Six Teens Arrested For Breaking Into Mason High School

Justice moved swiftly this week in the cases of 6 teenagers suspected of committing vandalism after breaking and entering Mason senior high school last week and also of breaking and entering The Jug, a downtown Mason bar, where about $20 in cash and a quantity of beer were taken.

Chief Tim Stolz of the Mason police said some of the 6 are suspects in the high school break-in March 28, some in the breaking and entering of The Jug, and some in both cases.

Chief Stolz had 5 of the 6 suspects under arrest within hours after the high school episode and picked up a 6th suspect Monday of this week.

Four of the youths are 17 years of age or older and 2 are 16 years of age.

Stolz identified the older youths as:
Richard Belen, 17, 2202 N. Cedar street, Holt.
Richard Reynolds, 18, 113 Kingman road, Mason.
Anthony Garcia, 17, 600 N. Mason street, Mason.
Charles Vining, Jr., 17, 317 W. Elm street, Mason.

The 2 juveniles are both from the Dansville area, Stolz said.

Two of the older boys, Belen and Vining, are held at the Ingham county jail, facing charges of breaking and entering.

Two others, Garcia and Reynolds made bond of $1,500 each and were released pending trial.

The 2 Dansville youths are held at the Ingham County Juvenile detention home in Lansing awaiting action by the Ingham county probate court.

Reynolds, Belen and Garcia were arraigned before Judge Roy W. Adams in Mason justice court last Wednesday.

Reynolds and Garcia both stood mute and are awaiting examination in justice court.

Belen waived examination and was bound over to circuit court.

Reynolds, Garcia's and Vining's bonds were set at $1,500 each and Belen's at $3,000.

Vining was arrested by Chief Stolz at his home Monday morning. He was arraigned before Judge Adams and waived examination. He is confined in the county jail.

Vining is married and formerly lived at Bunker Hill, police said.

Stolz said Garcia and Reynolds are suspected only of The Jug burglary and Vining only of the school entry. Belen and the 2 juveniles, the chief said, are suspected of having been involved in both burglaries.

According to police Reynolds is the only one of the group who is still in school. He is enrolled at Mason high school.

Police said the boys drove to the school in a truck. They left the vehicle just south of the school and walked the short distance to a school door which they opened by breaking a glass with a rock.

Once inside, officers said, they seized fire extinguishers and smashed glass in doors. Greatest damage was done in the school kitchen and the school library.

A fish aquarium was overturned, and the kitchen and library were made a shambles.

Terry Fiedler Is First To Win in Bike Contest

Terry Fiedler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fiedler of 831 Ash street, Mason, has a new bicycle to whiz around his Ingham County News paper route with. Terry is the first one to sell 25 News subscriptions in just one short week. This qualifies him for the new bicycle.

A busy young man, Terry is a safety patrol captain at Steele Street school, a good student, stamp and coin collector and has a perfect attendance record at the Nazarene Sunday school.

Terry not only sold 25 subscriptions, but 11 of his customers were brand new Ingham County News subscribers. It is not too late for other youngsters to earn a new bike, sales kits are available at the News office and the contest is in effect until April 28. You must be 12 years old and have your parents' permission to participate.

Council Requests Plans Drawn Up For Fire - Police Building

One Hour Parking Limit Proposed for 3 Blocks

Mason city councilmen made their decision on the city-owned Rice building at the corner of Jefferson and Oak street.

In a resolution approved at the Monday night meeting, council authorized the hiring of a certified architect to draw up plans, specifications and cost estimates for the remodeling or reconstruction of the main garage section for the purposes of housing the city police and fire departments.

The resolution further provides that the architect design the project so as to permit at a later date an addition or additions for housing all or part of the city offices should the council decide it necessary.

A rough sketch showing the relation of additional office space to the remodeled or reconstructed police and fire facilities is also to be presented to the council by the architect. John Hamlin was the only one to oppose the resolution.

This action follows on the heels of a public hearing at which time the citizens of Mason were provided the opportunity to offer suggestions and opinions concerning council's future action regarding the building.

A large group of persons were present at the hearing. The majority of those speaking out indicated they did not want the city to go into debt for a new city hall facility and that the city should attempt to make use of the Rice building at a minimum cost to the taxpayers.

In other business the council proposed that the uniform traffic code be changed to allow for one hour parking limitations. Final action will be taken at the April 17 meeting.

The one hour limitation would pertain to one side of 3 blocks in the downtown section of Mason. Reduced parking would be enforced on Ash street--100 block west on the north side; Maple street--100 block west on the south side and Jefferson street--300 block south on the west side.

On the opposite sides of the streets the regular 2 hour parking would be in effect.

This action was prompted by the need for a greater number of parking places in the shopping area and to make parking enforcement easier. A group of merchants had requested this action at a previous meeting of the council.

Few Voters at Polls Incumbent Snook Leads Candidates in Election

The smallest number of voters ever to turn out for a city election cast their ballots Monday, April 3.

Of the 2,200 registered voters in the city's 3 precincts, only 442 persons came to the polls.

There were 6 candidates seeking 3 positions on the city council. When the ballots were in and counted, Vaughn Snook, incumbent councilman, led all the other candidates by at least 62 votes.

Howard Becker, a resident of Mason for 13 years, tried his wings in city politics for the first time and easily walked off with the second highest number of votes.

Mayor Gilson Pearsall was the third person elected to the council. He has served 6 years on the council, 5 years as mayor.

The election results are as follows:
Vaughn Snook, 312

Howard Becker, 250
Gilson Pearsall, 209
James Maddix, 168
Frances Fiedler, 157
Gerald Bodamer, 134

Medics Committee Brochures Ready

Medics for Mason committee headed by Joseph Nielson received 5,000 brochures this week, which illustrate the assets Mason has to offer medical people looking for new opportunities.

The pamphlets will be mailed out primarily to hospitals, medical groups, the armed services and doctors whose names have been recommended to the committee.

Mailing of the brochures will be periodically to insure that doctors in transition or those thinking of a move will be aware that Mason needs and wants more doctors, Nielson said.

The Mason General hospital serves a population area of approximately 30,000. With this number growing every day, interested citizens have become concerned over the doctor shortage here.

Already the committee has contacted several medical groups and persons and have had 7 inquiries from interested doctors. The committee would ideally like to have at least 3 more general physicians, a surgeon, gynecologist and obstetrician specialist in Mason.

According to Nielson Mason has 5 major assets which appeal to prospective medical people: the hospital facility, the fact that the hospital is accredited, Mason's location near to Michigan State university and the State Capitol, nearby recreation facilities, visitors are impressed with Mason as a community and a good place to raise a family.

"The cooperation and work put forth by the 15 committee members proves that citizens can work together to solve any problem which they deem important enough," Nielson said. "The future of Mason and any community hinges on its health system and persons from all walks of life are more than willing to work for the system's improvement."

"This was proven by the unqualified cooperation given by everyone on the Medics for Mason committee. No one refused to serve and all completed their individual responsibilities."

Persons having knowledge of a doctor who might be interested in coming to Mason are urged to get a brochure from Robert Recher, hospital administrator, and send it to the prospective doctor.

Webberville Gets Cash From State

WEBBERVILLE - The village of Webberville is $8,222.39 richer this week as a result of the receipt of a check for that amount from the state highway department representing state motor vehicle funds due the village.
The money was held up until the village brought its book-keeping practices up to those required by the highway department.
While the village's books were in good order, they did not meet a ruling of the highway department requiring village clerks to keep records of vehicle funds.
The record keeping in Webberville has been done by the village treasurer. Disbursements were made following receipt of vouchers from the city clerk.
Ida Mae Hosking, village clerk, has now taken over the record keeping job from the treasurer.
The village plans to use the highway funds later in a street rebuilding program.

School Board Decides On Tenure, Retirement

For Teachers

Teacher tenure was the major item of business at the Mason board of education meeting Monday night. In a closed session all teachers in the school system were considered as to their tenure status for the next year.

In a policy decision the board members decided to adhere to the present master contract with the teachers which states teachers must retire at age 65. Robert Ware was the only board member to oppose the decision.

Teachers over 65 have been able to continue teaching in the past on a one year basis after the school board reviewed a letter of application from each teacher and a letter from their respective doctors on their physical and mental condition.

There are 3 teachers in the system who are directly affected by this decision.

Resignations were accepted from 5 teachers at the meeting. Those leaving the school system are Ben Blackiston, junior high science teacher; John Collina, junior high social studies; Barbara Cowper, Alaledon kindergarten; Joyce Marley, Alaledon 5th grade; and Peggy Norris, Cedar street special education.

Leigh Beagle, Mason high school teacher and current director of the adult education program, was appointed federal program director. Members of the board decided to save the school system a little money, if possible, and are investigating the feasibility of having the final grading and lawn seeding surrounding the new high school addition done locally.

Originally this work was included in the general contract as an alternate with a cost estimate of $6,500. Expressing his opinion Robert Ware said, "we wouldn't lose any great amount by getting the work done ourselves and more than likely could save some money."

The building and sites committee was directed to get bids locally for the work and to make the final decision for the board.

Two country school houses are still for sale; the Hubbard and Canaan schools. Board members indicated they thought now would be a good time to advertise the buildings again.

Superintendent of the Mason public school has been invited to be a member of the 1967 Advanced Administrative Institute to be held at Harvard university from July 12-21.

Robert Leonard, board president, said, "It is a great honor for the Mason public schools, that our superintendent was selected to attend this institute." Board members approved $250 plus transportation costs to cover the superintendent's expenses of attending the institute.

However, due to a great demand from prospective students, Leigh Beagle, director of adult education for the Mason schools, announces that Mrs. Judy Hoyer of the Junior High teaching staff will instruct the Swim and Trim classes spring term.

The Swim and Trim class is open to both new students and those who have taken the class in the past. Enrollment may take place next Monday evening at the Senior High gym. We Get Letters Thanks for Cleanup Job Students, School Staff!

Editor, News:
Many people write letters to the editor, unfortunately most of them are criticizing someone or something.

We would like to use this media to publicly thank all of the high school personnel and students whose tremendous efforts and co-operative attitudes made it possible for classes to go on as usual last Tuesday. We are referring, of course, to the morning after the pointless vandalism that took place at the Mason senior high school.

Many were called upon to serve, "above and beyond the call of duty," and many more offered their help. With this type of co-operation and loyalty, the Mason Public schools can not help but to go forward. Again, our sincere thanks, and we hope, the thanks of the entire community, Robert R. Watts, Superintendent

Dairy Products Are Bargain at Today's Prices

It is a real tragedy that so many people feel like the irate Mason housewife whose letter appeared in your newspaper March 29. I feel so much the same everytime the price of feed, labor and new cars go up.

This lady uses oleo, powdered milk and all the other imitation dairy products, not because of their vitamin content or because her family especially enjoys eating them, but simply because they are cheaper. But how expensive are dairy products in comparison? One half gallon of milk, 45¢; beer, $1.35 for 6-12 oz. cans; Butter, 75¢ a pound, cottage cheese 59¢ for 2 pounds, cigarettes 32¢ a package, Bowling, 50¢ a game, plus shoe rental and babysitter fee, 50¢ an hour.

Don't indulge in any of these? Then how about the kids and their pop, potato chips, leisure activities or just the allowances? People receive 28% of their food nutrients from dairy food while dairy foods cost only about 18% of their food budgets, according to the A.D.A.

Match your health with your shopping cart and you will serve plenty of good healthy and economical dishes with dairy products. Send for recipes from 4H offices, American Dairy association, or perhaps your favorite dairy. I am a dairy farmers wife and I use all dairy products, even milk as the liquid called for in the cakes I bake.

All of us regret the N.F.O. holding action, but I feel confident this does not affect us all anymore than union walk-outs reflect on all industries. We are all trying to make a good living and have fun too.

Our industry is a vital industry and we are very proud of it. Perhaps when we better understand our own neighbors, we can better understand other nations.

Systematics Alone Won't Control Potato Insect

Systemic insecticides alone are often inadequate for totally effective potato insect control, a pair of Michigan State University entomologists reported here recently.

When Cooking Beans

Reduce foaming of dried beans and peas by adding one tablespoon of meat drippings or other fat to cooking water. This works nicely for pressure cookers too. Never fill the cooker over one-third full. It doesn't help keep large lumps from foaming, foods specialists at MSU say.

VETERINARY HOSPITAL

OR 7-9791
MASON

Arthur Wells and Dr. Gordon Guyer said systemic insecticides generally lose their effectiveness near the end of July. Then, it's up to the grower to watch his fields and check insect reports to determine the kinds and amounts of supplemental foliar sprays needed to keep insects in check.

Systemic insecticides are applied to the soil and taken up through the roots making the plant toxic to insects. The entomologists said that phorate, disulfoton and Tamik were the most commonly used systemic insecticides. Other experimental compounds are also effective, but are not yet available to commercial growers.

All of these should be banded with fertilizer at the time of planting.

"Systemics aren't lasting as long as farmers might expect," said Wells. "They work better in large blocks of treated areas, since insects move in from the edges of fields. "A supplemental spray should be applied as soon as insect numbers start to build up."

Wells also noted that insect surveys show large numbers of migratory cutworms have been moving into Michigan's potato growing areas. In fact, they caused thousands of dollars of damage in central Michigan last year.

"Systemics won't control these cutworms at all," said Wells. "But there are specific insecticides that will. These should be applied as soon as any damage to the potatoes is seen."

Holstein Cattle Prices Up In Breed's First $10M Year

An active year of sales for registered Holstein breeding stock established highs for the dairy breed in 1966. It was the first year to reach $10 million volume and tops for numbers sold at public auction.

In the recent issue of "Holstein - Friesian World", editor Maurice S. Prescott reports that the past year saw 20,432 animals move through public sales at an average price of $494.88. This average has been topped only once; in 1951 at $509. The 1966 price level was better than $96 above that of the previous year.

"World" editor Prescott bases his report on statistics gathered from cataloged registered Holstein sales, including many herd dispersals, promotional and club or state organization sales. Animals, males and females, of all ages are included in the summary figures.

The top 5 sales averages during 1966 were: Don Augur's, Connecticut, the National Convention Sale, Kansas, Wisconsin Showcase, California Grand Prix and the New York Black and White state sale.

