Teachers Charge School Board With Unfair Labor Practices

News Staff Writer

Charges by the Mason Department of Michigan Education association (MDMEA) that the Mason board of education had failed to negotiate with them has removed all secrecy from teacher-school board negotiations for the Mason school district.

In a press release to the Ingham County News, MDMEA President Herbert Schultz said the board of education and its attorney had failed to negotiate with the MDMEA on 2 occasions and that the MDMEA is in the process of filing an unfair labor practices charge against the board.

Continuing, the release states: "Since the board representatives have failed to appear for negotiations at the agreed dates and times, the MDMEA is in the process of filing unfair labor practice charges against the board as an effort to bring about an early contract settlement."

Representing the teachers are Herbert Schultz, Wallace Fry, Donna Brian, Michael O'Malley, Warren Emrick, and Randolph Robbins. The board of education is represented by Lansing Attorney James Maatch, who is negotiating for 8 other school districts also.

Superintendent of Schools Robert Watts has indicated that the school board will prepare a statement as soon as possible, but that information on the teacher negotiating team's contract requests will be available to the public.

Explaining the release of contract negotiation details, school board officials indicated it was an attempt to present the facts to the people because in the end it is the people who will decide the issue.

School officials said: "These are trying times in education and the Mason schools are fighting for financial survival. Nine mills, which is necessary to operate our schools next year, was turned down 2 to one on February 17, 1969.

Nine Mill Levy Request Set by School Board

Mason board of education members made their decision on the amount of operational millage to be requested in the June 9 election at a special meeting Tuesday night, April 29,

The decision to ask for 9 mills, which includes the renewal of 6 expired mills and the addition of 3 new mills, was reached following a public meeting concerning the problems of financing education.

According to school officials, approximately 150 interested persons were present at the meeting. Rep. Jim Brown of Okemos spoke to the group along with Robert Watts, Superintendent of schools. Following this everyone formed discussion groups.

"The board felt interested citizens indicated that a request of 9 mills for one year would be the best course of Watts said.

The millage request to be approved in the June 9 election is for operational funds. If approved the total voted extra millage for operations will be 18 mills for the Mason school district.

"Taxpayers are hopeful that financial help will come from the state, in the near future, therefore, they recommended the board ask for the millage to be limited to only one year," Watts said.

Mason school district voters turned down an identical operational millage request on February 17. Since then members of the school board, citizens committee and school administrators have been talking to any interested group of citizens about the financial problems and how they can be solved.

The release further stated that teachers and board members concurred that Friday night would be the best meeting night. "The teacher team has twice met at the agreed time of 7 p.m. on April 18 and April 25 at the agreed place. The board representatives failed to appear at either meeting. The attorney hired by the board especially for negotiations also failed to attend," the press release

The young people, plus a 21 piece orchestra and 2 dancing groups have been rehearsing for 6 weeks, under the direction of Mrs. Jo Oesterle. Girl Crazy opened on Broadway in October 1930, the most successful musical of the season. The music is by George Gershwin and the lyrics by his brother Ira.

The plot is the story of a cowboy, Johnny Churchill who goes west after the failure of his TV series. At the suggestion of Molly Moorehead, the Custerville, Arizona, post girl, he opens a dude ranch. Frisco Kate, a singer, comes to town with her ex-husband, Zoli, a Hungarian piano player. The curtain comes ups as Molly tries to convince Johnny that he should stay and run for sheriff instead of going to Hollywood with Kate for another TV

Merchants Move Toward $85,000 Parking Goal

The Mason Merchants association is moving along with its proposal to form a corporation to provide adequate parking in the downtown area of the city.

The idea behind the program is more than just obtaining land for parking spaces. The merchants are planning to make the project one of improvement and beautification of the downtown district in line with recommendations made by the visiting architects last month.

The merchants hope to raise $85,000 through the sale of shares in the corporation. These shares will sell for $1,000 each, payable at a rate of $100 a year for 10 years. Shares totaling $35,000 have already been sold, according to the merchants.

When the $85,000 goal is reached, Lloyd Morris,. attorney for the merchants parking committee, will apply for papers to incorporate the parking commission as a non-profit organization.

When this is done the corporation and its shareholders will elect a board of directors which in turn will elect

Merchants hope to reach their goal by June 1. Any person interested in the formation of a parking commission and who like to subscribe to the program may contact Robert Ware, Warner Kean, Rollin Dart, W.O. Hall, Jack Ackerman, Lloyd Morris, Val DeRosa or Win

The project has been quietly moving ahead since last October when the merchants saw a similar program in operation in Grand Ledge.

Area Citizens Asked To Aid Jordan Family

A committee of citizens has been formed to obtain financial help for the Robert Jordan family of Mason. Mr. Jordan was injured in an auto accident about 10 years ago and was forced to quit working.

Attempting to earn some money, Jordan established a ceramics shop, but has now been hospitalized with a heart and kidney condition. He has been in Mason General hospital and Sparrow hospital and is still making periodic trips to Sparrow for treatments.

The committee hopes that people from all over the area will open up their hearts and their pocketbooks to help the Jordan family. Costly hospital bills have exhausted all funds and money to buy even food is almost unheard of, according to the committee members: Mrs. Harold Laws, Mrs. Roy Hills and the Rev. Joseph Nielson.

Anyone wishing to help the Jordan family, which includes 3 children living at home, can send monies to Mason General hospital in care of Mrs. Roy Hills, Jordan committee treasurer.

Supervisors Approve Equalization, Budget

The Ingham county board of supervisors approved the county equalization committee report and a proposed budget for the 1970 year at their meeting Tuesday night,

According to the report presented by the committee the equalized values of the county have increased by 9.1

When adjusting figures to meet with the state equalization figure most units of government showed an increase of 10 percent, but White Oak township increased by 49 per cent," Carr said.

"All I ask is fair play and consideration and in light of the figure comparisons a rejection of the proposed equalization report," he said. The report passed with 3 supervisors voting against it:

Stanley Fay, Stockbridge; Frederick L. Stackable, Lansing; and Brentford E. Giller, Lansing.

