

Mason Girl Earns Fulbright Grant

Miss Ruth Elizabeth Schmitter, a 1960 graduate of Mason high school, and now a senior in botany at Michigan State university, has received a Fulbright grant from the U.S. department of state for study in a foreign country during the 1964-65 school year. Miss Schmitter plans to do graduate study in electron microscopy at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schmitter of 327 W. Elm street, Mason. Her father is the fencing coach at MSU and her mother is a special education instructor at the Cedar street school in Mason.

The Fulbright grant is made under provisions of the Fulbright-Hays act. Its purpose is to increase mutual understanding through international educational and cultural exchange.

American students are recommended by campus and state committees and the Institute of American Education. Selection is made by the board of foreign scholarships, which is appointed by the president of the United States.

Scholarship honors are not new to Miss Schmitter or the Schmitter family. Her brothers, Charles and Phillip were honor students at Mason. Charles graduated with honors from Michigan State and is a medical student at the University of Michigan. Phillip is a seminary student.

There will be a parade, memorial program and other activities Saturday, May 30. This is the year the program is being arranged by the American Legion post. Commander William Schwartzwelder is in charge of arrangements.

Both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars participate each year but the groups alternate the responsibility for making arrangements.

Commander Schwartzwelder announced that grave marker flags will be put in place Friday, May 22.

$400,000 for Elementary Rooms

Mason Votes Again On School Question

Mason school district property owners will go to the polls Monday to vote on a $400,000 bonding proposal. If approved, the money will be used to build elementary school rooms which could be used in the late fall.

Voters turned down a similar proposal 2 months ago along with an accompanying high school expansion proposal. It was trimmed by the school board to include just the elementary school construction and rescheduled for another vote.

Plans call for a new elementary school to be built and rooms added to the Alaledon school. The proposed construction is based on present needs and projected needs through 1970 as far as elementary school space problems which will develop soon, they say.

If voters approve the millage proposal, they will actually be spending less for school construction than they did prior to this past year. Patrons have been paying 3 mills into a building and site sinking fund. That expired this year.

The proposed $400,000 bonding issue can be paid off in 10 years at less than 2 mills assessment if the bonds can be sold for 4% or less interest. Mason's past record of borrowing indicates that the proposed bonds can be sold for less than 4%. Patrons will therefore be assessed approximately 2% for the bonding issue instead of 3% for the former building and site fund.

The staff hired to handle the balloting in the school manual arts building on Oak street will be doubled Monday, according to Glenn Oesterle, president of the school board. He said the board is taking every step to assure voters of little or no waiting when they cast their votes Monday.

Some voters criticized the handling of the last election because of the length of time they had to wait to vote. Oesterle said voters will be processed at least twice as fast as the last time.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

The school study committee has endorsed the new proposal. The proposal does not provide for the high school addition which was included in the earlier proposal because the election laws require that the issue be changed significantly to have a vote at this time.

"The committee had previously rejected any so called pay as you go plan involving a new building and site levy," explained Rex Stribly, committee chairman this week. The borrowing of money by the school district is controlled by regulations. Even a 4-mill building and site levy voted now would not permit the completion and occupancy of the new elementary school until September 1967. If after this the Alaledon school were completed on the same basis this would be ready in September 1968.

"The committee points out that conditions in the junior high are bad enough at present. It now houses 910 children. About 500 is the correct figure but with the new classrooms in the shop building and continuing some restriction in curriculum, the school administrators state that they can handle 600.

"The children are here now. Next year's sixth grade is a record breaker in size and the entire school population continues to grow.

"The committee studies show that a pay as you go plan might be fine had it been started several years ago at a much higher rate than the previous 3 mills. Finance studies also brought up that bonding is the preferred method of financing in schools today. A very high percentage of all the families in the district carry debts with an average interest rate of over 6 percent. The fact that no federal income tax is paid on interest from school bonds permits the school district to borrow at less than 4%. The net result is that it is less expensive to the community for the school to borrow the money than for the people to pay a high building and site levy which, in effect, costs them a higher rate of interest.

"The bonding program which would amount to not more than 2 mills at the start is a fixed amount and as the school district grows the millage assessed each year will decrease in the same way as the high school assessment.

"With bonding, planning and construction of the elementary school can proceed this summer."

Members of the school study committee endorsing the proposal are:

Interest Picks Up School Candidates

Candidates are beginning to show an interest in the Mason school board election booked for June 8.

Petitions have been filed or are being circulated for 7 candidates as of Wednesday morning. Those who have taken out petitions are James Maddy, Mrs. Roberta Cotton, Wallace Bailey, incumbent Robert Leonard, Marvin Lott, Russell Rowe, incumbent Glenn Oesterle, William Barnes, Edward L. Tuckey and Dr. Kenneth Kalember.

There are just 3 days left in which candidates for school board may file their petitions. The deadline is 4 p.m. on May 9.

Petitions are available at the offices of Superintendent James H. Vander Ven in the junior high school building. The petitions must bear the names of 50 qualified electors, not 25, as has been stated.

The election, when voters will be asked to fill 3 vacancies on the board, 2 for 4 year terms and one for a one year term, is scheduled for Monday, June 8.

Clubs Plan Book Sale

All types of books are being sought by the Friends of the Library and members of the Mason high school National Honor Society.

Paper books, comic books, novels, science fiction and biographies will be collected at Dart Insurance agency and the home of Mrs. W.A. Bergh at 215 W. Ash. Donors may also call Mrs. Robert Cone at OR 7-6651 and arrange for having the books picked up.

The books will be placed on sale at the high school library Thursday and Friday, May 21 and 22. On Saturday, May 23, the sale will be moved to the downtown area.

Annexation Vote Result Confirmed

Ingham county board of canvassers last Friday completed a canvass of votes in 3 annexations in last week Tuesday's election. The board confirmed all previously announced results.

The vote tabulation showed these results:
Proposition A - This involved the Sheridan road school district in Lansing township where an outside vote of 3,334 and no votes of 2,458 were recorded. Votes inside the area to be annexed were 288 yes to 265 no.

Proposition B - This involved the annexation of Maple Grove school district. The outside vote there was 3,538 yes and 2,440 no. The total inside the area to be annexed was 467 and 376 no.

Proposition C - This involved the DeWitt township section of the Sheridan road school district. The outside vote total was 3,267 yes and 2,675 no. The vote inside the area to be annexed was 72 yes to 188 no. This defeated this annexation proposal.

Apartment House

Work started Tuesday on the construction of an apartment building in the Mason block bounded by Cherry, Rogers and South streets. Cherry Hill Apartments is building the structure, designed to have every modern convenience. The first section to be completed will face Cherry street. Other units are scheduled to be added.

Harry's Back Home

Harry Botek, afflicted with a rare membrane disease which is affecting his eyesight, arrived home from Walter Reed hospital in the nation's capital Friday. He has returned to classes at Mason junior high school. Money donated to the boy at Leslie and with other projects in Mason and California will be used to pay for a trip to California this summer. Harry and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henderson, and other members of his family will leave June 21 for the West for about 5 weeks. Prior to that, they will spend a week in Canada.

City Hikes Rates On Water, Sewers

Mason's residents will find their water bills higher if the new rate schedule ordinance stands the test of 2 weeks of laying on the table.

The ordinance was introduced Monday night. It will be considered for final action May 18.

Under the new schedule the base rate of $3.50 for the first 5,000 gallons will jump to $3.65. The rate stages from there on up were adjusted upward, too.

Other charges were increased. A new hookup will cost $75 instead of the current $50. Sewer rates will also reflect an increase.

Rates were increased, according to the council, in order to make the water and sewer utility services pay their own way. The increases were scheduled so that an additional $10,000 revenue will be raised annually.

The raise will be used to pay for renovating the existing wells, provide a new well, extension of sewer lines and the increased cost of maintenance. In addition under the bonding schedule approved when Mason voted revenue bonds a few years ago, the city must pick up the pace in retiring the bonds. Of the increased revenue $5,000 will go for this purpose.

In other action Monday night councilmen voted to award the storm sewer contract at the new county jail to Ketchum Excavating at the bid price of $9,725.

Bids were also requested for furnishing the city with a new fire truck chassis and fire fighting equipment.

Junior High Schedules Open House

Parents and others interested in education will have an opportunity to see the Jefferson Street junior high school under actual classroom conditions Thursday.

As a student council project, the school will have an open house Thursday during regular school hours. Classes will be open to visitors as pupils go through regular classroom routine.

School officials and teachers have maintained that the junior high school is jammed. Pupils are quick to agree.

The student council idea of the open house is to acquaint school electors with the problems so that they more intelligently vote at Monday's special school election when a $400,000 school bond issue will be decided. If passed the plans call for school room additions at elementary schools so that sixth graders can be moved from Jefferson Street, allowing more room for the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

Sign Vandals

Vandals who apparently have a grudge against real estate firms scattered some 30 real estate for sale signs along the right-of-way on Dobie road north of Interstate highway 96 and south of Jolly road this week. The signs were found by sheriff's deputies who had to use a truck to get all the signs hauled away. The signs include those of some 15 real estate firms in this area.

Nail Enters Boy's Brain

William Jansen, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jansen, 540 E. Ash street, was convulsing at his home Wednesday, following surgery at Edward Sparrow hospital in Lansing.

The boy fell on a board and his head struck a protruding nail. The nail entered the child's skull and pierced the brain. He was rushed to the hospital where he underwent surgery. Mrs. Jansen said Saturday the surgery was a complete success and the wound is now healing nicely.

He was under treatment in the hospital for 8 days and was brought home Tuesday.

Supervisors To Study Equalization Office

Ingham county supervisors are going to take a look at the possibility of setting up a new county department. At Friday's board meeting the board appointed the equalization committee as a special committee to dig into the establishment of an equalization office for the county.

The request for the committee came after the board adopted the equalization report as prepared by the equalization committee.

Supervisor Fred Ruthig of Leslie, chairman of the equalization committee, asked for the county equalization officer, pointing out that other counties are utilizing such a department to assist in keeping equalization figures current and equitable.

He estimated that such a department would cost the county from $15,000 to $20,000 a year. The main job would be to keep abreast of real estate transfers so as to establish property values between townships and cities.

Under the report adopted for use in 1965 tax figuring the cities of Lansing, East Lansing, Mason and Williams on account for 72 per cent of the county's real and personal property valuation. Lansing represents 60 per cent of the total.

MASON'S OUTSTANDING vocal music department will put its talents on display Thursday night at the high school auditorium. Directors Warren Emrick and Judith Hutson have labeled the program a Highbrow Hootenanny. It will feature folk music sung by the junior high mixed chorus, the Bulldog Balladeers, the Royal Ramblers and other special groups. Running over the program in the picture above are Mrs. Hutson directing, Emrick at the piano, Carol Fogle of the eighth grade mixed chorus, Janice Tworck of the ninth grade chorus and Roger Hill of the Balladeers group.

Teenagers Conduct Fund Drive

Fifty-six teen-agers of Junior high school age, canvassed Mason Sunday between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m. to collect donations for Aid for Leukemia Stricken Children (ALSAC). They had set a goal of $1,000 in the drive. They received donations totaling $377.55.

Fred J. Fillingham, chairman of the drive, however was satisfied with the results. "This was very good," he said, in voicing his thanks to the people of Mason who contributed. "It was a beautiful day Sunday and we found few people at home."

Five cars, 3 radio-equipped, accompanied the young campaigners on their canvass. After the campaign ended at 5 p.m. the drivers of the 5 cars took the youngsters to a teen age dance at the Leo club house in Lansing. They waited there until the dance ended at 8:30 p.m. and then brought them back to Mason.

Fillingham said that the campaign in the Greater Lansing area resulted in donations totaling $8,800.

The funds are used in furthering the work in behalf of leukemia victims at St. Jude Research hospital in California, a gift to the cause by Danny Thomas, TV star and Hollywood celebrity.

Justice Gets Court Writ

Alex G. Boegner, Delhi township justice of the peace, was ordered Friday by Judge Sam Street Hughes of the Ingham circuit court to discontinue exercising his office.

Judge Hughes handed down the order after granting a default judgment to Prosecutor Leo A. Farhat in a suit against Boegner to determine why he should be permitted to hold the office. The suit charged that Boegner was conducting a collection agency while in service as of the peace. This it was alleged, is contrary to the law.

Boegner failed to answer to the charge and was declared guilty by the court.

The Delhi Charter township board appointed Boegner as justice of the law last year for a 4 year term.

MAYOR FLOYD VANBUREN and Mrs.

VanBuren of Sunfield have hopes of trading places with Mayor Gilson Pearsall and Mrs. Pearsall on Mayor Exchange day during the Michigan Week celebration. Mayor VanBuren is recovering from a power lawn mower accident.

Michigan Week Plans Begin to Take Shape

Chairman Dick Magel is putting his finishing touches on Mason's Michigan Week celebration.

The only fly in the ointment is the appearance of Mayor Floyd VanBuren of Sunfield. The Sunfield mayor came out second best in a bout with a power lawn mower. He has hopes his wounds heal in time to make the trip to Mason. If he doesn't he will send a representative.

Each day of Michigan Week has a special designation, according to Magel, for the 11th annual state celebration to be held May 17-23.

