Hit By Car, Boy Killed, Girl Hurt

A boy was killed and his sister seriously injured when they were struck by a car Tuesday morning on Linn road near Meridian road, about 3 1/2 miles south of Williamston.

Killed was Kevin Walker, 2 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Walker of 231 Linn road. He died at the scene of the accident from internal and other injuries, Coroner Dorff Hoffmeyer said. Hoffmeyer added that the boy was thrown 83 feet after being hit by the vehicle.

His sister, Laurie Ann Walker, 3 years old, was removed to Edward W. Sparrow hospital in Lansing with serious injuries. State police identified the driver of the car as Roy C. Povey, 45, of 3065 Meridian road.

Police said the 2 children had been playing with their 2 brothers and sister along the shoulder of the road. Troopers said the other Walker children were Steven 8, LaVerta 7, and Robert 5. The Walkers have another child, Karen, 1 month. Mrs. Walker is expected her 7th child soon. She accompanied her daughter to the hospital.

Kevin's body was removed to the Gorsline Brothers funeral home in Williamston.

a fountain near the western end. Along the north and south sides of this approach, which is surrounded by a sidewalk, are parking spaces.

Two drive-in windows to serve the public are located at the rear of the bank building. The sidewalk in front of the main entrance is equipped with heating coils to keep off snow during the winter months.

The area is blacktopped with the exception of a portion along the north side of the property which will be sodded and landscaped.

The interior of the building is a thing of rich beauty.

The lobby, entered through 2 double doors, contains 4 teller cages with space to expand to 6 as business requires. To the left of the entrance is the manager's office and a secretary's office, while to the right are coupon booths and the vault which will hold safety deposit boxes.

The planked ceiling of the lobby is in natural wood with supporting beams of stained walnut. The lobby lighting fixtures are as unusual as they are beautiful.

A stairway in the northwest corner leads to the basement where there are men's and women's lounges and a board room which is 16 by 24 feet in size, richly carpeted in red with walnut paneled walls.

Also located in the basement is a dry storage vault, a store room for supplies and a room housing gas heating and air conditioning units.

Thick carpeting covers all portions of the lobby, office and lounge areas of the building, and paintings are hung about the wall. All furniture is of the most modern design.

Work on the bank was started last November.

25 Years From Now Centennial Capsule To Be Opened in 1990

Mason's observance of its centennial has come and gone, but 25 years from now the pleasant memories of the event will all be recalled when the time capsule will be uncovered.

During special ceremonies Saturday a time capsule filled with mementos of the centennial was buried on the Court House lawn and marked with a stone.

Included in the capsule were 60 letters which will be mailed in 1990, all programs from the various centennial events, wood-nickles, proclamations from the brothers of the brush and belle groups, the pageant script, centennial pictures and Paul Richards' speech given at the capsule ceremony.

Richards was the main speaker and had these words of wisdom to say about Mason's past and future.

TIME CAPSULE INTERMENT June 26, 1965

One hundred years ago a titanic struggle which had clutched at the very throat of our nation had just been ended. Death, violent death, had stalked up and down our country. Americans, great numbers of Americans, had died at the hands of Americans. The good earth, from north to south, was soaked with precious American blood. And the final sickening convulsion of this conflict left the President of our nation unconscious and dying -- victim of an assassin. The land, our land, was weary of war. In 1865 the surviving soldiers of this strife, with the nauseating stench of the battlefield still clinging in their nostrils, straggled back home. Indeed, my own great grandfather, who had been on General Sherman's rather infamous march to the sea, was mustered out of the Union army almost exactly one hundred years ago -- on June 24, 1865.

In Mason, as everywhere, men and women bravely and resolutely began the difficult task of reassembling the shattered pieces of their lives. Slowly the minds of men were turned from musket and bayonet to chopping axe and plow share. Even slower, they were turned from bitterness and hate to love and compassion. Yes, the land, our land, was wary of war.

At this very time in the history of our nation, while the ash heap of chaos and destruction still smoldered, the village of Mason was born.

No man assembled by us today can give a first hand account of the proud thoughts which must have been expressed here on that day. No one can paint for us a vivid word picture of the hopes, the dreams, the desires, and the prayers which must have been cradled in the hearts of the war-scarred but hardy pioneer citizens of Mason's first day.

Mayhap a few dreamed dreams of greatness for Mason. But history testifies that the majority faced up to the stubborn facts of hard work, cooperation, and individual responsibility which are inherent in the citizenship of a democratic community.

Surrounded by forests, and on the banks of a stream--seemingly contemptuous of the fact that they were in the middle of nowhere--they set out with typical mid-western determination to go somewhere. And they carved out by the side of the stream; their future, and our past.

The beginning of Mason's first century resounded with the steady drumming of horses hooves on yon street. The air was rent often with shouted commands which drove those beasts of burden to sweat and strain as they dragged heavy loads of timber, and gravel, and grain over dusty pavements. The piercing whine from the sawmill was as a clarion sounding forth evidence of the industriousness of the pioneer citizen.

Today, one hundred years later, though we stand at the same spot; though we peer intently down those same streets; though we strain our ears to hear, we can no longer capture those sights and sounds which were so familiar in early Mason. They are gone! They have retired into the ranks of antiquity to be quickly joined there by the horse and buggy; by the circuit riding preacher; and by the horseback mail delivery to Leslie, Gone, too, are the board walks, the hitching racks, the livery stables, and the village smithy, and oh, so many other things and sounds of Mason's first century.

Yes, they are gone! They are fading away into the past as footprints upon the sands of time as the community of Mason marches on.

School Merger Will Get an Airing

Williamston, Webberville, Dansville And White Dog May Be Linked As One

The Ingham Intermediate district reorganization study committee has under consideration a proposal concerning pupil enrollment of a district. A state committee has a theory holding that not less than 2000 pupils be required to insure depth and diversity of curriculum, Alton J. Stroud, Ingham Intermediate superintendent of schools, said this week.

The committee has been functioning in Ingham and all other counties of the state in compliance with Act 269 of the public act of 1964.

Under this law a reorganization plan must, within the next 6 months, be devised by the committee and submitted to a state committee on reorganization.

In drafting this plan the county committee must work within certain established guidelines, one of which concerns pupil enrollment.

The Ingham Intermediate study committee, at a meeting here last week considered a plan to combine Ingham districts to achieve the recommended size. A possible combination listed for study and to which first priority was assigned involves the districts of Williamston, Webberville, White Dog and Dansville.

School superintendents and board members of these districts have been asked to meet with the intermediate study committee Wednesday, July 7 at 8 p.m. at the Williamston high school to discuss the feasibility of such a proposal.

These 4 and the Leslie school district are the only ones in the county which have less than 2,000 pupils each. If the 4 districts mentioned in the priority study should be combined into one the enrollment would be about 3,400, Stroud said.

The Leslie district, he said, because of its location, could not be included in the proposed Williamston - Webberville - Dansville and White Dog combined district.

The proposal is still in the discussion stage, Stroud pointed out. Even should the county committee and the school districts involved find it feasible and approve it, the plans would still require the approval of the state committee and then the approval of the voters of the districts involved.

There are, at present, 13 school districts in Ingham county. Six of these districts already have the required number of pupils proposed for a district. They are the districts of Mason, Holt, Lansing, East Lansing, Okemos and Waverly. Two others, Haslett and Stockbridge, have an early potential of pupils required, Stroud said.

Should the plan finally reach full approval of all parties involved, high schools at Williamston, Dansville and Webberville would be continued. White Dog is a non-high school district.

One superintendent of schools and one board of education would be in charge of any proposed combination of districts.

There is opposition within the Ingham study group to details of the plan. White Dog trustees in particular have indicated dissatisfaction, preferring to maintain their own small district and sending high school pupils to Dansville on tuition basis.

County Road Jobs To Cost $1 Million

More than a million dollars is being spent this year in reconstruction and repair work on Ingham county roads.

"This year the county has some large projects underway in addition to the regular work of maintaining the existing roads," Frank (Tex) Evans, superintendent engineer at the commission said.

There are 5 areas in which the work is centered.

The contract for curb and gutter, storm drains and 9 inches of concrete paving 44 feet wide for a 2 mile stretch on Waverly road between Moores River Drive and Jolly road in Lansing was awarded to Eisenhower Construction company of East Lansing for $353,143.

Of this amount Lansing has agreed to pay $37,000 for its share of the cost of installing storm drains and sewers. County engineers estimated last fall the project would cost $320,000.

A second major project underway is the improvement of Aurelius road from Wilcox road south to Elliott road. This stretch is 4 miles long.

Reconstruction work includes widening the grade with the roadway measuring 36 feet from shoulder to shoulder, base repairs and some realignment changes costing an estimated $125,000.

"The county didn't intend to do the re-surfacing on this section until next year," Evans said, "but we were forced to change our plans because increased traffic to the new Aurelius elementary school would create too great a hazard for the youngsters going to and from school."

Traffic on Hagadorn road in East Lansing has increased with the growth of Michigan State university. To alleviate congestion the county is making Hagadorn road a boulevard from the Red Cedar to Mt. Hope avenue. Work has commenced on the south-bound lane. The county is putting in curb and gutters, storm drains and a bituminous surface 24 feet wide. Included in the work is a new rail crossing, signals and crossing gates for the south lane.

The original cost estimate for this project was $185,000. T.A.

Forsberg was the lowest bidder and was awarded the contract for $132,356. An added cost will be for the construction and equipment needed for the railroad crossing of about $40,000.

Lake Lansing road from Abbott road east to M-78 will also get a face lifting this year. A 2 1/2 mile stretch will have the grade widened to 36 feet with a 24-foot-wide strip of bituminous concrete.

This improvement will go through the Tower Gardens urban section and be built to urban standards there with curbs, gutters and a grade 44 feet wide. Estimated cost for the work is $220,000. All the grading will be done by the county with the paving completed by the Spartan Asphalt company.

Bids will be taken July 9 for a project on Holt road from the New York Central railroad tracks east to Okemos road. Work on this is to include widening of the grade, paving and the laying of 9 inch thick concrete in 24 foot width.

Engineers have estimated the cost for this project at $450,000 including the purchase of rights of way, easements and engineering costs.

Boys Camp Gets Aid

Finance, personnel and buildings for Highfields, the camp for boys near Onondaga, are moving ahead at a full pace, the Highfields Gazette, publication of the project, announced this week.

The article points out 2 important developments in finance. It states that contribution of a very substantial sum has been confirmed.

A further inspiration came with the contribution of Okemos Cub Scout pack No. 125. This group, under the leadership of Ted Swift, contributed $25, raised from a paper sale.

A general board meeting is expected to be called in about 2 weeks to take action on a director for the camp and to set plans for the start of work on the first building.

Recreation Program Starts

The Mason Summer Recreation program got off to an overwhelming start with more than 100 participants each of the first two days at the play grounds. Sixteen took advantage of the facilities Monday evening, and 75 went swimming at the Lansing Y.M.C.A. Tuesday.

Some of the equipment has not yet been set up because of centennial properties on the premises.

Volley ball and badminton poles are needed as are horse-shoes, tennis rackets, and golf clubs. Donations of any of these not in use would be appreciated.

There is still room in the 3 o'clock class for more swimmers if anyone wishes to enroll.