The total tentative budget will be $8,569,600.00, an increase of $1,407,345.18 over the 1969 appropriation, according to David Buhl, chairman of the finance committee for the Ingham County Board of Supervisors. Buhl reported the largest increase is in the social welfare fund. This is because 2 new public acts require the county to bear additional hospital costs and additional nursing home care. He explained the child care fund increased by $113,000 for added foster home and institutional costs.

Money requested for the county health fund jumped $205,000 for additional personnel and equipment, and appropriations for probate court are up 68 per cent, he

Time to Call a Halt

How much longer do our people have to sit by and see our great institutions of learning turned into melees of students fighting faculty, seizing buildings and otherwise messing up the well ordered lives of decent people.

When such old, dignified seats of knowledge as Harvard university in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Columbia university in New York city, Cornell university and even our own Michigan State university can fall victim to bands of long haired guitar strumming kooks and their sympathizers who seize our schools and force those in authority to bow to their will.

Where are our leaders -- our statesmen, our legislators? Do we not have any one person or group of persons intelligent enough and capable enough to stop these carryings on at our college and university campuses around the nation?

Our schools and our cities appear to be in the grip of mobs of immoral, filthy - thinking, filthy - talking younsters who spread death destruction, fighting and injury and no one seems able to stop them.

And why is all this? No one can give a concrete answer. It appears to be a group of young people who are seeking some kind of a change but don't know what that change should

If there is any sanity left in this country, those who have it should step into the breach and put a stop to all this nonsense once and for all.

Spring, Is it Really Here?

Rumors are current this week that spring has finally arrived in this section of Michigan.

But it can hardly be that the true forces of Spring are now mobilized in our state.

We have noted that the grass is much greener and the trees have more leaves on them than they did awhile ago.

And then we look at the thermometer and find that if winter has gone away it has not gone too far toward its destination and we can't hang up the top coat for awhile yet.

The azaleas and the tulips are poking their heads up through the ground, but Jack Frost is still lingering around and fruit farmers are worrying a bit that a warm trend may start the fruit trees to blooming before they are supposed to and another cool spell will come along with frost and the fruit crop will be in grave danger.

But gardners can begin to get their tools ready. Spring cannot be too far away. When May arrives tomorrow it could mean the start of the warm days and spring then will really be here.

Who is Guilty?

Most of us take pride in the beauty of America's great outdoors. We talk about it, write about it, sing about it and invite people from other lands to visit us and see it. Our pride is iustifiable. Americans never have to leave the United States to be able to climb a mountain, camp on a desert, swim in fresh water or salt water, sail from one climate to another or to see some of the greatest wonders of the world. It is a paradox that these same people are guilty of destroying this beauty by thoughtless littering. People are the only ones who spread litter and they are the only ones who can prevent it.

Every one of us, from the family who vacations at lakes or in the mountains or the cities to the seasonal sportsman are just as responsible for keeping America beautiful and preserving its outdoor resources as the professional Conservationist.

You as an individual or as a member of a group interested in conservation have a real opportunity to initiate programs against littering.

Sex Education

Sex education in the schools apparently is coming in for another period of reappraisal. For a few years the issue has been quiescent. Since about 1964 the general trend has been "liberal" - that is, public and private schools have been adding various courses ranging from a simple biological explanation of reproduction in earlier grades to discussions of social and psychological factors involving sex.

Recently, however, more and more groups have been mounting a counter-attack on sex education as it is being taught in the schools. Some of these groups are in fact right wing, and their criticisms are frequently so immoderate that they make a reasonable discussion of the issues difficult indeed.

But as the Wall Street Journal reports, six states are weighing action to study or restrict sex education within their boundaries, and Congress has before it a bill asking the withholding of federal funds from sex education courses or related teacher training.

The chief criticisms of present courses are that they try to teach too much too soon, that they tend to predispose youngsters to the erotic, and that interpretations of the role of sex in the individual's life and his relation to family and society may run against specific church teachings. Indeed, as reported, some sex education lessons are hard to justify. But it is hardly credible to label all such programs as part of "a Communist plot" as some critics aver.

It will be useful to the nation, as the topic continues to surface in coming months, to remember that the chief responsibility for sex education lies with the parents. It is they who should stress the clearcut moral requirements governing sexuality.

Also, a good deal of plain common sense will keep the discussions in proportion. The concept of normal, healthy sexual relations, reserved for marriage, is not really a difficult concept to explain or discuss.

It is helpful, too, to remember that, contrary to some current theories, the individual himself can govern the effect of sexuality in his life. No education in the area is complete without making clear to the child his ability and inclination to obey the moral law. He will then later be able to bring strength and tenderness to his marriage and defend it from any preoccupation with sexuality.

The inconsistencies of government continue to

The state of Michigan is faced with one of its most critical education crisis in years. Countless schools are on the verge of bankruptcy. Parochial education is at the cross roads. Every community in the state from cities the size of Detroit to communities like those in this county are facing financial problems.

This past Sunday we read in our Sunday papers that the governor can't move into the big new mansion because $250,000 hasn't been raised to furnish it.

Whether these funds are coming from the tax dollars of state citizens or from private donations, the entire story is revolting to the rest of us who are trying to make enough just to survive.

It may be too late for a word of caution but here it is anyway!

Mason faculty negotiators and Mason school board negotiators should dig down deep and come up with all the restraint and mature judgment they can muster.

The opening volleys in the negotiation war have been fired already so maybe the warning comes too late.

If those on either side of the negotiating table can't get together on such a simple thing as a time for meeting what chances are there for negotiating the much more important areas of a teacher contract.

To further expand on the warning, it might be a good idea for both sides to consider a basic fact. That fact is that the ultimate decision on such items as teacher pay, curriculum, fringe benefits and the like does not rest with the faculty negotiators. It does not rest with the school board negotiators.

In this year of 1969 it rests with the school electors of the Mason school district.

A fancy and expensive contract giving big boosts to teachers or a so-called moral victory for the school administration is going to be meaningless unless the Mason school electors are in the mood to provide the money to make the contract

And - this obvious fact must be faced. Never before have the school electors been in the driver's seat to such an extent. Mason has 6 of its mills crossed off its books for the coming year due to the expiration of operating millage previously voted. In addition extra millage is a necessity to take full advantage of the needed new junior high facility soon to open its doors. The bind is on the Mason school district. Voters have rejected the extra millage package once.