A broad program embracing all people and every segment of the community's economic and social life can be built around the seven special days. Michigan Week this year opens on Sunday, May 17, which is Spiritual Foundations Day. This gives all religious groups in the community an opportunity to emphasize the important part that people of all faiths have played in the founding and development of the state. All Mason churches have been asked to participate in the statewide ringing of church bells at 12:00 noon on May 17th.

Monday is set aside as Government Day which is featured by the traditional exchange of mayors and village presidents. It gives local committees an opportunity to place the spotlight on government at all levels, so that citizens may become better acquainted with the roll of government in their daily lives.

Hospitality Day is Tuesday and this gives all people, businesses and organizations a chance to do the things that will best express the community's friendliness, especially to visitors from other towns and other states.

Industry, business and agriculture come in for special attention on Wednesday, observed as Our Livelihood Day. It is the day to focus attention on how people earn their living, and to give special recognition to the institutions that provide jobs.

While schools play an important role in Michigan Week from start to finish, Thursday is designated as Education Day, giving all educational institutions an opportunity to put their best foot forward - to hold open house and do the other things that will emphasize the great part that education plays in Michigan.

Friday is set aside as Our Heritage Day with special emphasis pointed toward history. Local, area and state, and the proud heritage of people of many backgrounds who have played an important part in bringing the week to a close with all emphasis on youth and the part young people take in community activities.

Here in Mason, as a feature of Youth Day, the Kiwanis Club will hold its annual bicycle safety check. All bicycle owners to the tennis courts at the Junior high school at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 23rd.

Madison Pickle Co.

Officiating at the rites was Rev. William Crampton of the Reorganized church of Mason. Burial was in Maple Ridge cemetery. Pallbearers were Edward Karl, James Oliver, William Oliver, James Wilson, Harry Johnston and Howard Snell.

Graves is survived by his wife, Fidelis of Leslie; 2 sons, Ronald Graves of Saginaw and Kenneth Jr. of Bay City; 2 daughters, Mrs. William Husband of Mason and Sharon Kay of Leslie; 3 grandchildren; 2 sisters, Mrs. James Wilson of Davidson and Mrs. Arthur Becker of St. Helen.

Andy Gilpin Gains Office

Andy Gilpin of Mason was elected to the office of State Junior president of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs. The announcement was made at the Youth day Convention in Dearborn Saturday, May 2. He was installed by the State President of the Michigan Federation, Mrs. Vernon L. Venema of Birmingham. Michigan is among the first states to elect a State Junior president.

Ten of the members of the Keynote Junior Music club of which Andy is a member, were present at the convention. Those who attended were Gene Dowling, Jim Mueller, Jenna Ware, Mary Fink, Lynne Richards, Carol Fogle, Linda Stiles, Gloria Brown, Andy Gilpin and Kathy Holloway. Counsellors who attended were Mrs. George Fogle, Mrs. Gilpin and Mrs. A. V. Smith, Mrs. Warren Mueller and Mrs. Lumen Stiles also attended.

Sara J. McGillicuddy, 22 of East Lansing
Donald Baker, 22, of East Lansing,
Jonne Brodowski, 22, of East Lansing,
Levin West, 24, Brogan road, Stockbridge.
Mrs. Merrie Ellen Meyer, 68, of Fowlerville.
Mrs. Marie Glendenning, 69 of Fowlerville.

Glendon's car hit a guard rail protecting a Grand Trunk railroad bridge over the Haslett-Okemos road. Miss McGillicuddy, one of his 3 passengers, suffered leg injuries, broken pelvis and a possible fractured ribs. Baker suffered leg injuries and Miss Brodowski face cuts and leg injuries.

All were taken to Sparrow hospital in Lansing. West suffered head cuts when his car skidded out of control on Kane road, north of Stockbridge. Deputies said the car crossed the road after skidding down a ditch for 300 feet, then skidded another 300 feet, hit some rocks and bounced off several trees before ramming a large tree. West's car was ripped apart, officers said.

Deputies blamed an apparent mechanical failure of brakes for an accident that sent Mrs. Meyer's car through a fence and into a field at M-43 and M-47 east of Williamston about 9 p.m. Mrs. Meyer and her passenger, Mrs. Glendenning were taken to a Howell hospital where they were treated and discharged. Both had minor injuries.

School Officials Inspect Special Education Rooms

The annual visitation to special education facilities in Ingham schools was made Tuesday. Each year a committee of superintendents and board members and a representative from the state department of public instruction visits special education facilities in Ingham county. This year the committee consisted of Fred Jappenga, superintendent of Haslett schools, Vere Buxton, and Ralph Morrow, members of the Haslett board of education; Chandler Nauts, principal of Mason high school; Robert Fitch, superintendent of Williamston schools; Mrs. Eleanor Luecke, Clarence Prentice, Donald Crakes, and Dr. A. J. Spencer, members of the Ingham Intermediate board of education; Charles Bode, superintendent of Leslie schools; Alton J. Stroud, superintendent of Ingham county; Marvin Beekman, director of special education in Lansing; Dr. Leon Waskin of the department of public instruction, Chief of Curriculum and NDEA Services, and Mrs. Beverly Hunt, acting coordinator of special education, Ingham county.

The emphasis of this year's visitation was on new facilities in the county. The committee visited the new junior high special education rooms at Dwight Rich Junior High school in Lansing, Holt Junior high, and Stockbridge Junior high. New elementary rooms for special education were visited in Holt, Mason, Leslie, and Stockbridge. The first part of the visitation was a visit to Walnut street school in Lansing. These facilities are not new but they serve physically handicapped children from all of Ingham county.

Section 232 of the general school laws of Michigan requires that special education facilities be visited each year by a committee of superintendents and board members in all counties having special education. These visitations serve to acquaint the committee members with facilities and give them an opportunity to view the scope of children with various types of handicaps.

KNOW YOUR INSECT ENEMY ORCHARD INVADERS

Fruit trees stand rooted in the orchard weathering many elements throughout the year. Slow, soaking rains and the warm, summer sun are helpful, but there are other not-so-apparent factors that harm the life of a fruit tree—insect enemies.

These enemies slip in almost unnoticed at times, develop large populations and attack trees without warning. The oriental fruit moth, for instance, finds succulent, rapid-growing twigs of peach, plum, cherry and quince very much to its liking. The larva, which causes the damage, enters the tender twig near the base of young leaves and hollows out the stem. Later generations often move on to the fruit. Leaves on infested twigs wilt and the twig breaks. Visible and concealed injury results in gum-secreting, black-blotched fruit, generally rendering it unmarketable.

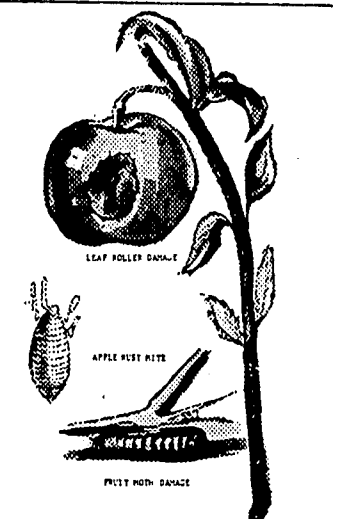

Another insect, the red-banded leaf roller, attacks a wide variety of fruit. In years of large populations, it may ruin 80 to 90 percent of an apple crop. Small apples have cavities eaten out of the side or center. At picking time, apples have deep, russeted, elongated scars. Foliar can be seriously injured, because the larvae of red-banded leaf roller skeletonize leaves close to the mid-ribs from the underside, folding and webbing them together. Second-brood leaf rollers even cut sections out of the fruit.

The apple rust mite, while not an insect, is also becoming an economically important pest. It is similar to the pear leaf blister mite and is often found on the underside of apple, pear, and plum leaves. Called a rust mite because its feeding gives foliage a rusty appearance, it also causes leaves to roll lengthwise, and the fruit may be attacked and become russeted. The apple rust mite is so small that it can scarcely be seen with the naked eye. Under a lens it is found to be shorter and more triangular than pear leaf blister mite and instead of producing blisters, it feeds on the leaf surface during the growing season and hibernates in the buds.

Many growers are turning to a safer carbamate pesticide, called Sevin, to control these and many other orchard invaders, including codling moth and San Jose scale, because it is an effective protectant and easy to apply. No protective clothing is necessary—just ordinary safety precautions. Fruit specialists also suggest good orchard sanitation to help control insects.

It will pay fruit growers to pause to read the label carefully when using Sevin or any other pesticide. They will get better and safer results every time.

Clare Launstein heard his dog barking early Sunday morning and later discovered the dog had been worried by a balloon which had descended to the Launstein farm in the night. The balloon had been sent aloft by a boy, Charles Proven, who evidently had participated in a contest in Des Plaines, Illinois. Launstein is returning the balloon to the Des Plaines boy. There's a prize for the youngster whose balloon travels the farthest. Charles may well be the winner.

Mason Actress Earns Lead In Comedy

Mrs. Marion E. Brown of Mason, has one of the lead roles in the comedy hit, "Janus", last production of the Lansing Civic Players' current theater season. This farce-comedy spoofs love, marriage, historical novels, and the internal revenue department, and Mrs. Marion E. Brown, will appear as the agent of two collaborating novelists, providing many of the laughs in the show. Mrs. Brown, was first seen on a Lansing stage as one of the towns people in "Music Man". She has won a number of singing contests, in Ohio and has sung at the Chicago Opera house. Currently she is a member of the Michigan State university chorus and the Oldsmobile Rocketaires.

Teacher of the Week

DOUGLAS G. HILLARD has been an instructor in biology in the Mason schools for the past 4 years. He is a graduate of Michigan State university and this summer plans to attend an institute at Arizona State college. He was born on a farm south of Adrian. He says he took up the study of biology because of his interest in living things. Hillard is married. His wife is employed as a secretary in the East Lansing State bank. His hobbies are hunting, fishing and tying trout flies.

IRON MIKE DOOLITTLE is the mainstay of the Mason pitching staff. The right-hander has posted a 5-1 record, pitching in everyone of Mason's first 6 games. Monday his blazing fast ball sent 11 Howell batters back to the bench shaking their heads.

Mason Splits on Diamond But Still Stays in First

Mason split in games Monday and Tuesday. The Bulldogs took over first place Monday night by knocking off Howell 1-0 but on Tuesday Gabriels knocked the Bulldogs back into a first place tie by stopping Mason 4-1. In the Howell game Mike Doolittle went the route on the mound and turned in one of his better games. He had to because Howell's Dick McKeon had Mason batters eating out of his hand.

It was a tight pitcher's duel and defensive battle. Both teams recorded 2 hits each but Mason's were back-to-back singles in the last inning to kill McKeon's chances for a no-hitter and victory. In the last of the seventh Roger Hill opened with a single. Gary Underwood followed with a single and then Don Wright belted one in right field which was bobbled with Hill crossing the plate with the winning run. Doolittle struck out 11 and didn't walk a man. Errors took the edge off some mighty sharp Mason pitching by Gary Underwood Tuesday. Underwood hurled a 2-hitter and still lost. Three errors let in a Gabriels run in the third and in the fourth 2 walks, a single, a wild pitch and passed ball let in 3 more Rock runners. Mason picked up its lone run on back-to-back singles by Hill and Underwood. In the last inning it appeared that Mason had something started when Ken Wrook led off with a single and Leslie Jones singled but both runners died as John Heffron tightened up in the pitching department.

Weather

Mason basked in ideal weather during the past week. The temperature averaged 58 degrees. This compared with 58 degrees for the same week a year ago. Precipitation during the week totaled .01 of an inch, recorded on April 30. Temperature readings were as follows:

April 29	60	40
April 30	54	46
May 1	65	48
May 2	69	47
May 3	74	46
May 4	79	58
May 5	82	62

Temperatures will average 2 to 5 degrees above normal. Normal high is 64 to 68 degrees; normal low, 4 to 46. Turning cooler around the weekend. Precipitation will total 3/4 of an inch in occasional thundershowers.

Paving Job Approved

WILLIAMSTON - A street improvement program to cost $11,723 was approved by the city council Monday night. The program includes paving and improvements on N Putman Street from High street to the Red Cedar river bridge. The city will pay $5,118 of the cost, property owners will pay $4,628 and the county will pay $1,976 on frontage along McCormick park.

Renovation Job To Cost $69,145

WILLIAMSTON - The Williamston school board Monday night accepted a bid of $69,145 from Dart Inc. of Lansing for the first 2 phases of a 5 year renovation program at the junior high school. The work, which is expected to be completed during the summer months, will include installation of a gas operating heating plant, and installation of exit lights to comply with recommendations of the state fire marshal.

Wireman Has Another Win

Dansville edged Williamston Tuesday afternoon 2-1 with Dansville's Arnold Wireman turning in a fine pitching performance. Coach Vince Carlen didn't have quite as flowery words to say about Wireman's support. The Aggies booted the ball 5 times.

Wireman struck out 16 of the would-be Hornet hitters. Dansville picked up its 2 runs in the fourth inning when Rogers singled and Roger Pollok singled. Rogers was nipped at home and Carl Glover took first on a fielder's choice. Then Collin Curtis singled to drive in Dansville's 2 runs.

