Who Should Advise President Johnson?

In September President Johnson said at a news conference that he had selected 16 menfrom private life to act as informal advisors to him. They will not act as a committee, nor hold regular meetings, but they would be asked for advice and may be helpful in finding effective courses of action in the quest for peace and the advancement of national security.

Why isn't the secretary of state or the secretary of defense able to render such advice to our president? Is there no competent body of officials in government to perform these tasks?

These 16 men, anonymous individuals, can make momentous decisions. They may be conscientious men, but since they have no direct responsibility to the people, their views can be detrimental to the best interests of the people.

Haslett Couple Exchanges Vows In Pretty October 17 Ceremony

in Haslett Community church when Daniel L. Hynes of Haslett claimed Miss Sandra K. Kenyon of Haslett as his bride. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Rex S. Kenyon, 1301 Orlando drive, Haslett, and Mrs. Ruby Hynes, 6289 Reynolds road, Haslett.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, approached the altar gowned in chantilly lace, which was handclipped and patterned, over taffeta. The fitted bodice of lace extended upward onto a yoke of tulle in deep scallops. A v neckline was finished with a collar of the scalloped lace and long fitted sleeves terminating in points over the wrists enhanced the gown. The extremely full skirt of lace fanned into a wide sweep at the back. A Swedish crown of pearls and sequins secured her triple bouffant veil of imported French illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid entertwined with ivy.

Miss Judy Ransom of Bay City, cousin of the bride, acted as maid of honor for the bride. She wore an emerald green lace sheath with an overskirt of full-length satin. Three-quarter length sleeves enhanced the gown. She carried a Farm Census Due Plans for taking the 1964 Census of Agriculture in Ingham county were announced today by Mrs. Phyllis Brown, newly-appointed census crew leader for the county.

The job will be done in 3 stages, the crew leader said. First will come recruitment and training of enumerators to count all farms in the county. About one enumerator for each 150 farms will be needed.

Shortly after November 5, the bureau of the census, an agency of the Department of commerce, will start the second stage by mailing agricultural census questionaires to all rural boxholders in the county. This will give farm and ranch operators, who are required by law to fill out the forms, a period of time to consult their records and fill in answers to the questions.

In the final stage, enumerators will visit each farm in the county to collect the questionnaires. At the time of this visit, the enumerators will help farmers complete answers to any questions the farmers may have had difficulty with. Enumerator visits are scheduled to begin in this county on November 9th, Enumerators will take about 3 weeks to complete their work, the crew leader estimates, .

A public hearing will be conducted in the city council rooms of the city of Mason on

Just before the September primary, I stated my basic beliefs in this publication. The issues in the general election have not changed.

The basic issue is the continued centraliza tion of government. If elected, I will do all that I can to give local units the authority and responsibility to manage their own affairs. At the same time, I will support programs on the state level to meet the needs of the people when it is clearly demonstrated that those needs cannot be met by the local units.

Three Good Men

On January 1, 1965, nine men will be sworn into offices which have never existed in Michigan before.

These 9 men will be the judges for the new state court of appeals.

The bill establishing the State Court of Appeals was signed on June 11, 1964, and it has since been incorporated into the new Michigan constitution.

The court is the result of the backlog of appeal cases that are now cramming the state supreme court and the circuit courts.

This new appellate court will fail between the state supreme court and the circuit courts in jurisdiction. It is made up of the 9 judges who will each serve 6-year terms in one of 3 districts.

The districts are based on population. The first district is Wayne County; the second, which includes Ingham county, is made up of 16 southeastern counties. The rest of the lower peninsula and all of the upper peninsula are incorporated into the third district.

Three judges will sit in each district, and the supreme court will decide the rotation of the men assigned to each district. The entire court of appeals is subject to the superintending power of the supreme court.

The new court will make the right on appeal readily available to all who want it. Appeal is a matter of right in every felony case.

Each district will sit whenever it has cases to decide. An appeal must be made in writing and the procedure for handling the case will follow that of the supreme court.