It's going to take a good selling job and most certainly a good public relations job to sway the voters in the next election in June.

The teacher and school board negotiators certainly started off on the wrong foot in quibbling over a basic such as a negotiation night and the charges and possible unfair labor practice case threatened by the teachers is not going to set well with the No. 1 party in this whole affair the general public as represented by the school electors.

Time is too short, the issues too great and the threat to Mason school operation too severe to play games 32 according to Roberts Rules of Order or Walter Reuther's Rules of Order.

An adult and professional approach from those on both sides of the negotiation table is mandatory. In the classroom or in the home, a juvenile tantrum isn't apt to get much results beyond a forceful invitation to go stand in the corner. Such an approach isn't going to do any better in the Mason school district because : the school electors are in a position to send the entire Mason school system to the corner.

Cool heads and sound mature judgment must come to the front.

Today was fun in the sun time here in Chu Lai. My company was pulled back to Chu Lai from the field for some time off at the beach.

No one was sad about that move. The company had a party at the USO here complete with an open barbecue.

This is negotiation time in many schools throughout Michigan - the time when the teachers and secretaries and custodians, each of which have their own unions, sit down with school boards and administrators to settle on what their contracts are to contain for the 1969-1970 year.

While what goes on at the bargaining table is secret, there are all sorts of wild stories being spread around of exorbitant demands being made in the matter of salaries.

It is especially difficult at this time for school boards and school administrators to determine what the schools can pay, because the state board of education has not yet revealed how much money in state aid will be available to schools for next year.

If, as the stories go, teachers are making exorbitant demands upon school boards in the matter of salaries, it is not unusual among newly formed unions such as the

As the unions become more settled, salary demands and other benefits level off to a degree that makes negotiating a lot easier than it is today.

A STANKE TO SERVICE Marvelous Mansion By Elect E. Athle

THAT MARVELOUS MANSION on the banks of the Grand river in Lansing remains unoccupied by Gov. William G. Milliken because the motorized drapes, antique chairs and hideaway bar inside are proving a bit too rich for political philanthropists.

Milliken and his wife, Helen, refuse to move from their two-bedroom apartment in East Lansing to the posh "Governor's Residence" until the $250,000 fund drive to purchase furnishings is successful.

Reportedly, the campaign, headed by a committee of former governors, is $100,000 short. Plans to obtain $25,000 pledges from select industrialists have been scrapped.

THE GOAL should be met soon, said Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, after foundations and other organizations interested in contributing hold their monthly meetings,

"The delay is only temporary," assured Lockwood. "We'll get the money by the end of May, and the governor

The Millikens and their family cat have been on standby for 2 months now. Initially the delay was attributed to confusion over deed restrictions, but that was cleared up by the Attorney General March 18.

NEXT YEAR'S state supreme court elections will determine if the Democrats or Republicans benefit from legislative redistricting in 1971.

That's the prediction of Justice Eugene F. Black, who is not up for re-election.

Presently the court is comprised of 4 Democrats and 3 Republicans, though members are technically elected on a nonpartisan basis. The terms of two GOP members expire

Black predicted the court will ultimately redistrict the legislature because of a deadlock within the apportionment commission following the 1970 federal

"WE ARE APT to see a partisan-divided supreme court deciding in 1971 whether the legislature shall be elected for the next 10 years according to a strictly one-sided Democratic plan, or a strictly one-sided Republican plan of legislative apportionment," Black said.

The justice proposed the legislature change procedures for nominating court candidates at party conventions, and make the selection process purely nonpartisan.

As an alternative, he suggested the parties nominate candidates "willing to commit themselves to an open presentation" of their views on criminal justice and other key issues.

"Michigan needs such a Supreme Court contest," Black said. "We then could have a campaign turning upon a really genuine as well as publicly critical issue - not one of those fake issues like last year when each candidate went about the state saying only: 'Dont' you like me better than the other candidate?'

4-H Spring Style Revue Features Fashionable Girls

News Women's Writer

Over 300 of Ingham county's best dressed girls were at Williamston high school on Saturday afternoon for the 4-H spring style revue. The Revue marked the culmination of a winter of sewing and knitting for these girls, ranging in age from 9 to 18.

They came from all over the county to have their projects evaluated in the afternoon by teams of 4-H leaders. In the evening, the girls modeled their outfits before an admiring audience of parents, leaders and

On Saturday afternoon the high school gym was a rainbow of colors and styles. The "In" look with the young set is definitely the poncho or cape. Many girls had chosen this as a sewing or knitting project. The outfit made by Cathy Deeg of Bullen 4-H club was an outstanding example. Her cape was a muted brown and green plaid with matching skirt. She also made a beige blouse and a leather weskit to wear with it. Laurie Smith, North Williamston Countrymen chose an orange and white checked fabric for her cape which was teamed with a pair of bell bottom slacks. Her outfit won her a trip to 4-H State Show on the Michigan University campus in August.

Another State Show winner was Denise Pollok of the Skeeter Hill club. Her outfit in shades of gray and lavendar was a spring coat over a floral striped dress trimmed with lace. Her sister Pat modeled a winter suit of brown and lavendar plaid. She received a dress revue pin.

There were many proud apron wearers. These were the beginning 4-Her's who really enjoyed showing off thier first garment. There were also many skirts, made by first and second year sewers.

The beginning knitters had mittens and mufflers. One young lady had knitted a complete outfit for her doll, including mittens and a hat.

Sue Breakey of the Sandhill club caught everyone's eye with her dress, which had already won her a trip to Washington in the Lansing Youth Talent show. It was a soft blue with an embroidered lace band down the front

The stage was decorated with paper flowers, including a flower covered swing and a back drop of giant daisies for the evening revue. Mrs. John Crampton was in charge of the decorations.

The formals are always popular with the audience and this year, 2 evening fashions will represent the county

Susie Nottingham's ensemble brought delighted "oohs" from the audience when she stepped out on the runway. Her full-length coat was of pink brocade. Her dress had a brilliant pink skirt and a white top with long sleeves and a large round collar. Susie had altered 2 patterns to make the dress. The dress was trimmed with rows of white ruching touched with pale pink.

