who likes packaged vacations, there are such titles as Norman Ford's Vacations on a Shoestring, and Your Rand McNally Vacation Guide.

In addition, the library has material on national parks and places of scenic and historical interest. A number of travel magazines, including Holiday and National Geographic are available.

America is experiencing an unprecedented boom in boating, according to experts. This year more than 30,000,000 persons—equal to the total participants in golf, tennis and bowling—will be afloat in pleasure craft of all types.

To meet the demand for information and instruction on boating, numerous handbooks on all aspects of the sport have been published in recent months. Many of these manuals are available at the library. Information for boat owners can be found in such books as David Klein's Your First Boat, Jerry Mason's The Complete Book of Small Boats, Carl Lane's Boatman's Manual, and Boating Handbook, published by Mechanics Illustrated.

A number of recent handbooks are also available on motorboating, which has also attracted an increased number of enthusiasts.

Some of the titles are Hank Bowman's Encyclopedia of Outboard Motorboating and Outboard Boating Handbook.

The library has material on seamanship, navigation, engine repair, canoeing and other phases of boating.

The population of the U. S. has just passed the 170-million mark. By the year 2,000, experts say, there will be more than 300 million Americans.

Population increases have also been accelerating in most other countries throughout the world, with the most phenomenal growth in India and China.

The question that scientists are beginning to ask: Will the world's food supply and natural resources be adequate in view of expanding populations? The Ingham county library has a number of excellent books which discuss all aspects of this problem.

One of the most recent books is Jacob Oser's Must Men Starve? The author refutes Malthusian doctrines that the world is doomed to starvation, and contends that there is no need for the human race to starve if they will act reasonably. The remedy, he says, is not for the 'haves' to reduce their wealth by charitable gifts, but for them to increase the wealth of the poor countries through modern technology.

Two additional titles published in recent years—Fairfield Osborn's The Limits of the Earth and Josue de Castro's The Geography of Hunger—analyze the earth's capacity to provide for the world-wide increase in population.

Other books which discuss the problems arising out of our present population overflow include the Challenge of Man's Future, Harrison Brown and Preview for Tomorrow, by Bruce Bliven.

Big Business has become a favorite subject of novelists in recent years and writers are portraying the businessman as a hero, with high ideals and driving ambitions. The most popular book of this type in recent years was The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit, by Sloan Wilson. It is the story of a prosperous suburban commuter whose future happiness is threatened by a responsibility he incurred during his service in World War II.

Executive Suite and Cash McCall, both written by Cameron Hawley, have also been enjoyed by library patrons.

The most recent novel in the wave of Big Business stories is Silver Spoon, by Edwin Gilbert. The story describes the corrosive effect of great wealth on the moneyed Gowden family of Connecticut. Another title that follows the present trend of "business men" stories is Nine to Five, by William Prosser.

calling on Mr. and Mrs. Richard Helwig near Springport and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Millburn, Burke road.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitehead went Sunday to Oliver where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Henry for dinner.

TODAY'S meditation
Read Philippians 4:10-13. For freedom Christ has set us free. (Galatians 5:1 RSV.)

Once I heard a church school teacher say, "There was a time when I became so tense in trying to get across the lesson in one brief hour that the Holy Spirit could not make contact through me. Now I have learned to relax."

That teacher has come a long way in finding the freedom for which Christ has set us free. No matter what our work is, our liberty lies not in the negative but in the positive. Our Lord has freed us from ourselves for Himself. Satisfying peace comes from inside for the outside.

When Christ dwells in us, purpose and responsibility are inseparable. Personal tension and fear are not compatible with Christian liberty and fulfillment of purpose and duty. We are free to plan and prepare, and also at liberty to relax and to achieve. It is not we who give ourselves such freedom; Christ gives it to us.

PRAYER
Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the liberty which Thou hast given us through the gift of Thy Son. Grant that we may enter into the fullness of Christ. Help us to follow Thy purpose and to find Thy peace. In the name of our Saviour we pray. Amen.