In the Don Augur herd sale, 72 animals averaged $8,697.92; a new high in U.S. breed history. Even without the Northford, Connecticut, dairyman's sale, the year's average was $465 on the record volume of animals. In Prescott's own words, "It was a great year." Reflecting the value that cattle buyers place on performance information, prices on production tested females and bulls out of tested dams brought the top dollars. Cows of all ages with official testing records rolled up an average of $653. Other female prices scaled downward, as less pedigree information reduced their known value to the buyer's breeding program.

That cattle buyers are discriminating in their choices is underscored by the margin between production tested cows and those without records. Official record cows, 2 years and older, commanded $233 over females in the same age group without records and from dams that had no performance information.

In the heifer group, a similar situation existed with an average price difference of $132. Editor Prescott notes that, "Production testing is important, not only in herd management but in herd merchandising."

Bred yearlings brought an average price of $433, while open yearlings went for $310. Calves enjoyed a strong demand at $264 when sold as individuals; those under three months of age, sold with dam, moved for nearly $135 each.

During 1966, the first and second quarters each had 65 reported sales. Third and fourth quarters jumped to 100 and 102, respectively. A total of 345 auctions reported to the "World" included 20,432 head that grossed their former owners $10,111,473.

In number of cattle sold at once, the Midland Holstein farm dispersal at Ceres, California, heads the list. On March 4-5, 1966, 226 registered Holsteins moved through the sale ring, averaging $598.

Over-all, the more favorable milk marketing prospects of recent months and the declining national dairy herd has produced strengthening effects in dairy cow prices. Cattle breeders have also been inclined to bid higher for quality animals that show promise of bringing genetic improvement into their herds.

Farm Views And News

By JIM MULVANY

Every once in a while there appear to be some individuals associated with agriculture who deserve more credit than they receive. This I think may be true of the Ingham county milk haulers.

Hats off to you fellows. Wells Fargo or the pony express riders in the 1800's have nothing that can outmatch your courage and devotion. First, faced with the crisis of 22 inches of snow in February you worked around the clock to see that the milk goes through.

No more than through with the heavy snow problem and weight restrictions complicate the problem. Most haulers are having to make nearly twice the normal run of trips from farms to Detroit to insure a delivery of milk to the market.

Still in the midst of this problem you are caught in the controversy of the milk holding action. Hats off to you fellows. I know the job well done this winter has been appreciated by dairymen.

The rapid onset of spring has resulted in a short maple syrup run. Most sugar bush owners report a far below average run. Most were unable to fill their orders with syrup.

With the several days of 70 degree weather bacterial growth in the tap holes will soon result in untasteful syrup. It is safe to say the sugar season is over for another year. Ralph Snow finished boiling his supply of sap on Monday, March 27.

Food Inspectors Offer Maple Syrup Buying Tips

According to the dictionary, a sapsucker is a small woodpecker reputed to feed on sap. But with maple syrup season in full swing, the Michigan Department of Agriculture has coined a new definition. The department says that a sap-sucker is a person who buys what he assumes to be maple syrup without checking the label.

The department food inspection division points out that it takes up to 40 gallons of maple tree sap to boil down a gallon of the tasty sweetening. This contributes to the relatively high cost of maple syrup, which leads to many mixtures and imitations reaching the market, often to the confusion of the buyer.

Only pure, boiled-down maple sap weighing at least 11 pounds per gallon may bear the maple syrup label, according to department Food Inspection Chief J. L. Littlefield.

Department inspectors check syrups with the maple label as a part of food law enforcement. Chemists at the agricultural laboratory can readily identify the real maple product. Maple syrup containers must be labeled with the name and address of the producer or packer, along with the net contents.

Syrups may be legally sold as mixtures of maple and other syrups, Littlefield said. But the law requires that these must be labeled with the percentage of maple syrup and the percentage of other syrups and be labeled as either "imitation maple syrup" or "maple flavored syrup."

Ways to Expand Soybean Yields

Michigan farmers in 1966 got an average yield of 22.5 bushels an acre with their soybean crop. Some broke even; some lost money with this yield.

In 30 years, soybeans have moved from a crop of a few acres to almost a half million acres in Michigan. The 1966 yield of 10.8 million bushels accounted for between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 income for Michigan farmers.

R. C. Lott, Ingham county extension agricultural agent believes farmers can get yields as high as 50 bushels an acre on the best crop land if they use the right practices.

Soybeans must be planted on well-drained, fertile soil. Any "good corn soil" is right for soybeans.

The county agent suggests the least amount of tillage necessary to allow a good job of planting. Minimum tillage is important. This prevents soil compaction and allows air to get into the roots of the plant.

Soybean planting can begin about May 15 in the southern tier of counties in Michigan.

In the mid-Michigan area they can be planted after mid-May. The agent recommends testing the soil for phosphorous and potassium and fertilizing according to soil tests.

On heavy textured soil or high lime organic soils with a pH of 6.5 or higher, manganese may be a limiting yield factor. In such cases a starter fertilizer with one or 2 percent manganese can be applied as a spray on the growing plants.

If corn or small grain crops have been growing on the land for 2 or more years previously, 30 to 40 pounds of nitrogen applied as a side dressing may give 10 percent increase in yield.

Lott recommends certified seed. Seed should always be inoculated.

Use Amibem, Lorox, and Alanap as pre-emergence herbicide and Treflan as a pre-plant herbicide depending on weed species expected. If herbicides do not work because of a low soil moisture situation you can cultivate soybeans if they are planted in rows.

Holsteins from 3 States Sold, Exported to Italy

A report from Holstein-Friesian association of America lists registered Holstein dairy herd owners who recently participated in an export sales transaction. The shipment included 33 females going to a buyer in Italy.

Selections and shipment coordination were handled by Everett R. Miller of Rives Junction and Hamilton Amoss, Jr., of Fallston, Maryland. The cattle came from herds in Iowa, Maryland and Michigan.

Registered Holstein breeders who had cattle in the transaction are: E. Richard Lomen and Paul B. Morgan of Ossian, Iowa; Joseph, Robert, Mary Ellen, Edward G. and Edward G. Rahl, Jr., all of Forest Hill, Maryland and Roy O. and Donald E. Poth, Brown City and Yvonne E. and John H. Morrish, Jr., of Leslie.

For the past 2 years, Holstein breeders in this country have sold more than 3,600 animals to herd owners outside the United States. In 1966, the national Holstein organization recorded official transfers to 25 different countries, Mexico, Italy, Peru, Venezuela and Canada were the largest volume buyers.

U.S.-bred registered Holsteins have achieved international acclaim for food production ability. They have materially aided breed improvement programs in nations where food supplies are of major concern.

Debt-Free Farm Status Is Nearly Impossible Today

Debt-free farm status may be a dubious goal in today's economy thinks John Doneth,

Michigan State university agricultural economist.

The day when a young man could start farming "from scratch" and turn over to his heirs a "debt-free" farm has become about as possible as a corporation being without debt.

First, Doneth explains, it takes a lot more land at a greatly higher price an acre for today's successful family farm. "Eighty acres at $100 an acre adds up to considerably less than 400 to 500 acres at $300 to $800 an acre," the agricultural economist said.

"More modern machinery and equipment is necessary. A quarter century ago an investment of $12,000 in this equipment was once considered adequate -- maybe even high. Today one large tractor and necessary plows, planting and harvesting equipment may cost this much or even double this figure," Doneth related.

An analysis of Michigan State university's 1966 Farm records of "better than average" farms shows Michigan farmers have a machinery and equipment investment of more than $60 per tillable acre and an average real estate investment of $80 per acre and Doneth sees this constantly climbing.

The old boast, "I don't owe a red cent to anyone" of the veteran farmer of 2 generations ago is not heard often now. Most farmers use credit, leases and other credit methods to expand their operations and their earning capacities.

Although many young farmers are in debt for more than 50 percent of the value of their land, machinery and improvements, few farmers over 50 years of age are in such a position.

Increasing land values have helped many farmers get in a better net worth position in the last 20 years. Farm foreclosures today are rare, but 35 years ago they were numerous, Doneth reminded.

"Few expansion-minded farmers, or those beginning farming today, can meet rising capital needs through earnings alone. This is why farm credit has become so important to agriculture today," Doneth concluded.

BALANCING TRICK?--This vehicle didn't go through any antics to get where it is--spring's warm temperatures did the trick. Auto owner Darryl Southwell of 4431 Delhi avenue drove the car on top of a large snow bank and the snow gradually melted leaving half the car in mid-air. Township deputies have ordered the car moved.

Orville L. Freeman Acts To Reduce Dairy Imports

On March 31, 1967, Secretary of Agriculture, Orville

L. Freeman, asked the President that action be taken to reduce the volume of dairy products being imported into the United States, reported Frank Light, chairman of Michigan ASC committee.

He said the secretary is recommending that the President direct the Tariff Commission to undertake an investigation under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment act, as amended, looking to the establishment of import quotas on certain dairy products not now subject to quotas.

He pointed out that dairy product imports in 1966 totaled 2.7 billion pounds milk equivalent as compared with about .9 billion pounds in 1965. Of this quantity Junex which is a mixture of butterfat and sugar, and Colby cheese made up about 1.8 billion pounds milk equivalent. The secretary said this is a 300 percent increase in dairy imports which was largely accomplished through evasion of the current law.

He said these imports are having an adverse effect upon our price support program, and will hold down the income of American dairy farmers.

Secretary Freeman emphasized that he considers this a most urgent issue and that he is urging the Tariff Commission to begin hearings as quickly as possible.

"I am confident", the secretary said, "that this prompt action will relieve pressure on the income of our dairy farmers."

Light noted that this administration is concerned that the financial status of the American farmer is still below that of all other parts of our economy. He noted that even though average net farm income has increased over $2,000 since 1961, that the farm family is currently earning only 65 percent of what the average non-farm family earns annually.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

State Farmers Unhappy With Federal Programs

BY MELVIN WOELL

At a recent Lansing meeting, one Michigan farm leader displayed a card printed with the wording, "Like heck they're 'Federal Funds' -- I paid for them in taxes!"

Such is the reasoning back of the attitude shown by many farmers toward payments from federal farm programs. Further, they believe that farm programs mislead the buying public as to the real value of farm products -- since a portion of the true cost is paid by the consumer in taxes instead of at the stores, openly across the counter.

Farmers received $3 billion, 272 million dollars in direct payments from the federal treasury in fiscal 1966. This amounted to more than $1,000 for every farm in the nation.

But, of course, not every farmer got that much. Some drew considerably more federal "help" and many thousands of farmers receive little or nothing in the form of federal payments. These include not only most poultry, dairy, fruit and vegetable farmers, but also large numbers of livestock producers and a big number of grain producers who choose to stay out of government programs.

With so much ready cash apparently available, why do so many farmers, including a majority in Michigan, resist such programs and, in fact, call for their discontinuance? For one thing, government money has government strings attached, and when nearly one-fourth of agriculture's total net income depends upon federal appropriations in one form or another, many farmers feel that our free choice farming system is in danger.

It is always nice to get a check in the mail, especially when farm income is down as far as it has been these days. But some of the reasons why it is down are tied to replacing the free market with political pressures of government farm price manipulation and control.

Experience has shown that government farm payment programs are costly in relation to the good they do. They invite limits on the amount paid to individuals, place a ceiling on opportunity, and discourage efficiency.

Worse, it can be very unsatisfactory for a farmer to be dependent upon yearly Congressional appropriations for a big share of his total income -- and Congress, faced with the prospect of an increase in income taxes, is going to be more careful about spending money from here on.

Veterinary Science Meeting for 4-Hers Held at Camp Kett

"Can you really count bacterial colonies? How do you use a microscope? What solution can be used to preserve animal tissue?"

These questions are asked and answered at the recent 4-H veterinary science workshop held at Camp Kett, Michigan 4-H leadership training center near Cadillac, reports Rhoda Peck, Extension 4-H youth agent for Ingham county.

More than 160 adult and junior leaders from all over Michigan attended this "kick-off" for the newest 4-H project now available to young people, she added.

They learned how veterinary science plays a part in their everyday lives and discussed ways of relating the project information to their communities.

The veterinary project suggestions include animal dissection; microscope training; veterinary clinic visits; demonstration of how to make a formaldehyde solution for preserving body tissue; watching the birth of a calf; visits to a zoo; learning how to clean a dog's ears; taking the temperatures or pulse rates of different animals and making visits with a veterinarian.

The project is designed for young people in both city and rural areas. They will learn about animal anatomy, physiology, sanitation, causes of disease, and immunology. Veterinary study relates closely to human health and understanding of public health programs, 4-H officials point out.

Project information and educational materials are available through the Extension 4-H youth agent at the county office of the Cooperative Extension Service, located at 127 East Maple, Mason.

SERVING FARM PEOPLE IN SOME WAY EVERYDAY!!

Wildlife authorities have argued for years that Michigan, the Wolverine state, has never been the home of the wolverine. They contend that the only wolverines ever found in Michigan were in the form of furs brought in by Canadian trappers.

The authorities are wrong on that one.

It was October 8, 1871, about a week before the famed Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin which burned 1,500 people, that a strange animal came splashing across the Menominee river into Michigan.

A 10-year-old lad, George Primo, was leaning on a stick as he stood on a knoll watching the parade of wildlife fleeing ahead of one of many uncontrolled fires in Wisconsin. Even at this early age he was familiar with most forms of wildlife but now he saw one he couldn't identify.

The peculiar animal came ashore, fairly well spent, then ambled up behind a French trapper's shack where the family dog was sleeping. Immediately, the dog and the animal were battling and the trapper's wife saw the dog was getting far the worst of it.

She grabbed a broom and went to the dog's aid. At the same time, George came running with his stick to enter the fracas and between them they finally killed the creature. Neither, however, was able to identify what it was they had killed.

A few days later George went back and the trapper, who had returned by then, told him the animal was a "carcajou."

This still meant nothing to him till years later when George entered a Marquette barber shop and saw an identical animal mounted on a shelf. The barber told him it was a wolverine.

George Primo, a French trapper and hunter, related his story to Ford Kellum in 1945 when the 2 men were neighbors in the little northern Michigan town of Amasa in Iron county. A keen student of nature, Kellum at that time wrote up an elaborate account of Primo's story for his own files.

We first read this factual account when Kellum was district game manager at Traverse City. He was later transferred to Gaylord by the Conservation department when the Traverse City and Baldwin district offices were wiped out by ill-advised reorganization efforts.