Williamston scored its lone run in the fourth when Dar Parmelee reached first on an error, stole second and came home on Bruce Whitemore's single.

While Wireman kept recording the strikeouts it wasn't easy as walks and errors kept runners on base in almost every inning.

Pollok was the top hitter for the Aggies with 2 of the 7 Aggie hits. Wireman held Williamston to 3 singles.

Friday afternoon the Aggies will entertain Leslie. On Tuesday night the Aggies will play under the lights at Stockbridge.

Racquet

Squad Winning

Mason's racquet swingers added 2 more victims to their growing list of wins during the week. The Bulldogs topped Charlotte 6-0 and whipped Almont 6-1.

Against Charlotte Bill Strait, Gary Blood and Dennis Bowers took singles victories. In doubles play Leo Bateman and Mike Lennon teamed for a win, Bill Ely and Dave Parmelee came through for another and Greg Lambertson and Sam Gore won their match.

Against Almont on Saturday Blood, Bowers and Lennon came through in the singles with Blood locked in a marathon which ran to 3 sets totaling 46 games.

Dan Webster lost his singles match.

In doubles play Ely and Parmelee teamed for a victory, Jeff Cotton and Sam Gore added another and Lambertson and Dave Pletzke won their match.

There were also some exhibition matches with Pat Birney and Jim Powers, a couple of Mason's eighth graders, taking a match and Bill Strait winning an exhibition singles match.

Mason knocked off Eaton Rapids Tuesday afternoon 4-1 to complete the first part of the Capital Circuit schedule with a perfect slate.

In the Eaton Rapids matches Blood and Bateman won their singles matches but Strait lost. Broder teamed for one victory and Ely and Parmelee won their match.

About Oral Polio Vaccine Clinics Sponsored By The

Q. - Exactly who is paying for and sponsoring the polio clinic?
A. - The project is underwritten 100 per cent by the Ingham County Medical Society, without financial aid from either federal, state, county or city or charitable sources. Donations will be accepted from the public at each clinic to help cover these costs. Manpower to run the clinics is entirely voluntary, too.

Toby (Family Pet)

Charlotte Camp of Stockbridge comes up with the following story about a family pet in her town.

Toby Christopher is a dog, all 250 pounds of him, a St. Bernard belonging to the Duane Ford family of Stockbridge.

Mrs. Ford says, "Toby came to us from a kennel at the age of 6 weeks and he has been growing ever since. He will be two years old in June, by which time he should have his full growth . . . I hope."

The Fords have proved though, that such a large dog need not be a bother or a nuisance. He is a good house pet although he prefers to be out of doors.

The family has a spacious fenced yard where Toby and their 3 boys aged 6, 12 and 13 can play together. "Toby is gentle with children but when little ones are around we do have to watch so that he doesn't knock them down as he plays with them," said Ford.

For the biggest part of the day, Toby is content to take things easy, but some 6th sense tells him when school is out and the boys come home, then off they go boys and dog for a romp in the nearby woods.

Toby has two other loves, riding in the family station wagon and eating candy bars.

"He may seem sound asleep, but if I get in the car, he is right there and if I don't let him in, he carries on and whines so loudly, I just can't leave him home," Mrs. Ford says.

"After they arrive downtown, Toby has to have his candy before he is ready to return home."

The Fords really enjoy their pet.

"Sure, he is a lot of work," said Mrs. Ford, "but most pets are if you truly love and take care of them."

One of these days the earth will vanish and become pure energy. So will the moon, the planets and all the stars we know.

That is the theory of Dr. Maria Z. von Krzywoblocki, a Michigan State university mathematician who believes the movements of planets and stars and their continued resistance to each other's gravitation requires a continuous expenditure of potential energy.

Dr. Krzywoblocki believes that this spending of potential energy necessarily results in a loss of matter and eventually all matter will be transformed into energy.

If reading this has caused you to worry, don't. It won't happen for about a trillion years.

Along US-127 just north of Harper road is a large American elm tree that stands like a sentinel as cars go whizzing by on their way to Lansing and points north. In winter's snow and cold and in summer's sunshine, it stands alone just a few feet from the east lane of the northbound highway.

The tree is estimated to be about 80 years old. According to Howard Wilcox of Holt it once was part of a fence row on what was known as the old Hard-scrabble farm. Wilcox says that the location of the highway of today once was a gravel pit used by the Michigan United Railways which operated interurban cars over tracks that lay just to the west and passed along near the present site of the Country Kitchen.

Do you have problems? Most everyone does.

Every family has problems and if they get too big to be handled without help the Lansing Family Service agency, a United Community Chest organization, stands ready to supply that help.

The Family Service agency has been around for 53 years and has helped thousands of families in Ingham county.

The agency is set up to help with all sorts of problems such as parent-child relations, husband-wife relations, the un-

Delhi Plans Court Test Of Merger

HOLT - Joe Kiersey, Delhi township supervisor, said this week that papers are being prepared for court action to challenge the legality of the political annexation of the Maple Grove school district to Lansing.

Kiersey said the township plans an action in the Ingham circuit court, against the secretary of state to test the validity of the election on April 28 and ask that the annexation approved by the voters at that time be cancelled.

Kiersey said Delhi Charter Township board claims that in an area voting in an annexation election more than once within 2 years, petitions must carry signatures of 35 percent of the voters involved in the 2nd election. He claims that petitions for the April 28 election did not contain the 35 percent he claims are needed.

The attorney general has ruled that the 35 percent figure is not necessary if the petitions are filed with the secretary of state's office. Kiersey acknowledges this but maintains that the board intends to test that interpretation of the law.

Leslie Teen-agers Aid Fund for Harry Botek

LESLE - Leslie teen-agers danced for a good cause last Saturday.

For 12 hours, from noon until midnight, they operated a marathon dance at the high school and when the dancing stopped, the group backing the project had collected about $250 from admissions and concessions which was placed in a fund for Harry Botek, Mason teen-ager who is a victim of a rare eye disease.

Botek and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henderson of Mason were present during part of the program. Music was provided by an orchestra from Leslie and a disc jockey from Lansing. The Leslie musicians were Duane Moses, Allen Powelson, Virgil Howe and Dave Hutchinson.

Parents of the teen-agers and teachers took turns serving as chaperones for the dance. Several dancing contests were conducted during the 12 hour period and prizes were recorded.

The admission price was 75 cents for single tickets and $1.25 for couples.

The affair was promoted and arranged by Linda Welch, Jerry Fuller and Bud Hendershot, high school students.

The money raised here will be placed in a fund being gathered to permit Harry's parents to take him on a motor trip to California. The youth had expressed a desire to see the national parks, Disneyland and other attractions before losing his eyesight.

About $600 has been raised for the fund through various projects in Mason and out in Santa Ana, California, students raised money to enable Harry and his family to visit Disneyland and other points of interest in the area.

Leslie To Have But One Road to and from US-127

LESLE - Leslie's 4 man delegation to the state highway department was unsuccessful in its attempt to retain either of the north and south main street entrances to the village.

Malcolm Stuart, Leslie village councilman; Fred Ruthig, Leslie township supervisor; D. D. Henderson and Leonard Rouse of the Leslie Improvement association were told by the chief of the planning division that plans were completed and the only entrance from highway US-127 would be the Beebevue overpass.

One reason given was the proposed entrances would have to be one way, plus the danger of drivers started out the wrong way, thus entering the expressway against the traffic flow.

The delegation was told bids would be let in November.

School May Be Ready By June 1

LESLE - If a strike of carpenters and other building work employees does not tie things up at the site, Leslie's new high school will be completed by June, Douglas King, high school principal, said Tuesday.

The work has been moving along right on schedule, but this week 3 unions in the building trade struck after contracts for each expired last Thursday night.

Quitting work were carpenters, bricklayers and reinforcing iron workers.

On the Leslie school job was a crew of union carpenters. King said the work has not been retarded as yet at the school.

Registration Fee Of $1 Set by DARE

DANSVILLE — The DARE board of directors set a registration fee of $1 per child for its summer recreation program, at a meeting last week at the home of its president, Mrs. O. B. Cornett. The $1 registration fee was a compromise figure, Mrs. Cornett said.

"After the township board and village council rejected our plea for financial assistance, we had to drastically reduce the program we had hopes of offering this summer," she pointed out.

The swimming program is unchanged, however. It is offered under the auspices of the East Lansing branch of the YMCA at the Dennis Collins Memorial pool in Williamston. The pool fee is $4.50 for 9 sessions and $1 transportation fee, making a total of $5.50 for one term.

The Dansville school is providing the bus at no cost, but DARE must furnish and pay the driver. Rev. Robert Sawyer is director of the swim program for DARE.

Baseball, softball, tennis and playground activities and an enrichment program in arts and crafts will be offered, but on a smaller scale because the reduced budget will limit the number of leaders available for these activities.

Registration is scheduled at the school on Wednesday, May 20, between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. Mrs. Cornett urged parents interested in the DARE program to contact their township and village officials and ask them to reconsider their action on the DARE request.

"These officials are reluctant to give us financial assistance because they don't know how the taxpayers feel about the program," she said. DARE requested $540 to cover the salary of the program director. The registration fee will cover part of the cost of equipment, instructors and junior supervisors. An assessment for each child for each activity will be made to cover the balance of the cost of materials and supervision.

IN WATERLOO AREA - An unidentified flycatcher stands off the shore of Sylvan pond in the Waterloo area, near Stockbridge, trying for one of those heart trout -- either a Rainbow, Brown or Brook variety. Sylvan is one of 2 ponds in the area stocked with trout by the state conservation department and open to fishermen with certain restrictions.

Enjoy Fishing for Trout? Then Go to Waterloo Area

STOCKBRIDGE - Like to fly fish for trout? And do you like to catch your limit with ease? Well . . . it is being done, and not too far away either.

Central lower Michigan is fortunate in having 2 special trout fishing ponds. These are sites that have been stocked with legal size fish, including brown, rainbow and brook trout.

Located in the Waterloo State Recreation area, the 2 ponds are however, in two counties. Portage pond is in Jackson county and Sylvan Pond is in Washtenaw county.

Since the waters have been specially stocked by the conservation department for the use of ardent anglers, some special regulations also have been put into effect. The restrictions, however, are appreciated by died-in-the-wool fly fishermen, since artificial flies are all that may be used. Other regulations on the 2 ponds state that no boats or rafts may be placed on them and that only two trout of not less than 7 inches in length may be taken in 1 day.

The ponds are open to public fishing from April 25 to September 13 inclusive, from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset.

Fishermen who were at the site last week reported they were taking their limit in record time.

Jay Asquith Dies at 86

STOCKBRIDGE - Funeral services were Saturday at 4 p.m. at the Caskey funeral home here for Jay Asquith, 86, a Stockbridge farmer for 64 years, who died last Thursday at his home. He was a grandson of the first white settlers in Ingham county.

Death came after a long period of poor health.

Asquith's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Rogers, came to Ingham county in 1834 and are said to have been the first white settlers in the area.

Asquith retired from farming in 1959. He is survived by his wife, Daisy; a son, Rex, of Stockbridge, and 3 grandchildren.

Burial was in Oaklawn cemetery here.

Cane Sale A Success

STOCKBRIDGE - Jesse Batchelor who was in charge of the Stockbridge Lions club white cane sale last week, said the effort had proved to be very successful.

He said that after expenses, the group would net about $250. Each member buys $5 worth to begin with and with 40 members in the local club, receipts of at least $200 are assured. However, Batchelor said, the gross was nearly $300 from the sale.

Near 3,000 Take Sabin Cube In Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE - The second Victory Over Polio clinic in Stockbridge last Sunday was visited by even more people than the first one 2 months ago. At the earlier clinic there were slightly more than 2700 visitors and at the latest one, the number swelled to nearly 3,000.

Sponsored by the Jackson County Medical society, the clinic was set up in Stockbridge due to the fact that a large part of the Stockbridge school district is located in Jackson county.

Directors of the clinic Sunday were Dr. Sidney Beckwith and Dr. Edward Weddon, both of Stockbridge.

Volunteer workers were obtained by the elementary PTA working with its president, Mrs. Robert Krummrey. With instructions from Mrs. Krummrey, the volunteers were able to do an excellent job of handling visitors to the clinic, keeping the lines moving so no one had to spend more than 5 minutes obtaining the vital protection against the dreaded polio.

Soil Week May 10

Governor Romney has proclaimed May 3 to May 10, 1964, as Soil Stewardship Week in Michigan.

The Proclamation reads:

"Divine Providence has given mankind the natural resources necessary for the preservation of life. In order to achieve a rich and abundant reward, we are charged as stewards of our resources to use them wisely. History has shown that the destiny of a nation often depends upon the wise use of its soil and water."

"The story of American agriculture in a real sense is a great success story. The tremendous progress of American agriculture in the past century has made it the most productive in the world. No nation has ever been as fortunate as ours in the quantity, variety and wholesomeness of the food that is available. Soil and water conservation has played a part in this achievement."

"Therefore, I, George Romney of the Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim May 3 to May 10, 1964, as Soil Stewardship Week in Michigan, and commend to our people careful reflection on the role of these natural resources in our lives."

