Resolved for 64

The old year is gasping its last breath and what a year 1963 has been.

In retrospect the year 1963 will go down in history as the year a president was murdered. It will be known as the year of space accomplishments, the year the farmers revolted against wheat controls, the year Michigan adopted a new constitution.

It will also be known for other things and a quick glance at the headlines of The Ingham County News for the year brings some of them into sharper focus.

There were the usual violent deaths in highway crashes and fires. There were new businesses started and old ones such as Ingham County Farmers Mutual were dissolved.

The year 1963 was the year of many deaths of prominent Ingham people. To name a few there were Ernest Densmore, John B. Fay, Dr. F. J. Kellogg, Wesels Bohnet. Balancing this type of news were the birth announcements of the citizens of tomorrow.

The year 1963 will go down in history as the year a new jail was planned and started, another year of school building projects, a year in which a new addition was added to the Hall Memorial library.

There was political news, too. It was the year Republican George Romney took over the big desk in the state capitol after years of Democratic governorships. It was the year Ingham had its first woman board of supervisors chairman, Miss Lucile Belen. It was the year of re-election of Mayor Gilson Pearsall of Mason.

There were plenty of opportunities for debates over such issues as the new constitution, apportionment, Sunday closing laws, annexations and deannexations, higher taxes all around, Mason swimming pool and tennis court debates, city-state fights over interchanges and overpasses.

In this busy and bustling year Mason found itself without a theatre with plans announced for the razing of the Old Rayner Opera House in order to make way for progress — the construction of a banking facility and offstreet parking.

The future has concerned Mason people, too. A citizens committee spent many hours studying proposals to construct a new city hall and another citizens group made an extensive study of school district problems.

On the dark side was the increase in taxes in all government units.

Here at The Ingham County News the big story was a switch to offset and a new building.

Some of the scare headlines of the year turned out to be less frightening than anticipated, some of the stories of good deeds and brightness turned out to be a little darker and less of a boon than anticipated.

All in all, the year 1963 was a good one with much steady progress and many steps taken toward a better community.

Indications are that 1964 will be even brighter with more progress, more problems solved and more new problems to solve.

So thanks to 1963 for the wonderful things it provided us and thanks also for the setbacks of 1963 that we might learn from them.

Hats off to 1964. May it be a bigger and better year for all.

Mason Woman Does Flips For Christmas Thrills

Christmas comes but once a year — and for that Mrs. Clint Willis of Mason is thankful.

Within 20 minutes on Christmas day she fell 12 steps down the basement stairs and fell another 12 steps down the stairs from the second floor. Her injuries amounted to only a badly bruised back.

Christmas morning after the Willis family had finished opening gifts Mrs. Willis headed for the basement with an armful of empty Christmas boxes and wrappings to be stored until next year. She tripped at the top of the stairs and plunged to the bottom.

After catching her breath from that fall she headed upstairs from the living room. At the top she again tripped and fell back into the living room 12 steps away.

At the bottom of her problem in both instances were new knitted house slippers she'd received for Christmas. She maintains the 2 New Year's resolutions at the top of her list are: 1. Take the used boxes, ribbons and wrappings to the trash burner, and 2. Keep knitted carpet slippers off next year's Santa list.

News Will Print Premium List

The Ingham County News will print the 1964 Ingham county fair premium list on its new web offset press. The News was awarded the contract on a bid basis Tuesday morning by the fair board.

Work on the premium list is just one of several activities of the board as the members look forward to next summer's fair.

The inside of the poultry and rabbit buildings have been completely redone and there are all new hutchies and a new roof will be put on the building when spring comes. The old restrooms on the south end of the midway have also been torn down west of the grandstand and it is being replaced with a new modern restroom. The building is up and the roof is on and the plumbing will be completed in the spring of 1964, ahead of the fair.

The entertainment committee of the fair board, consisting of Derwood Dickinson, president; Clarence Puffenberger, vice-president; Joy Davis, secretary; Mary Black, publicity and Directors Dorr Eckhart and Fred Ruthig will be going to Detroit in January to make final arrangements for the 1964 fair.

WANTED: Policeman

The Mason police department is short one man and Chief Tim Stolz is looking for a replacement for Patrolman Lester Strickland who resigned this week. Strickland had been with the department for 7 months. He resigned to take a position as a deputy sheriff with the Ingham county sheriff's department.

Friday Game

There may be no classes this week at Mason high school but there is plenty of basketball action in store for the Mason fans Friday night. Holt and Mason will tangle on the Bulldog court with the first game slated for 6:30.

Christmas Visitor

Jacob Kuriyan of Madras, India, and presently a physicist studying for his doctorate degree at the University of Rochester, spent this Christmas in Mason. Read about him in the Country & Town column in this week's News (Page B-2).

Birthday Planners

Members of the Mason Area Centennial corporation and others interested in the 1965 civic celebration will meet Tuesday night, January 7, at the city hall at 7:45 to hear a presentation from the Rogers company, a promotion firm, on how the celebration should be conducted. The firm will present a suggested budget. Mason is planning a celebration to commemorate 100 years as a city.

Woman Brawls In Store

A Dansville woman who went berserk in the Dancer Co. in Mason Saturday afternoon was finally placed in a psychopathic ward at St. Lawrence hospital in Lansing. She had plucked off a store clerk's glasses, slapped him, thrown shoes and lifted a customer's hat off her head.

She threw out charges of sin and generally sent customers and clerks running.

Mason police received a call about 12:30 p.m. Saturday to go to the store. When Patrolman Mike Trudeau arrived he asked her for her identification.

"I am the Lord," she replied. When he asked her again she raised her fist and then remarked:

"Only the patience of the Lord saved you that time."

The patrolman called for aid from the sheriff's department and Sheriff Kenneth Preadmore arrived. As he approached her she slapped him and began to kick. Finally subdued, she was taken to the Ingham county jail and later transferred to the Lansing hospital.

For Stork Race Presents Galore

Pacing, chain smoking and fingernail biting will take on a new meaning tonight in the maternity ward waiting room of Mason General hospital, as expectant daddies helplessly wait out the year's most important stork race.

The first youngster to cross the finish line—that is closest to the stroke of midnight in 1964—will win the largest avalanche of merchandise ever offered by county merchants. Read the First Baby of the Year page on Pages A-2 and 3.

County businesses participating are Mason Foodland, Mason bakery, Ball-Dunn home furnishings, Fink jewelry, Densmore's IGA foodliner, Mills store, Thorburn Lumber company, Western auto store, Mason State bank, Keane's 5c to $1 store, Fargo Service, Quaint shop, Ware's Drug and Camera, Smith hardware, Jewett's flower shop, Archy's photos, Renee's Coiffures of Holt, Howard Johnson's restaurant, Holt; Prescott Locker, Stockbridge, Malcho Brothers Ford-Mercury, Stockbridge; Williamston Lumber company, Williamston and the Crossroads Inn of Dansville.

Re-Zoning Moves Ahead

Following a public hearing Monday night, the Vevay township zoning committee recommended to the town board that 2 parcels of land be re-zoned from agriculture to commercial. The action almost assures the township of 2 new commercial enterprises.

Land recently sold by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neal to the Lewis Fuel Co. in Lansing and located between the by-pass and South Jefferson will be used for a gas station, restaurant and motel complex scheduled for erection in about 2 years.