Kellum's files also contain one other account of a wolverine once living in Michigan. A Milwaukee newspaper, in its March 20, 1860 edition, reported the trapping of a strange animal caught by a German trapper "at Marquette, near Lake Superior."

After reading this account, Dr. William Burt, mammalogist at the University of Michigan, declared the animal, trapped February 15, 1860, could have been nothing but a wolverine.

Thus, it would appear that despite what other wildlife authorities might say, the wolverine did indeed once live in Michigan, the Wolverine state!

Troopers Make 16,909 Arrests

Michigan State police officers made 16,909 arrests in February, 15,179 for traffic offenses and 1,730 for criminal complaints, according to the department's monthly activity report.

In addition, 397 juvenile traffic offenders were arrested and 435 delinquent minors and one wayward minor apprehended.

Troopers assisted 5,380 motorists, investigated 10,130 cars, issued 21,612 oral warnings to drivers, and made 16,777 property and 2,497 liquor inspections.

Department vehicles traveled 1,740,920 miles, of which 1,073,820 were on traffic patrol and 667,100 to investigate criminal and other complaints.

The identification section received 13,709 sets of fingerprints, of which 7,948 were criminal and 5,761 non-criminal. Two wanted persons were identified.

Of 1,940 applicants for permits to carry concealed weapons, 91 were identified with criminal records through their fingerprints.

The crime laboratory conducted 1,120 examinations, 671 on questioned documents, 125 on firearms, 85 on glass, 42 on paint, 36 microscopic, 34 on tool marks, and 47 miscellaneous.

Laboratory assistances numbered 59 for state police, 86 for municipal police, 22 for sheriff departments, and 15 for other agencies.

The fraudulent check section received and processed 304 bogus checks, identifying 102 of them by name or with previous specimen. Face value of the checks totaled $22,015.72, an average of $72.42.

The fire marshal division reported investigations of three explosions, 17 incendiary fires, 11 cases of violation of fire safety regulations and laws, 11 fires resulting in death, and 61 other fire cases. Supplemental investigations totaled 141.

Field inspections included 68 schools, 27 hospitals, 6 nursing homes, 9 state properties, 3 flammable liquid and 3 liquefied petroleum gas bulk plants, 16 theaters, 44 dry cleaning plants and 4 miscellaneous. Supplemental inspections and reinspections numbered 305.

Eleven nursing homes and 55 hospitals were certified to the state department of health for licensing.

Final building plans processed included 37 schools, 4 hospitals, 8 nursing homes and 7 state properties. There were 10 automatic sprinkler plans processed.

Tips for Purchase Of Nursery Stock

Buyers of landscaping materials and other nursery stock should read the certificate of inspection when making purchases.

This is the suggestion of Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, who says nursery stock sales each year in the state approximate $40 million.

The law requires that nursery stock carry a certificate of inspection issued by the department's plant industry division. This shows the material has been examined and found to be free of plant diseases and insect pests. Individuals selling or giving away such material should have plants inspected by the division.

The law states that nursery stock must be stored and displayed under conditions that will maintain its vigor. Quality is a factor in determining price, and purchasers are unlikely to find high quality items at give-away prices.

Purchaser should be wary of salesmen who make extravagant statements about their merchandise or claim that to be some sensational development in the horticultural world.

Agents who solicit sales of nursery stock are required to

Understanding Your Health

Use of Radioactive Material Stirs Concern

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D.

Your state health department is concerned about the use of radioactive materials and x-ray machines in Michigan because the effect of the radiations given off can be two-sided. On the one hand, they can be extremely helpful, but on the other, they can also be a hazard to human health (if improperly used or inadequately controlled). Without these radiations we could not as easily diagnose or treat many of our diseases; nor could we as easily find hidden flaws in metal, detect the amount of wear on complex machinery, or control complex industrial processes. But along with these benefits must go a concern about excessive and unnecessary human exposure to radiation, too. At the state health department our motto is progress with safety.

Health department engineers with special experience regularly visit industries, hospitals, and physicians' and dentists' offices to consult about radiation-producing materials and machines, to make sure that statewide regulations concerning radiation levels are observed. These engineers help the people who employ the radiation to insure that exposure is kept within safe limits. Our scientists estimate that last year (by the use of improved filtration and shielding of x-ray beams) the area of the human body exposed during the taking of an x-ray was reduced 50 percent.

This lessening of unnecessary exposure (without reducing the good accomplished) was brought about by careful inspection of each machine to advise on necessary adjustments. This careful checking is extremely important, since for the majority of folks, x-ray is the most frequent contact with radiation. X-rays are good and helpful assistants, and they should be used according to the direction of your physician or dentist. Our job at the Michigan Department of Public Health is simply to make sure that the mechanisms are properly installed and properly adjusted to minimize unnecessary radiation, so that only the exact dose prescribed is actually given, and so that the least part of the body necessary to accomplish the objective at hand is exposed. We want to be sure, also, that neither the doctor nor the technician who operates the machine (or the folks in the next room or on the next floor) are exposed to unintended radiation.

The state health department also monitors day-to-day radioactive fallout from the atmosphere to determine what the natural background radiation level is in the state, so as to be alert to any changes that may occur. We also conduct continuing checks of the water, the soil, and of biological samples (such as field mice), at locations near atomic power installations.

I am proud to say that our state health department engineers do not work alone in controlling radiation, but enjoy the cooperation of private doctors and industry; of government and of private enterprise. It is an example of a fine mutual effort in protecting the health of Michigan.

Some Explanations
During canning, liquid sometimes escapes from glass jars. It may be from packing jars too full, fluctuating pressure in a pressure canner, or lowering pressure too suddenly. Home economists with the Cooperative Extension Service say,

Governor Romney Reports:

Time for Tax Decision Rapidly Growing Short

In the next few weeks, Michigan will face a decision on whether we are to continue to move ahead to meet the goals for which we have laid a foundation in the past 4 years. Basically, we must decide between tax reform and paying more, or slashing education and other state services.

I have proposed a budget program which moves Michigan toward reasonable answers to tomorrow's problems. It is not an extravagant program but can thrust Michigan forward into a new generation of progress and prevent the state from stumbling backward.

Our state needs new sources of revenue which must be derived in a more equitable manner than we have had in the past.

Therefore, I have proposed a program of fiscal reform and assigned it the top priority in my legislative program.

Approval of even the most badly needed steps forward in meeting the growing needs of the people cannot be accomplished at this time without the program of fiscal reform I have presented or one similar to it.

Any other alternative would surely bring the state to the brink of a financial crisis. In the past decade we have had dramatic proof of the damage such a crisis can cause to Michigan's reputation and the best interests of its people.

I can not, and will not, allow that to happen again. And I do not believe any responsible member of our legislature would knowingly permit it to happen either.

Our tax system today is basically the same as it has been for years. Its major components are a sales tax which is more of a burden on the poor than on the rich, a property tax which generally speaking is too burdensome, and a business activities tax which is grossly unfair and discourages new businesses.

There have been a few tax improvements on a piecemeal basis. Local units of government have been given new taxing powers. Our system of property tax assessments has been made more uniform. Certain groups have been given needed tax relief.

These have been important steps. But they do not add up to tax reform, nor have they increased the capacity of our tax system to meet mounting public service requirements. There have been attempts in the past to get tax reform because the need for such a program has been obvious for some time. But the programs offered in 1963 and 1965 were not approved, in part at least because fiscal surpluses at that time provided a mitigating circumstance.

But our surplus is no longer sufficient to continue present levels of expenditure for another year. We are now faced either with fiscal irresponsibility, which I believe is wholly unacceptable; tax reform and paying more, or slashing services.

Action in the next few weeks will determine which of the latter two alternatives the state will follow.

Schools Set For Troopers

Separate one-week Michigan State police schools are planned in April for corporals, detectives and dog tracking teams while a five-week advanced trooper session will begin at mid-month, according to Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director.

Orientation in command responsibilities will be given to 20 corporals starting April 10 at East Lansing.

Half the department's detective personnel at a time will attend homicide investigation seminars beginning April 17 and 24 at conservation department facilities at Higgins Lake.

Ten tracking teams, five each week, will undergo refresher training also starting April 17 and 24 at Houghton Lake where six new teams have just begun training.

The 64th advanced trooper school for 40 officers will start April 17 at East Lansing and end May 19.

'Restless Ones' a Film to Help Teens

About 15 people, including the writer, attended a preview showing of the movie, "The Restless Ones" Tuesday evening. The film will be shown to the public on April 16 at Stockbridge high school. It is being brought here by a group of ministers known as the "Stockbridge Area Ministers Fellowship."

It is their belief that the movie will be of interest and help to teen-agers and parents alike. It is the ministers' hope that through the film, they will be able to reach those young people upon whom the church has had no effect.

fact. "It is also our hope that 'The Restless Ones' will help make some parents and adults more aware of their responsibilities," said Rev. John Jeffrey of the Unadilla Presbyterian church.

The movie not only presents one of our biggest social problems but it also comes up with an answer. It is made quite clear to the viewer that rose buds cannot be harvested from a cabbage plant; that the problem of delinquent youth must be solved by BOTH the young people and their parents.

The Ministers Fellowship is also training counselors so that help to both youth and adults may be extended after the showing of the movie.

Participating ministers and their churches include; Rev. Galen Wightman of the Munnith

Methodist church; Dr. Clyde Carpenter of the Dansville Methodist church; Rev. Kenneth Boyd, Stockbridge Baptist church; Rev. Stuart Werner, Stockbridge Presbyterian church; Rev. John Jeffrey, Unadilla Presbyterian church; Rev. Harry Gintzer, Plainfield Methodist church and Rev. Millard Heron, Gregory Baptist church.

There will be 2 showings of the film on April 16, at 6 and 8:15 p.m. Tickets will be available in all participating churches.

Honors Given to D.H.S. District Forensic Meet

By CAROLE LAXTON
Dansville High School
DANSVILLE -- Well, the birds and the bees are out in full force again since Spring has sprung. Anyway, most of the mud's gone. Last week, the winners from each category in the local forensic contest bravely faced stiff competition at the District Forensic contest held at O'Rafferty High school, (March 28).

Instead of 2 or 3 schools participating, there were 7: Holt, Mason, O'Rafferty, Ovid - Elsie, Owosso-St. Paul, Stockbridge, and, of course, Dansville.

CAROLE

Representing D.H.S. in the category of Declaration were Mary Ellen Gill with "The Weakest Members," and Candy Miller with "A Resounding Cry."

Mary Lou Baker and Dallas King gave their all in the category of serious interpretive readings. Penny Battleshaw with "Mugs--The Dog That Bit People" and Carole Laxton with "Winnie - the - Pooh and the Bee Tree" happily did their best in humorous readings.

In original oratory, Sal Lee Hampton and Diane Traver "stayed with the ship" with their oratories of "Communism and Americanism," and "Are You Going To Deny This?"

Bill Van Horn was the only representative from Dansville in the boys' extempore speaking.

For the girls' extempore speaking contest, the contestants were Peggy Minnis and Sarah Diehl. Another Chet Huntley and David Brinkley team? Andy Lukomski and Jack Prince smoothly vocalized 2 Radio News Broadcasts, along with 6 other boys. The competitors for each category gathered in their particular rooms for the first part of the double judging. After 2 rounds, the finalists were chosen. From the category of declamation, Candy Miller went on to try for first place. Carole Laxton was chosen from the category of humorous readings, Sal Lee Hampton and Diane Traver were both chosen for their original oratories.

Diane Traver won first place in original oratory and Sarah Diehl placed second in the category of extempore speaking. At a designated time, the girls will go to Michigan State University to try for Regional Honors.

After the contestants returned to Dansville, they could hardly stop talking.

"Meet Me in St. Louis," presented Friday night, was a great success. There were only a few broken bones. The members of the cast were Barry Chapman, Byron Russell, Lon Van Ostran, Diane Newman, Jim Nottingham, Margaret Parrot, Kathy Diehl, Trudy Haselby, Linda Cooper, Marlene Stid, Linda Battige, Larry Church, Lylia Whitman, Mike Barker, Sarah Diehl, Andy Bird, Andy Cor-

Girls Glee Sing Way to 2nd Rating

By RUTH CAMP
Stockbridge High School

Stockbridge High school Girls Glee club went to Howell Saturday to take part in the District 8 Vocal Music Festival.

The group, directed by Miss Nellie Stephens, was judged on its performance of 2 prepared numbers, as well as sight reading. They were given an overall rating of II, narrowly missing getting a I. One of the 3 judges gave the girls a I while another gave them a I-, and the third rated them a II.

The girls, wearing their new robes for the first time, sang "With a Voice of Singing," and "Shoheeh."

One judge told Miss Stephens that he thought the girls performed very well in view of the fact that because of spring vacation, the glee club had not rehearsed for a full week before the festival. Other comments by the judges included, "Very good in all respects," "One can see that this group is well taught," "Lovely robes . . . girls too," "You are basically a fine group," "A very effective presentation in every way."

The girls, wearing their new robes for the first time, sang "With a Voice of Singing," and "Shoheeh."

The American Field Service department sponsored its annual roast beef dinner Saturday April 1st in the high school cafeteria. The cafeteria was decorated with flags from all over the world. The AFS will sponsor a dance next week from 8-11 p.m. The theme of the dance will be "Brazilian Festival."

Everyone going is supposed to wear brightly colored clothes. The "Tailored Saints" will be there.

Collegiate Jazz Band Entertains at Leslie

By SHARON GRINNELL
Leslie High School

LESLIE -- The MSU Jazz band was heartily welcomed by the students of Leslie High school on Monday, March 27. The 19 members played several favorites; namely, "Walk, Don't Run," "Watermelon Man," and "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."

When spring vacation ended, L.H.S. students saw 4 new faces in school. Those faces belong to student teachers from MSU, Assisting Mrs. Ritchie in her English classes is Mrs. Long, Mr. Hartnell is aiding Mrs. Bissell in history. Miss Fields will accompany Mrs. Crane in the vocal department, and Mrs. Van Dyke is helped by Mrs. Nelson in business administration classes.

The Sophomore class had 3 classing styles on display last week. The first was the round collegiate style, while the last 2 were the traditional square cuts. In both of the last 2 styles, the girls' rings were oval. The class voted Thursday and chose the third style. They then ordered their individual rings and paid a $5 deposit.