Latin Students Stage Banquet Roman Style

STOCKBRIDGE - The Emma L. Smith elementary school was the setting last Thursday evening as the high school Latin classes put on a "Latin Banquet," Roman style.

With 1st year students, dressed as slaves, serving the 3 course meal consisting of appetizer, chicken and fruit, accompanied by a different juice for each course, all students are invited guests were put in a good mood for the program which followed.

There are 2 first year and 2 second year Latin classes, all taught by Mrs. Ann Bogart.

Each class presented a skit. One class presented "Crossing the Rubicon," another provided their version of that popular television game, "To Tell the Truth," while the 3rd group presented "A Trip through Roman History." Another television show was used as the 4th class did "A Roman Version of The Price is Right."

Judy Donohue sang an Italian song and the 1st year girls did a Roman Dance.

Mrs. Bogart's efforts on behalf of her students have been sincerely appreciated and this was demonstrated when they presented her with some potted mums and a corsage.

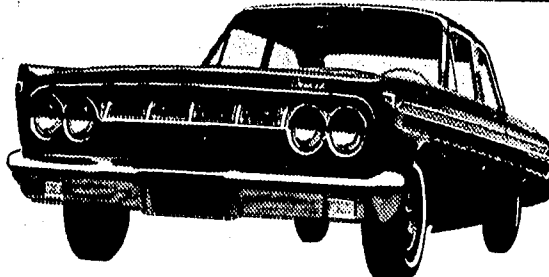

The evening's program came to a close as the group sang "America" and "Auld Lang Syne," in Latin, of course.

Don't Let Them Down

Mason school electors face a day of decision Monday. That's the day they go to the polls to decide the fate of a $400,000 school building bond issue.

The question to be voted on is a simple one.

Shall the Mason school district continue to live on borrowed time and jam its classrooms even more as school enrollments increase? Or will the school district relieve the classroom shortage by living on borrowed money.

In March, voters rejected by a narrow 2-vote margin a proposal calling for $600,000 bond issue. The school trustees maintain that in presenting the new proposal calling for less money, the problem is no less acute than it was in March. It's just that the building program will have to be pared to the bare minimum.

All the arguments presented in favor of the proposal which failed in March are still valid arguments in favor of the proposal to be decided Monday.

Mason's junior high school is overcrowded. By relieving the junior high school of the sixth grade rooms the jammed condition will improve.

This can't be done unless other classrooms are provided. That is what the $400,000 bond issue will do if passed Monday.

The papers and other news media are filled with stories these days about school districts having to slash and cut programs even to the extent of going to half-day sessions. Grand Rapids is a case in point.

It would be a shame if Mason voters who saw fit to provide operating millage to hire teachers, to provide the curriculum necessary for modern-day existence and to give Mason youngsters the top flight education which these children deserve and sorely need, should fall down on the job by failing to provide necessary and adequate classrooms.

The invitation is still open. Those who doubt the wisdom of passing this $400,000 bond issue should pay a visit to the Jefferson Street school when classes are being formed in the morning or being dismissed in the afternoon. Any doubter who then would step to the polls Monday and turn down the classroom construction proposal, needs to go back to school himself for some lessons in logic.

Remember—Someone paid for your education. Now it is your turn to pay the shot. High taxes are not fun. Frequently taxes are higher than they should be but in this case Mason youngsters need more classrooms.

Are you going to let them down?

Faith in the Future

Episcopalians in the Mason area have shown what dedication and hard work can accomplish. It was only a few years ago that Episcopalians in the area either attended other denominational churches in Mason or traveled to Lansing to attend Episcopal services.

Now after years of sacrifice and planning, the once small St. Augustine of Canterbury Episcopal church congregation has embarked upon a bold plan to erect an unusually distinctive place of worship.

The boldness in design of the church and the boldness on the part of the congregation to build and maintain such a structure proves again that there are many who have faith in Christianity as well as in the community. The new edifice is designed to further Episcopal work in the area. It is designed for adequate space now and additional space for the future. The decision to build the new church, therefore, is prefaced on the belief that there will be a congregation of Episcopalians of sufficient size and enthusiasm to sustain the new facility.

A congregation with the ambition to build a new church in so short a time cannot help but succeed, and in so doing generate a new spirit in other church congregations to attack their own church goals with renewed enthusiasm.

Best wishes to parishoners of St. Augustine of Canterbury Episcopal church.

Could Be a Smoke-Screen

Tobacco interests have acknowledged their responsibilities to the nation with their self-imposed advertising restrictions agreed to and announced to the public last week. Time will tell what, if any, actual effect the new regulations will have on the smoking habits of the nation.

With the ultimate goal of people concerned with the parallel between cigarettes and cancer being a reduction in the number of cancer victims, there is little likelihood that the industry expects the new approach toward tobacco advertising to cut into sales.

This isn't a time, however, to question the motives of the industry in this, the first acknowledgement that all hasn't been pure in the tobacco business.

Yet, a final judgment in the sincerity must be withheld until a reduction in the number of smokers in the country actually become a reality. The self-imposed restrictions on the advertising styles could be a smoke screen for the tobacco industry to get the increasing number of tobacco-cancer-conscious Americans off their collective backs.

There's no reason to become too enthusiastic over the prospects of a reduction in Americans blowing smoke rings simply because advertising techniques will be altered. Those who know a whit about advertising agree that this will have no effect on the number who smoke cigarettes—even if the industry was willing to spend advertising dollars for such a back-handed purpose.

So light up, enjoy yourself.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Slaughter On Every Avenue

(Reprinted from the Lapeer County Press)

If we had a dime for every editorial writer who has preached against "slaughter on the highways" we'd be rich, but we wouldn't have enough to pay the burial costs of all the drivers who didn't pay any attention.

Since the first auto chugged noisily down cobblestone streets, more than 60,000,000 Americans have been killed, crippled and maimed. Incredibly, more persons have died on the highways than on our nation's battlefields; more have been injured in car accidents than in all the world's wars combined. Last year, with 42,700 killed, was the worst ever, breaking a record that had stood since 1941. It appears that 1964 will be even worse.

What's the answer? If we knew, we could probably be elected president. Everyone knows the bloody statistics; they are spread across the country's front pages every week end like baseball boxscores. Everyone knows that excessive speed and carelessness are the biggest causes of accidents.

So ho-hum. The carnage continues. The plain fact is that too many drivers are stupid. Some are stupid enough to speed and pass blind and generally drive as if there were no tomorrow. Others drive carefully but are stupid enough to forget about the other guy, who may well be one of the "no tomorrow" stupids. It is not enough to merely drive safely. To protect your skin, you must also allow for the driver who doesn't.

Soon we will have a daughter old enough to drive. Before she solos, this is what we'll tell her: Always assume that the driver coming up behind, or coming toward you, is a nut. Give him plenty of room. Always have your car under control. Just because the speed limit is 70, you don't have to go. Always leave yourself room to stop. Always "pick a spot" along the highway where you can duck into to avoid smash-ups. Watch the road ahead AND behind.

Don't be afraid to use your horn if you're not sure that farmer will stop and look before pulling out of his driveway.

In short, remember that thousands of people are not killed on our highways every year because of some mechanical failure. It is human failure. There are stupid drivers killing themselves and others every minute. If you don't realize this, you are stupid too.

Thoughts For The Week

Read I Timothy 6:6-19

"What of the man who hears these words of mine and does not act upon them? He is like a man who was foolish enough to build his house on sand. The rain came down, the floods rose, the wind blew, and beat upon that house; down it fell with a great crash." (Matthew 7:26-27, N.E.B.)

WHEN fortune smiles on us, too many of us think our security or safety can be founded on what we ourselves have built.

The well-known hymn states:

"On Christ, the solid Rock, I stand;
All other ground is sinking sand."

The rich man of whom we read in Luke built his spiritual house with self as the foundation. His crops were so abundant that he was worried because his barns were too small. He said, "I will . . . build greater. . . . And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?"

Self is no solid foundation; our steadfast safety and peace can be found only as we build our lives on Christ.

PRAYER: O Lord, help us to look to Christ, Thy Son, as the foundation upon which to build our lives. We pray that our attitudes and acts may say for each of us, "On Christ, the solid Rock, I stand." In His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

On Christ, the solid rock, I will build my life.

They grow them tough in Ingham county. Maybe Ingham county deer aren't as defenseless as we have been led to believe.

Last week Leo Hawkins of Aurelius found a 5-year-old ewe almost dead in the pasture just off Thurlby road. The ewe was lying in soft ground which showed the evidence of much stomping by deer as well as the ewe. The ground wasn't the only spot where there was deer sign. The back of the ewe was torn and deer prints were evident on the hide, according to Hawkins.

Conservation officials had never heard of such an instance happening before, according to Hawkins.

Mason has a group of sports heading for the north country this week end and they aren't going after deer because they are taking their wives along. Mason's Kiwanis bowling team, state champs last year, will be defending its honor at the state tourney at East Tawas.

Making the trip will be Don VanderVeen, Win Dancer, Bernard Cady, Warner Kean and Jack Davis. Cadillac knew they were there last year and East Tawas knows they are coming this year because the Iosco County News has been warning the citizenry for the last 2 weeks.

Monday afternoon Mason drew the attention of the ivory hunters of the professional baseball fraternity. A Tiger scout was on hand to watch Iron Mike Doolittle fling the ball toward Catch Stu Thorburn as if the batter wasn't even there. Doolittle put on a good show. He limited the Howell Highlanders to 2 hits. Doolittle, who has pitched almost every inning for Mason up to this crowded week, was almost upstaged, though. Mason couldn't touch the Highlander pitcher until the last inning when 3 successive hits produced a win for Mason.

Michigan lawmakers are in the process of making themselves the highest paid members of their fraternity. If they draw down top pay they had better shape up and render the services of top men. Both sides of the isle have been too petty too long to satisfy most of the state of Michigan.

Mason veterans organizations need help. Plans are being formed for the annual Memorial Day parade. While other phases of the Mason community have been growing, the Memorial Day festivities have been going the other way.

There is no shortage of youngsters to participate, there is always the high school band and the other segments of the parade but each year the shortage of marching veterans becomes more acute.

Memorial Day parades are the victims of week end vacations, tired, aging veterans and too much leisure time.

A good motto might be, "Stay home and march in the Memorial Day parade and avoid the dangers of highway travel."

"I'll see you on US-127."

A 11-year-old in our house has out-guessed the mighty Detroit Free Press editorial staff.

"They believe only what they want to," said son Tim, as we scanned the banner headline and the lead story Monday morning dealing with the Texas presidential referendum. The Free Press can't bring itself to stick to straight reporting of the facts whenever the story is about Senator Barry Goldwater. This is even obvious to supporters of some of Goldwater's opponents.

But back to the Monday morning headline: TEXAS VOTE BOOSTS LODGE. Well maybe it does. And maybe it doesn't. Certainly the facts in the story don't suggest that Lodge swept the ticket as the headline suggests. The facts in the Texas referendum were these: Goldwater, 99,086; Rockefeller, 5,844; Smith, 4,657; Stassen, 5,141; Nixon, 5,019; and Lodge, 11,212.

The fact is, Goldwater rolled up nearly 9 votes to one for Lodge, or put another way, Goldwater got 3 times as many votes as all other candidates put together.

It took real imagination for the headline writer to read a Lodge victory into the story.

Now if the Free Press collectively hopes for a Lodge victory, that's quite all right. Yet, a newspaper has the duty to attempt, at least, to give readers basically a true picture of the day's news. The Free Press' handling of election news so far is biased and misleading.

Like Tim said, they believe only what they want to.

Saturday afternoon Tim and I moved into a dream world of our own. We loaded 2 sleeping bags in the station wagon plus a frying pan and a fishing pole and headed for bush country. We searched the Lake Michigan shore from Grand Haven to Silver lake without finding a foot of frontage that wasn't covered with No Trespassing and Keep Out signs. At Silver lake we found a place in the dunes and right on the lake. For all appearances it was state land. Tim built a fire and I stretched out in the shade. We were just getting comfortable, when a man and wife came through the brush to announce that we were poaching on their property. They were Detroiters and had gone to Silver lake to stake out a new cottage on the site. We tried to create a father-son image and they insisted that we stay and camp, wonderful people.

I think that few people yet realize just how easy it is to get from one end of Michigan to the other. This is especially true when there's a freeway headed in your direction. Lake Michigan is less than 1½ hours from Mason and there are a lot of good roads that lead up and down the shore. The trip to the shore would be somewhat shorter if there was some way to logically get off the I-96 freeway and onto southbound US-127. It's 1.7 of a mile on the clover leaf from the point where I-96 crosses US-127 (Cedar street) to Cedar street as it passes under I-96.

There's probably a "big picture" reason why there has to be such a big "leaf" at this clover intersection. However, from behind the wheel of a car destined for south US-127, it seems a whole lot more logical to have had a simple exit to the right from I-96 down to Cedar. But in spite of this intersection, roads leading to West Michigan are wonderful. We're going back soon and look for another place to poach.

Mrs. Isabelle Lyke, Mr. and Mrs. Don Foote and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Doyle of Eaton Rapids spent Sunday at Harrison mushroom hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush and children, Carole and Mike spent the week end at their trailer near Baldwin.