Corn-Hog Ratio Is a Fooler

Hog Prices Will Continue Steady

By CARL COLLIN

With the excellent corn-hog ratio prevailing the past few months, plus the fact that supplies of corn are huge, all factors point to larger pig crops in the near future. But the June pig crop report, out a few days ago, didn't show this. Back in December farmers indicated they would cut back farrowings this spring; they did a little, but the number of pigs saved was about the same as a year earlier. According to USDA's survey, indications are now that the fall pig crop will be only 2% larger than last year—this was a big surprise.

Secretary Benson has praised farmers for not boosting pig production and has asked them to stick with their plans not to increase this fall's crop. Currently the outlook is for reasonably steady prices through next summer.

State Fair Cash Totals $140,000

An all-time high of $140,000 for agriculture and livestock premiums will be offered at the 1957 Michigan state fair.

Entries for the state fair, August 30 through September 8, will close Friday, August 9—a day earlier than last year.

Premiums have been increased by $9,000 during the past 2 years. Farmers are urged to make their entries as early as possible to avoid the last minute rush and to keep from being shut out of the state fair because of lack of space. In recent years, practically all categories have been filled to capacity—many long before the deadline for entries.

The 1957 premium book has been mailed to farmers, including those exhibitors at last year's state fair. Anyone not on the mailing list, or anyone desiring a free copy, should write to the Director of Agricultural Exhibits, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 3.

Soybean Meal Is Feed Buy

A record supply of soybeans and good crop prospects are making soybean oil meal a good feed buy for Michigan farmers, according to a report from John Ferris farm price forecaster at Michigan State University.

Ferris pointed out that farmers have been paying less for this protein feed this year than last.

During May the cost of soybean oil meal averaged $3.80 cwt. compared to $4.25 during May, 1956. Ferris said he expects this cost to remain relatively low for the next few months.

Listing the reasons for this favorable situation he said, "The supply of soybeans left from last year's crop is still large. By next September we expect there will still be between 15 and 30 million bushels on hand. This is a sharp increase over the supply of 3.7 million bushels at the end of last September.

Besides this large carryover, the soybean crop this year is expected to be at least as large as last year's record crop if yields are normal," Ferris said.

Ferris added that other protein feeds have also been lower in price this spring and will probably continue below last year for the next 2 to 3 months.

There's a market for more lean pork. A recent Illinois survey proved consumers would buy twice as many lean pork chops priced 10c a pound higher than fatty chops. National Livestock Producer magazine, reporting on this survey, says even an 18c a pound premium for lean chops didn't stop housewives; they want lean pork.

Despite consumer preference for lean pork, the average weight and yield of hogs is increasing. The average hog marketed in 1955-56 weighed 241 lb or 9.7 lb more than the 231-lb hog marketed in 1937-39. Weight has gone up 4%, but lean yield per hog has increased 24%.

The market is there for lean pork if the industry can shift its production patterns. According to the magazine, we need to do several things to shift emphasis on leaner hogs. Farmers must raise type and weight of hogs desired, and have them ready when the market wants them.

Markets must be able to identify differences in hog values, indicating what grade processors want, what weights and when certain hog weights are wanted.

Processors must buy according to the value of meat derived from the hog and sell to wholesalers and retailers on the basis of what the consumer wants.

Grades and standards for retail pork should be developed to follow consumer preferences, merchandising and pricing of pork products.

Excessive rains in the southwest are hurting. Reports from parts of Kansas and Oklahoma tell of "deplorable" and "disastrous" conditions. Apparently there will be wheat out there which won't be harvested because of saturation. We've had a touch of the same here in Michigan. Many acres of navy beans have been destroyed by heavy rains in the Thumb, according to reports. Haying conditions have been rough. There had better be some good second cuttings, or hay supplies in part of the state will be short.

The wide margin by which wheat marketing quotas were approved on June 20 was surprising to farm officials. Only about one out of 4 eligible to vote took part. It was the smallest vote in any of the referendums held. Actually the vote isn't being taken as farmer approval of present wheat programs. According to some reports, many voting "yes" did so reluctantly. They figured it would be better than no program at all.

