HAPPY NEW YEAR

Crash Splits Vehicle

A fantastic accident at the intersection of Mill and Main streets in Leslie on Christmas Eve completely disintegrated a pickup truck and hospitalized 3 persons.

According to Don Haynes, Leslie police chief, the truck driven by George Ward of Tuttle road, Leslie, was coming off S. Main street when he collided with the auto of Mrs. Ron Schmit of Woodworth street, Leslie.

"The truck was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed and took the curve on the wrong side of the road," Haynes said.

In describing the condition of the truck, the officer said he had never seen a truck virtually disintegrate as the Ward vehicle did following impact.

Haynes had not talked with either one of the drivers as of Wednesday morning and said that no ticket would be issued until he had completed his investigation.

Re-creating the accident, the police chief said the Ward truck apparently struck the Schmit vehicle and then swerved away from the car striking a tree some distance down the road about 15 feet in mid air.

Both drivers were taken to Mason General hospital and later transferred to Sparrow hospital in Lansing. Ward was admitted to the intensive care unit and later listed in fair condition with head injuries. Mrs. Schmit was also admitted with head injuries.

A passenger in the Schmit car, Mrs. Richard Schmit of Rice street, Leslie, was treated and released from Mason General hospital.

SERVICE RECOGNIZED--Walter Zimmer, Mason engineer, was honored Tuesday night at the Kiwanis club meeting for his many years of community service to Mason. He was named to receive the Vernon J. Brown award. Harry Elsenheimer of Holt, governor of the Michigan district of Kiwanis, (right) presented the award as Mrs. Zimmer looked on.

Council Nominees Needed

It's time for Mason's annual talent hunt.

The call is out for circulation of nominating petitions for the 3 council seats to be filled in 1967. Terms of Mayor Gilson Pearsall, Councilman John Hamlin and Councilman Vaughn Snook expire.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions is noon on Saturday, January 21. Petitions must bear at least 25 and no more than 50 signatures of registered Mason voters.

Under the provisions of the Mason city charter, a primary is called for on Monday, February 13. If more than twice the number of candidates file than the 3 offices to be filled then the primary will be held. If 6 file there will be no primary.

If less than 6 file then the council is faced with the job of drafting enough candidates to bring the field up to 6.

The regular city election will be held April 3.

Pearsall indicated it was a little early to be sure, but that he was seriously thinking of seeking office for another term. "I enjoy my work on the council and feel I have the experience, time and desire to get the job done," he said.

John Hamlin indicated he emphatically would not seek reelection again. "I cannot continue to do things the way the council is presently functioning. There are so many things that should be done and aren't for various reasons, including political reasons," Hamlin said.

"Certain individuals are making all the decisions and this isn't the way the council-type government was meant to operate," he said. Vaughn Snook was out of town and hasn't indicated whether or not he will be a candidate.

County News Begins $100,000 Building Expansion Project

IT WAS EASY SHOVELING for Dick Brown of The Ingham County News Thursday when he signaled the beginning of the News building expansion project. But, of course, he was only shoveling snow. The power digger in the background was put to work as soon as Brown reached the frost line. Supervising from his perch on the digger tire is Jim Brown. The News partners hope to have the new addition in use by March 1.

The Ingham County News broke ground Thursday for a $100,000 expansion project at its printing plant in Mason. Under construction is a building addition which will house additional newsprint storage, space for an expanded mailing and assembly department and a shipping and receiving dock.

Granger Brothers Inc. of Lansing has the general contract for construction of the building which is scheduled to be completed within 60 days.

The expansion will make room for additional printing press capacity scheduled to be installed in May. The building addition will connect with the 3-year-old News building on the west. Also included in the plans is an off-street parking lot for News customers and employees with entrance on Park street and Ash street.

The new production space and equipment will allow the News printing plant to handle more publications in addition to The Ingham County News and other publications now being produced.

The publishing firm now prints publications from Eaton Rapids, Leslie, Grand Ledge, Howell, Dearborn Heights, Clawson, Berkley, Troy, Davison, Stockbridge, Olivet, Durand, Blissfield, Williamston, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Marshall, East Lansing, Springport, Holt, Jackson and Flint.

In addition to these weekly publications, News presses turn out many monthly publications and advertising circulars from all over Michigan and Ohio.

Vernon J. Brown Award Goes to Walter Zimmer

Honors came the way of Walter Zimmer of Mason Tuesday night.

He was named the recipient of the Vernon J. Brown Outstanding Citizen Award for 1966.

The award is a project of the Mason Kiwanis club in honor of Vernon J. Brown. The selection is made from nominations presented to a committee composed of the president of Kiwanis, the Mason mayor, superintendent of schools, president of the Mason Ministerial association and the chairman of the business and public affairs committee of Kiwanis.

Harry Elsenheimer of Holt, governor of the Michigan district of Kiwanis, made the presentation.

Zimmer, who retired as city engineer 3 weeks ago after 50 years, was cited Tuesday night by Pastor Murl Eastman of the Mason Baptist church for his church activities on official church boards, as Sunday school teacher for over 25 years and as a member of the Baptist choir.

Mayor Gilson Pearsall called attention to Zimmer's long service to the community in the exacting job of city engineer, his years of service on the city planning commission, his service on the Mason school board and his contributions to the Mason community as a businessman.

Dr. Tom Hopp reminded Kiwanians that Zimmer was a charter member of the 43-year-old Mason Kiwanis club, had served as president, was a leader in fraternal organizations and bulwark in many civic enterprises.

Present for the Tuesday night ceremonies was Mrs. Zimmer.

Other recipients of the Vernon J. Brown award have been Nelson D. Brown, Glen Coon, Leland Austin, Arthur Jewett and Mrs. Dora Diehl.

Interchange Collision Injures Four Persons

Four persons suffered injuries in a 2-car collision at the intersection of highways M-36 and US-127 shortly after 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Injured were: Arnold E. Wiese, 62, of 19 Hawthorne Lane (Sycamore Mobile Homes park) and his wife, Marie, 62.

Frederick H. Balderson, 53, and Robert Balderson, 45, both of Dewitt.

Wiese was taken to Mason General hospital and then transferred to Ingham Medical hospital for treatment. Mrs. Wiese was hospitalized at Mason General. Wiese was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday and Mrs. Wiese was in fair condition.

Both Baldersons were treated and released at Mason General.

Sheriff's officers said the Wiese car came up the ramp off I-496 and made a stop at its intersection with M-36 (US-127). He then proceeded into the highway at a slow rate of speed.

The Balderson car was coming north on M-36, Balderson said he saw the Wiese car stop and then proceed out in front of him. Balderson said he applied his brakes but it was impossible to avoid a collision. The Balderson car slid 37 feet before the impact, according to deputies.

Wiese told officers he was on the northeast ramp coming into M-36.

$70 Given To Support Recreation

Mason's city recreation program got a big boost this week from an unknown organization which calls itself the Ingham County Foundation.

Mayor Gilson Pearsall received a letter with a bank draft in the amount of $70.28 to be used to further the community program.

The letter stated the foundation was encouraged to know Mason was providing its youth with recreation facilities and a directed program and that the foundation was in complete support of the city's efforts. Therefore, the foundation wished to give funds in support of the project.

Bulldogs Use Holiday To Prepare for Rocks

Mason's basketball team is taking the holiday break in the schedule but Coach Bruce DePue's boys are using the break to work off some of the rough edges. It's practice every day.

The Bulldogs will swing back into action Tuesday night over at Gabriels. It won't be an easy warm up. The Rocks have been scorching all opposition.

Mason has come up with a fast-moving outfit which has shown promise of better things to come. Dominated by juniors, the Bulldogs have looked good on defense with quick hands and quick feet.

Jim Powers is the top shooter on the basis of the first 4 games. He has 81 points for a 20 plus shooting average per game.

Gary VanderVeen is next with 39 points followed by Ron Underwood with 37, Pat Birney with 34, Jeff Cotton with 30, Doug Engle with 24, Dan Crowe with 23, Brian Doolittle with 8 and Dale Aldrich with 2.

All but Cotton and Doolittle are juniors. In the 4 games so far Mason is batting .500 and in the 3 league games Mason is 2-1. Mason has scored a total of 276 points while opponents have collected 284. The big edge in opponents total score came in the opener when O'Rafferty ran wild against the Bulldogs.

In Tuesday night's game Mason will be up against Jeff Larkin and company, The Gabriels hot shot has been pouring in the points and dominating the backboard. This week's practice sessions have been geared around stopping the Rock star.

Retired Mason Teacher Recalls Okemos Athletes

The Okemos high school 1966 football team was credited with being the first team from that school to win a Capitol Circuit championship.

Ed Edward Soper, 229 Lawton street, Mason, says an Okemos team he coached back in 1934 won a title by defeating Dansville 6-0 in the final game.

Soper coached 7 sports at Okemos High school during his work there which began in 1928 and ended in 1935, when he left to accept a position in the Williamston schools. He remained at Williamston 9 years, from 1935 to 1944.

From Williamston Soper went to Everett high school in Lansing for a year from 1944 to 1945, and then came to Mason where he taught for 20 years and was the official scorekeeper for all Mason high school sports.

He retired from the Mason school system last year.

That first championship Okemos team, he recalls, won the titular game with a trick play. The ball was centered to Clarence Bartow, a halfback, who scampered 50 yards for a touchdown for the only score of the game.

That was a great team, Soper recalls. In addition to Bartow, there were Leon Dormer, Bob Cline, John King, Charles Phelps, George Marzen, Orlando Decker, Frank Hogle and George Patterson.

Three other members of the staff whom Soper recalls well were Jerry Rogers, Russell Bidwell and Glen Watkins. Richard Leu, who captained that winning team, now lives in LaGrange, Indiana, and Bartow, who still resides on the family farm on Stillman road and commutes daily to his business in Lansing where he makes violins and all string instruments except the harp.

Bartow recalls vividly his days as a star of that first championship Okemos team. He recalls also Soper's work as the coach of the team.

"Soper was very thorough and we had extensive training and drills," he said in a recent interview. "He made up all his own plays, too. Most of them were simple but effective. He had very few trick plays. He was sure a fine coach."

In that championship game with Dansville in 1934, the Dansville Aggies had one player who went on to play football at Michigan State and then with the professional Detroit Lions of the National Football League. His name was David Diehl, now a farmer and businessman of Dansville.

Tax Filing Date Nears

Farmers who earned at least two-thirds of their 1966 gross income from farming should file their declaration of estimated Federal income tax for 1966 on or before Monday, January 16, 1967. Form 1040ES should be used for this purpose.

However, A. M. Stoepler, district director of Internal Revenue in Michigan, said that farmers need not file an estimate if they file their 1966 Federal income tax return, Form 1040, and pay in full any tax due by February 15, 1967.

"Farmer's Tax Guide," (Publication No. 225), which furnishes information on this subject, may be obtained by dropping a postcard to your District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Detroit, Michigan 48226 or from your county farm agent.

Fishermen who expect to receive at least two-thirds of their gross income from fishing may file declarations of estimated tax, or Form 1040 in lieu of declarations of estimated tax, on the same dates prescribed for farmers.

Ticket Issued To Motorist

David W. Papsdorf, 20 was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead after his car collided with one driven by Kenneth E. Perkins, 44, of Chesaning last Friday about 9:20 p.m.

Both cars were moving south on US-127. The accident occurred about 3/10 of a mile north of Barnes road.

Papsdorf told sheriff's officers he was driving along when he suddenly came upon another car about 6 or 8 feet in front of him. He said he might have fallen asleep for an instant. He slammed on his brakes, he said, but it was too late and his car hit the Perkins car in the rear.

Driver is Ticketed

Michael J. Wontern, 50, of 1581 Dexter Trail, was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead when his car hit the rear of one driven by Carolyn Smith of Lansing as it was making a safety stop at the alley exit in the 200 block of S. Jefferson street last Saturday.