Another parcel across the road and further south from the Lewis property will be used by the Wickes Lumber Co. for the construction of a cash and carry building supply outlet. The Wickes firm has indicated it will begin construction in the early spring. However, before the re-zoning is finalized, it must be approved by the town board and the county board of supervisors.

Third Death This Year

Mason By-Pass Claims One More

An Eaton Rapids man was fatally injured and a Toledo motorist was slightly hurt in an accident at US-127 and Columbia road at 11:47 a.m. Thursday.

It was the 7th fatality at the intersection in the past 7 years and the 3rd this year.

John Robert Eldred, 80, retired Eaton county farmer, died at Edward W. Sparrow hospital in Lansing at 4 p.m. Thursday. He had been transferred to the Lansing hospital from Mason General hospital where he was taken from the crash.

The other driver, Ted Faust of Toledo, Ohio, suffered bruises to his forehead and chin. He was treated at the Mason hospital and released.

Eldred had been in Mason visiting his sister, Mrs. D. Lee Ware, 719 S. Barnes street. He was an uncle of Edward, Robert and Harold Ware, Mason druggists.

Coroner Dorwin Hoffmeyer told police Eldred died of a skull fracture and internal bleeding.

Chief Tim Stolz of the Mason police said the accident occurred when Eldred drove his car into the highway in the path of the Faust vehicle.

Eldred was traveling west on Columbia road enroute to his Eaton Rapids home. Faust was headed north on US-127 enroute to Grand Rapids.

Faust told police he was only 25 feet from the intersection when Eldred made his move into the highway. The impact of the 2 cars set Eldred's car careening across the highway into the south-bound lanes. Eldred was thrown from his car onto the pavement.

The Faust car continued north on the pavement a few feet and then went into a ditch.

A Ball-Dunn ambulance took both men to Mason General hospital. A short time later Eldred was transferred to Sparrow hospital where he was placed under intensive care.

Also surviving Eldred are a daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Page of Eaton Rapids; a son, Robert, of Pontiac and 2 other sisters, besides Mrs. Ware. They are Mrs. Flora McDonald of Eaton Rapids and Mrs. Dora Standish of Marion, Indiana. Eldred also leaves 5 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. Eldred was a life resident of the Eaton Rapids area. For the past few years he had made his home with his daughter in Eaton Rapids.

He was born November 14, 1883, on a farm between Eaton Rapids and Onondaga. In later years he operated a meat market in Eaton Rapids from 1912 to 1929, when he closed the business, but in 1932 reopened it and operated it for 4 or 5 years.

After that he moved to a farm one mile north of Eaton Rapids on Canal road. He operated the farm for many years until he retired and moved into Eaton Rapids.

His wife, Bess, died about 1950.

Funeral services were Saturday afternoon at the Pettit funeral home in Eaton Rapids. Rev. George Seafort, pastor of the Eaton Rapids Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in Rose Hill cemetery, Eaton Rapids.

The Columbia road-US-127 intersection long has been regarded as a danger spot. In addition to the 7 fatalities recorded there, 30 persons have been injured in the 40 accidents which have occurred there since 1956.

A FOREST OF SIGNS blocks the view of drivers who stop at the Columbia street - US-127 intersection. These pictures were taken from the driver's seat of a car stopped on the east side of the by-pass. There are 4 cars in the top picture and 3 in the bottom picture. Signs either hide or detract from a lot of them. The top picture looks to the south, the bottom picture looks to the north.

US-127 To Get More Signs

More warning signs will be erected on US-127 on either side of the Columbia intersection.

That was the immediate outcome of a meeting Monday morning of city, state highway department and state police officials.

Mayor Gilson Pearsall called the meeting after a crash Friday claimed the third life this year at the intersection. John Eldred of Eaton Rapids was the eighth fatality at the intersection since 1955. Police records, admittedly not complete for the first few years, show 41 accidents at the crossing.

Lattice-type warning signs 10-ft. high will be installed a third of a mile north and south of the corner on US-127.

Suggestions of reducing the speed limit, installation of a stop light and complete cutting off of east-west through traffic were discussed but rejected.

Frank Baker and Roger Smith of the state highway department pointed out there was no possibility of moving up the construction schedule for the overpass planned for Columbia. The overpass is in the final stages of engineering but will not be started until 1965. It was estimated Monday that bids will be asked during the first quarter of 1965.

MORE SIGNS COMING - State highway and state police officials claim the answer to the by-pass death toll is more signs. This picture was taken of Mason Police Chief Tim Stolz and Captain Donald Oates at the hearing in Mason called by Mayor Gilson Pearsall Monday morning.

Both the highway department spokesmen and the state police objected to reducing the speed limit. Objections were based on the fact that reduction in speed limits would be unreasonable and unenforceable.

Speed studies taken at the intersection indicate motorists drive that stretch of US-127 at a speed of 60.5 miles per hour in the daytime and 57.6 miles per hour at night. The daytime speed was 6 miles an hour higher and in the nighttime speed 3 miles an hour faster before the installation of the over-sized amber light 3 years ago.

Police Chief Tim Stolz presented his own set of speed figures which indicated that since the installation of the oversized light the daytime speed was cut but that the night time speed actually increased.

Accident reports presented Monday also indicated that in almost all accident cases at the intersection drivers 60 years of age and over were involved.

An engineering task force from the state highway department will be in Mason soon after January 1 to see what else can be done to make the Columbia road-US-127 intersection safer until a grade separation can be built at the point, state highway department officials said.

Holt Here Friday

Circuit Cagers Begin Post Holiday Action

Friday night is basketball night again for Coach Bob Finch and his Mason basketball team. The Bulldogs will head into the stretch drive of the Capital Circuit basketball season by entertaining Holt.

Through the holiday layoff Mason has been working out with several scrimmages sessions against former Mason players back for the holidays. There will be no change in the personnel Friday night as Mason tries to bring its circuit record to 3-1.

Holt presents some problems. The Rams have played much better ball than their record indicates and they have some high scorers who have indicated they are ready to turn it on. Mike Oakes, Marv Burt and Ron Karr are the players Mason will have to gear its defense to. These Rams have all come through separately in games. The night they all hit at the same time would be a tough night for the opposition.

Height, or rather the lack of it, is a problem for both squads.

The rest of the Capital Circuit will be swinging back into action, too.

Gabriels, leading the pack with a perfect record, will entertain Okemos Friday night. If the Rocks are to be stopped Okemos is most apt to be the team to do it.

Over at Eaton Rapids the Greyhounds will take on Haslett. Both squads are counted out of the picture unless the roof caves in on Gabriels and Okemos.

Howell will meet O'Rafferty in another game.

Tourneys

Keep Cagers In Shape

Ingham County league and Capital Circuit teams didn't fare too well in holiday basketball tournaments.

Up at Portland the Dansville Aggies opened by whipping DeWitt 87-67. Webberville topped Bath 70-58 in the opener Friday night.

In the semi-finals Saturday Webberville jerked the rug from under Dansville with a 66-50 upset.

Over at Swartz Creek Fowlerville fell by the wayside to undefeated Maple Grove St. Michael 54-42 in the opener. The Gladiators went on to capture the consolation prize by defeating Flint Bendle 54-50 Saturday night.

Eaton Rapids had trouble in its own tournament in the opening round, losing to Lakewood 64-49. O'Rafferty also had trouble holding the Capital Circuit banner high by losing a first round contest to St. Johns 62-49. In the consolation bracket the Greyhounds topped O'Rafferty 50-42. Lakewood went on to capture the title.