Dust Relief Is On Way

Frank (Tex) Evans, superintendent-engineer of the Ingham County Road commission, said that all county residents living near or beside gravel roads should have some relief from the dust by the end of this week.

County trucks will have completed the first application of calcium chloride on all 340 miles of gravel road in the county by Friday.

The schedule for July calls for a second application of the chloride on all gravel roads in highly urban areas. In August all the rural roads will get a second application.

Urban areas with gravel roads will have a third application of calcium chloride applied in September.

The mowing of weeds on county property and along county roads is well underway in the county and will be a continuous job until after the fall frosts.

Mayor Pearsall Reports:

Many Projects Completed During 1st Half of '65

June marks the half way point in the year 1965 and during the past 6 months the city of Mason has made good use of its time. Various projects have been completed and many begun that look to the future progress of the city.

Looking into the future the city put down a test water well on the Howell road. Indications are that the well will pump anywhere from 350 to 400 gallons of water per minute.

"Councilmen feel that an adequate supply of water is necessary in order to insure continued growth of the city", Mayor Gilson Pearsall said.

"There is a master plan in which the city hopes to build a 12 inch water main in a loop around the city so that residents and businesses can easily connect up to the city water."

In line with this plan some 80 feet of the 12 inch water main has been installed on the service road just west of the city limits. Another 400 feet of the large main is set for installation in the latter part of this year. Also in the future is 1,600 feet of water main out to the new well on Howell road.

In other completed projects the city put in 2,500 feet of storm sewer on McRoberts, W. Cherry and W. Oak streets at an approximate cost of $30,000. Some 1,200 feet of storm sewer was installed on S. Barnes street at a cost of $7,500.

Sections of curbs in the business district were repaired. A new ball field located south of the Cedar street school was built with the school district sharing in half the cost.

Fair Books Ready

Premium lists for the Ingham county fair, 1965 version, are available at the extension office and various business places throughout the county. This year's premium list was printed for the fair board by Williamston Enterprise.

Church has Ice Cream Social

Can it be possible for something to be so old that it becomes new again, like ice cream for instance?

The size of the crowd at the ice cream social at the Evangelical United Brethren church Saturday night would bear this out.

In spite of the many modern places to go such as air conditioned movies, outdoor movies, bowling alleys, there are many more... people still turn out for these old fashioned ice cream socials. What used to be a merely a church affair that attracted people from the immediate community, now draws ice cream lovers from many miles away.

The annual social at the E.U.B. church is a perfect example according to Miss May Howlett of Jackson who was at the affair Saturday night.

Miss Howlett is 81 and one of the early members of the church that was founded in 1850. She said the church has been having the socials for at least 75 years.

She said that in the early days, ice cream socials were at homes of the church members. The reason for this, she said, was that most members of the church were farmers and worked in the fields from sunup till sundown and "before we could enjoy our ice cream, we had to work for it."

Miss Howlett explained that members would bring their freezers and out in the old woodshed, the machines were cranked and cranked, and then they would put ice cream into anything that would hold it.

"It is only in the last twelve years in fact," she said "that the affairs have taken place at the church."

Since that time the Waterloo Band has also performed.

Mrs. Maynard Stanfield explained that homemade ice cream is a thing of the past, there are tables laden with other homemade goodies including bread, rolls, pies, cookies, cakes and candies. The women of the church spend the whole day preparing for the event, some start their baking at 6:30 a.m. the day of the social.

For many people, the social is also a homecoming. Those who have moved away to other communities come back once a year

Three of the early members at the big event Saturday night were; Miss Howlett; Mrs. Martha Glenn, 85, and Mrs. Alice Walz who is 80.

While the band played outdoors, the tables in the dining room were filled with people, young and old, eating ice cream and enjoying real fellowship.

Ham Radio Operators Gather

Some 75 amateur radio operators from central Michigan held a field day at Camp Kiwanis last Saturday and Sunday to demonstrate the amateur radio operators' readiness to provide emergency communications on a nationwide basis.

More than 1,000 contacts with stations all over the country were made during the test period. The exercise was termed a success by Pete Gossett, assistant Lansing civil defense director of communications.

The mid-Michigan "hams" joined about 15,000 other operators in the United States and Canada in the program.

The amateur club ranked 12th best in the nation last year. Results and rankings will not be known until December when the Amateur Radio Relay league reports are evaluated from all participating clubs.

HEAD START FLAG—Joe Kiersey (left) Delhi charter township supervisor, and Alton Stine, principal of the Sycamore elementary school in Holt, look over a Head Start flag which Kiersey raised on the flag pole at the Delhi township hall Wednesday morning in Ceremonies marking the beginning of the head start program in Holt schools. The program is designed for pre-school children to prepare them for entering school next fall.

Head Start Program in Holt

HOLT—It Was Head Start Day today in Holt.

Supervisor Joe Kiersey of Delhi Charter township opened the ceremonies by raising a flag at the Delhi township hall at 10 a.m. by raising a specially designed Head Start flag on the flagpole at the township hall. The flag raising was in tribute to the many persons in Holt who made the Head Start program there possible.

Holt was among some 2,300 communities in the nation which joined with the White House in Washington to launch the program designed to help pre-school pupils who will enroll in classes next September.

In Washington today Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, honorary chairman of the Head Start project received Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) and presented a flag symbolizing the thousands of emblems which will be flown across the country to mark Head Start Day.

OEO officials say it is planned to award flags to individual Head Start centers on the basis of their achievement and merit in attaining the required standards and objectives of the program.

Project H S is administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal agency which coordinates the War on Poverty. It is designed to provide more than one-half million children with a seven-week's pre-school training, to prepare them for entry into school in the fall. Without this training, many of these children would find it hard to take their place beside their more fortunate classmates. They will literally be given a "Head Start."

The children will be enrolled in more than 13,500 Child Development Centers across the country using the services of nearly 40,000 professionals. More than 42,000 neighborhood residents will assist the professional staff in paid capacities. Half a million volunteers are being called for to fill approximately 100,000 non-paying jobs. The cost of the program is $94.4 million of which the federal share is $85 million.

Open House Fetes Graduate

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Longstaff of Meridian road honored their son, David, with open house for his graduation from Leslie High school. Class colors, blue and white were the theme of the decorations. Guests were present from Lansing, Jackson, Adrian, Owosso, Grass Lake, Chelsea and Danville.

An Aunt, Mrs. Olive Rosemire, from Quebec Canada was present. David will attend Lansing Community college for 2 year's basic schooling.

Receives Award

A/IC Jeremy Coon received the Airman of the Month award for June from Detachment 30, 26th Weather, Luke Air Force Base, Arizona. He will soon be transferred to Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha Nebraska.

Letters to the Editor

What's Happened

What has happened to our county's 4-H program? It seems to have lost its leadership, its organization, and, worst of all, its participation.

While I do realize we cannot lay the entire blame on any one factor, I do think many problems may stem from one point; that however equitable it may be, the division of responsibilities in the 4-H office is unfortunate. Some of the effects have been a cancellation of this year's Ingham county 4-H camp, a small interest in the 1965 talent show, and slow action on rebuilding the 4-H concession at the fairgrounds.

It seems as though this unfortunate division of responsibilities has resulted in degeneration of these and other activities because of over zealousness and control exercised by the agent in charge.

This is not to mention how the program might well suffer in the future if responsibilities are not delegated to those competent members, (and leaders), who are willing to assume them.

I would appreciate hearing the views of others who might have ideas, or suggestions on the subject.

Country School Is Passing From Today's Scene

One-Roomers Did a Job

The little country school house, which has made history in the Mason school district for scores of years, is on the way out. M. Chandler Nauts, superintendent of Mason schools says it is unlikely that 7 of these country schools—all these are left in the Mason district—will reopen next fall. Pupils will be divided up among Mason's 4 elementary schools.

Once there were 25 of these little schools dotting the countryside around Mason. One by one they have been eliminated by the march of progress in education.

Some of these schools are well over 100 years old. Some of them have been remodeled into residences, some have been torn down, some are being used for farm sheds, and some still stand alone and deserted like sentinels of the past.

The 7 which are scheduled to depart from the educational scene this year are the Aurelius Center school on Aurelius road, south of Barnes road; the Webb school at Columbia and Elfert roads, the Barnes school at Barnes and Edgar roads, the Canaan school at Dart and Harper roads, the Pink school at College and Columbia roads, the Eden school in Eden and the Hubbard school at Barnes and Ives roads.

The 18 others which have been closed over the years are the Nichols school at Onondaga and Nichols roads, the Bullen school at Gale and Columbia roads, the Curtis school at Curtis and Onondaga roads, the Gretchen school at Bunker and Aurelius roads, Kipp school at Kipp and College roads, the Harper school at Harper road and highway US-127, the Sandhill school at Sandhill and Phillips roads, the Phillips school at Phillips and Holt roads, the Rolfe school on Barnes road, west of Laxton roads, the Walters school at Tomlinson and old US-127, the Robbins school on Okemos road, north of Harper road, the Alameda Center school on Okemos road, north of Holt road, the Hawley school at Hawley road and Dexter road, the Wilson school on Columbia road, east of Every road, the Dubois school at Harper and Every roads, the German school on Every road between Willoughby and Holt roads and the Douglas school on Meridian road, north of Frost road.

In the early days few records were kept of school proceedings in the little settlements of Ingham county, but those available tell a story of log structures being built at costs ranging from $100 to $300 where children of that day studied the 3 R's during school terms that ranged from 3 months to 9 months in length.

Records of these early days schools in the office of Alton J. Stroud, superintendent of the Ingham Intermediate school district date back only about 50 years, but one record of District 4, believed to have been in Alameda township, reveals some interesting facts about school life in 1916.

In that year District 4 school had about 40 pupils, children of families many of whose names loom large in the present day life of Ingham county. The pupils ranged in ages from 5 years to 18. The teacher was LaVelle Surateaux who received $450 for teaching the 9 month term. The pupils included these children of that day: George Ellison, Cyril Bateman, Hugh Doolittle, Forest Neal, Harold Neal, Russell Thorburn, Marguerite Roosa, Clizbe Dart, Campbell Dart, William Dart, Dorothy Dart, Bertha Welsh, John Fellows, Mary Fellows, Don Everett, Doris Everett, Katherine Everett, Russell Bateman, Ernie Bateman, Nellis Bateman, Henry Fehr, Ona Miers, William Miers, Mildred Ellison, Ruth Ellison, Mae Doolittle, Don Doolittle, Arthur Frader, Julia M. Cook, Henry A. Cook, Marian E. Cook, Dart Lang, Merton Mizer, J. Watson Smith, Earl Davidson, Irene Barnes and Marie Barnes.

Mrs. Frances L. Adams' pioneer history of Ingham county, ment about 3 miles north of Mason and which, when it was founded, had visions of becoming not only the county seat of the Jefferson village school which was in a settlement about 3 miles north of Mason and which, when it was founded, when it was founded, had visions of becoming not only the county seat of Ingham county but also the capital of Michigan. Jefferson City, however, died almost aborting, but while it did exist it had a school, a little log building built in 1837. The 26 children enrolled were taught by Mary Ann Rolfe.

District No. 2, the Robbins school, came into being in 1839. The first school was a log shanty and Miss Harriet Childs was the teacher. She had 6 pupils. The school term lasted 3 months. Other Robbins schools were built through the years.