Nichols told sheriff's officers he and Mrs. Nichols left home last Saturday on a trip to visit relatives and when they returned home Sunday about 2 p.m. they discovered the theft. Nichols valued the meat at about $100.

Farmer's Tax Guide Is Now Available

Farmers can now get the 1967 edition of the Farmer's Tax Guide, according to A.M. Stoepler, District Director of Internal Revenue for Michigan.

The booklet may be obtained free of charge by stopping in or writing the nearest Internal Revenue Service office or your county agricultural agent's office in Mason.

Written in non-technical language, it contains easy to understand sections such as records a farmer should keep and important Federal tax dates to remember.

One of the most important and informative features is a sample of a completed tax return with detailed explanations of entries made on it.

Throughout the booklet numerous examples are used to illustrate how farming transactions are treated for Federal tax purposes.

Primarily written to help farmers prepare their 1966 tax returns, the "Farmer's Tax Guide" also serves as a useful tax reference throughout the year.

Mason Man In Serious Condition

Edmond Aseltine, 24, of Mason, suffered multiple injuries and was hospitalized at Edward W. Sparrow hospital in Lansing Thursday when his car went off the road on E. Columbia street and hit a tree stump. The accident occurred just inside the Mason city limits.

Harry Sherwood of 528 W. Sycamore street, Mason, found him lying unconscious about 2 a.m. Aseltine's condition Tuesday was reported as serious. Mason police are investigating the accident.

Efficient use of fertilizer means the difference between profit and loss for many Michigan farmers. R. C. Lott, Ingham County Extension Agricultural Agent, says a new Michigan Extension Service Bulletin (E-550) giving complete information on fertilizer recommendation for Michigan field crops and vegetables is available at the county extension office.

The agent points out that fertilizer needs are based upon the crop to be grown, past cropping, yield goal, soil type, and available plant nutrients. The type of soil greatly affects the yield goals. The new publication has different recommendations for different soil groups. Average yield goals for each soil management group are given for both southern and northern Michigan farms.

In the publication, all fertilizer recommendations are expressed in pounds of the actual plant food an acre.

The agricultural agent believes farmers should get a copy of the publication now and study it so they can enter early orders for their fertilizer needs for the 1967 crop year. Ofttimes, considerable money can be saved by buying fertilizer before the planting season begins. Farmers who have suitable storage may save enough to allow them to fertilize additional acres at the same total cost, Mr. Lott concluded.

SMALL TOWN TALK
By DICK LYON
We're always telling people to buy their car from a local dealer rather than go out of town with the hope of saving a few dollars. It never fails that if they do buy out of town at a few dollars less from a dealer who knows he can eliminate their service expense, they are the losers in the end.
There is another really sound reason that a dealer in your own town is much more likely to treat you fairly, especially if you are buying a used car. He knows that if the cars he delivers don't measure up to the promises he made about them that a lot of people have a way of finding out about it. And a good reputation is a must if a dealer wants to STAY in business in a small town.
Small towns, as everyone who lives in one knows, have their drawbacks and advantages. Here are some of the definitions of a small town we came across recently that you might smile at:
A small town is a place where you can still carry on a phone conversation even when you get the wrong number; where you pinch a girl and everybody squeals; where the fellow with the black eye doesn't have to explain to anybody - they know; where everybody knows what everyone else is doing but they still read the newspaper to see if they got caught at it; where even the politicians have to stick fairly close to the truth; and where nothing seems to happen but what you hear makes up for it.
And who ever heard of a small town alcoholic who was anonymous? See you next Wednesday!

College Club Stages Annual Yule Dinner

In spite of the heavy snowfall Monday evening, 28 members of the Mason College club were present to enjoy their annual Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Lyle Oesterle.

The buffet table was adorned with large red poinsettia plants and gilt reindeer, while four round tables were centered with red candles encircled by gilt flocked greens.

Arrangements for the evening were in charge of Mrs. Howard Thompson, chairman of the ways and means committee. Mrs. Dail Patterson conducted a fund raising gift exchange, with contributions increasing the club's scholarship fund.

Accompanied on the occasion by the hostess, Mrs. Elton Tworl led the group in singing popular Christmas songs.

Mrs. Robert Seyfarth, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Myrtle Russell of Smith Floral company, who explained the symbolism of 2 floral pieces she had created.

The first contained a figure of St. Francis fondling a robin, around which a Christmas legend has evolved. The second piece depicted in floral elements not only the season of Christmas but the entire purpose of the life of Christ.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Howard Thompson, Mrs. Dail Patterson, Mrs. Donald Oesterle, Mrs. Michael O'Malley, Mrs. Herbert Schultz and Mrs. William Fink.

Farm Bureau Women Meet

The Women's committee of the Ingham County Farm Bureau met in the social room at the county office Tuesday, December 13, for their regular meeting.

They have chosen again this year as their Christmas project a gift to the Ingham County Rehabilitation center. They will be aided in this by contributions from the various community groups.

They are also promoting the sale of the Slow Moving Vehicle signs, which may be ordered from any member of the Farm Bureau Women's committee or purchased at the county office on Friday afternoons.

After a delicious potluck luncheon, Rev. Keith Hayes of the Mason Methodist church told the Christmas story, highlighted with pictures he and Mrs. Hayes took on a recent trip to the Holy Land.

Groups Meet Methodist

The Women's Society of the First Methodist church of Mason and all circles of the church had their Christmas meeting December 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the church social room.

Guests included husbands of members and the W.S.C.S. of the Trinity African Methodist church of Lansing.

The meeting opened with Christmas carols led by Mrs. Dale Brown. Devotions were offered by Mrs. Leland Austin telling the Christmas story. It was made more meaningful by pertinent slides of the Holy Land shown by Rev. and Mrs. Keith Hayes which they took during their visit there in the autumn of 1965.

Mary Martha circle members served punch and Christmas cookies from a lace covered table with an arrangement using green and white candles.

we hope it's bursting with lots of good things for you!

Left Over Eggnog Has Several Uses

Eggnog left over from your holiday punch bowl? There are almost unlimited uses for dairy eggnog---to drink, either hot or cold blended in a variety of flavors, to use as a batter dip for other foods, or to use in making the custard base for molded custard-type desserts and pie fillings.

The limits to variety in eggnog depend only on your own imaginative ideas and what "makin's" are in your cupboard, according to Mrs. Margaret Foster, Extension home economist.

As a starter, if you like peppermint, put a few drops of oil of peppermint in a bowlful of dairy eggnog and serve it cold in candy-striped cups.

For a holiday kaffeeklatsch, a coffee-flavored eggnog would be appropriate. To two and a half quarts of eggnog add 1/4 cup instant decaffeinated coffee. Sherbert combines well with eggnog. A quart of lime sherbert makes an attractive garnish scooped on top of one and a half quarts of dairy eggnog.

Hot, chocolatey eggnog is appreciated on a cold day. Add a half-cup of chocolate syrup to a quart of dairy eggnog and two cups of milk and heat. Top servings with miniature marshmallows.

Bananas, or orange juice or pineapple juice are flavor-mates for eggnog. Two bananas blended with a cup of eggnog and added to a quart of eggnog are enhanced by a dash of cinnamon.

The youngsters will enjoy an eggnog-orange juice shake. To two cups of dairy eggnog add 4 scoops of vanilla ice cream and 1/4 cup frozen orange juice concentrate and blend.

For pineapple lovers, start with 4 scoops of vanilla ice cream beaten smooth. Add one cup of single-strength pineapple juice and 2 cups of dairy ice cream. It's pretty with vanilla ice cream scooped on top.

Eggnog has earned its place as a popular wintertime bevverage.

Less commonly known are some of the other uses for eggnog. Leftover eggnog makes a wonderful batter for French toast, and delicious molded desserts and pie fillings can also be concocted from dairy eggnog.

Holiday entertaining is easier when you keep eggnog in your refrigerator. This may be eggnog from the dairy case or your own homemade kind. For homemade eggnog, try this recipe.

1/2 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
1/4 teas. salt
4 cups whole milk, scalded
Dash of salt
3 egg whites

1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teas. vanilla

Beat 1/2 cup sugar into egg yolks; add 1/2 teaspoon salt and stir in milk slowly. Cook in double boiler until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Cool.

Add dash of salt to egg whites and beat stiff; add remaining 1/4 cup sugar; beat well and add to custard with vanilla. Mix thoroughly and chill 4 hours.

Pile lightly in punch cups. Sprinkle with freshly grated nutmeg. One tablespoon cooking sherry may be substituted for vanilla. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SURPRISE!! Co-workers at the Ingham County Probate court office gave Mrs. William (Doris) Hartman (far right) a parting gift of a jewelry box. Mrs. Hartman, who is retiring after 23 years with the office, was feted at a party in Lansing recently.

Probate Court Employee Feted At Gala Party

A surprise party was given recently for Mrs. William F. (Doris) Hartman, who is retiring after 23 years of service in the Ingham County Probate Court office by fellow staff members.

Some 20 employees from the Mason and Lansing Probate Court offices attended the gala event. Probate Judge James Kallman made a gift presentation from the group. Mrs. Hartman received a jewelry case.

For the past 4 years Mrs. Hartman has been case work supervisor of the neglect division of the probate court. She previously served for 17 years as an adoption case worker, placing more than 500 children with families.

Prior to joining the probate court staff in 1943, Mrs. Hartman was a school health nurse. Mrs. Hartman, who resides at 221 Highland avenue, East Lansing, will retire the first of the year.

Safer Posts Planned

New "give-way" light posts and supports for road-side signs will be installed on freeways under construction in Michigan, the State Highway Commission has announced.

The new designs of the light posts result from tests conducted at the General Motors Proving Grounds at Milford in which the Department of State Highways cooperated, Design Division Director N.C. Jones said.

The light pole design, called "slip base" because the poles will give way under impact at the base, will be included in plans for the I-496 in Lansing.

Comparative tests at the GM Proving Ground showed that a car traveling 40 miles per hour incurred a two-foot gash in the front end when it struck a conventional light pole and the pole was damaged beyond repair, Jones said.

By contrast, the front of the same type of vehicle tested in the same manner was dented only three inches when it struck a "slip base" pole and the pole was reusable, he said.

"The Highway Department plans to utilize the design on all future freeways where pole lighting is required," Jones said.

Roadside sign supports design, originally developed by the Texas Highway Department and modified so that signs struck will break both at ground level and part way up the support, will be used in signs on I-75 now under construction between Bay City and Higgins Lake and on I-69 between Marshall and the Indiana state line, Jones said.

Scooting on a Ski-Daddler Is Fun

By CHARLOTTE CAMP

Christmas afternoon... the presents have all been opened, the holiday meal has been eaten... then what? For many, this was the first opportunity to really relax in several weeks. Others enjoy sitting around visiting, telling stories of other Christmases, examining new gifts, or helping junior run his new train. Some just simply give up and go to sleep in the nearest chair.

Then there are those "real cool" ones who enjoy spending Christmas Day afternoon riding a "Ski-Daddler", one of several popular makes of motorized snow buggies.

Last Sunday in particular, Bill Caskey and his brother in law, Wendell Gee, were having a barrel of fun riding Gee's buggy all over the area near the Caskey residence. Also taking his turn... whenever he could get the older fellows off the machine, was Jeff Caskey, son of Bill.

Around the house they went, down by the creek, out back through the trees, back up to the house, and round and round some more.

Asked what he uses the snow buggy for, Gee replied, "Well, Consumers Power Co. uses them for laying power lines in hard to get to places, ice fishermen use them to get on the lakes... yes, they are a very useful machine." Yes, but what do you do with yours, we asked. "Well," Gee said with a grin, "we use it for fun, just plain fun."

With that he invited the writer to go for a spin and it didn't take long to learn what he meant by "fun". Wow... first you start off going straight... then you hit a curve and hang on for dear life. But it is a good feeling, speeding along with the wind in your face and blowing your hair... fun.