The decisions of the court are final. They can be reviewed only by the supreme court and then only under the rules of that court.

This November, all 9 judges will be elected, three by each district.

Because this new court system is new to Michigan voters, too many people tend to be unaware of its importance. And because of the vastness of the new court districts, too many of the candidates are unknown to many voters. And to add to the voters' confusion, the judges are running on a nonpartisan ballot so that voters lack even the knowledge of political leanings.

With this in mind, and acknowledging that any and all of the candidates for the second district court of appeals may be satisfactory, there are 3men in the race who are exceptional ----3 men whose records and standards of excellence are so high that it will be regrettable if they are passed up in the confusion of the election.

High on the list of able, exceptional jurists is Judge Timothy Quinn of Caro. He is a third generation lawyer, a former prosecuting attorney in Tuscola county and is now serving his second term as circuit court judge for Tuscola and Lapeer counties.

Another able jurist who seeks a berth on the court of appeals is Judge Louis D. McGregor of Flint. He is serving his 5th year on the circuit court in Genesee county.

Farrell E. Roberts, former assistant prosecutor in Oakland county and a resident of Pontiac is chairman of the senate judiciary committee.

These 3 are independent of political thought. In areas of constitutionality and individual rights, they can be counted upon to serve with the highest integrity. At a time when too many high courts decisions seem to be based more on contemporary potitical philosophy than on constitution law, the election of these 3 men will serve to strengthen the courts.

Country and Town

By Jim Brown A few weeks ago while sorting a box of old family "stuff" a collection of notes that were used by the late News editor, Nelson D. Brown, fell to the floor. The speech was given at a Grange meeting during National Newspaper week about 10 years ago. Because of the timeliness of the remarks in conjunction with the election Tuesday this space is being used to reproduce them. Some people have expressed the question recently as to what Nelson Brown would be thinking about during the forth coming election if he were alive in 1964. These randem speech notes suggest an answer:

BE CONTROVERSIAL

"An editor, like a Grange member should have opinions - opinions which should change as conditions change . . . and beliefs which should change as circumstances do . . . convictions ought to be lived by.

"An editor does not want to be considered an oracle or a prophet, but instead a man who stimulates thinking, or urges an action after thinking has been done . . . There are many functions of a newspaper. It has the duty to present news fairly and honestly . . . and a duty to tell what's for sale.

"The major duty, though, is to stimulate thought . . . through writing editorials . . . easiest are about people . . . condemn or praise them. Next easiest are about events . . . lauding the Grange or a club or the town board. Hardest editorials are about ideas . . . which is why you don't read more of them. "You are as well equipped as the next person to think big thoughts. Some editors say it is presumptuous of me to write on international events or even state and national affairs. I tend to let John Foster Dulles handle affairs in Asia and Africa. Walter Ruether tells Soapy. Homer Martin tells milk producers. Some editors rely on Tom Stokes, Drew Pearson or Walter Lippman - men who quote each other and pat each other on the back. Syndicated columnists are a dime a dozen. They fatten on tips and serve too many masters. Distorted and dishonest thought. "Beware of a newspaper which declares that opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the editor. Beware when it appears that the editor may have no opinions of his own or dares not express them if he does . . . A man should express opinions on matters of importance . . . in papers as well as elsewhere. I don't regard it as presumptuous to have opinions, even convictions, and to express them. "God gave us all minds at the same time he passed them out to Drew Pearson, John Knight, and Walter Lippman, township supervisors, governors, presidents and school board members. He expects all of us to use them. Mine may not be so sharp. That's why there's all the more reason why I should keep it honed the best I can - that's why you should keep yours honed too. "This nation was founded by men with beliefs, opinions and convictions. When common men cease to have them and to express them they cannot long endure. Unfortunately there is less personal opinion expressed today than ever before in the United States. Oh, yes, we parrot statements of radio and TV commentators and syndicated writers. "We laugh at the Russian party line. But our actions are more despicable because we are not forced to accept edicts - we're not forced to be silent. But too many of us are. "Our forums are gone. Stores keep such short hours. There's no place to loaf and talk. With television and radio none of us older people would have learned about tariffs and reciprocity, free silver and other issues. My father, my uncles and neighbors would argue such issues far into the night . . . People don't have to agree. We don't agree on the length of women's skirts, rainfall or hay fever. We shouldn't be surprised that we don't agree on more important things. "Dont shun controversy. In our family we never have. And that includes fathers, mothers, brothers, sons and daughters. "People argue about the World Series and football. They ought to. But they ought to talk more about the important things . . . they ought to give opinions. For they would be better fathers and mothers and better Americans.