The Dubois school was named for Martin Dubois who settled in the district--No. 3--in 1836. The first school meeting took place in Dubois' home November 11, 1841 when it was decided to build a school 22 feet square. The building was a log structure with a shingle roof and heated with a buix stove. It cost $100.

The first teacher was Samuel Dubois who was only 15 years of age. He later graduated from the University of Michigan college of medicine.

The frame school house replaced the log structure in 1856. The first teacher in the then new school was Kate Dubois. There were 35 pupils.

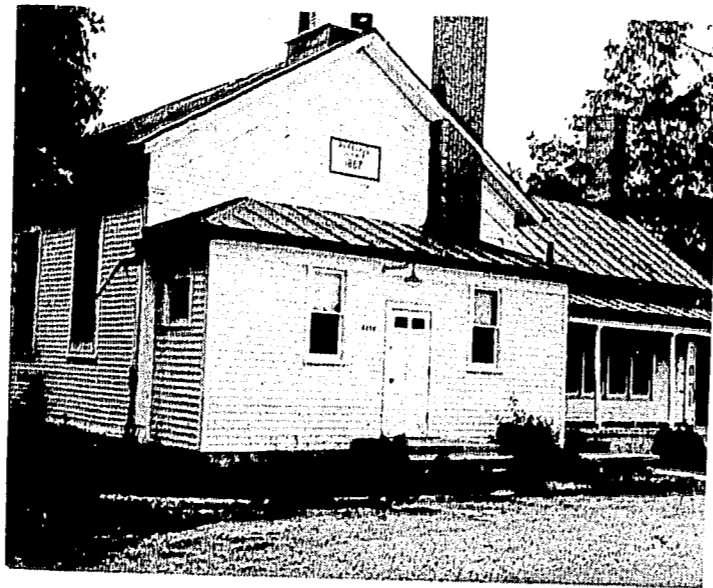

A brick building was constructed in 1891 at a cost of $1,000. F. E. Searl, later Ingham county commissioner of schools, was the teacher. He had 52 pupils.

District school No. 4, embracing Alameda township and portion of Delhi township was started April 10, 1844. The ground for the school was purchased from John Pierce. A tax of $100 was levied to pay for the school house and $20 to pay for the land and for other expenses. The first school census listed 10 children.

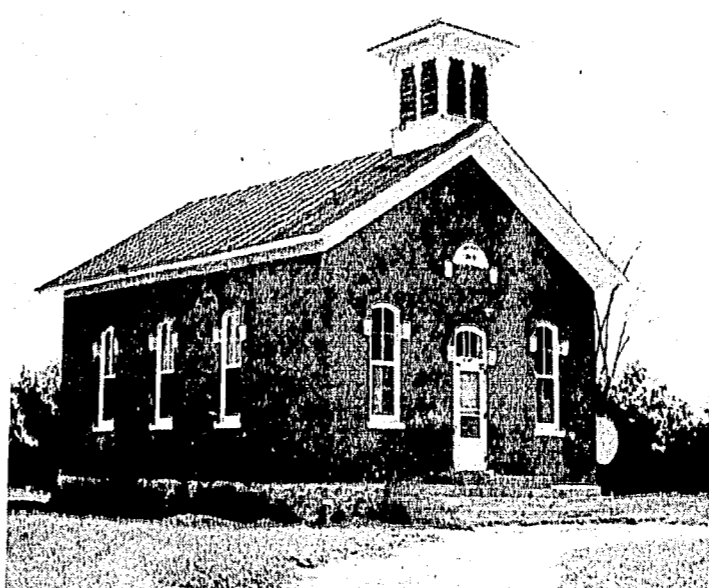

In 1854 there were 16 children listed in the census and in that year it was recorded that J. S. Wood and O. B. Stillman were allowed 75 cents each for "inspecting the teacher".

In that year also it was voted that a tax of $1 per pupil be levied for the support of the school. The records show that in 1861 the district, by that time all in Alameda township, owned a new school which cost about $600. In 1873 wages of teachers varied for $2.50 a week with board (the teacher boarding around) to $25 a month.

School district No. 6, also in Alameda, was comprised of many German families. A log school was built on a corner of the Valentine Raddie farm. Miss Rose Shayer was the teacher.

HUBBARD SCHOOL

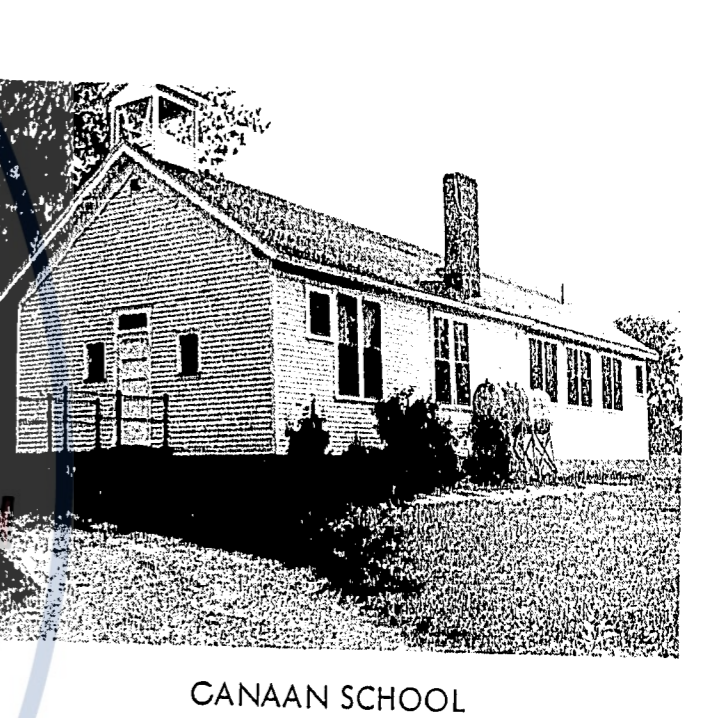

The Walters school in District No. 7 of Vevay township came into being in 1854 when the district purchased a site for a new school at Fifield Corners. The building was 22 by 24 feet in size and cost $180. On April 27, 1857 the district entered into a contract with Adeline White to teach for a term of 3 months, starting May 4, 1857. When the time came for the school to open there was no school building ready. In the fall of 1857 the district voted to tax each pupil 75 cents the coming year for support of the school. The patrons of the scho

The patrons of the school also were to furnish a half cord of wood per pupil for the winter term.

Kipp school was built in 1854 on the southwest corner of Section 18 in Vevay township. It was a frame building. The first teacher was Miss Ruth Bateman.

The building was 16 by 18 feet in size with 6 windows and 2 doors. It was heated by a box stove. The building was replaced with a new school in 1887.

The Wilson school in District 9 of Vevay township was so named because F. L. Wilson, who owned and operated a sawmill near where the school was erected, was the contractor who built it. Prior to that time classes were conducted in the dwelling of B. B. Noyes. There were about 20 pupils. Mrs. Mary Hawks, the first teacher received 12 shilling a week or about $1.50.

ing in Salt Lake City for work in the Peace Corp in Ethiopia. The 2 young Hawaiian people, like teenagers from a neighboring town, talk of their own high school and life on the island. And the image of the 50th state takes a new form. From the picture of a mecca for tourists and a play ground for vacationers they paint life on the island as a busy, industrious state.

Contrary to the idea of a huge play ground it's a bee hive of industry and the young people work when not in school. Pineapples and sugar cane are big products as are vegetables such as cabbage, potatoes and onions which are raised in quantities. A pleasant discovery in their visits at the Lightfoot home was to learn that the father of Mrs. Derwent Suthers, a Mr. Bonsey, was the chemistry teacher in their Baldwin High School on the island. They enjoyed the Rev. and Mrs. Suthers and the many memories of their home town and the common bond of interest. Claire and Albert are ambassadors. They bring this new state closer to its neighbors and give a bond of better understanding.

MSU Honors Williamston Alumnus

Mason Man Has Gun Collection

Muzzle loading guns are of great interest and value to Don Densmore, owner of Densmore's IGA.

For the past two years Densmore has been attending gun shows and adding to his already considerably large collection of antiques from in and around Mason.

Guns dating from the seventeenth century are a part of Densmore's collection. An interesting fact about the collection is that all the guns are fireable.

Densmore and one of his employees, James Hawkins, have a small area in the rear of the grocery store which they use for display and repair of the old weapons. Each gun is carefully cleaned and fired periodically to insure it is working properly. When buying a gun Densmore always checks to see if a load is in the gun. In the olden days guns were kept loaded and hanging on the wall ready to fend off an indian attack. Densmore says that 50 per cent of the guns he inspects have been stored away in attics and are still loaded.

Williamston Gardners Get Ready for Big Show

The Red Cedar Garden Club Flower Show at Williamston is always an interesting and enjoyable affair. The show on Saturday staged from 2 to 9 p.m. at the American Legion hall was outstanding in more ways than one. It showed a well planned organization and careful individual detailed execution.

The scarcity of late spring flowers dwarfed the size of the exhibition but not the quality of the display.

Classes I and II "Let Me Call You Sweetheart!" and "I Love You Truly" had arrangements of delicate beauty and skillful handling. Class IV "Oh Mine Papa" had displays of original fitness for Father's Day.

Mrs. Wain Cripps was general chairman and Mr. Leo Tankersley as president of the club assisted.

CLAIR KAGAWA AND ALBERT SOON

Residents of 50th State Guests in Williamston

WILLIAMSTON--Two interesting guests at the Elmer Lightfoot home recently were Claire Kagawa and Albert Soon from Maui Island of Hawaii.

A close friendship with Miss Kagawa began when Mrs. Lightfoot and daughter, Nancy, were vacationing in Hawaii last summer and by chance met Miss Kagawa's mother. The friendship ripened when Miss Kagawa came to Michigan in September to attend Michigan State university. Soon came into the picture when he met the Lightfoot family through Claire as he was also from Maui and the home town of Wailekuana a student at M.S.U.

Both have enjoyed the hospitality of their hosts throughout the school year and the young people of the host family with their various interests and travels. The oldest daughter, Nancy, a teacher, is now receiving training in Salt Lake City for work in the Peace Corp in Ethiopia.

The Ingham County News, Wednesday, June 30, 1965 - Page A-6

Capsule

ches forward to a greater and more abundant life.

As we pause here today in the year 1965, a mere speck of time in God's eternity, we should think in all sobriety upon the rich heritage which is ours. A heritage which we must not tarnish, nor sully, nor deplete before it is passed on to generations to follow us.

In things made of stone, and steel, and brick, and cement -- in things tangible -- Mason is rich. We have new schools. We have a modern hospital, and good government buildings. We have an abundance of paved streets, and adequate police and fire fighting equipment. We have parks, a fair ground, and other material things too numerous to mention.

Our homes have telephones, and electricity, and radios, and television sets, and gadgets, gadgets, gadgets. Our world has jet propulsion for transportation, and rockets, and artificial earth satellites, and atomic power.

But with me, and I hope with you, these things are not the greatest element of our heritage. For if we are rich only in these things, we truly are poor. For richness and greatness is to be found in the spirit of the people.

One of the bright diamonds in our heritage is the strength of the moral fiber in our community. Let us be happy in the knowledge of the fact that the moral integrity so prevalent in Mason, emanates from and feeds upon the presence of God in the hearts, and in the minds, and in the lives of people. And, my friends, we as a community are strongly God-conscious, largely because our predecessors -- those who lived, and labored, and loved here before us -- our predecessors; wisely chose to establish churches to minister to the spiritual needs.