Wendell Gee is a very brave man. He not only permitted brother-in-law Caskey to drive the buggy, but he even offered the writer a chance to take the wheel. We were a bit "scared" at first, but soon got the hang of it and before long were ready to argue along with the others for a turn at driving.

Young Jeff Caskey is the one who really gave the machine a workout. He knew where the bumps were, and the bigger the better. "What can be more fun than flying through the air at 20 miles per hour?" he asked.

Want some early shopping advice for next Christmas? Do you want to be one of the "really cool" ones? It's easy, just get a snow buggy.

LOOK MA, NO SKIS. Jeff Caskey pilots his uncle's snow buggy over a bump near his home.

MSU Farmer's Week Opens January 30

Michigan State University's annual Farmer's Week is scheduled for January 30 to February 3, 1967.

The big mid-winter educational event for farmers and farm families will have its usual features and some new ones according to Byron Good, general chairman.

Two new buildings will be used for the first time for the event. Forestry, conservation, water resources and rural recreation meetings will be held in the new natural resources building. It is located on South Campus, south of Anthony Hall on Farm Lane and Wilson Road.

Poultry and rabbit meetings will be held at the new Poultry Research Center on Jolly Road, more than a mile south of the main campus, near I-96.

Among the featured speakers will be Dr. Paul A. Miller, assistant secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare. Dr. Miller spent 15 years at MSU serving as director of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, vice-president, and provost. From 1962 to last summer he was president of the University of West Virginia. He will speak at the annual farm management banquet on Thursday, February 2.

Programs are scheduled for all types of farming and special youth and women's events are also planned.

The Day After Christmas

'T was the day after Christmas and all through the store
The place was a shambles from ceiling to floor
The items were put in their cases with care knowing the customers soon would be there.
When all of a sudden
we heard such a clatter
We threw down our dust cloths to see what was the matter.
'T was only the customers
coming in shifts
To return or exchange their nice Christmas gifts.
Some too dull, some too bright nothing seemed to be just right
... that's right.
We smiled and we nodded saying "Surely you might."
To ourselves we were thinking
"Good Grief," and "Good Night."

It's Resolution Time Again

Here it is--resolution time again.

With New Year's Eve just around the corner, it is time for that Great American Game--New Year Resolution.

Resolutions should be broken down into 2 groups, major and minor. The minor group should include swearing off smoking, eating of candy and desserts, dieting and keeping your clothes picked up. These minor resolutions are easily installed and easily discarded when they become too binding on the resolver.

Major resolutions should be considered a little more seriously.

The trouble with too many of us is that we tend to load ourselves up with too many major resolutions. The secret is to decide on one major resolution and stick to it.

A good suggestion would be to have everyone adopt the same resolution. What an impact that would make.

Suppose, for instance, that everyone in Mason resolved to be a better person? The key word in this resolution is "Better"--Not good, not perfect, but just better.

Such a resolution would promote some people from "Just Terrible" to "Simply Awful."

Those now in the just awful class would be upgraded to "Tolerable." Tolerable people would be upgraded and so it would work up the line.

If this could be made a universal resolution every year and people stuck to it, in a few years we could do away with police departments, jails, social workers, etc.

This would truly make a Great Society right here in Mason. If we could prove it would work here in Mason then the great plan could be installed in Ingham county, then the state, nation and world.

The trouble with this resolution is that it is just like all others. Few of them survive the rigors of life beyond Lent. In fact few of them survive beyond noon on New Year's Day.

First Class for Job Corps

There is much in the news to be incensed about as most any taxpayer who cares where his tax dollar is going and for what purpose it is being used, knows.

Yet the revelation that under the guise of the war on poverty the job corps of the Office of Economic Opportunity spent $1 million dollars last week for first class air transportation, meals and expense money seeing that 8,000 job corps trainees got home for Christmas, seems to be as far out as any bureaucratic scheme could be. And it is making people think more and more about government waste in the poverty program.

Such extravagance makes many taxpayers mad. It should make our servicemen even hotter under the collar. They paid their own way if they went on Christmas furloughs.

Investigation last week revealed that at least 20 luxury airliners were chartered by the Office of Economic Opportunity for the holiday exodus from job corps camps. Other trainees going shorter distances were given train fare, bus fare and meal money.

There were many instances over the holiday when servicemen were bumped out of plane seats while job corps trainees traveled in luxury.

Somehow, it doesn't seem quite right.

We Are Worth More

If anyone has any doubt about inflation, consider the report worked up by a figure filbert at Monsanto Chemical.

It used to be one of the first lessons in high school chemistry that the human body was worth 98 cents, based on the cash value of the chemicals which make up the human body.

This enterprising Monsanto chemist has taken 1966 chemical prices and applied them to the human body.

The new dollar value of a human in terms of chemicals is now pegged at $800. That's over an 800 per cent jump. LBJ take note--That is inflation.

The main reason for the increase in value is attributed to increased demands for enzymes and nucleic acids.

So, in spite of the mess that homo sapiens has made and is making in this world 1966 man can say that he is worth more than his grandfather and great-grandfather was worth thanks to inflation in the price of chemicals.

Poverty Channeled Into Revolution

The second annual Conference of Socialist Scholars, held in New York last September, brought together a bunch of Communists and academic leftists openly dedicated to the disruption of American society and the violent overthrow of the government. The best account of the proceedings we have seen was written by Alice Widener, editor of USA magazine.

Among those present were such hardy perennials as Herbert Aptheker, communist "theoretician" ("Of course, Watts was glorious") and Prof. Eugene Genovese of Rutgers University ("I would welcome a Viet Cong victory"). There was strong representation from the Ivy League, not one of whose delegates had a kind word for the United States.

A sampling of the intellectual diet would show such precepts as these: "Socialist Man will be exempt from worship and awe"; "Socialist Man will be 'a collective worker in a collective society'; "We must develop the moral-sexual rebellion of youth"; "Complete freedom of sexual life will abolish the family"; "Revolutionary guerrilla warfare in a countryside fosters citizenship"; "In Latin America 'they've practically eliminated delinquency by giving arms to the delinquents'; "We must force this murderer Johnson and the people around him to discontinue their genocide against Viet Nam"; "We ought to be delighted every time a worker steals something from his plant."

"Successful revolution on a world-wide coordinated scale" being the declared objective, how did the comrades propose to get the ball rolling at home? Simplicity itself, as expounded by Professor Richard A. Cloward of Columbia University, Dr. Frances Pliven of Columbia, and Dr. James Haughton, director of the Harlem Unemployment center.

Dr. Cloward called for "irregular and disruptive tactics" among the poor, whose "demands" would overthrow city and state governments and force them to seek more and more funds from the federal government. When that cupboard was bare, the moment for revolution would arrive.

Cloward said that welfare recipients must force city welfare departments to impose the labor union check-off by withholding 50 cents to a dollar from relief checks as dues to a fund for the unionization of welfare clients, who would thereby achieve greater clout in pressing their demands for special benefits.

Such benefits, for clothing, bedding, etc., amounted last year in New York to about $40 dollars per client. Cloward would try to boost them to as high as $1,000, which, with an anticipated 600,000 relief clients in the city by 1967, would add 600 million dollars to the present welfare burden of almost a billion dollars annually in a city that is already broke.

"I wonder what would happen if there was a really systematic overload of relief costs," delightedly meditated Prof. William Ryan of Yale. That's the idea, as Dr. Pliven remarked. "I really only want to make one point--the disruption of the system," she said. "Welfare rolls will begin to go up--the impact will be very, very sharp. The mounting welfare budget will increase taxes, force cities to turn to the federal government. We have to help people make claims; for this they will organize and act."

By instigating the poor to make bankrupting demands, the existing financial structure of our society would be wrecked. As Dr. Haughton stated, "The welfare system is rotten, but so is the whole American system rotten." When the collapse is brought about, then the wonderful era of Socialist Man will be ushered in. If you think these people are kidding, guess again. Chicago Tribune.

Barbs and Praise

By DICK BROWN

Eighteen years can 'make a lot of difference in the appearance of a man or woman. It can also make a lot of difference in the appearance of a business community. That thought came to mind while scanning a 1949 copy of the Mason high school year book, The Anchora.

Fifty-four Mason merchants supported the 1949 yearbook with advertising. Of the 42 businesses 39 are no longer in existence or are no longer in existence under the business names used then.

Business names such as Jacobs Hardware, Hall Dairy, Jewett Flying Service, Jewett Flower Shop, Peters Drugs, J.B. Dean Ford, Robert Ingham Insurance, Rathburn Hardware, Jennings Grocery, Ingham County Farmers Mutual, Robinson Motor Sales, Dart Motor Sales, Henson Cleaners, Jim's Market, Mason Dairy, Morse's Restaurant, Gobles Radio Service, Fox Theatre, Dart & Cady Hardware, A.G. Spenny & Sons, Hilton Sunoco, Somerville Service, Jefferson Market, Welles Hi-Speed Service, Baker-Chapman Gulf Service, Haley's Log Cabin Restaurant, Palmer's Food Market, Underwood's Grocery, Mason Food Lockers, Jewett Appliances, Bartholomew Kaiser-Fraiser, Carl Jewett Real Estate, A.J. Torrance Garage, Ford Aseltine, Horn's Shoe Service, Doyle's Standard Service, Our Cab Service and Millerlyle Meat Market have gone by the wayside, changed ownership or changed names. People get the idea that nothing changes very much in a town the size of Mason. Joy O. Davis is one Mason businessman who doesn't agree. He pointed out last week that when he started business in Mason in 1919 there was only one present businessman of 1966 who was there ahead of him and that was Tony Simone.

The mortality rate of businesses and businessmen in 18 years has been great.

It is good to have a 2-day Christmas holiday once in a while. In fact it was a 3-day holiday for the Brown family. On Saturday noon we gathered at a restaurant in Kalamazoo with the South Bend contingent of the family for Christmas. It was a pleasant interlude for everyone with the exception of the waitress who had to clean up the mess. Then came Christmas Sunday and the turmoil of the second family Christmas.

Monday was a day set aside for putting toys and games together, repairing those things broken Sunday and consuming various gastric remedies for problems brought on by rich holiday food.

Nels Ferriby and the rest of the better golfers around town had better watch out. This was a golfing Christmas with a fancy golf cart, a dozen golf balls, a living room putting practice outfit, some brilliant golfing slacks and an Arnold Palmer how-to-do-it book in my Christmas stocking.

Republicans conducted a survey to find out who did the most for the GOP in its 1966 victory--and it turned out to be LBJ.

Christmas is over and it's on to New Year's. The long week-end provided the opportunity for some sledding at Kiwanis Hill east of Mason. Monday's weather couldn't have been better for winter sports. I used to do a lot of sledding as a youngster but over the years I got to thinking how much more enjoyable it is squatting over a fire in the living room. Then a few years ago, Dr. Mary Jane Dexter converted me to the art of positive thinking. Her viewpoint is that Michigan winter is whole lot more bearable if you make up your mind to enjoy it and look upon snow as a blessing instead of a curse.

Since then, the family has made several forays into the Winter Wonderland. This year we added a toboggan to our line of sleds and skis and Kiwanis Hill has never been more fun.

Monday afternoon we filled a truck (literally) with winter sports fans and spent several hours at Kiwanis Hill. Among them were Patty and Bob Cairns, Teresa Kean, Chris Freeman, Mark and Pam Treadwell, Brad Kalember, Kim Ingham, Amy Brown, Jennifer Brown and Tim Brown. It was a truckload of laughing, believe me. How lucky youngsters are!

Teresa, Chris and Amy added a new dimension to winter sports at the hill when they started a fad of sliding down hill wrapped in sheets of plastic. They traveled just as fast as if they were on sleds and had the advantage of a bumpy ride, too.

So, think positive about the Winter Wonderland and you, too, may learn to be disappointed when springtime comes.