The Student Council discussed plans Tuesday and Thursday for trial gum-chewing, a slave-day, and a dance for all class "C" schools. These plans were taken to the classes on Friday for their reactions.

Controversy arose between the senior and junior classes over where to go for their after - the - prom recreation. The juniors have planned a recreation night in the Y.M.C.A. for that evening, but several seniors wish to go bowling instead. Rick Townsend, junior class president, met opposition when he approached the seniors who were assembled in the cafeteria. No permanent decisions were made at that time.

The musical, "Carousel," has been changed to a later date because of the March madness during the basketball finals. The dates have been changed from April 6, 7 and 8 to April 13, 14 and 15. The All-Sports Party held on Friday, March 31, was a big success. Students played basketball and twister in the gym along with working out on the trampoline and tumbling mats.

Meanwhile, others were dancing in the cafeteria, where cokes and potato chips were on sale. The event was sponsored by the sophomore class.

Brown, humorous interpretive; Kathy Pruden, serious interpretive, and Carol Woodard, Gloria Brown, Sue Ingraham, Steve Strickland and Daryl Larson in the multiple reading category. Jane will compete in the regionals to be held at Watervliet later in the spring.

Sophomores met with a representative from the Terryberry Ring company to choose their class rings. The class of '69 chose a newer modern style. It has less of a gold build up on the side and is the conventional ring shape. The rings are ordered through Fink's Jewelry and will arrive late in the summer.

Juniors turned their concession stand over to the seniors for the rest of the year. Seniors are in need of money to sponsor their trip to the Jack and Jill ranch. Seniors are selling baked goods and are planning a dance for April 21 to raise more money. Friday night the M-club will host the faculty in a fast paced basketball game. A Sadie Hawkins dance will follow the game, which is an annual event at Mason.

Michigan State has sent 4 students to Mason as student teachers. They are teaching history, geometry, music and speech. Students are welcoming the new faces.

A Capital Circuit Student council meeting was held on Tuesday. Representing Mason were Jim Thorburn, Julie Seyfarth, Pat O'Brien and Steve Strickland. One of the topics discussed was the computer dance. One is scheduled at Mason for April 28.

A student council meeting was held last week. Main topic discussed was the constitution. The council is now revising the old one. President of the council is Jim Thorburn.

Students are very grateful to the police department, custodians and faculty at Mason. Last week our school was vandalized and these people did a great deal to keep order and restore our school to its peaceful manner. We thank you one and all. It's too bad that a few have to give the whole of teens a bad name.

Tailored Saints Play At Williamston Dance

By CHRIS STEWART
Williamston High School
WILLIAMSTON--The Williamston High school Girls Glee club, and the Williamston High school chorus participated in the District Music Festival held in Howell on Saturday April 1st.

The Festival is held yearly with a different school hosting the program each year. The chorus was scheduled to sing at 11:45. As soon as they arrived, the Chorus members went into the warm up room for about 15 minutes, and then went on stage to sing their songs. After singing, one of the judges went up on stage, and commented on the singing. (There were 3 judges, but they took turns commenting.) After the judge was finished commenting, the Chorus proceeded to the sight reading room.

The Girls Glee Club sang at about 2:15. The Glee Club went through the same routine as the chorus. The Chorus received II's in singing from all 3 judges, and they got a 4th in sight reading, this averaged out to an over all 3rd. The Girls Glee Club received II's from all 3 judges for singing, and they received a 3rd in sight reading, this averaged out to an over all II.

The Williamston Library club often called LSD (Literary Service Department) sponsored a dance Friday night in the high school cafeteria. The dance was held from 8-11. "Tailored Saints" played for about 2 out of the 3 hours, and the rest of the time Kip Grant played records. The "Tailored Saints" asked during the evening if there was anyone who was celebrating a birthday. Steve Andrews, a sophomore, said his birthday was that day, so the band asked him to come up on stage. Steve said he didn't want to go up, so they bribed him with a record. The "Tailored Saints" then played a very original version of Happy Birthday. The theme of the dance was Mod. Girls were given a chance to show off their mini skirts and tent dresses.

Holt Y-Teens. Saturday morning several members met at the YWCA in Lansing with other area high school Y-Teens. Bound for Detroit, the girls excitedly looked forward to the theatre trip in store for them. The bus arrived at Northland Shopping center shortly after 9:30 a.m., where the girls enjoyed shopping until lunch time. After a leisurely lunch, the group left for Fisher Theatre, where they saw "Hello Dolly," starring Carol Channing.

Y-Teens accepted the invitation of the Lakeview Y-Teens to attend dinner. They were served ham, casserole, salad, and dessert. After visiting with the Lakeview Y-Teens, the group left for home shortly after 7 p.m. and arrived at the YWCA in Lansing just before 9 p.m., tired but happy. Chaperones on the trip were Mrs. Rothenberger, teen director of the Lansing YWCA, and Mrs. Anne Kressler, faculty sponsor of the Holt Y-Teens. A calendar of coming events has been distributed to the Y-

Teens. Included on the calendar are plans for a picnic with the Holt Key club at Arboretum Park in Lansing. Saturday, April 15, is the date set for the Y-Teen Pizza and Slumber party at the YWCA. "Spring and I" is the theme planned for the events to be held at the YWCA on Saturday, April 29. Other tentative plans are also being considered for future activities of the Y-Teen group.

Possible methods of obtaining new members were discussed at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Literature club. The group's main project at this time is a large scrapbook of jokes to be sent to a hospital in Viet Nam. The sponsor of this club is Mrs. Norma Hood.

Members of the Publicity Committee for the Junior Play, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," placed silk-screened posters, designed by Rick Palmer, in various places in the school and in stores around the community this week.

According to the latest report, the girls of the junior class lead the boys in ticket sales for the production which will be given on April 7 and April 8.

Plans for future activities were discussed at the Thursday afternoon meeting of the Future Homemakers of America. Included in the group's coming events are a bowling party for Saturday, April 13, and horseback riding for April 29. Several girls volunteered to look into possible times and arrangements for these events.

Student Council has received an "okay" on their plans for Twirp Week, although their original plans were altered. "Penny Favor Day" will replace "turn-about day." The boys will purchase penny favors from Student Council, and give them to girls in return for small tasks performed such as pencil-sharpening, book carrying, etc.

9.5 Million Families Zip Code Mail

More than 9.5 million families ZIP Coded their personal mailing lists last fall by participating in the Post Office Department's ZIP-A-List Campaign according to a survey just completed.

Under the ZIP-A-List program 96 million cards were distributed to the nation's 57 million residences, asking the recipients to list addresses of persons with whom they often correspond. The local post offices added the ZIP Codes and returned the forms. Approximately 17 percent of the nation's householders returned 11.6 million cards, with an average of 8.3 addresses on each card. Ninety-six million addresses were coded.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien today expressed his appreciation for the remarkably high public interest in improving mail service and thanked every citizen who cooperated in this project.

"We are delighted with the response," Mr. O'Brien said. "The high average of addresses per card indicates that a large portion of the people who use the mails heavily for private correspondence cooperated in the program. We expect that a report now being compiled on the general usage of ZIP Code will show a significant increase over the previous tabulation, taken before ZIP-A-List."

The Postmaster General noted that scores of postmasters have informed the Department that the ZIP-A-List project was an important aspect in making Christmas mailers aware of the importance of using the codes on their holiday mail and as an off-shoot, encouraged early mailing of their gifts and cards.

Selecting Lamps

Choose lamps for your home that give adequate light. Signs of a good lamp include: bulbs located low in the shade; undershade device to reflect, or spread light; and broad, white-lined shade open at the top. Average one lamp for each 40 to 50 square feet of floor space. Cooperative Extension Service home economists urge.

will be "Clash Day." Students will be allowed to wear clothes in clashing colors. There will be no "Ugly Man Contest" during Twirl Week. Instead, Key club has volunteered to sponsor an "Ugly Woman" contest, in which the contestants will be members of Key club dressed as girls.

Student Council elections will be held early in May this year. In order to be eligible to run for an office, a candidate must have a minimum of one year's experience in Student Council. The Council is considering raising the experience requirement to 2 years for candidates to the office of Building and Grounds commissioner.

Tentative plans for a large paper calendar to be attached to the wall near the school office were considered. The calendar would announce future events and meetings.

Student Council has now ordered the large, outdoor bulletin board for the front yard of the high school. The board, which will be constructed of redwood and supported by 2 redwood posts, will be double-faced and have tamper-proof letters. Next year, Student Council is considering building a brick planter around the base of the Bulletin Board. If this is done, the Building and Grounds commission will be responsible for planting and caring for the necessary foliage and plants.

Student Council has received a plea for help from the White Lily Orphanage for Girls in Korea. The girls need clothing, and would greatly appreciate any toys which could also be sent to them.

New 'Week' Chairman

Charlotte Camp, news editor of the Stockbridge Town Crier, Monday was named Stockbridge chairman for Michigan Week to succeed Rev. Kenneth Boyd who resigned last week because he and his family are moving to Detroit.

Mrs. Camp was busy this week appointing her committees and hopes to observe each day of the week with appropriate ceremonies. An executive committee will aid her in general plans for the entire week and various groups will be assigned to arrange programs for each of the special days of the week, which will be observed from May 21 through May 27.

The new chairman has been a resident of Stockbridge since 1948 when she came to this village from her native Germany where she was married to Sergeant Robert Camp of the American army of occupation following World War II.

Mrs. Camp's appointment was announced by Richard Magel of Mason, Ingham county Michigan Week chairman.

Host Families Sought For Exchange Students

Youth for Understanding is now seeking homes in this community for the placement of teen-age exchange students who will arrive in August. Over 1,000 students from abroad will be arriving to be placed in any of twenty-two states. These young people represent most of the countries of Europe and South America, as well as Mexico and Japan, according to Rev. and Mrs. Philip Hirtzel, area Youth for Understanding representatives.

This organization, Youth for Understanding, came into being back in 1951 right here in Michigan. Through this program students are sent to live in homes abroad, and students from foreign countries come to live in American families.

The purpose of this program "is to acquaint international teenage students with American families for about one year; to enable them to gain an understanding and appreciation of the American way of life through participation in typical school, family and other aspects of community life; to enable them to pursue their studies and to share in student activities as a part of their academic experience; and to help them to learn first hand something of the philosophy and conduct of American schools and community organizations, and to understand their places in a democratic society."

Host families receive students as members of their own families, and furnish them with room and board. Each student is expected to live as a member of the family, doing his share of the household chores, and looking after his room and personal effects. While some feel a bit strange at first, they soon come to feel very much members of the family, and this relationship is mutually gratifying, according to the Hirtzels.

This past year there have been 3 exchange students in Mason, representing Germany, Denmark and Holland. This is a great experience for both families and communities. We extend this opportunity also to other communities, such as Dansville, Leslie, Stockbridge and Williamston, the Hirtzels concluded.

Anyone who is interested in providing a home for one of these students may contact: Rev. & Mrs. Philip Hirtzel, 232 E. Oak street, Mason, telephone 676-5314.

2 Local Men Attend Fox Seminar

Richard Grosshans and Jim Showerman, Plainfield Farm Bureau Supply, attended the recent one-day Sales and Service Seminar conducted by Fox River Tractor company at the Fox manufacturing-administrative center.

More than 200 Fox dealers from Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin took part in the meeting, which featured a special clinic on servicing forage harvesters, forage wagons and blowers, and attachments for handling hay, haylage and corn.

Guided tours exposed the dealers to the new Fox plant, recently expanded 40 percent in size to over 200,000 square feet.

The meeting also included a review of new-product plans, orders, repairs, credit and advertising - sales promotion plans -- followed in the evening by a company-sponsored banquet with entertainment.

Some 70 people were present at the annual Township meeting Saturday to help decide the location of the new library. By a thumping vote of 44 to 15 they selected a location on Wood street, near the high school, rejecting the proposal to build the library on the town square.

New Library Site For Stockbridge; Voters Favor Wood St. Location

Township residents made it quite clear Saturday that they wish the township square to remain as it now is, with no buildings other than the township hall being constructed there.

Approximately 70 people turned out at the annual township meeting to overthrow an earlier decision by the township board regarding the location of the new building to be built here.

By a vote of 44 to 15 township residents elected to have the new facility constructed on a parcel of land on Wood street. The Wood street property was a gift to the township by Mr. and Mrs. C.O. McLaughlin of Wichita, Kansas. The parcel, which is 115 feet deep, with 79 feet of frontage, was given to the township in the name of Mrs. McLaughlin's parents, Mrs. Clara and the late Wilmont Reeves.

No one attending the Saturday session could ever remember such a large turnout for the annual township meeting which usually handles routine matters, and lasts only a short time.

The township board had earlier agreed that the new library should be located on the town square because of the central location, easier maintenance, and because the land was already owned by the township. However, it was obvious from the way the citizens filed into the meeting room Saturday afternoon that they wanted the square to remain as it now is.

Richard Howlett was the first to speak in favor of the Wood street site. He said, "When the site for a library was first discussed I was in favor of the town square. Then I learned of the offer of land by the McLaughlins and I changed my mind. I think the McLaughlins offer is a fine one and should be considered."

Mrs. Maxine Sweet, a teacher in the Smith elementary school pointed out the advantages in building on Wood street. She explained that her 1st grade pupils use about 30 books a month from the library, going to and from there during school hours when no crossing guard is on duty at Clinton street. She said the Wood street site would be nearer the school and the youngsters wouldn't be required to cross the busy downtown street.

Several others gave their views, both pro and con, and the last to speak was Robert Mackinder, who said, "While I was village president, I received many compliments from officials of other towns on Stockbridge's attractive square. Not many towns have them anymore."

Mackinder then moved to accept the McLaughlin offer and his motion was seconded by Jack Ranck. The vote was taken by secret ballot.

After the meeting, members of the board were asked for their reactions to the outcome. John Nichol said building the library on the square would have provided better parking facilities and maintenance would have been simpler.

Maxine Roepke said the Wood street site will involve additional landscaping and that the surroundings are not as pleasant as the square would be.

Douglas McKim stated his feelings by saying that in his estimation the square was the best site because of convenience and maintenance.

Supervisor Ted Fay said, "The people have made their choice. I am happy we had such a large turnout and the board will do its best to carry out the decision of the people. Fay said however that the township square location had been his own preference.