School Study Group Releases Figures on Projected Growth

For the last 6 months a citizens study committee appointed by the Mason school board has worked long on getting facts and projected figures together for use by the school board.

Various subcommittees of the study group were given the responsibility of certain areas in the advisory planning.

Here is the report of the subcommittee on future school population.

The committee projected the school enrollment through 1970. Based on the study this is what the Mason school district will be facing in the way of increased enrollment over the next 7 years.

1963-64.....	3,087
1964-65.....	3,272
1965-66.....	3,468
1966-67.....	3,676
1967-68.....	3,896
1968-69.....	4,129
1969-70.....	4,376

The committee arrived at a 6 percent annual projected rate of growth for the next 7 years. The 6 percent figure was determined by using the actual school census figures for the years 1957 through 1963. Based on the projection of the actual figures the committee came up with the 4,376 enrollment figure for the 1969-70 school year.

This represents a 1,289 pupil increase over the current school enrollment.

Figuring on an average of 30 pupils to a classroom this would mean that in the next 7 years an additional 43 classrooms will be needed to provide adequate room for this growth, the committee report pointed out.

The committee also delved into the study of past, present and future valuation figures in the school district. Members came up with an estimated rate of growth on valuation of between 5 and 6 percent yearly increase. Present state equalized valuation in the district is $24,002,314. If the projected figures are correct this would give the district a state equalized figure of $33,000,000 to $35,000,000 by 1970.

One conclusion drawn by the committee was that the valuation per pupil would remain just about the same as it is now — $8,242.

Letters to the Editor

Freedom to Disagree

November 22, was a day of deep concern for all Americans as well as the friends and allies of America. The flag has been at half-mast for the last 30 days in respect for our deceased president. Now the stars and stripes have again been raised to the pinnacle emblematic of the greatest country on earth.

Politicians have been respectful and quiet. Electioneering stopped suddenly, in silence, honor and respect for our president who lost his life. Now that the 30 days of mourning have past, it may be expected that the political aspirants will again emerge with their speeches. The political writers will exert themselves, making known their views as in the past, but possibly with more restraint.

Comparisons

Our period of mourning for our President Kennedy is over but certainly we will long remember his great works for our nation and the world. I hope his mistakes are forgotten for he was human and erred as we all do.

I have been reading some of the criticisms of people such as Clare Lott, Jean Kramer and Mrs. John King directed at Mr. Tea Party and myself, although I have said nothing for some months about the Kennedys.

Still, while our president lived, it was our priceless privilege to criticize him or any other American, including Mr. Tea Party or myself. Mr. Tea Party also has the right to remain anonymous.

But what of the murder of defenseless politicians in Viet Nam? Can you name the man who murdered in cold blood Madame Nhu's husband? And President Ngo Diem? It seems like she got a poor reception in this country by our late president, the American people and the press.

When Nhu and Diem were assassinated it seems our state department fell all over itself to hurry and recognize their lawless assassins.

Yes, but you can say that they were fools and so is Madame Nhu. You can say they were cruel and corrupt. But I am sure they were not worse murderers than their assassins. Anyone who wants to run that country backed by our most holy dollars and over 160 dead American soldiers has my permission.

Rebel General Minh now heads the government and he may be the next man murdered, as our soldiers continue to give their lives in that damnable country.

Now take up your pen and tell me where I am wrong.

Cordless Appliances

Cordless electrical appliances such as vacuum cleaners and mixers may soon be added to the list of television sets, radios, shavers, drills and toothbrushes we already have, a Michigan State university home management specialist says.

Many have been under the hypnotic spell of bewilderment and daze, but as time goes on a great country will have to proceed. This tragic Autumn of 1963, will have an infinite place in the history of our country and the world.

There have always been and always will be many varieties of political beliefs. There are those who believe in conservatism and those who believe in liberalism. The great majority of beliefs lie somewhere in between. This variety of man's ideas, creates a great formula. It is this formula which seems to emerge predominately down the center with results that, no doubt, are the best for the most. We can not agree that the Communist idea (which is the extreme left) is the best; nor can we say that the so called fanatical or extreme right is the best. However, somewhere in the middle seems to be a course that has helped this country emerge as the greatest little (6% of the earth's land surface) piece of land in the world.

Your American heritage was left by our grandfathers, great-grandfathers and those before them. All the laws, and supreme court decisions of the days gone by were created to preserve this heritage for us. The many arguments and differences of today will emerge into the laws of the future, creating a heritage to be passed on to our children and grandchildren.

One of the greatest heritages left to you and I, our children and grandchildren is the American constitution; a document that thousands fought for and is now used as a guide for other countries to follow and covet.

Thousands of arguments, over many years, built this Constitution and the Bill of Rights. These documents actually guarantee us the right of argument; freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, and freedom of assembly.

The best way to lose these freedoms is to refrain from using them. The best way to preserve them is to use them. Freedom of speech and press gives every single American the right to criticize or praise the public officials who are elected or appointed to represent us. Politicians expect public criticism and welcome it as an index of the opinion of the people they represent.