How many people open family gifts Christmas morning? When I was a youngster, we never did. Dad's side of the family (the Brown clan) exchanged gifts Christmas Eve. Then on Christmas Day, it was Mother's side of the house (the Ludwicks and Hawns). This arrangement allowed for a relaxing Christmas Morn. This is the way we did it, that is, until my wife joined the family. Soon, thereafter, we absorbed her family custom of opening family gifts on Christmas morning. It wasn't so bad the first few years when the kids couldn't tell time.

For awhile there I was able to convince the little ones that Santa didn't like kids to wander around the Christmas tree until daylight. But gradually, I have lost control of the situation until this year when we staggered down for our Christmas morning fun at 5 a.m.

I bought my wife one present that was too big to wrap so I kept it in a station wagon uptown overnight. So as soon as I could focus my eyes Christmas morning, I pulled on my overcoat over my pajamas and tip-toed out of the house to town to get the present. It was interesting to note that the only house I passed in which there was the slightest evidence of activity was the Dr. Donald Cairns residence. All other would-be Santas were in bed where they belonged.

My plan was to switch cars at the News office and return to the warmth of our Christmas observance loaded down with the gift for the BW. But fate wasn't to have it this way. The station wagon in which the gift had been stored wouldn't start. And the gift was too big to be carried in the other car.

After grinding the battery to a dead stop, I eyed the company truck nearby and knowing that the keys to that were probably in the News building, I reached for the office keys but alas, they weren't in my pajama pants. Then I returned home, found the office keys, drove back to the office where I eventually found the truck keys and finally returned home with the Christmas present way after daylight.

The Dart bank parking lot is no place to be when you're in your pajamas and it's broad daylight. By the time I reached home, the other members of the family had pretty well mauled the presents around the tree. The wife was sulking because all the presents had been opened and there was nothing for her. And she probably figured (although she denies it) that I had gone up town either to do some last-minute shopping or else I had forgotten to buy her anything and didn't have the courage to face her.

That nice full-color picture of youngsters on last week's News front page was taken in Dearborn Heights. The Dearborn Heights Leader is printed every week by the News and we thought the picture was so nice we asked permission to use it. The youngsters, Mark, 12; Eric, 10; Lance, 8; Lisa, 6; Kurt, 3; and Laura, 2, are offspring of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hofer. As far as we know they have never been to Mason, but we'd sure enjoy seeing them sometime.

Thanks to Roy and Marge Webster at the Leader for permission to use the picture.

Everyone who gave a pint of blood to the Red Cross blood bank last Thursday was impressed with the competency of the staff. No one could have yielded up a pint in better company or for a better cause.

If there were anything to the theory of blood lines, how simple life would be! A few transfusions from the right man, and a sinner would be transformed into a saint. Of course, it might work the other way around, too.

Whether the skin is white, yellow, red or black, all blood is alike. So it isn't blood that makes people different. Blood makes 'em alike. June 30, 1949

Legislators may repent their generosity to themselves in upping their own wages at that special session last December. What they got in extra salaries they may have to pay out in campaigns for reelection. That extra cash has brought plenty of competition. Here in the second district of Ingham several candidates have already announced their willingness to become statesmen at the new salary.

Maybe a legislator shouldn't be asked to repent about anything. Repentance unless it is accompanied by reform is of little use.

"In all my life," said Marcus Cato, a Republican member of the senate, "I have never repented but of three things: That I trusted a woman with a secret, that I went by sea when I might have gone by land, and that I passed a day in idleness." July 28, 1949

Last Thursday night I headed north and at a curb service lunchroom just north of the Clare business district I hung my 89¢ cap on a hook. When I reached Harrison I realized my loss but continued on. Returning Sunday night I stopped off at the lunchroom. My hat hung there on the same hook. I would have commended the restaurant staff for their honesty had not the manager declared that he didn't think anybody would ever come back after that cap.

The Melting Pot

By HAYDEN PALMER

This is the week after the week that was. This is the week when the Christmas decorations come down to be packed away in boxes for another year.

This is the week that persons flock to stores to trade in some gift they received for another they think they will like better.

This is the week when everyone gets back to normal. Gone for another year are the frantic shoppers, the singers of carols, Santa Claus and his reindeer and all the other happy things that make up the Christmas season.

Except for the one big cloud that hangs over America--Vietnam--this Christmas season was a delightful one. Merchants are pleased with the results, almost everyone, I hope, was remembered on Christmas Day.

It was a gay Christmas, a bright Christmas and one that abounded with love and kindness. Would that this part of the season, at least, could extend throughout the entire year.

The year 1966 will soon pass into history. Within a little more than 72 hours--at midnight next Saturday, to be exact--we will hail the arrival of a new year--the year 1967 A.D.

It will be welcomed as New Year's always is, at gay parties with a lot of noise, with staid businessmen decked out in funny hats and blowing horns and doing things they would never think of doing any other time of the year. But there will be those, also, who will greet the New Year in prayer at Watch Night services throughout the land.

The past year was a good year. Much was accomplished but much more needs to be accomplished to make our communities better places in which to live.

No one can foretell what 1967 will bring, but a few of the things I would like to see accomplished are these:

Some progress in reducing the terrific slaughter on our highways.

Some progress in reducing the crime rate which has become a blot on our entire nation.

An end to war and a lasting peace settled over a troubled world.

And, in a lighter vein: Being a baseball fan, I would like to see the Detroit Tigers produce a pennant winning team in 1967.

And being for progress, I would like to see Curtis street, that leads into the Ingham County jail and sheriff's department, paved in 1967.

And being a person who enjoys good food in pleasant surroundings, I would like to see Mason have another restaurant in 1967.

LETTERS

The Spiral

Some people have bigger hearts than the nation's pocket-book can presently afford. Other people, in all honesty, have November votes for political power foremost in mind. United, there has been a madness of attempting to legislate a degree of artificial prosperity in the form of a higher and broader minimum wage than the honest general economy is now prepared to meet.

By so doing, the Congress has legislated not so much true prosperity but rather a guarantee of much more inflation, both directly and indirectly, in the years to come, and rather made certain that U.S. participation in world trade would be that much more difficult in the years to come--unless the Congress reverses itself on this item.

Prices will go up on products produced and services rendered by those who work for the minimum wage. That is direct inflation.

Wages will go up for those who work for higher than the minimum wage; partly to pay for higher priced products and services, and partly to maintain a superiority of wages. This will result in higher prices on products produced and services rendered by these higher income groups. That is indirect inflation in this context.

Thus, this action by the Congress will likely accelerate the inflation that besets this country for the next several years. True prosperity, no. A continuation of wage-price spiraling, of inflation, yes. And the fixed income people get the short end of the stick again. Among prices to rise will surely be such staples as food and clothing, items over which those on minimum hourly wages are most concerned.

International trade competition efforts will be further strained, for low foreign wages mean low prices on foreign made products. Our balance of payments--trade deficit will likely be worsened. As with past and present difficulties with the merchant marine, we are speedily in process of pricing ourselves right out of world trade competition. As the world figuratively "becomes smaller" and more unified, the worst effects of this process will not be felt for several years. And the poor diplomacy of the alternative of high tariff walls will become more obvious as time passes.

And the shame is that this portion, like other portions, of our troubles could be avoidable by the practice of basic and sensible economic principles. The shame is that the increase in the minimum wage is based upon inflation--it is both inflation oriented and inflation producing.

$1.25 is a high enough minimum hourly wage for the 1960's. Some work classifications should not now be guaranteed by law an amount close to $1.25. While I do not wish to appear heartless or cruel, I do think the "bleeding hearts" should see a larger picture than the one they apparently do.

Understanding Your Health Dry Cleaning Dangers

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D.

I'm sure most everyone has used a coin operated dry cleaning machine at one time or another. This "do-it-yourself" dry cleaning can be very handy when you're rushed for time. And each year more and more establishments are offering this service to customers.

Well, my family appreciates the value of this type of dry cleaning as well as anyone, but we appreciate too, that we must observe certain safety precautions when using the machines. The dry cleaning material used in these coin-operated machines is called perchlorethylene. It is not flammable, but it is dangerous if inhaled even in very low dilutions -- a teaspoon vaporized in a closed car can produce unconsciousness.

It is for this reason that the health department has established a number of requirements that must be met before the machines are approved for use in Michigan. One of the main tests is the machine's ability to remove the solvent substance from the clothing. The machines must also have safety devices which will stop the cycle and keep it closed in the event of a breakdown. If this should happen to you, don't try to open the door yourself, but call the attendant so he can take the necessary steps for safety.

But in spite of all the inspections and safety precautions that are in force, a flame hazard continues to exist with coin operated machines. The hazard exists because many customers insist on overloading the machines with clothes. I suppose this is done in a perfectly normal effort to get more for their money, but overloading the machine means that it cannot remove the necessary amount of solvent from the clothes for safety. This creates a dangerous fume situation that could even be lethal in a closed car.

The answer to this problem is really simple -- just weigh the clothes, and load the machine according to the instructions. The risk of these fumes is certainly not worth the hoped-for savings. And as a matter of fact, overloading doesn't really save any money because the clothes are not cleaned as well as they should be.

Now, this is a problem that you can do something about. It won't do to feel if the clothes are "wet" after taking them out of the machine, because the excess solvent probably will only make itself known by the odor. If you have any doubt whatsoever about freshly dry cleaned clothes just hang them out to dry in the open air.

Another good safety rule to follow when you have newly cleaned clothes in your car is to keep at least one window open. And don't leave your youngsters in the car with the clothes, since children can roll up the windows when you're away.

Bills Versus Laws

By Elmer E. White

Michigan citizens can see the beginning of a legislative session which promises to be very interesting for those who understand the procedure.

To the uninitiated, however, the myriad activities which attend the lawmaking process can be very confusing. Newspaper accounts can easily give the impression a bill is dead when actually it can be revived in numerous ways.

By law, the Michigan legislative session starts each year at noon the second Wednesday of January. Proposed laws are known as "bills" from the time they are introduced until they have been passed by both houses and been considered by the Governor, when they become "laws" unless turned down by the chief executive.

Between introduction and final approval, the bill is designated by number and/or title. It is read a first and second time, usually by title only, when it is formally introduced.

At this time it is referred to a committee for study. If approved by the committee, it is brought back to the membership of the house where it was introduced. Debate follows, first informal and then the "third reading" or formal stage.

If a bill passes by recorded vote after third reading, it goes to the second house for the same procedure of committee consideration and floor debate and vote and is sent to the Governor.

Confusion can arise if a bill fails in either house. It can be re-referred to committee and brought out again at a later date in the session, or it can be reconsidered for an additional vote.

STOP GROWING
Recent emphasis in education is to provide high school learning for every child and advanced training to all who desire it.

Vast programs of financial aid, in forms of scholarships and loans, were established in an attempt to assure funds.

Results of this trend has been almost astronomical growth of both public and private colleges and universities in terms of physical expansion and enrollment hikes.

Now comes a Michigan State university spokesman with considerable rank urging thought to the idea that colleges are being taxed for education to the point of diminishing returns.

MSU has seen its enrollment more than double in the past 15 years. Its faculty has grown from 900 to more than 1,900 in the same period. Graduate student enrollments have nearly tripled. The campus has developed into a small city, requiring bus service to transport students from dorms to classrooms.

Dr. Howard R. Neville, MSU provost, is not offering a firm plan for slowing down future growth of the institution. He is simply offering ideas to be considered.

"The question now arises: Might we best serve our land and time now by developing and emphasizing quality in every branch of our undertaking?" he submits.

Without management of size in line with available resources, Neville contends the university cannot meet its obligations to the students it seeks to educate.

Expansion of programs has been nearly as extensive in the past 15 years as the enrollment and staff levels. Neville suggests it is time to level off this area of expansion also.

In short, Neville suggests it is time for MSU to consider the essential question of whether it is as good as it should be.