Results of the referendum haven't slowed up the drive for a 2-price plan for wheat, cotton, rice and tobacco in 1958, and apparently sentiment for the 2-price deal (which means a domestic parity price for production for U. S. market and what for the rest) is increasing in and out of congress. The Grange of course has talked the 2-price plan for a long time; and there is added impetus with other producer organizations back of the idea.

If you've ever wondered how long farm surpluses would last in the unlikely event production should be cut off, here are some figures from the Congressional Record. We have enough wheat to last 13 months and 20 days; cotton, 9 months, 23 days; corn, 4 months, 21 days; peanuts, 3 months, 9 days; rice, 3 months, 8 days; barley, 2 months, 22 days; cheese, 1 month, 28 days; soybeans, 1 month, 22 days; and so on, down to honey, 2 days.

There's a growing feeling that it's time for agricultural research to be directed along lines of helping farmers dispose of crops profitably rather than help them grow more. Cutting marketing costs after they leave farms offers opportunities for increasing consumption. Likewise use of farm crops in industry might open a big demand for plastics and building materials. Senator Ellender told a group of us in Washington 2 weeks ago he thought it was time we spent more research money on disposal of farm products than in production. If we used scientific knowledge experiment stations have developed, production could be boosted greatly. We need more help in getting rid of what we turn out under present production.

MISCELLANY . . . Heaviest vote for wheat marketing quotas was in North Dakota, 97%; Kansas, 77%; Montana, 94%; Oklahoma, 78%; South Dakota, 96%; Texas, 90%; Nebraska, 74%. Growers in New York, Ohio, Georgia and West Virginia voted less than the 2/3 needed for quotas.

Internal revenue accepted first applications for gasoline refunds on July 1, 3c a gallon on gas bought for farm production during 12 months ending June 30.

Heavy drop of young fruit in May has cut Georgia's peach crop 2.6 million bushels. . . Forest fires in U. S. last year hit a record low. . . High frequency waves have been used to "crack" seeds that won't germinate normally.

B. H. GRIGSBY, Michigan State University extension specialist in chemical weed control, will accompany farmers on the tour next Friday.

Good work is done without hesitation, without difficulty, and without boasting. Observe a bird building its nest, for example.

One of the wonderful things about doing business in a farming community such as Mason is that most store customers are actually business men themselves! Yes, farmers, who represent a large segment of Mason customers, know the problems of business for they, too, are business men. They know the tax problems, the law of supply and demand—and what's more they must endure the sobering effects of weather conditions. Yes, it's a pleasure for merchants to have the confidence of such customers and in that spirit we have dedicated our methods of doing business. The following merchants collectively reach across the counter to congratulate fellow farmer-business men. You, especially, are welcome in Mason always!

Farmers Will Have Look At Chemical Weed Control

Ingham farmers will see next Tuesday how easy it is to hoe with chemicals. The extension service and school vocational agriculture departments are joint sponsors of a tour to see chemical equipment in action and what it has done and can do.

The first stop will be at the Ralph Chamberlain farm, Moyer and Webberville roads at 9:30. There they'll see what 2,4-D Ester and Simazin does with weeds in corn, what 2,4-D Amine does in oats, what Dalapon does with quackgrass and 2,4-D does on wild carrot.

The second stop will be at the Roy Hagg farm, 2 miles east of Williamston on US-16. There MCP has been used on seeded oats, Dalapon on quackgrass, wild carrot, curled dock and thistles, and 2,4-D and Simazin on weeds in corn.

In the afternoon at 2 the first stop will be at the Maynard and Arthur Webster farm, Frost and Snedecker roads. On that farm 2,4-D Ester has been used on wild carrot, the same dose plus Simazin on weeds in corn, the same plus Amine on brush and 2,4-D in oats.

At the Forest Anderson farm on Osborn road at 4, farmers will see 2,4-D Ester and Simazin in corn and a spray used on cucumbers.

The wind-up will be at the runoff plots at the fairgrounds in Mason at 7:30 in the evening. There 2,4-D Ester and Simazin has been used on corn, Amine Triazole and ammate on poison ivy, Dalapon on quackgrass and 2,4-D Ester on wild carrot.