Along with the decision on the library site, the board also received approval to spend the 1 mill voted earlier for construction of the new facility.

It was also decided at the meeting to have the monthly township board meetings on the 3rd Monday of each month as in the past. Lyle D. Hepler and Company, a public accounting firm in Lansing will continue to serve as township auditor. Voters also approved the Stockbridge State Bank as the depository for all township funds, and the retention of the law firm of Foster, Campbell, McGurran, and Lindemer as legal counsel.

THE BUYER'S MARKET IN USED CARS IS HERE

By DICK LYON

Everyone has an understandable yen for a new car with its style and prestige. But to be coldly statistical about the whole thing, what they are really buying is an average 30 to 35 thousand miles of transportation.

If they buy a GOOD used car, the prestige and style are naturally less, but records show that comfortable and reliable transportation are just the same. And something else is added:

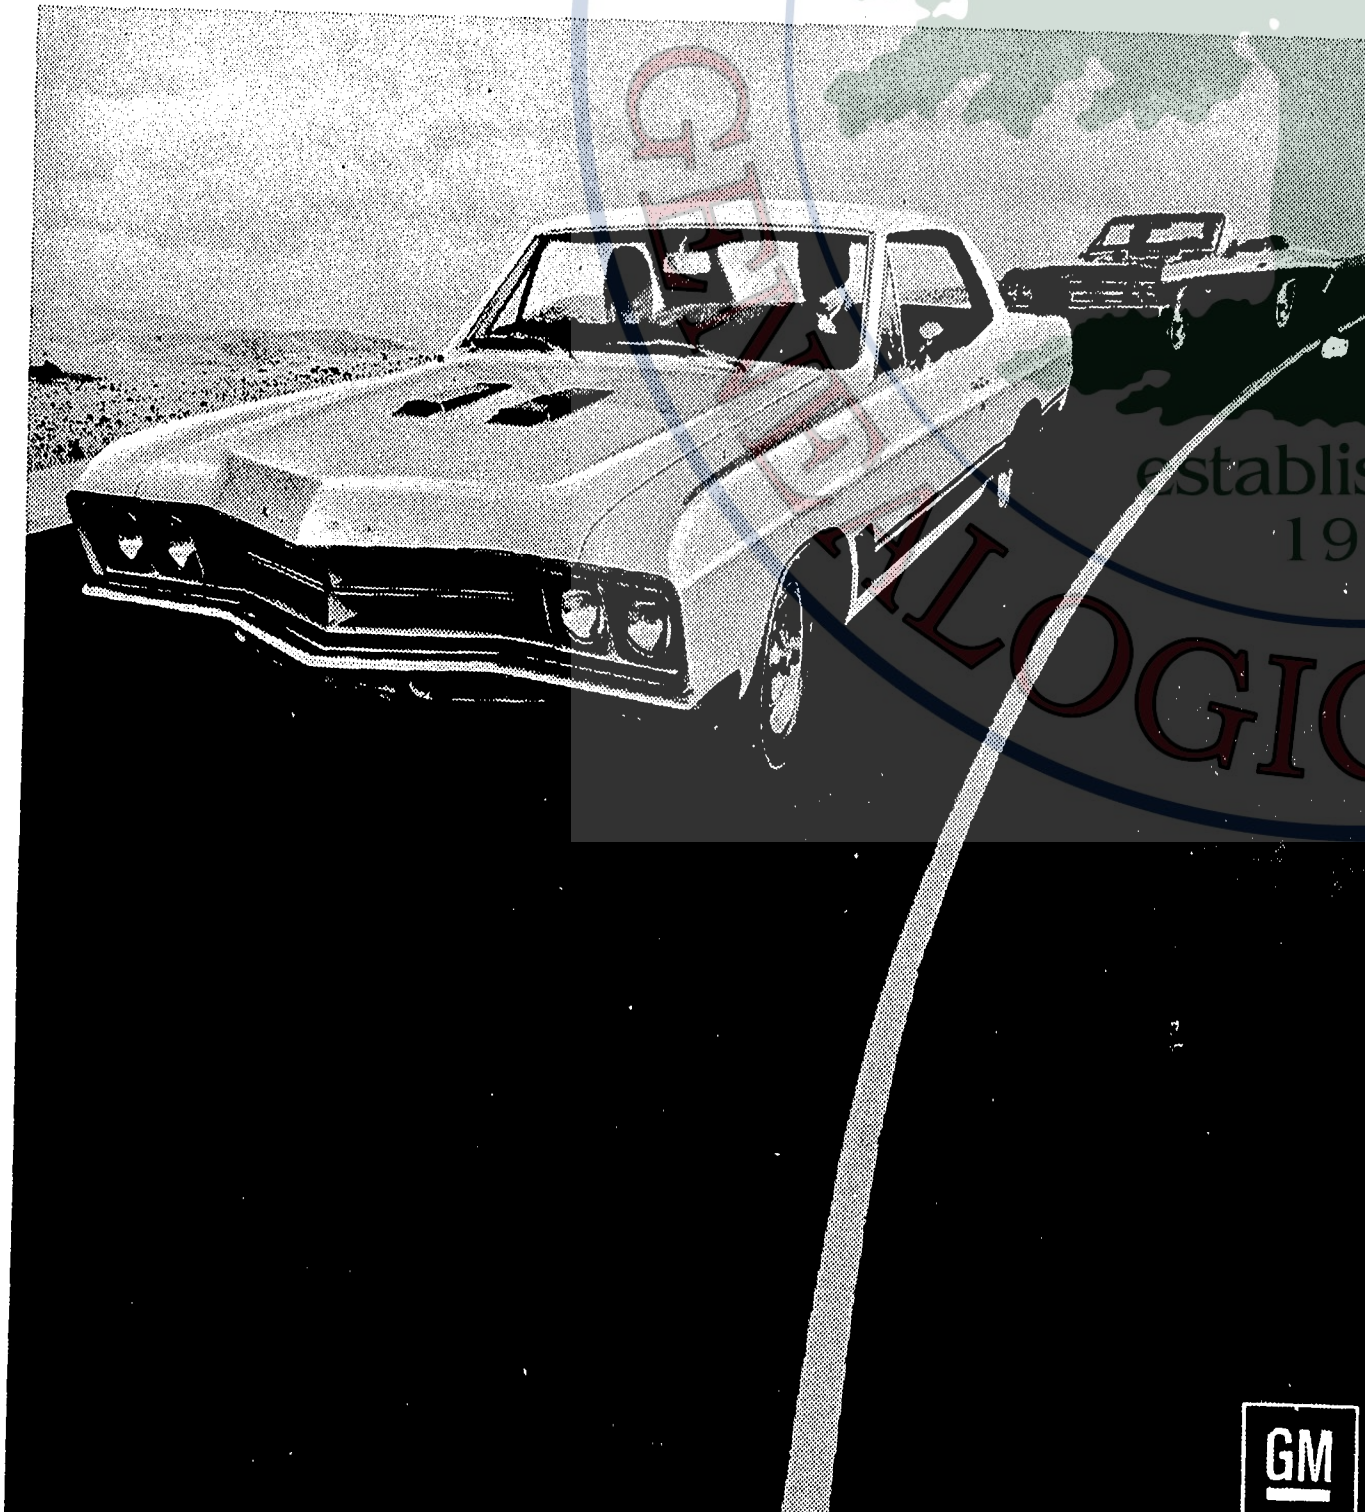

THEY WILL MAKE A SAVING OF 35 TO 65 PERCENT OF THE NEW CAR PRICE. Approximately 22 million used cars will be sold in the United States this year - more than two-and-a-half times the volume for new.

Trading in a car before it is worn out is a uniquely North American custom. It is almost non-existent in Europe where it is custom to drive a car until it is junked.

The reason is simple affluence. Our high standard of living makes it possible for vast numbers of people to purchase a new car every two or three years.

As that affluence grows, increasing numbers of former used car buyers are buying new cars, reducing the market and overall price for used.

In these competitive conditions, a quality dealer keeps only the cream of the crop for his local retail market, which he reconditions and backs with his good name. To be sure you buy THAT kind of used car you must first be sure of your dealer.

Announcing Buick's new GS-340.

(The minipriced GS-400.)

If you read the papers, you know how great our now-famous GS-400 is. (It's the one in the background.) And you also know you don't get a GS-400 for peanuts. It's a great car. But it's just a little rich for some people. So we set to work and designed the GS-340. It has a smaller engine (but the whole machine weighs less). Its interior is clean and simple and tasteful. And it has its own ornamentation, paint job (see the rally stripe and hood scoops?), and, of course, all the GM safety features. So now you have a car that costs less than the GS-400, but one with its own special brand of excitement. How can you beat that kind of a combination?

CONSIDER HER WAYS

Go to the Ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise." Prov. 6:6

Jesus condemned the man who buried his talent. He said, "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work." When skies are clear the ant stores up food for wintry days while the sluggard sleepeth on. If the ant must make preparation for her future, then it is all the more important that man do so. Jesus said, "the Father worketh hitherto and I work." Paul said, If a man will not work, not to let him eat. Fruitless trees must be cut down. The greatest work is work for God. Are you a worker or a drone in your church? This is the day of salvation. God says, "Son, go work today in my vineyard, for the night cometh when no man can work." The ant is industrious, the true Christian is that way, too. Consider Her Ways and Work.

Psychology Comes Alive In U-M Plan

ANN ARBOR -- In an attempt to heighten personal relevance and offer broad experiences, a team of psychology instructors at the University of Michigan have instituted Project Outreach as a part of the introductory psychology course.

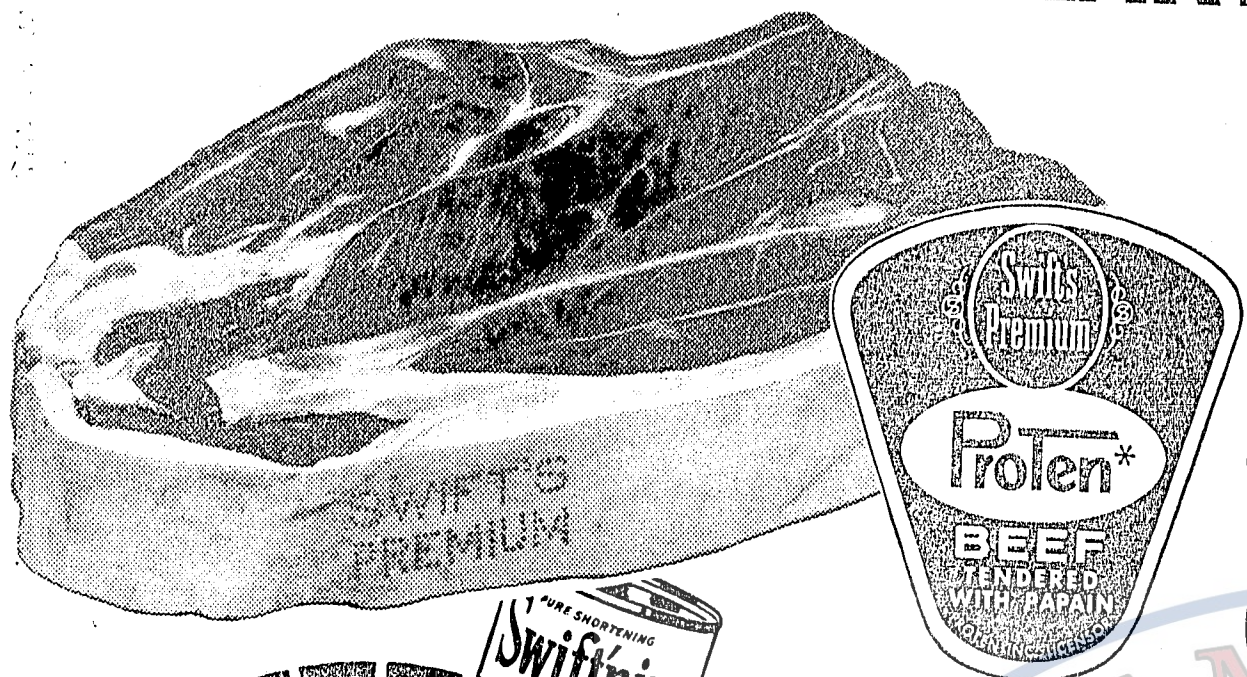

Initially conceived as a substitute for the mass lecture of some 1,300 students, Outreach represents a desire to break some of the traditional definitions of how and in what locale students can learn the content of psychology.

Under the direction of Associate Prof. Richard D. Mann and a staff of 40 teaching fellows, the project provides some 600 students with the opportunity to work with various disadvantaged minorities including mental patients, culturally deprived children and delinquent boys. Others explore the psychological dimensions of broad social issues such as bureaucracy, the law, and cross-cultural problems.

"We feel that there are many involvements in the laboratory of everyday living which not only bring alive the student's comprehension of a number of the abstract content areas of psychology, but which can deepen, extend, and expand his awareness through first-hand experience," says Mann.

While only one out of 80 Michigan citizens operates a farm, 27 percent of Michigan citizens derive some part of their income from agriculture.

Entomology Careers Examined by Youth

The field of "bugs" came to life for 150 young people attending the Youth Entomology forum at Michigan State university recently. Career opportunities and youth programs in entomology and the study of insects were emphasized. "Entomology is a profession for some 5,000 men and women in the United States and more opportunities become available each year. Our concern is that there aren't enough entomologists to fill the positions," said Dr. Gordon Guyer, chairman of the department of entomology at Michigan State.

A 4-H club under the leadership of Mrs. Ernest Connor of Kalamazoo, gave an illustrated program on 4-H projects in entomology. Participants played "Insect-Tac-Too", an educational audience participation game conducted by Bob Paulson, extension 4-H youth agent for Wayne, Macomb and Oakland counties. Speakers pointed out that there are in excess of one million different kinds of insects in the world, but only about one percent of them were harmful.

Not Much Progress in 50 Years

By Carl Blanchard, Editor Michigan Veterans of World War I News

April 6, 1917. What a date to remember. Fifty years have passed since that day. To the veteran of World War I it has been, whether good or bad, depending on ones viewpoint, the focus of his thinking.

The declaration of war by the United States against Germany April 6, 1917, rang the bell for a new National wave of emotions, all based on the address made by President Woodrow Wilson in his message to Congress, April 2, 1917, in which he asked for a declaration of war against Germany.