NEW ANGLE

"Pairings" will soon be made for one of the oldest traditions in the 14-year history of Michigan Week: the Mayors' Exchange.

Held each year on the Monday of the annual brag week, the exchange of local executives gives the individuals involved just a brief look at each others problems.

About Those New Year Resolutions

By Douglas Dilday

Now that Christmas is over, the next holiday in line is New Year's and with it will come several old traditions to be followed just as they have been for so many years. One of those traditions will be that of making New Year's resolutions.

Webster says that a resolution is a "fixed determination". On New Year's, this is the biggest farce there is. Sure, people make resolutions with the strongest intentions, but somehow find reasons not to carry them out or to just "forget" them. This, in a way though, is a New Year's tradition, because for generations people have been making resolutions and for the same number of generations they have been breaking them. That's what I mean about it seeming to be a tradition.

These resolutions though, are usually the same ones that have been used for years. Naturally, if you break a resolution, you are bound to break the same one again any other time you make it. So why not make completely new resolutions and make them so they are sort of enjoyable to keep?

For instance: Make all your resolutions after old song titles. Such as "Count Your Blessings" when you go to sleep instead of sheep or money. Also look for the silver lining that all clouds are supposed to have.

The songwriters who wrote the songs on these topics must have been philosophers, but whatever they were, they were right. Because they showed people a way to live, to be happy and enjoy life.

When someone makes a resolution it is usually a one party deal. For example: If someone says that he is going to stop smoking and cheats when no one is around, he is the only person who knows, but when someone makes a resolution on the scale of saying that he will be kind to all and look on the bright side of things and then does not, the whole world knows.

If people, when they turn over a "new leaf" would always look on the bright side of things they would see that, in the end everything turns out better for all over and ... under 21.

How to Make A Pressman's Cap

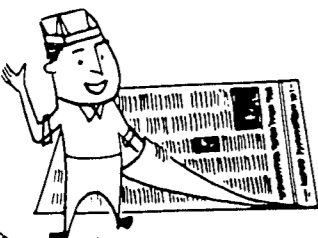

MISS GRACE HAUSER, an employee at the Ingham County News, isn't celebrating New Year's Eve early, but is modeling a variation of the "pressman's hat." With a little ingenuity, one can make a very stylish hat by substituting material for paper and adding a little trim.

As familiar a sight as the word "Goss" in pressrooms throughout the world is the unique paper headpiece, the "Pressman's Hat." The hat, hand-made of newsprint, serves as protection against ink, grease and oil.

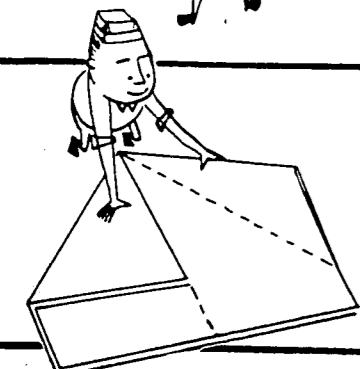

How long have pressmen been sporting this unique 10-fold chapeau? The American Pressman magazine, in trying to trace the origin of the hat, learned from a reader that in 1899 the hat was not only used to keep the hair clean, but also as a disposable receptacle for left-over ink.

Another of the magazine's readers reported the earliest appearance of the hat was in a Currier & Ives print of Benjamin Franklin's print shop in 1748. The painting showed the 42-year-old Franklin, retiring from the printing business, bidding goodbye to his partner. In the background is a pressman wearing that familiar square, paper Pressman's Hat.

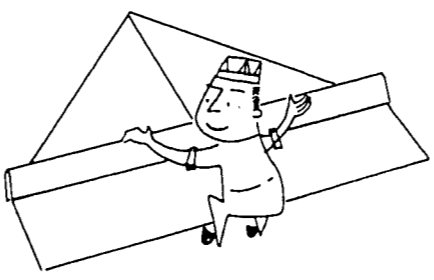

1. Start with a four page section of a newspaper having an approximate page size of 15" by 23". Lay it down with the center fold at the top.

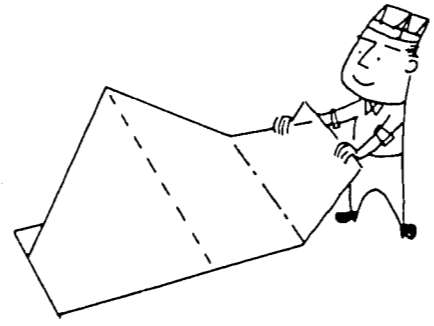

2. Locate the center line of the page and fold the left and right top corners in to this line forming a triangle.

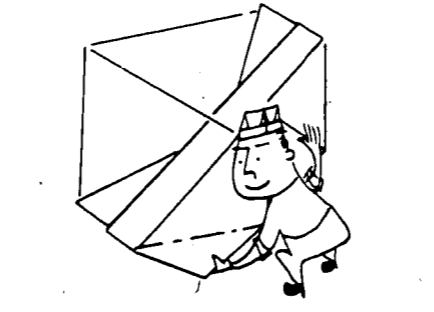

3. Fold the edge of the top sheet up to the base of the triangle.

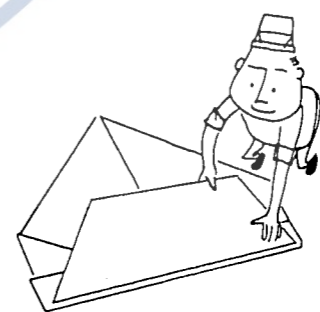

4. Now fold this top sheet up again over the base of the triangle to form the hat band. Turn the hat over keeping the peak at the top.

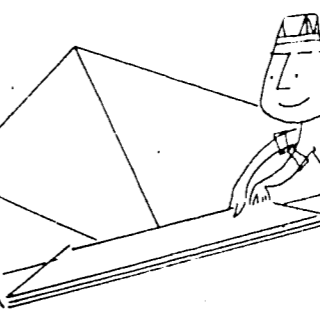

5. Fold the right side 1/2" in past the center line for an average head size. For a larger size, fold only 1/4" past or exactly to the center line. Now fold the left side toward the center line in the same manner.

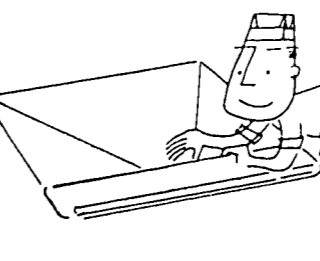

6. Fold the lower right and left hand corners up to the bottom of the hat band.

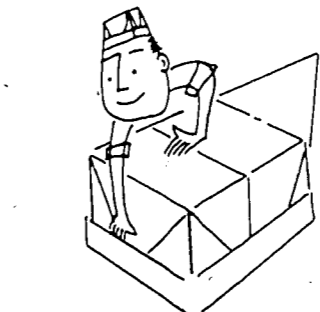

7. Fold this entire lower flap up over the hat band.

8. Now fold the edge of this flap down and tuck it into the hat band.

9. Fold the peak down and tuck it under the hat band.

10. Open the hat wide and flatten out the top. Then fold the end peaks down, creating the top and side edges, finally tucking these end peaks into the hat band.

If you know modern farming, and how to talk to farmers, this is an opportunity worth investigation. Because of the unusually good sales potential in this area, one of the nation's largest best-known full-line manufacturers of farm machinery plans to establish a local dealership. The man chosen must sincerely believe that a sound farm equipment business is based on giving service to the customer. He must be an aggressive merchandiser. He must realize that you must tell the story of your product and its advantages at every opportunity if you want big volume sales. To this man, we offer a rewarding challenge. We will provide a full line of years ahead farm-engineered agricultural machinery, backed by aggressive advertising and century-old name that is a by-word on thousands of farms. This is a good opportunity for a short-line dealer who has demonstrated his ability and wants to get larger. Or it may be the "big chance" for a local farmer who recognizes the profits that can be made in a well-managed farm machinery business. It holds an excellent income opportunity for a father-son team, or a family operation. Future potential is limited only by ambition and ability of the dealer selected. Write to Box 59, c/o this newspaper, including a brief summary of farm and business experience. Your inquiry will be held in strictest confidence.

Holt Key Club Collects Food Baskets for Needy

By CONNIE BROWN
Holt High School

The Holt high school vocal and music departments presented their annual Christmas concert to the public Monday evening. The very impressive display of talent began with the Girls' Glee club singing 7 selections, including a duet by Marie Swarts and Sharon Parker - "The Gift of Love" by Posegate.

The Boys' Glee club performed next singing such songs as "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" and "Go Tell It On The Mountain." Immediately after the performance of the glee clubs, the band, seated in front of the stage, tuned up and played 8 pieces.

sent the program in the afternoon. The third and fourth concerts were presented to elementary students.

The Key club baskets were collected Tuesday. In the high school each homeroom sent their basket to the library to be judged. The prize, an engraved plaque, was awarded to the senior homeroom of Mr. Charles Wilson.

His donation included 3 containers - 2 of canned goods and a huge box decorated like a chimney full of toys. The plaque will be presented after the holidays and after appropriate engraving has been completed. After the Christmas concert several boys from Key club went around to the Holt-Dimondale schools and collected their baskets. Wednesday morning the fellows loaded the goods on a truck and took them to the town hall, where the baskets' contents were redistributed.

It was also dress-up day sponsored by student council. All the fellows wore suits, white shirts and ties and the girls wore good dresses and in some cases heels.

Tuesday evening student council sponsored a dance celebrating the last day before Christmas vacation, Dress-Up day, and everything in general. PUBLIC HEARING BY VEVAY TOWNSHIP PLANNING COMMISSION

The Vevay Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on January 23, 1967, at 8:00 P.M. at the Vevay Town Hall to consider the following proposed amendment to the Vevay Township Zoning Ordinance No. 3: An Ordinance to amend an Ordinance known as Vevay Township Zoning Ordinance No. 3, adopted by the Vevay Township Board, October 7, 1957.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF VEVAY TOWNSHIP, INGHAM COUNTY, MICHIGAN ORDAINS:

Section 1. That an Ordinance known as Vevay Township Zoning Ordinance No. 3, adopted by the Vevay Township Board October 7, 1957, be and hereby is amended by adding sections 3.5 (5) and 3.6 (7) thereto, said additional sections to read as follows: Section 3.5 (5) TEMPORARY TRAILER COACHES under the conditions specified in Section 3.6 (7).

Section 3.6 (7) TRAILER COACH TEMPORARY USE PERMITS

When conditions exist that are unique to a particular situation, a Temporary Use Permit for a trailer coach on an individual lot or parcel may be issued by the Zoning Board of Appeals. Such permit shall be granted only when it can be demonstrated that circumstances or practical difficulty exist that would unquestionably result in hardship to the applicant. Hardship shall not be deemed economic, but shall be evaluated in terms of the use of a particular lot or parcel of land and the unique land use needs of the applicant.