Sandy Jankoviak's sleeveless dress was a sheer mint green with white polka dots. She had trimmed it with ruffles of white organdy and a white organdy bow to give it an empire look. She used the same materials for a stole.

Mrs. Ted Dansby of Dansville was general chairman of the revue. She was assisted by Mrs. Alvin Nottingham and Mrs. Wayne Malcho. Mrs. Mel Stofer was 4-H school coordinator. The county's sewing leaders handled the registration, evaluation and other details during the day. Older 4-H members acted as clerks for the evaluators and as commentators for the show.

Curtain Going Up on 'Girl Crazy' Musical Production at Mason High

By BECKY BABCOCK Mason High School The all school musical will be held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The musical "Girl Crazy" was presented in the early 1930s on the Broadway stage. At that time the 2 female leads were held by Ginger Rogers and Ethel Merman. The really great part of the production is not the play itself, but the music which was written especially by George Gershwin. Some of his greatest songs are presented the re, such as, "I Got Rhythm," "Embracable You," "Strike Up The Band," and "I'm Biding My Time."

The story concerns a nightclub singer, Kate, who is traveling out west with her ex-husband, Zoli. The nightclub business has dropped off, so Kate is looking for her old beau, Johnny, to help her out. She finds Johnny in a tiny Arizona town called Custerville, and this is where most of the story takes place. Johnny has fallen madly in love with the post-girl, Molly. She has given him 2 ideas, one is to convert his place into a dude ranch and the other is to run for sheriff of Custerville. He does both much to the disappointment of Kate and Johnny's agent, Sam, who want him to return to Hollywood and be a big star. This is when things start going downhill for Johnny. Molly turns against him because she thinks he and Kate are still in love. There is a big fiesta in Mexico which Molly attends with Sam, and Kate and Johnny go together. Zoli follows along to keep Kate out of trouble. The climax of the plot is when Sam is beaten and robbed and the whole thing is blamed on Johnny. There is a happy and unexpected ending however which deserves seeing. The finale includes the complete cast.

The cast of "Girl Crazy" has done a swell job, but our thanks goes especially to our director, choreographer, orchestra and crew. Thanks!

A part of the all state band festival was held at MHS on Saturday. Schools from all parts of Michigan came. The band from MHS played first, followed by Ithaca then Hamady. The judges had a conference to base their ideas of the no. 1 band. None of the first 3 bands received a first division. Mason did quite well, however, receiving a seond division in the concert playing and a first division in sight-reading. This gave Mason a second division. Mason wasn't alone in receiving a second division. Other bands getting a second division were Ithaca High school, Delton Kellogg High school, Bad Axe high school, Whitehall District high school, Mason County Central high school, from Scottville, and Hudsonville. Hamady high school was the only school to receive a third division.

Out of 14 bands that came to Mason, six went home with first divisions. These bands were East Christian high school from Grand Rapids, Unity Christian high school from Hudsonville, Fremont high school, Hillsdale high school, Reeths-Puffer high school from Muskegon and Central Christian high school from Grand Rapids.

The judges for the concert pieces were William C. Moffitt, the marching band director from Michigan State university; Samuel A. Mages, director of Bands and Orchestra, New Trier H.S. West, Northfield, Illinois; Arthur C. Hills, Associate Academic Dean, Grand Valley

Student Council Campaigns Underway at Dansville High

By SUSIE NOTTINGHAM Dansville High School

"Free lunches! No supervision! A paved parking lot for students!" Though the candidate's platforms were not quite this outlandish, speeches calling for great improvements in the student council for next year, and methods of improving school policy concerning the student boyd were spoken at an assembly introducing and presenting the candidates for the student council.

Seeking the high position of student council president is Dave Sheathelm and Libby Carlen. A tight race for the vice-presidential seat will be between Peggy King and Lucille Woods. Next year's graduating class will be represented by 2 of 3 candidates: Chris Cornett, Leland Prebble, or Candy Rabideau.

Those juniors of next year will be keenly represented by either Libby Carlen, Denise Cornell, or Theresa Oakley, while the high and mighty sophomores of next year will have an easy job to vote for the 2 highest candidates, since only Clata Hicks and Mary St. John are running. The same has happened with the freshmen of next year, with Carol Seymore and Susie Émmons seeking a seat.

Elections will take place this Thursday, with the "big annoucement" coming on Friday!

South Africa was the subject, seniors were the listeners, and Mr. Dovavan Larson from Michigan State university was the speaker. Mr. Larson is currently working on his doctorate in political geography.

He attended the University of Utah and is in his

Through classes and acquaintances, Mr. Larson has attained knowledge that supplemented the book, Cry, the Beloved Country, which the seniors are now reading in English class. Through his talk, a "new insight" was gained to the background of the book, society of South Africa, and many problems that arise from the social structure.

In South Africa, the white are "an important minority" because they are in control of the government. There are approximately 3 and a half million whites, one and a half million coloreds, which are a combination of several different bloods, not necessarily negroes, 500,000 Asians, and 12 1/2 million blacks or Bantus.

The philosophy of the South Africans is that "through separateness, all races will prosper and develop to the fullest." For this reason each tribe is given a "home-land" where they can develop. The blacks, or Bantus, were given 13 percent of the land. Students listened in awe at the "differences" in our society and the South African society. Such things were learned as, people of different racial blood can not marry, that is a Bantu or colored can not marry a white. Other things that were learned were that each citizen of South Africa must carry a pass or identification card stating his name, and more important his classification, either European, Asian, colored, or Bantu. If an Asian is caught in the European section he is placed in jail with no trial, for an indefinite time. As each student listened with unbelieving ears, they realized just how "well off" they were to be living in a

Self-Treatment

There's a medical maxim that runs: "The doctor who treats himself has a fool for a patient." The non-physician who treats himself is often in even more serious trouble.

I'm not talking about ordinary first-aid, or self-medica-tion for a cold. After all, there are some things you don't need to bother a doctor about.