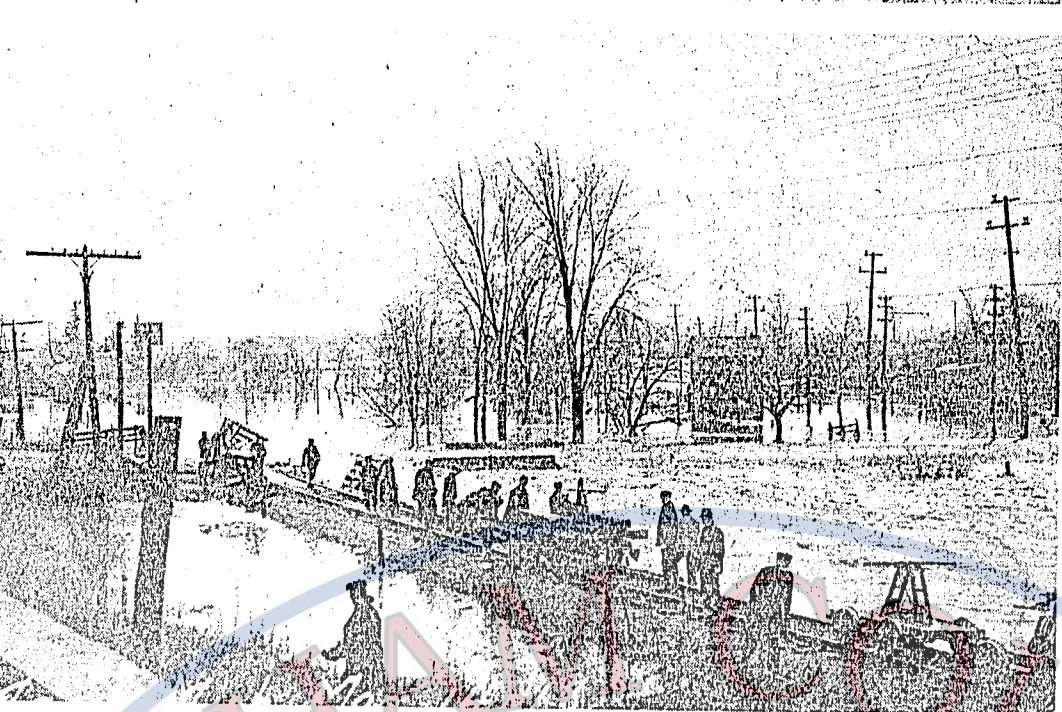

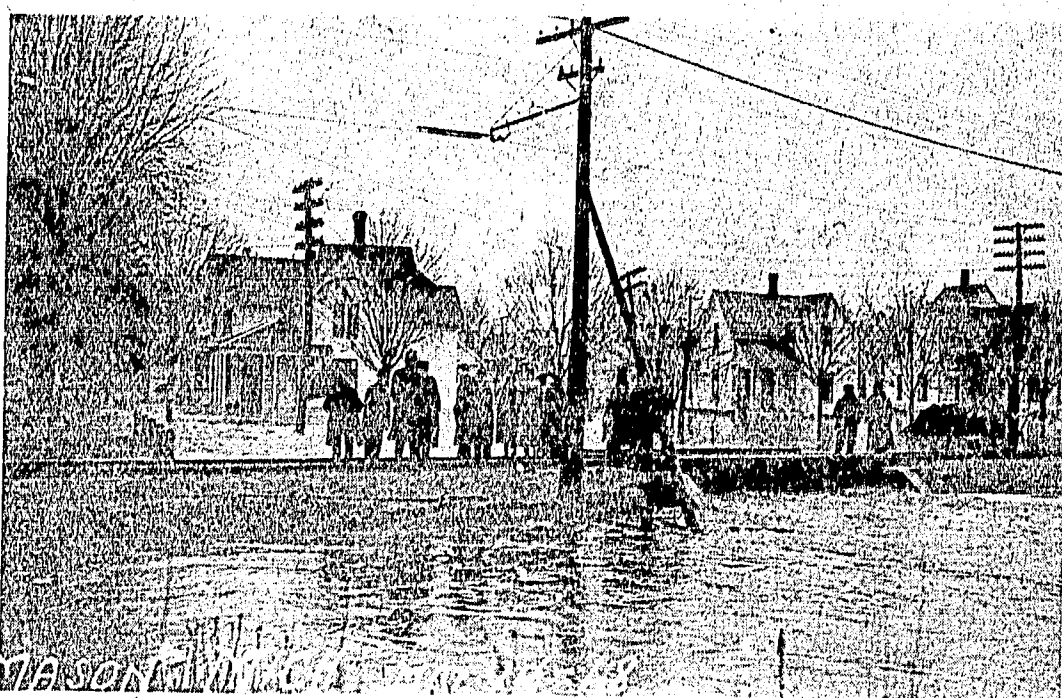

No one should be ashamed to use his freedoms and rights for they were given to us by the constitution, which is the most guarded and protected document in the archives building in Washington, D. C. It is stored in a large strong, steel vault. It is fire proof, bomb proof, bullet proof and burglary proof. It is lowered every night into a 20 foot underground vault and raised again in the morning for public view.

In congress, criticism and voicing a difference of opinion is the rule, and not the exception. And so it is with all phases of political life. By the amalgamation of the many pros and cons, emerges the most effective laws of the world. At the international level, the national level, state level, the county level and the village level, day in and day out, disagreements, arguments and differences of opinion are voiced. They are voiced in private and in public, verbally and by the press. They are voiced by the media of all electronic communication.

There is hardly ever an objection to a difference of opinion when presented on TV, radio or the press. We should rejoice in having our freedoms and use them to the best of our abilities. Many countries less fortunate than us are forbidden these freedoms. By considering the thoughts of many, one may formulate his own opinion in a much broader sense. Without these freedoms your every thought would be made for you.

The late events should make every one of us more conscious of our freedoms. Perhaps we have been a little passive, taking them for granted. We should get out our constitution, study it and preserve it by exerting it. If we do not use and defend the rights given us by our heritage, Marxism may bury us as promised, as it has our late president.

THE SYCAMORE overflows its banks occasionally, but never with such enthusiasm as in 1918. These pictures, supplied by Mrs. Leone Densmore, show: TOP - The Sycamore at Maple and Lansing streets with the tide above the floor level of the home now owned by the Bernard Cadys. MIDDLE - The Michigan Central tracks behind the junior high school. At this point the tracks were washed away. BOTTOM - This is Ash street looking toward the home of Judge Roy Adams. ### No. 7 and More to Come

No. 7.

That's all John R. Eldred is on the official records of the Michigan State highway department. Yet to others closer to him he was a relative of a Mason family and a retired successful Eaton county farmer.

Eldred died from injuries incurred at the US-127-Columbia street intersection west of Mason Thursday morning. He was returning home after visiting with his family in Mason. Like the 6 who died before him and the 30 others who have escaped with injuries, Eldred never made it across US-127.

This particular intersection has been snuffing out an average of one life a year in its 8-year history. Its toll in terms of misery and pain is countless. Eldred is the third to die within a year at the intersection.

Yet nothing is done by the state highway department to effectively control such a situation.

Why?

When the cry goes up from the people in Mason after one more traffic casualty at this intersection, there follows a parade of highway "experts" who come up with all sorts of reasons why nothing can be done.

Those who know the situation at this intersection have had a belly full.

John Mackie, state highway commissioner, talks a lot about the effectiveness of his elective office and the responsibility to the people. Here's a wonderful opportunity for him to demonstrate what he's talking about. The situation at Mason calls for action — not another parade of head-shakers.

Highway engineers "off the record" concede that the engineering at the Mason intersection is lousy. It always has been. That's why the accident rate at this particular intersection is without parallel in the state. And that's why a solution to the problem must also be without parallel.

Conceding that the engineering is faulty, there is no reason to expect that human nature will suddenly change and people thus remain out of the entrapments afforded by the intersection.

The answer lays in reducing the speed of traffic that flows along US-127, clearing away the forest of needless road signs which now obscure vision of those stopping on Columbia street and in further alerting Columbia street drivers to the approaching danger of the intersection.

This solution doesn't require an engineering degree. Mason people have been offering the same solution for years. Only now they're saying it a little louder.

John Mackie has the reputation for being a practical man. He has the ability to get to the meat of a practical solution to prevent further bloodshed in Mason. John Mackie should come to Mason and see the situation for himself. His decision would be enough to get his highway department off dead center.

Within 2 years, a lasting solution will be provided for this intersection. An over-pass is scheduled to be built which will separate Columbia street traffic from US-127 traffic.

But that's 2 years away according to highway department scheduling. That's too long to wait. It means 4 more people are scheduled to die at the intersection and another 5 people injured unless drastic action is taken.

There are ways to reduce or eliminate this tragic situation and the responsibility lays in the hands of John Mackie.

Advice Isn't A Mandate

This summer and fall at least 3 advisory citizens groups have worked hard and long trying to find answers to Mason and school district problems.

A school study group appointed by the school board has been studying the multitude of problems facing the district.

A special committee named by the city council worked long and hard studying various proposals for a city hall-fire station project.

A third group, self organized but acting with the cooperation of the city council and the school board, delved into swimming pool and recreation planning for the Mason area.

All these groups did commendable jobs. Members of these groups gave endlessly of their time and talents in performing one of the most responsible acts of citizenship — participation.

However, these advisory groups should bear one thing in mind. They are purely advisory organizations. Responsibility for final action rests with the city council or with the school, as the case may be. Ultimate responsibility rests with the voters in the city of Mason and in the school district.

Too often advisory groups are inclined to adopt a feeling of wrathful indignance when advice is altered or rejected.

Responsibility for running the school district still rests with the members of the board of education and they will continue to have that responsibility until voters give that responsibility to someone else.