December 12, 1940 Harold Ware has an eye for beauty. Last Thursday afternoon he came into the office and said that Jean wanted her paper. "Jean who?" I asked. "I don's know her last name," he replied, "but she is selling" senior play tickets at the store." I named off a few Jeans, yet on every one Harold shook his head. Finally I said, "What does she look like?" Harold soulfully replied, "She is just beautiful." Still he couldn't recall her last name so I telephoned the store and learned that Frances Lyon was selling tickets and that she asked her juvenile worshipper to stop at the office and get Gene Lyon's paper.

Undersheriff Jack Lechler believes that every person, no matter how far he is in his cups, wants to sober up before meeting his Maker. When Jack goes out to investigate an accident he often finds injured persons difficult to handle because of excitement and gin mixed together. He has found there is one certain way to quiet a patient. Jack had a chance to try his special technique one morning this week. He visited a crash scene and found a man with slight injuries and plenty of liquor. The injured man was noisy and troublesome, full of yells and whoops and tales of what a great fighter he was, the drunk asked. "You're in bad shape," the officer replied. "You're eyes are getting glassy. You look to me as though you have a serious concussion. The last man I saw who had that look died before I got him to the hospital." The drunk shambled over to the car, crawled onto the rear seat and gently and soberly moaned all the way to the jail. "My system may be but it always works," said Jack.

"You're fighting your last fight now, though." sadly commiserated Jack. "Why, what do you mean?"

asked a man who had been sitting in on one of the entertaining council sessions last week. I don't worry over disagreements on the council, the school board, the board of supervisors, the state legislature or congress. There should be disagreement. The trouble with government today is that too few people have the courage to disagree. They all want to be on the winning side . . . the danger to democracy lies in agreement, not disagree. ment. Everyone has to agree under totalitarian government. To me it isn't surprising that school board and city council members disagree; it is amazing that they don't disagree more often than they do . . . difference of opinion is what makes horse races and is what makes democracy work.

Not only is the female more deadly than the male, but the female has more taking ways. A Mason man who operates restrooms for his public reports no thefts of soap or toilet paper from the men's department and heavy losses from the women's department. Time after time rolls of toilet paper and bars of soap are taken by women. The proprietor has worked out a cure. He keeps the men's department supplied with full rolls of paper and big bars of soap. When a roll of paper gets short it it transferred to the women's department. When a bar of soap in the men's washroom gets down to half size, the canny proprietor transfers it to the women's room. About as good a supper dish as I know of this time of year is biscuits and maple syrup. The shutdown of Hamilton's cider jell works this fall was a bad blow at our house. Cider jell on home-baked bread tasted mighty fine.

Few boys realize it, yet no fame is so fleeting as athletic fame. It's difficult to get the idea across to boys, because they can't look far enough behind or see far enough ahead. High school and college athletics have their good points, yet any boy who gives them a value more than they are worth will be shortchanged.

exclusively on the schools. To me, and to many other teachers who KNOW potential dropouts, this criticism is mostly piffle. Moreover, it's doing unspeakable harm because it misleads the public, which is coming to expect the impossible from its schools. I claim that the time has arrived for placing the responsibility for dropouts where it belongs; not on the teacher, but squarely on the dropout himself. To convince the incorrigibly lazy student that he's wrong we must drop the consequences of his irresponsibility in his own lap. He must go. Some dropouts SHOULD drop out.