Woodrow Wilson's memorable sentence "The world be made safe for democracy" fired the imagination of the American people like a prairie fire before a gale. Changes took place so swiftly it was not possible to evaluate the reason why. For the first time since the Civil War the north and the south gave complete unity to a national crisis.

Censorship of news and propaganda hit the press. U.S. Bond sales were pushed. April 24th Sec. of the Treasury McAduo, issued for public subscription $2 billion dollars of 3 1/2% convertible gold bonds. They were absorbed by the public over night.

On May 18th, Federal conscription of troops for armed services was approved by Congress. The first selective service act required registration of all men between the ages of 21 and 30 and our Nation was off like the Crusaders of old, high of purpose, believing that "The war to end all wars" would be the final victory.

Nostalgic memories now, are about the only realities we have. Changes in the old way of thinking swept the country. Prohibition, food control, home guards, and unfounded suspicion of persons with German names. Adopt equal suffrage, state by state, was urged by President Wilson, addressing the New York State Women's suffrage party on October 25, 1917. Two days later on the 27th the first shots by U.S. Artillery echo'd across the French country side.

On the green grass of a gentle slope in France three United States infantrymen were buried, the first casualties of the first engagement by U.S. with the enemy. Here over their graves a wreath was hung bearing the inscription: "Here lie the first soldiers of the great Republic of the United States who died on the soil of France for Justice and Liberty, Nov. 3, 1917."

Just one year and eight days later the war would end and we would count our losses to 116,516 killed or died, 204,000 wounded and a mobilized army of 4,734,991 with plans for millions more.

With the silencing of the guns on the western front, the man riding the black horse and carrying a scythe over his shoulder marked up the awesome fact that the harvest of World War I was 8,528,831 civilians and soldiers killed, 21,189,154 wounded and 7,746,119 prisoners or missing persons, making a grand total of 32,464,404.

To some this fiftieth anniversary stimulates thoughts and memories which no doubt should never be allowed to ruffle the surface of the magic looking glass--memories. To others it brings to mind the real and eternal demonstration of brotherhood and comradeship. Unselfish acts were the rule rather than the exception. The vernier of civilization often was stripped from he who carried a gun, but when each saw his own fear reflected in another's face, a bond of friendship based on understanding was germinated.

We won the war but the politicians lost the peace at the green table. Whether or not the hatreds and mistrusts could have been eradicated had President Wilson been able to implement his "14 points" will never be really known. On January 8, 1918 he addressed the Congress giving a statement of the "War Aims and Peace Terms of the United States which he believed were indispensable to a just peace. His trip to the Paris conference Jan. 1919 failed to preserve many points. The Treaty of Versailles on June 28 never came into force because of the Senate's failure to sign it. In the years to follow the man with the scythe over his shoulder was waiting in the wings for another public appearance 22 years later.

To those who numbered over 175,000 from Michigan when the high aims of making the world safe for democracy drew them like a magnet to the swelling ranks of the armed forces, only 78,000 are estimated to be able to answer "aye" to the roll call now.

What have we learned as a nation during the 50 years--we have made great strides in our mechanical development, our science of war, in communications, in social and psychological studies. Where have we failed since that first world war. To all who on this fiftieth anniversary must evaluate his own thinking may ask "Was it all a dream?" -- "Was it worth it?" -- France has pulled in the welcome mat and all the go signals on the highway of cooperation have turned red.

There is really no yesterdays or tomorrows, there is but today and our desires for peace, freedoms, initiative, cooperation, and to be able to live with each other. This will only be found when we, and other nations put into practice the simple truth found in the sermon on the mount-- "Do unto others as you would that other do unto you".

There is no hatred left in the hearts of the World War I veteran. He fought against arrogance, bigotry, and domination. Not against the individual who was but a pawn under the hypnotic spell of a false premise. There can only be the right memories for time has demanded much and like so so many events, time becomes the catalytic agent to bring an understanding.

We must resolve differences by other methods than war. It would be well to try the Golden Rule, all parties doing so at the same time. May the nightmares of the past fade into their nothingness and nations walk together in a new understanding that freedom is something you cannot take from another without destroying your own.

Bon Voyage, Little Green Check

Got yours done yet?

The accountants finished ours this week and now we find ourselves in the mood which usually hits us at this time of the year when we see the last bit of available cash that isn't tied up in Accounts Receivable heading out the door on its way to the beloved District Director of Internal Revenue.

The little green check that accompanied the pile of papers making up this year's federal income tax return was tough to write as usual--but write it we did, and now it is on its way to the mills at Washington.

Poor little check,

If it doesn't get ground up in the gears of our government's bureaucracy, maybe it will be lucky enough to do something of historic importance.

Just think, it might be lucky enough to become an economic ambassador to some nice warm South American country under one of our country's famous giveaway programs.

Of course, it will be in for a rough reception down there because the South Americans have told us that the piddling millions we are sending them are more of an insult than help.

Or who knows, it might even become a vacation check helping to pay for the fun and frolic of guys like Adam Clayton Powell and others like him who are "representing" the American people.

And then, of course, there is always the chance that the little green check might be lucky enough to join in some great humanitarian work like the poverty program and other similar federal assistance programs. What greater end could a little green check serve than to bolster up the salary of an underpaid "do-gooder bureaucrat." Or then there is always the excitement of outer space. Wouldn't it be wonderful if the little green check could join with millions of others and be sent to the moon? Now that certainly would be historic.

Or if it is really lucky, it will be one of many little checks chosen for our "big fight for preservation of Southeast Asian Democracy." It can help in the slaughter of American boys over in the mixed-up mess of Asia--that certainly will go down in history.

Yes, our little green check has some great "opportunities" awaiting it when it gets to Washington. We feel ashamed that we thought of denying it such great adventure.

How could we have thought of using it to replace some of our antiquated equipment, expanding our cramped plant facilities, improving the economic condition of our employees, or, heaven forbid, laying it away for our old age when such great missions awaited it.

Bon voyage little green check. Have a good time. (Tuscola County Advertiser)

A New Code for Teachers

A NEW CERTIFICATION code for Michigan teachers has received tentative approval from the State Board of Education.

The code provides the basic framework under which Michigan teachers of kindergarten through 12th grade, now numbering about 87,000, are qualified by setting minimum standards of experience and formal education.

Education groups throughout the state are currently studying the proposed code. It's important that their study include the question of whether or not the code will ease the growing shortage of teachers or contribute to it.

We have no intent of arguing the need for a code, or with the effort to upgrade teaching standards so that our youngsters may receive the best possible education.

We are concerned that increasingly high requirements will aggravate the classroom teacher shortage while ignoring fair and logical means of relieving that shortage.

Many well-trained and qualified persons are prevented from teaching in our public schools today simply because they may lack a certain number of college education credits, or would be teaching outside their major field of college study.

A licensed engineer would be unable to teach 8th grade arithmetic simply because he did not take a specified number of college courses in education, or has had no classroom teaching experience.

This of course is an extreme example, and perhaps an unfair one, but it is cited to show the need for a code that recognizes there is more to teaching and to education than the simple acquisition of a pre-determined number of college education credits.

It is encouraging that our State Board of Education has recognized the need for modernizing the existing code, which was adopted in 1939. It is to be hoped that this modernization will take advantage of the substantial pool of qualified and educated persons who might be encouraged to enter the teaching profession, but are barred from this by inflexible rules and requirements on certification. It's criminal to pen up dogs, sheep, chickens or boys and girls in the spring. I took a drive Monday and saw early lambs gamboling on the green. Monday night after work as I plodded home I stopped at the Ash street bridge to watch boys and dogs rambling up and down the banks of the creek. Roy Adams had let his chickens out of the pen and they were scratching in the leaves covering the garden and singing to themselves. On up the street the little boys and girls were rolling down a terrace and wading in a muddy pool. After being cooped up all winter everyone in Michigan who doesn't winter in Florida or California should be given a week off just to frolic.

Some philanthropist ought to buy up a mile of creek frontage and donate it to the perpetual use of Mason boys. The land should not be converted into a park but left for Mother Nature to manage. Grass is all right in its place but there's more fun playing in brush than on grass. A perfect lawn in town means a poor place for a child to play. Once I had a nice lawn, so nice that I winced every time one of the youngsters would bend down a blade of grass with his roller skates, wagon or tricycle. That lawn was so nice it hurt me to see boys playing ball on it. I finally decided that there isn't anything sacred about grass and that I would rather watch boys and girls and grass all growing up together than I would just the grass.

Don't hold back if you see a fly. According to the count of Dr. C.D. Cummings, acting commissioner of the Michigan department of health, a housefly may have over five billion descendants by fall if all its offspring live and reproduce. Dr. Cummings declares that one pair of flies, mating now, will have become the ancestors by late summer, of more flies than 1,000 men can swat in the same period. That's why I intend to use DDT as well as a swatter on the first fly I see this spring.

Barbs and Praise

By DICK BROWN

It's been a hard winter. We're told it was hard on roads, it was hard on road crews, it was tough on drivers, it was tough on walkers, it was hard on business and it was hard on snow shovelers.

It was also hard on mailboxes. Skidding cars and wandering snow plows have done their damage on rural mail boxes.

Rural mail carriers would appreciate a little mail box fixing.

Along with fixing up mailboxes, this is the time of year cottage owners think about making that first trip north to see what havoc winter has wrought. We made a Saturday swing to Higgins lake. It was not without excitement. Ice took the back out of one water closet. The damage wasn't found until after turning on the pump and pumping several gallons out onto the floor.

Another bit of excitement came when the lord of the manor went rushing through the utility room without remembering that he had previously opened the trap door leading to the crawl space and the plumbing.

As I lay sprawled out at the bottom of the pit writhing in mortal pain, I heard very little sympathy but did detect some laughter. I had to rush home to church Sunday morning to atone for some of my language spoken while draped over pipes and valves.

It was shirt sleeve weather in Roscommon county. There was still some remains of snow drifts and lakes were still covered with ice but the ice won't last more than another week. In spite of the severe weather this winter the ice will be off the lakes in record time, according to the natives.

Mason has a delegation of bowlers at Miami for the ABC tourney. No one knows that any better than Jack Davis.

It seems that Davis sold Don Vander-Veen some fancy beltless slacks which had to be altered. VanderVeen picked up the britches and headed for Florida.

Jack got a collect long distance call from Miami last week from VanderVeen. It seems he was complaining he lost his britches while unlimbering a strike ball at the ABCs.

There's an old saying that politics makes strange bedfellows. But someone has added that politicians get used to the same bunk.

Speaking of political bunk, Secretary of State Jim Hare is full of bunk in his effort to organize his own secretary of state police force. The people of Michigan have had the highest regard for the Michigan State police. If Hare has any arrests to be made I am sure they would more than oblige. What this state doesn't need is another private army.

The Melting Pot

By HAYDEN PALMER

One of the worst acts of vandalism ever perpetrated in Mason shocked this city last week, after the public learned of the depredations committed by a band of youngsters after they broke into the Mason high school, ransacked rooms, poured sticky maple syrup in hallways and helped themselves to whatever they found.

All this happened around 3 a.m. What were these young boys doing on the streets at that hour?

Investigation revealed that some of them are school dropouts and others had left home. Thanks to an alert Mason police department the suspects were found and arrested.

These acts of vandalism are nothing new to today's America.

Throughout the land police are faced with the same problems as those facing Chief Tim Stolz and his officers of the Mason department.

Apathy on the part of the public toward police officers has not made their work any easier.

Even after the Mason incident certain persons were heard to remark that "we ought not to be too hard on the boys."

Another story is told of a merchant who remarked he knew about an act of vandalism in his store neighborhood but he didn't report it because he was afraid it would be bad publicity for his business.

This case at Mason high school, is not an isolated one. Similar ones have occurred in metropolitan centers, in small cities, hamlets and in rural districts.

These youngsters who defy the law are hurting not only themselves, but also the thousands and thousands of good, decent young people, by destroying the image of American youth.

For every 10 of these young vandals in the country, there are probably 90 decent, law abiding boys and girls. They, however, do not make the glaring headlines and the public hears little about their achievements.

But for those youths who defy society there should be laws that will bring them to the bar of justice where they can be dealt the punishment they deserve.

The Countryside

By Bill Lutz

The American countryside has a bright future. It offers relief to overcrowded cities and hope to a hungry world.

The countryside comprises all but 4 percent of the land area of America. The 14,000 country towns, ranging in size up to 10,000 or more, contain 55,000,000 people. An additional 10,000,000 live on surrounding farms. The towns provide access to the land and to its produce and to the water, forests, and mines of the country. Many towns are making rapid economic and cultural growth.

Last September I spent a day with G.B. Gunlogson of Racine, Wisconsin, an engineer. He is the chief spokesman for the now forming National Countryside Development association. This is a midwest group of mostly bankers and publishers, but open to all.

The association proposes to serve as a clearing house for ideas and information so that one community can draw upon the experience of many others in developing a plan of action for improvement. For the benefit of industry, it will also provide an inventory of the resources of cooperating communities.

Gunlogson thinks that the number of manufacturing plants in the countryside will double in the next 6 to 7 years. He says there is a great need for the local processing and packaging of farm products. Recreational resources such as parks, riding stables, golf courses, beaches, and boating facilities can scarcely be provided fast enough to keep up with needs.

Community colleges are being built at strategic places. Country residents will be able to obtain a couple of years of education beyond high school without leaving the countryside. The colleges may also provide continuing education and many cultural advantages.

I live in a village of nine hundred, serving a relatively stable community of 5,000. In the past seven years, a new elementary school has been built and a bond issue passed for a new high school. Main street has a new bank, post office, and drug store. A grocery and the elevator have greatly expanded their property. A new convalescent home has been built; a beach, camping area, and park developed; and a lumber yard established. Every church has improved its facilities.

Widespread hunger makes it necessary for agriculture, the basis of the economy of the countryside and indeed for the nation, to convert to an economy of abundance rather than of scarcity. American farmers are able and eager to provide food for empty stomachs elsewhere. An expanding agriculture and more prosperous farms will help support growth, prosperity, and a fuller life throughout most of the countryside.

You Don't Say

In Congress Senator Thomas J. Dodd (D), Connecticut, has introduced a bill calling for stricter federal regulation of firearms. Much of this legislation and the feeling throughout the country for it stems from the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"Furthermore I can't see where this would hurt hunters, in fact it would protect them in the sense that people with mental problems would be discouraged from buying guns."