B. H. Grigsby, extension specialist in chemical weed control, will assist members of the county agent's staff and vocational agriculture teachers at the stops.

Local distributors will have new high-crop sprayers in action at each stop.

SEE YOUR COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT OR GRAIN ELEVATOR MANAGER

What is the clean wheat program?

It is part of an over all effort by the U. S. department of health, education and welfare to reduce the amount of contamination in products used for human food. The program is specifically directed at rodent and insect contamination.

The Michigan department of agriculture, through its bureau of foods and standards, is cooperating in the program and is continuing its efforts to reduce all forms of undesirable contamination in food products.

What is clean wheat?

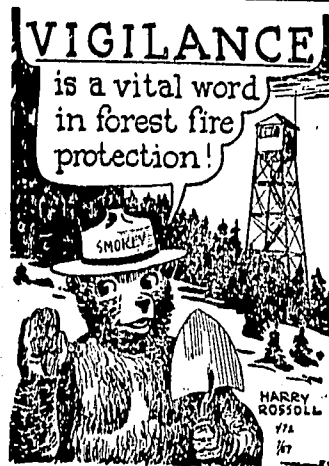

Clean wheat must be free of any contamination. Wheat may be declared unfit for human consumption if it contains: More than 2% insect-damaged kernels, and/or (Michigan) any rodent contamination; and (Federal) 2 rodent pellets per pint.

What about "treated" wheat?

Grain that contains any poisonous material, such as chemicals used in treating seed or in rodent or insect control, may be declared unfit for human or animal consumption. To sell such grain may be a criminal act.

How does the clean wheat program relate to the support price (CCC loan or purchase agreement) program?

The U. S. department of agriculture has announced that to be eligible for price support loans or delivery under purchase agreement 1957 crop wheat must meet minimum requirements of the food and drug administration.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE HARRIS live on the mystery farm pictured in last week's issue of the Ingham County News. The Harris' farm is located 5 miles south of Mason on West Plains road.

This farm consists of 80 acres of which about 45 acres is planted in soy beans. Wheat, oats and corn take up the remaining land.

Harris took over the farm 2 years ago when his father, L. B. Harris, died. Harris also farms an adjoining farm of 120 acres and 40 acres down the road from his place. Again his main crop is soy beans on this additional land.

According to the rules of the contest the fifth person to correctly identify the mystery farm wins 2 subscriptions to the News. This week's winner was Delmer Kramer, 1974 South Eden road.

The first 4 persons to correctly identify the George Harris farm were G. L. Rockefeller, Leslie; Mrs. Don Wenzler, Mason; Larry J. Swan, Mason; and Kenneth Felton, Mason.

A new mystery farm is pictured each week giving the reader an opportunity to test his knowledge of the surrounding countryside. Good luck to all of the readers who try!

New Method On Tillage

Farmers will have a chance to see test plots using some new tillage methods as well as other interesting developments at this year's crops and soils field day to be held on the Michigan State university farm at East Lansing, Thursday, July 11.

According to James Tyson of the soils department, one stop on the tour will be at test plots of minimum tillage with plow planting and subsoiling. Tillage machinery will be on display including a plow planter, a Graham Hoome deep tillage tool, sweeps used in stubble mulch tillage with chemical weed control and others.

At other stops, MSU soil scientists will show plots that demonstrate how depth of plowing affects fertilizer requirements; studies of various forms of phosphate fertilizers; and research on fertilizer placement and row width of oats.

Milton Erdmann of the crops department reported that an interesting stop along the crops tour will be at plots of oats and barley sowed in early March when frost was just leaving the ground, compared to grain sowed at the usual time.

The crops department will also show trials where vernal and other new alfalfa varieties have been cut at different stages to produce two, three and four cuttings.

The general committee, Stuart Hildebrand, James A. Porter and James Tyson, heading the event, have announced that the tours will begin at 9:30 at the crops barn and laboratory on Mt. Hope road near Beaumont, 2 miles south of the campus. Lunch will be available on the grounds at noon.

Country & town

It all started in the attic — this flight to earth. From the dizzy heights of my third floor attic, I scanned the little people padding back and forth in the hallway below; Amy driving nails in mama's rug and Tim using a saw on the woodwork like he was a surgeon.