"I'm not talking about students who drop out because their families must have their wages. Nor, for the moment, am I discussing those students who finally and honestly realize that they've reached the limit of their ability to absorb classroom learning. My concern is those students who CAN learn but, for a variety of unappealing reasons, refuse to try. They are known in the educational jargon as 'underachievers' but I prefer shorter, sharper terms, like laggard or shirker . . .

"Certainly all the clamour to give the shirker special treatment doesn't have the effect of arousing a sense of responsibility in the delinquents themselves. My experience has been that it teaches 98 per cent of them only one thing: that the squeaking wheel gets the grease. It suggests to the laggard's knotted-up little intellect that to get somewhere he need not be productive, competent, reliable, or upright; he need only be a first-class stinker . . .

"The arguments for keeping dropouts in school are almost always based on the indisputable fact that most jobless people are jobless because they're under-educated. But these arguments usually go on to adopt the premise that keeping the potential dropouts in school will eventually bring them up to par, and in a great many cases this is nonsense. We could keep low-ability students in school till they die of old age and still not make them competitive in highly skilled jobs. Instead of trying to force learning upon those who cannot learn, we should exploit the fact that even in this technological age there are still a great many unskilled and semiskilled jobs to be done-jobs that can be done well, and contentedly, by people who can't manage to graduate from high school . . ."

The Canadian teacher's views, unhappily, fly right into the face of that idealistic concept of total equality, and would do some violence to the American dream that every boy, regardless of race, creed, color and national origin, can, if he only tries hard enough, become president of General Motors.

But his commentary is still something we might think about the next time our leaders start bleeding for the young fellow in the stripped-down roadster with the gutted muffler who doesn't seem to be making satisfactory progress in his school work.

The area to be annexed is northeast and northwest of Williamston, with around 30 property holders involved. Not all of these have a dwelling on them and in some cases the owner does not reside on the property.

Descriptions of all the property involved has been obtained, and Arthur Whittington, city manager, and Robert Platt, city attorney, are now drawing up the maps and petitions that must be circulated before the issue can come to a vote.

The procedure is to circulate the petition and the map in the city and the area in the township that is involved. In order to get this on the ballot there must be a majority of signatures of those involved on the petition.

Delhi Slashes Budget

HOLT - Delhi Charter township board Monday night adopted a budget for 1965 of $123,038.-45, a reduction of $36,747.55 from the 1964 budget.

Board members said it was the 1st time in 8 years that no. increase for elected officials of the board was voted.

The budget cuts were made necessary through the loss of the Maple Grove area of Delhi township which has annexed to Lansing. The township lost about 20 percent in assessed valuation through the loss of Maple Grove. The township's assessed valuation now is placed at $7,500,000 as compared to $9,300,000 when Maple Grove was a part of the township,

Only salary increases voted in the budget were those of nonelected employes of the township government.

Salaries in this category were increased as follows:

Deputy clerk $3,442.26 from $3,342; building inspector $5,-837.01, from $5,667; janitor, $3,714.18 from $3,600 and cemetery sexton $3,060 from $1,500. The board voted an increase of 25 cents an hour in the pay of part time employes, effective immediately. This will make their pay $1.50 an hour.

Salaries of elective officials were unchanged in the 1965 budget.

Other items in the budget were cut or increased as follows from the 1965 figures:

Election expense, $1,000, cut $2,000; police department salaries $17,817, cut $5,612; police department expense $3,500, cut $1,600; fire department runs $9,000, cut $9,000; fire department expense, $2,500, cut $1,500; fire department reserve $500, cut $2,000; building operating Nora Usher Saturday. expense, $4,500, cut $1,000; cem-

**** As most of you know, Friday was Homecoming at Mason. The Homecoming parade started at the high school at 6:20 p.m. The band led the parade, and it was followed by the floats and the royalty. The course of the parade was from the high school, around the Court House, and to the football field. The float that took first prize was made by the F.F.A. boys. Second place was won by the sophomore class float and 3rd place, the Pep Club float. As the band played "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" in the formation of a crown, the royalty was escorted in front of the stands. Queen Linda Parker and King Gary Blood were crowned by last year's queen, Jo Von Taylor. Steve Brown was master of ceremonies, and did a wonderful job of organizing the festivities.