Now, Mason is the hub of city, and county, and school governments. Each within itself is an outstanding example of local government. And why is this so? This is so because many citizens, from 1865 to 1965, accepted personal involvement in local government as a citizenship responsibility. The record of the years is studded with the names of outstanding example of local government. And why is this so? This is so because many citizens, from 1865 to 1965, accepted personal involvement in local government as a citizenship responsibility. The record of the years is studded with the names of outstanding individuals who contributed greatly to the firm foundation on which we stand today. And this is another gem in our heritage.

We must polish and exhibit this community attitude toward individual involvement in local government. We must teach it daily. Not just some of us, but every one of us. We must teach it daily to our young people, by precept and by example. We must mold our young people into responsible citizens for the sake of our free society.

We are gathered here today at the threshold of our second century to place this capsule into the earth. In it are letters which reach out across the years to 1900. How I wish that I could describe the Mason of 25 years from now. But, alas, my extrasensory perception abilities are no greater than yours. Oh, I presume that I could bring to you from my heart a patriot's dream which would extend beyond the years -- but, then, it would be just visionary -- it would be just a dream.

This I believe: that the future peace, prosperity, progress, happiness, and greatness of Mason will be in direct relationship to the day by day attitudes of its individual citizens. I am convinced that Mason will continue as the greatest little city on earth if we:

1. continue to give primacy to things which are spiritual, and if we
2. continue to exercise our individual citizenship responsibilities, and if we
3. continue to make personal moral integrity a keystone of life.

For anyone of us to do less is to weaken our link with the future.

New frontiers in medicine, in communications, in transportation, in space, and in virtually every field of human endeavor will challenge our young citizens in the next 25 years. If they successfully meet these challenges, and if God is the author of their actions they shall, then this will be a great and interesting period of time in which to live. I hope that each of us will have the privilege of living through those years. I hope to meet you here 25 years from today.

In the meantime, let each of us live, and think, and act as though presentation of our heritage of freedom -- as though the turning over of our heritage of freedom -- to the people of 1990 were to be his, or her, individual responsibility.

May God continue to bless you, your families, our community, and all humanity.

BIBLE SCHOOL ROYALTY -- Miss Kelly Cokonougher, daughter of Charles Cokonougher of Stoll road, and Jerry White, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Don Woodman, were crowned king and queen of the Okemos Church of the Nazarene vacation bible school, which met this past week under the direction of Mrs. W.W. Ridenour. The school was for one week followed by a picnic on Saturday and a demonstration program Sunday morning. The children enjoyed a week full of activity, including Bible study, memory work, crafts, music, and refreshments. Rev. W.W. Ridenour is the minister.

Leslie Play Program Gets Under Way

LESLEIE - The Leslie recreation program will be set up slightly different this year, providing a willing instructor is found. A baseball schedule also will be set up and the various leagues will be playing in leagues of their same age.

A weekly session of basketball practice has been set up for anyone who is willing to work around Froehy's schedule. He will set the night when it is most convenient for him.

Contracts were offered to Paul Howe to teach 8th grade math and to Judith Eastman to teach French and Spanish in the high school.

The board also voted to purchase equipment for the bus garage.

Old Grads In Reunion

LESLEIE - The graduating class of 1945 from Leslie High school got together for a reunion at Pleasant Bay Estates, just south of Pleasant Lake.

Twenty members of the class were present in comparison to the approximately 55 who graduated.

A pot luck dinner was one feature of the gathering and the children of the old grads enjoyed swimming while their parents reminisced.

Centennial Pays Off For Bearded Ones

There were many dull razors in Mason following the Centennial, but some of the beard-growers were rewarded for their efforts.

Winners in the Beard contest were Best Appearing, Richard Betcher, Harold Laycock and Seth Carlson; Fullest Beard, Oscar Wilson, Fred Baldwin and Eugene Johnson; Longest Beard, Lonny Ballard, Gerald Wisner and Ken Taylor.

Those placing in other beard contests were Bob Morgan, Earl Parker and Dan Gilchrist for the Most Unique; Lawrence Jones, Jr., Gib Strickling, and Dick Henneman, the Curliest Beards; Ken Chandler, Charles Brandell and David Mininover, the Best Goatee; and George Morris, Ed Campbell and Wes Lomax, for the Best Van Dyke.

Other winners in the beard contests include Gary Sherwood, C. V. Post and Robert Goldford for the best Abe Lincolns. In the mustache category Lester Hawkins, Ray Collar and Bill Hamlin rated tops.

Those with outstanding sideburns were Ed Campbell and Bob Clucci. Beards showing the best color were grown by Russell Bartlett, Fred Bakwin and Ken Taylor.

6,000 Saw Centennial Pageant

Much hard work and many hours paid off during Centennial week.

Over 6,000 persons came to see the cast of Mason people present a pageant of the city's history from the pioneer days up to the space age.

The colorful pageant switched quickly from one era to the next with authentic props and costumes.

Mrs. Jeanette Dart was general chairman of the event and had numerous committees and individuals to help get the job done.

The John D. Rogers Co., produced the spectacle with the cooperation of hundreds of amateur actors and actresses from Mason.

Fate of Old Schoolhouse Is Pondered

LESLEIE - The 80 year old school at Onondaga which is a part of the Leslie school district is in need of repairs which will cost at least $2,000 before it can safely be used next fall, the Leslie school board has been told by the fire marshal's office.

The board discussed the fate of the old building at their meeting Monday night but came to no decision. The 3-classroom school was used last year to serve 60 pupils, 30 each from Leslie and Onondaga.

Board members said they are faced with the question of whether to repair the building, rent classrooms or try to find room for the students in the Leslie school buildings.

Dear Doris

DEAR DORIS - My husband and I are both in the Boy Scout movement and my husband makes scouting his God. We just have not got any people who will come to visit us, because they say all he will talk about is scouting.

When I want to go to visit our married children, he won't go; but if I suggest going where there are Scout leaders, he'll go. I can't get him to take me to a show.

We have many a quarrel about his lack of interest in me. What would you do, Doris, with a man who makes you feel you come last with him?

DEAR NOBODY - So it would almost seem that your husband married the Boy Scout movement?

You won't change things by protesting -- and you wouldn't even want him to drop his Scouts completely, would you? The thing that is wrong with this hobby is that he has gone overboard.

Serve notice that you plan to spend at least one night a week out; that you also intend to visit your children and grandchildren regularly. When he looks up from his camp kit and can't find you, and discovers that his grandchildren are growing up without knowing him, he may reconsider.

DEAR DORIS - We have to give talks on occupations or something connected with them. Last time I discussed nursing. This time I'd like to have something everyone will enjoy and think great: maybe a panel with two others.

Counting On You
DEAR COUNTING - One of my pet themes is that every single one of us has a special talent. When we discover this, and choose the career related to it, life is a breeze. Your work should be your fun.

My leaflet "On Choosing A Career" goes into this, pointing out that we must avoid false clues, as well as discovering our own special aptitudes. Your panel discussion could cover both, giving examples of people who have found the right job, and some who haven't.

(Anyone may have this leaflet by writing in for it, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

DEAR DORIS - Daddy's day starts at ten a.m. and he loves staying up until two a.m. This is bad enough, but he encourages the children to stay up, too. If I Stuck!

Little boys will be curious and Clifford Flebig, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flebig of Mason is no exception.

While waiting for the authentic centennial costume judging of the father and son class, Clifford decided to peek through the railing around the courthouse rotunda.

This was just fine until he found himself securely lodged between the bars. Other contestants rushed to the youngster's aid. After a good face and ear soaping, Clifford found himself free again, but not without losing a few tears.

tell the kids to get to bed it's, "Oh yes, here she is asserting her female rights, the battle of the sexes to put Dad in his place."

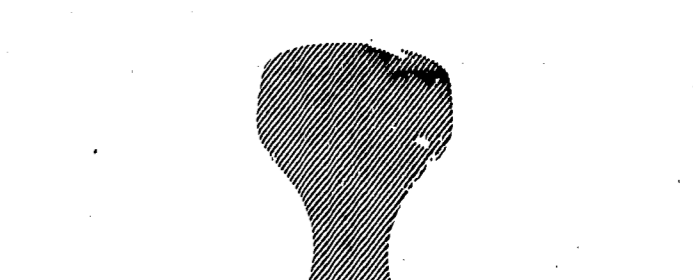

The kids love it! I am shaking with exhaustion at 6.30 a.m. when I have to rouse the boys. The two wee boys get enough rest but Dad's pals, ages 19 and 15, I can't cope with.

SHAKING - Then put Dad in his place as the head of the family -- by stressing his privilege of having rested, healthy teenagers. Ask him whether he plans to let you run things alone.

Right now his actions suggest those of an irresponsible child. His tactics are unfair and designed to make you retire in confusion.

To Untouchable - Your grandfather has taken advantage of his kinship to maul you since you were little. Now, as a young lady, the nearness of a nice young man revolts you -- a reaction which could permanently affect your relations with the opposite sex.

A better understanding of our need for affection and how it should be used to express love could help you. Write in for my list of books on "Sex, Marriage and Birth Control," enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. And find a mature friend or counsellor to talk all this out with.

300 Persons View Paintings

More than 300 persons visited the exhibit of paintings depicting the history of Michigan during its appearance here from June 13 to June 25, at the Hall Memorial Library. Fourteen paintings from the brush of Robert Thom, Birmingham, Michigan, artist, were displayed. One of the 14 pictures had its premier showing here. That was one of Stevens T. Mason, the "boy governor" of Michigan taking the oath of office. Mason was named after Governor Mason.

Library Hours

Library hours at the Hall Memorial library will continue through the summer, Renwick Garrypie, director of Ingham county libraries, said today. The library will be open each day Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and on Fridays and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Centennial Week Quiet for Police

Centennial week in Mason was a quiet and peaceful one as far as police were concerned. Police Chief Tim Stolz said that with some 10,000 visitors in the city during the week, there was not one arrest, not a single accident nor a single fire which were in any way related to the Centennial program. Stolz had 44 uniformed and plain clothes officers on duty during the week.

Administrator's Corner

The first six months of 1965 have been ones of progress and achievement at Mason General. Not the least of which is the success the MGH Belles had with their Centennial float.

This is a marvelous thing they have accomplished. The Belles financed, planned, designed, and built the floats themselves. This is a good indication of the time, work and talent involved. It is also a good indication of the high caliber of people who make up the personnel of MGH.

To overcome personal differences, divergent ideas, and work together to focus their efforts toward such a triumph should certainly give all of us confidence in MGH's future. With people like this, there should be no heights we cannot reach in the field of patient and medical care.

MGH Belles, we salute you, for we are as proud of you as you are of your prize. Robert Recher
Assistant Administrator

Talk Till They're Green

DEAR SUSANNA: Recently I've been reading a lot about people talking to their plants and even playing music to them so that they will flourish. I don't do either of these things, but I do believe there is a lot in what they are saying.

I have wonderful success with growing things and I have a firm conviction why. I really care about my plants, and feel tenderly towards them. I'm positive this is the reason they do so well. It isn't enough just to indifferently toss some water on them now and then because you're supposed to. I'm sure they do respond to this kind of treatment - green things really like to be fussed over.