The Onondaga Sportsman club will meet at the Onondaga township hall Thursday, May 21 at 8 p.m. A wildlife film will be shown by a conservation biologist and he will also speak on raising pheasants. Any interested farmers in Onondaga township are invited to attend.

The 2 women's bowling teams of Onondaga joined other women bowlers of the Wednesday night 9 o'clock league, at their annual banquet in Jackson Wednesday evening. Those attending from Onondaga were: Grace Rossman, Betty Watson, Mary Jane Hector, Joe Ellen Conard, Marilyn Emens and Mary Derham, Olive Davis, Isabelle Lyke, Olive McMichael, Bernadine McMichael and Pat Craddock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barton and Mrs. Emma Moyer were Monday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Losey of Rives Junction. On Friday evening the Loseys were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Collier, formerly of Ferris road, who have been on an extended trip, returned to Michigan and called on Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barton Wednesday afternoon. They will make their home in Allen, Michigan.

Chip Cockcroft of Springfield was a Thursday evening caller at the Harold Barton home. On Saturday, Mrs. Bill Helmberger and children of Bannister were supper guests at the Barton home.

WHO'S WHO In Lansing and Vicinity

This section, dealing with established business people, is an attempt to acquaint area residents with the positions these people occupy in the eyes of their friends and customers. Articles contained here were researched and authored by Don Schade, Business Relations Consultant.

Satellite Drive In

Harold Harshbarger

In a city like Lansing where growth and progress are highlighted, a modern well managed drive in restaurant plays an important part not only in the overall prosperity of the community.

Mr. Harold Harshbarger who operates the friendly Satellite Drive In, located at 2650 E. Michigan Ave., (phone IV 5-5301) has been operating with an eye to the future and has kept pace with the city's growth in service and in quality. That is why the Satellite continues to attract a large and discriminating patronage. Harold has done everything within his power to extend every service possible in the operation of the drive in.

Aside from being an energetic worker in business affairs, Mr. Harshbarger has never refused to lend a hand in community af-

Boyett Quality Insulation Co.

John Boyett

With the present day demand for greater comfort in the home, insulation has rapidly moved to the front as a noted principle in home construction. Today in Lansing the Boyett Contracting Company, located at 1014 E. Jolly road, just east of Pennsylvania avenue, is one of the leading local concerns specializing in insulation. Under the able management of John Boyett, the firm specializes in premium brand mineral wool for side-walls and ceilings, the quality of which you are invited to call TU 2-0215 for a demonstration of proof.

Insulation is not only a protection against cold, but also a protection against outside heat as well as a great fuel saver. Thus, heat from within is barred from passing outside, and in summer the intense heat from outside cannot penetrate indoors. Mr. Boyett estimates that a saving of approximately 40 percent is realized through insulation of sidewalls, another 20 percent through windows and doors. Many homes today, particularly those built in recent years are not adequately insulated. To find out whether or not your home affords the year around comfort and heating economy it can and should, you are invited to call Boyett Quality Insulation Co., for a free inspection. There is no obligation of course.

If you have noticed the snow covered roofs of different houses in the winter, you have undoubtedly found that on the roof of a house where there is no insulation, the snow melts rapidly due to the heat loss through the roof from below. Where insulation is used, the snow does not melt.

And so the roof of your house can tell a story of thrift and economy or needless waste and extravagance. Mr. Boyett will be glad to consult with our readers on any insulation job.

Val-Lot Ceramics

Lottie Simmons

We are pleased to compliment Mrs. Lottie Simmons and to direct the attention of our readers to her reliable business, known as Val-Lot Ceramics, at 530 J u l l a, (phone TU 2-3542). Lottie's many friends throughout Lansing and surrounding area do not hesitate to recommend her shop to their friends and this fact speaks for itself.

Seeming to take a genuine pleasure in serving the public, Mrs. Simmons has always readily given any information pertaining to ceramics and ceramic supplies, and because she has wide experience in this field, her word can always be depended upon.

At Val-Lot Ceramics, Lottie handles greenware, slip, glazes, molds, kiln setters, and "Paragon" and "Evenheat" kilns.

People of this area have been quick to discover that it pays to patronize a reliable ceramic dealer and Lottie Simmons has proved that straightforward, honest business practices rather than splashy, gimmick promotions build a business of which she and the community can be proud.

We are proud to include Mrs. Simmons in this review for such business leaders help to build a good neighborhood, a solid substantial trade area, and the type of city all good people want Lansing to be.

Maple Shade Convalescent Home

Glenn G. Gardner Maye Gardner

In a city where growth and progress are highlighted, a modern reliable and well managed nursing home plays an important part not only in the health and well being of the community but does its share also in the overall prosperity. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gardner of the Maple Shade Convalescent Home, located in Lansing at 322 N. Chestnut, (phone 485-1947) have been operating with an eye to the future and have kept pace with the city's growth in service and equipment. That is probably one reason why patients from all parts of greater Lansing and Ingham county, Glenn and Maye Gardner have done everything within their power to extend every service possible in the operation of the home, including 24 hour nursing care for men and women. The Maple Shade Convalescent Home is a member institution of AAA-standards, in the association of Licensed Nursing Homes of Ingham county. Their motto or trademark might well be T. L. C., representing finest treatment or "Tender, Loving Care."

Aside from being energetic workers at the nursing home, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner have never refused to lend a hand in community affairs and in these matters have shown open minds and generous attitudes. These qualities probably account for their wide circle of friends throughout this area.

D & C Electric

Norman Younglove

It is the good fortune of Lansing that it has been able to attract such useful and enterprising citizens as Norman Younglove, electrical contractor who operates D & C Electric, at 4903 Palmer (phone 88 2-3974). Norm's ability and energy are doing much for the advancement of business endeavors and therefore for the community at large. Norman Younglove is a man who would be difficult to top for effectiveness of effort and achievement in the residential and commercial fields of wiring, electrical fixture installation and repair service. He has devoted much time to the management of D & C Electric and his great practical knowledge of every phase of electrical work has enabled Norm to overcome difficulties that would probably have discouraged a less capable man. The large patronage extended D & C Electric proves the efficiency of its operation and its popularity throughout this section of the state. They are licensed, bonded and insured.

Norman Younglove is a persistent and untiring booster to the Lansing area and has shown an unselfish devotion to the interest of his community.

Paul & Son Food Market

Theo C. "Ted" Paul

Continued patronage of a business establishment proves that the management has a thorough understanding of the necessary services to be rendered and that prices have been kept competitive with the quality of merchandise maintained year in and year out. We are therefore proud to include Ted Paul, of the Paul & Son Food Market, in this review.

A man whose community pride runs high, Ted Paul has identified himself with many civic efforts in the city but our main points of praise in this issue are directed to his basic business policy. This could not have come about without his unswerving aim to give the utmost in service and in value, and by so doing, he has retained the respect of his customers, the loyalty and regard of his friends and neighbors and the confidence of the community.

Be sure to stop in this week, while Paul & Son Food Market is celebrating its 50th business anniversary.

We are certain that in the future as in the past, Ted Paul will spare no effort to justify this confidence and will continue to maintain a grocery establishment of which Lansing can be proud.

Venetian Blind Laundry & Manufacturing Co.

Donald & Marie Craig

A successful business requires the leadership of people with a thorough understanding of the needs and desires of the customers. Leaders of this type must be included in this review.

We therefore call your attention to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Craig, of the Venetian Blind Laundry and Manufacturing Company, located at 316 Beaver in Lansing. A host of customers gladly recommend this firm to their friends, which is due largely to guiding hand in matters concerning absolute customer satisfaction. They have installed the latest equipment for the manufacture of all metal venetian blinds, and offer 24 hour venetian blind cleaning and renovating service, and will pick up and return your blinds when the work is completed (phone IV 5-6759).

Mr. and Mrs. Craig consider each customer a friend, Lansing their city and stand ever ready to support any movement planned for the further growth and prosperity of the area. Their business success has been largely due to a realization that in their contract with the public it is better and more gratifying to realize a fair and honest profit rather than an exorbitant one. For this and other upright principles we are proud to include Marie and Don in this review and to recommend Venetian Blind Laundry & Manufacturing Co. to our readers.

Mason Cafeteria House of Beef

Gus T. Mellios Steve Mellios

A modern well managed restaurant or cafeteria goes along way in building a city's reputation as a good place to do business and to live. No business establishment is friendly by itself. The proprietor must practice courtesy personally and hire employees who will do the same. Gus and Steve Mellios, who operate the Mason Cafeteria in the Stevens T. Mason Building and the House of Beef, located at 113 W. Michigan Ave. in Lansing (phone IV 2-4262 or IV 5-0077) feel they have an obligation to their customers not only of offering deliciously prepared foods at reasonable prices, but also of courteous and friendly service.

The energy Steve and Gus Mellios have given to business they have also given to all endeavors in which they have been associated. In Lansing there are few movements promising to benefit the community in which they have not assisted. In the operation of the House of Beef and the Mason Cafeteria they display good taste and kindness which one rarely sees, such as all the little extra services that make a good business better.

We wish to congratulate Gus and Steve Mellios on their past success, and for their part in the business and social life of the city.

Doubleday Business Interiors Inc.

William C. "Bill" Harris

The firm of Doubleday Interiors at 301 E. Michigan ave. in Lansing, (phone IV 4-6421) is to be commended for the prominent part it is playing in the business life of this area. The firm's ever increasing popularity among business and professional people, industrial firms and institutions throughout greater Lansing, Ingham county and central Michigan is due in part to their ability to provide the very latest and finest in office furnishings selected from America's greatest sources, and to their genuine pride in a high standard of operation. They are franchised dealers in this area for famous Stow & Davis and Steelcase furniture and are members of the Executive Furniture Guild of America.

The manager, William C. "Bill" Harris has been associated with the firm for some 8 years. Bill's creative ability and ingenuity in designing and environmental study and development, have helped to produce many outstanding achievements.

Noteworthy examples are: Interiors of the Kellogg Center, Michigan State University dormitories, Michigan Millers Insurance building, the new Consumer's Power building, American Bank & Trust, the new Michigan Education Association building and many others.

Beautifully not only with the latest creations in office equipment and furnishings but also in many homes throughout Lansing and surrounding communities; through their unique and original ideas, they offer a residential designing service and make available to the public as well as to business concerns, industries, clubs and institutions, the finest fabrics and materials for custom draperies, and carpets.

It is with pride that we include Doubleday Business Interiors in this review, standing high among those business firms which are playing a prominent part in the progress and beautification of the Lansing area and this section of the state.

Varney's Trailer Sales

Vernon Varnado

In the world of business there are many dependable men and many progressive men but very few are they who may be termed as both. These rare few are what keep the "wheels of progress" rolling.

In this area, one such man is Vernon Varnado, who operates Varney's Trailer Sales, at 2818 E. Grand River Ave. (one mile east of East Lansing on Hwy. 16, phone 332-6529). Varney's mobile homes featuring such offers dependable new and reconditioned mobile homes, featuring such famous makes as Great Lakes, Detroit, Pontiac Chief, Windsor, Skyline and Richardson, in 10 wide, 12 and 20 wide, up to 60 feet in length. 10 wide trailers are available here from $2995 up. Due to the construction of a new shopping center, Varney has been forced to move to smaller quarters - in his previous location across the street in order to reduce their stock, prices have been virtually "shaved to the bone" and many tremendous values in new and reconditioned mobile homes are featured. They are open every day, including Sunday afternoons.

Vernon Varnado is one of those resourceful and quick thinking individuals who is stabilized by having to his credit a background of dependability in all dealings and is known as a solid citizen.

We needn't point out how or why such men are important to the progress of greater Lansing and Ingham county for it is clearly evident. The success of Varney's Trailer Sales has been due in our estimation to Vernon's ingenuity, fair prices and honest values.

With the increase in the pace and the competition in the business cycle, a growing community can be confidently sure with such men as Vernon Varnado in positions of leadership and with firms like his setting a pace for expansion yet holding steadfast the principles of honesty and fair play.

"The Sand Man"

Walter Beckner

To give honest, efficient and cheerful service is the basic foundation many progressive business men of the Lansing area have found to be the shortest route to success.

One man who comes into this category is Walter Beckner, known as "The Sandman" of Walt's Floor Sanding, at 1021 Johnson, Mr. Walt Beckner can be reached by calling IV 5-4887.

The popularity and patronage enjoyed by Walt's Floor Sanding accentuates the ideals of courtesy, quality work and prompt service which Mr. Beckner has set forth in the management of its operation.

The conduct of such business has done much to please people throughout greater Lansing and Ingham county. His fine floor sanding and finishing service, and promptness with which estimates are freely given has helped many when in need of such service. It is fitting that we give credit where credit is due to such people as Walt Beckner for their part in the onward progress of this section of the state. In so doing, we are merely putting into words the opinions of those who know him.

Walter Beckner has earned his success by the method in which he has accepted both civic and business responsibilities and we trust that he and his floor sanding business will continue to prosper.

Martin's Auto Parts

Andrew "Ace" Martin Sara Martin

We wish in this edition to pay tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew "Ace" Martin of Martin Auto Parts located at 1887 E. Haslet road, in East Lansing, (phone ED 2-5319) and to congratulate them on their splendid records of achievement in the business and automotive life of this area.