In a knowing scream which suggested that the children should cease their play, I cautioned them of what might happen should I miss my target, the chest of drawers in the hallway, and instead smash them in one terrific splat.

Spectators ran for their lives as I attempted that which turned out to be the impossible. Gingerly, I sat in the bomb bay opening with legs dangling into space. Reaching the dresser would be simple, I figured. After all, I reached the attic by using the dresser as a springboard. But stretch as I could, the chest was out of reach on the way down. That's when I decided to be the human cannon ball, the batwing flyer without wings, the daring young man without flying trapeze.

I leaped off the ledge, figuring to plunge through the opening and execute a neat 2-point landing right before the eyes of some pretty impressed kids.

The little wife was the first to administer first aid to that slumped body in the hall, but not before she had had her morbid laugh.

It seems that I miscalculated wind direction or distance. For as I streaked through the 18-inch square opening, I brushed my back on the rim of outer space. That threw my right eye into the woodwork with such force, that it made Tim's artwork with a saw look like nothing at all.

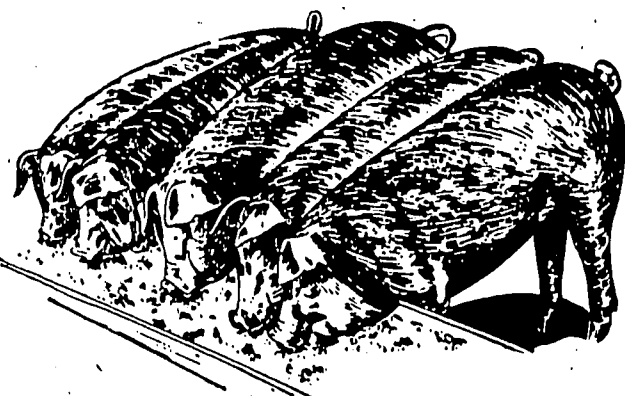

This bout I'm sporting this week is a testimonial that do-it-yourself projects sometimes backfire. The next time I want to inspect the attic, I'll call a steeple-jack.

I'm back on mother earth for good — but in bad shape.

Human events run in threes. A tire on Vernon J. Brown's car went flat Sunday morning at his farm east of Mason. I had a flat tire in Mason. And Nelson Brown, in search of northern lore, had a flat near Traverse City. All this within a few hours on the same day.

Consider this: Frank Justice lives on Justice street and is a justice of the peace in Delhi township. Justice ought to just come easy for Judge Justice.

Small Family Farm Is Not Vanishing

By M. H. AVERY

The small family farm is not a fading dream of the past. Not in Michigan, said Raleigh Barlowe, agricultural economist at Michigan State university.

Barlowe predicted that even with farm mechanization making it good business for farm families to operate larger farms, small family farms will continue to dot the Michigan landscape.

Some of these units, he said, will be used by young farmers as a stepping stone to larger farms. Some will be used by older operators as a place where they can retire with less work and still while others will become home-continue an interest in farming, sites for part-time farmers.

Barlowe pointed out that the average size of Michigan farms is not changing as fast as other states. The average farm in the United States increased from 146 acres in 1900 to 243 acres at the last census report in 1954. At the same time the average Michigan farm increased from 86 to only 119 acres.

You didn't know that a highway is any road wide enough to accommodate 2 automobiles.

The law states that a highway 20 feet in width, composed of a center strip of tarmac 10 feet wide with gravel on each side is of sufficient width to require the driver to be on the right side. So, if you are on the left when that other car approaches, it is up to you to show good reason for being there.

Similar rules apply, familiar to the educated driver, regarding 4-lane highways, or 3, and on those roads as on the smaller 2-lane highways, the law also states that being on the left when your vision is obstructed on a curve, grade, or bridge is unlawful. In other words, the duty of the driver is to determine safe and proper passing, keeping in mind a possible escape lane — should necessity demand it.

But what about crossing unmarked center lines such as on country roads, or even double-marked no-passing areas on highways? Are you violating the law?