DEAR SUSANNA: A paste of washing soda and water is ideal for removing grease patches from the garage floor or the driveway. Sprinkle the paste on so that the spots are well covered - leave them overnight and hose off with water and an old broom in the morning. You will see the grease roll away before your eyes.

Use on OLD cement or asphalt only - washing soda might make new cement scale.

DEAR SUSANNA: If you find yourself crying your eyes out in every crowded room because the smoke is too much for you, there is only one thing to do. Build up your own protective smoke screen by giving back puff for puff.

Vast Sewer Expansion Considered In Delhi

HOLT - Delhi township is planning a vast expansion of its sewer system which will involve an expenditure of more than $1,000,000, over 4 square miles of area in the northeast sections of the township.

The township board gave long consideration to the subject at its meeting Monday night. R.W. Petrie, head of R.W. Petrie and Associates, a South Bend engineering firm which designed Holt's present sewer system, laid out the proposed plan before the board with maps showing the location of trunk lines and lift stations in the area proposed to be served.

Delhi officials pointed out the sewer is needed in the northeast section which is rapidly developing as a residential area, with new subdivisions and increased housing.

Petrie and Herbert Pointer, resident engineer of the Petrie organization, explained the proposed expansion of the sewer system.

It would start at E. Holt and College roads and go to Sandhill road, then to Dell road and then to Aurelius road.

The present Holt sewer system covers 3 square miles of territory in the central and northwest sections of the township. Pointer said a rough estimate of the preliminary cost would be about $1,000,000.

Supervisor Joe Kiersey said he would like to see the project started in the spring of 1966. The board decided to meet with Petrie at a date sometime in July and bring to the meeting also Murel Sandkrant, head of a Detroit financial company which has handled Holt sewer bonds.

The discussion is expected to center around the cost of the proposed sewer expansion and how it can be financed.

Delhi has an excellent record in the security market, Kiersey said.

The tentative price quoted by Pointer covers only the cost of the installation of trunk lines and lift stations. There would be lift stations in the expansion program to be located on Pine Tree road, Keller road and Willoughby road.

The laterals from the trunk line would extend 20 feet, from which the hookup to the buildings to be served would be made. Residents would pay for this project.

The present sewer plant now is adequate to handle the proposed expansion, Petrie told the board.

"With more homes going up steadily in the northeast section of the township and prospects of future development in the area, now is the time to expand the sewer system if we can handle the financing," Kiersey said.

The group also discussed a future development of a water system for Holt and the installation of water mains. This, however, is not immediately in prospect.

Home Rule Discussed By Group

County home rule and the Supreme court ruling on apportionment according to one man vote based on population were the topics for discussion at the June meeting of the Holt Triangle Farm Bureau club.

The 2 ways of over-ruling the Supreme court's decision by a 2/3 vote of the states or an amendment to the constitution were discussed and the group was in favor of writing their state senators and representatives asking them to delay action on adopting the court ruling on the one man vote in county government.

City's Centennial Homes Get Plenty of Visitors

The Centennial committee designated 27 homes and public buildings as centennial structures—those that have been here for 100 years or more.

448 S. Jefferson (Building - owner - Thomas Hopp) One of the few original business establishments not ravaged by fires or torn down in the path of progress. Was a bank for many years, has been a dental office for 65 years.

721 S. Jefferson (owner - Kent Johns) First county courthouse, located across from courthouse square on E. Ash. Moved to its present location.

703 S. Barnes (owner - L.D. White) Abstract shows persons living in dwelling in 1887.

625 S. Barnes (owner - Hugh Slisby) This house was the Presbyterian Manse at one time. Has been extensively remodeled in recent years.

334 E. Elm (owner - Gilson Pearsall) Old city plat maps show this house. Typical of square type dwelling built at that time; extensively remodeled in recent years.

525 S. Holt (owner - Robert O. Schaeffer) Woodshed (woodhouse) for 2nd courthouse, built in 1857. Purchased for $400 at auction and moved to its present location in 1905 by L.H. Minnis. Extensively remodeled from time to time; not much remains of original building except frame sheathing two story upright.

422 E. Oak (owner - Charles VanHorn) When house was renovated recently, a letter dated May 1856 was found in the wall. Their are log floor joists, 8x8 hand hewn timbers and split lathe with square nails.

310 E. Oak (owner - Robert Ingraham) Purchased by the First Methodist Episcopal Church from Marquis True in 1864. Was the Methodist Manse until 1926.

302 E. Oak (owner - Mrs. Margaret McLean) During remodeling, letters were found in the wall dated 1861. Twenty years ago, an eighty year old resident told his present owner that it had been here as long as she could remember.

231 E. Oak (owner - Mrs. Marian Holloway) One of the oldest homes in Mason built with square oak beams and square beams and square blunt nails. It has been used as a nursing home; four rooms added recently.

213 S. Jefferson (owner - Richard Morris) At one time this old home was the home of a tailor who used to sit cross-legged in the middle of a large table. Corners of original house of solid walnut, 4x4. Extensively remodeled in recent years yet still retaining flavor of its original architectural features.

214 State St. (owner - Hugh Slisby) This building is one of the few remaining business establishments. Located on the Sycamore Creek it was formerly a grist mill, carriage factory and a whiskey distillery.

524 Center (owner - David Hoedeman) Early plat maps show the original part of the house was standing in 1874.

405 W. Ash (owner - Jack Whetmore) Architectural trim and porch are original. It has several windows imported from Germany. Two cutglass windows are located in the kitchen.

124 W. Ash (owner - Henson Building) Originally a hostelry with stables attached, it later saw use as a grocery store, hotel, postoffice and even a movie house.

233 E. Ash (owner - Robert Thompson) Occupants found newspaper in attic (Detroit Journal) dated 1897, and the abstract is dated back to 1895.

405 E. Ash (owner - Edward Birchfield) Building shown in earliest plat maps. The floor joists are logs with the bark still on them. There are bricks between the studding in the original upright, (fifteen years ago an old gentleman in his 90's told occupants that he had lived in the house up until he was five years old).

725 E. Ash (owner - James Frew) Home of original Rayner farm. Early maps indicate this pioneer owned a large part of the east side of Mason. (Well house located in what is now Rayner Park across the road stood until just a few years ago. Through the years it served as ice storage and cabinet shop.) Has solid walnut timbers woodwork, exterior walls are 18" solid brick. The carriage house in the rear was once a blacksmith shop and much of the forge still remains.

1001 E. Columbia (owner - C. E. Johnson) Henry Reeves bought this farm in 1850. Plat book of 1874 shows that Reeves had a house on it at that time.

1105 E. Columbia (owner - Lawrence Lane) Owner was born in the house in Mason around 1900. Later it was moved to East Columbia Rd.

1322 N. Every Rd., between Lamb and Harper rd. (owner - Clayton Wells) In "History of Ingham and Eaton County, Michigan with Illustrations," by Samuel Durant, there is a drawing of this farm as it looked when owned by Rudolph Tryon, who became a resident prior to 1844. House, completely remodeled, and the old grainery still remain on the land.

1525 W. Dexter Trail (owner - Perry Foss) The map with illustrations of area homes, on display in the basement of the Library and Board of Supervisors room in the Courthouse, shows picture of this house (Searles).

2064 Dexter Trail (owner - Mrs. Wm. Musoff) Owner says her abstract dates this home from 1850 and that she believes they are only the third owners of the property.

Corner of College and W. Columbia - Pink School House, Beloved "Pink School House." The school district celebrated 100 years of operation in July, 1953. Emeline Rowe was the first teacher. Four generations of Rowes have gone to school at the "Pink." It has been remodeled at least twice.

Columbia Rd. 1/2 mile west of Edgar Rd, north side of road. (Owner - Mrs. Paul Rowe) Frank Vaughn, now a resident of California describes many details of this home which is over 100 years old. Micajah Vaughn, his grandfather, purchased the land from J.D. Thomas in 1840 and built the home which now stands. Mr. Vaughn states that it was all woods between the home and Mason. There were no houses except one west of what is now Cedar St.

2989 Tomlinson Rd. U.S. 127, turn west on Tomlinson, travel one mile. (owner - Mr. & Mrs. Joe Bullen) Built in 1847. Frame is made from hand hewn timbers put together with pegs, nails are of the square type. Mrs. Stillman, daughter of the original owner, describes the house in "History of Ingham County" by Ethel Adams. She mentions a fireplace between kitchen and living room. (The foundation remains can still be identified in the cellar.) Later owners removed the fireplace and planked up the partition.

1081 Hull Rd. NE Corner of Tomlinson and Hull (owner - Frank & Ellen Mohr) This school house was located on the northeast corner of Tomlinson and Hull Road until it was moved to its present location and remodeled into a family dwelling several years ago. According to "History of Ingham County," residents in Walker's District met in 1854 to organize a school district. School began in 1857. Scholars were taxed 75¢ for support of the school.

Powdered Milk Shortage Hindering CROP Program

Dwindling supplies of powdered milk have reduced the amount given to voluntary agencies for their overseas feeding programs; according to Russell M. Hartzler, Michigan CROP director.

To make up the shortage CROP has been requested to increase its contributions for purchases of milk for overseas distribution. Michigan CROP is asking families to share the price of a loaf of bread for 20 weeks. Through CROP this will provide a glass of milk or a bowl of beans daily for one person for a whole year.

To simplify weekly sharing, CROP provides coin folders at no charge to any Michigan family wishing to use them. Each folder holds 20 quarters.

According to Hartzler, essentially all funds received by CROP are not otherwise designated will be used for the purchase of Michigan beans and milk, both high-protein foods and the most needed food items in hunger areas of the world.

John Axford, Mason football and golf coach and physical education teacher, is through with his teaching—not only at Mason, but in public schools.

He left Sunday for Denver, Colorado, and a job with the Ford Motor company in the Denver district sales office.

Mrs. Axford and the children will leave for Denver just as soon as housing is found.

Axford served as assistant football coach at Mason under Head Coach Fred Driver. When Driver left Mason for Florida Axford was elevated to the job, serving as head coach for 3 years.

As I See It

By Hayden Palmer

Mason's observance of its 100th anniversary as a city has passed into history now, but to all appearances the event was a highly successful one from practically every standpoint.

The parade which opened the week's program was one of the best ever staged here, the various small programs which occupied almost every hour of every day were well attended and the pageant of the city's history--Mason in Motion--was well produced and brought forth much favorable comment from visitors.

Visitors were numerous during the week, some coming from far away places and many old friendships of former years were renewed as former residents came back to look over the home town after years of absence.

The weather man was cooperative. The weather was warm but not uncomfortably so, the sun shone brightly most of the time and the program went off without any accidents or other mishaps to mar it. Rain postponed the opening of the pageant from Tuesday to Wednesday, but otherwise the program went off according to schedule.

The hundreds of persons who had a part in planning and carrying through the vast Centennial program are to be congratulated for a job well done. And Richard Magel, the Centennial general chairman, on whose shoulders rested a lot of responsibilities can go back to his knowledge that he did a Herculean job and did it well. Mayor Gilson Pearsall can look with pride on the success of the Centennial. It was his idea in the first place. And now too, the beads will come off the faces of most of Mason's masculine population and the Centennial Belles, who numbered into the many hundreds, can return to the styles and fashions of the space age in which we live.