The band's half-time show was amusing and entertaining. After a very difficult routine, the band made several formations. One of the formations was in the shape of a beetle. As the Band played "A Hard Day's Night", four Mason "Beatles" appeared and were welcomed by the screams of the audience. The boys who portrayed the "Beatles" were Larry Snyder, Pat Allaire, Jim Leonard, A Mason high school band extra was also performed at the game. While the band played "Cotton Candy" the drum major and majorettes dances a popular dance. All in all, the band deserves great recognition. The pep assembly for Homecoming was as peppy as ever.

VanLier reported that wells situated in sandstone are the most bountiful source of municipal, industrial, and household water supplies in the area. The Lansing Metropolitan area is located over thick layers of this kind of water producing sandstone making Lansing's wells highly productive. In the region surrounding Lansing, however, this water rich sandstone is much thinner and wells are likely to be much less productive. One of the problems the area may be faced with, according to VanLier, is that increasing water consumption will require the drilling of new wells on the perimeter of existing well fields. This will probably result in a declining yield from the older wells. Intensive pumping may also result in decreased stream flows throughout the region.

The staff reported to the commission that a handbook on Residential Standards - the third in the series on Guiding Land Subdividing - will be ready for distribution this coming month. The handbook will describe desired minimum standards for subdivision location, design, and improvements. It is intended as an aid to local governmental officials in the Region in determining subdivision standards for their jurisdictions.

The staff has also prepared a subdivision checklist, based on the requirements of the PlatAct. The checklist will aid local officials by serving as an outline of the proper legal steps which should be taken in approving plats. The checklist is now being reviewed by the subdivision advisory committee and, based on the committee's recommendations, will be revised prior to distribution.

In other action, the commission authorized the staff to proceed with the community shelter plan study for the region. This program, to be done in cooperation with local, state, and federal civil defense agencies, will determine needs for area fallout shelters in relation to day and nigh population concentrations. It will be financed by the federal office of civil defense, with tax funds under contract with Stanford Research Institute, and is scheduled for completion by February, 1965.

There was a Pep Rally on Friday sixth hour. The kids were escorted by the cheerleaders who led the student body in a snake dance arrangement from class to class and into the gym. The spirit was perked up when the Varsity squad did one of their cheers about 4 times slower than usual. This signified the way the guys feel when we don't stay behind them when the going gets rough. Immediately following the cheer was done at the normal spunky pace. The students obviously got the point when they cheered better than ever. A pep talk was given by Tom Eifert. ****

The Homecoming parade was led by the Williamston High School Band, following the band was the Student Council Officers car, the cheerleaders' car, the 63-64 king and queen, Larry Humphrey and Ida Jo Dmochowski, the floats from their respective classes, and the fire department.

The half-time show with Denny Hunt, Master of Ceremonies, included a review of the candidates and floats around the field. Larry Humphrey pronounced his congratulations to King Ates Ouncar, the senior candidate and Ida Jo Dmochowski passed on her crown to Dee Shields, the junior candidate.

Freedom of Speech, Etc.

I am not writing to get votes for either party.

I would like to know what you meant when you said in answer to Tom's (Barker) letter and I quote"In your allegations, insinuations and inuendoes you seem to base position on fact, etc.". In answer to the first part of the quote, I didn't read all those things, you say he did, in the article. I thought he just came right out and said it.

As for the incident in not getting the name right, that seems to me like you came in the back door to keep from debating the issue.

Then my goodness you came right out and as much as called him a blunderer when the poor fellow just made an honest mistake.

I won't mention anything else in that Editor's Note, as I said, I'm not campaigning for anyone. But before I finish this letter

I have to mention the only other Editor's note on the page (Yep, after Jean's letter.) I know the name is right as I have the paper here in front of me.