Responsibility for determining what, where and when Mason will have or not have a new city hall rests with the present city council until such time as the electorate indicates a desire for a change.

Advisers should bear in mind that advice, even though asked for, does not necessarily have to be accepted.

Advisers are necessary as fact finders. The groups who worked this summer and fall for the school district and the city should be thanked and commended for their interest in the problems. We should have more people in the community to offer their ideas for consideration.

But, let's not forget that our elected officials must make the final decisions and possibly, some adjustments in the advice of the advisers.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Our Short Memories

World War II should now be far enough behind us to provide some perspective and some evaluation of past mistakes. Among other things, we should now be aware that had wiser judgment prevailed, the world would not now be suffering from the so-called "cold war" which results from Soviet intransigence and Communist determination to dominate the globe.

In the early stages of that war, Stalin signed a non-aggression pact with Hitler — a treaty which was essentially against us. Yet when, as even Stalin probably anticipated, Hitler eventually tore up the agreement and attacked the Soviet Union, the United States immediately went to the aid of the USSR.

Wiser heads suggested then that since both Communism and Fascism were inimical to freedom and democracy as western nations understood these terms, we might better let Hitler and Stalin fight it out, the western allies to take on and defeat the winner. We now know that our assistance — for which we have received little thanks and no repayment on what were supposed to be bonafide loans — not only prolonged the war, but it enabled the USSR to emerge victorious, eventually to obtain power and position from which it now challenges the whole world.

The Soviet Union and Red China both have made it plain that they intend to overthrow the West.

Yet as if the past had no meaning at all in terms of bitter experience, Secretary of State Dean Rusk last week urged our NATO allies to help Moscow in its struggle with Peking!

Addressing the NATO ministerial council in Paris, Secretary Rusk observed that ideological differences between Russia and Red China seem "fundamental and far-reaching." He urged the West, in its own interest, to support Khrushchev in his program of "peaceful co-existence," despite the fact that, admittedly, this sort of East-West relationship isn't all that we might hope for.

Before the distinguished secretary gets too carried away, let's hasten to prevent the same thing from happening again, twice in the same century. Let's face the fact that neither Russia nor Red China have any love for the West, and that they would destroy us if they could. Let's not interfere with the Soviets and the Chinese Reds in their family fight; if it should come to blows, we then can quarantine them until it's over and take on the victor afterwards.

For as long as Communism is dedicated to "burying" the free world, there can never really be such a thing as "peaceful co-existence" between East and West.

Or don't we ever learn?

Meditations

Read Luke 4:38-44

Arise therefore, and be doing, and the Lord be with thee. (1 Chronicles 22:16.)

WHEN Jesus healed Peter's mother-in-law, she did not keep resting in her bed while someone waited upon her. Did she relax in her chair among visiting ladies and tell them how ill she had been and in detail talk about her aches and pains? No. Jesus and others had come to her home, "and she arose, and ministered unto them."

God has something for each of us to be doing for Him. It may be only what seems to us small and unimportant, but in doing it we accomplish some good and fit ourselves for larger service for Him.

We need spiritual improvement.
Let's attend church Sunday.

Michigan State university, our great institution of higher learning, has some bad news for mashers in the area.

Night courses are being offered in judo, jui jitsu and karate. These courses are just what the taxpayer's dollar should go for. It would seem that teaching karate is a far cry from higher education, especially when higher education is doing so much crying because of a pinch in finances.

Some interesting observations were presented Monday at a meeting of city, state police and state highway department officials. The meeting was called to try and come up with an answer to the high accident incidence and fatalities at Columbia and US-127.

During discussion over the possibility of establishing a lower speed limit for north-south traffic, it was brought out that American motorists have a tendency to establish their own speed limits. State officials ruled out lower limits because experience has shown that drivers ignore speed limits if limits are unrealistic.

It must be the perverseness in all of us.

Study of 41 accident cases at the intersection indicate that the older driver is most apt to get caught at the crash corner and that a great majority of the crashes occur in the daytime when visibility is excellent.

After listening to these observations I am going to stay clear of the intersection during the day and am going to refuse to grow old.

Mason basketball fans would have had their memories jogged last Monday night if they had popped their heads in the gym door. An impromptu scrimmage was in progress with such former stars as Dave Arnold, Larry Wright, Jerry Willis, Jim Phillips and Tom Coss flipping the ball around. It brought back memories of a couple of futile trips to Portage for quarter finals.

Speaking of Portage, all of Mason had better pull for a crack basketball team and a chance to go to Portage again. Chuck Swartout has moved his family to the Kalamazoo suburb and is now located just 2 blocks away from Portage high school. He has promised free room and board for Mason people if the Bulldogs get to Portage again.

There is plenty of activity at the county park ponds thanks to the influx of Christmas ice skates and the cooperation of the cold weather. Sunday afternoon it was hard to find a place on which to fall down.

It's also reported that there are some adults using the Sycamore for skating. One father who had never been on skates before, claimed that he was going to be able to venture out on the county park ponds in public after one more week of practice on the creek.

country and town

noticed that the plain yellow living room rug was festively decorated with swatches of red.

"How clever to strew poinsettia blossoms in honor of the guest," someone said.

The red swatches turned out to be gobs of red oil paint an unidentified boy about 11 years old with initials TWB had tracked up from the basement. He was aided and abetted by the dog and a couple of party guests who unknowingly further imbedded the paint in the rug.

Frankly, the coloration was in such an advanced stage it didn't even rate my usual domestic tantrum. It appeared to be easier to continue applying red paint to enhance the design work rather than to attempt to remove it.

Mrs. Warner Kean wouldn't be licked so easily. She rushed home and grabbed a magical rug cleaning kit. On bended silk stocking knees she went to work on the red stains. I followed her mopping up the red suds left in her wake. As we crawled through the legs of the guests chasing the red stains, it did a lot to loosen up the party. For Jacob, it must have been entertaining to see Americans go to the rescue in such a fashion.

Here are some interesting observations expressed by Jacob:

In India, Christians don't think of themselves as being Protestants or Catholics. He said that in this country he was disillusioned when a Protestant clergyman seemed elated to find out Jacob was a Protestant and not a Catholic — almost as if he had rather discovered the young Indian was an atheist.

As a Christian Indian, Jacob said he is often thought of as a recent convert. He points out that St. Thomas is credited with successful conversions in India in the era of 40 A. D.

Jacob came to Mason by train — a train which would have sped past his Jackson station had he not quizzed the conductor about why the train wasn't stopping. He was let out in a snow bank 3 blocks from the station and in his tramp to the depot he fell through a train trestle.

Sunday afternoon we took him to Metropolitan airport for the first airplane ride of his life. An hour and 5 minutes later he was back in Rochester.

Our new friend gave us the finest Christmas we've ever had.

The final date for approval of loans and purchase agreements is January 31, 1964.

However, in the case of farm-stored loans, a minimum of 2 weeks is required for inspection of storage structures and the grain by loan inspectors and the obtaining of a sample of the grain to be forwarded to a grain grading laboratory before the loan documents can be completed.

If the storage structure and the grain are found to be acceptable, the producer will be given an opportunity to complete the loan. The loan note and chattel mortgage must be signed and on file in the county ASCS office by January 31, 1964.

Price support may be obtained by the producers of the above commodities through purchase agreements by applying to the county ASCS office on or before January 31, 1964. Purchase agreements differ from loans in that the producer receives no funds unless or until he delivers the commodity to the Commodity Credit corporation after the maturity date for the loan program. These maturity dates vary, depending on the crop, from one to 4 months after the final availability date of January 31, 1964.