I have never been much for reunions, but the other night I went to a little gathering that turned out to be a reunion and one of the nicest I have ever attended.

Kenneth R. West, retired managing editor of The State Journal, and Mrs. West invited a group of retired members of the news staff of the paper and some long time workers who are still in the business, to their home for an evening of pleasant memories.

If the total number of years of employment of those present could have been counted up they would run into several hundred. And I can also say that if they all had been turned loose to get out an edition they could have done it easily in a style that would satisfy and publisher.

I talked to one man who has only recently retired. Already he wants to get back into writing again. He is Edwin Wintermute of Haslet, one of the most distinguished arts editors the Journal ever had.

And there were others, Howarr Rugg, present city editor who plans to retire this year and Frank Pritchard, former state editor, now retired. One face was missing, George S. Alderton, retired sports editor, who now, I understand, is living in California.

And there were present also these who still are on the staff: Virginia Redfern, women's editor; Frank Hand, Maynard Hill, Pat McCarthy, Kenneth Gunders, man, present managing editor, and Dick Murray, who is the new arts editor, succeeding Wintermute.

They all were accompanied by their wives who gave added lustre to the gathering.

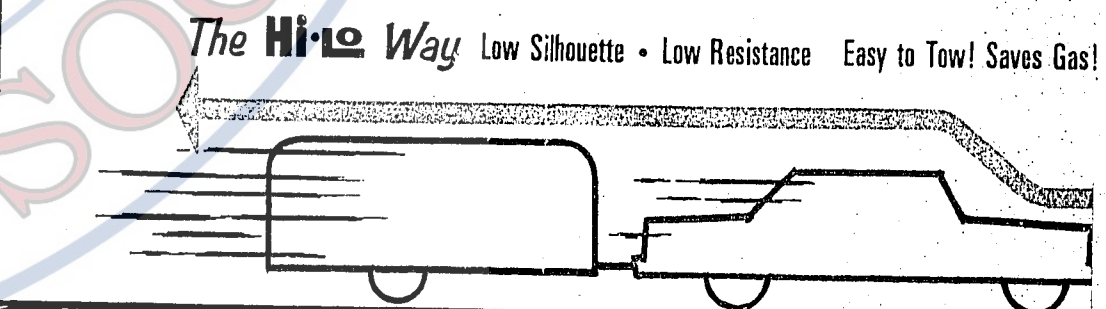

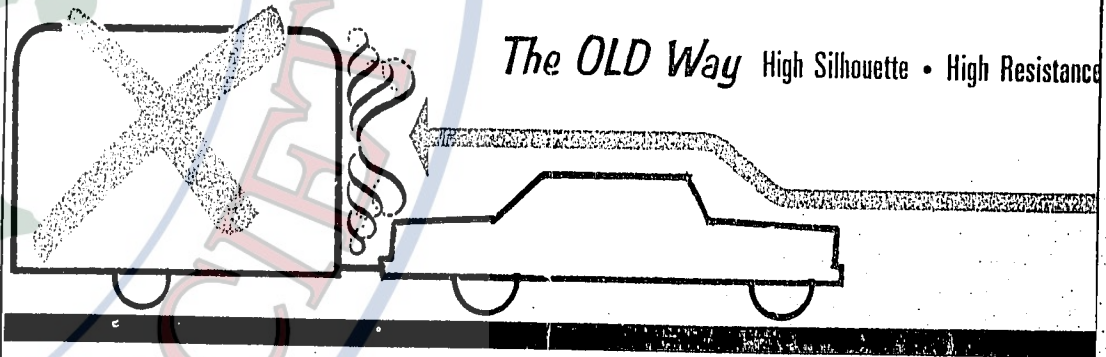

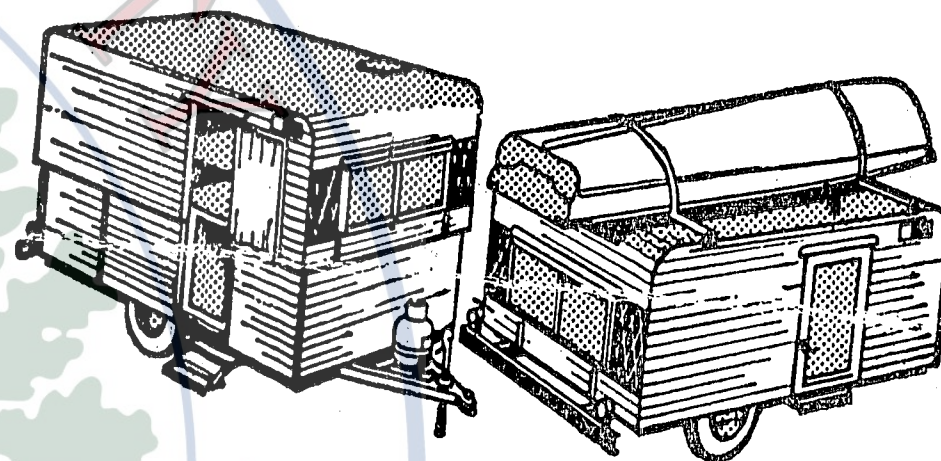

All of them have spent years and years as members of the Journal's news staff. My thanks to Mr. and Mrs. West for a most delightful evening.

Mason school board members have approved a resolution calling for a special election on the swimming pool proposal for Monday August 24.

To celebrate the 10th anniversary of Densmore's IGA, Don and Leone Densmore had about 3,500 people out for a chicken dinner Saturday. They started coming at noon and the barbecue pits were still broiling halves of chicken when the sun went down.

Members of the Mason Junior Chamber of Commerce are returning the Sycamore creek jungle between Maple and Ash streets into a community park. About a dozen men brushed off the area Wednesday night and a bulldozer will be put to work probably next week.

Larry Lindemer of Stockbridge, now commutes weekly between Stockbridge and Washington in connection with his work with the Hoover commission. Lindemer said he enjoyed his work in Washington but prefers to live and bring up his children in Stockbridge.

Barbs and Praise

There was a time when Good Old Ed Sullivan brightened the corner of the Brown home where we store the idiot box. A Sunday evening with Ed was a must and it doesn't come easy as Dear Old Dad has to fight off Walt Disney, Branded and Broadside. Generally, the head of the household has to trade off Death Valley Days for Lassie in the 7 o'clock spot in order to tune in Ed at 8.

Each week as I take off my shoes and flex my toes I keep thinking that Old Ed will provide a family-type program minus the caterwauling of some strolling band of juvenile misfits featuring long hair and very little talent.

So far Ed has disappointed me. He's usually promoting some shaggy-topped vegetables called the Animals, the Rolling Stones, the infamous Beatles or some other English vagrant group--at least they look like vagrants.

Sunday night was no exception. Old Ed disappointed me again. Mixed into an otherwise fine evening of variety entertainment, was a group featuring a soloist who wheezed and moaned and looked as if he might be suffering from a bad case of dysentery.

les until they let their hair grow out and started playing loud enough to drown their sickening vocal quality.

It is unfair to the talented musicians who have spent years attaining ability as professional musicians to have to trickle off into other trades and professions because the present trend leans toward dirty-nailed guitar pickers with an aversion to looking like human beings.

Please, Ed, why don't you get off this kick for putrid music played by fake musicians. If you don't I will have to switch allegiance to Lassie. I would rather hear a long-hair bark instead of sing.

New industry -- that is the battle cry of communities and Mason is no exception. Whenever a discussion starts about city government and the cost of taxes the old chestnut is dragged out, "We need new industry."

Every community needs industry but few communities are getting new industry. Maybe we in Mason aren't trying hard enough. Maybe we aren't familiar with what a new industry could mean.

Here are some figures prepared by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Just supposing Mason would get a new industry which would employ 100 people. This is what would happen.

One hundred new factory workers would mean 296 more people in Mason requiring facilities to house 112 more families. We would gain 51 more children in our schools and a total of $590,000 more personal income per year. There would be $270,000 more in bank deposits, 107 more registered cars, 74 more workers employed in retail and service industries and 4 more retail establishments would go into business.

These aren't just figures. They are facts worked out in studying the impact of industry in small cities the size of Mason.

The Ingham County News

The Ingham County News, Wednesday, June 30, 1965 - Page B-2

Paul Revere, Where Are You

There is a need for a few Paul Reveres in Ingham county. The British aren't coming but the always pressing forces of bigness are. For the past several months a study commission called for by state statute for the purpose of studying school district reorganization has been playing monopoly with the school districts of Ingham.

Here in Ingham indications were that there was very little to reorganize with the exception of White Dog, the last of Ingham's rural ungraded schools.

But, there appears to be more reorganizing afoot than doing away with little White Dog. A meeting is set for July 7 at Williamston to take on the top priority project of reorganizing White Dog, Williamston, Dansville and Webberville.

Somewhere along the line some august educator or education group has come up with the magic figure of 2,000 enrollment as the minimum number for a school system. The cards are being stacked to revamp Ingham's districts to conform to this magic number. The WWWD grouping to be presented July 7 to individual district boards and administrators is not the end. It is just the start.

Also being eyed is a reorganization involving every other district in Ingham with the exception of Lansing, East Lansing and Waverly.

It is now old-fashioned to think that each community should decide its own educational destiny. It is old hat to have local people take responsibility for educating their own youngsters.

This is the day when bigness is progress. This is the age when someone far from the reach of the voter can decide with finality what, where and how our children will be taught.

We need a few Paul Reveres right here in Ingham to save the identities of our school communities.

We need some fighters to step forward and do battle with proponents of the theory that the bigger the enrollment the better the quality of education.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Arm Them with the Truth

WANTED: Young people to help bury America. Openings for pallbearers of truth and grave diggers of democracy. No prior experience necessary.

"If communism advertised its true aims in this manner, it would become dusty, cobweb-covered doctrine untouched by young Americans steeped in a heritage of liberty and freedom. But the treachery of communism does not permit such a factual recruiting poster."

This statement by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover points out the danger our young people must face as they enter college classrooms this fall.

Under the guise of innocent-sounding organizations, the Communist Party will attempt to twist the inquiring minds of our future citizens.

"If our young people turn an objective, analytical searchlight on this ideology and its organizational arms, they will understand communism for what it is--a materialistic, godless dogma dedicated to world domination," said Hoover.

It is up to us, the adults of today, to see that our youth are armed with truth and the desire to protect our heritage.

May 30, 1946

Who knows--one of this year's graduates from Mason, Leslie, Dansville, Holt or some other Ingham school may be the first man to step ashore on the moon or Mars or Venus or some other planet within the next 10 or 20 years. In this atomic age it may well be someone from the high school graduating class of 1946 who pilots an atom-motored plane to new planets, who churns through the Milky Way at the controls of a plane faster than light.

It may be that one of this year's graduates will work out a plan whereunder no one has to work and there will be no taxes to pay, whereunder no one will have to plant and no one will have to reap, but all of us will have all the ice cream and pie and salt-rising bread we want.

There is no telling what the future holds in store for the young graduates of this June. It would be a good guess, though, that the boy or girl who goes on through college or into the working world with a determination to do just a little more than is expected of him, will be successful.