Ace and Sara probably have as wide a circle of friends as any people we could name because they are just naturally the type of people who win friends easily, and always conduct themselves in such a manner as to deserve the respect and goodwill of all who know them.

The East Lansing area is fortunate in being able to number among its more progressive business people, citizens such as Mr. and Mrs. Martin. The recommendations they receive among people they serve and the success of the business speak for itself.

Doubtless there are many in this area who will recall the time when Ace Martin won the State light heavy-weight boxing title in the year 1933. Seven years later, in 1940, Ace established the auto parts business which today offers a line of new, used and rebuilt auto parts, for all makes and models. They pay highest prices for wrecked automobiles.

Ace and Sara Martin have served motorists of this area in a cosmopolitan manner during the past 24 years and in so doing, have won reputations for fair dealing that we believe are unsurpassed.

WHO'S WHO In Lansing and Vicinity

This section, dealing with established business people, is an attempt to acquaint area residents with the positions these people occupy in the eyes of their friends and customers. Articles contained here were researched and authored by Don Schade, Business Relations Consultant.

Seward's Community Service

Walter "Walt" Seward

In mentioning those people who have been closely associated with the growth, development and progress of this section from a better business and social standpoint, we might be criticized if we failed to include Walter Seward, who operates Seward's Community Service, station located at 105 Lake Lansing road at Abbott road, in East Lansing. (ED 2-3416.)

Mr. Seward has operated the station on this corner during the past 25 years, and has the distinction of having established and maintained the oldest long established business in that section of Ingham county. Walt's honest, efficient and cheerful service to people of this area have made his business successful and has gained for Seward's Community Service, the respect and good will of the customers. Mr. Seward's upright business practices, thorough knowledge and service station management and firm desire to give his friends and customers honest, friendly and courteous treatment at all times has made the business prosper through the years even through adverse, competitive conditions. We are certain that Walt Seward and his Community Service station will continue to serve people of this area in the same fine manner for many years to come.

Vet's Auto Trim Shop Vet's Tarpaulin Repair

Ray A. Nostrand

The Lansing area owes much to those progressive citizens who are taking an active part in the growth and expansion of the section and who have helped to make this a complete business center for many miles around. In mentioning some of these people, it is only fair to include Ray Nostrand, who operates Vet's Auto Trip Shop and Tarpaulin Repair, located at 1240 E. Grand River (phone IV 9-2614 or IV 9-2940).

The firm has been established since 1945 and has served people of Lansing and Ingham county with the finest quality workmanship in everything pertaining to canvas-including truck tarps, boat covers, tents, and canvas and aluminum awnings.

Ray's knowledge of auto tops, upholstery and trim, and his ability to hire men with an interest in good workmanship have made his service stand out among leading firms of this area.

Ray wholly deserves our sincere praise and these few words of commendation are but a just recognition of the activities he has conducted on behalf of the welfare of the community.

Anderson Plumbing & Heating

Russell D. Anderson

It is a privilege in this review of progressive people who have been a great aid to the growth and development of the Lansing area from a business standpoint to include Russell Anderson, licensed Master Plumber, of Anderson Plumbing & Heating, whose office and shop are temporarily located at 314 S. Hosmer, (phone 484-6322). Watch for the opening of their new building on Eaton Rapids Rd., just south of Jolly Rd.

prices, guaranteeing all workmanship and materials, Mr. Anderson's motto reflects a policy of customer satisfaction: "We serve Well to Serve Again". He retains the distinction in the admiration and respect of his wide circle of friends and customers, of being one of the more successful plumbing and heating contractors of this section. Russell is also to be commended for his interest in, and the very valuable assistance he has so successfully applied to civic affairs.

Anderson Plumbing and Heating will save you money by giving you work that will look better, and last longer. We are looking forward to the same fine service to the people of Lansing and vicinity from Russell Anderson and his firm for years to come.

American HomeCraftors

B. C. Morton

Most cities if they amount to much, are man-made. They do not just "happen." It has been the realization of its more progressive citizens that Lansing must grow, prosper, and be something more than just another place on the map. This has long since brought results and made it possible for Lansing to become an outstanding city and one of beautiful homes and buildings.

B. C. Morton, of American Homecraftors, Inc., with offices located at 2324 S. Cedar, has played no small part in the growth and development of the Lansing area and has won the respect of the people here. American Homecraftors are members of the Lansing Home Builders Association, and have remodeled and modernized some of the finest homes and buildings in this area. They offer a complete general contracting service, including additions, recreation and family rooms, attic rooms, garages, breezeways, etc. No job is too large or too small. (Call IV 7-5951 for a firm bid today from a company that's here to STAY.)

Mr. Morton would be the last to mention the matter but when the call goes forth to rally, he is usually among the first to volunteer his services for the good of the community. Friends are outspoken in paying him this well deserved tribute and they do so because of a thorough knowledge of his activities.

Successful as a contractor, B. C. Morton is equally successful in the promotion of civic activities.

Superior Sheet Metal Works

Prosper E. Titus "Titus The Tinner"

It is appropriate that we include in this review of progressive business and professional people Prosper Titus, known throughout business circles as Titus the Tinner, sheet metal contractor at 511 E. Saginaw in Lansing, (phone IV 2-0871.)

In addition to offering people of this area sheet metal fabrication, ventilation and duct work he serves industrial firms throughout Ingham county and this section of the state with safety guards as well as dust collection system installation and maintenance service.

Prosper Titus has always shown an interest in civic betterment and progress for the Lansing area and has backed up this interest by contributing to many projects which benefitted Lansing and her people. Titus the Tinner has done much to safeguard the health and well being of people of this community.

Titus is a good and loyal citizen and the true measure of his loyalty is most apparent because of his willingness to aid community activities.

His help along these lines has made Prosper Titus an example of the type of person all appreciate. We congratulate and extend to him on behalf of all citizens interested in civic progress, sincere appreciation for his contributions to the general welfare of the greater Lansing county area.

D & W Vertical Blind Sales

Dorothy M. Cochrane

A successful business requires the leadership of a person who has a thorough understanding of the needs and desires of the customer. Leaders of this type must be included in this review of prominent Lansing area business people.

We therefore call your attention to Dorothy Cochrane, of the D & W Vertical Blind Sales, located at 2311 S. Pennsylvania Ave., in Lansing (phone IV 7-0101). A host of customers gladly recommend D & W Vertical Blinds to their friends and this is largely due to Dorothy's guiding hand in matters concerning customer satisfaction.

Pelton's Standard Service

Donald D. "Don" Pelton

Combining the finest of service to the motorist with outstanding products has always been the aim of Don Pelton, who operates Pelton's Standard Service, station located at 1901 S. Logan St., in Lansing, (phone IV 9-8425). Don has served motorists during the past 35 years with Standard Oil products, in his present location some 20 years.

Wise motorists today buy gasoline and motor oil that are well known for their purity and lubricating qualities. Basel's Furniture

Bob Olson & DeWaine Bannon

To serve the public honestly, efficiently and cheerfully is the basic foundation many progressive business people of Lansing have found to be the shortest route to success. In making this statement, two people we have in mind are Bob Olson, a Holman who owns and operates Basel's Furniture, store located at 1415 E. Gr. River in Lansing (IV 7-5943) and his associate, DeWaine Bannon. The popularity and patronage enjoyed by this shop accentuates the ideals of courtesy, quality and good service which have been consistently displayed in its management during over 30 years of operation.

Bob and DeWaine will welcome the opportunity to serve you. They buy, sell and trade nearly everything for the home, office or shop. The conduct of this business has done much to please the people of this area and to cause customers to continue their patronage year after year.

Adhering to a firm policy of fair dealing and customer satisfaction, it is their sincere desire to give friends, neighbors and customers a square deal at all times.

It is fitting and proper that we give credit where credit is due to such people as Bob Olson and DeWaine Bannon for their part in the business life of the Lansing area. In so doing we are merely putting into words the opinions of those who know them. We trust that Basel's will continue to serve well and to flourish.

Marcine's Beauty Bar

Possibly no profession has advanced more rapidly during the past decade than that of the beautician and in today's highly competitive business world, anyone who keeps up with the latest trends in his profession deserves more than just a word of praise.

One member of this rapidly advancing profession in Lansing who has kept pace with the times operates Marcine's Beauty Bar, located at 400 1/2 S. Washington Ave., (phone IV 7-5862.) Under Marcine's capable management, this modern salon offers the type of beauty treatment you desire. Keeping thoroughly up-to-date on the latest trends in hair styles, the salon offers expert hair cutting, shaping, tinting, and permanent waving.

Marcine gained prominence in this area as an expert beautician and she has gained prominence also by the manner in which she has accepted her responsibilities in adding community activities. It is people like she who often become active in civic affairs and who do their share with a smile.

Marcine's growth is due to people who maintain better business establishments and who do their share to make a better city. We join with friends and customers of Marcine's Beauty Bar saying "Congratulations - you have succeeded in both."

Kleenflor Maintenance Co.

Orville F. Griffin Charlotta L. Griffin

Here in Lansing you see every day activity typical of bustling-at-the-seams areas and local business people must keep on their toes to remain astride with progress. The prospects for the Kleenflor Maintenance Co., whose offices are located at 1628 New York street, in Lansing, (phone IV 9-5990) are obvious and pleasant: a constantly greater growth through better more efficient service to more and more people and firms.

Accurate, attentive janitorial service with the "personal touch" guaranteed work, is the trade mark of the Kleen-flor Maintenance Co., their motto being: "We Serve, We Satisfy." Mr. and Mrs. Orville Griffin, guiding all activities, have always displayed a smile, good humor and a willingness to serve regardless of how difficult or complicated the job might prove to be. They offer expert floor scrubbing, polishing, waxing, office and factory maintenance with bi-weekly or monthly rates.

In Lansing's growth, such modern thinking and progressive business people as Charlotta and Orville Griffin are assured of success, for they are prepared to serve well under any conditions.

Capitol City Roofing Co.

Loren L. Colton

In any community you will always find a number of people who have shown more progressiveness than the average and who also appreciate the fact that a better, more complete and higher quality service offered to the public means a greater return and therefore more success to the individual. These forthright principles have been applied by Loren Colton, of the Capitol City Roofing Co., with offices located at 820 W. Lapeer in Lansing, (phone IV 9-1270). The firm has served greater Lansing and Ingham county since 1936 and specialize in repairing and building of all types of roofs for any structure and also build and repair chimneys, do plastering and carpentry, eavestroughing, spray or brush painting, and cement ably that he is a person whose knowledge of this work far exceeds the average, and employs men who are well trained and experienced. Personnel of Capitol City Roofing Co., are fully insured for your protection. It is largely due to his progressiveness and determination that all customers shall be pleased with workmanship and materials used that the firm is rated among the leading of its type in the area.

It is a pleasure to pay tribute to people like Loren Colton and to his company. The way he has served people and firms of Ingham county has made him deserving of further success.

Alaska Losing Its Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilkinson have sent the Ingham County News the following excerpts from a letter they received from a friend who is in Valdez, Alaska, in which the writer criticizes the federal government for not providing Alaskans with funds they need to repair the damage caused by the recent earthquake. The excerpt follows:

"People here seem to be just sitting and waiting. It is a sad thing. This earthquake seems to have separated the men from the boys. Speaking of separation - I would hesitate to speculate on the decrease in Alaska population. It must be running about 10% right now.

This is based on the number of cars we have seen go through here heading for the border. I've estimated at least a dozen cars going out in just the time it has taken me to walk from here to the store and back.

Very seriously, would you please ask your friends to write to their two senators and their representative in the congress and tell them to give Alaska the money it needs. NOW!!! This goes against everything I've ever believed in as far as the federal government's relation to the states and private individuals in concerned, but this country is ruined.

I'll explain; I, personally, have been very much untouched by this earthquake. I've lost nothing. I stand to gain nothing. However I did know almost everyone in Valdez. I will use the Wilson family as an example since I've spoken of them before. They owned a hardware store and had just bought about $10,000 worth of merchandise for re-sale when

Truck Looted

Rickey Lee Snider, 3231 Hughes road, left his truck parked alone on Eason Rapids highway last Thursday afternoon for about 10 minutes. That was just 10 minutes too long. When he returned to the truck he found that a transistor radio, a screw driver, 2 quarts of oil and 6 wrenches were missing.

everything, including their home, was wiped out.

Chile had an earthquake a few years ago and the US sent them money without question, and without restriction - many millions of dollars. The same has been true to several other countries - Iran, Turkey and North China.

by Dennis Massie Kennel & Field

According to Will Judy shyness in a dog can't be cured. It's hereditary. A shy dog should never be used for breeding because this trait is passed on. Training will not erase it. It may lessen it if you're lucky.

Car chasing, howling, viciousness, and wandering are the results of non-training for dogs. Obedience training, on the other hand, eliminates these problems.

Most dog authorities say six months is a good age to begin formal obedience training. Let's leave that for the next installment or two of KENNEL & FIELD. Here, today, we're concerned with informal training before the dog is six months old.