Following the recital, gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served.

Holt Home is Scene Of Christmas Festivity

HOLT — The Christmas season this year at the Holt Home for senior citizens was one of the most outstanding and delightful ones the patients have enjoyed in a number of years, according to Carl Throp, administrator of the home.

There was more participation by the patients themselves this year. Under the direction of Mrs. Robert Geist of East Lansing, volunteer crafts director for the home, the patients made tray decorations and had a display of items such as pin cushions, pot holders, waste baskets, novelty items and toy french poodles they had made. Many of the items were sold, giving the patients extra Christmas money.

The male patients especially, enjoyed dinner by candlelight, lighting the candles and letting them burn till nearly gone.

The Christmas weather proved most favorable so that 27 of the patients were able to be out for the day or afternoon for Christmas dinner with their families or friends.

One of the most delightful occasions was the Christmas tea hosted by the women of the Saviour Lutheran church. Each patient received a Christmas corsage. The patients were taken to an attractively decorated table complemented by a silver tea service where they could select the food themselves.

Musical programs were given by an ensemble of 8 voices from J. W. Sexton high school in Lansing and a 40-voice choir from Waverly high school, an accordion band and their teacher, Mrs. Kendall Parker, of Holt. The Christmas story depicted by flannel-graph scenes was given by Mrs. Elotha Lamoreaux of Holt. Many groups wandered through the halls, singing. Recreation and dining rooms at the home were gaily decorated with many ornaments and decorations given by groups and individuals.

Women's clubs, Girl Scouts, Brownies and Future Homemakers made Christmas dainties for the patients.

The executive board of the home hosted a Christmas dinner for the staff and their husbands and wives on December 18. The group enjoyed a gift exchange, singing of carols and games. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shumway served the meal.

Kiwanis Reviews Its Work

HOLT — Holt Kiwanians at their final meeting of 1963 Monday night reviewed some of their accomplishments during the past year. Sal Ayoubie presided as president for the last time. He will be succeeded January 1 by Richard Huber.

The Kiwanis club has done much for the community of Holt during the past year but it is most proud of its work among youth. Foremost is the reorganization of the Holt Key club for boys.

During the year the club has played host to important meetings of Kiwanis Division 9 and sessions of officers training schools.

Through Kiwanis efforts the shuffleboard courts for senior citizens near the township hall were completed and more improvements were made at Kiwanis park.

The club participated with the park and recreation commission of Delhi township in arranging a Halloween party for youngsters, sponsored a youth talent show, a kiddie day and worked with the Key club in organizing teen age dances.

Throughout the year the club provided glasses, boots and shoes for children.

It also cooperated with Lansing Kiwanis clubs in their annual rummage sale in Lansing.

Imagine! Alaskan City Without Snow

HOLT — "It doesn't seem like Christmas because there is no snow."

This is what Miss Jacqueline Greenman, of Holt wrote her parents in a letter dated at Anchorage, Alaska, on December 22. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orton Greenman, 1975 Elm street, Holt.

Miss Greenman is a nurse in the tuberculosis unit of the Anchorage Native hospital. She has been in Alaska for the past 5 years.

Anchorage is a modern city, she wrote, and the weather is quite comparable to that in Michigan, but a temperature of 10 below zero there is no colder than is zero here.

Miss Greenman said she occasionally sees Miss Florence Hicks of Holt, who is a Baptist missionary in the Anchorage area. She is sponsored by the Holt Baptist church.

Zoning Changes Approved

HOLT — Delhi township will have a new zoning ordinance, No. 16, to start off 1964.

The ordinance was adopted at the final meeting of the Delhi charter township board December 23 and will become effective January 2.

It replaces zoning ordinance No. 13, which has been revised and changed in several places in the new ordinance.

Ordinance No. 16 places major emphasis on trailer park regulation and upgrading of standards in lot and home sizes and clarifies the home occupation permit status.

The township was advised by the Ingham county road commission that funds for road road in 1964 will be limited. Delhi township will be allowed $6,000 on a matching basis this year. This compares with $16,000 on a matching basis spent in 1963. The county also announced that $3,000 will be available on a matching basis for street signs. The board will take up this matter later.

A program for removal of diseased elm trees in the township was approved. Under it the township and the county each will pay up to $1,500 for the work.

The board also took up the matter of street lighting in the township, after receiving recommendations from Consumers Power company. No estimate of costs was determined. Streets listed in the proposed program include M-99, from Jolly road to Bishop road; Cedar street, from Aurelius road to Willowby road; Aurelius road, from Cedar street to Willowby road; E. Holt road, from E. E. Delhi to the New York Central railroad tracks; Miller road, from the city limits to Waverly road; M-99, from Bishop road to Waverly road; W. Holt road, from Hamilton to Elbert road.

In other action the board: Appointed Supervisor Joe Kiersey a delegation from the township to the 11th annual convention of the Michigan Townships association in Lansing January 8 to 10.

Approved claims totalling $4,178.43.

Phone Call Reunites 2 Cousins

HOLT — Shortly before Christmas the telephone rang in the home of Mrs. Ruby Giver at 2181 Elbert road, Holt.

Mrs. Giver answered the call and discovered that the person calling was a cousin she had not seen in 17 years. The cousin, Mrs. Arthur Pimentel, lives in Vincent Town, New Jersey, where her husband is stationed with the air force unit.

Mrs. Giver, a widow, whose husband died about a year ago, had endeavored for years to locate her cousin. Both of them came to the United States from their native Scotland.

All of Mrs. Giver's relatives live in Scotland. Some time ago she received a letter from Mrs. Pimentel's mother, Mrs. Mary Trouten of Dollar, Scotland, telling her that Mrs. Pimentel was in the United States. Mrs. Trouten apparently wrote Mrs. Pimentel of Mrs. Giver's whereabouts and the resulting telephone call followed.

Mrs. Giver's parents and a brother reside in Glasgow. Mrs. Giver said she plans to go to Vincent Town in the spring to visit her long lost cousin.

"That telephone call was a happy Christmas gift," she said.

Holt Aids Needy On Christmas

HOLT — Ninety-nine baskets were distributed at Christmas time to needy families in the Holt area by the Holt Community council.

Each basket contained potatoes, apples, staple groceries, canned goods, candy, hams, and small toys. In addition each family received a gift order permitting members to visit the Christmas center at the army reserve armory in Lansing where various charitable agencies had collected large toys and clothing for distribution.

In addition families also were given a slip of paper permitting them to visit the Holt Methodist church where more clothing was available.

The council's Christmas activity began some time before the holiday. Empty baskets were distributed to schools where the pupils decorated them and then contributed various articles which were placed in the baskets. Prior to December 19, these baskets were collected by members of the Holt Kiwanis Key club and taken to the Methodist church where a large group of workers packed baskets for distribution just before Christmas.

Names of families in need were provided by the Lansing Christmas Clearing house and by the Holt school. All names were carefully checked. Many Holt residents contributed funds for the campaign.

Twenty-two were present for the event.

There was no business meeting to be conducted so the women spent the evening playing cards and visiting. Two new members were welcomed into the club. They were Mrs. James Birney Jr. and Mrs. Peter Lovette.