But there are many medical problems that grow worse when neglected, or not properly treated. Prolonged pain, for example, may be a warning symptom; a lingering rash or occasional bleeding may show that something else is seriousby Basil Chesley was in such pain that he chewed, daily, 10 tablets of a gum containing aspirin. He numbed the pain—and developed mouth ulcers as a result. Or take do-it-yourself ear piercing. There are small devices with sharp points, now on sale, which are supposed to pierce the ears within a few days as they are worn. According to the American Medical Association, these can increase the chance of infection and the development of scar tissue.

You may not realize all the possible hazards, but a doctor won't pierce ears if there is any type of rash or infection, or if small cysts are present in Scattering 14 hits and 6 stolen bases, Mason trounced the Greyhounds from Eaton Rapids 9-4 in baseball last Thursday to keep them on top of the Capital Circuit race with Howell.

Southpaw Mike Johnson went all the way for the Bulldogs, allowing 4 runs on 3 hits. Craig Webster and Paul Mudgett contributed their hot bats to the game, both going 3 for 4 for the day.

Mason led off with 4 runs in the 1st, thanks to the 2-run triple by Randy Caltrider, Mason picked up another 4 runs in the third and Eaton Rapids picked up 1 leaving the score after 3 complete innings of play 8-1.

Eaton Rapids came on strong in the fifth inning with

All the talk and steps taken to revive major league baseball have left me cold. My interest in the game was at its height last season as the Tigers won the pennant, but that interest has waned considerably this year. What with 2 divisions in each league, it has all but erased the good old days when the team with the best record went to the world series.

The Tigers could conceivably win 65 percent of their games this year and go into division play-offs against say Seattle who perhaps only win 58 percent of their games and take their division. One bad streak and the Seattle team could defeat Detroit which had the better record and go into the series. Of course it is all built upon suppositions, but it's possible.

There is one positive thing I can see in this system, it does allow for other cities to hold baseball franchises, so instead of 10 teams in each league, there are now 12. Even that can have its disadvantages though. I pity the poor Californians who must choose between 4 teams, 3 of them in the western division of one league. It's a good thing there are 2-sided coins to flip with, or they'd really be in

Perhaps I'll change my mind as the Tigers pick up momentum. After all, there's nothing better than to watch a good game of baseball on a Sunday afternoon.

Well, I went and did it. I played 9 holes of golf last Saturday and after I had promised myself never to play

Being the duffer that I am, 2 years ago I had decided to give up the game. I even went so far as to get rid of my clubs, just to prove the seriousness of my intent.

Everything was fine last year. The thought didn't even enter my mind, but lo and behold, who should I run into when I started working for the News, but a whole crop of fledgling golfers. My disinterest soon turned into avid interest and before I knew it I was out on the fairway swinging at those over-sized hailstones they call golf balls.

Seven of us Ingham County News duffers went out and surprisingly enough, 7 of us returned. We split up into 2 groups, and fortunately for the group I was in, we played by Mulligan's rules, which still wasn't enough for any of us, but it helped. We were lucky we didn't drown on some of those holes, or sink into the mud, or get lost in the woods, looking for our lost golf balls, but through a total team effort, we all made it back, minus a couple of

I'd mention scores, but it would embarrass us all, so I'll delete that piece of classified information this time. Perhaps next time it'll be better, I hope so, for my sake.

Mason Golfers Ease Past Okemos on 1-Point Margin

It was a close one for Mason last Thursday as the Bulldogs nipped Okemos at El Dorado golf course 174-175. Chuck Berg was medalist for Mason turning in a 9-hole score of 41.

Ron Perrine had a 44, Rick Smith a 45, and Scott Strictland shot a 44. Back-up men for Mason were Dan Lewis with a 48 and Steve McConnell with a 48.

For Okemos, it was Jim Schaberg with a 42, Gary Sims with a 43, and Kurt Schirmer and Howard Kehrl both turning in scores of 45. To round out the Chieftains 6-man squad, it was Randy Atkinson with a 45, and Tim Rolph shooting a 48.

It was Mason's fourth win in a row with no losses as the Bulldogs defeated the Shamrocks from Gabriels last Dave Sadler allowed 6 hits as he turned in his second complete game of the season for his second win. Steve Maier was the losing pitcher for the Shamrocks.

Mudgett led off the scoring on a triple to bring in Caltrider, and Mudgett came home on a passed ball to make the score 2-0 after 2 innings. Gabriels came up with one in the third off a triple by Chuck Henderson to drive in Tom Braun for Gabriels' only run of the game.

Don Ward stole home in the sixth to make it 3-1, and Larry Baird brought a run home in the seventh with a sacrifice fly. Mason's only other run was off a wild pitch in the seventh to bring in Johnson and seal up their victory.

For the Bulldogs it was 5 runs on 11 hits, and it was 1 run on 6 hits for Gabriels for the final score of 5-1.

Mason Takes Holt To Stay at Top

Mike Johnson turned in his third victory against no defeats Tuesday to lead the Bulldogs to their fifth consecutive win with no losses. The 5-1 win left the Bulldogs tied for first place with Howell in the Capital Circuit Conference.

Mason led off the scoring with 2 runs in the fourth inning and held a 2-0 lead until the seventh inning. Tree, Shrub Plantings Are Increased by AČP

Dean Quirin, acting Michigan state agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, states the agricultural conservation program (ACP) has greatly increased the acreage planted to trees and shrubs.

Thousands of acres of trees and slrubs have been planted in Michigan and our nation since 1936. Over 6,000 acres have been planted annually in Michigan.

He points out that farmers planting trees for forestry purposes may receive little or no benefit during their Trees planted for forestry production have many other multiple benefits. They reduce soil losses and erosion which cause pollution in lakes and reservoirs and decrease flooding downstream. Protection and improvement of agricultural land by vegetative cover assure a more plentiful and stable water supply.

Trees and shrubs also beautify the countryside and increase areas for camping, hiking and hunting. Privately owned farms and timberlands provide 80 percent of the wildlife available for hunting, as well as much good

Market Outlook

Decline in Milk Cow Numbers Seen Likely to Continue

The rate of decline in milk cow numbers may be slowing down, but the decline will likely continue beyond this year, according to agricultural economists at Michigan

And the outlook for fed cattle prices is still uncertain, although prices in May probably will be $1 to $2 lower than in April.