(a) Requirements: A Temporary Use Permit for a trailer coach on an individual lot or parcel may be issued under the following conditions:

- (1) Such trailer coach shall only be allowed in District D.
- (2) Only one (1) such trailer coach shall be allowed on a lot or parcel of 1 acre or larger PROVIDED that the lot or parcel in question contains a permanent dwelling which conforms to the requirements of this Ordinance.
- (3) Such trailer coach shall provide a minimum of 100 square feet of floor space per occupant.
- (4) Unique and temporary conditions shall exist which justify the need for a trailer coach on a given lot or parcel, such as a dwelling for seasonal farm labor, aged family members, domestic employees, or similar dwelling needs of a temporary nature that relate to the use of the principal dwelling on the property in question.
- (b) Filing Procedure: A payment of a fee of $10.00 shall accompany an application for a Temporary Use Permit for a trailer coach. The applicant shall submit the following information to the Township Clerk when filing such application:
 - (1) The written consent of 50% of the owners of premises bordering upon the lot or parcel where it is proposed to locate said trailer.
 - (2) The written consent of 50% of the owners of all dwellings within 300 feet of the proposed site of the trailer, PROVIDED that this requirement shall not include any dwelling located adjacent to the proposed site if said dwelling is separated from the proposed trailer site by a state highway of 100 feet in width or more.
 - (3) A written statement by the applicant indicating the unique reasons for requesting a Temporary Use Permit for a trailer coach on the lot or parcel in question.
 - (c) Review Procedure: The Township Clerk shall present to the Zoning Board of Appeals all of the information required in the foregoing subsections (a) and (b) at a regular or special meeting. The Zoning Board of Appeals shall approve or deny the request within 60 days from the date of the submission of such request by the applicant. If approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals, the Township Clerk shall issue a Temporary Use Permit.
 - (d) Permit Revocation: In the event, after granting a permit and upon investigation, the Township Clerk determines that there has been misrepresentation in the application or that the standards set forth in this section have not been complied with, he shall notify the applicant in writing of revocation of said permit and the reasons for said revocation.
 - (e) Permit Expiration and Extension: A Temporary Use Permit for a trailer coach issued under this section shall be valid for a period of one (1) year from the date of the issuance of said permit. At the end of this period, the applicant may apply for an extension of the Temporary Use Permit for another one (1) year period by a written request to the Township Clerk. The Township Clerk may grant such an extension if, upon investigation, it is determined that the same unique conditions exist as existed in the original application and if it is found that all the standards or other requirements of this section are being met. If a written request for extension is not made by the applicant, or if it is determined that the applicant no longer qualifies for a Temporary Use Permit under the standards and requirements set forth in this section, the Township Clerk shall notify the applicant in writing of the expiration or revocation of said permit.

Section 2. The effective date of this Ordinance shall be 30 days after the passage thereof.

This notice contains the complete language of the proposed amendment. This amendment does not cause any changes in the zoning map of the Township, therefore no tentative map will be on display prior to the hearing at 8:00 P.M. on January 23, 1967.

All told the afternoon was a gay affair during which everyone had a good laugh.

Two of Santas helpers passed out candy and wished all a Merry Christmas at 3:15. The basketball teams have been busy practicing and scrimmaging area teams in hopes of winning all future games.

Mason now stands 2 wins and 1 loss in the Capital Circuit and 2 wins, 2 losses overall.

Leslie High Celebrates Christmas

By SHARON GRINNELL
Leslie High School

The students of Leslie high experienced a new policy Wednesday as the choir gathered in the centrally located library and sang Christmas carols.

The doors of rooms adjoining the library were opened, and the students heard such songs as "Do You Hear What I Hear?" and a snappy rendition of "Jingle Bells."

Then the annual Christmas program was held with the band performing a Christmas festival under the direction of Bill Marinac.

A girls' sextet, composed of Barbara Crakes, Sharon Stuart, Wendy Hine, Brenda Hensley, Mary McDaniels, and Tabby Robinson sang "Mr. Santa" to a very jolly Santa who was none other than our own Tom Leister, Leslie's choir teacher, Mrs. Donald Crane, then sang "I Wander As I Wander."

Principal Tom Craig ended the assembly with Christmas and New Year wish for all students.

The student council held a Christmas ball on Thursday, December 22. Bob Carey of WILS was the disc jockey. The cafeteria was decorated with red, white, and green streamers and red bells. The traditional mistletoe hung above the door.

Punch and cake were served at one end of the room while couples danced at the opposite end. Bob Carey started several snowball dances, which were, without exception, very interesting! His idea of remaining with the same partner for the following dance didn't hold the attention of many guys. His "ballads" turned out to be such songs as "Devil With The Blue Dress On" and "I'm A Believer!" Can't win them all, I guess.

Cheryl Sheathelm Is Off to Confab

DANSVILLE--Miss Cheryl Sheathelm, a senior at Dansville high school will leave today (Wednesday) for Washington to attend the follow-up meeting of the National Youth Conference on Natural Beauty and Conservation, which convenes on December 28-31.

Cheryl will participate with approximately 55 other delegates from every section of the country and from 11 of the nation's largest youth organizations. The Dansville delegate will represent the Future Homemakers of America.

Their purpose at this holiday session will be twofold. First, the youths will evaluate what has been accomplished by hundreds of beautification and conservation projects carried on since the National Youth Conference was created with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's encouragement last June.

Secondly, they will determine how to carry out additional follow-up projects, finance them and bring them to public attention.

In addition to the support of President and Mrs. Johnson, and the firm backing of the 11 youth organizations, the National Youth Conference has had strong cooperation from a number of the nation's leading corporations and foundations.

At the Washington meeting the youth delegates will plan and carry out their agenda with only such help as they request of adult advisors from the cooperating organizations.

There will also be on hand a number of experts in many phases of conservation, housing, and beautification. These experienced professionals will serve as resource people.

Second period classes were omitted last Wednesday morning so a Christmas assembly could be presented at 11:30. Rev. Galen Wightman of the Munnith Methodist church spoke on the topic; "Working to Improve."

Special music for the assembly was furnished by the Girls Glee club, who sang "Who Will Come to Bethlehem," and "Oh Holy Night." The winner of the Christmas drawing was Jim Hanson and he was presented with a Bill Cosby record by Santa Claus (Joe Singer).

The Christmas dance, sponsored by the junior class Thursday evening, was well attended, and enjoyed by all. It was an open affair, semi formal and the music was by the Raging Storm, a group from Ohio. Their work was described as "fabulous."

Members of the junior class decorated the gym Thursday afternoon, using giant green and red paper chains accented by snow flakes and balloons.

Students wishing to attend the holiday tournament basketball games in Chelsea were required to sign up for seats on the spectator buses last week. The tourney began yesterday (Tuesday) and will continue through December 29. Student tickets can be purchased for 50¢ at the door.

Last Thursday was a fun day for several classes, with teachers leading in games and puzzles, while others left the entertainment up to the students. The student council, advised by Robert Boyd, had a party and gift exchange. One of Mr. Boyd's presents was a handful of that "forbidden stuff"... chewing gum.

The Christmas concert by the varsity and junior varsity bands last Monday night was a tremendous success in spite of the heavy snowfall. Senior band members wore the old uniforms for what is hoped to be the last time. Brand new, tuxedo style uniforms will be here soon.

Sweater Dance Draws Throngs At Webberville

By MARSHA LOTT
Webberville High School

The Senior Class sponsored the "Jingle Bell Rock", a Christmas Sweater Hop Thursday night in the high school gym. The gym was gaily decorated. On one side were snow drits with sleds and snowmen and Santa Claus enjoying the winter fun. On the other side were Peanut cartoons with a Christmas theme.

The Big Vibrations, a band from Pinckney provided the music with records filling in when they took a break. The band was placed in the middle of a snow drift and a Christmas tree finished up the decorations. Everyone enjoyed an evening of dancing and the dance was very colorful.

MARSHA

Those in the play were Chuck Ross, Cathy Nichols, Rita Moore, Ned Erb, Pam Law, Dean Salsby, Sharon McComb and Sam Glover. Following the assembly everyone returned to their sixth hour classes for parties. This gave the rooms that won a cake a chance to enjoy their prize.

The members of the Student Council attended a League Student Council meeting recently at Laingsburg. Those attending were Pam Law, Sam Glover and Larry Ross.

Webberville hasn't had any recent basketball games, but games will begin again after Christmas. On January 6 the Spartans travel to Pewamo-Westphalia for a league game.

Neglected Children's Unit Formed

The Ingham county department of social services recently added a protective services unit to its program. Legislation authorizing this program was adopted in 1965 and Ingham was selected by the State Department of Social Services as one of seven counties to initiate it. The establishment of the protective services unit followed an extensive study and recommendation by the sub-committee for protective services of the Greater Lansing Youth Services committee. Captain Clarissa M. Young, director of the juvenile division of the Lansing police department served as chairman of the sub-committee. The protective services unit is located at the main office of the Ingham County Department of Social Services, 101 E. Willow street, Lansing. The staff consists of a case supervisor, one caseworker, a second-year graduate student of Social work at Michigan State university, and a receptionist. The focus of the program is crisis intervention in child neglect and abuse. Upon accepting a case immediate plans are made for the protection of the child or children and at the same time an effort is made to enable the parents to provide more adequate and effective care for the children. This involves helping the parents to recognize and remedy conditions harmful to the child and to fulfill their parental roles more adequately. The concept of protective services emphasizes rapid intervention to evaluate possible neglect situations with concentration on a short term intensive case work approach. Around the clock coverage is available for accepting referrals and investigations are initiated within a 24-hour time period. Referrals are accepted from Social Service and governmental agencies which are not actively involved in working with the families themselves, concerned relatives, and interested citizens, in person, by telephone, or in writing. In order to avoid duplication of services, the protective services unit will not become involved when another social service agency is already actively working with the family. When it is learned that a family which has been referred to the unit is already involved with a local social service agency the complaint is referred to that agency for investigation and service.

SECTION 2.6 INDUSTRIAL ZONES

1. Any use permitted in any other zones and any light or heavy manufacturing, or business prohibited in Commercial or other Zones, may be conducted in Industrial Zones, if such factory or factories, or business or places provide for the elimination of excessive smoke, and do not create traffic congestion or present an unsightly appearance; PROVIDED HOWEVER, such industries or business places must provide sufficient off-street parking facilities for vehicles ordinarily used by them, their agents, and employees. In the manufacture or handling of dangerous or explosive materials, adequate precautions must be taken to protect all adjoining properties.

2. Sanitary fills or dumps may be operated in Industrial Zones only; PROVIDED, HOWEVER, that the greatest elevation of the completed surface of such fill or dump shall not be higher than the elevation of an adjacent highway; PROVIDED, FURTHER, that when two highways are adjacent to such fills or dumps or when the general contour of the land where such fills or dumps are located is irregular in elevation, the Board of Appeals of Delhi Charter Township shall determine the height of the completed fills or dumps.

3. Junk yards may be operated in Industrial Zones only.

4. Junk yards shall be considered as any parcel of land maintained or operated for the purchase, sale, storage, dismantling, demolition or use of junk including scrap metals, motor vehicles, machinery and building and construction materials, or parts thereof.

There shall be no stocking of material above the height of the fence or wall, except that movable equipment used on the site may exceed the wall or fence height. No equipment, material signs, or lighting shall be used or stored outside the fenced-in area.

(c) All fenced-in area shall be set back at least ten feet from any front street or property line. Such front yard setback shall be planted with trees, grass, and shrubs to minimize the appearance of the installation.

(d) No open burning shall be permitted and all industrial processes involving the use of equipment for cutting, compressing, or packaging shall be conducted within a completely enclosed building.

(e) Whenever the installation abuts upon property within a residential or agricultural zone district, a transition strip at least ten feet in width shall be provided on the junk yard site between the fenced-in area and the property within a residential or agricultural zone district. Such strip shall contain plant materials, grass, and structural screens of a type approved by the Planning Commission to effectively minimize the appearance of the installation and to help confine odors therein.

6. All buildings in Industrial Zones shall have proper sanitary facilities, as set forth in the Ingham County Sanitary Code.

Good Roads Vital to Michigan

With the recent announcement of the cut-back of federal highway funds, the current campaign of the Good Roads federation for Michigan roadways takes on added importance.

Frank (Tex) Evans, Ingham county coordinator for the Michigan Good Roads federation will appear on WILX-TV Investigative Report series. This series will bring close-ups of the most dangerous spots on local roads. The traffic hazards are shown, and the dangers are described in the program. All locations in this special highway "danger spot" series have been chosen because of frequency and seriousness of accidents at such points. Each program will also cover some of the improvements necessary to reduce the hazards.

Evans states that one of the major reasons such danger spots exist on municipal, county and state roads is that there is not enough money available to meet basic road-way needs throughout the state.