For the party, the hostess had placed a glittering glass with a candle inside and surrounded by greens. Throughout the house other Christmas decorations were used and highlighted by a lighted Christmas tree.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Nolan Hall January 15 with Mrs. Warren Emrick and Mrs. Joseph Dean as co-hostesses. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Mary Zehner, special agricultural economist from Michigan State university, who will use as her topic, Are You Getting Your Money's Worth in Meat.

Potters Host Yule Party

Christmas decorations and a warm glow of Christmas spirit filled the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Potter Christmas Eve. Sixteen dinner guests were present for the occasion.

A green linen cloth covered the table and a red poinsettia sparkling with silver centered the table. Flanking the poinsettia were red and green candles and holly circled the centerpiece.

In the living room was a small tree trimmed with Japanese lights by the fireplace. The exterior of the house was also decorated.

After dinner a birthday cake decorated with holly was served in honor of Mrs. George Post. With the cake flaming snowballs were served.

Games were played with prizes and colored slides were shown.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Don Christensen and family of Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. David Woods and family of Dansville, Mr. and Mrs. George Post and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howell.

Harold R. Palmer

In a year of writing these Portraits for The Ingham County News, I have never run into a fellow writer, not until this week, that is.

I made a telephone call the other day to Rev. Robert C. Brubaker, pastor of the Methodist churches in Dansville and Vantown. I wanted to arrange for an interview.

"I'll put something together and send it or bring it over to you," he said.

When this "something" arrived and I read it, it was so complete and so well prepared that I am going to let Rev. Mr. Brubaker do his own Portrait.

Here it is:

I was born October 15, 1935, in Burr Oak, Michigan, the son of a poor Methodist minister and his wife struggling through the depression. My birth was a long hard struggle and I just barely survived, for which I am most grateful.

Blissfield was my home from the kindergarten through the eighth grade. Here the farmers were friendly, and some of our best friends still come from Blissfield. We took time to live and to live well, for the feverish rush of the city seemed far away.

In 1949, we moved to Trenton, a wealthy suburb south of Detroit, and I was graduated from Trenton high school 4 years later (valedictorian). I was active in church and school activities there and worked part time as a surveyor's assistant, holding range poles and dodging traffic.

I went to Albion college as a frightened freshman in 1953, and was graduated in 1957 a more confident senior. While at Albion, I was president of the Methodist Student Movement and Chi Epsilon, was chaplain of our fraternity, and elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

In the summer of 1955 while serving as waterfront director at the Lake Louise Methodist camp, my brother suggested as we sat in a row boat that I pay more attention to a pretty girl in a black bathing suit. I did, and 3 years later we were married. Ellen (Seeley) and I have 2 little girls: Cathy, age 3, and Anne, who was one November 2 of this year.

From Albion, I went on to seminary to study to be a Methodist pastor. I selected Garrett Theological seminary, a part of Northwestern university. Factors in my decision to enter the ministry were a father who presented a compelling example of the ministry at its best, some deeply spiritual experiences, and a determination to throw myself wholeheartedly into the stream of service for others.

In 1959, I was selected by the Danforth Foundation to receive a fellowship to serve in the campus ministry at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. There we initiated a number of study-discussion groups where students wrestled with the theme of getting Christianity into their everyday living. Two of these groups became integrated, and some amazing transformations of attitudes took place. I also wrote each week for the campus newspaper a column entitled "Controversy", in which I tried to present a Christian perspective on controversial issues. Since this experience in Virginia, I have maintained a keen interest in the campus ministry.

We moved to Dansville in June of 1960, and I became the pastor of the Dansville and Vantown Methodist churches. Folks here were extremely tolerant of a brash, young preacher, and their warmth and affection never ceases to amaze me. The Dansville and Vantown people have been very good to us.

Together over the last 3 years we have initiated a number of "Koinonia" (fellowship) groups where in depth we explore and make relevant vital Christianity, we have seen our church attendance and budget take a leap forward, and on September 8, we consecrated our new sanctuary at Dansville. Perhaps most significant has been the "coming into their own" of our laymen who now see themselves as full-time ministers for Christ in every walk of life. Before they often saw themselves as incidental helpers of the ministerial "pro", myself.

My favorite hobbies are sailing, tennis, touch football, water skiing, snow skiing, reading and writing. A month ago, I was accepted into the Famous Writer's school.

I presently serve on the board of directors of the Wesley Foundations at the University of Michigan and Eastern university, am sub-district youth director in this area, and secretary to the Ann Arbor district Methodist ministers.

My most burning concern is to get Christianity out of the isolation ward and into the thick of the world. Too often, I feel, the church has been content to be a cozy club for the congenial.

I was on a peace seminar in New York City in December of 1962, I was in the March on Washington in August of 1963, I am emphasizing the need for a summer recreation program in Dansville, you may see me playing football with the neighborhood children in my backyard some afternoon. And for that reason, I love the 3 girls who live with me at 1332 Adams, and try to take time to share with them.

Heavy Cattle Slaughter Brought Price Decline

Continued record breaking cattle slaughter during November was mainly responsible for the price declines which occurred. Movement of stocker and feeder cattle to feed lots was slowed because of lower price trends for fat cattle. . . . Further evidence of Soviet crop failures this year is the recent offer Russians made to buy 100 tons of rice from Thailand. . . . Federal inspectors checked almost 28 million pieces of passenger luggage and almost 44 million parcel post packages during the last fiscal year, at ports of entry, for dangerous insect and plant pests. In addition, over 144,000 airplanes, 59,000 ships, 26 million vehicles, mostly passenger cars and trucks, and 66,000 railway cars were inspected to determine if they carried foreign insects and plant diseases. These inspections intercepted over 31,000 plant pests and almost 395,000 lots of prohibited plant material. . . . The hog ratio at mid-November was 13.9 compared with 17.3 a year earlier and the long-term November average of 14.7. . . . World sugar production in the 1963-64 marketing year is the second largest on record. Gain in output in free world countries offset decreases in Sino-Soviet bloc. . . . Processors used 71 percent of the oranges, 52 percent of the grapefruit and 27 percent of the lemons grown last year. Approximately 63 percent of Florida's oranges were used for frozen concentrates. . . . U. S. egg production this year may surpass last year's 175 million cases. . . . Japanese now eat twice as much wheat, oil and fats; 4 times as much meat; and drink 3 times as much milk as they did before World War II. All Japanese school children — 19 million of them — now have a school lunch program.

Corn Winners Will Be Feted

An interesting program to honor the winners of the Ingham county corn growers contest is planned for Wednesday, January 8, at 12 noon in the Dansville Methodist church.

The program is open to anyone interested in growing corn. Banquet tickets are available at $1.85 in the county extension office or from members of the corn committee, Grant Putman, Kenneth Kurtz and John Minarik at Williamston, David Diehl at Dansville, Gerald Diamond, William Breakey, Russell Rowe, Mason, Fred Ruthig, Leslie, Fred VanGilder and Jerry Jorgensen, Webberville.

A plaque will be presented to the winners of the highest yield and the highest net return. A panel discussion will be conducted by the high contestants on how they obtained their high yields and still kept their cost production low.

James Mulvany, Ingham county agricultural agent, will lead a farmer panel discussion on marketing your corn crop through livestock, as high moisture corn, corn and cob silage, experience with center cut silage, and other methods.

Any corn grower and his wife and guests are invited to the meeting.

Deadline for reservations is Monday noon, January 6, according to R. C. Lott, county extension director.

Poultry Group Schedules Meet

Charles Sheppard, poultry specialist at Michigan State university, will speak to Ingham county poultry producers Wednesday, January 8.