Here again the law recognizes the motorist's right to use considered judgment in avoiding collision. But should you strike a vehicle, it is up to you to justify your conduct. In other words, the law carefully states that the driver is responsible for choosing the safest course. So, the next time you feel it necessary to take that left lane, be sure that it is the only way.

As a driver, you are assumed to be capable of operating an automobile. It is also wise to be intelligent enough to operate it with judgment.

Often small farms are problem farms, according to Barlowe. He said they can be highly productive, but many fail to provide an adequate source of family income because the operator lacks the basic resources needed to get ahead. Some common problems on small farms are a lack of equipment, operating capital and management experience, he said.

Barlowe concluded that even with their limitations small farms can produce an adequate family income if the right adjustments are made.

M. H. Avery, county agricultural agent, said there are several possible ways farmers can solve their small-farm income problems.

Some small farmers could increase their income by finding more acres to farm, while the best chance for others is to use more capital on the land they already have, Avery said.

Facts show that many Michigan farmers have already taken the step of buying or renting more land, he said. Average farm size has been rising steadily since about 1935.

"Many Ingham county families could farm more acres without hiring additional labor and often without buying more machinery," Avery pointed out. "This move offers a chance to increase net income, but may not be certain."

"When land is not available another possibility is to use more capital. For example, invest in more fertilizer, better seed, high-producing livestock, etc. These things take only a medium amount of capital and give returns in a short time. This makes them good for the small farmer. They are worth borrowing for if cash is not available.

"Another type of investment is for labor-saving equipment such as field choppers, pipeline milkers, grain elevators, etc. These can only increase income in one of 2 ways: by cutting hired labor costs, or by making it possible for the present labor force to turn out more production. Usually such investments take large amounts of capital and give returns over a longer period of time. The small farmer should be cautious about making this type of investment, unless he plans to increase the size of his business."

Michigan Offers Many Camp Sites

Michigan residents are going camping in greater numbers this year than ever before, reported Harold Schick, extension specialist in park management at Michigan State University.

There are many areas in the state on both public and private land where a person may camp, said Schick, but not all of these areas have camping facilities.

Four types of public areas provide auto campgrounds in Michigan—state parks, U. S. forests, state forests, county and municipal parks.

According to Schick, state parks provide the majority of camp sites with facilities for showers, laundry and electricity. U. S. and state forest campgrounds are more rustic in their setting with water, toilets, stoves and tables provided. There are fewer campers in state and U. S. forests and more space between campsites.

There are 2 general types of campgrounds areas:

Well-developed campgrounds—include many facilities such as showers, laundry and electricity in addition to the basic requirements. State parks provide these services.

Basic accommodation campgrounds—include a fireplace, table, tent area, water and toilet. U. S. forests and state forests and many county parks are examples of these areas.

Fees for state parks are 75c for camping and 25c for electricity. No camping fees are charged at U. S. forest and state forest campgrounds.

Schick recommends state parks for beginning campers. These are equipped with modern conveniences and located in scenic areas. He warns against confusing roadside parks with state parks. Camping is not allowed in roadside parks.

It may be wise for the beginning camper to start on a weekend camping trip near home in order to check equipment and determine how much equipment might be needed for longer camping periods. Excess equipment can also be eliminated. Camping trips should be planned in advance. Campers should know where they intend to camp each night but should choose an alternate location nearby just in case the first site is filled. It may be a good idea to plan for a 4 p. m. arrival to have time to locate another spot if necessary. Schick points out that state parks, especially those located on lakes, are likely to have the heaviest use.

A great variety of activities are available at most of the campground sites. Nature trail walks where wildflowers, animals, birds can be seen, rock collecting, beachcombing, fishing, swimming, boating, sunning and relaxing are some of the things to be done. Park superintendents and forest rangers can supply information about the surrounding area, too.

Schick urges campers to be thoughtful, courteous and cooperative at the campgrounds. Leaving campsites clean, putting out fires and observing a neighbor's privacy by keeping down the noise after dark can make camping much more enjoyable for all.

Revolt Ecorse Murder Brings Law Change Demand

By ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Association

Tragic death of a Detroit child touched off new activity to provide improved legal protection from sex criminals. But at best, it will be nearly a year before laws change.