If you feel that the world would be better off if people would not explain the statements of others. but leave that up to the people who make the statements, finel It just seems you could have given her more of a reply than one little paragraph that said a lot of nothing.

Then Boy O Boy did you jump on that little word guilt, brought it right out front. Made it sound like a dirty word. Not everyone can think of the exact word at the exact moment.

The whole point of this letter, and I went twice around the barn, but said what I wanted to, is if a person takes the money to buy a paper then takes the time to sit down and express their views and ask questions they ought to get a straight, honest, answer without blas. ERNIE WALKER

Who is to blame for our wild society? Who is to blame for our mixed up teens?

Adults talk about uncontrollable teens, when the talking should be about the adults. Everyone is in a hurry and fallingback on the important responsibilities of setting an example for our young people. Have we had so much freedom and prosperity, that we are not satisfied or contented with the simple things in life anymore?

Some . parents are afraid of their children. Is it because the children are losing respect for adults and therefore, cannot and do not respect the authority we should have? As with most all fruit cakes, carefully wrap and age this one in a cool place from 4 to 6 weeks before cutting.

Make fruit cake now so it will be ready for all holiday entertaining. For open house refreshments cut it in fingers to serve with eggnog. Salty nuts and colored thin mints are other good nibblers for the occasion.

become one of the most important documents in a person's life. Figures reveal that a high school diploma can mean as much as $1,300 additional income each year as compared to the income of a person who finishes on the 8th grade.

And a college graduate can earn as much as $3,000 a year more than a person with only a high school education.

There are little calls for unskilled workers such as the dropout. A changing world has virtually eliminated a living job for unskilled hands.

Unemployment in Michigan in the 14-19 age group is double the national average. The unemployment rate for dropouts usually reaches nearly 30 percent. Looking into the future, economists say that by 1970 America will need no more unskilled workers than it had in 1960. The emphasis will be on the technically

> > Can we provide the jobs these young people need?

> > Have we the colleges that can make room for them?

Do we have the teachers to teach them?

The project is designed to provide opportunity for citizens to study statewide development problem and consider ways to solve them.

Central guidance committees are to be formed in each county. Each central committee then will recruit 50 to 75 citizen leaders. These leaders will be trained by the county extension staff in 3 planning meetings.

Then these leaders will return to their own areas to conduct meetings of neighborhood groups, community organizations through 3 more and similar discussion

All these meetings will cover such topics as People, Jobs and Growth, Education and Training and Matching People and Jobs for Growth.

> Persons taking part in the study will delve into several problems.

> They will study ways to reduce the Michigan schooldropoutrate. how to retrain workers to meet new job demands created by changes in technology, and how to provide employment for the wave of 18 year olds who will hit Michigan next year.

> The 3 meetings scheduled for training leaders in Ingham county will all be conducted in Mason. They will start at 9a.m. and conclude at noon.

Teenagers Learn to Bake Bread in 4-H

Today's young teenagers are plunging right into homemaking tasks and enjoying outstanding success. For example, 13-year old Annette Eachor, a 4-H Club member, already has spent three years on various food projects.

Loves to Bake

Her favorite is baking bread, seven loaves at a time. Not only do her parents and two younger sisters enjoy the freshly baked bread, but so do friends and neighbors. Annette manages to find time to bake and sell bread. Her recipe printed here is easy to follow, says Annette, She is one of more than a halfmillion 4-H members from Maine to California who are participating in the national 4-H bread program conducted by the Extension Service and sponsored by Standard Brands.

WHITE BREAD (Sponge Method) Makes 7 Loaves

1 pkg, active dry yeast 3 ½ cups warm water (105°-115°F.) 4 tablespoons sugar Dissolve yeast with water in a bowl, Add sugar. Stir until dissolved. Stir 6 cups sifted flour into mixture. Cover and let rise in a warm place until bubbly on top. Then add:

2 cups scalded milkcooled to lukewarm 4 tablespoons melted shortening 2 tablespoons salt 12 cups sifted flour

Knead dough until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and let rise until double in bulk. Divide into 7 equal portions. Let rest 10 minutes. Shape into loaves and place in greased pans. Let rise again until double in size. Bake at 350°F, 40.45 minutes. Remove from pans and cool.