There is not in the world today a problem which cannot be solved if the approach is right. The world is now confused because all of us have been willing to let someone else do our thinking for us. All we had to do was vote for Joe Doakes and he would increase our pay or our pension, he would keep us out of war or save the world with lend-lease or something. As individuals we have gone along with pure thought and high ideals. As masses of people we have been in a panic. We have confused the issues. That's where the young graduates should come in. Youngsters graduating from high school this year started kindergarten in 1933. Normal conditions to them are conditions which most of the rest of us older folks regard as abnormal. These youngsters should not be afraid of anything. They have survived the world's greatest depression, the world's greatest boondoggling, the world's greatest war. They are conditioned for almost anything.

June 20, 1946

One of the most impressive weddings ever staged in Mason was the Cotton-Bullen affair last Saturday night in the Presbyterian church. There is no family with more talent than the Bullens. Sara Bullen Robbins played a violin solo and Mary Bullen McArthur sang. David Robbins also sang a solo. Roberta was a stately bride and never could there have been a handsomer bridegroom than Sam. Both the bride and bridegroom spoke right up when the questions were asked by the preacher. The vows were said to the accompaniment of organ music. Everything went off fine at the wedding and at the reception which followed.

In a recent article one of the leading figures in the world of television wrote that journalists today scarcely ever bring to the public anything at all that the public does not already know. Well, that's his opinion and he's entitled to hold it. If he is thinking of the sort of news that explodes on the front page of the morning paper he is probably right, for you can hear it on the radio at half-past six, seven, eight, or nine o'clock, according to what time you get up. You may have heard it three times before you get around to reading the paper. But there are other kinds of news in which people are equally interested and which they would never get but for the local journalist and the local paper.

No radio or television will ever tell you in detail who has just been married or buried in town, how much the bandit got away with when he raided the grocer's shop round the corner, what a score of clubs and societies have been up to, what is going on in the realm of local sport, where the next housing development is going up and by how much the rates will do likewise. Nor will you discover by any other means who won the prizes at the last village whist drive. People do like to know these things.

It may be that our descendants, instead of taking a morning newspaper that has been printed in Detroit and sent down by truck, will have an attachment to the household radio set that will print the latest news for them on the spot at the turn of a knob, but that won't do the job of the local paper either. The columns of this issue of the News contain several hundred items of information, besides pictures, feature articles, and all the facets of life in town and country that are reflected in the advertisements. You can read as much of it as you wish at whatever time suits you. You can keep it handy all next week. Each member of the family can handle it in turn, and when you have all finished you can post it to Aunt Jane in Florida.

That's more than television will ever do for you.

Don't Toss It---Bag It!
Here's a good starter in helping to keep Michigan's rivers beautiful. Before shoving off on that canoeing trip this summer, pick up a litter bag of some sort and use it to stash your trash. If everyone will follow the example of these people, thousands of dollars in cleanup costs will be saved. More important to the next group that comes paddling along, the state's streams will be kept looking at their natural best. --Mich. Dept. of Conservation

New and profitable industry for the Upper Peninsula was suggested by John Stout, MSU food science freshman, in a term paper for one of his classes.

He urges that market and food researchers check details to be sure if his plan is practical. The Upper Peninsula has everything needed to grow mushrooms profitably, according to Mr. Stout, who has done preliminary investigation.

It has the special advantage of unused mines. Temperature and humidity, important factors to control in quality mushroom production, are ideally available there. Installation of ventilation equipment would be relatively inexpensive. Compost needed for good growth, long associated with horse stables, can now be manufactured economically without horses. This would create a little more economic advantage for the Upper Peninsula because its components are available here.

Canning operation would bring about still more economic activity. There is no big mushroom market in the U.P., but it is practical to can a large part of the potential year-round crop and easy to ship fresh or canned to Chicago, Detroit and other consumer areas.

This is not the first time mushrooms have been suggested as a way for the Upper Peninsula to improve itself economically. Dr. Sigmund H. Schanderl, MSU food scientist who has had experience with mushroom industries in other places, has been pushing the idea for more than a year. So far, no one has been convinced or stimulated enough to develop the land. It would make a very interesting story if a study done by an undergraduate college student would create the spark which would encourage leaders in the Upper Peninsula to help their own area with a new industry.

Exposition Considered

There may be an exposition featuring Michigan industry during Michigan Week each May beginning in 1966.

The success of 3 events this spring point to a successful industry exposition. The events were Operation Europe, in which Michigan business and government leaders toured nations of the Common Market; The Michigan Week World Progress Dinner which brought 1,700 people together to see displays by companies that won the product of the year award in the past years and the Detroit Press club's 3 week air tour on which a number of significant Michigan products were presented to officials of European cities.

They and the Stillmans became acquainted on an escorted tour last summer.

Mrs. S. Rich, who has been the companion to the late Bertha Cliff, has moved into an apartment at the Ethel Leu home in Okemos.

Navy Offers Enlistment Inducement

High school students who have just reached their senior year this June are now eligible for the Naval Reserve. The active duty date is now 12 months from date of enlistment which will allow time for graduation.

Also, high school graduates who have been accepted for college are eligible for the new Naval Reserve "Roctree" officer candidate program. Students accepted for this program will be deferred from their active duty until college graduation.

For those boys who are not in school the naval reserve has an immediate active duty program whereby a boy goes on only 2 years of active duty with the regular fleet. Recruiters are on duty at the training center in Lansing daily until 10 p.m. The phone number is IV-93417 or IV-27855.

Bootleggers Are Given Warning

Bootleggers beware! Federal agents are stepping up their efforts against illicit stills.

Last year in Michigan authorities seized and destroyed 179 illegal stills. Moonshine is second class whiskey which can cause blindness, serious disability or death.

Citizens are asked to report any suspicious activity. Write the supervisor in charge, U.S. Treasury Department, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax, P.O. Box 1693, Detroit, Michigan, 48231, or phone 226-7308. All communications are to be held strictly confidential.

Ledges Offers New Mystery

Lael Woodbury leads an experienced cast in the next Ledges Playhouse presentation, July 3-6. Woodbury, long a favorite of theater goers, has been recently seen in "Mary, Mary," and the musical, "The Boy Friend."

What happens when a dominated wife and her lover plot the murder of her husband is told in the next Ledges Playhouse production: William Fairchild's "The Sound of Murder," which opens Tuesday for a five-day run.

The play continues through Saturday night, July 6.

Playing this week is the popular Broadway hit "Mary, Mary," starring Ledges favorites, Lael and Margaret Woodbury. It depicts the amusing complications which develop when a young couple who are about to be divorced meet again amidst tax problems, dried apricots, unpublished books, and an amorous Hollywood actor.

Back from Overseas

Fichtel, husband of the former Helen Swab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Swab of Sandhill road, Mason, has arrived for duty at Offutt AFB, Neb., after a tour of service in Japan. Fichtel, a passenger and freight traffic supervisor, is assigned to a Strategic Air Command (SAC) unit.

Bananas! Available at Reunion for the Past 59 Years

OKEMOS - Following a tradition of 59 years, bananas were available to all at the Gretzenberger family reunion last Sunday.

Members of the Gretzenberger family met at the East Lansing park with 75 present for the picnic dinner.

The tradition of bananas began when the fruit was considered a rare treat. A bunch was hung from a tree so all could help themselves. Last Sunday's bananas came in loose bunches.

Family members coming long distances wondered if the 59-year-old tradition had been continued over the years. Don Fink of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, told of his childhood memories of that bunch of goodies.

Loren Everett of Mason made sure the bananas arrived at the reunion.

Some others coming from a distance were the Harold Schlicting family from Texas and the Bauer family from Unionville. Also present after several years in Argentina was the Rev. George Gretzenberger and family. They have recently moved to Lansing where he is pastor of the Potter Park Methodist church.

Martin Gretzenberger of Perry was elected president for the coming year. The group selected the East Lansing park for the meeting place on the third Sunday in June 1966.

Ketosis Plagues Michigan Farmers

Ketosis, a stress disease in dairy cattle most prevalent at the peak of production in high producing cows, is still plaguing Michigan farmers. But science is making giant strides in its control, reports a Michigan State University dairy scientist.

R. S. Emery says a recent survey of 1,032 calvings turned up 190 cases of ketosis. The disease produced a loss of appetite, depressed milk production and apparent lack of pep.

"We are not sure what triggers ketone production in the udder, but a relative energy deficiency could be responsible," comments Emery. "Heavier feeding may help avoid the problem, but the energy demand of the mammary gland might still exceed the cow's ability to transport nutrients to the gland."

"About one-half of the ketotic cows surveyed had some infectious disease which is twice the normal disease incidence at this stage of lactation. Ketosis cannot be effectively treated unless this infection is cured."

The MSU dairy scientist notes that once ketosis starts, it is self-accelerating. Thus, early detection and treatment is very important.

"We recommend checking the milk from fresh cows at weekly intervals for milk ketones. Powdered commercially available for this purpose will detect acetone in milk which is two to three times the normal level.

"A cow with this level of milk ketones should be treated immediately, even if not obviously sick. Propylene glycol has been the most economical, palatable, and effective of products available for this purpose."

Emery says dairymen should use 1/4 lb. of propylene glycol per day for any cow with positive milk ketones. Twice that dosage should be used if symptoms persist.

"These cows must be watched closely because they will require treatment for associated diseases," advises Emery.

CAUSING CONCERN. North Dakota Livestock Sanitary Board has called on Washington to ask Canada to refrain from importing cattle from European countries where foot-and-mouth disease has occurred, to prevent spread to North Dakota cattle. Canada's next major import of cattle will be from France this fall, when 120 full-blood Charolais head, as above, will enter Canada. However, the French breed will spend a period of quarantine on Grosse Ile in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Bovine TB At New Low

The lowest incidence of bovine tuberculosis in the state in a dozen years has been disclosed by cattle tests conducted in the past 11 months.

The program to stamp out this costly disease of cattle is operated cooperatively by the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Livestock Disease Control Division and the USDA's Animal Disease Eradication Division.

Of the 232,940 cattle tested during the 11-month period, only 586 animals showed a positive reaction. In comparison nearly 6,000 cattle were found to be reactors by testing in 1959, said Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre.

Reactor cattle are promptly sent to slaughter to prevent spread of the disease.

Michigan has 10 counties accredited by the USDA as tuberculosis-free counties. These are Alger, Berrien, Crawford, Gogebic, Iron, Keeweenaw, Montmorency, Otsego, Roscommon, and Van Buren. All 83 Michigan counties, however, are modified accredited counties.

Testing is being completed in 14 counties toward reaccreditation, and testing soon will be started in 20 others in the joint effort of the two governmental agencies to eradicate bovine tuberculosis in Michigan.

MABC Will Host Top FFA Teams

Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative will host to the top 19 FFA dairy judging teams in the state on Wednesday, June 30.

Features of the day will be a tour of the MABC facilities at East Lansing where 80 genetically superior bulls are housed for use in artificial insemination.

The teams will have lunch at the Michigan State university union building, and then they will visit the Gerald Diamond dairy farm near Mason to observe a herd of MABC-sired cows.

The FFA dairy judging teams are from Rockford, which will represent the state at the national contest at Waterloo, Iowa; Chelsea, Chesaning, Clare, Lakeview, Sparta, Sandusky, Alma, Armada, Brown City, Carson City, Cornucopia, Elsie, Hartland, Lakewood, Maple Valley, Niles, Plainwell and Portland.