Here is a summary of market outlook information from Dr. John Ferris, MSU agricultural economist.

MILK-The decline in U.S. milk cow numbers may be less pronounced than last year due to higher milk prices and higher milk-feed price ratios, but production per cow is not rising enough to bring up total output. Figures show fewer heifers and heifer calves, which suggests that the decline in cow numbers will continue beyond this year. Some observers in Michigan believe, however, that we have reached a turning point and are in the first stages of dairy herd buildup again.

CATTLE-The short-run outlook for fed cattle can be predicted best by examining the intentions to market as given in the USDA's Cattle on Feed Report. If these figures for the second quarter of 1969 are up five percent from the year before, this increase can be handled with only modest downward adjustments in price. If the numbers are up as much as 10 percent, prices might decline to the $27 to $28 level of a year ago in Detroit. Prices in May are likely to be $1 to $2 lower than the $30 to $31 level on Choice steers in early April.

Prices for feeder cattle indicate a strong demand. Good-Choice feeder calves at Kansas City averaged about $29.50 per hundredweight in August-December 1968. Prices have continued upward, with these feeder calves around $32 to $33 in March.

HOGS-Hog prices at Chicago for No. 2s and 3s should be around $21 to $22 in May. Prices will increase further in June and likely be $23 to $24 by July. August prices will start a seasonal decline, with fall prices in the $18 to

The pig crop from farrowings in 10 midwestern states in December to February was up only three percent. The intentions are for five percent more sows farrowing in March to May of 1969 than in the same period of 1968. Six percent more farrowings are planned for June-August than in the year before. This rate of increase in farrowing will likely continue through November.

LAMBS-Lamb prices will probably continue strong into early June before coming under pressure from seasonally increasing supplies. Prices are expected to continue to hold above last year through 1969.

EGGS-Egg prices in April, May and June can be expected to be well below those of the first quarter of 1969, but above those for the second quarter of 1968, The February 1969 hatch was only three percent of February 1968. The number of layer type eggs in incubators on March 1 was actually less than on the same date a year ago. However, the relatively strong pre-Easter egg prices will put steam under the expansion engine

TURKEYS-Year-end storage stocks were 14 percent below the levels recorded January 1, 1968, while the March 1, 1969, stocks were 17 percent below those of a year earlier. This signifies a greater level of consumption than last year during January and February and an indication that prices will gradually advance at about one WHEAT-Current prices are being held down by the reduction in exports from July 1968 to February 1969. The export situation is similar for all the wheats. There was a large and well distributed world wheat crop. In addition, the dock strikes further reduced the actual movements to our customers abroad. The USDA expects overall farm wheat prices to hover near the net loan rate during the second and most of the third quarter.

DRY BEANS-The current dry bean situation in Michigan can be characterized as a local price.

Michigan can be characterized as dormant. The next period of increased activity will probably develop when the Seaway opens in May. The March domestic movement was good but there are indications of sizable supplies remaining in the county.

SOYBEANS-USDA estimates are that soybean use for the marketing year ending August 31 will total 931 million bushels. This would be a 3 1/2 percent gain over last year, but would be well below the 1,080 million bushel 1968 crop. The September 1969 carryover is projected at 315 million bushels-up nearly 150 million bushels from last fall.

CORN-Farmers have placed rather large amounts of feed grains under loan this year, and a tighter supply situation is in prospect this spring and summer. Farmers and the trade will likely carry over substantially less "free" corn this year, giving strength to corn prices during the spring and summer.

SOYBEAN MEAL-Prices have weakened as was expected for the short term. In the long run, however, there will be less pressure to sell meal than was evidenced as much as a month ago. The expected strength in livestock prices will likely mean more meal consumed domesticially than had been expected earlier. This situation suggests the desirability of buying early any meal that is needed before October 1.

Farmers Face Trade Hurdles with World

There is general concern in the agricultural community over serious hurdles which lie ahead for farmers in the complicated field of foreign trade. Right now, U.S. farmers sell the harvest equivalent of one in every 4 acres abroad. One dollar of every 6 now in the farmer's pocket is placed there through foreign trade.

U.S. farm exports have exceeded $6 billion for 5 straight years, but for the past 2, a downtrend has set in. Former Secretary of Agriculture, Orville Freeman, says that rising world production resulting from improved farm technology and favorable weather has been a large part of the reason. Significantly, he adds, trade policies of some of our partners around the world is another large part

Resistance to trade outside their circle on part of the European economic community, rising nationalism in other parts of the world, disagreement with our country on sensitive foreign policy areas like the Viet Nam war, sharp shifts in the value of the English pound, the French franc and our own dollar are other significant parts of the

Charles Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, says that the drop in export sales has contributed to the sharp drop in domestic farm prices over the past 2 years. He too blames trade policies, including this country's naive participation in the international grains agreement. He called the agreement "restrictive" and an unwise attempt to allocate shares of the world agricultural

"International commodity agreements should be vigorously opposed because they restrict trade through cartels and they are oppressive for poor, underdeveloped countries threatened with shortages of food or foreign exchange," the farm leader has testified.

Prior to ratification of the agreement, Farm Bureau spokesmen said that the International Grains Agreement would cause the United States to lose its competitive position in the world market. This prediction, they contend, has proven accurate.

The next step, the leaders say, is to end the agreement and replace it instead with a general removal of trade restrictions to allow U.S. farmers to trade competitively in world markets "on an equita

PlantHigh Corn Yield Plots, Growers Urged

Michigan corn growers are urged to try an "X-tra high" yield plot on their farm where they can "shoot the works" to get extra high yields.

Dr. Elmer C. Rossman, Michigan State university crop scientist, says Michigan corn yields averaged 76 bushels per acre in 1968, the highest on record – but they could be a lot higher if farmers took advantage of all the new improvements in corn hybrids and cultural practices. He lists these practices:

-Build and maintain high level of soil fertility.
-Provide for minimum soil tillage and optimum seed-bed preparation. -Select 3 or 4 of the best corn hybrids - probably single-cross or 3-way hybrids. -Plant as early as possible in May or even late April.

-Fertilize according to soil test and yield goal.