Tested recipes and baking guides are furnished by the sponsor along with county, state and national awards. The youthful cooks not only learn to bake bread by modern methods, but they also try out recipes for raised coffee cakes, rolls, dough-

Because of the high demand for his specialized presentations, Robertson has made more than 25 different slidetape productions on soils and fertilizers which can be sent to the counties as a substitute for personal appearances. Robertson received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Purdue University and his Ph.D. degree from Michigan State University where he has been on the staff since 1941.

Miss Ketchum has long been recognized as an authority on practical home management. Her classes for agents and Extension club leaders in labor saving in the management field have aided many homemakers of the state. Miss Ketchum was born and reared in Mason and received her B.S. degree from MSU and her M.S. degree from Cornell University. She served as a consulting home economist in Hartford, Conneticut and with the Farm Security Administration before joining the Extension Service in 1949.

Tractor Buying Surveyed by MSU

Ask a Michigan farmer with about 280 acres if he will buy a tracior soon.

Chances are he will say no. But chances are fairly good that he will buy one anyway. He just won't spend as much for it. This conclusion was reached by Karl T. Wright, professor of agricultural economics, Michigan State University. He recently completed a three year survey of the "intended" and "actual" tractor purchases of 2,106 Michigan farmers with above average acreage.

In general, Wright found that: About 25 per cent of the farmers surveyed intended to buy a tractor in the coming year. Of course, 54 per cent actually bought in the following year. Many bought two years later. Yet, the amount actually spent averaged $2,024 plus trade-in or about 23 per cent more than the $1,641 they actually planned to pay for a tractor. Although 75 per cent of the farmers reported that there was no chance of buying, 14 per cent of this group actually bought. But they usually spent 10 per cent less than those who expressed an intent to buy.

The "no chance" buyers usually bought in the last six months of the year, while the "some chance" buyers usually bought in the first six months, Wright added.

Wright said that intended and actual tractor purchases were affected by the general health of the economy as well as a farmer's personal financial situation. Current prices paid for farm products, prices paid by farmers, future outlook for prices and income, and credit were off-farm factors in a decision. Of course, Wright said, improved tractor models, prices and sales efforts by the industry all affect farmers' attitudes.

The farmer's personal financial situation is affected by the size of his farm, past, present and future earnings, debt and credit problems, his age and family size, and the present condition of his tractor and other machinery.

However, Wright said, cash on hand from the previous year's work appears to be the most important factor affecting intentions and actual purchases. Details of this study can be

LOCAL INCOME TAXES No firm indication has been given whether Michigan's Legislature will be asked to seriously consider a state income tax program in 1965.

Any such program considered at a future date, however, likely will be more complicated than previous income tax proposals because a number of cities have now entered this area of revenue raising.

No less than 12 communities are collecting, have enacted or are considering the levy of a tax on personal income.

*** Experience in two of these cities indicated opposition to an income tax may not be as strong as some legislators have believed,

In Flint an advisory vote on the income tax gained public approval. Jackson city councilmen found some opposition to their tax proposal, but no organized anti-income tax movement was . or swimming facilities. apparent.

Most of the cities which have considered this tax method offered a trade, basically the same idea the legislators considered in the state fiscal reform programs submitted to them. At the city level, most of the trades involved reduction in property taxes if the income levy is imposed.

Opposition to the local officials' actions was strong in the Detroit area, Muskegon, Muskegon Heights, Saginaw and Grand Rapids. Citizens in these communities, with the exception of Detroit which is already collecting its tax, want a referendum on the income tax proposal. In several areas, suburbs of the core cities are threatening school met Tuesday evening in the a retaliatory income tax to keep from losing revenue to their urban neighbors.

Writing a state income tax proposal if the governor and lawmakers agree it is necessary will be much more difficult if this full dozen or additional cities are using this form of taxalion.

Indeed, some legislators had hoped the state could force cities to rely on property levies and leave income sources to them.