The reduction of federal highway funds simply makes a bad situation worse. Michigan's roadways were already in a jam--with many unsafe bridges, narrow roads, dangerous railway crossings and unsafe surfaces in many areas. Even our new freeways are already overcrowded at peak traffic periods--and traffic is growing by leaps and bounds. At present, revenues available for roads provide only about $8 of every $11 needed. That is the reason the Michigan Good Roads federation is urging everyone in Michigan to work for the "good roads package" that will improve Michigan's roadways. This is one of the most critical problems facing Michigan's legislature.

Correction of such hazards as those presented in the WILX-TV investigative report "Danger Spot" series in local areas will be dependent to a large degree on the success of the good roads program in obtaining revenues to maintain, improve, and extend roadways.

2,200 Killed, 160,000 Injured

Michigan's Traffic Toll in 1966 To Set New High in Fatalities

Michigan's traffic toll in 1966 will hit a new high annual record of about 2,200 deaths, surpassing the previous high of 2,175 set in 1937 and edging by three per cent the 2,120 killed in 1965.

This and other projections were included in the annual roundup of state police activities reported by Colonel Fredrick E. Davids, department director.

Injuries too will reach a new high of about 160,000, topping by about three per cent the previous mark of 155,258 last year.

The accident total, estimated at 301,000 will be about 3 per cent less than the record of 310,598 counted in 1965. The projected death rate of 5.1 per 100 million vehicle miles is down two per cent from the year before.

Combined casualties -- deaths and injuries -- again will set a new high for the state. It was the fifth consecutive year of increase for fatalities and the eighth in a row for injuries while the accident reduction, if maintained when all reports are in, will be the first after four years of increases.

Other traffic exposure factors showed gains too. The totals of licensed drivers and registered motor vehicles, both over 4 million, indicated growths of 4 and 5 per cent while the estimated mileage rose by 6 per cent to over 43 billions.

Department projections for the year showed State Police vehicles traveled over 22 million miles, with more than 13 million of that on traffic patrol. There were 218,000 arrests for traffic offenses and 21,500 on criminal and other complaints. Juvenile traffic arrests numbered 7,800 and there were 6,300 apprehensions of delinquent minors.

Troopers assisted 71,500 motorists, investigated 120,000 cars and issued 280,000 oral warnings to drivers. Officers made 177,000 property and 29,500 liquor inspections.

In other traffic matters, the state police inaugurated a traffic skywatch program, teaming department planes with patrol cars; re-established 24-hour expressway patrols working out of 27 posts; and entered into a cooperative program with radio stations for relay of emergency messages to travelers in Michigan.

Other department developments included the opening of three new posts at Lapeer, Hart and Sault Ste. Marie, bringing the total to 59 and the addition of the state office of emergency planning, transferred by executive order from the department of administration.

With authorized state police officer strength increased to 1,576, recruiting and training of trooper candidates continued in high gear throughout the year. Five recruit schools were held, with 241 graduating as probationary troopers. The age maximum for trooper candidates was raised early in the year from 29 to 30 and in the fall, for the first time in their history, the State Police called for applications for state police-women, with two to be trained initially for police-community and juvenile relations assignments.

Eleven bravery awards and 30 citations for meritorious service were authorized in 1966 for State Police officers. In addition, honorable mention recognition was accorded in 22 cases. Bravery award winners were Detective Sergeants Stephen K. Galat and Leo J. Healey, East Lansing; William J. Menzies, Paw Paw; George C. Karp, Paul Radashaw and Walter Sokol (retired), all of Detroit; Corporals Charles F. Spurlin, Flint, and William H. Bayn, Rockford, and Troopers Edward F. Hancock, Petoskey, Paul D. Palmer, Brighton, and John T. Fiedler, Romeo.

The annual crime report compiled by the State Police showed that the crime rate in 1965 continued upward, with 1624.4 major offenses per 100,000 population representing an increase of 16.6 per cent over the 1964 rate of 1393.6. Major offenses -- murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, felonious larceny and auto theft -- numbered 133,528 in 1965 compared with 113,110 the year before.

Of almost 50,000 suspects apprehended for major crimes in 1965 in Michigan, 26,814 or 54.3 per cent were under 17 years of age while 11,595 or 23.5 per cent were in the 17 to 22 age group and 10,979 or 22.2 per cent were 22 years or older.

The annual state police school bus accident report showed 662 rural school bus and related type accidents in Michigan in 1965, a record number. They resulted in one death and 520 persons injured. Compared with 1964, there were reductions of seven in deaths and 20 in injured but an increase of 87 in accidents.

Provisional 1966 figures showed 337 persons died and 238 were injured in 689 water accidents in Michigan, all new annual highs since such statewide compilations were begun in 1958 by the state police. In 1965 there were 235 deaths and as many injured in 547 accidents.

The State Fire Marshal's report showed Michigan had 79,634 fires in 1965 which claimed 238 lives and did an estimated damage of almost $58 million, the third worst property loss in the last 25 years.

Year-Around Turkey Supply, Research Aim

Odds are three to one that the last turkey you ate in Michigan came from out of state.

But scientists, with the aid of the upper peninsula's cool climate, hope to reduce these odds considerably.

Starting in February an expanded turkey research program will begin at Michigan State University's agricultural experiment station at Chatham. During the months that follow, MSU poultry scientists, under the direction of Dr. John Wolford, will test the feasibility of producing turkey eggs at times during the year when turkeys do not lay eggs in the South.

Wolford explains that high temperatures curtail egg production in the early spring months in many of the South's leading turkey egg producing states such as Texas and the Carolinas. He feels that the cooler temperatures in the upper peninsula may allow year-round egg hatching and provide continuous supplies of turkeys of various sizes. "We know of no turkeys being raised in the upper peninsula," said Wolford. "This should be an advantage. A lack of turkeys also means no turkey diseases that can be spread to other flocks."

Research at the Chatham research experiment station will include studies of controlled breeding (for hatching at different times of the year), physiology, nutrition and other factors related to the efficient production of high quality birds.

Wolford noted that Michigan's potential for expanding turkey production can be exemplified by looking at the past records of Minnesota and Wisconsin, states with climate and feed situations similar to Michigan. They have expanded production 43 and 93 per cent, respectively, in the past seven years.

The potential Michigan market, at 7 pounds per person, per year, is about 3-3/4 million birds for the state's 8 million consumers. Today Michigan produces only about one-third that number. Also, the northeast U.S. market is within reach of Michigan's potential supply.

Farm Views And News

By R.C. Lott

While in Hawaii attending the national meeting of county agricultural agents, it was interesting to learn more about raising pineapple. Pineapple isn't planted and harvested every year like wheat or corn or tomatoes. On the other hand, even though it is a true fruit, pineapple doesn't grow on a bush or tree that lasts for many years like oranges, peaches or mangoes.

Instead, pineapple is a plant that must grow for nearly two years after it is planted before the first harvest. And then it produces only one fruit. The third year it produces one or two more fruit. In some places and under some circumstances it may produce a third harvest. Then the plants must be "knocked-down" and the fields replanted. This is what is known as a "cycle" -- from planting to replanting a field.

As in all farming, the growing of pineapple begins with preparation of the soil. After a crop is harvested, the fields are still covered by a thick stand of old plants, which huge machines cut up and plow into the ground. This plant material, when decomposed, is excellent food for the new planting, returning to the soil some of the good nutrients taken out by the previous crop. During the time between this operation and the next planting, these leaves, roots and stumps decompose as the fields are plowed, disked and harrowed by machinery, and have become part of the soil by planting time.

When planting time approaches, great machines go snorting and clanking across the fields like prehistoric monsters, getting the plant bed ready for the actual planting. At one operation, they fumigate and sometimes fertilize the topsoil, and lay a black, plastic mulch strip through which the slips or suckers will be planted.

This mulch strip, in use since 1914, does several important things. It conserves moisture in the ground, retards the growth of weeds, keeps the fumigant from being wasted by evaporation, keeps the soil warm, and may increase the action of certain beneficial soil bacteria. In some dry areas the "trash," instead of being plowed under, is used as an additional mulch between the plastic strips.

After the machine has laid the mulch strip and tugged the soil over its edges, trucks arrive with huge bins of planting material. Planting material, since Hawaii's pineapples do not have seeds, may be any of three portions of the mother plant--slips or suckers which grow out of the stem, or crowns removed from the tops of the ripe fruit. It is dumped in windrows at intervals along the prepared rows of the new field for the planters.

Planting is one of the few operations still done by hand, but this may not be true much longer. Experimental planting machines are being developed by several companies. Now, however, men with sharp planting irons move in a stooped position along the rows, punching holes through the carefully marked mulch strips and placing the slips, suckers or crowns in the earth underneath. In spite of the fact that this is probably the hardest and most unpleasant job left on a plantation, an expert will plant from six to eight thousand slips in an eight-hour day, though he will certainly be a weary man at quitting time.

After planting, each pineapple plant is watched, tended and fed as carefully as a baby. Formerly, weeding occupied many man-days during the growing season. Now, thanks to chemical research and development of boom machines, almost all of it is done mechanically.

A boom sprayer is an arm, usually from 55 to 65 feet long, attached to one or both sides of a truck, and used to spray the fields with various necessary fluids. Boom machines spray herbicides to kill any weeds that come up between the rows of plastic mulch strips, or with iron sulphate which is absorbed through the leaves to feed the plant. Sometimes they spray with poison to kill harmful insects, with liquid fertilizer, or even with hormones to control the fruiting so that not too many pineapples will be ready for harvest at once.

Hawaii's pineapple plantations today could no more get along without the boom than you could manage without arms. Yet, only a few years ago, the work now done

Harvesting Machines Created to Make Up For Labor Shortage

"Necessity is the mother of invention," so an old saying goes.

Michigan fruit and vegetable growers have found a lot of "necessity" for getting help for harvesting their crops. R.C. Lott, Ingham county Extension agricultural agent, says more progress has been made in mechanical harvester development in the past two years than in the five years before.

The serious shortage of harvest labor has kept engineers busy day and night at Michigan State University, other land-grant colleges and universities, at farm machinery firms and in farm workshops. Researchers are developing new and improving old mechanical harvesters to meet the shortage of available farm workers.

The object of all of this is to "keep the fruit and vegetable farmer in business," explained the agricultural agent.

Farmers accept mechanical harvesters, even though costs are high.

Enough progress has been made so that nearly all peas, carrots, radishes, onions, green beans and potatoes are now harvested commercially by machines. Cucumber and tomato pickers are in the transitional stage and down the line are asparagus and strawberry harvesters.

Each year more Michigan cherries are mechanically harvested. More advances were made on mechanical apple harvesting in the past year than ever before, the agent has learned.

Lott said the engineers first find out if they can make a machine that will do the job. Then they figure out what it will cost and whether it is economically profitable.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

Agriculture Future Is Full of Question Marks

BY MELVIN WOELL

With most possibilities of field work buried under the snow, farmers take time out at year's end to look ahead and to plan their enterprise for the new year.

What will 1967 bring Michigan agriculture? How will farmers fare in the new year, compared to the year just past?

Although farmers "hedge" whenever possible, answers to many of the big questions, such as price and farm labor, remain hidden to them. Farm labor trends have been anything but encouraging and have forced most farmers to cut back plans for labor intensive crops of fruit and vegetables and to lay out more cash for automated machinery.

What about government controls and interference in agriculture. As surpluses dwindle, so will government influence in agriculture, prompting one national farm leader, Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, to call for termination of "the whole sorry mess of government farm controls, direct subsidy payments and price manipulations."

What about prices? The outlook remains good for most farm commodities with demand high and little processor or consumer hesitation. Livestock farmers, however, will find some of the bloom off the rose as beef and pork prices continue to drift closer to the "normal" prices of a few years ago.

Several predictions, backed by a wealth of accumulated evidence, will be easier to make. For example, farmers (and others) will continue to be faced by a tight money situation with interest rates moving up to the 7% and higher bracket for short-term loans. A corollary prediction is that down payment requirements will be upped accordingly.