The meeting will be in the supervisors room at the court house in Mason at 7:30 p.m.

Sheppard will discuss production costs in the poultry business. He will give producers his opinion on the future of the poultry industry and the essentials necessary for a profitable operation.

Every poultryman is invited to attend, R. C. Lott, county extension director, said.

Michigan Agriculture in 1963 Had Both Its Ups and Downs

Michigan's agriculture had its ups and downs during 1963 with the weather man working both evil and good, with both gains and losses being chalked up in mankind's efforts to produce food in the dead before it reached overmature.

Crops are of vital concern to the Michigan department of agriculture, whose many and varied duties also span a wide range of other responsibilities. Many of these responsibilities have to do with consumer protection for both the rural resident and the urban dweller.

A severe winter and frosty spring plummeted fruit production, especially cherries, peaches and grapes. But the dry spring kept farmers abreast of seasonal work so that sowing was generally on schedule. Timely rains in most of the state kept field crops coming along with resulting good yields of oats and increased harvests of corn and wheat. There were increases in sugar beet acreages, but the yields per acre were generally lower.

Dry edible beans, of which Michigan has long been the nation's No. 1 producer, yielded 8,807,000 hundredweight of exceptionally good quality — the highest production yet. Quality was enhanced by the dry autumn. With dryness came unseasonably high temperatures during October that worked against apple harvesters, some of whom lost the race in getting the fruit picked before it reached overmaturity.

Livestock and livestock products account for 54 percent of the state's $785 million farm income. Notable gains were achieved in animal health. Brucellosis, a cattle disease that has cost herd owners millions of dollars over the years, was brought to the lowest point in history through joint programs conducted by the Michigan department of agriculture's Livestock Disease Control Division and the USDA's Animal Disease Eradication Division. A similar program reduced bovine tuberculosis to a 10-year low.

A 2-year joint inspection program of all flocks of sheep in the state was concluded with Michigan achieving the scabies-free status. There were only 10 cases of hog cholera reported during 1963, which is encouraging to those working on the program to eradicate this destroyer of swine herds.

Significant gains were made by the Michigan department of agriculture's dairy division in farm inspections so that dairy products of certain plants might qualify for interstate shipment under the grade A requirements. This is in addition to the regular duties of sampling and checking dairy products at all levels from farm to retailer which includes all phases of the dairy industry.

The foods and standards division has been referred to in the past as the housewife's protector because of its unrelenting war on shortweight and the misbranding and mislabeling of foods of all descriptions and soft drinks. There was no retrenchment in 1963 of efforts to assure purchasers clean, wholesome products honestly presented.

IN FARM CROPS

Michigan State Schedules Short Course

A series of 4 meetings is scheduled for Ingham county farmers on the production harvesting and storage of farm crops. The meetings will start Thursday, January 2, at 1 p.m. at the Dansville town hall. Following are the dates, topics and resource people:

Thursday, January 2 — (1 to 4 p.m.) — Corn and corn silage - Hildebrand and Rossman, Michigan State university.

Thursday, January 9 — Small grains and soybeans - Hildebrand and Evanson, Michigan State university.

Thursday, January 16 — Forage crops for hay and pasture - Hildebrand and Tesar, Michigan State university.

Thursday, January 23 — Weed control in field crops - Hildebrand and Meggitt, Michigan State university.

Resource men at the meetings will be Stuart Hildebrand, extension specialist in crop science; Dr. Elmer Rossman, Dr. Everett Everson, Dr. Milo Tesar and Dr. William Meggitt, crop science researchers of Michigan State university.

At the first meeting on January 2, Prof. Hildebrand and Dr. Rossman will discuss selection of varieties, planting dates and methods, insect and disease controls, harvesting and storage methods, center cut silage, high moisture corn, use of lime in corn silage, hints for high-quality silage, etc.

Farmers are invited to attend the entire series or any of their choice. High crop yields are a "must" for profitable farming, according to R. C. Lott, county extension director.

Use Extra Care In Housing

Extra care on the part of some Michigan sheep producers could result in premium prices from many buyers seeking top quality wool.

"Winter housing and barn feeding practices can do much to either improve or lower the value of the wool crop," says Graydon Blank, extension sheep specialist at Michigan State university.

"Housing sheep too closely will result in soiled and often permanently stained fleeces and perhaps later pneumonia troubles for both ewes and lambs."

Ewe fleeces should be allowed to run outside until sheared or just before lambing. Light shearing around the rear quarters also keeps fleeces cleaner and free from stained wool.

Even more important in producing clean wool is the way in which roughage and grain are fed. Wool buyers report far too much "chaffy and seedy" wool, especially around the top of the neck and shoulders which generally produces some of the best wool.

"But wool containing chaff and seed must be removed at the warehouse which greatly reduces the total value of the fleece while increasing handling costs," adds the extension service specialist. "Such losses are reflected in lower prices to the producer."

Feeding hay and other roughage on the ground or snow is one way to keep wool clean besides allowing ewes to get valuable exercise each day. Racks—if they must be used—should be constructed so chaff will not fall into the necks of feeding ewes.

"But above all, don't carry or throw hay over the backs of ewes while they are eating," adds the sheep specialist.

The sheep specialist says there is no need to shut ewes in barns just because the weather turns cold. In fact, strong healthy lambs generally result when ewes are given daily exercise.

Ewes can earn much of their own keep by cleaning up corn and grain fields during fall and early winter months. But the specialist cautions farmers to switch all ewes to higher quality feed at least 6 weeks before lambing starts.

Mineralized Salt Makes Lambs Strong

A liberal supply of trace mineralized salt available to sheep breeding flocks at all times is one of the best ways to produce strong and healthy lambs.

This salt generally supplies adequate amounts of iodine and cobalt for the pregnant ewe, according to Graydon Blank, sheep specialist at Michigan State university.

Loose salt rather than block salt is preferable especially during the winter months.

"Flock owners who have experienced trouble with premature or weak lambs might consider the addition of one ounce stabilized potassium iodide (available at feed elevators) to each 100 pounds trace mineralized salt," he says. "Some flocks have also benefited from one ounce of a cobalt compound such as cobalt sulfate added to each 100 pounds salt."

The sheep specialist says there is no need to shut ewes in barns just because the weather turns cold. In fact, strong healthy lambs generally result when ewes are given daily exercise.

Ewes can earn much of their own keep by cleaning up corn and grain fields during fall and early winter months. But the specialist cautions farmers to switch all ewes to higher quality feed at least 6 weeks before lambing starts.

Income Tax Time Nears

January first begins the income tax filing period. Financial records are important in preparing federal income tax returns, Director of Internal Revenue R. I. Nixon for the Detroit district said. Now is the time to get together cancelled checks, receipts, records of contributions and other papers.

Taxpayers who kept good financial records during the year should have no trouble preparing their federal income tax returns, Nixon explained. Complete records are especially important to taxpayers who itemize deductions.

Copies of prior years' returns are also good guides in preparing the new return.

Egg, Broiler Prices May Dip

Poultry and egg prospects for early 1964, aren't brighter for the farmer, but look good for the consumer.

Increased supplies of both broilers and eggs seem likely, according to a survey made by a national committee of which Dr. Henry Larzelere, Michigan State university extension specialist in agricultural economics, is a member.

The 1963 marketing year was slightly better than 1962, for egg producers. Broiler growers found prices lower in 1963, in 3 of the 4 quarters compared with 1962, Larzelere concluded.