Mary deCaussin, 6, was assaulted and murdered. A 50-year-old grocery clerk named Lawrence Richard Turner confessed the crime. His record showed that 23 of his 50 years had been spent in hospitals, reform schools or prisons. He had been charged with sex crimes as long ago as 1940. In 1942 he was convicted of criminal assault and sentenced to a term from 15 to 30 years. As law provides, he was given maximum time off for good behavior.

The varden urged that Turner be placed under psychiatric care. To prison officials it could be clearly predicted that the convict would strike again.

But under existing Michigan law, there was nothing that could be done. So Turner was permitted to go free even though medical science indicated what would be the result. As predicted, Turner did strike again.

Most appalling thing about the present situation is that it could so easily happen to another little girl any time. Alan Canty, director of Detroit's reformatory for psychopathic clinic, said he knows of one other man who is apt to commit this type of crime as was Turner. He also says he knows of "many others" just as dangerous as is Turner. Included is one man who has a record of assaulting 12 girls, often using knives. He was sentenced 9-10 years in Jackson; was released as law provides after 6 years for good behavior.

Appointment of a committee to study sex criminals was called for by Detroit's Senator Harold M. Ryan, a Democrat. This committee would be expected to come up with suggested legislation to correct the present situation.

Laws controlling sex crimes are difficult to draft. The subject itself is complicated and legislators' reactions to it vary.

For 6 years the legislature has dealt with bills on the sex-criminal subject. All failed to pass.

Robert E. Waldron, Republican representative from Grosse Pointe, was author of some unsuccessful bills in the last session. "If such laws had been in effect when Turner was convicted in 1942," he said, "Turner could have been removed permanently from society."

Waldron's bill would have:

1. Provided for indeterminate sentences (one day to life) for convicted sex criminals with sadistic tendencies.

2. Provided protection for the defendant by allowing periodic psychiatric examinations and reviews by the state parole board.

3. Established a clinic at Jackson to provide special treatment.

Opposition to Waldron's bills during the last legislature, including opposition by Sen. Ryan and Canty, was on grounds that it included too large a scope of sex criminals, lumping "petty" offenses like peeping Toms in the same category as murderers.

Soonest hope for correction of the big loophole in Michigan's law is the 1958 legislature to take action along line recommended by the study committee. Since sex crimes, it is commonly agreed, are committed by mentally deranged people, whose behavior can be predicted, society itself is to blame if nothing is done to prevent them.

How about police? Is the number of cases decreasing? Happy answer to this question as supplied by Dr. F. S. Leader of the state health department, is: "Yes."

Until June 18 a total of 34 cases have been reported. This compares with 46 cases in the same period last year, and with 86 cases in 1955 before Salk vaccine was available.

With the scientist's careful evaluation, Dr. Leader said, "It is too early to detect a trend, but the outlook is hopeful."

Demand for Salk vaccine is tremendous, according to Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner. He said his department has received for free distribution only a "dribble" recently, and that that is being reserved for 1- to 14-year-olds and for pregnant women.

Although the supply of vaccine is still tight, production is picking up, and it will continue to be available. Health officials are recommending that vaccinations be continued all summer.

A face familiar in capitol circles is attracting attention in its possessor's mirror.

Dr. Eugene B. Keyes, doctor, dentist, lawyer, student of psychiatry and politician, announced recently that he could see a better candidate for mayor of Dearborn than Orville L. Hubbard (who has held the job for the last 18 years) by looking into his own mirror.

Dr. Keyes did not actually say he was going to run, but he allowed as he was about to get some nomination petitions, just in case.

In 1954 Keyes ran for nomination as governor on the Republican ticket. He placed fourth in a field of 4. This happened, he stated, because he had no support from the checkbook section of the GOP.

Keyes served as lieutenant-governor in 1943-44 and again in 1947-48.

"I keep thinking I'm cured of politics," Keyes said. "Maybe I should have got married instead of running for office. I've got to have something to spend my money on, and it may have to be Orville Hubbard. I helped him get in there and I suppose I should have a sense of responsibility and help get him out."