"No", is one of the most valuable commands your dog can ever learn and you can begin teaching him practically as soon as you get him. When he chews on the woodwork, or a shoe, tell him "No", and mean it. A dog can tell from the tone of your voice if you're pleased with him or not, and most dogs want to please their master. Don't use his name with a command, especially a negative one. Don't say "No, Fido". Save the use of his name for pleasant and rewarding situations. And don't let your temper get the best of you, as much as you might like to sometimes. It won't help, and it can lead the dog to mistrust you.

Besides "No", you'll be able to teach your dog "Sit" at about three months of age. Put one hand under the dog's mouth and push up, and at the same time put your other hand on his hind quarters and push down. Say "Sit". When he does, reward him with petting and kind words. Do this at intervals, a little at a time, not too much at once. In other words, never bore the dog with long lessons. A puppy especially has a short attention span. A couple of minutes many times a day is better than 15 minutes every couple days. You'll be surprised to see how soon the pup sits on command without your helping him with your hands.

A word should be said about housebreaking too. A dog can be mostly house trained, by about 4 months of age. Before this don't expect too much because a pup's muscles aren't developed enough for him to control them if he wanted to. Paper breaking is the first step in this portion of obedience training. Don't spread the whole floor with them. The idea is to get the dog to focus his attention in one spot, preferably near the door. The worst of housebreaking should be over in a couple weeks. Remember to shame the dog; let your voice show your displeasure and show it strongly. Don't hit him. His kidneys are delicate and could be permanently damaged.

Another puppy lesson you

Teens Adapt Eating Habits More Easily Than Adults

Teen-age nutrition is much the same as nutrition for anybody else, but teen-agers are in a better position to do something about it. If they need to, they can change their eating patterns more easily than an older person already set in his ways.

This is what Dr. Dena Cederquist told 80 Michigan girls Monday at the 1964 4-H Dairy Foods Conference at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center. Dr. Cederquist is chairman of the Department of Foods and Nutrition at MSU.

Diets of teen-agers are often erratic, but they can be both erratic and adequate, she observed. She encouraged teen-agers to evaluate their eating patterns and see what they could do to limit calorie intake and still take in the necessary nutrients.

Establish a pattern now that you won't have to change when you are older and change becomes more difficult, the nutritionist urged the teen-aged conference delegates.

If teens' diets are low in anything, they tend to be low in calcium, vitamin A and vitamin C, she said.

The conference which ends Tuesday, is sponsored by the American Dairy Association of Michigan and is conducted through the 4-H club program of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service. Its aim is to provide participants with a better understanding of the dairy foods industry.

Dr. Cederquist also told the girls that: Insofar as we know today, an adequate diet requires between 41 and 45 nutrients made up of essential amino acids, essential fatty acids, 15 minerals, 15 vitamins, carbohydrates, water and roughage.

"The body doesn't give a hoot where these come from," she said, and pointed out that the vitamin C produced in a laboratory is chemically the same as that in an orange.

The nutritional needs of individuals vary and are dependent upon one's age, size and physical state. Differences in nutritional requirements are differences in quantity, not quality.

The calcium from milk, Dr. Cederquist pointed out, is the same as the calcium from chalk or from oyster shells. She also noted that all our essential nutrients are available in our normal food supply.

Dietary allowances are set up to help plan food for groups of people, she explained. If a person consumes the recommended amounts, chances are his needs will be met.

There seems to be a "right" balance of nutrients. Research shows, she pointed out, that the amount of one nutrient consumed can upset or change the need for another nutrient.

"It's hard to upset the balance if you are just eating food," she said. Nutritionists, she pointed out, have begun to question the wisdom of fortifying and enriching food. There's no evidence to prove that if a little of a nutrient is good, a lot of it is better, she explained.

A calorie is a calorie no matter where it comes from. And you control weight by keeping your calorie intake equal to your energy output.

"How many of you took a walk across campus before breakfast this morning?" she quipped. "Not a one of you. And now you'll be sitting all day long. It's sad, but it takes very few calories to think."

"There is no such thing as a 'fattening' food," she continued. "You can get fat on anything if you eat enough of it."

She also told the girls that an adequate diet can be put together in "a thousand and one ways." She cautioned them against falling into the trap of thinking that other people's diets aren't adequate if they don't eat the same foods we do. She also warned the girls against food faddism--attaching undue emphasis on the value of any food.

Wheatfield Grange Celebrates 64th Birthday Anniversary

Wheatfield Grange No. 851 celebrated its 64th anniversary with a program last Friday. Tables were decorated in a spring motif. Rowland Frost welcomed the group after which lecturer, Mrs. Erma Johnson, presented the program.

Mrs. Ida Benjamin sang a hymn solo accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Beatty and Delmar Carr presented a bit of early history of the Grange.

One charter member remains and she is Mrs. Ellen Warner. Roy Showerman, a 60 year member, was honored as were silver star members, Howard Risch, Mrs. and Mrs. Delmar Carr, Charles Risch and Mrs. Nora Frost. They were presented corsages and boutonnieres. Then Delmar Carr presented 25 year Grange pins and certificates to Forrest Smith of East Lansing and Clarence Bird. Smith reminded the group to give serious thought as to choice of new State Master this fall, filling the office of W. J. Brake who is leaving having accepted a job in community progress in National Grange as well as serving as National lecturer.

Delmar Carr then introduced the past masters present and presented them with a small token. Those present were Vernon Bird, Clarence Bird, Forrest Smith, Delmar Carr and Berton Johnson.

Mrs. and Mrs. Glenn Rykert were introduced and showed slides of their trip to Europe last summer when they visited France, Spain, Switzerland, Italy and Germany. Their daughter-in-law and husband, who live in Germany, traveled with them and president of the Lansing Council guage. Mrs. Rykert was dressed in typical German costume.

New Grange members present were also given corsages and boutonnieres. They were Mr. and Mrs. John Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Risch, Ralph Glynn and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anway. Guests were present from East Lansing, Okemos, Williamston, Webberville, Vantown, Millville, Dansville, Blissfield, Wheatfield and Mason.

Police Issue Warning Concerning Children

Because child molesting increases sharply in warm weather months, parents are strongly urged by Sgt. Carl Harrison, commander of the East Lansing state police post, to warn their youngsters of the possible dangers in contacts with strangers who offer gifts of candy or money and want them to go for rides or walks.

This has been an annual warning by the state police.

Sergeant Harrison advised parents to report all molesting incidents to police with as many details as possible. This helps officers take action necessary to apprehend offenders and to prevent reoccurrence.

He pointed out that names of minors involved and their parents are not used by the press, radio and TV except in emergencies of abduction and murder. Reluctance in reporting thwarts police action and also hides the true total of these incidents.

Last year the state police investigated 520 sex offense complaints, which include child molestation.

As in other years complaints were most numerous in summer.

August was high with 64, July next with 62 and June third with 52. May and October had 50 while April and September each had 47. The other five months had totals under 40.

Sergeant Harrison suggested that parents instruct their children to follow these rules:

Don't go for rides or walks with strangers and avoid being tempted to do so by candy or money gifts from them.

Don't loiter in or near public rest rooms as these can be danger spots.

Report to your parents, police or teacher anyone who tries to get you to break these rules or when you have any question concerning your safety.

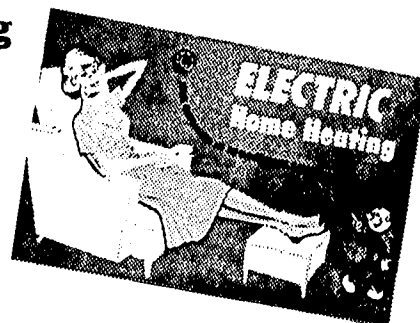

Sergeant Harrison added that children can help curb molestation by remembering features about suspected or actual molesters, such as approximate height, weight, age, color of eyes, skin and hair and unusual things such as a mustache, tattoos, jewelry, scars and physical defects. If there is a car involved, details about it also should be memorized or marked down somehow.

Co-Op Extension Service To Mark 50th Anniversary

Michigan's pioneer off-campus program—the Cooperative Extension service of Michigan State university will observe its 50th anniversary on May 8.

This date marks the signing of the Smith-Lever act of congress which made possible cooperative financing of the extension service as a part of the nation's land grant colleges. Michigan's program was in operation several years before that. Ingham county came into the extension service picture in 1927 when the county board of supervisors requested it in 1927. J. G. Wells was the first head of the Ingham county office with the title of county agricultural agent. He served until 1929 and was followed by H. H. Barnum who held the post until 1945. Then came Donald Curry from 1945 to 1952, James Hoeksema from 1952 to 1953, Richard Bailey from 1953 to 1954.

In 1954 the title of the county agent was changed to extension director and M. H. Avery took over the post, serving until he retired in 1962 and was succeeded by R. C. Lott, the present director.

The program in Ingham county is administered by the cooperative extension committee of the board of supervisors. Present committee members are Jess Conard of Onondaga, Ted Fay of Stockbridge, who is chairman, and Delmar Carr of White Oak township.

The present cooperative extension staff in Ingham county includes Lott, the director; James Mulvaney, agriculture specialist; Mrs. Annette Schaefer, home economics, and Gary Seever, 4-H club work.

In the late 1800's, Michigan Agricultural college was holding as many as 70 "farmers' institutes" each winter. M.A.C. professors took their latest research findings to rural people. One of the first was W. F. Raven in 1907. Michigan's first county agent was H. G. Smith who went to Alpena county in 1912.

"The Cooperative Extension service of Michigan State university is performing a unique and vital role in bringing the educational resources of the university into every Michigan county," a proclamation by Governor George Romney states in declaring May 8 as "Cooperative Extension Service Day." Theme of the golden anniversary observance is "Better Living through Learning."

Dr. N. P. Ralston, director of the program, says that 79 counties serve all 83 Michigan counties through approximately 300 field agents. In addition, there are nearly 100 subject-matter specialists located on the East Lansing campus.

Last year, extension staff counseled 750,000 individuals, and Dr. Paul A. Miller, now chancellor of the University of West Virginia, Morgantown, W. Va., attendance of 1,500,000 persons.

The staff distributed 2,600,000 publications, took part in 26,000 educational radio broadcasts, 1,500 telecasts and prepared 16,000 articles for newspapers and other publications.

The extension service represents a unique blend of federal, state and local cooperation. Financing and administration are shared cooperatively and programs arise from the needs and interests of the people served, Director Ralston explains. "Our purpose is to assist people to increase incomes, use resources wisely and develop individual talents and create more satisfying communities in which to live."

More than 35,000 community leaders assist the extension service staff in work with 73,000 youth in 4-H club work, 40,000 women in educational study groups and an untold number in the fields of farming, agribusiness and community resource development. The result is a kind of "educational chain reaction."

Consumers are aided through consumer marketing information programs operating in major trade areas. Agents work with processors, distributors and retailers to learn of foods in plentiful supply and advise consumers of "best buys." Staff members also work with business firms and hundreds of organizations throughout the state.

"The role of the extension agent has changed since 1914 and continues to change," Ralston comments. "As needs, desires, and goals of people have grown and changed, so has our extension program. The future is full of problems and challenges, a changing agriculture, changing families and changing communities. But our staff hopes to work with people to help them make decisions in meeting these situations."

Robert J. Baldwin, the first state director, served for 34 years. He retired in 1948 and lives in East Lansing. Other directors have been: Clinton V. Ballard, deceased; D. B. (Woody) Varner, now chancellor of Oakland university, Rochester, Mich.; and Dr. Paul A. Miller, now chancellor of the University of West Virginia, Morgantown, W. Va.

Absentee Ownership Growing

Absentee ownership of land in northern Michigan is expected to continue its rapid increase.

Large land tracts were formerly under single ownership, but these have been divided into smaller units in recent years, says George Graff, soil and water conservation specialist at Michigan State university.

One of the resulting problems has been the establishment of priorities by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service regarding assistance to absentee owners. But thorough planning, inter-agency cooperation and assignment of priorities helps to provide assistance to absentee owners. But thorough planning, inter-agency cooperation and assignment of priorities helps to provide assistance to absentee owners, season residents and permanent residents alike.

No Cropping System Is Best

"There is no single cropping system which is most profitable for all farmers," contends C. R. "Ray" Hoglund, Michigan State university agricultural economist.

"Even on a given farm operated continuously by the same farmer, the most profitable cropping system will vary with changes in the operator's managerial skills, his available capital, technological advances and price relationships."

Hoglund points out, however, that alfalfa has become less able to compete with corn on level, productive cropland. For this reason, the total number of corn acres increased by 10 per cent and the total hay acreage decreased by 10 per cent during the last decade in the Great Lake States (Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota).

"A major reason for the increase in corn acreage is that farmers have generally applied more fertilizer and have done a better job of growing corn than alfalfa," explains Hoglund.

Limited township zoning are also helping alleviate the problem, the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service specialist explained.

4-H News

Fitchburg 4-H club had its first summer meeting April 21st at Fitchburg hall under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. James Zeitz. Sixty members enrolled at that time.

There was an election of officers for the year which are: Nancy Zeitz, president; John Allen, vice-president; Sara Oglesbee, secretary; John MacKender, treasurer and Linda Stephens, reporter.

Along with the election of officers, there was a float committee selected. Adviser is Mrs. Mrs. Janice Salow and chairman is Linda Stephens.

"Also, livestock farmers are growing and feeding more corn silage and less hay, mainly because corn silage yields from 40 to 60 per cent more per acre than alfalfa and costs less per unit of feed."

Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet makes crooked roads feel like going straight

Your Chevrolet resists leaning on turns. Its Full Coil suspension makes the crookedest S-curve seem on the level. And with its low-friction Ball-Race steering system you waltz over twisting roads as gracefully as a ballerina.

Your Chevrolet resists bouncing on bumps. Chevrolet's Safety-Girder X-built frame soaks up jolts at its sturdy tubular center member. Its double-acting shock absorbers take the bumps out of bumps.

Your Chevrolet resists squatting on starts. The rear-end suspension with 4-link leveling control gives it Jet-smooth acceleration.

Your Chevrolet resists nose diving on stops. The front-end suspension with built-in anti-dive control gives it Jet-smooth stops.

Your Chevrolet resists shaking and vibrating. All seven Chevrolet engines are precision balanced for smooth operation. And because your Chevrolet has over 700 insulators and sound deadeners, you don't have to shout to have yourself heard.

Now it's Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet dealer's—the perfect time to try the Jet-smooth ride. Find the meanest stretch of road you can. Then see for yourself how straight a crooked road can feel.

Control Weeds In Sweet Corn

To control weeds in sweet corn without hoeing or cultivating all season, apply 4 pounds of simazine 50W per acre at planting time. This will cost only about $12 an acre. At this rate of application, the chemical will control all annual weeds, but not perennials such as quackgrass.

You can cut this spray cost to $4 an acre if you spray a band about 12 inches wide—but then you'll have to cultivate weeds between the rows. The only time this control won't work is when there is an extended drought in the spring.

TROUBLE IN RANKS

Growing disenchantment among conservative Republican lawmakers with the man they were supposed to follow as chief executive was present only in off-the-record comment until recently.

Then Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings of Holland, long-term chairman of Senate Tax Committee, joined nine other GOP old guard members in supporting a Democratic-engineered Congressional and Senate districting plan.

The talk by Geerlings and the other Republican members was one of the first signs of possible trouble for Romney in his political activities.

A carefully considered statement by Geerlings the same day, declaring he was becoming a nonpartisan, attacked the Governor's methods more than his programs.

Long before Romney was elected, it was forecast he would have a difficult time adjusting to the ways of politics. He was a business oriented executive who previously achieved his aims by simply telling people to carry them out. This doesn't work in the State Capitol.

Presumably Geerlings and some of the other 10 disenchanted members made their discontent known to their colleagues, and to the Governor's office.

prior to the open split on the apportionment bills.

As in any private labor-management dispute, early attention to the Senators' grievances might have prevented the Geerlings public attack and the nine other votes which went to professional strategist Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski's apportionment plans.

Still another aspect of the somewhat blurred Romney image came the following day in the formal announcement by Ferndale auto dealer George Higgins that he would seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination against the incumbent.

The dangers to Romney incumbent in Higgins' announcement were immediately apparent to most regular Capitol observers.

Lack of a Democratic primary for governor and the Michigan law allowing switch-voting in the preliminary contest could give the "out party" a much better chance to get in again. Enough Democrats voting Republican for Higgins in the primary could push Romney completely out of the political arena in the state. Chances of this seem unlikely, however.

HARD TO REDUCE

Merger of state agencies will wait until 1965, unless a decision is made for a special session on the matter.

The new Constitution gave the Legislature two years to accomplish the reorganization of some 130 boards and agencies in 20 or fewer state sessions. If this is not done in that time, the reorganization will become the Governor's responsibility.

Some progress was made toward this goal in the current session. In its way through the Senate, the proposal for reorganization was changed to meet objections of some groups.

Stoppage of the bill in a House committee was blamed on the shortage of time to consider it. The problems of reorganization are very vivid. No one wants his ox gored.

Dr. Albert Heustis, State Health Commissioner, wants a single unit to handle all the state health functions, but he disclaims personal ambition to head a new agency which would be formed.

A cutting Mental Health Director Charles Wagg, however, says the many duties of his department preclude its being absorbed into a giant, multi-purpose unit.

Educational activities of state government should be brought under jurisdiction of the State Department of Education says Lynn M. Bartlett, Superintendent of Public Instruction. He proposes this include the State Historical Commission, but Secretary of State James Hare contends the commission is and should remain a part of his department.

Legislators in both houses will find it difficult to distin-

Wheat Program Outlined

A wheat farmer who signs up to participate in the 1964 voluntary program and carries out all the provisions will be eligible for price support loans on all wheat produced, according to R. C. Lott, county extension director. He also can qualify for marketing certificates with a cash value and payments for diverting cropland to a conservation use.

A farmer who planted wheat in his 1964 allotment has already met the minimum acreage reduction requirement of ten per cent. This represents his farm's share of the difference between 55 million acres and the 1964 national allotment of 49.5 million acres. However, he also must seed down or otherwise divert to conserving uses an acreage equal to this 11.1 per cent of his allotment.

In addition, a producer may divert up to 20 per cent more acreage (or 15 acres total diversion, whichever is larger). If the allotment is 13.5 acres or less, the entire allotment can be diverted for payment.

On a farm with a 90-acre allotment, for example, the minimum diversion would be 11.1 per cent of 90 or 10 acres. Since the 1964 allotment already represents a reduction in the farm's wheat acreage, 90 acres of wheat could be produced unless the farmer elects to divert additional acres for production.

In this example, the voluntary diversion could be as much as 20 per cent of 90, or 18 acres. These 18 acres, plus the minimum diversion of 10 acres, make a total of 28 acres eligible for diversion payments if devoted to approved conservation uses and other program provisions are carried out. The farm would still have 72 acres available for growing wheat. The 10 acre minimum diversion had already been subtracted when the 1964 allotment was established.

Diversion payments per acre on each farm will be one-fifth of the county price-support loan rate multiplied by the farm's normal yield of wheat. In Ingham county, the price support loan rate is $1.31. So a farm's diversion payment will be 26 cents (one-fifth of the loan rate) times the farm's normal wheat yield.

Lott suggests that wheat farmers check with the county ASC or extension offices to obtain more information about the program. County loan rate is available from county ASC office.

Guish between the personal ambitions and the reasonable arguments from these and other state bureaucrats in attempting the reorganization.

It is reasonably certain every effort will be made to effect the merger in the Legislature, rather than having it done by one man.

Livestock Project Tips Given 4-Hers

Livestock and dairy specialists at Michigan State University list the following tips for 4-Hers in livestock projects:

Dairy: Feed dairy heifers for maximum growth. Feeding is a vital part of fitting, but take precautions not to get animals too fat. There's a difference between growth and fattening, and a heifer in good shape for the show this summer is one well grown and in good condition.

If dehorning and removing extra teats have not been done, now is the time to do it. Using a sharp, clean pair of scissors, clip off extra teats even with the skin, apply iodine to the surface of the udder.

Sheep: 4-H club members planning to finish feeder lambs for July and August exhibits should purchase and start feeding 55-60 pound lambs now. Strong, alert, healthy lambs, free from scours, make the best projects. Lambs should be similar in build, type and weight.

Shear lambs so they will be cooler during the hot summer feeding period.

Killing internal parasites is important in feeding lambs. Drench each sheep with a phenothiazine and lead arsenate mixture as directed by the manufacturer for control of tape and other worms.

Check with a veterinarian about vaccinating for overeating disease.

Exercise lambs daily by walking them at least several hundred yards. This will help develop muscling and stimulate the appetite.

37 4-Hers Enroll in Bike Rodeo

The Tomlinson 4-H club sponsored a bicycle safety rodeo on April 25 at the fairgrounds. Gene Burgess and Tom Brown were co-chairmen, and Robert Jordan, Sr. was leader chairman. Thirty-seven contestants enrolled. They were divided into 6 teams by ages. Captains of teams were Bill Rogers, Keith Kranz, Dan Brown, and Stanley Jordan. Bob Jordan, Jr. was chief mechanic for the day.

Each contestant's bike was checked for safety. The handle grips and bars, brakes, seat, chain tension, wheels and spokes received careful examination.

Six skill tests gave 4-Hers the challenge of maneuvering bikes accurately. Later, teams competed in bicycle games. Safety was stressed throughout the program.

A "Bicycle Safety Court" concluded the day's activities. Mrs. Charles Brown served as judge and Beverly Barr as policeman. Vicki Zemer and Sally Brown played the roles of victims.

Just Like Old Days

Sheriff Poses Still Ride

Things haven't changed too much from the old law-enforcement days of Bat Masterson, Wyatt Earp and Matt Dillon. Those charged with "keeping the peace"—with maintaining law and order, are still called upon in these non-frontier times to do a fair amount of posse-riding and livestock-dispute settling. A one-year report from the Michigan Sheriffs' Association reveals that although most modern sheriffs operate from radio-equipped cars, thirty-one Michigan counties have a total of 568 horses available for volunteer sheriffs' posses. These days they are mostly used by searching parties in recognition that there still are plenty of places where only a horse can reach.

When the West was newly opened to settlers, local sheriffs and federal marshals teamed up in much the same fashion as do Michigan's 83 sheriffs and troopers of our Michigan state police. Law enforcement, then as now, centered strongly on protection of property and property owners, defense of widows, children and elderly people, and the smashing of organized crime.

Although the bulk of modern law enforcement work centers on problems brought about by automobiles (sheriffs investigated nearly 40,000 traffic accidents last year in which 743 persons were killed and 20,000 injured), the list of reasons for arrest is long: manslaughter, robbery, larceny, "wine and women," gambling, misuse of guns, all busy enforcement categories, just as they were when the West was won.

Familiar sounding, too, is the category headed "animals at large" with 683 Michigan persons arrested last year for this reason alone. The fact that Michigan does not allow "open range" is evident from the 570 convictions secured.

Livestock laws figured in another 26 arrests by sheriffs' offices last year and cruelly to animals brought arrest to 27 other persons. Enforcement of the Christmas Tree Law brought four convictions, while the related "malicious destruction of property" tagged another 1,074.

Romney Reports

Many readers may already be aware of some of the things the state is proposing to do for the mentally retarded, but I am sure many of them do not realize what all of these programs add up to.

In terms of its scope, of its size, and of its departure from past approaches to the problem, the program for the mentally retarded which is now under consideration by the Legislature is the most extensive in the history of the state.

The size of this program is fully justified by the size of the problem. As of now, more than 1,800 patients are waiting for admission to state facilities for the retarded.

Although hospital space for the retarded has expanded in past years, it has not expanded fast enough to keep pace with the demand for service.

If Michigan is to meet the challenge of serving its retarded children, the challenge must be approached on several fronts. The program I have presented to the Legislature accomplishes this.

First, I have asked the Legislature to appropriate $269,000 to finance eight outpatient clinics at each of the eight hospitals now caring for the retarded. These clinics will provide diagnostic and evaluation services for the retarded and their families.

Secondly, I have proposed the establishment of a network of field workers operating in communities throughout the state. Their primary function would be to provide immediate emergency services to all newly identified cases of mental retardation.

Third, I have recommended establishment of a network of day care centers to provide training to severely retarded patients at the community level. This would provide a workable alternative to sending children into permanent exile from their families.

Fourth, I recommended that we move toward the establishment of a series of community mental retardation centers located in the larger urban centers. These would provide a program of intensive diagnostic services and short-term inpatient treatment aimed at the correction of immediate physical or intellectual deficits.

Already approved by the Senate are projects totaling $4,020,000 which will add 920 beds for the care of the retarded. They include a 200-bed toddlers' unit at Mt. Pleasant, two toddlers' units, an outpatient wing, habilitation unit, a building for the blind, a laboratory building and other units at the Plymouth Home and Training School.

In addition, the House has increased from $12 to $14.5 million the amount of state aid which can be earmarked for special education. The impact of this increase will be very great when you add to that sum the matching funds which will be made available for these programs.

Altogether, these programs represent the largest amount of money ever recommended for the care of the mentally retarded.

But beyond that, they comprise a bold departure from the "out-of-sight, out-of-mind" philosophy which has dominated the care of the mentally retarded for years.

Season-long weed control from one Atrazine spray

Atrazine 80W herbicide is an easy one-spray weed control "plan" for corn that ends competition from most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses for the entire season. It works efficiently and profitably, promoting higher yields and reducing or even eliminating the need for cultivation.

Yields boosted by early control

Three years of intensive field study by independent research men prove that by controlling weeds during the first three weeks of corn growth, as many as 29 bushels per acre can be added to corn yield. When Atrazine is applied, broadcast or in bands over the rows, at or immediately after planting, you get this early control... control that continues right on through to harvest.

How Atrazine works

Rainfall or shallow cultivation moves Atrazine down to the weed root zone where it is absorbed by germinating weeds. Soon after weeds emerge, they die. And, Atrazine stays to pick off later germinating weeds, right up to harvest.

Added benefits during dry weather

In a dry year, corn needs every bit of moisture and plant food it can get. An early and thorough job of weed control with Atrazine eliminates the added stress of weed competition during drought periods.

Atrazine gives corn a full season of sure, effective weed control—control that won't let weeds get started, from planting to harvest. Order your supply of Atrazine today.

Don't let weeds and grasses rob your crop of moisture and soil nutrients this year. Use Atrazine.