Donald R. Tracy, 2920 S. Washington Ave., Lansing: "Any weapon of destruction should have federal laws for the protection of the people. As a matter of fact I think we have dragged our heels for this type of legislation. Some regulations we should have are that the person should be 21 years of age, should have to show proof of knowledge of the weapons firing ability, and should take physical tests to prove that they can handle a gun. Also the registering of guns should be more thorough. I don't believe such laws would have a great effect on criminal offenses but the registering of serial numbers could be a useful tool for the police to better enforce the law by having the resources available to check gun registrations in the event of a crime involving a gun."

The following story of the building of the Lansing, Detroit and Howell railroad 100 years ago was gleaned from an old statement issued by the backers of the project in 1867 which was given to the Ingham County News by Lucien Ruest of Dansville.

The civil war had been over for 2 years, the nation had settled back to enjoy the peace and look ahead to progress. It was the year 1867 and a vast construction project was underway in this area--the building of the Lansing, Detroit and Howell railway.

The estimated cost of the work was placed at $1,588,821, a large sum in those days, operation of the line was expected to start in 1869.

The backers of the railroad had just issued a printed statement showing estimated traffic and the operating expenses of the proposed road, $15,000; making a total raised for Detroit and Howell $316,000. Subscription of stock from Howell to Lansing, $34,000, making a total of $350,000.

"Independent of paying a large interest on stock, this road will benefit upwards of 700,000 acres of land by increased value, from one to ten dollars per acre. Take only three dollars per acre and it amounts to $2,100,000, which is more than the cost of the whole road. The value in the transport of produce alone would annually reach three hundred thousand dollars, going into the pockets of the farmers and consumers, and saving their time and horses for other work.

Controversial Subject Stirs Little Controversy

By Elmer E. White

Abortion and sterilization should be very controversial subjects. But Michigan lawmakers find, so far, this has not been the case.

When State Sen. John E. McCauley, D-Wyandotte, introduced a bill to legalize abortion and sterilization under specified circumstances there was brief argument over whether the bill could be considered this year.

Sen. Robert Richardson, chairman of the judiciary committee to which the bill was assigned, said his group already had a full calendar. The committee probably would not have time to properly study this measure because it would draw so much controversy, he stated.

Richardson suggested it be sent to the health committee, which has fewer bills. His idea was turned down.

McCauley's proposal, patterned after similar laws in other states, would permit abortions upon recommendation by a county prosecutor and 3 physicians if the pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

Sterilization of either men or women would be allowed because of physical or mental health considerations or the family's economic condition.

McCauley describes his bill as a "humanitarian" proposal. Many doctors of high reputation are now performing these operations despite the risk to their professional standing, he said.

Only a sprinkling of mail was received after the bill was made public. In a letter to the senate committee the Michigan Council of Churches put itself firmly on record in support of the legislation.

Concern has now shifted over this bill which, if passed, could be one of the most significant changes in Michigan law enacted this year.

Richardson was first concerned that his committee could not give proper attention to the proposal because of its controversial nature.

The concern in many quarters now is that Richardson's committee will bypass the measure this session because there has not been adequate public sentiment.

TAXES CERTAIN
Michigan's income tax, if one is signed into law, will probably be accepted reluctantly by the state's citizens. It might be some consolation to know that they have company among citizens of other states.

According to a study of the state revenue department, 35 states now have an income tax. All except that in Indiana are on a graduated scale with the percentage of tax increasing as income increases.

Of the graduated programs in other states, some start as low as 1.5 per cent and some go as high as 12 percent. Variations in exemption and deduction allowances make the taxes nearly impossible to compare in any general way, the department study emphasizes.

There is consolation in the knowledge that 26 states and the District of Columbia have both sales tax and income tax.

The real issue is that Michigan simply needs more money than present programs generate if the state is to function at the level its people indicate they expect.

Who wants to reduce substantially the funds for schools, both at local and college level? Who wants to relieve the state of its welfare responsibilities and dump these back on individual counties? Who wants to lose ground in treatment of mental health? The answer seems to be "very few."

Yet nearly 75 percent of state budget is made up of these 3 categories. Lawmakers are faced with the very real problem of raising money to finance the expenditures which they have authorized. And much of the funds authorized have been approved following pressure from citizens and citizen groups.

One can judge the conscientious legislator as compared with the more politically motivated by watching the voting record. A man who votes for all the expenditures and none of the taxes leaves something to be desired when he is measured for responsibility. This is the easy way, for it permits him to tell one group of constituents that he voted for what they want and another group that he voted for no taxes.

Legislators who face the full problem of both expenditure and income honestly are of infinitely more value to the people they represent. This is the more difficult way, but it is the way which has a significance for the state.

There can be little doubt that Michigan citizens will be paying more in taxes in 1967 than they did in 1966. The question is how it will be collected, and when the collection will be accelerated.

The bigger question is whether some sort of fiscal tax reform will come to Michigan this year. The legislature has been wrestling with the question for 10 years. Previously they have come up with a patchwork of tax solutions. Only a little time will tell what happens this year.

Income Tax Facts
Tax Considerations On Sale of a Home

(The following article is another in a series of nine articles on income tax filing prepared for distribution to this newspaper by the committee on federal taxation of The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

Before selling a personal residence, an individual taxpayer should be aware of the applicable federal income tax rules.

These provisions, in general, require an individual to pay an income tax on one-half of the profit recognized upon selling his home. A loss, however, is not deductible unless the residence is used for business purposes. The definition of "residence" includes not only a home, but also a cooperative apartment and a condominium.

The profit on the sale of a residence is measured by the difference between the sale price and its cost. To minimize the gain, the taxpayer may reduce the sale price by necessary expenses of sale such as attorney's fees, broker's fees, and advertising the property. Also deductible from the sale price under special rules are "fixing-up" expenses to assist in the sale, which were incurred within 90 days of the sale and paid within 30 days after such date. Furthermore the cost of the residence includes expenses incurred in making significant improvements to the property, such as landscaping, completion of a basement, construction of a garage, installation of central air conditioning, etc. Repairs and maintenance, other than those which would qualify as fixing-up expenses, have no effect on either the sale price or the cost.

Frequently, an individual moves from one home to another. If he buys his new home either one year before or one year after the sale of his former one, the taxpayer is not required to recognize any gain on the sale if the cost of the new residence either or exceeds the sale price of the old residence. (This period of time is extended to 18 months after the sale in the case of a taxpayer who constructs his new home). However, any gain will be taxed in the year of sale to the extent that the cost of the new residence is less than the proceeds from the sale of the old residence. To qualify for this favorable tax treatment, the taxpayer must use each home as his principal residence.

The effect of this provision is to postpone the payment of the tax on the gain. Therefore, the cost of the new residence is reduced by the amount of gain on which no tax was paid. This lower cost will then be used in later transactions thereby creating the potential for greater

Thus, Smith has a profit of $1,500 on the sale of his old home. However, the profit is taxed as a capital gain only to the extent of $700. The remaining $800 gain is not taxed currently; but, instead, reduces the cost of the new residence to $17,200.

Losses on the sale of a personal residence are not recognized for tax purposes. If, however, the residence was converted to rental or other income-producing property prior to its sale, the loss, with certain limitations, may be recognized.

Finally, an individual, 65 years of age or older, is permitted to exclude from his income the portion of the gain attributable to the first $20,000 of the price obtained on the sale of his personal residence, providing the property has been owned and used as his principal residence for at least 5 years during the 8-year period preceding the sale. If the adjusted sale price is less than $20,000, only the gain attributable to the excess will be taxable. A taxpayer may elect these benefits only once during his lifetime.

Other problems beyond the scope of this brief summary may arise in transactions involving the sale of a personal residence. A taxpayer should not hesitate to consult the local office of the Internal Revenue Service or a qualified independent tax consultant if such problems arise in a transaction to which he is a party.

Highfields Has Plenty Of Recreation Space

By GARY KLEINHENN
News Staff Writer

ONONDAGA -- Counseling service for the boys at Highfields boys camp one mile east of here on Old Plank road, is difficult to come by.

Jim Ghaslin, director of the camp, says that because the camp is so far out in the country it is difficult to obtain experienced counselors to cooperate.

But Highfields doesn't lack for recreation areas. In one of the 3 barns out at its 218 acre farm physical education classes are conducted. Eventually Ghaslin said he hopes to have a basketball court there. Right now it is used for volleyball.

Karl Carpenter, supervisor of maintenance said: "We also hope to have facilities for a boxing ring for boxing and wrestling. Bob Howell one of the boys is training for the Golden Gloves. I've boxed a little and I've applied for a license to help train him. Ghaslin said he also hopes to have an outdoor basketball court at the main camp.

"We'll have a married couple there to live with them," he said.

The house is a real showplace. The hand carved circular stairway rail is striking in appearance as you walk into the large vestibule from the front door.

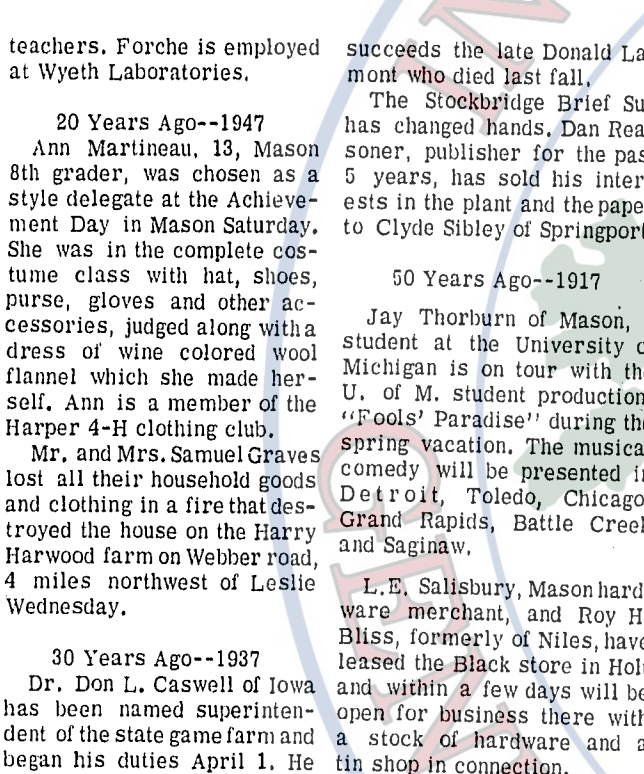

Upstairs in one of the bedrooms old newspaper is stuck to the floor. Carpenter, a few of the boys and myself knelt over to read. "The Ingham County News, June, 1897."

"It gives you some idea of how old this place is," Carpenter said.

Other recreation area seem unlimited. Ghaslin said work will start soon to flood the big gulley next to the Highfields building for a small lake. In this day and age we can call it opportunity unlimited.

100 Years Ago How a Railroad Was Built

Lansing, Detroit and Howell Line Laid at Cost of $1,588,821

The following story of the building of the Lansing, Detroit and Howell railroad 100 years ago was gleaned from an old statement issued by the backers of the project in 1867 which was given to the Ingham County News by Lucien Ruest of Dansville.

"The foregoing estimate of traffic does not include the trade that will reach us at Lansing from the three railroads projected to that city from the south-west, west, and north-west. The road from Lansing to Battle Creek is under contract, grading with a large force, and has resulted in the discovery of large beds of fine building stone and lime while in and around Williamston and Lansing miles of the country is underlaid with coal of the finest quality. The north-west road to Ionia, Greenville and Pere Marquette abounds in fine lumber, and it is reasonable to suppose when these roads are joined as intended at Lansing, the Detroit, Howell & Lansing Railroad, with its small cost, will be the best paying road in the State of Michigan."

State Police Dogs To Go To School

Six teams of Michigan State Police trooper-handlers and German shepherd tracking dogs have begun a 14-week training school. Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director, reported this week.

Most of the training will be done in the Houghton Lake area. Officers and dogs are being quartered at the Houghton Lake post.

The handlers and their dogs are Tpr. Paul K. Bowers of East Lansing and "Bullet"; Tpr. Stephen F.D. Smith of Ionia and "Kim"; Tpr. Raymond C. Brobeck of Warren and "Smoky"; Tpr. Richard L. Chartier, a veteran handler, of Pontiac and "Yul"; Tpr. Roy V. Vernier of Reed City and "Duke"; and Tpr. James N. German Jr. of Houghton Lake and "King".

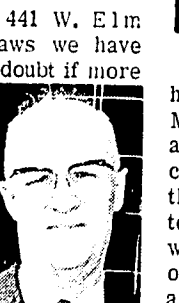

"Adults should know all the safety of handling them and there should be a regulation requiring adults to take a course in gun education before they even buy a gun. This would help regulate the sale of a gun to temperamental people."

Ted Foster, 1620 River Terrace dr., E. Lansing: "For rifles anybody over 18 should be able to buy a gun, but for side-arms a person should have to have a permit. We do have this in Michigan, but it's not the same in all the states and we should have a federal law controlling this. As it is now in Michigan anyone who wants to buy a sidearm but doesn't qualify can go to Ohio and buy one right across the counter just as if they were buying a loaf of bread."

W.O. Hall, 441 W. Elm street: "The laws we have are adequate. I doubt if more regulation would make any difference in the crime rate. The person that is going to commit a crime would commit it anyway, regardless of the laws. The legislation now in congress, I believe is an emotional one. There are many weapons of destruction other than guns. Notice that nothing has been said about knives."

Under 21 Vandalism Damages Teen-Agers' Image

By Douglas Dilday

I am sure you all have heard about the vandalism at Mason high, but for as long as people remember that incident, they will recall another thing too: It was done by teenagers! Thus the teenagers who did it, succeeded in not only defacing the school, but also in giving the teenagers another "black eye". And naturally, it is something else with which the teenager has to fight a losing battle to live down.

Yes, it seems teenagers are on the short end of things when it comes to understanding, but all aren't like the ones who defaced Mason high. I asked several Mason students what they thought of their fellow teenagers and some of the replies showed down right disgust. A teenager is not as mature, yet, as an adult, and when they say something, they aren't always going to pick out the polite and gentle words that might cushion the blow. No, they are going to say what they think and it's going to be blunt and straight to the point. So it was with me, when they expressed their feelings about the vandals. They were teenagers, but right now it didn't matter to them. Almost all of them said:

"Whatever they get, they deserve, as long as it is the full limit of the law!"