-Use 30-inch (possibly 20-inch) row spacing with harvest population of 20,000 to 24,000 plants.

-Plant 24,000 to 28,000 seeds, allowing for 20 percent

-Control weeds on time and effectively.

-Plan for irrigation where possible and when needed. -Avoid insect and disease damage - use resistant

-Harvest early and efficiently to keep field losses at a

Most repugnant to farmers is the idea of a closed-shop contract negotiated under harvest-time threat and then used to compel all workers to join the union; to work limited hours, slow down individual production or stop it under penalty of union fines. This is an extraordinary and potent power – and deadly when it involves a nation's food supply. In promoting this bill (and S-8, its twin in the U.S. Senate), Rep. O'Hara says that it will "Give order where there is now disorder .."

Understanding Today's Youth

By Richard W. Brown 4H Youth Agent

Race, religion, skin color and income level are often Barriers that keep many people from understanding each

With growing tensions and problems among people, there is a great need for individual understanding, says Richard Brown, Ingham county Extension 4-H youth

Misunderstanding and distrust between people of the white and black races and between the well-to-do and the poor has reached a crisis level, contends Brown.

"The special committee to study riots in 1967 suggested several ways to increase communication between races, he notes. "Operation Get-Acquainted is an answer to one of these suggestions."

Brown claims that Operation Get-Acquainted is a program that can help individuals from many segments of our community have positive contacts with each other.

The program is organized on the assumption that it is much more difficult to be prejudiced against individuals, than against races.

"Enthusiasm for the program has grown rapidly since it was started in 1967," says Brown. "Last year more than 20 Michigan counties participated. This year increased emphasis is on the family approach to getting

Vocational Training Programs 85 Out-County Students Pursue

By SALLY TROUT News Staff Writer

An experiment in learning is being under taken by students from all over rural Ingham county. The learning project is in the area of vocational education and is sponsored by the Ingham Intermediate school district.

Strictly on a voluntary basis, youngsters are allowed to attend vocational classes in Lansing after school. The Lansing school district has its own vocational-education program, but provides facilities for the out-country students after regular school hours.

This is the first semester the students have been taking instruction in such things as electronics, auto mechanics and cosmetology and so far, according to Robert Slocum, vocational-education administrator for the intermediate district, the results have been very promising.

The program is a temporary means of providing this type of training for county youngsters in as much as the district voters approved funds to operate such a program, but refused permission to sell bonds which would provide the building to teach the courses in.

Presently there are 85 youngsters under the program and it is costing the school district about $30,000 this year. Classes meet each day from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. daily with the students supplying their own transportation.

"A student must really want to learn a particular skill to attend classes after a full school day," Slocum

The desire to learn is apparent, as class records show a low absentee level and all instructors marvel at the students' willingness to work and apply themselves.

To date the program has proven so successful that the Ingham Intermediate school district hopes that next fall the number of students enrolled can be doubled and some arrangement for student transportation can be made through the individual school districts.

This program aims at serving all levels of student abilities. There are college preparatory students participating who hope to add practical experience to their knowledge of theory. There is the student who doesn't want to attend college and the special education student who are looking for skills which will help them earn a living when out of school.

The vocational courses do not interfere with the normal high school studies and do, in fact, add credits to the participating students' records toward graduation and a high school diploma.

A great deal of the program success is attributed to student attitude, but also there is a very low teacher-

Councilmen Tour City

All 7 of Mason's city councilmen and William L. Bopf, Mason city administrator, went on a tour of Mason municipal facilities Saturday afternoon.

They visited the waste department plant, the city garage, Cedar street well, sanitary landfill, cemetery, McRoberts street where they were shown where improvements are needed, Sycamore and Laylin parks, the new junior high school site, Okemos street improvements, Randolph street improvements, Columbia and Rogers park, Park street well, and Sycamore street where there are drainage problems and need of paving.

The tour was made, Bopf explained, to familiarize the council members with the city's various programs and Coordinating the program for the Lansing school system and the county school district is Vern Dunham. Dunham feels that the out-county youngsters truly want to learn the vocational skills offered through the program, thus explaining much of the success.

Instructors are certified teachers with work experience in their particular field. At Eastern high school there is one of 2 licensed schools of cosmetology established within a high school system in the state.

Presently this is the only vocational area that is open for girls. While in the class students are under the supervision of a licensed instructor and after completion of 1,200 hours can qualify for a license themselves if successful in passing a state examination.

Students may apply for the vocational program or are recommended by their high school counselors. For the first semester, there were both junior and senior class members accepted, but in the future Slocum hopes that the enrollments will be from the junior class as that will allow 2 years to sufficiently train the students in their particular areas of study.

Right now there are youngsters studying cosmetology, small engine repair, auto bump and paint work, technical drafting, machine shop, service station operation and electronics.

The vocational-education program could be greatly improved and expanded, if voters approve the request to sell bonds for $2,250,000 to finance construction of the center," Slocum said.

What most voters misunderstood in last June's election was that when they approved a 1.4 mill all-purpose levy they were approving the funds to finance the building's bonding issue.

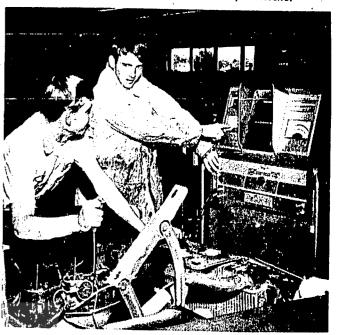

As yet only a portion of the 1.4 mills has been levied, but next fall the entire millage will be assessed either to begin payment on building bonds sold or to pay rental on vocational-education facilities. "Of course, with a building specifically for our vocational program the project will be much more effective and efficient," Slocum said.

COSMETOLOGY-Giving a manicure is one area of cosmetology girls in the county vocational program study while working toward a license. Practicing here are (from left) Sharon Gilroy of Williamston, Sue Erickson of Leslie and Connie Faulkner of Mason.

AUTO MECHANICS-Learning how to tune up an automobile engine is just one of many areas available to students through the county vocational-education program. The students working here are Richard Buell of Waverly high school (on left) and Charles Lewis of Dansville.