Man-made lakes are not unknown in Michigan but those which exist have generally been built by private developers for specific landowner groups. Most are designed only as beauty spots

Conservation officials feel the heavy population and the fact that two-thirds of all fishing licenses are sold to residents in the lower portion of the state justifies starting the giant lakes plan in this area.

vers under the state violation point system. Under present law, motorist violations are not recorded with the Secretary of State records center until the driver is 17. Records show that youths in the 6-20 age group are involved in 15 per cent of all fatal accidents in the state, although they make up only 8 per cent of the driving population.

The ban against permanent recording of a 16-year-old's law violations under the motor vehicle code gives these drivers an unfair advantage, contends Hare. "There are instances where these youngsters have run up an astronomical number of infractions while driving," he said. "It gives them an unfair advantage over other youngsters who get their first license after 17 and whose violations are counted against their record."

Traffic safety experts in Hare's office say corrective steps likely would be most effective if taken against 16-yearolds when poor driving havits first are noted. ***

Project Agriculture . . . ZIP Coded Mailings Move With Frost Line

Farmers and Gardeners Benefit From New Service

The old saw that "Everyone talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it," no longer applies to the Post Office Department. It's ZIP Coding the Frost Line!

In doing something about the weather, the Department is offering a boon to farmers, nurserymen, truckers and businessmen whose margin of profit depends, to a great degree, on beating Jack Frost to the market.

Dubbed PROJECT A-for Agriculture---the new program consists of speeding delivery of mail order seeds, plants, and food products by ZIP Coding parcels according to the movement of the Frost Line.

Here's how Project A works: A farm or a nursery ships its perishable products-flowers, shrubberies, trees, vegetables, seeds, etc.-by parcel post, ZIP Coded according to the frost lines announced annually by the Weather Bureau.

In filling orders from customers, the mailer breaks down these weather zones into ZIP Code sectional centers, to which delivery is made directly from his local post office.

The result? Plants are received days earlier.

Does it work? The Jackson and Perkins Nurseries, of Newark, N.J. - the world's largest nursery and the largest rose growers in the United States-are sold on the program.

"pool cases"-large cardboard boxes in which smaller parcels destined for the same sectional center are pooled for mailing-to further reduce parcel post damage.

Upon its arrival, the pool case would be immediately opened, and the contents delivered quickly to the addresses in nearby communities.

This method saves time enroute, by reducing the number of necessary post office handlings, and greatly reduces the likelihood of damage-which traditionally has increased with each handling.

President Johnson has called for the best possible postal. service at the lowest possible cost. Project Agriculture and pool casing are just two new programs recently initiated by the Post Office Department.

Infrared lamps or burners may someday be used to dry grain as it vibrates up and down at 1,000 cycles per minute, according to Michigan State University agricultural engineer, Verl E. Headley. Infrared vibration grain drying is not yet as economical as the conventional heated air dryers now being used, but the method offers intriguing possibilities for the future. ***

Field and laboratory trials show Gaines wheat, if grown in Michigan, is low in yield and flour quality, according to the Michigan State University's crop science department. In variety comparisons made this year by farmers in several Michigan counties, Gaines yielded only 75 to 80 per cent as much grain as the Genesee and Avon white wheat varieties.

Michigan State University researchers say two pounds of Amitrole-T is as effective for controlling quackgrass as four pounds of plain Amitrole. The reason: 20 per cent of both Amitrole and Amitrole-T is absorbed through quackgrass leaves, but twice as much Amitrole-T is translocated throughout the plants.

Your hatred hurts you.

For every action there is a reaction. If we love we are loved. If we give we are given. When we learn this and believe it we have learned God's plan for us.

No man can live alone. He needs his neighbor. God told us this many times, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." God also told us who our neighbor was ... everyone, even our enemy.

It is hard for us to accept this unless we realize that our hatred hurts us. Hatred drives out love. That is why God told us to love one another. The more we love the closer we come to God who is perfect love. Truly we are our brother's keeper.