Some even had their own ideas, as there always is in a crowd, and feelings were strong on all points.

Yes, Mason high was hit by vandals, and they were teenagers. The only thing I hope, is that other Mason teenagers, and all other teenagers, for that matter, will not be judged by the actions of a few irresponsible ones. Although, naturally, this will be difficult because the "bad" is remembered longer than the "good". So, even if the people who did the wrong pay for it, it will be everyone's job to rebuild the teenage reputation. That is, everyone's job....under 21!

The Pastor's Corner

By REV. J.D. ULRICH
Holt Nazarene Church

"Peter seeing him saith to Jesus: 'Lord, what shall this man do?' Jesus saith unto him, '... what is that to thee? Follow me.'" (John 21:21-22)

Peter had previously denied his Lord. Through the terrible ordeal of the crucifixion he had stayed hidden, ashamed, repentant. After the glorious Easter morning when Christ rose from the dead, Peter came out to adore His Lord. Now the Lord tests his faithfulness and welcomes him back as a disciple. Peter looks toward the disciple John and asks his place in Christ's kingdom. Jesus reminds him his primary interest is Peter's place in the kingdom.

How similar to Simon Peter we are! We are so worried about the future we neglect our present service to God today. One writer has aptly said that our age is one that is living in 1984 before 1970. What tomorrow is depends on what we make it TODAY.

We are similar to Peter in that we are simply too curious about happenings. Peter was curious to know what was to happen to his fellow disciple. There is a vast difference between curiosity and seeking faith. Faith has a goal, an objective and that is the will of God. Curiosity simply wants to know for ego's sake. "Follow thou me."

We are also envious of our fellow men. The large indebtedness and the growing bankruptcy filings reflect our desire to be "like the Joneses." Maybe Peter was afraid that John would get more from Christ than he. Jesus' admonition: "What is that to you? Follow me."

We sometimes seek to throw the Lord off in His quest to use us for His work, so we shift His attention to another to take away the demanding sting of His call to us. It does cost us our all, but no man yet has to be bankrupt in life because he yielded to God.

We also worry too much about other people's business. "Lord, what shall this man do?" We do believe that Christ's way of world conquest is a person-to-person "combat," but each has his own personal responsibility. "Follow Me" -- He goes before us, He can lead the way. "Follow Me" -- He paid for our sins on the cross, He knows the way. "Follow Me" -- He arose from the dead and lives today, He has power to infuse and use us. What really is anything else in life to us? Let each of us gladly and whole-heartedly yield all and follow Him.

Ex-Holt Churchman Given a New Post

Rev. Jay Dannelley, Sr., formerly of Holt now serving as pastor of the Sixth Street Baptist church in Royal Oak, Michigan has been appointed by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board to serve as Superintendent of the Southern Baptist Mission in the bay area of Michigan.

Rev. Dannelley, when he resided in Holt, served as the district superintendent of the Central Baptist association and also as superintendent of Home Missions in the Central Southeastern and Huron Valley area of Michigan.

He laid the ground work for the beginning and organization of the congregation which is now the Sycamore Street Baptist church in Holt.

He was active in the community and a former member of the Holt Kiwanis club.

His wife served as county membership classes begin

Adult membership classes began last Sunday evening at the Mason Methodist church but those who wish to unite with the Methodist church are invited to enroll in the class this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the minister's office.

Those transferring their membership from other Methodist churches are not required to attend the first 2 sessions, but should plan to come Sunday, April 16 and 23.

visiting teacher for the Holt schools.

Holt residents will remember Jay Dannelley Jr. as one of the outstanding youths of the community who served as Kiwanis Key Club Governor of Division 9, in High School activities and as a youth evangelist. The Dannelley family moved from Holt about 1-1/2 years ago.

Youth Groups To View Film

The film "PARABLE" will be shown to Mason Methodist youth groups and several other groups from other churches at the evening MYF hour at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, April 9. This film has been brought to the community by Rev. Paul Tidemann of Mason's All Saints Lutheran church. Discussion of the film will follow its presentation to the group.

Ambassador Class Meets

The Ambassador class of the Mason Baptist church enjoyed a social meeting Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Pless.

Reports on the Boys' Brigade, a project sponsored by the class were heard and other future plans of the class were discussed.

Mission Drive Is Started

Mason Baptists launched a "One Mission, One Month" campaign which world Baptists are sponsoring at a Family Night dinner last Wednesday.

Inflation and population explosions have dramatically increased the needs in the missionary fields.

The world goal in the campaign is $20 million, with Michigan churches underwriting $375,000.

The drive is based on share giving, one share being $180. This program covers a 3-year period.

Following the dinner Rev. Philip Anderson of the Michigan Baptist Convention addressed the assemblage, ending his remarks by showing a slide entitled "Many Faces--One Mission."

Open discussion and a question period concluded the evening.

Especially attractive decor was supplied by Miss Marie Lyons. The walls were decorated with flags and pennants of many nations. On the stage was a world globe and world mission posters.

Famed Film To Be Shown On Sunday

"I think the church will have to die before it lives!" These are the feelings of Pastor Wilma Youngdahl, former pastor of Augustana Lutheran Church, Omaha, Nebraska. They are spoken in the 58-minute film "A Time for Burning" to be shown as a community forum at All Saints Lutheran church this Sunday at 7 p.m.

The documentary deals with the struggle of this Lutheran congregation when the pastor suggested that members of his all-white congregation visit members of nearby Negro churches to improve race relations in their community.

A Negro barber explosively remarks concerning the church: "We're fighting ignorance in the place where there should be the most enlightenment."

It is in the attempt to deal with this ignorance that this film is presented. The program will last about 2 hours... one hour for the film, one hour for discussion.

Family Night Will Feature Supper, Film

Methodist church family night will begin with a carry-in supper at 6:30 P.M. and will feature a film entitled "Concerned". This film is about the Detroit Inner-City church. The Commission on Missions of St. Paul's Methodist church, Highland Park, the sponsor, gave Stanley Dowswell the assignment to produce this film. Dowswell will narrate the production and give a descriptive account of Methodist churches in the problems of the inner-city, race, aged, underprivileged, and the projects in which Methodists are serving their neighbors.

Begin Sewer System by 1968, Edict Given to Dimondale

DIMONDALE--The village of Dimondale has a deadline to meet in constructing a sewerage system. The Michigan State Water Resources commission has issued an edict that a sewerage system must be started no later than June 1, 1968 and must be in operation no later than June 1, 1969. The order has been expected and the village council has been exploring all possible means for complying with the ruling. Lack of funds in this non-industrial town with a population of around 900 has caused the delay.

The council applied for federal funds last year but was number 31 in a list of communities asking for aid. Only the first 14 were promised funds if they could comply with certain regulations stipulated by the Water Resources commission (WRC). One of the 14, Detroit, could not meet the deadline. Funds earmarked for that area have been released and Dimondale hopes to be able to qualify for a share. Preliminary plans have been completed and will be submitted to the WRC before May 15, 1967, the deadline for application.

Phase one of the sewerage disposal plans is completed and consists of land leases, options to buy and easements for sewer lines to the secondary treatment plant which will be located northwest of the village on the west side of Grand river. The location, 25 acres of farm land adjacent to Pryor Gravel company, is ideal for a 85 percent to 90 percent treatment plant to service 2500 to 3000 homes initially with room to grow.

Schools Plan Orientation Sessions

Special orientation meetings are being planned by the Holt-Dimondale public schools for parents of children who will reach age 5 before December 1, 1967 and will enter kindergarten in the fall. Discussion topics will be children's general readiness for school and the goals and activities of the kindergarten curriculum. Parents are urged to attend anyone of the sessions. Meetings will all begin at 8 p.m. at the following schools: Sycamore school on Tuesday, April 18, teachers there are Mrs. DeLind and Mrs. Reif; Dimondale school, Wednesday, April 19, Mrs. Rocco is the teacher; Midway school Thursday, April 20, with Mrs. Shank and Mrs. Clark and Elliott school Thursday, April 20, with Mrs. Curtis.

Personal Improvement Discussed by 4-H Group

GROVENBURG -- The Bishoppettes sewing members and leaders had a discussion group for Miss Grace Villwock and Miss Beverly Kindler last Thursday. The purpose of the discussion group was to learn what 4-H members from ages 12 to 14 know and think about personal improvement. Miss Villwock and Miss Kindler are experienced as Extension agents. Miss Villwock worked in upper Michigan and Miss Kindler is from Kansas. They are now working for their master's degree at Michigan State university. Miss Villwock and Miss Kindler are trying to develop a program which will involve the combining of the personal improvement and clothing projects.

Vandals Are Busy In Area

Vandals were busy in Ingham county last week. Six reports of vandalism and one of theft were reported to Ingham county sheriff's officers between Friday and Sunday. Mrs. Chris Abernathy, 58, Aurelius road, Mason, reported that someone damaged her mail box with a blunt instrument. Wanda R. Fruimuth, 3815 S. Edgar road in Onondaga township, reported the front door of her house was broken down while the family was away. Four windows were broken out of a Mason school bus parked on the North Aurelius school grounds. Polly Jones, 3603 Gail road, Onondaga township, reported that someone threw a rock through the windshield of her car. She estimated the damage at about $100. Margaret Head, 4500 Barnes road, Mason, told sheriff's officers that someone threw a stone through the windows of a store in Aurelius. Mrs. Lorraine Dagg, 800 Aurelius road, Mason, reported that someone smashed in the top of her mail box. Harry C. Austin, 4756 Curtis road, reported the theft of 2 car jacks, valued at about $60.

Lack of a buffer zone in a highly residential area made the selection of the treatment plant over a lagoontype sewer system necessary. The location, about a mile from the new proposed Michigan state government complex to be built in Windsor township, has a favorable elevation in addition to the gravel base. It could accommodate the government complex if planners for the government should indicate a need before actual construction of the sewage treatment plant is started. The Dimondale village council also has petitioned the Lansing Board of Water & Light to furnish water mains to the village eventually. The island and dam in Dimondale are owned by the Lansing utility company. Engineers estimate the cost of the sewage treatment plant will run between $325,000 and $550,000 depending on building costs when bids are solicited. If federal monies can be obtained, between 30 percent to 50 percent will consist of government grants and

Rams' Infield Strong, Pitching Question Mark

Spring is truly here as the Holt high school baseball squad already has started practice. As the 3rd week of practice is drawing to a close, Coach Jerry Reynolds is about to make the final cut and reduce the team to the final 14 or 15 members the team will carry for the remainder of the season. Practice started out in a rather unusual way as the first week of workouts for the pitchers and catchers consisted of more running and weight lifting than throwing. Also, the weather made it difficult for the players to use the playing field until the very last day of March, so they had to practice in the gym for the first 2 weeks. This year should prove to be a good one, as the Rams have an excellent infield returning from last year with three lettermen, with the only real doubt lying in the pitching staff. Coach Reynolds is still uncertain at that point. The games for the year will start April 10, and continue until the schedule of 17 games are finished. The games will be played on Mondays and Thursdays at 4 p.m.

Family Facts Are Topic of DCW Grop

The lesson at the March 23 meeting of the DCW Extension club was entitled "Business Facts for Families" and was given by Mrs. Pat Glassbrook. The facts concerned such things as what to do with important papers, the importance of making wills, what papers to keep and where to keep them. After the lesson the members discussed the College Day for Women which 7 of them attended on March 22. This was a special day set up for homemakers in Ingham, Eaton, and Livingston counties at Leslie. Various classes were offered to those attending and the only regret the DCW Extension members had was that they couldn't attend all of the lessons. They found the day enjoyable and felt that their time was well spent. Those attending the College Day program were Mrs. George Butler, Mrs. Edwin Pylman, Mrs. Pat Glassbrook, Mrs. Ernest Davidson, Mrs. Jack Gee, and Mrs. Lionel Moore. The March 23 meeting was at the home of Mrs. Richard Proctor, 2578 College road, with Mrs. Connie Burgeon as co-hostess. The next meeting will be April 27. Cub Scouts Learn How To Use Tools

"Do's and Don'ts when Working with Tools" was the program theme of the March meeting of Cub Scout Pack 140 at the Delhi Township hall. Skits portraying the theme were presented by the Cub Scouts. James Hoffman, awards chairman, presented Wolf awards to Jeff Cushman, Alan Dowell, Donald Ellison, Mark Mings, David Dunneback, Tim Lot and Mark Bell. Bear awards went to Jerry Fisher and Mike Thompson. The Lion award went to Richard Stevenson and a Webelo award to Lee Secord. The Cub Scouts of the Pack conducted a successful candy sale during March and are now working on miniature cars to compete in a Pinewood Derby this month.

It isn't easy to buy bean coffee!

Nowadays, very few stores offer you bean coffee.

Why does A&P still offer coffees in the bean?

Basically, because "We Care."

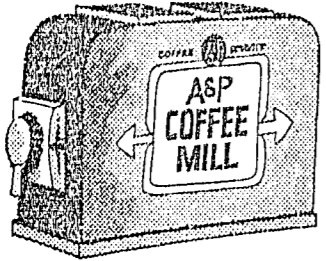

Specifically, because we know these facts:

The coffee bean is nature's seal that holds the flavor.

Once that seal is broken by grinding, flavor fades...

NO MATTER HOW IT'S PACKAGED.

The shorter the time between grinding the beans and brewing your coffee, the greater the flavor.

So if you want the finest cup of "The Think Drink" you've ever tasted, buy and brew one of A&P's three Bean Coffee blends... Eight O'Clock, Red Circle or Bokar.

Not every store can offer you custom-ground bean coffee.

A&P can and does.

Shouldn't A&P be your store?

READ TODAY'S WANT ADS AND FIND OUT!

If you are not a regular reader of the Want Ad pages, you don't know what you are missing. Want Ads make very interesting reading. Take the wide range of useful items offered in the For Sale columns, the selection of better living opportunities in the Real Estate For Sale and Rental columns, and the list of cars, from jalopies to limousines in the Automobile columns. Then there are the Help Wanted, Announcement, Services Offered and Wanted columns, all packed with interesting news for buyer or shopper.

When you see all these ads, you will recognize that many of them are placed by private individuals and families. These are folks who have learned what a low cost Want Ad can do for them.