Trap Set For Jap Beetles

Between now and early July more than 20,000 traps will be placed throughout the state to capture Japanese beetles. The beetles emerge from the soil at this season to feed on field crops, fruits, vegetables, lawns, and even ornamentals.

If the 20,000 traps yield no more beetles than they did last year, workers will be delighted in the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division and USDA's Plant Pest Control Division. It will mean that the eradication program operated jointly by these agencies is paying off handsomely.

With the exception of the badly suspended about three feet above Creek, it was necessary to treat with insecticide only 1,504 acres in all Michigan last year. But at Battle Creek it was different. Here 12,434 acres were treated with dieldrin to destroy the pest beneath the ground, where it spends 10 months feeding on rootlets before emerging.

Japanese beetle traps are bright yellow and somewhat resemble a lantern. They are suspended about three feet above the ground on rods. Baited with aromatic oils the traps attract beetles from 500 or more feet. The aromatic oils are not poisonous but should not be taken internally.

Traps merely locate the presence of Japanese beetles and indicate areas where insecticide application should be made. They are not considered control devices in themselves. Traps are placed in yards, parks, in fields, or along highways.

Many of this year's traps will be placed in the metropolitan Detroit area. There also will be significant numbers located in Berrien, Lenawee, and Monroe counties as well as greater Battle Creek. Traps also will be placed extensively in Saginaw and Muskegon counties with lesser numbers scattered in other parts of the state.

Laymen often mistake rose chafers for Japanese beetles. Japanese beetles are slightly larger but have copper-colored wings and metallic green heads. Tiny white dots under the wings are a positive identification.

Michigan Cows Second in Nation

Michigan dairymen now rank second among the major dairy states for milk production per cow.

Don Murray, Michigan State University dairy extension specialist, says the state's 1964 average of 9,280 pounds of milk per cow ranked second only to California's per cow production of 10,810 pounds.

Michigan ranks seventh among the states for total milk production and fifth in gross dairy production for 1964.

Agriculture in Action

"Mirror, Mirror On the Wall"

How accurate is the picture of modern farm life received by most Michigan residents today? Not accurate at all, according to a majority of Michigan farmers who recently took part in an unusual program of self-examination.

Involved were 1,400 Farm Bureau "Community Groups" made up of a half-dozen or more farm friends and neighbors who meet monthly to brainstorm such problems as the topic, "How best to build a positive farm image."

That positive image was not positive, most agreed. That they felt something could and should be done about it, was obvious from the group reports.

Rather than blaming others, the farmers readily admitted that some of the present distorted farm image has been caused by their own attitude and lack of experience. They reviewed the work pressures which cause some farmers to fall to keep up the appearance of their farms and buildings, while at the same time conceded that these less-than-photogenic operations are often more typical of rural Michigan than the show-place farms featured in many tours and news reports.

The help of newspapers and the public press in securing accurate on-the-farm stories and pictures was much appreciated and openly solicited by the farmers who felt that agriculture should reciprocate through more advertising in such publications which reach urban people. "Get more farm advertising into publications reaching urban people, rely less HOE! HOE! HOE!—Michigan Crop Improvement Association has its own version of the "Jolly Green Giant" in 6'7" Louis Haverman from Decatur, Michigan. Louis is a Michigan State University freshman whose disposition, school colors (MSU green, of course), and height make the "green giant" nickname a natural. An agriculture major, Louis is currently working with the Michigan Certified Seed program that supervises, field tests and inspects superior field crop seed varieties.

State Beans Are On Way To Dominica

Eighty thousand pounds of beans left Gagetown, Tuscola county, June 24, destined for the Dominican Republic, according to Russell M. Hartzler, Michigan CROP director.

The beans were purchased with part of the funds contributed by Tuscola county people in the 1964 CROP campaign. Most of the funds, according to Hartzler, were collected by Tuscola county FFA boys under the direction of their vocational agriculture teachers. Co-ordinator of the county's program was C. Richard Kareless, vocational agriculture teacher at Caro.

The beans were purchased from and prepared for shipment by the Wallace and Morley Company of Gagetown, and trucked by Church World Service trucks to the Detroit Harbor Terminal where, according to Hartzler, they are to be loaded on board the BORDABEAR, a ship owned by the Great Lakes Transcaribbean Shipping Co.

They will be distributed in Dominican Republic under supervision of the Rev. James Cavlin, a Presbyterian minister and director of Church World Service in that country.

Hartzler said that Dominican Republic has much chronic poverty, is frequently ravaged by natural disasters such as Hurricane Flora about 2 years ago and that problems are frequently further aggravated by man's inhumanity to man, as in the present political crisis. The victims, he declared, are usually those least responsible -- the children and women.

Through a new approach called SHARE - A - LOAF, Michigan CROP is attempting a greatly expanded program this year in order to provide more Michigan beans and milk for overseas relief of people in dire need.

State Fair Sets Entry Deadlines

Michigan State Fair officials have issued the first call for entries in the annual exposition Friday, August 27 through Monday (Labor Day) September 6. Here are the entry deadlines: July 30, Home Arts; August 6, Livestock, horses and agriculture.

The premium book - the handbook of information for all exhibitors - again will be issued in agriculture, horse shows and home arts.

New exhibitors should indicate which section is desired when requesting premium books and entry forms from the Michigan State Fair, Detroit, Michigan 48203.

The premium books will reach former exhibitors by mail the first week in July, according to Waller Goodman, State Fair manager.

Conservation Means Beauty

Good land use is one major step in living up to Michigan's motto, "If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you," says a Michigan State university soil and water conservation expert.

Russell G. Hill, MSU Department of Resource Development, says that farmers can make a major contribution toward beautifying America by using good soil and water conservation practices.

Besides being unattractive, land scarred with gullies, wind erosion, and overgrazed hillsides are primary causes of silted streams, muddy water, and flooding. Such conditions also contribute to low crop productivity, farming inefficiency, property damage, and fish and wildlife habitat damage, adds Hill.

Already 43,000 cooperators with Michigan's 82 Soil Conservation Districts are helping out in a land beautification and renovation program.

At least 30 different soil and water conservation practices are now being used. Among the more scenic practices says Hill, are: reforestation, wildlife plantings, windbreaks, grass waterways, farm ponds, contour strip-cropping, and pasture management.

Boon to Birds, Rabbits

Feed Grain and Wheat Programs Prove Beneficial to Michigan Wildlife

An important result of the feed grain and wheat programs has been a noticeable increase in the Michigan population of beneficial wildlife, particularly, pheasants and rabbits, says Frank Light, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State committee. This increase has been possible because diverted areas have provided much needed nesting protection. June is one of the most critical months in the propagation of wildlife and songbirds because the young of many species are learning "the art of survival" in an environment filled with many hazards. Some of the most important causes of wildlife mortality are man made. These causes can be reduced by following a few "rules of the field," and we urge those beneficiaries to observe them.

1) Leave area undisturbed until weed control measures are necessary.

2) If weeds can be controlled by herbicides, spray instead of mowing.

3) If the weeds involved will not mature until after July 15, delay mowing until after that date.

4) If mowing is needed before July 15, drive with caution to give young birds and rabbits a chance to escape from the path of the equipment. Flushing bars are especially helpful.

5) Keep the sickle bar high--tall stubble will hide many fledglings.

"Rules of the field" are not to be interpreted as disregard for the feed grain provisions which require control of weeds, added Light. Farmers are aware of the serious losses which occur in weed infested fields and control measures should be used.

which will prevent weed problems in subsequent crops. This not only is necessary in the feed grain and wheat programs, but is consistent with good farm management. The destruction of some wildlife will occur where badly infested fields must be clipped before July 15, but much wildlife can be protected by understanding and appreciating some of the survival problems.

Fruit Fly Check Is On

The annual inspection of cherry orchards for cherry fruit fly began this week following emergence of the harmful pest in Berrien and Kent Counties on June 4.

The cherry fruit fly has been known in the state for several decades and is a threat to the state's huge annual cherry pack unless kept in control. Michigan is the leader in red tart cherry production. Last year's record production of 170,000 tons was 67 per cent of the national crop.

Damage to a cherry crop comes from the adult female laying an egg in the maturing cherry. This develops into a maggot that makes the fruit unmarketable.

The cherry fruit fly somewhat resembles a small housefly. Its wings have black and white stripes that run crosswise, say officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division who for more than a quarter century have operated programs to hold the insect in check in the state.

Representatives of the division will inspect individual trees and commercial orchards for adult flies. This assists in determining the adequacy of spray programs and indicates where samples of fruit should be collected later to test for maggots. This work is aided by a mobile laboratory that will start at Grand Rapids around June 28 and proceed north as the cherry crop matures. A laboratory also will be in operation at Benton Harbor.

Where maggots are found, the crop from infested trees is condemned. The owner is required to pick and bury the fruit under lime or apply eradication pesticides.

Michigan's periodic, puzzling die-off of alewives along the lower Great Lakes has started again. Windrows of the dead fish have been washed ashore recently in the St. Clair river system and the Thumb area along Lake Huron, cluttering miles of beaches with a springtime eyesore. Alewife losses, which are especially heavy in these two parts of the state, are expected to also occur up and down Lake Michigan's shores this spring. The annual die-off of these members of the herring family remains a mystery, but research efforts are being made by fish biologists to solve the situation. Meanwhile, the alewife problem leaves shoreline owners with an unpleasant cleanup chore. The best thing they can do is simply rake up these fish and bury them. Alewives make excellent fertilizer so this work is not all for naught. --Mich. Dept. of Conservation

MSU and Lansing Community To Enroll Many Holt Grads

HOLT-That perennial after-graduation question, "Where do we go from here?" has already been answered by many Holt high school graduates of 1965. Through careful planning with their parents, teachers and counselors, most made their decision months ago about what to do after high school.

For 75 of the 165 graduates—more than 45 percent of the class—a college education is next on the agenda. Schools in the immediate neighborhood are attracting the largest number of these, with 35 being accepted by Lansing Community College, and 15 by Michigan State University.

THE LOST AMERICANS.

Across the nation, there are 20 million Americans who would find it difficult to prove, legally, that they actually exist. These are "unplaced" persons, people whose births were never registered or whose birth records were somehow lost or destroyed. Legal proof of existence is vital, required to qualify for social security, receive pension benefits, get a passport, or claim an inheritance. Last hope for these, lost, unknown Americans is often the records of the Census Bureau's decennial head count, a service of the Department of Commerce. At left, a woman gives her name for tracing, hoping to prove legally that she is who she says she is. Right, Bureau workers go through a labyrinth of files, searching by request for proof of existence for 200,000 undocumented souls who call for help each year.

Firemen Set For 'Frolic'

Many prizes will be presented. A firewreath display will be presented in the evening.

The first has been in publication for several years by the State Highway Department. In full color, this is designated the "official highway map."

New to the scene this year is one published jointly by the Michigan Historical Commission and the State Tourist Council. It is dubbed "A guide to Michigan's historical attractions." Both are free for the asking while supplies last.

When it comes to selecting the right fishing hook, the angler has quite a variety of sizes and styles to choose from. Shown here at two-thirds their actual size are some of them. The main thing an angler should note in his selection of a hook is the kind of fish he's going after. Predatory fish such as the bass, pike, trout, and muskie have much larger mouths than bluegills, perch, and other such panfish. Some fish slurp the bait, some gulp it, some bite and chew. These differences determine the size, length of shank, and style of hook used.