Domestic government spending will ease in response to the violent voter reaction of November's election, but government spending will remain substantially in excess of government income and higher labor costs will far

Race Violence Must End, Negro Educator Declares

Violence as a means of ending racial discrimination should be condemned by all Americans "in clear, unequivocal, unambiguous language," leading Negro educator told graduates at Michigan State University's fall term commencement.

Dr. Stephen J. Wright said that both Negroes and whites must make it clear that the unfinished business of the civil rights revolution needs to be accomplished "within the boundaries of law and order." But working within these boundaries, he added, must not diminish the urgency for ending the deadly subtleties of racial discrimination in education, housing, employment and the administration of justice.

Dr. Wright, former president of Fisk University and now head of the United Negro College fund, addressed 1,453 graduates at the December 10 ceremony. He was also awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

Despite integration gains in the South, Dr. Wright said, the civil rights revolution has been passing by Negroes in the north "because the north was desegregated before the revolution and voting was no real problem."

As a result, he noted, Negroes in the north and in the west have introduced violence "either as a new means to achieve the objectives of the revolution, or merely as a thoughtless, spontaneous response to frustrations, pent-up hatred and bitterness."

Dr. Wright added: "I wish to make clear the fact that I neither condone nor justify the use of violence. For if history has taught us anything at all, it is the futility of violence -- a means which creates more problems than it solves." He said that at a time when segregation has been overshadowed by discrimination-- "infinitely more subtle and difficult to prove"--several critical developments have occurred:

Violence in the north and west, and in Atlanta which is slowing down the revolution. "Emasculation of responsible Negro leadership" by government indifference or by failure of non-violent efforts "to mount programs to deal with the unfinished business of the revolution." Emergence of "opportunistic demagogues" at a moment when "to many Americans are having second thoughts" about how much support to give the civil rights movement.

Highway System Adds Roads

More than 2,300 miles of new roads and streets have been added to Michigan's highway system during the last five years, the State Highway Commission reports.

As of last July 1, there were 113,580 miles of roads and streets in Michigan compared to 111,232 on the same date in 1961.

Total mileage of the state highway system -- 9,198 -- has remained about the same during the last five years although more than 500 miles of new freeways have been opened to traffic. In most cases, state highways replaced by freeways revert to local jurisdiction.

County road mileage has increased from 85,967 to 87,038 during the last five years while the total mileage of city and village streets has gone up from 15,490 to 16,653 miles.

Farm Views And News

By R.C. Lott

by one boom machine kept big gangs of laborers busy for many days, spraying, weeding or fertilizing. Plantation men say that without the machines to prepare the soil, care for the growing plant, and harvest the fruit, it would be impossible with today's wage scale to produce pineapple that you and I could afford to buy.

Good fruit can be produced with less than twenty-five inches of rainfall a year, if the rain comes at the right time. But irrigation is important in some of the drier areas. On Lanai and parts of Molokai, water is pumped from deep wells to irrigate some fields. Studies are under way to make more water available. Irrigation is done sparingly because of the shortage of water in dry areas. Most pineapple fields are not irrigated.

Some 16 to 24 months after the plant was put into the ground, depending upon conditions and locations, it is an adult. It is then about three feet high, and bears a fine four-to-five pound fruit if it belonged to the first, or plant, crop. If it is a part of a ratoon (second or third) crop, it will probably have two smaller but equally good pineapples. It is then ready for harvesting, an operation that takes both men and machines.

The old way was to send hundreds of men and women into the fields wearing heavy clothing, leather gloves, wide hats and big canvas slings over their shoulders. Then the slings were filled, workers carried them to the nearest road, where they were emptied and the fruit placed in lug boxes. The boxes were then stacked on trucks for small railroad cars and taken to the cannery. This process, of course, was hard on the fruit as well as the pickers, and pineapples often arrived at the cannery looking as if worn by the people who handled them. There is none of that for today's pampered pine, and again, the reason is a boom machine.

Pineapple must be picked when it is exactly ripe--not a day earlier or a day later. So far, only the human eye can tell just when a pineapple is ready to pick. But a boom machine called the harvester-conveyor makes the picking job a great deal easier. A crew of six to twelve men follows the machine along, walking between the rows. Each man selects a ripe fruit and snaps off the crown as he places it on a conveyor belt running along the boom. The fruit travels up this boom and is eased into a bin on a truck which has moved into place to receive it. For night picking, booms are equipped with electric lights, sometimes above the boom, sometimes below. When the bin, which may hold up to seven tons, is full, the truck moves off to an unloading station, where a machine gently sets the bin down to wait for another truck and the trip to the cannery. Pineapple grown on Molokai or Lanai makes this part of the journey by barge, but it is handled with the same care. So, instead of being tossed into a sling, into a box and on a truck; off the truck, out of the box and into a bin, all by muscle power, as it once was, our pampered pineapple is touched only once by human hands--the picker's--between mother plant and cannery.

As the pineapples make their way into the cannery proper, two things happen. First, they are sorted as to size by grooved rollers that guide them to the right conveyor belt, and second, they are washed clean by a continuous shower-bath of chlorinated water. As they enter the main canning room, they come first to the machine which, probably as much as any one thing, is responsible for the success of pineapple canning. This is the Ginaca machine, a wonderful device which removes the shell, cuts off both ends of the fruit, punches out the core and leaves each fruit a golden cylinder. It even scrapes the shell, leaving the husk nearly dry, ready to be made into bran.

After the Ginaca has done its work, it feeds the pineapple cylinders to the trimming tables at the rate of 50 to 100 a minute. Here women in white caps, aprons and rubber gloves pick up each cylinder and deftly trim away any eyes, bits of shell or over-ripe portions left on the fruit. The trimmer puts the clean cylinder on a moving, stainless steel conveyor which takes it through a cold water spray to the slicer, where guarded knives cut it into uniform slices. Then other white-capped workers select perfectly-matched slices and place them in cans, according to grades.

When cans are filled with slices, chunks, or whatever size fruit is being processed, they move on to syringers, and through vacuum sealers where covers are attached and sealed. Still moving fast and steadily, they come to the cookers, where they are sterilized and heated at 200 degrees Fahrenheit for five to fifteen minutes, depending upon the size of can and the kind of product.

The fruit, of course, is now very hot, so without pausing a second the cans move through water coolers. The cans of crushed fruit go through a cold-water spray device aptly called a "hula cooler" which shakes as it sprays, getting the contents cool in the center as well as on the outside.

After cooling, two things may happen. The cans may be placed on pallets and stored in warehouses to be labelled at a later time. Or, they may go directly from cooling to fast-moving labelling machines which automatically wrap and glue a label on each can at a rate of about 500 cans a minute. As the cans reach the end of the labelling line, they go into cardboard cases without a moment's pause. Filling and sealing of the cases also is done by machinery.

And so, by a complicated, efficient system, the pineapple which yesterday or even this morning was picked from its mother plant, quite possibly on another island, this afternoon is ready for the grocer's shelf. There you may choose one wearing whatever brand you prefer, knowing that whatever the label, the fruit inside will be the best possible result of that happy combination of science and art--modern panning.

Besides the sliced and crushed fruit, the canneries make millions of gallons of pineapple juice, which is the pure, unsweetened juice from cores, crushed fruit and broken pieces. Juice stock flows from the trimming tables to a central plant where it is put through extractors, strainers and heaters before it is canned, sealed, cooled and labelled.

One of the latest developments in food preservation, of course, is the quick-freezing process, and that, too, is done at some canneries. A popular product is the unsweetened frozen juice concentrate, to which water may be added by the housewife to make a delicious beverage.

It used to be said that the Chicago pork packers used "everything but the squeal." Unless they have recently found a use for the squeal, however, Hawaii's pineapple canners are ahead of them, for they have found a way to preserve even the fragrance of the fruit. In the concentrating process, some of the essential oils that give the pineapple its enticing aroma, are lost. Scientists have found a way to recapture them and add them to the frozen concentrate in just the right proportion to produce mouth-watering results.

Other developments are fresh frozen pineapple chunks and various new blends of pineapple juice with other fruit juices providing new taste combinations.

Every year, scientific research adds something to the list of by-products--useful substances made from what used to be wasted. Different companies make different products and research men are working to develop new ones. For a good many years pineapple bran for stock feed, alcohol for hospital use and vinegar-making, have been manufactured by different firms.

Among newer by-products are a meat-tenderizing enzyme called bromelain, and new types of livestock feeds. The livestock feeds in the forms of hay, silage and pellets are made from the leaves of the plants. The leaves, too, were formerly plowed back into the soil.

Unlike sugar, most of which leaves Hawaii as "raw sugar", canned pineapple leaves the State as a finished product under many competitive brand names. As a result of this fact, there is strong competition among the various companies, as well as between Hawaiian pineapple, foreign-produced pineapple, and other varieties of canned fruits produced on the mainland.

Another kind of competition with which pineapple producers must concern themselves is that between Hawaiian and foreign pineapple. Although Hawaii in recent years has produced about 80% of the canned pineapple products used in mainland United States, the Philippine Islands, Cuba, Mexico, Puerto, Taiwan, Malaya, South Africa and Australia also send their canned pineapple products to the U.S. for sale. Since labor costs in all these places are far below Hawaii's, competition is a problem.

Like all farmers and businessmen, pineapple growers and canners must plan ahead so that good business today may be better tomorrow. This planning might be divided into two main classes: scientific planning and business planning.

Competition with other fruits and juices is keen, and growing keener. Labor relations always have to be considered, and great efforts must be made to keep labor-management relations stable and to avoid strikes.

This labor-management question is closely related to the problem of producing pineapple products at a cost which will allow them to be sold at a reasonable profit. Nobody wants to invest money in a company which is losing money, or failing to pay its stockholders fair dividends. So, since most of Hawaii's pineapple firms are stock companies, they must make money for the thousands of people here and elsewhere who have invested their money in the industry.

Leslie Assessor Gets Raise

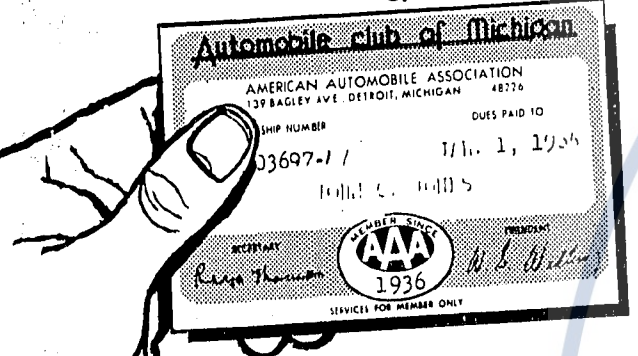

LESLIE--The village council voted last week to give the assessor a $100 raise in view of the additional work load $500 a year.

The fire committee reported that the resuscitator and oxygen tanks were not at the fire barn and that George Luecht had given many of the firemen instructions on their use. This equipment is planned for use in case of fires only. Kennet Brooks, former village president, appeared to protest the raise in water rate. It was pointed out that this is a temporary move to be in effect only until meters are installed.

Don Cooley appeared to ask the village for damages due to water in his basement when a sewer plugged up. The matter was referred to the village's insurance company. It was stated that the sewer is inadequate for the load now on it, and it would be well for the residents on Armstrong street to petition for a new one.

The council voted to transfer $6,650 from the water and sewer receiving to bond and interest and $3,000 from water and sewer receiving to operation and maintenance.

IN THE BEGINNING

... was God. He created Heaven and Earth. He gave us this New Year. What will YOU do with it... 365 days? It is time for us to begin again. This New Year is young, clean, glorious and offers us opportunity to make valid resolutions. As suddenly as the flash from a bolt of lightning... God gave us this New Year. And as surely as we live this hour. He expects us to use it honorably. Resolve to attend church more often.