Supervisor Helma requested that his resolution in regard to membership on the Social Services Board be moved up on the Agenda due to the lateness of the hour and to allow a representative from the Lansing Welfare Rights Organization to speak. The request was granted.

Resolution by Supervisor Helma was read as follows:

"WHEREAS, the Ingham County Board of Supervisors shares with the State of Michigan Department of Social Services, the opportunity and responsibility of appointing three citizens to a county social services board (the County appointing two persons: the State appointing one), and

WHEREAS, members of local welfare rights organizations have requested of members of this board that one of these three citizens be either a recipient of welfare or a person who has been on welfare, and Moved by Burgess and supported by Stackable to allow the representative to speak for five minutes and requested the Legislative Committee to clarify the matter of allowing the public to speak during Board meetings. Carried unanimously. The statement read as follows: "The Lansing Welfare Rights Organization feels there is a pressing need to involve welfare recipients in the planning and operation of the Social Services Dept. Only those who are on Welfare really know and feel the many problems concerned with welfare. Welfare recipients should work side by side and on an equal basis with the personnel from the Social Services Dept. and persons on the County Board of Supervisors. Only by working together can the Welfare system best meet the needs of people. In an effort to involve welfare recipients in the planning and operation of the Welfare system Mr. Tom Helma has introduced a resolution which would require that one of the positions on the Welfare Board be filled by a welfare recipient, preferably a LWRO member. Welfare recipients in WRO are more aware of the welfare problems and would make better informed board members." Roll was called on referral to the Welfare Committee. Carried unanimously.

Flowers and Spring

They're Synonymous But Not All Are Ready To Bloom Outside This Early

By Barbara McIntosh News Staff Writer

Spring and flowers are synonymous.

Though we have officially welcomed spring, not all flowers are ready to bloom outside.

Crocus, daffodils and tulips of course bring the first signs of life but Randall Clements of Clements Flower Shop, Holt, pointed out that most bedding plants and flowering gift plants must not be put out until the last part of May or when one is reasonably sure there will not be a killing frost.

He explained that many florists sell their mums and azaleas as being hardy, but usually they are not and cannot take the cold temperatures.

"You may put them outside when the ground is warm, but you must take them up again in the fall if you want them to live," Clements said.

Clements' green house is devoted entirely to geraniums, and he explained that these must be kept at a cool temperature, 50 to 60 degrees, before set out in the spring and again when taken up in the fall.

"The geraniums must also have a lot of light," he

What should be done with other flowering gift plants that are now starting to lose their blooms?

The azalea, a popular gift around Easter can be rebloomed under the proper conditions. After blooming the withered flowers should be removed and the plant should be kept in a cool, sunny location.

In mid-May then the pot should be put in a semi-shaded, protected spot outside. Moist peat around the pot will help hold in the moisture and the plant should be properly watered throughout the summer.

According to G.M. Fosler, University of Illinois horticulturist, "Before mid-summer the azalea must be shaped by removing the tips of all rapidly growing shoots. Keep the plant outside as long as you can but before the frost bring it inside to the full sun in a cool room."

From November to the first of the year watering should be reduced while the flower buds are developing. During January and February as the buds begin to swell the plant should then be moved to a warmer room where it will again bloom in a few weeks.

The traditional Easter lily will quite frequently bloom again in late summer if given the proper care.

After first blooming the plant should be kept in a sunny window and watered until the foliage begins to ripen. At this time the bulbs should be dried out completely and in May the bulbs should be knocked out of the pot and planted outside. They should be planted at a depth of 6 inches in a sunny well drained bed, and if the plant is not too weak there will be blooms in August.

The Easter lily may be left in the pot and carefully watered so it will resume growth. After the plant reflowers in late August, however, the bulbs should be thrown away.

Tulips, hyacinths and narcissi are very popular flowering gift plants but it is futile to try and rebloom these forced out bulbs.

They are good only for planting outdoors and then flowers may not appear for several seasons, according to Fosler.

Pool Plan Explained at Leslie

By CLARA STRANGE News Special Writer

LESLIE-The Lions Club committee for a pool met at the cafetorium of the Leslie public high school to inform representatives from various clubs and associations of the entire plan for a swimming pool for Leslie of the entire plan for a swimming pool for Leslie.

Kenneth Brooks was the leader of the group. He explained the thinking that led up to the plan that a pool should be built. Mainly, every child in Michigan should be able to swim and most adults can gain happiness and contentment from swimming facilities, Brooks said. He further explained that a long term lease on the property could be gained through the Leslie school.

Miles Smith made a model and the property

Miles Smith made a model of the proposed pool which showed the diving well going to a depth of 12 feet; the main pool would be divided from the diving end by marked buoys; the bath house would be 20 by 100 feet. The wading pool would be free and open to children by escorted by their parents.

It was stressed that the pool would be a Standard Olympic one which could be used for official meets. There would be two diving boards and possibly two life guards. The present plan is to have swimming lessons during the mornings.

James Carter showed how the plan for the pool was drawn up and is progressing. A representative from the National Pool company was present as was a representative from the Farm Home Administration.

Ray Pung explained how the plan would be brought into being for a pool to be open from Memorial Day until Labor Day. A heating means could be installed as well as a cover for the proposed pool could be accomplished at a cover date.

It was explained that family rates for those signing now could be $20 instead of the regular $25 a year and would be renewable at this figure for those now joining.

The corporation formed to build and operate the pool would have an annual meeting, it was explained. A board of directors would be elected.

show what could be accomplished financially by them.
Every one of the 35 present was asked to take family cards to be signed by their neighbors and friends.

It was clearly stressed that the time to come forward with money for the pool's construction is now.

The Model

"Now I'm big-with a hat like Mommy's!" Amy was really full of herself when we went shopping yesterday.

I was amused, too, as I watched her imitate her mother on the way to church the next day. She really had that walk down to a "T."

I'm glad her mother is her model. She couldn't have a better one. Mary's love of God is reflected in everything she does. Her happiness in serving God and His church is contagious. I should know!

When we were married, I was a sometime churchgoer. Now, I teach Sunday School, sing in the choir and am chairman of the building committee. I find it deeply satisfying to know that my church needs me.

Every church needs the dedicated effort of its members. Experience the joy of serving God.
